Guidon, (Fr.) the Standard of a Company of Gendarmes, or Troop of Guards; or the Standard-bearer of ſuch a Company.

Guild, or Gild, a Tribute, Tax, or Fine; alſo a Society, Community, or Company of Men incorporated by the Queen's Authority.

Guildhalda Teutonicorum, a Term us'd for the Brotherhood or Society of Eaſterling-Merchants in London, commonly call'd The Stilyard.

Guild-Hall, the chief Hall of the City of London, where the Magiſtrates, Common-Council Men and Livery-Men of the ſeveral Companies meet to conſult about Trading, Judicial Proceedings, or any other Publick Affairs.

Guild-Merchant, a Liberty or Privilege whereby Merchants are enabled to hold certain Pleas of Land within their own Precincts.

Guilder, a Coin of Holland containing 20 Stuyvers, or Dutch Pence, and current (according to the Courſe of Exchange) ſometimes at 1 s. 10 d. Engliſh, and ſometimes at 2 s. or more.

The Guilder of Noremberg is worth 1 s. 1 d. and the Poliſh Guilder of 60 Creutzners amounts to 4 s. 2 d.

Guile, Deceit, Treachery.

Guillam, a ſort of Bird.

Guimad, a Fiſh peculiar to the River Dee in Cheſhire, and the Lake Pemble-meer.

Guinea, or Guiney, a Kingdom of Africa, ſome parts of which produce good ſtore of Gold: Alſo a known ſort of Gold-Coin, current at 1 l. 1 s. 6 d. Value, at Standard-Rate 1 l. weighing 5 Penny-weight 9½ Grains.

Guiſarms. See Giſarms.

Guiſe, (Fr.) Mode, Manner, Way, Faſhion.

Guitar, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument.

Gula, (Lat.) the Gullet, or upper part of the Throat. In Architecture the Neck or narroweſt part of the Dorick Capital of a Pillar.

Gulbe, a Term in Architecture, the ſame as Gorge.

Gulchin, a little Glutton.

Guld, a kind of Weed growing amidſt Corn.

Guldum, (in old Records) a Taxing, or impoſing of a Fine to be paid in Money.

Gule of Auguſt, the firſt Day of Auguſt, otherwiſe call'd Lammas-day, and in old Almanacks St. Peter ad Vincula, in Memory of that Apoſtle's being bound with Chains. It is ſo call'd from the Latin Word Gula, i. e. a Throat, becauſe a certain Maid having a Diſeaſe in her Throat was cur'd on that Day, by kiſſing the Chains that St. Peter was bound with at Rome.

Gules, (in Heraldry) Red, or Vermilion Colour, which ſignifies greatneſs of Mind, Courage, Generoſity, &c. In the Coat-Armour of the Nobility it is call'd Ruby, and in that of Princes Mars.

Gulf, or Gulph, (in Geogr.) a part of the Sea, that runs between two Lands, with which it is embrac'd and almoſt ſurrounded; alſo a Depth in the Sea that cannot be fathomed, a Whirl-pool.

Gull, a Breach in the Bank of a River.

Gull, or Sea-Gull, a kind of Bird.

To Gull, to cozen, chowſe, or cheat.

Gullet, the Wind-pipe, the Neck of a Bottle, or other narrow-mouth'd Veſſel: Alſo a little Stream, or accidental Courſe of Water, which does not deſerve the Name ſo much as of a Brook.

Gulo, (Lat.) a ſtrange greedy Beaſt that ſtuffs itſelf with Carrion. See Glutton.

Gultwit. See Gyltwite.

Gumma Gallicum, (Lat.) a Term which ſome make uſe of for the eating out a Bone by the French Pox.

Gummi, Gum, a clammy tough Juice iſſuing out of Trees, Shrubs, Herbs, &c. and harden'd by the Sun, of which there are ſeveral ſorts: Alſo a Diſtemper in Fruit-Trees, being only a ſpurted Sap, which is ſubject to Corruption when it ceaſes to be incloſed in its ordinary Channels between the Wood and the Bark.

Gum-Ammoniacum, a ſort of Gum that burns clear when ſet on fire, and has a bitteriſh Taſte: It is chiefly us'd for Gout-pains, and to diſſolve ſlimy thick Humours of the Lungs.

Gum-Arabick, eaſily diſſolves in Water, and ſerves to aſſwage ſharp Humours, being good for a Looſeneſs, Coughs, and Rheum.

Gum-Caranna, a Gum made uſe of by the Indians for Swellings, and all ſorts of Pain.

Gum-Ciſtus, an Herb ſo call'd.

Gum-Copal, brought from the Weſt-Indies, is good for cold Diſeaſes of the Head, and may ſerve for a Perfume, inſtead of Frankincenſe.

Gum-Elemi, is of a ſomewhat bitter Taſte, and ſmells like Fennel: It diſſolves Swellings, cleanſes filthy Ulcers, and is of excellent Virtue in Wounds of the Head.

Gum-Gotta, is a congealed Juice, of a yellow Colour, and if it be moiſten'd with Spittle its yellowneſs encreaſes; it is a great Commodity in the Eaſt-Indies.

Gum-Lac, the Juice of an Indian Tree, which is of an opening Quality, purifies the Blood, provokes Sweat and Urine; removing Stoppages of the Liver, Spleen, and Gall-bladder.

Gum-Olibanum, or Frankincenſe, is us'd inwardly for Diſeaſes of the Head and Breaſt, Fluxes of the Belly or Womb, &c. outwardly for Fumes, to ſtrengthen the Head, to ſtop Rheums, to ſupply Ulcers with Fleſh, &c.

Gum-Opoponax, the Juice of an Herb call'd Panax Herculis, cut eſpecially in the Root. It is good for Wounds, diſperſes Wind, purges thick and clammy Phlegm, &c.

Gum-Sagapenum, is us'd for Pains of the Side and Breaſt, and for Ruptures: It is alſo good for the Falling-Sickneſs, Diſeaſes of the Spleen, and the Palſy.

Gum-Sarcocolla, is ſo call'd becauſe it glues Fleſh together; it heats, dries, and is binding, being chiefly us'd for healing Wounds, and bringing them to an Eſcar.

Gum-Tacamahaca, is much us'd by the Indians in all Swellings in any part of the Body: It wonderfully ripens and diſſolves, taking away all Pains that proceed from cold and phlegmatick Humours.

Gum-Tragacanth, opens Stoppages, and allays ſharp Pains: It is us'd in Medicines for the Eyes, for Coughs, Rheums, pain of the Kidneys, fretting of the Bladder, &c.

Gun-powder. See Powder.

Gunner, or Maſter-Gunner of a Ship, an Officer who takes into his Charge all the Ordnance, with their Appurtenances, and ſees that they be well mounted, &c.

Gunnery, an Art that ſhews how to charge, level, mount, and diſcharge great Guns, and to manage all ſorts of Fire-Arms.

Gunter's-Chain, made of hard Wire, containing the Length of 4 Poles in 100 Links, with Braſs Marks for Diſtinction at every 10 Links, being of great uſe in ſurveying Land.

Gunter's-Line, the common Line of Numbers, firſt invented by Mr. Edmund Gunter, and ſo well known that it needs no Deſcription. See Line of Numbers in Geometry.

Gunter's-Quadrant, an Inſtrument made of Wood, or Braſs, and contriv'd to find the Hour of the Day and Azimuth, with moſt Propoſitions of the Globe; as alſo the Height of Steeples, or Trees, Diſtances, &c.

Gunter's-Scale, commonly call'd The Gunter by Seamen, and made of Box, Two Foot long, being a large plain Scale, with the Lines of Artificial Sines and Tangents ſo fitted to a Line of Numbers, that all Queſtions in Plain-Sailing, &c. may be work'd by the Compaſſes.

Gun-wale, or Gunnel of a Ship, a piece of Timber that reaches from the Half-deck to the Fore-caſtle on either ſide, and ſo call'd whether there be Guns in the Ship or no: The lower part of any Port, where any Ordnance are, is alſo termed The Gunwale.

Gurgians, (old Word) courſe Meal.

Gurgiting, a Term us'd in Falconry, when a Hawk is ſtiff and choaked up.

Gurgulio, (Lat.) the Cover of the Wind-pipe, otherwiſe call'd Cion and Epiglottis; alſo a kind of Worm. See Curculio.

Gurney, or Gurnard, a kind of Fiſh.

Guſſet, a piece of Cloth put into a Shirt: In Heraldry an Abatement made of a Line drawn a-croſs from the Dexter-Chief, and falling down perpendicularly to the extreme Baſe-parts, or contrariwiſe: It is a mark of Diſhonour for an Effeminate Laſcivious Man, and is then born on the right ſide, but on the left ſide if he be given to too much Wine; if to both he ſhould bear two Guſſets.

Guſt, a ſudden Blaſt of Wind, or Fit of Paſſion; alſo Taſte, Reliſh, or Smack.

Guſto, (Ital.) a right reliſh, ſavour, or taſte of any Thing.

Guſtus, (Lat.) the Senſe of Taſting, which proceeds from the motion of a Nerve or Sinew plac'd in the Tongue and Palate for that purpoſe.

Gut-wort, a kind of Herb.

Gutta, (Lat.) a drop of any Liquor; a ſpot or flaw in precious Stones: In ſome of our old Records it is taken for the Gout, a Diſeaſe.

Gutta Gamandra, or Gutta Gamba, a kind of harden'd Juice or Gum, brought from the Eaſt-Indies.

Gutta Roſacea, a redneſs with Pimples in the Noſe, Cheeks, and ſometimes over the whole Face, as if they were ſprinkled with Roſe-colour'd Drops: Theſe Pimples, or Wheals, often encreaſe, ſo as to make the Face rough and horrid, and the Noſe monſtrouſly big.

Gutta Serena, a Diſeaſe in the Eye, wherein there is an appearance of a clear Drop or Speck, which makes the Sight dim, or even takes it quite away: It is caus'd by a watery Humour diſtilling from the Brain upon the Optick Nerves, and otherwiſe call'd Amauroſis.

Guttæ, or Drops, (in Architect.) certain Parts ſo nam'd, from their Figure reſembling drops of Water, which being ſix in number are put below every Triglyph in the Architrave of the Dorick Order.

Gutte de l'Eau, (Fr.) a drop of Water; theſe in Heraldry are painted Argent, or White.

Gutte de Larmes, is when drops of Tears are repreſented in a Coat of Arms of an Azure or Blew Colour.

Gutte de l'Or, Drops of melted Gold, which are ſometimes born in Eſcutcheons, and painted Or, or Gold-colour.

Gutte de Sang, the Term in Heraldry for drops of Blood.

To Gutter, to ſweal, or run, as a Candle ſometimes does.

Gutter-tile, or Corner-tile, a Tile made with three Corners, chiefly to be laid in Gutters, and at the Corners of Houſes.

Guttera, (in old Records) a Gutter or Spout to convey Water from the Leads and Roof of Churches, or other Buildings.

Guttur, (Lat.) the Throat, or Head of the Wind-pipe.

Guttural Cartilage, (in Anat.) a Griſtle, which with others makes up the Larynx, or top of the Throat.

Guttural Letters, (in Grammar) ſuch Letters as are pronounc'd in the Throat.

Gutturales. See Arytanoides.

Gutturis Os, a Bone at the Root of the Tongue, otherwiſe call'd Os Hyoides.

Guve de Ronde, (Fr.) a Term in Fortification, the ſame with a Single Tenaille. See Tenaille.

Guzes, (in Heraldry) little Balls or Bullets which are drawn in Coats of Arms, of the Sanguine or Murrey-Colour.

Guy, a proper Name of Men. In Sea-Affairs Guy is a Rope made uſe of to keep any thing from falling or bearing againſt the Ship's ſide when it is to be hoiſed in; another Rope made faſt to the Fore-maſt at one end, and ſerving to hale forward the Pendant of the Winding-Tackle, is alſo call'd a Guy.

To Guzzle, to drink greedily, to Carowſe, or Tipple.

Gwabr-merched, (Welſh) a Fine paid to ſome Lords of Manours upon the Marriage of their Tenants Daughters, or otherwiſe upon their committing the Act of Incontinency.

Gwalſtow, a place for the Execution of Malefactors.

Gwayf, or Waif, (Sax.) ſuch Goods as Felons, when purſu'd, caſt down and left in the High-way, which were forfeited to the King, or Lord of the Manour, unleſs lawfully claim'd by the right Owner within one Year and a Day.

Gy, (old Word) a Guide.

Gyltwite, or Gultwit, (Sax. Law-Term) ſatisfaction, or amends made for a Treſpaſs.

Gymnaſiarcha, (Gr.) a chief School-Maſter, the Rector, or Governour of a College, the Maſter of an Academy.

Gymnaſium, a Place where Wreſtlers, or other Gameſters us'd to exerciſe their Strength, in trying Miſteries and Feats of Activity; alſo a School, an Academy, or Univerſity.

Gymnaſticks, the teaching of Wreſtling, or other Exerciſes: Alſo that part of Phyſick which ſhews how to get a good Habit of Body, or to preſerve Health by means of Exerciſe, and lays down Rules to be obſerv'd for that purpoſe.

Gymnici Ludi, certain Exerciſes among the Greeks; as Running, Leaping, throwing of Quoits, Wreſtling, Boxing, Fencing, &c.

Gymnoſophiſts, a Sect of Indian Philoſophers, who worſhipped the Sun, and were ſo call'd, becauſe they went naked; nevertheleſs they could endure Heat, Cold, and all manner of Hardſhip, without flinching; living in Deſarts, and feeding upon Herbs.

Gynæcia, in general are ſuch Accidents as happen to Women; but Hippocrates takes them more ſtrictly for their Monthly Terms, or Courſes.

Gynæcomaſtum, a growing of the Breaſts.

Gypſum, Parget, white Lime, Plaiſter: Alſo the Plaiſter-ſtone, a white ſoft Stone like Alabaſter, which being lightly burnt, ſerves to make the Chalk call'd Plaiſter of Paris.

Gyration, (Lat.) a whirling round, or turning about; alſo Dizzineſs, a Diſtemper in the Head.

Gyrfalcon, a Bird of Prey. See Gerfaleon.

Gyrinus, (Gr) a Tadpole, or young Frog.

Gyrle. See Girle.

Gyron, or Gyronnee, (Fr. in Heraldry) an Ordinary conſiſting of two ſtraight Lines drawn from ſeveral parts of the Eſcutcheon, and meeting in an acute Angle in the Feſſe-point of the ſame; as He bears Sanguine a Gyron iſſuing from the Dexter Point, Or Gyſt-taker. See Agiſtor.

H A

Haak, or Hake, a ſort of Fiſh dry'd and ſalted, commonly call'd Poor John.

Habakkuk, (Heb. a Wreſtler) one of the leſſer Prophets, whoſe Prophecies are contain'd in the Canon of H. Scripture.

Habeas Corpora, (Lat.) the Name of a Writ that lies for the bringing in of a Jury, or ſo many of them as refuſe to appear, upon the Summons call'd Venire facias, for the Tryal of a Cauſe.

Habeas Corpus, a Writ which a Man indicted of a Treſpaſs, before Juſtices of the Peace, or otherwiſe, and laid in Priſon, may have out of the Queen's Bench, to remove himſelf thither, and to anſwer the Cauſe there.

Habena, the Reins of a Bridle, a Thong, or Strap of Leather: In Surgery, a ſort of Bandage, to draw together the Lips of Wounds inſtead of ſtitching.

Habendum, (i. e. to have or to hold) a Word of Form in a Deed or Conveyance, which muſt conſiſt of two Parts, viz. the Premiſſes and the Habendum; the Faculty of the former being to expreſs the Names of the Grantor and Grantee, with the thing granted: But the Office of the Habendum, is to limit and qualify the Eſtate.

Haberdaſher, a Hatter, or Seller of Hats; alſo a Dealer in ſmall Wares; as Thread, Tape, Ribbons, &c.

Haberdine, a ſort of Salt-fiſh.

Habere facias Seiſinam, a Judicial Writ which lyes, where a Man has recover'd Lands in the Queen's Court; commanding the Sheriff to give Seiſin, or Poſſeſſion of the Land ſo recover'd.

Habere facias Viſum, a Writ lying in ſeveral Caſes, where View is to be taken of the Lands or Tenements in Queſtion.

Habergeon, or Habergion, a little Coat of Mail, or only Sleeves and Gorget of Mail.

Haberjects, or Haubergets, a kind of Cloth mention'd in Magna Charta, and other Records.

Habilement, (Fr.) Apparel, or Attire.

Habilements of War, all ſorts of Armour, Harneſs, and Warlike Proviſions.

Habit, (Lat.) Conſtitution or Temper of the Mind or Body, Cuſtom or Uſe; Garb, Dreſs, or Attire: Alſo the laſt of the ten Predicaments in Logick.

Habitable, that may be inhabited.

Habitation, Dwelling, or Dwelling-place, Abode, Houſe, Lodging.

Habitual, come to an Habit, grown cuſtomary; as habitual Grace.

Habituated, that has got an Habit of, or is accuſtomed to a Thing.

Habitude, a Diſpoſition of Mind or Body, gotten and confirm'd by repeated Acts; as Knowledge of Vertue and Vice, Skill in Arts and Sciences, Excellence in Writing, Painting, Dancing, &c.

Hables, (Fr.) a Sea-port, Haven, or Harbour; a Word us'd in Stat. 27. H. 6.

Hack, an Attribute which the Turks give to God, and ſignifies Truth; as alſo Hacteaulan, i. e. High Truth.

To Hack, to hew or cut; in Huſbandry to cut up Peaſe, &c. by the Roots.

To Hackle, to cut ſmall.

Hadad, (Heb. Rejoycing) a King of Edom; alſo one of Iſhmael's Sons.

Hadarezer, or Adarezer, (i. e. beautiful Help) a King of Zobah, who was defeated by David, and his Subjects made Tributary.

Hadbote, (Sax.) a Recompence anciently made, for abuſing Holy Orders, or for Violence offer'd to Clergy-men.

Haddock, a kind of Cod-fiſh.

Haderunga, (old Law-word) reſpect of Perſons, Partiality, from the Saxon, Had, i. e. Perſon, Degree or Quality, and Arung, honouring or admiring.

Hadrobolum, (Gr.) a ſweet-ſcented Gum in Media.

Hadroſphærum, a kind of Spikenard with a broad Leaf.

Hæmachates, (Gr.) a ſort of Blood-colour'd Agate.

Hæmalops, a ſpreading of Blood about the Eye, occaſion'd by a Fall, Blow or Bruiſe; and commonly call'd a Blew Eye: Alſo a Redneſs of the Eyes, that proceeds from an Inflammation, or a ſtretching of the Blood-Veſſels, and is well known by the Name of a Blood-ſhotten Eye.

Hæmatinon, a kind of red Glaſs, anciently made into Diſhes, for Service of the Table.

Hæmatites, the Blood-ſtone, a Stone of a reddiſh Colour like Cinnabar, which is taken inwardly to ſtanch Bleeding, &c.

Hæmatodes, a ſort of Cranes-bill, an Herb that ſtops bloody Fluxes, and diſſolves clotted Blood.

Hæmatoſis, the ſame as Sanguification, the Act, or Faculty of making Blood, which is perform'd in all the Parts of the Body.

Hæmodia, a painful Numneſs of the Teeth, as when they are ſaid to be ſet on Edge.

Hæmophobus, one that is afraid of being let Blood.

Hæmoptyica, Remedies that cure ſpitting of Blood.

Hæmoptyſis, a ſpitting of Blood from the Lungs.

Hæmorrhagia, a burſting forth of Blood out of the Noſtrils, Mouth, Eyes, or other Parts of the Body.

Hæmorrhoidal Veins, are twofold, viz. either

Inward or outward: The former being Branches of the Meſenterick Vein, paſs to the Gut Rectum, and thence to the Fundament: But the other ariſe from the Hypogaſtrick Vein, and ſometimes from a double Branch of it, ſpreading about the Sphincter of the Anus.

Hæmorrhoides, the Emrods or Piles, a painful Diſtemper, proceeding from an abundance of melancholy Blood, by which the Veins of the Fundament being ſtretch'd out, often ſend forth Blood or Matter.

Hæmorrhous, the Hemorrhoid Serpent, ſo call'd, becauſe when a Man is bit by it, Blood iſſues out of all the Paſſages of his Body.

Hæmoſtaticks, Medicines to ſtanch Blood.

Hærede Abducto, (Lat.) a Writ that lies for a Lord, who having the Wardſhip of his Tenant under Age, cannot ſecure his Body, becauſe he is convey'd away by another.

Hærede deliberando alii qui habet cuſtodiam Terræ, a Writ now out of Uſe, which was of Force to command one that had the Body of a Perſon who is Ward to another, to deliver him to the Party whoſe Ward he was by reaſon of his Land.

Hæreſiarcha (Gr.) an Arch-Heretick, the chief Broacher and Maintainer of an Hereſy or Sect.

Hæreſy. See Hereſy.

Hæretare, (Lat. Law-Term) to give a Right of Inheritance; to make the Donation, Feoffment, or Gift Hereditary to the Grantee, or Perſon to whom it is granted, and his Heirs.

Hæretico Comburendo, a Writ that lies againſt one, who being convicted of Hereſy by his Biſhop, and having abjur'd it, afterwards falls into it again, or into ſome other; by Virtue of which Writ, he may be deliver'd up to the ſecular Power, to be burnt; but it is not now of Force, according to Sir Edward Coke and others.

Hag. See Hags.

Haga, a kind of Law-word for a Manſion or Dwelling-Houſe; in ſome old Writers it is alſo taken for an Hedge.

Hagar, (Heb. a Stranger, or chewing the Cud) Sarah's Hand-maid and Iſhmael's Mother, from whom deſcended the People call'd Hagarenes.

Hagard (Fr.) that is of a fierce or wild Look.

Hagard-Hawk, (in Falconry) a wild Hawk, that for ſome time prey'd for her ſelf before ſhe was taken.

Haggai, (Heb. pleaſant) a Prophet among the ancient Jews, whoſe Book of Prophecies is extant in the Holy Scriptures.

Haggaſs, or Haggeſs, a ſort of Pudding made of Liver, Lights, &c. a Sheep's Maw fill'd with Suet and other Entrails minced.

To Haggle, to ſtand hard in buying.

Hagiographa, (Gr.) the Canonical Books of Holy Scripture.

Hags, a kind of fiery Meteor, appearing on Men's Hair, or Horſes Mains: Hag is alſo commonly taken for a Witch.

Hail, a known Meteor; alſo healthful.

Hail, or All Hail, (i. e. Health to you) an old way of ſaluting, from the Saxon Word Heal, ſignifying Health.

To Hail. See To Hale.

Haimhaldatio Catallorum (in the Practick of Scotland) a ſeeking Reſtitution for Goods or Chattels wrongfully taken away.

Hainous, (Fr.) odious, hateful; horrible, outragious.

Hairs-breadth, a Meaſure accounted among the Jews the 48th part of an Inch.

Hake, a Pot-hook; alſo a kind of Fiſh.

† To Hake, to gape after.

Haketon, a Jacket without Sleeves. Chaucer.

Halbard, or Halberd, a kind of Offenſive Weapon, well known, and call'd Halabarda in Spaniſh.

Halbardier, a Soldier arm'd with a Halbard.

Halcyon, (Gr.) a Bird call'd a King's-fiſher, which builds its Neſt and breeds on the Sea-ſhore about the middle of Winter, for the ſpace of fourteen Days, during which the Weather is for the moſt part very calm: Whence peaceable and quiet Times are figuratively call'd Halcyon-Days.

To Hale (Sea-Term) to pull or drag.

To Hale up the Brails. See Brails.

To Hale, or Hail a Ship, is to call to her Company, to know whence they came, and whether they are bound; the common Word is Hoe the Ship, and the other anſwers Hoe. Afterwards if they prove Friends, they ſalute with Whiſtles and Trumpets; and the Companies on both ſides give a general Shout.

Halebrede, (Fr.) a Slouch, or lubberly Fellow.

Halec, or Halex (Lat.) the Herring, a Sea-fiſh; alſo a Salt-liquor made of the Entrails of Fiſhes; Pickle, Brine.

Halecula, a little Herring or Pilchard.

Half and whole Compaſſes, an Inſtrument made of Braſs, and us'd to inlarge or diminiſh Draughts or Maps; ſo that at whatever Diſtance the long Points are open'd, the other give the juſt Half.

Half-files, (in the Art of War) when a Battalion is drawn up, the three foremoſt Men are call'd the Front-half-files, and the three hindermoſt, the Rear-half-files.

Half-mark, or Noble, the Value of ſix Shillings and eight Pence. See Mark.

Half-moon (in Fortif.) an Out-work with two Faces making a Saliant Angle, the Gorge of which bends in like a Creſcent or Bow, to cover the Point of a Baſtion; in which reſpect it is diſtinguiſh'd from a Ravelin, that is always plac'd before the Courtin.

Half-penny, a Copper-coin, worth two Farthings.

Half-Seal, (in Chancery) is us'd for the ſealing of Commiſſions to Delegates appointed by an Appeal in Eccleſiaſtical or Maritim Cauſes.

Half-Tongue, or Party-Jury, a Jury impannell'd upon any Cauſe in which a Stranger is Party. See Medietas Linguæ.

Haliæetus, (Gr.) a kind of Eagle that preys upon Fiſh at Sea.

Halicacabus, red Winter-cherry, or red Nightſhade, whoſe Fruit is of good uſe againſt the Stone and Gravel, as the Leaves are againſt the Jaundice.

Halidome, (Sax.) Holy Judgment: Whence By my Halidome, in old Times, us'd to be a great Oath among Country-People.

Halimaſs, the Feſtival of All-hallows or All-Saints, Novemb. 1. In ancient Writings one of the croſs Quarters of the Year was ſo call'd; as from Halimaſs to Candlemaſs.

Halymote, or Healgemote, the Meeting of the Tenants of one Hall or Manour, a Court-Baron: The Term is ſtill us'd in ſome Places in Hereford-ſhire, and is ſometimes taken for an Aſſembly of Citizens in their Publick Hall; it may alſo ſignify a Holy or Eccleſiaſtical Court.

Halimus, (Gr.) Sea-Purſlain, an Herb; alſo the Oil of Almonds.

Halinitron, a kind of Mineral commonly call'd Salt-peter.

Haliphæus, a Tree bearing bitter Fruit; ſo that no Beaſts will touch it but Swine.

Haliworfolk, (Sax. i. e. Holy-work-folk) People who held Lands, for repairing or defending a Church or Tomb; upon which account they were freed from Feodal and Military Services.

Hall, a Parlour, a Room where all the Servants of a great Family Dine and Sup; alſo a place for Pleading, or for the meeting of a Company of Tradeſmen, &c. The Word anciently ſignify'd a chief Manſion-Houſe, or Habitation; and in many Counties of England the Seats of Perſons of Quality or Gentlemen are ſtill call'd Halls.

Hallage, a Fee due for Cloaths brought for ſale to Blackwell-Hall in London: Alſo Toll paid to the Lord of a Fair, or Market, for Commodities ſold in the Common-Hall of the place.

Hallelujah. See Alleluiah.

Halliards, or Halyards, (in a Ship) are thoſe Ropes that ſerve to hoiſe up all the Yards, except the Croſs-Jack and the Sprit-ſail-Yards, which are always ſlung, altho' in ſmall Veſſels there are Halliards to the latter.

Hallibut, a Fiſh like a Plaice, but much longer.

Hallier. See Bramble-net.

To Hallow, to make Holy, to ſet a-part for Divine Service.

† Hallucination, Blundering, Over-ſight, Miſtake.

Halm, Haulm, or Hawm, the Stem or Stalk of Corn, from the Root to the Ear, the Stalk of Peas, Beans, &c.

Halmades, (Gr.) pickled Olives.

Halmyrcis, a ſort of Sea-Cabbage.

Halo, or Halos, a certain Meteor in form of a bright Circle, or Ring, which ſurrounds the Sun, Moon, or Stars, eſpecially the Moon, and ſometimes appears colour'd like the Rain-bow: Alſo a reddiſh Spot or Circle of Fleſh which encompaſſes each Nipple in the Breaſts of Women.

Halſer, or Hawſer, a Cable or Cord to hale a Ship or Barge along a Channel or River.

Halſier, or Halſter, he that ſo hales or draws a Ship, &c. by a Halſer.

To Halt, to ſtop, to go lame.

To Halt, or make a Halt, (a Term of War) to diſcontinue the March, to ſtand ſtill, or ſtop; and ſo the Word of Command for Men to ſtop when they are marching is Halt.

Haltered, that has a Halter or Rope put on.

Halyards. See Halliards.

Halymote. See Halimote.

Ham, (Heb. Crafty, or Heat) one of Noah's Three Sons, and the Father of Canaan.

Ham, (Sax.) Home, Habitation, Dwelling-place; alſo a Borough or Village, ſo that it is added at the end of the Names of many Towns in England, as Buckingham, Nottingham, Walſingham, &c. Ham is alſo a part of the Body of a living Creature, behind the Knee.

Hama, (Gr.) a kind of Inſtrument to pull down Houſes that are on fire; alſo a Term us'd by Phyſicians, when a Doſe is taken off at once.

Haman, (Heb. making an Uproar) the Son of Hamedatha, who plotting the Ruin of Mordecai and the Jews, was catch'd in his own Snare, and Hang'd on the ſame Gallows he had prepar'd for Mordecai.

Hambles, (old Word) a Port or Haven.

Hambling, or Hameling of Dogs, (in the Foreſt-Law) the ſame as expeditating, or lawing, properly the Ham-ſtringing, cutting or lawing of Dogs in the Ham.

Hames, or Haums, two crooked pieces of Wood that encompaſs a Horſe-Collar.

Hamfare, (Sax.) an Aſſault made upon a Houſe.

Hamkin, a kind of Pudding made in a Shoulder of Mutton.

Hamlet, a little Village, a few ſtraggling Houſes that depend on another Pariſh or Village.

Hamma, (in ancient Writers) a Home-cloſe, a ſmall Croft, or little Meadow; alſo a ſort of Fiſhing-Tackle, or Inſtrument to poche for Fiſh.

To Hammel, or Ham-ſtring, to cut the Ham, to hough.

Hammites, (Gr.) the leſſer Spawn-ſtone, a Stone like the Spawn of a Fiſh.

Hammock, a kind of Hanging-bed, us'd in Ships.

Hammochryſos, (Gr.) a precious Stone that ſhews like Golden Sands.

Hamor, (Heb. an Aſs, or Dirt) the Father of Sechem.

Hamper, or Hanaper, a ſort of large ſtrong Basket.

To Hamper, to intangle, to perplex, or confound.

Hamſel, or Hamel, (old Word) a Hamlet, or ſmall Village, an old Houſe, or decayed Cottage.

Hamſoken, or Homeſoken, (Scotch Law-Term) the Crime of one that violently aſſaults a Man in his own Houſe; Burglary.

Hampton-Court, a ſtately Royal Palace, ſeated on the River Thames, in Middleſex, which was begun by Cardinal Wolſey, finiſh'd by King Henry VIII. and very much improv'd with magnificent Buildings, curious Gardens, &c. by King William III.

Hamus, (Lat.) a Hook; alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument to draw out a dead Child, or Mole; alſo the Name of a kind of Bandage.

Hanaper. See Hamper.

Clerk of the Hanaper, or Hamper, otherwiſe call'd Warden of the Hamper, an Officer in Chancery, whoſe Buſineſs is to receive all Moneys due to the Queen, for the Seals of Charters, Patents, Commiſſions, and Writs, as alſo Fees due to the Officers for inrolling and examining the ſame. See Controller of the Hamper.

Hanch, the Hip, a part of the Body.

Hand, or Handing, a Word us'd among Mariners, who, when they would deliver any thing to be paſs'd from one to another, or brought to any one, they cry, Hand it this way, or that way, and when Men are wanted to do any Labour they uſually call for more Hands.

Hand-borow, (in the Saxon Law) a manual Pledge or Surety, an inferiour Undertaker. See Head-borough.

Hand-breadth, a Meaſure of Three Inches.

Hand-grith, (Sax.) Peace, or Protection, given by the King with his own Hand.

Hand-habend, a Thief taken in the very Fact, having the ſtollen Goods in his Hand.

Hand-leather, a piece of Leather which ſome Work-men put on their Hands to work with more eaſe.

Hand-ſpeck, or Hand-ſpike, a kind of wooden Leaver, eſpecially ſuch as are us'd at Sea to turn the Ordnance, or to heave in a Windlaſs to weigh up the Anchor.

Handful, as much as one can hold in his Hand; alſo a Meaſure of four Inches by the Standard, according to Stat. 33. H. 8.

Handſel, the firſt Money that a Trader receives for his Commodity.

To Handſel, to give Handſel, to uſe a thing for the firſt time.

Handy-warp, a kind of Cloth made at Coxſ, Bocking and Braintree in Eſſex.

Hangwite, Hangwit, or Hengwit, (Sax.) a liberty to be quit of a Felon or Thief hanged without a Tryal, or eſcap'd out of Priſon; or a Fine laid upon that account: Or a Liberty whereby a Lord challenges the Forfeiture due for one that Hangs himſelf within his Fee or Juriſdiction.

Hank, a Skean of Thread, Silk; alſo Influence or Power over, as To have a great Hank upon one.

To Hanker after a Thing, to long, or paſſionately wiſh for it.

Hannah, (Heb. Gracious, or Merciful) the Wife of Elkanah, and Mother of the Prophet Samuel.

Hans-en-kelder, (Dutch, i. e. Jack in the Cellar)

Child in the Mother's Belly, an Expreſſion grown in uſe amongſt the Engliſh when they drink to a Woman big with Child.

Hanſe, a Society or Corporation of Merchants combined together, for the ſafe Conveyance of Merchandizes from one Kingdom to another, and other mutual Advantages relating to Commerce. Hanſe is alſo a kind of Moulding over the Lintel of a Door.

Hanſe-Towns, certain free Imperial Towns in Germany, as Hamburgh, Magdeburgh, Lubeck, &c. being the principal Seats of the Dutch Merchants, and about 72 in Number.

Hanſeatick, belonging to the Hanſe-Towns.

Hanſelines, upper Slops, or Hoſe; a Word us'd by Chaucer.

To Hanten, (old Word) to uſe, or accuſtom.

Hapherlet, or Happarlet, (old Word) a kind of courſe Coverlet for a Bed.

To Happe, (Fr.) a Law-Word for to ſnatch, ſnap, catch, or ſeize; as to happe the Poſſeſſion of a Deed-poll, to happe the Rent, &c.

Hapſe, a Catch, or Bolt for a Door.

Haque, a ſort of Hand-gun, about three Quarters of a Yard long.

Haquebut, a Gun, otherwiſe call'd a Harquebuſs.

Haran, (Heb. Anger,) the Father of Lot.

Harangue, (Fr.) an Oration or Speech made in Publick: Harangues are alſo taken in an ill Senſe, for tedious troubleſome Diſcourſes, or for unſeaſonable and unbefitting Reproofs or Reproaches.

To Harangue, to make an Harangue, or Speech.

Haraphah, (Heb. a Medicine) a Philiſtine, whoſe Sons being Giants were kill'd by David and his Servants.

Haratium, (in old Latin Writers) a Stud, or Place of Horſes and Mares kept for Breed.

To Haraſs, (Fr.) to tire or weary out, to diſquiet, or trouble, to vex or teaz, to ruin a Country with continual Inroads.

Harbinger, an Officer in a Prince's Court, that allots thoſe of the Houſhold their Lodgings in time of Progreſs; but it is commonly taken for any one that goes before and provides Lodging for another.

Harbour, a Sea-Port, a Station where Ships may ride ſafe at Anchor; alſo a Shelter, or place of Refuge.

To Harbour, to lodge, receive, or entertain; to find a Lodging, or Retiring-place. In Hunting, a Hart is ſaid to harbour when it goes to reſt.

Hards, or Hurds of Flax or Hemp, the courſeſt parts ſeparated in the dreſſing of it from the Tare, or fine Stuff.

Hardſhrew, or Erdſhrew, a kind of wild Mouſe.

Hardy, (Fr.) inured to Hardſhip, bold, daring, couragious, ſtout.

Hare-lip, a Lip cloven like that of a Hare.

Hare-pipe, a Snare made of a piece of Elder, or Cane, to catch a Hare with.

Hares-bells, a ſort of Flower.

Hares-ears, an Herb that grows chiefly amidſt Oaken Woods, in ſtony Grounds.

Hares-foot, an Herb of a binding Quality, us'd in the ſtopping of Fluxes, and healing of Ruptures; alſo a kind of Bird.

Hares-lettice, a ſort of Herb.

Hariant. See Hauriant.

Haricot, (Fr. in Cookery) a particular way of dreſſing Mutton-cutlets, or ſeveral ſorts of Fowl and Fiſh in a Ragoo with Turneps; alſo a kind of French Beans.

Harier, a ſort of Hunting-Dog.

Hariot, or Heriot, (Law-Term) the beſt Beaſt that the Tenant has at the Hour of his Death, due to the Lord of the Manour by Cuſtom, whether it be Horſe, Ox, &c.

Hariot-Cuſtom, is when Hariots have been paid Time out of Mind by Cuſtom.

Hariot-Service, is when a Man holds Land, by paying Hariot at the time of his Death.

Harlot, a Whore; the Word is ſaid to be deriv'd from Arlotta, Concubine to Robert Duke of Normandy.

Harmonia, (Lat.) Harmony, Melody, a Conſort of Muſick. In Anatomy a joynting together of Bones by a plain Line, as the Cheek-bone is joyn'd with that of the Jaw, &c.

Harmonical, or Harmonick, belonging to Harmony.

Harmonical Proportion. See Proportion.

Harmonious, full of Harmony or Melody, Muſical.

Harmony, a Conſort, an Agreement, or pleaſing Union between ſeveral Sounds continuing at the ſame time, either of Voices or Muſical Inſtruments; alſo Agreeableneſs, Suitableneſs, or due Proportion of any Thing.

Harneſs, all the Accoutrements of an Armed Horſe-man; alſo all manner of Trappings or Furniture for a Horſe.

Haſting-Harneſs, a ſort of Armour, the Bearer of which has but ſingle Allowance.

Haro, or Harron, (in the Norman Laws) an Out-cry, or Hue and Cry after Felons, and other Malefactors.

Harp, a Muſical Inſtrument of a Triangular Form, conſiſting of 78 Strings.

Harpa, (Gr.) a ravenous Bird of the Vulturkind.

Harpaction, or Harpacticon, (Gr.) a kind of Gum; alſo a Plaiſter made of Brimſtone and Turpentine.

Harpax, a ſort of Amber that draws Straws.

Harpe, a Sword like a Scithe; a Hanger, or Scimeter, a Fauchion, or Wood-knife; alſo a Conſtellation, or cluſter of Stars in Perſeus's Right Hand.

Harper, one that plays on the Harp: Alſo an Iriſh Coin worth Nine Pence Engliſh, of which Twenty make a Pound.

Harpies, three fabulous Monſters, nam'd Aello, Ocypete, and Celæno, whom the Poets feign to have Virgins Faces, Bears Ears, Vulturs Bodies, crooked Feet and Hands, with ſharp Talons: They are the Emblems of Extortioners, griping Uſurers, and covetous Miſers.

Harpineers, they that catch Fiſh with a Harping-Iron.

Harping-Irons, certain Irons to ſtrike Whales and other great Fiſh, being at one end like a barbed Arrow, and having a Cord at the other.

Harpings, (in Sea-Affairs) properly ſignifie the Breadth of a Ship at the Bow, but ſome will have the ends of the Timbers call'd Bends, where they are faſten'd into the Stem, to be likewiſe termed The Harpings.

Harpſecord, or Harpſecol, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument.

Harquebuſs, a ſort of Hand-gun, or Snap-hance.

To Harraſs. See Haraſs.

Harreci Canes, (in old Latin Records) Hariers, or Hounds for hunting the Hare.

Harrow, (in Husbandry) a Drag, in form of a Square, with Iron Teeth, to break the Clods of Earth after Ploughing; alſo an old Word, ſignifying away, or fie!

Harſlet, the Entrails of a Hog, commonly ſo call'd.

Hart, (in the Foreſt-Laws) a Stag of Five Years Old compleat: If ſuch a Beaſt, being Hunted by the King or Queen, eſcape alive, it is call'd A Hart Royal; and if it be chas'd out of the Foreſt, ſo that they cauſe Proclamation to be made that none ſhall hurt or hinder it from returning thither, then it is termed A Hart Royal proclaimed.

Hart-wort, an Herb very wholſome for Harts or Stags to feed on.

Harts-fodder, a kind of Herb.

Harts-tongue, an Herb with long ſmooth Leaves like a Tongue; it is much commended for its Virtue againſt any Diſtemper of the Liver or Spleen, and the Paſſions of the Heart.

Harts-trefoil, an Herb.

Haſel, or Haſle-tree, a well known Nut-Tree, the Fruit of which is hard of Digeſtion, yet approved of to be eaten after Fiſh, to hinder the breeding of Phlegm.

Haſh, cold Meat cut into ſlices and heated again with Spice, &c.

Haſk, an old Word for a Sign of the Zodiack, as Fiſhes-Hask, i. e. the Sign Piſces.

Haſk-wort, a ſort of Herb.

Haſle-wort, an Herb.

Haſſock, ſoft Sand-ſtone; alſo a Baſs, a kind of Straw-Cuſhion us'd to kneel upon in Churches.

Haſta, (Lat.) ſignifies all ſorts of Offenſive Arms that have a long Staff, or Handle, as a Pike, Spear, Lance, Javelin, &c.

Haſta Porci, (in old Records) a Shield of Land.

Haſta Pura, a Half-Pike without Iron at the end, which the Romans us'd for a Scepter, and a Badge of Authority.

Haſtati, an Order of Soldiers Armed with Pikes, who ſtood in the Front of the Battel.

Haſtings, Fruit early ripe.

Green-Haſtings, a ſort of haſty or forward Peaſe.

Haſtula, (Lat.) a little Pike; alſo a Pearch, a Meaſure of Ground.

Haſtula Regia, yellow Aſphodil, an Herb.

Haſty, done in haſte, ſudden; alſo impatient, ſoon angry, teſty, peeviſh.

Hatch, a kind of Door, commonly fenc'd with Iron Spikes at the top; alſo a Brood of Young.

To Hatch, to breed Young, by ſitting upon Eggs; as Birds do; to deviſe, contrive or plot; alſo to draw ſmall Strokes with a Pen.

Hatchel, or Hichel, a Tool to dreſs Flax or Hemp with.

Hatches, Flood-gates ſet in a River, &c. to ſtop the Current of the Water.

Hatches of a Ship, thoſe looſe Parts, as it were Trap-doors of the Decks, that are in the middle of the Ship between the Main and Fore-maſt, and which are open'd at the letting down of any Goods of Bulk into the Hold.

Coamings, or Comings of the Hatches. See Comings.

Hatch-way, that Place which is directly over the Hatches, ſo that to ſtand or lye in the Hatch-way, is when any thing is ſo ſet, that the Hatches cannot be come to or open'd.

Hatchet-Vetch, a ſort of Pulſe.

Hatchments. See Atchievement.

Hatlets, (Fr. in Cookery) a Diſh of Veal-ſweetbreads, Capons-livers, and young Bacon, cut into ſmall Pieces, and fried with a little Flower, in order to be ſpitted on Skewers, breaded and broil'd, or fried.

Hattock (Country-Word) a Shock of Corn containing twelve Sheaves.

Hauberg, or Haubert (Fr.) a Coat of Mail.

Haubergets. See Haberjects.

Haven, or Harbour, an Entrance of the Sea within the Land, at the Mouth of ſome River, or Creek, where Ships may ride at Anchor.

Haver, a Country-Word for Oats.

Haver-de-poiſe, a ſort of Weight. See Avoir-du-pois.

Haulm. See Halm.

Haunt, Habit, or Cuſtom: Among Hunters, the Walk of a Deer, or the Place of his ordinary Paſſage.

To Haunt, to go often to a Place, to trouble another, with one's Company.

Havock, Pillage, Spoil, great Slaughter.

Hauriant, (in Heraldry) a Term us'd when a Fiſh is repreſented in a Coat of Arms ſet upright; as if it were putting up its Head above Water to breath.

Hauſelines, or Hanſelines, (old Word) Breeches or Slops.

Hauſtus, (Lat.) a Draught, a Soop. In Phyſick, a Potion or Liquid Medicine made of ſeveral Ingredients for one Doſe.

Hautbergeon. See Habergeon.

Hautboy, or Hoboy, a Muſical Wind-Inſtrument.

Haw, a ſort of Berry, the Fruit of the White-thorn Shrub; alſo a kind of Web or Spot in the Eye; alſo a Cloſe, or ſmall Quantity of Land, near a Houſe; as A Bean-haw, Hemp-haw, &c.

Haw-Thorn, or White-Thorn, a kind of Shrub.

Haward. See Hayward.

Hawes, a Word us'd in Doomſday-Book, for Manſions or Dwelling-Houſes.

Hawiſe, a proper Name of Women. See Avice.

Hawk, a well known Bird of Prey.

Hawk of the firſt Coat, a Hawk in the fourth Year of her Age.

To Hawk, to go a Fowling with Hawks; to ſpit, or ſpit out, to ſpawl.

Hawk-weed, a Field-herb, whoſe Leaves are jagged on the ſides like Dandelion, but they are thicker and darker. It is good for all Diſeaſes of the Eyes, Inflammations, St. Anthony's Fire, &c.

Hawkers, certain deceitful Fellows that go up and down from Place to Place, buying and ſelling old Braſs, Pewter, and other Wares, which ought to be utter'd in open Market: But they are now commonly taken for a ſort of People, who waiting for the firſt Publiſhing of News-books and other Pamphlets, run crying them about the Streets, as it were Hawks that hunt every where for Prey; whence they ſeem to be ſo call'd.

Hawlks, (old Word) Corners.

Hawſer (among Sailers) a three-ſtroud Rope, or ſmall Cable, which ſerves for many Uſes at Sea; as to draw a Ship over a Bar, to faſten the Main and Fore-ſhrowds, &c.

Hawſes, are two large round Holes in a Ship before, under the Head or Beak, thro' which the Cables paſs, when the Ship lies at Anchor.

A Bold Hawſe, is when the Hole is lofty above Water.

A Freſh Hawſe, is when there are grounds to ſuſpect, that the Cable may be fretted in thoſe Holes.

Burning in Hthe awſe, is when the Cable endures an extraordinary Streſs.

Clearing the Hawſe, is the untwiſting of two Cables, which being let out at two ſeveral Hawſes, are wound one about another.

Freſhing the Hawſe, is when new pieces are laid upon the Cable in the Hawſe.

Riding upon the Hawſe, is when any weighty Subſtance falls directly before the Hawſe, or lies acroſs it; or when one Ship rides with her Stern, juſt before the other's Hawſe.

Hawten, (old Word) haughty, proud.

Hay, Graſs cut and dry'd; alſo a Net to take Coneys with; alſo a ſort of Country-dance; alſo an old Word for a Hedge, or a piece of Ground incloſed with an Hedge.

Hay-maids. See Ale-hoof.

Haybote, or Heybote, (Sax.) Liberty granted to a Tenant, for cutting ſo much Under-wood and Buſhes within the Premiſſes, as was ſufficient for repairing and maintaining his Fences or Hedges.

Haydegines, (old Word) a Country-dance, or Round.

Haylayks, Women-ſlaves; a Word us'd among the Turks.

Hayn, (old Word) Hatred.

Hayward, or Haward, a Keeper of the Common Herd of Cattel of a Town, who is to look that they neither break nor crop the Hedges of incloſed Grounds, and is ſworn in the Lord's Court, for the Performance of his Office.

Hayz, (Arab. in Aſtrol.) a certain Dignity, or ſtrengthening of a Planet, by being in a Sign of its own Sex, and a part of the World agreeable to its own Nature: As when a Maſculine and Diurnal Planet, is in the Day-time in a Maſculine Sign and above the Earth; or a Feminine Nocturnal Planet in the Night, in a Feminine Sign, and under the Earth.

Hazael, (Heb. ſeeing God) a King of Syria anointed by the Prophet Eliſha.

Hazard, (Fr.) Chance, Fortune, Peril, Danger; a Game at Dice ſo call'd: Alſo a Term at Tennis-play, when a Ball does not rebound as is uſual, ſo that no Judgment can be made of it.

At Billiards, Hazards, are the Holes in the ſides and Corners of the Table, into which the Gameſters endeavour to ſtrike their Adverſaries Ball.

To Hazard, to run the Hazard or Riſk of, to venture, to lay at ſtake.

† Hazarder, one that plays at Hazard, at Dice-play.

Hazardous, full of Hazard, dangerous.

Haze, a Rime, or thick Fog.

To Haze, or Hawze, to ſcare or fright with a ſudden Shout.

Hazel. See Haſel.

Hazy, rimy, thick, foggy.

Head, a bony part of the Body, which contains and encloſes the Brain within its Cavity.

Head of an Anchor, the Shank or longeſt part of it.

Head of the Camp, (in the Art of War) the Ground before which an Army is drawn out.

Head of a Work, (in Fortif.) the Front of it next the Enemy, and fartheſt from the Body of the Place.

Head-Angles. See Angle.

Head-borough, or Borough-head, (among our Saxon Anceſtours) was chief of the Frank-pledge, and had the principal Government of thoſe within his own Pledge: According to the Diverſity of Speech in ſeveral Places, he was alſo call'd Burrow-Elder, Burſholder, Chief-Pledge, Third-borow and Tything-man. This Officer is now the ſame as a Conſtable. See Frank-Pledge.

Head-land, (in Husbandry) that part which is plough'd a-croſs, at the ends of other Lands. In Sea-affairs, a Point of Land, which lies farther out at Sea, than others uſually do.

Head-lines, or Head-ropes, (in a Ship) the Ropes of the Sails that are uppermoſt, and next the Yards, and which ſerve to make faſt all the Sails to the Yards.

Head-pence, or Head-ſilver, was the Sum of forty Pounds or more, which the Sheriff of Northumberland, heretofore exacted of the Inhabitants of that County twice in ſeven Years, i. e. every third and every fourth Year.

Head-piece, a piece of defenſive Armour to cover the Head and Neck of a Horſe-man.

Head-ropes. See Head-lines.

Head-ſails, the Sails belonging to the Fore-maſt and Bolt-ſprit, which govern the Ship's Head, ſo as to make it fall off, and keep out of the Wind.

Head-ſea, a great Billow or Wave of the Sea, coming right a-head of a Ship in her Courſe.

Headſman, an Executioner that beheads a Malefactor.

Heady, head-ſtrong, obſtinate, ſtubborn; alſo apt to fly up into the Head, as ſtrong Liquors do.

Heafool, (Sax.) a Head.

To Heal, to cure a Wound or Sore; alſo a Country-word for to cover up with the Bed-clothes.

Heal-dog, a ſort of Herb.

Healfang, an old Saxon Word, ſignifying a Pillory.

Healgemote. See Halimote.

To Hear, to receive a Sound or Voice by the Ear; to be informed of; to examine a Cauſe as a Judge does: Whence 'tis ſad, Such a one is to have a Hearing in Chancery.

To Hearken, to liſten, or give Ear to.

Hearſe, a kind of Litter or cover'd Waggon to carry a dead Body in. Among Hunters, a Hind in the ſecond Year of her Age.

Heart, a moſt noble part of the Body, being the Fountain of Life, and the firſt Original of the Motion of all the others; the firſt Member that begins to live, and the laſt that dies.

Heart of the Sun, a Term in Aſtrology. See Cazimi.

Heart-burning, a pain in the Stomach, a Diſtemper; alſo Grudge, or Ill-will.

Hearts-eaſe, or Panſy, an Herb, whoſe Flowers are like Violets, good for Ruptures and the Falling-Sickneſs.

Hearth-money, or Hearth-ſilver. See Chimney-money.

Heat, one of the four primary Qualities, ſaid to conſiſt in the vehement and various Agitations or movings about of the ſmall inſenſible Parts of a Body.

Heath, a ſort of wild Shrub, or a Plain cover'd with it.

Heath-cock, or Heath-powt, otherwiſe call'd a Growſe, a Bird of Game, ſomewhat like a Pheaſant.

Heath-peaſe, or Wood-peaſe, a kind of wild Peaſe.

Heath-roſe, a ſort of Flower.

To Heave, to lift up, to ſwell or riſe up as Dough does: In Sea-Affairs a Ship is ſaid to heave and ſet, when, being at Anchor, ſhe riſes and falls by the force of the Waves.

To Heave at the Capſtan, is to turn it about.

To Heave a Flag abroad, is to hang it out.

To Heave a thing overboard, is to throw or caſt it away out of the Ship.

To Heave up, or Heave out the Top-ſails, is to put them abroad.

Heaulme, or Heaume, (Fr.) a Term in Heraldry for an Helmet or Head-piece.

Hebberman, one that fiſhes below Bridge, commonly at ebbing Water, for Whitings, Smelts, &c.

Hebberthef, (Sax.) a Privilege of having the Goods of a Thief, and the Tryal of him, within a particular Liberty.

Hebdomadius, (Gr.) the Hebdomary, or Weeksman; a Canon or Prebendary in a Cathedral Church, who took Care of the Choir and the Offices of it for his own Week. See Ebdomadarius.

Hebdomas, or Hebdomada, the Number Seven, a Week that conſiſts of ſeven Days.

Hebenus, or Ebenus, the Ebony-Tree, the Wood of which is as black as Jet, and as ſmooth as poliſh'd Ivory.

Hebiſcus, Marſh-mallows; an Herb.

Hebraiſm, a Property of Speech, or manner of Expreſſion peculiar to the Hebrew Tongue.

Hebrews, a Name given to the Jews from Heber the great Grand-child of Shem, the Son of Noah; from whom alſo that moſt ancient Language, which before the Confuſion at Babel was thought to be common to all Mankind, was afterwards call'd Hebrew, becauſe it continu'd in his Family.

Hecatomb, (Gr.) a Sacrifice, wherein an Hundred Oxen were offer'd at one time.

Hecatombæon, the Month of June, ſo call'd from ſuch Sacrifices which were then offer'd to Jupiter.

Hecatompolis, the Iſland of Crete, or Candia, ſo call'd from its Hundred Cities which it had in the Time of King Minos.

Hecatompus, a Fiſh that has an Hundred Feet, which having ſwallow'd the Hook diſgorges all its Entrails, till rid of the Hook ſhe takes them in again.

Hecatontaphyllum, a Roſe full of Leaves.

Hecatontarchus, a Centurion, a Captain of a Hundred Soldiers.

Heck, an Engine to take Fiſh in the River Ouſe by York.

Heckle, an Inſtrument us'd in dreſſing and preparing Flax or Hemp for the Spinner, by dividing the Tow or Hurds from the Tare.

Heckled, (old Word) wrapped.

Hectica, (Gr.) an Hectick Feaver, a continued Feaver, ariſing from the very Habit of the Body, and ſo rooted in the Conſtitution, that it is extremely hard to be cur'd, being commonly attended with an Ulcer of the Lungs, Leanneſs, and a Cough. See Schetick Feaver.

Hectick, ſubject to ſuch a Feaver, Conſumptive.

Hector, the Son of King Priamus and Hecuba, the moſt Valiant of all the Trojans, who reſolutely defended the City of Troy againſt the Greeks for a long time, and at laſt was kill'd by Achilles: The Word ſignifies a Defender, but is now commonly taken for a Bully, Braggadochio, or vapouring Fellow.

To Hector, to play the Hector, to inſult, to vaunt and vapour.

Heda, (in old Latin Records) a Port or Haven; a Hithe, Wharf, or Landing-place.

Hedagium, Toll or Cuſtom paid at an Hithe or Wharf for landing Goods, &c.

Hedera, the Ivy-Tree.

Hedera Terreſtris, the Herb Ground-Ivy, or Alehoof, an excellent cleanſer of the Lungs, and a good Remedy againſt the Colick, &c.

Hederal Crown, a Crown of Ivy, which was worn among the Romans in their Publick Feaſtings and Rejoycings.

Hedge-bote. See Hay-bote.

Hedge-fumitory, Hedge-hyſſop, and Hedge-nettle, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Hedge-hog, a little Beaſt.

Hedge-hog-Trefoil, a kind of Herb.

Hedra, (Gr.) a Seat; in Geometry a Baſe on which a Figure reſts.

Hedychroum, a Medicine of a pleaſant Colour.

Hedychrum, a Perfume, or ſweet Oil.

Hedyoſmus, or Hedyoſmum, the Herb Mint.

Hedypnois, a ſort of Succory, Prieſts-Crown.

Hedyſarum, the Honey-ſuckle, a Flower.

Hedyſmata, ſweet Oils, or Sauces, Sweet-meats. In Phyſick any thing that gives Medicines a good Scent.

Heel of the Maſt, (among Sea-men) that part of the Foot of any Maſt which is par'd away ſlanting on the aftward ſide, that the Maſt may be ſtay'd aftward on; but the Heels of the Top-maſt are Squares, into which the Fid, or Pin of the Top-maſt, is put.

To Heel, a Ship is ſaid to heel when ſhe lyes down on one ſide, whether ſhe be on ground or a-float; as ſhe heels to the Starboard, or a-port, i. e. leans to the Right or Left Side; ſhe heels aſtward, or to the Shore, &c.

Heſe and Haſe, (old Words) hoarſe and harſh.

Hegemonice, a Term us'd by Phyſicians for the principal Actions in a Human Body, as thoſe call'd Animal and Vital.

Hegira, (in Chronol.) an Account of Time in uſe among the Turks and Arabians, reckon'd from July 16 A. C. 622, or as ſome ſay, 627; when their falſe Prophet Mahomet made his Eſcape from the City of Mecca.

Hegler, one that buys Proviſions brought out of the Country, to ſell them again by Retail.

Heifer, a young Cow.

Height, (in Rhetorick) an Excellency in ſpeaking or Writing, wherein the Expreſſions are neither too ſwelling, nor too creeping, but obſerve a Decorum between both.

Height of a Figure, (in Geom.) the perpendicular Line, drawn from the Top to the Baſe, either within the Figure or without it.

Height of the Pole. See Elevation of the Pole; and Latitude of a Place.

Heinfare, or Hinefare, (Sax.) the Departure of a Servant from his Maſter, from Hine a Servant, and Fare a Paſſage.

Heinuſe, (among Hunters) a Roe-buck of the fourth Year.

Heir of Blood, (in Common-Law) is he who ſucceeds by right of Blood in any Man's Lands or Tenements in Fee; and Heir of Inheritance, is one that cannot be defeated of his Inheritance upon any Diſpleaſure.

Heir-Loom, ſignifies Houſhold-Furniture, as Tables, Preſſes, Cupboards, &c. which having belonged for certain Deſcents, are never inventory'd after the Owner's Deceaſe, but come to the Heir with the Houſe it ſelf.

Heirs. See Heyrs.

Helcheſaites, a Sect of Hereticks, who held it no ſin, to deny Chriſt in times of Perſecution, and had one Helcheſaus for their Ring-leader.

Helcoma, or Helcoſis, (Gr.) Exulceration, a turning to an Ulcer.

Helcos, an Ulcer or Sore.

Helcydria, certain little Ulcers in the Skin of the Head, which are thick and red like the Nipples of the Breaſts, and ſend forth Matter.

Helcyſma, the Droſs and Scum of any Metal; alſo the ſame as Helcoma, an Ulcerating of any Part.

Heleagnus, a Shrub call'd Myrtle of Brabant.

Helena, the Daughter of Jupiter, and Leda the moſt beautiful Lady of all Greece, who being carry'd away by Paris from her Husband Menelaus, occaſion'd a great War between the Greeks and Trojans, and the Deſtruction of the City of Troy: Alſo a ſort of Light or Fire that ſometimes appears about the Maſts and Yards of Ships, which when double is call'd Caſtor and Pollux.

Helenium, Elicampane, an Herb good for the Lungs in a Cough, or Shortneſs of Breath.

Helepolis, a Engine, a kind of Turret, anciently us'd in the beſieging and taking of Cities.

Heliacal Riſing of a Star, (in Aſtron.) is when a Star, which for ſome time lay hid under the Sun-beams, gets from the ſame and appears again.

Heliacal ſetting of a Star, is when a Star can be no longer ſeen, by reaſon of the near approach of the Sun.

Helianthe, Helianthemum, or Helianthon, the Herb Hedge-Hyſſop, or wild Ruſh; alſo the Sun-flower.

Helice, major & minor, two Conſtellations, or Companies of Stars, the ſame with Urſa major & minor; alſo a kind of Willow-tree.

Helicometry, or Helicoſophy, a Mathematical Art, which teaches how to meaſure or draw all Spiral Lines upon a Plain, and ſhews their reſpective Properties.

Heliocentrick, belonging to the Center of the Sun; as The Heliocentrick Place of a Planet, i. e. ſuch as it would appear to us from the Sun, if our Eye were fixt in its Center.

Heliochryſus, or Heliochryſum, Golden-locks, or Golden-tufts, a Flower; the Name may be alſo apply'd to ſeveral other Yellow Flowers.

Heliographick Charts. See Charts Heliographick.

Helioſcope, a kind of Proſpect-glaſs fitted ſo as to look upon the Body of the Sun without Offence to the Eyes.

Helioſcopium, an Helioſcope, alſo a kind of Spurge, that turns about to the Sun; alſo a little Tree like a Fig-tree.

Heliotropion, the great Marigold, or Turnſole Flower.

Heliotrope, the Plant Turn-ſole, Rude, or Water-wort, which is ſaid always to follow the Courſe of the Sun, both at riſing and ſetting even in a cloudy Day: Alſo a kind of precious Stone of a green Colour ſtreak'd with red Veins, which ſhews the Sun as it were a Looking-glaſs, and diſcovers its Eclipſe.

Helix, a kind of Ivy that bears no Berries, barren or creeping Ivy. In Anatomy, the outward Brim of the Ear, ſo call'd from its winding: In Geometry, a Spiral Figure. See Spiral.

Hell-becks, little Brooks in Richmond-ſhire on the Borders of Lancaſhire, where the Mountains are rough, wild and ſteep, which are ſo call'd upon account of their Gaſtlineſs and Depth; for they hurry along ſo deep in the Ground, that it creates an Horrour in one to look down to them.

Hell-kettles, certain Pits near Darlington in the County of Durham, much admir'd both by Travellers and the Inhabitants: There are three of them full of Water to the brim, which is ſaid to be of a different kind from that in the River Tees; and they look much like old wrought Coal-pits that are drown'd.

Helleborine, (Gr.) wild white Hellebore, or Noſe-wort; an Herb.

Helleborum, or Helleborus, the Herb Hellebore, of which there are two ſorts, white and black, both only us'd in great Diſeaſes; as for the Falling-ſickneſs, Giddineſs, Madneſs, Dropſy, Convulſions, &c.

Helleniſm, an Imitation of the Idiom, or peculiar Phraſes of the Greek Tongue.

Helleniſtical, or Helleniſtick, belonging to Greece, from Hellas, the ancient Name of that Country.

Helm, (Country-Word) Wheat or Rye-ſtraw unbruiſed by thraſhing or otherwiſe, which is uſually bound in Bundles for Thatching: In Sea-affairs, The Helm is a piece of Wood faſten'd to the Rudder in a Ship or Boat, to guide or ſteer it: Whence The Helm of State, is figuratively taken for the chief Place in the Government of a Nation, &c.

To A-lee the Helm, to put the Helm to the Lee-ſide of the Ship.

Bear up the Helm, i. e. let the Ship go more large before the Wind.

Eaſe the Helm. See Eaſe.

Port the Helm, put the Helm over to the left hand or ſide of the Ship: Starboard the Helm, put it to the right ſide. Right the Helm, or Helm a Midſhip, that is, keep it even with the middle of the Ship.

Among Chymiſts, Helm is the Head of an Alembick or Still, ſo call'd from its Figure ſomewhat reſembling an Helmet or Steel Cap: So that To bring a thing over to the Helm, is to force it by Fire up to the top of the Veſſel, that it may diſtill or drop down into the Receiver by the Noſe or Beak of the Head.

Helmet, an Head-piece or Armour for the Head.

Helmet in hard Showers, (old Expreſſion) defended in ſharp Attacks.

Helmet-flower, a ſort of Flower.

Helminthagogues, or Helminthicks, (Gr.) Medicines that drive out Worms, or cauſe them to be voided by Stool.

Helos, a Nail; alſo a round white hard Swelling of the Foot, like the Head of a Nail fixt with Roots in the Skin.

Heloſis, a turning back of the Eye-lid.

Helve, (old Word) the Handle of any thing.

Helxine, (Gr.) the Herb Parietary or Pellitory of the Wall, the Powder of which in Poſſet-drink, &c. is excellent for a Cough in the Lungs.

Hemeralopia, a Faculty when one ſees clearer in the Night than in the Day.

Hemerobion, a Fly that lives but one Day.

Hemerocallis, a kind of Lilly that ſpreads in a fair Day, and ſhuts it ſelf up in the Night.

Hemerologium, a Calendar or Book in which are regiſter'd the Paſſages of every Day.

Hemiceraunius, the Name of a Surgeon's Bandage for the Back and Breaſt.

Hemicrania, a Pain in either half-part of the Head, a Megrim.

Hemi-cycle, an half-circle.

Hemidrachmon, half a Dram.

Hemina, a Meaſure containing half a Sextary, or nine Ounces, i. e. three Quarters of a Pint; but commonly taken for a Pint.

Hemiobolon, the twelfth part of a Dram.

Hemiolium, an Ounce and a half.

Hemionitis, the Herb Spleen-wort or Milt-wort.

Hemiplegia, or Hemiplexia, a Palſy on one ſide, proceeding from a Stoppage in one part or other of the Spinal Marrow, which hinders the free paſſing of the Animal Spirits.

Hemiſphere (in Aſtron.) one half of a Sphere or Globe, cut thro' the Center in the Plane of one of its greater Circles: Thus the Equinoctial divides the World into the Northern and Southern Hemiſpheres, and the Horizon likewiſe divides the Earth into two Hemiſpheres, one light and the other dark, according as the Sun is above or below that Circle. The Maps or Prints of the Heavens paſted on Boards or Cloth; are alſo ſometimes call'd Hemiſpheres, but more commonly Planiſpheres.

Hemiſtichium (in Grammar) a half Verſe.

Hemitritæus, a Semi-tertian Feaver or Ague, that returns every Day, and in which every ſecond Day the Patient has two Fits, one of the Quotidian, and the other of the Tertian.

Hemiuncion, half an Ounce.

Hemiectes, or Hemiecton, a Meaſure of Liquids; the ſame as Hemina.

Hemlock, a poiſonous Plant. See Cicuta.

Hemorrhoids, or Emrods, a Diſeaſe in the Fundament commonly call'd the Piles. See Hæmorrhoides.

Hen-bane, an Herb that is counted rank Poiſon.

Hen-bit, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Chick-weed.

Henchman, or Heinſman, a German Word ſignifying a Houſhold-Servant; and formerly taken amongſt us for a Page of Honour or Footman.

Hend (old Word) neat, fine, genteel.

Hendecagon, (Gr. in Geom. and Fortif.) a Figure that has eleven Sides and as many Angles, capable of being fenc'd with the like Number of Baſtions.

Hendecaſyllabum Carmen, (in Grammar) a Greek or Latin Verſe, conſiſting of eleven Syllables and comprehending theſe Feet, viz. a Dactyle, Spondee, and three Trochees; as Quoquo diffugias pavens Mabili.

It is otherwiſe call'd Phaleucium.

Henfare, (in Doomſday-Book) an Amercement or Fine for Flight, upon account of Murder.

Hengeſt, the Name of a General who firſt led the Angles or Engliſh into the Iſland of Great Britain: The Word in the Saxon Tongue ſignifies a Horſeman.

Henghen, an old Law-Word for a Priſon, or Houſe of Correction.

Hengwit. See Hangwite.

Heniochus, (Gr.) a Northen Conſtellation, or Company of fixed Stars, the ſame as Auriga.

Henoch, (Heb.) Taught or Dedicated) Cain's Son, from whom the City Henoch took Name; alſo the Father of Methuſelah.

Henophyllum, an Herb call'd One-blade

Henry, a proper Name of Men, deriv'd from the German Einrick, i. e. Rich and Powerful; or Herric, i. e. Rich Lord, or from the Latin, Honoricus: Of this Name there were ſeven Emperours of Germany, eight Kings of England, four Kings of France, and as many of Caſtile.

To Hent, (old Word) to catch.

Hepar, (Gr.) the Liver, a large fleſhy Bowel plac'd in the Right Hypochondrium. Alſo a kind of Chymical Compoſition. See Crocus Metallorum.

Hepar Uterinum. See Placenta Uterina.

Hepatica, Liver-wort, an Herb good againſt Stoppages of the Liver and Bladder.

Hepatica Vena, the Liver-Vein, the inner Vein of the Arm, otherwiſe call'd Baſilica.

Hepatical, or Hepatick, belonging to the Liver.

Hepatick Aloes, the fineſt ſort of Aloes, ſo call'd from its Colour, which is near that of the Liver. See Aloes.

Hepatick Medicines, Remedies proper for the Liver, being chiefly ſuch as provoke Sweat and Urine.

Hepaticus Ductus, a Paſſage in the Liver, otherwiſe call'd Porus Biliarius; which ſee.

Hepaticus Morbus, or Hepatick Flux, a Diſeaſe when a thin ſharp Blood, like Water in which raw Fleſh has been waſh'd, is voided by Stool; alſo when black, ſhining, dry'd Blood is diſcharg'd into the Guts.

Hepatites, a precious Stone of the ſhape of the Liver.

Hepatorium, or Eupatorium, Hemp-Agrimony, or Liver-wort.

Hepatus, the Liver-fiſh, ſo call'd from its Colour and Bigneſs.

Hephæſtites, a precious Stone of a fiery red Colour.

Hephthemimeris, (in Grammar) a Poetical Figure, when after three Feet there remains a Syllable ending the Word, which is ſometimes made long, tho' it be naturally ſhort; as Congredior, fer ſacra Pater, & concipe fœdus. Virg.

Hepialus, a Fire-fly, which plays about a Candle till ſhe burn her Wings.

Heps, or Hips, the Fruit of the Black-thorn Shrub.

Heptaedron, (Gr. in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of ſeven Sides.

Heptagon, a Figure that has ſeven Sides, and as many Angles: In Fortification, a Place defended by ſeven regular Baſtions.

Heptagonal, belonging to ſuch a Figure.

Heptangular Figure, (in Geom.) is that which conſiſts of ſeven Angles.

Heptaphyllum, Set-foil, or Tormentil, an Herb of a drying and binding Quality; a proper Remedy for Fluxes of the Belly and Womb, as alſo for the Plague, and other malignant Diſeaſes.

Heptapleuron, the greater ſort of Plantain.

Heptarchy, a ſeven-fold Government, or Government of ſeven Soveraign Princes, as that of the Saxon Kings here in England, which was formerly divided into ſeven petty Kingdoms.

Heracleon, the Herb Mil-foil, or Yarrow; alſo a Water-Lilly.

Heracleoticum, Wild Marjoram, an Herb.

Heracleus, or Heracleus Lapis, the Magnet, or Load-ſtone.

Herald, Herault, or Harold, (Germ. i. e. High Maſter, or Champion of the Army) an Officer whoſe Buſineſs is to declare War, to proclaim Peace, to execute Martial Meſſages and other Acts by the Queen's Order, &c.

Heralds College, a Corporation conſiſting of Kings at Arms, Heralds, and Purſevants, employ'd to be Meſſengers of War and Peace, to marſhal and order Coronations, Marriages, Funerals, Interviews, Feaſts of Kings and Princes, Cavalcades, Publick Shews, &c. as alſo to take care of the Coats of Arms and Genealogies of the Nobility and Gentry: They were Incorporated by King Richard III. and obtain'd another Charter of Privileges of Edward VI.

Heraldry, the Art of Blazoning, diſplaying or ſetting out Coats of Arms.

Heraudes, (old Word) Feats of Activity.

Herb Chriſtopher, an Herb that bears Berries like Beads, and is only to be ſeen in the Gardens of thoſe that delight in Rarities.

Herb-Paris, otherwiſe call'd True-love, or Oneberry, the Leaves of which grow like a Lover's Knot, with a Berry in the midſt: It reſiſts Poiſon and Peſtilence, cures Ulcers, Inflammations, Impoſtumes, &c.

Herb-Robert, a kind of Cranes-bill with reddiſh Stalks, which helps the Stone, and ſtays Fluxes of Blood; it alſo ſpeedily heals all green Wounds and old Ulcers.

Herb Two-pence, an Herb of a moderately cold and dry Quality.

Herba, (Lat.) an Herb, a Plant leſs than a Shrub, that has Leaves from the Root.

Herba Benedicta, Avens.

Herba Sacra, Vervain.

Herba Stellæ, Bucks-horn, or Dogs-tooth.

Herba Turca, Rupture-wort, or Knot-graſs.

Herbæ Capitatæ, (among Botaniſts) ſuch Herbs as have their Flower made up of many ſmall, long, fiſtulous, or hollow Flowers, gather'd together in a round Button, Knob, or Head, as the Thiſtle, Greater Burrdock, Blewbottle, &c.

Herbage, the Fruit of the Earth provided by Nature for Cattel, the grazing or feeding upon Land, or the mowing of it. In a Law-ſenſe the Liberty that one has to feed his Cattel in another Man's Ground, or in the Foreſt.

Herbagium Anterius, (in ancient Latin Writers) the firſt Crop of Graſs or Hay; in Oppoſition to the After-math, or ſecond Cutting.

Herbal, a Book treating of the Nature and Quality, or Virtue of Herbs.

Herbaliſt, or Herbariſt, one that has Skill in all ſorts of Herbs; a Simpler.

Harbenger. See Harbinger.

Herbert, (Germ.) a proper Name of Men, ſignifying bright Lord, or the Glory of the Army.

Herculean, belonging to Hercules, the chief of which Name was that Famous Heroe of Antiquity, ſuppos'd to be the Son of Jupiter and Alcmena.

Herculean Labours, ſuch as Hercules undertook and perform'd; great and dangerous Exploits.

Hercules's Pillars, two Pillars which Hercules is ſaid to have ſet up, one at Cadiz, and the other at Ceuta, as the Bounds of the Weſtern World. See Columnæ Herculis.

Herculeus Morbus, the Falling-Sickneſs. See Epilepſia.

Herd, a Company of Cattel, or of Wild Beaſts, as of Oxen, Swine, Harts, Deer, &c.

Herdelenge, a Term us'd by Hunters for the dreſſing of a Roe.

Herdwerch, or Heerdwerch, (Sax.) Herdſmen's Work or Labours, formerly done by Shepherds, Herdſmen, and other inferiour Tenants at the Will of their Lord.

Here de Cæſar, (i. e. the Monarchy of Cæſar) a certain Epoch or Account of Time, from which the Saracens and Arabians us'd to reckon their Number of Years, as we do from the Year of our Lord: It was alſo us'd for a great while in Spain.

Hereditaments, (Lat. in Common-Law) all ſuch things as deſcend to a Man and his Heirs by way of Inheritance, and fall not within the Compaſs of an Executor or Adminiſtrator, as Chattels do.

Hereditary, belonging to Inheritance or Succeſſion, that comes or paſſes by Inheritance.

Hereditary Diſeaſes, are thoſe which Children have from their Parents, who were troubled with the ſame; as the Gout, Conſumption, Stone, &c.

Herefare (Sax.) a going in a Military Expedition, or to a Warfare.

Heregate, a Tribute anciently paid to the Lord of the Soil, for the carrying on of a War; from the Saxon Words Here, an Army, and Geat, a Beaſt: The Name is ſtill retain'd upon another Account in our Term Hariot.

Heregeld, a Tax rais'd for the Maintenance of an Army.

Hereſiarch. See Hæreſiarcha.

Hereſlita, or Herreſlia, (Sax.) a hired Soldier, that goes from his Colours without Leave; from Here an Army, and Sliten to depart.

Hereſy, (Gr.) an Opinion contrary to the ſound Principles or Fundamental Points of Religion.

Hereteg, or Heretogh, (Sax.) a Leader of an Army, or a Duke, from Here an Army, and Toga to draw out: In old Records it is alſo expreſs'd Heretochias.

Heretical, (Gr.) belonging to, or infected with Hereſy.

An Heretick, one that is tainted with Hereſy, or holds Heretical Opinions.

Heretum, (in ancient Latin Writers) a Court or Yard for drawing up the Guard or Military Retinue, which uſually attended our Biſhops and Nobility.

Hericeus, Herix, or Herinaceus, an Urchin, or Hedge-hog.

Heriot. See Hariot.

Heriſſon, (Fr.) an Hedge-hog: In Fortification, a Barrier, made of a piece of Timber ſtuck thick with Iron-ſpikes; born up and equally pois'd in the middle on a Stake, about which it moves like a Turnſtile, to open or ſhut up a Paſſage.

Heritage, Inheritance by Lot or Succeſſion.

Herman, or Harman, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in German, the General or chief Commander of an Army.

Hermaphrodite, (Gr.) a Word compounded of Hermes, i. e. Mercury and Aphrodite, or Venus; and ſignifying one that has the Natural Parts of both Sexes.

Hermellanus, (Lat.) the Ermin, a ſort of Weeſel that yields a rich Furr.

Hermetical, or Hermetick, belonging to Mercury, or to Hermes Triſmegiſtus, the Great Egyptian Philoſopher, who is thought to have liv'd not long after Moſes.

Hermetical Philoſophy, is that which pretends to ſolve and explain, all the Operations and Appearances of Nature by the three Chymical Principles, Mercury, Salt and Sulphur.

Hermetical Phyſick, that Hypotheſis, or Groundwork in the Art of Phyſick, which refers the Cauſe of all Diſeaſes to the ſame Chymical Principles but now mention'd.

Hermetical Seal, or Hermes's Seal, a particular way of ſtopping up the Mouths of Veſſels ſo cloſe that the moſt ſubtil Spirits cannot fly out: Thus,

To Seal a Glaſs Hermetically, is to heat the Neck of it, till it be juſt ready to melt, and then with a Pair of red-hot Pincers to pinch or cloſe it together.

Hermetick Science, the Art of Chymiſtry, ſo call'd from Hermes, or Mercury, whom the Chymiſts aſſert to have been the firſt Inventor of it.

Hermit, a ſolitary Monk; alſo a kind of Fiſh.

Hermitage, the Place where a Hermit lives.

Hermiteſs, a Woman Hermit.

Hermitorium, (in old Records) a Chappel, or Place of Prayer belonging to an Hermitage.

Hermodactylus, (Gr. i. e. Mercury's Finger) a round-headed Root, brought from Syria, which is of an inſipid Taſte; and gently purges Phlegm.

Hern, a large ſort of Fowl. See Heron.

Hern-ſhaw, or Hernery, a Place where Herns breed.

Herneſium, or Harnaſium, (in our old Writers) is taken for any ſort of Houſe-Furniture, Implements of Trade or Ship-tackle; from the Teutonick Word Hernas, i. e. Harneſs.

Hernia, (Gr.) a Rupture, properly the falling of the Entrails, Caul, &c. by the widen'd Channels or Pipes of the Skin call'd Peritonæum into the Groin in Men, or into the Lips of the Pudendum in Women: Alſo a Swelling of the Navel; the falling down of the Womb is likewiſe improperly ſo termed.

Hernia Aquoſa, the Water-rupture. Hernia Carnoſa, a Fleſhy Rupture. Gutturalis, a Swelling in the Throat: Humoralis; when the Teſticles are fill'd with Unnatural Humours.

Hernia Scrotalis, or Hernia Veneris, is when the Teſticles grow too big by reaſon of immoderate Venery. Hernia Ventoſa, the Wind-rupture: Hernia Umbilicalis, a Rupture of the Navel: Hernia Uteri, the falling down of the Womb. See Procidentia Uteri.

Herniaria, Rupture-wort, Burſt-wort, or Knotgraſs, an Herb of great Uſe in a Rupture, and the diſtill'd Water of it cures the Jaundice.

Hernious, burſten-belly'd.

Herod, ſirnam'd the Great, a King of Judæa, created by the Senate of Rome, who murder'd the Innocents, and ruin'd the Temple of Jeruſulem built by Zorobabel, but rais'd another more magnificent in its Place: There were alſo two other Kings of this Name, viz. Herod Antipas his Son, who caus'd St. John the Baptiſt to be beheaded; and Herod Agrippa his Grand-ſon, who put St. James to Death, and impriſon'd St. Peter; beſides Herod the Brother of Agrippa mention'd Act. 23.

Herodian, belonging to Herod, as the Herodian Diſeaſe, which is to be eaten to Death with Lice, as Herod was.

Herodians, the Soldiers of Herod, or a Sect of Hereticks, who took Herod for the Meſſiah.

Herodotus, a Greek Hiſtorian of rare Merit, whoſe nine Books ſtill extant are each call'd by the Name of the Muſes.

Heroe, a great and illuſtrious Perſonage among the Ancients; ſuch tho' by nature mortal, yet were thought to partake of Immortality, upon which account they inroll'd them in the Liſt of the Gods, after their Death; a Demi-God, a Man of ſingular Valour, Worth and Renown.

Heroical, or Heroick, belonging to, or becoming a Heroe; famous, noble, lofty.

Heroick Poem, a ſort of Compoſition in Poetry, whch ſets forth the Warlike Exploits and other noble Performances of Emperours, Kings, Princes, and Perſons of the higheſt Rank.

Heroick Verſe, that kind of Verſe, which the ancient Greeks and Latins, generally made uſe of in their Heroick Poems, without any other Mixture:

It is alſo call'd Hexameter, as conſiſting juſt of ſix Feet, all Dactyls and Spondees, without any certain Order; but in the ſixth place a Spondee is always requiſite, and in the fifth place a Dactyl, tho' a Spondee be ſometimes admitted. Of a Dactyl in the fifth place take this Example:

Eurus ad Auroram Nabathæaque Regna receſſit.

Of a Spondee in the fifth place this:

Alriaque Alpes, & nubifer Apenninus.

Heroine, a Female Heroe, a Woman of a Noble Spirit, and Excellent Qualities; a Lady of Honour.

Heron, a large Wild Water-Fowl, with a long Neck and Bill, that flies high, and feeds upon Fiſh.

Herons-bill, a ſort of Herb.

Herpes, (Gr.) a kind of St. Anthony's-Fire, which ſome call the Shingles, ſome the running-Worm, and others Wild-fire: It is a ſpreading and winding Inflammation, of two ſorts, viz.

Herpes Miliaris, or Puſtularis, a ſort of yellow Bladders, or Wheals, like Millet-Seed, that ſeize the Skin, cauſe much itching, and turn to eating Ulcers: And Herpes Exedens, which not only conſumes the Skin, but alſo the Muſcles underneath.

Herring, a well known Sea-fiſh.

Herring-buſs, a ſort of Veſſel proper for the Herring-Fiſhery.

Herring-cob, a young Herring.

Herring-ſilver, Money formerly paid as an Equivalent for the Cuſtom of giving a certain Quantity of Herrings for the Proviſion of a Religious Houſe.

Herſe, (Fr.) a Port-cullice, a Harrow: In Fortification a kind of Lattice in form of a Harrow, beſet with Iron Spikes, which is uſually hung up by a Cord over a Gate, and let down in caſe of Surprize, or when the firſt Gate is broken with a Petard, to ſtop up the Paſſage: Theſe Herſes are alſo often laid in the Roads, or on Breaches, to hinder the March of Horſe and Foot.

Herſillon, a Plank Ten or Twelve Foot long ſtuck full of Nails, with the points up, for the ſame uſe as the Herſe.

Heſiod, a Greek Poet, of whom it is in diſpute whether he or Homer were more ancient.

Heſitancy, (Lat.) uncertainty, doubting, or wavering.

To Heſitate, to ſtammer, or falter, to hum and haw, to be at a ſtand or ſtay, to ſtick in the Briers, to be in ſuſpenſe, or at a loſs what to ſay or do.

Heſitation, the Act of heſitating, faltering, &c.

Heſperian Gardens, Places which, as the Poets feigned, were beſet with Trees that bore Golden Apples, which were kept by a watchful Dragon.

Heſperides, certain Iſlands in the Atlantick Ocean much Celebrated by the Ancients, but which and where they were is hard to determine.

Heſperis, a kind of Wall-flower, Dame-Violet, or Rocket.

Heſperium Malum, an Orange, or Lemmon.

Heſperus, the Evening-Star, or Evening-Tide. See Phoſphorus.

Heſts, (old Word) Commands, or Decrees.

Hetæriarcha, (Gr.) an Abbot or Prior, the Head of a College or Hall, the Warden of a Corporation or Company.

Hete, (old Word) promiſed.

Heteroclites, (Gr. in Grammar) Nouns that vary in their Gender or Declenſion, being either defective or redundant, and not limited by the ordinary Rules.

Heterocrania, a Diſeaſe, Pain, or Swelling on one ſide of the Head.

Heterodox, being of another or different Opinion or Judgment from what is generally receiv'd, eſpecially with reſpect to Matters of Religion.

Heterogeneal, or Heterogeneous, that is of another Kind, Nature, or Quality.

Heterogeneal Light, (among Naturaliſts) is ſaid to be that which conſiſts of Rays capable of being refracted, according to different Degrees: Thus the common Light of the Sun and Clouds is Heterogeneal, as being a mixture of all ſorts of Rays.

Heterogeneal Nouns, (in Grammar) ſuch as have one Gender in the Singular Number and another in the Plural; as Pergamus, Pergama; Epulum, Epulæ, &c.

Heterogeneal Numbers, (in Arithm.) mixt Numbers, that conſiſt of Integers, or whole ones, and of Fractions.

Heterogeneal Surds, (in Algebra) ſuch as have different Radical Signs.

Heterogeneous Particles, (in Philoſ.) are ſuch as are of different Kinds or Qualities, of which generally all Bodies are compoſed.

Heterogenium, a Term us'd by Phyſicians when any thing diſproportionate is mingled with the Blood and Spirits, as in Feavers, Swimmings of the Head, Apoplexies. &c.

Heterorhythmus, a Life unſuitable to the Age of thoſe that live; as if a Young Man ſhould uſe an Old Man's Way of Living, and on the contrary: The Word is alſo apply'd to Pulſes, when they beat differently in Diſeaſes.

Heteroſcii, (in Geogr.) People that live between the Equator and the two Tropicks in either of the Temperate Zones, who have their Shadows at Noon caſt on a contrary ſide towards one of the Poles, viz. that which is above their Horizon.

Heth, (Heb. Fear, or aſtoniſhed) Canaan's Brother, from whom deſcended the People call'd Hittites.

To Hette, (old Word) to commit, or dedicate.

Heurts. See Hurts.

To Hew, to cut Stones or Timber.

Hewers. See Conders.

Hewmond, (old Word) ſhining.

Hexachord, (Gr.) an Interval or Concord in Muſick, commonly call'd a Sixth.

Hexaedron, (in Geom.) a ſolid Figure, conſiſting of ſix equal Sides or Faces; a Cube or Parallepiped bounded by ſix equal Squares.

Hexaemeron, (among Divines) the ſix Days Work of Creation.

Hexagium, or Exagium, the Weight of four Scruples.

Hexagon, (in Geom. and Fortif.) a Figure that has ſix equal Sides, and as many Angles, each capable of being fenced with a regular Baſtion.

Hexagonal, belonging to a Hexagon.

Hexameter Verſe, (in Grammar) a Greek or Latin Verſe conſiſting of ſix Feet. See Heroick Verſe.

Hexapla, a Work of Origen, a Learned Churchman of Alexandria, in ſix Columns, containing four Greek Tranſlations of the Bible, with the Original, both in Hebrew and Greek Characters.

Hexaptoton, (in Grammar) a Noun declined with ſix Caſes.

Hexaſtichon, an Epigram or Stanza, conſiſting of ſix Verſes.

Hexaſtichus, a kind of Barley that has ſix rows of Corn in one Ear.

Hexaſtylos, or Hexaſtyle, (in ancient Architect.) a Building that had ſix Pillars in the Face before, and as many behind; being the ſame with Pſeudodipteron.

Hexis, a Habit or Conſtitution of Body.

Heybote. See Haybote.

Heyrat, the American Badger, a wild Beaſt of the Bigneſs of a Cat, that is very greedy of Honey, and diligently ſearches for the Bees-neſts in Trees.

Heyrs, (in Husbandry) young Timber-trees, uſually left for Standils in the felling of Woods or Copſes.

Hezekiah, or Hizkiah, (Heb.) a pious King of Judah.

Hibiſcum, or Hibiſcus, (Gr.) the Herb Marſh-mallows, of known Vertue againſt the Stone and Gravel.

Hibris, a Pig bred of a wild Boar and a tame Sow; alſo one who is born of Parents of different Countries; a Mongrel.

Hichel. See Hatchel.

Hickwall, or Hickway, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Wood-pecker or Wry-neck.

Hidage, or Hide-gild, a certain Tax which upon extraordinary Occaſions us'd to be paid for every Hide of Land.

Hide, the Skin of a Beaſt.

Hide-bound, a Diſeaſe of Cattel, when the Skin cleaves to their Sides: In Husbandry Trees are likewiſe ſaid to be Hide-bound, when the Bark ſticks too cloſe; and the Word is alſo figuratively apply'd to a cloſe-fiſted niggardly Fellow.

Hide of Land, ſuch a Quantity of Land as might be till'd with one Plough in a Year, but it is not certainly known what number of Acres it contain'd; ſome ſay 100, others 120, and according to Beda as much as will maintain a Family: It is alſo call'd a Plough-land, Yard-land, or Ox-gang of Land.

Hide and Gain, an old Law-term for arable or plough'd Land.

Hide-lands, ſuch Lands as belong to a Hide or Manſion-houſe.

Hidell, (in Stat. 1. H. 7.) a Sanctuary or Place of Protection.

Hideous, (Fr.) terrible to the Sight, dreadful, frightful.

Hiera, (Gr.) a Garland, which two in a Race running for, if neither out-ran the other, was conſecrated to the Gods.

Hiera Picra, a purging Electuary invented by Galen, and made of Aloes, Spikenard, Saffron, Maſtick, Honey, &c.

Hiera cum Agarico, a kind of purging Pill made of Agarick, a Muſhroom that grows on the Larch-tree.

Hieracion, the Herb Hawk-weed.

Hieracites, a precious Stone of the Colour of an Hawk.

Hierarchical, belonging to the Hierarchy or Government of the Church.

Hierarchy, Sacred Government, or Church-Government: Alſo the Holy Order of Angels, conſiſting of nine Degrees, viz. Seraphims, Cherubims, Thrones, Dominations, Principalities, Powers, Virtues, and Arch-Angels.

Hieratick Paper, (among the Ancients) the fineſt ſort of Paper ſet a-part only for Religious Uſes.

Hierobotane, the Herb Vervain.

Hieroglyphical, or Hieroglyphick, belonging to Hieroglyphicks.

Hieroglyphicks, certain Sacred or Myſterious Characters, Figures or Images of Creatures, under which the ancient Egyptians couch'd their Principles of Philoſophy, Hiſtory and Policy: whence the Word is now taken for any Symbol, Emblem, or myſtical Figure.

Hieroglyphick Marks, (in Palmeſtry) thoſe winding Lines and Wrinkles in the Hand, by which the Profeſſours of that vain Science pretend to foretell ſtrange Things.

Hierom, or Jerom, (in Lat. Hieronymus) one of the ancient Fathers of the Church: The Word in Greek ſignifies Holy Name.

Hieronymians, an Order of Monks eſtabliſh'd by St. Jerom; There were alſo certain Hermites ſo call'd, whoſe Order was founded A. D. 1365. by one Granel of Florence.

Hierophantæ, Prieſts at Athens in Greece, who were the Overſeers of Sacrifices and Holy Things.

Hig-taper, a ſort of Herb.

High-creſted, or High-rigged, a Term in Archery. See Shoulder-head.

Hight, (old Word) named.

Higra, the raging of the Waves of the River Severn, below Glouceſter.

Hilary-Term. See Term.

Hildebert, (Germ. famous Lord) the proper Name of a Man.

Hilkiah, (Heb. the Lord's Gentleneſs) the Father of King Eliakim; alſo the Name of ſeveral other Perſons in Holy Scripture.

Hillock, a little Hill.

Himantopus, (Gr.) crump-footed; alſo a kind of Bird.

To Himple, (Sax.) a North-Country Word for to halt or go lame.

Hin, an Hebrew Meaſure, containing the ſixth part of an Epha, or 1 Wine Gallon and 2 Pints.

Hind, a Female Stag, or a Beaſt of the Foreſt the firſt Year.

Hind-berries, the Fruit of the Raſberry-tree.

Hine, or Hind, (Sax.) a Servant, or one of the Family, more eſpecially a Servant at Husbandry; and the Maſter-hine, is he that overſees the reſt.

Hinefare. See Heinfare.

Hinna, (Lat.) a She-hind or Mule.

Hinnulus, a young Hind, a Hind-calf, a Fawn; alſo a little Mule.

Hinnus, a Mule bred of an Horſe and a She-aſs; a little Nag; a Hind.

Hip, the upper part of the Thigh.

Hip-wort, a kind of Herb.

Hip, or Hep, a Berry, the Fruit of the greateſt Bramble.

Hippace, (Gr.) a ſort of Cheeſe made of Mare's Milk, good againſt the Bloody-flux.

Hippelaphus, a Beaſt part Horſe, part Stag.

Hippeus, or Equinus, a Comet or Blazing-ſtar, with Beams like a Horſe's Main, ſometimes ſpread from the Front or Fore-part, and at other times from the hinder-part: Alſo a kind of Crab-fiſh, a Sea-horſeman.

Hippiades, Images repreſenting Women on Horſe-back.

Hippice, an Herb which being put into a Horſe's Mouth keeps him from Hunger and Thirſt.

Hippicon, a Greek Meaſure containing four Furlongs.

Hippocamelus, a monſtrous Beaſt, part Horſe, part Camel.

Hippocampa, a Sea-horſe; alſo a kind of Water-Inſect: In Anatomy, the Proceſſes or Channels of the upper or foremoſt Ventricles of the Brain.

Hippocentaurs, Monſters which Poets and Painters have repreſented as half Men, half Horſes. See Centaur.

Hippocras, a kind of Artificial Wine made of Claret or White-wine, and ſeveral ſorts of Spice.

Hippocrates, a famous Phyſician of the Iſland of Cous, who was highly eſteem'd by Artaxerxes King of Perſia, and counted the Prince of Phyſick: He dy'd in the 104th Year of his Age, and all the time of his Life he enjoy'd a perfect and vigorous Health.

Hippocrates's Sleeve, a Woollen Bag like a Sugar-loaf, pointed at bottom, with which ſpiced Wines, Medicines, and other Liquors are ſtrain'd.

Hippocratia, a Feſtival kept in Honour of Neptune, during which Horſes and Mules were led along the Streets of Rome, richly harneſs'd and adorn'd with Garlands of Flowers.

Hippocratica Facies. See Facies Hippocratica.

Hippogloſſa, or Hippogloſſum, the Herb Horſe-tongue, Tongue-blade or Tongue-wort.

Hippoglottion, Laurel of Alexandria, or Tongue-Laurel, good againſt Ruptures, and to raiſe the Palate of the Mouth.

Hippolapathum, Monks-Rhubarb or Garden-Patience, a kind of Dock, ſometimes as high as a Man; the Root of which purges Choler and watery Humours.

Hippomanes, Thorn-apple, a kind of Herb, which if Horſes eat, it makes them mad; alſo the venomous Iſſue of a Mare, when ſhe is ready to be cover'd; alſo a black Fleſh-kernel, in the Forehead of a young Colt, which the Mare bites off as ſoon as ſhe has foal'd: Alſo a famous Poiſon among the Ancients, one of the main Ingredients that were put into the Compoſition of Love-Potions.

Hippomarathrum, wild and great Fennel, Fennel-giant.

Hippophaes, a kind of Burr or Teaſel with which Shear-men dreſs their Cloath.

Hippophæſton, an Herb growing upon the Fullers-thorn, good for the Falling-ſickneſs.

Hippopotamus, the River-Horſe living chiefly in the Nile and Indus; having a cloven Foot like an Ox; the Back, Main and Tail of a Horſe, and Teeth like a wild Boar.

Hippoſelinum, the Herb Lovage or Alexanders, good in Broth in the Spring-time, to cleanſe the Blood, and ſtrengthen the Stomach.

Hippuris, the Herb Horſe-tail, or Shave-graſs.

Hippurus, the Horſe-tail Fiſh, or a kind of Lobſter.

Hippus, an Horſe; alſo the Sea-Horſeman, a ſort of Crab-fiſh, ſaid to run as faſt as an Horſe: Alſo an Indiſpoſition of the Eyes, when they continually tremble and twinkle, as it happens in Riding.

Hircibarba, (Lat.) Goats-beard, a Sallet-herb, good for Conſumptions, Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, Coughs, &c.

Herciſcunda, (old Law-Term) the Diviſion of an Eſtate among the Heirs.

Hirciptilus, a Man that has ſhag briſtly Hair like a Goat.

Hircocervus, a Stag bearded like a Goat.

Hirculatio, (in ancient Husbandry) a Diſeaſe or Fault in a Vine, when it bears no Fruit, but grows all into Branches and Wood.

Hirculus, a kind of Spikenard, an Herb.

Hircus, a Buck-goat; alſo the rank Smell of the Arm-holes; alſo a fixed Star ſo call'd, the ſame with Capella: Alſo a Name given by ſome Writers, to a ſort of Comet encompaſs'd with a kind of Main, ſeeming to be rough and hairy; alſo the Corner of the Eye otherwiſe termed Canthus: Alſo a Knob in the hollow of the Ear. See Tragus.

Hirquus, the ſame as Hircus in the firſt and laſt Senſe; alſo one that is goggle or ſquint-ey'd.

Hirſe, a kind of Grain otherwiſe call'd Millet.

Hirſt, or Hurſt, a little Wood.

Hirudo, (Lat.) the Horſe-leech or Blood-ſucker, an Inſect; alſo a riotous Spender and Waſter.

Hirundinaria, Celandine, Swallow-wort, or Tetter-wort; the Root of which being good to drive out Poiſon and provoke Sweat, is chiefly us'd for the Plague and other infectious Diſeaſes; alſo the Herb Money-wort.

Hirundo, a Swallow, a Sea-ſwallow or Sea-bat; alſo the Swallow or great-headed Flying-fiſh: In Anatomy, the Hollowneſs in bending the Arm; and ſome take it for a Woman's Privities.

Hirundo Apus, the Martin, or Martlet; a Bird whoſe Legs are ſo ſhort, that they are of little Uſe.

Hiſpanicum Olus, (Lat.) the Herb Spinage.

† Hiſpid, rough-haired, briſtly, ſhaggy.

Hiſtorian, (Gr.) one that writes or is skill'd in Hiſtory.

Hiſtorical, belonging to Hiſtory.

Hiſtorice, that part of Grammar which explains the meaning of Authors.

Hiſtoriographer, an Hiſtorian, a Writer of Hiſtories, eſpecially ſuch a one as is appointed for that purpoſe, by a Prince or State.

Hiſtory, properly a Narrative of Matters of Fact, of which the Relater was an Eye-witneſs; a particular Account of Actions and Things worthy of Note; a Deſcription of the Nature and Qualities of Living-creatures, Plants, Minerals, &c.

Hiſtos, an Engine with a Croſs-beam and a Pulley to let down a Ladder.

Hiſtrio, (Lat.) a Stage-player, an Actor of Farces, a Buffoon.

Hiſtrionical, or Hiſtrionick, belonging to an Actor, Player-like.

To Hitch, to wriggle or move forward by Degrees; to knock the Legs in going as a Horſe does: In Sea-Language, to catch hold of any thing with a Rope or Hook.

Hitch the Tackles into the Rings of the Boat, an Expreſſion us'd by Sea-men, when they would have the Boat hoiſed in; and Hitch the Fiſh-hook, to the Flook of the Anchor, when they are abou to weigh the Anchor.

Hitchel. See Hatchel.

Hithe. See Hythe.

Hive-droſs, or Bee-glue, a kind of Wax which Bees make at the Mouth of their Hive, to keep out the Cold.

Hlaford, or Laford, (Sax.) a Lord.

Hleafdian, or Leafdian, a Lady.

Hoactzin, a Bird of the Bigneſs of a Hen, which feeds chiefly on Serpents, and is thence call'd by our Sea-men, the Snake-eater of America.

Hoan. See Hone.

Hoary, gray-headed, as old Men are; cover'd with Hoar-froſt, mouldy.

Hoaſt-men, an ancient Gild or Company of Dealers in Sea-coal, at Newcaſtle upon Tine.

Hob, (old Word) a Clown or Country-fellow.

To Hobble, or Hobble along, to limp or go lame; a Verſe is alſo ſaid to hobble, that does not run ſmooth in the pronouncing of it.

Hobblers, or Hobelers, certain Iriſh Knights that us'd to ſerve upon Hobbies; a ſort of light Horſemen: Alſo Men who by their holding of particular Lands, were bound to keep a little light Nag, to give notice of any Invaſion by Enemies or other Perils on the Sea-coaſt.

Hobby, a little Iriſh Nag; alſo a kind of Hawk, that preys upon Doves, Larks, &c.

Hobgoblin, an imaginary Apparition, Spirit, or Fairy.

Hoboy. See Hautboy.

Hoca, a Game at Cards ſo call'd.

Hoccus Salis, (Lat. in Doomſday-book) a Hoke, Hole, or leſſer Pit of Salt.

Hock, the ſmall end of a Gammon of Bacon; alſo a ſort of German Wine commonly call'd Youn and Old Hock.

Hock-tide, (Germ. a High-Time) a certain Feſtival anciently Celebrated by the Engliſh on the ſecon Tueſday after Eaſter-Week, in Memory of the ſudden Death of King Hardicanute, and with him the Downfall of the Danes.

Hock-Tueſday-Money, was a Duty paid to the Landlord, that his Tenants and Bondmen might Solemnize that Day.

Hocketeur, or Hoqueteur, (old French Law Word) a decay'd Squire, a Knight of the Poſt, Shifter.

Hocus-pocus, a made Word ſignifying a Juggler, a ſhewer of Tricks by Leger-de-main, or ſlight o Hand; alſo the Term commonly us'd by thoſe tha ſhew ſuch Tricks.

Hod, a kind of Tray made uſe of by Brick-layers to carry Morter in.

Hod-man, a Labourer that bears a Hod: Alſo a young Scholar admitted from Weſtminſter-School to be a Student in Chriſt's-Church College in Oxford.

Hodge-podge, Hotch-potch, or Hotch-pot, a Diſh of Meat cut into pieces and ſtew'd together with Herbs, Roots, &c. Alſo any kind of cold mixture of Things. In a Law-ſenſe Hotch-pot is a Commixture, or putting together of Lands of ſeveral Tenures, for the more equal Diviſion of them.

Hodgee, (Perſ.) a Prieſt, or Holy Man among the Perſians.

Hoday, God, a Word often us'd by the Turks.

Hoedus, (Lat.) a Kid, or young Goat.

Hog, a Swine, a well known Beaſt; in many Northern parts of England it is taken for a young Weather-Sheep.

Hog-grubber, a hoggiſh niggardly Fellow.

Hog-louſe, a kind of Inſect.

Hog-ſteer, (among Hunters) a wild Boar Three Years old.

Hogs-beans, Hogs-bread, and Hogs-fennel, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Hogan Mogan, (Dutch, High and Mighty) a Title generally given to the States of the United Provinces of the Netherlands.

Hogenhine, (Sax. Law-Term) he that comes to an Inn or Houſe as a Gueſt, and lyes there the third Night, after which he is accounted one of the Family, and if he break the King's Peace his Hoſt muſt be anſwerable for him: In the Laws of King Edward, ſet forth by Lambert, he is call'd Agenhine. See Third-night-awn-hine.

Hoggacius, or Hoggaſter, (in old Latin Records) a young Sheep of the ſecond Year.

Hogget, or Hogrel, a Country-Word for ſuch a Sheep.

Hogi, Tranſcribers of Books among the Turks, to whom Printing is forbid.

Hogo, (Fr.) a high Savour, or Reliſh, a ſtrong Smell in Meats.

Hogſhead, a Meaſure or Veſſel of Wine or Oil, containing the fourth part of a Tun, or 63 Gallons. In Fortification Hogſheads fill'd with Earth ſerve to make Breaſt-Works, to cover the Men, inſtead of Gabions and Earth-Bags.

Hoiden, a clowniſh ill-bred Wench.

To Hoiſe, or Hoiſt, to heave, or lift up; among Sea-men to raiſe or pull up any thing into the Ship; thus they ſay, hoiſe up the Yard, hoiſe the Water in, &c.

Hoker, (old Word) Peeviſhneſs, and hokerly, frowardly.

Holce, (Gr.) the Weight of a Dram.

Holcus, Wall-Barley, a kind of Grain.

Hold, the taking of a thing; alſo a fortify'd place: Among Hunters a Covert or Shelter for Deer, &c. In Sea-Affairs that part of a Ship which is between the Keelſon and the lower Deck, where the Goods, Stores, and Proviſions, are laid up.

To Clear the Hold, is to lay the part handſome.

To Rummage the Hold, is to look what is in it.

To Stow Goods in the Hold, is to put them into, and conveniently diſpoſe them in the Hold.

Hold-faſt, an Iron Hook in ſhape of the Letter S fix'd in a Wall to ſupport it; alſo a Joyner's Tool: It is alſo commonly taken for a griping covetous Wretch.

Hold-off, a Sea-Term, us'd when the Cable is heav'd at the Capſtan; for if it be great and ſtiff, or have lain long in a ſlimy or oazy Ground, it ſurges, or ſlips back, unleſs the Men keep it cloſe to the Whelps, and then they hold it faſt with Nippers, or elſe bring it alſo to the Jeer-Capſtan; which Work is call'd holding-off.

To Hold Water, (among Mariners and Watermen) is to ſtay a Boat by a particular way of turning the Oar.

Holippe, (Lat. in Phyſick) little Cakes or Wafers made of Wheat-flower and Sugar, temper'd with a Medicinal Liquor.

Holland, or Holland-Cloth, a kind of Linnen Cloth made in that Country.

Hollow, or Voided Baſtion. See Baſtion.

Hollow Square, a Term in Fortification. See Square.

Hollow Tower. See Tower.

Holly-tree, a Shrub that is green both in Winter and Summer, and therefore much in requeſt about Chriſtmas for the decking of Windows, &c.

Holm, a kind of Oak-Tree: In old Records an Hill, Iſland, or Fenny Ground, encompaſs'd with little Brooks; whence Steep-holms in the River Severn, Flat-holms, Mill-holms, &c.

Holocauſt, (Gr.) a Sacrifice that is wholly conſum'd upon the Altar, a whole Burnt-Offering.

Hologrammon, or Hologrammaton Teſtamentum, a Will written all with the Teſtator's own Hand.

Holometer, a Mathematical Inſtrument, for the eaſie meaſuring of any thing whatever, invented by Abel Tull.

Holoſteon, the Herb Stitch-wort; alſo a ſort of Fiſh.

Holothuria, a kind of Sea-fiſh full of Prickles.

Holſom, (among Sailers) a Ship is ſaid To be holſom in the Sea when ſhe will hull, try, and ride well, without rolling or labouring.

Holſters, a ſort of Leathern Caſes for a pair of Piſtols to be put in when carry'd on Horſeback.

Holt, (Sax.) a ſmall Wood, or Grove; whence the Street call'd Holborn in London had its Name.

Holybut, or Helbut, a ſort of Sea-fiſh.

Holyhock, or Hollioak, a kind of Garden-Mallows, with beautiful Flowers, both ſingle and double.

Holy-rood-Day, a Feſtival obſerv'd by Roman Catholicks, upon Account of the Exaltation or lifting up of our Bleſſed Saviour's Croſs, Rood being an old Engliſh Word for a Croſs.

Holy-Roſe, an Herb having Leaves almoſt like Sage, but whiter, the Flowers of which fall preſently after they are blown.

Holy-Thiſtle, a Plant, whoſe Root is very wholſome.

Holy-Water ſprinkle, a Term us'd by Hunters for the Tail of a Fox.

Homage, that Duty, Reſpect, and Submiſſion, which is owing to a King a Maſter, or Superiour; alſo the Oath of Service and Loyalty which a Vaſſal or Tenant makes to his Lord: Alſo a Jury in a Court Baron, ſo call'd as generally conſiſting of ſuch as owe Homage to the Lord of the Fee.

Homage Anceſtrel, is where a Man and his Anceſtors have held their Land of the Lord and his Anceſtors by Homage Time out of Mind.

Homager, one that does, or is bound to do Homage, as the Biſhop of Soder, in the Iſle of Man, is ſaid to be Homager to the Earl of Derby.

Homagio Reſpectuando, a Writ directed to the Eſcheator, requiring him to deliver Poſſeſſion of Lands to the Heir that is of full Age, notwithſtanding his Homage not done.

Homagium reddere, (in the Civil Law) to renounce Homage, when the Vaſſal made a Solemn Declaration of diſowning and defying his Lord, for which there was a ſet Form and Method.

Hombre, (Span. a Man) a Game at Cards among the Spaniards, ſo call'd becauſe whoever has the better in it ſays, Jo ſoy l'hombre, i. e. I am the Man.

Home, (Sax.) Houſe, or place of Abode.

Home-ſtall, a Manſion-Houſe, or Seat in the Country.

Homely, ugly, diſagreeable, courſe, mean.

Homer, a Famous Greek Poet, who wrote an incomparable Poem concerning the Wars of Troy, called Ilias, and another of the Voyages of Ulyſſes, under the Title of Odyſſeis.

Homer, a twofold Meaſure among the Hebrews, one liquid, and the other dry, the former containing three Pints and a half, and the other fourteen Buſhels.

Homeſoken, or Hamſoken, (Sax. Law-Term) Freedom from an Amercement or Fine for entring Houſes violently, and without a Licenſe; or rather a Power granted by the King to ſome Perſon for the Puniſhment of ſuch an Offence.

Homicide, (Lat.) Manſlaughter, or the killing of a Man, which is either Voluntary or Caſual; alſo a Perſon who commits that Crime.

Homicide Voluntary, or wilful Murder, is that which is deliberate, and committed of a ſet Mind and Purpoſe, being either with precedent Malice or without.

Homicide Caſual, is either meerly caſual or mix'd, the former being when one Man kills another by pure Miſchance, as in caſe of an Ax ſlipping out of his Hand as he is felling a Tree; but 'tis accounted mixt when the Act is accompany'd with Careleſsneſs, or ſome other unwarrantable Circumſtance. See Miſadventure, Chance-medley, Manſlaughter, and Murder.

Homiliſt, (Gr.) a Writer of Homilies.

Homily, a Sermon, Exhortation, or plain Diſcourſe made to the People, inſtructing them in Matters of Religion.

Homine Capto in Withernamium, (Lat.) a Writ to take him that has convey'd any Bond-man or Woman out of the Country, ſo that he or ſhe cannot be replevy'd according to Law.

Homine eligendo, ad cuſtodiendam peciam Sigilli pro Mercatoribus editi, a Writ directed to a Corporation for the Choice of a new Man to keep one part of the Seal appointed for Statutes Merchant, when the other Party is dead.

Homine Replegiando, a Writ to Bail a Man out of Priſon.

Homines, (i. e. Men) a Term anciently us'd for a ſort of Feudatary Tenants, who claim'd a Privilege of having their Cauſes and Perſons Try'd only in the Court of their Lord.

Homocentrick, (Gr.) that has the ſame, or a like Center. See Concentrick.

Homœomeria, (in Philoſ.) a likeneſs of Parts.

Homœomerical Principles, certain Principles which, according to Anaxagoras, are in all mix'd Bodies: So that when they become Parts of the Body of a living Creature, they there make ſuch Maſſes and Combinations as are agreeable to their Nature; thus the Sanguinary Particles meeting all together make Blood, the Urinous ones Urine, the Carnous ones Fleſh, &c.

Homœon, (in Rhetorick) a Figure wherein ſome certain likeneſs of a Thing is gather'd from the parts of it; as Sic Oculos, ſic ille Manus, ſic Ora ferebat. Virg.

Homœoptoton, (i. e. falling out alike) a Rhetorical Figure, or Ornament, when divers Clauſes end with like Caſes; as Labor in Negotio, Fortitudo in Periculis, Induſtria in Agendo, Celeritas in Conficiendo, &c.

Homœoteleuton, a Figure wherein ſeveral Members of a Sentence end alike; as He is an Eloquent Man who can invent wittily, remember perfectly, diſpoſe orderly, figure diverſely, pronounce aptly, confirm ſtrongly, and conclude directly.

Homogeneal, or Homogeneous, that is of the ſame kind or ſort, alike with reſpect to Nature, Quality, &c.

Homogeneal Light, (in Philoſ.) is that whoſe Rays are all of one Colour, and capable of the ſame Degree of Refraction, without any mixture of others.

Homogeneal Numbers, (in Arithm.) are thoſe of the ſame Nature and Kind.

Homogeneal Surds, (in Algebra) ſuch as have one common Radical Sign.

Homogeneous Particles, (among Naturaliſts) Particles that are altogether like one another, being all of the ſame Kind, Nature, and Properties; as the ſmall parts of pure Water, or thoſe of the finer Metals, as Gold, Silver, &c. This Term is generally us'd in Oppoſition to Heterogeneous; which ſee.

Homogeneum Comparationis, a Term apply'd by Vieta to ſignify the Abſolute Number in a Quadratick or Cubick Equation, &c. by reaſon that all the Roots, which being multiply'd one into another, do produce the ſaid Abſolute Number, muſt be homogeneous one to another. See Abſolute Number.

Homologal, agreeable, or like to one another.

Homologous, having the ſame Reaſon or Proportion.

Homologous Magnitudes, or Quantities, (in Geom.) thoſe that are proportional, or alike to one another in Reaſon; as if there be the ſame Reaſon of A to B as of C to D, then A is homologous to C, as B to D, ſo that the two Antecedents and the two Conſequents are the homologous Terms in any Proportion.

Homonymous, (in Logick) that under the ſame Name or Word comprehends divers Significations or Senſes, that is of doubtful meaning, equivocal.

Homonymy, when divers Things are ſignify'd by one Word.

Homoplata, or Omoplata, (in Anat.) the Shoulder-blade, a broad Triangular Bone, which makes the breadth of each Shoulder, and lyes upon the upper Ribs behind, as it were a Target; theſe Bones are otherwiſe call'd Scapula, Spatula, and Scapula aperta.

Homotona, a continu'd Feaver, that always acts alike.

Homouſion, (in Divinity) Conſubſtantiality, a being of the ſame Subſtance or Eſſence.

Homuncionitæ, (Lat.) certain Hereticks that deny'd the Godhead of Chriſt.

Hondhabend, (Law-Term) a Circumſtance of manifeſt Theft, when one is taken with the Thing ſtollen in his Hand, from the Saxon Word Hond, a Hand, and the Latin, habens, having.

Hone, a fine ſort of Whet-ſtone to ſet a Razor or Pen-Knife.

Honeſt, (Lat.) Good, Vertuous, Juſt, Upright, Sincere, Chaſte.

Honeſty, Uprightneſs, Sincerity, Chaſtity, &c. alſo the Name of a Flower.

Honey-comb, (in Gunnery) a Flaw in the Metal of a piece of Ordnance, when it is ill caſt, over much worn, and rugged on the inſide.

Honey-combed, that has ſuch Flaws, which are of dangerous Conſequence, leſt any Sparks of Fire ſhould be lodg'd therein.

Honey-moon, the firſt ſweet Month of Matrimony, a Term commonly apply'd to new Marry'd Perſons, who loving paſſionately at firſt ſoon cool in their mutual Affection.

Honey-ſuckle, the ſweet-ſcented Flower of a Shrub call'd Woodbind.

Honey-wort, a kind of Herb.

Honi ſoit qui mal y penſe, (Fr.) the Motto of the moſt Noble Order of Knights of the Garter, ſignifying Blame, or Evil to him that Evil thinks.

Hondhabendthief, (Sax.) a Thief taken with Hond-habend, i. e. having the Thing ſtollen in his Hand.

Honour, (Lat.) Reſpect or Reverence paid to one, Eſteem, Reputation, Glory, Credit, or Ornament; alſo Honeſty, Vertue, Chaſtity, Modeſty.

Honours, Dignities, Preferments. In a Law-ſenſe the Nobler ſort of Seignories, or Lordſhips, upon which other inferiour Lordſhips and Manours depend; as the Honours of Hampton-Court, Greenwich, Windſor, &c.

To Honour, to reſpect or reverence, to value or eſteem, to favour.

To Honour a Bill of Exchange, (among Bankers) to pay it in due time.

Honour-Courts, Courts held within the Bounds of an Honour.

Honour-Point, the upper part of an Eſcutcheon, between the Feſs-point and the middle Chief.

Honourable, worthy of Honour or Credit, Noble, Magnificent, Glorious.

Honourable Amends, a diſgraceful Puniſhment, when an Offender is deliver'd up to the Hangman, who ſtrips him to his Shirt, and after having put a Rope about his Neck, with a Wax Taper in his Hand, leads him to the Court, or before the next Church, where he is bound to beg Pardon of God, the Queen, and the Court, for the Offence he has committed.

Honourary, or Honorary, belonging to Honour, done or beſtow'd as a Mark of Honour.

Honourary Services, (Law-Term) ſuch as relate to the Tenure of Grand Sergeantry, and are commonly joyn'd to ſome Honour.

An Honourary, a Penſion or Salary given to publick Profeſſours of any Art or Science.

Hooks of a Ship, thoſe forked Timbers which are plac'd upright on the Keel both in her Rake and Run.

Hook-Land, or Ope-Land, (in Husbandry) Land plough'd and ſow'd every Year.

Hoonkeawr, (Perſ.) a Title given to the Grand Seignior, which ſignifies a Man of Blood, or one that cauſes Blood.

Hoop, or Houp, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Lapwing; alſo a Country Word for a Meaſure of a Peck.

Hoop-wheel. See Detent-Wheel.

Hooper, a wild Swan.

Hoord, or Hord, a Tribe, Clan, or diſtinct Company among the Tartars.

Hoplochryſm, (Gr.) the applying of a certain Ointment to a Sword or other Weapon, for the curing of any Wound made by it; Weapon-Salve.

Hopomochlion, a kind of Surgeon's Inſtrument, to be us'd for the whole Body.

Hopper, a Veſſel in which Seed-Corn is carry'd at the time of Sowing; alſo the wooden Trough in a Mill, into which the Corn is put to be ground.

To Hopple an Horſe, to tye his Feet with a Rope.

Hops, a Plant that runs up upon Poles, chiefly us'd by Brewers for preſerving Beer, and Dyers for ſome ſort of Dyes.

Hoqueton, (Fr.) a kind of ſhort Coat without Sleeves.

Horæa, (Gr.) ſeaſonable or Summer-Fruits, as Apples, Pears, Plumbs, &c.

Horary, (Lat.) belonging to the Hours, hourly.

Horatius, or Horace, Sirnam'd Flaccus, a Famous Latin Poet, who was highly eſteem'd by the Emperours Auguſtus and Mæcenas.

Horda, (Lat.) a Cow great with Calf.

Hordearea Pruna, Wheaten Plumbs gather'd at Barley-Harveſt, or of the Colour of ripe Barley.

Hordeatum, (in Phyſick) a liquid Medicine made of Barley beaten and boil'd, with the addition of ſuitable ſtrained Liquors, and other Ingredients.

Hordeolum, a ſmall Puſh or Swelling that grows on the Eye-brows, ſo call'd from its reſemblance to a Barley-Corn.

Horderium, (in old Records) a Hord, Treaſury, or Store-houſe.

Hordeum, Barley, a known Grain, which is nouriſhing, and provokes Urine; alſo a little Swelling on the top of the Eye-lid of the bigneſs of a Barley-Corn.

Hore-hound, a kind of Herb.

Horiſmus, (Gr. Definition) a Rhetorical Figure, when a thing is defined, or ſet off to Advantage; as The Labour of Vertue is the true Exerciſe of Pleaſure.

Horizon (in Aſtron.) a great Circle of the Sphere that divides the upper Hemiſphere, or half Compaſs of the Heavens which we ſee, from the lower Hemiſphere, which is under us, and hid from our Sight. This Circle has its Name from the Greek Word Horizo, i. e. to terminate or bound, and is of two ſorts, viz.

The Rational, Real, or True Horizon, which is that Plane which paſſes thro' the Center of the Earth, and divides the Firmament preciſely into two equal parts, whoſe Poles are the Points call'd Zenith and Nadir.

The Apparent, Senſible, or Viſible Horizon, is that great Circle which bounds the Sight of any Perſon, who, being plac'd in a large Plane, or in the midſt of the Sea, looks round about, and by which the Heavens and Earth ſeem to be joyn'd as it were with a kind of Cloſure.

Horizon on the Material Globe or Sphere, is a broad wooden Circle which encompaſſes it about, and repreſents the Rational Horizon, having two Notches in the North and South Parts of it for the Brazen Meridian to ſtand in.

Horizontal, belonging to, or lying even with the Horizon.

Horizontal Dials, ſuch whoſe Planes lye parallel to the Horizon of any Place. See Dial-Planes.

Horizontal Line, any Line drawn parallel to the Horizon upon a Plane.

Horizontal Parallax. See Parallax.

Horizontal Projection, a Projection of the Sphere in Arches of Circles, otherwiſe call'd Stereographick, wherein the Sphere is preſs'd into the Plane of the Horizon, and the Meridians and Parallels of the Sphere deſcribed on it. See Projection.

Horizontal Superficies, (in Fortif.) ſignifies the plain Field, that lyes upon a level, without any riſing or ſinking.

Horizontal Range, (in Gunnery) the Level-range of a piece of Ordnance, being the Line it deſcribes parallel to the Horizon, or the Horizontal Line.

Horminodes, a precious Stone, of a greeniſh Colour, like Clary, with a Circle about it of a Gold-Colour.

Horminum, the Herb Clary, good for a cold Stomach, and to ſtrengthen the Reins.

Hormus, (among the Ancients) a kind of Dance of Boys and Girls, wherein the Boy led up with Manly and Warlike Poſtures, and the Girl follow'd with ſoft and modeſt Steps, to repreſent an Harmony of two Vertues, Power and Temperance.

Horn of Plenty. See Cornu-copia.

Horn with Horn, (old Law-Phraſe) the feeding together of Bulls, Cows, or other Horned Beaſts, that are allow'd to run upon the ſame Common.

Horn-beak, a kind of Fiſh.

Horn-beam, a Tree, the Wood of which is very hard, and fit for Fewel.

Horn-beam Pollengers, Trees of about Twenty Years Growth, that have been often lopp'd, and upon that Account not Tithable.

Horn-fly, an American Inſect, having two Snouts like an Elephant, and painted all over by Nature with an admirable diverſity of Colours.

Horn-geld, (Sax.) a Tax within the Bounds.

Horn-owl, or Horn-coot, a Bird of Prey.

Horn-work, (in Fortif.) an Out-work, the Head of which is ſtrengthen'd by two Demi-Baſtions, made in form of Horns, and joyn'd by a Courtin, being cloſ'd by parallel ſides, that end at the Gorge of the Work.

Hornet, a kind of large Fly that ſtings Horſes, &c.

Hornotinus, (Lat.) a Fawn, or Hind-Calf.

Horodix, (Gr.) a kind of Dial or Inſtrument to ſhew how the Hours paſs away.

Horological, belonging to a Clock, or Dial.

Horologiography, the Art of making or treating of the Properties of Dials, Clocks, &c.

Horologium, a Clock, Dial, Watch, or other Inſtrument to meaſure Time, and ſhew the Hours of the Day or Night.

Horometry, the Art of meaſuring or dividing Hours, and keeping Account of Time.

Horopter, (in Opticks) a right Line drawn thro' the Point of Concourſe, parallel to that which joyns the Center of the Eye.

Horoſcope, (in Aſtrol.) a Scheme or Figure of the Twelve Houſes or Signs of the Zodiack, in which are obſerv'd the Diſpoſition of the Heaven and Stars, in order to foretel Men's Fortune; alſo the Degree of the Aſcendant, or the Star riſing above the Horizon, at that inſtant, a Queſtion is put, a Perſon born, or any thing enquired for: But the Word is moſt properly taken for the Aſcendant, or firſt Houſe, being that part of the Zodiack which is riſing when the Figure is made. Alſo the Name of a Mathematical Inſtrument in form of a Planiſphere, invented by John Paduanus.

Horrible, (Lat.) hideous, gaſtly, frightful, immoderate, or exceſſive.

Horrid, dreadful, terrible, grievous, heinous.

Horrifica Febris, (Lat.) a Feaver that cauſes the Patient to fall into ſhaking Fits and horrible Agonies; the ſame as Phricodes.

Horrour, Dread, Fright, a trembling for Fear; a violent Averſion or Hatred: Among Phyſicians 'tis taken for a ſhivering and trembling of the Skin over the whole Body, with a Chilneſs after it.

Hors de ſon Fee, (Fr. Law-Term) an Exception to quaſh an Action brought for Rent iſſuing out of certain Land, by one who pretends to be the Lord, or for ſome Cuſtom or Services; for if it can be juſtified that the Land is without the Compaſs of his Fee, the Action falls.

Horſe, a well known labouring Beaſt: In the Art of War a Body of Men that ſerve on Horſe-back; as The Horſe fought well, the Horſe March, &c. Alſo a wooden Frame to dry waſh'd Linnen upon. In Sea-Affairs a Rope faſten'd to one of the Fore-maſt Shrowds, and let thro' the Pendant of the Sprit-ſail Sheats, to keep thoſe Sheats clear from the Anchor-flooks; alſo a Rope made faſt to the Shrowds, to preſerve him that heaves out the Lead there from falling into the Sea: The Wapp likewiſe, with which the Shrowds are ſet taught, or ſtiff, has the ſame Name; and thoſe little ſhort Wapps, which are ſeized to the Top-maſt and Top-gallant-maſt Stay, wherein the Bowlings of the Top-ſail and Top-gallant-ſail are let thro', are alſo call'd Horſes.

Horſe-foot, or Horſe-hoof, a ſort of Herb.

Horſe-heal, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Elecampane.

Horſe-meaſures, a Rod of Box to ſlide out of a Cane, with a Square at the end, being divided into Hands and Inches, to meaſure the Height of Horſes.

Horſe-ſhoe, (in Fortif.) a Work of a round or oval Figure, border'd with a Parapet, which is uſually rais'd in the Moat of a Marſhy Place, or in low Grounds, or elſe to ſecure a Gate, or to cover a Body of Men againſt Surprizes, &c.

Horſe-tail, an Herb, good for healing inward Wounds or Ulcers.

Horſe-Twitchers. See Barnacles.

Hort-yard, (old Word) a Garden-yard, an Orchard.

Horticulture, (Lat.) the Art of Tilling or dreſſing Gardens.

Hortolan. See Ortolan.

Hoſanna, (Heb. ſave I beſeech thee) a ſolemn Acclamation us'd by the Jews in their Feaſt of Tabernacles.

Hoſpitable, (Lat.) uſing Hoſpitality, Friendly, Courteous.

Hoſpital, properly an Houſe of Charity founded by the Prince or State, for the Entertainment and Relief of Poor, Sick, Impotent, or Aged Perſons; an Alms-houſe.

Hoſpitalers, a Religious Order of Knights ſo call'd, becauſe they built an Hoſpital at Jeruſalem for the Reception of thoſe that came to viſit the Holy Places, undertaking to guard and protect ſuch Pilgrims in their Travels.

Hoſpitality, a being well diſpoſed to entertain, or relieve Strangers.

Hoſt, (Fr.) one that receives Strangers, an Inn-keeper, or Landlord: Among Roman Catholicks the Conſecrated Bread or Wafer at the Communion: Alſo an Army, or great Body of Soldiers, as The Lord of Hoſts, an Expreſſion much us'd in the Old Teſtament.

Hoſtage, a Pledge of War, a Perſon left or given as Surety for the true Performance of the Articles of a Treaty.

Hoſtelagium, (in ancient Deeds) a Right to receive Lodging and Entertainment, reſerv'd by many Lords in the Houſes of their Tenants.

Hoſteler, (in old Statutes) an Inn-keeper, or Innholder.

Hoſteſs, the Landlady, or good Wife of an Inn, or Victualling-Houſe.

Hoſtia, (Lat.) a Sacrifice among the Romans for the getting, or for having obtain'd Victory over Enemies: In our old Records the Conſecrated Hoſt, Bread, or Wafer, in the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper.

Hoſtile, Enemy like; as They ſet upon us in a hoſtile manner.

Hoſtility, the State or Practice of Enemies, Enmity.

Hoſtillaria, or Hoſpitularia, (in old Latin Records) a Room or Place in Religious Houſes where Gueſts and Strangers were receiv'd, for which purpoſe a peculiar Officer was appointed, under the Name of Hoſtillarius, or Hoſpitularius.

Hoſtler, a Groom, that looks to the Stables and Gueſts Horſes in an Inn.

Hoſtricus, a Word us'd in ſome ancient Writers for a Goſs-Hawk, a Bird of Prey.

Hoſtry, the Stables of an Inn.

Hotch-pot. See Hodge-podge.

Hovel, a Covering or Shelter of Hurdles, &c. for Cattel; any mean Building for ordinary uſe.

Hoven, (Country-Word) Cheeſe that is rais'd or ſwell'd up.

To Hover, to flutter or fly over with Wings ſtretch'd out, to hang over.

Hover-ground, light ſort of Ground.

Hough, the Joint of the hinder Leg of a Beaſt.

To Hough, to cut the Houghs, or to ham-ſtring; alſo to break Clods of Earth.

Hound, a Hunting-Dog; alſo a kind of Fiſh. In Sea-Affairs Hounds are Holes in the Timber-cheeks, that faſten them to the Heads of the Maſts, and in which run the Ropes call'd Ties, that hoiſe the Sails.

To Hound a Stag, (among Hunters) to caſt the Dogs at him.

Hounds-tongue, an Herb, whoſe Leaves are like the Tongue, and ſmell like the Piſs of a Hound: The Root is us'd in Phyſick to ſtay all Fluxes of ſharp thin Rheum from the Head to the Eyes or Noſe, or upon the Stomach or Lungs.

Hour, (in Aſtron.) is either equal, which is the 24th part of a Natural Day, or unequal, being the 12th part of the Artificial Day or Night.

Hour-Circles, the ſame as Meridians, are great Circles that meet in the Poles of the World, and croſſing the Equinoctial at right Angles divide it into 24 equal Parts. Theſe are ſupply'd on both Globes, by a ſmall Brazen Circle, call'd The Hour-Circle, fitted to the Meridian, and divided into 24 Hours, which in one turning about of the Globe, are all pointed at by an Index fixt for that purpoſe on the Axis of the Globe.

Hour-Lines, (on a Dial) ariſe from the Interſection of the Dial-plane, with the ſeveral Planes of the Hour-circles in the Sphere, and therefore muſt be all Right-lines.

Houſage, a Fee that a Carrier or any other Perſon pays for laying up Goods in a Houſe.

Houſe, Home, Place of Abode, Family. In Aſtrology, a Twelfth part of the Heavens conſider'd, with reſpect to the Situation of the World, to every one of which Houſes a particular Signification is aſcrib'd.

Houſe of Commons. See Commons.

Houſe-bote, (Sax.) Eſtovers, or an Allowance of neceſſary Timber out of the Lord's Wood, to uphold or repair a Houſe or Tenement.

Houſe-leek, or Sengreen, an Herb commonly growing on Walls and Houſe-ſides, with broadiſh thick Leaves pointed at the End: The Juice of it is good in Agues, Inflammations, St. Anthony's Fire, &c.

Houſe-robbing, or Houſe-breaking, (according to the Law-Definition) is the robbing of a Man in ſome part of his Houſe, or in his Booth, Tent, or Stall in any Fair or Market.

Houſed in, or Pinched in, (a Sea-Term) when a Ship after ſhe has paſs'd the Breadth of her Bearing, is brought in too narrow to her other Works.

Houſel. See Huſſel.

Houſing, a Horſe-cloth, a piece of courſe Cloth to be laid over the Buttocks of a Horſe.

How, or Hoe, a Husbandman's Tool made like a Cooper's Addz, to cut up Weeds in Gardens, Fields, &c.

Howel, a Welſh Sirname, ſignifying ſound or whole.

To Howl, to cry or make a Noiſe like a Dog or Wolf: Among Shipwrights, when the Foot-hooks being let into the Ground-timbers and bolted, the Planks are laid on them up to the lower Deck, 'tis ſaid they begin to make her howl.

Howlet, a ſort of Night-bird.

Hoy, a ſmall Bark, whoſe Yards are not a-croſs; neither are its Sails ſquare, but cut like the Miſſen-ſails of a Ship; ſo as to lie nearer the Wind, than any Veſſel with Croſs-ſails can do.

To Hoze Dogs. See to Expeditate.

Hubbub, a great Tumult, Uproar, or confuſed Noiſe.

Huckſter, one that ſells Proviſions or ſmall Wares by Retail.

Huddle, Buſtle, Confuſion, Diſorder.

To Huddle, to confound or mingle things together, after a confuſed manner.

Hudegeld, or Hinegeld, (Sax.) Money paid by a Villain or Servant that had committed any Offence, for which he deſerv'd a Whipping; to buy off that Chaſtiſement.

Hue, Colour; as a black Hue.

Hue and Cry (in Common-Law) a Purſuit of one having committed Felony on the High-Way, by deſcribing the Party and giving Notice to ſeveral Conſtables, from one Town to another, till the Offender be taken, or at leaſt purſu'd to the Sea-ſide.

Huers. See Conders.

A Huff, a huffing or ſwaggering Fellow.

To Huff, to puff or blow; to hector, rant, or vapour: At the Game of Draughts to Huff is to take up and blow off a Man, that the Adverſary by Overſight let ſlip from taking another.

Hugh, (Dutch, High) a proper Name of Men.

Huguenot, a Nick-name given by the Papiſts of France to the Proteſtants there, from a Gate of Tours, call'd the Gate of St. Hugo, at which they uſ'd at firſt to go forth to their Aſſemblies in the Fields: Or according to others, from a Hobgoblin nam'd King Hugon, ſaid to walk by Night in that City; becauſe the Proteſtants thereabouts had their Meetings for the moſt part in the Night, after the manner of the Primitive Chriſtians in the times of Perſecution.

Huguenote, a kind of Kettle for a Stove, or an earthen Stove for a Pot to boil on: Whence a la Huguenote, among French Cooks, is taken for a particular way of dreſſing Eggs with Gravy.

Huguenotiſm, the Doctrine or Profeſſion of a Huguenot.

Huike, or Huke, (Dutch) a kind of Mantle worn by the Women in Holland.

Hulk, a ſort of great and broad Ship.

Hull, or Hulls, the Chaff of Corn, the Shell or Cod of Pulſe: In Sea-Language Hull is taken for the main Body or Bulk of a Ship from Stem to Stern, without Maſts, Sails or Yards.

To Hull, to float, to ride to and fro upon the Water.

Hulling, or lying a Hull, is properly when a Ship at Sea has taken in all her Sails, ſo that nothing but her bare Poles, Maſts, Yards and Rigging are abroad, which is done ſometimes in dead Calms, and ſometimes in foul and over-blowing Weather.

Hullock of a Sail, a piece of the Miſſen-ſail, cut and left looſe in a Storm to keep the Ship's Head to the Sea, when all the other Sails are made up: Alſo a piece of the Fore-ſail looſed, to make the Ship fall off and turn her Head, where her Stern lay before.

Hulſtred, (old Word) hidden.

Hulver, a kind of Shrub.

Humane, (Lat.) belonging to Mankind; alſo mild, kind, gentle, courteous, friendly, obliging.

Humane Signs, (in Aſtrol.) thoſe Signs of the Zodiack, which have as it were the Form of a Man, as Gemini, Virgo, Aquarius, and the firſt half of Sagittarius: Alſo ſuch Conſtellations or Companies of Stars without the Zodiack, as are uſually repreſented in Humane Shape; as Perſeus, Andromeda, Cepheus, &c.

Humaniſt, one that is skill'd in Humane Learning.

Humanity, the Nature and Condition of Man; alſo Gentleneſs, Mildneſs, Courteſy; alſo Learning, or Liberal Knowledge.

To Humanize, to civilize, to make tractable, gentle, or kind.

Humble, modeſt, lowly-minded, reſpectful; low, lowly, mean.

Humble-Bee, a ſort of great Bee, an Inſect; alſo an Herb.

Humbles, (among Hunters) part of the Entrails of a Deer.

Humectantia, (Lat.) moiſtening Remedies, ſuch as are capable of inſinuating their moiſt Particles into the Pores of the Body.

Humectation, a Moiſtening, Watering, or Wetting: In Pharmacy and Chymiſtry, the moiſtening of a mixt Body in order to prepare it for ſome Operation, or for the more eaſy drawing out of its beſt or fineſt Parts.

Humeral Muſcle, (in Anat.) the Muſcle that moves the Arm at the upper End.

Humerus, (Lat.) the Shoulder; the Shoulder-bone or firſt Bone of the Arm, having a round Head at its upper end, which is receiv'd into the Neck of the Scapula or Shoulder-blade.

Humid, moiſt wet, damp.

Feſſe Humid, a kind of Feſſe, ſometimes born in a Coat of Arms.

Humidity, the Quality call'd Moiſture, or the Power of wetting other Bodies, which ſome Liquors, &c. are endow'd with; Moiſtneſs, Dampneſs.

Humidum Primigenium, (Lat.) a Term in Phyſick for the Blood which is to be ſeen in Generation, before any thing elſe.

Humiliates, a certain Religious Order founded A. D. 1166, and ſo call'd from the Latin Word humiliare, to humble or bring low; becauſe they led very ſtrict and mortify'd Lives.

Humiliation, a being humbled, abaſed, or brought down.

Humilis Muſculus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle ſo call'd becauſe it draws the Eye downward to the Cheek. See Elevator Oculi.

Humility, Humbleneſs, Lowlineſs, Meekneſs, Submiſſion.

Humility, or Simplicity, the Name of a certain Bird in New-England, the ſmaller ſort of which is no bigger than a Kite: It is moſt properly call'd the Simplicity, becauſe thoſe that eſcape a Shot, immediately light upon the Place where the others were kill'd before.

Humiſuga, or Humipeta, (Lat.) the Ground-fly or Path-fly; an Inſect.

Humming-bird, a Bird frequent in New-England, which makes a great humming Noiſe: It is no bigger than a Hornet, yet has all the parts of a Bird, and for Colour is as fine as the Rain-bow. See Colibus.

Humores, (Lat. in Phyſick) Humours of which three call'd general, waſh the whole Body, viz. the Blood, the Lympha, a ſort of pure Water, and the Nervous Juice. But there are ſeveral particular Humours, as Chyle, Bile, Spittle, Pancreatick Juice, Seed, &c. which ſee in their proper Places.

Humores Oculares, the Humours of the Eye, which are three in Number, viz. the Aqueous or Watery, the Cryſtalline or Icy, and the Vitreous or Glaſſy; which ſee.

Humores in Secundinis, are Humours in the three Membranes or Skins that cover the Child in the Womb.

Humoriſt, one that is full of Humours, Conceits, or Fancies.

Humour, Moiſture, Juice: Alſo Temper, Mood, Diſpoſition of the Mind; Fancy, Whim or Whimſy.

Humourous, or Humourſome, wedded to his own Humour, peeviſh, fantaſtical, whimſical.

Humfrey, (Sax.) a proper Name of Men, ſignifying Peace at Home, or Houſe-Peace.

To Hunch one, to give him a Thruſt with the Elbow.

Hundred, a part of a Shire, that anciently conſiſted of Ten Tithings, and each Tithing of Ten Houſholds: It was ſo call'd either becauſe at firſt every ſuch Diviſion contain'd a hundred Families, or elſe ſupply'd the King with a Hundred able Men for his Wars.

Hundred-lagh, the Hundred-Court, from which all the Officers of the King's Foreſt were freed by the Charter of King Canutus, Cap. 9.

Hundred-weight, the Quantity of 112 Pounds, in Aver-du-pois Weight.

Hundreder, one that has the Juriſdiction of a Hundred, and holds the Hundred Court. It is ſometimes taken for the Bailiff of an Hundred. Hundreders are alſo Men impannell'd or fit to be of a Jury upon any Controverſy about Land, and living within the Hundred where the Land lies.

Hungary, a Kingdom ſo call'd from the Huns, a People of Scythia, who ſettled there after having over-run all Italy and Gaul, in the time of the Emperour Valentinian.

Queen of Hungary Water, a Spirit of Wine fill'd with the more eſſential part of Roſemary-flowers.

Hunks, as a meer Hunks, i. e. a baſe covetous Wretch, a pitiful niggardly Fellow.

Hurdles, (in Husbandry) certain Frames made either of ſpleeted Timber, or of Haſel-rods wattled together; to ſerve for Gates in Incloſures, to make Sheep-folds, &c. There is alſo a ſort of Hurdles us'd in Fortification, about 5 or 6 Foot high, and from 3 to 4 Foot broad, which are uſually loaded with Earth to make Batteries firm, to cover Traverſes or Lodgments, to be laid in muddy Ditches, &c. See Claye.

Hurds of Flax. See Hurds.

To Hurl, to fling or caſt; alſo an old Word, to make a Noiſe.

Hurlers, a Square ſet of Stones in Cornwall, ſo call'd from an odd Opinion advanc'd by the Common People, That they are ſo many Men chang'd into Stones for profaning the Sabbath-Day by Hurling the Ball; an Exerciſe for which they have been always famous.

Hurlibats, or Whirlebats, a kind of Gauntlet, with Plummers of Lead us'd in Games for Exerciſe, by the ancient Romans. See Caſtus.

Hurly-burly, a Tumult, confuſed Uproar, or Crowd of People.

Hurrers, the Cappers and Hatters, who were formerly ſo call'd and made up one Company of Haberdaſhers.

Hurricane, a violent Storm of Wind, which often happens in Jamaica and other Parts of the Weſt-Indies, in the Months of September and October; making very great havock and overthrow of Trees, Houſes, and all that comes in its way.

Hurſt. See Hirſt.

Hurt-ſickle, a ſort of Herb.

Hurtardus, (in old Latin Records) a Ram, Weather, or Male Sheep.

Hurts, or Heurts, (in Heraldry) certain Balls or round Figures reſembling Hurtle-berries; which are always painted Azure, or of a blew Colour.

Husbandry, the Art of manuring, tilling and improving the Ground; alſo the Management of one's Expences.

Huſcarle, (Sax.) a Domeſtick or Houſhold Servant; the Collectors or Gatherers of the Daniſh Tribute, in ancient Times were alſo call'd Huſcarles.

Huſeans, (old Word) a kind of Boot or Spatter-daſh made of courſe Cloth.

Huſebote, (Sax. old Law-Term) the Liberty allow'd a Tenant, to cut as much Timber upon the Premiſes, as was neceſſary to repair the Farm-Houſe and adjoyning Buildings. See Houſe-bote.

Huſtfaſtne, one that holds Houſe and Lands.

Huſgable, a Word us'd in ancient Writers for Houſe-rent.

Huſo, (Lat.) the Hauſen or Lask, a Fiſh of a prodigious Bigneſs, ſo as it can ſcarce be drawn with a Team of three or four Horſes.

Huſſars, Hungarian Horſe-men, ſo call'd from the general Huſa, or Shout they make at the firſt Charge of the Enemy.

Huſſel, or Houſel, an old Saxon Word ſignifying the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Huſſeling-People, Communicants. The Pariſhioners of Leominſter, in a Petition to K. Edward VI ſet forth that in their Town there were to the num be

ber of Two Thouſand Huſſeling-People, i. e. Perſons that receiv'd the Communion.

Huſtings, (i. e. the Houſe of Things or Cauſes) a principal and very ancient Court of Common-Pleas held before the Mayor and Aldermen of London, where an Error or Attaint lyes of a Judgment or falſe Verdict in the Sheriffs-Court: Other Cities and Towns have alſo had a Court of the ſame Name, as York, Lincoln, Wincheſter, &c.

Hut, a ſmall Cottage, or Hovel; alſo a Soldier's Lodge in the Field. See Barack.

Hutch, a Veſſel, or particular place to lay Grain in; alſo a kind of hollow Trap for the taking of Weeſels, or other Vermin alive.

Hutesium, (in old Records) a Hue and Cry, eſpecially in Scotland, where, upon a Robbery committed, an Horn is blown, and an Out-cry made; after which, if the Party run away, and do not yield up himſelf to the King's Bailiff, he may be lawfully kill'd, or Hang'd upon the next Gallows.

To Huzz, to keep a Noiſe, to buzz as Bees do.

Huzza, a loud Acclamation, Out-cry, or Shout for Joy.

Hyacinth, (Gr. among Heralds) the Tenne or Tawney Colour in the Coats of the Nobility.

Hyacinthizontes, a kind of Emeralds inclining to a Violet Colour.

Hyacinthus, a ſort of Violet of a dark purple Colour, or as ſome ſay, another Flower call'd Crownes; alſo the Jacinth, a precious Stone of a Violet Colour.

Hyades, ſeven Stars in the Head of the Bull ſo nam'd, becauſe when they riſe and ſet they cauſe Storms and large Showers of Rain.

Hyæna, a ſubtil ravenous Beaſt like a Wolf, having a Main like an Horſe, and long Hairs all over the Body, which routs up Graves to prey upon the Dead, and counterfeits a Man's Voice to deſtroy the Living.

Hyaloides, (in Anat.) the vitreous or glaſſy Humour of the Eye, contain'd between the Net-like and the Uveous Tunicle.

Hybernagium, (in old Latin Records) the Seaſon for ſowing Winter-Corn, or Wheat and Rye, between Michaelmas and Chriſtmas, oppos'd to Tremagium, the Seaſon for ſowing Summer-Corn.

Hybernal, belonging to the Winter.

Hybernal Occident and Orient. See Occident and Orient.

Hybernal Solſtice. See Solſtice.

Hybuma, (Gr. in Anat.) a bending in of all the Vertebra's, or turning Joynts.

Hybrida, a Mongrel Creature, that has the Sire of one Kind and the Dam of another.

Hydatides, little watery Bladders in the Liver, Spleen, or other Bowel, common to Perſons troubled with the Dropſie; alſo an encreaſe of Fat about the Eye-lids.

Hydatoides, the aqueous or watery Humour of the Eye, contain'd between the horny and uveous Coat.

Hydegild, (Sax.) a Ranſom paid to ſave one's Hide or Skin, i. e. that it be not beaten; alſo the ſame with Hidage.

Hydra, (Gr.) a Water-Serpent, particularly a monſtrous one bred in the Lake Lerna, feigned to have a Hundred Heads, to be kill'd by Hercules, and afterwards plac'd among the Stars: It is one of the Southern Conſtellations, and conſiſts of Twenty Five Stars, beſides two unformed.

Hydragia, (in Anat.) the Lymphatick Veſſels. See Venæ Lymphaticæ.

Hydragoga, or Hydragogues, Medicines that drive or purge out watery Humours in the Dropſie.

Hydragogy, a conveying of Water by Furrows and Trenches from one place to another.

Hydrargyrum, Quick-ſilver, a Mineral, of a ſtrange piercing Quality, ſo as to eat thro' Gold, Silver, &c.

Hydrarthrus, a Dropſie in the Joynts, or a kind of Swelling. See Meliceria.

Hydraulical, belonging to Water-Works, as Hydraulical Engines, i. e. ſuch as ſerve for the raiſing of Water, by Water, Horſes, or any other Force.

Hydraulicks, a Science which teaches how to make all ſorts of Water-Works and Conduits, to raiſe or convey Water for ſeveral Uſes: The Word in Greek ſignifies Sounding-Water, becauſe the Ancients made uſe of falling Waters to get Wind into Organ-pipes, inſtead of Bellows.

Hydraulo-Pneumatical Engines, are ſuch as raiſe Water by means of the natural or forced Spring of the Air.

Hydraulus, a Muſical Inſtrument, an Organ that plays by the motion of Water.

Hydrelæum, a mixture of Water and Oil.

Hydrenterocele, a falling of the Guts, together with Water, into the Scrotum, or outward Skin of the Cods.

Hydroa, certain little moiſt Pimples like Millet-Seeds, which make the Skin ulcerous and rough.

Hydrocantharus, the Water-Beetle, an Inſect.

Hydrocardia, a Dropſie of the Skin call'd Pericardium, which cauſes the Heart to ſwim in Water.

Hydrocele, or Hernia Aquoſa, a kind of Burſtneſs, or ſwelling of the outermoſt Skin of the Cods, which proceeds from a watery Humour.

Hydrocephalus, the Dropſie or Swelling of the Head, occaſion'd by a watery Humour, and ſometimes by a burſting of the Lymphatick Veſſels.

Hydrocrithe, Barley-Water.

Hydrocritica, Critical Judgments made of Diſtempers, taken from Sweating.

Hydrodes, a ſort of Feaver. See Typhodes.

Hydrogarum, Pickle made with Water.

Hydrographer, one skill'd in Hydrography.

Hydrographical, belonging to that Science.

Hydrographical Charts, Sea-Maps drawn for the uſe of Pilots, and other Mariners, on which are mark'd all the Rhumbs or Points of the Compaſs, and parallel Meridians, with the Soundings, Shelves, Rocks, &c. See Charts.

Hydrography, the Deſcription of great Waters, as the Sea, Rivers, Lakes, Gulphs, &c. a Science which teaches how to make Sea-Charts, giving an Account of the Tides, Counter-Tides, Bays, Creeks, Harbours, Coaſts, &c. as alſo of Shelves, Shallows, Sands, Rocks, and other remarkable Things.

Hydrolapathum, the Water-Dock, an Herb.

Hydromancy, a Divination, or Soothſaying, perform'd by obſerving Water, or by Spirits appearing in it.

Hydromel, Honey diſſolv'd in Water; alſo a ſort of Drink made of Water and Honey boil'd together; Mead, or Metheglin.

Hydromphalum, a ſtarting out of the Navel, occaſion'd by watery Humours in the Belly.

Hydronoſus, or Hydropyretos, a Feaver, in which the Patient ſweats extremely; the Sweating-Sickneſs.

Hydrophobia, a Diſtemper ſometimes accompany'd with a Feaver, Frenzy, and other Symptoms, proceeding from the Bite of a mad Dog, ſo as to cauſe in the Patient a great dread of Water, and of every thing that is bright.

Hydrophthalmion, that part under the Eyes which uſually ſwells in thoſe that have an ill Habit of Body, or are troubled with the Dropſie.

Hydrophthalmy, a Diſeaſe of the Eye, when it grows to a wonderful bigneſs, and ſtarts almoſt out of the Head.

Hydropica, Medicines that drive out the watery

Humours in a Dropſie.

Hydropical, or Hydropick, belonging to, or troubled with the Dropſie.

Hydropiper, Water-pepper, or Arſe-ſmart, an Herb.

Hydrops, the Dropſie, a Diſeaſe occaſion'd by a watery Humour getting between the Skin and the Fleſh, and cauſing the Part ſo affected to ſwell.

Hydrops Articularis. See Meliceria.

Hydrops ad Matulam, a Diſeaſe, when one cannot hold his Water. See Diabetes.

Hydropyretos. See Hydronoſus.

Hydros, Sweat.

Hydroſaccharum, a Syrup made of Water and Sugar.

Hydroſcope, an Inſtrument of late Invention, for the diſcerning of the watery volatile Streams in the Air.

Hydroſelinum, Water-Parſly, an Herb.

Hydroſtaticks, a Science that relates to the Gravities, or Weights, and equal Poiſes of Liquors, comprehending the Art of weighing Bodies in Water, or ſome other proper Liquor, in order to judge of their Specifick Gravity, and to make other uſeful Remarks.

Hydroticks, Medicines that provoke ſweating.

Hydrus, a Water-Snake.

Hyemal, (Lat.) belonging to Winter, Winterly.

Hyemal Solſtice. See Solſtice.

Hyena, (Gr.) a wild Beaſt, which is ſaid to be Male one Year and Female another, and to counterfeit Human Voice. See Hyæna.

Hygiea, Health, which conſiſts in a good Temperature and right Diſpoſition of the Parts of a Human Body.

Hygieina, that part of Phyſick which ſhews the way of preſerving Health.

Hygremplaſtrum, a moiſt Plaiſter.

Hygrocollyrium, a liquid Medicine to cure Diſeaſes in the Eyes.

Hygrocyrſocele, a Branch of a Vein ſwoln with ill Blood, and accompany'd with other moiſture.

Hygrometer, or Hygroſcope, a Philoſophical Inſtrument, contriv'd to ſhew the moiſture or dryneſs of the Air, and to meaſure or mark the Quantity of ſuch moiſture or dryneſs.

Statical Hygroſcope, an Inſtrument invented by Mr. Boyle for making Diſcoveries to that purpoſe, by means of a Ballance, or pair of Scales.

Hyleg, or Hylech, (Arab. i. e. the Giver of Life) a Term apply'd by Aſtrologers to a Planet, or part of Heaven, which in a Man's Nativity becomes the Moderator and Significator of his Life.

Hylegiacal Places, are ſuch as when a Planet happens to be poſited or ſet therein, it may be ſaid to be Hyleg, or fit to have the Government of Life attributed thereto: Theſe Places are uſually reckon'd to be five in number, viz. the Aſcendant, the Mid-Heaven, the 7th. Houſe, the 9th. and the 11th.

Hymen, a fabulous Heathen Deity, preſiding over Marriage: In Anatomy a folding of the inner Skin of the Neck of the Womb, which is commonly taken for a mark of Virginity, and whoſe Fibres drawn together make the Myrtiform Glandules.

Hymn, a Spiritual Song, or Pſalm ſung to the Praiſe of God.

Hyoides, (in Anat.) a Bone at the Root of the Tongue, having Ten Muſcles, which keep it in its place.

Hyoſcyamos, the Herb Henbane, which is of a cooling Quality, diſpoſes to Sleep, and eaſes Pain.

Hyoſeris, Yellow Succory, an Herb of good uſe in curing Wounds.

Hyothyroides, two Muſcles of the Larynx or Throat, which proceed from the lower part of the Bone Hyoides, and ſerve to draw the Larynx upwards.

Hypæthron, (in Architect.) an open Gallery, o Building whoſe inſide is expos'd to the Weather and Rain; a Name given by the Ancients to all Temples that had no Roof.

Hypallage, (i. e. changing or altering) a Figure in Rhetorick, wherein the order of Words is contrary to the meaning of them in Conſtruction; as Hang the Nail on the Bridle, inſtead of Hang the Bridle on the Nail: It is alſo call'd Immutatio.

Hypelate, a kind of Laurel.

Hyperbaton, (i. e. going beyond) a Rhetorical Figure, when the Words are tranſpos'd from the plain Grammatical Order.

Hyperbola, (in Geom.) one of the three Sections of a Cone, made by a Plane, ſo that the Axis of the Section inclines to the oppoſite Leg of the Cone.

Hyperbole, (i. e. ſurpaſſing) a Rhetorical Figure, wherein an Expreſſion goes beyond Truth, ſo as to repreſent Things much greater or leſſer than they are in reality; as when 'tis ſaid, A Stag runs ſwifter than the Wind, or A Man moves ſlower than a Tortoiſe, or Snail: Alſo the ſame as Hyperbola.

Hyperbolical, or Hyperbolick, utter'd by way of Hyperbole, that paſſes all likelihood of Truth, exceſſive; alſo belonging to the Geometrical Figure call'd Hyperbola.

Hyperbolick Space, (in Geom.) the Space, Area, or Content, comprehended between the Curve of an Hyperbola, and the whole Ordinate.

Hyperbolicum Acutum, a Name given by Torricellius to a Solid made by the Revolution of the infinite Area of the Space contain'd between the Curve and the Aſymptote in the Apollonian Hyperbola, going about that Aſymptote.

Hypercatalectick Verſe, a Greek or Latin Verſe that has a Syllable or two too many in the end.

Hypercatharticks, (in Phyſick) Purges that work too violently.

Hypercriſis, a voiding any thing above meaſure in the Criſis or Turn of a Diſeaſe.

Hypercritick, a Maſter-Critick, a mighty Critick.

Hyperdiſſyllable, (in Grammar) a Word conſiſting of more than two Syllables.

Hyperephidroſis, a too great ſweating.

Hypericon, St. John's-Wort, an excellent Herb for Wounds, and to provoke Urine.

Hypermeter Verſus, (in Grammar) a Verſe that has a Syllable above its ordinary Meaſure, in which Caſe the next Verſe muſt begin with a Vowel; as Ignari Hominumque Locorumque.

Hyperoa, the Palate, or Roof of the Mouth.

Hyperoon, (in Anat.) the Name of two Holes in the upper part of the Palate, which receive the pituitous or phlegmatick Humours from the Mammillary Proceſſes, and diſcharge them at the Mouth.

Hyperſarcoſis, a preternatural Excreſcence, or growing out of Fleſh in any part of the Body.

Hyperthyron, (in Architect.) a large Table uſually plac'd over Gates or Doors of the Dorick Order, in form of a Frize; the upper Poſt or Lintel.

Hyphen, (in Grammar) a little Line or Stroke ſet between two Words or Syllables, as a mark of Continuation, and us'd either when two Words are joyn'd together, for the more Conciſeneſs of Expreſſion; as ſemper-Lenitas, Long-ſufferance, Loving-kindneſs, &c. or when one part of a Word concludes a Line, and the other begins the next.

Hypnale, a kind of Adder that kills a Man, by caſting him into a Sleep.

Hypnoticks, Medicines that cauſe Sleep.

Hypobole, (i. e. ſurpaſſing, Exceſs) a Rhetorical Figure, when an Anſwer is made to what was before prevented to be objected againſt by an Adverſary.

Hypobolum, (in the Civil Law) that which is given by the Huſband to the Wife at his Death above her Dowry.

Hypocatharſis, gentle Purging.

Hypocauſtum, a Stove under Ground, us'd to heat the Baths, both of the ancient Greeks and Romans; alſo a Place or Stove, where Medicines are dry'd or kept.

Hypochœris, the Herb Sow-thiſtle.

Hypochondria, the Sides of the upper part of the Belly, about the ſhort Ribs, under which lie the Liver, Stomach and Spleen.

Hypochondriacal, or Hypochondriack, belonging to the Hypochondria; alſo troubled with the Spleen, or a windy Melancholy in thoſe Parts.

Hypochondriacus Affectus, Hypochondriack Melancholy, a Diſeaſe proceeding from windy Humours, bred in the Hypochondres; whence a black Phlegm ariſing infects the Animal Spirits and diſturbs the Mind.

Hypochyma, or Hypochyſis, a Suffuſion, a Fault in the Sight, when Gnats, Cob-webs, little Clouds, &c. ſeem to fly before the Eyes.

Hypociſtis, a ſmall Herb that grows (like Miſletoe on an Oak) from the Root of the Shrub Ciſtus; alſo the Juice of it, which is good to ſtop Fluxes and ſtanch Blood.

Hypocleptitum Vitrum, (among Chymiſts) a Glaſs-funnel, to ſeparate Oils from Water.

Hypocriſis, Hypocriſy, a counterfeiting, feigning or diſſembling: In Rhetorick a Figure that Julius Ruffinianus and others call by a Latin Name Pronunciatio.

Hypocriſy, Diſſimulation, counterfeit Goodneſs, Knavery cloak'd with a Vail of Religion or Honeſty.

Hypocrite, properly ſignifies an Actor that repreſents a feigned Perſon in a Stage-Play; but the Word is generally taken for a Diſſembler, or one that makes a falſe ſhew of Piety or Vertue; a Religious Cheat.

Hypocritical, belonging to an Hypocrite, counterfeit.

Hypodeſis, or Hypodeſmis, (in Surgery) a Bandage that is us'd before the Bolſters are laid on.

Hypogaſtrick Artery, (in Anat.) an Artery which ſpreads it ſelf amidſt the Parts of the Hypogaſtrium, to the Bladder, ſtraight Gut, Os Sacrum, &c.

Hypogaſtrium, the lower part of the Belly, which reaches from three Inches below the Navel to the Privities, Share-bone, and Groin.

Hypogæum, a Cellar or Vault arched over head, a Place under Ground: In Aſtrology, the fourth Houſe, otherwiſe call'd Imum Cœli.

Hypogeſum, the Herb Sengreen, or Houſe-leek.

Hypogloſſis, or Hypoglottis, a little piece of Fleſh that joyns the Tongue to the nether part of the Mouth: Alſo an Inflammation or Ulcer under the Tongue, otherwiſe call'd Ranula; alſo a Medicine proper to lie and diſſolve under the Tongue, to take away Roughneſs in the Throat.

Hypogloſſum, the Herb Horſe-tongue.

Hypoglottides Pilulæ, Pills to be put under the Tongue, for aſſwaging a Cough.

Hypolais, the Hedge-ſparrow; a Bird.

Hypomochlion, a Roller laid under Stones or pieces of Timber, to lift up or remove them more eaſily from their Place: In Mechanicks, it is the fixed Point, or the Center of Motion of a Body or Engine, by which it is hung up, or on which it any way reſts in its Motion; it is otherwiſe call'd the Fulchrum or Prop.

Hypomone, a Figure in Rhetorick. See Paradoxon.

Hypophaulum, an ordinary Diet, obſerving a mean, between a plain and exquiſite Diet.

Hypophora, a Figure in Rhetorick. See Prolepſis.

Hypophoræ, deep, gaping and fiſtulous Ulcers.

Hypophyalmia, a Pain in the Eye under the Horny Coat.

Hypophylloſpermous Plants, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Herbs as bear their Seeds under the backſide of their Leaves; as the Capillaries, which ſee.

Hypophyſis, a Fault in the Eye, the ſame as Hypochyma.

Hypopodium, a Plaiſter to be laid to the Feet.

Hypopyon, a gathering of Matter under the Horney Tunick of the Eye, which ſometimes covers the whole Ball of it, and ſometimes encompaſſes the Circle of the Iris; whence it is alſo call'd Onyx or Unguis.

Hypoſarca, or Hypoſarcidium, a kind of Dropſey otherwiſe call'd Anaſarca.

Hypoſpathyſmus, (in Surgery) an Inciſion made by three Lines or Diviſions upon the Forehead to the Skin call'd Pericranium, ſo as a Spatula may be thruſt in between it.

Hypoſphagma, a Blood-ſhot from a Blow or Stroke upon the Eye.

Hypoſtaſis, (in Divinity) a Subſiſtence or Perſon of the Ever-bleſſed Trinity.

Hypoſtaſis Urinæ, that thick Subſtance or Settlement, which is found at the bottom of Urine, when it has been for ſome time in the Urinal.

Hypoſtatical, belonging to an Hypoſtaſis, or Perſonal Subſiſtence; as the Hypoſtatical Union, i. e. the Union of two Natures in the Perſon of Chriſt.

Hypoſtatical Principles, a Title given by Paracelſus and his Followers to the three Chymical Principles, viz. Salt, Sulphur and Mercury.

Hypothenar, (in Anat.) a Muſcle which helps to draw the little Finger from the reſt; alſo the ſpace from the Fore-finger to the little Finger.

Hypothenuſal Line, or Hypothenuſe, (in Trigonometry) that ſide of a Right angled-Triangle, which is ſubtended or ſtretch'd out oppoſite to the Right-Angle, and is conſequently the longeſt.

Hypotheſis, a Suppoſition; the laying down of certain Principles in any Art or Science, which are to be ſuppoſed or taken for granted, in order to ſolve a propoſed Queſtion, Phænomena, or Appearance, eſpecially in Natural Philoſophy, Aſtronomy, &c. It is alſo taken for a Syſtem of the World ingeniouſly contriv'd to ſhew the Diſpoſition of the Heavens, and Courſe of the Stars, as thoſe of Ptolemey, Copernicus, and Tycho Brahe. See Syſtem.

Hypothetical, belonging to an Hypotheſis or Suppoſition.

Hypothetical Syllogiſm, (in Logick) is that which begins with a conditional Conjunction; as If he be a Man, he is a Creature. See Syllogiſm.

Hypotrachelion, (in Architect.) the Neck or Top of a Pillar, being the moſt ſlender part of it, which is next to the Capital. Some take it for that part of the Tuſcan and Dorick Capitals, which lies between the Echinus and the Aſtragal, and is otherwiſe termed the Collar, Gorge, or Frize of the Chapiter.

Hypotriorchis, the leſſer Buzzard, a Bird of Prey.

Hypotypoſis, a Rhetorical Figure which by a moſt lively Deſcription repreſents any Thing or Perſon, as it were in a Picture ſet before the Eye; as the Deſcription of a Tempeſt in Virgil, the Repreſentation of Luxury in Spencer's Bower of Bliſs, &c.

Hypozeugma, a Part of the Grammatical Figure call'd Zeugma; which ſee.

Hypozoma, (in Anat.) a Membrane or Skin that parts two Cavities or Hollow Places in the Body; as that call'd Mediaſtinum in the Cheſt.

Hypſicratea, the Wife of Mithridates King of Pontus, who lov'd her Husband ſo entirely, that having put on Man's Habit, ſhe follow'd him in all Dangers and Extremities.

Hypſilogloſſum, a pair of Muſcles that draw the Tongue downwards, the ſame as Baſiogloſſum.

Hyſginum, a Plant that dies a Colour like Scarlet.

Hyſſopus, Hyſſop, an Herb of a cleanſing Quality; chiefly us'd in Diſeaſes of the Breaſt and Lungs.

Hyſtera, the Mother, or Womb.

Hyſteralgia, a Pain in the Womb, occaſion'd by an Inflammation or otherwiſe.

Hyſterica, Medicines againſt the Diſeaſes of the Womb.

Hyſterica Paſſio, a Diſeaſe in Women commonly call'd Fits of the Mother, and thought to be caus'd by Vapours violently ariſing from thoſe Parts.

Hyſterical, or Hyſterick, belonging to the Womb.

Hyſterocele, the Rupture or falling down of the Womb.

Hyſterolithus, a ſort of Stone, ſo call'd becauſe it reſembles the Figure of a Woman's Privities.

Hyſteron Proteron, a prepoſterous manner of ſpeaking or writing, ſo as to expreſs that firſt which ſhould be laſt; a ſetting the Cart before the Horſe.

Hyſterotomia, an Anatomical Deſſection of the Womb.

Hyſterotomotocia, the cutting of a Child out of the Womb, otherwiſe call'd Sectio Cæſarea.

Hyſtrix, the Porcupine or Indian Hedge-hog; a wild Beaſt.

Hyth, or Hithe, (Sax.) a little Port or Haven, to load or unload Wares at; whence Queen-hyth, Rother-hyth, Lamb-hyth, &c.

J A

TO Jabber, to ſpeak much haſtily and indiſtinctly, to talk Gibberiſh.

Jabeſh, (Heb. Confuſion) the Father of Shallum, from whom the City Jabeſh-Gilead took Name.

Jabin, (i. e. Underſtanding) a King of Hazor, who was kill'd by Joſhua.

Jacinth, (Gr.) a precious Stone of a blewiſh Colour; alſo a kind of Flower. See Hyacinthus.

Jack, a well known Engine to turn a Spit; a Horſe or wooden Frame to ſaw Timber upon; an Inſtrument to pull off a pair of Boots; a ſort of great Leathern Pitcher to put Drink in; a kind of Bowl that ſerves for a Mark at the Exerciſe of Bowling: In Falconry, the Male of Birds of Sport; alſo a young Pike, a Fiſh; and in Sea-Language, a Pendant, Streamer or Flag hung out in a Ship.

Jack was alſo the Name of a kind of Coat of Mail, formerly worn by Horſe-men in War, not made of ſolid Iron, but many Plates faſten'd together; which ſome Tenants that held Lands, were bound to provide upon an Invaſion.

Jacks, ſmall pieces of Wood fix'd to the Keys of a pair of Virginals, Harpſichord, or Spinet.

Jack by the Hedge, an Herb that grows by Hedge-ſides, with a broad Leaf and has the Smell of Garlick: It comforts the Stomach, digeſting Crudities and corrupt Humours bred therein.

Jack with a Lanthorn, a kind of fiery Meteor. See Will with a Wiſp.

Jackal, a black ſhag-haired Beaſt about the Bigneſs of a Spaniel-dog, which in the Evening, hunts for Prey and follows the Scent with open Cry: To whom the Lion, whoſe Uſher he is, gives ear and follows to ſeize on it; the Jackal not touching it till the Lion be ſatisfy'd, and afterwards feeding on the Relicks.

Jacket, (Fr.) a ſort of Garment in Uſe among Country-People: Alſo a ſhort Coat which Horſe-men anciently wore over their Armour and Cuiraſſes; it was made of Cotton or Silk ſtitch'd between two light Stuffs, and ſometimes of Cloth of Gold.

Jacob, (Heb. a Supplanter or Beguiler) the Son of Iſaac, and Father of the Twelve Patriarchs. See Iſrael.

Jacob's-Staff, a Mathematical Inſtrument, for taking Heights and Diſtances, the ſame as Croſs-ſtaff; alſo a Staff that Pilgrims uſe to walk with to St. James of Compoſtella in Spain.

Jacobæa, St. James-wort, or Rag-wort, good to cure Inflammations, Ulcers and Fiſtula's.

Jacobine, a kind of French Potage with Cheeſe.

Jacobins, a Name given to the Monks and Nuns of the Order of St. Dominick; becauſe their principal Convent ſtands near St. James's Gate in the City of Paris in France.

Jacobites, a Sect of Hereticks ſet up by one Jacob a Syrian; they us'd Circumciſion, and acknowledg'd but one Nature in Chriſt: Alſo a Name lately given to the Partiſans of King James II.

Jacobus, (Lat.) James, a proper Name of Men. Alſo a Gold-coin ſtamp'd by K. James I. being of two ſorts, viz. the Broad Piece of Twenty Shillings Standard-value, now current at 1*l.* 3 s. 6*d*, weighing 5 Penny-weight 18 Grains; and the 22*s.* Broad-Piece worth 1*l.* 5 s. 6*d*, weighing 6 Penny-weight 6 Grains.

Jactivus, or Jectivus, (Latin Law-Term) that loſes by Default.

† Jaculation, a Shooting, darting, or caſting.

Jade, a ſorry Horſe or Mare; a Strumpet or lewd Wench.

Jael, (Heb. a Doe) the Wife of Heber, who kill'd Siſera.

Jagged, dented, notched, or cut like Teeth of the a Saw.

Jagging-iron, an Inſtrument us'd by Paſtry-Cooks.

Jail. See Gaol.

Jakes, an Houſe of Office, a Lay-ſtall.

Jalap, the Root of a kind of Solanum or Nightſhade, brought from the Weſt Indies, of a black Colour on the out-ſide, and reddiſh on the in-ſide, with reſinous Veins: It is a very good Purge for Watery Humours, and therefore uſually given in the Dropſy and Gout.

Roſine, or Magiſtery of Jalap, a Diſſolution of the oily, or reſinous part of Jalap, made in Spirit of Wine, and precipitated by common Water.

Jallamaka, a noted Place in the Great Mogul's Country, to which the Indians go in Pilgrimage.

Jamaica, an Iſland of America, one of the chief Plantations belongiug to the Crown of England.

Jamaica-wood, a kind of ſpeckled Wood, of which Cabinets are made.

Iambick, or Iambick Verſe, a ſort of Greek and Latin Verſe made up of Iambick Feet; Theſe are chiefly of two kinds, viz. the Dimeter Iambick, conſiſting only of four Feet; as

O carminum dulces notæ!

And the Trimeter, which conſiſts of ſix Iambick Feet; as

Suis & ipſa Roma viribus ruit:

However, ſometimes eſpecially in odd Places, a Spondee, Dactyl, or Tribrachus, is admitted inſtead of an Iambus. This Verſe is ſometimes call'd Carmen Archilochium, from the Poet Archilochus.

Iambus, an Iambick Foot, which conſiſts of two Syllables, the firſt ſhort and the other long; as doces.

Jambier, (Fr.) a Greave or Leg-piece; an Armour for the Leg.

Jambs, or Jaumbs, the Side-poſts of a Door.

James, (contracted from Jacobus) the Name of two Apoſtles, one the Son of Zebedee and Brother of John, the other Brother of Joſes and Kinſman of our Bleſſed Saviour: Of this Name there were ſeven Kings of Scotland, two of Great Britain, and as many of Arragon and Cyprus.

St. James's Wort, a ſort of Herb.

Jamoglaw, an Officer among the Turks.

Jampnum, (Latin Law-word) Furz or Gorſe; alſo gorſy Ground.

Jandou. See Yanden.

Jane, a proper Name of Women, ſoften'd, as ſome think, from Joan.

To Jangle, to differ, or be at Variance, to bicker, or quarrel.

Janitor, (Lat.) a Porter, or Door-keeper: In Anatomy the lower Orifice of the Stomach, otherwiſe call'd Pylorus.

Janizaries, a particular Order of Foot Soldiers among the Turks, who are of the Guard to the Grand Seignior.

Jannock, a kind of Oaten Bread, much us'd in the Northern Parts of England.

Janſeniſm, the Doctrine of Cornelius Janſenius, Biſhop of Ypres in Flanders, who maintain'd St. Auguſtin's Opinion concerning Grace, and was a great Oppoſer of the Jeſuits in moſt of their Tenets.

Janſeniſt, one that follows the Opinion of Janſenius.

January, the firſt Month of the Year, ſo nam'd in Honour of Janus, a very ancient King of Italy, whom the Romans made a God after his Death, and eſtabliſh'd him to bear Rule at all Beginnings.

To Japan, to Varniſh, and draw Figures on Wood, after the ſame manner as the Work-men of Japan, an Iſland of the Indian Ocean.

Jape, (old Word) a Tale, or Jeſt; as Chaucer's Japes.

Japyx, the Weſtern Wind, that blows from Iapygia, a Country on the Borders of Italy.

Jargon, (Fr.) broken Language, Gibberiſh, or Pedlar's French.

Jarr of Oil, an Earthen Veſſel containing from 18 to 26 Gallons: A Jarr of green Ginger is about a Hundred Pounds Weight.

Knights of the Jarr. See Knights.

To Jarr, to quarrel, or fall out; in Muſick to diſagree, or go out of Tune.

Jarrock, a kind of Cork.

Jaſione, (Gr.) a ſort of With-wind, an Herb.

Jaſmin, or Jeſſemin, (Lat.) a Shrub, the Flowers of which are of a delicate ſweet Smell, and chiefly us'd to perfume Gloves, to make Jeſſemin-Butter, &c.

Jaſper, (Gr.) a precious Stone of a green Colour.

Jaſponyx, a kind of Jaſper and Onyx Stone.

Jas-hawk, a young Hawk newly taken out of the Neſt.

Jatraliptes, (Gr.) a Phyſician or Surgeon that cures by Ointments and rubbing.

Jatrochymicus, a Chymical Phyſician.

Javaris, a ſort of Swine in America that has its Navel on the Back, good Meat, but hardly taken, becauſe it can ſcarce ever be tir'd in running, and ſo furious, that when 'tis forc'd it tears every thing to pieces with its Tuſhes.

Javelin, a kind of Dart, or Half-Pike, five Foot and a half long, which the Ancients made uſe of in War.

Jaunders, or Jaundice, a Diſeaſe occaſion'd by the overflowing of the Gall, and ſo call'd from the French Word Jaune, i. e. yellow, becauſe it makes the Skin appear of that Colour.

To Jaunt, to go, trot, or trudge up and down.

Jaunts, the Fellows of a Wheel. See Fellows.

Jay, or Jack-daw, a kind of chattering Bird.

Jazal, a precious Stone of an Azure or Blue Colour.

Ibernagium, (in old Latin Records) the Seaſon for ſowing Winter-Corn. See Hybernagium.

Iberis, or Iberus, a ſort of Water-Creſſes.

Ibex, the Evick, or Stone-bock, a kind of wild Goat.

Ibibcca, a Serpent in Braſil, the Bite of which being very venomous, does not immediately prey upon the Vital Spirits, but proceeds by degrees, and is cur'd by a Plaiſter made of the Serpent's Head.

Ibis, a tall Bird in Egypt, having ſtiff Legs, and a long Bill, with which it firſt taught the uſe of Gliſters; it us'd to eat up the Serpents that annoy'd the Country, and was Worſhipped by the ancient Inhabitants: It may be taken for a Snipe, or Snite, or rather a kind of Stork.

Ibiſcus, or Hibiſcus, the Herb Marſh-Mallows.

Ice-birds, a ſort of Birds in Greenland and Spitsberg ſo nam'd, from their running upon the Ice.

Iceni, a People anciently inhabiting the Counties now call'd Suffolk, Norfolk, Cambridgeſhire, and Huntingdonſhire.

Ich, a Word us'd for I in the Weſtern Parts of England.

Ich Dien, (Sax. i. e. I ſerve) a Motto or Device belonging to the Arms of the Princes of Wales, ſince the Time of Edward the Black Prince, who took notice of it on the Shield of John King of Bohemia, ſerving under the French King at the Battel of Creſſy, where he was kill'd, inſomuch that the Victorious Prince made uſe of the Motto himſelf, in Token of Subjection to his Father King Edward III. under whom he ſerv'd in that War againſt France.

Ichabod, (Heb. where is Glory) the Son of Phinehas the Prieſt, and Brother of Ahijah.

Ichneumon, (Gr.) the Egyptian Rat, a Creature about the bigneſs of a Cat, being an Enemy to the Crocodiles, whoſe Eggs it breaks, and ſometimes kills them, by ſtealing unawares into their Mouths when they gape, and eating out their Bowels.

Ichnography, (in Perſpective) the View of any thing cut off by a Plane parallel to the Horizon juſt at the Baſe or bottom of it: In Architecture the Geometrical Plan, Platform, or Ground-work of a Building drawn upon Paper, ſhewing the Form of the ſeveral Apartments, Windows, Chimneys, &c. In Fortification Ichnography is likewiſe a Draught or Repreſentation of the Length and Breadth of the Ramparts and other Works rais'd about a Place, the diſtinct parts of which are mark'd out upon Paper, or even upon the Ground it ſelf.

Ichor, a thick Matter of ſeveral Colours that iſſues out of Ulcers or Sores.

Ichoroides, a moiſture like Corruption.

Ichthyocolla, a kind of Glue made of the Skin of a Fiſh of the ſame Name, which is much us'd in Laſks and running of the Reins, to take away Spots and Freckles from the Face.

Ichthyology, a Diſcourſe or Deſcription of the ſeveral kinds of Fiſhes.

Ichthyophagi, certain People who feed altogether upon Fiſh, which they catch with Nets made of the Bark of a Palm-Tree, and build their Houſes with Fiſh-bones.

Icleped, (old Word) called, or named.

Icon, (Gr.) a Picture, or Reſemblance of any thing, a Statue, or Image.

Icond, (old Word) Learned.

Iconiſmus, (Gr.) an expreſſing, or faſhioning; a true and lively Deſcription: Alſo a Figure in Rhetorick, when a Perſon or Thing is repreſented to the Life.

Iconoclaſtes, (i. e. Breaker or Demoliſher of Images) a Title given to ſome of the Greek Emperors of Conſtantinople, who were zealous againſt the Worſhipping of Images, and would not ſuffer them to be kept in Churches.

Iconography, a Deſcription by Images or Pictures.

Icorven, (old Word) cut or carved.

Icoſaedron, (Gr. in Geom.) a regular ſolid Body, bounded by twenty equal Triangles having equal ſides, ſometimes ſet on a Pedeſtal for variety of Dials on each Plane.

Icterias, a precious Stone, good for the Yellow Jaundice.

Icterical, troubled with or ſubject to that Diſtemper.

Icterus, the Jaundice, a Diſeaſe that changes the Colour of the Skin into Yellow, and takes Name from Ictis, a Ferret, whoſe Eyes are of the like Colour. See Jaundice.

Icterus albus. See Chloroſis.

Ictis, a white Weeſel that deſtroys Bee-ſtalls, and eats the Honey; a Ferret, a Martern.

Ictus, (Lat.) a Blow, or Stroke, a Biting, or Stinging, a Blaſt, or Puff.

Ictus Orbus, or Ictus Cæcus, (in old Writers) a Bruiſe, or Swelling, any Maim or Hurt without breaking the Skin, eſpecially as diſtinguiſh'd from Plaga, a Wound, and aperta Plaga, an open Wound.

Icy Oil of Antimony. See Butter of Antimony.

Idea, (Lat.) the Form or Repreſentation of any thing conceiv'd in the Mind, whatſoever is there taken for the immediate Object of a Notion, Thought, &c.

Idea Morbi, (among Phyſicians) the Propriety or Quality of a Diſeaſe.

Identick, that is the ſame.

Identitate Nominis, a Writ that lyes for one who upon a Capias or Exigent is taken and committed to Priſon for another Man of the Name.

Identity, a Term much us'd in Logick and Philoſophy, ſignifying, as it were, the ſameneſs of a Thing.

Ides of a Month, (among the Romans) were eight Days in every Month, reckon'd backwards to the end of the Nones; as in March, May, July, and October, from the 15th. to the 8th. the Nones falling out on the 7th. and in all the other Months from the 13th. to the 6th. the Nones being on the 5th. Theſe Ides are ſaid to be ſo call'd from the old Tuſcan Word Iduo, to divide, becauſe they divided, as it were, the Month almoſt into two equal parts.

Idiocraſy, (Gr.) the proper Temperament or Diſpoſition of a Body or Thing.

Idiom, a Propriety in ſpeaking, the peculiar Phraſe, or manner of Expreſſion in any Language.

Idiopathy, a peculiar Affection of the Mind or Natural Diſpoſition: In the Art of Phyſick a Primary or Original Diſeaſe, which neither depends on nor proceeds from any other.

Idioſyncraſy, a proper and peculiar Conſtitution or Temper of a Man's Body, with reſpect either to Health or Sickneſs; or a peculiar Averſion againſt or Inclination for ſome particular Things.

Idiot, (in Greek) properly ſignifies a private Man, who has no Publick Office; among the Latins it is alſo taken for an unlearned or unſkilful Perſon, and in our Law for one that has no Wit, a Natural Fool, a Changeling.

Idiota inquirendo vel examinando, a Writ directed to the Eſcheator, or Sheriff of any County, where the Queen is inform'd that there is an Idiot born, of ſo weak an Underſtanding, that he cannot manage his Inheritance, or Eſtate, to examine the Party ſuſpected of Idiocy, and to certify the Matter into the Chancery.

Idiotiſm, a Propriety of Speech belonging to any Language.

Idiotiſm, or Idiocy, is alſo the Condition of an Idiot, Natural Folly, or Simplicity.

Idol, an Image or Statue, for the Repreſentation of a falſe Deity; alſo any Object of one's Fondneſs.

Idolater, a Worſhipper of Idols.

To Idolatrize, to commit Idolatry.

Idolatry, Idol-Worſhip, the rend'ring of Service or Divine Honours to Idols, or falſe Gods.

To Idolize, to be extremely fond of, to dote upon.

Idyl, a little Paſtoral Poem, or Copy of Verſes about the Affairs of Shepherds, ſuch as thoſe of Theocritus, Moſchus, &c.

Jealous, (Fr.) afraid of having a Rival, nice, or tender of.

Jealouſy, a being Jealous, Suſpicion, Miſtruſt.

Jeat, a ſort of black, light, and brittle Stone, which is otherwiſe call'd Black Amber.

Jebbe Ackcheſee, (Turk.) the Grand Seignior's Pocket-Money, which he gives away by whole Handfuls to his Mutes and Buffoons that make him Sport.

Jebus, (Heb. the Fire of the Lord) the ancient Name of the City of Jeruſalem, from Jebui, the Son of Canaan, from whom deſcended the Jebuſites.

Jeconiah, (i. e. Stability of the Lord) a King of Judah.

Jecoraria, (Lat.) a kind of Liver-wort, call'd Woodrow, or Woodrowel; ſome take it for Agrimony.

Jecur, the Liver. See Hepar.

Jecur Uterinum. See Placenta Uterina.

Jeer, or Jeer-Rope, a piece of Hawſer made faſt to the Main-Yard and Fore-Yard in great Ships, its uſe being to help to hoiſe up the Yard, and more eſpecially to ſuccour the Ropes call'd Ties, as alſo to keep the Yard from falling down if they ſhould break.

Jeer-Capſtan. See Capſtan.

Jeerct, a kind of Running Baſe on Horſeback, the Combatants darting Lances one at another; an Exerciſe in uſe among the Turks.

Jehoahaz, (Heb. the Lord ſeeing) a King of Judah, and Son of King Joſiah.

Jehoaſh. See Joaſh.

Jehoiakim. See Joakim.

Jehoram. See Joram.

Jehoſhaphat, (Heb. Judgment of the Lord) a Vertuous King of Judah, the Son of King Aſa.

Jehovah, the proper and moſt Sacred Name of God, denoting his Divine Eſſence, i. e. who was, is, and is to come.

Jehu, (Heb. Being) a Captain, who was made King of Iſrael by Eliſha, to deſtroy the Houſe of Ahab.

Jejune, (Lat.) empty, barren, dry, mean; as A jejune Style or Employment.

Jejunum, or Jejunum Inteſtinum, the ſecond of the ſmall Guts, which is about eight Foot long in Men, and ſo call'd from its being often found empty.

Jeman, a Word us'd in ſome old Records for Yeoman.

Jennets, Horſes of Barbary and Spain. See Genet.

Jeofail, (Fr. in Common-Law) is when a Cauſe or Iſſue is ſo badly pleaded or joyn'd, that it would be Error if they proceed; an Overſight in Pleading.

To Jeopard, to hazard; as To jeopard his Life to keep his Religion.

Jeopardy, Danger, Hazard, Riſque.

Jeremiah, (Heb. exalting the Lord) an Eminent Prophet among the Jews, whoſe Works are ſtill extant in the Canon of Holy Scripture.

Jerguer, an Officer at the Cuſtom-Houſe, who overſees the Actions and Accounts of the Waiters.

Jerkin, a kind of ſhort upper Coat; alſo a Male Hawk.

Jeroboam, (Heb. fighting againſt) the Son of Nebat, who revolting from Rehoboam, the Son of Solomon, made himſelf King of the Ten Tribes of Iſrael.

Jeruſalem, the chief City of Judæa.

Jeruſalem Artichokes, a Plant ſo call'd, but more truly Potatoes of Canada, becauſe they were firſt brought from that Plantation in America.

Jeſdegerick Epocha. See Epocha.

Jeſſamin, or Jeſſemin. See Jaſmin.

Jeſſant, or Jacent, (i. e. lying over) a Term us'd in Heraldry, when in a Coat of Arms a Lion or other Beaſt is born over ſome Ordinary, as over a Chief Bend, or Feſſe, &c.

Jeſſe, the Father of King David: In old Records a large Braſs Candleſtick, branched out into ſeveral Sconces, ſuch as are us'd in Churches. This uſeful Device was firſt call'd Arbor Jeſſæ, and Stirps Jeſſæ, from its reſemblance to the Genealogical Tree of Jeſſe.

Jeſſes, Ribbons hanging down from Garlands or Crowns: In Falconry ſhort Straps of Leather faſten'd to the Hawk's Legs, and ſo to the Varvels.

Jeſuati, an Order of Monks ſo call'd, from their having the Name of Jeſus often in their Mouths; they were firſt eſtabliſh'd at Siena, a City of Italy, A. D. 1365.

Jeſuits, or the Society of Jeſus, a well known Religious Order, firſt founded by Ignatius Loyola, a Spaniſh Soldier, and confirm'd by Pope Paul III. Anno Dom. 1540.

Jeſuits Powder. See Quinquina, and Peruvian Bark.

Jeſuited, that has embrac'd the Doctrine and Principles of the Jeſuits.

Jeſuitical, belonging to that Order.

Jeſus, (Gr. the ſame as Joſhua in Hebrew, i. e. a Saviour) the Venerable Name of our ever Bleſſed Lord and Redeemer, which was ſolemnly declar'd by an Angel before his Nativity.

Jet, (old Word) a Device.

To Jet, to run up and down.

Jet d'Eau, (Fr.) the Pipe of a Fountain that caſts up the Water into the Air.

Jethro, (Heb. excelling) the Father-in-Law of Moſes, who came to viſit him in the Wilderneſs.

Jetſon, Jotſon, or Jetſam, (Fr. Law-Term) that which being caſt over-board in the time of Shipwrack, is found lying on the Shore, and belongs to the Lord Admiral. See Flotſon.

Jews, the People of Judæa, and their Poſterity, ſo call'd from the Tribe of Judah, which was the principal and largeſt.

Jews-ears, a kind of Muſhroom, or ſpungy Subſtance, that grows about the Root of the Elder-Tree.

Jews-ſtone, a Stone otherwiſe call'd a Marchaſite.

Jews-trump, a ſort of Muſical Inſtrument.

Clerk of the Jewel-houſe. See Maſter of the Jewel-houſe.

Jeweller, a Merchant that deals in Jewels and precious Stones, or an Artificer that cuts and ſets them.

Jewiſe, (old Word) Reward by Revenge; alſo a Gibbet. See Chaucer's Works.

Jewiſh, belonging to the Nation of the Jews.

Ifere, (old Word) together.

Ifreten, (old Word) devoured.

Ignaro, (Ital.) a fooliſh ignorant Fellow.

Ignavus, (Lat.) ſlothful, ſluggiſh; alſo a wild Beaſt call'd the Sluggard, or Sloth. See Pigritia.

Ignis, the Element of Fire.

Ignis Actualis, (in Surgery) actual Fire, that which burns at firſt touch; as Fire it ſelf, or heated Searing-Irons.

Ignis Fatuus, a kind of Exhalation, or fiery Vapour, commonly call'd Will with a Wiſp, which appears in the Night, and often cauſes People to wander out of their Way: The Word is figuratively taken for an idle Fancy or Conceit, with which Men of ſhallow Underſtandings are apt to be led aſide.

Ignis Judicium, (old Law-Term) Purgation by Fire, or the old Judicial Fiery Tryal. See Ordeal.

Ignis Perſicus, (among Surgeons) a Gangrene; it is alſo taken for a Carbuncle, or fiery Plague Sore.

Ignis Potentialis, Potential Fire, a Cauſtick, or burning Compoſition, which being laid upon a Part for ſome time produces the ſame Effect as Fire.

Ignis Reverberii, (in Chymiſtry) a Reverberatory Fire, the Flame of which beats back upon the Veſſel, and is heighten'd by Bellows.

Ignis Rotæ, Wheel-fire, when the Flame in the Furnace runs round like a Wheel, covering the Crucible, Coppel, or Melting-Pot, entirely over, both on the top and round the ſides.

Ignis Sacer, St. Anthony's Fire, a Diſeaſe; altho' ſome take it for an Herpes, or kind of Shingles.

Ignis Suppreſſionis, a Fire above the Sand, ſometimes made uſe of in Chymical Operations.

Ignis Sylveſtris, a ſort of Pimple, otherwiſe call'd Phlyctæna.

Ignitegium, the Eight a Clock Bell, ſo termed from the Injunction that King William the Conqueror laid upon his Subjects, to put out their Fires and Lights at that Hour, upon the Signal of a Bell. See Curfew.

Ignition, (in Chymiſtry) a Calcining, or reducing of mix'd Bodies to Powder by means of Fire.

Ignivomous, Fire-belching, or caſting forth Flames, a Term properly apply'd to Ætna, and other burning Mountains.

Ignoble, that is of a mean Birth, Vile, Baſe, being of no Repute or Eſteem.

Ignominious, Diſhonourable, full of Shame or Reproach, Diſgraceful.

Ignominy, Diſcredit, Diſhonour, Diſgrace, Reproach, Shame.

Ignoramus, (i. e. we are ignorant) a Term us'd by the Grand Inqueſt, impannelled for the Inquiſition of Publick Criminal Cauſes, when they diſlike the Evidence, as defective, or too weak to make good the Preſentment; which Word being written on the Bill, all farther Inquiry upon the Party is thereby ſtopt, and he is ſet at Liberty, without farther Anſwer: It is alſo taken for a fooliſh or ignorant Perſon, a meer Dolt or Ninny.

Ignorance, want of Knowledge or Learning.

Ignorant, that knows nothing of a Matter, unacquainted with it; alſo illiterate, or unlearned.

Ignoſcible, fit to be pardoned, or forgiven.

I H S, a Character whereby Jeſus, the proper Name of our Bleſſed Saviour, was anciently expreſs'd, the middle Letter H being taken for the Greek E. Alſo the three firſt Letters of theſe Words, Jeſus Hominum Salvator, i. e. Jeſus the Saviour of Men; or Jeſus Hominum Sanctiſſimus, i. e. Jeſus the moſt Holy of Men, a Motto or Device commonly us'd by the Jeſuits.

Jig, a kind of Dance.

Jill, the ſmalleſt ſort of Wine Meaſure, the eighth part of an Engliſh Quart, or half a quarter of a Pint.

Jill, or Jill-flirt, an idle Slut, a ſorry Wench.

Jilt, a lewd Woman, or Whore, that cheats or diſappoints one.

Ikenild-ſtreet, one of the four famous Highways that the Romans anciently made in England, taking Name from the Iceni, a People that inhabited Norfolk, Suffolk, and Cambridgeſhire: This Road leads from Southampton over the River Iſis at Newbridge, thence by Camden, Litchfield, and Derby, to Bolſover-Caſtle, and ends at Tinmouth.

Ile, (Gr. in Anat.) the Cavity or Hollowneſs from the Cheſt to the Thigh-Bones, the Flank that contains the ſmall Guts.

Iles, or Oils, (Country-Word) the Spires or Beards of Corn.

Ileum, or Ileon, the third of the ſmall Guts, ſo call'd by reaſon of its great turnings, and being about 21 Hands-breadth in Length; it begins where the Gut Jejunum ends, and ends it ſelf at the Cæcum.

Ileum Morbus. See Iliack Paſſion.

Ileus, or Ileos, the ſmall or thin Gut; alſo the twiſting of the ſmall Guts, when their Coats are doubled inward, and there is ſuch a Stoppage that nothing can paſs downward.

Ilex, the Holm-Oak, or Scarlet-Oak, a kind of Tree.

Ilia, the Flanks, the ſide-parts of the lower Belly, between the laſt Rib and the Privities; the ſmall Guts.

Iliacal, or Iliack, belonging to thoſe Parts, or to the ſmall Guts.

Iliack Paſſion, a painful wringing or twiſting of thoſe Guts, when they are ſtopt up, or full of Wind, or troubled with ſharp Humours, or when the upper part of any Entrail ſinks or falls in with the lower: It is alſo call'd Chordapſus and Volvulus.

Iliack Veſſels, the double-forked Veſſels of the Trunks of the great Artery, and the great Vein of the Belly, about the place where the Bladder and Womb are ſituated.

Iliacus Externus. See Pyriformis.

Iliacus Internus, a Muſcle of the Thigh which ariſes from the inward hollow part of the Os Ilium, and joyning with the Pſoas Magnus is inſerted with it under the Pectineus; ſo that they both ſerve to move the Thigh forward in Walking.

Iliads, the Title of a famous ancient Poem Written by Homer about the Deſtruction of the City of Troy, otherwiſe called Ilium.

Ilium, the ſame as Ileos and Ileum.

Ilium Os, the upper part of the Bone call'd Os Innominatum, ſo nam'd becauſe it contains the Gut Ilium. See Coxa Os.

Illaqueated, (Lat.) inſnared or entangled.

Illation, Concluſion or Inference.

Illaudable, that is not to be praiſed, unworthy of Commendation.

Illecebra, the Herb Wall-Pepper or Stone-crop.

† Illective, Allurement, Inticement.

Illegal, contrary to Law, not rightful.

Illegality, a being illegal, Unlawfulneſs.

Illegitimate, unlawfully Begotten, Baſe-born, Baſtardly.

Illeviable, (a Law-Term) that cannot be levy'd, rais'd or recover'd, as An illeviable Debt.

Illiberal, ungenteel, baſe, niggardly.

Illiberality, meanneſs of Spirit, niggardlineſs, ſtingineſs.

Illicit, unlawful, unwarrantable, not allowed of.

Illinctus, Broth or Liquor that may be ſupped; alſo a kind of Medicine; as an Electuary or Lohoch.

Illiquation, a melting down: In Chymiſtry the mingling of Earthly Bodies with Metalline, ſo as both retain their own Subſtance.

Illiterate, that has no knowledge of Letters, unlearned.

Illogical, not agreeable to the Rules of Logick, unreaſonable.

To Illuminate, to inlighten, to ſet off or beautify: Alſo to draw in Gold and Colours the beginning Letters and other Ornaments, as it is done in many old Manuſcript Books; to lay Colours upon Maps and Prints ſo as to give them the greater Light as it were, and Beauty.

Illuminative Month, (in Aſtron.) that ſpace of Time, during which the Moon gives Light, or is to be ſeen betwixt one Conjunction and another.

Illumination, the Act of illuminating, inlightning, &c.

Illuminators, ſuch Perſons as anciently practis'd the Art of Gilding or Colouring the Capital Letters of Manuſcripts; whence our Limners.

Illuſion, a falſe Repreſentation or Fancy; a Sham or Cheat.

Illuſory, deceitful.

To Illuſtrate, to make clear and evident, to expalin.

Illuſtration, an illuſtrating, making clear or ſetting out.

Illuſtrious, eminent, famous, renowned, noted, noble, excellent.

Image, (Lat.) a Natural or Artificial repreſentation of a Thing, Reſemblance, Likeneſs, Form; a Statue or Picture: In Opticks the Projection of an Object in the Baſe of a Convex Glaſs.

Imagery, painted or carved Work of Images, Tapeſtry with Figures.

Imaginable, that may be imagined or conceived.

Imaginary, that appears only in form or faſhion, that has no Being but in ones Fancy, not real, Fantaſtical.

Imagination, an applying of the Mind to the Image of ſome Bodily Thing [illegible] in the Apprehenſion, [illegible], Fancy, Conceit, Thought.

Imaginative, belonging to the Imagination; as the imaginative Faculty, an imaginative Notion, &c.

To Imagine, to conceive or fancy, to think or ſuppoſe; to invent, deviſe or contrive.

Imagines, (Lat.) certain Images of Anceſtors which the Roman Noble-men anciently kept in the Porches of their Houſes, in Wooden [illegible] made for that purpoſe, and [illegible] about at their Funeral Pomps [illegible]

To Imbalm, ſee to Embalm.

Imbargo, (Span.) a ſtop or ſtay upon Ships by Publick Authority; ſo that none may come into the Port or Harbour, ſometimes that none may go out, and ſometimes that none may either come in or go out.

To Imbark, or Ship, to get or put on Ship-board; to engage in a Buſineſs, to undertake it, [illegible] with it.

Imbarkation, the Act of Imbarking.

To Imbaſe Gold or Silver, to [illegible] or more impure Metal, than it ought to be.

To Imbattle an Army, to draw it up in Battle, or diſpoſe it in order of Battel.

Imbattled. See Embattled.

Imbecillity, (Lat.) Weakneſs, Feebleneſs.

To Imbelliſh, (Fr.) to adorn, beautify, [illegible] or grace.

Imbelliſhment, ornament or ſet off.

To Imbezle or Imbeſil, to conſume, waſte, ſpoil ſuch Things as are committed to one's Truſt; to purloin or pilfer.

To Imbibe, (Lat.) to ſuck or drink in; to receive by Education.

Imbibement, the Act of Imbibing; as the Imbibement of Principles.

Imbibition, (in Chymiſtry) an eager receiving or drinking in any liquid Subſtance.

To Imbitter, to make bitter, to exaſperate, provoke or fret.

To Imbody, to make up into one Body, to mix ſeveral Ingredients together.

To Imbolden, to make bold, to encourage.

Imbordering, (in Heraldry) a Term [illegible] the Field and Circumference or Compaſs of [illegible] both one Metal, Colour or Furr.

To Imboſs, to raiſe with Boſſes or Bunches.

Imboſſed Work, ſuch as is raiſed with Boſſes or Knobs, in Stone, Marble, Metal, &c. Among Hunters, a Deer is ſaid to be imboſſed, when ſhe is ſo hard purſu'd that ſhe foams at the Mouth; and ſometimes to Imboſs a Deer, is taken for to chaſe her into the Thickets.

Imboſſing, a kind of Carving or Ingraving wherein the Figure ſticks out from the Plain on which it is made, and accordingly as it is more or leſs rais'd is term'd by the Italians Baſſo, Mezzo, or Alto Relievo.

Imbricated, (Lat.) a Term made uſe of by ſome Herbaliſts, to expreſs the Figure of the Leaves of ſome Plants that are hollow'd in like an Imbrex or Gutter-Tile.

Imbrication, (in Architect.) a making crooked like a Gutter or Roof Tile.

Imbracery. See Embracery.

Imbrocacado, (Sp.) Cloth of Gold or Silver.

Imbrocus, (in old Latin Records) a Brook, Drain or Water-courſe.

To Imbroider, to make Flowers and other curious Work with a Needle upon Silk, Cloth, &c.

To Imbroil, (Fr.) to cauſe Broils, Stirs or Quarrels, to put into a Confuſion, to ſet together by the Ears, to diſorder.

Imbrue, (Lat.) to ſoak or ſteep; as to imbrue one's Hands in Blood, i. e. to commit Murder.

To Imbue, to ſeaſon one's Mind with good Principles, Vertue, Learning, &c.

Imitable, that may be imitated.

To Imitate, to follow another's Example, to do the like according to a Pattern.

Imitation, the Act of imitating.

Imitatives, (in Grammar) Verbs that expreſs any kind of Imitation; as Patriſſare, to take after the Father; to imitate his Actions, Humour, or Faſhion.

Imitator, or Imitatrix, a Man or Woman that imitates.

Immaculate, unſpotted, ſpotleſs, undefiled.

Immanity, Vaſtneſs, ſuch a Hugeneſs as renders a thing unmanageable; alſo Savageneſs, Wildneſs, outragious Cruelty.

Immanuel, (Heb. i. e. God with us) a Name attributed by the Prophet Iſaiah, to our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, and afterwards declar'd by an Angel, ſome time before his Birth.

Immarceſcible, that cannot wither or decay, never-fading.

Immaterial, that does not conſiſt of Matter; as an immaterial Being; alſo that is of no great Moment or Conſequence; as 'tis very immaterial whether it be ſo or no.

Immateriality, an immaterial Quality or Nature.

Immature, unripe, not come to Perfection; (properly ſpoken of Fruit) haſty, done before its Time.

Immaturity, unripeneſs, &c.

Immediate, that acts without means; that follows, or happens preſently without any thing between.

Immedicable, that cannot be healed, incurable, remedileſs.

Immemorable, not worth remembring, not remarkable.

Immemorial, that is out of Mind or beyond the Memory of Man; being of ſo long continuance, that its beginning cannot be known.

Immenſe, being of ſo great largeneſs or extent, that it cannot be equalled by any Finite Meaſure whatever; unmeaſurable, huge, vaſt, prodigious, exceeding great.

Immenſity, unmeaſurableneſs, infiniteneſs, vaſtneſs.

Immenſurability, a being uncapable to be meaſured.

Immerged or Immerſed, dipt in or plunged.

To Immerſe, to plunge or dip over Head and Ears; the Word is only uſed figuratively; as To immerſe one's Self in all manner of Vice.

Immerſion, a dipping, ducking or plunging in Water; eſpecially ſuch as is uſed at Baptiſm. In [illegible], the method of preparing a Medicine by ſteeping it in Water, to take away ſome quality or ill [illegible]: In Chymiſtry, the putting of Metals or Minerals into ſome Corroſive Matter, to reduce them to Powder.

The Immerſion of a Star (in Aſtron.) is when it approaches ſo near the Sun, as to lie hid in its Beams: An Eclipſe of the Moon is likewiſe ſo called, when it begins to be darken'd, or to enter into the Earth's ſhadow. See Emerſion.

Immerſus Muſculus. See Subſcapularis.

Immethodical, that is without due Method or Order, confuſed.

Imminent, that is at Hand, approaching, ready to come upon us, hanging over our Head, as imminent Danger.

Imminution, a diminiſhing, or leſſening.

Immiſſion, a putting in, a letting into.

To Immit, to ſquirt or convey into.

Immoderate, that is beyond the bounds of Moderation, exceſſive, diſorderly.

Immoderation, Intemperance, exceſs.

Immodeſt, that has no Modeſty, malapert, wanton.

Immodeſty, Wantonneſs, Unmannerlineſs.

Immolation, a Sacrificing, or offering Sacrifice.

Immoral, that is of depraved Morals, contrary to good Manners.

Immorality, corruption of Manners, Lewdneſs, Debauchery.

Immortal, that never dies, everlaſting.

Immortality, the ſtate of that which is Immortal, everlaſtingneſs.

To Immortalize, to make Immortal.

Immoveable, unmoveable, that cannot be moved.

Immoveable Feaſts. See Moveable Feaſts.

Immunity, exemption or freedom from Office, Duty or Charge, Liberty, Privilege.

To Immure, to encloſe or ſhut up between two Walls.

Immutability, the quality of not being ſubject to Change, Unchangeableneſs, Conſtancy.

Immutable, that cannot be changed or altered; unchangeable.

Immutable Circles (in Aſtron.) the Eclipt ick and Equator; ſo call'd, becauſe they are never changed, but are the ſame to all the Inhabitants of the Earth.

Immutation, (Lat.) a changing and altering; alſo a Figure in Rhetorick, the ſame as Hypallage.

Imp, a familiar Spirit, ſaid to be attending upon Witches; alſo a kind of Graft to be ſet in a Tree.

To Imp a Feather in a Hawk's Wing (among Falconers) to add a new piece to an old broken ſtump.

† Impacted, driven in.

To Impair, to diminiſh, to make worſe, to weaken, to diſorder.

To Impale, to incloſe or fence about with Pales or Stakes: Alſo to drive a ſtake into the Body of a Malefactor; a Puniſhment among the Romans in the time of Nero, which is ſtill us'd in Turkey. In Heraldry, to impale is to divide a Coat of Arms into two equal Parts: Thus when the Coats of a Man and his Wife that is not an Heireſs, are born in the ſame Eſcutcheon, they muſt be marſhalled in Pale, the Husband's on the Right ſide, and the Wife's on the Left: and then the uſual Phraſe among Heralds is, Baron & Femme, two Coats impaled.

Impanation, (Lat. i. e. being in the Bread) a Term applied to the Doctrine of the Lutherans, who believe that the Body of Chriſt ſubſiſts with the Species of Bread in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Impanulare (in old Records) to empannel a Jury. See to Empannel.

Imparcamentum, the right of pounding Cattel, &c. See Parcus.

Impariſyllabical (in Grammar) not conſiſting of a like number of Syllables; with reſpect to the Caſes in a Noun, or the Tenſes or Perſons in a Verb; as Oriens, Orientis; Muto, Mutabam, Mutabimus, &c.

Imparity, inequality, unevenneſs.

To Impark, to encloſe or fence in a piece of of Ground for a Park.

Imparlance. See Emparlance.

Imparſonee (a Law-Term) as Parſon imparſonee, i. e. one inducted, or put in poſſeſſion of a Benefice.

To Impart (Lat.) to give part to another, to make him partaker of, to communicate, to deliver one's Mind.

Impartial, void of Partiality, juſt and upright, without favour or affection to any Party.

Impartiality, a being Impartial, diſintereſted.

Impaſſable, that cannot be paſſed through; as an impaſſable Way or Road.

Impaſſibility (a Term uſed by Divines) the ſtate of that which is impaſſible.

Impaſſible, uncapable of Suffering; as The Divine Nature of Chriſt is impaſſible.

Impatience or Impatiency, uneaſineſs of Mind under Sufferings, unquietneſs; alſo Paſſion or Haſtineſs.

Impatient, that has no Patience, unquiet, cholerick or haſty.

Impatronization, a putting into full poſſeſſion of a Benefice.

To Impeach (Fr. Law-Word) to accuſe and proſecute for Felony or Treaſon; eſpecially to charge another as guilty of the ſame Crime with one's ſelf.

Impeachment, an Accuſation or Information againſt one.

Impeachment of Waſte (in Common Law) a reſtraint from committing Waſte upon Lands or Tenements, which is uſually expreſs'd in a Leaſe, to recover Damages in caſe the Tenant make Waſte of the Houſes, Trees, &c.

Impeccability, an impoſſibility of Sinning or Offending; a Term peculiar to School-Divinity.

Impeccable, that cannot Sin or do amiſs.

To Impede, to lett or hinder, to ſtop.

Impediati Canes (in Latin Law Records) Dogs that are lawed or diſabled from doing miſchief in a Foreſt.

Impediment, Hinderance, Diſturbance, Lett, Rub or Stop; alſo an Imperfection or Defect in one's Speech.

To Impell, to drive, thruſt or puſh forward; to force or egg on.

To Impend, To hang over one's Head, as Dangers or Judgments do; to be likely to happen.

Impendent, impending, hanging over head, being at hand.

Impenetrability, a being impenetrable.

Impenetrable, that cannot be penetrated, pierced thro' or dived into; that is not to be diſcovered or fathomed; ſecret, cloſe.

Impenitence or Impenitency, hardneſs of Heart, which cauſes a Man to continue in Sin, and hinders him from repenting.

Impenitent, that does not repent, or is not ſorry for his Faults: unrelenting.

Imperative Mood (in Gram.) that Mood which implies a commanding or bidding one to do a thing.

Imperatoria, Maſter-wort, an Herb that drives out Wind; excellent for the Cholick, for the biting of venomous Creatures, malignant Diſeaſes, &c.

Imperatorius or Emperor's Piece, a Roman Gold-Coin worth fifteen Shillings Sterling.

Imperceptible, that is not to be perceived, unperceivable.

Imperfect, not perfect or compleat, unfiniſhed, faulty, lame.

Imperfect Concords. See Concords.

Imperfect Criſis. See Criſis.

Imperfect Flowers (among Herbaliſts) are ſuch as want the Petala, or thoſe finely colour'd ſmall Leaves that ſtand round and make up the Flower.

Imperfect Numbers (in Arithm.) are Numbers whoſe Aliquot Parts being taken all together, do either exceed or fall ſhort of that whole Number of which they are Parts; and theſe are twofold, viz. either Abundant or Deficient; which ſee.

Imperfect Plants, are by Herbaliſts accounted ſuch as really want Flower and Seed, or rather ſeem to want them.

Imperfect or Preterperfect Tenſe. See Tenſes.

Imperfection, Unperfectneſs, Defect: Among Bookſellers and Printers, it is taken for one or more Sheets that are wanting to make a perfect or compleat Book.

Imperial, belonging to an Emperour or Empire.

Imperial Lilly, a kind of a Flower.

Imperial Table, an Inſtrument made of Braſs, with Box, Needle and Staff, us'd in the meaſuring of Land, &c.

The Imperialiſts, the Forces or Subjects of the Emperor of Germany.

Imperious, that is of a commanding Spirit, apt to domineer or inſult; lordly, haughty.

† Imperforable, that cannot be bored thorough.

Imperſonal Verb (in Grammar) a ſort of Verb which throughout all Moods and Tenſes, is only expreſs'd in the third Perſon Singular, as Oportet, Libet, Licet, &c.

Impertinence or Impertinency, Extravagance, Sillineſs, Foolery, Nonſenſe.

Impertinent, not belonging to the purpoſe or matter in Hand; abſurd, ſilly, idle.

An Impertinent, a troubleſome, ſilly or fooliſh Perſon.

Impervious, that does not afford any Paſſage thro' it, unpaſſable: Among Naturaliſts, Bodies are ſaid to be impervious to others, when they will not admit the Rays of Light, &c. nor the Effluvia, or ſmall flowing Particles of other Bodies to paſs through them.

Impetigo, the Itch running with a dry Scab, a Ring-worm or Tetter, Mangineſs.

Impetigo Celſi, a ſort of Leproſie or Scabbedneſs.

Impetrable, that may be obtained by Deſire or Prayer.

To Impetrate, to obtain by earneſt Requeſt or Entreaty; ſimply to get a Grant of any Favour, Privilege or Benefice.

Impetration, the Act of impetrating, obtaining, &c. In our old Statutes, it is uſed for the getting of Benefices and Church-Offices, before-hand from the Church of Rome, which belong'd to the diſpoſal of the King or other Lay-Patrons.

Impetuoſity or Impetuouſneſs, violent Motion or driving forward, Vehemency, Furiouſneſs.

Impetuous, violent, vehement, raging, boiſterous, haſty.

Impierment (Fr. in old Statutes) an impairing or prejudicing.

Impiety (Lat.) Ungodlineſs, Irreligion, Profaneneſs, Wickedneſs.

† Impignoration, a putting to Pawn.

Impious, Ungodly, Profane, Lewd.

Implacability, Implacableneſs, Unreconcileableneſs.

Implacable, that cannot be pacified, appeaſed or reconciled.

To Implant, to ingraft, fix or faſten, in the Mind.

To Implead (Fr.) to ſue or proſecute by courſe of Law.

Implements, all things neceſſary about a Houſe, or belonging to Trade, Furniture, Tools.

† Implication, (Lat.) a folding or wrapping within another thing; Incumbrance, Intanglement.

Implicit, that is not expreſs'd in plain Terms, but only follows by Conſequence, tacitly underſtood; intricate, obſcure.

Implicit Faith (among Divines) ſuch a Belief as is grounded upon, and altogether upheld by the Judgment or Authority of others.

Imploration, an imploring or beſeeching.

To Implore, earneſtly to beg with Tears and Prayers; to beſeech, requeſt or crave with great Submiſſion.

To Imploy. See to Employ.

To Imply, to infold or contain, to denote or ſignifie; to infer or gather from.

Impolite, unpoliſhed, rude, homely, courſe.

Impolitick, not agreeable to the Rules of Policy, imprudent, unwiſe.

Imporous (a Philoſophical Word) that has no Pores or little Holes for the paſſage of Vapours, Sweat, &c.

Import, Senſe or Meaning.

To Import, to concern, matter or ſignify; alſo to carry, convey or bring Commodities into a Port.

Importance, Conſequence, Moment, Concernment.

Impor

Important, that is of great Concern, material, main, conſiderable.

Importation, the importing or bringing in of Merchandizes from Foreign Countries.

Importunacy, or Importunity, a being importunate, eager preſſing, hard dunning.

Importunate, wearying with repeated or unſeaſonable Requeſts, very urgent, troubleſome.

To Importune, to preſs or ſue for with great Earneſtneſs, to teaz, or vex.

Importuous, that has no Port or Harbour.

To Impoſe, to put, ſet, or lay upon, to lay or ſet a Tax, to enjoyn.

To Impoſe, or Impoſe a Form, (in the Art of Printing) to ſet the Pages in due order in the Form or Chace, and make them ready for the Preſs.

To Impoſe upon one, to put upon one, or cheat him.

Impoſition, an impoſing or laying on, an Injunction, a tricking or deceiving, an Aſſeſſment or Tax.

Impoſſibility, a being impoſſible.

Impoſſible, that is not poſſible, or cannot be done.

Impoſt, a Tribute or Tax, eſpecially ſuch as is receiv'd by a Prince or State for Goods brought into any Harbour from other Nations; as Cuſtom is a Duty paid for Wares ſhipp'd out of the Land. Alſo a Term in Architecture.

Impoſtor, a Cheat, a Cozener, or Deceiver, a falſe Pretender.

To Impoſtumate, to grow into an Impoſtume.

Impoſtumation, the Act of Impoſtumating.

Impoſtume, a Word commonly us'd inſtead of the Greek Apoſtema, i. e. an unnatural Swelling of Humours, or corrupt Matter in any part of the Body. See Abſceſs.

Critical Impoſtume. See Tumours Critical.

Peſtilential Impoſtume, a Swelling accompany'd with a Feaver, Swooning, Head-ach, and Faintneſs; they uſually ariſe in the time of a Peſtilence, or Plague, and are infectious.

Impoſture, Cozenage, Cheat, Deceit.

Impotency, an unableneſs, or want of Strength; it is often taken for a Natural Defect that hinders Generation.

Impotent, unable, weak, maimed, lame, vain, fruitleſs.

To Impoveriſh, (Fr.) to make Poor.

To Impound Cattel, to put them in a Pound, or Incloſure, for ſome Treſpaſs done by them.

To Impower, to endue one with Power, to enable him to act.

Impracticable, that cannot be practiſed, or done.

To Imprecate, to wiſh Evil to, or Curſe.

Imprecation, an Imprecating, Curſing, or calling for Miſchief upon another.

Impregnable, (Fr.) that is not to be taken by force.

Impregnate, (Lat.) being with Child, or great with Young.

To Impregnate, to get with Child, to make fruitful, to imbody, to ſoak or drink in.

Impregnation, the Act of Impregnating: In Chymiſtry it is when a dry Body has drunk in ſo much moiſture that it will admit no more, or rather when one thing is fill'd with another; thus Tartar is ſaid to be impregnated by Antimony with a Quality to provoke Vomiting.

Impreſe, (Ital.) an Emblem or Device with a Motto.

Impreſs, (Lat.) Print, Stamp, or Image; as the Impreſſes of a material Object.

To Impreſs, to print, ſtamp, or make an Impreſſion upon the Mind, or upon the Natural Faculties of the Body.

Impreſſion, an imprinting, or ſtamping; a Stamp, Mark, or Print; alſo a certain Number of printed Copies or Books.

To Impreſs Soldiers or Seamen, to compel them to enter into the Publick Service.

Impreſt-Money, Advance-Money given to ſuch Soldiers, &c. at the time of their being Liſted.

To Imprime, (a Term in Hunting) to unharbour, rouze, or diſlodge a Wild Beaſt: A Deer is alſo ſaid to be imprimed when ſhe is forc'd to forſake the Herd.

Imprintery, (Law-Word) an Impreſſion, or Print; alſo the Art of Printing, or a Printing-Houſe.

Imprimings, (old Word) Beginnings.

Imprimis, (Lat.) in the firſt place, firſt of all; a Word us'd in the beginning of laſt Wills and Teſtaments, Inventories, or Catalogues of Goods, &c.

To Imprint, to Engrave, or fix a thing in one's Mind.

To Impriſon, (Fr.) to put in Priſon, or in a Jail, to lay up, to lay by the Heels.

Impriſonment, Impriſoning, Confinement, the Reſtraint of a Man's Liberty, whether it be in his own Houſe, in the open Field, in the Stocks, in a Cage in the Streets, or in the common Jail.

Improbability, the State of that which is improbable.

Improbable, that is not eaſily to be proved, or approved of; unlikely.

Improbation, diſallowing, or diſapproving, diſliking, or diſlike.

Improbity, Diſhoneſty, Knavery, Wickedneſs, Lewdneſs.

Improper, inconvenient, unfit, unſeaſonable; a Word that does not agree with a thing, nor expreſſes it ſufficiently, is ſaid to be improper; and a Style becomes obſcure when improper Words are us'd therein.

Improper Fraction. See Fraction.

To Impropriate a Church-Living, (a Law-Term) to apply the Revenues of it to one's own private uſe.

Impropriation, the Act of impropriating, when a Lay-man is poſſeſſed of an Eccleſiaſtical Living, and converts the Profits of it to his own private uſe, only maintaining a Vicar to ſerve the Cure: It differs from Appropriation, which denotes ſuch a Benefice to be in the Hands of a Biſhop, College, or Religious Houſe; tho' theſe Terms ſometimes are confounded. See Appropriation.

Impropriator, he that has Poſſeſſion of a Spiritual Living or Parſonage by Inheritance.

Impropriety of Speech, is where the Speaker or Writer does not make uſe of proper and ſignificant Expreſſions or Words.

Improvable, that may be improved.

To Improve, to better, or make the beſt of, to promote or advance, to bring to greater Perfection, to grow more refined, to make a conſiderable Progreſs in any Arts or Sciences.

Improvement, improving, bettering, Progreſs, Advancement.

Improvidence, want of Forecaſt.

Improvident, that does not foreſee, or forecaſt, unheedful.

Imprudence, Indiſcretion, Unadviſedneſs, want of Foreſight, Heed, or Care.

Imprudent, unwiſe, unſkilful, unadviſed, indiſcreet; inconſiderate.

Impruiamentum, (in old Latin Records) Improvement of Land by Huſbandry, &c.

Impudence, Shameleſsneſs, Sawcineſs, a being void of Modeſty and Civility.

Impudent, Shameleſs, Graceleſs, brazen-fac'd, ſaucy, malapert.

To Impugn a Doctrine or Opinion, to endeavour to confute it by Argument.

Impuiſſance, (Fr.) want of Power or Means to ſucceed in an Affair; Inability for performing the Act of Generation.

Impulſe, (Lat.) Inforcement, Motion, Perſwaſion.

Impulſion, a driving forward, a thruſting or puſhing on, a conſtraining, or perſwading.

Impulſive, that drives or thruſts forward.

Impunity, a going unpuniſhed, an Exemption from Puniſhment.

Impure, unclean, filthy, foul, diſhoneſt, lewd.

Impure Logarithm. See Logarithm.

Impurity, Filthineſs, Uncleanneſs, Lewdneſs.

Impurpled, (a Poetical Word) dyed with a purple Colour.

Imputation, imputing, or laying to one's Charge.

Imputative, that is imputed to another; as Imputative Righteouſneſs.

To Impute, to attribute or aſcribe the Merit to one; alſo to lay the Blame or Fault on one, to charge with or lay to one's Charge.

Imrohor Baſſa, the chief Maſter of the Grand Seignior's Horſe, who has alſo the Charge of all his Camels, Mules, and other Cattel: The true Word is Emeer-Ahor, which ſignifies Lord of the Stable.

Imum Cœli, (Lat. i. e. the bottom of Heaven) a Term us'd by Aſtrologers for the fourth Houſe in a Figure of the Heavens, otherwiſe call'd Fovea, and the Angle of the Earth.

Inability, (Fr.) a not being able or capable.

Inacceſſible, (Lat.) unapproachable, that no Man can approach to, not to be come at.

Inacceſſible Height or Diſtance, (in Geom.) is that which cannot be meaſur'd, by reaſon of ſome hinderance in the way, as a Ditch, Water, &c.

Inadequate Idea's, (in Philoſ.) are ſuch Ideas as afford but a partial and imperfect Repreſentation of thoſe Archetypes or Images which are referr'd to by the Mind.

Inadvertence, or Inadvertency, a not ſufficiently obſerving, a want of Heed or Care, Heedleſsneſs, Over-ſight.

Inaffable, not affable, diſcourteous, uncivil.

† Inaffectation, Unaffectedneſs, a being free from Preciſeneſs or Formality.

Inalianable, that cannot be alienated, or made over to another.

Inamiſſible, that can never be loſt.

Inamorato, (Ital.) a Lover.

Inamoured, fallen in Love with.

Inanimate, (Lat.) that has no Life or Soul, Lifeleſs, dead.

Inanition, (in Philoſ.) Emptineſs, as it is oppos'd to Repletion, or Fulneſs: Among Phyſicians it is taken for Weakneſs, occaſion'd by want of Nouriſhment.

Inanity, a School-Term for abſolute Vacuity or Emptineſs, which implies the abſence of all Body and Matter whatever, ſo that nothing remains but meer Space.

Inappetency, want of Appetite or Stomach.

Inarticulate, not articulate, indiſtinct, confuſed.

Inartificial, being without Art, Artleſs, Unworkmanly.

Inaudible, that is not to be heard.

To Inaugurate, to Conſecrate, to Inſtall, to Inveſt with an Office or Dignity.

Inauguration, the Act of Inaugurating, the Ceremony perform'd at the Coronation of an Emperor, or Soveraign Prince, or at the Conſecration of a Biſhop.

Inaurated, cover'd with Gold, gilded over.

Inauration, (among Apothecaries) a gilding or covering of Pills, Bolus's, &c. with Leaf-Gold.

Inauſpicious, unlucky, ill-boding.

Inblaura, (in old Records) the Product or Profit of Land.

Inborow and Outborow, (in ancient Times) was the Office of him that was to allow and obſerve the Ingreſs and Egreſs of thoſe that Travell'd between the two Realms of England and Scotland; this Office was executed under King Henry VIII. by Patrick Earl of Dunbar.

Inbred, Natural, belonging to a particular Country; as inbred Vice, inbred Commodities.

Incaleſcence, (Lat. in Natural Philoſ.) is when a thing grows hot by ſome inward motion or working, as Quick-lime does when Water is pour'd upon it.

Incaleſcent Mercury, a Name given by Mr. Boyle to Mercury or Quickſilver prepar'd after a particular manner, which being mingled with a due Proportion of Leaf-Gold, or ſmall Filings, would amalgamate, or turn to a Paſte, and grow hot with the Gold, even in the Palm of one's Hand.

To Incamp, (in the Art of War) to pitch the Tents, or build Huts on a ſpot of Ground conveniently choſen for that purpoſe.

Incampment, the Lodging of an Army in the Field, according to its ſeveral Quarters.

Incantation, an Inchanting, or Charming; an Inchantment, Charm, or Spell.

Incantator, an Inchanter, or Charmer.

Incapable, not capable, not able, unfit.

To Incapacitate, to render uncapable, to put out of Capacity; alſo ſometimes to make able or fit for a Buſineſs.

Incapacity, the not having Qualities or Parts ſufficient and neceſſary to be in a Condition to do or receive a thing; Unability, Inſufficiency.

Incarceration, an Impriſoning, or putting in Priſon.

Incarnadine, or Incarnate, that is of a bright Carnation or Fleſh Colour, or of the Colour of a Damask-Roſe.

Incarnantia, or Incarnativa, (Lat.) Medicines that bring on Fleſh. See Sarcoticks.

Incarnate, made Fleſh, or that has taken the Fleſh; as a God Incarnate.

A Devil Incarnate, a Devil in the Shape of a Man; a Deviliſh Man.

To Incarnate, (in Surgery) to bring Fleſh upon or to fill up with new Fleſh.

Incarnation, aſſuming or taking of Fleſh, as The Incarnation of the Son of God: In Surgery an incarnating, or making Fleſh to grow: In Chymiſtry a particular way of purifying Gold by means of Silver and Aqua fortis.

An Incarnative, a Medicine that cauſes Fleſh to grow.

Incaſtelled, (Fr.) narrow Heel'd, or Hoof-bound, as An incaſtelled Horſe.

In Caſu Conſimili, & Proviſo, the Name of certain Writs. See Caſu Conſimili & Proviſo.

Incendiary, (Lat.) one that ſets Fire to Houſes, or puts things into a Flame or Combuſtion; a Sower of Diviſion and Strife.

Incenſe, or Frankincenſe, a ſweet ſmelling Gum, to make a Perfume, that diſtils from a Tree of the ſame Name.

Incenſe-wort, a kind of Herb.

To Incenſe, to inflame, or ſtir up to Anger, to provoke, or urge.

Incenſory, a Cenſer, or Perfuming-Pan.

Incentive, a Motive, or Incitement, any thing that provokes, or ſtirs up.

Incentor, (Lat.) the ſame as Incendiary, alſo one of the three ſorts of Singers in Parts; thus Accentor is he that ſings the higheſt, or Treble, Incentor he that ſings the middle part, or Tenour, and Succentor he that ſings the Baſs, or loweſt part.

Inceptive, a Term in Grammar, as Verbs Inceptive, the ſame as Inchoatives, which ſee.

Inceptive Magnitude, a Word us'd by Dr. Wallis to expreſs the firſt Principles in Geometry, which, though of no Magnitude themſelves, are yet capable of producing ſuch; thus a Point has no Magnitude itſelf, but is inceptive of a Line.

Inceptor, a Beginner, or Enterprizer, particularly one that has newly taken his Degree in the Univerſity.

Inceration, (in Pharmacy) a gentle ſoaking of moiſture with ſomething that is dry, till the Subſtance be brought to the Conſiſtence of ſoft Wax.

Inceſſant, that does not ceaſe, continual, uninterrupted.

Inceſt, Marriage or Carnal Copulation with one that is too near akin.

Inceſtuous, given to, or guilty of Inceſt.

Inch, a known Meaſure, the twelfth part of a Foot, containing the ſpace of three Barley-corns in Length.

Inch of Candle, or Sale by Inch of Candle, when the Goods of a Merchant, or Company, being divided into ſeveral Parcels, call'd Lots, the Buyers bid according to certain Conditions before agreed upon, during which time of Bidding a ſmall piece, about an Inch of Wax Candle, is burning, and the laſt Bidder, when the Candle goes out, has the Lot or Parcel ſo expos'd to Sale.

To Inchain, to put in Chains, or Fetters.

To Inchant, to make uſe of Magick, or ſome Diabolical Art, for the working of ſome Wonder that alters the Courſe of Nature; to Charm, or Bewitch.

Inchanter, a Wizzard, Sorcerer, Charmer, or Conjurer.

Inchantreſs, a Witch, or Sorcereſs.

To Inchaſe, to ſet in Gold, Silver, &c.

Inchepin, (among Hunters) the lower Gut of a Deer.

† Inchoation, a beginning of any Work.

Inchoatives, or Inceptives, (in Grammar) thoſe Verbs that expreſs a proceeding by degrees in any Action; as Caleſco, to grow hot, or begin to be hot.

Incidence, (a Term in Opticks) the place where Lines or Rays meet, or light one upon another. See Angle of Incidence.

Incidence-point, that Point in which a Ray of Light is ſuppos'd to fall on a piece of Glaſs.

Incident, happening to, or falling out occaſionally.

Incident Ray, a Term in Catoptricks and Dioptricks. See Ray of Incidence.

An Incident, (in Common-Law) a thing neceſſary, depending upon another as more principal; ſo a Court Baron is ſo incident to a Manour, and a Court of Pie-powders to a Fair, that they cannot be ſeparated.

Incidentia. See Tometica.

Incineration, (in Chymiſtry) a reducing the Bodies of Plants, Minerals, &c. to Aſhes, by means of a violent Fire.

Incipient Cataract. See Cataract Incipient.

To Incircle, to encompaſs, or ſurround.

Inciſion, a cutting, or lancing: In Surgery it is a cutting the Skin or Fleſh, to open a Swelling, or widen the Orifice of a Wound, &c. Alſo a Fracture, or Wound of the Scull, made by a cutting Inſtrument.

Crucial Inciſion, the cutting or lancing of an Impoſtume or Swelling croſs-wiſe.

Inciſion-Knife, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to make Inciſions.

Inciſivi, or Inciſores Dentes, the four foremoſt Teeth in each Jaw, ſo call'd by Anatomiſts.

Inciſivus Muſculus, a Muſcle that draws the upper Lip upwards.

Inciſores, (i. e. Cutters) the foremoſt Teeth, moſt commonly four in each Jaw, which have but one Root or Fang, and ſo eaſily fall or are pulled out.

Inciſure, a Cut, or Gaſh.

† Incitation, a ſtirring up, or provoking.

To Incite, to ſtir up, or move; to ſet, egg, or ſpur on.

Incitement, Inducement, or Motive.

Incivil, unmannerly, clowniſh, rude, ill-bred.

Incivility, unmannerlineſs, rudeneſs in Words or Behaviour.

Inclauſa, (in old Latin Records) a Home-cloſe, or Incloſure near a Houſe.

Incle, a ſort of Tape.

Inclemency, a being void of Pity or Compaſſion, Unmercifulneſs, Rigour, Sharpneſs.

Inclinable, inclining to, bent, prone, apt.

Inclination, Natural Diſpoſition, Proneneſs, Aptneſs, Affection, Love: In Chymiſtry it is the pouring off any Liquor from its Settlement or Dregs, by cauſing the Veſſel that contains it to lean on one ſide: In Geometry the mutual tendency or leaning of two Lines or two Planes towards each other, ſo as to make an Angle.

Inclination of the Axis of the Earth, is the Angle which it makes with the Axis of the Ecliptick, or the Angle between the Planes of the Equator and the Ecliptick.

Inclination of two Planes, is the acute Angle made by two Lines, drawn one in each Plane, and perpendicular to their common Section.

Inclination of a Plane, (in Dialling) is the ſmall Arch of a Vertical Circle, perpendicular to the Plane and the Horizon, and comprehended between them.

Inclinations of the Planes of the Orbits of the Planets, to the Plane of the Ecliptick are thus: Saturn's Orbit makes an Angle of 2 Degrees 20 Minutes, Jupiter's 1 Degree 20 Minutes, Mars's little leſs than 2 Degrees, Venus's 3 Degrees 20 Minutes, and Mercury's almoſt 7 Degrees.

Inclination of a Planet, is an Arch of the Circle of Inclination included between the Ecliptick and the place of that Planet in its Orbit.

Inclination of a Ray, (in Dioptricks) is the Angle made by that Ray, with the Axis of Incidence in the firſt Medium, at the Point where it meets or enters the ſecond Medium, i. e. at the Point of Incidence.

Inclination of a Right Line to a Plane, is an acute Angle, which that Line makes with any Line of the ſaid Plane, towards which it inclines or leans.

To Incline, to bow, or bend to, to lean towards.

Inclining direct South or North Dials. See direct South or North inclining Dials.

Inclining declining Dials. See declining inclining Dials.

Inclining Planes, are thoſe that incline or lean to the Horizon.

Incloiſtered, (Fr.) ſhut up in a Cloiſter, or Monaſtery.

To Incloſe, to ſhut in, to ſurround with a Wall, &c. to fence about, to contain.

Incloſure, a Place incloſed, or fenced in.

To Include, (Lat.) to ſhut, or take in, to comprehend, or contain.

Incluſio, (Lat.) a ſhutting or incloſing in; alſo a Rhetorical Figure, otherwiſe call'd Epana diploſis; which ſee.

Incluſion, an including, incloſing, or comprehending.

Incluſive, apt to include, or comprehend; as Juſtice is incluſive of all other Vertues.

Incogitancy, a not thinking, or minding, Inconſiderateneſs, Raſhneſs, Heedleſsneſs.

Incognito, (i. e. unknown) ſaid of great Perſons that come to any place, and are deſirous not to be publickly taken notice of.

Incoherent, that does not hang, ſuit, or agree well together.

† Incolumity, a being ſafe and ſound, or free from all Danger.

Incombuſtible, that cannot be burnt or conſum'd by Fire.

Income, Revenue, Rent, Profit.

Incommenſurable, (Lat.) that has not an equal Meaſure or Proportion with another. In Algebra, Surd Roots are ſaid to be Incommenſurable to Rational Numbers.

Incommenſurable Numbers, (in Arithm.) ſuch Numbers as have no common Diviſor, that can divide them both equally.

Incommenſurable Quantities, (in Geom.) are Quantities that have no Aliquot Parts, or between which no common Meaſure of the kind can be found: Thus the Diagonal and the ſide of a ſquare are ſaid to be incommmenſurable Lines.

Incommenſurable Quantities in Power, is when between the Squares of two Quantities, no Area or Content can be found, that may ſerve for a common Meaſure, ſo as exactly to meaſure both.

To Incommode, to cauſe Inconvenience, Prejudice or Hurt.

Incommodious, unconvenient, unprofitable, unfit; offenſive, troubleſome.

Incommodity, Inconvenience, Trouble.

Incommunicable, that cannot be made common, or imparted to another.

Incompact, not cloſe faſten'd; not well jointed, or joined together.

Incomparable, being without compare, that has not its like, matchleſs, peerleſs.

To Incompaſs. See to Encompaſs.

Incompaſſionate, void of Compaſſion or Pity.

Incompatibility, a being incompatible, Antipathy, Contrariety.

Incompatible, that cannot ſubſiſt, ſuit or agree together, without deſtroying one another.

† Incompenſable, uncapable of being compenſated or recompenced.

Incompetency, Inability, Inſufficiency.

Incompetent, incapable, not duly qualified; improper, unfit.

Incompetible, unſuitable, not agreeable.

Incompleat, not compleat, not brought to Perfection.

Incomplex, a Term in Logick. See Complex.

Incompliance, a not being diſpoſed to comply or bear with.

Incompoſed, uncouth, ill-favour'd, diſorderly.

Incompoſit Number. See Number.

Incompoſſible Propoſition, (in Logick) is that which affirms what another denies. See Compoſſible.

Incompoſure, Diſorder, Confuſion.

Incomprehenſibity or Incomprehenſibleneſs, a being incomprehenſible or inconceivable.

Incomprehenſible, that cannot be comprehended, or conceived.

Inconceivable, that is not to be conceived or imagined.

† Inconcinnity, Ungracefulneſs, Unhandſomeneſs, Ill-ſhapedneſs.

Incongealable, not capable of being congealed or frozen.

Incongruity, Unſuitableneſs, Unſeemlineſs, Diſagreeableneſs, Irregularity: In a Grammatical Senſe, an impropriety of Speech; among Naturaliſts a Property by which a fluid Body is hinder'd from uniting with any other fluid or ſolid Body that is diſſimilar to, or different from it. See Congruity.

Incongruous, improper, unſeemly.

Inconnection, the quality of things that are not hanged, linked or joyn'd together; alſo a Figure in Rhetorick, the ſame as Aſyndeton; which ſee.

Inconſequency, a weakneſs in arguing, when a Conſequence cannot be fairly drawn from the Premiſes.

Inconſequent, that does not follow or reſult from.

Inconſiderable, not worthy of Conſideration, Regard, or Notice; that is of little or no Account.

† Inconſiderancy, Inconſiderateneſs, Unadviſedneſs, Raſhneſs.

Inconſiderate, that does not conſider, or weigh in Mind; unadviſed, indiſcreet, raſh.

Inconſiſtence or Inconſiſtency, a being inconſiſtent or incompatible.

Inconſiſtent, that is not conſiſtent, ſuitable or agreeable to, that does not comport with.

Inconſolable, that cannot be comforted or cheered.

Inconſtancy, Unſteadineſs, Changeableneſs, Fickleneſs.

Inconſtant, fickle, light, wavering, uncertain.

Incontinency, a not abſtaining from unlawful Deſires, a Vice oppoſite to Temperance; Intemperance, luſtful Inclination.

Incontinent, that has no Command or Government of himſelf, unſtay'd, unchaſte, intemperate, looſe.

Incontinently, immediately, preſently.

Inconvenience, or Inconveniency, croſs Accident, Diſturbance, Trouble, Difficulty.

Inconvenient, not convenient, troubleſome, cumberſome.

Inconverſable, unfit for Converſation, unſociable.

Inconvertible (in Philoſ.) that cannot be tranſpoſed, changed or altered; as inconvertible Terms.

Incorporate, imbodied, as a Body incorporate, i.e. a Corporation or Company of Men united into one Body.

To incorporate, to imbody, to mingle, or mix together; to admit or receive into a Society, to annex or unite: In Chymiſtry, and Natural Philoſophy, it ſignifies carefully to mix the Particles of one Body with another.

Incorporation, an incorporating, uniting or joining of one Body or Subſtance with another: Among Chymiſts, the mixture of dry and moiſt Bodies together, ſo as to make one uniform Maſs.

Incorporeal, that is without a Body, Bodileſs; ſaid of Spiritual Beings.

Incorporeity, the State of that which is incorporeal; as The Incorporeity of the Soul of Man.

Incorrect, not correct, faulty.

Incorrigible, paſt Correction, that cannot be reclaimed, obſtinate, headſtrong.

Incorrupt, uncorrupted, untainted; whole and ſound.

Incorruptibility or Incorruptibleneſs, the State or Condition of that which is incorruptible.

Incorruptible, not ſubject to Corruption, never conſuming or decaying; alſo that cannot be corrupted or bribed.

Incounter. See Encounter.

To Incourage. See To Encourage.

Incraſſantia, (Lat.) incraſſating or thickening Things, ſuch as being endued with thick ropy Parts, are mix'd with thin liquid Juices to bring them to a due Conſiſtence.

To Incraſſate, to thicken or make thick.

To Increaſe (Fr.) to grow, or to cauſe to grow, to add to, to inlarge, to advance or improve, to be advanced, &c.

Increaſed in Number (among Aſtrologers) a Planet is ſaid to be ſo, when by its proper Motion it exceeds its mean Motion.

Incredible, that is not to be believed, ſurpaſſing Belief; vaſt, huge, exceſſive.

Incredibility or Incredibleneſs, a being incredible, or paſs'd all Belief.

Incredulity, unaptneſs to believe, Unbelief.

Incredulous, that will believe nothing, hard of Belief.

Incrementum (Lat.) Increaſe, Improvement; a growing or riſing bigger. In Rhetorick, a Figure wherein a Speech riſes up by degrees from the loweſt to the higheſt Pitch; as Neither Gold, nor ilver, nor precious Stones, may be compared to her Vertues. In our old Records Incrementum is taken for advance in Rent or other Payments, and oppoſed to Decrementum. Alſo improvement of Land, a parcel of Land incloſed out of common or waſte Ground.

† Increpation, rebuking or chiding, Rbuke, Check.

Increſſant, (in Heraldry) a Figure reſembling the Moon not come to the Full. See Creſcent.

To Incroach. See to Encroach.

Incubation or Incubiture, a Philoſophical Term for brooding or ſitting upon Eggs as Birds do.

Incubus, the Night-Mare, a Diſeaſe that oppreſſes People in their ſleep, and is cauſed by the riſing up of raw Humours into the Brain, and ſtopping the courſe of the Animal Spirits: Alſo a Devil that has Carnal Knowledge of a Woman, under the ſhape of a Man.

To Inculcate, to repeat and inſiſt upon a thing often, ſo as it were to beat it into one's Head, or Brains.

Inculpable, unreproveable, nblameable, blameleſs.

Incumbent, lying upon, as I have great Buſineſs incumbent upon me.

An Incumbent, a Clerk that is preferr'd to any Spiritual Living with cure of Souls, and is in poſſeſſion of it; ſo call'd becauſe he does or ought to bend his whole ſtudy to diſcharge his Function.

To Incumber, to crowd or ſtop, to trouble or peſter; to clog, to hinder.

Incumbrance, Hinderance, Stoppage, Clog.

To Incur (Lat.) to run upon or into, to fall under, to expoſe one's ſelf to.

Incurable, that cannot be cured, healed, or remedied.

Incurſion, (i. e. running upon) an Inroad, or marching of Soldiers into an Enemy's Country.

Incurvation, a crookening, bending, or bowing: In Surgery, a Bunch or Swelling in the Back.

Incurvation of the Rays of Light. See Refraction.

Incus, (Lat.) a Smith's Anvil. In Anatomy, a Bone of the inner part of the Ear, which reſembles a Grinder-tooth, and lies under the Bone called Malleus.

† Incuſſion, a violent daſhing upon or into.

† Indagation, a diligent ſearching, or ſeeking out.

To Indammage, to bring Dammage to, to hurt or prejudice.

To Indanger, to expoſe to Danger or Hazard.

To Indear, to make dear and beloved, to gain or cauſe Affection.

Indecency, (Lat.) Unbecomingneſs.

Indecent, unhandſome, miſbecoming, unſeemly, ugly.

Indecimable, that is not tithable, or not liable to pay Tithes.

Indeclinable, in Grammar that Noun is ſaid to be indeclinable or undeclined which does not vary the Caſes.

Indecorum, unſeemlineſs, unhandſome Carriage.

Indefatigable, that cannot be wearied or tired.

Indefeaſible or Indefeiſible (Fr. Law-word) that cannot be defeated or made void; as A good and indefeiſible Eſtate.

Indefenſus, (in old Latin Records) one that is impleaded and refuſes to anſwer.

Indefinite, that has no Limits or Bounds ſet, or that is conſider'd as not having any; undefined, unlimited.

Indelible, that cannot be cancelled, razed or blotted out.

To Indemnify, to ſave or bear harmleſs from Damage, Loſs or Danger; to give a Recompence, or make amends for a Loſs.

Indemnity, a being indemnify'd, or ſaved harmleſs. Alſo a yearly Penſion of 12 Pence or 2 Shillings paid in former times to the Arch-Deacon, when a Church was appropriate to an Abbey or College, inſtead of his Induction-Money.

Indemonſtrable, that cannot be demonſtrated or proved, uncapable of Demonſtration.

To Indent, to jag or notch; to make an Indenture.

Indented, notched: In Heraldry, the ſame as Dent; which ee.

Indented Line, (in Fortif.) a Line running in and out like the Teeth of a Saw; often us'd on the bank of the Counterſcarp upon a River or Sea-Coaſt.

Indenture, a Writing that contains ſome Contract or Agreement between two or more Perſons; being indented on the top and anſwering to another Copy, which comprehends the ſame Covenants and Articles, to be kept by the other Party. See Deed Indented.

Independency, the ſtate of that which is Independent, Abſoluteneſs.

Independent, that has no Dependency upon any one; being free or at full Liberty.

Independent Company or Troop. See Company.

Independents or Congregationaliſts, a ſort of Diſſenters, who manage all things belonging to Church-Diſcipline, within their own Congregations, and do not allow any dependance on a National Church: They appear'd firſt in England, about A. D. 1643.

Indeterminate, undetermin'd, unlimited, undecided.

Indetermined Problem. See Local Problem.

Indevotion, want of Devotion, remiſneſs in Piety.

Index, (Lat.) a Token or Mark to ſhew or direct, as the Hand of a Clock, the Pins that direct to Figures on ſeveral Inſtruments; Alſo the Fore-finger; the Table of Matters contained in a Book. In Logarithmical Arithmetick, Index is the ſame as the Characteriſtick or Exponent of a Logarithm, which ſhews of how many Places the Abſolute Number belonging to the Logarithm does conſiſt, and whether it be a whole Number or a Fraction. Thus in this Logarithm 2. 562293, the Number ſtanding on the left hand of the Point is call'd the Index, and ſhews that the Abſolute Number anſwering to it, conſiſts of three Places; as being always one more than the Index.

Indexes or Exponents of Powers, (in Algebra) are ſo call'd, becauſe they ſhew the Order, Seat, or Place of each Power, as alſo its Number of Dimenſions or Degrees, i. e. how many times the Root is multiplied in reſpectively producing each Power. Thus 2 is the Index or Exponent of the ſecond Power or Square; 3 of the third Power or Cube, 4 of the fourth Power or Biquadrate, &c.

India, a famous and vaſt Couutry of Aſia, called Indoſtan by the Natives, and by us India Orientalis, or the Eaſt-Indies, to diſtinguiſh it from America, named India Orientalis, or the Weſt-Indies.

Indian Creſſes, a ſort of Herb.

Indian Mouſe, a little Creature call'd Ichneumon in Greek, which creeping into the Mouths of Crocodiles, eats up their Entrails and kills them.

Indicant Days, (among Phyſicians) thoſe Days which ſignifie that a Criſis or Change in a Diſeaſe, will happen on ſuch a Day.

To Indicate, to ſhew or diſcover; as This high Colour indicates ſome Inflammation.

Indication, an indicating or ſhewing; a Symptom or Sign, Among Phyſicians and Surgeons, it gnifies a Diſcovery of what is to be done, and what Courſe is to be taken in order to reſtore the Patient's Health; thus if, upon due Examination, it be found neceſſary to open a Vein, they ſay, Bleeding is indicated.

Indicative Mood, (in Grammar) is that Mood which ſimply ſhews what is affirmed.

Indicator, (in Anat.) one of the Muſcles that ſtretch out the fore Finger, the ſame with Extenſor Indicis; which See.

Indicatorius Muſculus, a Muſcle that turns the Eye aſide.

Indicatum, (a Term in Phyſick) that which is ſignified to be done in order to the Recovery of Health. See Indication.

Indicavit, the Name of a Writ, by which the Patron of a Church may remove a Suit commenced againſt his Clerk upon account of Tithes from the Court Chriſtian to the Queen's Court.

Indices Dies, the ſame as Critical Days which See.

Indico. See Indigo.

To Indict, to impeach, accuſe, or prefer a Bill againſt an Offender in due Courſe of Law.

Indictable, that may be ſo indicted or proſecuted.

Indiction, (in Chronol.) the Space of Fifteen Years, a particular way of reckoning Time, appointed by the Emperour Conſtantine the Great, in the room of the Olympiads: By this Account, which began at the Diſmiſſion of the Council of Nice, A. C. 312. Sept. 24. Charters and other Publick Writings were dated at Rome, and anciently in England.

Indictment, a Bill of Accuſation preſented in a Court of Juſtice. See Enditement.

Indifference, or Indifferency, careleſs and unconcerned Affection, a not caring for, Unconcernedneſs.

Indifferent, that is of little or no Concern, not material, that has no Affection or Love for, cold; alſo pretty good, or paſſable, common, or ordinary.

Indigence, Poverty, Need, Want, Pinch.

Indigent, that is in Neceſſity, Needy, Poor.

Indigeſted not digeſted, raw, confuſed, diſordered.

Indigeſtible, that cannot be digeſted.

Indigeſtion, want of Digeſtion, or rawneſs in the Stomach.

To Indigitate, to ſhew, or point at, as it were, with the Finger; as Theſe things clearly indigitate that ſhe was a Witch.

Indigitation, an indigitating, or ſhewing; a convincing Proof, or plain Demonſtration.

Indigites, (Lat.) Demi-Gods, Tutelar Gods, Heroes, and Eminent Men, anciently enroll'd among the Gods, for their great Actions.

Indignabundus, the Name of a Muſcle of the Eye. See Abductor Oculi.

Indignation, Anger, Paſſion, Wrath.

Indignatorius Muſculus, (in Anat.) the fourth ſtraight Muſcle of the Eye, ſo call'd, becauſe in drawing the Eye outward it cauſes that Motion or Caſt which is peculiar to Men in the Paſſion of Anger.

Indignity, unworthy Uſage, Outrage, Affront.

Indigo, a kind of Stone brought out of Turkey, and commonly uſ'd by Dyers to dye Blew, as alſo by Confectioners, to give their Jellies, Paſtes, Sugar-Works, &c. a blew Tincture.

Indirect, (Lat.) not direct, or not upright, unfair, unhandſome, baſe, foul.

Indiſcernable, that cannot be diſcerned or perceived.

Indiſcerpibility, a Word uſ'd in Philoſophy for a being inſeparable.

Indiſcerpible, that cannot be rent, divided, or ſeparated.

Indiſcreet, unwiſe, unadviſed, unwary.

Indiſcretion, want of Diſcretion, or Judgment; Inconſiderateneſs, Imprudence.

Indiſcriminate, not ſevered, or differenced; where no Separation, Diſtinction, or Difference is made.

Indiſpenſable or Indiſpenſible, not to be diſpenſed with, or avoided; that is of abſolute Neceſſity, that admits of no Excuſe.

To Indiſpoſe, to make unfit, or uncapable.

Indiſpoſed, not willing to do a thing; ſick, or out of order.

Indiſpoſition, alteration of Health, Illneſs.

Indiſputable, that is not to be diſputed, or queſtioned.

Indiſſolvable, that cannot be diſſolved.

Indiſſoluble, that cannot be looſed, broken, or undone.

Indiſtinct, not diſtinct, confuſed, diſordered.

Indiſtinguiſhable, not to be diſtinguiſhed.

To Indite, to compoſe, or deliver the Matter of a Letter or other Writing.

To Indite. See to Indict.

Individual, belonging to an Individuum; as Every individual Perſon.

An Individual or Individuum, (in Philoſ.) a Body or Particle ſo ſmall that it cannot be divided, which is otherwiſe call'd an Atome: Among Logicians Individuum is that which denotes but one only Perſon or Thing, and is fourfold, viz.

Individuum Determinatum, or Signatum, when the Perſon or Thing is determined, or named, as John, the River Thames, Mount Ætna, &c.

Individuum Demonſtrativum, is when a demonſtrative Pronoun is uſ'd in the Expreſſion; as This Man, that Woman, this Horſe, that Houſe.

Individuum ex Hypotheſi, or by Suppoſition, when a general Name or Term is reſtrain'd by the Suppoſition to a particular Thing, as when 'tis ſaid The Son of ſuch a Man, and it is known that he had but one Son.

Individuum Vagum, is that which, tho' it ſignifies but one thing, yet may be any of that kind, as when we ſay, A Man, a certain Perſon, or one did ſo, or ſo, tho' but one Perſon is meant, yet that one Perſon, for ought appears to the contrary, may be any Body.

Indiviſibility, the Quality of that which is indiviſible.

Indiviſible, that cannot be divided.

Indiviſibles, (in Geom.) ſuch Elements or Principles as any Figure or Body may be laſtly reſolved into, and theſe in each peculiar Figure are ſuppos'd to be infinitely ſmall: Thus a Line may be ſaid to conſiſt of an infinite Number of Points, a Surface of parallel Lines, and a Solid of parallel Surfaces. This Doctrine of Indiviſibles is thought to have been invented by Archimedes, and was known to the Ancients under the Name of the Method of Exhauſtions.

Indiviſum, (Lat. Law-Term) that which is in common, without any dividing, parting, or ſharing; as To hold Lands, &c. pro indiviſo.

Indocible or Indocile, that cannot be taught, blockiſh.

Indocility or Indocibility, an unaptneſs to be taught, or to learn.

† To Indoctrinate, to inſtruct, or teach.

Indolence or Indolency, a being inſenſible of Pain or Grief.

Indolent, that feels no Pain.

To Indorſe, to write on the back of an Inſtrument or Deed ſomething that relates to the Matter therein contain'd.

Indorſed, (in Heraldry) Fiſh are ſaid to be born indorſed when they are repreſented with their Backs each to other.

Indorſement, that which is indorſed or written on the back of an Obligation, Conveyance, or other Deed, To Indow. See To Endow.

Indraught, a Gulph or Bay that runs in between two Lands.

Indubitable, (Lat.) not to be doubted, or queſtioned, paſt all Diſpute.

Indubitate, undoubted.

To Induce, to lead to, to draw on, or perſwade.

Inducement, a Motive to a thing.

Induciary, belonging to a League, or Truce.

† Induciate, immediate, next; as The induciate Heir of the Crown of England.

Inducted, that has receiv'd Induction, admitted to the Poſſeſſion of a Spiritual Living.

Induction, properly a bringing or leading into, an Inducement, or Perſwaſion, an Inference, Concluſion, or Conſequence: In Logick a kind of imperfect Syllogiſm, when the Species is gather'd out of the Individuals, the Genus out of the Species, and the whole out of the Parts. In a Law-ſenſe Induction is the putting of a Clerk in Poſſeſſion of his Church, when the Commiſſary, or Biſhop's Deputy, leads him into it, delivers him the Keys, and cauſes one of the Bells to be rung out. See Inſtitution.

To Indue. See To Endue.

To Indulge, to cocker, or be fond of, to make much of, to gratify.

Indulgence, Gentleneſs, Favour, Fondneſs, aptneſs to tolerate or bear with; alſo Pardon or Forgiveneſs of Sins granted by the Pope upon ſpecial Occaſions.

Indulgent, gentle, tender-hearted, mild, kind, fond.

Indult, or Indulto, a ſpecial Grant made by the Pope to any Society or Corporation, or to any private Perſon, to do or obtain ſomething contrary to the Ordination of the Canon-Law.

Indult of Kings, a Power granted them by the Pope to nominate to Conſiſtorial Benefices, either by Treaty and Agreement, or by particular Privilege.

Indurable, that may be indured, or born, tolerable, ſufferable.

Indurantia, (Lat.) hardening Medicines; the ſame as Scleroticks.

To Indurate, to harden, or make hard; as The Sun indurates Clay.

Induration, the Act of indurating, or making hard.

To Indure, to ſuffer, or bear, to continue, or laſt.

Induſium, (Lat.) a Shirt, or Shift: In Anatomy it is ſometimes taken for the innermoſt Coat that covers a young Child in the Womb, otherwiſe call'd Amnion.

Induſtrious, laborious, pains-taking, diligent, active.

Induſtry, Pains, Labour, Diligence, Ingenuity.

To Inebriate, properly to make drunk, or fuddle, to beſot, to make proud, or conceited.

Inebriation, the Act of Inebriating.

Inched, old Word) put in.

Inedia, (Lat.) want of Meat and Drink, Hunger; among Phyſicians it is taken for Abſtinence, when one eats leſs than formerly.

Ineffable, unſpeakable, not to be uttered, expreſſed, or comprehended.

Ineffable Numbers, the ſame as Surd Numbers.

Ineffective, or Ineffectual, that has no Effect, vain, fruitleſs.

Inefficacious, that is of no Efficacy, Force, or Virtue.

† Inenarrable, that cannot be declared, or related.

Inept, unmeet, unfit, weak, ſilly; as inept Paſſion, Underſtanding, Controverſie, &c.

Ineptitude, Unaptneſs, Incapacity, Defect.

Inequality, unequalneſs, unevenneſs, unlikeneſs, diſproportion.

Inergetical Bodies or Particles, (among Naturaliſts) ſuch as are unactive and ſluggiſh.

Inerrability, Infallibility.

Inerrable, that cannot err, infallible.

Inert, (a Term in Philoſ.) incapable of Action, ſluggiſh, ſpiritleſs; as Inert Matter.

Inerticula, (Lat.) a kind of Vine, the Wine of which could not make one drunk.

† Ineſcation, a deceiving, or inveigling, as it were a drawing on with a Bait.

Ineſcutcheon, (in Heraldry) ſignifies that Eſcutcheon which takes up a fifth part of the Field, and is born in it as an Ordinary: Thus He bears Ermin an Eſcutcheon Gules. It is alſo the ſame with an Eſcutcheon of Pretence, which ſee.

In Eſſe, (Lat. i. e. in Being) a Law-Phraſe, a thing that is apparent and viſible, having a real Being, oppos'd to a thing in Poſſe, or Potentia, which is not, but may be.

Ineſtimable, that cannot be ſufficiently valued, or have a Price ſet upon it, according to its Worth.

Inevitable, not to be ſhunned, or avoided, unavoidable.

Inexcuſable, that will admit of no Excuſe, or is not to be excuſed.

Inexhauſtible, that cannot be exhauſted, drawn out, or emptied.

Inexorable, that will not be perſwaded, or entreated, not to be prevail'd upon with Prayers or Entreaties.

Inexpedient, that is not expedient, convenient, or fit.

Inexperience, want of Experience, or Skill.

Inexperienced, that has no Experience.

Inexpiable, not to be expiated, or atoned for.

Inexplicable, that cannot be explained, or unfolded.

Inexpreſſible, that cannot be expreſſed, unutterable.

Inexpugnable, impregnable, not to be taken or won by Force.

Inextinguiſhable, not to be put out, or quenched, unquenchable.

Inextirpable, that cannot be extirpated, rooted out, pulled up, or utterly deſtroy'd.

Inextricable, that one cannot rid himſelf or get out of.

Inexuperable, not to be overcome, or ſurpaſſed.

Infallibility, a Faculty of never erring, which belongs only to God, and is falſely attributed by ſome to the Pope, or to a General Council.

Infallible, that cannot err, or be deceived, never-failing.

Infamous, that has an ill Name, Scandalous, Shameful, Baſe, Villainous.

Infamy, Diſgrace, Diſcredit, Shame, Reproach

Infancy, the firſt State of Human Life, which is reckon'd from the firſt Year to the ſeventh.

Infangthefe, (Sax. Law-Term) a Privilege to paſs Judgment upon any Theft committed within the Juriſdiction of the Lords of certain Manours by their own Servants, as Utfangthefe ſignify'd the like Liberty when Theft was committed by a Stranger.

Infant, a young Child, properly that cannot ſpeak, a Babe: In a Law-ſenſe all Perſons are ſo reputed before the Age of 21 Years.

Infante's, and Infanta's, all the Sons and Daughters of the Kings of Spain and Portugal, ſo call'd by way of Eminence, except the Eldeſt, who are ſtyl'd Principe and Princeſa.

Infanticide, Infant-killing, a murdering of Infants, or young Children.

Infantry, (in the Art of War) the whole Body of Foot Soldiers, whether independent Companies, or Regimented.

Infatigable, or Indefatigable, not to be tired, or wearied.

To Infatuate, to make fooliſh, to bewitch, or beſot.

Infatuation, an infatuating, a ſtrong Prejudice, a conceited Opinion.

To Infect, to communicate to another Corruption, Poiſon, or Peſtilence, to corrupt, or taint; figuratively we ſay, Such a one is infected with the Venom of falſe Doctrine.

Infection, a Plague, Corruption, or Stench, that is apt to infect or annoy others.

Infectious, noiſome, ſtinking, tainting, catching.

Infecundity, Barrenneſs, Unfruitfulneſs.

To Infeeble, to make feeble, to weaken.

Infelicity, Unhappineſs, Unluckineſs, Misfortune.

To Infeoff, (a Law-Term) to unite, or joyn to the Fee.

Infeoffment, an infeoffing, a Settlement in Fee.

To Infer, (Lat.) to conclude, or gather, to draw a Conſequence.

Inference, Concluſion, Conſequence.

Inferiority, lower Rank, or Degree.

Inferiour, that is of a lower Degree, or Merit, lower, meaner.

Inferiour Planets, (in Aſtron.) ſuch as are plac'd below the Orbit of the Sun.

Inferiours, Perſons of a meaner Quality, or lower Rank.

Infernal, belonging to Hell, Helliſh.

Infernal Stone, a perpetual Cauſtick, or burning Compoſition, us'd by Surgeons, and ſo call'd from the exquiſite Pain it cauſes in the Operation; it is the ſame with the Silver Cautery. See Cautery.

Infertile, unfruitful, barren.

Infertility, or Infertileneſs, Unfruitfulneſs, Barrenneſs.

To Infeſt, to annoy, or trouble, to indamage, or hurt.

† Infibulation, a buttoning or buckling in, a claſping together.

Infidel, an Unbeliever, one that is a Stranger to the Chriſtian Faith: By the Infidels we uſually mean the Turks.

Infidelity, ſuch Unbelief, the State of an Unbeliever; alſo Unfaithfulneſs, Diſloyalty, Treachery.

Infimus Venter, (Lat. a Term us'd by Anatomiſts) the lowermoſt of the three Venters of a Human Body, the lower Belly. See Abdomen.

Infinite, that has no Terms, Limits, or Bounds, endleſs, boundleſs, innumerable, unmeaſurable.

Infinite Series. See Series.

Infinitive Mood, (in Grammar) a Mood ſo call'd, becauſe it is not limited either by Number or Perſon, as other Moods are.

Infinity, or Infiniteneſs, Endleſsneſs, Unmeaſurableneſs.

Infirm, weak, feeble, crazy, ſickly.

Infirmary, a particular Apartment for Sick People in a Monaſtery, or Hoſpital.

Infirmity, Sicklineſs, Weakneſs, Feebleneſs.

† Infiſtulated, turned to, or full of Fiſtula's.

To Infix, to fix or faſten in the Mind.

To Inflame, to ſet one's Heart on fire, to heat, to enrage, or incenſe, to put in a Paſſion, to provoke.

Inflammable, apt to catch, or take Fire.

Inflammation, a bliſtering Heat, a Tumour, or Swelling of the Blood in the Fleſh and Muſcles, ſo as to cauſe Heat, Redneſs, Beating and Pain.

Inflate, ſwoln, or puff'd up with Wind, whence An inflate Expreſſion, i. e. an Expreſſion ſwelling with big Words, but to little purpoſe.

Inflation, a puffing up, a windy Swelling, the ſtretching out of a Part occaſion'd by windy Humours.

Inflection, (in Opticks) a manifold Refraction of the Rays of Light, caus'd by the unequal thickneſs of any Medium, ſo that the Motion or Progreſs of the Ray is hinder'd from going on in a right Line, and is inflected or bent back on the inſide by a Curve.

Inflection-Point of a Curve, (in Geom.) the Point or Place where the Curve or crooked Lin'd Figure begins to bend back again a contrary way.

Inflexibility, or Inflexibleneſs, an inflexible Humour, Obſtinacy, Stiffneſs.

Inflexible, that cannot be bended, or bowed; not to be perſwaded, or prevail'd upon.

To Inflict, to lay a Puniſhment upon.

Infliction, the Act of Inflicting.

Influence, a ſending forth Virtue or Power, the Effect of the Heat and Light of the Heavenly Bodies, to which Aſtrologers attribute all the Events that happen upon Earth; alſo the Power that a Superior has over an Inferior.

To Influence, to have Influence upon, to produce, or cauſe, to have Power over, to incline.

Influx, a flowing or running in, eſpecially of one River into another.

To Infold, to fold, or wrap up.

To Inforce, to prevail upon by force of Arguments, to conſtrain, or oblige.

Inforcement, ſuch a Compulſion or Conſtraint.

To Inform, to give notice, to tell, to inſtruct, or teach.

In Forma Pauperis, (a Law-Phraſe) when a Perſon, after having made Oath before a Judge that he is not worth Five Pounds, his Debts paid, is admitted to ſue under Form of a Poor Man, ſo as to have Council or an Attorney aſſign'd to manage his Buſineſs without any Fees.

Information, informing, telling, or making known, Advice, Inſtruction, Accuſation, or Charge brought againſt one.

Informatus non ſum, (i. e. I am not informed) a formal Anſwer made by an Attorney, whom the Coutt orders to ſay what he thinks good in Defence of his Client, whereby he is deem'd to leave his Client undefended, and ſo Judgment paſſes for the adverſe Party.

Informed Stars, (in Aſtrol.) ſuch fixed Stars as are not ranged under any Form or particular Conſtellation.

Informer, one that in any Court of Judicature informs againſt or proſecutes thoſe that tranſgreſs any Law or penal Statute: Theſe are alſo ſometimes call'd Promoters and Delatores by the Civilians.

Informous, (a Term in Philoſ.) that is without Form, Faſhion, or Shape.

Infortunate, or Unfortunate, unlucky, unhappy.

Infortunes, the Planets Saturn and Mars ſo termed by Aſtrologers, upon account of their ill-diſpoſed Natures and unfortunate Influences.

To Infranchiſe, (Fr. Law-Term) to ſet free, to give one his Liberty, to make a Free-man, or Denizon; to incorporate into a Society, or Body Politick.

Infranchiſement, the Act of Infranchiſing, or ſetting free, &c. Delivery, Diſcharge, Releaſe.

Infra Scapularis Muſculus, (in Anat.) a fleſhy and broad Muſcle of the Arm which ariſes from the lower ſide of the Scapula, or Shoulder-blade, and ends in the third Ligament of the Shoulder: It is otherwiſe call'd Subſcapularis and Immerſus.

Infra Spinatus Muſculus, or Supra Scapularis Inferior, a Muſcle of the Arm which moves it directly backward, and is ſo nam'd from its being plac'd below the Spine, under which it ariſes from the Root of the Shoulder-blade, and is inſerted, like the Supra Spinatus, to the Head of the Shoulder-bone.

Infrequent, that happens but ſeldom, uncommon, rare.

† Infrangible, that cannot be broken.

Infrication, or Infriction, a rubbing or chafing in.

To Infringe, (properly to break to pieces) to violate, tranſgreſs, or break a Law, Cuſtom, Privilege, &c.

Infringement, ſuch infringing, Violation, or Breach.

† Infucation, a laying on of Drugs or artificial Colours on the Face, a colouring, or diſguiſing.

Infundibuli formis, a Term apply'd by ſome Herbaliſts to any Flower that is ſhap'd like a Funnel.

Infundibulum, (Lat.) a Tunnel, or Funnel, for the pouring off Liquors into Veſſels.

Infundibulum Cerebri, (in Anat.) the Brain-Tunnel, a hollow place in the Root of the Brain, by which ſerous Excrements are diſcharged, and brought down to the Pituitary Glandule.

Infundibulum Renum, the Pelvis, or Baſin of the Reins, thro' which the Urine paſſes to the Ureters and Bladder.

To Infuſe, to pour in, or into, to ſteep, or ſoak, to inſpire, or endue with.

Infuſion, the Act of infuſing, pouring in, &c. In Phyſick it is taken for a ſteeping of Roots, Leaves, or any kind of Drugs, in ſome convenient Liquor, in order to draw out their Virtue.

To Ingage. See To Engage.

Ingemination, a doubling, a repeating of the ſame Word again.

To Ingeminate, to redouble, to repeat often.

To Ingender, to beget, to produce, or cauſe, to breed.

Ingenerated, not ingender'd, not produc'd by Generation.

Ingenier. See Engineer.

Ingenio, a Word us'd in Barbadoes for a Houſe or Mill where Sugar is made.

Ingenious, quick-witted, full of Wit, cunning, ſhrewd, exquiſite, excellent.

Ingenito, inbred, bred by Nature, Natural.

Ingenium, (Lat.) Natural Quality or Diſpoſition, Fancy, Capacity, Judgment: In our old Records it is taken for an Engine, Inſtrument, or Device.

Ingenuitas Regni, (in old Records) the Freeholders, or Commonalty of the Kingdom: The Term was alſo ſometimes apply'd to the Chief Barons, i. e. the Great Lords, and King's Common-Council.

Ingenuity, Ingeniouſneſs, quickneſs of Wit, Smartneſs; alſo Ingenuouſneſs, Sincerity, Frankneſs in Speech or Dealing.

Ingenuous, free, open, frank, ſincere, plain.

Ingeny, Genius, Natural Diſpoſition, Parts, Humour, &c.

Ingeſted, put in, as Ingeſted into the Mouth.

Ingle. See Catamite.

Inglorious, that is of no Renown, or Repute, Diſhonourable, Baſe, Mean.

To Ingorge. See To Gorge.

Ingot, a little Wedge or Maſs of Gold or Silver, an uncertain Quantity of Bullion.

To Ingraft, to graft, to ſet a Graft or young Shoot into the Stock of a Tree, to implant, imprint, or fix in the Mind.

Ingrailed, notched about, a Term in Heraldry, as A Bordure ingrailed, i. e. when the Line of which it is made bends in towards the Field.

Ingrate, (Lat.) ungrateful, unthankful, unmindful.

To Ingratiate one's ſelf, to curry Favour, to endeavour to gain another's good Will.

Ingratitude, Ungratefulneſs, Unthankfulneſs.

To Ingrave. See To Engrave.

Ingredient, (Lat. i. e. going in) one of the Simples that are put into a Compound Medicine, Sauce, &c. and in general Ingredients ſignifie the reſpective Parts or Principles that go to the making up of a mix'd Body.

Ingree, (old Word) in good part.

Ingreſs, (Lat.) an entrance upon, or going into: In Aſtronomy the Sun's entring the firſt Scruple of any of the four Cardinal Signs, eſpecially Aries.

Ingreſſu, a Writ of Entry, whereby a Man ſeeks Entry or Admittance into Lands or Tenements, which Writ is of ſeveral Forms, and lyes in many Caſes.

Ingreſſu in Caſu Conſimili. See Caſu Conſimili.

Ingreſſu in Caſu Proviſo. See Caſu Proviſo.

Ingreſſu ad Communem Legem, a Writ that lyes where a Tenant for Term of Life, Tenant by Courteſie, or Tenant in Dower, makes a Feoffment and dies, ſo that he in Reverſion ſhall have the ſaid Writ againſt any Perſon whatever that is in the Land after ſuch Feoffment made.

Ingreſſus, an Entrance, or Beginning; in a Law-ſenſe a Relief or Duty which the Heir or Succeſſor at full Age anciently paid to the Chief Lord for entring upon the Fee, or Lands that were fallen to him.

In groſs, (a Law-Term) that which peculiarly belongs to the Perſon of the Lord, and not to any Manour, Lands, &c.

To Ingroſs, to write fair, and in great Characters, to write over the firſt Draught of an Inſtrument or Deed in a more fair and ample manner; alſo to buy up any Commodity in the groſs, to foreſtall.

Ingroſſator magni Rotuli, an Officer in the Exchequer, commonly call'd Clerk of the Pipe. See Pipe.

Ingroſſer, a Clerk that ingroſſes, or writes Records, Conveyances, or other Deeds of Law, on Skins of Parchment: Alſo one that buys up Corn growing, or dead Victuals, to ſell again.

Ingroſſing of a Fine, is when the Indentures are drawn up by the Chirographer, and deliver'd to the Party to whom the Cognizance is made.

Ingroſment, the Act of Ingroſſing.

Inguen, (Lat.) the Groin, or Share, the ſpace from the bending of the Thigh to the Privities.

† Ingurgitation, a greedy ſwallowing, or gluttonous devouring.

To Inhabit, to live or dwell in.

Inhabitable, uninhabitable, or unhabitable, that cannot be inhabited.

Inhabitant, one that dwells or lives in a place, a Dweller.

To Inhance. See To Enhance.

Inharmonical Relation. See Relation Inharmonical.

Inherency, or Inheſion, the Quality of that which ſticks cloſe.

Inherent, ſticking faſt in, or to, cleaving to, abiding in.

To Inherit, to get by Inheritance, or Succeſſion, to be one's Heir.

Inheritance, (according to the Law-Definition) is a perpetual Right in Lands or Tenements to a Man and his Heirs, an Eſtate, whether it come by Succeſſion or Purchaſe.

To Inhibit, to prohibit, or forbid, as To inhibit the Sale of a Commodity.

Inhibition, the Act of inhibiting, or forbidding: In Common-Law it is taken for a Writ forbidding a Judge to proceed farther in the Cauſe depending before him: But Inhibition is moſt commonly a Writ iſſuing out of a higher Court Chriſtian to a lower upon an Appeal; whereas a Prohibition iſſues out of the Queen's Court to a Court Chriſtian, or to an inferior Temporal Court. See Prohibition.

Inhoc, or Inhoke, (in old Records) a Corner or out-part of a common Field plough'd up and ſow'd, and ſometimes incloſ'd with an Hedge, whilſt the reſt of the ſame Field lyes fallow.

Inhoſpitable, not given to Hoſpitality, rude, uncivil, diſcourteous.

Inhoſpitality, Rudeneſs to Strangers, ſo as to afford them no Entertainment; Barbarouſneſs, Churliſhneſs.

Inhumane, void of Humanity, Barbarous, Savage.

Inhumanity, Cruelty, Barbarity, Savageneſs, as it were, a putting off, or ſtripping one's ſelf of Human Nature.

Inhumation, a burying, or putting into the Ground: In Chymiſtry it is when two Pots (the Mouth of the uppermoſt being well ſtopt, and its bottom full of little holes) are ſet faſt into the Ground and both cover'd with Earth, afterwards a Circular or Wheel-fire is made, cauſing the Vapours to ſweat thro' in the Diſtillation.

Inhumed, buried, as There the King was inhumed.

To Inject, to caſt, or ſquirt in.

Injectio Inteſtinalis, a Term us'd by Phyſicians for a Clyſter.

Injection, an injecting, or caſting in, the conveying of ſome liquid Medicine into Wounds, or hollow Parts of the Body, or of the Veſſels, by means of a Syringe, Clyſter, &c.

Inimitable, that none can imitate, or do the like.

To Injoyn. See To Enjoyn.

Iniquity, want of Equity, Injuſtice, Wickedneſs.

Iniſwen, (i. e. the White Iſland) a Name anciently given to the Iſland of Great Britain.

Initial, beginning, as An initial Letter, i. e. a Letter that begins a Word.

To Initiate, to inſtruct in the firſt Principles or Grounds of any Myſtery, Art, or Science; to enter or admit into a Society, or Fellowſhip.

Initiation, the Act of Initiating.

To Injoyn. See To Enjoyn.

Injucundity, Unpleaſantneſs.

Injudicious, void of Judgment, or Diſcretion.

Inium, (in Anat.) the beginning of the oblongated Marrow.

Injunction, a Command, or Order: In a Lawſenſe a Writ grounded upon an Order in Chancery to give Poſſeſſion to the Plaintiff for want of the Defendant's Appearance, or to ſtay Proceedings in another Court, upon Suggeſtion made that the Rigour of the Law is againſt Equity in that Caſe.

To Injure, to wrong, or abuſe, to prejudice, or indamage.

Injurious, unjuſt, wrongful, hurtful, offenſive, outragious, abuſive.

Injury, Wrong, Outrage, Abuſe, Offence.

Injuſtice, a Vice contrary to Juſtice, an unjuſt Act, unfair or hard Dealing, ill Uſage.

Ink, a Liquor to write with: In Falconry the Neck, or that part from the Head to the Body of any Bird that the Hawk preys upon.

To Inkindle, to kindle, to light, to catch fire, to break out.

An Inkling of a Matter, a ſmall Rumour, a whiſper'd Intimation, a Hint.

Inlagary, (a Law-Term) a reſtoring of one outlawed to the King's or Queen's Protection, and to the Benefit or Eſtate of a Subject.

Inlagh, or Inlaugh, (Sax.) a Perſon ſubject to the Law, one that was included in ſome Frank-pledge, and not outlawed.

Inland, ſituated in the main Land, or Heart of a Country, far from the Sea-Coaſt; as An Inland Province.

Inland, (Saxon Law-Term) that inner Land or part of a Manour which lay next or moſt convenient for the Lord's Manſion-Houſe, for the Maintenance of his Family, &c. and oppoſed to the Utland, or Outland, which was let out to Tenants.

Inland-Bills, (in Traffick) Bills payable in the ſame Land in which they are drawn.

Inland-Town, a Town ſeated far in the Land, to which no Veſſel can come up.

Inland-Trade, Trade that is managed wholly in one Country.

Inlay. See Marquetry.

To Inlarge, to make large, to ſpread, or ſtretch out; to diſcourſe at large upon a Subject.

Inleaſed, or Enleaſed, (Fr.) catch'd in a Gin, a Leaſe, or Snare, intangled; a Word us'd in the Champion's Oath.

Inlet, an Entrance, or Paſſage into.

To Inlighten, to give Light to.

Inmate, a Lodger; according to the Law-Definition Inmates are thoſe that for Money dwell joyntly with another Man in his Houſe, paſſing in and out by one Door, and not being able to maintain themſelves.

In Poſſe, (Lat.) a Law-Term. See In Eſſe.

Inn, a Publick-Houſe in a City, Town, or Thorough-fare, for the Entertainment of Travellers, or Strangers.

Inns of Chancery, eight Houſes appointed for Young Students in the Law, viz. 1. Bernard's Inn, once belonging to Dr. Mackworth, Dean of Lincoln, and in the Poſſeſſion of one Lionel Bernard. 2. Clement's Inn, once a Meſſuage belonging to the Pariſh of St. Clements Danes. 3. Clifford's Inn, ſome time the Dwelling-Houſe of Malcolm de Herſey, and afterwards of the Cliffords, Earls of Cumberland, of whom it was Rented. 4. Furnival's Inn, once the Manſion of Sir R. Furnival, and afterwards of the Talbots, Earls of Shrewsbury. 5. Lion's Inn, once a private Houſe known by the Name of the Black Lion. 6. New Inn, once the Dwelling-Houſe of Sir J. Tyncaulx, which has been alſo call'd Our Ladies Inn. 7. Staple-Inn; ſo nam'd becauſe it heretofore belong'd to the Engliſh Merchants of the Staple. 8. Thavy's Inn, anciently the Manſion-Houſe of J. Thavy, Armourer of London.

Inns of Court, four other particular Houſes or Colleges eſtabliſh'd for the Entertainment of Students in the Law, viz. Gray's Inn, the Manour-Houſe of Baron Gray, in the Time of King Edward III. Lincolns-Inn, firſt built by Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, for his own Dwelling-Houſe. And the two Temples, Inner and Middle, anciently the Habitations of the Knights Templars, to which was added the Outer Temple, afterwards call'd Eſſex-Houſe.

Sergeants-Inns, two Houſes of a higher Rank, ſet a-part for the Judges and Sergeants at Law.

To Inn, to Lodge at an Inn.

To Inn Corn, to lay it up in a Store-houſe.

Innate, (Lat.) inbred, natural.

Innate Heat, or Innate and Native Spirit. See Emphyton Thermon.

Innate Principles, certain Original Notions or Characters which ſome Philoſophers will have to be ſtamp'd on the Mind of Man when it firſt receives its Being.

Innavigable, not to be ſailed on, unpaſſable for any Ship or Boat.

Inner Temple. See Inns of Court and Temple.

Innings, Lands recovered from the Sea, by draining and banking.

Innocence, or Innocency, (Lat.) Guiltleſneſs, Integrity, Harmleſneſs.

Innocent, inoffenſive, guiltleſs, harmleſs, alſo ſimple, or ſilly.

An Innocent, an Idiot, or Ninny, a ſilly half-witted Perſon.

Innocents-Day, commonly call'd Childermas-day; a Feſtival kept December 28, in remembrance of the innocent Children, whom Herod caus'd to be put to Death at our Bleſſed Saviour's Nativity.

Innocuous. See Innoxious.

Innominata Oſſa, (in Anat.) the Nameleſs Bones, two large Bones plac'd on the ſides of the Os Sacrum, each of which in young Children may be ſeparated into three Bones, but grow all into one in riper Years. See Coxæ Os, and Coxendix.

Innominata Tunica Oculi, a certain Coat of the Eye which wants a Name.

Innominatus Humor, one of the four Secondary Humours, with which the Ancients thought the Body to be nouriſhed, the other three being Ros, Gluten, and Cambium.

Innoteſcimus, Letters Patent ſo call'd, which are always of a Charter of Feoffment, or ſome other Deed not of Record, and take Name from the concluding Words, Innoteſcimus per præſentes, i. e. We make known by theſe Preſents.

To Innovate, to lay aſide old Cuſtoms, and bring up new ones; to change, or alter.

Innovation, an innovating, or bringing in of new Cuſtoms or Opinions; Alteration, Change.

Innocious, that does no Hurt, or Harm, harmleſs.

Innuendo, a Word us'd in Writs, Declarations, and Pleadings at Law; to declare a Perſon, or Thing, that was mention'd before obſcurely, or left doubtful.

Innumerable, that cannot be number'd, numberleſs.

Innutrition, a nouriſhing, or bringing up.

† Inobſervable, not to be obſerved, unworthy of Obſervation.

To Inoculate, to graft in the Bud, a Term in Huſbandry.

Inoculation, the Act of Inoculating, a kind of grafting, when the Bud of one Fruit-Tree is ſet into the Stock or Branch of another, ſo as to make ſeveral ſorts of Fruit grow on the ſame Tree.

Inodorous, that is without Scent, or that ſmells of nothing; unperfumed.

Inoffenſive, that gives no Offence, harmleſs.

Inofficious, backward in doing one any good Office, or Turn; diſcourteous, diſobliging.

Inopinate, unthought of, unexpected, unlooked for, ſudden.

Inordinate, that is out of Order, or Array; diſorderly, extravagant, unruly, immoderate.

Inorganical, (in Philoſ. and Anat.) that wants Organs or Inſtruments proper for any Motion or Operation. See Organical and Non-organical.

Inoſculation. See Anaſtomoſis.

Inpriſi, (in old Latin Records) Adherents, Accomplices, or Abetters.

Inqueſt, Inquiry, Search, eſpecially that made by a Jury, according to the Cuſtom of England. See Enqueſt.

Coroners Inqueſt. See Coroner.

The Court of Inqueſt, at Guild-hall, London, a particular Court that takes Cognizance of and determines all Complaints preferred for Debt by one Citizen againſt another under the Sum of Forty Shillings.

Inquietude, Unquietneſs, Diſquiet, Trouble, Reſtleſneſs: In the Art of Phyſick it is defined to be a Convulſive Motion of the Muſcles in the Limbs, which cauſes the ſick Patient to throw himſelf from one ſide to another.

Inquirable, that may be inquired about, or ſearched into.

To Inquire, to aſk, or demand; to examine, or ſearch into.

Inquirendo, (Law-Term) an Authority given to one or more Perſons to inquire into ſomething to the Queen's Advantage.

Inquiry, Search.

Inquiſition, ſtrict Inquiry, Search, or Examination: In a Law-ſenſe it is a manner of proceeding in Criminal Matters by the Judge, or by the great Inqueſt, before Juſtices in Eyre.

The Inquiſition, or the Spaniſh Inquiſition, a great Council firſt appointed by Ferdinand the Catholick King of Spain, who, having ſubdued the Moors, and put an end to their Empire in that Country, order'd, That no Moors or Jews ſhould be ſuffer'd to ſtay there, but ſuch as were Baptized: And for inquiry into thoſe Matters, this extraordinary Court was ſet up, and ſtyled The Sacred Council of the Inquiſition. However, altho' the Occaſion of it has long ſince ceaſed, yet its Power is ſtill continued, or rather encreas'd, and exercis'd with barbarous Cruelty againſt Chriſtians, under the Notion of Hereticks, and even againſt all that are not ſtanch Roman Catholicks.

Inquiſitive, deſirous to know every thing, curious, prying.

Inquiſitor, a Sheriff, Coroner, &c. having Power to inquire into certain Caſes; alſo one of the Judges of the Bloody Popiſh Inquiſition-Tribunal.

To Inrage, to put in a Rage, to make Mad.

To Inrich, to make Rich, to adorn, or imbelliſh; to amplifie, or inlarge.

Inroad or Inrode, the Invaſion of a Country by Enemies.

To Inroll, to ſet down in a Roll, or Liſt; to record, or regiſter.

Inrollment, an inrolling &c: In a Law-ſenſe it is the regiſtring, recording, or entring of any lawful Act, as a Recognizance, Statute, or Fine, &c. in the Rolls of Chancery, or in thoſe of the Exchequer, Queen's-Bench, Common-Pleas, &c.

Inſania or Amentia, (Lat.) Madneſs, Frenzy, Dotage, which happens when the Faculties of Imagination and Judgment receive Dammage, or are quite aboliſh'd.

Inſatiable, that cannot be ſatisfied with Meat or Drink; the Word is alſo figuratively apply'd to inordinate Paſſions of the Mind, as An inſatiable Thirſt of Gain, inſatiable Ambition, &c.

Inſatiate or Inſaturable, that cannot be filled, or ever have enough.

Inſconſed, a Term us'd in the Art of War, when part of an Army is ſecured with a Sconce, or ſmall Fort, in order to maintain ſome Paſs, &c.

To Inſcribe, (Lat.) to write in or upon, to draw; as To inſcribe a leſſer Circle in a greater.

Inſcribed Bodies, (in Geom.) the ſame as Regular Bodies, which See.

Inſcribed Figures, thoſe that are drawn within others, when all the Angles of the encloſed Figure touch either the Sides, Angles, or Planes of the other Figure; ſo a Square drawn within a Circle is ſaid To be inſcribed in that Circle.

Inſcription, a Title, Name, Character, or Narrative, written or engraven on any thing, as Marble, Braſs, &c.

Inſcrutable, that cannot be found out by ſearching, unſearchable, unfathomable.

To Inſculp, to engrave, carve, or cut.

Inſect, any kind of ſmall living Creature that creeps or flies, as Worms, Piſmires, Spiders, Bees, Gnats, &c. They are ſo call'd becauſe their Parts being cut off retain Life, or, as ſome think, from their having a kind of Section or Diviſion between the Head and the Belly.

Inſectatio, (Lat.) a railing or inveighing againſt one, as it were, a following or proſecuting him with foul Language: Alſo the Rhetorical Figure Chleuaſmus, call'd Inſectatio by Julius Ruffinianus.

Inſectator, a Railer, Slanderer, or Backbiter, a foul-mouth'd Fellow: In our old Records, a Proſecutor, or Adverſary at Law.

† Inſection, a cutting into.

Inſecure, that is not ſecure, or out of Danger, unſafe.

Inſenſate, Senſeleſs, being out of his Wits, Mad, fooliſh.

Inſenſible, that has no Senſe, or Feeling; alſo not to be felt or perceived, indifferent.

Inſeparable, that cannot be ſeparated, ſevered, or parted.

To Inſert, to put, or bring in; to joyn, or add to.

Inſertion, an inſerting, or putting between.

To Inſerve, to bear a part in, or promote, as He had inſerved to the Villany to pleaſe the Tyrant.

Inſerviceable, unſerviceable, unprofitable.

Inſeſſus, (Lat.) a Bath for the Belly and lower Parts, in which the Patient ſits down to the Navel.

Inſetena, (Sax.) an Inditch.

† Inſiccation, (Lat.) a drying.

Inſidiatores Viarum, (in old Statutes) Way-layers, or ſuch as lye in wait, to inſnare, or deceive.

Inſidious, inſnaring, treacherous, deceitful; as An inſidious Proceeding.

Inſight, Hint, Light, Knowledge of a Matter.

Inſignificancy, Unprofitableneſs, Vanity.

Inſignificant, that ſignifies nothing, inconſiderable, uſeleſs, vain.

Inſilium, (in old Records) deſtructive Counſel, ill Advice.

Inſimul Tenuit, one of the kinds of the Writ call'd Formedon, which See.

To Inſinuate, to intimate, or give to underſtand, to give a hint of; alſo to wind or ſcrew one's ſelf into Favour.

Inſinuation, an inſinuating, intimating, &c. In Rhetorick, it is a crafty Addreſs, or beginning of an Oration, whereby we covertly creep into the Favour of the Audience.

Inſinuation of a Will, (among the Civilians) the firſt Production of it, or the leaving it in the Regiſter's Hands, in order to its Probate.

Inſinuative, apt to inſinuate, engaging, winning, pleaſing.

Inſipid, having no Taſte or Reliſh, unſavoury; alſo flat, or dry, in ſpeaking of a Treatiſe, Diſcourſe, Poem, &c. that has no Wit or Spirit in it.

Inſipidity, a being inſipid, unſavoury.

† Inſipience, want of Knowledge, or Diſcretion, Fooliſhneſs.

To Inſiſt, to ſtand much upon, to urge, preſs hard, or be inſtant; to perſiſt, or hold on in one's Deſigns or Pretenſions. In Geometry, the Angles in any Segment are ſaid to be inſiſting, or ſtanding upon the Arch of another Segment below.

Inſitio, (Lat.) a Term us'd by Herbaliſts for Grafting, the letting of any Cion or Bud into the Stock of a Tree.

To Inſlave, to make a Slave or Drudge of.

To Inſnare, to draw into a Snare, to ſurprize or catch.

Inſociable, not ſociable, unconverſable, not fit for Society or Converſation.

Inſolation, a laying in the Sun, a Bleaching: In Phyſick and Chymiſtry, the Digeſtion of any Ingredients, or mix'd Bodies, by expoſing them to the Sun-Beams.

Inſolence or Inſolency, Saucineſs, Impudence, Haughtineſs, Pride.

Inſolent, ſaucy, bold, malapert, proud, haughty, diſdainful, preſumptuous.

Inſoluble, that cannot be ſolved, or looſed.

Inſolvency, the State or Condition of one who is not in a Capacity to ſatisfie his Creditors.

Inſolvent, not able to pay.

† Inſomnious, troubled with Dreams, full of Dreams.

To Inſpect, to look narrowly into, to overſee.

Inſpection, overſeeing, inſight, a cloſe viewing, looking on or into.

Inſpector, an Overſeer.

Inſperſion, a ſprinkling on.

Inſpeximus, Letters Patent ſo call'd, becauſe they begin after the Queen's Title with this Word Inſpeximus, i. e. We have look'd upon, view'd, or conſider'd.

Inſpiration, an inſpiring, or breathing into: In Divinity it is defined to be that Heavenly Grace which inlightens the Soul, filling it with extraordinary and ſupernatural Gifts. In a Phyſical Senſe, it is the taking in of Air or Breath by the alternate Dilatation or widening of the Cheſt.

To Inſpire, (properly to breath in, or upon) to prompt, to put into one's Head, to endue or fill with.

To Inſpirit, to put Life and Spirit into one, to inſpire with Courage.

† Inſpiſſation, a thickening, or making thick.

Inſtability, Unſteadineſs, Unſtedfaſtneſs, Inconſtancy, Uncertainty, Fickleneſs.

Inſtable, unſtable, inconſtant, uncertain, changeable.

To Inſtall, to put in Poſſeſſion of an Office, Order, or Benefice, properly the placing of a Clergyman in a Cathedral Church, where every one has a particular Stall, or Seat.

Inſtallation or Inſtallment, the Act of Inſtalling: In a Law-ſenſe, a Settlement, or ſure placing in.

Inſtance, Entreaty, Motion, eager Suit, Earneſtneſs; alſo Model, Example, or Proof.

To Inſtance, to produce or bring Inſtances.

Inſtant, eager upon a thing, earneſt, preſſing; near at hand, preſent.

An Inſtant, is defin'd by Logicians to be an Indiviſible in Time, which is neither Time, nor a part of it, whereto nevertheleſs the Parts of Time are joyned, a Portion of Time ſo ſmall that it cannot be divided, a ſhort Moment.

Inſtauration, a reſtoring to the former State, a repairing, or renewing.

Inſtaurum, (in ancient Deeds) the whole Stock upon a Farm, as Cattel, Waggons, Ploughs, and all other Implements of Husbandry: So Terra inſtaurata was taken for Land ready ſtock'd or furniſh'd with all Things neceſſary to carry on the Uſe or Imployment of a Farm.

Inſtaurum Eccleſiæ, ſignify'd the Veſtments, Plate, Books, and other Utenſils belonging to a Church.

To Inſtigate, to ſpur, egg, or ſet on; to provoke to, to encourage, or abet.

Inſtigation, an inſtigating, ſetting on &c. Motion, Sollicitation.

To Inſtill, to pour in by little and little, to le fall drop by drop; in a figurative Senſe to infuſe Principles or Notions, ſo that they may glide inſenſibly into the Mind.

Inſtillation, the Act of Inſtilling.

Inſtinct, a natural Bent or Inclination, eſpecially that of Brute Beaſts, which in ſome meaſure ſupplie the Defect of Reaſon.

An Inſtitute, an Order or Rule of Life.

Inſtitutes, Principles, Ordinances, Precepts, or Commandments: Alſo the Title of a noted Collecti of Roman Laws made by Order of the Emperour Juſtinian for the inſtructing of young Students in the firſt Principles of the whole Profeſſion.

To Inſtitute, to ordain, or appoint; to eſtabliſh or found.

Inſtitution, Eſtabliſhment, Appointment, Founding: Alſo teaching, bringing, or training up; Inſtruction, Education.

Inſtitution to a Benefice, is the Biſhop's pu ting a Clerk in Poſſeſſion of the Spirituality of a Rectory or Parſonage for the Cure of Souls, as Inducti entitles him to the Temporalities of it, viz. Glebe Land, Tithes, &c.

To Inſtruct, to teach, to train or bring up, prepare one that is to ſpeak.

Inſtruction, Education, Breeding, Precept o Order.

Inſtructions, Directions in a Buſineſs of Concernment.

Inſtructive, apt to inſtruct, full of Inſtruction.

Inſtrument, a Tool to do any thing withal: A ſo a Publick Act, Deed, or Writing, drawn up be tween two or more Parties, and containing ſever Covenants agreed upon by them.

Inſtrumental, belonging to an Inſtrument, th contributes to, or is ſerviceable as a means.

Inſuccation, (in the Apothecaries Art) th moiſtening of Aloes, or other Drugs, with the Jui of Violets, or Roſes, &c.

Inſucceſsfu

Inſucceſful, that has no good Succeſs, Unfortunate.

To Inſue. See to Enſue.

Inſufficiency, Inability, Incapacity.

Inſufficient, not ſufficient, unable.

Inſular, belonging to an Iſland.

Inſult, Outrage, Abuſe, Affront, Aſſault, or Offence.

To Inſult, to aſſault, to abuſe, to affront, to domineer, vapour, or crow over: In the Art of War it is to attack a Poſt by open Force, and without any Shelter, falling to Handy Strokes, without making uſe of Trenches, or other Forms, to gain Ground Foot by Foot.

Inſuper, (Lat. i.e. over and beſides) a Term us'd by Auditors of Accounts in the Exchequer, when they ſay, So much remains inſuper to ſuch an Accomptant, i.e. ſo much remains due upon ſuch an Account.

Inſuperable, that cannot be overcome, unconquerable.

Inſupportable, not to be indured, or born with.

Inſurance, Security given in Conſideration of a Sum of Money paid in Hand to make good Ships, Merchandize, Houſes, &c. to the Value of that for which the Reward is receiv'd in Caſe of Loſs by Storm, Pirates, Fire, &c. See Friendly Society and Phenix Inſurance-Office.

To Inſure, to engage in ſuch a manner for the making good any thing that is in danger of being loſt.

Inſurmountable, (Fr.) that cannot be overcome by Labour and Induſtry.

Inſurrection, (Lat.) a riſing againſt, a Popular Tumult, or Uproar, Rebellion, Sedition.

Intabulati. See Tabula.

Intactæ, (Lat. in Geom.) Right Lines to which Curves or Crooked Lines continually approach, and yet can never touch or meet with them; theſe are more commonly call'd Aſymptotes, which See.

† Intactible, or Intangible, that cannot be touched.

Intail. See Entail.

Intakers, a ſort of Thieves heretofore frequent on the Borders of Scotland, and ſo call'd from their being the Receivers of ſuch Pillage or Booty as their Accomplices, nam'd Out-parters, us'd to bring in.

To Intangle, to twiſt together, to perplex, or confound, to engage one's ſelf.

Integer, (Lat. in Arithm.) a Term us'd for a whole Number, ſuch as ſignifie any entire thing, as one Pound, one Ounce, one Shilling, one Penny, &c.

Integral, belonging to an Integer, entire, whole, as Integral Numbers, or Integers, i. e. whole Numbers, oppoſed to Fractions, or broken Numbers: In Philoſophy Integral Parts are thoſe Parts that make up the Whole.

† Integration, a making whole, reſtoring, or renewing.

Integrity, Honeſty, Uprightneſs, Innocence, Chaſtity.

† Integument, a Covering, a Garment to cover the Body, a Cloak.

Intellect, that Faculty of the Soul which is commonly call'd the Underſtanding, Judgment, Senſe.

Intellectual, belonging to the Underſtanding.

Intellectuals, the Powers and Properties of the Underſtanding.

Intelligence, properly Knowledge, Judgment, or Skill, the good Underſtanding, Union and Friendſhip that is between ſeveral Perſons; alſo the Correſpondence that States-Men and Merchants hold in Foreign Countries and Courts; Advice, or News.

Intelligencer, one that makes it his Buſineſs to enquire into and ſpread News, a News-monger.

Intelligences, (in Philoſ.) Angels, or other Spiritual Beings.

Intelligent, underſtanding, perceiving, or knowing well.

Intelligible, capable of being apprehended or conceived by the Underſtanding, plain, eaſie.

Intemperance, a Vice oppoſite to Temperance, Unableneſs to rule and moderate one's Appetite and Luſts, Inordinateneſs of Life, Exceſs.

Intemperate, that is not Maſter of his own Appetites, diſorderly, exceſſive.

Intemperature, or Intemperateneſs, a Diſorder in the Air, or in the Humours of the Body; it is alſo ſometimes taken by Phyſicians for a Diſtemper or Indiſpoſition that conſiſts in inconvenient Qualities of the Body, as an hot, thin, or ſalt Diſpoſition, &c.

† Intempeſtive, that is out of due Seaſon and Order, unſeaſonable, untimely.

To Intend, to deſign, or purpoſe, to mean, to apply one's Mind to.

Intendant, one that has the Overſight, Management and Direction of certain Affairs, eſpecially the chief Governor or Overſeer of a Province in France.

Intendment, Purpoſe, Meaning.

Intendment of Law, is the Intention, Senſe, or true meaning of the Law.

To Intenerate, a Philoſophical Word for to make tender.

Intenſe, (properly ſtretched or ſtrained) very great, or exceſſive, as An intenſe Heat.

Intenſion, a Writ that lyes againſt one that enters after the Death of a Tenant in Dower or other Tenant for Life, and holds him out in the Reverſion or Remainder. In Natural Philoſophy Intenſion ſignifies the encreaſe of the Power or Efficacy of any Quality, as Heat, Cold, &c. And the Term is oppos'd to Remiſſion, all Qualities being ſaid to be intended and remitted, as intenſely cold, i. e. cold in a high degree, remiſly cold, i. e. cold in a low degree.

Intenſively, extremely, exceſſively, in the higheſt degree.

Intent or Intentive, fixed, or cloſe bent upon a Buſineſs.

Intent or Intention, Meaning, Deſign, Purpoſe, Drift, Mind.

Intention, the End propoſed in any Action, the Determination of the Will with reſpect to any thing: In Rhetorick the Repetition of the ſame Word in a contrary ſenſe, as Una ſalus victis, nullam ſperare ſalutem.

Among Phyſicians it is the ſame as Indication, which See.

Intention or Study, is when the Mind fixes its View on any Idea with great earneſtneſs, ſo as to conſider it on all ſides, and will not be call'd off by the crowding in of other Idea's.

Intentional, belonging to the Intention.

Intentive. See Intent.

Interanea, (Lat.) the Entrails, or Bowels. See Viſcera.

Intercalary Day, the odd Day inſerted or added in the Leap-Year.

Intercalary Days, (among Phyſicians) otherwiſe call'd Dies Intercidentes, and Provocatorii, are thoſe Days during the Courſe of a Diſeaſe, in which Nature, either by the vehemency of the Fit, or ſome outward Cauſe, is ſtirr'd up to throw off her Load unſeaſonably, as the 3d. 5th. 9th. 13th. and 19th.

Intercalation, the inſerting or putting in of a Day in the Month of February every fourth Year, call'd Biſſextile, or Leap-Year. See Biſſextile.

To Intercede, (properly to come or paſs between) to perform the Office of a Mediator, to entreat or pray in another's Behalf.

Intercedent, or Intercedental Day, (in the Art of Phyſick) an extraordinary Critical Day, which being caus'd by the Violence of the Diſeaſe, falls between the ordinary Critical Days. See Intercalary Days.

To Intercept, to take up by the Way, in the mean while, to prevent, or ſurprize: In Mathematicks to take between, to comprehend, or contain; as An Arch or Portion of a Circle intercepted between ſuch or ſuch Points.

Intercepted Axis or Intercepted Diameters, a Term in Conick Sections, the ſame as Abſciſſa; which See.

Interceſſion, an interceding or entreating in favour of another, as it were a ſtepping between to keep off Harm or Danger.

Interceſſor, one that ſo intercedes, or mediates.

To Interchange, to exchange between Parties, as to interchange Compliments, Writings, &c.

Interchangeably, mutually, or by turns.

Interciſion, a cutting off between, or in the midſt.

† Interclusion, a ſhutting between, or a ſtopping up the Paſſage between one thing and another.

Intercolumniation, (in Architect.) the Space or Diſtance between the Columns or Pillars of any Building.

Intercommoning, (Law-Term) is when the Commons of two Mannours lye together, and the Inhabitants of both have Time out of Mind cauſ'd their Cattel to feed promiſcuouſly in each.

To Intercommunicate, to communicate mutually, or one with another.

Intercoſtal, lying between the Ribs; as The Intercoſtal Veſſels, i. e. the Veins and Arteries that run along thro thoſe Parts, ſo call'd by Anatomiſts.

Intercoſtal Nerve, a Nerve or Sinew which proceeds from the Spinal Marrow, and ſpreads it ſelf in the Belly thro all the Bowels.

Intercoſtales externi & interni, certain Muſcles lodged in the Intervals or Spaces of the Ribs, their Number on each ſide being Twenty Two; viz. Eleven outward, and as many inward.

Intercourſe, mutual Commerce, Traffick, or Correſpondence.

Intercurrent, running, or paſſing between.

Intercus, (Lat.) a kind of Dropſie. See Anaſarca.

Intercutaneous, that lyes between the Skin and the Fleſh.

To Interdict, to prohibit, or forbid, to exclude from partaking of the Sacraments, to ſuſpend.

Interdicted of Water and Fire, (in old Times) thoſe who for ſome Crime were baniſh'd, with Order that no Man ſhould receive them into his Houſe, or afford them the Uſe of thoſe Elements.

Interdiction, an interdicting, or forbidding, a debarring one from the Uſe of any Thing: In Common and Canon Law it is defin'd to be an Eccleſiaſtical Cenſure, forbidding the Exerciſe of the Miniſterial Functions, or the Performance of Sacred Rites.

Interductus, (Lat.) a Space left between Periods or Sentences in Writing or Printing, a Stop, or fetching of one's Breath in Reading or Writing.

To Intereſs, or Intereſt, to concern, to engage.

Intereſt, Concernment, Right, Advantage, or Benefit, Credit or Power: Alſo Uſe-Money, or the Sum reckon'd for the Loan or Forbearance of a principal Sum lent for or due at a certain Time, and it is either Simple or Compound: Simple Intereſt is that which ariſes from the Principal only, and Compound Intereſt that which is counted from the Principal, and Simple Intereſt forborn.

Interfector, (in Aſtrol. i. e. Killer or Murderer) a deſtroying Planet, plac'd in the eighth Houſe of a Figure, either five Degrees before the Cuſp, or twenty five after.

To Interfere, to knock or rub one Heel againſt the other in going, as ſome Horſes do; to claſh together, or fall foul one upon another.

Interfœmineum, (Lat.) a part of the Body betwixt the Thighs, the Groin, or Leſk.

Interfluent, flowing, or running between.

Intergaping, a gaping, or opening between; as An intergaping of Vowels, when two Vowels meet together, one at the end of a Word, and the other at the beginning of the next, ſo as to make an uncouth Sound.

Interjacent, lying between.

Interjection, (in Grammar i. e. putting between) one of the Eight Parts of Speech which is indeclinable, and made uſe of to expreſs the Affections or Paſſions of the Mind; alſo a Figure in Rhetorick, the ſame with Parentheſis.

Interim, as In the Interim, i. e. In the mean while: Alſo the Title of a Deed containing a mix'd form of Doctrine which the Emperor Charles V. tender'd to the Proteſtants and Papiſts at Augsburg in Germany, to be ſubſcribed and obſerved till the Differences could be ſettled by a General Council.

Interiour, more inward, being on the inſide.

Interiour Polygon. See Polygon.

Interiour Talus. See Talus.

To Interlace, (Fr.) to twine or twiſt one with another, to inſert, or put in amongſt.

To Interlard, to lard or ſtuff lean Meat with Fat.

To Interleave, to put one or more Leaves of blank Paper between the Pages of a Book.

To Interline, to write between two Lines by way of Inſertion.

Interlineary Bible, a Bible that has one Line of a Latin Tranſlation printed between every two Lines of the Hebrew Original.

Interlocution, an Interpoſition of Speech, an interrupting of another's Diſcourſe: In a Law-ſenſe, the determining ſome ſmall Matter in a Tryal till ſuch time as the principal Cauſe be fully known.

Interlocutory Order, is that which does not decide the Cauſe, but only ſettles ſome intervening Matter that relates thereto; as when an Order is made in Chancery for the Plaintiff to quit his Poſſeſſion till the Cauſe be heard and fully determined.

To Interlope, to intercept, or diſturb the Traffick of a Company, to take up a new Trade, or Employment, to the Prejudice of thoſe that were brought up in it.

Interlopers, are properly thoſe that without due Authority hinder the Trade of a Company or Corporation lawfully eſtabliſh'd, by dealing in the ſame Way.

Interlucation, (in Husbandry) a letting in of Light between, the lopping or cutting away of Boughs.

Interlude, part of a Stage-Play, that which is ſung or repreſented between the ſeveral Acts.

Interlunary, belonging to the Space between the Old and New Moon.

Interlunium, (Lat.) the Time during which the New Moon has no Phaſis, or Appearance, as being in Conjunction with the Sun.

† Intermeation, a flowing between, or paſſing thorough.

To Intermeddle, to concern one's ſelf in another's Buſineſs, to ſet about the Management of an Affair.

Intermediate, (Lat.) that is, or lyes between; as An intermediate Space.

Intermediate Range, a Term in Gunnery. See Range.

Intermedium, a Space or Diſtance between.

Intermeſſes, (in Cookery) certain Courſes ſet on the Table between other Diſhes.

To Intermete, (old Word) to meddle.

Intermewing, (among Falconers) is a Hawk's mewing from the firſt change of her Coat till ſhe turn white.

† Intermication, a ſhining amidſt, or among.

To Intermingle or Intermix, to mingle amongſt, or with.

Interminable, or Interminate, that has no Bounds, or End, boundleſs, endleſs.

Intermiſſion, an intermitting, or breaking off, Diſcontinuance, Ceaſing, Reſpite, Pauſe.

Intermiſſion of Feavers. See Apyrexia.

Intermiſſions, (in Architect.) the Spaces between the Wall and the Pillars, or between one Pillar and another.

To Intermit, to leave or put off for a time, to diſcontinue, give over, or ceaſe.

Intermittent, intermitting, diſcontinuing.

Intermittent Diſeaſe, a Diſeaſe which comes at certain Times, and then abates a little.

Intermittent Stitch, (in Surgery) a kind of Stitch made at certain ſeparate Points in the ſowing of tranſverſe or croſs Wounds.

Intermitting Pulſe, that which is held up by the Fit for a while, and then beats again, a Sign of extreme Sickneſs.

Intermixture, intermingling, or mingling amongſt others.

Intermural Space, a Space between two Walls.

Internal, that is within, inward.

Internal Angles. See Angles.

Internal Digeſtives. See Digeſtives.

Internodium, the Space between two Knots or Joints, eſpecially of the Stalk of a Plant, &c. In Anatomy the ſpace between the joyning together of the Bones of the Fingers and Toes.

Internuncii Dies. See Critical Days.

Internuncio, an Agent for the Court of Rome, in thoſe of Foreign Princes when there is no expreſs Nuncio in the ſame.

Internus Muſculus Auris, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Ear, which lyes in a bony Channel made hollow in the Bone call'd Os Petroſum.

Interoſſei Muſculi Manus, the Muſcles of the Fingers, which are diſtinguiſh'd into the inward and outward, and are properly ſo nam'd from their Situation between the Bones; theſe Muſcles are ſix in Number, tho' ſome reckon eight, and acting altogether they draw the Fingers near each other, and likewiſe help to ſtretch them out.

Interoſſei Pedis, ſeven Muſcles of the Toes, which ariſe fleſhy from the upper part of the Oſſa Metatarſi of the leſſer Toes, and are let into the firſt Internode of each Toe ſideways.

Interpaſſation, (among Apothecaries) the ſtitching of Bags at certain diſtances, to prevent the Drugs contained therein from falling together in a heap.

† Interpellation, an Interruption, or Diſturbance.

To Interplead, (Law-Term) to diſcuſs or try a Point that incidentally falls out before the main Cauſe can be determin'd, as when two ſeveral Perſons are found Heirs to Land by two ſeveral Offices, and the Queen is brought in doubt to which of them Poſſeſſion ought to be given, ſo that they muſt firſt interplead, i. e. formally try between themſelves who is the right Heir.

† Interplication, (Lat.) a folding between.

To Interpolate, (properly to bring old things to a new form) to new vamp, to refreſh, to alter or falſify an Original.

Interpolation, the Act of interpolating.

Interpolator, he that interpolates, a Falſifier.

To Interpoſe, to put or ſet between, to intermeddle in a Buſineſs.

Interpoſition, an interpoſing, or putting between, &c.

To Interpret, to expound, or explain, to tell the meaning of, to tranſlate out of one Language into another.

Interpretation, an expounding, or explaining, a Tranſlation, a Commentary.

Interpreter, he that cauſes the Words, Sentiments, or Writings of others to be underſtood, when they are not otherwiſe intelligible; an Expounder, a Tranſlator.

Interpunction, a diſtinguiſhing by Points or Pricks ſet between, a pointing.

To Interr, to lay in the Ground, or bury.

Interrment, the Act of interring, Burial.

Interreign, or Interregnum, the Space of Time between the Death of one Soveraign Prince or Ruler and the Succeſſion or Election of another.

To Interrogate, to demand, or ask a Queſtion, to examine.

Interrogation, a Queſtion, or Demand: In Rhetorick a Figure when the Speaker paſſionately brings in a Matter by way of Queſtion to make the Truth of it appear more plainly.

Interrogation, or Note of Interrogation, a Point of Diſtinction, which in Greek is thus expreſſed (;) and thus (?) in Latin, Engliſh, and other modern Languages.

Interrogative, that interrogates, asks, or demands.

Interrogatives, (in Grammar) are certain Particles made uſe of in the aſking of a Queſtion.

Interrogatory, that belongs to queſtioning, or aſking.

An Interrogatory, an Interrogation, or Examination; in a Law-ſenſe Interrogatories are particular Queſtions demanded of Witneſſes brought in to be examined, eſpecially in the Court of Chancery.

To Interrupt, to break, or take off, to diſturb, to hinder, or ſtop.

Interruption, an interrupting, or putting a ſtop to, a troubling or diſturbing one in the midſt of a Buſineſs, a ſtopping one in the middle of his Diſcourſe, and hindering him from going on; a diſcontinuance, or breaking off. In Geometry Interruption is the ſame as Diſjunction of Proportion, and is marked thus ∶∶ to ſignifie the breaking off of the Ratio in the middle of four diſcrete or ſeparate Proportionals, as A:B :: C:D, i. e. as A is to B ſo C is to D.

Interſcapularia, (in Anat.) the Cavities or hollow places between the Shoulder-blades and the Vertebra's, or turning-joynts.

Interſcapularium, is alſo a Proceſs or Knob of the Shoulder-blade, in that part of it which riſes, and is commonly call'd the Spine.

† Interſcription, an interlining, or writing between two Lines.

Interſecants, (in Heraldry) pertranſient Lines, which croſs one another.

Interſection, a cutting off in the middle, or thorough. In Geometry the cutting of one Line or Plane by another.

† Interſertion, a planting, grafting, or ſetting between.

Intershock, a claſhing, or ſtriking of one thing againſt another.

Interſperſed, ſprinkled, ſcattered, or mingled here and there.

Interſperſion, a ſprinkling, ſtrewing, or ſcattering about.

Interſperſum Vacuum. See Vacuum.

Interſpinales Colli, (in Anat.) ſmall fleſhy Muſcles that ariſe from the upper parts of each double Spinal Proceſs of the Neck, except of the ſecond Vertebra, and end in the lower parts of all the ſaid double Spines.

Interſpiration, a breathing between, a fetching of Breath.

Interſtellar, (i. e. that is between the Stars) a Word that ſome Authors make uſe of to expreſs thoſe Parts of the Univerſe which are ſuppos'd to be Planetary Syſtems, having each fixed Star for the Center of their Motion, as the Sun is of ours; ſo that if it be true that every ſuch Star may thus be a Sun to ſome Habitable Orbs moving round it, the Interſtel- lar World will be infinitely the greater part of the Univerſe.

Interſtice, a Diſtance or Space between.

Intertexture, an interweaving, or weaving between.

Intertrigo, (Lat.) a fleaing of the Skin that proceeds from a violent Motion, eſpecially Riding, a Gall, or Chafe; alſo a fleaing of the Parts near the Fundament, or betwixt the Thighs, which often happens to young Children.

Interval, a Diſtance or Space, either of Time or Place; it is alſo applied to Numbers and Proportions: In Muſick it is the Diſtance or Difference between any two Sounds, of which one is more grave, and the other more acute.

To Intervene, to come or paſs between, to come in unlook'd for.

Intervenient, intervening, or coming in accidentally, as An intervenient Buſineſs.

† To Intervert, to overthrow, or turn upſide down.

Interview, a Meeting of State appointed between Princes, or other great Perſons, in order to Compliment each other, or to diſpatch ſome important Buſineſs.

Intervigilation, (Lat.) a Watching between whiles.

Interwoven, weaved among, or with, intermingled.

Inteſtable, (Lat.) uncapable by the Law to make a Will, or to be taken for a Witneſs.

Inteſtate, a Perſon that has not made any Teſtament, or Laſt Will; of theſe there are two kinds, one that makes no Will at all, another that makes a Will and nominates Executors, but they refuſe, in which Caſe he dies as an Inteſtate, and the Ordinary appoints Adminiſtration.

Inteſtina, (Lat.) the Inteſtines, Entrails, or Guts.

Inteſtina Gracilia, the ſmall Guts.

Inteſtina Terræ, Earth-Worms.

Inteſtine, inward, belonging to the inward Parts, lying within the Entrails.

Inteſtine War, a Civil War within the Bowels, as it were, of a Kingdom or State, between two Parties of the ſame Country.

Inteſtines, the inward Parts of any living Creature, the Entrails, or Bowels.

Inteſtinulum, (Lat.) the Navel-ſtring. See Funiculus.

Inteſtinum Cæcum, Duodenum Jejunum, & Rectum, ſeveral ſorts of Guts, which ſee in their proper places.

To Inthrall, to bring into Thraldom, Bondage, or Slavery.

To Inthrone, to ſet upon the Throne.

Inthronization, an Inthroning, a placing on a Throne, or Seat of Majeſty.

To Intice. See to Entice.

Intimacy, intimate Friendſhip, great Familiarity.

Intimate, (properly moſt inward) moſt dear, or familiar, entirely beloved, hearty.

To Intimate, to give to underſtand, to ſhew, to ſignifie, to hint.

Intimation, an intimating, ſignifying, or declaring of a thing, a Hint.

To Intimidate, to put in Fear, to ſcare, or fright, to diſhearten.

Intimidation, an intimidating, or affrighting.

To Intitle, to make a Title for a Book, &c. to give a Title, Right, or Claim to.

Intol, and Uttol, (Sax. Law-Term) Toll or Cuſtom paid for Commodities bought in and ſold out.

Intolerable, unſufferable, not to be born, or indured.

To Intomb, to put in a Tomb.

Intonation, (in Muſick) a giving the Tone or Key by the Chanter in a Cathedral to the reſt of the Choir.

To Intoxicate, to make drunk, or fuddle, in a figurative Senſe, to poiſon, or invenom, to bewitch.

Intoxication, the Act of Intoxicating.

Intractable, not to be managed, ungovernable, unruly.

Intrado, (Span.) an Entrance into a Place.

Intranſitive, (Lat. in Grammar) not paſſing from one to another.

To Intrap, to catch in a Trap, to inſnare, to intangle.

Intrare Mariſcum, (in old Latin Records) to drain a Marſh, or Bog, and by Dikes, Walls, &c. to reduce it to Paſture-Ground.

To Intrench, (Fr.) to fortifie with a Trench, or Rampart, alſo to invade, uſurp, or encroach upon.

Intrenchment, an intrenching; in the Art of War it ſignifies any Work that defends a Poſt againſt the Enemies Attacks, and is generally taken for a Trench, or Ditch, with a Breaſt-work.

Intrepid, (Lat.) that fears nothing, fearleſs, undaunted, reſolute, bold.

Intrepidity, Fearleſsneſs, Stoutneſs, great Courage, Reſolution.

Intricacy, Intanglement, Incumbrance, Difficulty.

Intricate, intangled, perplexed, difficult.

Intrigue, or Intreague, a cunning Deſign, Contrivance, or Plot, carry'd on by ſecret Practices; an Amour, or Love-Device.

Intrinſecal, or Intrinſick, inward, or ſecret, as The intrinſick Goodneſs of Gold or Silver, i. e. its inward and real Value.

Intrinſecum Servitium. See Forinſecum Servitium.

To Introduce, to bring or lead in, to broach, or ſet a-broach.

Introduction, an introducing, or leading in, alſo a Beginning or Preface to a Diſcourſe, Hiſtory, &c.

Introductor, he that introduces, as An Introductor of Ambaſſadors, i. e. a Maſter of Ceremonies, that brings them to Audience in a Prince's Court.

Introductory, that ſerves to introduce.

Introgreſſion, a going in.

† Intromiſſion, a letting in, a ſuffering to enter or come in.

To Introſpect, to look into, to view, to conſider.

Introſpection, an introſpecting, or looking into.

Introſumption, (in Philoſ.) the taking in of the Alimentary or nouriſhing Particles, whereby living Bodies are encreas'd.

To Intrude, to thruſt one's ſelf rudely into a Company, or Buſineſs, to intermeddle, to uſurp, or get Poſſeſſion of a Thing unjuſtly.

Intruder, he that intrudes, an Uſurper: In Common-Law an Intruder and an Abator differ, in regard that the latter enters upon Lands void by the Death of a Tenant in Fee, whereas the Intruder gets Poſſeſſion of ſuch as are void by the Death of a Tenant for Life or Years. See to Abate, and Abatement.

Intruſion, the Act of intruding, a wrongful or unmannerly thruſting in, the taking Poſſeſſion of a Benefice, or Exerciſe of any Employment, without having a lawful Title to it; a thruſting one's ſelf into Company where one is not welcome. In a Legal Senſe Intruſion is a violent or unlawful Entrance upon Lands or Tenements void of a Poſſeſſour by one that has no manner of Right to them, as when the Anceſtor dies poſſeſſed of an Eſtate of Inheritance expectant upon an Eſtate for Life, and then the Tenant for Life dies, between whoſe Death and the Entry of the Heir a Stranger intrudes, and gets Poſſeſſion.

Intruſione, the Name of a Writ that lyes againſt an Intruder.

To Intruſt, to put in truſt with.

Intubus, (Lat.) Endive, or Succory, a cooling Herb, the Water of which is of good uſe in Feavers and Inflammations.

Intuition, beholding, or looking upon, Conſideration, Contemplation, Examination. In a Metaphyſical Senſe 'tis defin'd by Mr. Lock to be a Perception of the certain Agreement or Diſagreement of any two Idea's immediately compar'd together.

Intuitive, that beholds, conſiders, &c. as The intuitive Faculty.

† Intumeſcence, a riſing, or puffing up, a Tumour, or Swelling.

Intunable, that cannot be tuned, or put in Tune.

To Invade, to attack, or ſet upon, to ſeize violently, to uſurp.

Invadiate, (in old Latin Records) to engage, or mortgage Lands, &c.

Invadiationes, Mortgages, or Pledges.

Invadiatus, (Law-Term) is when a Perſon has been accuſed of ſome Crime, which being not fully prov'd, he is put ſub debita fide juſſione, i. e. oblig'd to find good Sureties.

Invalid, infirm, weak, crazy; alſo that is of no Force, or Strength, that does not ſtand good in Law, void.

To Invalidate, to weaken, annul, or make void.

Invalidity, a being invalid, want of due Formality in Law, the Nullity of an Act, Contract, or Agreement.

Invariable, unchangeable, conſtant, firm, ſtedfaſt.

Invaſion, the Act of invading, aſſailing, or ſetting upon, an Uſurpation, or Encroachment, an Inrode or Deſcent upon a Country made by an Enemy.

Invecked, or Invected, (a Term in Heraldry) as A Bordure invected, which is when the Line of which it is made turns its Points or Notches inwards, and not towards the Field, being directly contrary to Engrailed.

Invective, railing, reproaching, as An invective Speech.

An Invective, a vehement Declamation againſt any Perſon or Thing.

To Inveigh againſt, to rail, to declaim, or ſpeak ſharply againſt.

To Inveigle, to allure, entice, or deceive by fair Words.

To Invelope. See to Envelope.

To Invenom. See to Envenom.

Invendible, (Lat.) that cannot be ſold, unſaleable.

To Invent, to find out, to contrive, or deviſe, to forge, or feign.

Invention, the Act of inventing, or finding, or the Thing found out; a Contrivance, Trick, or Device: Alſo one of the five Parts of Rhetorick, which conſiſts in finding out proper Means to perſwade; alſo the firſt part of Logick, which ſupplies Terms and Arguments for right diſputing.

Inventiones, (old Latin Law-Word) Treaſure-Trove, Money or Goods found, and not challeng'd by any Owner, which properly belong'd to the King unleſs that Privilege were granted by him to ſome particular Subjects.

Inventive, apt to invent, ingenious, ſharp-witted.

Inventory, a Catalogue or Account of Goods and Chattels found in the Poſſeſſion of a deceaſed Party, prized by ſufficient Men, which every Executor or Adminiſtrator is bound to deliver to the Ordinary whenever it ſhall be requir'd: In Traffick it is taken for a Liſt or particular Valuation of Goods, &c.

Inventory'd, put into an Inventory.

Inverſion, an inverting, or a turning the inſide out, a Change in the Order of Words or Things: In Rhetorick it is a Figure, whereby the Speaker makes that to be for his Advantage which was alledg'd againſt him, as Neque enim ſi Occidiſſem, Sepeliſſem.

To Invert, to turn upſide down, or the inſide out, to turn the contrary Way, to change, or alter.

To Inveſt, to put in Poſſeſſion of Lands, Tenements, &c. which anciently us'd to be done by delivering the Tenant a Verge, or Rod, and giving him an Oath; alſo to inſtall with any Honour or Dignity.

To Inveſt a Place, (in the Art of War) is to ſtop up all its Avenues, or Paſſages, and cut off all Communication with any other Place, by diſtributing Troops in the principal Poſts, till the reſt of the Army and Artillery come up to carry on a formal Siege.

Inveſtigation, a tracing, as it were, by the Steps, or print of the Feet, ſtrict Search, or diligent Enquiry.

Inveſtiture, a giving Livery of Seiſin, or Poſſeſſion, a putting in poſſeſſion of an Eſtate, &c. See Veſtura.

Inveterate, grown old, rooted in, or ſettled by long Continuance.

Invidious, that cauſes Envy, odious.

Invigilancy, want of Watchfulneſs, or Care, Careleſsneſs.

To Invigorate, to fill with Vigour, Life, and Spirit.

Invincible, that cannot be conquered, or overcome.

Inviolable, not to be violated, or broken.

Inviolate, not violated, or corrupted, unhurt, untainted.

To Inviron. See to Environ.

Inviſible, that cannot be ſeen, or diſcerned.

Invitation, an inviting, or bidding.

Invitatory, that ſerves to invite, as An Invitatory Verſe, i. e. a Verſe in the Roman Church-Service that ſtirs up to praiſe and glorifie God.

To Invite, to bid, call, or deſire one to come, eſpecially to a Feaſt, or Solemnity; alſo to incite, or allure.

Inula, (Lat.) the Herb Elecampane.

† Inunction, an anointing thoroughly.

Inundation, a overflowing of Water, a Flood, an over-running of Armies, Barbarians, &c.

To Invocate, or Invoke, to call upon for Help or Relief.

Invocation, an invoking, or calling upon, an Act of adoring God, and calling him to our Succour.

Invoice, a particular Account of Goods, Cuſtom, Proviſion, Charges, &c. ſent by a Merchant to his Factor or Correſpondent in another Country.

Invoice-Tare, the Tare or Weight of the Caſk, Bag, &c. in which Goods are put, mention'd in the Invoice, or Factor's Account.

Involucrum Cordis, a Membrane or Skin that ſurrounds the Heart, the ſame with Pericardium.

To Involve, (properly to wrap or fold in) to engage, to intangle, to overwhelm; in Algebra to multiply a Quantity into it ſelf.

Involvulus, (Lat.) a Worm like a Canker, that deſtroys the Buds of Vines, the Vine-fretter.

Involuntary, not voluntary, contrary to one's Will, forc'd.

Involuntary Weeping. See Epiphora.

Involute and Evolute Figures, certain Geometrical Figures ſo termed by Mathematicians.

Involution, an inwrapping, or infolding; In Algebra the raiſing up a Quantity from its Root to any Power aſſigned, ſo that if the Root be multiply'd into it ſelf it will produce the ſecond Power, or Square, and if that Square be multiply'd by the Root the third Power or Cube will be produced, and ſo on.

† Inurbanity, want of Courteſie, or Affability, Incivility, clowniſh Behaviour.

To Inure, to accuſtom; in a Law-ſenſe to take effect, or be available. See to Enure.

Inuſitate, that is not in uſe.

Inutility, Uſeleſneſs, Unprofitableneſs.

Invulnerable, that cannot be wounded.

Inward flanking Angle. See Angle.

Joab, (Heb. Fatherhood) King David's Siſter's Son, and the Captain General of his Army.

Joakim, or Jehoiakim, (i. e. the Lord's Preparation) a Name given to Eliakim, King Joſiah's Son.

Joan, a proper Name of Women, anſwerable to that of John in Men; of this Name there were ſeveral great Queens, as thoſe of Aragon, Navarre, and Sicily.

Joanniticks, a certain Order of Monks, that wear the Figure of a Chalice upon their Breaſts.

Joaſh, or Jehoaſh, (Heb. the Fire of the Lord) a King of Judah.

Job, (i. e. ſighing or ſorrowing) an Eminent Perſon, recorded in Holy Scripture as an exact Pattern of Patience.

Job's Tears, a ſort of Herb.

Jobb, a ſmall piece of Work.

Jobber, he that undertakes ſuch Jobbs; in ſome Statutes it is us'd for one that buys or ſells Cattel for others.

Jockey, one that trims up and rides about with Horſes for Sale.

Joclet, or Yoclet, (Sax.) a little Farm, as it were, requiring but one Yoke of Oxen to Till it; the Word is ſtill us'd in ſome parts of Kent.

Jocoſe, (Lat.) full of Jokes, or Jeſts, diverting, pleaſant.

Jocular, done or ſpoken in jeſt, ſportful.

Jocund, joyful, blithe, pleaſant, merry.

John, (Heb. the Grace of God) the Name of the Forerunner of our Bleſſed Saviour, Sirnamed the Baptiſt, and ſtyl'd the ſecond Elias, as alſo of that beloved Apoſtle and Evangeliſt call'd the Divine; ſince commonly taken for a proper Name, which has been born by ſeveral great Kings, and other renowned Men.

St. John's Bread, a kind of Shrub.

St. John's Wort, an Herb of a very dry binding Quality, the Oil of which is well known for its healing Virtue, when apply'd to Wounds and Ulcers.

Jollity, Gaiety, Mirth, good Humour.

Jolly, briſk, lively, merry.

Jonah, (Heb. a Dove) a noted Prophet among the ancient Jews, whoſe Prophecy is contain'd among the other Books of Holy Scripture.

Jonathan, anothet Hebrew Name, ſignifying the Gift of God.

Jonick Dialect, a Propriety of Speech peculiar to the Ionians. See Dialect.

Jonick Mood, a kind of Muſick that conſiſted of light, ſoft, and melting Strains, as amourous Songs, Sarabands, Courtants, Jiggs, &c.

Jonick Order, an Order in Architecture, which had its Original from Ionia, a Province of the leſſer Aſia; the Body of the Pillar is uſually channell'd or furrow'd with 24 Gutters, and its Length with the Capital and Baſe is 9 Modules, the Chapiter being chiefly compos'd of Voluta's, or Scrolls.

Jonquil, a ſort of Flower.

Jonthus, or Varus, a ſmall brawny Swelling in the Skin of the Face.

Joram, or Jehoram, (Heb. the Height of the Lord) a King of Judah, and Son of King Jehoſhaphat; alſo a King of Iſrael, the Son of Ahab.

Jordan, (i. e. the River of Judgment) a River of Judæa, whoſe two Spring-heads are Jor and Dan.

Joſcelin, a proper Name of Men.

Joſeph, (Heb. Increaſe) the eleventh Son of the Patriarch Jacob.

Joſephus, an Eminent Hiſtorian of the Jewiſh Nation, highly eſteem'd both by his own Countrymen, and by the Romans, whoſe Works, written in the Greek Tongue, are ſtill extant.

Joſiah, (Heb. the Fire of the Lord) a pious King of Judah, who ſucceeded his Father Ammon, and rooted out the Idolatry of Jeroboam.

Joſhua, (i. e. the Lord, Saviour) the Son of Nun, who, after the Death of Moſes, govern'd the People of Iſrael, and was chief Commander of their Armies.

Joſſing-block, a Block to get up on Horſe-back.

Joſtum, (in old Latin Records) Agiſtment, the paſturing or feeding of Cattel.

Jot, a Title, a Point, a very ſmall matter.

Jotaciſm, (Gr. in Grammar) a running much upon the Letter Iota, or I, as Juno Jovi iraſcitur; alſo when the Sound of it is doubled, as Traija, Maija; alſo a bad Pronunciation of the ſame Letter.

Jotſon. See Jetſon.

To Jouder, to chatter, as The Boor jouder'd a Welcome to me.

Jovial, pleaſant, merry, jolly, briſk.

Jovis Barba. See Barba Jovis.

Jovis Flos, Saffron, a Plant that bears a very yellow Flower.

Jouk, (in Falconry) a Hawk is ſaid to Jouk when ſhe falls aſleep.

Journal, (Fr.) a Day-book, Regiſter, or Account of what has paſs'd daily; in Navigation a Book in which a particular Account is kept of the Ship's Way, the Changes of the Wind, and other remarkable Occurrences. In Merchants-Accounts Journal is a Book into which every particular Article is poſted out of the Waſte-book, and made Debtor, being expreſs'd in a clear Style, and fairly written.

Journey, Travel by Land, properly as much Ground as may be paſs'd over in a Day; alſo a Tract or Extent of Ground, Way, March: Among Farmers a Days Work, in ploughing, ſowing, reaping, &c.

Journey-choppers, Regraters, or Sellers of Yarn by Retail.

Journey-man, ſtrictly one that works by the Day, but now the Word is alſo apply'd to thoſe that covenant to work with another in his Trade or Occupation by the Year.

Journeys-Accounts, (Law-Term) when a Writ is abated or overthrown without Default of the Plaintiff or Demandant, and a new one is purchas'd by Journeys-Accounts, i. e. as ſoon as it poſſibly can after ſuch Abatement of the firſt Writ.

Jowl, the Head of a Salmon.

Joy, Gladneſs, delight of the Mind, Pleaſure, Mirth.

Joys of the Planets, (in Aſtrol.) are certain Dignities that befall them, either by being in the place of a Planet of like Quality or Condition, or when they are in a Houſe of the Figure agreeable to their own Nature.

Joyce, the proper Name of a Woman.

To Joyn, to put or to come together, to agree.

Joynder, (in Common-Law) the joyning or coupling of two Perſons in a Suit or Action againſt another.

Joyning of Iſſue, is when the Parties agree to joyn, and refer their Cauſe to the Tryal of the Jury.

Joynt-Battery. See Battery.

Joynt-Tenants, are ſuch Tenants as come to and hold Lands or Tenements by one Title, and pro indiviſo, or without Partition.

Joynter, a kind of Plane to ſmooth Boards.

Joynture, (Law-Term) a Covenant whereby the Huſband aſſures to his Wife upon account of Marriage, Lands or Tenements for Term of Life, or otherwiſe: Joynture is alſo the State or Condition of Joynt-Tenants, alſo the joyning of one Bargain to another.

To Joynture a Wife, to make her a Joynture, or Settlement.

Joyſt, a piece of Timber us'd in Building.

Ips, (Gr.) the Vine-fly, or Vine-fretter; an Inſect.

Iraſcible, (Lat. in Philoſ.) capable of Anger, apt to be angry, as The iraſcible Appetite.

Ire, a Word not much in uſe, ſignifying Anger, or Wrath.

Ire ad largum, (Lat. i. e. to go at large) an Expreſſion often us'd in the Law.

Irenarches or Irenarcha, (Gr.) a Juſtice of the Peace; among the Romans a kind of Military Officer. See Stationarii.

Irio, an Herb call'd Bark-Creſſes, Rocket-gentle, or Rocket-gallant.

Iris, (Gr.) the Rain-bow, one of the moſt wonderful Meteors of the Air, appearing in the Clouds of divers Colours; alſo the Circle next the Apple of the Eye, diſtinguiſh'd with variety of Colours: Alſo the black Circle about the Nipple of a Woman's Breaſt; alſo thoſe changeable Colours which ſometimes appear in the Glaſſes of Teleſcopes, Microſcopes, &c. alſo that colour'd Figure which a Triangular Priſmatick Glaſs will caſt on a Wall when plac'd at a due Angle in the Sun-Beams; alſo the Name of a kind of precious Stone, and of the Flower-de-luce Plant.

Irkſome, troubleſome, tedious, diſpleaſing.

Iron, a Metal that is very full of Pores, and compounded of a Vitriolick Salt, Sulphur, and Earth.

Clerk of the Irons, an Officer in the Mint, who is to take care that the Irons be clean and fit to work with.

Iron-moulds, certain yellow Lumps of Earth or Stone found in Chalk-pits about the Chiltern in Oxfordſhire, which are really a kind of indigeſted Iron-Oar: alſo a ſort of ſmall yellow ſpots in Paper.

Iron-ſick, (Sea-Term) when the Bolts, Spikes, and Nails of a Ship or Boat are ſo eaten away with Ruſt, and worn out, that they ſtand hollow in the Planks, and make her leak.

Iron-wort, a kind of Herb.

Ironical, (Gr.) belonging to the Figure Irony, ſpoken by way of Raillery; as An ironical Expreſſion.

Irony, (in Rhetorick) a Figure us'd by Oratours, when they ſpeak contrary to what they mean, ſo as to make a ſhew of praiſing an Adverſary, and at the ſame time to ſcoff at and deſpiſe him; as He was no notorious Malefactor, but he had been twice in the Pillory.

To Irradiate, (Lat.) to dart or caſt forth Beams, to ſhine upon.

Irradiation, an irradiating, or caſting forth Beams, Brightneſs, Splendor, Luſtre; It is alſo us'd by Van Helmont, and ſome other Chymiſts, to expreſs the Operation of ſome Mineral Medicines, which they will have to impart their Virtue without ſending forth any thing material out of them, and without any loſs of their own Subſtance or Weight.

Irrational, void of Reaſon.

Irrational Lines, (in Geom.) ſuch as are incommenſurable to a Rational Line; ſo Figures incommenſurable to the Rational Square may be call'd Irrationals, or Surds: In like manner the Reaſon that is between incommenſurable Quantities is termed Irrational Reaſon.

Irrational Numbers or Roots. See Surd Root.

Irrational Quantities. See Rational Quantities.

Irreconcileable, that cannot be reconciled, not to be made Friends again, or to agree.

Irrecoverable, not to be recovered, or repaired.

Irrecuperable, the ſame as Irrecoverable.

Irrefragable, undeniable, not to be baffled, or withſtood.

Irrefutable, that cannot be confuted.

Irregular, not regular, being out of Rule, untural, diſorderly.

Irregular Body, a Term in Geometry. See Body.

Irregular Curves. See Curves.

Irregular Fortification. See Fortification.

Irregularity, going out of Rule, Diſorderlineſs: in the Canon-Law an Incapacity of taking Holy Orders, as when one is maimed, much deformed, baſe-born, or guilty of any hainous Crime.

Irreligion, want of Religion, Ungodlineſs, Profaneneſs.

Irreligious, that has little or no Religion, ungodly, profane.

† Irremeable, that cannot be repaſſed, from which one cannot return again.

Irremediable, that cannot be remedied, or helped, remedileſs, deſperate.

Irremiſſible, not to be remitted, pardoned, or forgiven, unpardonable.

Irreparable, that cannot be repaired, or reſtored to its firſt State, unrecoverable.

Irrepleviable or Irreplevisable, that ought not to be replevy'd, or ſet at large upon Sureties; as The Diſtreſs ſhall be irrepleviſable.

Irreprehenſible, not to be reprehended, or blamed.

Irreproachable, not to be reproached, that cannot be charged with any Fault.

Irreprovable, not to be reproved, unblameable, blameleſs.

Irreſiſtible, not to be reſiſted, oppoſed, or withſtood.

Irreſolute, unreſolved, doubting, wavering, uncertain what Courſe to take, inconſtant.

Irreſolution, Unreſolvedneſs, Uncertainty, Suſpenſe.

Irretrievable, not to be retrieved, recovered, or got again.

Irreverence, want of Veneration, or Reſpect, eſpecially for Sacred Perſons and Things, Rudeneſs.

Irreverent, that ſhews no Reverence, or Reſpect; profane, rude.

Irreverſible, that cannot be reverſed, repealed, or made void, unrepealable.

Irrevocable, not to be revoked, recalled, or brought back.

Irrigated, watered; as A Country irrigated by ſeveral fine Rivers.

Irrigation, the watering of a Meadow, Garden, &c. In Chymiſtry it is the ſame with Humectation.

Irriguous, moiſt, wet, plaſhy.

Irriſion, a laughing to ſcorn, ſcoffing, flouting, or mocking; alſo the Rhetorical Figure Irony, ſo call'd by Ruffinianus.

To Irritate, to incenſe, or urge, to provoke to Anger, to ſtir up.

Irritation, an irritating, or provoking, a ſtirring up, eſpecially of the Humours of the Body.

† Irroration, a bedewing, beſprinkling, or moiſtening.

Irruption, a breaking violently into an Enemy's Country, to commit Spoil, or Ravage; an Inroad, or forcible Entrance.

Iſaac, (Heb. Laughter) the Son of the Patriarch Abraham, and Father of Jacob.

Iſabella, a proper Name of Women, from Elizabeth, q. d. Eliſa Bella; alſo a ſort of Colour between White and Yellow.

Iſagogical, (Gr.) belonging to an Introduction or Preface, Introductory.

Iſagon, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of equal Angles.

Iſatis, the Herb Woad, alſo a kind of wild Lettice.

Iſatodes, a Boil, or Sore, whoſe Colour reſembles that of Woad, with which Cloth is dy'd Blew.

Iſcariot, the Sirname of Judas, that betray'd our Saviour, from the Hebrew Words Iſch Kerioth, i. e. of Kerioth, a Town of Judah, mention'd in Joſh. 15.25. which was his Birth-place: Or, as others ſay, from the Syriack, Eſcariuta, a Purſe, or Money-Bag; becauſe he had the Bag, and was, as it were, Treaſurer to the Sacred Company. See John 12. 6. and 13. 29.

Iſchæma, (Gr.) Medicines which by their binding, cooling, or drying Virtue, ſtop the violent motion of the Blood, and cloſe up the opening of the Veſſels.

Iſchæmon, an Herb like Millet, or Hirſe, having ſharp and moſſy Leaves, which is good to ſtanch Blood.

Iſchas, a kind of Wild Radiſh, Sow-Thiſtle.

Iſchias, a Diſeaſe call'd the Sciatica, or Hip-gout.

Iſchias major, (in Anat.) a Branch of the Crural Vein, which goes to the Muſcles and Fat of the Leg, and afterwards is divided into ſeveral Branches, which are ſpread out to the Toes.

Iſchias minor, is likewiſe a ſmall Branch of the Crural Vein, which is wholly ſpent on the Muſcles and Skin that are about the upper Joynt of the Femur, or Thigh.

Iſchiatick, troubled with or ſubject to a Pain in the Hip.

Iſchium, the Hip, or Huckle-bone. See Coxa Os.

Iſchnotes, a Fault in Speech, being a pronouncing of Words with a mincing and ſlender Tone.

Iſchureticks, Medicines that force Urine, when there is a Stoppage of it.

Iſchuria, a ſtoppage of Urine, or difficulty in making Water.

Iſhmael, (Heb. God has heard) the Son of the Patriarch Abraham, by his Bond-Woman Hagar.

Iſicium, (Lat.) a kind of Pudding call'd an Iſing or Sauſage.

Iſidos Plocamos, (Gr.) a Sea Shrub like Coral.

Iſinglaſs, a kind of Fiſh-glue brought from Iſland, and thoſe Parts, us'd in Medicines, and by ſome for the adulterating of Wine, but in that Caſe forbidden by Stat. 12. Car. 2.

Iſis, the River Ouſe in Wiltſhire, which afterwards meeting with the Thames is call'd Thamiſis.

Iſland, a piece of Land ſurrounded on all ſides by the Waters of the Sea, or of a River.

Iſlander, an Inhabitant of an Iſland.

Iſle, the ſame as Iſland; in Architecture Iſles are Sides or Wings of a Building, from the French Word Aile, i. e. a Wing.

Iſocolon, (Gr. in Grammar) a Term us'd when two Sentences are alike in Length.

Iſochrone, (in Mechanicks) Equality of Time; thus the Vibrations or Swings of a Pendulum, or hanging Weight, that are made in the ſame Space of Time, are ſaid to be Iſochronous.

Iſocrates, an Athenian Orator, chiefly famous for his Panegyrick recited at the Olympick Games, by which he ſtirr'd up the Greeks againſt Aſia.

Iſomeria, a Diſtribution into equal Parts; in Algebra the Method of clearing an Equation from Fractions, otherwiſe call'd Converſion of Equations.

Iſonomia, an Equal ty in Diſtribution.

Iſoperimeters or Iſoperimetrical Figures, (in Geom.) ſuch Figures as have equal Perimeters, or Circumferences.

Iſoſceles Triangle, a Triangle that has two Legs or Sides only equal, and whoſe third is call'd the Baſe.

Iſoſtates, one that overſees or views a thing, to obſerve whither it be equal, or right.

Iſped, (old Word) diſpatched.

Iſpida, (Lat.) the Kings-fiſher, a Bird.

Iſrael, (Heb. prevailing in the Lord) a Name given to the Patriarch Jacob, upon his wreſtling with an Angel, whence his Poſterity were call'd the Children of Iſrael.

Iſſachar, (Heb. Wages) the Son of Jacob by Leah.

Iſſuant, (Fr. in Heraldry) a Term us'd when a Lion or other Beaſt is drawn in a Coat of Arms juſt iſſuing out of the bottom Line of any Chief, Feſſe, &c. See Naiſſant.

Iſſue, Paſſage, Out-let, going out, Succeſs, Event, End; alſo a ſmall Ulcer made in the Arm, Leg, or other ſound Parts of the Body, to let out bad Humours. In Common Law Iſſue ſignifies Children begotten between a Man and his Wife; alſo ſometimes Profits growing from Amercements or Fines, or the Profits of Lands and Tenements; alſo that Point of Matter depending in Suit, upon which the Parties joyn and put their Cauſe to the Tryal of the Jury.

To Iſſue, to ſtream, or ſpring forth, to iſſue out.

To Iſſue out, to publiſh, or diſperſe abroad, to diſburſe, or lay out.

Iſthmian Games, certain Solemn Games among the ancient Greeks, appointed by Theſeus in Honour of Neptune, and kept every fifth Year in the Iſthmus of Corinth.

Iſthmus, (Gr. in Geog.) a narrow part or Neck of Land that lyes between two Seas, and joyns a Peninſula to the Continent. In Anatomy it is taken by ſome for that part which is between the Mouth and the Gullet; alſo the Ridge that ſeparates the Noſtrils.

Italian or Italick, belonging to the Country of Italy, as the Italian Language, the Italick Letter a particular ſort of Letter or Character us'd in Printing and Writing.

Italiana, a kind of Mercers Stuff.

Italick Order of Architecture. See Compoſite Order.

Italy, one of the moſt famous Countries of Europe ſo nam'd, either from Italus, King of Sicily, or from Oxen call'd Italoi in the old Greek.

Item, (Lat.) alſo, likewiſe, in like manner, a Word often us'd in Laſt Wills and Teſtaments; it is alſo ſometimes taken for a Caution, or Warning, as This is a fair Item for you; and ſometimes for an Article or Particular of an Account, as To examine the ſeveral Items of Diſburſements.

To Iterate, to do or ſay the ſame thing over again, to repeat.

Iteration, the Act of iterating, or repeating.

Itinerant, Travelling, or taking a Journey.

Juſtices Itinerant, certain Juſtices who were anciently ſent with Commiſſions into divers Counties to hear and determine ſuch Cauſes eſpecially as were termed Pleas of the Crown. See Juſtices in Eyre.

Itinerarium, (Lat.) an Itinerary, a Journal; alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument, which being fix'd in the Urinary Paſſage ſhews the Sphincter, or Neck of the Bladder, in order to the more ſure making of an Inciſion to find out the Stone.

Itinerary, a Book containing a Deſcription of Roads, with an Account of the Miles and Diſtances of Places one from another; alſo a Note-Book, in which Travellers uſually ſet down the moſt remarkable Particulars of what they have ſeen and obſerved.

Jub, (old Word) a Bottle.

Juba, (Lat.) the Main of a Horſe, or other Beaſt; alſo a kind of hairy Subſtance, like that at the top of Reeds; among Herbaliſts a ſoft looſe Beard which hangs at the end of the Huſks of ſome Plants that are of the nature of Corn, particularly in Millet.

Jubal, (Heb. fading, or a Trumpet) the Son of Lamech, the Inventer of the Organ and Harp.

Jubarb, (q. d. Jovis Barba, i. e. Jupiter's Beard) an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Houſe-leek.

Jubeb. See Jujubes.

Jubilate, (a Term us'd in the Roman Church) a Monk, Canon, or Doctor, that has been Fifty Years a Profeſſor.

Jubilation, a ſolemn rejoycing, a ſhouting for Joy.

Jubile, or Jubilee, a great Feſtival of rejoycing and releaſing, celebrated by the Jews every Fiftieth Year, for then Bond-men were made free, and Poſſeſſions return'd to the firſt Owners; neither was it lawful to plant or ſow any thing that Year. Among Chriſtians this Solemnity was firſt appointed by Pope Boniface VIII. A. D. 1300. to be kept every Hundred Years: Afterwards it was Celebrated every Fiftieth Year, by Order of Clement VI. in 1350. and at laſt every Twenty-fifth Year, according to the Injunction of Sixtus IV. 1475. which Cuſtom has continu'd ever ſince.

Jucca Peruana, (Lat.) a Plant, the Root of which makes that Bread call'd Caſſava, in the Weſt-Indies.

† Jucundity, Pleaſantneſs, Mirth.

Judah or Jehudah, (Heb. Confeſſion) the eldeſt Son of Jacob by Leah.

Judæa, a Country of Syria in the leſſer Aſia, which was Inhabited by the Jews of the Twelve Tribes; and call'd the Land of Promiſe; and by Chriſtians the Holy Land.

Judaical or Judaick, belonging to the Jews.

Judaicum Bitumen. See Aſphaltos.

Judaicus Lapis, a Stone found in Judæa, from whence it takes Name, which is often us'd in Diſtempers of the Reins.

Judaiſm, the Religion, Sacred Rites, or Cuſtoms of the Jews.

To Judaize, to follow the Doctrine, Ceremonies, or Superſtition of the Jews.

Judas's Tree, a Tree with broad Leaves, ſomewhat like thoſe of the Apricock, growing in the Hedges of Spain and Italy.

Judge, an Officer of eminent Parts and Probity, appointed to execute Juſtice in Civil or Criminal Cauſes; who takes an Oath at his Creation, That he ſhall indifferently adminiſter Juſtice to all that ſhall have any Suit or Plea before him.

To Judge, to think, believe, or ſuppoſe; to conceive or imagine; to deliver one's Opinion about a thing: Alſo, to hear and determine a Cauſe, to try or be a judge of it; to give or paſs Judgment, Sentence, or Verdict.

Judger; In Cheſhire, to be Judger of a Town, is to ſerve on the Jury at the Lord's Court.

Judgment, diſcerning Faculty, Reaſon, Underſtanding, Prudence, Diſcretion, Opinion, Mind, Deciſion, Sentence, Decree, Order. Judgment is alſo taken for the Second Part of Logick, which diſpoſes of Arguments for Diſputation.

The Judgments of God, are the remarkable Puniſhments which he inflicts upon Nations, Families, and private Perſons, for their Sins and Tranſgreſſions.

Judicatory, a place of Judgment, or hearing of Cauſes.

Judicature, a Judge's Place, or Office.

A Court of Judicature, an Aſſembly of competent Judges, and other Officers for the hearing, trying, and determining of Cauſes.

Judicial or Judiciary, Legal, done in due form of Juſtice, or according to due courſe of Law.

Judicial Aſtrology, a Science that vainly pretends to judge of, and foretell future Events, by obſerving the Poſition and Influence of the Stars, and Heavenly Bodies.

Judicial Writ. See Writ.

Judicious, endowed with much Judgment and Reaſon; rational, prudent, diſcreet, adviſed.

Judicium Dei, (i. e. the Judgment of God) a Name which our Anceſtours gave to thoſe Tryals of Ordeal, which are now quite laid aſide and forbidden.

Judith, (Heb Praiſing) the Daughter of Merari, who deliver'd Bethulia by cutting off Holofernes's Head.

Jug, a ſort of earthen Pot or Pitcher to hold Drink, &c. Alſo a Country word for a Common, Paſture, or Meadow.

Jugale Os, (Lat.) the Jugal Bone about the Temples; the ſame with Zygoma.

Jugerum, (among the Romans) an Acre of Land, ſo much as a Yoke of Oxen can plough in a Day; containing, according to Quintilian, 240 Foot in length, and 120 in breadth.

Juglans, a Walnut-tree, or Walnut; the outward Bark dry'd cauſes a ſtrong Vomit, and the Catkins are a gentler Vomit; the freſh Nuts are looſening, but the dry are hot and hard to digeſt.

Jugular, belonging to the Throat.

Jugular Veins, thoſe Veins that go along the ſides of the Neck, to the bottom of the Head; being of two ſorts, viz. the External and Internal.

† Jugulation, a cutting the Throat of any one; a killing, or murdering.

Jugulum, the fore-part of the Neck, where the Wind-pipe is; the Neck-bone, Throat-bone, or Channel-bone: Alſo, the upper Breaſt-bone, otherwiſe call'd Furcula Superior.

Jugum, a Yoke, a Couple, a Pair; the ridge or top of a Hill or Bank: Alſo a kind of Gallows made of Forks and Spears, under which the Romans cauſ'd their conquer'd Enemies to paſs: Alſo an Acre of Land: In Doomſday-Record, it is taken for half an Arpent, or Fifty Pearches.

Juice or Juicement. See Giſe and Giſement.

Jujubes, a kind of Prunes growing in Italy, much us'd in Phyſick, and ſold by Apothecaries: They are moderately hot and moiſt, and ſerve to qualify the ſharpneſs of the Blood.

To Juke or Jug, to pearch or rooſt, as a Hawk, and other Birds do.

Julap or Julep, (Perſ. a ſweet Potion) a liquid Medicine of a pleaſant Taſte, made of Barley-water, or of diſtill'd Waters, Spirits, &c. and ſweeten'd with Sugar, or cooling Spirits.

Julian, (in French Cookery) an exquiſite Potage made of a Leg of Mutton roaſted, and put into a great Pot or Kettle, with a good piece of Beef, a Fillet of Veal, a fat Capon, all ſorts of Roots, and ſome Herbs.

Julian Epocha. See Epocha.

Julian Period, a Cycle of 7980 Years ſucceſſively following one another; which is produced by the continual Multiplication of the three Cycles, viz. that of the Sun of 28 Years, that of the Moon of 19 Years, and that of the Indiction of 15 Years: This Epocha was firſt invented by Julius Scaliger, and is of good uſe in Chronology.

Julian Year, a ſpace of Time conſiſting of 365 Days and 6 Hours; ſo nam'd from Julius Cæſar, who cauſ'd the Roman Calendar to be reformed, and now commonly call'd the Old Style, in Contradiſtinction to the Gregorian, or New Style. See Gregorian Account.

Julio, an Italian Coin, firſt ſtampt by Pope Julius, and worth about Five-pence of our Engliſh Money.

Julis, (Gr.) the Sea-Junkerlin, or Rain-bow Fiſh.

Julius Cæſar, the firſt Emperour of Rome, who ſubdu'd France, Spain, the Low-Countries, and the greateſt part of Germany, and made Great Britain Tributary; but was at laſt kill'd in the Senate-houſe, after having receiv'd 26 Wounds with the Daggers of the Conſpirators.

Julus, the Moſs or Down of Fruit; as of an Apricock, Peach, Quince, &c. Among Herbaliſts, it is taken for thoſe Catkins or long Tufts, that in the beginning of the Year grow out of Haſels, Walnut-trees, &c. Alſo the Galley-worm, an Inſect.

July, the fifth Month of the Year in reckoning from March; whence it was at firſt call'd Quintilis, but afterwards had its Name chang'd in honour of Julius Cæſar.

Jumbals, a ſort of ſugared Paſte made by Confectioners, and wreath'd into Knots.

To Jumble, to mingle together, to confound.

Jument, (Lat.) a Labouring-Beaſt; any ſort us'd for Tillage or Carriage; as Horſes, Oxen, &c.

Jump, a Leap; alſo a ſhort Coat, or a kind of Bodice for Women.

Jumanes, (in Husbandry) Land ſown with the ſame Grain it was ſown with the fore-going Year.

Juncare, (in old Latin Records) to ſtrew, or ſpread ſpread with Ruſhes, according to the ancient Cuſtom of ſetting out Churches, and even the Bed-chamber of a Prince.

Juncaria or Joncaria, a Soil or Place where Ruſhes grow.

Junco, the Reed-Sparrow; a Bird.

Juncto or Junto, (Span.) a meeting of Men to ſit in Council: Alſo a Cabal, private Faction, or Party; a Combination.

Juncture, (Lat. properly a joyning or coupling together) an Inſtant, nick, or moment of Time; the preſent Poſture or State of Affairs: In Surgery, it is the ſame as Diorthoſis, or the reducing of crooked Members to their due State.

Juncus, a Bulruſh.

June, the ſixth Month of the Year, ſo call'd from the Goddeſs Juno; or as others will have it, à Junioribus, i. e. from the younger ſort of People; or, according to ſome others, from Junius Brutus, who drove out the King of Rome, and began the firſt Conſulſhip in that Month.

Junetin, a ſort of Apple.

Juniculus, (Lat.) a Vine-branch, growing out a great length.

Junior, a Word often us'd to expreſs the younger, in ſpeaking of two Perſons of the ſame Name: Alſo one of a later ſtanding in any Profeſſion or Faculty; as, He is my Junior.

Juniper-tree, a Shrub, whoſe Wood being burnt perfumes the Air; its Bereies and Gum are much us'd in Phyſick, and its Coals rak'd up in Embers will keep Fire twelve Months.

Junk, a kind of Indian Ship; alſo a Word us'd by Sea-men for any piece of an old Cable.

To Junket or go a junketting, to entertain one another with Banquets or Treats, to hunt after dainty Diſhes.

Junkets, Cakes and Sweet-meats, with which Gentlewomen entertain one another, and Young-men their Sweet-hearts; any ſort of delicious Fare to feaſt and make merry with.

Juno, a Heathen Goddeſs, the Siſter and Wife of Jupiter.

Juno's Roſe, the Lilly, a Flower.

Juno's Tears, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Vervain.

Junto. See Juncto.

Ivory, the Elephant's-tooth, being the fineſt and whiteſt kind of Bone, of which Boxes, and great variety of Toys, are uſually made.

Jupiter, the Son of Saturn and Ops, the chief Deity of the Heathens: Alſo one of the Seven Planets, the largeſt and higheſt except Saturn, which makes its Revolution about the Sun in the ſpace of Twelve Years. Among Aſtrologers, 'tis counted the greater Fortune, as being of a kind and temperate Nature. Among Chymiſts, Jupiter is taken for Tin; and in Heraldry, it is a blew Colour in the Coats of Soveraign Princes; anſwering to Sapphire in thoſe of the Nobility, and to Azure in the Eſcutcheons of the Gentry.

Jupiter's Diaphoretick. See Antihecticum Poterii.

Jupiter's Diſtaff, an Herb; a kind of Clary bearing a Yellow Flower, and otherwiſe call'd Mullein.

Jurat, (Lat.) a Magiſtrate of the nature of an Alderman, in ſome Corporations; as, the Mayor and Jurats of Maidſtone, Rye, Winchelſey, &c. So the Iſland of Jerſey is govern'd by a Bailiff and Twelve Jurats or Sworn Aſſiſtants. Jurats are alſo certain Officers in France, otherwiſe call'd Echevins, eſpecially at Bourdeaux, and other Towns of Gaſcony.

Jurden or Jurdon, a kind of great Chamber-pot or Urinal.

Juridical, that is, according to Law; belonging to the Execution of Law, Right, or Juſtice.

Juridical Days, Days on which the Law is adminiſter'd; Court-days.

Juriſdiction, Power and Authority to adminiſter and execute Laws; as Judges have in their reſpective Progreſſes: Alſo a Court of Judicature; particularly of a Lord of a Manour, with the Verge, or Extent of it.

Juriſprudence, the Skill or Knowledge of the Law.

Juriſt, an Author that treats of Matters of Law; a Civilian, a Lawyer.

Juris Utrum, a Writ that lyes for the Incumbent or Poſſeſſour of a Benefice, whoſe Predeceſſour has alienated his Lands or Tenements.

Juror or Jurour, one of the Jury Sworn; a Jury-man.

Jury, (in Common Law) a Company conſiſting of Twenty-four or Twelve Men, Sworn to enquire of the Matter of Fact, and declare the Truth, upon ſuch Evidence as ſhall be deliver'd them, touching the Matter in Queſtion. In England there are three ſorts of Tryals, viz. one by Parliament, another by Battel, and a third by Aſſize or Jury. In the General Aſſize there are many Juries, of which one is call'd the Grand Jury, and the reſt Petty Juries.

The Grand Jury, conſiſts of Twenty-four grave and ſubſtantial Gentlemen, or ſome of the better ſort of Yeomen, choſen indifferently by the Sheriff out of the whole County, to conſider of all Bills of Indictment preferr'd to the Court; which they either approve by writing upon them Billa Vera, or diſallow by Indorſing Ignoramus.

The Petty Jury, conſiſts of Twelve Men, who are impannell'd upon Criminal and Civil Cauſes: Thoſe that paſs upon Life and Death, have ſuch Matters referr'd to them as were approved of by the Grand-Jury, and bring in their Verdict Guilty or Not-Guilty; whereupon the Priſoner receives Judgment and Condemnation, or is Acquitted and ſet Free. In Civil Cauſes, the Jury, after due Conſideration, bring in their Verdict, either for the Plaintiff or the Defendant; and in real Actions, either for the Demandant or the Tenant.

Clerk of the Juries or Curata-Writs, an Officer in the Court of Common-Pleas, who makes out the Writs call'd Habeas Corpora and Diſtringas, for appearance of the Jury, after they have been return'd upon the Venire facias.

Jury-maſt, (Sea-Term) when the Fore-maſt, or Main-maſt is broken down by a Storm, or loſt in a Fight, the Mariners put ſome great Yard that is ſav'd into the Step of the broken Maſt, and faſten it into the Partners; fitting it with Sails and Ropes, ſo as to make a poor ſhift to ſail and ſteer the Ship: And this is call'd a Jury-maſt.

Jus, (Lat.) Law, Right, Equity.

Jus Coronæ, the Right of the Crown, which differs in many things from the general Law relating to the Subject.

Jus Curialitatis Angliæ. See Courteſy of England.

Jus Hereditatis, the Right of Inheritance. See Heir.

Jus Patronatus, (in Canon-Law) the Right of preſenting a Clerk to a Benefice; the ſame with Advowſon in the Common Law.

Juſquiamus or Hyoſcyamus, the Herb Henbane, or Hog-bane.

Juſſel, a Diſh made of ſeveral Meats minced together.

Juſt, right, reaſonable, righteous, upright, fit, fitting.

Juſt Diviſors, (in Mathematicks) are ſuch Numbers or Quantities as will divide a given Number or Quantity, and leave no Remainder: As if 6 be a Number propoſed, its Juſt Diviſors are 1, 2, 3 and 6. Every one of theſe Diviſors, except that which is equal to the given Number or Quantity, is alſo call'd an Aliquot Part; which See.

To Juſt or Juſtle, (Fr.) to run a Tilt.

Juſts, Tiltings, or Combats on Horſe-Back, with Lances or Spears.

Juſte-au-Corps, a Garment that reaches down to the Knees, ſits cloſe to the Body, and ſhews the exact ſhape of it.

Juſtice, Juſtneſs, Right, Law, Equity, Reaſonableneſs, upright Dealing; one of the Cardinal Vertues which may be defined to be a firm and conſtant Will, to render to every one what is his due.

Juſtice-ſeat, the higheſt Foreſt-Court, always held before the Lord Chief-Juſtice in Eyre of the Foreſt, upon warning forty Days before; where Judgments are given, and Fines ſet for Offences, &c.

Juſtice or Juſticer, an Officer appointed by the Queen or Common-wealth, to do Right by way of Judgment.

Juſtice or Chief Juſtice of the Common-Pleas, is he who with his Aſſiſtants hears and determines all Cauſes at the Common-Law; that is to ſay, all Civil Cauſes between common Perſons, as well Perſonal as Real; and he is a Lord by his Office.

Juſtice of the Foreſt or Juſtice in Eyre of the Foreſt, is likewiſe a Lord by his Office, and the only Juſtice that can appoint a Deputy: He has the hearing and determining of all Offences within the Queen's Foreſts, committed againſt Veniſon or Vert. Theſe are two in Number, one having Juriſdiction over all the Foreſts on the hither ſide of the Trent, and the other over all beyond that River.

Juſtice or Chief Juſtice of the Queen's Bench, is the Capital or Chief-Juſtice of England, and a Lord by his Office; which is more eſpecially to hear and determine all Pleas of the Crown, i. e. ſuch as concern Offences committed againſt the Crown, Dignity, and Peace of the Queen; as Treaſons, Felonies, Mayhems, &c.

Juſtices of Aſſize, ſuch as were wont by a ſpecial Commiſſion to be ſent into this or that County, to take Aſſizes for the Eaſe of the Subjects: Theſe Commiſſions of late Years have been ſettled and executed, only in Lent and the long Vacation, when the Juſtices of both Benches go their Circuit by two and two, thro' all England, and diſpatch their Buſineſs by ſeveral Commiſſions.

Juſtices in Eyre, thoſe who were wont to be ſent with Commiſſion into divers Counties, to hear ſuch Cauſes as were termed the Pleas of the Crown: And they were appointed for the Eaſe of the People, who otherwiſe would be oblig'd to come up to the Queen's-Bench, if the Cauſe were too high for the County-Court. See Eyre.

Juſtices of Gaol-Delivery, ſuch as are ſent with Commiſſion to hear and determine all Cauſes belonging to thoſe that for any Offence are caſt into Gaol or Priſon.

Juſtices of Labourers, were Juſtices heretofore appointed to curb the Frowardneſs of Labouring-men, that would either be Idle, or exact unreaſonable Wages.

Juſtices of Niſi Prius, are now the ſame with Juſtices of Aſſizes; for it is an uſual Adjournment of a Cauſe in the Common-Pleas, to put it off to ſuch a Day Niſi prius Juſticiarii venerint ad eas partes ad capiendas Aſſizes, i. e. Unleſs the Juſtices come before into thoſe Parts to take Aſſizes: So that upon this Clauſe they are ſtyl'd Juſtices of Niſi prius, with reſpect to the Writ or Action they have to deal in.

Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer, are Juſtices deputed upon ſome ſpecial and extraordinary Occaſions, to hear and determine ſome particular Cauſes. See Oyer and Terminer.

Juſtices of the Pavilion, were certain Judges of a Pie-Powder Court of a ſingular Juriſdiction, which the Biſhop of Wincheſter anciently authoriz'd at a Fair kept at St. Giles's Hill near that City, by virtue of a Patent from King Edward IV.

Juſtices of the Peace, are worthy Perſons appointed by the Queen's Commiſſion, to maintain the Peace in the County where they dwell: Of theſe, ſuch whoſe Commiſſion has this Clauſe, Quorum nos unum eſſe volumus, &c. are call'd Juſtices of the Quorum. See Quorum.

Juſtices of the Peace within Liberties, are ſuch in Cities and Towns-corporate as the former are in any County; and their Authority or Power is altogether the ſame within their ſeveral Precincts.

Juſtices of Tryal-Baſton or Trayl-Baſton, were certain Juſtices impower'd by King Edward I. to make Inquiſition thro' the Realm upon all Officers; as Mayors, Sheriffs, Eſcheaters, &c. touching Extortion, Bribery, and Intruſion, into other Men's Lands; as alſo upon Barretors, breakers of the Peace, and other Offenders: They were probably ſo call'd from the old French Word Trailer, i. e. to draw and Baſton a Staff, becauſe they had a Staff deliver'd them as a Badge of their Office.

Lord's Juſtices of the Kingdom, are the Regents or chief Governours of the Realm, during the King's or Queen's Abſence.

Juſticements, a Law-word for all things belonging to Juſtice.

Juſticiary, one that adminiſters Juſtice.

Juſticies, a Writ directed to the Sheriff, for the diſpatch of Juſtice in ſome ſpecial Cauſe, wherewith of his own Authority he cannot deal in the County-Court: This Writ particularly enables him to hold Plea of a great Sum, whereas by his ordinary Power he can hold no Pleas but of Sums under forty Shillings.

Juſtifiable, that may be juſtified.

Juſtification, the Act of juſtifying, clearing, or making good. Among Divines, a juſtifying or clearing of Tranſgreſſours of the Sacred Laws, by the Imputation of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs. In Common-Law, it is a ſhewing a good Reaſon in Court, why a Man did ſuch a thing as he is call'd to Anſwer.

Juſtificators, (Law-Term) Compurgators, ſuch as by Oath juſtify the Innocence, Report, or Oath of another: Alſo Jury-men, becauſe they juſtify that Party for whom they give their Verdict.

To Juſtify, to clear one's ſelf, to make his Innocency appear, to verify, to ſhew or prove, to maintain or make good. In Divinity, to make, or to declare innocent; to bring into a State of Grace. In a Law-ſenſe, to give a reaſon why ſuch an Act was done; as, To juſtify in a Cauſe of Replevin.

To Juſtify the Lines, (in the Art of Printing) is to make them even.

Juſtinian, the Name of two Roman Emperours, the firſt of whom was famous, for cauſing the Civil Law to be collected into a Body, call'd the Pandects and Code; whence Students of that Science are ſtyl'd Juſtinianiſts: The other was noted, for the great Wars he had with the Saracens and Bulgarians.

Juſtinians, a certain Religious Order, founded A. D. 1412. in the Abbey of St. Juſtin at Padua, by one Lewis Balus, a Venetian.

To Juſtle, to puſh, to run at Tilt.

Juter, a Term us'd by ſome, for the fruitful, congealing, ſaltiſh Quality of the Earth.

Jutty, Part of a Building that juts, or ſtands out farther than the reſt.

Juvenalia, (Lat.) certain Games or Feats of Activity, in old Times celebrated at Rome, for the Health of Youth.

Juvencus, a young Bullock, or Steer.

Juvenile, Youthful; belonging to, or ſuitable to Youth.

Juvenility, Youthfulneſs, Heat, or Vigour of Youth.

Juverna, an ancient Name of Ireland.

Juxtangina, a Sort of Quinſey, otherwiſe call'd Cynanche.

Juxta-Poſition, (in Philoſ.) Contiguity or Nearneſs; a ranging the ſmall Parts of any mixt Body into ſuch a Poſition, Order, or Situation, that the ſaid Parts being contiguous, or lying cloſe one to another, ſhall determine or ſhew a Body to be of ſuch a Figure, or Quality; or to be endu'd with ſuch Properties as are the natural Reſult of ſuch a Configuration or Diſpoſition of Parts.

Ivy, a creeping Plant that twines about Trees, and faſtens upon Walls, not being able to ſupport it ſelf. It was anciently conſecrated to the God Bacchus, upon Account of its cooling Quality, ſaid to repreſs the Fumes of Wine.

Iwimpled, (old Word) muffled.

Ixia, (Gr.) a Swelling of the Veins; the ſame with Cirſos and Varix.

Ixia or Ixine, a Sort of Carduus; an Herb which ſome call Cameleon.

Iron, a great White Bird of the Raven-kind.

Jynx, the Wry-neck, or Emmet-hunter, or as ſome ſay, the Wag-tail; a Bird.

K A

Kaarl-Cat, a Word often us'd in Lincon-ſhire, for a Male or Boar-Cat.

Kab or Cab, on Hebrew Meaſure, containing three Engliſh Pints.

Kalendar and Kalends. See Calendar and Calends.

Kali or Glaſs-wort, a Sea-Herb, of whoſe Aſhes Cryſtal-Glaſſes and Soap are made. See Alkali.

Kantref, (Welſh) a Province or Diviſion of a Country in Wales, containing a Hundred Towns. See Cantred.

Karena, (among Chimiſts) the twentieth Part of a Drop.

Karite or Carite, a Name which our Monks in former times gave to the beſt Drink or ſtrong Beer that was kept in their Monaſtery.

Karle, (Sax.) properly ſignifies a Man, with any Addition or Title; a Servant, a Clown: whence Buſcarle, a Sea-man Huſcarle, a Houſhold-Servant, &c. And hence probably our modern Word Churl had its Original.

Karle-hemp, (Country-Word) the latter green Hemp.

Karob. See Carob.

Karrata Fœni, (in our old Latin Writers) a Cart-load of Hay; the ſame as Caretta.

Katharine. See Catharine.

Catzen-Silver, a Sort of Stone, which as they ſay, cannot be conſum'd either by Fire or Water.

To Kaw, to cry as a Jack-Daw does.

To Kaw for Breath, to fetch one's Breath with much Difficulty.

Kay or Key, a convenient Place on the Shore, for the loading or unloading of Veſſels; a Wharf.

Kayage, Toll or Money paid for Wharfage.

† Keals (Fr.) Wooden Pins to play with, commonly call'd Nine-pins.

Kebbars or Cullars, refuſe Sheep taken out of the Flock.

To Keckle, (Sea-Term) to wind or twine ſome ſmall Ropes about the Cable or Bolt-rope, to preſerve them from galling in the Hawſe, or in the Ship's Quarter.

Kecks, dry Stalks, or Sticks.

To Kedge, (among Sea-men) to ſet up the Fore-Sail, or Fore-Top-Sail, and Miſſen, and ſo let a Ship drive with the Tide, letting fall, and lifting up the Kedge-Anchor, as often as Occaſion ſerves; when in a narrow River they would bring the Ship up or down, the Wind being contrary to the Tide.

Kedgers or Kedge-Anchors, are ſmall Anchor us'd in calm Weather, and in a ſlow Stream.

Keel, a Veſſel for Liquors to ſtand and cool in.

Keel of a Ship, is the loweſt and firſt Piece of Timber, which lies in a ſtraight Line, in the Bottom of her Hull; being the Baſis or Foundation, on which all the reſt are faſten'd.

Falſe Keel, a Second Keel which is ſometimes put under the Firſt, when a Ship is over-floaty, and rolls too much.

Rank Keel, is a deep Keel, which keeps a Ship well from rolling.

Keel-raking. See Ducking at the Main Yard-arm.

Keel-rope, a Hair-rope running between the Keelſon and the Keel, from one End to the other, which ſerves to clear the Limber-holes, when they are choaked or ſtopt up with the Ballaſt, &c.

To Keel, (old Word) to cool.

Keelage, a Cuſtom or Duty paid at Hartlepool in Durham, for every Ship coming into that Port.

Keelſon, the Second Piece of Timber, which lies right over the Keel, and is faſt bound together with ſtrong Iron-Bolts.

Keen, Sharp, that cuts well; ſharp or ſubtil, pricking, eager.

Keep, a ſtrong Tower in the middle of a Caſtle or Fort, in which the Beſieged make their laſt Efforts of Defence, as the Keep of Windſor-Caſtle. Whence the Inner-Fort of Dover-Caſtle, built by K. Henry II. was call'd The King's Keep.

Keep your Loof or Keep her to, an Expreſſion us'd at Sea, when the Steerſ-man is directed to keep the Ship near the Wind.

Keeper of the Exchange and Mint. See Warden of the Mintt

Keeper of the Foreſt, otherwiſe called Chief Warden of the Foreſt, is he that has the principal Government of all things belonging to the Foreſt, and the Check of all the other Officers.

Keeper of the Great Seal of England, one of the chief Officers of the Kingdom, thro' whoſe Hand paſs all Charters, Commiſſions, and Grants from the Queen, ſtrengthen'd by the Great or Broad Seal, without which they are of no Force: He is a Lord by his Office, and one of the Queen's Privy Council; his Authority and Juriſdiction being in Effect the ſame, with that of the Lord High-Chancellour.

Keeper of the Privy Seal, is likewiſe a Lord by his Office, and a Member of the Privy Council: Under his Hand paſs all Charters ſign'd by the Queen, before they come to the Broad Seal, and ſome Deeds that do not paſs the Great Seal at all.

Keeper of the Touch, an Officer of the Mint, now call'd Maſter of the Aſſay.

Keepers of the Liberties of England. See Cuſtodes Libertatis Angliæ.

Keeve or Keever, a kind of Tub or Brewing-Veſſel, in which the Ale or Beer works before it is tunn'd.

Keg of Sturgeon. See Cag.

Keiri or Cheiri, Wall-flower; a Plant, the Flowers of which are cordial and good for the Sinews; they alſo eaſe Pain, provoke the Courſes, and expel a dead Child.

Kelder. See Hans in Kelder.

Kell or Kiln, a Place where Malt or Hops are dry'd. Kell is alſo the Caul or Skin that covers the Bowel

Kellus, a kind of Subſtance like a White ſo found in the Tin-Mines in Cornwal, next above tha call'd Spar.

Kelp, a Subſtance made of Sea-wrack, a Weed laid on Heaps, dry'd and burnt, which being ſtirr'd to and fro with an Iron-rake, grows thick and cake together.

Kemelings, (old Word) a Brewer's Veſſel.

Ken, as within Ken, i. e. within Sight or View.

To Ken, (Sax.) to know, to ſpy out at ſome diſtance.

Kenhelm or Kenelm, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying Defence of his Kindred.

Kenks, (in Sea-Language) are Doublings in a Cable or Rope, when it does not run ſmooth as it is handed in or out: Alſo when any Rope makes Turns, and does not run clever in the Blocks or Pulleys, it is ſaid To make Kenks.

Kennel, a Water-courſe, or Puddle in the Streets; Alſo a Pack or Cry of Hounds.

To Kennel, a Term apply'd by Hunters to a Fox, when he lies in his Hole.

Kennets, a ſort of courſe Welſh Cloth: In Sea-Affairs, ſmall Pieces of Timber, nailed on the Inſide of a Ship, to which the Ropes, call'd Tacks and Sheats, are belayed or made faſt.

Kenred, (Sax.) a proper Name of Men, ſignifying bold Counſellour, anſwerable to Thraſybulus in Greek.

Kenric, another Proper Name, that ſignifies bold Commander, and anſwers to the Greek Cratæarchus.

Kenwulph or Cenwulph, (i. e. bold Heſper) the Name of the Fifteenth King of the South-Saxons.

Kerb-Stone, a Stone laid round the Brim of a Well.

Kerchief, a kind of Linnen-Dreſs which old Women uſe to wear on their Head.

Kerf, (old Word) a Notch in Wood.

Kermes, the Grain of the Scarlet-oak; being the chief Ingredient of a Confection call'd Alkermes. Theſe Grains are of a binding Quality, and uſ'd with Succeſs for Wounds, eſpecially of the Nerves; as alſo againſt the Apoplexy, Palſey, &c.

Kern, an old Britiſh Word, ſignifying a Horn: Alſo an Iriſh Foot-Soldier, lightly armed with a Dart or Skene; a Vagabond, or ſtrolling Fellow; a Country-Bumpkin.

To Kern, to corn, to powder, or ſalt.

Kernel-water, (among Confectioners) a ſort of Liquor made of the Kernels of Cherries and Apricocks, pounded and ſteep'd in Brandy.

Kernelled Walls, Walls built with Cranies or Notches, for the better Conveniency of ſhooting Arrows, and making other Defence; according to which Method ſeveral Manour-houſes in England, were anciently fortify'd, after the Caſtles were demoliſhed for preventing Rebellion.

Kers, the ſame as Creſſes.

Kerſey, a ſort of courſe woollen Cloth, made chiefly in the Counties of Kent and Devon.

Kerſey Rudge-waſhed. See Rudge-waſhed Kerſey.

Keſar, a Word which the ancient Britains uſ'd inſtead of Cæſar; and is ſtill taken in the ſame Senſe for a King or Soveraign Prince.

Keſhitah, a Hebrew Coin, ſo call'd from its being ſtampt with the Image of a Lamb; the ſame as Gerah; which See.

Keſtrel, a kind of Hawk; a Bird of Prey.

Ketch, a Veſſel like a Hoy, but of a leſſer Size.

Kevils or Chevils (in Sea-Affairs) ſmall wooden Pins, upon which the Tackle and Sails are hung to dry.

Key, an Inſtrument to open a Lock: In Muſick, a certain Tone, to which every Compoſition ought to be fitted or apply'd; ſaid to be either Flat or Sharp, upon Account of the flat or ſharp Third which is joyn'd with it. The middle Stone of an Arch in Building is alſo call'd a Key: Alſo a Wharf for landing or ſhipping off Goods. See Kay.

Key of a River or Haven, a Place where Ships ride, and are as it were lock'd in.

Keyage. See Kayage.

Keyle or Keel, a kind of Long Boat of great Antiquity, mention'd in Stat. 23. H. 8.

Keynard, (old Word) a Micher or Truant.

Keyus or Keys, (in ancient Deeds) a Guardian, Warden, or Keeper: Whence in the Iſle of Man, the twenty four chief Commoners, being as it were the Keepers of the Liberties of the People, are call'd The Keys of the Iſland.

Kibe or Chilblain, a painful Swelling often accompany'd with Inflammation, which happens more eſpecially in the nervous and outward Parts, as the Heel, &c. being ſo much the more ſenſibly felt, as the Air and Cold are more ſharp and violent.

Kibrit, a Word ſometimes uſ'd by Chymiſts for Sulphur.

Kibſey, a kind of Wicker-basket.

Kichar, a Hebrew Sum of Money. See Chichar.

Kichel, (old Word) a kind of Cake: Whence in old Times, God-fathers and God-mothers when their God-children ask'd their Bleſſing, uſ'd to give them a Cake call'd God's-Kichel.

Kickſhaw, a French Ragoo, or Sauce; a trivial or ſlight Buſineſs.

Kidcrow, (Country-Word) a Place for a ſucking Calf to lye in.

Kidder or Kidyer, a kind of Badger, or Huckſter; one that carries Corn, dead Victuals, or other Merchandize up and down to ſell.

Kidle, Kidel or Kedel, (in ancient Deeds) a Wear or Dam in a River to catch Fiſh.

To Kidnap, to entice, or ſteal away Children.

Kidnapper, one that makes a Trade of decoying and ſpiriting away young Children, and others, to ſhip them for Foreign Plantations.

Kidney. See Reins.

Kidney-beans, a known kind of Pulſe.

Kidney-vetch and Kidney-wort, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Kilderkin, a kind of liquid Meaſure, containing two Firkins, or eighteen Gallons.

Killow, a ſort of Mineral Stone. See Lapis Cæruleus.

Kina, the Jeſuits Bark. See Cina.

Kinburgh, (Sax. Strength and Defence of Kindred) a proper Name of Women.

Kinder, (among Hunters) a Company of Cats, &c.

King, (in Saxon, Cyning or Koning) a Soveraign Prince, or chief Ruler; from the Teutonick Word Konnen, to know; upon Account of the eminent Knowledge and Prudence with which he ought to be endu'd, or from Konnen to have Power, becauſe he has abſolute Rule over the whole Land.

King of Heralds or King at Arms, a principal Officer at Arms, that has the Pre-heminence of the Society; of whom there are three in Number, viz. Garter, Norroy, and Clarenceux; which See in their proper Places.

King's-Bench, the Court or Judgment-Seat, where the King of England ſometimes uſ'd to ſit in his own Perſon; and therefore it was moveable with the Court, or King's Houſhold, and was call'd Curia Domini Regis, or Aula Regia. This Court is more eſpecially exerciſed about Criminal Matters, and Pleas of the Crown: The Preſident of it is the Lord Chief Juſtice of England, with three or four Juſtices Aſſiſtant; and its Officers are the Clerk of the Crown, a Prothonotary, and other inferiour Miniſters, Attorneys, &c.

King's-Evil, a Diſeaſe; the Gift of curing which has been attributed to the Kings and Queens of England ever ſince the Time of Edward the Confeſſour.

King's-fiſher, a Bird ſo call'd, becauſe it feeds upon Fiſh, and has blew Feathers reſembling a King's purple Robe.

King's-Silver, that Money which is due to the King in the Court of Common Pleas, in reſpect of a Licence there granted for the paſſing of a Fine.

Clerk of the King's Silver, an Officer of the Common Pleas, to whom every Fine is brought, after it has been with the Cuſtos Brevium, and by whom the Effect of the Writ of Covenant is enter'd into a Paper-Book.

King's-ſpear, an Herb, the Flower of which is good againſt the Poiſon of Aſps.

King's Widow, a Widow of the King's Tenant in chief, who to keep the Land after her Husband's Deceaſe, was oblig'd to make Oath in Chancery, That ſhe would not marry without the King's Leave.

Kingdom, (in Geogr.) one or more Countries ſubject to a Soveraign Prince: Alſo a Term made uſe of by Chymiſts, who call the three Orders of Natural Bodies, viz. Animal, Vegetable, and Mineral, by the Name of Kingdoms.

Kingeld, Eſcuage, or Royal Aid.

Kintal or Quintal, a Weight of one Hundred Pounds, more or leſs, according to the Uſage of divers Nations. The Kintal of Smyrna is 123 Pounds, 3 Ounces, 9 Drams, or 120 l. 7 Oun. 12 Dr. but that of Aleppo is [illegible] l. 11 Oun. 15 Dr.

Kipe, a Basket made of Oſiers, broader at Bottom, and narrow'd by Degrees to the Top, but left open at both Ends; which is uſed for taking of Fiſh, particularly at Otmore in Oxford-ſhire, where this manner of Fiſhing is called Kiping, and going to Kipe.

Kipper-time, a Space of Time between the Feſtival of the Invention of the H. Croſs, May 3d. and Twelfth-Day; during which, Salmon-fiſhing in the River Thames was forbidden by Rot. Parl. 50 Edw. 3.

Kirat, an Arabick Word, ſignifying the Weight of three Grains.

† Kirk, a Church; as The Kirk of Scotland.

Kirtle, a kind of ſhort Jacket.

Kit, a Pocket-Violin; a Muſical Inſtrument: Alſo a Country-Word for a Pail.

Kit-floor, a particular Bed or Lay in a Coal-Mine; as at Wedneſbury in Stafford-ſhire; the fourth parting in the Body of the Coal, being one Foot thick, is termed the Kit-floor.

Kit-keys, the Fruit of the Aſh-Tree.

Kitchen, a Room or Place where Meat is dreſſed, &c.

Clerk of the Kitchen, an Officer in a Nobleman's Houſe, whoſe Buſineſs it is to buy in Proviſions, keep the Accounts of Bill of Fare, &c.

Kite, a Bird of Prey.

Kite's-foot, a ſort of Herb.

Kitta, See Citta.

Knack, a Toy; alſo a particular Skill or Faculty.

Knag, a Knot in Wood; the Branches that grow out in Hart's Horns, near the Fore-head, are alſo call'd Knags.

Knap, the Top of a Hill, or riſing Ground.

To Knap, to ſnap, or break; to pick at: Among Hunters, the ſame as to browſe, to feed upon the Tops of Leaves, Shrubs, &c.

Knap-bottle, a ſort of Herb.

Knap-weed, an Herb ſomewhat like Scabious, good to ſtay Fluxes, Rheums, and Bleeding.

Knave, (Sax.) at firſt ſignified a young Son, or Boy; whence a Knave-child, i. e. a Male-Child is diſtinguiſh'd from a Girl, in ſeveral old Writers: Afterwards the Word was commonly taken for a Servant-boy, and by degrees for any Serving-man; but it is now generally us'd in an ill Senſe, for a crafty, deceitful Fellow; a Cheat or Shark.

Knave-line, a Rope in a Ship, one End of which being faſten'd to the Croſs-trees under the Main or Fore-Top, comes down by the Ties to a Block or Pulley call'd the Ram-head: Its Uſe is to keep the Ties and Halliards from turning one upon another, as they are apt to do, when new, and firſt us'd.

Knecks, the Twiſting of a Cable or Rope, as it is veering, or putting out.

Knee, (among Herbaliſts) thoſe Parts which in ſome Plants reſemble Knees or Joints: In Sea-Affairs, certain crooked Pieces of Timber, made uſe of to faſten the Beams of a Ship to the Futtocks, being ſtrongly bolted into both; and ſo call'd, becauſe they are bowed like a Knee: The Cut-water of a Ship is alſo call'd the Knee of the Head.

Knee-graſs, a ſort of Herb.

Knee-holm, a Shrub.

Knee-Timber, Timber that is proper for making the Knees of a Ship.

Kneeling or Skelwell, a ſort of ſmall Cod of which Stock-fiſh is made.

Knell, a Paſſing-bell, the ringing of a Bell at the Departure of a dying Perſon.

Knettles, (among Sea-men) are two untwiſted Rope-yarns, joyn'd together with a Knot at each End, to bind or make faſt a Block or Pulley, a Rope, or the like.

Knevels or Kevels, ſmall Pieces of Wood, nail'd on the Inſide of a Ship, to which the Sheat-Ropes and Tacks are made faſt.

Knight, (Sax. Cnight) originally ſignifies a Soldier or Horſe-man in War; and thoſe that were us'd to wait upon the Emperour in his Warlike Expeditions were called Knechts, i. e. Servitours, or luſty young Men. The Word is alſo taken fot a Client or Vaſſal, eſpecially one that holds his Lands by ſerving his Lord on Horſe-back: But it is now become a Title of Honour, beſtow'd by the Queen on Perſons whom for their eminent Worth or Valour, ſhe thinks fit to ſingle out from the ordinary ſort of Gentlemen; and to raiſe them to a higher Degree of Dignity. Of Knights there are many ſorts, but the moſt uſual amongſt us are theſe; viz.

Knights Batchelers, the loweſt but moſt ancient Order of Knighthood, deriv'd from the Germans; amongſt whom it was an old Cuſtom, That as ſoon as the State judg'd any of their young Men fit to manage Arms, and to undertake Martial Enterprizes; then in a full Aſſembly or Council, either one of the Princes, or the Father, or ſome other Relations of the young Man, furniſh'd him with a Shield and Javelin, as the Romans us'd to give the Virile Gown to thoſe, whom they thought capable of Publick Imployment; ſo that thenceforth from Part of a Private Houſe, he was accounted a Member of the Commonwealth. It was alſo an ancient Ceremony to honour Men with the Girdle of Knighthood, which he who receiv'd was ſolemnly to go to Church, and offering his Sword upon the Altar, to vow himſelf to the Service of God: Afterwards it became cuſtomary for Kings to ſend their Sons to the Neighbouring Princes, to receive Knighthood at their Hands. In Proceſs of Time, beſides the Sword and Girdle, gilt Spurs were alſo added for greater Ornament; whence in Latin they are ſtyl'd Equites Aurati. The Word Batchelers ſome derive from the French Bas Chevaliers, as it were Knights of the loweſt Degree; and others from Batailler, to combat or fight: They are alſo call'd Knights ſimply, without any other Addition.

Knight Banneret, from the Dutch Word Bannerheer, i. e. Lord or Maſter of the Banner, is a Knight made in the Field, with the Ceremony of cutting off the Point of his Standard, and making it as it were a Banner. Theſe Knights are allow'd to diſplay their Arms in the King's Army; and ſuch as are created under the Standard, by the King perſonally preſent, take Place of Baronets. This Dignity was conferr'd at firſt by the Kings of England and France, on ſuch Gentlemen as ſignaliz'd their Valour in two Royal Battels, or ſuch as had ten Vaſſals, and Means to maintain a Troop of Horſe at their own Charge. Some ſay the firſt Original of it was from King Edward III.

Knight Baronet, a Combination of Title in regard the Baronetſhip is generally accompany'd with that of the Knighthood; but the latter was made a diſtinct Order by K. James I. who for certain Diſburſements towards the Plantation in Ulſter, advanc'd ſeveral Perſons to this Dignity, and made it Hereditary by his Letters Patent. Theſe Baronets were to have Precedency in all Writings, Seſſions and Salutations before all ordinary Knights Banneret, Knights of the Bath, and Knights Batchelors.

Knights of the Bath, an Order of Knights made within the Liſts of the Bath, and girded with a Sword in the Ceremonies of their Creation: Theſe Knights were oblig'd to bath themſelves the Night before, and obſerv'd ſeveral Religious Rites which uſually belong to Hermits, and other Holy Orders. They take Place of Knights Batchelors, but come after Baronets.

Knights of the Carpet, are another ſort of Knights made out of the Field, and ſo call'd, becauſe in receiving their Order, they commonly kneel upon a Carpet.

Knights of the Chamber, ſuch Knights Batchelors as are made in Time of Peace, being uſually Knighted in the King's or Queen's Chamber, and not in the Field of Battel.

Knights of the Garter or of St. George, an Order of Knighthood eſtabliſhed by K. Edward III. as ſome ſay, upon Occaſion of good Succeſs in a Skirmiſh, wherein the King's Garter was us'd for a Token. Others affirm, That the King after many great Victories, dancing one Night with the Queen and other Ladies, took up a Garter that happen'd to fall from one of them; whereat ſome of the Lords ſmiling, the King ſaid, That e'er long he would make that Garter to be of high Reputation; and accordingly he founded this noble Order, giving them a Blew Garter decked with Gold, Pearl, and precious Stones, and a Buckle of Gold to be worn on the Left Leg only, with a Kirtle, Crown, Cloak, Chaperon, Collar, and other magnificent Apparel: Afterwards King Charles I. for a farther Ornament, enjoyn'd all the Companions of the Order, to wear on the left Side of their upper Garment the Croſs of England, incircled with the Garter and Motto, from whence round about are caſt Beams of Silver, like the Rays of the Sun in full Luſtre.

This moſt honourable Society is a College of Corporation, having a Common Seal belonging to it, and conſiſting of a Soveraign Guardian, who is the King or Queen of England, Twenty Five Companions, being Noblemen of the Realm, or Princes of Foreign Countries, &c. There are alſo depending upon this Order Twenty ſix Poor Knights, who have no other Suſtenance, but their Allowance, and are call'd Poor Knights of Windſor, becauſe the Seat of this College is Windſor Caſtle, with St. George's Chapel, and the Chapter-houſe in the ſame Caſtle; their Solemnities being perform'd on St. George's Day, April 23. The Officers belonging to this Order are the Prelate of the Garter, who is Biſhop of Salisbury, the Chancellour of the Garter, the Regiſter who is always Dean of Windſor, the principal King at Arms, nam'd Garter, and the Uſher of the Garter, who is alſo Uſher of the Prince's Chamber, and call'd the Black Rod.

Knights of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem, an Order of Knighthood that began about A.D. 1120. having their firſt Foundation and Abode at Jeruſalem: Afterwards they had their Reſidence in the Iſland of Rhodes; whence they were driven out by Solyman, Emperour of the Turks, in 1523. and ever ſince their chief Seat has been at Malta, where they have done great Exploits againſt the Turks. There was one general Prior that had the Government of the whole Order in England and Scotland, with a Right to ſit in the Lord's Houſe of Parliament, but towards the End of King Henry's VIII's Reign, they were ſuppreſs'd for adhering to the Pope.

Knights of the Temple or Knights Templars, were firſt appointed by Pope Gelaſius, or, as others ſay, by Baldwin II. King of Jeruſalem, A. D. 1117. Theſe Knights at firſt dwelt in Part of the Building that belong'd to the Temple of Jeruſalem, not far from our Saviour's Sepulchre, where they charitably entertain'd Chriſtian Strangers and Pilgrims, and in their Armour led them thro' the Holy Land to view ſuch things as were to be ſeen there; defending them from the Infidels: But at laſt, becauſe they became Vicious, and ſome of them fell away from Chriſtianity; or rather for that they grew too powerful, the whole Order was aboliſh'd by Pope Clement V. in 1309. as alſo by the Council of Vienna in 1312. and their Poſſeſſions were given to the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem, and other Religious Orders.

Knights of the Shire, two Knights, or other Gentlemen of Worth, choſen to ſerve in Parliament, by the Free-holders of every County that can lay out Forty Shillings per Annum. Formerly none but Knights were admitted to the Office; every one that had a Knight's Fee being conſtrain'd to take upon the Order of Knighthood: But now Cuſtom allows, that Eſquires may be choſen, provided they be reſident in the reſpective Counties, for which they are return'd.

Foreign Orders of Knighthood are theſe following, beſides the Templars, and thoſe of Jeruſalem, before mentioned.

Knights of the Annunciada, an Order of Knighthood founded in Memory of the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary: It is an Order of Savoy, conſiſting of fourteen Companions, who wear a Collar of Gold, with the Virgin's Medal, and theſe Letters engraven within the Links of the Collar, F. E. R. T. viz. Fortitudo ejus Rhodum tenuit, relating to Amadeus the Great, who took the Iſland of Rhodes.

Knights of the Order of Auſtria and Carinthia or of St. George, appointed by the Emperour Frederick III. firſt Arch-duke of Auſtria, A. D. 1470.

Knights of the Order of the Broom-flower, founded by St. Lewis, King of France, with this Device, Exaltat Humiles.

Knights of Calatrava in Spain, an Order created by Alonſo IX. King of Spain, in Favour of certain Cavallero's, who went in Devotion to relieve the Town of Calatrava againſt the Moors. Their Badge was a Red Croſs on the left Side.

Knights of La Calza or of the Stocking, a Venetian Order.

Knights of the Order of Chriſtian Charity, made by Henry III. for the Benefit of poor Captains and maimed Soldiers.

Knights of the Dog and Cock, a French Order founded by K. Philip I. upon the Duke of Montmorency's coming to Coming to Court, with a Collar full of Stag's Heads, whereat there hung the Image of a Dog, the Emblem of Fidelity.

Knights of the Order of the Dragon, made in Germany, A.D. 1417. by the Emperour Sigiſmund, upon the Condemnation of John Hus and Jerom of Prague.

Knights of the Elephant, an Order of Knighthood in Denmark.

Knights de l'Epi, i. e. of the Ear of Corn, or of the Ermine in Armorica or Bretaſne in France, eſtabliſhed by K. Francis I.

Knights de l'Etoile or of the Star, another Order of Knighthood in France; the Companions of which have this Motto, Monſtrant Regibus aſtra viam, i. e. the Stars ſhew a Way to Kings.

Knights of St. George, an Order of Knighthood in Genoa, the Third of that Title; the other two being in England and Auſtria.

Knights of the Order of Genette, i. e. of the Horſe-bit, the moſt ancient Order of Knighthood in France, founded by Charles Martel, after the Defeat of the Saracens, in a great Battel at Tours, A. C. 783.

Knights of the Golden Fleece, appointed by Philip, Duke of Burgundy, upon his Marriage with Iſabel, the Daughter of Portugal. The Companions wear a great Collar of double Fuſils, interwoven with Stones and Flints darting Flames of Fire, with this Device, ——Ante ferit quam flamma micet, to ſhew Swiftneſs and Fierceneſs: There are 30 Knights belonging to this Order, of which the K. of Spain is chief.

Knights of the Golden Shield, eſtabliſh'd by King Lewis II. on which Device was a Bend with this Motto, Allons; Let us go to the Defence of our Country.

Knights of the Halfmoon or Creſcent, created A. D. 1462, by René, Duke of Anjou, when he conquer'd Sicily, with this Motto, Los, i. e. Praiſe.

Knights of the Holy Sepulchre, an Order of Knighthood founded by St. Helena, a Britiſh Lady; and confirmed by the Pope, after ſhe had viſited Jeruſalem, and found the Croſs of our Bleſſed Saviour.

Knights of St. Jago or St. James, an Order that obſerve St. Auguſtine's Rule, and were ſettled under Pope Alexander III. Their great Maſter is next to the King in State, and has One Hundred and Fifty Thouſand Crowns for his Yearly Revenue.

Knights of the Jarr, made by Don Garcia, King of Navarre; who, as he rode one Day a Hunting, came to a Cave, where he ſaw (as it is reported) an Altar with the Image of the Virgin Mary, and a Pitcher of Lillies; whereupon, being moved with Devotion, he founded this Order.

Knights of Jeſus Chriſt, a Portugueſe Order of Knighthood.

Knights of the Lilly in Navarre, a French Order of Knighthood.

Knights of St. Magdalen, a French Order of Knighthood appointed by St. Lewis againſt Duels.

Knights of Malta. See Knights of the Order of St. John of Jeruſalem, and Knights of Rhodes.

Knights of St. Maria de Mercede, or for the Redemption of Captives; a Spaniſh Order.

Knights of St. Mark, a Venetian Order of Knighthood.

Knights of the Order of St. Maurice and Lazaro, an Order founded A. D. 1119. of which the D. of Savoy was confirmed Grand Maſter by the Pope.

Knights of St. Michael the Archangel, a French Order eſtabliſh'd by King Lewis XI. in 1469. It conſiſts of Thirty-ſix Knights, of whom the King is the Chief.

Knights of the Militia Chriſtiana, an Order of Knights but lately ſet up in Poland.

Knights of Monteſia,, an Order in the Province of Valencia in Spain.

Knights of Nova Scotia in the Weſt-Indies, were created by James I. King of Great Britain, and wear a Ribbon of an Orange-tawny Colour.

Knights of the Pear-tree, an Order in Spain, founded A. D. 1179, and afterwards call'd Knights of Alcantara in Leon.

Knights of the Porcupine, a French Order, whoſe Device was Cominus & Eminus; but K. Lewis XII. crown'd the Porcupine with another Motto, Ultus Avos Trojæ.

Knights of Rhodes, ſprung from the Hoſpitallers or Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem, after they were forc'd out of the Holy Land; and having held that Iſland Two Hundred Years, they were driven out thence alſo by the Turks: But the Emperour Charles V. in 1529, gave them Malta, upon condition to ſend him a Falcon yearly, as an Heriot or Acknowledgment, which is ſtill preſented every Year to the King of Spain.

Knights of the round Table or King Arthur's Knights, a Britiſh Order of Knighthood, being the moſt ancient of any in the World.

Knights of the Order of St. Andrew, a Scotch Order of Knighthood.

Knights du Saint Eſprit, or of the Holy Ghoſt, created by the French King Henry III. at his Return from Poland, who was born and crowned King on Whitſunday. This, though a modern Order, is now moſt us'd in France.

Knights of San Salvador in Arragon, a Spaniſh Order founded by Alonſo VIII. A. D. 1118.

Knights of St. Stephen, made by Coſmo, Duke of Florence, A. D. 1591.

Knights of the Sword and Bawdrick, a Swediſh Order.

Knights Templar. See Knights of the Templ and Templars.

Knights Teutonick, call'd Mariani, a mixed Order of Hoſpitallers and Templars, upon whom the Emperour Frederick II. beſtow'd Pruſſia, A. D. 1226 with this Proviſo, That they ſhould ſubdue the Infidels, which they did accordingly. They had at fir three Maſters, one in Germany, the ſecond in Livland, and the third in Pruſſia: But at laſt the Elect of Brandenburgh became ſole Maſter and Controll of their Order. See Teutonick Order.

Knights of the Thiſtle, (in the Family of Bourbon) a French Order of Knights, who conſtantly b this Motto, Nemo me impune laceſſit, i. e. None that provokes me goes away unpuniſhed.

Knights of the Order of the Virgin Mary in Mount Carmel, appointed by King Henry IV. 1607, and conſiſting of One Hundred French Gentlemen.

Knights of the Order of the White Eagle created in Poland by King Ladiſlaus V. A. D. 132

Knights Errant, certain wand'ring Fabulo Knights, whoſe wonderful Exploits are related in Romances and feigned Hiſtories.

Knights, (in Sea-Language) are two pieces Timber, in each of which go four Shivers, three f the Halliards, and one for the Top-ropes; and t are commonly made in ſhape of ſome Head: One these call'd the Main-Knight, ſtands behind t Main-Maſt; and the other termed the Fore-Knig is ſet behind the Fore-Maſt, upon the ſecond De

Knight-Marſhal, an Officer of the Queen's H who has Juriſdiction and Cognizance of all Tranſgre ſions within the Queen's Houſe and Verge; as of Contracts or Agreements made there, to which of the Houſe is Party.

Knights Fee, ſo much Inheritance as is ſuffici to maintain a Knight with convenient Reven which in old Times was about 800 Acres: Such as h 20*l.* per Annum in Fee, or for Term of Life, accord to Statute 1. E. II. might be compell'd to be Knig but that Statute was repeal'd by 17 Car. I. It taken for the Rent that a Knight pays for his Fee, the Lord of whom he holds.

Knights-ſervice or Chivalry, an ancient Tenure, whereby ſeveral Lands were held of the K upon condition to bear Arms in his Service: Th Tenure drew after it Homage, Eſcuage, Marr Wardſhip, and other Incumbrances, and there was wholly taken away by Statute 12 Car. II.

Knights-ſpur, a ſort of Herb.

Knighten-Court, a Court-Baron, or Hono Court held twice a Year under the Biſhop of Here ford, at his Palace; where the Lords of Manours their Tenants, holding by Knights-ſervice of the Ho nour of that Biſhoprick, are Suiters.

Knighten-Guild, an old Guild or Company London, conſiſting of Nineteen Knights; which founded by King Edgar, who gave them a Portion void Ground lying without the City, now call'd Po ſoken Ward.

Knipperdollings, a Sect of Hereticks ſo ca from the Name of their Ring-leader, who app in Germany about the time of John of Leyden.

Knol, the top of a Hill, a Word much us the Weſt; eſpecially in Hereford-ſhire, as Birch Knoll, &c.

Knolls, a Word us'd in some Counties for Hill-tops.

Knolls of Bear, certain Measures [illegible] Men's Labour, in the Sheriffdom of Sterling in Scotland.

Knots, (among Sea-men) the Divisions of the Log-line: These are usually 7 Fathom or 42 Foot asunder; but they ought to be 50 Foot. They also use two sorts of Knots in their Ropes, viz. the Bending-knot and Wale-knot; which See.

Knots, a delicious sort of small Fowl well known in some Parts of England, and so call'd from Canutus the Danish King, by whom they were highly esteem'd.

Knot-grass, an Herb lying on the Ground, with long narrow Leaves like a Bird's Tongue. It is good against the Stone, Strangury, Bloody-flux, hot Swellings, fistulous Cancers, &c.

Known Men, a Name sometimes given to the Lollards, or good Christians in England, who were counted Hereticks before the Reformation, for opposing the Corruptions and Errours of the Church of Rome.

Knur or Knurl, a Knot in Timber.

Kimnel, a Country word for a Powdering-tub.

Kyrie Eleeson, a Form of solemn Invocation used in the Popish Liturgy; as also in the Latin Translation of the Common-Prayer-Book of the Church of England; signifying in the Greek Tongue, Lord have mercy upon us.

Kyste, (old Word) a Chest or Coffin, for Burial of the Dead.

L A

Laban, (Heb. white or shining) the Brother of Rebecca, the Wife of Isaac.

Labarum, (Gr.) the Standard of the Roman Emperours, carry'd before them in the Wars, and ador'd by the Soldiers. It was a long Spear, with a Staff set cross-way on the top; from whence hung down a rich Purple Standard, embroider'd with Gold, edg'd with Fringe, and beset with precious Stones. It may be taken for a Church-banner, Flag, or Streamer; or for any Standard, or a Royal Flag; as in the Tower of London, Keep at Windsor, &c.

Labdanum or Ladanum, a kind of sweet Gum sweating from the Leaves of a small Shrub, call'd Cistus Ledon, or Syrian Cistus, and us'd in Perfumes.

Label, a thin Brass-Ruler, with a small Sight at one end, and a Center-hole at the other; commonly us'd with a Tangent-line, on the edge of a Circumferentor to take Altitudes or Heights.

Labels, Ribbands hanging down on each side of a Miter, Crown, or Garland of Flowers: Also narrow slips of Paper or Parchment fasten'd to Deeds or Writings for hanging Seals: Any Paper joyn'd by way of Addition to a Will or Testament, is also call'd a Label or Codicil. In Heraldry, Labels are those Lines which hang down from the File in the top of an Escutcheon, and serve to make a Distinction for the elder Brother.

Labes, (Lat.) a Spot, Blemish, or Stain; a Fault or foul Mark; Ruin, Destruction, or Overthrow; among Surgeons, it is sometimes taken for a standing or bunching out of the Lips.

Labia Leporina or Mostra Leporina, Hare-lips; such Lips as by reason of their ill make are cleft, and cannot come close together.

Labial Letters, (in Grammar) such Letters as chiefly require the use of the Lips in pronouncing them, and to form their due Sound.

Labiate Flowers, (among Herbalists) are those that have one or two Lips; some of which represent a kind of Helmet, or Monk's Hood.

Laborant, one that assists, attends on, or works under a Chymist, whilst he is about any Process or Ex-

Laborantes, a Writ that lies against such, as not having wherewith to live, refuse to serve; or against one that refuses to serve in Summer, where he serv'd in Winter.

Laboratory, a Chymist's Work-house, a Room fitted for Chymical Operations, and furnish'd with Variety of Furnaces, Vessels, and Instruments that are requisite in that Art.

Laborious, that works hard, or takes a great deal of Pains: Also that Pains must be taken about; painful, hard, toilsome.

Labour, Pains, Work, Toil, Drudgery, Difficulty, travel in Child-birth.

To Labour, to take Pains, to endeavour earnestly. A Ship is said to Labour in the Sea, when she rolls, tumbles, and is very unsteady, either a-hull, or under Sail.

† Laboursome, troublesome, toilsome.

Labrosulcium, (Lat.) a Swelling in the Lips. See Chilocace.

Labrum, a Bathing-tub, a Vat for Wine, Oil, &c. the brim or brink of a River or Ditch; also a Lip.

Labrum Veneris, Fuller's-weed or Teasel, the Water of which takes off Spots from the Face, and beautifies it.

Labeus or Labrax, a kind of ravenous Fish.

Labrusca or Labruscum, the Weed call'd Wild-Vine.

Laburnum, a kind of Shrub, the Blossoms of which Bees will not taste.

Labyrinth, (Gr.) a Place anciently made with so many Turnings and Windings, that a Man once enter'd in, could not find the way out, unless by the help of a Guide, or of a Clew of Thread to direct him; a Maze: Whence the Word is figuratively taken for any kind of Intanglement, or intricate Business.

Among Anatomists, Labyrinth is taken for the second, or as some say, the third Cavity, or Hollow of the Ear in the Bone nam'd Os Petrosum, which consists of three winding semi-circular Pipes.

Lac, (Lat.) Milk, which is made by separating the Humour call'd Chyle from the Arterious Blood.

Lac Lunæ or Flores Argenti, (among Chymists) a kind of white Earth full of Pores, and apt to crumble, that may be dissolved in Water, which it will die with a Milky Colour.

Lac Sulphuris, a white Liquor made of Sulphur or Brimstone dissolved, and distilled Vinegar.

Lacca, a red transparent Substance, made as some say, by winged Arts; as Honey by Bees, and gather'd from a Tree of that Name, in Bengala, Malabar, &c. Also a kind of red Gum issuing from certain Trees in Arabia, of which the best Sealing hard Wax is made; often us'd in Painting and Varnishing.

† Laceration, a tearing, rending, or dismembering.

Lacerna, (Lat.) a kind of Garment worn by the Romans over their Gowns, like a Cassock, to keep off Rain and Cold; a Rocket, a Riding-coat.

Lacerta, a Lizard, a Newt or Eft: Also a kind of Sea-fish; in Doomsday-Record, it is taken for a Fathom.

Lacerta Aquatica, the Water-Lizard; an Insect.

Lacertus, the Arm, from the Elbow to the Wrist, the brawny or sinewy part of the Arm: Also a Lizard, or the Bastard-Mackerel spotted like a Lizard.

Lachanum, (Gr.) all kind of Pot-herbs.

Laches, (Fr. in Common-Law) Negligence, Slackness; as Laches of Entry, i. e. a neglect of the Heir to enter.

Lachryma, (Lat.) a Tear shed in Weeping. In Anatomy, it is defin'd to be a Moisture separated by the Glandulæ, or Kernels of the Eyes, to moisten them; which if it be too much, it falls in drops, and is call'd

Tears. Among Herbaliſts, whatever drops out naturally, or is let out by cutting from any part of a Plant; as Gum, Oil, Roſin, &c. is call'd Lachrymæ.

Lachrymæ Chriſti, a pleaſant ſort of Italian Wine, made of Grapes that grow in Terra di Lavoro, a fruitful Province of the Kingdom of Naples.

Lachrymæ Jobi, Job's Tears, or Gromwell, an Herb.

Lachrymal Fiſtula. See Fiſtula Lachrymalis.

Lachrymal Point. See Punctum Lachrymale.

Lachrymales Ductus. See Ductus Lachrymales.

Lachrymation, a weeping, or ſhedding of Tears; a dropping of Moiſture, Gum, &c.

Lachrymatory, a Bottle, or ſmall Veſſel to pre- Tears in, which the Romans uſe to place with the Urns of the Deceaſed.

Lacken, (old Word) contemned, or deſpiſed: Alſo extenuated, or leſſened.

Lacker, a ſort of Varniſh, ſo call'd from Gum Lac, the principal Ingredient of it, and chiefly us'd in Imitation of Gilding, over a Ground of Leaf-ſilver, for Picture-frames, Coaches, Boxes, &c.

Lacker-Hat, a Hat made without ſtiffening.

Lackey, (Fr.) a Foot-man, Foot-boy, or Page; an ordinary Servant that follows his Maſter a-foot, and wears his Livery.

Laconicum, (Gr.) a dry Stove to Sweat in, a Stew or Hot-houſe; ſo call'd becauſe it was much us'd in Laconia, and the City of Lacedæmon.

Laconiſm, a ſhort and pithy way of Speaking, ſuch as the Lacedæmonians us'd.

Lactary, (Lat.) a Milk-houſe, or Dairy-houſe, for making or keeping Milk, Butter, Cheeſe, &c.

Lactation, the ſucking of Milk from the Breaſts, after the manner of a young Child.

Lactea Febris, the Milk-Feaver, which happens to Women in Child-bed.

Lactea Via. See Galaxy and Milky-Way.

Lacteal, belonging to Milk, milky; as The Lacteal Veins, certain Veins which ſpread themſelves all over the Meſentery, and are ſo call'd from their milky Subſtance. See Vaſa Lactea.

Lactes, the ſmall Guts, the Sweet-bread: Alſo the ſoft Roe, or Milt of Fiſh.

Lactifical, making, or breeding Milk.

Lactuca, (Lat.) Lettice, an Herb that encreaſes Milk, cools the Stomach, qualifies Choler, diſpoſes to Reſt, and affords good Nouriſhment.

Lactuca Sylvatica, wild Lettice, or Hawk-weed.

Lactucella, the Herb Sow-thiſtle.

Lactucimina, Wheals or Ulcers about the inward parts of the Mouth, the ſame with Aphthæ.

Lactumia, a cruſted Scab on the Head. See Achor.

Lacuna, a Ditch in which Water ſtands, a Dike or Puddle; a Trench or Furrow for a Drain: Alſo a Gap or empty Place when any thing is wanting in an Author. In Anatomy, Lacunæ are certain ſmall Pores or Paſſages in the Neck of the Womb, eſpecially in the lower part of the Urinary Paſſage.

Lacunar, (in Architect.) the flooring or planking above the Porticoes; a cieled Roof arched or fretted.

Lada, (in old Records) a Lath or Court of Juſtice: Alſo Purgation, or Acquitment by a lawful Tryal: Alſo a Lade, Lading, or Courſe of Water.

Ladanum or Laudanum. See Labdanum.

Ladders, (in a Ship) are of three ſorts, viz. 1. the Ent'ring-Ladder, in the Waſte made of Wood. 2. The Gallery-Ladder, made of Ropes, and hung over the Galleries and Stern, for ent'ring by the Ship's Stern out of the Boat, when the Weather is foul. 3. The Bolt-ſprit-ladder, at the Beak-head, made faſt over the Bolt-ſprit, to get upon it, and only us'd in great Ships.

Ladle, a well known Kitchen-Utenſil. In Gunnery, a long Staff with a Plate at the end of it, bow'd half round, and holding as much Powder as the due Charge of the Piece it belongs to; or elſe it is ſo proportion'd that two Ladle-fulls may Charge the Piece.

Lady, a Perſon of Quality's Wife, or Daughter.

Lady-laces, a ſort of ſtriped Graſs.

Lady-traces, a kind of Satyrion or Rag-wort, an Herb.

Ladies Bed-ſtraw, an Herb growing in dry Paſtures, Cloſes, and Meadows, with ſmall Leaves, and yellow Flowers: It takes away Wearineſs after long Travel; and is good for the Sinews, Arteries, and Joynts.

Ladies-Bower, a Plant which, for its great number of ſmall Branches and Leaves, is fit to make Bowers and Arbours even for Ladies.

Our Lady's Seal, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Black Briony, or wild Vine.

Ladies-Cuſhion, a kind of Flower.

Ladies-Mantle, an Herb with a very neat jagged Leaf, almoſt ſhap'd like a Star: It is good to ſtay Bleeding, Vomitings, and Fluxes of all ſorts.

Ladies-Smock, a kind of Water-creſſes, of whoſe Virtue it partakes, and is otherwiſe call'd Cuckoo-Flower.

Lafordſwick, (Sax. old Law-Term) a betraying one's Lord and Maſter; Treaſon.

Laga or Lagh, the Law; whence Danelage, Merchenlage, and Saxonlage; which See in their proper Places.

Lagan or Lagon, ſuch a parcel of Goods as the Sea-men in danger of Shipwrack caſt over-board; to which they uſually faſten a Buoy or Cork, that they may find them again. See Flotſon.

Lageman, a legal Man, ſuch as we call Good Men of the Jury; a Term often us'd in Doomſday-Book, and in the Laws of King Edward the Confeſſour.

Laghſlite, Lagſlite, or Lahſlite, a Breach of the Law; and ſometimes the Puniſhment or Fine impos'd for breaking the Laws.

Lagochilus, (Gr.) he that has cloven Lips. See Labia leporina.

Lagophthalmus, one who has Hares-Eyes.

Lagophthalmy, a Diſeaſe in the Eyes, which cauſes one to ſleep like a Hare, with the Eye-lids open.

Lagopus, a delicate Bird about the Alps, with rough hairy Feet like a Hare; a white Partridge: Alſo the Herb Hares-foot, or Hares-cummin.

Laical or Laick, belonging to Lay-men, or to ſuch as have not to do in the Miniſterial Function.

A Laick, one that is not engag'd in Eccleſiaſtical or Religious Orders.

Laines, (in Maſonry), Courſes or Ranks laid in the building of Stone or Brick-walls.

Lair, (a Term in Hunting) the Place where Deer harbour by Day.

Lair, Layer, or Lieare, a Place where Cattel uſually reſt, under ſome Shelter; the Ground being enrich'd by their Dung.

Lair-wite, Lecherwite, or Legergeld, (Sax.) a Penalty or Fine impos'd on thoſe that commit Adultery, or Fornication; which Priviledge anciently belong'd to ſome Lords of Manours, with reſpect to their Vaſſals or Tenants.

Laity, (Gr.) the condition or quality of Lay-men, or of thoſe that have not taken upon them Holy Orders; the common People as diſtinguiſh'd from the Clergy.

Lake, a kind of red Colour us'd in Painting. See Sinople.

Lake, (in Geogr.) a Place of a large Extent full of Water, encompaſs'd with dry Land, and not having any Communication with the Sea, unleſs it be thro' ſome great Rivers.

Lamb, a Sheep under a Year old.

Lambs-lettice, and Lambs-tongue, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Lambative, (Lat.) a Medicine for the Breaſt, to be lick'd off the end of a piece of Licoriſh-ſtick.

Lambdaciſmus, (Gr. in Grammar) a fault in ſpeaking, when one inſiſts too long upon the Letter L, call'd Lambda in Greek.

Lambent, (Lat.) licking with the Tongue; as, Lambent Medicines, i. e. ſuch as are taken by licking off from the end of a Stick of Licoriſh, &c.

Lambdoides or Lambdoidal Suture, (in Anat.) the hindermoſt Seam of the Scull, ſo call'd from its ſhape, reſembling the Greek Letter Lambda, or a pair of Compaſſes.

Lambert, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Saxon, fair Lamb; or as others will have it, far Famous.

Lambith, (q. Lome-hith, i. e. a loamy or clayiſh Road) a Town in Surrey on the River Thames, noted for a ſtately Palace belonging to the Arch-biſhops of Canterbury.

Lambkin, a young or little Lamb.

Lamech, (Heb. poor or humbled) the Son of Methuſhael, the firſt Man Recorded in Holy Scripture to have had two Wives.

Lamella, (Lat.) a little thin Plate of Metal: Among Naturaliſts, Lamellæ are the little thin Plates made by a Net-work of very ſmall Fibres, of which the Shells of Shell-fiſh are compos'd.

To Lament, (Lat.) to bewail, weep, or mourn for; to bemoan, to take on grievouſly.

Lamentable, to be lamented, doleful, moanful, mournful, woful, pitiful.

Lamentation, a lamenting, bemoaning, or bewailing; a moanful Complaint, a ſad Out-cry.

Lamentine, or Manaty, the Sea-cow, a Fiſh that is eighteen Foot long, and delicate Food; its Head reſembling that of a Cow. It has no Fins, but two ſhort Feet, with which it creeps upon the Rocks and Shallows for Meat. See Manati.

Lamiæ, (Lat. among the Romans) Hags, She-devils, or evil Spirits, who under the ſhape of fair Women, entic'd Youth to devour them; but in Reality they are Sea-Monſters of ſo wide Jaws, and ſo ravenous, that they can devour an armed Man.

Lamiers, a ſort of Ship-ropes. See Lanniers.

Lamina, a Plate, or thin piece of Metal, a Slate; a thin Board or Plank: In Anatomy, Laminæ are the Plates or Tables of the Scull, two in number; the outer being ſomewhat thick and ſmooth, the inner more hard and furrowed.

Lamium, Archangel, or Dead Nettle; an Herb, one handful of which beaten up with Hogs-lard, diſſolves King's-Evil Swellings in the Neck or Throat.

To Lamm, to baſte one's Sides, to drub or bang him.

Lammas-Day, the Firſt of Auguſt, ſo call'd, as ſome ſay, becauſe the Prieſts on that Day us'd to get in their Tithe-Lambs: Others take it from the Saxon Word Laffneſs, i. e. Bread-maſs, it being kept as a Feſtival of Thanks-giving for the firſt Fruits of the Corn: It is alſo call'd Gule or Yule of Auguſt; which See.

Lamp, (Gr.) a ſmall Utenſil of Copper, Tin, or other Metal, for the burning of a Cotton-Week, continually fed with Oil.

Lampadias, a kind of bearded Comet or Blazing-ſtar, reſembling a Lamp or burning Torch; the Flame or Blaze of which ſometimes runs tapering upwards like a Sword, and ſometimes it is double or triple-pointed.

Lampaſs, Lampras, or Lampers, a kind of Swelling in the Mouth of a Horſe, ſo nam'd becauſe it is cur'd by burning with a Lamp, or a hot Iron.

Lampetra, (Lat.) the Lampern or Lamprey; a Sea and River fiſh.

Lampoon, a kind of drolling Poem or Pamphlet, in which any particular Perſon is treated with Reproach or abuſive Language.

To Lampoon one, to expoſe one to Scorn in a Lampoon, Satyr, or Libel.

Lamprey or Suck-ſtone, a ſort of Fiſh ſhap'd like a Serpent or Eel.

Lampſana, (Gr.) Corn-ſallet, a Weed growing amidſt Corn, Nipple-wort.

Lampuris, a Glow-worm that ſhines by Night.

Lamyrus, a kind of Sea-Lizard.

Lanar or Lanner, a ſort of Hawk, a Bird of Prey.

Lanaria, (Lat.) Soap-wort, Cud-wort, or Fullers-weed; an Herb us'd by Fullers in Scowring Cloth.

To Lance, to ſcarify, or cut with a Lancet.

Lancea, (Lat.) a Lance, an offenſive Weapon, much us'd of old, and made of a long Staff like a Pike, having a Point at the end armed with Iron.

Lancelot, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Spaniſh, a Lance or Spear.

Lancepeſade, (Fr.) one that has the Command of ten Soldiers, the loweſt Officer in a Foot-company, who is to aſſiſt the Corporal in his Duty, and ſupply his Place in Abſence; an Under-Corporal.

Lancet, a Surgeon's Inſtrument us'd in the Letting of Bloud, Scarifications, opening of Impoſtumes, &c.

To Lanch, Launce, or Launch, to put a-float a Ship or Boat out of a Dock, or from the Stocks or Place where it was built.

Lancier, a Lance-man, or Soldier arm'd with a Lance.

Land, in a general and Legal Signification, includes not only all kinds of Grounds; as Meadow, Paſture, Arable, Wood, &c. but alſo Houſes, and all manner of Buildings; but in a more reſtrained Senſe, it is taken only for plough'd Ground.

To Lay a Land, (Sea-Phraſe) to ſail from it, juſt as far as you can ſee it.

Land-boc, (Sax.) a Charter or Deed, by which Lands or Tenements were made over or held.

Land-cape, an end or point of Land, that ſtretches it ſelf out into the Sea.

Land-cheap, an ancient Cuſtomary Fine paid either in Cattel or Money, upon the alienating or ſelling of Land, in ſome peculiar Manour, or in the Liberty of ſome Borough: As at Malden in Eſſex, a Payment is ſtill made of 13*d.* in every Mark of the Purchace-Money for certain Lands and Houſes ſold in that Town.

Land-crabs, a ſort of Crab good to eat, and very numerous in the Iſland of Barbadoes.

Land-fall, (in Sea-Language) a falling in with the Land: Thus when the Sailers expect to ſee Land in a ſhort time, and it ſo happens, they ſay, They have made a good Land-fall, i. e. made or ſeen Land accerding to the Reckoning.

Land-gable or Land-gavel, (in Doomſday-Book) a Tax or Rent iſſuing out of Land; a Quit-rent for the Soil of a Houſe, or the Land on which it ſtood; the ſame with what we now call Ground-rent.

Land-layed, (among Sea-Men) the Land is ſaid to be layed, when a Ship is juſt got out of Sight of the Land.

Land-locked, ſhut in between the Land: When in a Road or Harbour, the Land lies ſo round a Ship at Anchor, that no one Point appears open upon the Sea; the uſual Expreſſion is, That the Ship rides land-lock'd.

Land-leaper's-ſpurge, a kind of Herb.

Land-loper, (Dutch) a Vagabond, one that runs up and down the Country.

Land-mark, a Boundary ſet up between Lands. Among Sailers, it is taken for any Mountain, Rock, Church, Wind-mill, or the like, whereby the Pilaot knows how they bear by the Compaſs.

Land-Pike, a Creature in America, like the Fiſh of the ſame Name, but having Legs inſtead of Fins, with which it crawls very odly upon the Ground: Theſe Creatures lurk about the Rocks, and are ſeldom dom ſeen but towards Night, when then make a Noiſe more ſharp and grating than Toads.

Land-ſhut-in, When another Point of Land hinders the Sight of that which a Ship came from, then the Sea-men uſually ſay, The Land is ſhut in.

Land-tenant, (in the Statute-Laws) he that actually poſſeſſes Land, or has it in his manual Occupation.

Land-to, (among Mariners) When a Ship is ſo far off from the Shore, that they can but juſt diſcern Land, ſhe is ſaid To lye Land-to.

Land-turn, a Gale of Wind; the ſame off the Land by Night, as a Breez or Sea-turn is off the Sea by Day.

Landa, (in old Latin Records) an open Field without Wood.

Landimers, Meaſures of Land anciently ſo call'd.

Landirecta, (old Law-Term) thoſe Services and Duties, which in the Saxon times were laid upon all that held Land; ſuch Rights only as being diſtinguiſh'd from other Services charg'd the very Land, whoever poſſeſs'd it, either Clerk or Lay-man, and were threefold, viz. Expedition, Burghbote, and Brigbote; which See in their proper Places.

Landgrave, one that has the Government of a Tract of Land, or Province in Germany; a Count, or Earl.

Landgraviate, the Territory or Juriſdiction of a Landgrave.

Landreſs, a Waſher-woman.

Landry, an Office, or Place in a Perſon of Quality's Houſe, where the Linnen is waſh'd.

Landſkip, a Deſcription of the Land; as Hills, Valleys, Woods, Rivers, Towns, &c. in a mixt Picture, or drawing, which contains a Repreſentation both of Perſons, and of a Country, or ſome Part of a Country; ſo that the Perſons are termed the Argument, and the Landſkip the Parergon, or By-Work.

Lane, a narrow Street, or Paſſage, a Way hedg'd about; naarrow Paſs for Soldiers.

To Make a Lane, (in Military-Affairs) to draw up Men in two Ranks, facing one another; as on the ſides of a Street, for any great Perſon to paſs thro', or ſometimes for a Soldier to run the Gantlet.

Langrel or Langrel-ſhot, (in Gunnery) a kind of Shot that runs looſe with a Shackle or Joynt in the middle, which is to be ſhortned when put into the Piece, and ſpreads it ſelf after it is diſcharg'd, having half a Bullet of Lead or Iron at each end: This ſort of Shot is us'd at Sea, to cut the Enemies Rigging, &c.

Language, (Lat.) Tongue, or Speech; a ſet of Words upon which a particular Nation is agreed, and which they make Uſe of to expreſs their Thoughts.

Langued, tongued, a Term us'd in Heraldry, for repreſenting the Tongue of any Living-Creature; as Langued Gules, Azure, &c. i. e. having the Tongue of a red or blew Colour.

Languid, languiſhing, weak, faint.

To Languiſh, to live in a daily Decay of Health and Strength; to fall away, or droop, to conſume, or pine away.

Languiſhment, a languiſhing, decaying, or drooping.

Languour, Faintneſs, Feebleneſs, Weakneſs; Want of Strength, or Spirit.

Lanigerous Trees, (among Herbaliſts) thoſe ſort of Trees that bear a woolly, downy Subſtance; as the black, white, and trembling Poplars, Willows, and Oſiers of all kinds.

Lanio, (Lat.) a Buctcher, a Slaughter-man; alſo the Butcher-bird, or Adder-bird.

Lanis de creſcentia Walliæ traducendis abſque Cuſtuma, a Writ that lies to the Cuſtomer of a Port, for allowing one to paſs over Wools without Cuſtom, becouſe he has paid the Cuſtom in Wales before.

Lank, ſlender, or ſlim; that hangs flat down limber.

Lanner. See Lanar.

Lanniers, Lanniards, or Lanniers, a ſort of ſmall Ship-ropes that are let into the Blocks or Pulleys call'd Dead-Mens-Eyes, and ſerve to ſlacken or make ſtiff the Shrowds, Chains, add Stays: That Rope which faſtens the Stopper of the Halliards to them, is alſo termed a Lannier.

Lanſpaſade. See Lancepeſade.

Lanſquenet, a German Foot-Soldier, anciently ſo call'd; alſo a kind of Game at Cards.

Lanterium, (in old Latin Records) the Lantern, Cupolo, or Top of a Steeple.

Lantern or Lanthorn, a well known Utenſil, made of Horn or Glaſs, in which is put a lighted Candle to keep it from Wind or Rain.

Magical Lanthorn, a ſmall Optical Inſtrument, that ſhews by a gloomy Light upon a white Wall, Hobgoblins and Monſters ſo hideous, that thoſe who are ignorant of the Secret, believe it to be perform'd by Magick Art.

Lanuginous, (Lat.) cover'd with Cotton or ſoft Hair, ſoft like Wooll or Cotton; downy, moſſy.

Lanugo, Down, Moſs; the ſoft Wooll, Cotton, or Furr, upon ſome Fruits and Herbs; as on Apricocks, Peaches, Clary, Mullein, &c. alſo the down-feathers of Birds: Alſo the ſoft tender Hairs that firſt appear on the Face of young Men.

Lapathum or Oxylapathum, common Dock, an Herb; the Leaves, Seeds, and Root of which are of great Uſe in Phyſick.

Lapathum Rubrum or Lapathum Sativum, red Dock, or Blood-wort; which opens Stoppages of the Spleen and Liver, ſtays Fluxes, and purifies the Blood.

† Lapidable, marriagable, or fit for a Husband.

Lapidary, belonging to Stones; as Lapidary Verſes, i. e. ſuch as are made for Epitaphs, and cut on Stone-Monuments; being of a middle Nature between Verſe and Proſe.

A Lapidary, one that poliſhes, cuts, or ſets precious Stones; a Jeweller.

Lapidation, a ſtoning, or putting to Death with Stones hurl'd or ſlung; a Puniſhment us'd among the ancient Jews.

Lapideſcent, (among Naturaliſts) that is capable of turning a mixt Body into Stone; as Lapideſcent Waters, i. e. thoſe Waters which being fill'd with a great deal of ſtony Matter diſſolved in them, cover Ruſhes, Leaves, Graſs, Sticks, &c. all over with a ſtony Coat, and ſeem to change them into perfect Stone.

Lapidification, (in Chymiſtry) is the turning any Metal to Stone, by diſſolving it in ſome corroſive Spirit, and then boiling the Diſſolution to the Conſiſtence of a Stone.

Lapidilium, (Lat.) a Surgeon's Inſtrument to draw a Stone out of the Bladder.

Lapis, a Stone, a Pebble.

Lapis Admirabilis, an artificial Stone, ſo call'd by Reaſon of its great Virtues; being made of White Vitriol, Salt-peter, Allum, Sal-Armonick, &c. It is good for Wounds, Scorbutick Ulcers, and Cataracts of the Eyes; ſtops a Gangreen, ſtanches Blood, &c.

Lapis Armenus, a light brittle Stone of a blew Colour, inclining to green, and ſo nam'd, becauſe it was firſt brought from Armenia; but it is now found in ſeveral Parts of Germany, and preſcrib'd by Phyſicians to purge Melancholick Humours.

Lapis Calaminaris. See Cadmia.

Lapis cæruleus Anglicus, a kind of Mineral Stone, found in Lancaſhire, which is us'd for drawing ing Lines; and call'd Killow by the Inhabitants.

Lapis Crucis, the Croſs-Stone, which is of two ſorts; one on an aſh-colour'd Ground ſhews a White Croſs, and the other has a black or a purple Croſs.

Lapis Hæmatites, the Bloud-ſtone, a certain reddiſh Stone very effectual for the ſtopping of Bloud.

Lapis Infernalis, the Infernal Stone; a kind of cauſtick Compoſition, otherwiſe call'd the Silver-Cautery. See Cautery and Infernal Stone.

Lapis Judaicus, a little round Stone found in Judæa and Sileſia, of the Shape of an Olive, with Lines or Streaks ſo equally diſtant, as if they were artificially made by a Turner. This Stone pounded in a Mortar, and taken inwardly, breaks the Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder.

Lapis Lazuli, a kind of Azure or Sky-colour'd Stone, of which the Blew Colour call'd Ultramarine is made: One ſort of it is brought from the Eaſtern Countries; the other from Germany, and both much us'd in Phyſick.

Lapis Limacis, the Snail-ſtone; a little White Stone, of an Oval Figure, found in the Head of thoſe Snails that are without Shells, wandering about in Fields, and Places under Ground.

Lapis Lipis, a Stone of a Sapphire-blew Colour, like Indigo, with a kind of Tranſparency: It is very hard, ſharp, and biting; ſo that if never ſo little be put to the Tongue, it makes an Ulcer: Upon which account it is much us'd to cleanſe foul and pocky Ulcers, to eat away proud Fleſh, &c.

Lapis Medicamentoſus, an artificial Stone made of Colcothar or calcined Vitriol, Litharge, Allum, Bole-armenick, &c. It is ſo call'd by way of Excellency, upon account of the good Effects it produces, as to ſtop the running of the Reins, to cleanſe the Eyes in the Small-Pox, to ſtanch Blood, &c.

Lapis Nephriticus, a Stone of great Efficacy againſt the Stone in the Kidneys, if but bound to one's Arm. It is of a green and Milk-white Colour mixed, and is brought from New Spain.

Lapis Opprobrii. See Opprobrii Lapis.

Lapis Percarum. See Percarum Lapis.

Lapis Prunellæ. See Sal Prunella.

Lapis Tutiæ. See Tuty.

Lappa, a Burr, a Clot-burr.

Lappago, an Herb call'd Maiden-lips, Shepherd's Rod, or Teaſel.

Lappice, (a Term in Hunting) when Gray-hounds open their Mouths in their Courſe, or Hounds in the Leaſh or String.

Lapſana, (Lat.) wild Cole-worts, or Dock-creſs.

Lapſe, a Slip, or Fall: In a Law-ſenſe, a Benefice is ſaid to be in Lapſe, or Lapſed, when the Patron that ought to preſent thereto, within ſix Months after it is voidable, has omitted, or let ſlip the Opportunity; upon which Default, the Ordinary has a Right of collating to the ſaid Benefice.

Lapſed, fallen, forfeited by ſuch a Lapſe: In Divinity, fall'n from the State of Innocency; as The Lapſed Condition of Man.

Lapwing, a Bird, ſo call'd from the often clapping of its Wings.

Laquear, (Lat. in Architect.) a Roof, the inward Roof of a Houſe; the Roof of a Chamber embowed, channelled, and done with Fret-work.

Laqueus, (Lat.) a Snare, or Gin; a Halter, or Cord, to hang or enſnare one with: In Surgery, a ſort of Bandage ſo tied, that if it be drawn together, or preſs'd with Weight, it ſhuts up cloſe; its Uſe being to ſtretch out broken or disjoynted Bones, to keep them in their Places, when they are ſet, and to bind the Parts cloſe together: In Anatomy, the Navel-ſtring the ſame as Funiculus; which See.

Lararium, (among the Romans) a Private Chappel in a Houſe for the Houſhold-Gods, call'd Lares.

Larboard, (Sea-Term) the left-hand Side of a Ship, or Boat, when one ſtands with his Face toward the Stem or Head. See Port, and to Port the Helm.

Larboard Watch. See Watch.

Larboard the Helm. See Port.

Larceny, (Fr. in Common Law) a wrongful taking away or ſtealing of another's Goods, which is of two Sorts; 1. Great Larceny, otherwiſe ſimply call'd Theft; when the Goods ſtoll'n exceed the Value of Twelve Pence, which is Felony. 2. Petty Larceny, when the Thing ſtolen is under that Value.

Larch-tree, a lofty Tree, ſo call'd from Lariſſa a City of Theſſaly, where it was firſt known. It has Leaves like a Pine-tree, and bears a kind of Muſhroom call'd Agarick, which is of an enlivening Quality, and of which that excellent purging Pill is made, call'd Hiera cum Agarico. The Gum of this Tree is that ſort of Turpentine, which is commonly call'd Venice Turpentine.

Lard, Hog's-greaſe, or the Fat of a Hog's Belly, beaten, and meled, or tryed up

To Lard Meat, to ſtuff it with thin Slips of fat Bacon; as To lard a Hare, Capon, &c.

Lardarium, (in old Latin Records) the Larder, or Office in a Noble-man's Houſe, where the Lard and Victuals are kept.

Larderarius Regis, the King's Larderer, or Clerk of the Kitchen.

Larding-Money, a ſmall yearly Rent paid in the Manour of Bradford in Wilt-ſhire to the Marqueſs of Wincheſter, the Lord of it: The Word ſeems to import a Commutation or Exchange, for ſome cuſtomary Service of carrying Salt or Meat to the Lord's Larder.

Lardoon, a ſmall Slip of Bacon proper for Larding.

Lare, a Turner's Wheel.

Lares. See Lararium.

A Large, the greateſt Meaſure of Muſical Quantity; one Large containing two Longs, one Long two Briefs, and one Brief two Semi-briefs: But the Large and the Long are now of little Uſe, as being too long for any Voice or Inſtrument (the Organ only excepted, to hold ont to their full Length.

To Large, (among Sea-Men) the Wind is ſaid To large, when it blows a freſh Gale.

To Go large, is when a Ship goes right before thr Wind; to which purpoſe the Words of Command to the Steer-man, are Eaſe the Helm, No near, Bear up. See Lasking.

Largeſs. (Fr.) a free Gift beſtow'd upon any one; a Dole, or Preſent.

Laricina, (Lat.) the Gum call'd Turpentine.

Larix, the Larinch-tree, or Larch-Tree, that yields Turpentine.

Lark, a well known Singing-Bird.

Lark-ſpur, a Flower, of which there is great Variety, much eſteem'd among Floriſts.

Larmier, (in Architect.) a flat ſquare Member; which is plac'd on the Cornice, below the Cymatium, and jets out fartheſt; the Eaves or Drip, ſo call'd from the French Word Larme, i. e. a Tear; in Regard that it cauſes the Water to fall at a Diſtance from the Wall, Drop by Drop, or, as it were, by Tears.

Larrons or Larons, (Fr.) a Law-Word for Thieves, and Petty Larrons in Stat. 18. Ed. 2. are ſuch as ſteel Geeſe, Hens, &c.

Larvæ, (Lat.) Ghoſts of wicked Men wandering up and down after their Death; Phantomes that fright good Men, and torment the Wicked.

Larus, (Gr.) the Gull, or Sea-cob; a Bird.

Larus Piſcator, the Fiſherling, or plunging Gull, of which ſort there are Flocks about the River Severn.

Laryngotomia, (in Surgery,) a cutting or opening of the Wind-pipe, to prevent Choaking in a Quinſey; the ſame with Bronchotomia.

Larynx, the Throat; properly the Head or Top of the Wind-pipe, by which the Breath is drawn, and the Voice formed.

Las, Lass, or Lace, (old Word) a Gin, or Snare.

Laſcivious, wanton in Carriage, looſe in Behaviour, eſpecially with Women; leacherous, luſtful.

Laſerpitium, (Lat.) Laſer-wort, an Herb; the beſt ſort of which grows in Africa, and yields the Gum call'd Laſer.

To Laſh, to whip, or ſcourge: In Sea-Affairs, when any thing is bound up to the Ship's Side, as Pikes, Muskets, or a Butt of Water or Beer to the Main-maſt; or when any Pieces of Timber, or ſpare Top-maſts are made faſt to the Ship without board; ſuch a faſtening is termed Laſhing.

Laſhers, thoſe Ropes which bind faſt the Tackles, and the Breechings of the Ordinance, when they are haled, or made faſt within board.

Lask, a Diſeaſe cauſing an immoderate Looſeneſs of the Belly.

Lasking, (Sea-Term) when a Ship ſails neither by a Wind, nor directly before the Wind, but as it were quartering between both, ſhe is ſaid To go lasking; which is all one as Veering, or going with Quarter Winds, or going Large, or going Roomer.

Laſſitude, (Lat.) Wearineſs, Faintneſs: Alſo a Heavineſs of the Limbs, or a Stoppage of the Animal Spirits in the Nerves and Muſcles, which prognoſticates ſome approaching Sickneſs.

Laſſitudo Ulceroſa, (among Phyſicians) a Symptom that uſually attends the cold Fit of an intermitting Feaver, conſiſting in a Soreneſs and Wearineſs of all the Joynts and Bones.

Laſt, a Burden; a certain Weight or Meaſure; as a Laſt of Cod-fiſh, i. e. 12 Barrels: Of Corn, 10 Quarters: Of Gun-powder, 24 Barrels: Of Herrings, 20 Cades: Of Hides, 12 Dozen: Of Leather, 20 Dickers: Of Pitch or Tar, 14 Barrels: Of Wooll, 12 Sacks.

Alſo Laſt, in the Marſhes of Kent, ſignifies a Court held by 24 Jurats, ſummon'd by the Bailiffs of it, wherein they make Orders, lay and raiſe Taxes, impoſe Penalties, &c.

Laſt Heir, (Law-Term) he to whom Lands fall by Eſcheat, for want of lawful Heirs, i. e. either the Queen or the Lord of the Manour in ſome Caſes.

Laſtage or Leſtage, a Cuſtom challenged in ſome Markets or Fairs for carrying of Things: Alſo a Duty paid for Wares ſold by the Laſt; it is alſo ſometimes taken for the Ballaſt of a Ship.

Latches of a Clock, thoſe Parts which wind up and unlock the Work.

Latchets or Laskets, (in Sea-affairs) are ſmall Lines ſown into the Top-ſails call'd Bonnets and Drablers in form of Loops; ſo that by theſe, the Bonnets are laced to the Courſes or plain Sails, and the Drablers to the Bonnets.

Latent, (Lat.) lying hid.

Latent Cancer. See Cancer Primitive.

Lateral, belonging to the Sides of any thing, ſide-ways; as A lateral Motion.

Lateral Equation, (in Algebra) ſuch an Equation as has but one Root; whereas every Quadratick Equation has two, every Cubick three Roots, &c.

Judge Lateral, one that aſſiſts and ſits on the Bench with another Judge; an Aſſeſſour.

A Latere, (Lat. i. e. on the Side) as Legates à Latere, a Title given to thoſe Cardinals whom the Pope ſends to the Courts of Foreign Princes, as it were Counſellours always at his Elbow.

Lateward, that is of the latter Seaſon, as Lateward-Hay, or Later-Math.

Lath, a thin piece of cleft Wood; a Turner's Inſtrument: Alſo a Country-Word for a Barn.

Lathe, (Sax.) a great Part or Diviſion of a County, ſometimes containing three or more Hundreds; as in Kent and Suſſex.

Lathreve or Leidgreve, an Officer under the Saxons, who had Juriſdiction over a conſiderable part of a County, viz. three or more Hundreds or Wapentakes, and whoſe Territory was call'd a Leithin, or Leid.

Lathyr or Lathyris, (Gr.) a ſort of Spurge; an Herb.

Lathyrus, Peaſe everlaſting, a kind of Pulſe.

Laticlavium or Latus Clavus, (among the Romans) a Tunick or Coat trimmed with broad Studs or Buttons, like the Head of a Nail. It was a Garment of Diſtinction, and a Badge of the Senatorian Order. See Anguſtus Clavus.

Latimer, (old Word) an Interpreter: Alſo the proper Name of ſeveral great Families; and of a Town and Barony in Buckingham-ſhire.

Latin or Latine, the Language formerly ſpoken in Rome, and now common to all Learned Men.

Latinæ Feriæ, certain Feaſts firſt appointed by Tarquinius Superbus, King of Rome, and kept four Days together; during which Sacrifices were ſolemnly offer'd to Jupiter Latialis, for preſerving the Union between the Latins and Romans.

Latiniſm, a ſpeaking or writing according to the Propriety of the Latin Tongue; a Latin Expreſſion.

Latiniſt, one skill'd in the Latin.

To Latinize, to expreſs one's ſelf after the manner of the Latins, to give a Latin Termination to a Word.

Lation, (in Philoſ.) the tranſlating or moving of a Natural Body from one Place to another in a right Line; being much the Same as Local Motion.

Latiſſimus Dorſi, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Arm, which takes its Name from large ſize, in regard that with its Partner it covers the whole Back: It ariſes chiefly from the ſeven lower Spires of the Vertebra, or turning-joynt of the Cheſt, and all thoſe of the Linos, and is inſerted by a ſhort but flat ſtrong Tendon to the Shoulder-bone: This Muſcle is otherwiſe call'd Aniſcalptor and Terſor.

† Latitancy or Latitation, a lurking, or lying hid.

Latitat, a Writ, whereby all Men in Perſonal Actions are call'd originally to the Queen's Bench: The Name is taken, as ſuppoſing the Defendant to lurk, or lye hid; ſo that being ſerv'd with this Writ he muſt put in Security for his Appearance at the Day appointed.

Latitude, Breadth, Largeneſs, Wideneſs.

Latitude of a Place, (in Geogr.) is an Arch of the Meridian Circle, comprehended between the Equinoctial and the Zenith of the Place: Or it is an Arch of the Meridian, contain'd between the Pole and the Horizon, and therefore call'd the Pole's Height: This Diſtance of any Place either North or South from the Equinoctial, being numbred on the Meridian, 90 Degrees both Ways, is mark'd on the ſides of all Maps, and termed Northern or Southern Latitude.

In Navigation, Latitude is the Diſtance of a Ship from the Equinoctial, either North or South, which is likewiſe counted on the Meridian: And whenever a Ship ſails to or from the Equinoctial on either ſide, her Way thus gain'd is call'd her Difference of Latitude.

Latitude of a Star, (in Aſtron.) is the Space that any Star or Planet does at any time go from the Ecliptick; being an Arch of a Circle of Longitude, reckon'd from the Ecliptick, towards either of its Poles.

Northern Latitude of a Star, is its Diſtance from the Ecliptick, towards the Arctick or North Pole; and Southern Latitude is the Diſtance of the Star from the Ecliptick, towards the Antarctick or South Pole.

Apparent Latitude, is the Diſtance of the apparent, or ſeeming Place of any Planet from the Ecliptick; and True Latitude is the Diſtance of its real Place from the ſame Ecliptick.

Latitudinarian, one that takes too great a Liberty in Point of Religion, whoſe Principles and Practices are too looſe.

Latrant, barking; as A Latrant Writer, an Author that does nothing but bark and ſnarl at others.

Latrocination, a Practice of robbing.

Latrocinium, (Lat.) Larceny, Theft, Robbery. In our old Charters, the Word is often us'd for the Liberty or Privilege of adjudging, and executing Thieves.

Latten or Lattin, Iron tinn'd over.

Latus, a Side, a Flitch; alſo a huge Fiſh peculiar to the River Nile, which is often of Two Hundred Pounds Weight.

Latus Clavus. See Laticlavium.

Latus Primarium, (in Conick Sections) a Right-line drawn thro' the Vertex, or Top of the Section, parallel to the Baſe of the Triangular Section of the Cone, and within it.

Latus Rectum, the ſame as the Parameter; which See.

Latus Transverſum, (in an Hyperbola) is a Right-line lying between the Vertex's of the two oppoſite Sectinos; or that part of the Common Axis, which is between the Vertex's of the Upper and Lower Cone.

Lavamentum, a Fomentation; the ſame as Fotus.

Lavatorium, (in old Records) a Laundry, or Place to waſh in.

Lavation, a Waſhing; chiefly underſtood of Metals and Minerals, cleans'd from their Filth, by waſhing them in Water, or ſome other Liquor.

Laud, Praiſe, Commendation; a Word now not much in Uſe.

Laudable, worthy of Praiſe, or Commendation; commendable, to be commended.

Laudanum or Opiate Laudanum, a Medicine, ſo call'd from its excellent Qualities; being an Extract of the finer and purer Part of Opium, drawn in Water, and Spirit of Wine, and then reduc'd to its due Conſiſtence.

Laudes or Lauds, a Form of Thanksgiving us'd amidſt the Morning-Prayers of the Roman Church.

Laudum, (in ancient Deeds) a deciſive Sentence, Determination, or Award of an Arbitrator, or choſen Judge.

To Lave Water, to throw it out.

To Lave a Deſign, (a Term in Painting) to do over a Picture with Waſh; to refeſh, or touch it up.

Lavedan, an Iron-gray Gennet, ſo call'd from Lavedon, one of the Pyrenean Mountains, where the beſt Horſes of France are bred.

Lavender-cotton, an Herb; the Powder of which drank in Canary drives out Poiſon, and is good againſt the biting of venomous Beaſts.

Lavendula or Lavandula, (Lat.) Lavender; an Herb good for the Head and Sinews, us'd outwardly in Fomentations.

Laver, a Veſſel to waſh in.

Laver, (Lat.) an Herb growing in the Water, like Aliſanders, but having leſſer Leaves; Brooklime, yellow Water-creſſes, or Water-Parſley.

Laver-Bread, a ſort of Food made of a Sea-Plant, which ſeems to be Oiſter-green, or Sea Liverwort: It is us'd in Glamorgan-ſhire, and other Parts of Wales.

Laverock, a kind of Bird.

Laviſh, prodigal, eutravagant.

To Laviſh, to be laviſh of, to waſte, or ſquander away.

Laviſhment, Extravagancy; as He ſuffers for the Laviſhment of his Tongue.

To Launce or Launch, (among Sea-men) to put out: Thus they ſay, Launce out the Davit or the Capſtan-bars, and in ſtowing any thing in the Hold of a Ship, they cry Launce aft, or Launce forward: In another Senſe, when they have hoiſed up the Yard high enough; or when in Pumping, the Pump ſucks, they ſay, Launce ho! i. e. leave off hoiſing, or pumping.

To Launch a Ship, or Boat. See to Lanch.

Laund or Lawn, (in a Park) plain, untilled Ground.

Laureate, crowned with Laurel; as a Poet-Laureat: Among the Ancients, Laurel-crowns were uſually worn by Conquerours, in Token of Victory.

Laureated Letters, were Letters wrapt up in Laurel, or Bay-Leaves, which the Roman Generals us'd to ſend to the Senate, to give them Notice of their Victories.

Laurel or Laurel-tree, a Shrub that is ever green, and ſaid by ſome to have a Property, not to be hurt by Thunder and Light'ning.

In a figurative Senſe, Laurels is taken for Triumph, or Victory: Alſo the Name of certain Pieces of Gold, coin'd by K. James I. A. D. 1619. with the King's Head Laureated; the Twenty Shilling Piece being mark'd with XX. the Ten Shilling Piece with X. and the Five Shilling Piece with V.

Laureola, a Garland that Conquerours were wont to wear in Triumph; a Wreath of Laurel: It is alſo taken for the Common Laurel-Shrub, and ſometimes for Spurge-Laurel.

Laurocerasus, (Lat.) the Cherry Bay-tree; a Shrub with Laurel-Leaves, but larger, more green, and ſmooth, and a kind of Fruit like Cherries.

Laurus, the Bay-tree; the Leaves of which comfort the Stomach; and being tunn'd up with Beer, give it a pleaſant Taſte.

Lauruſtinus, a wild Bay.

Law, a certain Rule, or Meaſure, directing and obliging a Rational Creature in Moral Actions.

Law of Arms, a Law that gives Precepts concerning War; to make and obſerve Leagues and Truces, to puniſh Offenders in the Camp, &c.

Law of Mark, Mart, or Repriſal, is that whereby Men take the Goods of thoſe by whom they have receiv'd Wrong, and cannot get ordinary Juſtice; whenever they find them within their own Territories, or Bounds.

Law of Merchants, a ſpecial Law peculiar to Merchants, and differing from the Common Law of England.

Laws of Molmutius. See Molmutian Laws.

Laws of Oleron. See Oleron-Laws.

Law Spiritual, the Eccleſiaſtical or Civil Law, according to which the Ordinary, and other Eccleſiaſtical Judges, proceed in Cauſes under their Cognizance.

Law of the Staple, the Same with the Law of Merchants.

Laws of the Twelve Tables or Decemviral Laws, certain Laws compiled from thoſe of Solon, and other Conſtitutions of Greece, by Order of the Roman State; ſo call'd from their being engrav'd upon Twelve Tables of Braſs, and committed to the Cuſtody of the Magiſtrates, nam'd Decemviri.

Law-day or Lage-day, (among our Saxon Anceſtours) was properly any Day of open Court, and commonly us'd for the more ſolemn Courts of a County, or Hundred.

Lawes, certain round heaps of Stones in the Borders between England and Scotland.

Lawing of Dogs, a cutting out the Balls, or the three Claws of their Fore-feet. See To Expeditate.

Lawleſs, that is without Law, irregular, diſorderly.

Lawleſs Court, a certain Court held on Kingshill, at Rochford in Eſſex, every Wedneſday Morning next after Michaelmas-Day, at Cock-crowing; where they whiſper, and have no Candle, nor any Pen and Ink, but a Coal; and he that owes Suit or Service there, and does not appear, forfeits double his Rent for every Hour he is miſſing. This Court belongs to the Honour of Ralegh, and to the Earl of Warwick, and is termed Lawleſs, becauſe held at an unlawful or lawleſs Hour.

Lawleſs Man, one that has no benefit of the Law, an Out-law.

Lawn, a ſort of fine Linnen-cloth: Alſo a great Plain in a Park. In Doomſday-Book, a Plain between two Woods. See Lawnd.

Lax, a kind of Fiſh without Bones.

Laxantia, (Lat.) looſening Medicines that ſoften, ſcour, and cleanſe the Bowels.

† Laxation, a looſening, or eaſing.

Laxative, that is of a looſening, or opening Quality.

Laxatives, laxative, or looſening Medicines.

Laxe, looſe, ſlack, weak.

† Laxity, Looſeneſs, Slackneſs.

Lay, a Bed of Morter; a Wager, a Song.

Lay. See Laick.

To Lay, to put, or place: In Gardening, to bend down the Branches of a Tree, and cover them, that they may take Root: To Lay Land, among Sea-men, is to ſail from it juſt as far as they can ſee.

Lay-land, Fallow Ground that lies untilled.

Lay-man, one that follows Secular Imployment, or that has not enter'd into Holy Orders. See Laick and Laity.

Lay-ſtall, a Place to lay Dung, Soil, or Rubbiſh in.

Lay-well, a Well near Torbay in Devon-ſhire, which ebbs and flows ſeveral times in the compaſs of an Hour, bubbling up now and then like a boiling Pot: The Neighbouring People take its Waters to be Medicinal in ſome ſort of Feavers.

Layer, a Bed or Channel in a Creek, where ſmall Oyſters are thrown in to breed; which are forbidden by the Law of Admiralty, to be taken till they are ſo big, that a large Shilling may be heard to rattle between both Shells when ſhut. Among Gardeners, Layer is taken for a young Sprout.

Lazar, a Leper or leprous Perſon, full of Sores and Scabs.

Lazaretto, (Ital.) a Lazar-houſe, an Hoſpital for Lepers; a Peſt-houſe.

Lazarus, (Heb. Lord's Help) the Bethanian whom Chriſt rais'd to Life, after he had lain four Days in the Grave; now taken for a proper Name of Men.

Lazule. See Lapis Lazuli.

Lazy, ſlothful, ſluggiſh, idle.

Lea, a certain quantity of Yarn; at Kederminſter every ſuch Lea is to contain 200 Threads reel'd on a Reel four Yards about.

Leach, (old Word) a Phyſician.

To Leach, a Term us'd among Carvers at Table; as when they ſay, Leach that Brawn, i. e. cut it up.

Leach-troughs, a ſort of Veſſels in which Salt is ſet to drain, at the Salt-works in Stafford-ſhire.

Leacher, a leacherous or luſtful Perſon, a Whoremonger.

Leachery, Luſt, Luſtfulneſs.

Lead, the cheapeſt of all Metals, made up of an earthy Salt and Sulphur, impure and ill-digeſted, with imperfect Mercury, coming near to the Nature of Antimony.

Lead-wort, a kind of Herb.

Leaden-Hall, a noble ancient Building in London, where are great Markets for Hides and Leather; as alſo for Fleſh, Fiſh, and all ſorts of Proviſions.

Leafdian or Hleafdian, (Sax.) a Lady.

Leah, (Heb. painful) Laban's eldeſt Daughter, who was firſt given in Marriage to Jacob.

League, (Fr.) a Covenant or Agreement, eſpecially a Treaty of Alliance, between Princes or States, to attack a common Enemy, or to defend themſelves: Alſo a Measure of Way both by Sea and Land, containing about three Miles in length: A League in France conſiſts of 2282 Toiſes or Fathoms; in Spain of 3400 Geometrical Paces; in Sweden, of 5000, and in Hungary, of 6000.

Leaguer, one concern'd in the League or Confederacy in France, in the time of King Henry III and IV. Alſo a Siege laid to a Town.

Leak, a well known Plant, the beſt ſort of which grow in marſhy Places. See Porrum.

To Leak or Spring a Leak, (Sea-Phraſe) when a Ship takes in more Water than ordinary: A Veſſel is ſaid to Leak, when the Liquor contained in it runs out thro' ſome Hole or Chink.

Leakage, a leaking, or a Leak: Alſo an Allowance made to a Merchant in liquid Things of 12 per Cent. Alſo to Brewers of 3 in 23 Barrels of Beer, and of 2 in 22 Barrels of Ale.

Leaky, full of Leaks.

Leam, a flaſh of Fire or Lightning.

Leam or Liam, (among Hunters) a Line to hold a Dog in, otherwiſe call'd a Leaſh.

Leap, a Jump; alſo a Weel, or Device to take Fiſh in.

Leap or Lib, a Country-word for half a Buſhel; whence a Seed-leap, a Veſſel to hold Seed-corn in.

Leap-Year, every fourth Year, ſo call'd from its leaping a Day more that Year than in a common Year; for the latter conſiſts of 365 Days and 6 Hours, but the Leap-Year of 366 Days, occaſion'd by the odd Hours which at four Years end make up a whole Day; and then the Month of February has 29 Days, which in common Years has but 28. See Biſſextile.

Leaſe, (in Common Law) ſignifies a demiſing or letting of Lands, Tenements, Right of Common, Rent, or any Inheritance, to another, for Term of Years, or for Life, for a Rent reſerved: If it be in Writing, it is call'd a Leaſe by Indenture; if by Word of Mouth, a Leaſe-Parole.

To Leaſe or Leaze, to glean, or pick up ſcattered Corn.

Leaſh or Leaſe, (in Falconry) a ſmall long thong of Leather, by which the Falconer holds his Hawk faſt, twiſting it about his Finger; alſo a Line to hold a Dog in.

Leaſh of Gray-hounds, three Hounds; the Term being now reſtrain'd to that number which was formerly double, or perhaps indefinite.

Leaſee, the Party that takes a Leaſe, or to whom it is granted.

Leaſor, the Perſon that lets a Leaſe.

Leaſings, or Leaſings, (Sax.) Lies or Untruths.

Leat or Mill-leat, corruptly Mill-eat, a Trench for conveying Water to or from a Mill.

Leaven, a piece of Dough kept a while in Salt; ſo as by its Sourneſs to give a reliſh to the whole Bach; as alſo to make it work, riſe and ſwell.

In Divinity, The Leaven of Sin, is an Inclination to do evil, proceeding from the Corruptneſs of Humane Nature.

Leaver, a Wooden or Iron-bar to lift or bear up a Weight. In Mechanicks, of which Art it is one of the Principles, 'tis defined to be a Ballance reſting on a certain determinate Point call'd its Fulcimum, or Hypomochlion, its Center not being in the middle, as in the common Ballance, but near one end; by which means it ſerves to raiſe a great Weight.

Leaves, the product of Trees, Plants, &c. In Mechanicks, the Notches of the Pinion or leſſer Wheel of a Watch are call'd Leaves, and not Teeth, as in other Wheels.

Lecanomancy, (Gr.) a kind of Divining or Soothſaying, by Water in a Baſon.

Leccator, (in old Latin Records) a Leacher, a Debochee, a Tavern-hunter.

Lecherwite. See Lairwite.

Lechery. See Leachery.

Lectern, (old Word) a Reading-desk in a Church.

Lectisternium, (Lat.) a notable Feaſt among the ancient Romans, ſeldom ſolemniz'd but in time of Plague, or ſome other great and Publick Calamity. During this Ceremony, the Statues of the Gods taken off from their Baſes or Pedeſtals, were laid upon Beds made for that purpoſe in their Temples, with Pillows under their Heads, and there magnificently treated.

Lecture, a Reading; an Inſtruction given by a Maſter, or Tutour to his Scholars: Alſo a Sermon, or a Diſcourſe upon any Art or Science: Alſo a Reprimand, or chiding Speech.

Lecturer, a Reader of Lectures, i. e. certain Portions of an Author or Science read in the Publick Schools, as an Univerſity, College, Inns of Court, &c. A Publick Profeſſour. The Word is alſo commonly us'd for a Miniſter that preaches at a Pariſh-Church in the Afternoon, having no ſettled Benefice, but only the free Gift of the Pariſhioners.

Lecturnium, (in old Records) the Lectern, Reading-desk, or Pew in a Church.

Ledger or Lidger-book, (in Merchants Accounts) the chief Book in which every Man's particular Account, as alſo that of every ſort of Goods bought and ſold by a Merchant, are diſtinctly plac'd, each by themſelves; as Debtor on the Left-hand Page, and Creditor on the Right.

Ledges, (in a Ship) ſmall pieces of Timber lying a-croſs from the Waſte-trees to the Roof-trees; which ſerve to bear up the Nettings, or the Gratings over the Half-deck.

Lee, (Sea-Term) that part which the Wind blows upon, or is oppoſite to the Wind; as The Lee-ſhore. To be under the Lee of the Shore, is to be cloſe under the Weather-ſhore, or under the Wind.

To come by the Lee, or To lay a Ship by the Lee, is to bring her ſo that all her Sails may lie flat againſt the Maſts and Shrowds, and the Wind to come right on her Broad-ſide: Whence the Proverbial Phraſe, To go by the Lee, i. e. to come off a Loſer.

Lee-fangs, a Rope reev'd or let into the Creengles of the Courſes, when the Sea-men would hale in the bottom of the Sail, to lace on a Bonnet, or to take in the Sail.

Lee-latch, as, have a care of the Lee-latch; a Word of Command us'd to the Steers-man at the Helm, bidding him to keep the Ship near the Wind.

Lee-ſeel. See Seel.

Lee-ward. See Leward.

Leech, Leech-worm, or Horſe-leech, a ſort of Inſect.

Leed or Leid-moneth, (q. Loud-month) from the old Saxon Word Hlyd, a Noiſe or Uproar; the Month of March, ſo call'd becauſe the Winds are then high and boiſterous.

Leek, a well known Pot-herb.

Leer or Lair of a Deer, (among Hunters) the Place where he lyes to dry himſelf, after he has been wet by the Dew.

To Leer, to caſt a cunning, or wiſhly Look.

Leers. See Lyrick.

Lees, the dregs of Wine, of which Diſtillers make their Strong-waters.

Leet, (Sax.) a Law-day; whence Court-Leet, a Court of Juriſdiction belonging to the Lord of a Manour, in which all Offences under High-Treaſon are enquired into; ſome puniſh'd, and others reſerv'd for the Juſtices of Aſſize.

The Leets were call'd Faſti by the Romans, wherein the Prætor, or Judge, might lawfully keep Court, and adminiſter Juſtice; which was not done without pronouncing theſe three Words, Do, Dico, Addico; i. e. I give, viz. way to Actions and Suits; I ſpeak, viz. the Law; I judge, viz. Matters and Men.

Leetch, (Sea-Term) the outward edge or outſkirt of a Sail, from the Earing to the Clew: The middle of the Sail between both theſe, is alſo more particularly termed the Leetch of the Sail.

Leetch-lines, ſmall Ropes made faſt to the Leetch of the Top-ſails; their uſe being to hale it in, when the Top-ſails are to be taken in.

Leeward, as A Leward Ship, i. e. a Ship not faſt by the Wind; that does not ſail ſo near the Wind, or does not make her Way ſo good as ſhe might. To Fall to Leward, is to loſe the advantage of the Wind.

Leeward-tide, is when the Tide and the Wind go both one Way.

Leeward-way, ſomewhat allowed to drive a Ship to the Leeward, from that Point which ſhe ſeems to go by the Compaſs. See Way of a Ship.

Lef-ſilver. See Danger.

Leg, a part of the Body: In Trigonometry, the Sides of Triangles are ſometimes call'd Legs; particularly the two Sides of a Right-angled Triangle, when the Third is taken for a Baſe. In Sea-Affairs, Legs are certain ſmall Ropes belonging to the Martnets, which are put thro' the Bole-ropes of the Main and Fore-ſail. See Martnets.

Lega and Lacta, the Allay of Money anciently ſo call'd.

Legabilis, (Lat. Law-Term) that is not intail'd as Hereditary, but may be bequeath'd by Legacy in a laſt Will and Teſtament.

Legacy, a Gift bequeathed, by a Teſtator in his Will; to any private Perſon, or to a Corporation.

Legal, that is according to Law, lawful; alſo belonging to the Jewiſh Law; as Legal Ceremonies.

Legal Days. See Dies Juridici.

Legality, Lawfulneſs, Agreeableneſs to the Law.

Legatary or Legatee, a Perſon to whom a Legacy is bequeath'd.

Legate, properly ſignifies an Oratour, Ambaſſadour, or Envoy, ſent with Commiſſion to treat of Buſineſs: But it is now a Title peculiar to one that is ſent by the Pope to ſome Foreign Prince or State; the Pope's Legate being counted equal in Dignity to the Extraordinary Ambaſſadour of any other Prince.

Legatine, belonging to a Legate; as The Legatine Power.

Legation or Legateſhip, the Office or Function of a Legate.

Legatum, (Lat.) a Legacy, or Bequeſt: In our old Records, a Soul-ſceat, or Legacy given to the Church; an accuſtomed Mortuary.

Legend or Golden Legend, a Book containing a particular Account of the Lives of the Saints, much eſteem'd by Roman Catholicks; whence the Word is commonly taken for a fabulous Relation, Story, or Tale.

The Legend, the Words that are ſtampt or engraven about the Edges of a Piece of Coin or Medal.

Legendary, belonging to a Legend; as Legendary Stories.

Legerdemain, (Fr.) ſlight of Hand, juggling Tricks, Cozenage.

Legergild. See Lairwite.

Legible, (Lat.) that may be read, eaſy to be read.

Legion, a kind of Regiment, or Body, in the Roman Army, which conſiſted of different Numbers of Soldiers and Officers, according to different Times; but yet were commonly made up of Six Thouſand Men. Every ordinary Foot-Legion comprehended ten Cohorts, every Cohort three Maniples, every Maniple two Centuries, and each Century One Hundred Men: In like manner every Horſe-Legion contain'd Six Turmæ, or Troops, every Troop Ten Decuries, and every Decury Ten Men: In every Legion there were alſo four Orders of Soldiers, viz. the Principes, Haſtati, Triarii, and Velites; which See in their proper Places.

Legionary, belonging to a Roman Legion.

Legiſlative, having Authority to make or give Laws.

Legiſlator, a Law-giver, a Maker or Giver of Laws.

Legitimacy, the State or Condition of a Child lawfully begotten.

Legitimate, that is according to Law; lawful, rightful. Legitimate Children, thoſe that are born in lawful Wedlock.

To Legitimate, to qualify with ſuch Conditions as are requir'd by the Law; to make or declare legitimate; as To Legitimate a Baſtard.

Legitimation, the Act of legitimating.

Legruita, (in Doomsday-Record) a Puniſhment, or Fine, for unlawful Familiarity with a Woman.

Legumen, all manner of Pulſe; as Peaſe, Beans, Vetches, Tares, &c. ſo call'd, becauſe they may be gather'd with the Hand without cutting.

Leguminous, belonging to Pulſe, as Leguminous Plants, i. e. thoſe that bear Pulſe.

Leidgreve. See Lathreve.

Lema, (Gr.) a white Humour or Matter congeal'd in the Eyes.

Leman, (old Word) a Concubine, a Harlot; as A Prieſt's Leman; alſo the Name of a Lake, on which ſtands the City of Geneva, reaching 18 Leagues from Eaſt to Weſt.

Lemma, (Gr. i. e. a Taking) an Argument, or Subject of what is to be treated of. In Mathematicks, a ſort of preparatory Propoſition, in order to demonſtrate ſome enſuing Theorem, or to frame ſome Problem.

Lempet or Limpin, a ſort of Fiſh.

Lemures, (Lat.) Ghoſts, Night-Spirits, or Hobgoblings.

Lemuria, a Feſtival of Ghoſts and Phantomes which the Romans ſolemniz'd May 9th. to pacify the Ghoſts of the Dead.

Length, (in Geom.) the firſt Dimenſion of Bodies conſider'd in their utmoſt Extent.

Lenientia, (Lat.) ſoftening, or looſening Medicines.

Lenitive, that is of a ſoftening, aſſwaging, or pacifying Quality.

A Lenitive, a Medicine proper to allay or eaſe Pain.

Lenity, Gentleneſs, Softneſs, Calmneſs, Mildneſs, good Nature.

Leno or Linon, (Gr. in Anat.) a part of the Brain, otherwiſe call'd Torcular Herophili; which See.

Lens or Lenticula, Lentils, a kind of round and flat Pulſe, that yields a binding, harſh Juice: In Opticks, Lens is taken for a ſmall Concave, or Convex Glaſs.

Lens Paluſtris or Lenticula Aquatica, Ducksmeat, an Herb, that grows in ſtanding Water, and is of a cooling Quality, good for Inflammations, Ruptures in Children, &c.

Lens or Lenticula Marina, Sea or Water-Lentils, which may be eaten as Samphire, and provoke Urine.

Lent, a ſet Time of Faſting and Abſtinence, for forty Days next before Eaſter, firſt appointed in England by Ercombert Seventh King of Kent.

Lenta Febris, a ſlow lingering Feaver, that waſtes the Body by Degrees.

Lenticulare Inſtrumentum, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to make the Bones ſmooth.

Lentiform Prominences. See Corpora Striata.

Lentigo, a Pimple, or Freckle; a ſmall red Spot in the Face, or other Part, reſembling a Lentil.

Lentils. See Lens.

Lentiſcus, the Maſtick-Tree, all the parts of which are of a binding Quality, ſo that the Leaves and Bark help all manner of Fluxes of Blood, Lasks of the Bowels, &c.

Leo, the Lion; a Wild Beaſt: Alſo the Name of one of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, being the fifth in Order, and thus mark'd (♌) which the Sun enters in the Month of July.

Leodegar or Leger, a German proper Name, ſignifying the People's Guard; whence the Family of St. Leger.

Leofſtan, (i. e. moſt beloved) a Saxon Name; and Leofwin, i. e. Win-love.

Leoh, (Sax.) Light.

Leonard, a Proper Name of Men, ſignifying in High Dutch Popular Diſpoſition, as Lipſius will have it; or, as according to others, Lion-like Nature.

Leonard Hawk, a kind of Hawk, ſo call'd by Fowlers.

Leonine, belonging to a Lion; being of a Lion-like Nature.

Leonine Verſes, a ſort of Latin Verſes, that rhime in the middle, and at the end, making as it were a Lion's Tail; as Quærebant flavos per nemus omne favos.

Leonines, a ſort of old Coin. See Crocards.

Leontiaſis, (Gr.) a kind of Leproſy; the ſame with Elephantiaſis.

Leontice, (Gr.) wild Chervil; an Herb.

Leontopetalon, Lion's-blade, an Herb having Leaves like Coleworts, good againſt the biting of Serpents.

Leontophonos, a ſmall Worm, ſaid to kill a Lion that eats it.

Leontopodium, an Herb, call'd Pied de Lion, or Lion's-foot.

Leopard or Libbard, an African Wild Beaſt, which is all over full of Streaks, or little Spots; and is ingender'd of a Male Panther and a Lioneſs.

Leopard's Bane or Libbard's Bane, a ſort of Herb.

Leopold, (Germ. Defender of the People) a proper Name of Men; particularly of the late Emperour of Germany.

Leorning-Cnight, (Sax.) a Diſciple, or Scholar.

Lep and Lore, a Cuſtom in the Manour of Writtle in Eſſex, that every Cart which comes over a Part thereof, call'd Greenbury, (except it be a Noble-man's Cart) pays 4d. to the Lord of the Manour.

Leper, a Leprous Man, or Woman.

Lepid, jocund, ſmart, witty; pleaſant in Speech, or Behaviour.

Lepidium, (Gr.) Pepper-wort, an Herb, which being bruiſed, cures the Hip-gout, and boil'd in Beer, haſtens Child-birth.

Lepidoides, (in Anat.) the ſcaly Suture, or Seam of the Scull-bone. See Mendoſa Sutura.

Lepidotes, a precious Stone, reſembling the Scales of a Fiſh.

Lepis, the Scum or Droſs of Silver, the Scales of Braſs, &c.

Leporina Labia. See Labia Leporina.

Leporinus Oculus. See Lagophthalmy.

Lepra, (Gr.) a Diſeaſe, which cauſes a dry white Scab, or Scurf, to run all over the Body, with Itching; ſo as to make the Skin ſcabby, and rough to the Touch. It is alſo call'd Elephantiaſis, from the Roughneſs of an Elephant's Skin, which it reſembles.

Lepra Arabum. See Elephantiaſis Arabum.

Lepra Græcorum, the higheſt Degree of Scabbedneſs, or an univerſal Canker of the whole Body.

Leproſo Amovendo, a Writ that lies for a Pariſh, to remove a Leper that thruſts himſelf into the Company of his Neighbours.

Leprous, belonging to, or afflicted with Leproſy.

Leptocentaurium or Lepton, (Gr.) the leſſer Centaury; an Herb.

Leptology, (in Rhetor.) a deſcribing of ſmall and mean things.

Leptophyllon, a ſort of Spurge, an Herb.

Leptorages, a kind of ſmall Grapes, like Currans.

Leptuntica, thinning Medicines, which by their ſharp Particles, ſeparate thick and clammy Humours.

Lepus, (Lat.) the Hare, a Beaſt of Chace; alſo a Southern Conſtellation that contains Thirteen Stars.

Lepus Marinus, the Sea-hare; a ſort of Fiſh.

Leripoops, certain old-faſhion'd Shooes, tipt with Horn, and ty'd up to the Knees with Silk-Ribbons, or Silver-Chains.

La Reine le veut, (Fr. i.e. the Queen is willing) a Term in which the Royal Aſſent is ſignify'd by the Clerk of the Parliament to Publick Bills; giving Authority to them which before were of no Force, or Virtue.

Le Reine s'aviſera, (i.e. the Queen will conſider) By theſe Words written on a Bill, preſented to the Queen by the Parliament, are underſtood her abſolute Denial of that Bill in Civil Terms, and it is thereby wholly made void.

Leſa, (in old Latin Records) a Leaſh of Gray-hounds.

Leſinage, (Ital.) Thriftineſs, Sparingneſs, good Husbandry; from Leſina, which ſignifies a Cobbler's Awl.

Leſſee and Leſſour. See Leaſſee and Leaſſour.

Leſſer Circles, (in Aſtron.) are thoſe whoſe Planes do not paſs thro' the Center of the Sphere, and which do not divide the Globe into two equal Parts, but are parallel to greater Circles; as the Polar Circles, Tropicks, and Parallels of Declination and Altitude. See Great Circles.

Leſſes, (Fr. among Hunters) the Dung of a Wolf, Bear, or Wild Boar.

Leſſian Diet, a moderate Diet, from Leſſius, a famous modern Phyſician, who ſet forth ſeveral Rules for the keeping of an exact and regular Diet.

Leſtage. See Laſtage.

Leſtagefry, (Sax.) Leſtage-free, or exempt from the Duty of paying Ballaſt-money; a Privilege amongſt others granted to the Barons of the Cinque-Ports, by K. Edward I.

Leſwes or Leſues, a Word often us'd in Deeds, Conveyances, &c. for Paſture-grounds.

Let-fall, a Sea-Term generally us'd for the putting abroad of the Main-Sail, Fore-ſail, and Sprit-ſail, when their Yards are aloft; but if the Main-Yard, or Fore-Yard be ſtruck down, ſo that the Sails may be looſed before the Yard be hoiſed, then the Mariners do not ſay, Let fall the Sail, but Looſe the Sail.

Lethargick, (Gr.) belonging to, ſubject to, or ſick of a Lethargy.

Lethal, (Lat.) mortal, deadly; as A Lethal Wound.

Lethargy, a Diſeaſe that cauſes an heavy Sleepineſs, accompany'd with a Feaver, and a Loſs in a manner of Reaſon, and all the Senſes.

Lethiferous, bringing Death, deadly.

Letice, a proper Name of Women, from the Latin Word Lætitia, i. e. Joy, Gladneſs, Mirth.

Letter, a Character; ſuch as thoſe of which the Alphabet of every Language is compos'd.

Letter Miſſive, an Epiſtle, or Letter, ſent by one Party to another.

Letter of Advice, (in Merchandize) a Letter from one Correſpondent to another, giving him Advice, or Notice, what Bills he has drawn on him, &c.

Letter of Attorney, a Writing whereby an Attorney, or any Friend made choice of for that Purpoſe, is appointed to do a lawful Act in another's Stead, as to give Poſſeſſion of Lands, to receive Debts, to ſue other Perſons, &c. From which a Warrant of Attorney differs in this Point, that beſides being ſeal'd and deliver'd before ſufficient Witneſs, it muſt alſo be acknowledg'd before a Juſtice, or Serjeant at Law.

Letters Clauſe, cloſe Letters, oppos'd to Letters Patent, as being uſually ſeal'd up with the Queen's Signet, or Privy-Seal; whereas the Letters Patent are ſeal'd with the Broad Seal, and left open.

Letter of Credit, (among Merchants) a Letter from one Correſpondent to another, requeſting him to credit the Bearer, with a certain Summ of Money therein mentioned.

Letters Dominical, (in Aſtron.) are the firſt ſeven Letters of the Alphabet, which ſerve each in their Turn, to mark out the ſeven Days of the Week; ſo that one of them always ſtands for Sunday, or the Lord's Day, whence they take their Name.

Letter of Licence, (in Trade) a Deed or Writing granted to a Man that has fail'd, or broke, under the Hands and Seals of his Creditors, and giving a longer Time for Payment; ſo that the Debtor having ſuch an Aſſurance, may follow his Buſineſs, without fearing an Arreſt, &c.

Letters of Mart or Mark, are Letters which authorize one to take by Force of Arms thoſe Goods which are due by the Law of Mark. See Law of Mark.

Letters Patent, (from the Latin Word Patere to lye open) are Writings ſeal'd open, with the Great Seal of England, whereby a Man is impower'd to do or enjoy any thing, which of himſelf he could not. Private Perſons may grant Patents, but thoſe given by the Queen, are more eſpecially ſtyl'd Letters Patent Royal.

Letter-founder, one that caſts Letters, or Characters for Printers.

Lettered, ſkilled in Letters, or Learning; as A Man well or ſlenderly Lettered. A Book is ſaid to be Lettered, when the Title of it is ſet on the Back in Golden Letters.

Lettice, a well known Garden-Herb, that breeds Milk in Women that eat it. See Lactuca.

Levant, (Fr. the Eaſt, or Eaſtern Countries, eſpecially thoſe that border upon the Mediterranean Sea.

Levant and Couchant, (Law-Phraſe) When the Beaſts or Cattel of a Stranger, have been ſo long in another Man's Ground, that they have lain down, and are riſen again to feed: In old Latin Records, it is expreſs'd Levantes and Cubantes.

Levantine, that belongs to, or comes from the Levant, or Eaſtern Countries; as A Levantine Wind.

Levantines, the Natives or Inhabitants of the Levant, the Eaſtern People; alſo thoſe that are employ'd on the Mediterranean.

Levare Fœnum, (in old Records) to make Hay, properly to caſt it into Wind-rows in order to cock it up.

Levare Facias, the Name of a Writ directed to the Sheriff, for the levying of a Summ of Money upon the Lands and Tenements of one that has forfeited a Recognizance.

Levari facias damna de Diſſeiſitoribus, a Writ to the Sheriff, for the levying of Dammages, in which the Diſſeiſor has formerly been condemned to the Diſſeiſee.

Levari facias quando Vicecomes returnavit quod non habuit emptores, a Writ commanding the Sheriff to ſell the Debtor's Goods, which he has already taken and return'd that he could not ſell them, with as much more of the ſaid Debtor's Goods, as will ſatisfy the whole Debt.

Levari facias reſiduum debiti, a Writ directed to the Sheriff, for levying the Remnant of a Debt upon Lands and Tenements, or Chattels of the Debtor, that has in Part given Satisfaction before.

Levatores Ani, (in Anat.) a pair of Muſcles, which ariſe fleſhy from each Side of the Share-bone, as alſo from Part of the Os Iſchium and Sacrum, and are implanted in the lower End of the Straight Gut in the Anus, or Fundament; their Uſe being chiefly to draw the Anus upwards, and from thence take Name.

Levator Scapulæ, a Muſcle of the Shoulder-blade, by ſome call'd Levator Patientiæ, which has its Riſe from the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebra's, or Turning-joynts of the Neck, and is inſerted at the upper Corner of the Shoulder-blade, which it draws upwards, according to the Import of its Name.

Levatory, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to raiſe up the Scull when ſunk. See Elevator.

Leuca, Leuga, or Leuva, (Lat.) a League, a Meaſure of Way, eſpecially by Sea, which contains three Miles, and is variouſly reckon'd by Land: In Doomſday-Book, it is taken for a Mile.

Leuchacates, (Gr.) a kind of Agate-ſtone, with white Veins.

Leucanthemis or Leucanthemum, the Herb Camomile.

Leucargillum, white Clay.

Leuce, (Gr.) a white Poplar-tree: Alſo a Diſeaſe, when the Hairs, Skin, and ſometimes the Fleſh underneath turns white; the Fleſh alſo being prick'd with a Needle is inſenſible, and does not ſend forth Blood, but a milky Humour.

Leucelectrum, white Amber.

Leuciſcus, the Dar, or Dart; a River-fiſh.

Leucochrum, a kind of ſmall White-wine, mingled with Water.

Leucochryſos, a ſort of Jacinth-ſtone, of a Gold-Colour with a Streak of White.

Leucogæa, a precious Stone, of a white Colour, otherwiſe call'd Galactites.

Leucographis, an Herb good againſt ſpitting of Bloud: Alſo a greeniſh Stone in Egypt which rubb'd upon a Whet-ſtone, or courſe Cloth, makes the Place white, and blanches Linnen.

Leucoion, the white Violet; alſo the Wall-flower.

Leucolachanum, white Valerian; an Herb.

Leucoma, a white Scar in the Horney Coat of the Eye, the ſame as Abaugo.

Leuconotus. a dry and fair South-Weſt Wind.

Leucopetalos, a precious Stone, of a white Colour.

Leucophagum, a ſort of Broth for a Conſumption, made of Almonds ſoak'd in Roſe-water, and of Capon or Partridge boil'd, bruis'd, and ſtrain'd thro' a Hair-Sieve.

Leucophlegmatias, a kind of Dropſy, or bloating of the whole Body, that proceeds from the abounding of a white and ſlimy Phlegm.

Leucophorum, Borace, with which Gold is ſolder'd.

Leucophthalmos, a precious Stone, reſembling the White of an Eye.

Leucopiper, white Pepper.

Leucoſis, a whitening of the Face, Teeth, or other Parts of the Body.

Leucoſtictos, a kind of Marble, with white Streaks.

Leucrocuta, a Mongrel Beaſt in Ethiopia, having the Neck, Tail, and Breaſt of a Lion, with the Head of a Camel, &c.

Levee, (Fr.) the time of one's Riſing; as He was at the Queen's Levee: Alſo a Lady's Toilet, or Dreſſing-cloth.

Level, an Inſtrument us'd by Carpenters, and other Mechanick Artificers, for the Tryal of a Plain or Floor, whether it lies parallel to the Horizon, or not.

Level or Water-Level, an Inſtrument made of Wood, or Braſs, with two Sights, and a Glaſs almoſt fill'd with colour'd Spirit of Wine, but ſo as to leave Room for a Bubble of Air to play up and down in it. It has a Cover divided into ſeveral equal Parts, a Sprang to fit it to a three-legg'd Staff, and a long Screw to rectify the Bubble, by means of a Plummet that hangs on one of the Sights. There alſo belong to this Inſtrument two or more Station-ſtaves, and it is uſ'd by Engineers, Surveyors, &c. to find the true Level for conveying Water to Towns, making Rivers navigable, draining Fens and Boggs, &c.

To Level, to make level, even, or plain; Alſo to aim, or take Aim at.

Level-coil, is when he that has loſt the Game ſits out, and gives another his Place; from the French Words, Lever le Cul, i. e. to lift up, or remove the Buttock; it is alſo call'd Hitch-Buttock.

Level-Range, (in Gunnery) the ſame as Point-blank Shot, or the Diſtance that a piece of Ordinance carries a Ball in a direct Line.

Levellers, a ſort of factious People, that roſe up out of O. Cromwell's Army, and were for having an equal Share in the Adminiſtration of the Government, between the Nobility and Commonalty.

Leveret, (Fr.) a young Hare.

Levi, (Heb. joyned or coupled) Jacob's third Son.

Leviathan, an Hebrew Word ſignifying a Whale; or as ſome think, a Water-ſerpent of a vaſt Bigneſs; ſometimes figuratively taken for the Devil.

Levigation, (Lat.) a making plain, or ſmooth; a poliſhing. In Chymiſtry, the reducing of a hard Body into very fine Powder, by grinding it on a Marble, as Painters do their Colours.

Leviſticum, the Herb Lovage, good to drive out Poiſon, provoke Urine, and ſtrengthen the Stomach.

Levite, one of the Tribe of Levi, among the Jews, under the old Law.

Levitical, belonging to the Tribe of Levi, or to the Prieſtly Office, which in the time of the Moſaical Law, was the peculiar Inheritance of that Tribe.

Leviticus, one of the Five Books of Moſes, ſo call'd, from its ſhewing the Office and Duties of the Levitical Order.

Levity, (Lat.) Lightneſs, Fickleneſs, Inconſtancy. In Natural Philoſophy, it is the leſſening or want of Weight in a Body, when compar'd with another that is heavier; and in this Senſe it is oppos'd to Gravity.

Poſitive or Abſolute Levity, a Quality which ſome would have to be the Cauſe of the Swimming of Bodies lighter in Specie than Water, up to the Surface of it: But the common Senſe of Mankind makes it appear, That Gravity and Levity are only relative, and not comparative Things.

Levy, (Fr.) raiſing, or gathering; as A Levy of Taxes, Soldiers, &c.

To Levy, to raiſe, collect, or gather. In a Law-ſenſe, it is alſo ſometimes us'd to ſet up; as To levy a Mill; ſometimes to caſt up, as To levy a Ditch; and To levy a Fine, is now a moſt uſual Expreſſion.

Lewd, wicked, wanton, riotous.

Lewis, a proper Name of Men, particularly of five Emperours of Germany, and of the preſent French King, the Fourteenth of that Name.

Lewis d'Or, a French Golden-coin, containing 12 Livres, and now ſettled at 17 Shillings Sterling: There is alſo a Lewis d'Or of 5 Livres 14 Soulz, worth 11 Shillings.

Lewlin or Lewellin, a proper Name of ſome Men, ſignifying in the old Britiſh Tongue Lion-like, and anſwering to Leontius or Leoninus, in Latin.

Lex, (Lat.) a Law, a Word that expreſſes the ſeveral Ordinances of particular Eſtates and Nations, and the Rules they have agreed upon, or receiv'd from their Princes and Magiſtrates, for their living in Peace and mutual Society.

Lex Brehonia, the Brehon-Law, a Law peculiar to Ireland, which was aboliſh'd by King John, and the Engliſh Laws ſettled there inſtead of it.

Lex Bretoyſe, the Law of the Britains, or of the Marches of Wales.

Lex Deraiſnia or Deraiſina, the Proof of thing, which one denies to be done by him, and his Adverſary affirms it; a way of Proceeding in Law us'd among the Normans. See Deraigne.

Lex Talionis, like for like, or the requital of an Injury in the ſame kind; An Eye for an Eye, and a Tooth for a Tooth, as it is expreſs'd in the Goſpel; the moſt ancient and natural Law obſerv'd by the Hebrews, and preſcrib'd by the Law of Moſes.

Lex Wallenſica, the Britiſh Law, or Law of Wales.

Lexicon, (Gr.) a Dictionary, or general Collection of the Words of any Language.

Ley, an old French Word for Law.

Leygager, Wager of Law.

Leyden, a Town of Holland, famous for its Univerſity, Phyſick-Garden, Anatomy-Theater, and Library of choice Manuſcripts.

Leyerwite or Lotherwite, (Sax.) a Liberty to take amends of him that defiles one's Bond-woman, without Licence.

Leys, a Paſture-ground; a Word us'd in Doomſday-Record, and in ſeveral Countries.

Lhan, in the Britiſh or Welſh Tongue, ſignifies a Church; as Lhan Badern Vawr, i. e. the Church of great Patern; Lhan Stephadon, the Church of St. Stephens.

Liard, a French Farthing, a ſmall piece of Money worth three Deniers; which See.

To Lib, (old Word) to gild.

Libanochrus, (Gr.) a precious Stone of the Colour of Frankincenſe.

Libanotis, an Herb that ſmells like Frankincenſe.

Libanus, the Frankincenſe-tree, great ſtore of which grows on Mount Libanus, a Hill of Syria, that reaches about 125 Miles in length from Weſt to Eaſt, and is the Boundary of the Holy Land on the North.

Libation, (Lat.) a Ceremony practis'd by the ancient Romans in their Sacrifices, when the Prieſt pour'd down Wine, Milk, or other Liquors, in honour of the Deity to whom he ſacrific'd, after he had firſt taſted a little of it: Whence the Word is taken for the firſt Taſte of a Thing; a Smatch.

Libbard or Libard, a fierce wild Beaſt, the ſame as Leopard.

Libbards-bane, a ſort of Herb.

Libel, (Lat.) properly a little Book, a Petition or Bill of Requeſt: Alſo an Original Declaration of an Action in the Civil Law: Alſo a ſcandalous abuſive Writing or Report, ſecretly ſet abroad, or publiſh'd by Stealth.

To Libel one, to ſet forth Libels againſt one, to defame or ſlander him.

Libella, (Lat.) the Dragon-fly; an Inſect.

Libellatici, thoſe Chriſtians in the Primitive Times who, that they might not be forc'd to Idol-worſhip, gave up their Names in Petitions, or ſubſcrib'd them to pay a Fine.

Libellenſes, certain Clerks under the Maſter of the Requeſts to the Emperours of Rome, call'd Magiſter Scrinii Libellorum; which See.

Libello habendo. See Copia Libelli deliberanda.

Libellous, that partakes of the nature of a Libel; ſlanderous, abuſive.

Liber, (Lat.) the inward Bark or Rind of a Tree; a Book or Work written, at firſt made of ſuch Barks, and afterwards of Paper or Parchment: Among Herbaliſts, the inner part of Plants or Herbs.

Libera, (in old Records) a Livery or Delivery of ſo much Graſs or Corn to a Tenant, who cuts down or prepares the ſaid Graſs or Corn, and receives a ſmall Portion of it, as a Gratuity or Reward.

Libera chacea habenda, a Judicial Writ granted to a Man for a free Chace belonging to his Manour, after he has prov'd his Right to it.

Liberal, free, generous, bountiful: Alſo honourable, or genteel; as A Liberal Education.

Liberal Arts and Sciences, ſuch as are fit for Gentlemen and Scholars; as Mechanick Trades, and Handicrafts, for meaner People. See Science.

Liberality, Bountifulneſs, Freedom, Generoſity.

Liberate, the Name of a Warrant iſſuing out of the Chancery, to the Treaſurer, Chamberlain, Barons of the Exchequer, &c. for the Payment of any yearly Penſion, or other Summs, granted under the great Seal, or ſometimes to the Sheriff, for the delivery of any Lands or Goods taken upon forfeits of Recognizance: It alſo lyes to a Gaoler, for the delivery of a Priſoner that has put in Bail for his Appearance.

Liberdine, a poiſonous Herb.

Libertas, (Lat.) Liberty, Freedom.

Libertas Eccleſiaſtica, (in our old Writers) Church-Liberty, Eccleſiaſtical Immunities or Privileges; ſuch as the Right of Inveſtiture, the Privilege of Clergy-men, in having their Perſons and Eſtates free from the Secular Power or Juriſdiction, &c.

Libertate Probanda, a Writ that lay for ſuch as were challenged for Slaves, and offer'd to prove themſelves Free, directed to the Sheriff, that he take Security of them, for the proving of their Freedom before the Juſtices of Aſſize.

Libertatibus Allocandis, a Writ that lyes for a Citizen or Burgeſs of any City or Borough, who contrary to the Liberties of the Place of which he is, is impleaded by the Queen's Juſtices, in order to have his Privilege allow'd.

Libertatibus exigendis in itinere, a Writ whereby the Queen requires the Juſtices in Eyre, to admit of an Attorney for the defence of another Man's Liberty before them.

Libertine, a diſſolute, or lewd Liver.

Liberty, the Power a Man has to do or forbear doing any particular Action at his Pleaſure; Freedom, Leave or Free-leave: Alſo a free or eaſy way of Expreſſion. In a Law-ſenſe, it is a Privilege held by Grant or Preſcription, by which Men enjoy ſome Benefit or Favour beyond the ordinary Subject. See Franchiſe.

Libidinous, full of luſtful Deſires; incontinent, ſenſual.

Libitinarii, (among the Romans) thoſe Perſons whoſe Buſineſs it was, to furniſh and provide what was neceſſary for Funerals, now commonly known by the Name of Undertakers.

Liblong or Livelong, a ſort of Herb.

Libra, (Lat.) a Pound in Weight: Alſo among the Romans, a Summ of Money equal to three Pounds Sterling; a Ballance, or Pair of Scales to weigh with; counted one of the Six Mechanick Powers: Alſo the Name of one of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, which the Sun enters in the Month of September, and is thus mark'd, (♎)

Libra Medica, a Phyſician's Pound, which contains Twelve Ounces.

Libertiniſm, Lewdneſs, Licentiouſneſs, Debauchery, a diſſolute Life, and Converſation.

Library, a Study or Place, where Books are kept; or the Books themſelves.

Librata Terræ, a ſpace of Ground which contains four Oxgangs, and every Oxgang thirteen Acres.

Libration, a weighing by the Pound, a ballancing or poiſing: Alſo the Motion of ſwinging in a Pendulum, or Weight hung up by a String.

Libration of the Moon. See Evection.

Libya, the third part of the World, commonly call'd Africa.

Lice-bane, a ſort of Herb.

Licence, Liberty, Permiſſion, Leave, Power.

Licence to ariſe, (in common Law) a Liberty given by the Court to a Tenant in a Real Action, that is eſſoined or excuſed for his Abſence de malo lecti, i. e. upon account of his being ſick a-bed, after he has been view'd by Perſons thereto appointed; until which time, if the Defendant can prove that he has been ſeen out of his Chamber, or walking abroad, he ſhall be adjudged to be deceitfully eſſoined.

To Licence, to grant a Licence, to authorize, to give Leave or Power.

Licentia Surgendi, the Writ whereby the Tenant eſſoined de malo Lecti, obtains Liberty to riſe.

Licentia Transfretandi, a Writ or Warrant directed to the Keepers of the Port at Dover, requiring them to let thoſe paſs quietly beyond Sea, who have formerly had the Queen's Licence for that purpoſe.

Licentiate, one that has full Licence and Authority to Practiſe in any Art or Faculty; the ſame that we uſually call Batchelor of Divinity, Phyſick, or Civil Law; and in Common Law a Barriſter.

Licentious, looſe, lewd, diſorderly, unruly.

Lich-fowl, certain unlucky, or ill-boding Birds, as the Night-raven, and Lich-owl, commonly call'd the Screech-owl; from the Saxon Word Lich, ſignifying a Carcaſs or dead Body.

Lichen, (Gr.) a kind of Tetter or Ring-worm, a Roughneſs and Swelling of the Skin, that itches much, and ſends forth Matter: Alſo a ſort of Moſs, very good to cure Tetters, &c. Alſo the brawny part in a Horſe's Hoof; Alſo the Herb Liver-wort.

Lichen Agrioum or Impetigo, an Unevenneſs in the Skin, that reaches to the Neighbouring Parts, accompany'd with extraordinary Itching, and dry Pimples.

Lichwale, a kind of Herb.

† Licitation, (Lat.) a ſetting out to Sale to him that will bid moſt; an Auction.

Lickoriſh, that loves Tid-bits, or ſweet things.

Licoriſh or Liquoriſh, a Shrub, that has a well known ſweet Root.

Lictors, (Lat.) certain Officers among the ancient Romans, who carry'd the Axes and Bundles of Rods before the Magiſtrates: The Word is now taken for a Serjeant at Arms, a Beadle, or Mace-bearer.

Lidford-Law, (from Lidford a Town in Cornwall) a Proverbial Expreſſion, ſignifying to hang Men firſt, and judge them afterwards; the like is ſaid of Halifax in York-ſhire, probably from the quick Diſpatch of Juſtice in Criminal Cauſes in thoſe Parts.

Lief or Leef, (Sax.) rather.

Liege, (Fr. in Common Law) is taken either for the Liege Lord, or for one that acknowledges Fealty, or Homage to the Liege Lord.

Liege Lord, one that acknowledges no Superiour, a Soveraign Prince; alſo the chief Lord of the Fee.

Liege Man, he that owes Allegiance, or Homage to the Leige Lord; a Vaſſal.

Liege People, the Subjects of a Queen, or State.

Liegeancy. See Ligeancy.

Lien, (Gr.) the Spleen, or Milt.

Lientery, a Diſtemper ariſing from a ſlimy Smoothneſs of the Guts, whereby the Meat or Suſtenance taken, ſlips thro' before it be alter'd, or well digeſted.

Lier. See Lyer.

Lierwite. See Leyerwite and Ligwita.

In Lieu, (Fr.) in the Place, Room, or Stead of.

Lieutenancy or Lieutenantſhip, the Office, or Place of a Lieutenant.

Lieutenancy of London, a ſelect Council of the Officers of the Artillery-Company, and Trained-Bands of the City, that govern and order Matters relating to the Militia.

Lieutenant, one that ſupplies the Queen's, or any other's Place, or repreſents her or his Perſon; as the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Lord Lieutenant of a County, &c.

Lieutenant General, (in an Army) a great Commander, next in Place to the General; who in Battel commands one of the Wings, or Lines; alſo upon the March, a Detachment or Flying-Camp; and a particular Quarter at a Siege.

Lieutenant General, (of the Artillery) the next Officer to the General of the Artillery, who in his Abſence has the whole Charge of all that belongs to it.

Lieutenant du Roy, (i. e. the King's Lieutenant) the Deputy-Governour of all ſtrong Towns in France, who is a Check upon the Governour, and has the Command in his Abſence.

Lieutenant Colonel, (of Horſe, Foot, or Dragoons) an Officer, who is next in Poſt to the Colonel, and commands in his Abſence.

Lieutenant of Horſe, Foot or Dragoons, the Officer of every Troop, or Company, who has the next Poſt to the Captain, and the Command in his Abſence.

Lieutenant Reformed. See Reforming Lieutenan

Lieutenant at Sea, the next Officer to the Captain, or chief Commander of the Ship.

Lieutenant en Second. See Second Captain.

Lieutenant of the Tower of London, who is to act under the Conſtable for the time being, and in his Abſence to perform all Powers, Acts, Matters, &c. in as ample a manner, as if the Conſtable were perſonally preſent: By Virtue of his Office he is to be in Commiſſion for the Peace of the Counties of Middleſex, Kent, and Surrey; his Salary is 200 Pounds per Annum, with other Fees and Perquiſites.

Lieutenant General of the Ordnance, an Officer, whoſe Duty is to receive all Signification of Orders, &c. from the Maſter at the Board, with the reſt of the principal Officers, and to ſee them duly executed; alſo to give Orders for diſcharging the great Ordnance upon Coronation-Days, Feſtivals, Triumphs, &c.

Life, the Union of the Soul with the Body, or the time that Union laſts; the manner of Living, or a Relation of what a Man has done, while he liv'd; alſo Mettle, Spirit, Sprightlineſs.

Life-everlaſting, an Herb ſo call'd.

Life-Guards. See Gardes du Corps.

Life-Rent, a Rent, or Salary, which a Man receives for Term of Life, or for the Maintenance of Life.

Lift, (Country-word) a ſort of Stile, that may be open'd like a Gate.

Lifts, (in Sea-Affairs) are certain Ropes which ſerve to top the Yard-arm of all Yards, i. e. to make the Ends of them hang higher or lower, or even; as Occaſion requires. The Haling of theſe Ropes is call'd Topping the Lifts; thus the Sea-men ſay, Top a Starboard, or Top a Port, i. e. hale on the Right-ſide or Left-ſide Lift.

Lifting-pieces, are Parts of a Clock, that lift up and unlock the Stops call'd Detents.

Ligament, (Lat. in Anat.) a Band or String partaking of the Quality of a Cartilage, and a Membrane, deſign'd by Nature, for joyning together the Parts, eſpecially Bones, in order to the better performing of their Motions.

Ligamenta Uteri, the Ligaments of the Womb.

Ligamentum Ciliare, the Ligament of the Eye-lid.

Ligatio, a binding, or tying; alſo the Tongue-tying, eſpecially in Children; alſo a Rhetorical Figure, call'd Zeugma in Greek.

Ligature, (in Surgery) a binding of any Part of the Body with a Fillet, Ribbon, &c. or any kind of Bandage.

Ligeance or Ligeancy, (Fr. Law-Term) ſuch a Duty of Fealty, as no Man may owe to more than one Lord; and therefore moſt commonly taken for a true and faithful Obedience of a Subject to a Soveraign Prince; alſo the Prince's Engagement to protect his Subjects. Sometimes it is taken for the Dominions or Territory of the Liege Lord; as Children born out of the Ligeance of the King or Queen.

Light, the contrary of heavy, that is not full Weight; nimble or quick, ſmall or trifling, inconſtant or fickle.

Among Aſtrologers, a Planet is ſaid To be light, i. e. nimble, compared to another that moves ſlower, as the Moon, with reſpect to all the other Planets, and the Sun in regard of the three Superiours: But abſolutely the three Inferiours Venus, Mercury, and the Moon, are termed Light, and the Superiours Ponderous, or heavy. See Pondrous.

Light-horſe, (in Military Affairs) a Name made Uſe of to diſtinguiſh ſuch Horſe-men, from the Men at Arms, formerly in Service, who were all in Armour, as the German Cuiraſſiers now are: In England, all are call'd Light-horſe, except the Troops of Life-Guards.

Light or Brightneſs, is either the Senſation, which ariſes from the beholding of any bright Object, as the Sun, a Star, or a Candle; or elſe the Cauſe of that Senſation, as it is an Action or Property belonging to the luminous or bright Body.

Light of the Time, is the Sun in the Day, and the Moon in the Night; an Expreſſion us'd by Aſtrologers.

Ligius, (in old Latin Records) pure, full, or perfect; as Viduitas ligia; pure Widow-hood; Ligia Poteſtas, free and abſolute Power of Diſpoſal, &c.

Ligneus, belonging to Wood, woody; as A ligneous Subſtance.

Ligniperda, a Timber-worm; an Inſect.

Ligniperda Aquatica, the Cadis-worm.

Lignum, Wood, Timber.

Lignum Aloes, Wood of Aloes; an Apothecary's Drug, of great Price.

Lignum Nephriticum, a kind of Wood brought from Hiſpaniola, which is very good for the Stone in the Kideys.

Lignum Rhodium or Aſpalathus, a ſweet Wood, of which the Oil of Rhodium, much uſed in Perfumes, is made.

Lignum Sanctum or Lignum Vitæ, the Wood commonly call'd Guaiacum.

Ligula, a little Tongue, or Latchet of a Shooe, a Lace, or Point. In old Records, an Exemplification, or Copy of a Court-Roll.

Ligure, a kind of precious Stone, mentioned Exod. 18. 19. and ſo call'd from its Likeneſs to Ligurian Amber.

Liguſticum, Lovage of Lombardy; an Herb.

Liguſtrum, Privet or Prime-print; alſo white Withy-wind, or with-bind.

Like Arches or Arks, (in the Projection of the Sphere) are Parts of Leſſer Circles, that contain an equal Number of Degrees with the correſponding Arches of great Ones.

Like Figures, (in Geom.) are ſuch as have their Angles equal, and the Sides about thoſe Angles proportional.

Like ſolid Figures, ſuch as are comprehended under Planets that are alike, and equal in Number.

Like Quantities, (in Algebra) ſuch as are expreſſed by the ſame Letters, equally repeated in each Quantity: Thus $2a$ and $3a$, $6dd$ and $4dd$, are like Quantities; but $2a$ and $3aa$, and $6f$ and $4fff$ are unlike.

Like Signs, are when both are Affirmative, or both Negative; but when one is Affirmative, and the other Negative; they are unlike Signs. Thus $+16c$ and $+4c$, have like Signs; but $+12g - 2g$, have unlike Signs.

Lilach or Pipe-tree, a kind of Plant.

Lilium, (Lat.) the Lilly, of which there are ſeveral ſorts.

Lilium Convallium, Lilly of the Valleys; the Flowers and Leaves of which are good in the Apoplexy, Falling-Sickneſs, Palſy, &c.

Lilium Paracelſi, (among Chymiſts) a Tincture of Antimony.

Limation, a filing or poliſhing: In Surgery, the filing of the Bones, or hard Parts of the Body.

Limatura, Powder, or Duſt, that comes of filing.

Limatura Martis, (in Chymiſtry) the filing of Steel, us'd for the making of Crocus Martis.

Limax, a Snail without a Shell; a Dew-Snail, a Slug.

Limb, a Part of the Body: In Mathematicks, the outermoſt Border of an Aſtrolabe, or other Inſtrument, on which the Degrees, Figures, &c. are deſcrib'd; alſo the Circumference of the Original Circle in any Projection of the Sphere upon a Plane: In Aſtronomy, it is the utmoſt Border of the Diſk, or Body of the Sun or Moon, when either is in an Eclipſe.

Limbeck. See Alembick.

Limber, ſupple, pliable.

Limbers or Limber-holes, (in a Ship) little Holes, about three or four Inches ſquare, which are cut out in all the Ground-timbers and Hooks, next to the Keel, to let Water paſs to the Well of the Pump.

Limbus, (Lat.) a Border, or Hem of a Garment; a Welt, Lace, or Purfle; a Fringe, or Selvidge: Alſo the Limb, or Edge of an Aſtrolabe, or other Mathematical Inſtrument.

Limbus Patrum or Limbo, (according to the Notion of Roman Catholicks) a Place where the deceaſed Patriarchs, and other good Men, reſided till our Saviour's Coming, as alſo where thoſe abide, who die without Baptiſm.

Lime; a kind of Stone, of which Morter is made; alſo a ſort of ſmall Lemmon.

Lime-tree. See Linden-tree.

Lime-wort, an Herb.

To Lime or Line, to couple as a Dog does with a Bitch.

Limenarcha, (Gr.) a Warden of the Sea-Ports. See Stationarii.

Limer or Lime-hound, the ſame as Bloud-hound, a great Dog to hunt the wild Boar.

Limit, Bound, Boundary, Border.

Limit of a Planet, (in Aſtron.) is its greateſt Heliocentrick Latitude.

To Limit, to ſet Limits, or Bounds to; to appoint or fix, to confine, to ſtint.

Limitation, a limiting, ſetting of Bounds, &c.

Limitation of an Aſſize, (in Common-Law) a certain Time ſet down by Statute, within which a Man muſt alledge himſelf or his Anceſtours to have been poſſeſſed of Lands, ſued for by a Writ of Aſſize.

Limited Problem, (in Geom.) a Problem that has but one only Solution, or which can be done but one Way; as To make a Circle paſs thro' three given Points, not lying in a Right-line.

Limmer, a mongrel Dog, engender'd between a Hound and a Maſtiff.

To Limn, to paint in Water-Colours.

Limonia, (Gr.) the Anemony, or Emony; a Flower.

Limonia Mala, Limons, or Lemmons; a Fruit that ſtrengthens the Stomach, and creates an Appetite.

Limoniates, the Emerald; a precious Stone.

Limonion or Limonium, Winter-green, or wild Beets; an Herb.

Limonnade, a cooling Liquor, made of Lemmons, Water, and Sugar.

† Limoſity, a being muddy; Muddineſs.

Limoſum Saxum, the Mud-ſtone; a kind of Stone, ſo call'd becauſe it is ſoon diſſolv'd into Dirt.

Limp, limber, ſupple.

To Limp, to halt, or go lame.

Limpid, pure, clear, tranſparent; as Limpid Water.

Limpin, the Shell-fiſh, otherwiſe call'd a Muſcle.

Linamentum, (Lat.) Thread made of Flax, Linnen; alſo a Tent, or Lint for a Wound.

Linaria, Toads-flax, an Herb; the diſtilled Water of which is powerful for voiding Urine in a Dropſy, Purges by Stool, and cures the Jaundice: Alſo the Linnet, or Flax-finch; a Bird.

Linch-pin or Lins-pin, an Iron-Pin that keeps on the Wheel to the Axle-tree of any ſort of Carriage.

Lincoln, a large and famous City, the chief of the County of the ſame Name.

Lincoln-College, a College in Oxford, founded by Richard Fleming, Biſhop of Lincoln.

Lincolns-Inn, one of the Inns of Court, for Students of the Law; heretofore the Houſe of Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln.

Linctus, (Lat.) a licking, or ſucking down ſoftly: Alſo a Medicine to be licked or ſucked in by Degrees. See Ecligma and Loche.

Line, Part of a Writing; alſo the Twelfth Part of an Inch; alſo the Flax-Plant. In Geometry, it is a Quantity ſtretch'd out in Length, but ſuppos'd to be void of Breadth and Depth, being made by the Motion of a Point from one Place to another.

Right Line or Straight Line, is a Line, whoſe Points are equally plac'd between the two Extremes, or Ends; or it is the neareſt Diſtance between any two Points.

Crooked Line or Curve, is a Line, the Points of which are not equally plac'd between its two Extremes.

Line of Meaſures, (according to Mr. Ougtrned) is the Diameter of the Primitive or Original Circle in the Projection of the Sphere in Plano, or that Line in which the Diameter of any Circle to be projected, does fall.

Line of Numbers or Gunter's Line, ſo call'd from its Inventer, is uſually plac'd on a Ruler, or on the Back of a Sector, which running parallel with it, ſhews the Artificial Lines; as they are commonly call'd.

In the Art of War, Lines ſignify the Poſture of an Army drawn up for Battel, ſo as its Front may be ſtretch'd out as far as the Ground will allow, to prevent its being Flanked: Theſe Lines are three in Number, viz. 1. The Van, or Advanc'd Guards; 2. The Main Body; 3. The Rear-Guard, or Reſerve.

In Aſtronomy, according to the Ptolemaick Syſtem, the Line of the Anomaly of a Planet, is a Right-Line drawn from the Center of the Excentrick, to the Center of the Planet,

Line of the Apogee of a Planet, is a Right-Line drawn from the Center of the World thro' the Point of the Apogee, as far as the Zodiack of the Primum Mobile.

Line of the Apſes, is a Line paſſing thro' the Center of the World, and that of the Excentrick; whoſe two Ends are, one the Apogee, and the other the Perigee of the Planet.

Line Horizontal, is a Right-Line parallel to the Horizon,

Line of greateſt or leaſt Longitude of a Planet, is that Part of the Line of the Apſes, which reaches from the Cenrer of the World, to the Apogee or Perigee of the Planet.

Line of Mean Longitude, is one drawn thro' the Center of the World at Right Angles to the Line of the Apſes, and its extreme Points are call'd the Mean Longitudes.

Line of Mean Motion of the Sun, is a Right-Line drawn from the Center of the World as far as to the Zodiack of the Primum Mobile.

Line of Mean Motion of the Sun in the Excentrick, is a Right-Line drawn from the Center of the Excentrick to the Center of the Sun, and parallel to the former.

Line of Real Motion of the Sun, is a Line drawn from the Center of the World to the Center of the Sun and produced or lengthen'd as far as the Zodiack of the Primum Mobile.

Line of the Nodes of a Planet, is a Right-line from the Planet to the Sun, being the common plac of Interſection of the Plane of the Planet's Orbit, with that of the Ecliptick.

Line Synodical, (with reſpect to ſome Appearances of the Moon) is a Right-line ſuppos'd to be drawn thro' the Centers of the Earth and Sun:

Line of the mean Syzygies, is a Right-line imagined to paſs thro' the Earth's Center, and the mean Place of the Sun.

Line of the Real or True Syzygies, a Right-line ſaid to be drawn thro' the Center of the Earth, and the real Place of the Sun.

In Dialling, the Equinoctial Line, is the common Place where the Equinoctial, and the Plane of the Dial, mutually interſect, or cut one another.

Lines Horary or Hour-lines, are the common Interſections of the Hour-Circles of the Sphere, with the Dial-Plane.

Line Horizontal, is the common Interſection of the Horizon, and the Dial-Plane.

Line Subſtylar, is that Line on which the Style or Cock of the Dial is ſet up, and repreſents ſuch an Hour-circle as is perpendicular to the Plane of that Dial.

In Fortification, a Line is that which is drawn from one Point to another, in making a Plan or Draught upon Paper: On the Ground in the Field, it is ſometimes taken for a Trench with a Breaſt-work: and ſometimes for a row of Gabions, or Bags full of Earth, ſet out in length, to cover Men from the Enemies Fire.

Lines of Approach or of Attack, are the Ways or Trenches dug along in the Earth, towards a Town that is Beſieged, in order to gain the Moat and the Body of the Place.

Line of the Baſe, is a Right-line which joyns the Points of the two neareſt Baſtions.

Line Capital, a Line drawn from the Angle of the Gorge, to the Angle of the Baſtion.

Line of Circumvallation, a Line or Trench, with a Parapet or Breaſt-work made by the Beſiegers, quite round their Camp, within Cannon-ſhot of the Place, to oppoſe any Army that may come to relieve it, and to ſtop Deſerters.

Line Cogzital, a Line drawn from the Angle of the Center, to that of the Baſtion.

Lines of Communication, are thoſe that run from one Work to another: But the Line of Communication more eſpecially ſo call'd, is a continued Trench with which a Circumvallation, or Contravallation, is encompaſs'd, ſo as to maintain a Communicatio with all its Forts, Redouts, and other Works.

Line of Contravallation, is a Trench with Breaſt-work, which the Beſiegers make next the Plac beſieged, to ſecure themſelves againſt the Sallies o the Garriſon; ſo that an Army that forms a Siege, lies between the Lines of Circumvallation and Contravallation.

Line of Defence, a ſtraight Line which ſhews th Courſe of a Bullet, eſpecially a Musket-ball, accor ding to the Situation it ought to have, to defend th Face of the Baſtion.

Line of Defence Fichant or Fixed, is a Lin drawn from the Angle of the Courtin, to the flanke Angle of the oppoſite Baſtion, nevertheleſs witho touching the Face of the Baſtion.

Line of Defence Razant, is that which is draw from the point of the Baſtion along the Face, till comes to the Courtin, which ſhews how much of th Courtin will clear or ſcour the Face: It is alſo ca The Line of Defence Stringent or Flanking.

Line forming the Flank, a Line drawn fro the Angle made by the two Demi-Gorges of the B ſtion, to the Angle at the Flank.

Lines within Side, are the Moats or Trenc cut towards the Place beſieged, to prevent Lines without Side, are Trenches towards the Field, to hinder the bringing of Succours to the Beſieged.

In Perſpective, Line of the Front, is any Right-line parallel to Terreſtrial Line.

Line Geometrical, is a Right-line drawn after any manner, on the Geometrical Plane.

Line Horizontal, is the common Section of the Horizontal Plane, and that of the Draught or Repreſentation; which alſo paſſes thro' the principal Point.

Line of Incidence, (in Catoptricks) a Ray ſtarting from ſome luminous or light Body, and ending in a Point of ſome Surface; the knowledge of which is chiefly neceſſary, for finding out the Greatneſs and Continuance of an Eclipſe.

Line Objective, (in Perſpect.) is the Line of an Object; from whence the Appearance is ſought for in the Draught or Picture.

Line of Station, the common Section of the Vertical and Geometrical Planes: Others mean by it, the perpendicular Height of the Eye above the Geometrical Plane: Others take it for a Line drawn on that Plane, and perpendicular to the Line that expreſſes the height of the Eye.

Line Terreſtrial, is a Right-line in which the Geometrical Plane, and that of the Picture or Draught, interſect or cut one another.

Line Vertical, is the common Interſection of the Vertical Plane, and of the Draught.

In Philoſophy, Line of Direction of a Body in Motion, is that Line according to which it moves, or which directs and determines its Motion.

Line of Gravitation of an heavy Body, is a Line drawn thro' its Center of Gravity, and according to which it tends downward.

Line. See Cordean.

To Line, to put a Lining to: In Maſonry, to Caſe a Wall, &c. with Stone. In Fortification, to ſurround and ſtrengthen a Rampart, Breaſt-work, or Moat, with a good Wall, or good Turf.

To Line Hedges, (in the Art of War) to plant Muſketeers along them under their Covert, in order to fire upon an Enemy that comes open, or to defend themſelves from the Horſe.

Linea Alba, (Lat. in Anat.) the White-line being a Concourſe of the Tendons of the oblique Muſcles in the Lower-Belly; which meeting on both ſides, make a kind of Coat that covers the Belly, as if they were all but one Tendon.

Linea Apſidum, (in Aſtron.) the Line of the Apſes; which See.

Lineage, (Fr.) Race, Stock, Pedigree.

Lineal, that is, or goes in a Right-line; as As Succeſſion in a lineal Deſcent. See Diſcent.

Lineament, the Feature or Proportion of the Face drawn out as it were in Lines.

Linear, belonging to a Line.

Linear Problem, (in Mathem.) ſuch a Problem as can be ſolved Geometrically, by the Interſection or cutting of two Right-lines: It is alſo call'd a Simple Problem, and is capable but of one Solution.

Linear Numbers, are thoſe that have relation to Length only: For Example, ſuch as repreſent one Side of a plane Figure; and if the Figure be a Square, the Linear Number is call'd a Root.

Lined Moat, a Term in Fortification. See Moat.

Ling, a ſmall Shrub, otherwiſe call'd Heath or Firz: Alſo a ſort of Salt-fiſh, which is ſtrong and good Food.

Ling-wort, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Angelica.

Lingel, a little Tongue, or Thong.

To Linger, to be tedious, or long a doing; to languiſh, or droop.

Linger or Linget, a kind of Bird.

Lingots, (in Chymiſtry) Iron-moulds of ſeveral Figures into which melted Metals are uſually pour'd, in order to harden in any Shape whatſoever.

Lingua, (Lat.) the Tongue, a little but unruly Member: Alſo Tongue, Language, or Speech.

† Linguacity, a being full of Tongue, or much given to talk; Talkativeneſs.

Lingualis, a Fleſhy Muſcle, which according to ſome Anatomiſts, takes its Riſe from the Root of the Os Hyoides, and runs forward to the tip of the Tongue; but 'tis diſputable, whether it be a Muſcle or not.

Linguiſt, one that is skilful in Tongues, or Languages.

Lingulaca, (Lat.) the Sole-fiſh, ſo call'd from its Shape reſembling a Tongue: Alſo the Herb Adders, or Serpents-Tongue.

Liniment, an outward Medicine of a middle Conſiſtence between an Oil and an Ointment.

Linis, (in old Records) a Linch-pin, the Pin that faſtens a Wheel upon the Axle-tree.

Link, the ring of a Chain, a Torch, a kind of Sauſage: Alſo a thin Plate of Metal to ſolder with.

To Link, to joyn, or tie together.

Linnet, a Singing-bird, ſo call'd becauſe it feeds upon Line-ſeed.

Linſey Woolſey, a ſort of mixt Cloth, partly Linnen partly Woollen; any Stuff made of Thread and Wooll.

Lins-pin. See Linch-pin.

Lint, fine Linnen ſcrap'd to Shreds, to be put into a Wound, or burnt for Tinder.

Lint-ſtock, a carved Stick, above half a Yard long, with a Cock at one end, to hold the Gunner's Match; and a ſharp Point at the other, to ſtick it upright in the Ground, or on the Deck of a Ship.

Lintel, the Head-piece, or upper Poſt of a Door or Window.

Linter, (Lat.) a little Boat, a Wherry. In Anatomy, the inner rim of the Ear, the ſame as Scapha.

Linum Vivum. See Aſberſtne Cloth.

Lion, (Gr.) a wild Beaſt, the moſt Couragious and Generous of all others; the Emblem of Strength and Valour.

Lion's-Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery. See Inn.

Lion's-Mouth, Lion's-Paw, Lion's-Tooth, ſeveral Sorts of Herbs.

Lionel, a Lion's Whelp, or young Lion: Lioncels is alſo a Term in Heraldry for Lions, when there are more than two of them born in any Coat of Arms, and no Ordinary between them.

Lioncel, (i. e. little Lion) a proper Name of Men.

Lipara, (Gr.) a ſoft Plaiſter, or Salve.

Liparis, a kind of Lizard, or Fiſh: Alſo a certain Gem.

Lipodermus, a Diſeaſe, when the Skin that covers the Glans, or Nut of the Yard, can't be drawn back.

Lipopſychia, a ſmall Swoon, being an imperfect Syncope; which See.

Lipothymia, a ſwooning, or fainting away.

Lippitudo, (Lat.) a wateriſh running of the Eyes, Blear-eyedneſs, or Bloud-ſhot: Alſo a dry Soreneſs of the Eyes, without running, when they feel rough, as if there were Sand in them.

Liptotes or Litotes, (Gr.) a Rhetorical Figure, when the Force of the Words is not anſwerable to the greatneſs of the Matter; as Non ignara mali, Virg. i. e. Not ignorant of the Miſchief; where is meant very knowing, or too well experienc'd in it.

Lipyria, a continual Feaver, the outward Parts being cold, and the inward Parts burning.

Liquation or Liquefaction, (Lat.) a diſſolving or melting; particularly among Apothecaries, the melting of Roſin or Wax, with Oil or Fat over a gentle Fire.

To Liquefy, to make liquid, to diſſolve or melt; to grow, or become liquid.

† Liquescency, an aptneſs to melt, or grow ſoft.

Liquid, that has its Parts fluid and in Motion; moiſt, ſoft.

Liquid Ambra, a kind of Gum that diſtils from a Tree call'd Ocozol, in New-Spain, a Province of America.

Liquids, (in Grammar) five Letters, viz. l, m, n, r, s; ſo call'd from their being pronounced ſoft, and as it were melting in the Mouth: In Philoſophy, Liquids are ſuch Bodies as are endu'd with all the Properties of Fluidneſs, and have their ſmall Parts ſo figur'd and diſpoſed, that they ſtick to the Surface of thoſe Bodies which are dipt in them; which is commonly call'd Wetting.

Liquidity, a being liquid.

Liquiritia, (Lat.) Liquoriſh or Licoriſh, a ſweet Root, much us'd for Coughs, Conſumptions, Hoarſeneſs, ſharpneſs of Urine, &c.

Liquor or Liquour, any thing that is liquid; Drink, Juice, &c.

Liquor of fixed Nitre. See Fixed Nitre.

Liriconfancy or Lily-Convally, a ſort of Flower. See Lilium Convallium.

Lisbon, the chief City of the Kingdom of Portugal.

Liſiere, (Fr.) the Liſt of Cloath or Stuff; the Border of a Country: Alſo a Term in Fortification, the ſame as Berme and Fore-land; which See.

Liſpound, a foreign Weight containing 15, 16, and ſometimes 20 Pounds.

Liſt, a Scroll, Bill, or Roll, containing the Names or Number of Perſons, &c. Alſo the border or edge of Woollen Cloth. In Architecture, a ſtraight upright Ring, which runs round the lower part of Pillars juſt above the Torus, and next to the Shaft or Body.

Liſt or Liſts, a Place encloſ'd with Bars or Rails for Tournaments, Wreſtling, Races, and other Exerciſes.

To Enter the Liſts, to engage in Fight, or in Diſpute.

Liſtel, (in Architect.) a ſmall Band, or Rule in Mouldings; alſo the ſpace between the Channellings of Pillars.

Liſtleſs, careleſs, regardleſs, uneaſy.

Litany, (Gr.) a general Supplication, or Prayer; eſpecially one in the Common-Prayer-Book of the Church of England, appointed to be Said or Sung on certain Days.

Literal, (Lat.) that is according to the Letter; as A Literal Senſe or Meaning.

Literal Algebra. See Algebra.

Literal Fault, (in Printing) a ſmall Fault that does not interrupt the Senſe, when a Letter is only tranſpos'd or turn'd, one Letter put for another, &c.

Literarum Obligatio. See Deed.

Literate, skill'd in Letters, Learned.

Literatura, as Ad literaturam ponere, an Expreſſion in old Latin Records, to put out Children to School, or to breed them up to Learning; a Liberty which thoſe Parents who were ſervile Tenants could not take, without conſent of the Lord of the Manour.

Literature, Knowledge in Letters, Learning.

Lithanthrax, (Gr.) ſtony Coal, a kind of Jeat; Pit-coal, or Sea-coal.

Lithangyros, Litharge or Silver-glet, the frothy Droſs, or Scum that ariſes in the purifying of Silver with Lead.

Lithe, ſupple, or limber.

Lither, lazy, ſluggiſh.

Lithiaſis, (Gr.) the breeding the Stone in a Humane Body, either in the Kidneys or Bladder.

Lithizontes, a kind of ordinary Carbuncle.

Lithocolla, (q. d. Stone-glue,) the Cement with which Stones are joyn'd and faſten'd together.

Lithomancy, a kind of Divination or Sooth-ſaying, by the caſting of Pebble-ſtones.

Lithontribon, a Confection of the Apothecaries, ſo nam'd becauſe it breaks and drives away the Stone.

Lithontripticks, Medicines that break the Stone in the Bladder, or Kidneys.

Lithoſpermum, the Herb Stone-crop, Gromwell, Grey-mill.

Lithoſtrata, Stone-Pavements of Moſaick Work, ſuch as were made by the Ancients of fine pieces of Marble, or other ſmall Stones curiouſly joyn'd together, and as it were inchas'd in the Cement, repreſenting different Figures, by the variety of their Colours and Ordering.

Lithotomia, a Quarry of Stones, or a Maſon's Work-houſe. In Surgery, the Operation of cutting the Stone out of the Bladder.

Lithotomus, a Stone-cutter or Maſon; Alſo a Lithotomiſt, or Surgeon skilful in cutting out the Stone.

Litigation, a quarrelling, or brawling; a Suit, or Pleading.

Litigious, that delights in going to Law, quarrelſom, full of Diſpute and Wrangling.

Litiſpendence, the time during which a Law-ſuit is depending.

Litmoſe-blew, a kind of blew Colour us'd in Painting and Limning.

Litotes, (Gr.) Smalneſs, Simplicity, Meanneſs: In Rhetorick, a Figure when leſs is ſpoken than is intended; as when we ſay, I cannot commend you, it implies a ſecret Reprehenſion, as if there were juſt Grounds of Diſpraiſe: Again, I do not deſpiſe, inſtead of I take delight in, &c. See Liptotes.

Litten, as Church-litten; a Word us'd in Wiltſhire for a Church-yard.

Litter, the Brood of a Beaſt brought forth at once, as a Litter of Pigs, Puppies, &c. Alſo the Straw that is ſpread under Horſes, or other Cattel, to lye down upon: Alſo a ſort of Carriage like a large Sedan hung upon Staves, and born by Horſes or Mules.

Litterings, ſmall Sticks that keep the Web ſtretch'd on a Weaver's Loom.

Littoral, (Lat.) belonging to the Shore; as Littoral Shells, i. e. ſuch Shells as are always found near the Shores, and never far off in the main Sea.

Liturgy, (Gr.) Publick Service, a Form of Publick Prayers, the Common-Prayer, and other Ceremonies of the Church.

Live-long, a ſort of Herb.

Liver, one of the noble Parts of the Body, and the thickeſt of all the Bowels; its Office being to purify the Maſs of Bloud by ſtraining.

Liver of Antimony, (among Chymiſts) Antimony open'd by Salt-peter and Fire, ſo as to make it half Glaſs, and give it a Liver-colour: It is us'd for the Emetick Wine; and is alſo given in Subſtance, to cauſe a ſtrong Vomit. See Crocus Metallorum.

Liver-wort, an Herb good for all Diſtempers of the Liver.

Liver or Lievre. See Livre.

Liverings or Livering-Pudding, a ſort Haggeſs, or Pudding made of Hogs or Calves Livers.

Livery, a Suit of Cloaths of different Colours and Trimming, which a Noble-man or Gentleman gives to his Servants and Followers, either with or without a Badge.

In a Law-ſenſe, Livery is a delivery of Poſſeſſion to thoſe Tenants that held of the King in Capite, or Knight-ſervice: Alſo a Writ which lay for the Heir to obtain the Seiſin or Poſſeſſion of his Lands at the King's Hands: But all Liveries and Wardſhips are now quite diſcharg'd, and taken away by Stat. 12 Car. 2.

The Livery or Livery-men of a Company or Corporation, ſuch Members as are advanc'd to a Degree above the Yeomanry, and have a Right to wear a Livery-gown upon ſolemn Occaſions.

Livery of Hay and Oats, the giving out a certain Quantity for feeding Horſes, &c.

Livery of Seiſin, (Law-Phraſe) a delivery of Poſſeſſion of Lands, Tenements, or other Things, to one that has Right, or Probability of Right to them; which is two-fold, viz.

Livery in Deed, is when the Feoffer or Giver takes the Ring of the Door, or Turf, or Twig of the Land, and delivers the ſame to the Feoffee, or Perſon that receives the Grant in the Name of Seiſin of the Land: And Livery in Law, when the Feoffer ſays to the Feoffee, being in View of the Houſe or Land, I give to you yonder Land, to you, and your Heirs, and therefore enter into the ſame, and take Poſſeſſion of it accordingly.

Livery-Stables, publick Stables, where Horſes are kept, and let out to hire.

Livid, black and blew.

Livid Muſcle, one of the Muſcles that move the Thigh. See Pectineus.

Lividity, a being livid.

Livor, a kind of leaden or dead blewiſh Colour in any Part of the Body, caus'd by a Stroke or Blow: It is alſo figuratively taken for Envy, Malice, or Spite.

Livre or Liver, a French Coin, worth 1 s. 6 d. Sterling: The Livre of Leghorn in Italy is only of 9d. Value.

Lixiviate or Lixivious, belonging to Lye; as Lixiviate Salts, i. e. the fixed Salts of Plants, which are drawn by calcining the Plant, and then making a Lye of the Aſhes and Water.

Lixivium, (Lat.) Lye made of Aſhes; alſo Salt diſſolved in Water. In Chymiſtry, a fixed Alkali; as the Salts of Tartar, Wormwood, &c.

Lizard, a little creeping Creature of a greeniſh Colour, much like our Evet, but bigger, which breeds in Italy, and other hot Countries.

Lizard-point, the utmoſt South-Weſt Point of the Land's End in Cornwall.

Loach or Loche, a ſmall and nimble Freſh-water Fiſh; the chief Bait for which is the ſmalleſt ſort of red Worm.

Load, a Burden, or Weight. Loads are alſo Trenches to drain fenny Places. See Lode-works.

Load-ſtar, the North-Star, that guides Mariners.

Load-ſtone, (q. d. Leading-ſtone) ſo call'd, becauſe it guides and directs Sailers in their Voyages: It is of a ruſty dark Colour, and has a peculiar Virtue to draw Iron to it ſelf, whereby many admirable Secrets are diſcover'd. See Magnet.

Loam or Lome, Clay to graft withal, Morter made of Clay and Straw; alſo a ſort of Clay or Plaiſter, us'd by Chymiſts to ſtop up their Veſſels.

Loan, a thing lent; a lending of Money, eſpecially upon a Publick Account.

Loary Law. See Lorey.

Lob, Lobbe, or Lobling, a North Sea-fiſh, of a huge Bulk; whence perhaps a great heavy ſluggiſh Fellow is call'd a Lob, Looby, or Lob-cock.

Lob-worm, a ſort of Worm, us'd in Fiſhing for Trouts.

Lobby, a kind of Paſſage-room, or Gallery.

Lobes, (Gr. in Anat.) the ſeveral Lappets or Diviſions of the Lungs, or Liver: Among Herbaliſts, the Diviſions of the Bulk of Seeds, which uſually conſiſt of two Parts, as is plainly to be ſeen in Beans.

Lobſter, a known Sea Shell-fiſh.

Lobuli Adipoſi. See Sacculi Adipoſi.

Lobus, a Lobe, or Lappet of the Liver, &c. Alſo a Kidney-bean.

Lobus Auris, the lower Part, or Tip of the Ear.

Local, belonging to a Place: In a Law-ſenſe, tied or joyned to a Place; as The thing is local, and annexed to the Free-hold.

Local Medicaments, thoſe Remedies that are apply'd outwardly to a particular Place, or Part; as Plaiſters, Salves, Ointments, &c.

Local Problem, (in Mathem.) ſuch an one as is capable of an infinite Number of different Solutions: So that the Point which is to reſolve the Problem, may be indifferently taken within a certain Extent, i. e. any where in ſuch a Line, or within ſuch a Plane, Figure, &c. which is termed a Geometrick Place, and the Problem is ſaid to be a Local or Indetermined one.

Locality, (in Philoſ.) the being of a thing in a Place.

† Location, a ſetting, or letting out to hire.

Loch or Lohoch, (in Phyſick) a kind of thick Syrup, Electuary, or other Compoſition, which muſt not be ſwallow'd, but ſuffer'd to melt in the Mouth by Degrees, that it may take more Effect in Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, Lungs, and Throat: It is an Arabick Word, and ſignifies the ſame thing with the Latin Term Linctus, i. e. licking up.

Loche Sanum, a particular ſort of Loche, or Linctus, good for the Lungs.

Lochia, (Gr.) thoſe things that are voided by Women in Child-bed, after they are freed from the Child, and the Membranes, call'd Secundinæ, or After-birth.

Loci Chymici, Chymical Furnaces and Veſſels.

Loci Muliebres, Womens Privy-Parts.

Lock, an Inſtrument to make faſt a Door; alſo a Place where the Current or Stream of a River is ſtopt, and as it were locked up: Alſo the Name of an Hoſpital in Southwark, for Perſons under Cure for the Venereal Diſeaſe.

To Lock, to ſhut up with a Lock and Key: Among Drivers, to move the Wheels of a Waggon to and fro.

Lock-man, an Officer in the Iſle of Man, who executes the Orders of the Governour, or Deemſters, much like our Under-Sheriff.

Lock-ſpit, (in Fortif.) a ſmall Cut, or Trench, open'd with the Spade, to mark out the firſt Lines of any Work that is to be made.

Locker, a Pigeon-hole: In Sea-Affairs, a kind of Cheſt or Box ranging along each Side of a Ship, to put Shot, or other things in.

Locket, a ſet of Diamonds, or other Jewels; alſo that part of a Sword-ſcabbard, where the Hook is faſten'd.

Locking-Wheel, a Term in Watch-work. See Count-Wheel.

Lockram, a courſe ſort of Linnen-cloth.

Lockron or Lockler-goulons, a ſort of Flower.

Loco-motive, (Lat. in Philoſ.) as The Loco-motive Faculty, i. e. that Faculty which cauſes moving from one Place to another.

Loculamentum, (Lat.) an Apartment, or Partition; a Box or Drawer to put any thing in; a Locker for a Pigeon: Among Herbaliſts, a little diſtinct Cell or Partition within the Common Seed-bag of a Plant or Flower; as thoſe of Poppies, &c. by which one Parcel of the Seeds is kept ſeparate from the other.

Locus, a Place, Room, or ſtead.

Locus Apparens, (in Aſtron.) that Place in which any Planet or Star appears, when view'd from an Eye at the Senſible Horizon: Alſo a Term in Opticks. See Apparent Place of an Object.

Locus Abſolutus or Primarius, (in Philoſ.) is that Part of the abſolute and immoveable Space, or extended Capacity to receive all Bodies, which a particular individual Body takes up.

Locus Relativus or Secundarius, is that apparent and ſenſible Place, in which we determine a Body to be plac'd, with reſpect to other adjoyning or neighbouring Bodies.

Locus Partitus, (Law-Term) a Diviſion made between two Counties or Towns, to make Tryal in which the Land, or Place in Queſtion lies.

Locuſta, the Locuſt, a miſchievous Inſect, that eats up and ſpoils all green Things: Alſo a Fiſh like a Lobſter, call'd a Long Oiſter; or a Sea-Inſect that reſembles that Fiſh.

Among Herbaliſts, Locuſtæ, are the Beards and hanging Seeds of Oats, and other Plants; ſo call'd from their Figure, ſomewhat reſembling that of a Locuſt.

Locution, way of Speaking, Phraſe, or Manner of Speech.

Locutorium, (in old Records) a withdrawing Room, or Parlour, in a Monaſtery, where the Friers met for Diſcourſe, or Converſation.

Lode-ſhip, a kind of Fiſhing-Veſſel.

Load-ſtar and Lode-ſtone. See Load-ſtar and Load-ſtone.

Lode-works and Streme-works, certain Works in the Stannaries, or Tin-Mines in Cornwall: Of theſe the former are performed in the high Grounds, by ſinking deep Wells, call'd Shafts; and the latter are carry'd on in the lower Grounds, by digging Trenches, and turning the Courſe of Rivers.

Lodemanage, the Hire of a Pilot for conducting a Ship from one Place to another.

Lodeſman, a Coaſt-Pilot, that guides Ships in and out of Harbours, and about the Coaſts.

Lodge, a little Room, Shed, or Hut.

To Lodge, To give, or to take up a Lodging: Among Foreſters, a Buck is ſaid To lodge, when it goes to reſt.

Lodger, a Perſon that hires one Room, or more, in another's Houſe, to abide in for a certain Time.

A Lodging, a Room, an Apartment.

Lodgment, (in Military-Affairs) a Retrenchment dug for a Covert, or Shelter, when the Counterſcarp or ſome other Poſt is gain'd. It is alſo taken for the Place, where the Soldiers quarter among the Burghers or Townſ-Men, either in Barracks, Huts, or Tents; and ſometimes for an Incampment, made by an Army.

Lodgement of an Attack, is a Place of Defence, which the Beſiegers raiſe upon the Enemies Works in a dangerous Poſt, after they have taken them, to make good their Ground, and ſecure themſelves againſt the Fire of the Beſieged. This Lodgment conſiſts of Barrels, and Bags full of Earth, Palliſadoes, Wooll-packs, Faggots, or any other Materials, that are proper to cover the Men in the Place they have gain'd, and reſolve to keep.

Log, the Trunk of a Tree, or Stump of Wood for Fuel: Alſo an Hebrew Meaſure of 24 ſolid Inches, being the 72d. Part of an Epha.

In Sea-Affairs, Log is a Piece of Board, or Wood about ſeven or eight Inches long, and of a Triangular Figure: It has as much Lead caſt into it at one End, as will ſerve to keep it always floating upright in the Water; and at the other End is faſten'd a Line call'd the Log-line.

Log-board, a Table divided into five Columns, and containing an Account of the Ship's Way, meaſur'd by the Log, which is to be enter'd daily into the Log-book, or Traverſe-book.

Log-line or Minute-line, a ſmall long Line, tyed to the Log, which has ſeveral Knots or Diviſions, that ought to be at the Diſtance of 50 Foot one from another, and is wound about a Reel, fixt in the Gallery of the Ship for that Purpoſe. The Uſe of this Log and Line, is to make an Eſtimate, and keep an Account of the Way, or Courſe a Ship runs at Sea, by help of a Minute-glaſs. See Knots.

Log-wood or Block-wood, a ſort of Wood, otherwiſe call'd Campechio, from the Name of the Place whence it is brought, viz. a Town of Yucatan, a Province of New Spain, in Northern America. It is much us'd by Dyers, for making a ſad or dark Colour.

Logarithms, (Gr.) a Rank of Numbers in Arithmetical Progreſſion, that anſwer to ſo many Numbers in Geometrical Progreſſion, ſet under or over againſt them; of which they are call'd the Logarithms: So that the Addition and Subſtraction of them, anſwers to the Multiplication and Diviſion of the Numbers they anſwer to. They were firſt invented by the Lord Napier, a Scotch Baron, and afterwards compleated by Mr. Henry Briggs, Savilian Profeſſour of Geometry at Oxford.

Impure or Defective Logarithm, is the Logarithm of a Fraction.

Logarithmical or Logarithmick, belonging to the Artificial Numbers, call'd Logarithms.

Logarithmick Line, a Curve, or crooked Line, invented by M. Pardie, which perfectly diſcovers all the Myſteries of Logarithms, with ſeveral other admirable Properties and Uſes.

Logating, a ſort of unlawful Game, mention'd in Stat. 23. H. 8. and now diſus'd.

Logges, (old Word) Huts or Cottages for lodging the poorer ſort of People.

Logical, belonging to, or agreeable to the Rules of Logick.

Logical Diviſion. See Diviſion Logical.

Logician, one that ſtudies, or is ſkill'd in that Science.

Logick, the Art of Thinking, Reaſoning, or making a right Uſe of the Rational Faculty, which chiefly conſiſts in ſhewing how to make proper Remarks on the Operations of the Mind.

Logiſt, one ſkill'd in the Logiſtick Science, i. e. the Art of Reckoning, or caſting Account.

Logiſtæ or Logiſtes, (among the Athenians) certain Officers, ten in Number, to whom all ſuch as had ended their Magiſtracy, gave an Account within thirty Days, of the Affairs of which they had the Management; They alſo kept an Account of the Moneys, and of all Matters, relating to the Publick Revenue.

Logiſtica, a Part of Arithmetick, which applies the Rules of computing, multiplying, dividing, &c. to the Degrees of Signs, Circles, and Angles; as alſo to Days, Hours, Minutes, &c.

Logiſtica Numeralis. See Algorithm.

Logiſtica Specioſa Specious or Literal Algebra. See Algebra.

Logiſtical Arithmetick, was formerly the Arithmetick of Sexageſimal Fractions, and us'd by Aſtronomers in their Calculations. It is now taken by ſome for the expeditious Arithmetick of Logarithms, by which all the Trouble of Multiplication and Diviſion is ſav'd.

Logiſtical Logarithms, a Table of Logarithms, fitted to Sexageſimal Fractions.

Logiſticks, the ſame as Logiſtical Arithmetick; but ſome apply the Term to ſignify the firſt general Rules in Algebra, of Addition, Subſtraction, &c.

Logium, (in old Records) a Hovel, or Out-houſe, ſtill call'd a Lodge in Kent.

Logographers, they that write Books of Account, or Pleas in the Law; Lawyers-Clerks.

Logomachy, a Verbal Contention, or Strife in Words.

Lohoch. See Loche.

Loich-fiſh, certain ſort of Fiſh; as Cod, Ling, Lob, &c. mentioned in Stat. 31. E. 3.

Loimography, (Gr.) a Diſcourſe about, or Deſcription of Peſtilential or Infectious Diſeaſes.

Loimos, the Plague, or Peſtilence; a catching Diſeaſe, that corrupts the Bloud, and Animal Spirits.

To Loiter. See to Loyter.

Loligo, (Lat.) the Calimary Fiſh, whoſe Bloud is like Ink, as well as that of the Cuttle-fiſh.

Lolium, Darnel or Cockle, a Weed growing amidſt Corn.

To Loll, to lean, or lye upon.

Lollards, certain Church-Reformers, that abounded in England, in the Time of K. Edward III. an Hen

Henry V. and were then reputed great Hereticks: They were ſo call'd from one Walter Lollard, a German, their firſt Leader, A. D. 1315. or as others ſay, from Lolium, i. e. Darnel, becauſe they were compar'd to that Weed which grows amidſt Wheat.

Lollards-Tower, a Place near St. Paul's Church in London, where the Lollards were impriſon'd.

Lollardy, the Doctrine, and Opinions of the Lollards.

Lombard or Lombar, a Bank for Uſury, or Pawns, from the Longobardi or Lombards, a People inhabiting the hithermoſt Parts of Italy, heretofore call'd Inſubria, who were much given to Uſury: Whence Uſurers are termed Lombardeers, and Lombard-ſtreet, a noted Street in London, took its Name.

Lombar-Houſe, a Houſe in which ſeveral ſorts of Goods are ſtow'd, in order to be expoſ'd to Sale.

Lome. See Loam.

Lomentum, (Lat.) Bean-meal, or Bean-flower; alſo a kind of Painter's Colour.

Lonchites, (Gr.) a kind of Comet, reſembling a Lance, or Spear: Its Head is of an Oval Figure; its Tail, or Stream of Rays, very long, thin, and pointed at the End.

Lonchitis, the Herb Spleen-wort, ſo call'd, becauſe the Shape of its Seed reſembles a Spear.

London, one of the moſt large and ſtately Cities in the World, and the chief of the Kingdom of England, ſituated in the Counties of Middleſex and Surrey: It is ſo nam'd, either from Lhun, which in the British Tongue ſignifies a Grove, or Longh, i. e. a Ship, and Dinas a City; ſo that it may ſeem to have been anciently termed Lhundinas, i. e. a City full of Trees; or Lhongdinas, a City of Ships; from whence the Latins deriv'd the Word Londinum. It was alſo call'd Auguſta Trinobantum, and Troja Nova, or New Troy, as being ſuppos'd to be firſt founded by Brutus, who was deſcended from the Trojan Race; but it was afterwards repair'd by King Lud, and thence call'd Caer Lud, or Lud's Town.

London-Bridge, a Bridge, which for admirable Workmanſhip, Vaſtneſs of Foundation, and ſolid Houſes built on it, ſurpaſſes all others in Europe: It reaches 800 Foot in Length, 30 Foot in Breadth, and is 60 Foot high, having 19 Arches, the Space between each being 20 Foot, and a Draw-Bridge almoſt in the middle. This noble Pile of Building was begun by K. Henry II. and finiſh'd under K. John.

Londons-Pride or London-Tufts, a ſort of Flower.

A Long, a Muſical Note, or Meaſure of Time, containing two Briefs. See Large.

Long Accent, (in Grammar) an Accent, which ſhews, that the Voice is to ſtop upon the Vowel that has ſuch a Mark ſet over it, and it is thus expreſs'd(-)

Long-boat, (in Sea-Affairs) the ſtrongeſt and biggeſt of Boats that can be hoiſed up into the Ship; which ſerves for the Carriage of all weighty Things, as Goods, Victuals, Guns, &c. as alſo to weigh the Anchor, to land Men upon all Occaſions, &c.

Long-Meg, the Name of a Stone fifteen Foot high, near Salkeld in Cumberland; about which are Seventy Seven others, ſet up in a Circular Form; which the Country-People call the Daughters of Long-Meg.

Long-Primer, a ſort of Character, or Letter, in Uſe among Printers.

Long-wort or Angelica, an Herb.

Longanimity, (Lat. q. d. Length of Mind) Long-ſuffering, great Patience, or Forbearance.

Longano, Longanon, or Longabo, the Straight Gut, in the Fundament.

Longevity, Length of Age, long Life.

Longimetry, the Art of Meaſuring Lengths or Diſtances; a Part of Geometry, which ſhews how to take the Diſtances of Steeples, Towers, Trees, &c. either one or many together.

Longinquity, Length of Place, Remoteneſs, great Diſtance; Length of Time, or Long Continuance.

Longiſſimus Femoris, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Thigh, otherwiſe call'd Sartorius.

Longiſſimus Pollicis. See Flexor Tertii Internodii.

Longitude, properly the Length of Time, Place, &c. In Geography, it is an Arch of the Equator, comprehended between the firſt general and fixed Meridian, and that of the Place enquired after: Or it is the Difference either Eaſt or Weſt, between the Meridians of any two Places, counted on the Equator; and uſually mark'd at the Top and Bottom of Maps, Charts, &c.

Longitude, (in Navigation) is likewiſe the Diſtance of a Ship or Place, Eaſt or Weſt, from another, counted in proper Degrees; but if in Leagues, or Miles, or Degrees of the Meridian, and not in thoſe peculiar to the Parallels of Latitude, it is commonly call'd Departure.

Longitude, (in the Heavens) is an Arch of the Ecliptick, contain'd between the firſt Degree of the Sign Aries, and that Circle which paſſes thro' the Center of any Star: So that its much the ſame as the Star's Place in the Ecliptick, reckon'd from the Beginning of Aries to the End of Piſces, by Circles paſſing thro' the Poles of the Zodiack, and each of its Degrees at oppoſite Places.

Longitude of the Sun or Star from the next Equinoctial Point, is the Number of Degrees and Minutes they are from the Beginning of Aries or Libra, either before or after them; which can never exceed 180 Degrees.

Longitude, (in Dialling) the Arch of the Equinoctial, comprehended between the Subſtylar Line of the Dial, and the true Meridian; is termed, The Plane's Difference of Longitude.

Longitude of Motion, (in Mechanicks) the Meaſure of Motion, reckon'd according to the Line of Direction; being the Diſtance or Length, which the Center of any moving Body runs thro', as it moves on in a Right-line.

Mean Longitudes. See Line of Mean Longitude.

Longitudinal Suture, (in Anat.) the croſs Seam of the Scull, that goes from one Side to the other.

Longus Muſculus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Cubitus or Elbow, which helps to ſtretch out the Arm forwards: Alſo a Muſcle of the Radius, ſerving to turn the Palm of the Hand upwards. Longus, is alſo a Muſcle of the Tarſus. See Peroneus Primus.

Longus Colli, a Muſcle of the Neck, which ariſes from the Fore-part of the five Vertebræ, or Turning-joynts of the Cheſt, and is let into the Fore-part of all the Ventebræ of the Neck: This Muſcle, acting with its Partner, bends the Neck right forward.

Loof of a Ship, (among Sailers) is that Part of her aloft, which lies juſt before the Timbers, call'd Cheſs-trees, as far as the Bulk-head of the Fore-caſtle.

To Loof, (uſually pronounc'd Luff) a Term uſ'd in Conding; as Loof up, i. e. keep the Ship nearer to the Wind. To Loof into a Harbour, is to ſail into it cloſe by the Wind.

To Spring a Loof, is when a Ship that was going large before the Wind is brought cloſe, or as the Phraſe is, claps cloſe by the Wind. When a Ship ſails by a Wind, or on a Quarter-Wind, the Words of Direction to the Steerſ-man are, Loof! Keep your Loof! Veer no more! Keep her to! Touch the Wind! Have a Care of the Lee-latch! All which Words are near of the ſame Signification, and ſerve to bid the Man at Helm, keep the Ship near the Wind.

Loof-hook, a Tackle, with two Hooks; one of which is to hitch into the Crengle of the Main and Fore-ſail, and the other likewiſe to hitch into a Strap, or Pulley-rope, that is let into the Cheſs-tree, and ſo down the Sail; its Uſe being to ſuccour the Tackles in a large Sail.

Loof-pieces, the Guns that lye in the Ship's Loof.

Loof-Tackle, a ſmall ſort of Tackle which ſerves to lift all ſmall Weights in or out of a Ship.

Loom, the Frame a Weaver works upon.

Loom-gale. (Sea-Term) a freſh, or ſtiff Gale ; the beſt fair Wind to ſail in, becauſe the Sea does not go high, and all the Sails may be born out.

Looming of a Ship, is her Proſpective or Shew : Hence it is ſaid, Such a Ship Looms a great Sail, i. e. She appears, or ſeems to be a great Ship, and ſo on the contrary.

Loon, an ill-ſhap'd Bird in New-England like a Cormorant ; it can ſcarce go, much leſs fly, and makes a Noiſe like a Sow-gelder's Horn.

Loop, an Ornament for a Button-hole ; Alſo a ſmall Iron-ring in the Barrel of a Gun.

Loop-holes, little Holes in the Walls of a Caſtle or Fort to ſhoot thro' : Alſo certain Holes uſually made in the Planks of a Ship call'd Coamings, that bear up the Hatches for Muskets to ſhoot out at.

Looſe the Sail. See Let fall.

Looſe-ſtrife, a ſort of Herb ſo nam'd, becauſe there goes a Tradition of it, That if held to Cattel, when they are fighting, it parts them ; it is otherwiſe call'd Willow-herb, or Willow-weed.

Lootſman. See Lodeſman.

Loover, (Fr.) an open Place on the top of an Houſe, or Roof.

To Lop, to prune or cut off the Head-branches of a Tree.

Loquacious, (Lat.) full of Talk, prating, tattling.

Loquacity, Talkativeneſs, a being given to too much babbling.

Loquela, (Lat.) Speech, Talk, Diſcourſe, Language. In old Law-Records, an Imparlance or Petition for a Day of Reſpit, in a Court of Juſtice. Loquela ſine die, was a Reſpit in Law, or a Demurr to an indefinite Time.

Lord, a Word of Honour ſometimes attributed to thoſe who are Noble by Birth, or Creation ; as The Lords of Parliament ; ſometimes to thoſe that are ſo call'd by the Courteſy of England ; as all the Sons of Dukes and Marqueſſes, and the eldeſt Sons of Earls : And ſometimes to Perſons Honourable by their Imployment ; as Lord-Keeper of the Great Seal, Lord Chief Juſtice, &c.

Lord, (in a Law-ſenſe) is a Perſon that a has Fee, and conſequently the Homage of Tenants within his Manour ; and the Term is uſually diſtinguiſh'd into Lord Paramount, and Lord Meſne.

Lord Meſne, is he that is Owner of a Manour, and upon that account has Tenants holding of him in Fee, and by a Copy of the Court-Roll ; nevertheleſs, at the ſame time he himſelf holds of a Superiour Lord call'd The Lord Paramount.

Lord in Groſs, is he that is Lord having no Manour, as the King in reſpect of his Crown: There is alſo a Caſe in which a private Perſon is Lord in Groſs ; as when a Man makes a Gift in Tail of all his Land, to hold of him and dies, his Heir is ſaid to have but a Seignory or Lordſhip in Groſs.

Lord of the Geniture, (in Aſtrol.) is that Planet which has the greateſt Strength in the Figure of any Perſon's Geniture or Nativity, and ſo becomes principal Significator of his Temperament, Manners, Diſpoſition of Body, &c.

Lord of the Hour, a Planet governing each twelfth Part of the Day ; as alſo of the Night ſeverally and reſpectively divided into Twelve Parts, which are call'd Planetary Hours, and Unequal, as being vary'd according to the length of the Day.

Lord of the Year, is that Planet which has moſt Marks of Fortitude or Strength, in a Revolutional Figure.

Lordant or Lordane, (q. d. Lord Dane) a dull heavy Fellow, a lazy Lubber ; it being a Proverbial Word taken from the Tyranny of the Danes over the Engliſh, who were forc'd to toil and Till the Ground for them, while they ſat idle, and had the Benefit of all their Labour.

Lordoſis, (Gr. in Surgery) the bending of the Back-bone forwards in Children, &c.

Lords of the Treaſury. See Treaſury.

Lordſhip, the Title, Juriſdiction, or Manour of a Lord.

Lore, (Sax.) Learning, or Skill.

Lorey or Loary-Law, an Article found in the Memorials of the Chamber of Accounts in France ; which ordains, That if a Combat or Duel be once accepted, and afterwards taken up by Conſent of the Lord of the Fee, each of the Parties is to pay Two Shillings Six-pence ; but if it be perform'd, the Party overcome forfeits One Hundred and Twelve Shillings.

Lorica, (Lat.) a Coat of Mail, a piece of Armour worn in old Times, and wrought over with many ſmall Iron-rings : Alſo the Coping or Head of a Wall, made to caſt off the Rain.

Lorication, a fencing with a Coat of Mail, a harneſſing : In Maſonry, the filling of Walls with Morter : In Chymiſtry, the covering of a Veſſel call'd a Retort with Loam or Clay, before it is ſet over a naked Fire.

Lorimers or Loriners, a Company of Artificers in London, that make Bits, Spurs, and ſuch like ſmall Iron-ware ; whoſe Name may well be deriv'd from the Latin Word Lorum, ſignifying a Thong or Bridle.

Loriot, (Fr.) a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Witwal.

Loripes, (Lat.) that has his Feet as it were bound, Bow-legged, Bandy-legged, Crump-footed.

Loſenger, a Flatterer or Lier ; a Word us'd by Chaucer.

Lot, (Heb. wrapped or joyned together) Haran's Son, and Abraham's Brother, who was preſerv'd at the Deſtruction of Sodom.

Lot, a Portion of a Thing divided into ſeveral Parts, to be ſhar'd among ſeveral Perſons ; alſo Fortune or Chance.

To pay Scot and Lot, to pay ſuch Charges and Pariſh-duties as Houſe-keepers are liable to.

Lot of Goods. See Allotting of Goods, and Inch of Candle.

Lot or Loth, the thirteenth Diſh of Lead, in the Derby-ſhire Mines which belongs to the Queen, by virtue of Her Prerogative.

Lote-tree. See Lotos.

Lotherwit. See Lairwite.

Lotion, (Lat.) a waſhing : Among Chymiſts, Apothecaries, &c. it is taken for the waſhing or cleanſing of any Medicine in Water ; as The Lotion of Antimony, Magiſteries, &c. Alſo a particular Remedy between a Fomentation and a Bath, which is made uſe of to waſh the Head, Arm-pits, Hands, or other diſtemper'd Part.

Lotium, Urine, Stale, Piſs.

Lotometra, (Gr.) Bread made of the Seed of the Herb Lotus, being like Millet, and us'd by the ancient Egyptians.

Lotos or Lotus, the Lote-tree, the Leaves of which are broad, jagged, and full of Veins, the upper part Green, and the lower Whitiſh : Alſo the Herb Clover, or Melilot.

Lottery, a ſharing of Lots by Chance, when ſeveral Lots for Goods or Summs of Money are mixt with many more Blank-Lots ; which being drawn at a Venture, ſome get good ones, and many nothing at all.

Lovage, an Herb that is hot and dry in the third Degree.

Love, Affection, Kindneſs, Friendſhip, Paſſion : Alſo the Name of a certain Flower.

Love-Apple, a kind of Root in Spain, that inclin to a Violet-colour.

Love-days, thoſe Days, anciently ſo call'd, on which Arbitrations were made, and Controverſies ended among Neighbours, for the mutual reſtoring of Love and Charity.

Love-Socome. See Socome.

Loverd or Laverd, (old Word) a Lord.

Lough, an Iriſh Word for a Lake; alſo a Term in Falconry. See Luff.

Louis d'Or. See Lewis d'Or.

Lourcurdus, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Ram, or Bell-weather Sheep.

Lourdane. See Lordane.

Lourgulary, (in old Stat.) a caſting any corrupt thing into the Water; a poiſoning of the Water.

Louſe-wort, a ſort of Herb.

Lout or Lowt, a clowniſh unmannerly Fellow.

Louvre, (Fr. i. e. the Work) a ſtately Palace in the City of Paris, ſo call'd by way of Eminency, being the chief Seat of the French Monarchs, built by Francis I. inlarg'd with a long noble Gallery by Hen. IV. and ſince much improv'd by Lewis XIV.

Low-bell, (q. d. loud Bell) a Bell hung about the Neck of a Weather-ſheep: Alſo a Device to catch Birds.

Low-beller, one that goes a Fowling with a Light and a Bell; at the ſight of which, Birds lighting on the Ground, become ſomewhat ſtupify'd, and are eaſily taken with a Net: It is deriv'd from the Word Low, which in Saxon or old Engliſh, ſignifies a Flame of Fire.

Low-maſted, A Ship is ſaid to be Low-maſted or Under-maſted, when her Maſt is too ſmall, or too ſhort; ſo that ſhe cannot bear ſo great a ſail, as to give her the true Way.

Lower Counter in a Ship. See Counter.

Lower Flank or Retired Flank, a Term in Fortification. See Flank.

Lowings. See Lunes.

Lown, a ſtupid, dull, heavy-heel'd Fellow.

To Lowr, to frown, to look ſour or grim: Alſo to begin to be overcaſt with Clouds.

Lowry or Lowaray, a Shrub, otherwiſe call'd Spurge-Laurel.

Lowt. See Lout.

Loxias, (Gr.) the Croſs-beak or Shell-apple; a Bird that is common in ſeveral Parts of Germany, and ſometimes found in England.

Loxodromical or Loxodromick, (in Navigat.) belonging to the Method of oblique Sailing.

Loxodromical Tables, ſuch Tables as are made to find out the ſeveral Requiſites, or reſolve the Caſes of Sailing, after the moſt true and expeditious manner.

Loxodromick Line, an oblique or crooked Line of a Ship's Way; or that which a Ship deſcribes, when ſhe does not go in a Right-line.

Loxodromicks, the Art or Method of oblique Sailing by the Rhumb, when the Ship does not Sail, either directly under the Equator, or under one and the ſame Meridian, but obliquely or a-croſs them: Whence the Tables of Rhumbs, or the Traverſe-Table of Miles, with the difference of Longitudes and Latitudes, by which a Sailer may practically find his Courſe; are alſo call'd Loxodromicks.

Loxodromy, ſuch a Courſe in Sailing.

Loyal, (Fr.) obſervant of the Law; faithful, truſty, honeſt.

Loyalty, Fidelity or Faithfulneſs, eſpecially to a Soveraign Prince or State.

To Loyter, to tarry, or ſtand trifling; to ſpend Time idly.

Lozel, a lazy Lubber, a ſlothful Booby.

Lozenge, a little ſquare Cake made of preſerv'd Herbs in ſhape of a Diamond-cut or Quarrel of Glaſs. In Geometry, it is the ſame as Rhombus, a kind of Parallelogram or Figure, compos'd of four equal and parallel Sides, whoſe two oppoſite Angles are Acute, and the other two Obtuſe. In Heraldry, this Figure is made uſe of to contain the Coat-Armour of all unmarried Gentlewomen and Widows, upon account that the Amozonian Shield was of that ſhape; or as others ſay, becauſe it is the Figure of the ancient Spindle.

Lubber, a mean Servant, that does all baſe Services in a Houſe; a Drudge, a lazy Drone.

Lubricious, (Lat.) ſlippery, uncertain, unconcluſive; as A lubricious Hope, a lubricious Argument, &c.

To Lubricitate, (in Phyſick and Philoſ.) to make ſlippery.

Lubricity, Slipperineſs, Uncertainty, Fickleneſs.

Lucaria, a Feaſt kept by the Romans, July 18th, in remembrance of their Eſcape into a great Wood, near the River Allia, after they were put to flight by the Gauls.

Lucern, a Ruſſian wild Beaſt, near the bigneſs of a Wolf, which yields a very rich Furr, of Colour between red and brown, ſomewhat mailed like a Cat, and mixt with black Spots.

Lucia, a Chriſtian Name of Women, from the Latin Word Lux, lucis; ſignifying Light.

Lucid, ſhining, bright, light.

Lucida Cauda. See Cauda lucida.

Lucida Corona, a fixed Star of the Second Magnitude or Size, in the Northern Garland; whoſe Longitude is 217 deg. 30 min. Latitude 44 d. 23. m.

Lucida Hydra. See Cor Hydra.

Lucida Lancis, a Star plac'd in Nine Degrees and Forty-five Minutes of the Sign Scorpio.

Lucida Lyra, a bright Star of tht firſt Magnitude, in the Conſtellation call'd Lyra, or the Harp.

Lucifer, (i. e. Light-bearing) the Morning-Star, or Day-Star: The Planet Venus is ſo call'd, when it riſes before the Sun; but when it ſets after the Sun, it is nam'd Heſperus, or the Evening-Star: It is alſo taken for the Prince of the Air, or the Chief of Devils.

Luciferous, that brings Light; as Luciferous Experiments, a Term us'd by Naturaliſts, for ſuch Experiments as ſerve to inform and inlighten the Mind, about ſome Truth or Speculation in Phyſick or Philoſophy.

Luciola, Adders-tongue, an Herb.

Lucius, the Prænomen, or firſt Name of ſeveral famous Men among the ancient Romans: Alſo the Pike or Jack, a Freſh-water Fiſh.

Lucrative, gainful, profitable.

Lucre, Gain, Profit, Advantage.

Luctation, a wreſtling, ſtriving, or ſtruggling.

Lucubration, a ſtudying, or working by Candle-light; a ſitting up at Study.

Luculent, clear, evident, notable; as A luculent Proof.

Ludicrous, belonging to Sport, or Paſtime; ſportive, diverting, pleaſant.

Ludification, a mocking, or deceiving.

Lues, (Lat.) Peſtilence or Plague, a Murrain in Cattel; a common Deſtruction or great Mortality, whether among Perſons or Cattels.

Lues Deifica or Sacra, the Falling-ſickneſs.

Lues Moravica or Pannonica, a ſort of Peſtilence that is riſe in Hungary.

Lues Venerea or Morbus Gallicus, the French Pox, a malignant and infectious Diſtemper, that proceeds from venomous Matter communicated by an impure Coitus, accompanied with falling off of the Hair, Spots, Scabs, Swellings, Ulcers, Pains, and many other dreadful Symptoms.

Luff, a Sea-Term, the ſame as Loof; which See.

Luff or Lough, a Light or Flame, to Fowl with a Low-bell.

Lug, the tip of the Ear: Alſo a Pole to meaſure Land with. See Perch and Pole.

Lug-wort, a ſort of Herb.

Lugubrous or Lugubrious, (Lat.) mournful, doleful,

Luidore or Louis d'Or, a French Coin. See Lewis d'Or.

Luke, (Heb. riſing to him) a Phyſician of Antioch in Syria, who afterwards became one of the four Evangeliſts.

Lukewarm, that is between hot and cold; indifferent, careleſs.

Luma, (Lat.) a kind of Thorn that grows in Meadows and moiſt Places.

Lumbago, an Ache or Pain in the Muſcles of the Loins; which is ſometimes ſo violent, that the Patient is forc'd to ſtand upright, not being able to ſit down without great Pain.

Lumbar. See Lombard.

Lumbar or Lumbary, belonging to the Loins.

Lumbares Arteriæ (in Anat.) certain Arteries, which ariſing from the Aorta, ſpread themſelves over all the Parts of the Loins, and to the Marrow of the Back-bone.

Lumbaris Vena, a Vein that takes riſe from the deſcending Trunk of the Vena Cava, and is not always ſingle, but often two or three on each Side; ſo that they are uſually divided into the Lumbaris Superior and Inferior, and are beſtow'd on the Muſcles of the Loins.

Lumbrical Muſcles, (according to ſome Anatomiſts) are four Muſcles in each Hand, and as many in the Feet; ſo call'd by reaſon of their Smalneſs and Shape reſembling Worms.

Lumbricales, Muſcles of the Finger, ſo nam'd from their Figure, which is ſomewhat like the common Earth-worms, and otherwiſe call'd Flexores Primi Internodii Digitorum.

Lumbricalis Pedis, a Muſcle of the leſſer Toes, which ſprings from the inner part of the Os Calcis, or Heel-bone; and is inſerted to the inner parts of each leſſer Toe, ſide-ways next the great Toe.

Lumbrici, Earth-worms; alſo Belly-worms, or Maw-worms, produc'd by Corruption in Humane Bodies.

Lumbrici Aquatici, Summer-worms.

Lumbus, the Loin, Hanch, or Flank.

Luminare, (in old Records) a Lamp or Candle, ſet burning on the Altar of a Church or Chappel.

Luminaria, was alſo us'd by the Weſtern Church, to expreſs the Nativity of our Bleſſed Saviour, commonly call'd Chriſtmas.

Luminary, Light, a Body that gives Light, eſpecially the Sun and Moon, ſo ſtyl'd by way of Eminence, upon account of their extraordinary Brightneſs, and the great Proportion of Light that they afford.

Luminous, full of Light, bright.

Lump, Maſs, whole Bulk; alſo a kind of Seafiſh, ſo call'd from its Shapeleſs Maſs.

Lumpiſh, heavy, dull.

Luna, (Lat.) the Moon, the loweſt or next to the Earth of the ſeven Planets, ſtyl'd Feminine and Nocturnal by Aſtrologers; for that borrowing her Light from the Sun, ſhe excells in Paſſive Qualities, and Moiſture: Among Chymiſts, Luna is taken for Silver-Metal; and in Heraldry, the Silver or White Colour in the Coats of Soveraign Princes.

Luna Cornea or Lunæ Cornua, a tough, taſteleſs Maſs, almoſt like Horn, made by pouring Spirit of Salt, or a ſtrong Brine of common Salt and Water on Cryſtals of Silver, prepar'd by diſſolving that Metal in Aqua fortis, or Spirit of Nitre.

Lunacy, Madneſs, Frenzy, or Sickneſs, that happens at certain times, according to the Courſe of the Moon.

Lunar or Lunary, belonging to that Planet.

Lunar Cycle. See Cycle of the Moon.

Lunar Months, are either Illuminative, Periodical, or Synodical; which See in their proper Places.

Lunar Years. See Years.

Lunaria, the Herb Lunary, or Moon-wort; an Ointment of which apply'd to the Parts about the Reins, cures the Bloudy Flux.

Lunatick, ſmitten with Lunacy, diſtracted, mad; the Increaſe and Decreaſe of which Malady is attributed to the Influence of the Moon.

Lunation, (in Aſtron.) the Synodical Month reckon'd from one Conjuction of the Moon with the Sun to another; the Space of Time from one New Moon to another.

Lundreſs, a Silver-Penny, which at firſt weigh'd about three times as much as a Penny now does, and was ſo call'd becauſe it was to be coin'd only in London, and not at the Country-Mints.

Lunes of Lowings, (in Falconry) Leaſhes, or long Lines to call in Hawks.

Lunes or Lunulæ, (in Geom.) Figures in Shape of a Creſcent, or Half-moon, made by the Arches of two Circles that interſect, or cut one another.

Lunette, (Fr.) a Glaſs to help the Sight; a Pair of Spectacles: In Fortification, a ſmall Work generally rais'd before the Courtin in Ditches full of Water: It conſiſts of two Faces making a Re-entring Angle, and ſerves to diſpute the Paſſage of the Ditch. See Counter-gard and Envelope.

Lungis, a ſlim Slow-back, a drowſy or dreaming Fellow.

Lungs, a Part of the Body, which is the Inſtrument of Reſpiration, for drawing in and letting out Breath, and alſo ſerves to form the Voice.

Lung-wort, an Herb, good for all Diſeaſes of the Lungs.

Lunt, a Match to fire Guns with.

Lunulæ. See Lunes.

Lupanatrix, (in old Latin Records) a Bawd, a Harlot, or Strumpet.

Lupercalia, certain Feaſts celebrated by the Romans, Febr. 15. and conſecrated to the God Pa which were ſo call'd, from Lupa the ſhe-Wolf which gave Romulus ſuck.

Lupia, a kind of Swelling, about the Bigneſs of ſmall Bean.

Lupines, a ſort of flat Pulſe, almoſt like a ſmal Bean, of an harſh and bitter Taſte.

Lupinum Caput gerere (an old Latin Law Phraſe) to be out-lawed, ſo as to have one's Head expos'd as 'twere like a Wolf's, with a Reward to him that ſhall bring it.

Lupulus, Hops, a Plant which provokes Urin expels Gravel, and is good in the Jaundice.

Lupus, the Wolf, a wild Beaſt; the Pike, o Sturgeon, a Fiſh; alſo a Canker in the Thighs, a Legs: Alſo a Southern Conſtellation, conſiſting two Stars.

Lupus Marinus, the Wolf-fiſh, or Sea-Wolf, Creature living both in Water and Land, of th Bigneſs of a Bear; whoſe Skin is ſo hard, that can ſcarce be pierced with a Sword.

Lurcher, one that lies upon the Lurch, or upo the Catch; alſo a kind of Hunting-Dog.

Lure, (in Falconry) a Device of Leather in ſhap of two Wings, ſtuck with Feathers, and baited wi a Piece of Fleſh, to call back a Hawk at a conſider ble Diſtance.

To Lure, to bring a Hawk to the Lure; alſo allure or decoy, to trepan.

Lurid, pale, wan, black and blew.

To Lurk, to lie hid.

Luſcinia, (Lat.) the Nighingale; a ſinging Bi

Luſhborough or Luſhburgh, a ſort of baſe Co ſtrampt beyond Sea, like Engliſh Money, in the Ti of K. Edward III. which was forbidden to be broug over wittingly, under the Penalty of incurring Puniſhment due to Treaſon.

Luſcious, over-ſweet, cloying.

A Luſk, a Slug, or ſlothful Fellow; a Hum-

Luſt, unlawful Paſſion, or Deſire; Wantonneſs, Leachery: Among Sea-men, a Ship is ſaid To have a Luſt to one Side or other, when upon Account of her Mould and Make, or otherwiſe by the ſhooting of her Ballaſt, or of the unequal ſtowing of Things in her Hold, ſhe has an Inclination in her ſwimming, to heel or lean to one Side more than another.

Luſt-wort, a kind of Herb.

Luſter or Luſtre, Brightneſs, Gloſs.

Luſtral, as Luſtral Water, a ſort of Holy Water, us'd by the Prieſts among the ancient Romans, to purify the People.

Luſtration, a going about on every Side to view; alſo a purging by Sacrifice.

Luſtrici Dies, the Days on which the Romans uſed to give their Children the Name of the Family; which for Boys was on the Ninth after their Birth, and the Eighth for Girls.

Luſtring or Lute-ſtring, (Fr.) a ſort of Silk that has a Gloſs ſet on it.

Luſtrum, (Lat.) the Purgation or cleanſing of the City of Rome by Sacrifice every fifth Year; alſo the ſpace of five Years, or rather fifty Months, at the end of which, from time to time, the People were number'd, and the City purified.

Lutaniſt, one skilful in playing on the Lute; a Lute-Maſter.

Lutation, (Lat.) a luting or ſtopping up of Chymical Veſſels cloſe with Loam or Plaiſter.

Lute, a Muſical Inſtrument: Among Chymiſts, a compound Paſte, made of Sand, Clay, Potters-Earth, Droſs of Iron, &c. which ſerves for the building of ſome ſorts of Furnaces, or elſe to joyn together the Necks of Retorts and Receivers, or to coat over Glaſſes, and earthen Veſſels, in order to preſerve them in a vehement Fire.

To Lute, to cover or ſtop up with ſuch Loam or Clay.

Lute-ſtring. See Luſtring.

Lutea, (Lat.) Looſe-ſtriſe, an Herb that grows in watery and fenny Places.

Luteola, a little Flower like a Violet, Dyer's Weed; alſo a Bird call'd a Siskin Yellow-hamber, or Yowling.

Luteous, full of Clay, clayie.

Lutheraniſm, the Doctrine and Opinions of Martyn Luther, who being at firſt an Auguſtine Frier, forſook the Church of Rome, wrote againſt the Errours of it, and began the Reformation, A. D. 1115.

Lutherans, they that follow the Tenets of Luther.

Lutra, (Lat.) the Otter, a Creature that lives both on Land and Water.

Lutum, Dirt, Mud, Clay, Loam, eſpecially that call'd Lute by the Chymiſts, with which their Veſſels are dawb'd over to endure the Fire.

Luxated, (in Surgery) disjoynted, put out of joynt, or looſen'd.

Luxation, a putting out of joynt, a looſening of the Tendons or Ligaments, ſo that the Bones do not continue firm in their Natural Situation: Or when a Bone goes abſolutely out of its own Cavity into another Place.

Luxator Externus, the Name of a Muſcle. See Externus Auris.

Luxuriancy, Abundance; as Luxuriancy of Words.

Luxuriant, growing rank, running out exceedingly; as Luxuriant Plants, a Luxuriant way of ſpeaking.

To Luxuriate, to abound, to exceed, to grow rank.

Luxurious, that lives in Luxury; waſteful, wanton, riotous, extravagant in Diet or Garb; given to Exceſs, or Debauchery.

Luxuriousneſs or Luxury, all Superfluity and Exceſs in carnal Pleaſures, ſumptuous Fare or Building; Senſuality, Riotouſneſs, Profuſeneſs.

Luzern. See Lucern.

Lycanche, (Gr.) a Quinſey that deſtroys Wolves.

Lycanthropy, a kind of melancholy Frenzy, which cauſes thoſe that are ſeiz'd with it, to think themſelves turn'd into Wolves, howling in Woods, and deſart Places.

Lycaon, a Tyrant of Arcadia, who (according to the Fable) was Thunder-ſtruck by Jupiter, and chang'd into a Wolf: Alſo an Indian Wolf with a Main like a Horſe.

Lyceum, a famous Place near Athens, where Ariſtotle taught Philoſophy to his Diſciples.

Lychnis, a kind of Roſe, ſo call'd from its bright Colour.

Lychnis Agria, the Herb Calves-ſnout.

Lychnites, a ſort of white Marble; alſo a Gemm that ſhines beſt by Candle-light.

Lycisca, a Dog engender'd of a Wolf and a Bitch; a Shepherd's Dog, a Wolf-Dog.

Lycium, a Medicine of a binding Quality, made of the Trunk or Roots of the Shrub Pyxiacantha, or Box-thorn, otherwiſe call'd Lycium, becauſe it grows plentifully in Lycia, a Country of the Leſſer Aſia.

Lycoctonum, Wolfs-bane; an Herb.

Lycoides, a ſort of Madneſs, like that of Wolves.

Lycophthalmus, a precious Stone, like a Wolf's-Eye.

Lycopodium, Wolfs-claw, an Herb.

Lycopſis, Garden-Bugloſs, or the Herb call'd Hound's-Tongue.

Lycos, the Wolf, a wild Beaſt: Alſo the leaſt kind of Spider.

Lycurgus, the Son of Polydectes, and Brother of Eunomus, King of Sparta, a famous Law-giver, who eſtabliſh'd the Common-wealth of the Lacedæmonians, with the beſt Laws in Greece.

Lydia, a proper Name of Women, from a Country ſo call'd in the Leſſer Aſia.

Lydian Mood, a ſort of Harmony which was us'd in ſolemn grave Muſick; the Deſcant or Compoſition being of ſlow Time, ſuited to Sacred Hymns or Anthems.

Lydius Lapis, the Touch-ſtone, with which Gold is try'd.

To Lye under the Sea or To be laid under the Sea, a Phraſe us'd by Mariners, when the Ship lies a-hull, with the Helm made faſt a-lee; ſo as the Sea breaks upon her Bow and Broad-ſide.

Lyef-yeld or Lef-Silver, (Sax.) a ſmall Fine or Piece of Money anciently paid by the Tenant to the Lord of the Manour, for Leave to plough or ſow, &c. See Danger.

Lyer, a Teller of Lyes or Untruths.

The Lyer, (in a Ship) He that is firſt taken with a Lye every Monday-Morning is ſo proclaim'd at the Main-Maſt, A Lyer, a Lyer, a Lyer: He ſerves under the Swabber, to keep clean the Beak-head and Chains, and holds his Place for a Week.

Lygmodes, (Gr.) a Feaver accompanied with the Hickups.

Lygmos, (Gr.) the Hicket or Hickup, a Convulſive Motion of the Nerves in the Throat.

Lympha, Water: In Anatomy and Surgery, a clear Humour, conſiſting of the Nervous Juice and of Bloud, which being continually ſeparated by the Glandules, is at laſt diſcharg'd into the Bloud again by Veſſels peculiar to it. 'Tis alſo ſometimes taken for that watery Matter which iſſues from Sinews that are prick'd, and other Wounds.

Lymphatici, Perſons that are quite diſtracted, ſtark-mad, or frighted out of their Wits, as thoſe that have ſeen Spirits or Fairies in the Water.

Lymphatick Veſſels or Lymphatick Veins, (in Anat.) certain Veins that receive the Lympha from the Conglobated Glandules, and diſcharge themſelves either into the Bloud-Veins, or into the Receptacle of the Juice call'd Chyle.

Lymphæducts, the ſame as Lymphatick Veſſels.

Lymputta, (in old Records) a Lime-pit.

Lynceus, (Gr.) one of the Argonauts, reported to be ſo quick-ſighted, that he could ſee thro' Stone-Walls and Trees, alſo under Ground even to the very Deep it ſelf; and that becauſe he firſt found out Mines in the Bowels of the Earth: Whence a ſharp-ſighted Man is Proverbially call'd a Lynceus.

Lynchet, (in Husbandry) a Line of Greenſward that ſerves as a Boundary, to ſeparate plough'd Land in Common Fields.

Lyncis Lapis, (Lat.) a round Stone in Shape of a Pyramid, and of divers Colours; which is of good Uſe in Diſeaſes of the Reins.

Lyncurium, (Gr.) a precious Stone ſaid to be bred of the congeal'd Urine of the Beaſt Lynx; alſo a ſort of Amber.

Lynx, a wild Beaſt of the Nature of a Wolf, that has many Spots all over its Body, and is very quick-ſighted; alſo the Hickets, a Diſtemper the ſame as Lygmos.

Lypyria. See Lipyria.

Lyra, the Lyre or Harp, a Muſical Inſtrument, of which there are two ſorts, one ſtrung with Guts, and the other with Wire-ſtrings: Alſo a Conſtellation or Company of 13 Stars, which the Poets feign'd to be Arion's Harp: Alſo the Rochet, a Sea-fiſh, call'd in Cornwall the red Gournard.

Lyra Viol, a ſort of Viol.

Lyrick, belonging to the Harp; as Lyrick Poeſy.

Lyrick Verſes or Songs, ſuch as are ſet to the Lyre or Harp; whence the Common Expreſſion of Playing Leero-way, which is corruptly us'd for Lyra-way.

Lyriſt, an Harper, one that plays on, or ſings to the Harp.

Lyron, an Herb with veined Leaves like Plantain.

Lyſimachia or Lyſimachium, Looſe-ſtriſe, Willow-herb, or Water-willow.

Lyſimachus, a kind of precious Stone, with Veins of Gold in it.

Lyſis, a looſening or releaſing: Among Phyſicians, a Weakneſs of the Body by any Illneſs: In Architecture, a looſening, chinking, or gaping of a Wall.

Lyſſa or Lytta, Madneſs, properly of a Dog; alſo a Worm under a Dog's Tongue, which makes him mad, if it be not taken out; the greedy Worm.

M A

MAbel, a proper Name of Women from the Latin Word Amabilis, i. e. amiable or lovely.

Mac, an Iriſh Word, ſignifying as much as Son in Engliſh, Ap in Welſh, and Fitz in old French.

Macaleb or Baſtard-Coral, a kind of Shrub, whoſe Berries are black and ſhining, and ſerve for Bracelets.

Maccaronick Poem, a ſort of Burleſk Poetry, in which the proper Words of a Language are made to end in Latin Terminations.

Maccaroons, (Ital.) Lumps of boiled Paſte ſtrew'd over with Sugar or Spice, a Diſh much in Vogue among the Italians: But here they are a ſort of ſweet Meats made of Almonds, Whites of Eggs, Sugar, Roſe-water, Musk, &c.

Maccabees, the Title of two Apocryphal Books, that contain an Hiſtory of the memorable Actions of Judas Maccabæus, and others of that Family.

Mace, a ſort of Spice, being the middle Husk of the Nutmeg, and much of the ſame Virtue: Alſo a Club: Alſo a known Enſign of Honour, carry'd before a Magiſtrate, or great Officer.

Mace-greffs or Mace-grieſs, (in old Law Records) thoſe that buy and ſell ſtollen Fleſh.

Macecana or Machecana, the Fleſh-Market, or Shambles

To Macerate, to mortify, bring low or weaken; to ſteep or ſoak.

Maceration, the Act of macerating, mortifying, &c. Alſo a ſort of Infuſion, when certain hard Bodies are ſoak'd in Water, or ſome other Liquor.

Maches or Maſches, a kind of Corn-Sallet.

Machiavilian, belonging to Machiavel, a famous Hiſtorian, and Politician of Florence; whence the Word is commonly us'd for ſubtil, crafty, well verſed in State-Policy.

Machina Boyliana, Mr. Boyle's Air Pump, ſo call'd from it noble Inventer.

Machinæ Verſatiles, (Lat. i. e. Turning Engines) certain ſtrange Inventions among the Romans to change Scenes, make Flights in the Air, and for other ſurprizing Artifices.

To Machinate, to contrive or deviſe, to plot or hatch.

Machination, a contriving, or plotting; a Device, or Plot

Machinator, a Plotter, Deviſer, or Contriver.

Machine, any Engine or Contrivance, made of ſeveral Parts, ſet together by Mechanical Art, as Wheels, Springs, &c. to raiſe or ſtop the Motion of Bodies, for many Uſes in Architecture, War, Water-works, &c.

Machiniſt, an Inventer, or Manager of Engines,

Macilent, lean, thin, lank.

Macis, (Lat.) the Spice call'd Mace; which See

Mackenboy or Makinboy, a kind of Spurge, with a knotty Root, that grows naturally in Ireland, and which being but carry'd about one, cauſes the Party to go often to Stool.

Mackerel, a kind of Sea-fiſh, ſo call'd from its great Number of Spots, and which is in Seaſon in the Months of May and June.

Macoquer, a ſort of Apple, peculiar to our Plantations in Virginia and Mary-land.

Macrocoſm, (Gr.) the whole Univerſe, or greater World, in Contradiſtinction to Microcoſm, or the Leſſer World, which is the Body of Man.

Macrology, a Rhetorical Figure, when more Wotds are us'd than are juſt requiſite; alſo a tedious multiplying of Words beyond what is neceſſary.

Macronoſia, a long Sickneſs.

Macropiper, long Peeper.

Macula, (Lat.) a Spot, or Stain.

Macula Hepatica, a Spot of a brown or of a ſad yellow Colour, about an Hand's Breadth broad, which chiefly ſeizes on the Breaſt, Back, and Groin: Sometimes it covers the whole Body, and is attended with a ſlight Roughneſs of the Skin, that lets fall Scales, or a ſor of Dandriff, which do not ſtick together, but are ſpread about here and there; ſometimes diſappearing, and ſometimes breaking out again.

Macula Matricalis, a Spot of a browniſh Colour, with which a young Child is born.

Maculæ Solares See Spots in the Sun.

Macula Volatica, a red or purple Spot here and there in the Skin, which if it come to any Orifice in the Body, as the Mouth, Noſtrils, Ears, &c. it proves mortal, eſpecially to Children.

Maculation, a ſtaining, or defiling with Spots.

Maculature or Macla, a waſte Sheet of printed Paper.

Mads, a Diſeaſe in Sheep.

Mad-nep and Mad-wort, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Madame, a Title of Honour uſually given to Women of Quality, as Princeſſes, Ducheſſes, Ladies, and others; but grown a little too common of late.

Madaroſis, (Gr) a Baldneſs of the Head.

Madder, a Plant, the Root of which being of a red Colour, is us'd in the dying of Wool, &c.

Madefaction, (Lat.) a moiſtening, or wetting

Mademoiſelle, a Title given in France, to the Wives and Daughters of bare Gentlemen.

Madning-money, old Roman Coins, ſometimes found about Dunſtable, and ſo call'd by by the Country People, perhaps from Magintum, an ancient Name of that Town, mentioned in the Emperour Antoninus's Itinerary.

Madoc, an old Britiſh Name, from Mad, i. e. good.

Madon, (Gr.) a kind of white Vine.

Madrid, the chief City of Spain, and one of the Royal Seats

Madrier, (Fr. in Fortif.) a thick Plank, armed with with Iron-plates, and made uſe of to cover the Mouth of a Petard, when 'tis charg'd and apply'd with it to Gates, or other Places that are to be broke, or torn up

Madriers, are alſo certain flat Beams, fixt at the Bottom of a Moat, to ſupport a Wall: Alſo long Planks cover'd with Tin, and loaded with Earth, to ſecure the Pioneers in their Works from the Enemies Fire.

Madrigal, (Ital.) a kind of Italian Air, or Song to be ſet to Muſick, conſiſting only of a ſingle Rank of Verſes, and therein differing from the Canzonet, which is made up of ſeveral Strophe's, or Ranks of Verſes, returning in the ſame Order and Number.

Mæander, (Gr.) a River of Phrygia, that has many Turnings in its Courſe, ſome ſay to the Number of 600; whence a Matter full of Intricacy and Difficulty is figuratively call'd a Mæander: Alſo a Fret-work in arched Roofs.

Mæna, the Cackrel-fiſh; ſome take it for a kind of Herring, or Pilchard, of which the Ancients made a Pickle.

To Maffle, to utter one's Words confuſedly; to ſtammer, or ſtutter.

Magazine, (Fr.) a Ware-houſe, or Store-houſe, eſpecially for Arms and Ammunition of War.

Magbote or Mægbote, (Sax) a Recompence anciently made in Money for the killing of one's Kinſman.

Magdalen, (Heb. magnified or exalted) the Sirname of Mary, one of thoſe devout Women that attended on our Bleſſed Saviour; and ſince taken for a Chriſtian Name of Women.

Magdalen-College, a College in Oxford, built with a Hall near adjoining to it, by Will. Wainfleet, Biſhop of Wincheſter. Alſo a College in Cambridge, formerly an Hall for Monks, but turn'd into a College by the Duke of Buckingham, about the Beginning of K. Henry 8's Reign.

Magdaleon, a Roll of Plaiſter made up in Shape of a Cylinder.

Magellan's Clouds, two ſmall Clouds of the Colour of the Via Lactea, or Milky Way, not far diſtant from the South Pole.

Magellan's Straights, a famous narrow Sea beſet with Iſlands, and high Cliffs or Mountains; where the Weather is exceſſive Cold, with Snow and Froſt. It is ſo call'd from Ferdinand Magellanes, or Magalhaens, a Portugueſe Nobleman, by whom it was firſt diſcovered, A. D. 1520. as alſo the Southern Part of America, which is likewiſe nam'd Terra Magellanica.

Maggiordomo or Majordomo, (Ital.) the Maſter or Steward of a Great Man's Houſe.

Magical or Magick, belonging to the Art of Magick.

Magical Lanthorn. See Lanthorn.

Magician, one that profeſſes Magick, which was the ſame with the Perſians as Philoſophy among the Greeks, i.e. the Study of the more ſecret and myſterious Arts: Whence the three Wiſe Men in the Eaſt, that came to adore the Saviour of the World, were call'd Magi; but the Word is now commonly taken in a bad Senſe, for a Wizard, Sorcerer, or Conjurer.

Magick or Diabolical Magick, the Black Art, a dealing with Familiar Spirits, Conjuring, Sorcery, Witchcra

Natural Magick or Natural Philoſophy, a innocent and uſeful Science, teaching the Knowledg and mutual Application of Actives to Paſſives, ſo to make many excellent Diſcoveries: But this Stu being corrupted by the Arabians, and fill'd with ny Superſtitious Vanities, the Word began to be taken in an ill Senſe.

Magick Square, is when ſeveral Numbers, in Arithmetical Proportion, are diſpos'd into ſuch parallel and equal Ranks, that the Summs of each Row taken any-way, either directly or ſide-long, ſhall be all equal.

Magiſter, (Lat.) a Maſter. In our ancient Records, we find this Title often given to Perſons that had attain'd to ſome Degree of Eminency in Learning, eſpecially in any of the Liberal Arts and Sciences; and in old time, thoſe who are now call'd Doctors, were ſtyl'd Magiſtri.

Magiſter Equitum, (among the Romans) was a General of the Horſe, or the Dictator's Lieutenant: And Magiſter Peditum, General of the Infantry, or Body of Foot-Soldiers.

Magiſter Militum utriuſque Militiæ, a Generaliſſimo, or chief General of the whole Army: This laſt Officer is ſaid to have been firſt appointed by the Emperour Conſtantine the Great, when he took away the Command of the Armies from the Præfecti Prætorio.

Magiſter ſcrinii Diſpoſitionum, an Officer who gave the Emperour an Acount of the Sentences and Judgments paſs'd by the Judges of the reſpective Places, after he had examin'd them, to know whether they had judg'd a-right, or not.

Magiſter Scrinii Epiſtolarum, the Secretary which wrote the Emperour's Letters, and had Thirty four Officers under him, that were call'd Epiſtolares.

Magiſter Scrinii Libellorum, Maſter of the Requeſts, who preſented to the Prince the Requeſts and Petitions of particular Perſons, and receiv'd his Anſwer, which was reduc'd to Writing by his Clerks, who were Thirty-four in Number, and ſtyl'd Libellenſes.

Magiſter Scrinii Memoriæ, a principal Secretary of State, an Officer of the Empire, to whom the Prince gave a Golden Girdle at his Creation. His Buſineſs was, to return the Anſwers made by the Emperour, to the Petitions or Requeſts that were preferr'd to him, and afterwards to inlarge upon them, in the Letters Patent or Briefs that were granted: He had under him other Officers, who were call'd Scriniarii Memoriæ, or Memoriales.

Magiſter Scripturæ, a Farmer of Cuſtoms, or Receiver of Publick Revenues; or a Clerk of the Cuſtom-houſe.

Magiſterial, Maſter-like; imperious, domineering, haughty.

Magiſtery, Maſterſhip; eſpecially the Office of the great Maſter of Maltha. Among Chymiſts, it is a Preparation of a mixt Body, ſo as to change it by means of ſome Addition, into a Body of a different kind; as when Iron or Copper, is turn'd into Cryſtals of Mars or Venus.

Magiſtery, is alſo taken for a very fine Powder, made by diſſolving and precipitating the Matter; as Magiſtery of Biſmuth, Lead, &c. And ſometimes it's us'd for a Reſine, or Reſinous Extract; thus the Reſines of Jalap, Scammony, &c. are call'd Magiſteries.

Magiſtery of Tartar. See Tartar Vitriolate.

Magiſtracy, the Office and Dignity of a Magiſtrate, or chief Ruler.

Magiſtralia Medicamenta, (Lat.) ſuch Medicines as are uſually preſcrib'd by Phyſicians, for ſeveral Purpoſes.

Magiſtrate, an Officer of Juſtice, or of Civil Government; as a Judge, the Mayor of a City, or Town Corporate, a Juſtice of the Peace, &c.

Magma, (Gr.) Dregs that are left after the ſtraining of Juices, or other Liquors; the Refuſe or Droſs of a Thing.

Magna Arteria, the great Artery. See Aorta.

Magna Charta, the Great Charter.

Magna Aſſiſa Eligenda, a Writ directed to the Sheriff, to ſummon four lawful Knights before the Juſtices of Aſſize, there upon their Oaths to chuſe Twelve Knights of the Neighbourhood, to paſs upon the Great Aſſize, between A. Plaintiff, and B. Defendant, &c.

Magna Charta, the Great Charter, containing a conſiderable number of Laws, ordain'd in the Ninth Year of King Henry III. and confirm'd by Edward I. being the moſt Ancient of all the written Laws of England.

Magna Precaria, a great or general Reap-day; upon which, according to an old Cuſtom, the Lord of the Manour of Harrow in Middleſex, formerly us'd to ſummon his Tenants to do 199 Days Work for him; every Tenant that had a Chimney, being oblig'd to ſend a Man.

Magnanimity, greatneſs of Spirit, notable Courage, or Generoſity.

Magnanimous, that is of great Spirit, or Courage; generous, brave.

Magnes Microcoſmicus. See Unguentum Armarium.

Magneſia Opalina, (in Ckymiſtry) a kind of Crocus Metallorum, or Liver of Antimony; but of a more Opaline, or redder Colour than the common one.

Magnet or Load-ſtone, a mineral Stone found in moſt Mines, eſpecially in thoſe of Copper and Iron, of the Nature of which it partakes. Among other admirable Virtues, it has a Property of drawing Iron to it ſelf, and of pointing towards the Poles of the World; which it alſo enables a Needle to do, when touch'd upon it, and poiſed. It is ſo call'd from Magneſia, a Province of Lydia, in the leſſer Aſia, where good ſtore of it was heretofore found.

Magnetical or Magnetick, belonging to the Magnet.

Magnetical Amplitude, (in Navigat.) an Arch of the Horizon, contain'd between the Sun at its Riſing or Setting, and the Eaſt and Weſt Point of the Compaſs: Or it is the different Riſing or Setting of the Sun, from the Eaſt or Weſt Points of the Compaſs.

Magnetical Azimuth, is an Arch of the Horizon, comprehended between the Sun's Azimuth Circle, and the Magnetical Meridian: Or it is the apparent diſtance of the Sun, from the North or South Point of the Compaſs.

Magnetical Meridian. See Meridian.

Magnetiſm or Magnetical Attraction, the Faculty of drawing Iron, &c. as the Load-ſtone does.

Magnificat, (Lat.) the Song of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary; ſo call'd, becauſe it begins with theſe Words, Magnificat anima mea Dominum, i. e. My Soul doth magnify the Lord, &c.

Mignificence, a largeneſs of Soul, in conceiving and managing great Things; State, Greatneſs, Generoſity, Gallantry, Statelineſs, Coſtlineſs.

Magnificent, that lives in great State; ſtately, noble, great, fine, coſtly, lofty.

Magnifici, a Title given to the Regents, or Governours of Univerſities in Germany.

Magnifico, a Noble-man of Venice; a great Man.

To Magnify, to commend or praiſe highly, to cry up; to amplify, or inlarge in Word. Microſcopes are alſo ſaid To magnify Objects, i. e. to make them appear bigger than they really are.

† Magniloquence, a lofty and high Strain, or manner of Speaking.

Magnitude, Greatneſs, Bigneſs, Largeneſs; eſpecially with reſpect to the Dimenſions of the Heavenly Bodies; as A Star of the firſt Magnitude; it is alſo the proper Subject of Geometry, and is defin'd to be a continued Quantity, or Extenſion, conſiſting in Lines, Angles, Surfaces, or Bodies.

Commenſurable Magnitudes. See Commenſurable.

Magnus Pes. See Crus.

Magydare, a ſort of Herb.

Mahomet or Muhammed, (Arab. Praiſed) an Arabian Impoſtor ; who pretending himſelf a great Prophet, with the help of one Sergius an Apoſtate Monk, and of a Renegado Jew, fram'd a new Religion, ſuitable to the Carnal Diſpoſitions of degenerate Mankind, A. C. 625. By which means he gain'd many Proſelytes, and founded the Saracen Empire. There were alſo of this Name Four Emperours of the Turks.

Mahometan or Mahumetan, one that follows the Doctrine of Mahomet.

Mahometiſm or Mahumetiſm, the Religion contriv'd by that great Impoſtor.

Mahone, a Turkiſh Ship of great Burden, ſomewhat like a Galleaſs.

Maia, one of the Seven Stars call'd Pleiades : Alſo a kind of Sea Crab-fiſh.

Maid or Maiden, a Virgin, a young Woman : Maid is alſo a ſort of Fiſh, otherwiſe call'd Thornback.

Maid Marrion or Maid Morion, a Boy dreſs'd up in Girl's Cloaths, to dance the Moriſco, or Morris-dance.

Maiden-hair and Maiden-lips, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Maiden-rents, a Noble, or 6*s.* 8*d.* paid by every Tenant in the Manour of Builth in Radnor-ſhire, upon the Marriage of a Daughter.

Majeſtical or Majeſtick, (Lat.) full of Majeſty, noble, ſtately ; high, lofty.

Majeſty, an Air or Mein that is Venerable and full of Authority ; Statelineſs, Greatneſs, Nobleneſs, Loftineſs : Alſo a Title of Honour uſually given to Soveraign Princes.

Maihem or Mahim, (Fr.) Maim, Wound, Hurt. In Common Law, it is defined to be a Hurt receiv'd in a Man's Body, by which he loſes the uſe of any Member, that is or might be a Defence to him in Battel.

Mail, a little Iron-ring for Armour : Alſo a kind of Port-mantle, Sack, or Trunk to travel with, or the Poſt that carries a Packet of Letters ; as Three Mails from Holland are wanting : Alſo a Speck on the Feathers of Birds.

Coat of Mail, a ſort of defenſive Armour for the Body, wrought in Mails or Rings, as it were link'd together, and made Piſtol-proof at leaſt.

Maile, an ancient baſe Coin of France, worth half a Denier : Alſo an Engliſh Silver Half-penny in the time of King Henry V. The Word taken in a larger Senſe, did not only ſignify Money, but alſo a Proportion of Grain, &c. paid as a Rent or Fine. See Black-maile.

Mailed, full of Specks, or ſpeckled, as the Feathers of Hawks, Partridges, &c. or as the Furrs of ſome wild Beaſts are.

To Maim, to cut off any Member, to hurt or wound. See Maihem.

Main, principal, chief : The Main, the middle of the Sea or Land : Main is alſo the long Hair hanging down on a Horſe's Neck.

Main-Amber, a Stone near Penſans in Cornwall, of a prodigious bigneſs, yet ſo plac'd, that one might move it with a Finger ; but it was thrown down in the time of the Civil Wars.

Main Battel, See Battel.

Main Capſtan, See Capſtan.

Main Guard. See Guard.

Main-comb an Inſtrument to dreſs a Horſe's Main.

Main-Hamper, a kind of Basket that ſerves for carrying Grapes to the Preſs.

Main-Maſt, (of a Ship) that Maſt, or large round piece of Timber, which is raiſed up, and ſtands upright in the Waſte, or midſt of the Ship ; its length being uſually $2\frac{1}{2}$ of the length of the Mid-ſhip Beam.

Main-Sail or Main-Courſe, the Sail belonging to the Main-maſt.

Main-Top-maſt, a Maſt that is one half of the length of the Main-maſt ; and the Main Top-gallant-maſt is half the length of the Main Top-maſt.

Main-Yard, the Yard that belongs to the Main-maſt ; which is uſually $\frac{5}{6}$ of the length of the Ship's Keel.

Maineport, a ſmall Duty paid in ſome Places by the Pariſhioners, to their Parſon, in recompence of certain Tithes.

Mainour or Meinour, a Law-Word to expreſs the Thing that a Thief takes away, or ſteals ; as To be taken with the Mainour, i. e. to be taken with the Thing ſtolen about him.

Mainpernable, that may be ſet at Liberty upon Bail ; bailable.

Mainpernors, are thoſe to whom a Perſon is deliver'd out of Cuſtody or Priſon, and they become Sureties for him, either for Appearance or Satisfaction.

Mainpriſe, (from the French Words Main, i. e. a Hand, and pris, taken) ſignifies in Common Law, the receiving a Man into Friendly Cuſtody, that otherwiſe is or might be committed to Priſon, upon Security given for his Forth-coming, at a Day appointed.

Mainſworn, (North-Country Word) Foreſworn, or Perjured.

Maint, (Sax.) mingled ; alſo an old Word for many, ſeveral.

To Maintain, (Fr.) to uphold or bear up, to defend or preſerve, to give a Livelihood to ; to keep in Repair, or in good Condition ; to affirm, or hold.

Maintainable, that may be maintained.

Maintainer, Defender, Upholder, Preſerver : In Common Law, Maintainer is one that ſupports, or ſeconds a Cauſe depending in Suit between others, either by laying out Money, or making Friends for either Party.

Maintenance, Defence, Protection, Support ; alſo Food, Living, Things neceſſary for Life : In a Law-ſenſe, an unjuſt or wrongful upholding of a Cauſe or Perſon ; alſo the Name of the Writ that lyes againſt a Man for that Offence.

Major, (Lat.) greater, bigger ; as The Major Part. In Logick, the firſt Part of a Syllogiſm is call'd the Major, or the Propoſition, and the ſecond the Minor, or the Aſſumption.

In an Army, there are ſeveral ſorts of Majors, all conſiderable Officers, viz.

Major General, an Officer who is the next chief Commander to the General and Lieutenant General ; ſo that after having receiv'd Orders from the former, he delivers them out to the Majors of Brigades, with whom he reſolves, what Troops are to mount the Guards, to go out upon Parties, to make Detachments, to be ſent on Convoys, &c.

Major of a Brigade, an Officer, either of Horſe or Foot, who receiving Orders, and the Word from the Major General, gives them to the Major of each Regiment.

Major of a Regiment, (of Horſe, Dragoons, or Foot) an Officer whoſe Buſineſs is to convey all Orders to the Regiment, to draw up, and exerciſe it, to look to its Quarters, &c. He is the only Officer among the Foot, that is mounted on Horſe-back in Time of Service, to ride up and down every where with ſpeed, as occaſion requires.

Town-Major, the third Officer in a Garriſon, and next to the Deputy-Governour : He ought to be well skill'd in Fortification, and to take particular Care of the Guards, Rounds, Patrolls, and Sentinels.

Major-domo. See Maggiordomo.

Majorana, (Lat.) the Herb Marjoram, good in cold Diſeaſes of the Head, and to make Sneezing-powder.

Majority, a Perſon's being of Age: Alſo the greater Part or Number; as The Majority of Votes.

Majus Jus, a Writ of Proceeding in ſome Cuſtomary Manours, in order to a Tryal of Right to Land, &c.

Maiſon-Dieu, (i.e. Houſe of God) a French Word for an Hoſpital, or Alms-houſe.

Maitre, (Fr.) Maſter, Teacher, Commander: Alſo a Trooper.

Maiz, a ſort of Indian Wheat, bearing an Ear 15 or 18 Inches long, upon a Stalk 7 or 8 Foot high: An excellent Sea-food, and moſt proper for long Voyages, in regard it will keep extraordinarily, and is very Nouriſhing: They that eat it are never troubled with Stoppages; it preſerves the Complexion, and a Decoction of it may be us'd in all manner of Acute Diſeaſes.

To Make, (in Common Law) ſignifies to execute or perform; as To make his Law, is to perform that Law which he has formerly bound himſelf to, i. e. to clear himſelf of an Action brought againſt him, by his Oath, and the Oaths of his Neighbours: To make Cuſtoms or Services, is nothing elſe but to perform them.

To Make one's Beard, an old Phraſe for to deceive, or beguile.

To Make faſt, (in Sea-Language) to bind or tie; as Make faſt the Robbins, i. e. tie thoſe Ropes to the Yards. See Robbins.

Make-bate, one that cauſes and promotes Quarrels: Alſo the Name of an Herb.

Make-Hawk, (in Falconry) an old ſtanch Hawk, which being us'd to fly, will eaſily inſtruct a young One.

Mala, (Lat.) the Ball of the Cheek, the Cheek itſelf, the Cheek-bone: In old Records, a Mail, or Port-mail; a Bag to carry Letters, Writings, &c.

Malæ Os. See Zygoma.

Malache, (Gr.) a ſort of Mallows; an Herb.

Malachi, (Heb. my Meſſenger) one of the leſſer Prophets, whoſe Writings conclude the Volume of the Old Teſtament.

Malachia, (Gr.) a Tree in Bactria of the bigneſs of an Olive-tree, that yields the Gum call'd Bdellium.

Malachites or Molochites, a kind of precious Stone half tranſparent, of a dark green Colour, like the Herb Mallows.

Malacia, a Calm, when the Sea is quiet and ſtill, without the leaſt Breath of Wind: Alſo a queaſineſs, or ſqueamiſhneſs of Stomach; the Longing of Women with Child; the Green-ſickneſs, when young Women covet to eat Chalk, Charcoal, Oatmeal, and the like Traſh: Alſo a tenderneſs of Body.

Malactica, Medicines that ſoften the Parts of the Body, with a moderate Heat and Moiſture, by diſſolving ſome Swellings, and diſperſing others.

Mal-Adminiſtration, (Lat.) Miſdeameanour in a Publick Employment.

Malady, (Fr.) a Diſeaſe, Sickneſs, or Indiſpoſition.

Malaga or Malago-ſack, a ſort of Wine brought from Malaga, a Sea-port of Andaluſia in Spain.

Malagma, (Gr.) a Fomentation or Pulteſs, with which Impoſtumes are ſoften'd and ripen'd: Alſo the ſame as Malactica; which See.

Malanders, a Diſeaſe in the Fore-Legs of an Horſe; from the Italian Word Malandare, i. e. To go ill.

Malapert, impudent, ſaucy.

Malaxation, (Gr. among Apothecaries) the working of Pills, and eſpecially Plaiſters, with other things, with the Hand; a Peſtle, or other Inſtrument.

Male-content, (Lat.) diſcontented, diſſatisfied, ill-ſatisfied.

Male-contents, diſcontented People; eſpecially, ſuch as are diſſatisfied with their Soveraign Prince, and endeavour a Change of Government.

Malediction, Imprecation, or Curſe: In ancient Deeds, a Curſe which was uſually annex'd to Grants of Land made to Churches, and Religious Houſes, to deter thoſe that ſhould go about to alienate, or apply them to other Uſes.

Malefactor, an Evil-doer, an Offender.

† Malefice, an evil Deed, Diſpleaſure, or ſhrewd Turn.

Maleficence, Miſchievouſneſs.

Malefick, that cauſes Evil or Miſchief; miſchievous; a Term generally apply'd by Aſtrologers to the Planets Saturn and Mars, upon account of the ill Effects attributed to them.

Maletent or Maltolte, a Toll of Forty Shillings, formerly paid for every Sack of Wooll; from the French Word Maltote, a Tax, Impoſt, or Exaction upon the People.

Malevolence, (Lat.) Ill-will, Hatred, Spight.

Malevolent, that bears Ill-will, or Spight, ill-natured; that has an ill Aſpect or Influence: Thus Saturn and Mars are ſaid to be malevolent Planets.

Mal-feaſance, (Fr. Law-Term) a doing of Evil.

Malice, an Inclination to do Miſchief or Hurt to others; Ill-will, Grudge, or Spite.

Malicious, full of Malice, delighting in Miſchief; ſpiteful.

Malign, bent to Miſchief, miſchievous; as A malign Influence.

To Malign, to envy; as To malign one's Happineſs.

Malignancy, malignant Nature or Quality; as The Malignancy of a Feaver.

Malignant, hurtful, miſchievous, bad.

Malignant Diſeaſe, is that which rages more vehemently, and continues longer than its Nature ſeems to incline; as A peſtilential Feaver, &c.

Malignant Tumours. See Tumours.

A Malignant, an ill-affected Perſon.

Malignity, Miſchievouſneſs, Ill-will, Grudge; as He had a great Malignity in his Breaſt.

Malkin. See Maulkin.

Mall or Pall-mall, a certain Play with a wooden Ball, in a kind of Alley made ſmooth, and boarded on each ſide, where the Ball is to be ſtruck with great Force and Skill, ſo as to run thro' an Iron Arch at each end call'd The Paſs. The Inſtrument with which the Ball is ſtruck is alſo termed a Mall, and the Place where the Gameſters play.

Mall-ſtick. See Moſtick.

To Mall. See To Maul.

Mallard, a wild Drake, or Male Duck.

Malleable, that may be hammer'd out, and ſpreads being beaten, without breaking or cracking; a Quality which belongs to Gold in the higheſt Degree.

Malleoli, (Lat. among the Romans) were certain Devices made of combuſtible Matter; which being clos'd at the end, were ſhot out of a Bow, to ſet Fire on any warlike Engines or Ships on which they lighted; they were otherwiſe call'd Pyroboli.

Malleolus, a little Hammer: Among Herbaliſts, a Sprout growing out of a Branch, which grew out it ſelf but the Year before.

Malleolus or Malleus Pedis, a Bone of the Foot, which is two-fold, viz. External and Internal; ſo that they both ſerve to make up the Ankle.

Mallet, a kind of wooden Hammer us'd by Carpenters, Joyners, &c.

Malleus, a Mallet, a Hammer: In Anatomy, one of the four ſmall Bones of the Ear.

Mallows, an Herb of a ſoftening or looſening Quality.

Malmſey, a ſort of luſcious Wine, brought from Arviſium, a Promontory of the Iſland of Chio, now call'd Malvaſia.

Malobathrum, an Indian Leaf that ſwims on the Top of Pools, and of which a ſweet Ointment is made; alſo the Ointment it ſelf.

Malocotoon or Melicotony, a kind of Peach.

Malogranatum or Granatum, (Lat.) the Pomegranate Fruit: In Anatomy, the Cartilage or Griſtle, otherwiſe call'd Xiphoides, or Sword-like.

Malope, (Gr.) the larger ſort of Mallows.

Malt, Barley ground and ſoak'd, in order to make Drink.

Mault-mulna, (in old Records) a Quern, or Malt-mill.

Malt-ſhot, a certain Duty anciently paid for making Malt.

Maltha, (Gr.) Pitch and Wax melted; alſo a kind of Terrace made of quick Lime and Hog's-greaſe.

Malthacode, a Medicine ſoften'd with Wax.

Maltſter, one that ſells or deals in Malt.

Malva, (Lat.) common Mallows, an Herb that mollifies, eaſes Pain, looſens the Belly, and allays Sharpneſs of Urine.

Malvady, a Spaniſh Coin, of which about 13 make one Farthing Engliſh Money, and 372 one Ryal or 6 d. ½.

Malvaviſcum, (Lat.) the Herb Marſh-mallows.

Malveilles, (Fr. in old Records) Miſdemeanours, or malicious Practices.

Malveis Procurers, (old Law-Term) ſuch as uſe to pack Juries.

Malveiſin, (i. e. ill Neighbour) the Name of an ancient warlike Engine, to caſt Stones, &c. for battering of Walls.

Malverſation, Prevarication or Miſdemeanour in any Employment, Office or Commiſſion; as Breach of Truſt, Extortion, &c.

Malum, (Lat.) an Apple, a well known Fruit; alſo Evil, Calamity, Miſchief, Diſeaſe.

Malum Mortuum, the dead Diſeaſe, a ſort of Scab, ſo call'd, becauſe it makes the Body appear Black and Mortify'd: It chiefly annoys the Hips and Legs, and riſes up in cruſty Pimples, but does not ſend out Matter, nor put the Patient to Pain.

Malum Terræ, the Herb Birth-wort, ſo call'd becauſe its Fruit is like an Apple.

Malus, the Apple-tree.

Malus Armeniaca, the Apricock-tree. The Oil of Apricock-kernels is good for Inflammations and Swellings of the Piles, &c.

Malus Perſica, the Peach-tree; the Fruit of which has a ſweet and pleaſant Smell, and refreſhes the Spirits.

Mamalukes, a certain Order of Soldiers, who fought lightly armed on Horſe-back, and were the chief military Support of the laſt Empire of the Saracens in Egypt.

Mamin-tree, a Tree that grows in the Woods of Jamaica, which affords a pleaſant Liquor, often drunk by the Inhabitants: It is otherwiſe call'd The Planter's Toddy-tree.

Mamma, (Lat.) a Breaſt, Pap, or Teat, the Dugs of Cattel: The inner Parts are call'd Ubera, by Grammarians, and the outward Bunchy Parts Mammæ.

Mammary Veſſels, (in Anat.) the Arteries and Veins that paſs thro' the Muſcles and Glands, or Kernels of the Breaſts.

Mammiformes Proceſſus, two Proceſſes, or Knobs of the Bone of the back Part of the Scull.

Mammilla, a little Breaſt, Tet, or Dug.

Mammillaris Arteria or Mammaria, an Artery, which ſupplies the Breaſts, and iſſues out of the Subclavian Branch of the aſcending Trunk of the Aorta, or great Artery.

Mammillares Proceſſus, certain Bones in the Temples, whoſe Shape reſembles the Teats in a Cow's Udder.

Mammock, a Fragment, Piece, or Scrap, from the Britiſh Word Man, i. e. little.

Mammon, the God of Wealth: The Name in the Syriack Tongue ſignifies Riches or Gain, and is deriv'd from the Hebrew Word Hamon, i. e. Plenty; having (M) Hemantick added at the Beginning.

Mammoniſt, one that is altogether bent upon gaining Worldly Pelf; a covetous Worldling.

Mammooda, a kind of Eaſt-Indian Coin, worth about one Shilling Engliſh Money.

Man, a Creature endu'd with Reaſon, as oppos'd to brute Beaſts, or diſtinguiſh'd from a Woman.

Man of War, a Ship of War.

To Man a Hawk, (in Falconry) to make he tame, gentle, and tractable.

To Man a Ship, Garriſon, or Town, is t ſupply them with a competent Number of Men.

Man the Capſtan, an Expreſſion us'd by Sailers, when they would have Men to heave at the Capſtan Man well the Top, the Terms of Command, whe Men are order'd to go up into the Top of a Ship, o Boat. Man the Ship-ſide, and Man the Ladder, whe any Perſon of Note is at the Ship's Side, ready t come aboard, or to be help'd in.

Man-ſlayer, he that kills a Man; a Murderer.

Man-ſlaughter, (in Common Law) is the un lawful killing of a Man, upon ſome ſudden Rencoun ter or Quarrel, without foregoing Malice; in whic reſpect it differs from Murder, and from Chance Medley, becauſe it imports a preſent Intent to kil This Offence is Felony, but admitted to the Benefi of the Clergy for the firſt Time.

Man-theof. See Mannus.

To Manacle a Malefactor, to bind him wit Manacles, or Hand-fetters.

Manage, (Fr.) a Riding-Academy, or Riding House, a Place for riding the great Horſe; alſo th managing of a Family, or of a Concern.

To Manage, to order or handle, to govern o rule, to huſband; to mind, or take ſpecial Care o

Management, managing, or ordering, Conduc or Diſcretion in Orders, &c.

Managery, the ſame as Management; as Th Managery of Trade.

Managium, (in old Latin Records) a Manſion houſe, or Dwelling-Place.

Manaſſeh, (Heb. not forgotten) the elder Son o Joſeph; alſo the Son of Hezekiah, and a King o Judah. See Ephraim.

Manati, a Fiſh of the Whale-kind that breeds a bout the Iſland of Hiſpaniola, and of ſo large a Size that it can ſcarce be drawn by a Yoke of Oxen.

Manbote, (Sax.) a Compenſation or Recompenc made in Money, for the killing of a Man. See Mag bote.

Manca, a ſquare Piece of Gold, anciently value at Thirty Pence.

Manceps, a Farmer of the Publick Revenues, a Undertaker of any Publick Work, that gives Secu rity for its Performance. In the Roman Law, a Pro prietor, or Owner, who ſells an Eſtate, with a Pro miſe of keeping the Party harmleſs; alſo one tha buys an Eſtate by Out-cry.

Manch of Silver, is 60 Shekels, or Seven Pound Ten Shillings: Of Gold, 100 Shekels, or Seventy five Pounds Sterling.

Manche, (Fr.) a Sleeve: In Heraldry, the F gure of an ancient Sleeve of a Coat; born in man Gentlemens Eſcutcheons, as in that of the Earl o Huntingdon: in thoſe of the Coniers, &c.

Manche-preſent, (old Word) a Bride.

Manchet or Manchet-Bread, the fineſt an ſmalleſt ſort of Wheaten Bread.

Manchinello-Tree, a Tree that grows wild in the Woods of Jamaica, the Fruit of which is as round as a Ball.

Mancipare, (Lat. in the Roman Law) to divest one's ſelf of any Poſſeſſion, and to inveſt another with it; to ſell, make over, or give up his Right and Title in a Thing to another.

Mancipatio, a parting with a thing, and giving it up to another; an ancient manner of ſelling before Witneſſes, in which divers Formalities were us'd for Aſſurance of the Bargain and Sale.

Mancipium or Mancupium, a peculiar Right of Propriety or perpetual Poſſeſſion, with reſpect to certain Lands ſituate in Italy, which took place only among ſuch as were Privileged to be Roman Citizens.

Manciple, a Caterer, or one that buys the Common Proviſions in a College at the Univerſities, or in an Hoſpital: The Steward of the Temple was alſo anciently call'd by that Name.

Mancuſa, a kind of Coin valu'd at about Thirty of the ancient Pence, each of which contain'd Three Pence of our Money: Others ſay a Mancuſa of Gold was equal to a Mark of Silver, i. e. Thirteen Shillings and Four Pence: It was ſo call'd q. d. Manu cuſa, i. e. Stampt, or coin'd with the Hand.

Mandamus, (Lat. i. e. we command, or charge) the Name of a Writ directed to the Eſcheator, for the finding of an Office after the Death of one that was the King's Tenant: There is alſo another Mandamus granted upon a Motion out of the Queen's Bench; another to the Biſhop, for admitting an Executor to prove a Will, or grant an Adminiſtration; and another to command Corporations to reſtore Aldermen and others to Office, out of which they are unjuſtly put.

Mandamus, was alſo a Charge to the Sheriff to take into the King's Hands all the Lands and Tenements of the King's Widow, that againſt her Oath formerly given, marry'd without his Majeſty's Conſent. There is alſo another Mandamus, ſent by the King or Queen to the Heads of a College, or to the Maſter and Wardens of a Company, for the Admittance of a Fellow or Member into their Society.

Mandatary, one to whom a Commandment or Charge is given; alſo one that comes into a Benefice by Mandamus.

Mandate, a Command, Charge, or Order. In a Law-Senſe, a Judicial Command of the Queen, or her Juſtices, to have any thing done for the Diſpatch of Juſtice.

Mandati Dies. See Mandy Thurſday.

De Mandato Panes, (in old Latin Records) Loaves or Bread given to the Poor on Mandy-Thurſday.

Mandibula, (in Anat.) the Mandible or Jaw, either Upper or Lower: The Upper conſiſts of Twelve Bones, on each Side ſix; but the Lower at riper Years grows into one continued Bone, extremely hard and thick.

Mandibular Muſcles, the Muſcles that belong to the Lower Jaw.

Mandilion, (Fr.) a kind of Soldiers-Garment, a looſe Caſſock, a great Coat.

Mandorin, the Title of a great Lord or Governour among the Chineſe Tartars.

Mandrake, a kind of Plant ſo call'd from the Greek Word Mandra, i. e. a Cave; becauſe it grows near Dens, and in ſhady Places: It bears a Yellow Fruit, call'd Mandrake-Apples; It is alſo call'd Anthropomorphos, becauſe its divided Root ſomewhat reſembles the Thighs and Legs of a Man.

Manducation, a chewing, or eating.

Mandy-Thurſday, the Thurſday next before Eaſter, ſo call'd as it were Dies Mandati, i. e. the Day of the Mandate or Command, upon Account of the Charge which our Bleſſed Lord and Saviour gave his Diſciples, concerning the Obſervation of his Supper. On this Day the Kings and Queens of England have long practis'd the Cuſtom of waſhing the Feet of poor Men, in Number equal to the Years of their Reign, and giving them a Dole of Money, Cloth, Shooes and Stockings, in Imitation of Chriſt, who the Night before he ordain'd the Bleſſed Sacrament, waſh'd his Diſciples Feet, telling them they muſt do the like one to another.

Maneleta, a kind of Weed growing amidſt Corn, call'd Guld: Whence the Law of Maneleta ordain'd by Kenneth King of Scots, which was, That if any Man ſuffer'd his Land to be over-run with Weeds, he ſhould forfeit an Ox.

Manentes, an old Latin Law-Word for Tenentes, or Tenants.

Manes, the Spirits, or Ghoſts, or Souls of the Dead.

Maneh, a Summ of Money among the ancient Jews, containing in Gold 100 Shekels, or 75 Pounds: In Silver, 60 Shekels, or 7 Pounds and 10 Shillings.

Manganeſe, a kind of Stone, like the Magnet or Load-ſtone, us'd in making Glaſs.

Mangcorn, Mancorn, or Mungcorn, (in old Records) mixt Corn, Maſlin.

Mange, a kind of Scab on Dogs, Cats, &c.

Manger, a ſort of Trough for Horſes and other Cattel to feed in. In a Ship, a Place made with Planks upon the Deck, about one Foot and a half in Height, to catch and receive the Sea-water that bears in at the Holes call'd Hawſes, in a Streſs of Weather.

To Mangle, to cut, rend, or tear in Pieces; to maim or wound.

Mango, an Eaſt-India Fruit, of the Bigneſs of an Apple; which being pickled is eat as a Sallet, eſpecially with roaſt Mutton, and creates an Appetite.

Mangon or Mangonel, (in Chaucer, and other ancient Writers) a Warlike Engine for the caſting of Stones.

Mania, (Gr.) a ſort of Madneſs, by which the Faculties of Imagination and Judgment are impaired, with great Rage and Anger, but without a Feaver.

Maniack, belonging to, or troubled with that Diſtemper.

Manica Hippocratis. See Hippocrates's Sleeve.

Manichees, a Sect of Hereticks, who held, There was a fatal Neceſſity of Sin; which Tenet was firſt broach'd by one Manes a Perſian.

Manifeſt, (Lat.) apparent, evident, clear, plain.

A Manifeſt, (in Traffick) a Draught of a Maſter of a Ship's Cargo, ſhewing what is due to him for Fraight from every Perſon, to whom the Goods in his Ship belong.

To Manifeſt, to make manifeſt, to reveal; to declare or publiſh.

Manifeſtation, a manifeſting, making manifeſt, &c.

Manifeſto, a Declaration of ſome Prince, or State about Publick Affairs, printed and publiſhed, to ſhew the Reaſons upon which they ground their Claims, Pretenſions, &c.

Maniglions or Dolphins, (in Gunnery) two Handles on the Back of the Piece, after the German Way of caſting; which are plac'd near the Trunnions, to mount and diſmount it with greater Eaſe.

Maniple, a Fannel, or kind of Ornament like a Scarf, which Roman Maſs-Prieſts wear about their left Wriſt.

Manipulares, the Soldiers of a Roman Maniple or Band.

Manipulus or Maniple, (among the Romans) a Troop or Company of Soldiers: The ſmall Maniple was a Band or File of Ten Soldiers; and the great Maniple conſiſted of 100 Men, or as ſome ſay, of 256. The Word properly ſignifies an Handful of Herbs or Hay, which they ty'd to the end of a Pole for a Cognizance or Flag, before they took the Eagles for their Enſigns.

Among Phyſicians, in their Preſcriptions, Manipulus is taken for a kind of Meaſure, viz. as much as may be held in one's Hand; meant for the moſt part of Herbs, Roots, Flowers, &c.

Manna, a certain delicious Food which GOD caus'd to fall from Heaven, to ſupport the Iſraelites in their Journey to the Land of Canaan: It is deriv'd from the Hebrew Word Manah, i. e. to diſtribute.

There is alſo a kind of ſweet white Liquor that drops of it ſelf, or is let out by cutting from the Branches and Leaves of Aſh-trees in Calabria, a Province of Italy, and about the Town of Brianſon in France, during the Dog-days, and a little before; and this Juice being afterwards thicken'd, and dry'd in the Sun, is call'd Manna; which is much us'd for a gentle Purge, &c.

Chymical Manna, a Subſtance diſtill'd from Precipitate, whiter than Snow.

Mannaſy or Mannati, a ſtrange Fiſh about Jamaica in the Weſt-Indies, reſembling a Cow; for ſhe brings forth her young Ones alive, and nouriſhes them with Milk from her Teats, feeding upon Graſs in the Fields; but living for the moſt part in the Water.

Manner, Faſhion, Way, Sort, Kind, Condition, Cuſtom. In Painting and Carving, it is taken for the peculiar Habit, Mode, or Way, that the Artiſt has gain'd, either in the Management of his Hand or Pencil, or in the due Obſervance of the Rules of Art. Alſo when we would expreſs our Approbation of any one's particular Way of Singing, or Playing on a Muſical Inſtrument; we ſay, He has a very good Manner.

Manners, good or bad Conditions, Rules for Converſation, Behaviour, &c.

Manning, a Day's Work of a Man; in ſome ancient Deeds there is a reſerve of ſo much Rent, and ſo many Mannings.

Manning of the Ship, (in Sea-Language) is when a Ship is to ſhew abroad all her Men.

Mannopera, (old Latin Law-Word) ſtollen Goods taken in the Hand of a Thief apprehended in the Fact.

Mannus, a Nag, or ambling Nag, a Gennet; in ſome old Records, a Pad, or Saddle-horſe. In King Alfred's Laws, we find Man-theof for an Horſe-ſtealer.

Manour, (in Common Law) was a noble ſort of Fee, granted partly to Tenants for certain Services, and partly reſerv'd for the uſe of the Lord's Family, with Juriſdiction over his Tenants for their Farms: The whole Fee was termed a Lordſhip, and of old a Barony: But the Word Manour is now taken for the Rule and Government which a Man has, over thoſe that hold within his Fee, rather than the Land or Soil.

Manour in Groſs, the Right and Intereſt of a Court-Baron, with the Perquiſites belonging thereto; which may be veſted in one Perſon, whilſt another, or others, have every Foot of the Land.

Manqueller, (old Word) a Man-ſlayer, or Murderer.

Manſio, (Lat. among the Romans) was a Place appointed for the Lodging of the Prince, or Soldiers, in their Journey.

Manſion, an Abiding or Dwelling-place: Alſo a Manour-houſe, or the Lord's chief Dwelling-Houſe within his Fee, otherwiſe call'd The Capital Meſſuage. Alſo the Seat of the Bleſſed in Heaven.

Manſlaughter. See Manſlaughter.

Manſorii Muſculi, (in Anat.) the Muſcles of the Jaw.

† Manſuetude, Tractableneſs, Gentleneſs, Meekneſs, Tenderneſs of Nature.

Manſum Capitale, (in old Records) the chief Manſion, Manour-houſe, or Court of the Lord.

Manſura or Manſuræ, (in Doomſday-Book) the Manſions, Habitations, or Dwelling-places of the Country-People.

Manſus, anciently ſignify'd a Farm: Manſus or Manſum is alſo ſometimes confounded with Meſſuagium, a Meſſuage, or Dwelling-Houſe.

Manſus Presbyteri, the Manſion, or Place of Reſidence for the Pariſh-Prieſt, the Parſonage, or Vicarage-Houſe.

Mantea or Mantile, a Mantle, Cloak, or long Robe.

Mantelet, (Fr.) a ſhort Purple Mantle, which the Biſhops of France wear over their Rochet upon ſome Occaſions.

In Fortification, Mantelet is a kind of moveable Pent-houſe, made of ſeveral thick Planks join'd together, cas'd with Tin, and fix'd upon little Wheels; ſo that the Pioneers in a Siege, may roll it before them, to ſhelter themſelves from the Enemies ſmall Shot: There are alſo other ſorts of Mantelets board'd on the top, which the Miners make uſe of to approach the Walls of a Town or Caſtle.

Manticora, (Gr.) an Indian Beaſt, that has the Face of a Man, and the Body of a Lion; it alſo has three Rows of ſharp Teeth, and preys much upon Man's Fleſh.

Mantis, a Prophet, a Diviner of Things to come: Alſo an Inſect call'd The praying Locuſt.

Mantle, a kind of Cloak, or long Robe. The Royal Mantle is a rich Robe of State, embroider'd and lin'd with Ermins, faſten'd upon the Right Shoulder, and hanging back upon the Left: It trails upon the Ground behind and before, and is worn by the King or Queen upon ſolemn Occaſions.

Mantle or Mantile, (in Heraldry) that Repreſentation of the Foldings of Cloth, Flouriſhing, or Drapery, which is drawn about a Coat of Arms, proceeding from the Wreath and Helm, and deſcending on each ſide of the Eſcutcheon.

To Mantle, to flower or ſmile, as freſh Drink does: Alſo a Term in Falconry; as The Hawk mantles, i. e. ſpreads her Wings after her Legs.

Mantle-tree, a piece of Timber laid a-croſs the Head of a Chimney.

Mantlet. See Mantelet.

Mantoe or Mantua-Gown, (Fr.) a looſe upper Garment, now generally worn by Women, inſtead of a ſtraight-body'd Gown.

Manual, (Lat.) belonging to, or performed by the Hand; as A manual Operation; a Sign manual, i. e. the Signing of a Deed, or Writing, under Hand and Seal. See Manuel.

A Manual or Manuel, a ſmall Book that may be eaſily carry'd in one's Hand; a Pocket-book.

Manualia Beneficia, (in old Latin Records) the daily Diſtributions or Portions of Meat and Drink, allotted to the Canons, and other Members of Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, for their preſent Subſiſtence.

Manualis Obedientia, Sworn Obedience, or Subjection upon Oath.

Manualiſt, a Handicrafts-man, or Artificer.

Manubiæ, (Lat. among the Romans) were the Spoils of War, or the Money made of the Booty taken by the Enemy.

Manucaptio, (Lat.) a taking by the Hand: In a Law-ſenſe, a Writ that lies for a Man, who being taken upon Suſpicion of Felony, and offering Bail for his Appearance, cannot be admitted thereto by the Sheriff, or other Perſon, having Power to Let to Mainprize.

Manucaptors, they that ſtand as Surety, or Bail for others.

Manucodiata, the Bird of Paradiſe.

Manuduction, a guiding, or leading by the Hand.

Manuel, (in Common Law) that is employed, or uſ'd by the Hand, that affords preſent Profit; as A Thing in the manuel Occupation of one, i. e. actually made uſe of by him.

Manufacture, (i. e. Handy-work) any ſort of Commodity made by the Work of the Hands, of Things that are naturally produc'd; as Woollen or Linnen-Cloth, Bayz, Serge, Hats, &c. Alſo a Work-houſe, or Place where ſuch Works are carry'd on.

Manufactured, worked, or made after ſuch a manner.

Manufacturer, one that has undertaken a Manufacture.

Manumiſſion, an infranchiſing, a making free a Slave or Bond-man, which in former Time was perform'd with divers Ceremonies before a Magiſtrate; ſome were alſo manumitted by Charter.

Manumiſſion Expreſſed, is when the Lord makes a Deed to his Villain, to franchiſe him by the Word Manumittere: Upon ſuch an Occaſion in old Time, the Lord in the preſence of other Perſons, took the Bond-man by the Head, ſaying, I will that this Man be free; and then ſhov'd him forward out of his Hands.

Manumiſſion imply'd, is when the Lord makes an Obligation for Payment of Money to his Bond-man, at a certain Day; or ſues him when he might enter without Suit, or grants him an Annuity, or Lets Land to him by Leaſe, &c.

To Manumit, to make free a Bond-man, to give him his Liberty, or admit him to Freedom.

Manupaſtus, (a Latin Law-Term) a Domeſtick, or Houſhold-Servant.

Manupes, a Foot of full and lawful Meaſure.

Manure, Dung, Marl, &c. uſ'd for fattening the Soil.

To Manure, to fatten, or to Till the Ground, to work, and labour the Earth with the Hand.

Manus, (Lat.) a Hand. In a Law-ſenſe, the Word was anciently uſ'd for an Oath, and for the Perſon that took it; a Compurgator: Thus in old Records we often find this Phraſe, Tertia quarta aut decima Manu jurare, i. e. the Party was to bring ſo many to ſwear with him, That they believ'd what he vouch'd to be true; if he ſwore alone, 'twas ſaid to be propria Manu.

Manus Chriſti, (i. e. Chriſt's Hand) refined Sugar boil'd with Roſe-water, or that of Violets, or Cinamon; a ſort of Cordial for very weak Perſons.

Manus mediæ & infimæ Homines, (an Expreſſion in ancient Deeds) Men of a mean Condition, of the loweſt Rank or Degree.

Manuſcript, a Book or Copy written with the Hand, as oppos'd to a Printed Copy.

Manutenentia, a Writ uſ'd in the Caſe of Maintenance. See Maintenance.

Manworth, the Price or Value of a Man's Life, or Head; every Man of old being rated at a certain Price, according to his Quality; which Price was paid to the Lord, in Satisfaction for killing him.

Many-feet, a Fiſh, otherwiſe call'd Pourcontrel.

Map, (in Geogr.) a Repreſentation of the Globe of the Earth, or of ſome of its Parts, upon a Plan or plain Superficies: and it is either General or Particular.

A General Map, is that of the whole Earth, deſcribing the ſeveral Countries, Iſlands, Seas, Rivers, with the Situation of Cities, Hills, Woods, &c. therein contain'd, and the Circles of the Globe.

Particular Maps, are either greater or leſſer; the former being thoſe of the four Parts of the World, viz. Europe, Aſia, Africa, and America: The other are thoſe of particular Kingdoms and Countries; as England, France, Spain, &c. and upon theſe are mark'd not only particular Places, but alſo certain Circles, and a Scale of Miles.

Mapach, the American Fox; the ſame as Raccoon, which See.

Maple, a ſort of Tree, the Wood of which is much uſ'd by Turners.

Maquey or Maguey, an admirable Tree in New Spain, in the Weſt-Indies; which yields Wine, Vinegar, Honey, Thread, Needles, Stuff, and Timber, for Buildings.

Mara, (in old Latin Records) a Meer, or Lake; a Pool, or Pond; a Marſh, or Bog.

Maraſmodes, (Gr.) a Fever, which at laſt ends in a Conſumption.

Maraſmus, a conſuming Fever, in which the Body waſtes away by Degrees.

Marathrites, Wine wherein Fennel has been infus'd.

Marathrum, Garden-Fennel; an Herb.

Maravedis, a kind of Spaniſh Coin, of very ſmall Value; Thirty-four of them amounting but to a Ryal, which is about Six-pence of our Money.

Marble, a ſort of Stone, beautiful when poliſh'd, but hard to cut; much uſ'd in the adorning of Palaces, and great Houſes.

To Marble, to paint or ſtain Marble-like; as To marble Paper.

Marcaſite, a kind of Mineral Stone hard and brittle, partaking of the Nature and Colour of the Metal it is mixed with; ſome call it a Fire-ſtone.

Maregrave, a Count, or Earl of the Marches, i. e. Frontiers of a Country; whence the Titles of Marqueſs, and Lords Marchers, among us, ſeems to be deriv'd.

March, the third Month in the Year, ſo call'd from its being Dedicated to the God Mars: It was heretofore the firſt Month among the Romans, and is ſtill ſo in ſome Eccleſiaſtical Computations; the Date of the Year of our Lord beginning on the 25th Day of it.

Marchant. See Merchant.

Marches, the Limits or Bounds between England and Wales, or Scotland; ſo termed either from the German Word March, which ſignifies a Frontier or Border; or elſe from the French Word Marque, i. e. a Sign, or Mark of Diſtinction.

Marchers or Lords Marchers, Noble-men, who in Times paſt, inhabited and ſecur'd the Marches of Wales and Scotland, ruling as if they were petty Kings, with their private Laws, which were aboliſh'd by Stat. 27. H. 8.

Marchet, a certain Law made by Eugenius, King of Scotland; which was, That the Lord of the Manour ſhould have the firſt Night's Lodging with every married Woman within his Juriſdiction: But this Law was repeal'd by Malcolm III. and has been ſince chang'd into a Fine; which ſtill continues in Scotland, in ſeveral Parts of England, and in the Iſle of Guernſey.

Alſo in the County of Caermarthen, and Manour of Denever, it is the Cuſtom, That every Tenant, at the Marriage of his Daughter, pays Ten Shillings to the Lord; which in the Britiſh Language is call'd Gwor-Merched.

Marchiare, (in old Latin Records) to adjoyn, or border upon.

Marchioneſs, a Marqueſs's Lady.

Marchpane, a delicious Paſte made of Piſtacho-Nuts, Almonds, Whites of Eggs, Sugar, &c.

Marcioniſts, a ſort of ancient Hereticks, ſo call'd from their Ring-leader Marcion, a Stoick, who deny'd Chriſt to be the Son of God.

Marcor, (Lat.) Rottenneſs, Drouſineſs: Alſo a Diſeaſe, the ſame as Maraſmus.

Marcus, the Prænomen, or firſt proper Name of many eminent Romans, as well Generals and great Captains, as Authors and Learned Men.

Mareſchal de Bataille, (Fr.) a military Officer in France, that once had a diſtinct Command; but his Duty being only part of the Major General's, is now perform'd by him.

Mareſchal de Camp, the ſame with our Major General, an Officer next in Poſt to the Lieutenant-General.

Marettum, (old Latin Law-word) Marſh-Ground, over-flow'd by the Sea, or great Rivers.

Marforio, one of the famous Statues in Rome, ſet up oppoſite to that of Paſquin, on which generally are fix'd the Anſwers to the Satyrical Queſtions faſten'd upon the Latter. See Paſquin.

Marga, (Lat.) a kind of Earth call'd Marl, chalky, fat Clay, good to dung the Ground.

Margaret, (Gr. i. e. Pearl) a proper Name of Women.

Margaris, a ſort of Dates reſembling Pearls.

Margarita, Pearl, a Gem that grows in a Shell-fiſh; eſpecially in the Perſian Gulph, and other Eaſtern Seas.

Margarites, a ſort of Herb.

Margaritifera Cochlea or Mater Perlarum, the Pearl-oiſter, or Mother of Pearl.

Margery, a Chriſtian Name of Women: Some take it to be the ſame with Margaret; and others derive it from Marjoram, a kind of ſweet Herb.

Margin or Margent, (Lat.) properly the brink or bank of any Water; it is now taken for the blank ſpace about the edges of a Page, in a written or printed Book.

Marginal, belonging to, or ſet in the Margin.

Mariets, a ſort of Violets, call'd alſo Marian Violets, as ſome ſay from Maria, the Name of a Woman who firſt diſcover'd them.

Marigold, a Flower of a Golden or Yellow Colour.

Marinade, (Fr. in Cookery) pickled Meat, either of Fleſh or Fiſh.

Marinarius, (in old Latin Records) a Mariner or Sea-man. Marinariorum Capitaneus, was the Admiral or Warden of the Ports; the Word Admiral not coming into Uſe, till the latter-end of K. Edward I's Reign.

To Marinate Fiſh, (in Cookery) to fry them in Sallet-oil, and then put them in Pickle; the Term is taken from their being ſo fitted for a Sea-Voyage.

Marine, belonging to, or ſerving at Sea; as The marine Regiments.

Marine Charts. See Charts Hydrographick.

The Marine, the whole Body of a Navy or Fleet; as The Officers of the Marine.

Marine Barometer. See Barometer.

Mario, (Lat.) a long Fiſh in the River Danube, like a Sea-hog, but bigger.

Mariola, (in ancient Writers) a Shrine, or Image of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary.

Marjoram or Sweet Marjoram, an Herb good to comfort the Brain and Nerves.

Mariputium, (Lat.) a Creature in Japan, of the bigneſs of a Dog, with ſhort Legs, which is very good Food: 'Tis ſo call'd, as they ſay, becauſe when grown old, it goes into the Sea of its own accord, and is there chang'd into a Fiſh.

Mariſca, a great unſavoury Fig; a Fig which opens ſo, that the Seeds may be ſeen: Alſo the Hemorrhoids or Piles; a Swelling, or Bliſter in the Fundament.

Mariſcum or Mariſcus, a kind of Bulruſh of which Mats and Fiſhing-nets were anciently made: In Doomſday-book, it is often taken for a marſhy, or fenny Ground.

Maritagio amiſſo per Defaltam, a Writ for the Tenant in Frank-marriage, to recover Lands, &c. out of which he is kept by another.

Maritagio Foriſfacto. See Forfeiture of Marriage.

Maritagium, an old Latin Law-Term, which not only ſignify'd the lawful joyning together of Man and Wife, but alſo the Intereſt or Right of beſtowing a Ward, or a Widow in Marriage: Alſo Lands given in Marriage; alſo the Dower or Marriage-Portion which the Huſband receives with his Wife.

Maritagium habere, to have the free diſpoſal of an Heireſs in Marriage; a Favour granted by the Kings of England, whilſt they had the keeping of all Wards under Age.

Marital, belonging to an Huſband.

Maritim, belonging to the Sea; alſo bordering on the Sea, or ſituated on the Sea-coaſts.

Maritima Angliæ (old Law-Term) the Profits ariſing to the King from the Sea; which were anciently collected by Sheriffs, but afterwards granted to the Admiral.

Mark, Sign or Token, Proof, Print: Alſo a White, or Aim to ſhoot at.

Mark, a Silver-coin, anciently valu'd at Thirty Pence, and now taken for the Summ of Thirteen Shillings and Four-pence. A Mark of Gold, in old Time, was the quantity of Eight Ounces, and was equal to Sixteen Pounds Thirteen Shillings and Four-pence of our preſent Money: Mark is alſo a Scotch Coin, worth 13⅓ d. Engliſh.

Mark of Goods, a diſtinguiſhing Mark, whereby every Merchant or Trader knows his own Goods; which is expreſs'd either by Letters of the Alphabet, or Numbers, and ſometimes by other particular Characters.

To Mark, to ſet a Mark on a thing, in order to know it again; to take notice, to mind.

Mark-Penny, a Penny formerly paid by every Inhabitant, at Maldon in Eſſex, who had Pipes or Gutters laid out of their Houſes, into the Street.

Mark-weight, a foreign Weight commonly of 8 Ounces; and Mark-Pound is two ſuch Marks, or 16 Ounces.

Market, the Place where Goods, and all Proviſions are ſet to Sale: Alſo the Liberty or Privilege, whereby a Town is enabled to keep a Market.

Clerk of the Market, an Officer in every County, whoſe Buſineſs is, to keep a Standard of all Weights and Meaſures, according to the King's Standard in the Exchequer, and to ſee that all Meaſures in every Place be anſwerable to them.

Market-zeld or Market-geld, Toll of the Market.

Marketable, fit to be utter'd, or ſold in the Market.

Marl, a kind of fat Earth, which is caſt upon Land, to make it more fruitful.

Marlerium or Marletum, (in old Records) a Marl-pit.

Marline, (a Sea-Term) a ſmall Line made of untwiſted Hemp, and well tarred, to keep the ends of Ropes from farcing or ravelling, or any Tackle, as Pendants, Garnet, &c.

Marline-Spike, a ſmall piece of Iron to faſten Ropes together, or to open the Bolt-rope, when the Sail is ſew'd in it; being only a kind of ſmall Fidel; which See.

To Marling a Sail, is to make a Sail faſt with Marline put thro' the Eye-let Holes, when it is rip'd out of the Bolt-rope, and cannot be ſow'd in again.

Marmaduke, (Germ. a mighty Duke or Captain) a proper Name of Men.

Marmalet or Marmelade, a kind of Confection made of Quinces, or other Fruit; from the Portugueſe Word Marmelo, i. e. a Quince.

Marmaritis or Marmoraria, (Lat.) the Herb Brank-urſin, or Bears-breech.

Marmor, the Marble-ſtone.

Marmorata Aurium, Ear-wax.

Marmoſet, a ſort of black Monkey, having a ſhaggy Neck: Alſo an odd kind of Groteſk-figure in a Building.

Marmotto, a Mountain-Rat.

Maronean Wine, a kind of extraordinary ſtrong Wine.

Maronites, a ſort of Chriſtians living on Mount Libanus, that receiv'd the Roman Catholick Religion from Pope Clement VIII. They were a Branch of the Jacobites, and had a Patriarch of their own, who was always nam'd Peter.

Marque, in ancient Statute, ſignifies Repriſal. See Letters of Mart and Marque.

Marqueſs or Marquis, a Nobleman, next in Dignity after a Duke and before an Earl; from the German Word March, i. e. a Boundary, becauſe originally they had the Government of Marches or Frontier Countries. A Marqueſs is created by girding on a Sword and Mantle of State, with a Cap of Honour, and a Coronet, and the Delivery of a Charter or Patent.

Marquetry, (Fr.) a kind of checker'd inlaid Work, made of Wood of divers Sorts or Colours, in the Shape of Knots, Flowers, or other Devices.

Marquiſate or Marquiſedom, the Territory or Juriſdiction of a Marqueſs.

To Marr, to ſpoil, to corrupt.

Marriage, a Civil Contract, by which a Man and a Woman are joyn'd together, for mutual Society and Help, the lawful begetting of Children, &c.

Marriageable, that is of Age, fit to marry.

Marrow, a ſoft fat Subſtance cover'd with a Membrane or thin Skin, and contain'd in the hollow of the Bones. See Medulla.

Marrubium, (Lat.) the Herb Hore-hound: The Juice of white Hore-hound mixt with Honey is good for a Cough and Conſumption, and the Powder of it kills Worms.

Marrubium Nigrum, ſtinking Hore-hound.

Mars, the Heathen God of War and Armies: Alſo one of the Seven Planets call'd the Leſſer Infortune by Aſtrologers, upon Account of its ſcorching and over-dying Qualities: Among Chymiſts, Mars is taken for Iron or Steel; and in Heraldry, it ſignifies the Red Colour in the Coat-Armour of Soveraign Princes.

Marſh, a Fen, or boggy Ground.

Marſh-Mallows, a ſort of Herb.

Marſhal, was anciently no other than a Maſter of Horſe, from the German Words Mar, i. e. a Horſe, and Scalch, a Ruler; but amongſt us, there are ſeveral conſiderable Officers of that Name; as The Marſhals belonging to the Courts at Law, Marſhals of the Juſtices in Eyre, &c.

The Lord or Earl Marſhal of England, a great Officer of the Crown, who takes Cognizance of all Matters of War and Arms; as alſo of Contracts relating to Deeds of Arms, &c. which cannot be determin'd by Common Law: He may alſo ſit in Judgment in the Marſhalſea-Court againſt Malefactours offending within the Verge of the Queen's Court.

Marſhal of the Ceremonies, an Officer whoſe Buſineſs is in all things, to receive Commands from the Maſter of the Ceremonies, or his Aſſiſtants, for the Queen's Service; and to act or do nothing whatever without the Maſter's Order.

Marſhal of the Exchequer, to whom the Court commits the Cuſtody of the Queen's Debtors, during the Term-time: He alſo aſſigns Sheriffs, Eſcheators, and Collectors their Auditors, before whom they are to account.

Marſhal of the Queen's Bench, the Keeper of the Priſon of the Queen's Bench in Southwark, who has the Cuſtody of all Priſoners that are committed thither.

Marſhal of the Queen's Hall, an Officer whoſe Imployment, is when the Tables are prepar'd; to call out thoſe of the Houſehold, and Strangers according to their Quality, to place them after a decent manner, &c.

Marſhal of the Queen's Houſe, whoſe Office is to hear and determine Pleas of the Crown within the Queen's Palace; as alſo Suits between thoſe of the Houſehold; to puniſh Offenders within the Verge of the Court, &c.

Clerk Marſhal of the Queen's Houſe, an Officer that attends the Marſhal in his Court, and records all his Proceedings.

Knight Marſhal, another Officer of the Queen's Houſe. See Knight.

Marſhals, are alſo Military Officers; as The Camp-Marſhal or Major General, who is next to the Lieutenant General: He takes Care of incamping the Army, and rides before to view the Ground, where they are to lodge.

There are alſo Marſhals in every Regiment and Company, whoſe Office is to look to Priſoners of War, and to execute all Sentences or Orders of the Council of War upon Offenders, &c. And Marſhals at Sea, who puniſh Offences committed there, and ſee Juſtice executed; as Ducking at the Yard-arms, Haling under the Keel, ſetting in the Bilboes, &c.

Marſhals at Arms. See Purſevants.

Marſhal of France, an Officer of great Honour and Power in that Kingdom, created by the Delivery of a Battoon, mark'd with Flower-de-luces. Theſe Marſhals command the King's Armies above all Perſons that are not Princes of the Bloud, and are alſo the Judges of Points of Honour between Gentlemen.

To Marſhal, to put in due Order or Rank, to draw up according to the Rules of the Art of War.

Marſhalling, (in Heraldry) is the proper joyning of ſeveral Coats of Arms in one and the ſame Eſcutcheon, with their reſpective Ornaments and Appurtenances.

Marſhals Court. See Court of Chivalry.

Marſhalſea or Marſhalſey, the Seat or Court of the Marſhal, for the Priſon in Southwark; perhaps ſo call'd, becauſe the Marſhal of the King's or Queen's Houſe us'd to ſit there in Judgment, or keep his Priſon.

Marſupialis or Burſalis, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Thigh, ſo nam'd from the doubling of its Tendons, which reſembles a Purſe: It ariſes from the Os Ilium, Iſchium and Pubis, and is inſerted to the upper Part of the great Trochanter: This Muſcle is otherwiſe call'd Obturator Internus, and when it acts, the Thigh-bone is thereby turn'd outwards.

Mart, a great Fair.

Mart-Town, a large Town eminent for ſome great Fair, to which People of ſeveral Nations reſort, upon Account of Commerce and Trade; as that of Frankfurt upon the River Main in Germany.

Martagon, a ſort of Lilly.

Marten or Martern, a little Creature like a Ferret, that yields a rich Furr, and whoſe Dung ſmells like Muſk.

Martern-cub, a Martern of the firſt Year.

Martial, (from Mars the God of War) warlike, valiant; alſo belonging to War: In Aſtrology, born under the Planet Mars. In Chymiſtry and Natural Philoſophy, Particles are ſaid To be Martial, when they partake of the Nature of Iron or Steel.

Martial Law, that Law which depends upon the Queen's Will and Pleaſure, or Her Lieutenant's, in time of actual War; extending only to Soldiers and Mariners, where the Queen's Army is on Foot; and being alſo under particular Reſtrictions.

Martialiſt, a Warriour, a Man at Arms.

Martin, a proper Name of Men, from the Latin, Martius, i. e. Warlike.

Martin or Martinet, a kind of Swallow; a Bird whoſe Legs are ſo ſhort, that it cannot raiſe it ſelf from the Ground.

Martingale, a thong of Leather faſten'd at one end to the Girts under the Belly of a Horſe, and at the other end to the Muſs-roll, to hinder him from rearing.

Martlemas or Martinmaſs, the Feſtival of St. Martin, kept on the 11th Day of November.

Martlemaſs Beef, Beef ſalted and ſmoak'd at that Seaſon.

Martlet, a ſwift little Martin, a Bird: In Heraldry, a Pidgeon, with its Feet raſed or torn off; it is alſo the Mark of Diſtinction in an Eſcutcheon, for the fourth Brother, or Family.

Martnets, (Sea-Term) ſmall Lines, which being faſten'd to the Leetch of a Sail, come down by the Maſt to the Deck: Their Uſe is to bring that part of the Leetch which is next the Yard-arm, cloſe up to the Yard, when the Sail is to be furled.

To Top the Martnets, is to hale them up.

Legs of the Martnets, are ſmall Ropes put thro' the Bolt-ropes in the Leetch of the Sail, having a ſmall Eye into which the Martnets are made faſt with two Hitches, and the end let into the ſtanding part of the Martnets.

Martyr, (Gr. i.e. a Witneſs) one that ſuffers Pains, Torments, and Death it ſelf, in defence of the Chriſtian Religion, and in Teſtimony of the Truth of the Goſpel.

Martyria, (i. e. Teſtimony) a Rhetorical Figure, wherein the Speaker confirms ſomething by his own Experience.

Martyrology, a Diſcourſe, or Book treating of the Lives and Sufferings of Martyrs: Alſo a Regiſter formerly kept in Religious Houſes, in which were ſet down the Donations of Benefactors, and the Days of their Death, &c.

Marvel of Peru, a kind of Night-ſhade brought out of America, with Flowers of ſuch Variety, that it is alſo call'd The World's Wonder.

Mary, (Heb. bitter, or very ſad) a Chriſtian Name of Women. See Miriam.

Maſcarade or Maſquerade, a Company of Perſons, having Masks or Vizards on, and dancing to divert themſelves; eſpecially on ſome Feſtival: Whence one that is fantaſtically dreſs'd, as if he intended to diſguiſe himſelf, is ſaid To walk in Maſquerade.

Maſcle, (Fr. in Heraldry) a kind of ſhort Lozenge that is Voided, or has a Hole in the middle, repreſenting the Maſh of a Net; as He bears Gules a Shevron Ermin, between three Maſcles Argent.

Maſculine, (Lat.) that is of the Male-kind, belonging to the Male; as The Maſculine Gender, a Term in Grammar: Alſo manly, courageous, lofty.

Maſculine Planets or Signs, (in Aſtrol.) are thoſe which excel in Active Qualities, i. e. Heat and Coldneſs; as thoſe that ſurpaſs in Paſſive Qualites, i. e. Moiſture and Drineſs, are Feminine: Thus Venus, and the Moon, are counted Feminine, and the reſt Maſculine, except Mercury, who is a kind of Hermaphrodite. Of Signs, Aries, Gemini, Libra, Sagittarius, and Aquarius, are Maſculine, and the other Six Feminine.

Maſh, mixture or mingling; among Farriers, a Drench for a Horſe: Alſo ground Corn, boil'd in Water for Cattel to eat.

Mask, a Device made of black Velvet, which Women clap before their Faces when they would not be known; figuratively a Pretence or Cloak, as Hypocrites hide their wicked Intentions, under the Mask of Devotion.

Maſlin. See Meſlin.

Maſon, (Fr.) a Work-man that builds with Stone.

Maſonry, Maſons-work, Stone-work.

Maſora or Maſſora, the Criticiſms of Jewiſh Doctors, on the Hebrew Text of the Bible, taking notice of the various Readings; ſhewing how often, and in what form every Word is met with throughout the Scripture, and even counting all the Verſes, Words, and Letters of it.

Maſs, a huge heap, or pile of any thing; a Lump. All the Blood in a Humane Body is commonly call'd, The Maſs of Blood, and every Phyſical Compoſition of Powders, or other Ingredients, wrought into one Subſtance with Liquor; as Pills, &c. is likewiſe termed a Maſs. In Natural Philoſophy, it is taken to expreſs the quantity of Matter in any Body.

The Popiſh Maſs, Part of the Liturgy or Church-Service, among Roman Catholicks.

Maſs-Offerings. See Oblations.

Maſs-Prieſt, every Secular Prieſt, as diſtinguiſh'd from the Regulars, was anciently call'd a Maſs-Prieſt, who was to officiate in the Maſs, or ordinary Service of the Church: Afterwards, the Word came to be reſtrain'd to thoſe mercenary Creatures, who were kept in Chantries, or at particular Altars, to ſay ſo many Maſſes for the Souls of the Deceaſed.

Maſſacre, a cruel Butchery and Slaughter, made on People that are not in a condition to defend themſelves.

To Maſſacre, to murder, or butcher after a barbarous manner; properly to kill with a Mace, or Club.

Maſſeteres, (Gr. in Anat.) ſhort, thick, and tendinous Muſcles of the Lower Jaw, which with the help of the Temporal Muſcles, they move to the right Side, left Side, and forward.

Maſſive or Maſſy, ſolid, weighty.

Maſſorets, a ſort of Jews, who made it their Buſineſs to correct falſe-written Words of the Holy Scriptures, noting them with this Character o; (for they made a Scruple to blot them out) and ſetting down their Corrections in the Margin.

Maſt of Amber, the quantity of Two Pounds and a half Weight.

Maſt of a Foreſt, the Fruit of wild Trees, call'd Glandiferous or Maſt-bearing; as Oak, Cheſnut, Beech, &c.

Maſt of a Ship, one of thoſe round pieces of Timber that are ſet upright on the Deck, to which the Yards, Sails, Tackle, &c. are made faſt; being chiefly four in Number, viz. the Fore-maſt, Main-maſt, Miſſen-maſt, with their Top-maſts and Top-gallant Maſts, and the Bolt-ſprit, whereto the Bona-venture-Miſſen is added in ſome great Ships; all which See in their proper Places.

To Spend a Maſt, a Sea-Phraſe us'd when the Maſt is broke by foul Weather.

To Spring a Maſt, is when it is crack'd in any Par

Maſter, Governour, Head, Teacher; one skill'd in any Art or Myſtery: Alſo a Title belonging to ſome Places; as Maſter of the Jewel-Houſe, Maſter of the Wardrobe, Maſter of the Ordinance, &c. All great Officers that have the chief Care and Overſight of the King's or Queen's Jewels, of the Wardrobe, of the Ordinance, &c.

Maſter of Aſſay, (in the Mint) an Officer whoſe Buſineſs it is to weigh the Silver, and ſee whether it be according to the Standard.

Maſter of the Armoury, one that has the Management and Overſight of the Queen's Armour, in any ſtanding Armoury, with Power of placing or diſplacing all inferiour Officers belonging to it.

Maſter of Arts, the Second Degree taken by Students at the Univerſities.

Maſter de Camp, a Colonel of Horſe, ſo call'd in France and Spain, where the Title of Colonel is only given to thoſe that Command Regiments of Foot and Dragoons.

Maſter de Camp General, a Military Officer in France, who is the Second General Officer over all the Regiments of Light-Horſe, and next to the Colonel General.

Maſter of the Ceremonies, an Officer at Court whoſe Buſineſs is to introduce all Ambaſſadours, E voys, Reſidents, Agents, Deputies, or other Perſo commiſſioned from Foreign Princes, or States; as al to attend all Foreign Princes and Strangers of Qua ty without Character, during their Abode in th Kingdom.

Maſte

Maſters of the Chancery, are Aſſiſtants to the Lord Chancellour, or Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, in Matters of Judgment: Of theſe there are ſome Ordinary, and others Extraordinary; the former are Twelve in Number, the chief of them being the Maſter of the Rolls; and the latter are appointed to act in all the Country, Ten Miles from London, taking Affidavits, Recognizances, Acknowledgments of Deeds, &c.

Maſter of the Faculties, an Officer under the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury, who grants Licences and Diſpenſations. See Faculty.

Maſter Gunner of England, one who is to teach and inſtruct, all that deſire to learn the Art of Gunnery; and to adminiſter to every Scholar an Oath, which binds him not to ſerve any Prince or State without Leave; nor to teach the Art to any, but ſuch as have taken the ſaid Oath.

Maſter of the Horſe, he that has the Rule and Charge of the Queen's Stable; an Office of high Eſteem, always beſtow'd upon ſome Perſon of Honour, and great Merit: There is alſo a Maſter of the Horſe in a Noble-man's Family.

Maſter of the Queen's Houſhold, an Officer of great Antiquity and Authority, under the Lord Steward of the Queen's Houſehold, who was anciently call'd Grand Maſter of the Houſehold.

Maſter of the Jewel-Houſe, an Officer in the Queen's Houſehold, who is allow'd Bonge of Court, i. e. Diet for himſelf, and other Inferiour Officers, call'd Clerks of the Jewel-Houſe, and a particular Lodging in Court: He has Charge of all Plate us'd for the King or Queen's Table, or by any great Officer attending the Court; as alſo of all Plate in the Tower of London, of Chains, looſe Jewels, &c.

Maſter of the Mint, an Officer now call'd The Warden of the Mint, whoſe Buſineſs is to receive in, and take care of the Gold, Silver, and Bullion, to be Coined; and to over-ſee all the other Officers.

Maſter-Worker of the Mint, he that receives the Bullion from the Warden, cauſes it to be melted, delivers it to the Moneyers, and takes it from them again when it is made.

Maſter of the Queen's Muſters or Muſter-Maſter General, an Officer in Royal Armies, for maintaining the Forces compleat, well Armed, and Trained; as alſo for Prevention of Frauds, that may waſte the Queen's Treaſure, having the Over-ſight of all the Captains, and their reſpective Companies.

Maſter of the Ordinance, a great Officer, to whoſe Care all the Queen's Ordinance and Artillery is committed.

Maſter of the Poſts, was an Officer of the King's Court, who had the appointing of all ſuch throughout England; as provided Poſt-horſes, for the ſpeedy paſſing of the King's Meſſages, &c. and took care to pay them their Wages: But now by Stat. 12. Car. 2. one general Letter-Office, or Poſt-Office, is ſettled at London; and the Maſter of it eſtabliſh'd by the Queen's Letters Patent.

Maſter of the Revels. See Revels.

Maſter of the Requeſts, the chief Judge of the Court of Requeſts; which is now quite taken away. See Court of Requeſts.

Maſter of the Rolls, formerly call'd Clerk of the Rolls, is an Aſſiſtant to the Lord Chancellour, or Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, in the High Court of Chancery; ſo that he hears Cauſes there, and gives Orders in his Abſence: He has alſo at his Diſpoſal, the Offices of the Six Clerks, Clerks of the petty Bag, Examiners of the Court, and Clerks of the Chappel. This Office ſeems to take Name from the ſafe keeping of the Rolls of all Patents and Grants that paſs the Great Seal, and of all Records of the Court of Chancery.

Maſter of a Ship, a chief Officer, whoſe Place and Duty is, to take the general Management of the Ship's Way at Sea, into his Charge or Care, to frame all ſuch Courſes, as may ſafeſt and ſooneſt bring her to her deſigned Harbours, or Places of Rendezvous; and to give the neceſſary Orders to the Sea-men, for ſteering, trimming, ſailing, watching, &c.

Maſter of the Temple. See Templars.

Maſter of the Court of Wards and Liveries, formerly the principal Officer and Judge of that Court, appointed by the King, to whoſe Cuſtody the Seal of the Court was committed.

Maſter of the Wardrobe, a great Officer at Court, who has the Cuſtody and Charge of all the former Kings and Queens ancient Robes, kept in the Tower of London, and of all the Royal Hangings, Bedding, &c. He has alſo the Charge, and delivering out of all Velvet and Scarlet Liveries, to any of the Queen's Servants. This Officer formerly had his Dwelling-Houſe, call'd The Wardrobe, near Puddle-Wharf, in London.

To Maſter, to make one's ſelf Maſter of, to get the better of, to keep under.

Maſter-Note, in Muſick. See Meaſure-Note.

Maſter-piece, a moſt exact piece of Workmanſhip in any Art, or Faculty.

Maſter-wort, an Herb with Leaves ſomewhat like Angelica, but that they grow lower, and on leſſer Stalks: The Root of it is good againſt cold Diſeaſes of the Stomach, provokes Sweat; and being held between the Teeth, it draws Rheum exceedingly.

Maſterleſs, that has no Maſter; head-ſtrong, ſtubborn.

Maſterly, Maſter-like; as To ſing maſterly.

Maſterſhip, the Quality and Dignity of a Maſter.

Maſtery, Power, Authority, Command.

Maſtication, (Lat.) the Act of chewing, by which the Meat being broken into ſmall pieces with the Teeth, and mix'd with the Spittle, is prepar'd to be more eaſily ſwallow'd and digeſted in the Stomach.

Maſticatory, a Medicine to be chewed, or to provoke Spitting.

Maſtiche, (Gr.) Maſtick, a clear and ſweet Gum, iſſuing out of the Maſtick or Lentisk-Tree. It is temperate in Heat, and of a dry and binding Quality; ſo that it ſtrengthens the Stomach, ſtays Vomiting, ſtops Iſſues of Bloud, &c.

Maſticot or Maſſicot, (Ital.) a kind of a Yellow Colour us'd in Painting.

Maſtinus, (in old Latin Records) a Maſtiff, a great Dog, or Cur.

Maſtoidei, (Gr. in Anat.) the ſame with Mammillares; ſuch Proceſſes any where as are ſhap'd like the Teats of a Cow's Udder: Alſo certain Muſcles that bend the Head, proceeding from the Neck-bone and the Breaſt-bone, and ending in the Mammiform, or Dug-like Proceſſes.

Maſtos, a Breaſt, Pap, or Dug: Alſo an Herb good for Diſtempers of the Breaſt.

Maſtruca, a kind of Winter-garment, or Furrcoat, made of Wolves or Deer-skin, worn by the Scythians, and other Northern People.

Maſura, (in Doomſday-Book) an old decayed Houſe, or Wall; the Ruins of a Building.

Maſura Terræ, a quantity of Ground, containing about four Oxgangs; which See.

Mat. See Mats.

Matachin or Mataſſin, a kind of antick French Dance.

Match, an Agreement for ſeveral Perſons to meet; a Party to be marry'd; an Equal: Among Hunters, a Wolf at Rutting-time is ſaid To go to Match, or to Mate.

In Military Affairs, Match is a ſort of Rope made on purpoſe, which being once lighted at the end, burns on by Degrees and regularly, without ever going out, as long as any of it is left. It is us'd for the firing of Match-lock Muskets, and all ſorts of great Guns; for ſetting Fire to the Trains of Mines, &c.

To Match, to be like, to pair, or couple; to marry.

Matchable, that may be matched, or equalized.

Matchleſs, that has not his Match; incomparable, excellent.

Mate, a Companion or Aſſiſtant; a Word much in Uſe among Sea-men; as The Maſter's Mate, the Surgeon's Mate, &c.

Mate or Check-mate, (at Cheſs-play) is when the Game is brought to that paſs, that there is no way left for the King to eſcape.

To Mate, (Sax.) to amaze or aſtoniſh, to daunt, daſh, or put out of Countenance; to match, or equal.

Mater, (Lat.) a Mother, a Woman that has brought forth a Child: Alſo the ſame as Matrix, the Mother or Womb.

Mater Dura or Meninx Craſſa, (in Anat.) a Membrane or Skin, that ſticks cloſe to the Scull on the in-ſide, in ſome Places, and mediately covers the Brain, and the Cerebellum, or leſſer Brain; having four Cavities, or hollow Parts, which ſupply the place of Veins.

Mater Perlarum, Mother of Pearl. See Margaritiferæ Concha.

Mater Pia or Meninx Tenuis, a Skin which immediately clothes the Brain and Cerebellum. It is extremely full of Bloud-Veſſels; and deſign'd, as ſome think, to keep in the Spirits there bred, and to prevent their flying away. Theſe Skins are call'd Matres, i. e. Mothers, by the Arabians, as if all the other Membranes of the Body took their riſe from, or were propagated by them.

Mater Metallorum, (i. e. the Mother of Metals) a Term us'd by Chymiſts for Quick-ſilver.

Materia Medica, whatever is us'd in the Art of Phyſick, for the preventing or curing of Diſeaſes; whether prepar'd from Plants, Living-creatures, Minerals, &c. according to the Galenical or Chymical Method.

Material, conſiſting of Matter or Subſtance; alſo being of ſome Weight or Concern; principal, main.

Materials, Tools, or Stuff proper for Workmanſhip.

Materiality, a being material, the Subſiſtence of Matter.

Maternal, belonging to a Mother, motherly; as Maternal Tenderneſs, maternal Care, &c.

Maternity, Motherhood, the Quality of a Mother.

Math. See After-math.

Mathematical, (Gr.) belonging to the Mathematicks.

Mathematical Compoſition. See Compoſition Mathematical.

Mathematical Horizon, the ſame with the True Horizon. See Horizon.

Mathematician, one that is skill'd in the Mathematical Arts.

Mathematicks, originally ſignifies any kind of Diſcipline or Learning; but the Word is now generally taken for certain noble Sciences, taught by true Demonſtration, and exercis'd about Quantity, i. e. whatever is capable of being number'd or meaſur'd, which is compris'd under Numbers, Lines, Superficies, and Solids: Theſe Sciences are diſtinguiſh'd into Pure and Mixt, Speculative and Practical.

Pure or Simple Mathematicks, are Arithmetick and Geometry; which only treat of Number and Magnitude, conſider'd abſtractedly from all kind of Matter; to theſe alſo may be referr'd Mechanical Motion, likewiſe conſider'd ſeparately, and as capable of different Degrees of Swiftneſs.

Mixt Mathematicks, are thoſe Arts and Sciences which treat of the Properties of Quantity, apply'd to material Beings, or ſenſible Objects; as Aſtronomy, Geography, Navigation, Dialling, Surveying, Gauging, &c.

Speculative Mathematicks, only imply the ſimple Idea or Knowledge of the Matters propoſed, with the bare Contemplation of Truth or Falſhood, with reſpect to them.

Practical Mathematicks, ſhew how to demonſtrate ſomething uſeful, or to perform ſomewhat propoſed that may tend to the Benefit and Advantage of Mankind.

Mathildis. See Maud.

Mathurins, a Religious Order founded by Pope Innocent III. for the Redemption of Chriſtian Captives out of Turkiſh Slavery.

Matracium, (Lat. in Chymiſtry) a little Bag, in which is put calcined Tartar, and the like, having Holes prick'd in it here and there, to let out the Liquor.

Matrals or Bolt-head, a long ſtraight-necked Glaſs-veſſel, often us'd by Chymiſts in Diſtillations; which when fitted to the Noſe of an Alembeck, or Still, is call'd a Receiver; and when one of theſe is by its Neck well luted, or joyn'd to the Neck of another, they term it a Double Veſſel.

Matricalia, (Lat.) Medicines proper for Diſeaſes of the Matrix, or Womb.

Matricaria, Mother-wort, White-wort, or Feverfew; an Herb much us'd in thoſe Diſeaſes; a Decoction of it drives out the After-Birth, cures Mother-fits, Feavers, &c.

Matrice or Matrix, the Mother, or Womb.

Matrices, certain Moulds or Forms, in which Printing-Letters, or Characters, are Caſt by the Letter-founder.

Matricide, the Murderer of his Mother; or the Act of him that kills his Mother.

Matricula, (Lat.) a Regiſter, Roll, or Liſt, in which the Names of Perſons are enter'd: In the ancient Church, there was Matricula Clericorum, i. e. a Liſt, or Catalogue of the Officiating Clergy; and Matricula Pauperum, which was an Account of the Poor to be relieved.

Matricular, belonging to ſuch a Regiſter; as A matricular Book, i. e. a Book, in which the Names of young Scholars newly admitted into the Univerſity, are uſually enter'd.

To Matriculate, to ſet down in the Matricular Book.

Matriculation, the Act of Matriculating, or Regiſt'ring the Names of Students in a College.

Matrimonial, belonging to Matrimony; as Matrimonial Articles, The matrimonial Vow, &c.

Matrimony, Wedlock, Marriage.

Matrix, the Matrice or Mother; that part of the Womb where the Child is Conceiv'd: Alſo the Pith in Trees or Herbs; the ſame that Herbaliſts otherwiſe call Cor; which See.

Matrix Eccleſia, the Mother-Church, either a Cathedral, with reſpect to the Parochial Churches within the ſame Dioceſs; or a Pariſh-Church, with reference to the Chappels depending on it.

Matron, a prudent and vertuous motherly Woman, that keeps her Family under good Diſcipline and Government, to whoſe Care young Virgins may be ſafely committed: Alſo one of the grave Women that have the Over-ſight of Children in an Hoſpital. Among the Romans, the Word was alſo taken for a Lady, or Woman of Quality.

Matronalia, the Matrons Feaſts, appointed by Romulus, and celebrated by the Roman Ladies; during which the Men ſent Preſents to the Women, as they did again to the Men, at the Saturnalia.

Mats, (in Sea-Affairs) broad thick Clouts of Sinnet, or Rope-yarns and Thrums, beat flat, and weaved together, to ſave the Yards from galling againſt the Maſts; as alſo to keep the Clews of the Sails from galling.

Mat-weed, an Herb, ſo call'd from the frequent Uſe of it in making Mats and Frails, but otherwiſe call'd Feather-graſs and Spaniſh Ruſh.

Matta, a certain Idol, viſited every Year by many Thouſands of Indians, who out of a ſuperſtitious Devotion cut off part of their Tongues, which they offer in Sacrifice to it.

Mattathias. See Matthias.

Matted, covered with Mats: the Hair is ſaid To be matted, when intangled or clung together for want of combing: Alſo a Term apply'd to Herbs, when they grow as if they were plaited together; as Matted Pinks, &c.

Matter, the Stuff any thing is made or conſiſts of; Cauſe or Occaſion, Thing or Buſineſs; alſo that which runs out of a Sore.

In Natural Philoſophy, Matter or Body is a diviſible and paſſive Subſtance, extending into Length, Breadth, and Thickneſs; being capable of putting on all manner of Forms, as alſo of moving according to all manner of Directions, and Degrees of Swiftneſs.

Matter in Deed, (a Law-Phraſe) is nothing elſe but a Truth that may be prov'd, tho' not by Record; and Matter of Record, is that which is prov'd by ſome Record.

Nude Matter, is a naked Allegation of a thing done, to be prov'd only by Witneſſes, and not by a Record, or other Specialty in Writing under Seal.

Matthew, (Heb. Reward) the Name of one of the Apoſtles and Evangeliſts, who was otherwiſe call'd Levi, now a common Chriſtian Name of Men.

Matthias, (i. e. the Gift of the Lord) the Name of an Apoſtle, who was choſen to ſupply the Place of Judas Iſcariot.

Mattins, (Lat.) Morning-Prayer, in the Publick Service of the Church of England; alſo one of the Canonical Hours of Prayer in the Roman Church.

Mattock, a Tool with which Huſband-men grub up Roots of Trees, Weeds, &c. by ſome call'd a Grub-ax, or Rooting-ax.

Mattreſs, (Fr.) a kind of Quilt fill'd with Cotton, or Wooll; a Flock-bed.

Maturation, the Action of growing ripe, or the Tendency of Fruits towards Ripeneſs. In Surgery, the Ripening of Swellings, Sores, or Humours: Among Chymiſts, it is taken for Digeſtion, Circulation, &c.

Mature, ripe, perfect, that is in its Perfection; as To grow mature. It is alſo us'd in a Figurative Senſe; as Mature Deliberation, ſuch a Deſign is not mature for Execution, &c.

Maturity, Ripeneſs of Fruit, or Years; the Condition of that which is brought to full Perfection.

Matutine, belonging to the Morning. Among Aſtrologers, ſix of the Planets are ſaid To be Matutine, when they are above the Horizon at Sun-riſing, and Veſpertine, when they ſet after the Sun: The Three Upper Planets are counted ſtrongeſt when Oriental and Matutine, as the Three Lower, when Occidental and Veſpertine.

Maud or Mathildis, a Chriſtian Name of Women, from the German Words Maechi, a Maid, and Helde or Hilde, a Lady, that is to ſay, a Maid of Honour; a Princeſs.

† To Maudle, to beſot, or put out of Order, as drinking ſtrong Liquors does in a Morning.

Maudlin, maudled, half drunk, tipſy: Alſo a Contraction of Magdalen, a proper Name of Women.

Maudlin or Sweet Maudlin, an Herb ſomewhat like Tanſey in Shape; but having the ſame Vertues as Ale-coſt, or Ground-ivy.

Maugre, (Fr.) whether one will or no, or in ſpight of.

Mavis, a Singing-bird, being a kind of Thruſh or Thruſſel.

To Maul or Mall, to bang, or beat ſoundly.

Maulſtick, the Stick upon which a Painter leans his Hand, when he is at Work.

Maulkin or Maukin, a kind of Beeſom to make clean an Oven with, otherwiſe call'd a Scovel, an Oven-Mop: Alſo a Scare-crow to fright away Birds.

Maum, a ſoft brittle Stone, ſo call'd by the Inhabitants in ſome Parts of Oxford-ſhire: The Word Maum or Mawm is alſo ſtill us'd in Northumberland for ſoft and mellow.

Maunchy. See Manche.

Maund, a great Baſket, or Hamper of Books, or other Merchandize, containing eight Bales, each of a Hundred Pounds weight, or two Fats: Alſo a ſort of Hand-baſket with two Lids, to carry on one's Arm.

To Maunder, to grumble, mutter or growl.

Maundy-Thurſday. See Mandy-Thurſday.

Maurice or Morris, a proper Name of Men.

Mauſoleum, a famous Tomb that Queen Artemiſia, built for her Husband Mauſolus, King of Caria; and call'd according to his Name; which in ancient Time paſs'd for one of the Seven Wonders of the World: Whence any ſtately Monument or Sepulchre may be ſo termed.

Mauther, a Word us'd in Norfolk for a little Girl.

Mauvette, (Fr.) a kind of Mavis, or Thruſh; a Bird.

Maw-worms, certain Worms in a Horſe's Body, being of a reddiſh Colour like Earth-worms, and about the Length of one's Finger.

Mawkiſh, ſick at Stomack, ſqueamiſh.

Mawks, as A great Mawks, i. e. a dirty naſty Slut.

Maxilla Superior, (Lat. in Anat.) the Upper Cheek-bone or Jaw-bone, conſiſting of Twelve Bones, ſix on each Side; whereto ſome add a Thirteenth call'd Vomer; which See.

Maxilla Inferior, the Lower Jaw-bone, which is moveable, and wherein the Under-Teeth are ſet.

Maxillar or Maxillary, belonging to the Jaw-bone.

Maxim, (in any Art or Science) is a Propoſition or Principle generally received, grounded upon Reaſon, and not to be denyed, which is alſo call'd an Axiom: Maxims in Law, are Concluſions of Reaſon, and univerſal Propoſitions, ſo perfect and ſure, that they may not be oppoſed or diſputed.

Maximilian, the Name of two Emperours of Germany, compounded of thoſe of two famous Roman Generals, viz. Q. Fabius Maximus, and Scipio Æmilianus.

Maximis & Minimis or Methodus de Maximis & Minimis, that Method which Mathematicians make uſe of for the reſolving of a Problem, which require the greateſt or leaſt Quantity attainable in that Caſe.

May, the fifth and moſt pleaſant Month of the Year, ſo call'd by Romulus, in reſpect of his Senators and Noble-men, ſtyled Majores; as the following Month was nam'd June, in Honour of the Juniores, who ſerv'd him in the Wars: Others will have its Name deriv'd from Maia, the Mother of Mercury, to whom Sacrifices were offer'd in that Month.

May-bug, a kind of Inſect.

May-buſh, an Herb.

May-fly, an Inſect, ſo call'd becauſe it is bred in the Month of May of the Water-cricket, which creeping out of the River, turns to a Fly: It uſually lyes under Stones near the Banks, and is a good Bait for ſome ſort of Fiſh.

May-games, certain Sports on the firſt Day of May, which took riſe from a like Cuſtom among the ancient Romans, who perform'd them in Honour of Maia or Flora, the Goddeſs of Flowers.

May-lilly or Lilly-convally, a Flower. See Lilium Convallium.

Maythen, an Herb like Camomile, but of a stinking Smell, and ulcerating Quality; but that without Smell, and with a double Flower, is counted a Rarity.

Mayhem. See Maihem.

To Mail Hawks, (in Falconry) to pinnion their Wings.

Mayor, the chief Magistrate of a City, or Corporation; the same as Meyr among the ancient Britains, deriv'd from the British Word Maer, which signifies To keep and preserve, and not from the Latin Major, i. e. Greater. King Richard I. chang'd the Bailiff of London into a Mayor.

Mayoralty, the Office and Dignity of a Mayor.

Mayoress, a Mayor's Wife.

Maza, (Gr.) a Dish made of Water and Oil, or Milk mingled with Flower, which poor People anciently us'd in stead of Bread; Hasty-pudding, Flummery.

Mazarine-blew, a kind of deep blew Colour.

Mazarine, the Name of a famous Cardinal, who was Regent of France, during the Minority of the present French, King Lewis XIV.

Mazarine or a la Mazarine, (in Cookery) a particular manner of dressing several sorts of Fowl, especially Pigeons and Chickens.

Mazarines, a kind of little Dishes to be set in the middle of a larger Dish for the setting out of Ragoos, or Fricassies; also a sort of small Tarts fill'd with Sweet-meats.

Maze, Astonishment, Perplexity.

Maze, (in a Garden) a Place artificially made with many Turnings and Windings.

Mazer, a broad standing Cup, or drinking-bowl.

Mazzaroth, a Chaldee Word, signifying the Zodiack.

† Meacock, an effeminate Fellow, or one that is over-fond of his Wife.

Mead, a pleasant Drink made of Honey, and Water; also a Poetical Word for a Meadow.

Meadow or Meadow-ground, a Land that yeilds good store of Grass, for Hay or Pasture; a green Field.

Meadow-Parsnep, a sort of Plant.

Meadow-sweet or Mead-sweet, an Herb growing in Meadows, with crumpled Leaves, somewhat like those of the Elm: It stays all manner of Bleedings, Fluxes, and Vomitings, and makes the Heart light.

Meager, (Fr.) lean, poor in Flesh, thin, scraggy, meer Skin and Bone: Figuratively a Style or subject is said to be meager, i. e. barren or dry.

Meak, an Instrument to mow or hack Pease, Brake, &c.

Meal-rents, certain Rents heretofore given in Meal to make Food for the Lord's Hounds, by some Tenants in the Honour of Clun, which are still so call'd altho' now paid in Money.

Meals or Males, the Shelves or Banks of Sand on the Sea-coasts of Norfolk: Whence Ingold-meals, the Name of a Sandy Shore in Lincoln-shire.

Mealy-mouthed, that is afraid to declare his Mind; over-bashful.

Mealy-Tree or Wild-Vine, a sort of Plant.

Mean, low, poor, pitiful, indifferent.

Mean, the middle between two Extremes, either in Time or Dignity. In a Law-sense, the interim, or middle Time; as His Action was mean between the Disseisin made to him and his Recovery. There is also a Lord Mean or Mesne. See Mesne.

Mean or Mean Part, (in Musick) is the Tenor, or middle Part.

Mean Axis, a Term in Opticks. See Axis.

Mean Diameter, (in Gauging) is a Geometrical Mean between the Diameters at Head and Bung in any close Cask.

Mean and Extreme Proportion. See Extreme and Mean Proportion.

Mean Motion or Mean Longitude of the Sun, (in Astron.) according to the Ptolemaick System, is an Arch of the Ecliptick, reckon'd from the beginning of Aries to the Line of the Sun's mean Motion, which See.

Mean Proportional, (in Geom.) when in three Quantities there is the same Proportion of the First to the Second, as of that Second to a Third; the Second is call'd a Mean Proportional; as in 2, 4, 8 there is the same Proportion of 2 to 4, as of 4 to 8, and 4 is the Mean Proportional. In Arithmetick and Musick, the Second of any three Proportionals is termed the Mean.

To Mean, to intend or resolve, to design or purpose, to signify, to understand.

Means, Methods, Ways, or Devices, which one endeavours to attain an End or do a thing: Also the Wealth or Estate that any Man is possessed of.

Continual Means, (in Arithmet.) when one Root or first Number is multiply'd by it self, and the following Numbers likewise by themselves, the Numbers taken between 1 and the Number last produc'd, are call'd Continual Means. Thus 2 being given for the Root, and multiply'd by it self, has 4 for the Product, which being again multiply'd by it self produces 16, and 16 in like manner squared produces 256. In this Case, 2, 4, and 16, are Continual Means between 1 and 256.

Mear, a Balk or Furrow in a Field, to part one Man's Land from another; also a marshy Ground. See Meer, Mear-stones, Stones set up for Land-marks, or Boundaries in open Fields.

Mearl, a Black-bird.

Mease, (a Law-Term) a Messuage or Dwelling-House; in some Places corruptly call'd a Mise or Mise-place.

Mease or Mese, a Measure of Herrings, containing Five Hundred.

Measles. See Meazles.

Meason-due, (Fr. i. e. House of God) a Word us'd in several Statutes for a Monastery, Religious House, or Hospital.

Measurable, that may be measured, moderate.

Measure, that which serves to make known the Greatness, Extent and Quantity of any Thing. In Arithmetick and Geometry, it is said of a certain Number or Quantity, which being several times repeated, equals another bigger to which it has Relation; as 4 is the Measure of 20 taken five times.

In Philosophy, Time is the Measure of Motion; but in Mechanicks, Motion is the Measure of Time: In Musick, Measure is a Space of Time, set out by a constant equal Motion of the Hand or Foot, down and up successively; which is sometimes swifter, sometimes slower, according to the Nature of the Musick.

Measure-Note, Master-Note, or Time-Note, the Semebreve, a Musical Note, so call'd because it is of a certain determinate Measure, or Length of Time by it self; and all the other Notes are measur'd by, or adjusted to its Value.

Measure of Time, (in Astrol.) a Matter much to be regarded in handling Nativities, that when the Artist has a Direction he may know how long it will be before it operates; for the computing of which Space of Time there are different Methods laid down, and Tables made by several Authors, who treat of that Subject.

Measurer of Cloth. See Alnager.

Measures, Ways, Means, Purposes, or Designs; as He broke all my Measures.

Meaſuring-Money, a certain Duty formerly laid upon C[illegible]

Meath, as I gave you Meath of the buying, i. e. full Power; a Phraſe uſed in Lincolnſhire.

Meatus, (Lat.) a Movement, or Courſe; a Paſſage or Way; alſo the Pores of the Body.

Meatus Auditorius, (in Anat.) the Auditory Paſſage which begins from the Hollow, and winds toward the inner Part of the Ear, being cloath'd with a thin Skin, as far as the Brim of the Tympanum, or Drum.

Meatus Urinarius, the Urinary Paſſage, by which the Urine is convey'd from the Bladder.

Meazled, full of Meazles, Spots or Blotches.

Meazles or Meaſles, a Diſeaſe ſomewhat like the Small-Pox, ſometimes occaſioned in Children by the Foulneſs of the Mother's Blood.

Mecca, the chief City of Arabia Felix, noted for the Sepulchre of the falſe Prophet Mahomet.

Mechanical or Mechanick, belonging to the Mechanicks: Alſo pitiful, baſe, mean; in regard that the Mechanick Arts or Handicrafts are inferiour to the Liberal and more Noble Sciences.

Mechanical Philoſophy, the ſame as the Corpuſcular, which explains the Phænomena or Appearances of Nature, from Mechanical Principles, i. e. from the Motion, Reſt, Figure, Size, &c. of the ſmall Particles of Matter: And theſe Principles are often call'd Mechanical Cauſes, and Mechanical Affections of Matter.

Mechanical Solution of a Problem, (in Mathem.) is either when the Propoſition or Queſtion is reſolv'd by repeated Tryals, or when the Lines made uſe of to that Purpoſe, are not truly Geometrical.

Mechanick Powers or Principles, are commonly reckon'd ſix, viz. the Ballance, the Leaver, the Pulley, the Screw, the Wedge, and the Wheel; to ſome of which the Force of all Mechanick Inventions muſt be reduc'd.

A Mechanick, a Handycrafts-man, or Tradeſman.

The Mechanicks, the Science of Motion, or that Part of the Mathematicks, which ſhews the Effects of Powers, or moving Forces, and applies them to Machines or Engines, demonſtrating the Laws of Motion, &c. 'Tis alſo commonly taken for thoſe Handycrafts, in which the Labour of the Hands is requiſite, as well as the Study of the Brain.

Mechoacan, an Indian Root like Jalap, but white in Colour, and of great Efficacy in the Dropſy; for it draws away Water and Phlegm, and alſo ſtrengthens the Liver and other inward Parts.

Mecænas, a Roman Knight, deſcended from the Kings of Etruria, and Favourite of the Emperour Auguſtus. He was the Patron of the Learned Men of his Time, and had a ſingular Kindneſs for Virgil and Horace: Whence all Benefactours to Learning, and Friends to Scholars, are at this Day call'd Mecænas's.

Mecon, (Gr.) Poppey, a Flower, of which, the Powder, the diſtilled Water, the Conſerve, and eſpecially the Syrup, are much us'd in Phyſick.

Meconis, a kind of Lettice.

Meconites, a precious Stone, like Poppey.

Meconium, an Opiate, or the thicken'd Juice of Poppey: Alſo the Ordure of a young Child, which ſticks to the Entrails after the Birth, ſo call'd from its Colour, reſembling that of Poppy-Juice.

Meconologia, a Diſcourſe, Deſcription, or Treatiſe of Poppey.

Medal, a piece of Metal like Money, ſtampt upon ſome extraordinary Occaſion, to preſerve the Memory of ſome illuſtrious Perſon, or of ſome notable Victory, or other Publick Benefit to a Nation.

Medallion, a large Medal.

Medela, (Lat.) a Medicine, or Remedy, a Cure, a Method of curing.

[illegible]

[illegible], (in old Records) a Mead-Houſe, or [illegible] Mead or [illegible]

[illegible], (Sax.) a Woman of [illegible] Whence our Word Midwife.

[illegible], a Bribe or Reward; alſo Compenſation given in Exchange, when the things exchanged are not of equal Value.

Medial Alligation: See Alligation Medial.

Median-Vein, (in Anat.) the middle Vein in the bending of the Elbow, betwixt the Cephalick and Baſilick; which may be ſafely open'd, becauſe there is neither Nerve or Artery under it.

Mediaſtina, (Lat.) a Branch of the Subclavian Vein, which uſually ariſing from the Trunk of the Cava, or great hollow Vein, goes to the Mediaſtinum, and Thymus.

Mediaſtinum, the double Skin, or folding of the Pleura, which proceeds from the Vertebra's or Turning-joynts of the Back, and divides the whole Breaſt from the Throat to the Midriff into two hollow Boſoms.

To Mediate, to procure by one's Means; as To mediate a Peace.

Mediation, an interceding, making Suit, or entreating in any one's Behalf. In Arithmetick, Diviſion by 2, or taking the half of any Number or Quantity; it is otherwiſe call'd Bipartition and Biſection, with reſpect to Lines.

Mediator, a Manager between two Parties, an Interceſſour; one that endeavours to reconcile Perſons at Variance, or undertakes Buſineſs betwixt them.

Mediators of Queſtions, ſix Perſons impower'd by Stat. 2. Ann. 27. E. 3. who upon any Queſtion or Debate riſen among Merchants, about any unmarketable Wooll, or undue Packing, were to ſettle the ſame before the Mayor and Officers of the Staple.

Mediatrix, a Woman that mediates.

Medica, (Lat.) the Pomecitron-tree: Alſo a kind of Clover-graſs, very good for Cattel, which being once ſown, laſts ten Years; Spaniſh Trefoil, or three-leaved Graſs of Spain.

Medicable, that may be healed, or cured.

Medicament, a Medicine or Phyſical Compoſition, whereby Diſeaſes are ſubdu'd, and Health reſtor'd.

Medicamental, the ſame as Medicinal.

Medicaſter, a peddling Phyſician; a Quack.

Medicated, as Medicated Meats or Drinks, i. e. ſuch as have medicinal Ingredients mingled with them.

Medicina, (Lat.) Phyſick; an Art, according to Galen, to preſerve preſent Health, and reſtore that which is loſt; or, as Hippocrates defines it, an adding of that which is wanting, and a taking away what is ſuperfluous.

Medicinable or Medicinal, belonging to Phyſick; Phyſical.

Medicinal Days. See Critical Days, & Vacui Dies.

Medicine, the Art of Phyſick; alſo a Phyſical Remedy, a Purge.

Medick-fodder or Spaniſh Trefoil, an Herb. See Medica & Sainfoin.

Medicus, (Lat.) a Phyſician, one well ſkill'd in the Art and Practice of Phyſick, in the curing of Diſeaſes and Wounds; for of old Phyſicians practis'd Surgery.

Medietas Linguæ, (Lat. Law-Term) a Jury impannell'd upon any Cauſe, where a Stranger is Party; one half of it conſiſting of Denizens, and the other of Foreigners.

Mediety, the Moiety, or half a Thing.

Medimnus or Medimnum, a Meaſure among the Greeks, containing ſix Roman Buſhels, which make about fifty Engliſh Quarts.

Medio Acquietando, a Judicial Writ, to diſtrain a [illegible]

Superiour Lord [illegible] which he [illegible] long to him.

Mediocrity, a Mean or Middle between Extremes, Moderation; as, [illegible] the Observance of a true Mediocrity between Clemency and Severity.

To Meditate, (Lat.) to reflect, muse, ponder or think upon; to consider.

Meditative, given to Meditation; thoughtful.

Meditation, thinking upon, pausing or musing; deep Consideration.

Mediterranean, shut up between the Lands; In-land; as A mediterranean Province.

The Mediterranean or Midland-Sea, so call'd, because it lies between the three great Continents of the old World, viz. Europe on the North, Asia on the East, and Africa on the South.

Meditrinalia, (Lat.) Feasts kept by the Romans, September 30. in Honour of Meditrina, a certain Goddess of Physick; because they then began to drink new Wines mingled with the old, and that serv'd them instead of Physick.

Meditullium, the middle of any thing. In Anatomy, the spungy Substance betwixt the two Plates of the Scull.

Medium, mean or middle State; as, There is no Medium between Peace and War: Also an Expedient, Way or Device.

In Natural Philosophy, Medium signifies that peculiar Constitution, or Frame of any Space, through which Bodies move: Thus the Air is the Medium, in which all Meteors are bred, and move, and by means of which all Living-Creatures on the Land can breath and live; but Water is the Medium in which Fishes have their Life and Motion. See Refraction of the Medium.

Medium Cœli, the Mid-Heaven, the Tenth House, or Angle of the South, in an Astrological Figure, in which Planets and Stars have the greatest Height they can have, and consequently dart Rays more direct, and of greater Efficacy.

Medium Tempus, an old Law-word, signifying the mean Profits.

Medius Venter, (in Anat.) the middle Venter, the Chest, or hollow of the Breast, in which the Heart and Lungs are contain'd. See Thorax.

Medlar, a Tree whose Fruit, when rotten-ripe, is grateful to the Stomach; and is best after Meals, to close up the Mouth of it; yet Medlars being much eaten, breed Melancholy.

Medlefe, (old Law-word) Quarrel, Scuffling or Brawling.

Medley, a mixture of odd things.

Medrinacles, a kind of course Canvas, otherwise call'd Poledavies.

Medsuppe, (in old Records) a Harvest-supper, or Entertainment, given to the Labourers upon the bringing in of Harvest.

Medulla, (Lat.) Marrow in the Bones. Among Mineralists, it is taken for that softish Part which is found in some Stones: In Trees or Herbs, the Pith or Heart, otherwise call'd Core.

Medulla Cerebri, the Marrow of the Brain, a white soft Substance, cover'd on the out-side with the Barky Substance, which is of a more dark or Ashy Colour; the Seat of the Imagination, and the Place where the Distribution of the Animal Spirits is perform'd.

Medulla Oblongata, that part of the Brain which is the beginning of the Spinal Marrow, [illegible] three or four Inches in length within the Scull, and then descending in the Vertebræ; it sends out ten Pair of Nerves to the Chest, Lower-belly and Limbs.

Medulla Ossium, the Marrow of the Bones, a fat Substance shut up in the hollow or porous Part of the Bones: It is kept [illegible] Skin, and is void of all [illegible] greater Cavities, and white in the less, [illegible] juicy in spungy Bones.

Medulla Spinalis, the Spinal Marrow, a Continuation of [illegible] Scull, which goes down the middle of the [illegible] all the Vertebræ, or Turning-joints, and ends [illegible] Bone call'd Os Sacrum: It sends out Thirty [illegible] Nerves on each side, to the Limbs, the great Ca[illegible] ties, and other Parts of the Body; [illegible] any Stoppage, it causes the Palsy [illegible]

Medullar or Medullary, belonging to the Marrow.

Medullary Oil, the finer and more [illegible] the Marrow, which serves to preserve the [illegible] the Bones from being too brittle, and to [illegible] Joints supple.

Medusa's Head, the Name of a [illegible] See Algol.

Meed, (old Word) Reward, Merit.

Meek, mild, humble.

Meen or Mien, (Fr.) the Countenance of a [illegible] son, especially the Air of his Face; Look, [illegible] Garb.

Meer, (Lat.) downright, errant: In Common Law, it is sometimes us'd for meer Right: also a [illegible] mit, or Bound.

Meer-stone, a Stone set up for a Boundary.

Meer or Mear, a Ditch, a Pool, or Standing-water; a low marshy Ground.

Mees, (Sax.) Meadows.

Meeter, Rhime, Verse, or Measure.

Megalesia or Ludi Megalenses, (Lat.) certain Games celebrated by the ancient Romans, April [illegible] Honour of Cybele, the Great Goddess, or Grand [illegible] ther of the Gods.

Megalosplanchnus, (Gr.) one that has great swelling Bowels.

Megrim, a Distemper, which causes great Pain [illegible] the Temples, and fore-part of the Head; a Head-[illegible] that comes by Fits.

Meiny, (Fr. old Law-word) as The King's Meiny, i. e. his Family, or Houshold-Servants.

Meiosis, (Gr.) Diminution, or Lessening; [illegible] Rhetorick, a Figure wherein for Disparagement [illegible] slighter Term is made Use of than the Matter [illegible] quires, as when a great Wound is call'd a Scra[illegible] flat Fall, a Foil, &c.

Mel, (Lat.) Honey.

Mela, a Surgeon's Instrument to probe Ulcers, [illegible] draw a Stone out of the Yard, &c.

Melanæetos or Melanaetus, (Gr.) the black [illegible] gle, the least, but the best sort of Eagles.

Melampodium, black Hellebore, an Herb.

Melampyrum, Cow-wheat, or Horse-flower, [illegible] Weed hurtful to Corn, full of Branches, and havi[illegible] Seed like Fenigreek.

Melanagogues, Medicines that drive away black Choler, or that chiefly purge Choler.

Melancholick, troubled with, or subject to Me-lancholy.

Melancholist, a Person given up to Melancholy; as An inspired Melancholist, or deep Fanatick.

Melancholy, pensive, sad, sullen, dumpish; [illegible] sad, or that causes Melancholy.

Melancholy, a kind of Frenzy, Dotage, or [illegible] ness, without any evident Cause: A Disease wh[illegible] proceeds from the over-flowing of black Chole[illegible] a degeneracy of the Animal Spirits.

Melancoryphus, a Bird with black Feathers [illegible] the Head; a Fig-pecker.

Melandrys, the largest sort of Tunny, a Sea-[illegible]

Melandryum, the black Pith of an Oak [illegible] of Oak: Also an Herb with a white Flower [illegible] ing amidst Corn, and in Meadows: Also a kind of Pickle made of the Tunny-fish.

Melanium, the black Violet; a Flower.

Melanopiper, black Pepper; a ſort of Spice.

Melanosmegma, black Soap.

Melanthemon, the Herb Camomile.

Melanthium or Melaspermum, the Herb Gith, Coriander of Rome, Pepper-wort.

Melanurus, the Black-tail, a kind of Perch or Ruff, a Fiſh; it is alſo taken for a Sea-bream: Alſo a Serpent in Africa, leſs than a Viper, but more deadly, having two black Strokes upon the Tail; whence it has its Name, the reſt of the Body being white.

Melapium, the Pear-mane, a ſort of Apple.

Melchior, a proper Name of Men, particularly of a famous Heretick, the Ring-leader of a Sect, call'd Melchiorites.

Melchiſedech, (Heb. King of Righteouſneſs) a Prieſt and King of Salem, to whom Abraham at his return from the Victory over the five Kings, gave the Tenth of his Spoils.

Melchiſedechians, a Sect of Hereticks that held Melchiſedech to be the Holy Ghoſt.

Melchites, a ſort of Chriſtians in Syria, ſubject to the Patriarch of Antioch, and ſo call'd from Melchi, which in the Syriack Tongue ſignifies a King, becauſe they us'd to follow the Emperour's Injunctions in Matters of Religion.

Meld-feoh, (Sax.) the Reward or Recompence given to one that made the Diſcovery of any breach of Penal Laws; the Informer's Fee.

Meleagris, (Gr.) the Guiney or Turkey-hen; a Fowl: Alſo the Flower call'd Fritillary.

Meles or Melis, the Badger, Gray, or Brock; a wild Beaſt.

Melia, the Aſh-tree.

Meliceria or Meliceris, a round Swelling that contains within its own Coat Matter like Honey; yielding if preſs'd, but quickly returning again. It is alſo call'd Hydrarthrus and Hydrops Articularis.

Melicet, a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Keeling.

Melichros, (Gr.) a precious Stone of a Yellow Colour like Honey.

Melichryſos, an Indian Stone of the Jacinth-kind.

Melicotony or Melocotoon, a ſort of yellow Peach.

Melicratum, a Drink made of Honey and Rain-water boil'd together; a kind of Mead.

Melilot, an Herb with round Leaves, and ſlender Branches: It ripens Sores, ſoftens and eaſes Pain, being commonly us'd for thoſe Purpoſes, in Plaiſters and Poultices.

Melimeli, Syrup of Quinces preſerv'd in Honey.

Melimelum, a kind of ſweet Apple that is ſoon mellow; an Honey-apple, Pome-Paradiſe; It may alſo be taken for the Quince-apple, made into Marmalet.

Meline, the Herb Balm-mint.

Melinum, an Oil or Ointment made of the Bloſſoms of Apples or Quinces; alſo the Herb Balm-gentle.

Meliorated, (Lat.) bettered, made better.

Melioration, a making better, an improving.

Meliphyllum or Meliſſophyllum, (Gr.) Balm, or Balm-gentle, an Herb that Bees are mightily taken with: It is reckon'd among the Cordial Herbs, removes Melancholy, and chears the Heart.

Meliſcent, (Lat. i. e. Honey-ſweet) a Chriſtian-Name of ſome Women.

Melitema, (Gr.) a ſort of Phyſick-Cake work'd up with Honey, and other Ingredients.

Melites, a precious Stone of the Colour of an O-range, or Quince.

Melitites, a Drink made of Honey and Wine; a kind of Metheglin.

Melius Inquirendo, (Lat.) a Writ directed to the Eſcheator, for a ſecond Enquiry of what Lands and Tenements a Man dy'd poſſeſſed, when there is any Suſpicion of Partiality, in an Enquiry made upon the Writ, call'd Diem clauſit extremum, after the Death of the King's Tenant.

Melizomum, (Gr.) a Decoction, or Broth made of Honey.

Melleous, (Lat.) belonging to, or like Honey.

† Mellifick, that makes Honey.

Mellifluous, flowing with Honey, full of Sweetneſs.

Melligo, (Lat.) the Gum, or Juice of Trees, which Bees gather, and dawb the in-ſide of their Hives with.

Melliſiſm, Wine mingled with Honey, honey'd Wine.

Mellow, ripe, ſoft.

Melo, (Gr.) the Melon, a delicious ſort of Pumpion; which being cold and moiſt, is apt to putrify in the Stomach, and to occaſion Feavers or Gripes.

Melocarduus, a foreign Plant like a Melon.

Melocotoon. See Melicotony.

Melodious, full of Melody, Muſical, well-tuned, warbling.

Melody, Harmony, a mixture of muſical Sounds delightful to the Ear; a ſweet Air, or pleaſing Tune, from the Greek Words Melos, a Verſe, and Ode, Singing.

Melolontha, the Beetle or May-bug; an Inſect.

Melomeli, Quiddany, Marmalet.

Melomelum, the Sweeting, a ſweet Apple.

Melon. See Melo.

Melopepo, a Melon, or Muſk-melon, a ſort of Pumpkin like a Quince; a Garden-Cucumber.

Melos, a Member of the Body; a Verſe: Alſo a Diſeaſe in the Eye, when there is ſo great a burſting out of the Uveous Coat, that it ſeems like an Apple.

Meloſis, (in Surgery) a ſearching with the Probe.

Melotis, a leſſer ſort of Probe; an Inſtrument.

Melpomene, one of the Nine Muſes, ſaid to have been the Inventreſs of Tragedies, Odes and Songs.

Melters, (in the Mint) are thoſe that melt the Bullion, before it comes to the Coining.

Melwell, a ſort of Cod-fiſh.

Members, the outward Parts of the Body, which grow as it were Branches from the Trunk of a Tree: In a figurative Senſe 'tis ſaid, The Members of Chriſt, of the Church, of Parliament, of any Society, &c.

Membrana, (Lat.) the uppermoſt, little, thin Skin of any thing; the Pill between the Bark and the Tree; a Skin of Parchment or Vellam.

Membrana or Membrane, (in Anat.) is a nervous, fibrous, broad, white, ſpreading Subſtance, which covers the Bowels, the great Cavities of the Body, the Muſcles, &c. and is endu'd with an exquiſite Senſe.

Membrana Adipoſa, the fat Membrane that ſurrounds the Kidneys.

Membrana Caronſa or Panniculus Carnoſus, one of the five Teguments, or Coverings of the Body. See Panniculus Carnoſus and Tegument.

Membrana Nictitans, a thin purpliſh, or reddiſh Membrane or Film, which ſeveral Beaſts and Birds have to cover and ſhield their Eyes from Duſt, &c.

Membrana Uranaria, the Urinary Coat, belonging to a young Child in the Womb, which receives the Urine that comes out of the Bladder; the ſame with Allantois, which See.

Membranaceous or Membranous, that partakes of the Nature of, or is full of Membranes.

Membrane. See Membrana.

Membranoſus, a Muſcle of the Leg, ſo call'd from the large Membranous Expanſion it is joyn'd to, incloſing all the Muſcles of the Tibia and Tarſus; whence it is alſo call'd Faſcialis latus, and Faſcia lata. When his Muſcle acts, the Leg and Thigh are drawn outwards.

Membred, (in Heraldry) thoſe Birds which are either whole-footed, or that have no Talons, are ſo termed.

Membrum (Lat.) a Member, defin'd by Anatomiſts to be an organical Body, made up of ſeveral Similar Parts, deſign'd for the Performance of voluntary Actions.

Memoires (Fr.) Papers deliver'd by Ambaſſadours to the Princes or States, to whom they are ſent upon Occaſions of Buſineſs. Alſo Hiſtories written by thoſe who have had a Share in, or been Eye-Witneſſes of Affairs, and which contain a plain Relation of their own Actions, or thoſe of their Prince, &c.

Memorable, (Lat.) worthy of Remembrance, notable, famous.

Memorandum, a ſhort Note or Token for the better Remembrance of a Thing.

Memorative, belonging to the Memory; as The memorative Power.

Memoriæ, (in old Latin Records) Monuments, or Sepulchres of the Dead.

Memorial, that which ſerves to put one in Mind of a thing: Alſo a Writing deliver'd in by a Publick Miniſter of State, about ſome part of his Negotiation.

Memorized, recorded in Hiſtory.

Memory, a Faculty of the Soul, that preſerves the Remembrance of known and paſs'd Things, either ſeen or heard: Alſo the Act of Remembring, or calling to Mind.

Mena, (Gr.) a ſmall Fiſh that is black or blew in Summer, and white in Winter; ſome take it for a Herring or Pilchard.

To Menace, (Fr.) to threaten, to ſwagger, to huff, or vapour.

Menaces, Threats, hard Words, angry Expreſſions.

Menahem, (Heb. a Comforter) one that kill'd Shallum King of Judah, and reign'd in his ſtead.

Mendicant, (Lat.) begging; as A mendicant Friar, a Monk that goes up and down begging Alms.

Mendoſa Sutura or Squamea Sutura, (in Anat.) a ſcaly joining together of Bones; as in the Bones of the Temples, and thoſe of the Fore-part of the Head.

Menehout or A la Sainte Menehout, (Fr. in Cookery) a peculiar manner of baking Meat, cover'd with Bards, or thin Slices of Bacon, in an Oven between two Fires.

Menial, belonging to the Houſehold, or Family; as A menial Servant, i. e. one that lives within the Walls of his Maſter's Dwelling-houſe; from the Latin Mœnia, i. e. Walls, or from the old Engliſh Word Men, which ſignifies a Family.

Meninges, (Gr. in Anat.) two thin Skins, which incloſe the Subſtance or Marrow of the Brain, the one thicker, call'd Craſſa Meninx, or Dura Mater, next the Scull, the other thinner termed Tenuis Meninx, or Pia Mater, which immediately covers the Brain.

Meningo-phylax, that which preſerves the Meninx, or Skin of the Brain; as a thin Plate of Gold, or Silver, which is uſually apply'd when the Scull is open'd.

Meninx. See Mater Dura & Pia.

Meniſcus, a little Moon.

Meniſcus Glaſſes, ſuch as are Convex on one Side, and Concave on the other.

Meniver or Minever, a kind of Furr, being as ſome think, the Skin of a Squirrel's Belly; or as others ſay, of a little milk-white Creature, like a Weeſel, breeding in Muſcovy.

Menopegia, (Gr.) a ſharp Pain in the Head, affecting one ſingle Place.

Menow, a little Freſh-water Fiſh, otherwiſe call'd a Cackrel.

Menſa, (Lat.) a Table, or Board to ſet on; a Counter, on which Bankers tell their Money. In Anatomy, the broader Part of the Teeth call'd Grinders, which ſerves to chew and grind the Meat.

Menſalia, (in ancient Deeds) ſuch Parſonages or Spiritual Livings, as were united to the Tables of Religious Houſes, and were call'd Menſal Benefices among the Canoniſts.

Menſes, the Monthly Courſes, or Purgations, which uſually begin in young Maids at the Age of Twelve or Fourteen Years, but ceaſe in Women with Child, ſuch as are paſt bearing Children, and thoſe that give Suck.

Menſis, a Month, the Space of Time the Sun takes to go through one Sign of the Zodiack, or the Moon thro' all Twelve, properly the Time from the New Moon to its Change again.

Menſis Chymicus, a Chymical Month, which conſiſts of forty Days.

Menſis Vetitus, (in the Foreſt-Law) Fence-Month, the Month wherein Deer fawn, and during which it is forbidden to hunt in the Foreſt.

Menſores, (among the Romans) Harbingers, whoſe Buſineſs it was to prepare Lodgings for the Emperours, when they were minded to go to any Province. Alſo Quarter-Maſters in an Army, who mark'd out the Ground for the incamping of Soldiers, and aſſign'd to every Regiment their reſpective Poſts.

Menſtruous, belonging to Women's Monthly Courſes; as Menſtruous Bloud.

Menſtruum, (in Chymiſtry) a diſſolving Liquor, which eats thro' Metals, and melts Stones; as Vinegar, Aqua fortis, Spirit of Nitre, &c. 'Tis ſo call'd, becauſe Some Chymiſts give it out, that the compleat Diſſolution of a Mixt Body, cannot be done in leſs Time than forty Days, which Space of Time they call A Philoſophical Month.

Menſtruum Mulierum, Womens Monthly Terms, or Courſes; the ſame with Menſes.

Menſtrum Peracutum, a ſort of Menſtruum or Diſſolvent, mention'd by Mr. Boyle, and made by drawing off Spirit of Nitre ſeveral times, from Butter of Antimony.

Menſura, a Meaſure: In a Law-ſenſe, it is taken for a Buſhel; as Menſura Bladi, a Buſhel of Corn.

Menſura Regalis, the Queen's Standard-Meaſure, kept in the Exchequer, according to which all others are to be made.

Menſurability, Capableneſs of being meaſur'd; an Aptneſs in any Thing whereby it may be apply'd, or made fit to a certain Meaſure.

Menſuration, a meaſuring, or meting: In Geometry, it is a finding the ſuperfical Area, or ſolid Content of all Surfaces and Bodies.

Mentagra, (Lat.) a wild Tetter, or Scab, like a Ring-worm, which beginning at the Chin, runs over the Face, Neck, Breaſt, and Hands.

Mental, belonging to the Mind; as A mental Prayer, mental Devotion, &c.

Mental Reſervation, a ſeeming to deliver one's Mind, but at the ſame time concealing his real Meaning within his own Breaſt.

Mentha, (Lat.) the Herb Mint.

Menthaſtrum or Mentaſtrum, wild Mint.

Mentigo, a Scab among Sheep, about their Mouths and Lips, call'd The Pocks.

Mention, a ſpeaking of, or naming.

To Mention, to make mention of, to take Notice of, to ſpeak of, to name.

Mentum, (Lat.) the Chin.

Menuet or Minuet, (Fr.) a ſort of French Dance, or the Tune belonging to it.

Menu-droits or Mine-droits, (Fr. in Cookery) a certain Diſh proper for Intermeſſes, or middle Courſes, made of ſeveral Ingredients, amongſt other or an Ox-Paunch, or of Hog's Flesh, cut into thin Slices, and fried.

Mephiboseth, (Heb.) Shame of Mouth; a Son of Jonathan, and Grand-son of King Saul.

Mephitis, (Lat.) a Damp, or strong Sulphureous Smell, proceeding from corrupt Water, or mouldy Earth, that has not been long stirr'd; a Stench, Stink, or ill Savour.

Mephitical Exhalations, poiſonous or deadly Vapours, iſſuing out of the Earth.

Meraud, a Chriſtian Name of ſome Women, from the Emerald a precious Stone; in French Esmeraude.

Mercandiſa, (in old Latin Records) all manner of Goods and Wares, expos'd to Sale in Fairs or Markets.

Mercantile, dealing in the Way of Merchandize or Traffick; as Mercantile People.

Mercator's Chart or Projection, a Projection of the Globe of the Earth in Plano, wherein the Degrees upon the Meridian encreaſe towards the Poles, according to the ſame Proportion that the parallel Circles decreaſe towards them: It takes Name from Gerard Mercator, a noted German Geographer, who was the firſt that publiſh'd Charts ſo made.

Mercator's Sailing, the Art of finding on a Plane the Motion of a Ship upon any aſſign'd Courſe, true in Longitude, Latitude, and Diſtance; the Meridians being all parallel, and the Parallels of Latitude ſtraight Lines.

Mercatorum Feſtum, (among the Romans) a Feaſt of merchandizing People, which was kept May 15*th*. in Honour of Mercury, praying to him, That he would proſper their Trade, and forgive their Cheating.

Mercature, Trade of Merchandize, Traffick.

Mercenary, greedy of Gain, eaſy to be brib'd, or corrupted with Money; hired for Reward or Wages, done for Hire or Profit.

Mercennarius, (in old Latin Records) an Hireling, a Servant.

Mercer, one that deals only in Silks and Stuffs, in the City of London; but in Country-Towns, they trade in all ſorts of Linnen, Woollen, Silk, and Grocery-Wares.

Mercery, Mercers Goods, or Wares.

Merchandize, Trade, Trading, Traffick; alſo Commodities, or Goods to trade with.

To Merchandize, to deal as a Merchant; to trade, or traffick.

Merchant, a Trader, or Dealer by Whole-ſale, eſpecially in Commodities brought from Foreign Parts.

Merchant-man, a Ship, fitted out for a Trading Voyage.

Merchant-Taylors School, an eminent School, built by Sir Thomas White, Alderman and Merchant-Taylor of London; where 300 Scholars are taught, 100 gratis, 100 at 2*s.* 6 d. a Quarter, and 100 at 5*s.* a Quarter: To this School belong Forty-ſix Fellowſhips in St. John Baptiſt's College, Oxford, which had the ſame Founder.

Merchantable, that is in good Condition, and fit to be utter'd or ſold.

Merchenlage, the Law of the Mercians, or ancient Inhabitants of theſe eight Counties, viz. Glouceſter, Worceſter, Hereford, Warwick, Oxford, Cheſter, Salop, and Stafford; the whole Continent of England being formerly divided into three Parts, poſſeſſed by the Mercians, Weſt-Saxons, and Danes, who had their peculiar Laws and Cuſtoms; out of which King William I. fram'd our Common Laws, with a Mixture of thoſe of Normandy. See Danelage and Weſt-Saxonlage.

Merchet, a Fine, or Compoſition, anciently paid by inferiour Tenants to the Lord of the Manour, for Liberty to diſpoſe of their Daughters in Marriage.

Mercians. See Merchenlage.

Mercimonium Angliæ, (Lat.) an old Law-Term, ſignifying the Impoſt of England upon Merchandize.

Mercurial, full of Mercury; ingenious, lively, briſk.

Mercurialia, Medicines prepar'd with Quick-ſilver.

Mercurialiſt, one born under the Planet Mercury.

Mercurius Dulcis or Sweet Sublimate, the Corroſive Sublimate of Quick-Silver, corrected and reduc'd to a white Maſs, good to open Stoppages, to kill the Worms, and for all ſorts of Venereal Diſeaſes: It is otherwiſe call'd Aquila Alba, and Calomelas.

Mercurius Vitæ. See Algarot.

Mercury, the Heathen God of Eloquence, Merchandize, and Handy-crafts: Alſo the leaſt of all the Planets, and loweſt except the Moon; being of a duſky Colour, and never remov'd from the Sun above 28 Degrees. Among Chymiſts, Mercury ſignifies Quick-ſilver; and is alſo taken for one of their Active Principles, commonly call'd Spirit. In Heraldry, it is the Purple Colour in the Coats of Sovereign Princes; the ſame as Amethyſt and Purpure in thoſe of the Nobility and Gentry. Alſo the Name of a purging Herb, of which there are two ſorts, viz. Good Harry, and Dog's Mercury.

The London Mercury, a ſort of News-Paper.

Mercury-Women, certain Women that ſell News-books, and other Pamphlets, by Whole-ſale to the Hawkers, who ſell them again by Retail about the Streets.

Mercy, Compaſſion, Pity, Pardon, Favour: In a Law-Senſe, it ſignifies the Arbitrary Proceedings of the King, Lord, or Judge, in puniſhing any Offence, not directly cenſur'd by the Law; as To be in the grievous Mercy of the King, i.e. to be in Hazard of great Penalty.

Mercy-Seat. See Propitiatory.

Mere, (Sax.) a Lake, Pool, or Pond; whence a Mere-Swine, i. e. a Dolphin-fiſh: Alſo a Line or Boundary, dividing plough'd Lands in a Common.

Merennium, Meraunium, Meremium, or Marennium, (in old Latin Records) any Timber, or Materials of Wood for Building; from the French Word Merrein, or Merrin, of the ſame Signification.

Merennium Vetus, was the Refuſe-Wood, or old Pieces of Timber and Boards, left amidſt the Rubbiſh after Building, repairing, or pulling down of Houſes.

Meretricious, belonging to a Whore, Whoriſh; as Meretricious Arts.

Mergulus, (Lat.) the little Diver, or Didapper; a Water-fowl call'd an Arſe-foot.

Mergus, a Name of ſeveral Sea-Birds, and eſpecially the Cormorant.

Meridian, belonging to Noon; as The Sun in its Meridian, or Noon-tide Luſtre.

Meridian, (in Aſtron. and Geogr.) is a great Circle, which paſſes thro' the Poles of the World, and the Zenith or Vertical Point of every Place, dividing the Equator and Horizon at Right Angles, and the whole World into two equal Parts, one of which is call'd Eaſtern, and the other Weſtern; ſo that is is always the ſame, when we go from South to North, but changes as we paſs from Eaſt to Weſt. This Circle is call'd the Meridian, becauſe when the Sun comes to it in its daily Courſe, Meridies, i. e. Mid-day or High-noon is made to all thoſe Places that are under it, and conſequently Mid-night happens there at the ſame time.

Theſe Meridians are various, and may be ſaid to be infinite in Number, in regard that they change according to the Longitudes of Places, ſo that it is requiſite to [illegible] The Firſt Meridian, and uſually [illegible] one of the Canary-Iſlands.

The Firſt Meridian, (on the Globe or Sphere) is repreſented by the Brazen Circle, in which the Globe hangs and turns, being divided into four times 90 or 360 Degrees; beſides which, only every Tenth Meridian is mark'd; as alſo on the Maps, to avoid Confuſion. On it each way from the Equinoctial in the Celeſtial Globe, is counted the North and South Declination of the Sun or Stars; and on the Terreſtrial Globe, the Northern or Southern Latitude of Places.

Meridian Altitude, is the greateſt Height of the Sun, which happens every Day at Noon, when it comes to the Meridian Circle.

Meridian Line, (on a Dial) is a Right-line ariſing from the Point, where the Meridian of the Place, and the Plane of the Dial, interſect, or cut one another: This is the Twelve a Clock Line, and from thence the Hour-line have their Beginning.

Meridional, that lies, or is towards the South; Southern.

Merils, a Play among Boys, otherwiſe call'd Five-penny Morris.

Meringues, (Fr. in Cookery) a ſort of Confection made of the Whites of Eggs whipt; fine Sugar, and grated Lemmon-peel, of the bigneſs of a Wal-nut; being proper for the garniſhing of ſeveral Diſhes.

Meriſe, a kind of ſmall bitter Cherry.

Meriſmus, (Gr. i.e. Diviſion) a Rhetorical Figure, when ſeveral Things are diſpos'd in their proper Places.

Merit, (Lat.) Deſert, in a good or bad Senſe; Worth, Excellency; Demerit, or ill-deſerving; as The Queen has rewarded ſuch an Officer according to his Merits; ſuch an Offender has been puniſh'd according to his Merits.

To Merit, to do an Act that deſerves Reward or Puniſhment; to deſerve, to be worthy of.

Meritorious, deſerving, that deſerves a Reward or Recompence.

Meritot, a kind of Play us'd by Children, wherein they ſwing themſelves up and down on a Rope, ſitting a-croſs a little Beam faſten'd to it.

Merkin, counterfeit Hair for a Woman's privy Parts.

Merlin, a ſort of Hawk, the leaſt of all Birds of Prey.

Merlin or Merling, a kind of Fiſh.

Merlon, (Fr. in Fortif.) that part of the Parapet, or Breaſt-work of a Battery, which is between two Embraſures, or Port-holes: The length of a Merlon is generally from 8 to 9 Foot next the Guns, and 6 on the Out-ſide; its Height 6 Foot, and its Thickneſs 18.

Mermaid, (q. d. Sea-maid, or Sea-nymph) a Sea-Monſter, having the upper Parts like a Woman, and the lower like a Fiſh. See Siren.

Merobalneum, (Gr.) a kind of Bath, in which the Patient is to ſit up to the Navel.

Merodach-Baladan, (Heb. bitter Contribution without Judgment) the Name of a King of Babylon.

Meroe, an Iſland encompaſs'd by the River Nile, in which there was a City of the ſame Name built by Cambyſes King of Perſia, in honour of his Siſter Meroe. This City Aſtronomers will have to be the fartheſt of the Northern Climates, whoſe parallel Line they call Dia Meroes, becauſe it runs thro' the midſt of the City.

Merois, an Herb that grows about Meroe, having a Leaf like Lettice, good for the Dropſy.

Merope, the leaſt Star of the Pleiades, or Conſtellation of Seven Stars.

Merops, a Bird that eats Bees, and whoſe peculiar Property is to feed their Dams, which never come abroad; a kind of Wood-pecker, an Eat-bee.

Merrick, a proper Name of Men among the ancient Britains.

Merriment, Merry-making, Jollity, Mirth.

Merry, gay, frolick, jocund, pleaſant, diverting.

Merry-wings, a ſort of Fly, very troubleſome in the Night, in the Iſland of Barbadoes.

† Merſion, a ducking, or plunging over Head and Ears in the Water; a drowning.

Merula, (Lat.) the Merl, Black-bird, or Ouzel with a yellow Beak: Alſo a ſort of Sea-Tench, a Fiſh of a deep blew Colour.

Merum, pure Wine, as it is preſs'd out of the Grape, without Mixture or Allay; racy, neat Wine.

Meſaræum, (Gr. in Anat.) the ſame as Meſenterium, whence its Veſſels are call'd, as well Meſaraick as Meſenterick, which See.

Meſaraick Veins, (in Anat.) Branches of the Vena Portæ, that ariſe from, or rather are encloſ'd in the Meſaræum or Meſentery.

Meſaula, (in ancient Architect.) a Paſſage between the Hall and the Parlour; an Entry leading from one Chamber to another; a Gallery, or Lobby.

Meſceline. See Meſlin.

Meſel, (Sax.) a Leper.

Meſenterick, (Gr.) belonging to the Meſentery; as The meſenterick Arteries, the upper of which is ſaid to ſpread it ſelf amidſt the ſmall Guts, and the under one to paſs on to the lower part of the Meſentery.

Meſenterick Vein, is the Right Branch of the Vena Portæ, which ſpreads it ſelf over the Guts, Jejunum, Ileum, Cæcum, and Colon.

Meſenterium or Meſentery, the double Skin in the middle of the Belly, which faſtens the Bowels to the Back, and one to another; being enrich'd with Glandules or Kernels, Nerves, Arteries, Veins, and Veſſels, that carry the Juices call'd Chyle and Lympha.

Meſkite, (among the Turks and Moors) a Church or Synagogue; from the Arabick Word Meſquidon, i. e. an Oration or Prayer.

Meſlin, Meſcelin or Maſlin, Corn that is mixt, as Wheat with Rie, &c.

Meſn or Meaſn, (Law-Term) a Lord of a Manour, who has Tenants holding of him; yet he himſelf holds of a Superiour Lord: Alſo a Writ that lies where there is a Lord Meſne and a Tenant.

Meſnalty, the Right of the Meſn Lord; as The Meſnalty is extinct.

Meſocolon, (Gr. in Anat.) that part of the Meſentery which is continu'd to the Great Guts, and lies in the midſt of the Gut Colon, whence it has its Name.

Meſogloſſum. See Genioglоſſum.

Meſolabum or Meſolabium, a Mathematical Inſtrument, invented by the Ancients, to find out mean Proportionals between any two Lines given.

Meſoleucus, a precious Stone, black, and having a white Streak in the middle: Alſo a Plant like the Herb Mercury, that has a white Streak through the middle of the Leaf.

Meſomelas, a precious Stone, with a black Vein, parting every Colour in the midſt.

Meſonyctium, the middle of the Night.

Meſopleurii, (in Anat.) the Intercoſtal Muſcles that lye between the Ribs, being Twenty-two on each Side, Eleven Outward, and as many Inward.

Meſoſphærum, Indian Spikenard, one of the three Sorts, bearing a middle-ſiz'd Leaf.

Meſozeugma, a Figure of Grammatical Conſtruction. See Zeugma.

Meſpilus, (Gr.) the Medlar-tree; the Fruit of which is pleaſant to the Taſte, comforts the Stomach and Belly, ſtops Fluxes and Vomitings, and provokes Urine.

Meſſagery, (old Word) diligence in doing a Meſſage or Errand.

Meſſalians, a Sect of Hereticks, who held the Lord's Supper and Baptiſm to be but of indifferent Concern.

Messamines, a kind of Grapes peculiar to Virginia and Maryland.

Messarius, a Law-word for Messor, a Reaper or Mower, now corrupted [illegible].

Messenger, [illegible] to and fro, between Party and Party; [illegible] more particularly [illegible] under the Queen and Her Council, carrying Dispatches, and waits upon the Serjeant at Arms, to apprehend Persons of State.

Messengers of the Press, one that receives a Commission at Court, and is employ'd as a constant Searcher, to search Printing-houses, Booksellers Shops and Ware-houses, in order to find out Seditious Books, Scandalous Pamphlets, Libels against the Government, &c. in order to discover the Authors and Publishers of them.

Messengers of the Exchequer, certain Officers in that Court, four in Number, who as Pursuivants, attend the Lord Treasurer, to carry his Letters and Orders.

Messiah, the same in Hebrew, as Christos in Greek, i. e. Anointed; a Word us'd in Holy Scripture for Christ, our Blessed Lord and Saviour.

Messina, (in old Latin Deeds) Reaping-time, Harvest.

Messuage, (in Common Law) a Dwelling-house, with some adjoyning Land, a Garden, Curtilage, Orchard, and all other Conveniencies belonging to it.

Messuagium, (in Scotland) is the same that we call a Manour-house, i. e. the principal Place or Dwelling-house, within a Barony or Lordship: In some Places, it is also taken for the Situation of a Manour.

Mestilo or Mestilum, Meslin-corn, Wheat and Rie mingled together.

Mestizo's, (Span.) the Breed of Spaniards with Americans.

Met, (Country-word) a Strike, or Bushel.

Metabasis, (Gr.) a passing over: In Rhetorick, a Figure wherein we pass from one Sentence to another; as These things were most delectable; now shall these things bring less Pleasure. Among Physicians, it is the passing from one Indication to another, or from one Remedy to another.

Metabole, a Change or Alteration. In a Physical Sense, a change of Time, Air, or Diseases.

Metacarpus or Metacarpium, (in Anat.) the Back of the Hand, consisting of four small and somewhat long Bones, which stretch out the Palm of the Hand, and are call'd Post-brachialia.

Metacarpus, is also a Bone of the Arm, made up of four Bones, which are joyn'd to the Fingers; that which bears up the Fore-finger, being the biggest and longest.

Metachronism, an Errour in Chronology, by the mis-reckoning of Time; or the ill Disposition, or joyning together of Passages.

Metacondyli, the utmost Bones of the Fingers.

Metal, a well digested and compact Body bred in the Bowels of the Earth, which may be melted with a great Fire, or beat out into thin Pieces with a Hammer: Of these there Seven Sorts, viz. Gold, Silver, Iron, Tin, Copper, Lead, and Quick-silver. Among Gunners, in the disparting of a Piece of Ordinance, it is said, To be Under-Metal, when the Mouth of it lies lower than the Breech; and Over-Metal on the contrary: But when she lies truly level, Point-blank, or right with the Mark, 'tis said, She lies right with her Metal. The Surface, or Out-side of a great Gun is also termed, The Superficies of her Metal.

Metalepsis, a participating or partaking; a translating or transferring: Also a Rhetorical Figure defin'd to be the Continuation of a Trope in one Word, through a succession of Significations [illegible] Euphrates being [illegible] where the River Euphrates by Me[illegible] Mesopotamia, and Me[illegible] the Eastern Nations [illegible] Trans[illegible]

[illegible] represented [illegible] of the Muscle.

Metallick, [illegible] belonging to, or partaking [illegible] of Metals.

Metallist, one that is skill'd in the Knowledge of, or Working in Metals.

Metallum, Metal, that is digg'd, or fetch'd out of the Earth.

Metallurgist, a Metallist; one that works in Metals, or searches into the Nature of them, as Chymists do.

Metallurgy, the Operation, of working upon Metals, in order to make them more fine, hard, bright, beautiful, or serviceable for particular Uses.

To Metamorphise, to transform, to change from one Form or Shape to another.

Metamorphosis, a changing of a Fashion or Figure into another Form; any extraordinary Alteration or Change.

Metanoia, change of Mind or Opinion, Repentance: Also a Rhetorical Figure, otherwise call'd Epanorthosis.

Metapedium, (in Anat.) the Instep, that part of the Foot which Answers to Metacarpus in the Hand.

Metaphor, (i. e. Translation) a Figure in Rhetorick, that changes the Signification of a Word; that is to say, when a strange or remote Word is put for a proper one, upon account of its resemblance to the thing of which we are speaking: Thus a Queen is said to be the Head of Her Subjects, Meadows to be smiling, Summer youthful, &c.

Metaphorical, belonging to a Metaphor, figurative.

Metaphrasis, a bare Translation out of one Language into another.

Metaphrenum, (in Anat.) that part of the Back which comes after the Diaphragm, or Midriff.

Metaphysical, belonging to Metaphysicks, abstracted.

Metaphysicks, that part of Philosophy which treats of Form in general, abstracted from Matter; and of such Beings as are above Corporeal or Bodily Things; as GOD, Angels, the Souls of Men, &c.

Metaplasmus, (i. e. Transformation) a Figure in Grammar, when the declining of a Word is chang'd; as Agreste in the Ablative Case for Agresti.

Metaptosis, a falling away, a changing from one kind to another; a degenerating. Among Physicians, the falling or changing of one Disease into another, as of a Quartan Ague into a Tertian; and on the contrary, of an Apoplexy into a Palsey, &c.

Metastasis, a change when one thing is put for another; or when the condition of a thing is alter'd. In the Art of Physick, it is when a Disease goes from one part to another; as in Apoplexies, when the Matter which affects the Brain, is translated to the Nerves.

Metasyncrisis, a restoring of the Parts or Passages of the Body to their natural State: Also the Operation of a Medicine outwardly apply'd, when it effectually draws out Humours from their closest Recesses.

Metatarsus, (in Anat.) a set of five small Bones, joyn'd to those of the [illegible] part of the Foot, which immediately succeeds the Leg.

Metathesis, Transposition, change. In Grammar, the transposing, or putting of one Letter or Syllable for another, as Pistris for Pristis, Virg.

Metecorn, a certain Measure, or portion of Corn, formerly given by the Lord of a Manour, as an Encouragement and Reward for their Work or Labour.

Mete-

[illegible] [illegible] cu-stomary [illegible] as others, [illegible]

Metempsychosis, (Gr.) a Transmigration, or passing of the Soul, out of one Body into another; which was the Opinion of Pythagoras, and his Followers.

Meteors, certain imperfectly mix'd Bodies, consisting of Vapours drawn up into the middle Region of the Air, and set out in different Forms; as Rain, Hail, Snow, Wind, Thunder and Lightening, Blazing-stars, &c. The Term is deriv'd from the Greek Word Meteoros, i. e. high, or lofty; because, for the most part, they appear to be high in the Air. And these are either Airy, Fiery, or Watery.

Airy Meteors, are those that are bred of flatuous and spirituous Exhalations or Vapours; as Winds, &c.

Fiery Meteors, are such as consist of a fat sulphureous kindled Smoak, of which there are several kinds; as Ignis fatuus, commonly call'd Will of the Wisp; Draco volans, or the flying Dragon; Trabs, or the Beam; Thunder and Lightening, &c.

Watery Meteors, are made up of Vapours, or watery Particles, separated from each other by the means of Heat, and variously modify'd; as Rain, Hail, Snow, Dew, &c.

Meteorology, a Discourse, or Treatise of Meteors.

Meteoroscopy, that part of Astronomy which treats of the difference of Sublime Heavenly Bodies, the distance of Stars, &c.

Metheglin, a kind of Drink made of Water, Herbs, Honey, Spice, &c. boil'd together. 'Twas an old British Drink, which is still made in Wales, and continues in repute in England.

Method, (Gr.) the Art of disposing things in such a manner, as to be performed, taught, or kept in Memory with more ease. See Disposition.

In Mathematical Enquiries, there are several Methods made use of; as the Analytical and Synthetical, the Zetetick and Poristical; which see in their proper Places.

Methodical, belonging, or agreeable to a Method; orderly.

Methodist, one that treats of a Method, or affects to be methodical.

Methuselah, (Heb. the Weapons of his Death) the longest liv'd of all Men, mention'd in Holy Scripture.

Metonick Year, the space of Nineteen Years, in which Time the Lunations return, and happen as they were before; so call'd from Meton of Athens, the first Inventer of it: 'Tis also sometimes styl'd, The great Metonick Year, and is the same as the Cycle of the Moon; which See.

Metonymical, belonging to the Figure Metonymy.

Metonymy, a Rhetorical Figure, which implies a changing, or putting one Name or Thing for another; as of the Cause for the Effect; of the Subject for the Adjunct, or contrarily; as All the World reads Cicero, i. e. his Writings; where the Author's Name is put for his Works. This Figure in Latin, is call'd Transnominatio.

Metopa, (in Architect.) the distance or space between the Triglyphs, in the Freez of the Dorick Order; which Parts were anciently adorn'd with carved Works or Paintings, representing the Heads of Oxen, Vessels, Basons, and other Instruments us'd in Sacrifices: Also the space between the Mortise-holes of Rafters and Planks.

Metopium, a Plant that yields the Gum call'd Galbanum.

Metopon, the Forehead.

Metoposcopy, a guessing at Peoples Inclinations or Manners, by looking in their Faces.

Metre. See Meeter.

Metrenchyta, an Instrument to convey Medicines into the Womb.

Metretes, an Athenian Measure of [illegible] Sextiers, or 40 English Quarts; or the Vessel containing it; a Kilderkin, Firkin, or Rundlet. Metreta [illegible] or Congius Romanus, a Measure of 3 Pints.

Metrical, belonging to Metre, or Verse.

Metropolis, a Mother-City, the chief City or Town of a Province or Country.

Metropolitan, belonging to a Metropolis; as A metropolitan City or Church, &c.

A Metropolitan, an Arch-bishop; so call'd, because his See is always in the chief City.

Mett, (Sax.) a kind of ancient Measure, probably a Bushel.

Metecorn, Metelchep, or Meteschep, a Rent or Acknowledgement, heretofore paid to the Lord of a Manour in a certain Measure of Corn; for which an Equivalent was sometimes given in Money.

Mettle, Vigour, Fire, Life, Sprightliness, Briskness; as The Mettle of Youth.

Meu or Meum, (Gr.) Mew, Spiknel, wild Dill, an Herb with a Stalk and Leaves like Anise: It is good to expel Wind, and to force Urine; as also for Mother-fits, Gripes, &c.

Mew or Sea-mew, a Bird otherwise call'd a Cob, or Gull.

Mew or a Hawk's Mew, a kind of Coop for Hawks.

The Mews, a Place in London, where the King's Hawks were formerly kept; but now made use of for the Royal Stables.

To Mew, to cry like a Cat; also to moult, or cast the Feathers, as Birds do; to shed the Horns as a Stag does.

To Mew up, to shut up.

Mexico, a Province, and great City of New Spain in America.

Meya, (in old Records) a Mow of Corn laid up in a Barn.

Meryx, (Gr.) the Cud-fish, or Chewing-fish. See Scarus.

Mezereum, a kind of Shrub of a very hot and sharp Quality; so that the Leaves chew'd, burn the Jaws and Throat; but being duely corrected, it is a strong Purge for Choler, &c.

Mezzo Tinto, (Ital. i. e. middle Tincture) a particular way of engraving Pictures on Copper-Plates.

Miasma or Molynsis, (Gr.) defiling, Defilement, Ordure, Filth: Also an infectious Distemper of the Bloud and Spirits; as in the Plague and Scurvy.

Mica, a crumb or little quantity of any thing that breaks off: Also Glimmer, or Cat-silver; a Metallick Body like Silver, which shines in Marble, and other Stones, but cannot be separated from them.

Micaiah, (Heb. who is the Lord) the Son of Imlah, a Prophet among the ancient Jews.

Micel-Gemotes, (Sax. i. e. great and general Assemblies) the great Councils of Kings and Noblemen, in the Saxon Times, were so call'd.

Michael, (Heb. who is like God) an Arch-Angel, mention'd both in the Old and New-Testaments: Thence taken for a Christian Name of Men, which was born by several Emperours of Constantinople.

Michaelmas, the Festival of St. Michael the Arch-angel, kept on the 29th Day of September.

Michal, (Heb. who is perfect) the Daughter of King Saul, given in Marriage to David.

To Miche, (old Word) to absent, or hide one's self out of the Way; as Truands do from School.

Micher or Miching Fellow, a covetous Wretch that lives privately to avoid Expences.

Michas, a sort of white Loaves paid as a Rent in some Manours.

Mickle, much; an old Word, scarce us'd but in that Proverbial Expression, Many a little makes a mickle.

Microcoſm, (Gr. i.e. a little World) [illegible] of Man, ſo call'd by way of Excellence, upon account of the admirable Variety, and curious Fabrick of its ſeveral Parts. See Macrocoſm.

Microcouſticks or Microphones, Inſtruments contrived to magnify ſmall Sounds, as Microſcopes do ſmall Objects.

Micrometer, an Inſtrument made of Braſs, with a Movement, a Plate divided like a Clock, or Watch; an Index or Hand, &c. ſo that it may be fitted to a large Teleſcope, and uſed in Aſtronomy, to find the Diameters of Stars.

Microphthalmus, one that has little Eyes from his Birth.

Microſcope, an Optical Inſtrument, or magnifying-Glaſs, by Means of which, the ſmalleſt Things may be diſcern'd in their full Proportion; as alſo the ſmall Particles of which Bodies are compos'd, with their curious Contexture and Frame.

Microphones. See Microcouſticks.

Microſphæron, the Herb Spikenard, having a ſmall Leaf; the leaſt and beſt of three ſorts.

Mictus Sanguineus, (Lat. i.e. piſſing of Bloud) a Diſeaſe in the Reins, when a thin wheyiſh Bloud is voided.

Midding, a Country-Word for a Dung-hill.

Middle Baſe and Chief, (in Heraldry). See Baſe and Chief.

Middle-man, (in the Art of War) he that ſtands middlemoſt in a File.

Middle-Temple. See Inns of Court and Temple.

Midge, the Gnat; an Inſect.

Midian, (Heb. Judgment, or Striving) Abraham's Son by Keturah; from whom deſcended the Midianites.

Midriff, a Membrane, or Skin, which ſeparates the Heart and Lungs from the lower Bowels. See Diaphragm.

Midſhip Beam. See Beams of a Ship.

Midſummer-day, the Feſtival of St. John Baptiſt, June 24th.

Midwall, a kind of Bird that eats Bees.

Mien. See Meen.

Migma, (Gr.) Mixture, Fodder mingled for Cattel: Barley and Chaff together, Horſe-bread. In the Art of Phyſick, a mixture of ſeveral Simples or Ingredients.

Migrana, (Lat.) a Meagrim, or Pain in the Head.

Migration, a removing, or paſſing from one Place to another; a changing of one's Habitation.

Mildernix, a ſort of Canvas, of which Sail-clothes and other Furniture for Ships are made.

Mildew, a certain Dew that falls upon Wheat, Hops, &c. which being of a clammy Nature, hinders their Growth, unleſs waſh'd off by a Shower of Rain. See Rubigo.

Mile, the Diſtance of a thouſand Paces, 5280 Engliſh Feet, or eight Furlongs, every Furlong containing forty Lugs or Poles; and every Lug or Pole ſixteen Foot and a half. A Mile in Scotland conſiſts of 1500 Geometrical Paces: A German Mile is about five of our Miles; and an Italian Mile little more than the Engliſh.

Miles, a Chriſtian Name of Men, from the Latin Milo.

Miles, (Lat.) a Soldier, or Warriour: In Common Law, a Knight, ſo ſtyl'd becauſe ſuch uſually held Lands in Knight-Service, to ſerve the King in his Wars as Soldiers.

Milfoil, an Herb, with many Leaves, otherwiſe call'd Yarrow and Noſe-bleed, of a binding and drying Quality; good for Wounds, to ſtop Looſeneſs, Fluxes of Blood, &c.

Milford-haven, a very convenient Harbour in Pembrokeſhire, having ſixteen Creeks, five Bays, and thirteen Roads.

[illegible] a Miller, [illegible] kills it.

[illegible] See Herpes.

Militant, contending, fighting; a Term only apply'd to the Catholick Church, as being in continual Conflict with Ghoſtly Enemies.

Military, belonging to Soldiers, or War; warlike.

Military Architecture, the ſame with Fortification; which See.

Military Execution, the ravaging and deſtroying of a Country by the Soldiers, when the Inhabitants refuſe to pay Contribution.

Militia, a certain Number of the Inhabitants of the City and Country form'd into Regular Bodies, and train'd up in the Art of War, for the Defence and Security of the Kingdom.

Milium, (Lat.) Millet, a kind of ſmall Grain.

Milium Solis, the Herb Gromwell.

Milk-Thiſtle, Milk-Trefoil, Milk-Vetch, Milk-Weed and Milk-Wort ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Milky Way, the only real Circle in Heaven, which appears in a clear Night like a Swathing-band, encloſing ſeveral Conſtellations: But it is only a Heap of fixed Stars, which by Reaſon of their Smallneſs and Diſtance from the Earth cannot be diſtinctly diſcern'd, yet all together make that part more bright than the reſt of the Firmament. See Via Lactea.

Mill, a known Engine made to turn with Wheels, and forc'd into Motion by Wind or Water; which ſerves for the grinding of Corn, ſawing of Timber, and ſeveral other Uſes.

Mill-eat, a Trench to convey Water to, or from a Mill.

Mill-holms, watery Places about a Mill-dam.

Mill-mountain, a ſort of Herb.

[illegible] or a Thouſand Rees, a Portugueſe Coin, worth 6 s. 8 d. [illegible] Sterling.

Millefolium, (Lat.) the Herb Milfoil, good to ſtanch Bloud; as alſo for the Head-ach, and to heal Wounds and Ruptures.

Millenarians or Millenaries, a ſort of Hereticks, who imagine, That Chriſt ſhall reign on the Earth, and reign over the Faithful for a Thouſand Years, before the end of the World.

Milliner, one that ſells Ribbons, Gloves, &c.

Millepede, a Worm, having a great Number of furry Feet; a Palmer.

Millepedes, Sows or Hog-lice; Inſects.

Miller's-thumb, a ſmall River-fiſh, otherwiſe call'd a Cull.

Millet, a Plant, ſo call'd from the great Number of ſmall Grains, or Seeds which it bears.

Milliare or Milliarium, (Lat.) a Mile, a Space of Ground that contain'd a Thouſand Paces, among the Romans, who diſtinguiſh'd their Miles by ſetting certain Marks for that purpoſe.

Milliariſium, a Roman Silver-Coin, weighing 2 Drams, and worth 1 s. 3 d. Sterling.

Million, the Number of Ten Hundred Thouſand.

Milo, the Crotonian, a Man of that vaſt Strength, that at the Olympick Games, he carry'd an Ox the Space of a whole Furlong, kill'd it with his Fiſt, and afterwards eat it himſelf in one Day.

Miloglossum, one of the four Pair of Muſcles, belonging to the Tongue, that aſſiſts the Genioglosſum; which See.

Milt, the Spleen; alſo the ſoft Roe of Fiſhes.

Mill of Gold, a Portugueſe Coin, containing 2 ½ Drams.

Milt-waſte, a ſort of Herb.

Milt-wort or Spleenwort, an Herb.

Milter, the Male among Fiſh.

Milvago, (Lat.) the Hawk, or great Flying-fiſh.

Milvus or Milvius, the Kite, Glead, or Puttock; a Bird of Prey.

Mimeſis, (Gr.) Imitation: In Rhetorick, a Figure, in which other Mens Words and Actions are counterfeited or repreſented.

Mimiambus, a kind of Verſe, anciently uſed in Lampoons, Farces, &c.

Mimical, Buffoon-like, apiſh, wanton.

A Mimick, one that counterfeits the Geſture, Countenance, or Behaviour of others; a Buffoon, a Jeſter on a Stage.

Mimulus, (Lat.) the Herb Rattle, or Louſe-wort.

Mimoſa Planta, the ſame as Senſitive Plant.

Mimus, a Mimick, or Buffoon; alſo the Indian Mock-bird, not much unlike the Jay, but ſomewhat ſmaller. See Mocking-bird.

Mina or Mna, a ſort of Greek Money, containing an Hundred Drachma's, and amounting to ſomewhat more than three Pounds Sterling; alſo a Pound Weight of Sixteen Ounces.

Mina Ptolemaica, a Weight, containing 1 ½ Rotuli, or 18 Ounces, or 144 Drams.

Mina Ovis, a kind of Sheep, that has no Wooll on its Belly.

Minator or Minerator, (in old Records) a Miner, or Digger in the Mines.

Minator Carucæ, a Plough-man.

To Mince, to cut very ſmall.

Minchin. See Mynchin.

Mindſhip, (Sax.) a having of Honour and Worſhip.

Mine, (in Geogr.) a Place in the Earth, where Metals and Minerals are found, and out of which they are digged.

Mine, (in Sieges) a Hole dug by a Pioneer under any Work, to be fill'd with Barrels of Gun-Powder, having a Paſſage or Alley about four Foot ſquare, with ſeveral Turnings and Windings, at the End of which is the Chamber of the Mine, under the Place deſign'd to be blown up. There are alſo Mines ſprung in the Fields, call'd Fougades; which See.

Mine-Dial, a Box and Needle with a Braſs-Ring divided into 360 Degrees, and ſeveral Dials mark'd on it; generally made for the Uſe of Miners.

Mine-Ships or [illegible] Ships, Ships fill'd with Gun-powder, encloſ'd in ſtrong Vaults of Brick or Stone; to be brought up, and fired in the midſt of the Enemies Fleet.

Miners, (at a Siege) Men appointed to work in the Mines, being a particular Company of themſelves, commanded by a Captain of the Regiment of Fuſileers, that belong to the Artillery.

Minera, (Lat.) Mines, the Earth or Matter of which Minerals and Metals are made.

Mineral, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of Minerals.

Mineral Courts, certain peculiar Courts for regulating the Concerns of Lead-Mines, as Stannary-Courts are for Tin.

Mineral Cryſtal, (among Chymiſts) a Compoſition of Salt-peter well purify'd, and Flowers of Brimſtone. See Sal Prunella.

Mineralia, (Lat.) Minerals, certain fixed and ſolid Bodies, bred of Exhalations and Vapours incloſ'd in the Bowels of the Earth, as Meteors in the Air; being the Matter, of which Metals are made in Proceſs of Time.

Mineralia Media, ſuch Minerals as are as it were of a middle Nature between Stones and Metals, viz. ſeveral ſorts of Earth, Salts, and Sulphurs; as Ruddle, Black-lead, Allum, Vitriol, &c.

Mineraliſt, one ſkill'd in the Knowledge of Minerals and Metals.

Minever. See Meniver.

Minim or Menow, a ſmall ſort of Fiſh.

Miniature, a drawing of Pictures in little, which is often done with [illegible] and Lead; a painting in Water-colours.

Minime or Dark Minime, a brown, tawny, or duſky Colour.

Minim, a Muſical Note of a ſlow Time, two of which go to a Sembrief; as two Crotchets make a Minim, two Quavers a Crotchet, and two Semiquavers a Quaver: Minim is alſo a ſmall ſort of Printing-Letter.

Minima Naturalia, (in Philoſ.) Particles or little Parts of Matter, which tho' they have each a determinate Shape and Bulk, yet are too ſmall to be ſingly diſcerned, and are otherwiſe call'd Atoms.

Minime Friers, a certain Order of Monks founded by one Francis de Paul.

Miniments. See Muniments.

Minion, (Fr.) a Darling or Favourite; one that is in higheſt Credit or Eſteem with a great Perſon: Alſo a kind of great Gun.

Minion, (of the largeſt Size) a Piece of Ordnance of 3 ¼ Inches Diameter at the Bore, 8 Foot long, and of 1000 Pound-Weight; carrying a Ball of 3 Inches Diameter, and 3 Pounds 12 Ounces Weight: Its Charge is 3 Pounds 4 Ounces of Powder, and its point-blank Shot 125 Paces.

Minion, (Ordinary) a great Gun 3 Inches Diameter at the Bore, 7 Foot long, and weighing about 800 Pounds. It takes a Charge of 2 ½ Pounds of Powder, and carries a Bullet of 2 ¾ Inches Diameter, and 3 Pounds 4 Ounces Weight; its Point-blank Shot being 120 Paces.

Miniſter, (Lat.) properly ſignifies an Attendant, Servitour, or Waiter; alſo an Aſſiſtant, Helper, or Furtherer.

Miniſter of the Goſpel, a Clergy-man, whoſe Buſineſs it is, conſtantly to attend the Service of God, both in Publick and Private.

Miniſter of State, one whom a Prince entruſts with the Adminiſtration of the Government, or to whom he commits the Care of his principal Affairs; alſo an Agent, Ambaſſadour, or Reſident in a Prince's Court.

To Miniſter, to officiciate, to ſerve, to give or help one to.

Miniſterial, belonging to a Miniſter.

Miniſtery or Miniſtry, Service or Charge in any Imployment; but more eſpecially the Function of a Prieſt, or of a Miniſter of State.

Minium, (Lat.) Red-lead, us'd by Painters, and alſo in Phyſick. 'Tis made of Common Lead, calcin'd in a Reverberatory Furnace, till it turn to a red Colour; or elſe of White Lead ſet over the Fire in an Earthen Pan, and continually ſtirr'd with a Spatula.

Miniver, a kind of Furr. See Meniver.

Minnekin or Minks, a nice Dame, a mincing Laſs.

Minnekins, the ſmalleſt ſort of Pins, us'd by Women for their Clothes; alſo a kind of ſmall Catgut Strings for Violins, and other Muſical Inſtruments.

Minning-Days, certain Days every Year, on which the Souls of the Diſceaſed were had in ſpecial Remembrance, and peculiar Offices ſaid for them; as Obits, Dirges, &c. which See.

Minnow. See Menow.

Minor, (Lat.) leſſer; as The minor Poets or Prophets.

A Minor, one who is in Nonage, or under Age: In a Law-ſenſe, an Heir Male or Female, not yet come to the Age of 21 Years, during which time their Actions are of no Force.

The Minor or the Minor Propoſition, in a Syllogiſm or Logical Argumentation, is the latter Part of it otherwiſe call'd the Aſſumption. In Muſick it is apply'd to Sixths and Thirds; as A Sixth or Third Minor, i.e. one that is Leſſer.

Minores, Minor Friers, or Minorites, the Franciſcans

Franciſcan Friers, ſo call'd by the Rules of their Order.

Minority, Nonage, or a being under Age.

Minotaurus, a Poetical Monſter, half Man and half Bull, ſaid to be brought forth by Paſiphae, the Wife of Minos King of Crete: Alſo the Name of a Conſtellation, or Cluſter of Stars in the Southern Hemiſphere.

Minovery, (a Law-Term, from the French Words Main, i. e. a Hand, and Ouvrer to work) a certain Treſpaſs or Offence, committed by a Man's Handy-work in the Foreſt; as an Engine to catch Deer, &c.

Minſter, (Sax.) a Monaſtery, or Conventual Church; as York-Minſter, Weſtminſter, &c.

Minſtrel, (Fr.) a Player on the Violin; a Fidler, or Piper.

Mint, a well-known Herb, good to comfort the Stomach, to help Digeſtion, and to expel Wind.

The Mint, the Place where the Queen's Coin is made, which has been for a long time at the Tower of London.

Officers of the Mint. See Maſter, Provoſt, Warden, &c.

Minuet. See Menuet.

Minute, (Lat.) ſmall, little.

Minute Tithes, ſmall Tithes, ſuch as uſually belong to the Vicar; as Wooll, Lambs, Piggs, Butter, Cheeſe, Eggs, Honey, &c.

A Minute, the ſixtieth part of an Hour; alſo a Moment, or very ſmall Portion of Time: In Geography, 'tis the ſixtieth part of a Degree, which in the Heavens is ſomewhat more than an Engliſh Mile: In Architecture, the ſixtieth part of a Meaſure, call'd a Modale; which See.

Minute-Line. See Log-Line.

Minutes, the firſt Draughts of any Writings, foul Papers, &c. Alſo the Abſtracts of a Judge's Sentence, taken in a Court by the Prothonotary.

Minutio, (Lat.) a miniſhing or leſſening: In old Records, a letting of Bloud, ſuch as was in uſe among Religious Perſons in Monaſteries, &c.

Minyanthes, a kind of Trefoil; an Herb.

Miracle, (Lat.) a Work perform'd by the Almighty Power of God, any extraordinary and wonderful Effect, which ſeems to be above the Force of Nature; a Wonder, or wondrous Thing.

Miraculous, belonging to, or done by a Miracle; that is beyond all Expectation; wonderful, marvellous.

Miriam, (Heb. Bitterneſs or Affliction) the Daughter of Amram, and Siſter of Moſes and Aaron. In the New Teſtament it is expreſs'd Mariam or Mary; and there are ſeveral Women of that Name mention'd beſides the Bleſſed Virgin; as Mary Magdalen, Mary the Siſter of Martha, &c.

Mirmillones, (Lat. among the Romans) a ſort of Gladiators, or Sword-Players; one of whom was armed with a Shield, Scith, and Head-piece with the Figure of a Fiſh on the Creſt, as the other that fought againſt him was with a Net and a Trident, or three-ſpiked Fork.

Mirobolans, a kind of Plums, that are cold in the firſt Degree, and dry in the ſecond; ſo that they ſtrengthen, purge and bind at the ſame time.

Miroir, (Fr.) a Glaſs, or Looking-glaſs: Alſo a Term in Cookery; as Eggs dreſs'd au Miroir, i. e. broken into a Plate full of Gravy, over a Chafing-diſh, and afterwards ic'd with the red-hot Fire-ſhovel.

Mirrour, a Looking-glaſs, or the Surface of any dark Body, poliſh'd, and made fit to reflect the Rays of Light that fall on it: In a figurative Senſe, a Model, or Pattern; as He is a Mirrour of Vertue and Patience.

Mirrour-Stone or Muſcovy-Glaſs. See Selenites.

Mis, a Particle, which in Compoſition implies ſome Errour or Defect; as Miſadvice, Miſbehaviour, Miſchance, &c.

Miſa, (in old Latin Records) a Compact or Agreement, a Form of Peace.

Miſadventure or Miſaventure, (in Common Law) is the killing of a Man, partly by Negligence, and partly by Chance; as by throwing a Stone careleſly, ſhooting an Arrow, diſcharging a Gun, &c. In this Caſe the Offender loſes his Goods, and has Pardon of Courſe for his Life.

Miſanthropiſt, (Gr.) a Man-hater.

Miſanthropy, the hating of Men, or ſhunning their Company.

To Miſapprehend, (Lat.) not to apprehend, or underſtand rightly.

Miſbode, (old Word) Wrong.

Miſcarriage, ill Behaviour, Folly, the ill Succeſs of a Buſineſs; the untimely bringing forth of a Child.

To Miſcarry, to bring forth a Child before the time; not to ſucceed, to be loſt, to be caſt away at Sea.

Miſcellaneous, mixt together without Order.

Miſcellanies, Mixtures of divers things together, Collections upon ſeveral Subjects.

Miſcogniſant, (Law-Word) ignorant of, or not knowing; as That no Perſon may be miſcogniſant of the Penalties of ſuch an Act.

Miſcontinuance. See Diſcontinuance.

Miſconſtruction, a miſconſtruing, or making an ill Conſtruction of.

To Miſconſtrue, to interpret amiſs, to put an ill meaning upon; to take one's Words or Expreſſions in the worſt Senſe.

Miſcreancy, the State or Condition of a Miſcreant.

Miſcreant, an Infidel, or Unbeliever; one that is tainted with Hereſy, or embraces a falſe Religion.

Miſdemeanour, a miſdemeaning, or behaving one's ſelf ill; an Offence, or Fault.

High Miſdemeanour, a Crime of a hainous Nature, next to High Treaſon.

Miſe, (Fr.) a Law-Word, us'd in divers Senſes, viz. 1. A Gift or cuſtomary Preſent, which the People of Wales give to every new King or Prince at his Entrance into that Principality. 2. A Tribute or Fine of Three thouſand Marks, which the Inhabitants of the County Palatine of Cheſter, paid at the Change of every Owner of the ſaid Earldom, for the enjoying of their Liberties.

In a Writ of Right, that's termed a Miſe, which in all other Actions is call'd an Iſſue; ſo that to To joyn the Miſe upon the Meer, is as much as to ſay, to joyn the Miſe upon the clear Right, i. e. to joyn upon this Point, Whether has the more Right, the Tenant or Demandant.

Miſes, are alſo taken for the Profits of Lands, ſometimes for Taxes or Tallages, and ſometimes for Expences or Coſts.

Miſe or Meaſe. See Meſſuage.

Miſe-money, Money given by way of Compoſition or Agreement, to purchaſe any Liberty, &c.

Miſer, (Lat.) a covetous Wretch.

Miſerable, wretched, unfortunate, diſtreſſed, poor; ſad, pitiful, paltry, baſe, niggardly.

Miſerableneſs, Covetouſneſs, Niggardlineſs, Stingineſs.

Miſerere, (i. e. have Mercy) the Title and firſt Word in Latin of the Fifty-firſt Pſalm, uſually call'd The Pſalm of Mercy, and often preſented by the Ordinary to ſuch Malefactors as have the Benefit of the Clergy allow'd them.

Miſerere mei, a Name given to a moſt vehement Pain in the Guts, proceeding from an Inflammation, or from the twiſting of them, or from the Periſtaltick Motion inverted: It is otherwiſe call'd Chordapſus & Volvulus.

Miſericordia, Mercy, Compaſſion. In a Law-Senſe, it is an arbitrary Amerciament or Fine impos'd on any Offender, and ſo call'd becauſe it ought to be very moderate, and rather leſs than the Offence. Sometimes it ſignifies to be quit and diſcharged of all manner of Amerciaments, that one may fall into in the Foreſt.

Miſericordia in Cibis & Potu, (in old Records) Over-commons, or any Portion of Victuals, given gratis to Religious Perſons, above their ordinary Allowance.

Miſericordia Moderata. See Moderata Miſericordia.

Miſericordiæ Regulares, certain ſet Allowances of ſuch Over-commons, which were made in ſome Convents upon extraordinary Days.

Miſery, Wretchedneſs, Misfortune, Trouble, ſad Condition, Poverty, Want.

Miſfeaſans, (Law-Word) Miſdeeds or Treſpaſſes, and Misfeaſor a Treſpaſſer.

To Miſinterpret, to interpret ill, to give a wrong Senſe of.

Miſinterpretation, the Act of miſinterpreting.

Miskenning or Miskonning, (Law-Term) a varying, or changing one's Speech in Court.

Miskering or Miſherising. See Abiſheriſing.

Miskin, (old Word) a little Bag-pipe.

Miſnomer, (Fr. Law-Term) the uſing of one Name or Term for another; a miſterming or miſcalling.

Miſogamiſt, (Gr.) a Marriage-hater.

Miſogamy, a hating, or deſpiſing of Marriage.

Miſpriſion, (Fr. in Common Law) ſignifies a Neglect or Overſight; it is alſo uſ'd in ſome Statutes for a miſtaking.

Miſpriſion of Clerks, a Neglect or Default of Clerks in Writing, Engroſſing or keeping Records, upon which Account no Proceſs ſhall be made void or diſcontinued, but ſuch Defaults are to be amended by the Juſtices of Aſſize.

Miſpriſion of Felony, &c. is a light Account had of ſuch a Crime, by not revealing it when we know it to be committed, or by letting any Perſon ſent to Priſon, even upon Suſpicion of it, to go before he be indicted; which Offence is finable by the Juſtices before whom the Perſon is convicted.

Miſpriſion of Treaſon, is likewiſe the Concealment, or not diſcloſing of known Treaſon, for which the Offender is to ſuffer Impriſonment, during the Queen's Pleaſure; as alſo to loſe his Goods, and the Profits of his Lands during his Life.

To Miſqueam, (old Word) to diſpleaſe.

To Miſrepreſent, not to repreſent fairly, to give a wrong or falſe Character of.

Miſrepreſentation, the Act of miſrepreſenting.

Miſrule, Miſgovernment, Diſorder.

The Lord or Maſter of Miſrule, the chief among the Revellers, the Manager of a Club at Merry-makings, the Ring-leader in a Diſturbance.

Miſs, a Title given to a young Gentlewoman; alſo a kept Miſtreſs, a Lady of Pleaſure, a Concubine.

Miſſal, a Maſs-book, a Book containing all the Ceremonies of the Popiſh Maſs.

Miſſaticus, a Word uſ'd in Doomſday-Record for a Meſſenger.

Miſſeldine, Miſſeltoe, or Miſtletoe, a kind of Shrub that grows on ſome Trees, as Oaks, Apple-trees, &c. of which it is reported, That Thruſhes which have eat the Berries, if they rooſt all Night on the Tree, and dung upon it, they make Bird-lime: Whence the Proverb Turdus ſibi malum cacat, or The Thruſh ſhits her own Sorrow.

Miſſen-maſt or Mizzen-maſt, a Maſt, or round piece of Timber that ſtands in the Stern or back part of a Ship: Some great Ships require two ſuch Maſts, that which is next the Main-maſt, being uſually termed the Main-miſſen, and the other ſtanding next the Poop, the Bonaventure Miſſen: The Length of the Miſſen-maſt is half that of the Main-maſt, or it is the ſame with the Height of the Main-top Maſt from the Quarter-deck; and the Miſſen-top Maſt is half that.

But when the Word Miſſen is uſ'd alone at Sea, the Mariners always mean the Miſſen-Sail, and not the Maſt; and the proper Terms of Art belonging thereto are as follows, viz. Change the Miſſen, i. e. bring the Miſſen-Yard over to the other Side of the Maſt; Peek the Miſſen, i. e. put the Miſſen-Yard right up and down the Maſt; Set the Miſſen, i. e. ſet the Miſſen-ſail right as it ought to ſtand; Spell the Miſſen, i. e. let go the the Sheat, and withal peak up the Yard.

Miſſile, (Lat.) a Dart or Arrow; any thing to be caſt or thrown. In Heraldry, a Mixture of ſeveral Colours together.

Miſſion, a ſending; as The Miſſion of the Apoſtles. It is alſo more eſpecially taken for a Power given by the Pope to preach the Doctrine of the Roman Church in foreign Countries.

Miſſionaries or Fathers of the Miſſion, thoſe Prieſts that have receiv'd ſuch a Commiſſion, and are ſent abroad for that Purpoſe.

Miſſive or Letter Miſſive, a Letter that is ſent from one Perſon to another.

Miſſura, (in old Latin Records) a ſinging the Hymn call'd Nunc dimittis; and performing other Superſtitious Ceremonies, to recommend and diſmiſ a dying Perſon.

Miſſurium or Miſſorium, a Platter or Diſh for ſerving up Meat to Table.

Miſter, (old Word) Need, Want.

To Miſ-time, not to ſet a right Time for a thing, to do it out of Seaſon.

Miſſle-bird, a kind of Thruſh, that feeds on Miſtletoe.

Miſ-tryal, (Law-Word) an erroneous or fal Tryal.

Miſuſer, an Abuſe of Liberty, Privilege, or Benefit; as He ſhall make Fine, or be fined for his Miſuſe

Miſwoman, a Word uſ'd by Chaucer for a lew Woman or Whore.

Miſy, (Syr.) a kind of Copper-Oar, reſemblin Gold, hard, and ſparkling like a Star; which is foun in Egypt, and the Iſland of Cyprus.

Mite, an ancient ſmall Coin, about a third pa of our Farthing; alſo a little Worm breeding i Cheeſe, Meat, Corn, &c. Alſo the 24th part of Grain in Weight. In Falconry, Mites are a kind Vermin ſmaller than Lice, about the Heads an Necks of Hawks.

Mitella, (Lat.) a little Mitre, or Turbant: I Surgery, a Swath or Band to hold up the Arm whe it is hurt or wounded.

Miter or Mitre, a kind of Crown or Cap, a Ornament which Popiſh Biſhops and regular Abbo wear upon their Heads, when they walk or officia in their Formalities. The Pope has four Miters greater or leſſer Value, according to the Solemni of the Feſtivals which are to be celebrated.

Mithras, (Gr.) the chief Deity of the ancie Perſians, commonly repreſented under the Figure the Sun.

Mithrax, a Stone of the Roſe-colour, but chang able when ſet againſt the Sun.

Mithridate, a ſingular Confection or Preſervati againſt Poiſon, made of ſeveral Ingredients; as O pium, Vipers-fleſh, Squills, Agarick, &c. This A tidote is ſo call'd becauſe the Receipt of it was f found amidſt the Papers of Mithridates King of P tus, and carry'd to Rome by Pompey.

To Mitigate, (Lat.) to pacify, or appeaſe; aſſwage, allay, or eaſe.

Mitigation, a mitigating, pacifying, or ging, are mitting the Severity of a Decree or Puniſhment.

Mitrales Valvulæ, (Lat. in Anat.) are two Valves or Skins, at the Mouth of the Pulmonary Vein in the left Venticle of the Heart, which ſerve to hinder the flowing back of the Bloud brought thither towards the Lungs again; and are ſo call'd, becauſe when joyn'd together they ſomewhat reſemble a Miter.

Mitre. See Miter.

Mitred, that wears a Miter.

Mitred Abbots, thoſe Governours of Monaſteries or Religious Houſes, that have obtained from the See of Rome, the Privilege of wearing the Miter, Ring, Gloves, and Croſier-ſtaff of a Biſhop.

Mitta or Mitten, an ancient Meaſure of ten Buſhels.

Mittendo Manuſcriptum pedis finis, (Lat.) a Judicial Writ, directed to the Treaſurer and Chamberlain of the Exchequer, to ſearch and convey the Foot of a Fine acknowledged before Juſtices in Eyre into the Common-Pleas.

Mittens, certain Winter-Gloves made of Woollen or Furrs, and uſually worn by Country-People.

Mittimus, (Lat. i. e. we ſend) an Order or Warrant from a Juſtice of Peace for ſending an Offender to a Gaol or Priſon: Alſo a Writ by which Records are remov'd from one Court to another.

Mitys, (Gr.) the gummy Wax with which a Bee-hive is firſt lin'd.

Miva, (Lat. in Phyſical Compoſitions) the pulp or ſoft part of a Quince, boil'd up with Sugar to a thick Conſiſtence.

To Mix, to mingle.

Mixen, (Country-Word) a Dung-hill, or Heap of Dung.

Mixias, a foreign Weight, containing 10000 Drams of 8 to one Ounce, and 12 Ounces to a Pound.

Mixon, one of the Shelves that lie before the Iſle of Wight; being a good Security to the Place againſt an Enemy, but very troubleſome to the Sea-men.

A Mixt or Mixt Body, (in Chymiſtry and Natural Philoſophy) is a Body not mixt or compounded by Art, but by Nature; ſuch as Metals, Minerals, Plants, Living-creatures, &c.

Mixt Figures, in Geometry. See Figures.

Mixt Mathematicks. See Mathematicks.

Mixt Number, (in Arithm.) one that is partly an Integer or Whole Number, and partly a Fraction; as $6\frac{1}{2}$, $8\frac{2}{3}$, $12\frac{3}{4}$, &c.

Mixt Reaſon or Proportion, is when the Summ of the Antecedent and Conſequent, is compar'd with the Difference between the ſame Antecedent and Conſequent.

Mixt Tithes, are Tithes of Butter, Cheeſe, Milk, &c. and of the Young of Cattel.

Mixtilio or Meſtilo, (in ancient Latin Deeds) Mong-Corn, Mixt-Corn, or Maſlin.

Mixture, a mingling together, things mixed, a Compound. In a Phyſical Senſe, ſeveral Ingredients or Drugs mixt in a Medicine.

Mizmor, (Span.) a Dungeon.

Mizzen-maſt. See Miſſen-maſt.

To Mizzle, to rain in ſmall Drops.

Mna or Mina, (Gr.) an ancient Weight. The Attick Mina contain'd Twelve Ounces and a half; the Roman Twelve Ounces, and the Alexandrian Twenty Ounces; alſo a Pound in Money. See Mina.

Mnemonica, Precepts or Rules, and Common Places to help the Memory.

Mnemoſyne, Memory, or the Art of Memory.

Moab, (Heb. of the Father) Lot's Son by his eldeſt Daughter; of whom the Moabites were deſcended.

Moat, a ſtanding Pool or Pond, to keep Fiſh in; a Ditch, or great Trench of Water, encompaſſing a Caſtle, or Dwelling-Houſe. In Fortification, a Trench or Depth cut round a Town or Fort, the Dimenſions of which often depend on the Nature of the Soil, accordingly as it is Marſhy or Rocky; but it ought to be ſo wide, that no Tree or Ladder can be laid over it, i. e. from 16 to 22 Fathom, and from 15 to 25 Foot deep.

Dry Moat, a Ditch that has little or no Water, and which ought to be deeper than one that is full of Water; there is alſo uſually another ſmall Trench cut quite along the middle of it.

Flat-bottom'd Moat, is that which has no ſloping; its Corners being ſomewhat rounded.

Lined Moat, is that whoſe Sides, viz. the Scarp and Counterſcarp, are both caſ'd with a Wall of Maſon's Work, lying in Talus, or a-ſlope.

Moat or Mote, a Body ſo ſmall that it ſeems to be indiviſible, ſuch as play in the Beams of the Sun.

Mobb or Mobile, the giddy Multitude, tumultuous Rabble, or Dregs of the People.

Mobby, a certain Drink made of Potatoe-Roots, and much us'd in the Iſland of Barbadoes.

Mobility, (Lat.) Aptneſs to move, or to be moved; Moveableneſs.

Mochlia, (Gr. in Surgery) a reducing of Bones put out of Joynt, to their Natural State.

Mochlion, a little Leaver, or Bolt.

To Mock, to ſcoff or laugh at, to flout, or jeer; to deceive.

Mocks, the Maſhes of a Net.

Mock-Privet, a kind of Herb.

Mocking-bird, a ſort of Bird in Virginia, which imitates the Notes of all it hears, and is counted one of the fineſt Singing-birds in the World.

Mockadoes or Mockadeers, a kind of Woollen Stuff, made in England and elſewhere.

Mockery, mocking, Jeſt, Banter.

Modality, (Lat.) a School-Term, ſignifying the manner of a thing in the Abſtract, or the manner of exiſting.

Modder, (from the Dutch Word Modde or Moddekin, i. e. a Maid, or Virgin) a young Girl, or Wench.

Mode, (Fr.) Faſhion, or Garb; Way, Manner.

Model, an Original Pattern, propos'd to be imitated: Alſo a Pattern or Platform, made of Wood, Stone, Metal, Plaiſter of Paris, or any other Materials, for the more exact carrying on of a greater Work; the Deſign or Shape of any thing in little.

Model, a Term in Architecture. See Module.

To Model, to frame according to a Model; to faſhion.

Moderata Miſericordia, a Writ in favour of one that is amerc'd or fin'd in a County-Court, Court-Baron, or other Court not being of Record, for any Tranſgreſſion or Offence, beyond the Quality of the Fault.

Moderate, temperate, ſober, that does not exceed.

To Moderate, to qualify, temper or allay, to govern or ſet Bounds to, to keep within Compaſs; to leſſen or abate Expences, &c.

Moderation, Temperance, Prudence, Diſcretion; a Vertue that governs all the Paſſions.

Moderator, a diſcreet Governour, a Decider of any Controverſy; the Preſident of an Aſſembly, an Umpire at a Diſputation in an Univerſity.

Modern, that is of late Time, or that has not been in Uſe till of late Ages; oppoſed to ancient, as The ancient and modern Poets.

Modeſt, ſober, grave, diſcreet in Behaviour; humble, baſhful.

Modeſty, Sobriety, Diſcretion, Shamefacedneſs, Baſhfulneſs.

Modicum, a little Matter, a ſmall Pittance.

Modification, a modifying, or qualifying; a ſetting a Meaſure or Limit to any thing.

To Modify, to moderate, to qualify, to limit or bound: In Philoſophy, to give the Modality or manner of Exiſtence.

Modillon or Modiglion, (Ital.) a little Model or Meaſure: In Architecture, that Part which is often ſet under the Cornices, eſpecially in the Corinthian and Compoſite Orders, and bears up the Projecture or Jutting out of the Drip. It is call'd the little Model, with reſpect to the greater, which is the Diameter of the Pillar: Alſo a Shouldering piece or Bracket.

Modiolus, (Lat.) a little Buſhel, a Bucket to draw Water out of a Well, or Pit: Alſo a Trepan, a Surgeon's Inſtrument, to cut out ſmall Bones in great Bruiſes, Cuts, and Fractures of the Scull; the ſame as the Trepan; which See.

Modiſh, agreeable to the Mode or Faſhion.

Modius, a Meaſure in uſe among the Romans, for all ſorts of Grain, which contain'd about nine Engliſh Quarts: The Word is now taken for a Buſhel, which is different according to the Cuſtom of ſeveral Countries.

Modius Terræ vel Agri, a Word much us'd in the ancient Charters of the Britiſh Kings, which probably contain'd the ſame Quantity of Ground as with the Romans, viz. a hundred Foot long, and as many broad.

Modius Vini, a Hogſhead, or Tierce of Wine.

Modo & Forma, are Words of Art in a Law-ſuit and Pleadings; particularly in the Defendant's Anſwer, when he denies himſelf to have done the thing ſaid to his Charge, Modo & Forma declarata, i. e. in manner and form, as it is declar'd.

Modulation, (in Muſick) Tuning or Warbling, the carrying on a Song in the ſame Key, ſometimes paſſing out of it, and then getting into it again; an agreeable Harmony.

Module or Model, (in Architect.) a kind of Meaſure, the Diameter of the Bottom of a Pillar in each Order, by which its Length, &c. is meaſur'd, and which is uſually divided into Sixty equal parts call'd Minutes, except in the Dorick and Tuſcan Orders, where the Module is but half the Diameter. It is alſo divided into twelve equal Parts, and into Eighteen for the Ionick, Corinthian, and Compoſite Orders.

Modus Decimandi, (Lat. in Common Law) is when Land, a Summ of Money, or yearly Penſion is given to the Parſon, &c. by Compoſition, as a Satisfaction for his Tithes in kind.

Modwall, a Bird that deſtroys Bees, a ſort of Wood-pecker.

Mognions, (Fr.) Armour for the Shoulders.

Mogſhade, (Country-Word) the Shadow of Trees, &c.

Mogul or Great Mogul, a Mahometan Prince, the moſt powerful in all the Indies, whoſe Dominions are very large and wealthy.

Mohair, a ſort of Stuff made of Silk and Hair, and ſometimes water'd.

Moiety, (Fr. Law-Word) the half of any thing.

Moignon, the Stump of a Leg or Arm that is cut off; alſo Armour for the Arms.

Moil, a great Mule. See Muleto.

To Moil, to work with might and main, to drudge; alſo to dawb with Dirt.

Moiles, a kind of high-ſoled Shoes, worn in ancient Times by Kings and great Perſons.

Moineau, (Fr.) the Sparrow, a Bird: In Fortification, a ſmall flat Baſtion, rais'd in the middle of an over-long Courtin, that has other Baſtions at each end, which are not well defended by Reaſon of their Diſtance.

Mokel, (Sax.) much.

Mokes, the Maſhes of a Net.

Moky, (old Word) cloudy; as Moky Weather.

Mola, (Lat.) a Mill, a Grinder, or Jaw-tooth. In Anatomy, the Whirl-bone on the Top of the Knee, otherwiſe call'd Patella and Rotula. Alſo the Mole-but, a kind of Fiſh in the Adriatick Sea, ſo call'd as being like a Lump of Fleſh.

Mola Carnea, a Moon-calf, a piece of Fleſh or ſpungy Subſtance without Shape, often black like clotted Bloud, and ſometimes extreme hard, which breeding in the Womb, cauſes a Woman to ſeem with Child, and is brought forth inſtead of a real Birth.

Mola Salſa, (among the Romans) a kind of toaſted Wheat, peel'd and ſoak'd in Water with Salt and Frankincenſe, in order to be ſprinkled between the Horns of the Beaſt, before it was ſacrific'd.

Molar, belonging to a Mill: Whence the Molar Teeth, i. e. thoſe five outmoſt Teeth, on either Side of the Mouth, both above and beneath, which are commonly call'd Grinders, or Cheek-teeth.

Molares Lapides, Mill-ſtones.

Molaſſes. See Moloſſes.

Mole, a Rampart, Peer, or Fence, rais'd in a Harbour, to break the Force of the Waves; as the Mole of Dunkirk, Tanger, &c. Alſo a kind of Spot on the Skin, either plain or bunching out, ſuch as happen to Children from the falſe Imaginations or Frights of their Mother.

Mole or Moldwarp, a little Creature that lives under Ground, and often throws up the Mould in ſmall Heaps.

Molendinum, (in old Latin Records) a Mill: Molendinum ad Ventum or Ventriticum, a Wind-mill. Molendinum aquaticum, a Water-mill. Molendinum bladonicum, bladum, or de blado, a Corn-mill. Molendinum equitium, a Horſe-mill. Molendinum fullonicum or fullarium, a Fulling-mill. Molendinum molare, a grinding or Griſt-mill.

Molendum, Corn ſent to a Mill, Griſt.

To Moleſt, to diſturb, trouble, vex, aggrieve, or diſquiet.

Moleſtation, a moleſting, vexing, or putting to Trouble.

Moline, (in Heraldry) a ſort of Croſs; as The Field Azure, a Croſs Moline Or.

Moliniſts, the Followers of Molina, a Spaniſh Jeſuit, who was Profeſſour of Divinity at Coimbra in Portugal, and ſtood it out mainly againſt univerſal Grace; in which Point the Jeſuits are the great Oppoſers of the Janſeniſts.

Molitura, Mulitura, or Multura, (in ancient Latin Writers) Molture or Toll paid for grinding in a Mill: It was alſo ſometimes taken for Griſt, or a Sack of Corn brought to the Mill to be ground.

Molitura Libera, free Grinding, or Liberty to make uſe of a Mill, without paying Toll; a Privilege which the Lord of a Manour generally reſerv'd to his own Family.

Mollicinum Emplaſtrum, a mollifying, oily Plaiſter.

Mollientia or Emollientia, mollifying or ſoftening Medicines.

Mollification, a mollifying, a making ſoft, or tender.

To Mollify, to ſoften, to make ſoft, tender and ſupple.

Mollock, (old Word) Dirt, Dung, Ordure.

Mollugo, (Lat.) a kind of Cleavers, an Herb.

Molluſca, a Nut with a ſoft Shell, a ſort of Wallnut, or Filberd.

Molmutan or Molmutine Laws, the Laws of Donwallo Molmutius, ſixteenth King of the Britains, who began his Reign 444 Years before the Birth of Chriſt.

Molneda or Mulneda, (in old Latin Records) a Mill-pool, or Pond for driving a Mill.

Moloch, the God of the Ammonites, to whom they ſacrific'd their Children in the Valley of Tophet, making them paſs thro' the Fire: This Idol was made of Braſs, having the Body of a Man, and the Head of a Calf.

Moloche, (Gr.) the great ſort of Mallows, or Hollihocks.

Molochites, a kind of precious Stone, of a thick greeniſh Colour like Mallows.

Molopes, black and blew Spots, the Marks of Stripes or Blows ; alſo red Spots in malignant and peſtilential Feavers, like thoſe which appear in the Skin after beating.

Moloſſes or Molaſſes, the Refuſe-Syrip, or Dregs in the boiling of Sugar.

Moloſſus, (Gr.) a Maſtiff-dog : Alſo a Foot in Greek and Latin Verſe, conſiſting of three long Syllables ; as Venatrices, both ſo call'd from Moloſſia, a Country of Epirus in Greece.

Molten, melted, or caſt ; as The molten Calf; molten Greaſe, a Diſeaſe in Horſes.

Molva, (Lat.) Ling, a ſort of Sea-fiſh.

Moly, (Gr.) Hermal, or wild Rue, an Herb ; alſo a kind of Garlick.

Molybdæna, a Vein of Lead and Silver together ; alſo a ſort of Litharge or Scum that ſticks to the Melting-Furnaces ; alſo the greater Arſe-ſmart, an Herb.

Molybditis, the Spume or Foam of Silver got out of Lead.

Molynſis. See Miaſma.

Mome, a meer Drone, a dull blockiſh Fellow, that has no Life in him.

Moment, (Lat.) an Inſtant, the leaſt part of Time, that can be aſſign'd : Alſo Weight, Force, Importance, Concern.

In Mathematicks, Moments are ſuch indeterminate and uncertain Parts of Quantity, as are ſuppoſed to be in a perpetual Flux, i. e. either continually encreaſing or decreaſing ; the former being termed Affirmative or Poſitive Moments, and the latter Negative or Subtractible ones.

In Natural Philoſophy, Moments are taken for the Quantities of Motion in any moving Body, and ſometimes ſimply for the Motion it ſelf, which is defin'd To be the Vis inſita, or Power by which any moving Bodies do continually change their Places.

Momentany or Momentary, that laſts as it were but a Moment ; that is of a very ſhort Continuance.

Momus, (Gr.) a certain Deity among the Ancients, who made it his whole Buſineſs to controll and carp at all the other Gods : Whence the Word is commonly taken for a Fault-finder, one that ſnarls at every thing, and is pleas'd with nothing.

Monachal, belonging to Monks, Monkiſh.

Monachiſm, the State or Condition of Monks.

Monades, a Term in Arithmetick, the ſame as Digits ; which See.

Monarch, an abſolute Prince that rules alone.

Monarchical, belonging to a Monarch, or Monarchy.

Monarchy, the Government of a State by a ſingle Perſon, Kingly Government.

Monaſtery, a Covent, or Cloiſter ; a College of Monks or Nuns.

Monaſtical or Monaſtick, belonging to Monks, or Monaſteries ; as Monaſtick Diſcipline, Monaſtick Life, &c.

Mond or Monde, (Fr.) the World, the Univerſe ; Men, Mankind, Folks.

Mond or Mound, a Golden Globe, being one of the Enſigns of an Emperour, who challenges a kind of Right to the whole World.

Monday, the ſecond Day of the Week, ſo call'd from its being dedicated to the Moon, which our Saxon Anceſtours us'd to worſhip on that Day.

Monedula, (Lat.) the Chough, Daw, or Jackdaw ; a Bird.

Moneta, Money, or Coin, the Stamp of Money, or the Place where it is coined.

Monetagium, (Law-Term) the Right and Propriety of minting, or coining Money.

Monetales Triumviri. See Triumviri Monetales.

Monetarius, a Moneyer ; a Maker, or Coiner of Money.

Money, a piece of Metal, ſtampt with the Effigies and Arms of a Prince or State, which renders it current and authentick to paſs at a common Rate, for things of different Value.

Money-wort, otherwiſe call'd Herb Two-pence, an Herb of a cold, dry, and binding Quality. See Nummularia.

Moneyers, Mint-men in the Tower of London ; ſome of whom are employ'd in ſheering and forging the Money, ſome in beating it broad, others in rounding it, and others in ſtamping or coining it. Alſo Bankers that make it their Trade, to deal in Monies upon Return.

Monger, a kind of Fiſher-boat.

Monger or Manger, a Saxon Word, anciently us'd for a Merchant, and now for a Mark of ſeveral Merchantable Trades ; as a Cheeſe-monger, Felt-monger, Iron-monger, Wood-monger, &c.

Mongrel, a Creature got by two kinds : Alſo a Perſon that is born of Parents of ſeveral Countries.

Monition, (Lat.) an admoniſhing, or giving warning ; eſpecially a Warning given by Eccleſiaſtical Authority, to a Clerk to reform his Manners, upon Intimation of his ſcandalous Life.

Monitor or Monitour, an Advertiſer, or Remembrancer ; an Admoniſhar, or Adviſer ; an Obſerver of Manners in a School.

Monitory, belonging to Admonition, that ſerves to admoniſh, advertiſe, or warn ; as Monitory Dreams and Viſions.

Monitory Letters, Letters from an Eccleſiaſtical Judge, upon Information of Scandals and Abuſes, within Cognizance of his Court.

Monk, one that lives in Common in a Monaſtery or Cloiſter, under a Vow, to obſerve the Rules eſtabliſh'd by the Founder, to wear the peculiar Habit of the Order, &c.

Monk-fiſh, a ſort of Indian Fiſh, flat like a Scate, and ſo call'd, becauſe its Figure reſembles a Monk's Cowl, or Hood.

Monks-clothes, a certain kind of courſe Cloth, mention'd in Stat. 20. H. 6.

Monks-hood, a ſort of Flower, which ſome take to be the ſame with the Helmet-flower.

Monks-Rhubarb, a kind of Plant.

Monks-ſeam, (among Sailers) a particular way of ſewing the Selvidge of Sails together, when the Edges of one are laid over thoſe of the other, and ſo ſew'd on both Sides, to make them more ſtrong and laſting.

Monkery, the Profeſſion, Temper, or Humour of Monks.

Monoceros, an Unicorn, or Beaſt having but one Horn : Alſo the Saw-fiſh.

Monochord, an Inſtrument, made uſe of by the Ancients, to determine the Proportion of Sounds ; but ſome apply the Name to a Muſical Inſtrument, that has only one ſingle String ; as the Trumpet-marine.

Monochromaton, a kind of Picture, all of one Colour, without Mixture.

Monocolon, the Gut, otherwiſe call'd Cæcum Inteſtinum.

Monogamy, ſingle Marriage, a having but one Wife, or one Husband, and no more all the time of Life.

Monogram, a Cipher, or Character, conſiſting of one or more Letters, interwoven together, which was formerly the Abbreviation of a Name, and ſerv'd for a Seal: Alſo a Sentence in ſpeaking, or an Epigram in one Verſe.

Monogrammous Picture, a Picture only drawn in Lines, without Colours.

Monohemera, Diſeaſes that are cur'd in one Day.

Monologue, an Act in a Stage-Play, in which only one Actor ſpeaks.

Monomachy, a fighting of one Couple only hand to hand, a ſingle Combat or Duel.

Mononomial, (in Algebra) a Magnitude or Quantity of one Name, or of one ſingle Term.

Monopegia, a ſharp Pain in the Head, affecting one ſingle Place.

Monopetalous Plants, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch whoſe Flowers are all in one continu'd Leaf, and fall off all together; tho' ſometimes cut or divided a little way into many ſeeming Petala or Leaves; as Borage, Bugloſs, &c.

Monopoliſt or Monopolizer, one that monopolizes or engroſſes all the Trade to himſelf.

Monopoly, (i. e. a ſelling alone) when one or more Perſons engroſs any ſaleable Commodity into his or their own Hands, ſo that none elſe can gain by them: In a Law-ſenſe, a Grant from the King or Queen to any Perſon or Perſons, for the ſole buying, ſelling, working, or uſing of any thing.

Monopteron, (in Architect.) a ſort of round Temple, whoſe Roof was only ſupported by Pillars; ſo call'd, from its having but one Wing or Iſle.

Monoptoton, (in Grammar) a Noun that has but one Caſe; as Dicis in the Genitive, Incitu in the Ablative, &c.

Monopyrenous Fruit, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Fruit of a Plant, as contains in it only one Kernel, or Seed.

Monoſtichia, Epigrams conſiſting only of one ſingle Verſe; as Pauper videri Cinna vult, & eſt pauper.

Monoſyllable, a Word that has but one Syllable.

Monothelites, a Sect of Hereticks, who held, That there was but one Will in Chriſt, and firſt appear'd A. C. 640.

Monotriglyph, (in Architect.) the ſpace of one Triglyph, between two Pillars, or two Pilaſters.

Mons, (Lat.) a Mountain, Mount, or Hill.

Mons Veneris, the upper Part of a Woman's Privities: In Palmeſtry, the Knob at the Root of the Fore-finger. See Tubercula.

Monſoon or Mounſoun, a conſtant Wind in the Eaſt-Indies, that blows three Months together one Way, and the next three Months the other Way.

Monſter, a miſ-ſhapen Living Creature, that degenerates from the right and natural Diſpoſition of its Parts, according to its Kind; any thing that is againſt, or beſide the common Courſe of Nature: In a figurative Senſe, it is ſaid, A Monſter of Cruelty or Avarice: The giddy Rabble is a Monſter with many Heads, &c.

Monſtrans de Droit, (Fr. i. e. the ſhewing of Right) a Suit in Chancery, for the Subject to be reſtor'd to Lands and Tenements which he ſhews to be his Right, tho' found by Office in the Poſſeſſion of another lately deceaſed; by which Office the Queen is intitled to a Chattel, Free-hold, or Inheritance in the ſaid Land.

Monſtrans de Faits ou Records, a ſhewing of Deeds or Records; which is thus: When an Action of Debt is brought upon a Bond or Obligation, after the Plaintiff has declar'd, he ought to ſhew the ſaid Obligation: and ſo it is of Records.

Monſtraverunt, (Lat.) a Writ that lyes for the Tenants in Ancient Demeſne, directed to the Lord, or to the Sheriff, and requiring him to forbear diſtraining them, for any Toll or Impoſition, contrary to their Liberty or Privilege.

Monſtroſity or Monſtrouſneſs, a being monſtrous, or beyond the ordinary Courſe of Nature.

Monſtrous, belonging to, or like a Monſter; prodigious, exceſſive.

Mont, (Fr.) a Mount, or Hill.

Mont-Pagnote or Poſt of the Invulnerable, (a Term in the Art of War) an Eminence, or Riſing-ground, choſen out of Cannon-ſhot of the Place beſieged, where curious Perſons place themſelves, to ſee the Attack, and the manner of the Seige, out of Danger.

Montaniſts, a Sect of Hereticks, ſo call'd from their firſt Ring-leader Montanus; they held, That the Holy Ghoſt was not given to the Apoſtles, but to themſelves.

Montefiaſco, a ſort of rich Wine, made at Montefiaſcone, a ſmall City of Italy, in St. Peter's Patrimony.

Montero, (Span.) a kind of Cap, us'd by Hunters, Horſe-men, and Sea-men.

Monteth, a ſcallop'd Baſon to cool Glaſſes in.

Month, the Space of 28 Days, in which Time the Moon compleats her Courſe: There are four ſorts of Months, viz. I. A Month of Apparition, or Illumination, i. e. the Space of 26 Days, and 12 Hours, during which the Moon appears; the other three Days being taken away, in which it is darken'd by the Sun. II. A Medical or Decretorial Month, which is likewiſe the Space of 26 Days and 12 Hours. III. A Month of Conſecution or Progreſſion, or a Synodical Month, i. e. the Space between one Conjunction of the Moon with the Sun and another, being ſomewhat above 29 Days and a half. IV. A Month of Peragration or Periodical Month, i. e. the Space of the Moon's Courſe from any one Point of the Zodiack, to the ſame again; being 27 Days, 7 Hours, and 45 Minutes.

The Month is alſo diſtinguiſh'd into Aſtronomical and Civil.

The Aſtronomical Month or the Synodical Solar Month, is preciſely the twelfth part of a Year, or the time the Sun takes up in paſſing thro' one of the Signs of the Zodiack, uſually accounted to conſiſt of about 30 Days, 10 Hours, and a half.

The Civil Month, is that which is ſuited to the different Cuſtoms of particular Nations and People, every one in their Way; ſome uſing the Lunar, and others the Solar Months.

Philoſophical Month, (among Chymiſts) is the Space of forty Days, and as many Nights.

Montifringilla, (Lat.) the Bramble, Brambling, or Brier-finch; a Bird.

Monument, a Memorial for After-Ages, a Tomb, Statue, Pillar, &c. rais'd in Memory of ſome famous Perſon, or Action; as

The Monument, a ſtately Pillar, built not far from London-Bridge, in Remembrance of that dreadful Fire which happen'd Sept. 2d. 1666, and laid in Aſhes 12000 Houſes, near the Place where it firſt began: This Pillar is of the Dorick Order, 202 Foot high, from the Level of the Ground, and 15 Foot Diameter, all of ſolid Portland Stone; having a fair Stair-caſe in the middle of black Marble, and an Iron-Balcony on the Top. The Pedeſtal is 21 Foot ſquare, and 40 Foot high; the Front of it being curiouſly adorn'd with ingenious Emblems in Baſſo Relievo.

Mood, Humour, Temper, Diſpoſition; as To be in a good Mood.

Moods, (in Grammar) determine the Significations of Verbs, with reſpect to the Manner and Circumſtances of what is affirm'd, being four in Number, viz. the Indicative, the Imperative, the Potential, and the Infinitive; whereto ſome add the Optative and the Subjunctive, which are in effect the ſame as the Potential, only diſtinguiſh'd by particular Conjunctions.

The Moods, in Logick, are the Univerſal Affirmative, the Univerſal Negative, the Particular Affirmative, and the Particular Negative.

In Muſick, Moods, ſignifie certain Proportions of the Time, or Meaſure of Notes, and were formerly four in Number, viz. The Perfect of the More, The Perfect of the Leſs, The Imperfect of the More, and The Imperfect of the Leſs. Theſe Moods are now altogether out of Uſe, except the laſt, being the ſame with that which we call The Common Mood; in which a Large contains two Longs, four Breves, eight Semibreves, ſixteen Minims, thirty-two Crotchets, ſixty-four Quavers, &c.

Among the Ancient Greeks, there were alſo five other Moods, termed Tones or Tunes by the Latins; the Uſe of which was to ſhew in what Key a Song was ſet, and how the different Keys had relation one to another: Theſe ſorts of Moods were diſtinguiſh'd by the Names of the ſeveral Provinces of Greece, where they were firſt invented; as the Dorick, Lydian, Ionick, Phrygian, and Æolick; ſome being proper for grave Muſick, others for warlike Tunes, and others for more light and ſoft Airs: All which See under thoſe reſpective Articles.

Moon, one of the ſeven Planets, and the nigheſt to the Earth; which goes round the Zodiack in 27 Days, 7 Hours, and 41 Minutes, but does not overtake the Sun in leſs than 29 Days, 12 Hours, and 44 Minutes.

Moon-calf, a falſe Conception.

Moon-eyed or Owl-eyed, that can ſee better at Night, than by Day.

Moon-fern, a ſort of Shrub.

Moon-wort, a ſmall Herb, but of great Virtue for curing Wounds, Fractures, Bruiſes, Ruptures, and Cancers of the Breaſt.

Moor, in old Time, ſignify'd a Heath, or barren Tract of Ground; but it is now commonly taken for a Marſh, or Fen.

Moor or Black-moor, a Native of Mauritania, in Africa.

To Moor, (in Sea-Language) to lay out the Anchors of a Ship, ſo as is moſt fit, and ſafeſt for her Riding in any Place.

To Moor a-croſs, is to lay out one Anchor on one Side, or a-thwart of a River, and another on the other Side, right againſt it; ſo as both Cables may bear together, as well for Tide of Ebb, as at Flood.

To Moor a-longſt, is to lay an Anchor right in the middle of the Stream, and another right a-head of the Ship, when there is Danger of driving a-ſhore.

To Moor a Proviſo, is to have an Anchor in the River, and a Hawſer a-ſhore; in which Caſe, the Ship is ſaid to be moored with her Head a-ſhore.

To Moor Water-ſhot, is to moor quartering between the two firſt Ways, as being neither a-croſs nor a-longſt the Tide, but betwixt both.

Mooring for Eaſt, Weſt, South-Eaſt, &c. is when in any Place of Riding, the Maſter or his Mates obſerve which Way, and upon what Point of the Compaſs the Wind or Sea is likelieſt to endanger the Ship moſt, and there they lay out an Anchor.

Moors, a Name given to the Bailiffs of the Lord of a Manour in the Iſle of Man, who ſummon the Courts for the ſeveral Sheadings; every Moor having the like Office with our Bailiff of the Hundred.

Moor-hen, a Water-fowl, otherwiſe call'd a Coot.

Moors-head, a Copper-cap, tinn'd on the in-ſide, and made like a Head, to be ſet over the Chimney of a Reverberating Furnace: Alſo the Head of a Copper or Glaſs-ſtill, which is luted on the Body, having a Beak, Noſe, or Pipe, to let the raiſed Spirits run down into the Receiver.

Mooſe, a Beaſt common in New England, and other Parts of America: It is as big as an Ox, ſlow of Pace, and headed like a Buck, with a broad Beam, ſometimes two Yards wide.

Moot, an Exerciſe, or arguing of Caſes, which young Students in the Law, perform at appointed Times, the better to enable them for Practice, and the Defence of Clients Cauſes; from the Saxon Word Gemote, i. e. a Meeting together.

Bailiff or Surveyor of the Moots, an Officer choſen every Year by the Bench, to appoint the Moot-men for the Inns of Chancery, and to keep Account of the Performance of Exerciſes, both there and in the Houſe.

Moot-hall, the Place where Moot-Caſes were anciently argu'd.

Moot-houſe Court, the Hundred-Court of Bingham in Nottingham-ſhire is ſo call'd, and the Place where it ſtands Moot-houſe Pit.

Moot-men or Mooters, Students at Law, who argue Reader's Caſes, call'd alſo Moot-Caſes, in the Houſes of Chancery, and after ſeven or eight Years Study, are choſen Utter-Barriſters.

To Blow a Moot, (at the fall of a Deer) a Phraſe us'd among Hunters.

Moota Canum, (in old Lat. Records) a Pack of Dogs.

Mooted, (in Heraldry) Trees torn up by the Roots are ſaid To be mooted.

To Mope, to become ſtupid, or ſottiſh.

Mora, the Italian Play of Love with the Fingers: In old Records, a mooriſh or boggy Ground.

Mora mussa, a watery or boggy Moor, ſuch as in Lancaſhire are call'd Moſſes.

Moral, belonging to Manners, or Civility.

Moral Quantity. See Quantity.

Moral, as The Moral of a Fable, i. e. the Application of it to Mens Lives and Manners.

Morals, the Doctrine of Manners, Moral Philoſophy.

Moraliſt, one ſkill'd in Morality.

Morality, moral Principles, or Senſe.

To Moralize, to give the Moral Senſe of, to talk Morals, to make moral Reflections.

Moratur or Demoratur in Lege, (Lat.) a Law-Phraſe, ſignifying as much as He demurs upon the Point; becauſe the Party does not go forward in Pleading, but reſts upon the Judgment of the Court, who take time to argue and adviſe thereupon.

Morals, a mooriſh Ground; a Marſh, Fen, or Bog.

Morbifick, that cauſes Diſeaſes, or Sickneſs; as Morbifick Humours.

Morbilli, (Lat.) the Meazles, red Spots which proceed from an Infection in the Bloud. They neither ſwell nor run with Matter, yet differ only in Degree from the Small-Pox.

Morbus, a Diſeaſe, Sickneſs, or Diſtemper; ſuch an Indiſpoſition of Body, as renders it unfit for the Performance of natural Actions.

Morbus Comitialis, the Falling-Sickneſs, ſo nam'd, becauſe when in the Aſſemblies of the People of Rome, call'd Comitia, any fell into it, the Aſſembly preſently broke up.

Morbus Gallicus, the French Pox. See Lues Venerea.

Morbus Regius, the Jaundice. See Jaundice & Icterus.

Morbus Vernaculus. See Endemial Diſeaſe.

Morbus Virgineus. See Chloroſis.

Mordacity, a biting or gnawing Quality; Sharpneſs or Bitterneſs of Speech.

Mordecai, (Heb. bitter) Eſther's Guardian, who being advanc'd by King Ahaſuerus, brought about the Deliverance of his Country-men the Jews.

Morel or Petty Morel, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Garden-Night-ſhade.

Mores or Maurs, a Word us'd in the Northern Parts of England for high and open Places; in other Parts, it is taken for low and boggy Grounds.

Moreſk-Work, (in Carving or Painting) a kind of Antick Work, after the manner of the Moors, conſiſting of ſeveral Pieces, in which there is no perfect Figure, but a wild Reſemblance of Men, Birds Beaſts, Trees, &c. intermingled together.

Moretum, (Lat.) a ſort of Drink made of Mulberries, and other Ingredients, good to prevent a falſe Conception, and to ſtrengthen a true one.

Morfex, the leſſer Puffin, a kind of Water-fowl.

Morgan, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying a Sea-man in the ancient Britiſh Tongue.

Morglay, (old Word) a mortal or deadly Sword.

Moria, (Gr.) Folly: Among Phyſicians, it is taken for Stupidity or Dulneſs; a failing in the Judgment and Underſtanding.

† Morigerous, obedient, dutiful, complaiſant.

Moril, (Fr.) the ſmalleſt and moſt delicious kind of red Muſhroom.

Morinellus, (Lat.) the Dotterel, a Bird.

Morion or Murrion, (Ital.) a kind of Steel-cap or Head-piece formerly in uſe.

Moriſco, (Span.) a Moor: Alſo a ſort Dance, which ſeems to be the ſame with that which the Greeks call'd Pyrrhica, and we commonly term it a Morris-dance.

Morking, (among Hunters) a Deer, or other wild Beaſt, that dies by Miſchance or Sickneſs.

Morling or Mortling, the Wooll that is taken from the Skin of a Dead Sheep.

Mormyra or Mormyrus, (Gr.) a kind of Sea-fiſh of divers Colours.

Morocco, one of the Kingdoms of Barbary in Africa.

Morochtus, (Lat.) white Marking-ſtone, a Stone us'd by Painters and Mathematicians to draw white Lines.

Morococks, a kind of Strawberry; a Fruit peculiar to Virginia and Mary-land.

Moroſe, (Lat.) dogged, ſurly, peeviſh, teſty, froward.

Moroſity or Moroſeneſs, Peeviſhneſs, Frowardneſs, Waywardneſs.

Morphæa, a Diſeaſe. See Alphus.

Morphew, a kind of white Scurf upon the Body, from the French Word Mort-feu, i. e. dead Fire; becauſe it looks like the white Sparks that fall from a Brand extinguiſhed.

Morphnus, (Gr.) a ſort of Eagle, living chiefly about Fens and Lakes.

Morpio, the Crab-louſe; an Inſect.

Morral. See Bitter-ſweet.

Morris. See Maurice.

Morris-dance, (q. d. Mooriſh Dance) a kind of antick Dance, commonly perform'd by five Men and a Boy dreſs'd in a Girl's Habit, who is call'd the Maid Marrion, and has his Head gaily trimm'd up.

Morſe, a Sea-Ox, a Creature that lives both on Land and Water, as big as an Ox, tho' in ſhape rather reſembling a Lion: They have Teeth like Elephants, of as large a Size, and as good Ivory; and their Paunches ſerve to make Train-oil; their Skin is twice as thick as a Bull's, and ſhort-haired, like that of a Seal.

Morſus, (Lat.) a Bite, a Stinging.

Morſus canis rabidi, a Frenzy caus'd by the bite of a mad Dog.

Morſus Diaboli, Devils-bit; an Herb.

Morſus Gallinæ, the Herb Hen-bit, or Chickweed.

Morſus Ranæ, the leſſer ſort of Water-lilly; a Flower.

Mort, (Fr.) Death or Deceaſe.

Mort d'Anceſtor. See Aſſiſe of Mort d'Anceſtor.

Mortal, (Lat.) liable to Death; periſhable, deadly, or bringing Death: Alſo great, bitter, cruel.

Mortal Wound. See Wound.

Mortality, the State, Condition, or Nature of Things ſubject to Death: Alſo the Deſtruction and Havock made by the Plague, or peſtilential Diſeaſes, great Sickneſs, ſudden Death.

Mortar, a Veſſel in which things are pounded.

Mortar or Mortar-piece, a ſort of thick ſhort Cannon of a very large Bore, which is uſually charged with Bombs, Carcaſſes, or Stones, and mounted upon a low Carriage, whoſe Wheels are each of one Piece.

Mortar or Morter, Lime and Sand mixt together, to be us'd in Building: Alſo a kind of Lamp or Wax-taper.

Mortarium, (in old Latin Records) a Mortar, Taper, or Light ſet in Churches, to burn over the Graves or Shrines of the Dead.

Mortgage, (Fr. i. e. dead Pledge) a Pawn of Lands, Tenements, or Goods, laid or bound for Money borrow'd, to be the Creditor's for ever, if the Money be not repaid at the time agreed upon.

Tenant in Mortgage. See Tenant.

Mortgagee, the Party to whom any thing is mortgaged.

Mortgager, he or ſhe that has made a Mortgage to another.

Morth, (Sax.) Murder. Morthlaga, a Murderer, or Man-ſlayer.

Mortification, a mortifying or making Dead; the Trouble and Vexation that befalls a Man, when diſappointed of his Hopes, or upon ſome unexpected croſs Accident: In Divinity, an humbling or bringing down the Fleſh, by Faſting or Prayer: In Surgery, a loſs of the Native Heat, and of Senſe, not only in the Skin, Fleſh, Nerves and Arteries; but alſo in the very Bones. See Sphacelus. In Chymiſtry, it is an Alteration of the Figure of Metals, Minerals, &c.

To Mortify, to make dead, ſubdue or conquer, in ſpeaking of the Paſſions; to humble or keep low, to vex or trouble. Among Chymiſts, to change the outward Form or Shape of a Mixt Body; as when Quick-ſilver, or any other Metal, is diſſolved in an acid Menſtruum: Sometimes alſo Spirits are ſaid to be mortify'd, when they are mingled with ſuch Things as deſtroy their Strength, or hinder their Operation.

To Mortify Fleſh, (in Cookery) to make it grow tender; to keep it till it has a Hogoe.

Mortiſe, (in Carpenters Work) a faſtening of one piece of Timber into another; or rather the Hole, which is cut in one piece of Wood or Rafter, to hold the Tenon of another.

Mortling. See Morling.

Mortmain, (Fr. i. e. dead Hand) a Law-Term, ſignifying an Alienation, or making over of Lands or Tenements, to any Guild, Corporation, or Fraternity, and their Succeſſours, with the Licenſe of the Queen, and the Lord of the Manour.

Mortrell, (in old Records) a Meſs of Milk and Bread, ſuch as was allow'd to poor People in Hoſpitals.

Mortuary, (Lat.) a Gift left by a Man at his Death; to the Parſon of the Pariſh, to make amends for Tithes not duely paid in his Life-time: Sometimes it is alſo taken for ſuch a Gift made to the Lord of the Fee. Theſe Mortuaries were formerly payable in Beaſts, but by Stat. 21 H. 8. a certain Rate is ſet for the Payment of them in Money; neither are they due but in ſome particular Places.

Mortuum Caput, (i. e. dead Head) a Chymical Term, for the more groſs and earthy Subſtance that is left of any Mixt Body, when the Moiſture is drawn out by Diſtillation.

Morum a Mulberry; Alſo a little ſoft Swelling under the Eye-lids.

Morus, a Mulberry-tree, the Leaves of which are much us'd to nouriſh Silk-worms, and the Fruit for ſeveral Diſtempers.

Moſaical, belonging to Moſes; as The Moſaical Law.

Moſaick Work, a kind of curious Work made of little ſquare Stones, like Dies of all Colours, artificially ſet together with fine Cement upon a Wall or Floor, ſo as to repreſent an admirable Variety of Knots, Flowers, and other Devices. This ſort of Work was much in Uſe among the ancient Romans for Pavements, and is ſtill be ſeen in ſome Churches, particularly that of St. Mark at Venice. See Muſea.

Moſchata Nux, or Moſchocaryon, (Gr.) Nutmeg, an Indian Spice.

Moſchelæum, a Compoſition of Muſk and Oil.

Moſchetto, a kind of ſtinging Gnat; very troubleſome in the Weſt-Indies.

Moſcheuton, a Roſe, that has a Smell like Muſk.

Moſchus, Muſk, a ſort of Perfume, or the little Beaſt, like a Goat, in which it is bred.

Moſco, the chief City of Muſcovy, and of the Ruſſian Empire.

Moſes, (Heb. drawn up) the Son of Amram, the moſt ancient of all Writers, both Sacred and Profane; by whom God deliver'd the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, and gave them the old Law.

Moſque or Moſchey, a Temple, or Church, among the Turks, where they exerciſe their falſe Worſhip.

Moſs, a kind of Down; that ſticks to the Trunks and Branches of ſeveral Trees. It grows more eſpecially upon Cedars, Aſpins, Oaks, and Fir-trees; as alſo upon Stones about Springs, &c. Alſo a kind of fine Sugar-work, made by Confectioners, in Imitation of Moſs.

Moſs-troopers, a ſort of Rebels in the Northern Parts of Scotland, that live by Robbery and Spoil, like the Tories in Ireland, or the Banditi in Italy.

Moſſes, mooriſh, or boggy Places; ſo call'd in Lancaſhire.

Moſſy, full of Moſs, or Down.

Moſtick or Mall-ſtick, a round Stick about a Yard long, which a Painter leans upon when he is at Work.

Mot, a certain Note, which Huntſmen wind on their Horn.

Mota, (in old Latin Records) a Caſtle, or Fort; as Turris de London, & Mota de Windſor.

Motacilla, the Waſher, or Water-Wagtail; a Bird.

Mote or Mota, (Sax.) an Aſſembly, or Meeting, a Court of Judicature; as Mota de Hereford, i. e. the Court or Pleas of the County of Hereford; whence Burghmote, Swainmote, &c. which See.

Moteer, (in ancient Deeds) a cuſtomary Service or Payment at the Mote, or Court of the Lord of a Manour.

Motet, (Fr.) a ſort of Muſical Compoſure, a Stanza, or Staff of a Song; alſo a ſhort Poſy.

Moth, a ſort of Fly that eats Cloaths.

Moth-mullein, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Wooll-blade, Torch-weed, High-taper, and Long-weed.

Moth-wort or Mug-wort, an Herb.

Mother, a Woman that has brought forth a Child; alſo the Womb in which the Child is form'd, or a Diſeaſe in that Part; alſo the Dregs of Ale, Beer, Oil, &c.

Mother of Pearl, the Shell that contains the Pearl-fiſh.

Mother of Time, a kind of Herb.

Mother-Tongues, ſuch Languages as ſeem to have no Dependance upon, Derivation from, or Relation one to another.

Mother-wort, an Herb, of a cleanſing and binding Quality.

Motion, (Lat.) the Act of a Natural Body that moves, or ſtirs it ſelf. Alſo Will or Accord, Diſpoſition or Inclination, Overture or Propoſal, Inſtance or Requeſt. In Philoſophy, Motion is defin'd to be a Continual or Succeſſive Mutation, or Change of Place, and may be conſider'd either Abſolutely or Relatively.

Abſolute Motion, is the Change of the Abſolute Place of any moving Body, ſo that its Swiftneſs will be meaſur'd by the Quantity of the Abſolute Space, which the Moveable has run through.

Relative Motion, is a Change of the Relative, Common, or Ordinary Place of the moving Body, and has its Swiftneſs counted or meaſur'd by the Quantity of Relative Space, which the Moveable runs over.

Motion of the Apogee, (in the Ptolemaick Syſtem) is an Arch of the Zodiack of the Primum Mobile, comprehended between the Line of the Apogee, and the Beginning of the Sign Aries.

Motion compounded. See Compoſition of Motion.

Motions of an Army, (in the Art of War) are the ſeveral Marches, and Counter-marches it makes, the changing of its Poſts for better Ground, to force an Enemy to battel, or to avoid it, &c.

To Motion a thing, to propoſe it.

Motive, that ſerves for, or cauſes Motion; as The motive Faculty.

A Motive, an Inducement, a moving or forcible Argument or Reaſon.

Motley, mixt; as A motly Colour.

Motorii, (Lat. in Anatomy) the third pair of Nerves, that moves the Eye.

Motos, (Gr.) Lint, or Linnen teaz'd like Wooll, to be put into a Wound.

Motto, (Ital.) the Words or ſhort Sentence, engrav'd about an Emblem, or Device.

Motus, (Lat.) Motion, Moving.

Motus Periſtalticus. See Periſtaltick Motion.

To Mouch, (old Word) to eat up.

To Move, (Lat.) to ſtir, to ſtir up, or egg on, to induce or perſwade, to affect or work upon.

Moveable, that may be moved, that varies in Time.

Moveable Feaſts, thoſe Feſtivals obſerved amongſt us, which happen always on the ſame Day of the Week, but vary in the Day of the Month; as, The firſt Sunday in Lent, Eaſter-day, Holy Thurſday, Whit-Sunday, &c. Whereas the Immoveable Feaſts, are thoſe, which varying in the Day of the Week, conſtantly fall on the ſame Day of the Month; as Chriſtmas-day, Candlemas-day, our Lady-Day, Michaelmas-Day, &c.

Moveable Signs, (in Aſtrol.) the ſame as Cardinal, viz. Aries, Cancer, Libra, and Capricorn; ſo call'd, becauſe they make the Changes of the Seaſons in Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter.

Moveables or Moveable Goods, Perſonal Goods, or Eſtate.

Movement, Motion, Moving, particularly in Dancing, &c. Among Mechanicks, it is taken for all thoſe Parts of a Watch, Clock, or any curious Device of the like Nature, that are in Motion, and which by ſuch Motion carry on the Deſign, or anſwer the end of the Inſtrument.

Movent or Mover, that which moves, or gives Motion.

Mougnon. See Moignon.

Mould, a Form, in which any thing is caſt; the Dent in the upper Part of the Head; alſo Earth mixt with Dung.

Mouldable, that may be put into a Mould, or Shape.

To Moulder or Moulder away, to fall to Duſt; to conſume, waſte away, or decay.

Moulding, (in Architecture) an Ornament, either of Stone or Wood; alſo that Part which bears up an Arch.

Moulinet, (Fr.) a Mill to coin Money with; a Hand-mill, a Turn-ſtile. In Mechanicks, a Roller, which being croſs'd with two Leavers, is uſually apply'd to Cranes, Capſtans, and other Engines, to draw Cords, and heave up Stones, Timber, &c. Alſo a kind of Turn-ſtile, or Wooden Croſs, which turns upon a Stake, ſet upright in the Ground, and is uſually plac'd in Paſſages, eſpecially near the Out-works of fortify'd Places, on the Side of the Barriers; thro' which People paſs on Foot.

Moult, (old Word) a Mow or Heap of Corn, Hay, &c.

To Moult or Moulter, to caſt, or ſhed the Feathers, as Birds do.

Mound, a Hedge or Bank, a Rampart or Fence. In Heraldry, a Ball or Globe with a Croſs upon it, ſuch as Soveraign Princes are uſually repreſented with in Statues or Pictures, holding it in their Left Hand, as a Scepter is put into their Right. See Mond.

To Mound, to ſecure with a Mound, to fence about.

Mounſoun, the Monſoon.

Mount, a Mountain, or Hill; a piece of Ground, or Walk, raiſed on the Side of a Garden, above the Level of the reſt of the Plott. Alſo a Term in Fortification, the ſame as Cavalier; which See.

Mount of Plaiſter of Paris, the Quantity of Three thouſand Pound-Weight.

To Mount, to go, or get up.

To Mount the Guard, (in the Art of War) is to go on that Duty. To Mount a Breach, to run up it in Aſſault.

To Mount a Piece, (in Gunnery) to ſet it on the Carriage, or to lay its Mouth higher.

Mountain, a vaſt Heap of Earth, rais'd to a great Height, above the ordinary Level of the Ground.

Mountain of Piety, a certain Stock or Bank of Money, which us'd to be rais'd out of voluntary Contributions, and treaſur'd up to be lent upon Occaſion to poor People, who were ruin'd by the Uſury or Extortion of the Jews.

Mountaineer, one that lives on the Mountains; a High-lander.

Mountainous, full of Mountains; hilly.

Mountebank, a juggling Pretender to Phyſick, or one that buys Drugs of Apothecaries, and by extremely crying up their Virtues, ſells them for choice Medicines: They are ſo call'd from the Italian Word Montimbanco, becauſe they uſually mount, or get up on ſome high Bench or Stage, to ſhew themſelves to the People.

Mountee or Mountie, (in old Records) an Alarm to go mount, or go upon ſome ſpeedy warlike Expedition.

Mourning of the Chine, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, which makes Ulcers in the Liver; ſo that the foul Vapours riſing from the Sore, corrupt tha Heart, and cauſe Death.

Mournival. See Murnival.

Mouſe, a well known little Creature. See Mus.

Mouſe-ear, an Herb of a binding, cleanſing, and ſtrengthening Quality.

Mouſe-tail, a ſort of Herb.

Mouſquetaire, (Fr.) a Foot-Soldier, armed with a Muſket; a Muſketeer. Mouſquetaires are alſo certain Troops of Horſe, that belong to the French King's Houſe-hold. See Musketeer.

Mouſſeron, a kind of white Muſhroom.

Mouth, a part of the Body of a Living Creature. In Geography, the Mouth of a River or Haven, is the Place where it empties it ſelf, or runs into the Sea.

Mow, a Pile, Stack, or Heap of Corn or Hay.

Mowntee. See Mountee.

Moxa, a certain Down, that grows upon the Leaves of the Herb Mug-wort, uſually brought from Japan and China.

Muccharum, (Lat. among Apothecaries) an Infuſion of Roſes by it ſelf, or, as others ſay, the Infuſion boil'd up to a Syrup with Sugar.

Mucilage, a kind of ſlimy Juice drawn out of Seeds, Gums, Roots, &c. with Water.

Mucilaginous, full of Slime, or Snivel; as Mucilaginous Matter.

Mucilaginous Glands, (in Anat.) certain Glandules or Kernels, plac'd on the Skin that lies over the Joynts; their Uſe being to ſeparate a kind of ſlimy Matter, which ſerves to make the Joynts ſupple and ſlippery, ſo as to be moved with the greateſt Eaſe imaginable.

To Mucker, to hoard up.

† Mucoſity, Slimineſs, or any ſlimy Subſtance.

Muco, (Lat.) the Snot-fiſh, a Sea-fiſh, ſo call'd from the Slime it caſts out of his Mouth.

Mucro, the Point of a Sword, or other Weapon.

Mucro Cordis, (in Anat.) the lower pointed end of the Heart.

Mucronated, that terminates, or ends in a Point, like that of a Sword.

Mucronatum Os or Enſiformis Cartilago, the loweſt Part of the Breaſt-bone, pointed like a Sword.

Mucus, Snot or Snivel, a thick ſlimy Excrement, that flows from the Papillary Proceſſes to the Noſtrils and Palate.

Mucus Inteſtinorum, the Slime of the Guts, a ſort of clammy Matter that iſſues from the Glandules or Kernels, whereby thoſe Entrails are defended from any ſharp and hard things that may paſs thro' them.

To Muddle, to rout with the Bill, as Geeſe and Ducks do; alſo to make drowſy, and unfit for Buſineſs, as they are who take too large a Morning-Draught in ſtrong Liquors.

Muderriſſes, (among the Turks) certain Readers in every Moſque or Stall, that teach Scholars the Publick Service, and inſtruct them in all Duties belonging to the Church, being paid for their Pains, out of the Revenues of their Moſques or Churches.

Mue or Mew, a kind of Cage or Coop, where Hawks are kept when they moult, or change their Feathers. See Mews.

Muffle, (among Chymiſts) the Cover of a Veſſel call'd a Teſt or Coppel, which is put over it, when ſet on the Fire.

Muffler, a Piece of Cloth, to be ty'd about the Chin.

Mufti, the chief Prieſt among the Turks, who is appointed by the Grand Seignior, or Emperour himſelf.

Mug, a kind of little earthen Pot, to drink out of.

Mug-wort, an Herb, which being carry'd about a Man, is ſaid to take away Wearineſs: It is good for Wounds, and Fits of the Mother.

Muggets or Mugwets, part of the Entrails of Neat Cattel, or of Beaſts of the Foreſt, as Deer, &c. See Gather-bag.

Muggletonians, a new blaſphemous Sect, which began in England about A. D. 1657. and is now almost extinguiſh'd: They took Name from their Ring-leader Muggleton, a Journey-man Taylor, who ſet up for a great Prophet, together with one Reeves, pretending they had abſolute Power to ſave and damn whom they pleas'd.

Muhammed. See Mahomet.

Mulatto, (Span.) one whoſe Father is a Black-moor or Indian, and his Mother of another Nation; or whoſe Mother is a Negro, and his Father of another Country.

Mulberry-tree, a ſort of Fruit-tree. See Morus.

Mulct, (Lat.) a Penalty, or Fine of Money, ſet upon one; eſpecially ſuch Fines as a Company of Merchants has Power to lay on Ships or Goods belonging to their Members, in order to raiſe Money for their Uſe, for Maintenance of Conſuls, making Preſents to foreign Princes, &c.

Mule, a Beaſt of Carriage, ingender'd between an Aſs and a Mare, or between a Stone-horſe and a She-aſs.

Mule-fern, a ſort of Herb.

Muleteer, a Mule-driver.

Muletto, (Ital.) a Beaſt call'd a Moil, or great Mule, made uſe of in ſome Parts, for the carrying of Summers.

Muliebria, (Lat.) Womens privy Parts; alſo their Monthly Courſes.

Mulier, a Woman, a married Woman, or Wife. In Common Law, it is taken for a Child lawfully begotten; as if a Man have a Son by a Woman before Marriage, and afterwards marrying her, he begets another Son; this ſecond Son is call'd Mulier, i.e. born of a Lawful Mother, and ſhall be Heir to his Father, being preferr'd before his elder Brother born out of Matrimony. In this Caſe the proper Terms are Baſtard eigne, i.e. elder, and Mulier puiſne, i.e. younger.

Mulieratus Filius, a lawful Son, begotten of a lawful Wife, and oppos'd to a Natural Son, or Baſtard.

Mulierty, the State or Condition of a Mulier, or lawful Iſſue.

Mulio de Fimo, (in ancient Deeds) a Cart-load or Heap of Dung, to be ſpread upon Land.

To Mull Wine, to burn and ſeaſon it with Spice, Sugar, &c.

Mullein, a ſort of Herb.

Muller or Molar, the upper Stone, with which Painters grind their Colours; from the Latin Word Molere to grind.

Mullet, a Fiſh, otherwiſe call'd a Barbel. In Heraldry, a Figure like a Star with five Points, being the Difference or diſtinguiſhing Mark for the third Brother, or Houſe; but it is alſo often born for Coat-Armour; as Ruby on a Chief Pearl, two Mullets Diamond.

In Surgery, Mullet, is a Sort of ſmall Inſtrument ſomewhat like a pair of Pincers, to pick any offenſive thing out of the Eye, or any other part of the Body, that has but a narrow Paſſage.

Mullio or Mullo, (in ancient Latin Writers) a Cock of Graſs, or Hay; whence in old Engliſh a Moult, and now a Mow of Hay or Corn.

Mullock, (Country-Word) Dirt, or Rubbiſh.

Mullus, (Lat.) the Barbel; a Fiſh.

Mulo-medicina, Medicine for Cattel, the Art and Myſtery of a Mule-Doctor, or Farrier.

Mulſe, Wine mingled, and boil'd up with Honey.

Multa or Multura Epiſcopi, a Fine formerly given to the King, that the Biſhop might be impower'd to make his laſt Will and Teſtament, to have the proving of other Mens, and the granting of Adminiſtrations.

Multangled or Multangular Figure, (in Geom.) a Figure that has many Angles and Sides.

Multifarious, that is of divers or ſundry ſorts.

Multiformity, a being of many Forms or Shapes.

Multilateral Figures, (in Geom.) thoſe that have many, or more than four Sides.

Multinomial Quantities, (in Algebra) Quantities compos'd of many Names, or Parts. See Polynomial Root.

Multipeda, (Lat.) the Sow, or Wood-louſe, an Inſect, ſo call'd from its great Number of Feet.

Multiple Proportion, (in Arithm.) is when the Antecedent being divided by the Conſequent, the Quotient is more than Unity: Thus 15 is in Multiple Proportion to 5, becauſe being divided by 5, it gives 3 for the Quotient.

Multiple ſuper-particular Proportion, is when one Number or Quantity contains another, more than once, and ſuch an Aliquot Part more.

Multiple Super-partient Proportion, is when one Number or Quantity contains another ſeveral times, and ſome Parts of it beſides.

Multiple, is a greater Number that contains a leſs, a certain Number of Times without any Remainder: Thus 12 is the Multiplee of 3, becauſe it contains it exactly four times.

Multipliable or Multiplicable, that may be multiplied.

Multiplicand, that Number which is propos'd to be multiplied by another.

Multiplication, the Act of multiplying or encreaſing. Alſo the third Rule in Arithmetick, which ſerves inſtead of a manifold Addition; wherein there are two Numbers given, viz. one to be multiply'd, call'd the Multiplicand, and the other that by which it is to be multiply'd, termed the Multiplicator, in order to find out or produce a fourth nam'd the Product; which ſhall contain either of the Numbers given, as often as the other contains 1 or Unity: Multiplication may be either Single or Compound.

Single Multiplication, is when the Numbers given, conſiſt each of them of one only Figure; as if 5 were to be multiply'd by 3, 9 by 6 &c.

Compound Multiplication, is when either one or both the Numbers given, conſiſt of more Figures than one; as if 134 were to be multiply'd by 2, or 1232 by 23, &c.

In Geometry, Multiplication, changes the Species, or Kind: Thus a Right-line multiply'd by a Right-line, produces a Rectangle, or Plane; and that Rectangle, multiply'd again by another Line, produces a Solid.

Multiplication of Gold or Silver, the Art of encreaſing thoſe Metals, which in the Time of K. Henry IV. was preſum'd poſſible to be effected by Means of Elixirs, or other Chymical Compoſitions, and therefore forbidden to be put in Practice, under Pain of being liable to the Puniſhment of Felony, by a Statute made in the fifth Year of his Reign.

Multiplicator or Multiplier, (in Arithm.) the Number multiplying, or that by which another Number is multiply'd.

Multiplicity, a being manifold, much Variety, a great deal; as To have a Multiplicity of Buſineſs.

To Multiply, to encreaſe the Number of a Thing; to be ſo encreaſed, or to grow more. In Arithmetick, to proceed according to the Rule of Multiplication.

Multiſiliquous Plants. See Corniculate Plants.

Multitude, a great Company or Number of Perſons or Things. The Multitude, the Mobb, or Crowd of common People.

Multo, Mutilo, or Mutto, (in old Latin Records) a Mutton, or Weather-Sheep.

A Multo fortiori or A Minori ad Majus, an Argument often us'd by Littleton, the famous Lawyer, and thus fram'd: If it be ſo in a Feoffment paſſing a new Right, much more is it for the reſtoring of an ancient Right, &c.

Multones Auri, certain pieces of Gold-coin, ſo call'd, from their being ſtampt on one Side, with the Figure of a Sheep, or Lamb: This Coin was common in France, and ſometimes current in England.

Multura or Molitura, (in ancient Writers) the Multure, Toll, or Fee, that a Miller takes for the grinding of Corn.

Multura Epiſcopi. See Multa.

Mulus, a Mule, a Beaſt of Carriage.

Mum, a ſort of thick Drink, firſt made of Wheat, and other Ingredients, at Brunſwick in Germany.

To Mumble, to mutter or growl, to chew, or eat unevenly.

Mummer, (Fr.) a Maſker, or mute Perſon in Maſcarade.

Mummery, maſking, or maſcarading, Buffoonry.

Mumming, as To go a mumming, or maſking to a Ball.

Mummy, a natural Mixture of Bitumen and Pitch, gliding from the Mountains of Arabia, and other Eaſtern Countries: Alſo the Subſtance of dead Bodies anciently imbalm'd, with Myrrh, Aloes, and other Spices, and brought out of Egypt for Rarities: Theſe Mummies are much uſ'd in Phyſick, both inwardly and outwardly; being good againſt Bruiſes, ſpitting of Bloud, &c.

To Beat one to Mummy, to bruiſe him all over.

To Mump, to bite the Lip like a Rabbet, to diſappoint; to beg, to ſpunge upon.

Mumps, a kind of Quinſey, or Swelling of the Chaps.

Muncerians, a ſort of Anabaptiſts that made a great Inſurrection in Germany, ſo call'd from their Ring-leader Muncer.

To Munch, to chew.

Mundane, (Lat.) belonging to the World; Worldly; as Mundane Pleaſures.

Mundbrech, (Sax. Law-Term) a Breach of the King's Peace, or, as ſome ſay, an Infringement of Privileges: Alſo a breaking of Incloſures or Fences, ſuch as in many Parts of England are call'd Mounds.

Mundification, (Lat.) a making clean, purging, or purifying.

Mundificative or Mundatory Medicines, (in Surgery) Medicines that are proper for the cleanſing of Ulcers.

To Mundify, to cleanſe, or purify.

Municeps, (Lat.) One of a Town, whoſe Inhabitants were free of the City of Rome, and had a Right to the Offices and Privileges there.

Municipal, belonging to ſuch a Town, or Corporation: The Word is alſo now uſ'd to ſignify, that belongs to the State or Community of any free City or Town; as Municipal Laws, i. e. ſuch Laws as a free Town or City enjoys.

Municipalia Sacra, ſuch Rites or Ceremonies in worſhipping the Heathen Gods, as were cuſtomary in any Corporation, before it was infranchis'd, or admitted to the Privileges of the City of Rome.

Municipium, any City, or Town Corporate, that enjoy'd ſome or all the Privileges and Liberties belonging to the City of Rome, and yet ſtill had particular Laws and Cuſtoms of their own to be govern'd by.

Munificence, Liberality, Bountifulneſs.

Munificent, liberal, bountiful, free of Gift.

Muniment, properly ſignifies any Fortification, or Military Defence: In a Law-Senſe, Muniments are authentick Deeds and Writings, by which a Man is enabled to defend or maintain the Title to his Lands or Eſtate.

Muniment-Houſe, a particular Apartment in Cathedrals, Collegiate Churches, Caſtles, &c. for the keeping of their reſpective Seals, Charters, Evidences, &c.

Munition, a Fortification, or Bulwark: alſo the ſame as Ammunition.

Munition-Ships, ſuch Veſſels as are employ'd to carry Ammunition, &c. and to tend upon a Fleet of Men of War.

Mur or Murch, a Poſe, or great Cold.

Muræna, (Lat.) the Murena, a kind of Lamprey; a Fiſh.

Murage, a Toll, or Tax, rais'd for the Building or repairing of Publick Walls; alſo a Liberty granted to a Town by the Queen, for collecting Money towards the walling of the Same.

Mural, belonging to a Wall; as a Mural Crown, a kind of Crown, which among the ancient Romans, was given to him who firſt ſcal'd the Walls of an Enemy's City, or enter'd by the Breach: This Crown was of Gold, or Silver, with Battlements of Walls round about, in the Form of Beams.

Murder, (Sax. in Common Law) is a wilful and felonious killing of another, upon premeditated Malice, whether ſecretly or openly, Engliſh-man or Foreigner, living under the Queen's Protection.

Murderer, one that has committed Murder.

Murderers or Murdering-Pieces, ſmall Cannon, either of Braſs or Iron, having a Chamber or Charge, conſiſting of Nails, old Iron, &c, put in at their Breech. They are chiefly uſ'd in the Fore-caſtle, Half-Deck, or Steerage of a Ship, to clear the Decks, when boarded by an Enemy, and ſuch Shot is call'd a Murdering-Shot.

Murdering-Battery. See Battery de Revers.

Murderous, inclined to commit Murder, bloody-minded, cruel.

To Mure up, (Lat.) to wall up; as To mure up a Door, Window, &c. i. e. to ſtop it up with Bricks, Stones, &c.

Murengers, two ancient Officers in the City of Cheſter, choſen every Year out of the chief Aldermen, to ſee that the City-Walls be kept in good Repair; for the maintaining of which, they receive ſeveral Tolls and Cuſtoms.

Murex, (Lat.) a kind of Shell-fiſh, with the Liquor of which, a purple Die was anciently made; alſo the purple Colour it ſelf.

Muriel, a Chriſtian Name of Women, from the Greek Word Myron, i. e. ſweet Ointment.

Murigoin, a ſort of ſtinging Fly, that annoys the Caribbee-Iſlands in America.

Muring, (in Architect.) the raiſing of Walls.

Murmur, (Lat.) a buzzing, or humming Noiſe, ſuch as is made by ſeveral Perſons talking together, at the ſame time: Alſo the purling of Brooks and Streams.

To Murmur, to grumble, mumble, or mutter, to repine.

Murnival, a Quaternary, or four Cards of the ſame Suit, eſpecially at the Game, call'd Gleek, i. e. all Aces, all Kings, or the like.

Murr-bird, a ſort of Bird.

Murrain, a Rot, or waſting Diſeaſe among Ca tel.

Murrain-graſs, a kind of Herb.

Murrey-Colour, a dark brown or dun Colour.

Murrion, a Steel Head-piece. See Morion.

Mus, (Lat.) a Mouſe. Mus Araneus, the Shrew-Mouſe.

Mus Norvegicus, a kind of Mouſe peculiar t Norway, wicich ſometimes falling from the Cloud in vaſt Numbers, make a great Havock of the Co and other Fruits of the Earth.

Muſach Caſſa,, a certain Cheſt in the Templ of Jeruſalem, into which Kings uſ'd to caſt their Offerings.

Muſahib Allah, (i. e. a Talker with God) a Nam by which the Turks call Moſes.

Muſaph, a Book that contains the Laws of th Turks.

Muſca, (Lat.) the Fly, an Inſect.

Muſcæ Caput, a Term in Anatomy. See Myoc phalum.

Muſcadel or Muſcadine, a ſort of rich Win brought from the Iſland of Candy, having a ſwe Scent like Muſk.

Muscadine, a kind of Grape; also a sort of Sugar-Work made by Confectioners.

Muscat, a delicious sort of Grape of a rich musked Taste.

Muscheta or Muskitto, a kind of Insect somewhat resembling a Gnat, which is very common and troublesome in many Parts of Africk and America, as also in the hottest Countries of Asia.

Muscipeta, (Lat.) the Gnat-Snapper, a Bird.

Muscle, a known Shell-fish. In Anatomy, a Part of the Animal Body, made of Fibres, Flesh, &c. which is the chief Instrument of voluntary Motion; and consists of a Head, Belly, and Tail: The Head of a Muscle, is its Beginning, always fixt to the most firm Part; the Belly being its middle Part, is swell'd or stretch'd out in all Motion; and the Tail is the other Extreme or End, which is fastend into the Part to be moved.

Muscle-Veins, two Veins, viz. the Upper and the Lower; the former arising from the Muscles of Neck, and the latter from the Upper Muscles of the Breasts.

Muscovy-Glass. See Selenitis.

Muscular, belonging to the Muscles.

Musculosa Expansio. See Myodes Platysma.

Musculous, belonging to, or full of Muscles.

Musculus, Fibrous, or Fistulous Flesh, such as is the Substance of the Heart and other Muscles.

Musculus, (Lat.) a little Mouse, the Muscle-fish; also a Muscle in the Body of a Living Creature.

Musculus Stapedis, a Muscle of the Ear, which takes its Rise from a bony Pipe in the Os Petrosum, and is inserted to the Head of the little Bone call'd Stapes.

Musculus Nauticus. See Tibialis Posticus.

Muscus, Moss that grows upon Trees, Walls, Rocks, the Banks of Rivers, &c.

Muse, as To be in a Muse, i. e. to be in a brown Study, or in a melancholy Fit.

Muse or Muset, (a Term in Hunting) the Place thro' which a Hare goes to Relief.

To Muse upon, to pause, study, or think upon a Matter.

Musea, Musia, or Musiva, curious Pavements of Mosaick Work, so call'd, because ingenious Devices were usually attributed to the Muses, and in regard that the Muses and Sciences were represented in them.

Musen, (among Hunters) is when a Stag or Male Deer casts his Head.

Muses, (Gr.) the nine Daughters of Jupiter and Mnemosyne, accounted the Goddesses of Musick and Poetry, as also Patronesses of the other Liberal Arts and Sciences: Their Names are Calliope, Clio, Erato, Euterpe, Melpomene, Polyhymnia, Terpsichore, Thalia and Urania; which See in their proper Places.

Museum, a Study, or Library; also a College, or Publick Place for the Resort of Learned Men.

The Museum or Ashmole's Museum, a neat Building in the City of Oxford, the lower part of which is a Chymical Laboratory, and the upper a Repository of Natural and Artificial Rarities, founded by Elias Ashmole, Esq.

Mushroom, a spungy Substance, that grows up of it self without sowing, and in a little time; of which there are several sorts, much us'd in Cookery for exquisite Ragoos.

Musical, belonging to Musick.

Musician, one well skill'd in, or that professes the Science of Musick.

Musick, one of the seven Liberal Sciences, and a Branch of the Mathematicks; having for its Object discreet Quantity or Number, tho' not considering it in the Abstract like Arithmetick, but with Respect to Time and Sound, in order to make a delightful Harmony; also the Harmony it self that is so made. This Science is also Theorical and Practical.

Theorical Musick, is that which searches into the Nature and Properties of Concords and Discords, and explains the Proportions between them by Numbers.

Practical Musick, shews the manner of composing all sorts of Tunes or Airs, with the Art of Singing, and playing on all sorts of Musical Instruments.

Musing, a pausing, or thinking upon. Among Hunters, the passing of a Hare thro' a Hedge.

Musiva. See Musea.

Musk, a kind of Perfume, bred in the Bladder of a certain Beast, much like a small Deer, but having Hair of a darker Colour, and no Horns: It resembles a Lump of clotted Bloud, about the Bigness of an Egg, and is also found in some other Indian Beasts.

Musk-Pear, a sort of Pear; a Fruit.

Musk-Rats, American Rats, that live in Boroughs like Rabbets, and have the Scent of Musk, by which means they are easily discover'd, but their Smell is said to cause Melancholy.

Musk-Rose, a Flower.

Musk-scabious, a kind of Herb.

Musket, (Fr.) the Tassel, or Male of a Sparrow-hawk; a Bird of Prey: Also the commonest and most convenient sort of Fire-arm, us'd in War: They are to carry a Ball of about an Ounce Weight, and all to be made to the same Bore, lest they should prove useless, by not fitting the Bullet.

Musket-Baskets, (in Fortif.) are Baskets about a Foot and a half high, eight or ten Inches Diameter at bottom, and one Foot at top; so that being fill'd with Earth, there is Room to lay a Musket between them at bottom: They are usually set on low Breast-works, or upon those that are beaten down, that the Men may shelter themselves, and fire upon the Enemy.

Musketeer, a Soldier, arm'd with a Musket. In France, there are two Companies, or rather Troops, call'd Musquetaires du Roy, or Musketeers of the King's House-hold; consisting all of Gentlemen admirably well mounted, who serve either a-foot, or on Horse-back, and shew their Valour in all desperate Enterprizes.

Musketoon, a Blunderbuss, or short Gun, with a very large Bore, to carry several Musket or Pistol-bullets; being proper to fire amidst a Crowd, or to keep a Pass.

Muskin, a Bird, otherwise call'd a Tit-mouse.

Muslin. See Musselin.

Musmon or Musimon, (Gr.) a sort of Ram in Spain and Corsica, that bore a Goat's Hair, instead of Wooll; a Mongrel Creature, ingender'd of a Ram and a She-goat; also a kind of Ass, Mule, or cut Horse.

Musquash, a Beast common in New England, and some other Parts of America, resembling a Beaver in Shape, but not so big. The Male has two Stones, which smell like Musk, and never lose their Scent, if the Beast be kill'd in Winter.

Musquaspes, a kind of Root in Virginia and Mary-land; with the Juice of which, affording a pleasant Colour, the Indians paint their Mats and Targets.

Musroll, the Nose-band of a Horse-bridle.

Muss, Scramble; as To make a Muss, i. e. to throw things up and down in a Crowd, to make People scramble for them.

Mussa, (in old Latin Records) a Moss, or marshy Ground.

Muſſack, a kind of Drink, much in Uſe among the Chineſes.

Muſſaſcus, a ſort of Water-rat, or Muſk-rat, in Virginia, which ſmells very ſtrong of Muſk-perfume.

Muſſelin or Muſlin, (Fr.) a fine ſort of Linnen-cloth, made of Cotton.

† Muſſitation, (Lat.) a muttering, or ſpeaking between the Teeth.

Muſſulman or Muſulman, (Arab.) a Believer in Religion, a Title which the Turks and Mahometans take to themſelves.

Muſt, (Lat.) ſweet Wine, newly preſs'd from the Grape, before it has work'd.

Muſtache or Muſtachia, the Beard of the upper Lip, a Whisker; from the Greek Word Myſtax, of the ſame Signification.

Muſtacia, (Lat.) a ſort of great Laurel, with a great flagging, whitiſh Leaf.

Muſtaphis, certain Prophets, or learned Men, among the Turks.

Muſtela, (Lat.) the Weeſel, a little Beaſt: Alſo the Eel-powt, a Fiſh.

Muſter, (in warlike Affairs) a Review of Military Forces, in order to take an Account of their Numbers, and the Condition they are in, with their Arms and Accoutrements.

Muſter of Peacocks, (among Fowlers) a Flock of that ſort of Fowl.

Muſter-Maſter General. See Commiſſary General of Muſters, and Maſter of the Queen's Muſters.

Muſter-Rolls, the Rolls or Liſts of Soldiers found in every Company, Troop, or Regiment, by which they are paid, and the Strength of the Army is known.

To Muſter, to review, or take a Review of ſuch Forces; alſo to gather together, to ſhew, or make a Shew of.

Muta Canum, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Kennel of Hounds, or Hunting-dogs.

Muta Regia, the Mews near Charing-Croſs, London, now the Queen's Stables, but formerly the Falconry, or Place where the King's Hawks were kept.

Mutability or Mutableneſs, Changeableneſs, Inconſtancy.

Mutable, changeable, ſubject to Change, inconſtant.

Mutare, (Lat.) to change, to exchange. In old Records, to mew up Hawks in the time of their moulting, or caſting their Feathers.

Mutation, Change, Alteration.

Mute, dumb, ſpeechleſs; as He is as mute as a Fiſh; alſo not pronounced, in ſpeaking of a Letter of the Alphabet.

Mute Letters, (in Grammar) are b, c, d, g, h, k, p, q, t; ſo call'd, becauſe they have no Sound, without the Help of a Vowel.

Mute Signs, (in Aſtrol.) are thoſe Signs which take Name from Creatures that have no Voice; as Cancer, Scorpio, and Piſces; ſo that in Nativities, when the Significators are therein, they ſpoil, or cauſe ſome Impediment in the Native's Speech.

To ſtand Mute, (Law-Phraſe) is when a Priſoner arraign'd at the Bar, refuſes to plead to his Indictment; or does not anſwer directly, or will not put himſelf upon the Inqueſt, to be try'd by God and the Country.

In Hunting, Hounds are ſaid To run Mute, when they run along without making any Cry.

Mute, Dung, eſpecially of Birds: In ancient Records, a Kennel or Cry of Hounds.

To Mute, to dung, or make Dung, as a Hawk does.

Mutes, (among the Turks) certain dumb Perſons that are kept in the Grand Seignior's Seraglio, and ſerve as Executioners to ſtrangle Offenders.

To Mutilate, to maim, or mangle, to geld.

Mutilated Signs, (in Aſtrol.) are certain Signs which threaten the Native that has them aſcending, with Lameneſs, Halting, Deafneſs, or ſome Impediment, Defect in ſome natural Member. See Signs.

Mutilation, the Act of mutilating, maiming, or curtailing.

Mutineer, (Fr.) one that has been engaged in a Mutiny; a factious or ſeditious Perſon.

Mutinous, apt to revolt, rebellious, ſeditious, factious.

Mutiny, Revolt from lawful Authority, Sedition, Headſtrongneſs.

To Mutiny, to raiſe a Mutiny, to riſe up in Arms.

To Mutter, to ſpeak confuſedly between the Teeth.

Mutuana, a Plant peculiar to Virginia and Mary-land, of which the Native Indians make Bread.

Mutual, (Lat.) alike on both Sides, making equal Returns, interchangeable; as Mutual Love, or Friendſhip: To give mutual Aid one to another, &c.

Mutules or Mutuli, (in Architect.) a Stay cut of Stone or Timber, to bear up the Summer, or other Part: in Maſonry, 'tis call'd a Corbel, and in Timber-Work a Bracket: Alſo a ſort of ſquare Modillion ſet under the Cornice of the Dorick Order.

Muzrol. See Muſrol.

Muzzle, the Snout of certain Beaſts, particularly of an Ox, Lion, Tiger, &c. Alſo a Halter to tie about the Noſe of a Horſe, or Mule; alſo the Mouth of a Gun.

Muzzle-Ring, (in Gunnery) the great Circle which encompaſſes and ſtrengthens the Muzzle, or Mouth of a Cannon.

Myacantha, (Gr.) the Herb Butchers-broom.

Myagrum, an Herb, with a Stalk like Fennel, and Leaves like Madder; Cammeline.

Myax, a kind of Shell-fiſh, like the Purple-fiſh; a Limpin, or Muſcle.

Mycematias or Mycetias, an Earth-quake, with a hollow bellowing Noiſe.

Mycetes, Muſhrooms.

Mycteres, the Noſtrils, which receive phlegmatick Humours that diſtill from the Brain, thro' the Papillary Proceſſes.

Mycteriſmus, a diſdainful Gibe or Scoff. In Rhetorick, a more cloſe kind of Sarcaſm or Taunt.

Mydeſis, Corruption or Rottenneſs, proceeding from too much Moiſture.

Mydriaſis, a too great widening of the Pupil or Apple of the Eye, which makes the Sight dim, by letting in too much Light.

Myelos, Marrow of the Bones, or of the Brain.

Mygale, the Field-mouſe, or Shrew-mouſe.

Myinda, the Play call'd Hoodman-blind, Blind-hob, or Blind-mans-buff.

Myle, a Mill, the lower Mill-ſtone. In Anatomy, the Whirl-bone of the Knee; alſo a Moon-calf, or falſe Conception.

Mylœcos, a kind of Worm, breeding in Mills.

Myloglosſum, (in Anat.) a pair of Muſcles, which ariſe on the Back-ſide of the Grinding-teeth, and are let into the Ligament of the Tongue; their Uſe being to turn the Tongue upwards.

Mylohyoideus, a Muſcle that takes up all that Space, which is between the lower Jaw, and the Bone call'd Os Hyodes, which it moves together with the Tongue, and Larynx upwards, forwards, and to each Side.

Mylwell, a ſort of Cod, or Salt-Fiſh.

[illegible], the falling off of the Hairs of the Eye-lids; also Medicines against the falling off of Hair.

Mynchen, (Sax.) a Nun, or vailed Virgin: Whence our Minnekin Lass, To go a Minching, &c.

Myocephalon, the falling of a ſmall Portion of the Coat of the Uvula, or Palate of the Mouth; ſo call'd, from its reſembling the Head of a Fly.

Myodes Platyſma or Muſculoſa Expanſio, a broad muſculous Opening in the Neck, which proceeds there from a kind of fat Membrane, or Skin.

Myogale. See Mygale:

Myologia, a Deſcription of the Muſcles of the Body of a Living-creature.

Myophonos, an Herb that kills Mice.

Myopia or Myopiaſis, a Dimneſs or Confuſion of Sight, in beholding diſtant Objects, and yet a Clearneſs of it, in viewing things near at Hand; Purblindneſs.

Myops, One that is purblind, or near-ſighted.

Myoſota or Myoſotis, the Herb Mouſe-ear, or Bloud-ſtrange.

Myrach, an Arabick Word, of the ſame Signification with Epigaſtrium; which See.

Myracopium, an Ointment, to take away Wearineſs.

Myrapium, the Muſk-Pear; a Fruit.

Myriad, the Number of Ten Thouſand.

Myrica or Myrice, a low Shrub, call'd Tamariſk.

Myrinus, the Male Lamprey, a Fiſh.

Myrinx, the ſame as the Tympanum, or Drum of the Ear.

Myriophyllon, the Herb Milfoil, or Yarrow.

Myriſtica Nux, Nutmeg, a kind of Spice.

Myrmecias, a precious Stone, with little Knots like Warts.

Myrmecion, a ſort of Spider: Alſo a kind of Wart, breeding in the Palm of the Hand, or in the Sole of the Foot.

Myrmecites, a Stone, having in it the Figure of an Emmet, or Piſmire.

Myrmecoleo, a little Creature, that preys upon Ants or Piſmires.

Myrmidons, a certain People of Theſſaly, who went under the Conduct of Achilles to the Wars of Troy.

Myrobalans, a Medicinal Fruit, reſembling the Egyptian Dates, of which there are five ſorts, viz. Bellerick, Chebule, Citrine, Emblick, and Indian, all of a purging and binding Quality.

Myrobalanum, a Fruit, call'd by Apothecaries Myrobolan Ben, or the Nut of Egypt, about the Bigneſs of a Filberd; the Kernel of which yields an Oil us'd in precious Ointments.

Myrobolan, a ſort of Plum. See Mirobolan.

Myropola, a Seller of ſweet Oils, Ointments, or Perfumes.

Myrrh, a Gum that drops from a Tree in Arabia, of the ſame Name, about five Cubits high: It is oily, tranſparent, of a greeniſh Colour, and bitter Taſte; and of good Uſe in Phyſick, againſt ſeveral Diſeaſes.

Myrrhine, belonging to, or made of Myrrh.

Myrrhis, Mock-Chervil, an Herb like Hemlock; ſome call it Kecks, or Aſs-parſley.

Myrrhites, a precious Stone, having the Colour of Myrrh, and the Smell of ſweet Ointment.

Myrſine, the Myrtle-Tree. See Myrtus.

Myrſineum, wild Fennel, an Herb.

Myrſinites, a precious Stone, having the Colour of Honey, and the Smell of Myrtle; alſo an Herb, a kind of Spurge.

Myrtites, Wine made with Myrtle-berries infuſed.

Myrtus, the Myrtle, a kind of Shrub, which bears a little blackiſh Leaf of a very fragrant Scent, and grows only in hot Countries.

Myrus, a great Sea-eel, like a Serpent, and of a reddiſh Colour.

Mys, a Shell-fiſh of the Muſcle-kind.

Myſtagogus, one that interprets Divine Myſteries; alſo he that has the keeping of Church-Relicks, and ſhews them to Strangers.

Myſterious, full of Myſtery, obſcure, hidden, ſecret.

Myſtery, a thing concealed, a Secret not eaſy to be comprehended: The Truths deliver'd by Divine Revelation, into which Humane Reaſon cannot dive, are call'd the Myſteries of Religion. Any particular Art, Trade, or Occupation, is alſo termed a Myſtery.

Myſtical, belonging to a Myſtery; as A Myſtical Senſe.

Myſticetus, a Fiſh, call'd the Whale's Guide.

Myſtrum, a kind of Meaſure among the Greeks, that held about a Spoonful.

Mythological, belonging to Mythology.

Mythologiſt, one ſkill'd in that Science, an Expounder of Fables.

Mythology, an Account of the fabulous Deities and Heroes of Antiquity; or an Expoſition of Poetical Fictions and Fables.

Mytilus, a kind of Shell-fiſh, a Limpin, a large Muſcle.

Myxa, Snot, or Snivel; alſo a ſort of Prunes or Plums, like Damſins; alſo the Week of a Candle, or Lamp.

Myxon, a Fiſh of the Mullet-kind.

N A

Naam, (from the Dutch Word Nemmen, i. e. to nim, or take hold of) a Common-Law-Term, for the taking of another Man's moveable Goods, which Diſtreſs if reaſonable, and proportionable to the Value of the thing diſtrained for, it is call'd Lawful Naam.

Naaman, (Heb. comely, fair) a Syrian General, who was cur'd of his Leproſy by the Prophet Eliſha.

To Nab, to ſurprize, or take one Napping; alſo to cog a Die.

Nabal, (Heb. Fool or Mad) a rich Churl, whom David threaten'd to kill, but was pacify'd by the Prudence of his Wife Abigail.

Nacka or Nacta, (in ancient Deeds) a Yacht, or ſmall Ship; a Tranſport-Veſſel. Nacta is alſo an Impoſtume in the Breaſt.

Nacket or Naker, (Fr.) Mother of Pearl, the Shell of a Fiſh, in which Pearls breed.

Nadab, (Heb. a Prince) the Son of Aaron the High-Prieſt.

Nadir, (Arab. in Aſtron.) that Point of the Heaven which is directly under our Feet, and oppoſite to the Zenith, or Vertical Point, directly over Head; ſo that both are as it were Poles of the Horizon, and diſtant from it on each Side 90 Degrees.

Nænia, (Lat.) funeral Songs, Lamentations, or mournful Tunes, anciently ſung at the burying of the Dead.

Nævus, a Mole, a natural Mark, or Spot in the Body.

Naff, a kind of Bird.

Nag, a young Horſe.

Naiades, (Gr.) the Nymphs, or Fairies of Rivers and Fountains.

Naiant or Natant, (i. e. Swimming) a Term in Heraldry, when Fiſhes are drawn in an Eſcutcheon, lying along at Length; but if they are ſet upright, the Poſture is call'd Hauriant.

Naif, (Fr.) a Term apply'd by Jewellers, to a Diamond, or other precious Stone, that looks quick and natural, and has all its Properties, as Water, Clearneſs, Shape, &c.

Nail, an Iron-pin. In Meaſure, the ſixteenth part of a Yard, or two Inches and a Quarter; alſo a Weight of ſeven or eight Pounds in ſome Places.

To Nail, to faſten with Nails.

To Nail Cannon, is to drive a Nail, or large Spike, by main Force into the Touch-hole, or for want of Spikes, ſmall Flints or other Stones; by which means the Piece is render'd unſerviceable.

Nail-wort, a ſort of Herb.

Naipi, young Doctors in the Mahometan Law, who ſometimes ſupply the Place of Judges.

Naiſſant, (Fr.) newly born, growing, riſing, or coming forth: In Heraldry, it is when a Lion or other Beaſt appears to be iſſuing, or coming out of the middle of a Feſs, or other Ordinary; but if it come out from the lower Line of the Ordinary, 'tis termed Iſſuant.

Naked Fire, (among Chymiſts) an open Fire, or one that is not pent, or cloſed up.

Naked Seeds, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Seeds of Plants, as are not included in any Pod or Caſe; of this kind are thoſe of Pile-wort, Crow-foot, Marſh-mallows, &c.

Namation, (Law-Term) a diſtraining, or taking a Diſtreſs: In Scotland, it is taken for impounding, or putting in the Pound.

Namaz, a Word us'd among the Turks, and ſignifying their Common-Prayer.

Nap, the hairy or ſhaggy part of Woollen Cloth; alſo a ſhort Sleep.

Napææ, Nymphs, or Fairies of the Woods, from the Greek Word Nape, a Foreſt.

Nape, the hinder part of the Neck.

Napellus, (Lat.) the Herb Wolf-bane.

Napery, (Ital.) Linnen for the Table, Houſe-hold Linnen.

Naphew or Navew, a French Turnep.

Naphtha or Naphthe, (Gr.) Babyloniſh Bitumen, a kind of marly Clay or Slime, which being fired is hard to put out, and burns more vehemently, if Water be caſt on it.

Napier's Bones, certain Numbering Rods, made of ſmall Slips of Paſte-board, Wood, or Ivory, kept in a Pocket-Box; which ſerve to perform Multiplication by Addition, and Diviſion by Subtraction; and are ſo call'd from the Lord Napier, or Neper, Baron of Merchiſton in Scotland, who firſt invented them.

Napus, (Lat.) Navew or Turnep, Navew-gentle, or long Rapes a ſort of Root.

Narciſſus, (Gr.) a Flower of a white, and ſometimes of a yellow Colour; which grows in Gardens, and is commonly call'd Daffodil.

Narcoſis, the Faculty of benumming, or taking away the Senſes, as it happens in a Palſey, or by taking Opium.

Narcotical or Narcotick, ſtupifying, making ſenſeleſs, benumming.

Narcoticks, Medicines that ſtupify, and take away the Senſe of Pain; ſuch as ſtrong Opiates, &c.

Nardum, (Gr.) Nard, the Shrub in India; elſe-where the Herb bearing Spikenard.

Nardus Celtica. See Spica Celtica.

Nardus Indica or Spica Indica Indian Nard, or Spikenard, a Plant that grows like an Onion; good for the Jaundice, Stone in the Kidneys, &c.

Nares, the Noſtrils: In Falconry, the Holes in a Hawk's Beak.

Narration, a Relation, Report, or Recital of any particular Circumſtances, or Actions: In Rhetorick, the Narration is that part of an Oration or Speech in which an Account is given of Matter of Fact.

Narrative, declarative, expreſſive.

A Narrative, a Narration, Relation, or Recital.

Narrator, one that makes a Narration, a Relater or Teller: Alſo an old Latin Law-Word for a Pleader or Sergeant at Law.

The Narrow, a Channel that runs between Marget-ſand and the Main, from the North-Foreland to the Buoys of Wooll-pack and Spell.

Narther, (Gr.) a ſort of Tree, like Fennel-giant.

Naſal, (Lat.) belonging to the Noſe; as The Naſal Vein, i. e. the Vein between the Noſtrils. Naſal is alſo the Noſe-piece of an Helmet.

Naſalia, Medicines to be put up the Noſtrils.

Naſamonites, (Gr.) a Stone of a Bloud-colour, with little black Veins.

Naſcalia, (Lat.) Medicines of a round Figure, which on ſome Occaſions are put into the Neck of the Matrix; being made of the ſame Subſtance as the Peſſaria. See Peſſary.

Naſi Os, (in Anat.) a thin but ſolid Bone, which makes the upper part of the Noſe; being ſmooth on the out-ſide, and rough within.

Naſda or Natta, (in the Chymical or Paracelſian Language) a Bunch in the Back.

Naſturces or Capucin Capers, a kind of French Bean that gets up upon Branches, or Poles, which are near it: Its Leaf is pretty large, and the Flower of an Orange-colour.

Naſturtium, (Lat.) the Herb Noſe-ſmart, Creſſes, or Garden-creſſes; which is of great Virtue in Lethargies, &c. either boil'd, or eaten in Sallets.

Naſturtium Aquaticum, Water-creſſes, that often grow in Brooks and watery Places; they are much us'd during the Spring-Seaſon, in Broths to purify the Bloud, and are good for the Stone, Dropſy, &c.

Naſturtium Indicum, Indian Creſſes; the Flowers of which ſmell, and look very pleaſantly: They are good for a weak and cold Stomach, and for the Wind.

Natalitious, belonging to one's Nativity, or Birth-day.

Nathanael, (Heb. the Gift of God) the Son of Iſhai; alſo a Perſon to whom our Saviour gave the Character of A true Iſraelite, without Guile.

Nates, (Lat.) a Buttock, an Haunch.

Nates Cerebri, (in Anat.) two round parts of the Brain, bunching out behind the beds of the Optick Nerves, and growing to the upper part of the Marrowy Subſtance.

Natio, a Nation or People, all the Inhabitants of a particular Country: In ſome ancient Writers, it is taken for a Native Place.

National, that belongs to a whole Nation.

National Synod. See Synod.

Native, belonging to one's Birth-place, natural, proper.

A Native, one born in a certain Place, or one that lives in the Country where he was born. In Aſtrology, a Perſon born under a certain Aſpect, or Influence of the Stars.

Native Spirit. See Emphyton Thermon.

Nativitas, (Lat.) Birth, or the being born in a Place: In a Law-Senſe, it was anciently taken for Bondage or Villenage; as Terram quam nativi ſui tenuerunt de ſe in Nativitate, Mon. Angl.

Nativity, Birth, or firſt Entrance into the World: Among Aſtrologers, it is taken for the true Time of any Perſon's Birth, when in a peculiar manner he becomes liable to the Influences of the Heavenly Bodies; but the Term is more eſpecially apply'd to a Scheme or Figure of the Heavens, carefully drawn at that Moment of Time.

Nativo habendo, (Lat.) a Writ that lay for the apprehending of a Lord's Villain, or Bond-man, run from him, and for reſtoring him again to the Lord.

Nativus, native, natural, inbred: In Ancient Deeds, he that is born a Servant, and ſo diſtinguiſh'd from one that ſuffers himſelf to be ſold: There being three ſorts of Servants, viz. Natives, Bond-men, and Villains.

Natrix, the Water-Snake, or Serpent.

Natta, a great ſoft Swelling without Pain and Colour, which uſuall grows in the Back, and ſometimes on the Shoulders; its Root is ſlender, yet it encreaſes prodigiouſly, even to the Bigneſs of a Melon or Gourd: Alſo a Mark in any Part, ſuch as Infants often bring along with them into the World.

Natura, Nature; alſo the Privy Parts.

Natural, belonging to, or proceeding from Nature, ſuch as Nature made it, not counterfeit; alſo free, eaſy, unaffected, genuine, proper.

Natural Concrete. See Concrete.

Natural Day, the Space of Twenty-four Hours. See Day.

Natural Faculty, an Action depending chiefly upon the Brain, whereby the Body is nouriſh'd, encreas'd, and preſerv'd by the Bloud and Animal Spirits. See Vital Faculty.

Natural Horizon, the ſame as Senſible Horizon See Horizon.

Natural Philoſophy. See Phyſica.

Natural Quantity. See Quantity.

Natural Son, a baſe-born Son, a Baſtard.

Natural Tumours. See Tumours.

Natural Year, one entire Revolution of the Sun, comprehending the Space of 365 Days, and almoſt 6 Hours. See Year.

A Natural, a Fool, or Changeling.

Naturaliſt, one that underſtands natural Cauſes, or is ſkill'd in Natural Philoſophy.

Naturaliſation, the Act of naturalizing, when an Alien or Foreigner is made the Queen's Natural Subject. See Deniſon.

To Naturalize, to admit into the Number of Natural Subjects; alſo to receive a foreign Expreſſion, or Word, into the Original Stock of a Language.

Naturalneſs, Natural Affection.

Nature, the univerſal Diſpoſiton of all Bodies; the Government of Divine Providence directing all Things by certain Rules and Laws. Alſo the Eſſence of any incorporeal Thing; as, It is the Nature of God to be Good, of the Soul to think, &c. Alſo the Principle of all created Beings, the Original Quality or Property of Things; Condition, Diſpoſition, Humour.

Naval, belonging to a Navy, or Fleet of Ships, or to Sea-Affairs.

Naval Crown, (among the Romans) a Crown made of Gold or Silver, with the Figure of Beaks of Ships, which was uſually given as a Reward, to one who firſt boarded the Enemies Ships.

Nave, the Stock of a Wheel, that part into which the Spokes are ſet: Alſo the main Part or Body of a Church.

Navel, a Part of the Body.

Navel-Gall, a Diſeaſe in Horſes.

Navel-Timbers, the Futtocks, or Ribs of a Ship.

Navel-wort, a kind of Herb.

Navet, part of an Incenſe-pan, or Cenſer-box.

Naviculare Os, (in Anat.) otherwiſe call'd Cymbiforme, the third Bone of each Foot, in that part of it which immediately ſucceeds the Leg.

Navigable, that may be ſailed on, paſſable by Ships, or Boats; ſo Rivers that will bear Veſſels of good Burden, are ſaid To be Navigable.

To Navigate, to ſail on the Sea.

Navigation, the Art of Sailing, which ſhews how to conduct or guide a Ship at Sea, the neareſt and ſafeſt Way, and in the ſhorteſt time to any appointed Place, or from one Port to another; and it is twofold, either Proper or Improper.

Proper Navigation, is when the Voyage is perform'd in the Vaſt Ocean, out of Sight of all Land; in which Caſe, the Maſter of a Ship muſt be well ſkilled in the Uſe of Charts, Compaſſes, Log-line, and all good Inſtruments that are requiſite for taking Obſervations, &c.

Improper Navigation, otherwiſe call'd Coaſting, is when the Places are at no great Diſtance one from another; ſo that the Ship uſually ſails in Sight of Land, and is within Soundings; for which purpoſe, there is required a good Knowledge of the Lands, the Uſe of the Compaſs, Lead, Sounding-line, &c.

Navigator, a Sailer, or Sea-Traveller.

Navis, (Lat.) a Ship, or Bark; any ſort of Sea-Veſſel.

Navis or Navicula, (in ancient Writers) a ſmall Diſh to hold Frankincenſe, before it was put into the Cenſer, or Smoaking-pot; probably ſo call'd from its Shape, reſembling a little Ship, or Boat.

Navis Eccleſiæ, the Nave or Body of a Church, diſtinguiſh'd from the Quire, and the Wings or Iſles.

Naulage, the Fraight, or Paſſage-money, paid for carrying Goods by Sea.

Naulum, (Gr. among the Romans) was a Piece of Money put into the Mouth of a deceaſed Perſon, to pay Charon, the Ferry-man of Hell, for his Paſſage over the Stygian Lake. Alſo the Fare paid for Paſſage over the Sea in a Ship.

Naumachy, a Mock Sea-fight; the Repreſentation of a Sea-fight on a Stage, &c.

Nauſea, properly a being Sea-ſick, a Qualm or Liſt to vomit, with Sickneſs and Uneaſineſs; Loathing.

To Nauſeate, to loath, to be diſguſted at, or quite out of Conceit with.

Nauſeous or Nauſeative, going againſt one's Stomach, making one ready to vomit; loathſome.

Nautical or Nautick, belonging to Mariners, or to Ships.

Nautical Chart and Compaſs, certain Inſtruments for Navigation. See Chart and Compaſs.

Nautical Planiſphere, a Deſcription of the Terreſtrial Globle upon a Plane, for the Uſe of Mariners.

Nauticus Muſculus. See Tibialis Poſticus.

The Nautilus or Sailer, a ſort of Shell-fiſh, that ſwims like a Boat with a Sail.

Navy, a Fleet, or Company of Ships.

Surveyor of the Navy, an Officer, whoſe Buſineſs is to know the State of all Stores, and ſee the Wants ſupply'd; to ſurvey the Hulls, Maſts, and Yards of Ships; to audit the Accounts of all Boatſwains and Carpenters of the Queen's Navy, &c. his Salary being 500 Pounds per annum.

Treaſurer of the Navy, whoſe Office is to receive Money out of the Exchequer, by Warrant from the Lord Treaſurer of England, and to pay all Charges of the Royal Navy, by Order from the principal Officers of it; for which he has a Salary of 2000 Pounds per annum.

Nazal. See Naſal.

Nazarenes, a Name given to Chriſt and his Diſciples, from the Town of Nazareth, in the Tribe of Zabulon, where our Bleſſed Saviour ſpent a conſiderable part of his Life, before his Baptiſm.

Nazarites, a Sect among the ancient Jews, ſo call'd, upon Account of their being ſeparated from others, by vowing themſelves to God for a certain Time; during which, they were to abſtain from Wine and Grapes, and from all ſorts of heady Liquors. They were alſo oblig'd to let their Hair grow without cutting, and to obſerve ſeveral other Ceremonies, from all which they were freed when the Term of their Vow was expir'd.

Naze, the Name of a Cliff or Point of Land, lying right over-againſt the Buoy of the Gun-fleet.

Ne admittas, (Lat.) a Writ for the Patron of any Church, who doubts that the Biſhop will admit a Clerk to a Benefice, who is preſented by another; which Writ is to forbid the Biſhop to collate or admit any to that Church.

To Neal or Anneal, to bake or heat in the Fire; as To neal Glaſs, Metals, &c.

Neal to, (Sea-Term) when it is deep Water, cloſe to the Shore.

Neap. See Neep.

Near, as No near, a Word us'd at Sea, to bid the Steerſ-man cauſe the Ship to go more large, or right before the Wind.

Neat, any kind of Beeves; as an Ox, Cow, Steer, or Heifer.

Neat-herd, a Keeper of Neat Cattel.

Neat-Land, (Law-Word) Land granted, or let out to the Yeomanry.

Neats-Leather, Leather made of the Hide of an Ox or Cow.

Neat-Weight, the Weight of a pure Commodity, without the Caſk, Bag, &c. Or when it is clear'd from Duſt or Droſs by Garbling, &c.

Neaving, a Country-Word for Barm, or Yeſt.

Nebula, (Lat.) a Miſt, or Fog.

Nebule or Nebuloſe, (in Heraldry) a Term us'd when the Out-line of any Bordure or Ordinary, is drawn ſo as ſomewhat to reſemble the Figure of Clouds.

Nebulgea, (in the Chymiſts Language) the Salt of the Moiſture of a Cloud, falling upon Stones in Meadows, and harden'd by the Heat of the Sun.

Nebulous, miſty, foggy, cloudy, gloomy, overcaſt.

Nebulous Stars, certain fixed Stars, of a dull, pale, and dim Light; ſo call'd, becauſe they look cloudy, or bring Clouds, and ſetting with the Sun, render the Air troubled, and duſky.

Neceſſaries, things needful for Humane Life.

Neceſſary, needful, indiſpenſible, unavoidable.

To Neceſſitate, to compel, to force, as it were of Neceſſity.

Neceſſitous, that is in Want; needy, poor.

Neceſſity, Indipenſibleneſs, the State of a thing that muſt needs be; alſo Extremity, Straight, Diſtreſs, Poverty, Need, Want.

Neck-Verſe. See Benefit of the Clergy.

Necromancer, (Gr.) a Magician, Wizard, or Conjurer.

Necromancy, an Art, by which Communication is held with the Devil, ſo as to call up the Spirits of the Dead; ſuch as the Witch of Endor made Uſe of, to cauſe Samuel to appear to Saul.

Necromantick, belonging to that black Art.

Necroſis, (in Divinity) a mortifying of corrupt Affections. In Surgery, a perfect Mortification of the ſoft and hard Parts of the Body.

Nectar, a certain pleaſant Liquor, which the Poets feign to be the Drink of the Gods, and that whoſoever drunk of it would become Immortal: Among Phyſicians, it is taken for a Medicinal Drink, of a moſt delightful Taſte, Colour, and Smell.

Nectarea, the Herb Elicampane, ſo call'd by way of Excellency.

Nectarean, belonging to Nectar.

Nectarine, a ſort of ſmooth Peach, a delicious Fruit.

Nectarites, a Drink, or Wine, made of Elicampane.

Neece, the Daughter of a Brother, or a Siſter.

Needle. See Box and Needle.

Needle of the Mariners Compaſs, the Iron-wire which is touch'd with the Load-ſtone.

The Needles, certain Shelves in the Sea, about the Iſle of Wight.

Neep-tides, thoſe Tides which happen when the Moon is in the Middle of the ſecond and laſt Quarters, and are oppoſite to the Spring-tides: For as the higheſt of the latter is three Days after the Full or Change; ſo the loweſt of the Neep is four Days before the Full or Change; and then the Sea-men ſay, It is Deep Neep, or Dead Neep.

A Ship is alſo ſaid To be neeped, when Water is wanting, ſo that ſhe cannot get off the Ground, out of a Harbour or Dock.

Neez-wort, a kind of Herb.

† Nefandous, (Lat.) not to be ſpoken, or mention'd; hainous, horrible.

† Nefarious, very wicked, villainous, abominable.

Negation, a denying, or gain-ſaying.

Negative or Negatory, belonging to Denial; as The Queen has the Negative Voice.

Negative Quantities, (in Algebra) ſuch Quantities as have the Negative Sign Minus (−) ſet before them, and are ſuppos'd to be leſs than nothing; being directly contrary to Affirmative, Poſitive, or Real Quantities.

A Negative, a denying Propoſition, or Expreſſion; as The Malefactour ſtands upon the Negative, i. e. denies the Fact he is charged with.

A Negative Pregnant, (Law-Term) a Negative implying alſo an Affirmative; as when a Man being accus'd to have done a thing on ſuch a Day, or in ſuch a Place, denies he did it, after the manner and form declared, which nevertheleſs implies that he did it in ſome ſort.

Neglect, Omiſſion, Want of Care, Diſregard.

To Neglect, not to take Care of, to forget, to ſlight, to let go or let ſlip.

Negligence, Remiſneſs, Retchleſneſs; ill looking to a thing, Careleſneſs, Heedleſneſs.

Negligent, neglectful, ſlack in Buſineſs; careleſs.

† Negoce, Trading, Dealing, Management of Affairs, Buſineſs.

To Negotiate, to tranſact, or manage, to traffick.

Negotiation, the Management of Publick Affairs; an Affair, Concern, or Treaty managed; a trafficking or trading.

Negotiator, a Manager of Buſineſs.

Negotiatrix, a Woman that manages, a Female Manager.

Negotious, full of Buſineſs.

Negro, one born in Nigritia or Negro-Land, a Country of Africa; a Black-moor.

Nehemiah, (Heb. the Reſt of the Lord) one of the leſſer Prophets among the Jews, and a zealous Promoter of the Reparation of the City of Jeruſalem, after the Babyloniſh Captivity.

Neif or Neiſe, a Law-Word for a Bond-Woman.

Writ of Neifty, a Writ whereby the Lord of the Manour claim'd ſuch a Woman for his Neif; but it is now quite out of Uſe.

To Neigh, to cry as a Horſe does.

Neighing-Bird, a little Bird, that imitates the Neighing of a Horſe.

Neighbour, one that dwells, or is ſeated near to another.

Neighbourhood, the Place near that one lives in, or the whole Body of Neighbours.

Neighbouring, adjoyning, bordering upon.

Neighbourly, becoming a Neighbour, friendly; as A Neighbourly Office.

Ne injuſte vexes, a Writ that lies for a Tenant diſtrained by his Lord for other Services than he ought to make; being a Prohibition to the Lord, enjoyning him not to diſtrain.

Nenufarim, a Word us'd by the Chymiſts, and Followers of Paracelſus, for Spirits in the Air.

Nenuphar, (Arab.) a Flower, commonly call'd a Water-lilly.

Neomenia, (Gr.) the time of the New Moon, or of the Moon's Change.

Neophyte, (i. e. newly planted, or ſet) a Perſon newly enter'd upon any Profeſſion, a Learner, or Novice: Alſo one lately converted or turn'd to the Chriſtian Faith.

Nep or Nip, a kind of Herb, otherwiſe call'd Cat-mint.

Nepenthes, (Gr.) an Herb mention'd by Pliny, which being put into Wine drives away Sadneſs; ſome take it for Bugloſs, or wild Penny-royal: Alſo a kind of Medicine otherwiſe call'd Opiate or Laudanum.

Neper's Bones or Rods. See Napier's Bones.

Nepeta, (Lat.) Nep, or Cats-mint, an Herb good againſt the ſtinging of Scorpions.

Nephalia, a Sacrifice and Feaſt of the Greeks, call'd The Feaſt of ſober Men, at which the Athenians offer'd to the Sun and Moon, and other Deities, a Drink made of Water and Honey.

Nephelæ, Clouds; alſo thoſe Threads which appear as it were little Clouds in the midſt of Urine: Alſo certain ſmall white Spots in the Eyes; or little white Spots on the Surface of the Nails of one's Fingers.

Nephew, the Son of a Brother, or Siſter.

Nephritick, troubled with a Diſeaſe in the Reins.

Nephriticks, Medicines againſt thoſe Diſeaſes.

Nephriticum Lignum, otherwiſe call'd Santalum Cœruleum, a kind of Wood that grows in New Spain, and is us'd in Diſeaſes of the Reins.

Nephriticus Lapis, a ſort of green Stone brought from the Indies and Spain, which is us'd in Nephritick Pains.

Nephritis, a Pain in the Reins or Kidneys, proceeding from an ill Diſpoſition, or from an Inflammation, or from the Stone and Gravel, accompany'd with vomiting, and Stretching of the Thigh.

Nephros, a Kidney, one of which is plac'd on each Side of the lower Belly about the Loins, under the Liver and Spleen.

Nephrotomia, a cutting, or opening of the Kidneys.

Nepotiſm, (Lat.) a Word made uſe of to expreſs the extravagant Power often given by the ruling Popes to their Nephews, or other Relations, in the Government of the Eccleſiaſtical State.

Nereides, (Gr.) the Nymphs, or Fairies of the Sea.

Nerion, a Shrub, with Leaves like an Almond, which ſome call Oleander, others Roſe-again, and others Roſe-laurel, or Roſe-bay.

Nerites, the Mermaid's Trumpet, a Shell-fiſh, that ſails on the Sea.

Neroly, a ſort of Perfume.

Nerval Bones, (in Anat.) the Bones of the hinder part of the Head.

Nerve or Sinew, a fibrous, round, long, white Subſtance, and full of Pores, which conveys the Animal Spirits to make the Parts of the Body more moveable and ſenſible.

Nervoſity, a being full of Nerves or Sinews; Strength, Vigour.

Nervous, full of Nerves, ſinewy, ſtrong, luſty, brawny; alſo ſtrong, ſolid, weighty, in ſpeaking of an Argument, or Diſcourſe.

Nervus, (Lat.) a Nerve, or Sinew, the String of a Bow, or of a Muſical Inſtrument: Among Herbaliſts, a long Filament or tough String, which runs a-croſs, or length-ways, in the Leaf of a Plant; as in Plantane, &c.

Neſh, (old Word) tender.

Neſs, a Word formerly taken for a Point of Land running into the Sea, and ſtill us'd in that Senſe, in ſeveral compound Names of Places in England; as Holderneſs-Promontory in York-ſhire, Sheerneſs-Fort in Kent, &c.

Neſt, a little Lodgment, in which Birds hatch, and breed their Young; an Harbour for Thieves or Pirates.

Neſt of Cheſts or Coffers, three in Number. Neſt of Rabbets, a Company of them, ſo call'd by Foreſters.

To Neſtle, to make a Neſt, as a Bird does; to ſettle any where. To Neſtle about, to move here and there, to be reſtleſs or uneaſy.

Neſtling, a young Bird unfledg'd, newly taken from the Neſt.

Neſtor, the Son of Neleus and Chloris, King of Pylos, famous for his Prudence, Eloquence, and the great Age he liv'd to, ſaid to be about 300 Years; continuing ſound both in Body and Mind: Whence it is that when we wiſh a Man a long Life, we wiſh him the Age of Neſtor.

Neſtorians, a ſort of Hereticks, that took Name from their Ring-leader Neſtorius; and whoſe chief Tenet was, That there are two Perſons as well as two Natures in Chriſt.

Net-Maſonry, a particular ſort of making, or walling.

Nether, lower; as The Nether Mill-ſtone.

Netherlands, the Low Countries of Flanders, Holland, Zealand, &c.

Nettings, (Sea-Term) ſmall Ropes faſten'd together with Rope-yarn, in form of a Net, and uſually laid in the Waſtes of Ships, between the two Maſts, to ſerve inſtead of Gratings.

Nettle, a well known ſtinging Herb.

Nettle-tree, a Tree, otherwiſe call'd the Lote-tree.

To Nettle, to ſting with Nettles; to nip, bite, teaz, or vex.

Neuras, (Gr.) an Herb good againſt Cuts, or Weakneſſes of the Nerves or Sinews.

Neurodes, a ſort of lingering Feaver, ſo call'd by Dr. Willis, becauſe the Nervous Juice being corrupted, occaſions an Atrophy, or Defect of Nouriſhment, and Decay in the Parts of the Body.

Neuroides, wild Beet, an Herb.

Neurologia, a Diſcourſe on, or Deſcription of the Nerves of a Humane Body.

Neuron, a Nerve, or Sinew.

Neuroſpaſton, an Herb that bears a black Grape, with a Sinew in the Kernel of it.

Neuroticks, Remedies againſt the Diſeaſes of the Nerves.

Neurotomus, one who is troubled with a pricking of the Nerves, or one that diſſects them Anatomically.

Neurotomy, a cutting, or opening of the Nerves; the pricking of the Nerves, a Diſtemper; or a pricking of them by unskilful Blood-letting.

Neuter, (Lat.) neither the one nor the other, neither of the two; that is of neither Party, or Side.

Neuter Gender, (in Grammar) a Gender in the Greek and Latin Tongues, that is neither Maſculine nor Feminine.

Neuter Verb. See Verb.

Neutha, (in the Chymiſts Language) a little Skin growing to the Ears or Eyes of new-born Infants.

Neutral, being of the Neuter Gender; as Neutral Nouns; belonging to a Verb Neuter; as in a Neutral Manner or Senſe: Alſo that takes part with neither Side; as To ſtand Neutral or Neuter.

Neutral or Adiaphorous Spirits, certain Spirits diſtill'd from Tartar, and ſome ſorts of weighty Wood; ſo call'd by Mr. Boyle, becauſe he found them very different in Quality from other common Spirits. See Adiaphorous.

Neutrality, the State of one that is Neuter; a middle Condition between a Friend and an Enemy.

Neutro-Paſſive Verbs, (in Grammar) Verbs Neuter that have their Preterperfect Tenſe form'd out of a Paſſive Participle; as Gaudeo, gaviſus ſum; audeo, auſus ſum; ſoleo, ſolitus ſum, &c.

New, that is of little ſtanding, made lately, freſh; never us'd, or worn before.

New Algebra. See Algebra.

New College, a College in the Univerſity of Oxford, built by William Wickham, Biſhop of Wincheſter.

New Inn. See Inns of Chancery.

New-years-gift, a Preſent yearly made to Friends on the firſt Day of January; a Cuſtom deriv'd from the ancient Romans, who us'd to offer Preſents to the Emperours in the Capitol, though they were abſent.

News, new Intelligence of Affairs, Tidings; Advice of a thing that has been done, or that has happen'd lately.

Newt or Eft, a ſmall ſort of Lizard.

Nias-Hawk, (in Falconry) a young Hawk newly taken out of the Neſt, and not able to prey for her ſelf; from the French Word Niais, i. e. ſimple, ſilly, fooliſh.

To Nibble, to bite a little by Degrees, and often.

Nice, curious, tender, ſqueamiſh; apt to take pet, touchy; ſcrupulous, ſhy; exact, ſubtil; tickliſh, dangerous, difficult.

Nicea or Nice, a City of Bithynia, famous for the firſt general Council held there, A. C. 314. by Appointment of the Emperour Conſtantine the Great; in which 318 Biſhops were aſſembled to beat down the Arian Hereſy.

Nicean or Nicene, belonging to that City; as The Nicene Creed; a particular Creed, or Confeſſion of Faith, drawn up by the Clergy in the Council of Nice.

Nicety or Niceneſs, Curiouſneſs, Exactneſs, Subtilty. Niceties, nice Ways, or Points, Criticiſms.

Niche, (in Architect.) a hollow Place in a Wall, or Pile of Building, for a Statue, or Image.

Nichils. See Nihils.

Nicholaitans, a ſort of Hereticks, that held it lawful to have their Wives in Common, and were ſo call'd from one Nicholas of Antioch, whom the Apoſtles made one of the Seven Deacons.

Nicholas, a common proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Greek, victorious over the People.

Nicia, a Chriſtian Name of Women, of the ſame Derivation.

To Nick, to notch; alſo to hit upon exactly, to do in the very Point of Time.

Nick-Name, a Comical or odd Name given to a Perſon in Deriſion, or by Way of Drollery.

Nicodemites, a Sect of Hereticks in Switzerland, ſo nam'd from their imitating Nicodemus, who made Profeſſion of his Faith in private.

Nicotian, a Plant, ſo call'd from one John Nicot, a French-man, who firſt ſent it from Portugal into France, and now well known by the Name of Tobacco.

Nictitans Membrana. See Membrana Nictitans.

Nide, (Lat.) a Term us'd in Falconry, for a Flock of Pheaſants.

Niderling, Nidering, Nithing, or Niding, an old Engliſh Word ſignifying a Coward, a ſorry hen-hearted Fellow.

Nidget, an Idiot, a Ninny, or meer Fool.

Nient Comprise, (Fr. Law-Term) an Exception made to a Petition as unjuſt, becauſe the thing deſired is not compris'd or contain'd in that Act or Deed on which the Petition is grounded.

Nife, (old Law-Word) a Trifle, a thing of little or no Value.

Nigella, (Lat.) an Herb, ſo call'd becauſe its Seed is black, and commonly Gith; alſo the Guiney-Pepper Plant; the Seed of which is chiefly us'd in Phyſick, to encreaſe Milk, provoke Urine, and the Courſes, &c.

Niggard, one that is too ſparing, or ſaving; a covetous, ſtingy, or cloſe-fiſted Perſon.

Night, a Part of the Natural Day, during which, the Sun does not appear above our Horizon.

Night-Mare, or rather Night-mar, from the Daniſh Word Mar Evil; a Diſtemper caus'd by undigeſted Humours fuming up into the Brain, and ſtopping the Paſſage of the Animal Spirits, ſo that the Body cannot move. See Incubus.

Night-rail, a ſort of Gorget, or Whiſk, made of fine Linnen; which Women uſually wear in their Chambers.

Night-Raven, a kind of Owl; a Bird.

Night-ſhade, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Dwale, and petty Morrel.

Nightingale, a Bird, that ſings very ſweetly.

Nigrica Fabrilis, (Lat.) Black-lead, a Mineral, which ſeems to be peculiar to England.

Nihil, Nothing. In Common Law, Nihils or Nichils, are Iſſues or Debts which the Sheriff, who is oppos'd, ſays are nothing worth, by Reaſon of the Inſufficiency of the Parties that ſhould pay them.

Nihil capiat per Billam or per Breve, a Form us'd, when Judgment is given againſt the Plaintiff, ſo as to bar his Action, or overthrow his Writ.

Nihil dicit, (i. e. he ſays nothing) a Failing to put in an Anſwer to the Plea of the Plaintiff by the Day aſſigned; whereupon Judgment paſſes upon him of Courſe, as ſaying nothing in his own Defence.

Nihilorum Clericus, the Clerk of the Nichils, an Officer in the Exchequer, who makes a Roll of all Sums that are inchill'd by the Sheriff upon Eſtreats of the Green-wax, when ſuch Summs are ſet on Perſons either not found out, or not able to pay; which Roll he delivers into the Treaſurer's Remembrancers-Office.

Nile, a noted River that runs thro' the midſt of Egypt and Ethiopia.

Nill, the Sparkles that fly from Metals as they are trying in a Furnace.

Nilling, (old Word) unwilling.

To Nim, to take by Stealth, to filch.

Nimbot, (Fr.) a Dandiprat, a Dwarf.

Nincumpoop or Nickumpoop, a meer Blockhead, Sot or Dolt; a ſenſeleſs or dull-witted Fellow.

Ninny or Ninny-hammer, a ſilly ſoftly Wretch, apt to be made a Fool of.

Ninth Sphere. See Nona Sphæra.

Nippers, a Surgeon's Inſtrument us'd for diſmembring, &c. In Sea-Affairs, Nippers are ſmall Ropes with a little Truck at one End, and ſometimes only a Walknot; their Uſe being to hold off the Cable from the Main, or Jeer-Capſtan, when the Cable is ſo great, ſo ſlimy, or ſo wet, that it cannot be faſten'd with the bare Hand.

Nipplewort, an Herb, ſo call'd, becauſe it is reckon'd good for ſore Nipples.

Niſi Prius, a Judicial Writ that lies where a Jury is impannell'd, and return'd before the Juſtices of the Bench, the one Party or the other requeſting to have it for the Eaſe of the Country; whereby the Sheriff is requir'd to cauſe the Inqueſt to appear before the Juſtices in the ſame County at their Coming.

This Writ is call'd Niſi Prius, from thoſe two Latin Words expreſs'd therein, for that it obliges the Sheriff to bring to Weſtminſter, the Men impannelled at a certain Day, or before the Juſtices of the next Aſſizes, Niſi apud talem locum prius venerint, i. e. Unleſs they come before to ſuch a Place.

Niſroch, (Heb. Flight) the Name of an ancient Idol among the Syrians.

Niſus, (Gr.) the leſſer Hawk, the Sparrow-hawk, or Hobby.

Nitrous, full of Nitre, or partaking of its Nature.

Nitrum, Nitre, or Salt-peter, which is either Natural or Artificial; and ſo call'd from Nitria, a Town in Egypt, where it was herotofore made in great Quantities.

Spirit of Nitre, a very ſharp and corroſive Liquor drawn from Salt-peter; which is the beſt ſort of Aqua fortis, us'd for the diſſolving of Metals. See Spirit.

Nixus, (Lat.) Force, Straining, Labour: Alſo the Name of a Conſtellation, or Cluſter of Stars, which repreſents Hercules) having his Knee bent, and endeavouring to ſtrike at the Dragon's Head: It is alſo call'd Ingeniculum and Engonaſin in Greek.

Noah, (Heb. ceaſing or reſting) the Son of Lamech, a juſt and upright Perſon, who by God's Appointment built an Ark, in which he and his Family were ſav'd from the Univerſal Deluge.

Nobilitated, (Lat.) made noble.

Nobility, the Quality, Order, or Degree of a Noble-man; alſo the whole Body of Noble-men, in a particular Country.

Noble, raiſed above the Gentry and Commonalty, either by Birth, or the Prince's Favour: Alſo great, brave, renowned; generous or free, coſtly, ſtately.

Noble Parts, (of the Body) are the Brain, Heart, and Liver.

A Noble, an ancient Coin now not in uſe; yet the Name of it is ſtill retain'd to expreſs the Value of Six Shillings and eight Pence Sterling: A Noble is alſo a Scotch Coin worth 6 ¼ d. Engliſh, and of which three make a Pound.

A Noble or Nobleman, a Perſon of Honour; as a Duke, Marqueſs, Earl, Viſcount, and Baron.

Nobleneſs, Nobility of Bloud, Greatneſs of Mind or Expreſſions, &c.

Nobleſs, the Nobility, or Noblemen.

Nocent, guilty of ſome Crime, or Offence; hurtful, miſchievous.

Noctambulo, (Lat.) a Night-walker, one that walks in his Sleep, opens Doors and Windows, and goes over high and dangerous Places, without perceiving it.

Noctiluca, a certain Subſtance, Chymically prepar'd; ſuch as will ſhine of it ſelf in the dark, without being expos'd to the Light or Air. See Phoſphorus.

Noctilabe, an Inſtrument made Uſe of to find how much the North Star is higher or lower than the Pole, at all Hours of the Night.

Nocturnal, belonging to the Night-time, Nightly; as a Nocturnal Viſit, or Meeting, &c.

Nocturnal Arch, (in Aſtron.) is that Space in the Heavens, which the Sun, Moon, or Stars run through from their Riſing to their Setting.

Among Aſtrologers, thoſe Signs and Planets are ſaid To be Nocturnal, in which Paſſive Qualities excell, as Moiſture and Dryneſs.

A Nocturnal, a Mathematial Inſtrument made of Box, Ivory, or Braſs, and divided on both Sides, for taking the Height or the Depreſſion of the Pole-ſtar, in order to find the Latitude of the Place, and the Hour of the Night.

Nocturnal or Nocturn, (among Roman Catholicks) part of the Mattins or Church-Service, being certain Pſalms and Prayers, ſo call'd, becauſe they are ſaid about Midnight.

Nocumentum, (Lat.) Harm, Hurt, Dammage: In a Law-Senſe, it is taken for a Nuſance.

Nodes, (in Aſtron.) are the Points of the Interſection of the Orbit of the Sun or any other Planet with the Ecliptick; ſo that the Point where a Planet paſſes over that Line out of Southern Latitude into Northern, is call'd the North or Aſcending Node: And on the contrary, where it goes from North to South, it is termed, the South or Deſcending Node; the former being alſo uſually call'd the Dragon's Head, and the latter the Dragon's Tail.

Nodoſity, a being full of Nodes, or Knots.

Nodous, knotty; as A Nodous Plant.

Nodus or Node, a Knot, or Nooſe: In Surgery, a kind of gummy Swelling, made by the ſettling of a groſs Humour between the Bone and the Perioſteum, or thin Skin that covers it. In Dialling, the Axis or Cock of the Dial; by the Shadow of which, either the Hour of the Day, in Dials without Furniture, or the Parallels of the Sun's Declination, with its Place in the Ecliptick, the Italian or Babyloniſh Hours, &c. are ſhewn in thoſe Dials that have Furniture. Alſo a Hole in the Cieling of a Room, or in any Pane of Glaſs in a Window, to make a Dial on the Wall, Floor, Cieling, &c.

Nodus or Nodulus, a Bag of Phyſical Ingredients, proper for the Diſeaſe, put into Wine, Beer, &c. the Tincture of which is to be drunk by the Patient.

Noſſus or Nauſus, (in old Records) a Coffin made of Wood.

Noiſome, loathſome, ſtinking, naſty.

Noli me tangere, (i. e. touch me not) a kind of Herb, whoſe Seed ſpirts away as ſoon as it is touch'd: Alſo a Diſeaſe, wherein the Part aggrieved the oftner it is touch'd, the worſe it grows; a ſort of Canker in the Face, eſpecially above the Chin: The Term is alſo ſometimes apply'd to the Venereal Diſeaſe or French Pox.

Nomæ, (Gr.) certain deep and rotten Ulcers in the Mouth.

Nomas, an eating Ulcer, that by creeping on, conſumes any part of the Body.

Nombles. See Numbles.

Nombril, (Fr.) the Navel, a part of the Body: In Heraldry, the lower Point in an Eſcutcheon, which is below the Feſſe-Point, and above the Baſe.

Nome, (Lat. in Algebra, i. e. a Name or Part) any Quantity with a Sign ſet before it, by which it is uſually joyn'd with ſome other Quantity; and then the Whole is termed A Binomial, a Trinomial, &c.

Nomen, a Name. The Greeks had only one Name, but the Romans had three or four, viz. Prænomen, Nomen, Cognomen, and ſometimes Agnomen: The Prænomen is that which belong'd to every Perſon in particular; the Nomen or Name is that which denotes the Houſe, from which one is deſcended; and the Cognomen or Surname is that which belongs to a particular Family, or to a Branch of that Houſe. See Agnomen. In Grammar, Nomen is a part of Speech, call'd a Noun, which See.

Nomenclator, one that calls Perſons or Things by their proper Names: Among the Romans, a Perſon who accompany'd thoſe that ſtood for any publick Place or Office, and whiſper'd to them the Names of all the Citizens they met with, that they might ſalute them, and call every one by his Name; a Remembrancer.

Nomenclatura, a ſet of Names, a Catalogue of the moſt uſual and ſignificant Words of a Language.

Nominal, belonging to a Name.

Nominalia, certain Feſtivals, in which the ancient Romans gave Names to their Children; for Males it was the Eighth Day, and for Females the Ninth, which was call'd Dies Luſtricus.

To Nominate, to name or mention, to appoint, to propoſe one to be fit to be choſen, to bear an Office, &c.

Nomination, a nominating, naming, or appointing: In Common and Canon Law, it is taken for a Power, that a Man has by Virtue of a Manour, or otherwiſe, to appoint a Clerk to a Patron of a Benefice, by him to be preſented to the Ordinary.

Nominative or Naminative Caſe, (in Grammar) the firſt Caſe, or Termination of a Noun, from which the reſt are deriv'd.

Nompareill, (Fr. i. e. incomparable, matchleſs) a kind of Sugar-plum, ſo call'd by Confectioners.

Nomparel or Nompearl, one of the leaſt ſort of Printing-Letters.

Non-ability, (Law-Term) an Exception taken againſt the Plaintiff or Defendant, by which he is diſabled from commencing any ſuit in Law; as in Caſe of a Præmunire, Out-lawry, Excommunication, &c.

Nonarellis, a Roman Coin of 90 Aſſes, or 5s. 7d. ob. Engliſh Money.

Nonage, the time of a Perſon's being under Age, which by the Law is defin'd to be under Twenty-one Years in ſome Caſes, and Fourteen in others.

Nonageſimal Degree, the ninetieth Degree or higheſt Point of the Ecliptick, which is of Uſe in the Computation of Eclipſes, and other Aſtronomical Matters.

Nonagon, (in Geom.) a Figure that has nine Sides and Angles.

Non-Appearance, a Default of not appearing in a Court of Juſtice.

Nona Sphæra, (Lat. in Aſtron.) the Ninth Sphere uſually termed the Primum Mobile, which is above the Starry Heaven, and carries with it all the lower Spheres with a very ſwift Motion, from Eaſt to Weſt, finiſhing its Revolution in 24 Hours.

Non-claim, (Law-Term) an Omiſſion or Neglect of a Man, that ought to challenge or claim his Right within a Time limited.

Non-compliance, a not complying with, or agreeing to.

Non compos mentis, (Lat. i. e. that is not in his right Wits) The Term in Common Law ſignifies, 1. An Idiot or Natural, ſo born; 2. One that by Accident wholly loſes his Memory and Underſtanding; 3. A Lunatick, that is ſometimes ſenſible, and ſometimes not; 4. A Drunkard, who deprives himſelf of his Senſes by his Act.

Non-conformiſt, one that does not conform to the Church of England with reſpect to its Diſcipline and Ceremonies.

Non-conformity, the State or Condition of a Non-conformiſt.

None, one of the Seven Canonical Hours in the Church of Rome.

Noneſuch, a Flower, otherwiſe call'd Flower.

Nones of a Month, (among the Romans) certain Days reckon'd backwards from the Calends or firſt Days of every Month, and ſo call'd, becauſe from the laſt of the ſaid Days to the Ides there are always nine Days: Thus they computed ſix Days in the Nones of March, May, July, and October, and in the other Months only four.

Non-entity, the Quality of a Thing that is not in being; a Philoſophical Term.

Non eſt culpabilis, (in Common Law, i. e. not guilty) the general Anſwer to an Action of Treſpaſs, whereby the Defendant abſolutely denies the Fact laid to his Charge by the Plaintiff.

Non eſt factum, an Anſwer to a Declaration, by which a Man denies that to be his Deed, whereupon he is impleaded.

Non implacitando aliquem de libero tenemento ſine brevi, a Writ to forbid Bailiffs, &c. from diſtraining any Man, without the Queen's Writ, touching his Freehold.

Non intromittendo, quando breve de Præcipe in Capite ſubdole impetratur, a Writ directed to the Juſtices, willing them not to give one that has, under Colour of intitling the Queen to Land, &c. deceitfully obtain'd the Writ call'd Præcipe in Capite.

Non liquet, (i. e. it does not appear) a Verdict given by a Jury, when a Matter is to be referr'd to another Day of Tryal.

Non mercandizando Victualia, a Writ directed to the Juſtices of Aſſize, commanding them to enquire, Whether the Officers of ſuch a Town do ſell Victuals in Groſs, or by Retail, during their Office, contrary to the Statute, and to puniſh them, if they find it true.

Non moleſtando, a Writ that lies for one who is moleſted or diſturb'd contrary to the Queen's Protection granted him.

Non-natural Things, the Cauſes of Diſeaſes which are beſides Nature, reckon'd by Phyſicians to be ſix in Number, viz. The Air, Meat and Drink, Sleep and want of Sleep, the Motion and Reſt of the Body, the retaining and diſcharging of the Excrements, and the Paſſions of the Mind.

Non obſtante, (Lat. i. e. notwithſtanding) a Clauſe often uſ'd in Statutes and Letters Patent; as All Grants of ſuch Penſions, and every Non-obſtante therein contain'd ſhall be void.

Non omittas propter aliquam Libertatem, a Writ that lies for the Plaintiff directed to the Sheriff to enter into a Franchiſe, and execute the Queen's Proceſs him ſelf, when the Bailiff of ſuch a Franchiſe has neglected to ſerve the Writ that was ſent to him by the ſaid Sheriff.

Non-organical Part, (among Anatomiſts) is a Part of the Body of a Living-Creature, to which ſome Life is only appropriated, but no Action; as A Ligament, Griſtle, Bone, &c.

Non-plevin, a Law-Term uſ'd when Land is not replevy'd in due time.

To Non-plus or put to a Non-plus, to ſtop one's Mouth, ſo that he can have nothing more to ſay; to puzzle, to perplex, to gravel, or balk.

Non ponendis in Aſſiſis & Juratis, a Writ ded upon ſeveral Statutes, and granted upon Cauſes to Men, for the freeing of them Aſſiſes and Jurors.

Non procedendo ad Aſſiſam Regina inconta, a Writ to ſtop the Tryal of a Cauſe, ing to one that is in the Queen's Service, t, till her Majeſty's Pleaſure be farther own.

Non-Reſidence, the unlawful Abſence of a ficed Clergy-man from his Spiritual Charge, is to ſay, when he abſents himſelf for the ce of one or two Months, at ſeveral times in one ar.

Non-Reſident, that does not reſide, or keep the Place of his Charge.

Non reſidentia pro Clericis Reginæ, a Writ ected to the Ordinary, charging him not diſturb a Clerk employ'd in the Queen's Service, pon account of his Non-Reſidence.

Non ſanæ Memoriæ, an Exception made to n Act, declar'd by the Plaintiff or Demandant to be done by another; which Exception implies, That the Party who did that Act as mad, or not well in his Wits, when he did it.

Non ſolvendo pecuniam ad quam Clericus ulctatur pro non Reſidentia, a Writ forbidding n Ordinary to take a Fine payable in Money, hich was laid upon a Clerk of the Queen for Non-Reſidence.

Non-ſolvent, not able to pay.

Non-ſuit, a renouncing, or letting fall of the uit by the Plaintiff or Demandant, when the atter is ſo far proceeded in, as the Jury is ready o give their Verdict.

Non ſum Informatus. See Informatus non

Non Tenure, an Exception to a Count, or original Declaration in a Law-ſuit, by ſaying, That the Party does not hold the Land ſpecify'd in the ſaid Count, or at leaſt ſome part of it.

Non-Term, the Time of Vacation between Term and Term; which was uſually call'd The Days of the King's Peace.

Nonupla, (in Muſick) a very quick Time, peculiar to Jiggs.

Nook, a Corner. Nook of Land. See Far-del of Land.

Nooſe, the ſliding Knot of a Cord: Alſo a Snare, or Gin.

Nope, a Bird, otherwiſe call'd a Bulfinch.

Norbertins, an Order of Monks, founded by Norbert, Biſhop of Magdeburg, A. D. 1120. and otherwiſe call'd Præmonſtratenſes.

Normal, that is perpendicular, or at Right Angles; the Term is uſually apply'd to a Line or a Plane that cuts another perpendicularly.

Norrey or Norroy, (Fr. i. e. Northern King, or King of the North-Parts) a Title given to the third King at Arms, whoſe Office is the ſame on the North-ſide of the River Trent, with that of Clarencieux on the South.

North-Light, a wonderful Meteor, which uſually appears in Greenland, about the time of the New Moon, and tho' only in the North, yet it enlightens the whole Country: 'Tis ſaid to reſemble a great Pillar, or Beam of Fire, darting out Rays and Streams every Way; it alſo moves from one Place to another, leaving behind it a kind of Miſt or Cloud, and continues till hid by the Sun-beams.

Northern Signs, (in Aſtron.) the firſt ſix Signs of the Zodiack or Ecliptick, ſo call'd, becauſe they make up that Semicircle of the Ecliptick, which inclines from the Equator Northward; as Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo.

Noſocomium, (Gr.) an Hoſpital for poor, ſick, or diſeaſed People; where they are attended, and have Means us'd for their Cure.

Noſos, a Diſeaſe, or Diſtemper.

To Noſe one, to provoke, or affront one to his Face.

Noſe-bleed or Yarrow, an Herb.

Noſtoch, is taken by ſome for a certain Excrement or foul Matter, like a Jelly, of a dark red Colour, which drops upon the Earth from ſome luxuriant Planet, or other Star.

Notable, (Lat.) ſingular, remarkable, conſiderable, great, extraordinary.

Notary, one that takes Notes, and makes a ſhort Draught of Contracts, Obligations, and other Inſtruments; a Scribe, or Scrivener.

Notary Publick, a kind of Scrivener, who publickly witneſſes Deeds or Writings, to make them authentick in Foreign Countries; as alſo Proteſts of Bills, and other Tranſactions relating to Merchants Affairs.

Notation, a marking, or ſetting a Mark upon; an obſerving, or taking Notice of. In Arithmetick, it is that part which ſhews how to expreſs, read, or declare the Signification, or Value of any Number written; as alſo to ſet down any Number propounded, with proper Characters, and in their due Places.

Note, a Remark or Explication ſet in the Margin, or at the Bottom of the Page of a Book; a ſhort Writing containing an Account of Buſineſs: It is alſo taken for Repute, Eſteem, Credit, Worth.

Note of a Fine, a Brief of a Fine made by the Chirographer before it be engroſs'd.

Note for Money, a ſhort Writing, by which one Perſon engages to pay another a Summ of Money under his Hand.

Notes, Remarks, eſpecially in Short-hand. In Muſick, Notes are certain Terms invented to diſtinguiſh the Degrees of Sound, and the Proportion of Time belonging thereto: For this Purpoſe ſix choice Syllables were formerly made uſe of, viz. Ut, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La; but four of them, viz. Mi, Fa, Sol, La, being found ſufficient for the right tuning of all Degrees of Sound; the other two are now generally lade aſide as needleſs.

There are alſo other ſorts of Notes, relating to Time, being Nine in Number, viz. the Large, Long, Breve, Semi-breve, Minim, Crotchet, Quaver, Semi-quaver, and Demi-Semiquaver; all which See in their proper Places. The Marks of theſe Notes are uſually ſet down on a Scale of five or ſix Lines, to ſerve as Directions for keeping Time in Singing, or Playing on any Muſical Inſtrument.

Notes of Augmentation and Diminution. See Augmentation and Diminution.

To Note, to obſerve, to take Notice of, to mark: In Falconry, the ſame as To Prune.

To Note a Foreign Bill, is when a Publick Notary goes to be a Witneſs, or to take Notice, that a Merchant will not accept or pay it.

Nothæ Coſtæ, (Lat. in Anatomy) the Baſtard Ribs, the five loweſt Ribs on each Side, ſo call'd, becauſe they do not joyn with the Breaſt-bone, as the other Ribs, nor are of a bony Subſtance, but griſtly.

Nothus, a Baſtard; that is of a mixt or Baſtard-breed, or kind. Among Phyſicians, thoſe Diſeaſes are termed Nothi, or Baſtard, which go beyond the ordinary and common Rule; as A Baſtard Ague, a Baſtard Pleuriſy, &c.

Notice, Knowledge, Marking, Advice or Information.

Notification, a notifying, or making known; a giving Information, or Advice.

To Notify, to make known, to give to underſtand, to declare or ſignify.

Notion, the Form of any thing conceiv'd, or repreſented in the Mind; Conception, Knowledge, Thought or Fancy.

Notional, belonging to Notions; as A Notional Property.

Notional Quantity. See Quantity.

Notonecta, (Gr.) certain Water-Inſects, not much unlike ſmall Beetles, always ſwimming on their Backs.

Notoriety or Notoriouſneſs, plain Evidence of a Matter of Fact.

Notorious, publickly known, evident, manifeſt, plain, arrant.

Notozephyrus, (Gr.) the South-Weſt Wind.

Notus, the South Wind.

Novacula, (Lat.) a Raſor; alſo a Surgeon's Knife, ſuch as are of ſeveral Shapes according to the Diverſity of Operations in which they are us'd.

Novæ Tabulæ, (among the Romans) certain Tables whereby old Debts or Obligations were cancell'd and made void.

Novale, Land that reſts a Year after the firſt ploughing, or Land firſt broken up for Tillage: In ſome old Records, it is taken for Land newly plough'd, that in Memory of Man had not been tilled.

Novatians, a Sect of Hereticks, who had one Novatus for their Ring-leader, A. C. 215. They condemn'd ſecond Marriages, and held, That thoſe who had once fallen, ought not to be receiv'd into the Church, although they afterwards repented.

Novatio, (a Civil-Law Term) the ent'ring into a new Obligation, to take off the former; alſo the transferring of an Obligation from one to another.

Novel, new, new-fangled; as A novel Party.

Novel Aſſignment, (Law-Term) an Aſſignment of Time, Place, &c. otherwiſe than was before aſſign'd; as when a Man brings Treſpaſs for breaking his Cloſe, and the Defendant juſtifies in a Place, where no Treſpaſs was done; but the Plaintiff aſſigns the Place where the Treſpaſs was actually done.

Novel Diſſeiſin. See Aſſize of Novel Diſſeiſin.

A Novel, an ingenious Relation of a pleaſant Adventure, or Intrigue; a ſhort Romance, or pretty Story.

Novellæ Conſtitutiones, the Novels, certain Volumes of the Civil Law, being 168 in Number; which were ſet forth by the Emperour Juſtinian, after the Code.

Novelty, the State of that which is new, Newneſs, new Thing; alſo Innovation or Change.

November, one of the twelve Months of the Year; ſo call'd, becauſe it is the Ninth Month from March, from which the Romans heretofor began the Year.

† Novenary, belonging to the Number Nin

Novennial, continuing the ſpace of Nin Years.

Novice, a Monk or Nun, newly enter'd in the Order; a new Beginner in any Art, Profeſſi on, or Faculty; a raw unexperienced or unſkilfu Perſon.

Noviciate or Noviceſhip, the time durin which one is a Novice; as To paſs a long Noviciat

Novilunium, the New Moon, all the tim before, and after the Moon's Conjunction wit the Sun, during which ſhe is not viſible.

Noun, (in Grammar) the firſt part of Speech expreſſing the Name of any Thing, or Object; a Domus a Houſe, Manus a Hand, &c.

To Nouriſh, (Fr.) to feed, to keep or maintain; to find Victuals for, to entertain, to cheriſh

Nouriſhment, Food that turns to the Subſtanc of the Body.

Nowed, knotted, tied in a Knot; a Term i Heraldry.

Noxious, (Lat.) hurtful, offenſive, miſchievous.

Noyſance. See Anoyſance and Nuſance.

Nubecula, (Lat.) a little Cloud. Among Phyſicians, Nubeculæ are taken for ſmall ligh Particles, that looſely cloſe one with another, an ſwim about in Urine.

Nubilous, cloudy, overcaſt, gloomy.

Nucamentum, (Lat.) Cats-tail, that hang down from the Pine, Firr, Pitch-tree, &c. the ſame as Iulus.

Nuces Colligere, to gather ſmall Nuts, or Hazle-Nuts, which was one of the Works or Services anciently impos'd upon inferiour Tenants.

Nucha, the hinder Part, or Nape of the Neck, otherwiſe call'd Cervix.

Nuciferous, bearing Nuts; as Nuciferou Plants, or Shrubs; as the Walnut-tree, Hazle-nu Tree, Cheſnut, Beach, Oak, &c.

Nucioſitas, Purblindneſs, the ſame as Myopia; which See.

Nucipruninum, a Plum grafted on a Nut-tree Stock.

Nuckianæ Glandulæ, (in Anat.) certain Glands or Kernels ſeated in that part of the Scull where the Eye is plac'd between the Abducent Muſcle of the Eye, and the Bone call'd Os jugale: They are ſo call'd from there being firſt diſcover'd by Dr. Nuck, a Phyſician of Holland.

Nucleus, the eatable part of the Kernel of any Nut; in a larger Senſe it is us'd by Herbaliſts for any Fruit or Seed contain'd within an Huſk, or Shell. In Architecture, the middle part of the Flooring, conſiſting of Cement, which the Ancients put betwixt a Lay or Bed of Pebbles, cemented with Morter made of Lime and Sand.

In an Aſtronomical Senſe, Nucleus is taken by Hevelius, and other Writers for the Head of a Comet, and by others for the Central or middle parts of any Planets.

To Nuddle along, to go careleſly, and in haſte.

Nude, naked, bare; as I deſire not to be believ'd upon nude Averments.

Nude Contract, (in Common Law) is a bare Contract or Promiſe of a thing, without any Conſideration; whence no Action or Suit can ariſe.

Nude Matter. See Matter.

Nudulis, Pledgets made of Lint, or Cotton-Wooll, and dipt in ſome Ointment, to be us'd in Sores, Wounds, or Diſeaſes of the Womb.

Nudity, Nakedneſs: Among Painters, a Picture repreſenting a naked Perſon.

Nuel, the Spindle of a winding Stair-caſe.

Nugatory, (Lat.) trifling, frivolous.

Nuiſance. See Nuſance.

Null, that is of no Force or Effect, that does not ſtand good in Law, void.

Nulled, made void; as Their Privileges were nulled.

Nullifidian, one of no Faith, Religion, or Honeſty.

To Nullify, to make null, or void.

Nullity, a being of no Effect or Value.

Nullo, a Cipher, or Character that ſtands for nothing.

Number, (in Arithm.) is diſcreet Quantity, defined by Euclid, to be a Multitude compos'd of many Unites.

Abſolute Numbers, (in Algebra) are all Numbers expreſs'd by Figures and Ciphers, not having any Letter or Letters joyn'd to them.

Broken Number. See Fraction.

Commenſurable Number, See Commenſurable.

Circular Number. See Circular.

Concrete Number. See Concrete.

Even Number. See Even.

Golden Number, (in Aſtron.) a Period of nineteen Years, invented by Meton the Athenian, at the end of which, the Sun and Moon return to the ſame Stations and Diſpoſitions as before. See Golden.

Prime, Simple, or Incompoſit Number, (in Arithm.) is a Number, which can only be meaſur'd or divided by it ſelf, or by Unity, without leaving any Remainder; as 2, 3, 5, 7, 11, 13, &c. are Prime Numbers.

Compoſite or Compound Number, is that which may be divided by ſome Number, leſs than the Compoſite it ſelf, but greater than Unity; as 4, 6, 8, 9, 10, &c.

Rational Number, (in Algebra) is every abſolute or ordinary Number, whether it be a whole Number or a Fraction, or a whole Number joyn'd to a Fraction; as 1, 2, 3, 4, &c. as alſo $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{3}{4}$, $\frac{5}{8}$, &c. and $2\frac{1}{2}$, $5\frac{1}{3}$, $8\frac{3}{5}$, &c.

Spherical Number. See Circular Number.

Numbles or Nombles, (Fr. among Hunters) the Entrails of a Stag, or Deer.

Numeral, belonging to, or expreſſing Numbers.

Numeral Algebra, that which makes Uſe of Numbers inſtead of the Letters of the Alphabet. See Algebra.

Numeral Letters, thoſe Letters of the Alphabet, which are generally us'd for Numbers; as V for 5, X for 10, L for 50, C for 100, D for 500, M for 1000, &c.

Numerals, (in Grammar) thoſe Words which expreſs Number, being divided into Cardinal and Ordinal: Cardinal Numerals, are thoſe which expreſs the Number of things, as One, Two, Three, Four; and Ordinal Numerals ſhew their Order or Rank; as the Firſt, Second, Third, Fourth, &c.

Numeration, a Numbering; in Arithmetick, that part which comprehends all manner of Operations by Numbers. See Notation.

Numerator, one that numbers, or counts; an Auditor, an Arithmetician.

Numerator of a Fraction, is the Number plac'd above the ſeparating Line, and expreſſing the Number of the parts of Unity, or of the Whole in any Fraction: So in the Fraction $\frac{3}{4}$ the Number 3 ſet above the Line is the Numerator, which ſhews, after the Whole has been divided into 4 equal Parts, how many of thoſe Parts are to be taken, viz. 3 of them; as the Figure 4 underneath, call'd the Denominator, ſhews how the Parts taken are to be named, i. e. Fourths.

Numerical, relating to Number: Numerical Difference, (in Logick) that Difference by which one individual thing is diſtinguiſh'd from another.

Numero, a Term us'd among Merchants for Number, and commonly mark'd thus N°, or Num. 1, 2, 3, &c. It is alſo made uſe of by Phyſicians; as Take of Jujubes N° vi. i. e. ſix in Number.

De Numero. See Ad Penſam.

Numerous, abounding in Number; great, manifold.

Numidica, (Lat.) the Guinea or Turky-hen; a ſort of Fowl.

Numidicus Lapis, a kind of African Marble.

Nummularia, Money-wort, an Herb, the Flowers and Leaves of which beaten, are apply'd with good Succeſs to Wounds and Ulcers; it is alſo of ſingular Virtue for Ruptures in Children.

Nun, a Virgin, or Woman, that has bound her ſelf by Vow to a ſingle and chaſte Life in a Monaſtery; being ſeparated from the World, and altogether devoted to the Service of God: Alſo a Bird, otherwiſe call'd a Tit-mouſe.

Nunciature, the Office, or Place of a Nuncio.

Nuncio, (Ital.) a Meſſenger, Ambaſſadour, or Envoy; eſpecially ſuch as is ſent by the Pope to any Prince or State.

Nuncius, (Lat.) a Meſſenger, or bringer of Tidings; an Apparitor, Sergeant, or Beadle.

Nuncupatio, (Lat.) a pronouncing or declaring in ſolemn Form: In the Civil Law, the Form of publiſhing and declaring one's laſt Will and Teſtament, or the declaring an Heir by Word of Mouth.

Nuncupative Will, is when the Teſtator makes his laſt Will and Teſtament, before ſufficient Witneſſes by Word of Mouth, and not in Writing.

Nundinæ, a Market which was anciently kept at Rome every ninth Day, whether the People reſorted to buy and ſell; as alſo to underſtand what Laws were made and proclaim'd; a Mart, or Fair.

Nundinary, belonging to Fairs, or Markets.

Nunnery, a Monaſtery, or Cloiſter for Nuns.

Nuper Obiit, (Lat.) a Writ which lies for a Coheir deprived by her Coparcener, of Lands or Tenements, when any of their Anceſtours dy'd poſſeſs'd of the Eſtate in Fee-ſimple.

Nuptial, belonging to a Marriage, or Wedding; as A Nuptial Song, the Nuptial Bed, &c.

To Nurſel, to encourage, abet, or uphold; as To Nurſel one in his vicious Courſes.

Nurſery, a Nurſe's Chamber, or Nurſing-room; alſo a College of young Perſons deſign'd for the Prieſt-hood: Alſo a Seed-plot, or Place ſet a-part for the raiſing of young Trees, Stocks, or Plants.

Nurture, (Fr.) Education, an inſtructing, or bringing up in good Manners.

Nuſance, (Law-Term) Annoyance, as when a Man raiſes a Wall, ſtops Water, or does any unlawful Act upon his own Ground, or elſewhere, to the Dammage of his Neighbour: Alſo the Aſſize, or Writ that lies for ſuch an Offence.

Nut, a ſort of Fruit; the Box or Worm of a Screw; the Head or Top of a Man's Yard; alſo a part of an Anchor, Printing-Preſs, Croſs-bow, &c.

Nut-Peach, a ſort of Peach; a Fruit.

Nutmeg, a well known Spice, the Fruit of a Tree as big as a Pear-tree, which grows in the Iſland of Banda in the Eaſt-Indies.

Male-Nutmeg, a kind of Nutmeg, which differs from the Common, in that it is longer and weaker.

Nutriment, (Lat.) Nouriſhment, Food: In old Records, Nutrimentum is taken for a Breed of Cattel.

Nutrition, the Act or Faculty of nouriſhing: Among Phyſicians, it is defin'd to be a natural Increaſe, whereby that which continually decays of any Bodily Subſtance is repair'd by convenient Nouriſhment.

Nutritious, nouriſhing, or cheriſhing.

Nutritious Juice, (in Anat.) a Juice that affords Nouriſhment to the ſeveral Parts of the Body.

Nutritive, that is apt to nouriſh, or ſerves for nouriſhing.

Nux, (Lat.) properly all Fruits that have a hard Kernel, eſpecially a Nut; alſo a kind of Pain in the Head, which ſettles in a Place about as big as a Nut.

Nux Aromatica or Myriſtica, the Nutmeg-ſpice.

Nux Unguentaria, a kind of Drug call'd Ben.

To Nuzzle, to neſtle, or hide the Head, as a young Child does in its Mother's Boſom, or in the Bed-clothes.

Nycthemeron, (Gr.) an entire Night and Day; the ſpace of 24 Hours.

Nyctalopia, a Diſtemper in the Eyes, which is twofold, viz. 1. A Dimneſs of Sight in the Night, or in dark Places, without any Defect in the Light. 2. A Dimneſs in the Light, and clear Sight in the Night, or in Shades.

Nycteris, the Rear-mouſe, or Bat.

Nycticorax, the Night-Raven.

Nye of Pheaſants, (among Fowlers) a Flight, or great Company of thoſe Birds.

Nympha, (Gr.) a Nymph, a falſe Deity believed by the ancient Heathens, to preſide over Waters, Rivers, Springs, and Lakes; ſome have alſo taken them for the Goddeſſes of Mountains, Foreſts, and Trees: Alſo freſh or River-Water.

Nymphæ, (in Anat.) certain ſmall ſoft pieces of Fleſh that ariſe from the joyning of the Os Pubis in the Neck of the Womb; and ſo call'd, becauſe they are plac'd near the Paſſage of the Water that comes out of the Bladder: Alſo the Hallowneſs, or void ſpace in the Nether Lip.

Nymphæa, the Water-lilly, or Water-roſe, a Flower; alſo publick Baths at Rome, which were conſecrated to the Muſes.

Nymphal, belonging to the Nymphs; as A Nymphal Dreſs.

Nymphomania, a Diſeaſe in Women; the ſame with Furor Uterinus.

Nymphotomia, (in Surgery) a cutting off the Nympha, the too great bunching out of which ſometimes hinders the Coitus, or at leaſt makes it difficult.

O A

OAF, a Fool, or ſilly Fellow.

Oak, one of the Maſt-bearing Trees.

Oak of Cappadocia and Oak of Jeruſalem, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Oakam, Ockam, or Okum, (a Sea-Term) old Ropes untwiſted, and pull'd out as it were into looſe Flax again, to be us'd in the Calking of Ships, &c. But when Tow or Flax is employ'd for the ſame purpoſe, it is call'd White Oakam.

Oar or Ore, unrefined Metal, as it is mix'd with the Earth, or Stone of the Mine.

Oat-thiſtle or Oatland-thiſtle, a ſort of Herb.

Oath, a lawful or unlawful Swearing. See Corporal Oath.

Oath of the Queen, that Oath which the Queen uſually takes at her Coronation.

Oath of the Queen's Juſtices, is the Oath they take, at the Ent'rance into their Office.

Oaz or Oazy Ground, (among Sea-men) ſoft, ſlimy, or muddy Ground; which is not good for a Ship to ride at Anchor in; becauſe the Anchors cannot hold firm, but will come home, or ſlip in foul Weather.

Obadiah, (Heb. Servant of the Lord) the Steward or Governour of King Ahab's Houſe; alſo one of the leſſer Prophets, whoſe Book of Prophecies is contain'd in the Holy Bible.

† Obambulation, (Lat.) a walking about, or up and down.

Obdurate, harden'd, hard-hearted, obſtinate; as An obdurate Sinner.

Obduration or Obdurateneſs, Hardneſs of Heart, Obſtinacy, Inſenſibility.

Obedience, Dutifulneſs, Subjection, Submiſſion; eſpecially that which is due from a Child to a Parent, or from a Subject to his Soveraign Prince.

Obedient, dutiful, ſubmiſſive.

Obedientia, (Lat.) Obedience: In old Records, a certain Rent or Penſion that was paid in ancient Times: In Canon Law, it it taken for the Adminiſtration of an Office; whence Obedientiales, thoſe that execute any Office under their Superiours.

Obeiſance, a Congee, or low Bow; as To do one Obeiſance, i. e. to bow to, or ſhew him a great deal of Reſpect.

Obelæa, (Gr. in Anat.) a Seam in the Scull, otherwiſe call'd the Sagittal Suture.

Obeliſk, a great ſolid four-ſquare Stone, growing ſmaller and ſmaller from the bottom, and ending in a point at the top; which is uſually ſet up as an Ornament to a Place, or for a Memorial of ſome notable Action, &c. It differs from a Pyramid, in that it is made all of one entire Stone or Piece, and its Baſis is much narrower.

Obeliſk, is alſo a kind of Mark us'd in Writing, or Printing, and thus expreſs'd, (†)

To Obey, (Lat.) to be obedient, or dutiful, to do as one would have him; to ſubmit, or yield.

Obeying Signs, (among Aſtrologers) the laſt ſix Southern Signs of the Zodiack.

Object, any thing that affects the outward Senſes, or the Faculties of the Soul; ſo Colour is the Object of Sight, Sounds of Hearing, &c. it is alſo taken for Subject, or Matter.

To Object, to make an Objection, to oppoſe, to caſt in the Teeth, to urge againſt, to reproach with.

Object-Glaſs, that Glaſs in a Teleſcope or Microſcope, which is plac'd at the farther end of it next the Object.

Objection, a Difficulty rais'd againſt a Propoſition; alſo a laying to one's Charge, a Reproach: In Rhetorick, a Figure, when the Words of an Opponent are produc'd in order to anſwer them.

Objective Line. See Line Objective.

Objector, one that objects, oppoſes, or brings an Argument againſt.

Obit, a Funeral Solemnity, a Dirge, or Funeral Song; an Office for the Dead, ſaid every Year: Alſo a Day appointed yearly, in Remembrance of any Perſon's Death; whence to obſerve ſuch a Day with Prayers, Alms, and other Religious Exerciſes was call'd Keeping the Obit.

Obituary, a Calendar, or Regiſter-Book, in which the Friers in a Monaſtery enter'd the Obits, or Obitual Days of their Founders and Benefactors.

Objurgation, a chiding, rebuking, or reproving: Alſo a Rhetorical Figure; the ſame that in Greek is call'd Epetimeſis.

Objurgatory, that ſerves to chide or rebuke.

Oblat, a Soldier who being diſabled in the King's Service, had the Benefit of a Monk's Place aſſign'd him in an Abbey; it was alſo taken for the Maintenance it ſelf.

Oblats of St. Jerom, a Congregation of Secular Prieſts in Italy, founded by St. Charles Borromeo.

Oblata, (Lat.) properly things offer'd; but in the Exchequer the Word ſignifies old Debts brought from foregoing Years, and put to the preſent Sheriffs Account: Alſo certain Gifts made to the King by his Subjects, which formerly were enter'd in fine Rolls, under the Title of Oblata.

Oblatæ, (in ancient Writers) conſecrated Wafers or Hoſts, diſtributed to Communicants in the Maſs, or Sacrament of the Altar: Alſo certain thin Cakes or Wafers, bak'd in Iron-moulds, and ſtill call'd Oublies by the French; a cuſtomary Treat in Religious Houſes.

Oblatæ laxativæ & purgantes, Cakes made of Meal, with Sugar and purging Ingredients.

Oblation, an Offering, eſpecially ſuch as are made by devout Perſons to the Church, or to pious Uſes; alſo a Subſidy, or Toll.

Oblationes quatuor principales, the four chief Offerings to the Pariſh-Prieſt, which were generally made on the Feſtivals of All-Saints, Chriſtmas, Candlemas, and Eaſter.

Oblations of the Altar, ſuch cuſtomary Offerings as were preſented by the Pariſhioners to their Prieſt, and ſolemnly laid upon the Altar; of theſe the Maſs or Sacrament-Offerings were uſually 3*d.* at Chriſtmas, 2 d. at Eaſter, and 1 d. at two other principal Feaſts. Among the Altar-Oblations were alſo reckon'd the ſmall Summs paid for ſaying Maſſes and Prayers for the Souls of the Deceaſed.

Funeral Oblations, Offerings to atone for the Neglects or Defaults of the deceaſed Party in paying Tithes, or other Eccleſiaſtical Dues, which often conſiſted of his beſt Horſe, led before the Corps, and deliver'd at the Church-Gate or Grave, for the Uſe of the Pariſh-Prieſt, whence our Mortuaries, &c. had their Original.

Obligation, Engagement, Duty, or Tie, an Engagement ariſing from a Benefit conferr'd or receiv'd: Alſo a Bond or Writing Obligatory, containing a Penalty, with a Condition annex'd, for Payment of Money, Performance of Covenants, &c.

Obligatory, that is of force to oblige, laying an Obligation, binding.

To Oblige, to bind, conſtrain, or engage; to lay an Obligation upon; to do a Kindneſs, good Turn, or Office.

Obligee, a Perſon to whom a Bond, or Writing Obligatory is made.

Obligement, Obligation, a being obliged; as My Obligements to him are ſuch.

Obligor, one that enters, or is enter'd into a Bond for Payment of Money, &c.

Obliging, civil, courteous, kind, friendly; alſo the Act of obliging, binding, &c.

Oblique, not ſtraight, crooked, awry.

Oblique Angle, (in Geom.) any Acute or Obtuſe Angle, that is leſs or greater than a Right one.

Oblique-angled Triangle, any Triangle that is not Right-angled is ſo call'd.

Oblique Aſcenſion. See Aſcenſion.

Oblique Caſes, (in Grammar) are properly the Genitive, Dative, and Ablative; though ſome will have all Oblique but the Nominative.

Oblique Cone. See Cone.

Oblique Deſcenſion. See Deſcenſion.

Oblique Line, (in Geom.) a Line that lies unequally between its two extreme Points.

Oblique Planes, (in Dialling) are ſuch Planes as recline from the Zenith, or incline to the Horizon. See Dial-Planes.

Oblique Sailing, (among Sea-men) is when a Ship runs upon ſome Rhumb, between any of the four Cardinal Points, and makes an Oblique Angle with the Meridian: The Application of the Method of calculating the Parts of Oblique Plain Triangles, in order to find the Diſtance of a Ship from any Cape, point of Land, &c. is alſo term'd Oblique Sailing.

Oblique Sphere, is where the Pole is raiſed any Number of Degrees leſs than 90. See Sphere.

Obliquity, a being Oblique, the State of that which is not ſtraight or perpendicular, or going aſlaunt.

Obliquus Superior, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Head, which ariſes from the back part of the tranſverſe Proceſs of the firſt Vertebra, or Turning-joynt of the Neck, and is inſerted Side-ways to the Os Occipitis, or Bone of the hinder part of the Head.

Obliquus Inferior, a Muſcle of the Head, which ariſing from the outward part of the Spinal Proceſs of the Second Vertebra of the Neck, paſſes obliquely to its Inſertion at the Tranverſe Proceſs of the Firſt, where the former Muſcle begins.

Obliquus Oculi Superior or Trochlearis, a Muſcle of the Eye, which takes riſe from the deepeſt part of the Orbit, near the beginning of the Abducens, and paſſing obliquely under its upper Part, is let into the Coat call'd Sclerotis.

Obliquus Inferior, a Muſcle, otherwiſe call'd Breviſſimus Oculi, as being the ſhorteſt Muſcle of the Eye, which ſprings within the lower, and almoſt outward part of the Orbit, and aſcends obliquely over the Deprimens, till it ends in the Tunica Sclerotis, near the Implantation of the former. Some alſo reckon two other Oblique Muſcles belonging to the Eye; viz.

Obliquus Major, a Muſcle that pulls the Eye forwards, and obliquely downwards; and Obliquus Minor, a Muſcle which draws the Eye forwards, and obliquely upwards.

Obliquus Aſcendens ſive Acclivis, one of the large Muſcles of the lower Belly, which ſerves to compreſs it, and by that means to help the Diſcharge of the Ordure and Urine: It ariſes from the Circular Edge of the Os Ilium and Ligamentum Pubis, and is implanted into the whole Length of the Linea Alba, or White Line.

Obliquus Deſcendens ſeu Declivis, another large Muſcle of the Belly; which taking its riſe from the lower Edge of the ſixth, ſeventh, and eighth Ribbs, &c. deſcends obliquely from the Serratus Inferior Poſticus, and has its Inſertion in the Linea Alba, and the Os Pubis, or Share-Bone.

Obliquus Auris, a Muſcle of the Ear, which enters the Tympanum, or Drum, in a very oblique winding Paſſage made hollow immediately above the Bone, where the Tympanum is inchas'd, and is inſerted to the ſlender Proceſs of the Bone call'd Malleus.

To Obliterate, to blot, or raze out of Memory.

Oblivion, Forgetfulneſs, defin'd by Phyſicians to be a Loſs of the Idea's or Conceptions of things once perceiv'd, which happen when they make but a ſlight Impreſſion upon the Brain.

Act of Oblivion. See Amneſty.

Oblivious, forgetful; as An oblivious Perſon.

† Oblocutor, a Gain-ſayer, a Contradicter; a Back-biter, or Slanderer.

Oblong, that is of a Figure, inclining to long, longiſh, or ſomewhat long.

Oblong Marrow, See Medulla Oblongata.

An Oblong, (in Geom.) a Figure commonly call'd a A long Square. See Rectangle and Square.

Obloquy, a being ſpoken ill of; Slander, Reproach.

Obnoxious, liable, ſubject to, properly to Puniſhment due for an Offence; guilty, faulty.

Obnubilated, clouded or darken'd, as His Underſtanding is very much obnubilated.

Obnubilation, as an obſcuring, or darkening with Clouds.

Obolata Terræ, (in old Latin Records) half an Acre of Land, or as ſome ſay, half a Perch.

Obolus, (Gr.) a Roman Silver-Coin, being the ſixth part of the Denarius or Penny, and worth five Farthings in our Engliſh Money: Alſo a ſmall Weight, the ſixth part of an Attick Drachm; the Weight of Ten Grains, or half a Scruple.

Obreption, (Lat.) creeping, or ſtealing in; as The Obreption of Thoughts in one's Sleep. Alſo the getting of a thing by indirect or crafty means.

Obreptitious, that has cunningly ſtollen upon; obtained after a ſubtil manner.

Obryzum, (Gr.) the fineſt Gold, Gold of Ophir.

Obſcene, filthy, lewd, bawdy, ſmutty.

Obſcenity, Ribaldry, Bawdry, Laſciviouſneſs, unclean Speech, or Action.

Obſcura Camera, (in Opticks) a Room darken'd all over, but at one little Hole, in which is fixed a Glaſs, to convey the Rays of Objects to a Frame of Paper, or white Cloth.

Obſcuration, a making obſcure, or dark.

Obſcure, dark, duſkiſh, gloomy, difficult, hard to be underſtood; private, retired; ſecret, little known; baſe, mean.

To Obſcure, to darken; to cloud, eclipſe, or drown another's Merit.

Obſcurity, Darkneſs, Gloomineſs, Difficulty, retired Life.

Obſecration, an earneſt beſeeching, entreating, or begging; a ſuppliant Entreaty.

Obſequies, Funeral Rites and Solemnities, Ceremonies perform'd at the Burials of great Perſons; from the Latin Word Obſequium, i. e. ready Service, becauſe theſe Obſequies are the laſt Devoirs we can render to the Deceaſed.

Obſequious, very ready to obey, or to aſſiſt; diligent to pleaſe, complaiſant, dutiful.

Obſervable, ready to be obſerved, or taken notice of.

Obſervance, Performance; as For the Obſervance of his Word; alſo Reſpect, Regard, Reverence.

Obſervances, Rules or Cuſtoms of a Monaſtery.

Obſervant, having regard to, dutiful, reſpectful, keeping one's Word.

Obſervants or Obſervantins, a Branch of the Order of Franciſcan or Gray Friers, ſo call'd, becauſe they bind themſelves to a more ſtrict Obſervance of the Rules of their Profeſſion.

Obſervation, an obſerving, or noting; a Remark, or Note.

Obſervator, an Obſerver of People's Manners and Demeanour; a Monitor in a School, &c.

Obſervatory, a Place or Building ſet apart for making Natural and Aſtronomical Obſervations; as The Royal Obſervatory in Greenwich-Park, furniſh'd with all ſorts of Inſtruments for ſuch Obſervations, and a dry Well for Diſcovery of the Stars in the Day-time.

To Obſerve, to keep or follow a Rule, Law, &c. to conſider, contemplate, or ſtudy; to mark, or take Notice of, to mind, or heed; to watch, ſpy, or Eye; to have a ſtrict Eye over.

In Navigation, To Obſerve, is to take the Height of the Sun or Stars, with an Inſtrument, in order to know in what Degree of Latitude the Ship is at all times.

Obſeſſed, beſet, haunted with an evil Spirit.

† Obſeſſion, a beleaguering, beſieging, or encompaſſing about.

Obſidianum Marmor, (Lat.) the Touchſtone.

Obſidianus Lapis, a kind of precious Stone, mention'd by Pliny in his natural Hiſtory, which Camden takes to be the ſame with our Canal-Coal.

Obſidional, belonging to a Siege, as The Obſidional Crown, among the Romans, a Crown or Chaplet made of Graſs gather'd in the Camp, and given as a Token of Honour to the Soldier or Captain, who had forc'd the Enemy to raiſe the Siege of a Town or Camp.

Obſolete, grown old, or out of Uſe; as An obſolete Word.

Obſtacle, Hinderance, Let, Rub, or Bar; as Worldly Intereſt is a great Obſtacle to the Converſion of moſt Men.

Obſtinacy, a ſtubborn Reſolution to do a thing right or wrong; a Fixedneſs in maintaining an Opinion tho' never ſo much againſt Reaſon; Wilfulneſs, Stubbornneſs.

Obſtinate, reſolute, wilful, ſelf-willed, ſtubborn.

Obſtreperous, making a loud Noiſe; full of Noiſe and Din, as that made by a brawling Woman.

To Obſtruct, (properly to ſtop up by building againſt) to ſtop or ſhut up, to hinder.

Obſtruction, Obſtructing, Stoppage, Hinderance. In the Art of Phyſick, a ſhutting up the Paſſages in a Humane Body.

Obſtructive, apt to ſtop, or cauſe a Stoppage.

Obſtruentia, (Lat.) Medicines, Drugs, or other things, that are of a ſtopping Quality.

† Obſtupefaction, a ſtupefying, aſtoniſhing, or abaſhing.

To Obtain, to ſucceed in the Demand, or Purſuit of a thing; to get, gain, or have.

† Obtenebration, a dark'ning, or making dark.

Obteſtation, properly an Injunction in earneſt and ſolemn Words, as it were by calling God to Witneſs; an earneſt, or preſſing Requeſt.

Obtrectation, a back-biting, ſlandering, or diſparaging.

To Obtrude, to thruſt or force in upon, to impoſe; to offer, or give to one againſt his Will.

† Obturation, a ſtopping, ſhutting, or cloſing up.

Obturator Externus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle that turns the Thigh outwards, and thence alſo call'd Rotator Femoris Extrorſum: It ariſes from the outward parts of the Os Iſchium and Pubis, and is inſerted to the root of the great Trochanter of the Thigh-bone.

Obturator Internus. See Marſupialis.

Obtuſangular, (in Geom.) belonging to, or having an obtuſe Angle.

Obtuſe, blunt, having a dull Point, or Edge.

Obtuſe Angle, (in Geom.) any Angle that is greater than a Right one, that conſiſts of more than 90 Degrees.

Obtuſe-angled Cone. See Cone.

Obtuſe-angled Triangle, is ſuch as has one Obtuſe Angle.

Obventions, (Law-Term) Offerings; alſo Rents or Revenues, properly of Church-Livings.

To Obviate, (q. d. to meet in the Way) to prevent, or hinder.

Obvious, common, ordinary, plain; eaſy to be perceiv'd, or underſtood.

Obumbration, a ſhadowing over.

Occaſion, (Lat.) Seaſon, fit and convenient time to do any thing; Cauſe, Reaſon, Matter; alſo Want, or Neceſſity.

Occaſions, Affairs, Concerns; as If my Occaſions give me Leave.

To Occaſion, to cauſe, or be the Cauſe of.

Occaſional, belonging to Occaſion; as An Occaſional Cauſe, a Term in Philoſophy; alſo done by Chance.

Occaſionari, (Lat. Law-Word) to be amerced, or fined; to be made ſubject to Occaſions, or Occaſional Penalties.

Occatio, a harrowing, or breaking of Clods. In old Records, Occationes is taken for Aſſarts, i. e. Offences committed in a Foreſt, by rooting up Trees, Thickets, &c.

Occident, the Weſt, one of the four Cardinal Points of the Heavens; the Place where the Sun and Stars ſet with reſpect to us.

Occident Equinoctial, that Point of the Horizon where the Sun ſets, when it enters the Signs Aries and Libra, the Days and Nights being of an equal Length.

Occident Eſtival, the Summer-Weſt, or North-Weſt; that Point of the Horizon, where the Sun ſets when 'tis in the Tropick of Cancer, and the Days are longeſt.

Occident Hybernal, the Winter-Weſt or South-Weſt, that Point where the Sun ſets at its Entrance into the Tropick of Capricorn, at which time the Days are ſhorteſt.

Occidental, belonging to the Weſt, Weſtern, Weſterly. In Aſtronomy, a Planet is ſaid To be Occidental, when it ſets in the Evening, after the Sun.

Occipital, belonging to the hinder part of the Head; as The Occipital Bone.

Occipitalis, a ſhort but broad fleſhy Muſcle, plac'd on the Occiput, which with its Partner ſerves to pull the hairy Scalp backwards.

Occipitis Os, the Occipital Bone, a Bone of the Scull, which lies in the hinder part of the Head; being ſhap'd almoſt like a Lozenge, with its lower Angle turned inwards.

Occiput or Occipitium, the hinder part of the Head.

Occult, hidden, ſecret; as Occult Qualities, or Diſeaſes, &c.

Occult Cancer. See Cancer Primitive.

Occultation, an Hiding. In Aſtronomy, the Time that a Planet or Star is hid from our Sight, when the Body of the Moon, or ſome other Planet, comes between it and us.

Occupant, one that takes Poſſeſſion of a thing; a Poſſeſſour. In Common Law, when a Man makes a Leaſe to another for the Term of the Life of a third Perſon; the Leſſee dying, he who firſt enters, ſhall hold the Land as Occupant, during the Life of the third Perſon.

Occupation, Buſineſs or Employ, Trade. In a Law-Senſe, it ſignifies the putting a Man out of his Free-hold, during a War, and is the ſame with Diſſeiſin in time of Peace: Alſo Tenure, or Uſe; as Such Land is in the Tenure or Occupation of ſuch a Perſon, i. e. in his Poſſeſſion. In Rhetorick, it is a Figure, otherwiſe call'd Preterition, when we ſeem to paſs by, to be ignorant of, or to be unwilling to declare, that which at the ſame time we chiefly inſiſt upon.

Occupative, as An Occupative Field, i. e. (in the Senſe of the Law) a Field, which being left by its proper Owner or Tiller is poſſeſs'd by another.

Occupavit, a Writ that lies for a Man who is forcibly put out of his Lands or Tenements in times of War; as a Writ of Novel Diſſeiſin lies for one that is ſo diſpoſſeſſed in time of Peace.

To Occupy, (properly to take up before) to fill, or take up a Space; to be ſeized, or in Poſſeſſion of; to trade, or deal.

To Occur, to preſent, or offer it ſelf; to come readily into one's Mind.

Occurrence, Occaſion, ſudden Accident, Adventure, News.

Occurſion, an occurring, or meeting; as Various is the Occurſion of Thoughts in a Man's Sleep; The noiſome Occurſions of a Ghoſt, &c.

Ocean, (among Geographers) is that vaſt Collection of Waters, or Main Sea, which ſurrounds the whole Globe of the Earth, and into which the leſſer Seas do uſually run: 'Tis ſo call'd in Greek from the Swiftneſs of its Motion; and is chiefly divided into four great Parts. viz.

The Atlantick Ocean, which lies between Europe and Africa on the Weſt, and America on the Eaſt; it is alſo call'd Mar del Nort, i. e. the Northern Sea.

The Hyperborean Sea or North-Sea, which encompaſſes the Land that is ſituated towards the North-Pole.

The Pacifick Ocean, which flows between the Weſt Side of America and Aſia, and takes Name from its continual Calmneſs; being alſo termed Mar del Zur, i. e. the Southern Sea.

The South-Sea, which incloſes Magellanica, and the Continent under the South Pole.

Ochema, (Gr.) a Carriage, Waggon, or Coach: Among Phyſicians, a Vehicle or Liquor, in which Medicines are mingled. See Vehicle.

Ochlocracy, a Government wherein the Multitude or Common People bear the Sway.

Ochra, a kind of Water-fowl, ſo call'd from the dark greeniſh Colour almoſt of its whole Body; alſo yellow Oker, a Mineral.

Ochthodes, Ulcers, whoſe Sides are brawny, or of the Nature of Warts.

Ochy-Hole, a remarkable Cave on Mendip-hills, in Somerſet-ſhire, of a vaſt Length; where ſeveral Wells and Springs are diſcover'd.

Ocimum or Ocymum, (Gr.) Garden-Baſil, Baſil Royal, or Baſil Gentle; an Herb that comforts the Stomach, drives away Melancholy, cleanſes the Lungs, &c.

Ockam. See Oakam.

Ockamy, a ſort of mixt Metal.

Ocoughtanamnis, a kind of Berry, growing in Virginia and Mary-land, ſomewhat like Capers.

Octabis, (Latin Law-Word) as Octabis Hilarii, i. e. the eighth Day incluſively after the Feſtival of St. Hilary. See Returns of the four Terms.

Octaceſſis, a Roman Coin of 80 Aſſes, in Value 5 Shillings Sterling.

Octaedron, one of the five Regular Bodies, a ſolid Figure, bounded by eight equal and equilateral Triangles: This Figure may be us'd on a Pedeſtal for drawing ſeveral ſorts of Dials.

Octagon, (Gr. in Geom.) a Figure, conſiſting of eight Angles and Sides; and when all the Sides and Angles are equal, 'tis call'd a Regular Octagon, which is capable of being fortify'd with the like Number of Baſtions.

Octangular, (Lat.) having eight Angles.

Octant or Octile, (in Aſtrol.) when a Planet is in ſuch an Aſpect or Poſition with reſpect to another, that their Places are only diſtant an eighth part of a Circle, or 45 Degrees.

Octaſtylos or Octaſtyle, a Building that has eight Pillars in Front.

Octave, the Eighth Day after ſome peculiar Feſtival of the Year; as The Octave of Eaſter. In Muſick, an Eighth, or an Interval of eight Sounds; every eighth Note in the Scale of the Gamut, being the ſame. See Diapaſon and Tone.

Octavo, a Book is ſaid To be in Octavo, when it conſiſts of Sheets, that are folded into eight Leaves a-piece.

Octennial, belonging to the ſpace of eight Years.

Octile, one of the new Aſpects, when two Planets or Stars are diſtant an eighth part of the Zodiack, or 45 Degrees one from another.

October, the Month ſo call'd, as being the eighth from March.

† Octonary, belonging to the Number Eight.

Octogenary, that is ninety Years old.

Octuna, (among Phyſicians) a Weight of eight Ounces.

Ocular, belonging to the Eyes; as An Ocular Witneſs, or Eye-Witneſs.

Oculares Dentes, (Lat.) the Eye-teeth.

Oculata, a kind of Sea-fiſh, like a Lizard, with great Eyes.

Oculi Cancrorum, Crabs Eyes, certain Stones taken out of the Heads of River Cray-fiſh, in the Months of June and July; which are much us'd in Phyſick, to diſſolve and expel clotted Bloud, againſt Pains of the Kidneys, &c.

Oculiſt, one skill'd in curing the Diſtempers of the Eyes.

Oculorum Motores, (in Anat.) a pair of Nerves that ariſe from the Oblongated Marrow on each Side of the Infundibulum, or Tunnel of the Brain; whence they paſs thro' the Holes of the Wedge-like Bone, ſend out ſeveral Twigs that embrace the Optick Nerve, and are beſtow'd on the Tunicles or Coats of the Eye.

Oculus, the Eye, the outward Organ or Inſtrument of Sight, made up of ſix Muſcles, to which a ſeventh is added in Brutes, and ſeven Tunicks or Coats, viz. the Adnata, Cornea, Cryſtallina, Innominata, Retiformis, Vitrea, and Uvea; which See in their proper Places.

Among Herbaliſts, Oculus is taken for the ſame as Gemma, i. e. the Bud of a Tree or Plant juſt putting forth, or the Knob out of which the Bud riſes.

Oculus Beli a Gem that is half tranſparent, the Ground white, and black in the midſt, with an Iris or Circle, ſo that it exactly reſembles the Figure of an Eye.

Oculus Cati, Cats Eye, a kind of Gem of two Colours, milk-white and dark-brown, ſeparated as it were in the middle.

Oculus Chriſti, an Herb, very good for the Eyes, otherwiſe call'd wild Clary.

Oculus Mundi, (i. e. the Eye of the World) a precious Stone, which being put into cold Water, changes its white Colour into yellow, and becomes almoſt tranſparent, but being taken out again, it returns to his former State.

Oculus Tauri, the Bull's Eye, a Conſtellation or Company of Stars in 24 Degrees 29 Minutes of the Sign Gemini.

Ocymaſtrum, (Gr.) the Herb Water-Betony, or Fig-wort.

Oda Baſſa's, certain Officers in Turkey, who are Heads of the Companies of Agiam-Oglans.

Odaxiſmus, (Gr.) the itching of the Gums, in Children that breed Teeth.

Odeum, (among the Ancients) a kind of Muſick-Theater; a Place for Rehearſal and Practice, before the Actors and Muſicians appear'd, to perform their ſeveral Parts on the great Theater.

Odio & Atia, (Lat.) an old Writ heretofore directed to the Sheriff, to enquire, Whether a Man committed to Priſon upon Suſpicion of Murder, were juſtly committed, or only upon Malice.

Odious, hateful, hainous.

Odium, Hatred, Grudge, Ill-will; alſo Cenſure or Blame upon account of any Offence or Fault committed.

Odontagra, (Gr.) an Inſtrument to draw or pull out the Teeth.

Odontalgia, a Pain in the Teeth; the Tooth-ach.

Odontiaſis or Odontophyia, breeding of Teeth.

Odontica, Medicines for the Tooth-ach.

Odontoides, (in Anat.) a Part ſhap'd like a Tooth; as The Tooth of the ſecond Vertebra, or Turning-joynt, and of ſome other Bones.

Odonto-lithos, a kind of ſtony Tartar, that grows to the Teeth.

Odontotrimma, a Medicine to rub, cleanſe, and whiten the Teeth.

Odoramentum, (Lat.) a Perfume, or any ſweet thing: Among Phyſicians, a Medicine apply'd for the Benefit of its Smell, ſuch as are uſually made of Labdanum, Storax, Benzoin, Muſk, Civet, &c.

Odoratus, the Act or Senſe of Smelling.

Odoriferous, bearing Odours or Perfumes; ſweet-ſcented, ſweet-ſmelling.

Odorous, that has a Scent, or Smell.

Odour, Scent or Smell, any ſweet Perfume, as of Ointment, Frankincenſe, &c. Among Naturaliſts, Odours are defined to be thoſe agreeable or diſagreeable Effluvia, that are ſent forth by many Bodies which are call'd Odorous, and which ſtir up the Senſation of Smelling.

Oeconomical or Oeconomick, belonging to Oeconomy, or Family-Government.

Oeconomicks, a part of Moral Philoſophy, that treats of the due Management of the Paſſions.

Oeconomicus, a Word us'd by ancient Latin Writers for an Executor of a laſt Will and Teſtament; as The Perſon, who has the Oeconomy or Diſpoſal of the Goods of the deceaſed Party.

Oeconomiſt, one that orders, or rules a Family; a Steward.

Oeconomy, the Government of a Houſe or Family; the Management of Family-Concerns, Stewardſhip; alſo prudent Diſpenſation, good Husbandry, or Houſewifry, Thriftineſs: Alſo in general, good Order, Diſpoſition, Method, Contrivance, Conſtitution Harmony; as We admire the Oeconomy of the Parts of Humane Bodies: In Rhetorick, it ſignifies Order in the Diſpoſal of Parts neceſſary for Oratours, or Poets. Among Architects, it is taken for that Method which has regard to the Expences that are to be made, and the Quality of the Materials, and ſhews how to take Meaſures rightly for giving the Fabrick a convenient Form and Bigneſs.

Oecumenical, belonging to the whole World, univerſal: as An Oecumenical or general Council.

Oedema, (in Surgery) any Tumour, or Swelling; but in a ſtrict Senſe, it is taken for a white ſoft Swelling without Pain, which proceeds from Phlegmatick Matter, and eaſily yields to the Fingers.

Oedematous, belonging to an Oedema; as Oedematous Tumours or Impoſtumes.

Oedicnemus, a ſort of Bird, ſo call'd from the extraordinary Thickneſs of its Shin-bones.

Oenanthe, the Wheat-ear, White-tail, or Horſe-ſmatch, a Bird, which is often found in hilly Places, eſpecially in the County of Suſſex; where it grows fat about the middle of the Month of June, but flies away in the end of September, and is no longer ſeen in any part of England, during the whole Winter: In Warwick-ſhire, it is call'd a Fallow-ſmiter.

Oenanthe, is alſo the Grape and Flower of the wild Vine, or a ſweet Ointment made of it: Alſo the Herb Water Drop-wort good for forcing Urine and Gravel; alſo another Herb, call'd Hemlock Drop-water, the Root of which is ſaid to be poiſonous.

Oenas, the Rock-pigeon, a Bird.

Oenoides, Wine diluted, or allay'd with Water; or a Liquor of the Nature of Wine.

Oenolæum, a Mixture of Wine and Oil.

Oenogala, a Compoſition of Wine and Milk.

Oenomelum, a Drink made of Wine and Honey.

Oenothera, or Oenotheris, the Herb Looſe-ſtrife.

Oeſophagæus, or Sphincter Gulæ (in Anat.) a Continuation of the Muſcle call'd Pterigopharyngeus, which ariſes from each ſide of the Scutiformis, or Shield-like Griſtle, and paſſes to a middle Line on the back part of the Fauces.

Oeſophagus, the Gullet or Weaſand-pipe, the Conduit or Funnel that conveys the Meat and Drink from the Mouth to the Stomach.

Oeſtrum, or Oeſtrus, the Gad-Bee, Dun-Fly or Breez; an Inſect that in the Summer-time vexes Cattel.

Oeſtrum Veneris, the ſame with Clitoris.

Oeſypus, the Filth or Sweat that ſticks to the Wool on the Flanks and Shoulders of Sheep.

Oeuf, (Fr.) an Egg: In Architecture, the Ovals, or Ornaments of Pillars are call'd Oeufs by the French.

Offa, (Lat.) Pudding, or ſuch like made of Pulſe; Paſte with which Fowls are fed or cramm'd; a Cake.

Offa Alba, (among Chymiſts) a ſort of white clotted Subſtance, which will ariſe, if an equal quantity of highly rectify'd Spirit of Wine and Urine be mingled and ſhak'd together.

Offa's Dike, a mighty Work contriv'd by Offa King of the Mercians, who had it caſt up as a Boundary between the Engliſh and Welſh: It runs through Hereford-ſhire, over a part of Shrop-ſhire into Montgomery-ſhire; then again into Shrop-ſhire, and ſo thro' Denbigh-ſhire into Flint-ſhire, and ends a little below Holywell, where that Water falls into the River Dee.

Offal, Refuſe or Droſs, Garbage, Fragments, or broken pieces of Meat.

Offence, (Lat.) Tranſgreſſion, Treſpaſs, Sin, Fault, Injury or Wrong, Affront, or Abuſe, Scandal.

To Offend, to ſin againſt, to commit a Fault; to injure, affront or abuſe, to hurt or wound; to annoy, to diſpleaſe.

Offenſive, Injurious, abuſive, hurtful, diſpleaſing; alſo fit to attack or annoy an Enemy; as Offenſive Arms.

To Offer, to preſent, to proffer or tender, to bid, to propound, to undertake or take upon one.

Offering, the Act of him that offers; alſo a Sacrifice, a Preſent made to God, or ſet apart for Pious Uſes.

Offertorium, (in old Latin Records) a piece of Silk or fine Linnen, antiently us'd to wrap up the Occaſional Oblations or Offerings, made in the Church.

Offertory, a place where Offerings are kept; alſo a part of the Maſs or Popiſh Church-Service.

Office, the part of, that which befits, or is to be expected from one; Moral Duty, Service; a good or ill turn; alſo Divine Service, eſpecially a part of the Roman Breviary or Maſs-Book: Alſo Place or Employment, or the Place it ſelf where any Buſineſs is managed; as the Faculty-Office, Inſurance-Office, Poſt-Office, &c.

In a Law-ſenſe, Office is alſo an Enquiry made to the Queen's Uſe, by virtue of his Office who enquires; as an Office found, which is nothing elſe but a thing found by Inquiſition made ex Officio. Office in Fee is that which a Man has to himſelf and his Heirs.

To Return an Office, is to return that which is found by virtue of the Office; and To Traverſe an Office, is to traverſe or make void the Inquiſition taken of an Office.

Officer, one that is in any Office: In Military Affairs, a Perſon that has ſome Command in the Company, Troop, or Body of Men he ſerves in.

Commiſſion-Officers, thoſe that are authoriz'd by the Queen's Commiſſion, i. e. all from the General, to the Enſign of a Foot-Company, and the Cornet of a Troop of Horſe incluſively.

Field-Officers, thoſe that have Power and Command over a whole Regiment, viz. the Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel and Major; ſo call'd, becauſe they chiefly ſhew their Authority, when the Regiment is drawn out into the Field; as not being concern'd in common Duty of mounting Guards, &c.

General Officers, thoſe that have Power not only over one Regiment, Troop or Company, but in general over a conſiderable Body of Military Forces: Theſe are the General, Lieutenants-General, Majors-General, Brigadeer-General, Quarter-Maſter-General, and Adjutants-General.

Subaltern Officers, the Lieutenants, Enſigns, and Cornets of Horſe, Dragoons and Foot; ſo call'd, from their ſupplying the Place of, or acting under the Superiour Officers.

Warrant, or Staff-Officers, thoſe that have not the Queen's Commiſſion, but are appointed by the Colonels and Captains; as the Quarter-Maſters, Sergeants, Corporal, &c.

Official (in the old Civil Law) one that was the Miniſter or Apparitor of a Judge: In the Canon-Law, a Perſon to whom any Biſhop commits the Charge of his Spiritual Juriſdiction; the Chancellour or Judge of a Biſhop's Court. In the Statute or Common Law, a Deputy, whom an Arch-Deacon ſubſtitutes in the executing of his Juriſdiction.

To Officiate, to do the Duty belonging to one's Office or Charge; eſpecially to perform Divine Service in quality of a Clergy-man.

Officiatis non faciendis vel amovendis, a Writ directed to the Magiſtrates of a Corporation, requiring them not to make ſuch a Man an Officer, or to put him out of his Office, till Enquiry be made of his Manners, &c.

Officious, ready to do good Offices, ſerviceable, friendly, very courteous and obliging: It is ſometimes us'd in an ill Senſe for Pragmatical, Over-buſie in other Mens Affairs, baſely fawning or cringing.

Offin or Offing, (Sea-Term) the open Sea, that part of it which is at a good diſtance from the Shore, the middle of any great Stream.

A Ship is ſaid To keep in the Offin, when ſhe keeps in the middle of the Channel, and does not come near the Shore: and to ſtand for the Offin, when ſhe is ready to ſail from the Shore into the main Sea.

Off-ward, when a Ship being a-ground by the Shore, inclines towards the Water-ſide, then Seamen ſay, She heels to the Off-ward; but if her Stern only lies towards the Sea, their uſual Phraſe is, She lies with her Stern to the Off-ward, and her Head to the Shore-ward.

† Offuſcation, a ſhadowing, a making dark or dusky.

Og (Heb. roaſted Bread or Mock) a great Giant and King of Baſhan.

Ogdaſtich (Gr.) an Epigram, or Stanza conſiſting of eight Verſes.

Ogee or Ogive (in Architect.) a Wreath, Circlet or round Band; a Member of a Moulding which conſiſts of a Round and a Hollow.

Ogreſſes, or Agreſſes (in Heraldry) certain round Figures reſembling Balls or Pellets, which are always of a Sable or black Colour.

Oil, the Juice of Olives, &c. Among Chymiſts, Oil or Sulphur is one of the five Principles of their Art, being a ſubtil, fat Subſtance, capable of taking fire, which uſually ariſes after the Spirit.

Exalted Oil, ſee Spirit.

Oil of Antimony, a Mixture of Antimony and an acid Spirit.

Oil of Philoſophers, a Chymical Preparation of pieces of Brick heated red hot, ſoak'd in Oil of Olives, and afterwards diſtill'd in a Retort.

Oil of Sulphur, ſee Spirit of Sulphur.

Oil of Tartar per Deliquium, the fixt Salt of Tartar diſſolved by being expos'd to the Air in a Cellar, or other cool moiſt place.

Oil of Vitriol, the more fixed part of Spirit of Vitriol made cauſtick by a vaſt degree and continuance of Fire.

Oil or Olio (in Cookery) a rich ſort of Potage after the Spaniſh way, made of Buttock-beef, part of a Fillet of Veal, of a Leg of Mutton, and of raw Gammon of Bacon, with Ducks, Partridges, Pigeons, Chickens, Quails, Sauſages, and a Cervelas, all fry'd brown, and afterwards boil'd with all ſorts of Roots and Herbs.

Oils (for Fiſh-Days) are alſo prepar'd with Peas-ſoop, ſeveral ſorts of Fiſh, Roots and Pulſe.

Oiſter, a well known Shell-fiſh.

Oiſter-green, a ſort of Herb.

Oiſter-loit, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Snakesweed.

Oiſterich, ſee Biſtort.

Oke, a Turkiſh Weight, of which there are three ſorts: The greater Oke of Smyrna, is 2 Pounds, 11 Ounces and 13 Drams Engliſh; the middle Oke, is 1 Pound, 11 Ounces 6 Drams; and the leaſt Oke is 13 Ounces, 2 Drams.

Oker, a Mineral of which ſeveral Colours are made to be us'd in Painting; as Oker de lake, or yellow Oker, burnt Oker, brown Oker, and red Oker.

Okum, ſee Oakam.

Olea (Lat.) the Olive-tree.

Oleaginous, partaking of the Nature of Oil, oily.

Oleander, a kind of Shrub call'd Roſe-bay. See Nerion.

Oleaſtellus, a little low ſort of Olive-tree.

Oleaſter, a Wild Olive-tree.

Olecranum (Gr. in Anat.) the great Proceſs of the firſt Bone of the Arm, call'd Ulna; alſo the upper part of the Shoulder.

Olene, the Cubit or greater Focil Bone.

Oleoſelinon, a ſort of Parſley; an Herb.

Oleron Laws, certain Laws relating to Maritim Affairs, ſo call'd becauſe they were made at Oleron, an Iſland on the Coaſt of France, when K. Richard I. was there.

Oleum (Lat.) Oil, eſpecially of Olives.

Olfactory, belonging to the Senſe of Smelling; as The Olfactory Nerves, certain Nerves which give us that Senſe, and are the firſt Pair of thoſe Ten that ariſe from the Oblongated Marrow.

Olfactus, The Smell or Act of Smelling.

Olibanum, Male Incenſe, a ſweet-ſcented Gum or Roſin that runs in white or yellowiſh Drops, out of ſeveral ſmall Trees in Arabia Felix and the Holy Land, eſpecially at the Foot of Mount Libanus.

Oligarchical (Gr.) belonging to an Oligarchy.

Oligarchy, a Government in the Hands of a few principal Men, or where a few bear ſway.

Oligophoros, ſmall Wine that has but few Spirits.

Oligotrophus Cibus, Meet that nouriſhes little, which is oppos'd to Polytrophus, i. e. that which affords much Nouriſhment.

Oligotrophy, a Decreaſe of Nouriſhment, or a very ſmall one.

Olio, ſee Oil.

Olitory, or Olitory Garden (Lat.) a Kitchen-Garden, or a Garden of Herbs, Roots, &c. for Food.

Oliva, the Olive-tree, or an Olive the Fruit.

Olivaria Corpora (in Anat.) two Protuberances or Knobs of the under part of the Brain, which are plac'd on each ſide of the Corpora Pyramidalia, and take Name from their Figure, reſembling that of an Olive.

Olivaſter, a Wild Olive.

Olive-Bit, a kind of Bit for Horſes.

Oliver, a proper Name of Men deriv'd from the Olive-tree, the Emblem of Peace.

Olla (Lat.) a Pot.

Olla Podrida (Span.) a Hotch-pot, or a Diſh of Meat made of ſeveral Ingredients, the chief of which is Bacon.

Ollata Cereviſiæ (in old Lat. Records) a Pot or Flaggon of Ale or Beer.

Ollet, a Country Word for Fuel.

Ololygon (Gr.) the Male Frog, ſo call'd from its croaking.

Olor (Lat.) the Swan, a Water-Fowl; alſo an offenſive ſtrong Smell.

Olus, any ſort of Pot-herbs or Garden-herbs.

Olus-atrum, an Herb with black Leaves, call'd Aliſanders or Lovage.

Oluſculum, ſmall Herbs good to eat, Salleting, a little Sallet.

Olympia, a City of Peloponneſus in Greece; otherwiſe call'd Piſa, near which the Olympick Games were celebrated, and took their Name from thence.

Olympiads (Chronological Term) an Account of Time in uſe among the ancient Greeks, comprehending the ſpace of four Years or fifty Months, reckoning thirty Days to a Month: This Method of Computation was brought in by Iphitus, and took its Riſe from the Olympick Games which were kept every fifth Year. The firſt Olympiad began about 500 Years after the Deſtruction of Troy, in the Year of the World 3174, of the Julian Period 3938, and 766 Years before the Birth of Chriſt.

Olympias, the Name of the Mother of Alexander the Great; alſo a ſtrong Weſtern Wind that blows from Mount Olympus.

Olympick Games, the moſt famous Games of Greece, perform'd in honour of Jupiter Olympius, in the Plains of Elis, near the City of Olympia, and continu'd there with great Solemnity for five Days together, in five kinds of Exerciſes, viz. Running, Leaping, Wreſtling, Quoiting, and Whorlebats. The Names of thoſe who won the Prize, which was only a Garland of Olive-branches, were ſet down on Publick Record, and they were ſo highly honour'd, that upon their Return to their own Country, a piece of the City-Wall was beat down that they might enter Triumphantly in a Chariot.

Olympionices, a Conquerour at the Olmpick Games.

Olympus, a high Hill between Theſſaly and Macedonia, whoſe Top reaches above the Clouds; whence it is taken by the Poets for Heaven, or the Seat of the Gods.

Olyra, a kind of Wheat that grew in Egypt and elſewhere.

Omagra (Gr.) the Gout in the Shoulder.

Omaſum (Lat.) the thick and fatty part of the Belly of an Ox, &c fat Tripe: See Abomaſum.

Omber or Ombre, a Spaniſh Game at Cards; alſo a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Grayling.

Omega, the laſt Letter in the Greek Alphabet: See Alpha.

Omelet (Fr.) a kind of Pancake or Froiſe made of Eggs.

Omen (Lat.) a Sign or Token of good or bad Luck.

Omentum (in Anat.) otherwiſe call'd Rete and Reticu-

Reticulum, the Caul, a double Membrane or Skin ſpread over the Entrails, interwoven with Fat and variety of Veſſels, like a Fiſher's Net: Its Uſe is to cheriſh the Bowels, and to knit them looſely together, as alſo to promote the Concoction of Meats in the Guts, &c.

Omer, a certain Meaſure among the Hebrews, which contain'd about three Pints and a half.

To Ominate (Lat.) to give an Omen of, to fore-bode or fore-ſhew.

Ominous, portending, or fore-boding ill luck, ill-boding.

Omiſſion, an omitting or letting a thing paſs; a Neglect; alſo a Rhetorical Figure call'd Antiphraſis in Greek.

To Omit, to paſs by or over, to take no notice of, to neglect, to forget or leave out.

Omnipotence or Omnipotency, Almighty Power, Almightineſs,

Omnipotent, All-powerful, Almighty.

Omnipreſence, a being preſent in all Places.

Omnipreſent, that is every where preſent.

Omniſcience, Infinite Knowledge.

Omniſcient, that knows all, from whom nothing is hid.

† Omnivagant, wandering every where, or in all Places.

Omnivorous, eating or devouring all kind of things.

Omophagia (Gr.) among the Ancients a Feaſt of Bacchus, in which the mad Gueſts eat Goats alive, tearing their Entrails with their Teeth.

Omoplata, ſee Homoplata.

Omphacinum Oleum, Oil made of unripe Olives.

Omphacites, Medicinal Wine made of unripe Grapes.

Omphacium, the Juice of ſuch Grapes, Verjuice.

Omphalocarpon, a kind of Burr.

Omphalocarpus, the Herb Cleavers or Gooſegraſs.

Omphalocele, or Hernia Umbilicalis, a Rupture about the Navel, when the Caul or Entrails ſtand out in that part, which is occaſion'd by the looſening or burſting of the Peritonæum, or inner Skin of the Belly.

Omphalos, the Navel.

Omphax, a ſower and unripe Grape.

Omri (Heb. a rebellious or bitter People) the Name of one of the Uſurpers of the Kingdom of Iſrael.

Omy-Land, a Country-Word for Mellow Land.

Onager (Gr.) a wild Aſs; alſo a certain Warlike Engine us'd by the Ancients to caſt forth great Stones.

One-berry, ſee Herb Paris.

One-blade, an Herb, more eſpecially good for Wounds of the Nerves.

Onerando pro rata Portione (Lat.) a Writ that lies for a Joynt-Tenant, or Tenant in Common, who is diſtrained for more Rent than his Proportion of the Land amounts to.

† Oneration, a loading, burdening, or overcharging.

Oni, a Mark us'd in the Exchequer, and ſet upon the Head of a Sheriff, as ſoon as he enters into his Accounts for Iſſues, Fines, and mean Profits: It is put for Oneratur niſi habet ſufficientem Exonerationem, i. e. he is charged, unleſs he have a ſufficient Diſcharge; and thereupon he immediately becomes the Queen's Debtor.

Onitis (Gr.) a ſort of wild Marjoram, an Herb.

Onobrychis, Meddick-vetchling or Cocks-head, an Herb that breeds a great deal of Milk in Cows and other Cattel.

Onochilus or Onochiles, a kind of the Herb Alkanet.

Onocrotalus, a large Fowl, which holding its Neck under water, and breathing, makes a noiſe with the Beak, like the Braying of an Aſs; a ſort of Pelican.

Onomatopœia (in Grammar) a Figure whereby a Word is made to imitate the Sound of the thing expreſs'd; as Bombarda, i. e. a Gun, from the ſounding of Bomb; Taratantara, for the Sound of a Trumpet, &c.

Ononis, the Herb Reſt-harrow, Cammock or petty Whin.

Onopordon, a kind of Herb, which being eaten by Aſſes, cauſes them to fall a farting.

Onopyros, Aſſes Thiſtle.

Onoſma, Stone-Bugloſs, an Herb.

Onpreſs (old Word) downward.

Onſlought (Dutch) Storming, a fierce Aſſault or Attack upon a Place.

Onycha (Gr.) an Arabian Plant, from which diſtills a Juice, that as ſome think, congeals into the Onyx-ſtone.

Onychipuncta, a precious Stone, a ſort of Jaſper.

Onychites, Alabaſter, a ſort of Marble.

Onychitis, a kind of Cruſt ſticking to the ſides of Furnaces, in which Braſs-Oar is melted.

Onyx, a Nail of the Fingers or Toes of a Man; the Hoof of a Beaſt; alſo a precious Stone, the Colour of which exactly reſembles that of a Man's Nail: Alſo a Sore or gathering of Matter under the horny Coat of the Eye, the ſame as Hypopyon.

Opacity (Lat.) a Philoſophical Term for Darkneſs, as it is oppoſed to Tranſparency.

Opacous, ſhady, dark, that is not tranſparent.

Opacous Bodies, are ſuch whoſe Pores probably lying in an oblique and crooked Poſture, the Rays of Light cannot freely pierce and paſs thro' them, as they do thro' tranſparent ones.

Opal, a moſt delicate precious Stone of almoſt all Colours; for by various Refractions of the Rays of Light, it repreſents to the Beholder's Eye, Blew, Purple, Green, Yellow, Red, Milk-white, and ſometimes Black, all ſhining together with an incredible Luſtre.

Opaſſum, an American wild Beaſt, about the bigneſs of a Cat, having a Bag or Purſe under the Belly, which it can open and ſhut at pleaſure; ſo that theſe Creatures are us'd to carry their young ones in this Bag, and the Male and Female perform that Office by turns.

Ope-Land, ſee Hook-Land.

Opening Flank (in Fortif.) that part of the Flank which is cover'd by the Orillon or Shoulder.

Opening of Gates (in Aſtrol.) is when a Planet applies it ſelf to another that rules the Figure oppoſite to its Houſe: Or, when one Planet ſeparates from another, and immediately applies to a third that bears Rule in the Sign oppoſite to that ruled by the Planet, with which it was joyn'd.

Opening of Trenches (in the Art of War) the firſt breaking of Ground made by the Beſiegers, in order to carry on their Approaches to the place beſieged.

Opentheof (Sax. Law-Term) open or plain Theft.

Opera, a kind of Stage-Play, very common among the Italians and French, performed by Voices and Inſtrumental Muſick, and adorn'd with variety of Scenes in Perſpective.

Operarii (in ancient Latin Deeds) Tenants that held ſome ſmall Portions of Land, by the Performance of bodily Labours, and ſervile Works for their Lords.

To Operate, to work or ſtir the Humours of the Body, as Phyſick does; to effect or bring to paſs.

Operatio, working, the making a Work; in old Records, one Day's Work perform'd by any inferiour Tenant for the Lord of the Manour.

Operation, an operating or working; a Proceſs or Work carry'd on in Chymiſtry or Surgery.

Operative, apt to work; as an Operative Medicine.

Operatour, one that ſells Balſam, Orvietan and other Drugs, and pretends to perform Cures upon a Stage, in the wide places of a Town; a Mountebank or Quack.

Operatour for the Teeth, one skill'd in drawing and cleanſing the Teeth, and in making Artificial ones.

Operoſe, that coſts much Pains and Trouble, laborious, hard; as an Operoſe and tedious Theory.

Operti Canes (in old Latin Records) Dogs with whole Feet, not lawed, or not having the Balls cut out.

Ophiaſis (Gr.) a Diſeaſe when the Hair grows thin and falls off, ſo as to leave the Part ſmooth, and winding like the Folds of a Serpent.

Ophidion, a ſort of Sea-fiſh reſembling a Serpent or Eel.

Ophiogloſſum, Adders-tongue, an excellent Wound-herb.

Ophiomachus, a kind of bald Locuſt without Wings; ſome take it for a Lizard that fights with Serpents.

Ophiomorphites, the Snake-ſtone, a Stone which reſembles a Snake roll'd up in Folds.

Ophion, a Beaſt in Sardinia, leſs than an Hart, having Hair and Teeth like it.

Ophioſtaphylus, the Herb Briony or White Vine.

Ophiſcorodon, an Herb call'd Serpents-Garlick.

Ophites, Serpentine Marble, a kind of Green Marble, repreſenting the Shape and Spots of Serpents.

Ophiuchus, a Northern Conſtellation, otherwiſe call'd Anguitenens and Serpentarius, which contains thirty Stars; one of them in the Head of the Man holding the Serpent, being of the ſecond Magnitude.

Ophthalmias, a ſort of Sea-fiſh with great Eyes.

Ophthalmick, belonging to, or proper for the Eyes; as Ophthalmick Remedies.

Ophthalmicks, ſuch Medicines as are good for Diſeaſes in the Eyes.

Ophthalmicus Nervus (in Anat.) a Branch of the fifth pair of Nerves which move the Eye.

Ophthalmy, an Inflammation of the Coats of the Eyes, proceeding from Arterious Blood got out of the Veſſels, and gather'd together in thoſe Parts.

Opiate, a Medicine made of Opium, or other Drugs of the like Nature, and deſign'd either to cauſe Sleep or to eaſe Pain.

To Opine (Lat.) to give in one's Opinion or Judgment about a Matter.

Opiniater, an obſtinate or ſtubborn Perſon.

Opiniative or Opinionated, wedded to his own Opinion or Humour; ſtubborn, ſelf-willed, conceited, heady.

Opiniatrety or Opiniativeneſs, ſtiffneſs in Opinion, Wilfulneſs.

Opinion, Mind, Judgment, Thoughts, Belief, Eſteem, Conceit.

Opinionate or Opinionated, the ſame as Opiniative.

Opiſthodomos (in Architect.) a Poſtern or Back-gate.

Opiſthotonus, a kind of Cramp or ſtretching of the Muſcles of the Neck backwards.

Opium, the Tear or Juice that diſtils from the Heads of Poppeys in Greece, Egypt, and elſewhere; of which there are three ſorts, viz. black, white and yellow: the Virtue of it is well known to cauſe Sleep and allay Pain.

Ople, a Shrub otherwiſe call'd Water-elder.

Opobalſamum (Gr.) Balm of Gilead, the Juice or Gum that diſtills from a Shrub call'd Balſamum, or the Balm-tree, which grows only in Paleſtine: It has been famous in all Ages, for Curing Wounds, the Bitings of Scorpions and Serpents, being alſo good againſt the Plague, Convulſions, Palſy, and many other Diſeaſes.

Opopanax, the Juice or Liquor of a Plant call'd Panax, All-heal, and Hercules's Wound-wort, which grows in hot Countries.

Oppidan (Lat.) a School-word for a Towns-boy, particularly ſuch as do belong to the College of Queen's-Scholars at Weſtminſter.

To Oppilate (in the Art of Phyſick) to cauſe a Stoppage in ſome part of the Body.

Oppilation, Obſtruction, Stoppage.

Oppilative, apt to obſtruct or ſtop.

† Oppletion, a filling up.

Opponent, one that maintains a contrary Argument in the Schools, an Oppoſer or Adverſary in a Diſputation.

Opportune, Convenient, ſeaſonable, favourable.

Opportunity, Convenient Time, or Occaſion.

To Oppoſe, to ſet againſt, to put in competition, or ſet in ballance againſt, to withſtand or thwart.

Oppoſite, that is over againſt, contrary.

Oppoſite Angles, ſee Angles.

Oppoſite Cones (in Geom.) two Cones of the like Quality, that are vertically oppoſite, and have the ſame common Axis.

Onpoſite Sections, are the two Hyperbola's, made by a Plane cutting both thoſe Cones.

Oppoſites (in Logick) things relatively oppoſed, as Maſter and Servant; or privatively, as Light and Darkneſs; or contrary, as Knowledge and Ignorance.

Oppoſition, Contrariety, Diſagreement, Hinderance, Rub, Stop. In Rhetorick, a Figure of Sentence, the ſame with Objection. In Aſtrology, it is when two Planets, being diſtant the ſpace of 6 Signs or 180 Degrees, they behold one another diametrically oppoſite; which is counted an Aſpect of the greateſt Enmity, and is marked thus (☍).

To Oppreſs, to preſs hard or lie heavy upon, to ſtifle or ſmother, to over-charge or over-burden, to cruſh by Authority and Violence.

Oppreſſion, the Act of Oppreſſing, over-charging, &c.

Oppreſſive, apt to oppreſs.

Oppreſſour, he that oppreſſes or cruſhes another, by Tyranny, Uſury, &c.

Opprobrii Lapis (Lat.) the Stone of Reproach, a Stone ſet up in the moſt publick Place of the City of Padua in Italy, to which whatever Debtors reſort, acknowledging what they owe, and to whom, as alſo their Inability to make Satisfaction, they are to be freed from all Proſecution.

Opprobrious, reproachful, injurious, abuſive.

Opprobrium (a Latin Word ſometimes made Engliſh) the ſhame that conſtantly attends a lewd and villainous Act; Infamy, Reproach, Diſgrace.

To Oppugn, as To oppugn an Opinion, i. e. to oppoſe, confute, or reject it.

Optative Mood (in Grammar) that Mood of a Verb which expreſſes an earneſt Deſire that ſuch a thing may be or happen, and therefore uſually has an Adverb of Wiſhing join'd with it, as Utinam, i. e. would to God that, &c.

Optica (Gr.) Medicines proper for Diſtempers of the Eyes.

Optical Proſtaphæreſis, ſee Equation Aſtronomical.

Optick, belonging to the Sight.

Optick Glaſſes, ſuch Glaſſes as are contriv'd for the viewing of any Object that is near or at a conſiderable diſtance; as Microſcopes, Teleſcopes, Helioſcopes, &c.

Optick Nerves (in Anat.) are the ſecond pair of Nerves which convey the Spirits to the Eyes, and beſtow on them the Faculty of Seeing.

Optick Place of a Star or Planet, is that part or point of its Orbit, which our Sight determines when the Star is there: And it is either Apparent, when the Obſerver's Eye is at the Circumference of the Earth; or Real, when 'tis ſuppoſ'd to be at the Center of the Earth, or Planet he inhabits.

Optick Pyramid, ſee Pyramid.

Opticks, a Science that treats of the Sight in general, explaining the Properties and Effects of it; but conſiders every Object as ſeen with direct Rays, after the ordinary manner: Its particular Branches relating to Reflected and Refracted Rays of Light, are Catoptricks and Dioptricks; which See in their proper Places.

Optimacy (Lat.) the Government of a Commonwealth by the Nobler ſort of Perſons.

Option, a liberty of taking or refuſing a thing, Choice: In a Law-ſenſe, when a new Suffragan Biſhop is conſecrated, the Arch-Biſhop of the Province, by a cuſtomary Prerogative, claims the Collation of the firſt vacant Benefice in that See, at his Choice, which is therefore termed The Arch-biſhop's Option.

Opulency, Riches, Wealth, Plenty.

Opulent, wealthy, very rich.

Opulus, a kind of Shrub, which ſome call Witch-haſel.

Opuntia, a ſort of Indian Fig.

Or (Fr.) Gold: In Heraldry, the colour of that Metal; without which and Argent, 'tis ſaid, there can be no good Armoury. In the Coats of Noblemen, it is call'd Topaz, and in thoſe of Soveraign Princes, Sol.

Ora, a Saxon Coin of the value of one Shilling and four Pence.

Orache or Orage, a Pot-herb of an inſipid taſte.

Oracle (Lat.) an Anſwer or Counſel given by God: Alſo a doubtful and obſcure Anſwer which the Heathen Prieſts return'd to the People about Things to come, making them to believe, that the Gods ſpoke by their Mouths; alſo the Place where ſuch Anſwers were given, or the Deity that deliver'd them: The Word is alſo taken in general for a Deciſion, or Saying full of unqueſtionable Truth.

Oracular, belonging to, or having the Authority of an Oracle.

Oral, deliver'd by the Mouth or Voice; as, The Oral Law of the Rabbins; an Oral Prayer, &c.

Orange, a known Fruit of a Gold-colour, full of pleaſant Juice, proper for Sauces.

Orangeade, a cooling Liquor made of the Juice of Oranges and Lemmons, with Water and Sugar.

Orangery, a ſort of Perfume.

Oranoco, (i.e. bright and large) a Name given to the common ſort of Tobacco in the Plantations of Virginia, &c.

Orarium (Lat.) a kind of Prieſt's Veſtment: In our old Records, the Hem or Border of a Garment.

Oration, a Diſcourſe or Speech pronounc'd in Publick, or compos'd for that purpoſe.

Orator, an eloquent Speaker or Pleader, a good Spokeſ-man.

Oratory, belonging to an Orator; as, An Oratory Style.

Oratory or The Art of Oratory, the Science of Rhetorick, or the Art of making Publick Speeches; Eloquence.

An Oratory, a private Chappel, or Place ſet apart for Prayer.

Oratorians, an Order of Regular Prieſts, ſo call'd from the Oratory of St. Jerom, in Rome, where they us'd to pray: They were eſtabliſh'd by Philip Nereius a Florentine, A.D. 1564. and were confirm'd by Pope Pius IV.

Orb, a hollow Sphere: In Aſtronomy, it is taken for the Deferent of a Planet, commonly call'd its Sphere: But a Sphere properly ſignifies a Globe contain'd under one ſingle Superficies, and ſolid even to the Center; whereas an Orb is a round Body, bounded by two Surfaces, one outward and convex, and the other inward and concave; ſo that the Heavens are ſo many Orbs, the higher encompaſſing the lower, like the Coats of an Onion.

Concentrick Orbs, are ſeveral Orbs one within another, that have the ſame Center.

Eccentrick Orbs, are Orbs one within another, or elſe ſeparate, which have different Centers. There may alſo be Orbs, partly Concentrick, and partly Eccentrick; viz. ſuch as are not of an equal Thickneſs, i.e. ſuch whoſe outward and inward Surfaces have not the ſame Center.

Orbicular, round like a Ball or Globe.

Orbicular Bone (in Anat.) one of the little Bones of the inner part of the Ear, which is faſten'd by a ſlender Ligament to the ſides of that call'd Stapes.

Orbicularis Muſculus (Lat.) a Muſcle that draws both Lips together; being alſo term'd Conſtringens, Oſculatorius, and Sphincter Labiorum.

Orbicularis Palpebrarum, a thin fleſhy Muſcle, whoſe Fibres circularly encompaſs the Eye-lids, and are inſerted to them: When this Muſcle acts, it draws the Eye-lids together, after the manner of the Sphincters of all other parts.

Orbicularis or Crepitus Lupi, a kind of Muſhroom, call'd Sow-bread or Swine-bread, of an uncertain bigneſs, and ſpungy on the inſide: They are kept dry by Surgeons, and us'd for the ſtanching of Blood.

Orbis, a Circle, a Wheel, any Thing that is of a round Figure: In old Records, a Knot or Swelling in the Fleſh caus'd by a Blow, a black and blew Spot or Mark made by Beating: Alſo the Globe-fiſh or Scull-fiſh.

Orbis Britannicus, the Snot-fiſh.

Orbis Echinatus, the Hedge-hog Globe-fiſh.

Orbis Magnus, (according to the Copernican Syſtem) is the Orbit of the Earth, in its yearly Revolution round the Sun.

Orbit, is properly the track, rut, or mark of a Chariot or Cart-wheel: But Aſtronomers take it for the Courſe, Path, or Way in which any Planet moves; thus the Orbit of the Sun or of the Earth, in its yearly Courſe, is the Eccliptick Line.

Orbiter Externus (in Anat.) a Hole in the Os Maxillare or Cheek-bone, below the Orbit, through which the Nerves and Veſſels that come from the Teeth, paſs to the Cheeks.

Orbiter Internus, a Hole in the Coronal Bone of the Scull, within the Orbit, a little above the Os Planum, through which paſſes a Branch of the fifth pair of Nerves that goes to the Noſe.

Orca, the Ork, a monſtrous Fiſh.

Orchal or Orchel, a kind of Stone like Allum, with which Dyers make a red Colour.

Orchanet or Alkanet, an Herb otherwiſe called Spaniſh Bugloſs, or wild Bugloſs.

Orcheſtra (Gr.) the Pit of the Roman Play-houſe, where the Senators were ſeated; but among the Greeks, it was the Place where they danc'd or kept their Balls, which made part of their Plays: It is now taken for the Muſick-Gallery, or Place where the Muſicians ſit.

Orchis, a Teſticle, Cod, or Stone; alſo an Herb call'd Dog-ſtones, the Roots of which provoke Venery, cure Inflammations, diſſolve Swellings, and cleanſe Ulcers: Alſo a ſort of Olive-tree.

To Ordain (Fr.) to command or enjoyn, to appoint or deſign, to confer or admit to Holy Orders.

Ordalian, as The Ordalian Law, a Law which eſtabliſh'd the ancient Way of Tryals by Fire and Water, call'd Ordeal.

Ordeal or Ordael (Sax. i. e. great Judgment) a kind of Tryal or Purgation practis'd in ancient Times, whereby the Party purg'd was counted Innocent, and free from the Crime laid to his Charge: Of theſe Tryals there were two ſorts, one by Fire, and another by Water.

Fire-Ordeal, when the accuſed Perſon was obliged to make his Innocence appear by paſſing blind-fold with bare Feet over nine red-hod Plowſhares, laid at an equal diſtance one from another: Or by holding a red-hot Iron in his Hand, uſually of one Pound weight, which was call'd Simple Ordeal; or of two Pounds, which was Double; or of three Pounds, which was Triple.

Water-Ordeal, was perform'd either by hot or cold Water; the former Purgation was by thruſting one's Hands or Feet into ſcalding Water, and the other by being plung'd in a Pond or River, not unlike the late-us'd Tryal of Witches. The Ordalian Law was appointed long before the Conqueſt, and continu'd in force till the Reign of King John, when it was condemn'd by Pope Stephen II. and utterly aboliſh'd by Parliament.

Ordelfe or Orelfe, Oar or Metal lying under Ground: In old Charters it is often taken for a Liberty, whereby a Man claims the Oar found in his own Ground.

Order, a diſpoſing of things in their proper Place, Cuſtom or Manner, Diſcipline, Rule, Duty, Behaviour.

In Architecture Order is a Rule to be obſerv'd for the Proportions of Pillars, with reſpect to their Height and Thickneſs; and for the Figures of certain Parts belonging to them, according to their reſpective Proportions. Theſe Orders are five in number, viz. the Tuſcan, Dorick, Ionick, Corinthian, and Compoſite; whereto may be added the Attick and Gothick; all which ſee in their proper Places: But in a more general ſenſe, Order is that which gives each part of the Building a convenient Bigneſs, whether it be conſider'd a-part, or with relation to the whole.

In Military Diſcipline, Order is the equal diſtance of one Rank or File from another: The common Order in Files is three Foot, in Ranks ſix Foot; and the Open Order is double in each.

Order of Battel, is the placing of the Battalions and Squadrons in one Line or more, according as the Ground will allow, ſo as to engage the Enemy to the beſt advantage.

Orders in general, ſignifie all that is commanded by Superiour Officers, and is ſometimes only taken for the Word.

Ordinal, as Ordinal Numbers, i. e. thoſe Numbers that expreſs the Order of Things; as Firſt, Second, Third, &c.

An Ordinal, a Book of Directions for Biſhops to give Holy Orders, and to do other things belonging to their Function: Alſo a Book containing the Orders and Conſtitutions of a Religious Houſe or College.

Ordinance, Decree, Order, Statute, Law; alſo all ſorts of Artillery, or great Guns us'd in War.

Ordinance of the Foreſt, a Statute relating to Foreſt-Cauſes, made An. 34. Edw. I.

Ordinance of Parliament, differs in ſome reſpects from an Act of Parliament; the former being but temporary, and to be alter'd by the Commons alone; whereas an Act is a perpetual Law, and cannot be chang'd but by King, Lords and Commons.

Surveyor of the Ordinance, an Officer whoſe Charge is to Survey all the Queen's Ordinance, Stores and Proviſions of War in the Cuſtody of the Store-keeper of the Tower of London, to allow all Bills of Debt; as alſo to keep Check upon all Labourers and Artificers Works.

Clerk of the Ordinance, his Buſineſs is to Record all Orders and Inſtructions given for the Government of the Office; alſo Patents and Grants, with the Names of all Officers, Clerks, Artificers, Attendants, Gunners, &c. to draw up all Eſtimates for Proviſions and Supplies; to make all Bills of Impreſt, Debentures for the Payment of Workmen, &c.

Ordinary, Common, uſual, wonted, mean, indifferent.

In the Civil Law, Ordinary ſignifies any Judge that has Authority to take knowledge of Cauſes in his own Right, as he is a Magiſtrate, and not by Deputation: In Common Law, it is uſually taken for one that has exempt and immediate Juriſdiction in Cauſes Eccleſiaſtical: Alſo the Biſhop of the Dioceſs's Deputy at Aſſizes and Seſſions, appointed to give Malefactors their Neck-Verſes, and to judge whether they read or not.

An Ordinary is alſo a Victualling-Houſe, where a certain Allowance of Meat, &c. is made at a ſet Rate; alſo the Meal it ſelf taken there.

In Heraldry, Ordinaries, are thoſe Charges that properly belong to that Art, and are of common Uſe therein: They are generally call'd Honourable Ordinaries, being nine in Number, viz. the Croſs, Chief, Pale, Bend, Feſſe, Eſcutcheon, Chevron, Saltir, and Bar; which See under thoſe reſpective Articles.

Ordinate or Ordinate Applicate (in Conick Sections) is a Line drawn at Right Angles to the Axis, (which cuts it into two equal Parts) and reaching from one ſide of the Section to the other: The half of this Line is properly the Semi-Ordinate, but is now commonly call'd the Ordinate: Thus the Ordinate (in an Ellipſis) is a Right Line drawn in an Ellipſis or Oval, from one ſide to another, parallel to a Tangent, which paſſes through one of the ends of that Diameter to which it is an Ordinate.

Ordinate (in an Hyperbola) is likewiſe a Right Line drawn in that Figure, from one ſide to the other, and divided into two equal parts by the Axis of the ſame Hyperbola.

Ordinate (in a Parabola) is a Line drawn thro' the Axis and Diameters, parallel to the Tangent: Half of this Line is alſo ſometimes call'd the Ordinate, and the whole the Double Ordinate.

Ordination, The Act of Ordaining, or putting into Holy Orders.

Ordination-Days, certain Days appointed for the ordaining of Clergy-men, which in the Church of England, are the ſecond Sunday in Lent, Trinity-Sunday, and the Sunday following; alſo the Sundays following the next Wedneſdays after September 14. and December 13.

Ordinatione contra Servientes (Lat.) a Writ that lies againſt a Servant for leaving his Maſter, contrary to the Statute.

Ordines (in our ancient Latin Writers) a general Chapter, or other ſolemn Meeting of the Religious of a particular Order.

Ordines Hollandiæ, the States or Commonwealth of Holland.

Ordines Majores (i.e. Superiour Orders) the Holy Orders of Prieſt, Deacon, and Sub-Deacon, anciently ſo call'd; as the Inferiour Orders of Chanter, Pſalmiſt, Oſtiary, Reader, Exorciſt, and Acolyte, were termed Ordines Minores.

Ordinum Fugitivi, were ſuch Monks as left their Monaſteries, threw off their Habit, and renounc'd their particular Order, contrary to their Oath and other ſolemn Engagements.

Ordles, as Oaths and Ordles, which were part of the Immunities and Privileges granted in old Charters, i.e. the Right of giving Oaths, and determining Ordeal-Tryals, within a particular Precinct or Liberty.

Ordonance (Fr.) Order, ordering or diſpoſing. In Architecture, the giving to all the parts of a Building, the juſt Dimenſions and Quantity, which are requiſite, according to the Model.

Ordure, any kind of Filth, eſpecially the Dung of Man or Beaſt.

Ore, a Tract, or little Country; as Lemſter's Ore in Hereford-ſhire.

Ore, an old Coin, ſee Ora.

Ore or Oar, ſee Oar.

Ore-wood, a kind of Sea-weed, or Oaz, proper for the dunging and manuring of Land.

Oreb (Heb. a Crow or Pheaſant) a Prince of the Midianites.

Oredelph, ſee Ordeſſe.

Orenges, (in Heraldry) little Balls, uſually repreſented of the Tenne or Orange Colour.

Oreon (Gr.) a kind of Knot-graſs, by ſome call'd Bloud-wort.

Oreoſelinon, wild Parſley, ſo nam'd becauſe it grows on Hills.

Oreum (in old Latin Writers) a Barn or Corn-houſe.

Orexis (Gr.) a Stomach or natural Appetite to Meat.

Orfgild (old Saxon Law-word) a reſtitution made by the County or Hundred for any wrong that was done by one that was in Plegio, or bound by the Engagement call'd Frank-pledge: Alſo a Payment or reſtoring of Cattel.

Orfraies, a kind of frizzled Cloth of Gold, much worn heretofore in England by our Kings and Nobility: The Coat-Armours of the King's Guards were alſo termed Orfraies, upon account of their being adorned with Gold-ſmith's Work.

Orfus (Lat.) a kind of Chub-fiſh with a reddiſh Back, often found about the City of Augsburg in Germany, and there call'd an Orff.

Organ, See Organy.

Orgal, the Lees of Wine dried and us'd by Dyers, to prepare their Cloth, for the more ready taking in their ſeveral Dyes.

Organ (Gr.) properly ſignifies an Inſtrument us'd in the carrying on of any Work, and it was often taken for a Muſical one: Whence the word is now generally apply'd to the Nobleſt of Muſical Inſtruments which ſerves for Church-Muſick.

Organ is alſo taken for the Inſtrument of ſome Faculty, in an Animal Body; thus the Eye is ſaid to be the Organ of Sight, the Ear the Organ of Hearing, &c. Among Anatomiſts, an Organ is defin'd to be a Part which requires a right, determinate, and ſenſible Confirmation to make it up, and for the performance of its Actions, as the Heart, a Muſcle, an Arm, &c.

Organ-ling, a ſort of Ling or Salt-fiſh, corruptly ſo call'd for Orkney-Ling, the beſt being found near that Iſland.

Organical or Organick, belonging to the Organs of the Body, having Organs or Inſtruments: inſtrumental, ſerving as a means.

Organical Part, that Part of a Living Creature or Plant, which is deſign'd for the performing of ſome particular Action or Function; as other parts termed Non-organical, have no particular Action, but only ſome Uſe in the order and diſpoſition of the Whole.

Organiſt, one Skill'd in Playing upon the Muſical Organ.

Organization, a forming of Organs or Inſtrumental Parts.

Organized, furniſhed with proper Organs.

Organum or Organon, the Title of Ariſtotle's Book of Logick.

Organy or Organ, wild or baſtard Marjoram; an Herb.

Orgaſmus, Violence, Force, Onſet: In the Art of Phyſick, a quick Motion of Blood or Spirits; as when the Animal Spirits ruſh violently upon the Nerves.

Orgeys (in old Statutes) the greater ſort of North Sea-fiſh, now call'd Organ-Ling.

Orgia (Gr. among the Ancients) certain Feaſts and Revels in honour of the God Bacchus, which were more particularly celebrated upon Mountains by raving Women, call'd Bacchantes.

Orgues (Fr.) a pair of Organs, a Muſical Inſtrument; alſo the Scupper-holes in a Ship. In Fortification, long and thick pieces of Wood, armed with Iron-Plates at the end, and hung up ſeparately by a Cord, over a Gate; being ready upon any ſurprize, to be let fall in the Way, to ſtop it up inſtead of a Portcullice:

Orgues is alſo taken for a Device, conſiſting of many Harquebuſſes linked together, or of ſeveral Musket-Barrels ſet in a row within one wooden Stock, to be diſcharged either all at once, or ſeparately.

Orgyia (Gr.) a Meaſure among the ancient Greeks, containing ſix Feet.

Orichalcum, (i. e. Mountain-Copper) the Metal which we commonly call Braſs, made of melted Copper and the Mineral nam'd Lapis Calaminaris.

Oriel College, a College in Oxford, founded by Adam de Brom, Almoner to K. Edward II. April 20. 1324; and afterwards inlarg'd with a Tenement, called Le Oriele, by K. Edward III.

Orient (Lat.) one of the four Cardinal Points of the Heavens, where we ſee the Sun and Stars riſe.

Orient Equinoctial, that point of the Horizon, which the Sun riſes upon when it enters the Signs Aries and Libra.

Orient Eſtival, the Summer-Eaſt or North-Eaſt, that point of the Horizon, where the Sun riſes when it is in the Tropick of Cancer.

Orient Hybernal, the Winter-Eaſt or South-Eaſt, that point of the Horizon where the Sun riſes at its entrance into the Tropick of Capricorn.

Orient-Pearl, a Pearl of great Luſtre or Brightneſs, ſuch as are found in the Eaſtern Countries.

Oriental, belonging to the Eaſt, Eaſtern, Eaſterly: In Aſtronomy, a Planet is ſaid To be Oriental, when it riſes in the Morning before the Sun.

Orifice, the Mouth, Opening or Entry of a thing; eſpecially that of the Stomach, of a Wound, Vein, Tube, or Pipe, &c.

Oriflambe or Auriflambe (Fr.) the Royal Standard of the ancient Kings of France, otherwiſe call'd the Standard of St. Denis, born at firſt only in the Wars againſt Infidels, and loſt in the Battel againſt the Flemings: It was ſo call'd from its being embroider'd with Flames of Gold upon a Ground of Red.

Origanum (Gr.) Origan or Organy, wild Marjoram, an Herb ſo nam'd, becauſe it grows much upon Mountains or Hills.

Original (Lat.) belonging to, or proceeding from an Original; primitive, firſt; as an Original Cauſe.

Original Sin, the Guilt which Mankind derives from the firſt Parent.

Original Writ, ſee Writ.

An Original, a thing that is the firſt of its kind, the firſt Beginning or Riſe of a thing; the firſt Pattern or Model, the firſt Draught of a Writing: Alſo Stock or Pedigree; the Derivation of a Word, &c.

Originalia (Law-Term) Tranſcripts or Records in the Exchequer ſent thither out of the Chancery, and diſtinguiſh'd from Recorda, which contain the Judgments and Pleadings in Suits try'd before the Barons of that Court.

Origine, Source, Riſe, or Beginning; Extraction, Stock or Pedigree.

Orillon or Blind (Fr. in Fortif.) a Maſs of Earth fac'd with a Wall, uſually rais'd on the Shoulder of Baſtions that have Caſemates, to cover the Cannon in the retir'd Flank, and prevent their being diſmounted. Some Orillons are round, and others almoſt Square, call'd Epaulments.

Orinoca-Eagle, a Bird in ſhape much like the common Eagle, but its Feathers are curiouſly wrought with black Spots; the end of the Wings and Tail being yellow: This Bird lives upon Prey, yet ſhews ſo much Generoſity, that it never ſets upon the weaker ſort of Fowl, but ſuch as have crooked Beaks and ſharp Talons like it ſelf, and that too, no where but in the Air.

Orion (Gr.) a Southern Conſtellation which conſiſts of 39 Stars, and repreſents the Figure of a Man arm'd with a Courtlaſs.

Oripæ, Snow-flies, a kind of Inſect.

Oripelargus, an Eagle ſhap'd like a Vultur.

† Oriſon (Fr.) a Prayer.

Ork, a monſtrous Fiſh commonly call'd a Whirlpool; alſo a kind of Hulk or huge Sea-veſſel; alſo a But for Wine or Figs.

Orle (in Herald.) an Ordinary, almoſt of the Figure of an Ineſcutcheon, only it is voided, and the Field appears thro' the inner Space. Sometimes an Orle conſiſts of three pieces one within another: Alſo if a round of Cinquefoils, Martlets, Scollop-ſhells, &c. are plac'd about any Ordinary, it is call'd an Orle of Cinquefoils, &c.

In Architecture, Orle is the ſame with Plinth; which See.

Orlope (Sea-Term) the uppermoſt Deck of a great Ship, lying between the Main and Miſſen Maſt, and otherwiſe call'd the Spare-Deck: The ſecond and loweſt Decks of a Ship that has three Decks, are likewiſe ſometimes termed Orlopes.

Ornament (Lat.) Set-off, Finery, Dreſs, Attire; Grace, Beauty, Commendation, a Rhetorical Flouriſh.

In Architecture, Ornaments are the Architraves, Cornices and Frizes of the ſeveral Orders: There are alſo many Ornaments often carv'd in the Mouldings, and on all other Members; as divers ſorts of Channellings, Ovals, Wreaths, Leaves, Flowers, &c.

Ornithias (Gr.) the Weſtern Wind, blowing in the Spring for about a Fortnight together towards the end of February, after the Swallows are come.

Ornithogale, an Herb call'd Star of Bethlehem, or Dogs-Onion.

Ornithoglossum, Aſhen Keys.

Ornithology, a Diſcourſe or Deſcription of the ſeveral kinds and natures of Birds.

Ornithomancy, a kind of Divination or Soothſaying by the flight of Birds.

Ornithopodium, Birds-foot, an Herb.

Orobanche, the Herb Broom-rape, good for the Spleen. &c.

Orobia, Frankincenſe in ſmall Grains, like the Pulſe call'd Vetches.

Orobioides, a Settlement in Urine like V

Orphan, one that has loſt one or both Parent a Fatherleſs and Motherleſs Child.

Orphaniſm, the ſtate or condition of an Orphan.

Orpheus, a famous Poet, Philoſopher, and Excellent Muſician of Thrace, ſome of whoſe Poem are ſtill extant.

Orphus, the Sea-rough; a kind of Fiſh.

Orpiment, a mineral of a yellow colour, inclining to brown, found in Mines of Gold and Silver.

Orpin or Orpine, a healing Herb, good for Wounds, Ruptures, bloody Flux, &c.

Orque, ſee Ork.

Orrach or Orage, an Herb very good in Pottage, and for ſtuffing Meat; See Arrach.

Orrhopygium (Gr.) the Rump of a Bird or Beaſt.

Orris, a Flower call'd Iris in Greek, from its reſembling a Rain-bow in diverſity of colours, and commonly the Flower-de-luce: Alſo a ſort of weaved Gold and Silver-Lace.

Orſodachna (Gr.) the Ear-wig; an Inſect.

Orteil (Fr.) a Toe: In Fortification, the ſame as Berme; which ſee.

Ortelli, a word us'd in the Foreſt-Laws for the Claws of a Dog's Foot.

Orthampelos, (Gr.) a kind of Vine that needs not to be born up or propped.

Orthocolon (in Surgery) a preternatural ſtraightneſs of a Joint.

Orthodoron, a Greek Meaſure, ſhorter by a Finger's breadth than the Span or greater Palm.

Orthodox, that is of a true and right Opinion or Belief; ſound or agreeable to Truth, in oppoſition to Heretical.

Orthodoxy, right Judgment, true Belief.

Orthodromicks (in Navigat.) the Art of ſailing in the Arch of ſome great Circle.

Orthodromy, ſuch a Courſe, which is the moſt direct and ſhorteſt diſtance between any two Points on the Surface of the Globe.

Orthogonal (in Geom.) Right-angled, or having right Angles.

Orthographical or Orthographick, belonging Orthography.

Orthographical Projection of the Sphere, is a drawing the Surface of the Sphere on a Plane which cuts it in the middle; the Eye being vertically plac'd at an infinite diſtance from one of the Hemiſpheres: This Projection is alſo call'd Analemma.

Orthographiſt or Orthographer, one skill'd in in Orthography.

Orthography (in Grammar) the right and true way of Writing and Spelling in any Language: In Architecture, the Model or Repreſentation of one of the Fronts or Faces of a Bulding, according to the Rules of Geometry, and the Proportions it is deſign'd to be built in.

In Perſpective Orthography ſignifies the fore-right ſide of any Plane, that is, the Side or Plane which lies parallel to a ſtraight Line that may be imagin'd to paſs through the outward Convex Points of the Eyes, continu'd to a convenient length. See Scenography.

In Fortification, Orthography or Orthographical Section, is a Profil or Draught, which ſhews the thickneſs, breadth, depth and height of any Work, as it would appear, if perpendicularly cut off from the higheſt to the loweſt part of it.

Orthomaſtica mala, a kind of Fruit, reſembling the ſhape of Womens Teats; Breaſt-apples.

Orthopnœa, a difficulty of breathing, when one cannot fetch his Breath, but holding his Neck upright.

Orthoſtatæ, (in Architect.) Pilaſters, Buttreſſes or Supporters of a Building.

Ortolan (Fr.) a delicate Bird of an excellent taſte, about the bigneſs of a Lark.

Ortygometra, (Gr.) the Captain or Leader of the Quails, ſomewhat bigger and blacker than an ordinary Quail; the Rail.

Orval, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Clary.

Orvietan, a ſort of Electuary or Treacle, good againſt Poiſon, invented by a Mountebank nam'd Orvietano.

Oryal (in old Records) a Porch, Cloiſter, or arched Room in a Monaſtery; whence probably Oriel-College in Oxford firſt took its Name.

Oryx, a kind of wild Goat in Africa, ſo call'd becauſe 'tis ſaid to dig the Earth with its Fore-feet, when the Moon is in the Eaſt.

Oryza, the Grain call'd Rice.

Os (Lat.) a Bone, defined by Anatomiſts to be a hard, dry and cold Subſtance, conſiſting of earthy and ſaltiſh Particles, deſign'd to uphold the Body, to render its Motion eaſie, and for a defence to ſeveral Parts.

Os Calcis, ſee Calcaneus.

Os Naviculare, ſee Scaphoides.

Os Sepiæ, Cuttle-Bone, us'd by Goldſmiths, Apothecaries, &c.

Osbert, a proper Name among the Saxons, ſignifying the Light of the Family.

Osbern (i.e. Houſe-child) another proper Name.

Oſcillation (Lat.) a ſwinging up and down in the Air of the Figures of Men, a ſacred Rite obſerv'd among the Romans; a ſwinging upon a Robe: Alſo the Swing of a Pendulum; ſo that if the Pin of the Pendulum faſten'd above, be taken for the Center of a Circle, whoſe Circumference divides the Ball or Bob into two equal Parts, the middle Point of the Arch, ſo dividing the Ball, is termed the Center of Oſcillation.

Oſcitancy, Sluggiſhneſs, Negligence, Sloth.

Oſcitation, a yawning or gaping, which is a certain light Convulſive Motion of the Muſcles that open the lower Jaw.

Oſcula (Lat.) the holes in a Pipe: In Anatomy, the opening of Veins and other Veſſels at their ends.

Oſculatorius Muſculus, ſee Orbicularis.

Oſculum, a little Mouth; alſo a Kiſs.

Oſculum Uteri, the Cavity or hollow Part of the Womb, where Conception is made.

Oſier, the red or Water-willow, the Twigs of which ſerve to make Wicker-baskets, &c.

Oſmonds, a word us'd in ſome Statutes for the Oar, of which Iron is made.

Oſmund (Sax. i.e. Houſe-peace) a proper Name of Men.

Oſmund Royal or Oſmund the Water-man, a ſort of Herb.

Oſprey, ſee Oſſifraga.

Oſſiculum (Lat.) a little Bone: Among Herbaliſts, the Stone of a Plum, Cherry, or ſuch like Fruit.

Oſſifraga (i.e. Bone-breaker) the Oſprey, a kind of Eagle, that breaks Bones with her Beak: She is ſaid to be ſhort-ſighted, contrary to the nature of other Eagles, and to breed up not only her own young Ones, but alſo thoſe that others have caſt off.

† Oſſuary, a Charnel-Houſe, or Place where dead People's Bones are kept.

Oſt or Oaſt, a Country-word for a Veſſel, on which Hops or Malt is dry'd.

Oſtagra (Gr.) a Surgeon's Inſtrument, to draw out Bones.

Oſtenſive (Lat.) that ſerves to ſhew; as Oſtenſive Demonſtrations, i. e. ſuch as plainly and directly ſhew the Truth of any Propoſition, in which reſpect they are diſtinguiſh'd from Apagogical ones, that prove the Truth propoſed by demonſtrating the Abſurdity or Impoſſibility of maintaining the contrary.

Oſtentation, a making a fair ſhew outwardly, vain Glory, exceſſive Boaſting, bragging, or vaunting.

Oſtentative, apt to make a ſhew of, or boaſt.

Oſtentionalis, a Soldier attending the Prince in Publick Shews.

Oſteocolla (Gr.) the Glue-bone Stone, a ſoft Stone of a white or Aſh-colour, ſhap'd like a Bone, which grows out of the Sand, as it were Coral, ſometimes to the thickneſs of a Man's Arm, and is ſuppos'd to be of great Virtue, for the joyning of broken Bones.

Oſteocopi, Pains in the Bones, or rather in the Membranes or thin Skins and Nerves that are about them; in regard that the Bones themſelves are altogether inſenſible.

Oſteology, that part of Anatomy which ſhews the Nature, Figure, Diſpoſition and Ligaments of the Bones of Animal Bodies.

Oſteon, a Bone, See Os.

Oſtiary (Lat.) a Porter or Door-keeper: In the Primitive Times, an Officer that kept the Keys of the Church, and took Charge of all things in it.

Oſtigo, the Scab in Lambs or Kids about the Mouth and Lips.

Oſtracias (Gr.) a kind of precious Stone, like an Oiſter-ſhell.

Oſtraciſmus, a ſort of Puniſhment among the Greeks, which was the baniſhing for ten years of a Perſon, whoſe over-great Power began to be ſuſpected by his Fellow-Citizens: It was ſo call'd, becauſe the People gave their Votes by Writing the Name of him whom they were minded to baniſh, upon Shells.

Oſtracites, a Stone call'd a Neſt of Boxes, becauſe when one Cruſt or Shell is taken away, another appears of the ſame Colour and Subſtance.

Oſtracitis, a ſort of Cruſt that ſticks to Furnaces, where Braſs-Oar is melted.

Oſtrea, Oiſters, a Shell-fiſh.

Oſtrich or Oſtridge, a great African Fowl, which is ſaid to digeſt Iron.

Oſtrogoths, a Name peculiar to thoſe Goths, who coming out of the Eaſt, invaded the Southern and Weſtern Parts of Europe.

Oſtrum (Gr.) the Fiſh of whoſe Liquor a ſort of Purple or Scarlet-colour was made; alſo that Liquor, or Colour, or Clothes, dy'd of it.

Oſtrutium, Pellitory of Spain, an Herb, reckon'd an excellent Remedy for the Palſy of the Tongue, and loſs of Speech.

Oſwald (Sax. Houſe-ruler or Steward) a proper Name of Men; particularly of a King of the Northumbrians.

Oſwald's Law, a Term by which was meant the turning out of marry'd Prieſts, and bringing Monks into Churches, by Oſwald Biſhop of Worceſter, A. C. 964.

Oſyris (Gr.) the Herb Toad-flax, or Flax-weed.

Otacouſticks (Gr.) Inſtruments to help or improve the Senſe of Hearing, as Ear-pipes, Speaking-trumpets, &c. See Acouſtica.

Otalgia, a Pain in the Ears.

Otenchyta, a ſmall Syringe or Squirt to convey Medicinal Liquors into the Ears.

Otho, the Name of an ancient Roman Emperour, and of ſeveral Emperours of Germany.

Otica (Gr.) Medicines proper for Diſtempers in in the Ears.

Otis, the Buſtard, a Bird often found in the inland parts of England.

Oturakis, old Janizaries no longer fit for Service

vice in the Wars; the Name is derived from a Word which ſignifies to ſit down.

Otraque, a certain Drink made of a Nut growing in the Molucca Iſlands in the Eaſt-Indies.

Ottadini, the ancient Name of a People, who inhabited that part of Great Britain, which is now call'd Northumberland.

Otter, a Creature that lives both in the Water, and upon Land; being a Beaſt of Chace.

Ottoman, belonging to the Turks, as The Ottoman Empire.

Oval, (Lat.) that is of the ſhape of an Egg.

Oval Window (in Anat.) one of the holes in the hollow of the Ear; See Feneſtra Ovalis.

An Oval (in Geom.) a round but ſomewhat long Figure; ſo that Lines drawn from its utmoſt Superficies to the Center are not equal, yet well enough anſwer to each other from the oppoſite Sides: For the Plain Figure See Ellipſis, and Spheroid for the Solid.

In Architecture Oval or Ovolo is the ſame as Echinus, a Member ſo call'd from its Figure reſembling an Egg: It is uſually plac'd for Ornament in the Mouldings of the Cornices, and in a Pillar next the Abacus.

Ovalis Corona (Lat. among the Romans) a Crown made of Myrtle-branches, which was uſually granted to one that had obtain'd the leſſer Triumph, call'd Ovation.

Ovaria (in Anat.) the Teſticles of Females, ſo ſo nam'd becauſe they breed a kind of Eggs, that have the ſame uſe as the Lathers or Collections of Eggs in the Bodies of Fowls.

Ovation (among the Romans) a kind of petty Triumph for a Victory, won without the ſpilling of much Blood, or for the defeating of Rebels, Slaves, Pirates, or other unworthy Enemies of the Common-wealth. It is ſo call'd from the Soldiers following their Commander, ſhouting and ſinging O, O; or fron Ovis, i. e. a Sheep, which us'd to be ſacrific'd to Jupiter, upon that occaſion; whereas in the greater Triumph, the General ſacrific'd a Bull, and the cry of the Soldiers was Io, Io, Triumphe.

Oubut, a ſort of Caterpillar, an Inſect.

Ouch, a Collar of Gold formerly worn by Women; alſo a Boſs or Button of Gold ſet with ſome precious Stone or Jewel.

Ovealty, See Owelty.

To Over-act, to act beyond one's Commiſſion; to do a thing with too much Affectation.

To Over-ballance, to exceed in weight, to outweigh.

To Over-bear, to overcome, or prevail over, to oppreſs or cruſh.

It Over-blows, an Expreſſion us'd at Sea, when the Wind blows ſo hard, that the Ship can bear no Sails.

Over-board, to fall or be thrown into the Sea.

To Over-caſt, to grow dark or cloudy, as the Sky ſometimes does; to whip a Seam, as Taylors do; to caſe or line a Wall with Stone, &c. to throw beyond the Jack in Bowling.

Over-cautious, too wary, too heedful.

Over-clouded, as His Judgment is over-clouded, i. e. cover'd at it were with Clouds, and darken'd.

Over-cyſhed (old Law-word) convicted, or proved Guilty.

Over-fraighted, over-loaded, as a Ship is that has taken in too much Fraight or Burden of Merchandizes.

To Over-grow, to grow too faſt, or in too great abundance.

Over-grown Sea (in the Mariners Language) is when the Waves ſwell to an exceſſive Height.

To Over-hale, to hale a Rope the contrary way, when 'tis drawn too ſtiff, in order to make it more ſlack. See Runner.

Over-laid, ſtifled or ſmothered; as The Child was over-laid at Nurſe.

To Over-look, to have an Eye upon, to ſurvey, to connive or wink at; to paſs by, or take no notice of; to over-top, to look upon with diſdain or ſcorn.

Over-maſted, a Ship is ſaid to be Over-maſted, when her Maſts are too big for her Bulk, ſo as to lie too much down by a Wind, and labour too much a-hull.

Over-plus, that which is over and above.

To Over-poiſe, to out-weigh.

To Over-rake (Sea-Term) as the Waves are ſaid to over-rake a Ship, when they break in and waſh her from Stem to Stern, or from one end to the other.

To Over-reach, to hurt one's ſelf with reaching too far; to hit the fore-Feet with the hinder, as ſome Horſes do; to cozen, cheat, or trick; to pervert.

Over-rigid, too rigorous, too ſevere.

To Over-rule, to govern with abſolute Power, to bear ſway, to maſter or prevail over.

To Over-rule an Argument or Objection at Law, as the Judges do; i. e. not to allow of it, to reject it.

To Over-run, to out-run or out-ſtrip; to cover all over, to invade every where.

To Over-run a Page (a Term in Printing) to run it over again, to diſpoſe the Lines after another manner, in order to inſert ſomewhat that was left out.

Overſamneſs (old Law-word) a Fine anciently laid upon thoſe, who hearing of a Murder or Robbery, did not purſue the Malefactor.

To Over-ſee, to have the Conduct or Management of; to over-look, or let ſlip.

To Over-ſet, to over-turn: A Ship at Sea is ſaid To be Over-ſet, when ſhe is turn'd over on one ſide. See Overthrown.

To Over-ſtretch, to ſtretch a thing too much, to carry on a matter too far.

Overt (Fr.) open or manifeſt; as An Overt Act, which in the ſenſe of the Law, is an advance or ſtep made towards the compaſſing of an Enterpriſe; or ſome plain matter of Fact, which ſerves to prove the Deſign that was in hand.

Overt Word, an open plain Speech.

To Overthrow, to turn topſy-turvy, to caſt down, to deſtroy, to defeat or rout, to diſappoint or make void.

Among Sea-men, a Ship is ſaid To be Overthrown, when being brought a-ground to be trimmed, ſhe falls over on her Side by ſome miſchance.

Overture (Fr.) an opening of a Matter, a Propoſal; alſo a Flouriſh of Muſick, before the Scenes are open'd in a Play-houſe, eſpecially before the beginning of an Opera.

Over-weening, having too great an Opinion of one's own Perſon or Merit, preſumptuous, ſelf-conceited.

To Overwhelm, to cover over, to plunge or ſink in Water; to make ſink under the weight of Grief, &c.

Ovicula (Lat.) a little Sheep.

P. Ovidius Naſo, the moſt fluent of Latin Poets, whoſe Works are ſufficiently known among the Learned.

Oviductus (in Anat.) the Egg-paſſages, the ſame as Tubæ Fallopianæ; which See.

Oviparous (in Philoſ.) that breeds by Eggs or Spawn; as Oviparous Animals, i. e. ſuch as lay Eggs, which are afterwards hatch'd into living Creatures.

Ovis (Lat.) a Sheep or Ewe-Sheep.

Ovis Chilenſis, the Sheep of Chili, a Province of Southern America, which is cloth'd with long Hair inſtead of Wool, and caſts forth Spittle againſt thoſe that teaz or diſturb it.

Ovis Peruana, the Sheep of Peru, as big as a Horſe, and able to carry a Man with a Load of fifty Pounds weight on its Back for ſeveral Miles; ſo that theſe Creatures are often us'd for Drawing and Carriage. The Wooll of their Fleeces ſurpaſſes that of our Sheep in thickneſs, fineneſs and length, and their Fleſh is very grateful to the Palate.

Ovis Turcica, the Turkey-Sheep, having a Tail of ſo large a Size, that it can ſcarce be born without a Carriage.

Ovifuga, the Egg-ſucking Fly; an Inſect.

Ovum (in ſome Writers) a ſort of Pain in the Head, ſettled in a Place about the bigneſs of an Egg.

Ounce, the twelfth part of a Pound Troy-weight, or the ſixteenth part of a Pound Aver-du-pois; in Apothecaries Weight, eight Drams. An Ounce of Gold-Bullion Troy-weight, is uſually valu'd at forty eight Pounds Sterling; and an Ounce of Silver-Bullion is worth five Shillings.

Ounce is alſo a kind of tame Beaſt in Perſia, miſtaken for a Lynx.

Ounding (old Word) riſing like Waves.

Ovolo, See Echinus and Oval.

Ourlop (Sax.) a Fine anciently paid to the Lord of a Manour by the inferiour Tenant, when his Daughter was corrupted or debauch'd.

Ousted (French Law-word) as Ouſted out of Poſſeſſion, i. e. removed or put out of the Poſſeſſion.

Ouster le Main (i. e. to take off the Hand) a Judgment given in Chancery for the Delivery of Seized Lands out of the King's Hands, when it appear'd upon Enquiry, that the King had no Right or Title to them. It was alſo taken for the Writ granted for that purpoſe: But now all Wardſhips, Liveries, Ouſter-le-mains, &c. are quite taken away and aboliſh'd.

Ouster le Mer, an Eſſoin, or Excuſe for not appearing in Court after a Summons, upon account of being beyond Sea.

Outacouſticon, an Ear-pipe: See Otacouſticks.

Outborow, See Inborow.

Outfangthef (Sax. Law-Term) a Liberty or Privilege whereby a Lord is enabled to bring any Man dwelling in his own Fee, and taken for Felony in any other Place, to a Tryal in his own Court: See Infangthef.

Outland (among the Saxons) ſuch Land as was let out to any Tenant meerly at the Pleaſure of the Lord; which was uſually divided into two Parts; one diſpoſed of among ſuch as attended on their Perſons, call'd Theodens, or leſſer Thanes, and the other to their Husband-men, whom they term'd Carls or Churls.

Outlaw, a Perſon depriv'd of the Benefit of the Law.

To Outlaw one, to ſue him to an Outlawry.

Outlawry, the Loſs of the Benefit of a Subject, and of the Queen's Protection: See Utlary.

Clerk of the Outlawries, an Officer belonging to the Court of Common-Pleas, and Deputy to the Queen's Attorney-General, whoſe Buſineſs it is, to make out the Writs of Capias Utlagatum, after Outlawries.

Out-licker (in Sea-affairs) a ſmall piece of Timber about three or four Yards long, made faſt to the Top of the Poop, and ſtanding right out aſtern: At the outermoſt end of it, there is a Hole into which the ſtanding part of the Sheat being made faſt and reeved, or let thro' the Block or Pulley of the Sheat, is reeved again thro' another Block, which is faſten'd to this piece of Timber, near the End, for the haling down of the ſaid Sheat flat, when the Miſſen-Maſt is plac'd ſo far aſt, that there is not room enough to do it within-board.

Out-parters, a ſort of Thieves about Riddeſdale in Scotland, that ride about to fetch in ſuch Cattel, or other things as they can light on; and make Matches for the robbing of Men and Houſes. See Intakers.

Outrage (Fr.) a violent Aſſault, an hainous Offence, a grievous Injury, a cruel and ſenſible Affront.

Outragious, cruel, fierce, violent; highly abuſive, affrontive or injurious.

Out-riders (Law-word) travelling Bailiffs employ'd by the Sheriffs or their Deputies, to ride to the fartheſt places of their Counties or Hundreds, for ſummoning ſuch as they thought fit to their County or Hundred-Courts.

Outward flanking Angle, See Angle of the Tenaille.

Out-works (in Fortif.) all ſorts of Works that are raiſed without the Incloſure of a Place, and ſerve to cover it from the Enemy in the Field; as Crown-works, Half-Moons, Horn-works, Ravelins, &c. In Cookery, Outworks are certain Courſes of Diſhes ſet on the out-ſide of the Table.

Ovum (Latin) an Egg; alſo the Spawn of Fiſh.

Ovum Philoſophicum or Chymicum, a Glaſs round at bottom, and having a long Neck, us'd in Chymical Operations.

Ouze, a ſort of miry Sedge.

Ouzel, See Owſel.

Ouzy or Oozy, moiſt, wet, plaſhy: Se Oaze.

Owelty or Ovealty of Services (Law-Phraſe) an Equality of Services, when the Tenant Paravail owes as much to the Meſne, as the Meſne does to the Lord Paramount.

Owen, a proper Name of Men, which Camden ſuppoſes to be a Corruption of the Greek Word Eugenius, i. e. nobly deſcended.

Owl, a well-known Night-bird. In Virgnia there is a ſort of Owl as big as a Gooſe, that kills the Poultry in the Night; a delicate feather'd Bird, milk-white, and tipt with a punctal of Black.

Owler, a Maſter of a Ship or other Perſon, that conveys Sheeps-wooll or any prohibited Goods in the Night to the Sea-ſide in order to be Shipp'd off contrary to Law.

Owze, a kind of wild Bull.

Owſe, the Bark of a young Oak beaten ſmall, and us'd by Tanners in the dreſſing of Leather.

Owſel, a ſort of Black-bird.

Ox-bane, a ſort of Herb.

Ox-hoſe (Country-word) an Ox-ſtall or Stable for Oxen.

Ox-eye, a little Bird; alſo an Herb otherwiſe call'd Great Margaret, good for Wounds and the King's Evil.

Ox-fly, a kind of Inſect.

Ox-gang of Land, as much Land as may be plough'd by one Gang or Teem of Oxen in one day, commonly taken for fifteen Acres.

Ox-tongue, the Herb Bugloſs.

Oxalis (Gr.) wild Sorrel or Wood-Sorrel, an Herb; the Syrup, Conſerve, and diſtill'd Water of which, is good in St. Anthony's Fire, and to cleanſe foul Ulcers.

Oxalme, any ſharp ſalt Compoſition, as Vinegar and Brine.

Oxelæum, a Mixture of Vinegar and Oil.

Oxyacantha, the Haw-thorn-Shrub; alſo the Barberry-Tree.

Oxycedros, a kind of ſmall Cedar, having prickly Leaves.

Oxycrat (among Surgeons) a Mixture of fair

Water and Vinegar, good to allay the Heat and Pain of Inflammations; it is otherwiſe call'd Poſca or Puſca, Oxycroceum, a Plaiſter made of Saffron, Vinegar and other Ingredients.

Oxydercica, Medicines that quicken the Sight.

Oxygala, Sower Milk.

Oxygarum, a ſharp Pickle or Sauce.

Oxygon, a Triangle, having three Acute Angles.

Oxygonial, belonging to an Oxygon, Acute-Angular.

Oxylapathon, ſharp-pointed Dock, a ſort of wild Sorrel. See Dock.

Oxymel, a kind of Potion or Syrup made of Honey, Vinegar and Water boil'd together; being good to thin or diſperſe groſs Phlegmatick Humours.

Oxymoron (i. e. ſubtilly fooliſh) a Rhetorical Figure in which an Epithet of a quite contrary Signification is added to any Word; as Concordia diſcors.

Oxymyrsine, wild Myrtle, a Shrub.

Oxynoſema, an acute Diſeaſe.

Oxyporium, a Medicine that cauſes an eaſie Digeſtion, or is of other quick Operation.

Oxyregmia, a ſower Belching from the Stomach.

Oxyrinchus, the Spit-noſe, a ſort of River-fiſh.

Oxyrrhodinum, Oil of Roſes and Vinegar mingled together; or a Mixture of Vinegar of Roſes and Roſe-water.

Oxyſaccharum, a Compoſition of Sugar and Vinegar.

Oxytriphyllon, the Herb Trefoil, with a ſharp Leaf.

Oyer (Fr. i. e. to hear) a Law-word anciently us'd for what we now call Aſſizes.

Oyer and Terminer (i. e. to hear and determine) a particular Commiſſion granted to ſome eminent Perſons for the hearing and determining of one or more Criminal Cauſes: It was formerly us'd only upon ſome ſudden Outrage or Inſurrection; but is now the firſt and largeſt of the five Commiſſions, by virtue of which our Judges of Aſſize ſit in their ſeveral Circuits.

Oyer de Record, a Petition made in a Court of Juſtice, That the Judges would be pleas'd to hear or look upon any Record: So when an Action is brought upon a Bond or Obligation, the Defendant may pray Oyer of the Bond; or if Executors ſue any one, the Party ſued may demand Oyer of the Teſtament or Will.

O Yes (corrupted from the French Word Oyez, i. e. hear ye) a Word generally us'd by our publick Cryers, when they make Proclamation of any thing; as well in Courts of Judicature as elſewhere.

Ozæna, a ſort of the Fiſh Pourcontrel or Manyfeet, ſo call'd from the rank Smell of its Head: Alſo an old ſtinking Ulcer or Sore in the inſide of the Noſtrils.

Ozenitis, a kind of Nard of a ſtrong Smell.

Oze, See Oaz.

Ozier, a ſort of Willow-tree: See Oſier.

P A

Pacal, the Name of a certain Indian-Tree.

Pacare (Lat.) to bring to Obedience and quiet Subjection; to appeaſe or render favourable: In our old Records, it is often taken for to pay, as Tolnetum pacare, to pay Toll; whence Pacabilis, payable, paſſable, and Pacatio, Payment.

Pace, a ſtep, a rate, or manner of going: Alſo a Meaſure of two Foot and a half; but a Geometrical Pace conſiſts of five Foot, and a Thouſand ſuch Paces make up a Mile.

Pace of Aſſes (among Hunters) a Herd or Company of thoſe Beaſts.

Pachyntica (Gr.) Medicines that are of a thickening Quality.

Pacification (Lat.) Peace-making; Mediation or treating for Peace.

Edict of Pacification, an Ordinance or Decree ſet forth by a Prince or State, for the pacifying of all Parties.

Pacifick, that is for, or that tends to the making of Peace or compoſing Matters.

Pacifick Sea, See Ocean.

To Pacify, to appeaſe, to quiet.

Pack of Wool, a Horſe-load, conſiſting of ſeventeen Stone and two Pounds, or 240 Pound weight.

Packer, one whoſe Trade or Buſineſs it is to order and pack up Merchants Goods: They that barrel up Herrings, being ſworn for that purpoſe, according to Stat. 15 Car. 2. are alſo call'd Packers.

Packing-whites, a kind of Cloth mention'd in Stat. 1. R. 3.

Pact or Paction (Lat.) Bargain, Covenant, Agreement, Treaty.

Pad or Pad-Nag, a Horſe that goes eaſie.

To Pad, to rob upon the Road.

Padder or Foot-Pad, one that robs upon the High-way on Foot.

To Paddle, to move the Water with Hands or Feet, to dabble.

Paddle-ſtaff, a long Staff, with an Iron ſpike at the end of it, like a ſmall Spade, much us'd by Mole-catchers.

Paddock, a great Toad.

Paddock or Paddock-courſe, a place in a Park pal'd in very narrow on both ſides, for Hounds or Gray-hounds to run Matches.

Paddow-pipe, a ſort of Herb.

Padelion, an Herb otherwiſe call'd great Sanicle.

Padua, a famous City and Univerſity of Italy, now under the Juriſdiction of the Venetians.

Pædarthrocace (Gr. in Surgery) the Corrupting of a Bone in the Joynt.

Pæderos, the Opal, a precious Stone; alſo the Herb Chervil.

Pædropica, a part of Phyſick relating to the Management of Children, for the Preſervation of their Health.

Pæonia, the Peony or Piony, a Flower, the Roots of which are of great Uſe in Phyſick, for Diſeaſes of the Head, Stoppages of the Courſes, Falling-ſickneſs, &c.

Pagan (Lat.) an Heathen, from Pagus a Country-Town or Village, in regard that when the Chriſtian Religion began to prevail, the Heathens were by degrees turn'd out of the Cities, and forc'd to worſhip their falſe Deities in private Villages.

Paganalia (among the Romans) certain Feaſts made by the Country-People to Tellus and Ceres, after the firſt Seed-time.

Paganiſm, the Principles and Practices of Pagans.

Page, a Youth of Honour advanc'd to the Service of a Prince, or of ſome great Perſonage.

Pageant, a Triumphal Chariot or Arch, or other pompous Device uſually carry'd about in Publick Shews.

Pageantry, Pomp, fine Appearance, vain Shew.

Pagod (q. d. Pagan's God) an Image worſhipped by the Heathens in India, or the Temple belonging to ſuch an Idol: Alſo a piece of Indian Gold worth about nine Shillings Sterling.

Pagrus (Gr.) a Fiſh, one kind of which keeps in the freſh, another in the ſalt Water.

Pagurus, the Punger, a ſort of Crab-fiſh.

Paigles, a Flower otherwiſe call'd Cowſlips.

Pain (Fr.) Bread or a Loaf: In Cookery, Pains ſignifie certain Meſſes proper for Side-diſhes, ſo call'd as being made of Bread, ſtuff'd with ſeveral ſorts of Farces and Ragoos.

Pain, Toil or Labour of Body, diſquiet of Mind, Puniſhment inflicted upon Offenders, Torment or Torture.

Paine fort & dure (Fr. in Common-Law) a particular Puniſhment for thoſe that being arraign'd of Felony, refuſe to put themſelves upon the ordinary Tryal of God and the Country, and are therefore accounted to ſtand Mute or Speechleſs: This Puniſhment is commonly call'd Preſſing to Death.

Painter, one that paints in Oil or otherwiſe.

Painter-Stainer, one that makes draughts of, and paints all ſorts of Coats of Arms, with other Devices belonging to the Art of Heraldry.

Painting, the Art of making a right Uſe of Colours and Proportions, ſo as to repreſent any Object, &c.

Pair, See Peer.

Pais (Fr.) Country, Land: Whence Tryal per Pais, a Law-Phraſe; i. e. Tryal by the Country or Jury, which is not to be underſtood of all ſorts of People, but of thoſe that are of the ſame County or Neighbourhood.

Paiſage, the repreſentation of any part of a Country in Painting, or Drawing; a Landskip.

Paiſo (in old Latin Writers) Paſſage, a liberty for Hogs to run in Foreſts or Woods, to feed on Maſt.

Palace, a Name generally given to a ſtately Houſe, where a King or Prince has his Reſidence or Abode. See Palatinus Mons.

Paladin (Fr.) a Knight-errant, a Knight of the round Table.

Palanka, a piece of Fortification made of great Poles or Stakes.

Palanquin or Palakin (Span.) a ſort of Sedan, or Chair of State, in which the Kings, Princes and great Lords of Eaſt-India, are carry'd about upon Men's Shoulders.

Palatable, agreeable to the Palate, pleaſant to the Taſte.

Palati Os (in Anat.) a ſmall and almoſt ſquare Bone, which makes the hinder part of the Roof of the Mouth.

Palatinate or County Palatine of the Rhine, the Country or Territories of the Elector Palatine.

Palatine, belonging to the Palace or Court of an Emperour, or Soveraign Prince; as A Count Palatine.

County Palatine, See County.

Elector Palatine, one of the Electors of the German Empire.

Palatine or Palaſſin, a precious Stone, more red and fiery than the Carbuncle, ſo call'd becauſe it is the Matrix or Mould in which the true Carbuncle or Ruby is bred.

Palatinus Mons, Mount Palatine, one of the ſeven Hills of Rome, ſo nam'd from the Palantes, or wand'ring Arcadians, who ſettled there with Evander; or from Palatia, the Wife of King Latinus; or from Pales, the Goddeſs of Shepherds: The Royal Manſion-houſe ſtood upon this Hill; and thence all Kings Courts came to be call'd Palatia, or Palaces.

Palatum, the Palate, the upper part or roof of the Mouth.

Pale, a Stake: In Heraldry one of the eight Honourable Ordinaries, which conſiſts of two Lines drawn perpendicularly from the top to the bottom of the Eſcutcheon, and takes up the third part of it; as He bears Gules a Pale Or: If the Pale be upon any Beaſt, the uſual Phraſe is, The Beaſt is debruſed with the Pale; but if the Beaſt be upon the Pale, 'tis ſaid, He is ſupported by the Pale.

Paleſt or Doron, a Greek Meaſure of four Fingers breadth, or three Engliſh Inches.

Paleſtine, one of the three chief Diviſions of Syria; the Holy Land.

Palfrey, a Horſe of State for a Princeſs, or great Lady.

Palilia, (Lat.) certain Feaſts and publick Rejoicings, celebrated among the ancient Romans, April 20. in honour of Pales the Goddeſs of Flocks; during which they danc'd and leap'd over Fires made with Bean-ſtraw, Branches of Olive, Pine and Laurel.

Palilogia (Gr.) a Rhetorical Figure, in which the ſame Word is repeated, as Tu tu Antoni.

Palimbacchius (in Grammar) a Foot conſiſting of two long Syllables, and one ſhort; as Nātūră.

Palimpiſſa, the Oil of Cedar-pitch, that has been boil'd up a ſecond time.

Palindrome, a Verſe or Sentence, which being read forward or backward, the Words and Senſe are the ſame; as;

Ablata, at alba
Lewd did I live, and evil I did dwel.

It is alſo taken by ſome Writers for the relapſing into a Diſeaſe.

Palimpſeſton, or Paluiryſton, a ſort of Paper or Parchment, that was generally us'd for making the firſt draught of things, which might be wip'd out, and new wrote in the ſame Place.

Palingeneſia, Regeneration, a being born again.

Palingman, a Word us'd in Stat. 11 H. 7. for a Merchant Denizen, one born in England.

Palinody (Gr.) a Recantation, a recalling what one had ſpoken or written before.

Paliſſado (Span.) a Fence of Pales: In Husbandry, a ſort of ſlight Fence ſet to beautify a Place or Walk. In Fortification, Paliſſadoes are ſtrong wooden ſharp-pointed Stakes, ſix or ſeven Inches ſquare, and eight Foot long, of which three Foot are let into the Ground: They are uſually planted on the Avenues or Paſſages of all Places that may be carry'd by Aſſault, and even by regular Attack; as alſo on the Baſtions, Half-moons, and other Out-works.

Paliurus (Gr.) Chriſt-thorn, a Shrub, the Root and Leaves of which are of a binding Quality, and ſtop a Looſeneſs; the Seeds bruiſ'd are good for a Cough, for the Gravel and Stone, &c.

Pall, a Covering of black Cloth or Velvet laid over the Coffin and Corps at a Funeral: Alſo a kind of Ornament made of Lamb's Wooll about the breadth of three Fingers, with two Labels hanging down before and behind, which the Pope beſtows on Arch-Biſhops, &c. who wear it about their Necks at the Altar, above their other Veſtments.

Pall is alſo a long Robe or Mantle worn upon ſolemn Occaſions by the Knights of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter. In Heraldry, it is a kind of Croſs; as He bears Gules, a Croſs Pall Argent.

To Pall, to die or grow flat, as Wine and other Liquors do.

Palla (Lat. among the Romans) a ſort of large upper Garment, us'd both by Men and Women: In our old Records, it ſignifies a Canopy, ſuch as is born over the Queen at her Coronation; and it is alſo often taken for an Altar-cloth.

Pallacana, a ſort of Onion.

Pallats, two Nuts that play in the Fangs of the Crown-wheel of a Watch.

Pallerus, a kind of freſh-water Fiſh, like a Bream.

Pallet, a little low Bed; alſo a thin oval piece of Wood, us'd by Painters to hold their Colours:

Among Sea-men, a Partition in the Hold of a Ship, in which by laying ſome Pigs of Lead, &c. the Ship may be ſufficiently ballaſted without loſing room in the Hold, which will by that means ſerve for ſtowing a greater quantity of Goods.

In Heraldry, Pallet is one moiety or half of the Pale. See Pale.

Palletoque or Palletote, a Caſſock or ſhort Cloak with Sleeves, ſuch as Pages wear.

To Palliate (Lat.) to diſguiſe, daub, colour or cloak. To Palliate a Diſtemper, is to patch it up, to cure it but imperfectly.

Palliation, a palliating, cloaking, &c. In the Art of Phyſick, a method that helps incurable Diſeaſes by the application of proper Remedies.

Palliative, that ſerves to palliate; as A Palliative Cure.

Pallicia (in old Records) Pales, or paled Fences.

Pallid, a Poetical Word for pale.

Pall-Mall, a kind of Sport; See Mall.

Pallier, a Landing-place in a Stair-caſe, or a Step which being much broader than the others may ſerve to reſt upon.

Pallium (Lat.) a Cloak, a ſort of Garment worn by the Greeks; alſo a kind of Cap which the Romans ty'd about their Head when they were indiſpos'd: They had alſo a four-corner'd Robe or Mantle, after the Manner of the Greeks, and the Women likewiſe wore a long Robe call'd by this Name.

Palm, the inner part of the Hand; the Meaſure of a Hand's breadth, three Inches: Palms are alſo the white Buds of Sallies or Withy, that come before the Leaf.

Palm of an Anchor, the Flook or broad part which faſtens into the Ground; See Flook.

Palm or Palm-tree, a Tree that bears the Fruit call'd Dates, ſaid to be both Male and Female; the former bearing Bloſſoms only, the latter both Bloſſoms and Fruit, but not unleſs the Male grow by it: The Branches ſhoot upward, tho' preſs'd with never ſo much Weight; ſo that they were wont to be carry'd about in token of Victory, and are ſtill us'd as an Emblem of it.

Palm-Barley, See Palmare Hordenm.

Palm-Sunday, the Sunday before Eaſter ſo call'd, becauſe on that Day the People went to meet our Bleſſed Saviour, with Palms and Olive-branches in their Hands, when he rode ſolemnly into the City of Jeruſalem.

Palm-Worm, an American Inſect half a Foot long, and extremely ſwift in its Motion; being remarkable for its infinite Number of Feet, and two Claws at Head and Tail, with which it wounds and poiſons Men, putting them to very great Pain for twenty four Hours.

To Palm, to juggle in one's Hand; to cog or cheat at Dice.

Palma (Lat.) the Palm of the Hand; the Palm or Date-tree, alſo the Name of one of the *Canary-*Iſlands.

Palma Chriſti, a ſort of Plant.

Palmare Hordeum (in old Records) Palm-Barley or Sprat-Barley, call'd in ſome Parts, Beer-Barley, and in others Battled-Barley; a ſort of Grain that is fuller and broader than common Barley.

Palmaris Brevis (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Palm of the Hand, which ariſes from the outward part of the Bone of the little Finger, nam'd Os Metacarpi, and one of the Bones of the Carpus; and is let in by a ſhort ſtrong Tendon, to the eighth Bone of the Carpus.

Palmaris Longus, another Muſcle of the Palm of the Hand, which takes its Riſe from the inward Knob of the Shoulder-bone, and is inſerted ſideways to the Roots of the Fingers: It aſſiſts in firmly graſping any thing, and defends the Tendons lying underneath from outward Injuries.

Palmata or Palmada (in old Writers) a blow upon the Hand with a Palmer or Ferula.

Palmer, a Pilgrim that travels to viſit Holy Places, with a Branch or Staff of Palm in his Hand: Alſo one that deceitfully cozens or cogs at Cards or Dice, by keeping ſome of them in his Hand unſeen: Alſo a kind of Caterpiller, or Worm with many Feet; alſo the Crown of a Deer's Head: Alſo an Inſtrument with which School-Boys are ſtruck on the Palms of their Hands, otherwiſe call'd a Ferula.

Palmes (Lat.) the Shoot or young Branch of a Vine; alſo the Shoot of the Palm-tree, on which its Fruit hangs.

Palmeſtry, the Skill of Fortune-telling, by obſerving certain Lines or Marks on the Palm of one's Hand.

Palmeto-tree a Tree in Maurice-Iſland in the Indies, of whoſe Juice the Inhabitants make a very pleaſant ſort of Wine.

Palmiſter, one skill'd in the Art of Palmeſtry.

Palmus (Lat.) a Hand-breadth or four Inches; a Span from the Thumb to the little Finger; three quarter's of a Foot: It is alſo taken by ſome Writers that treat of Phyſick, for a ſhivering or panting of the Heart, caus'd by a Convulſion or Diſorder in the Nerves.

Palour, a ſort of Fiſh.

Palpable (Lat.) that may be felt or perceived; alſo manifeſt, evident, plain, clear.

Palpebræ, the Eye-lids, or Coverings of the Eyes.

Palpitation, a panting, beating quick, or throbbing; the vehement beating of the Pulſes, Heart and Arteries.

Palſgrave (Germ.) a Count or Earl that has the overſight of a Palace; the Title of the Prince Elector Palatine of the Rhine.

Palſey, a Diſeaſe; See Paralyſis.

To Palter, to play faſt and looſe, to deal unfairly; alſo to ſquander away.

Paltry, ſorry, pitiful, bad.

Paludamentum (Lat.) a Military Garment, eſpecially that which a General us'd to wear, when he march'd publickly out of the City of Rome: Any Royal or Princely Robe; a Herald's Jacket, or Coat of Arms.

Palumbus the Wood-culver, a Bird. Palumbus Cavernalis, the Stock-dove; Palumbus Rupicola, the Rock-pigeon; Palumbus Torquatus, the Ring-dove or Queiſt.

Paly Bendy (in Heraldry) a kind of Checker, when a Coat is divided both Pale and Bend-wiſe; as The Field Paly Bendy Topaz and Diamond.

To Pamper, to cocker, or make over-much of.

Pamphlet, a little ſtitch'd Book.

Pamphleteer, a Writer of, or Dealer in Pamphlets.

Pampineforme Corpus (Lat. in Anat.) the Veins and Arteries that paſs to the Teſticles, which are enclos'd in a common Coat, and make a Body reſembling curled Leaves. It is otherwiſe called Corpus Varicoſum.

Pampinus, a young tender Shoot of a Vine.

Panacea, a Name heretofore given by Galen to ſome Medicines which he had a great Opinion of, and afterwards preſumptuouſly apply'd by the Chymiſts to their Univerſal Medicine; which as they give it out, is ſufficient to cure all Diſeaſes in all Circumſtances, Conſtitutions and Ages. Alſo the Herb All-heal or Wound-wort.

Panacea Mercurialis, Sublimate of Mercury or

Quick-ſilver ſweeten'd by many repeated Sublimations, and by the Spirit of Wine; which is a good Remedy againſt all pocky Diſtempers, Rheumatiſms, Scurvy, &c.

Panado (Span.) a kind of Gruel, made of Crums of Bread boil'd in Water, with Currans, Sugar, &c.

Panaritium (Lat.) a very painful Swelling in the end of the Finger, at the root of the Nail, which proceeds from a ſharp malignant Humour that gnaws the Tendons, Nerves, Perioſteum, or Skin about the Bone, and even the Bone it ſelf; ſo that a Feaver and Gangrene ſometimes enſue.

Pancalier (Fr.) a Plant, otherwiſe call'd Milan Cabbage.

Pancart, a Paper containing the particular Rates of Tolls or Cuſtoms due to the French King.

Panch, See Paunch.

Panchreſta (Gr.) Medicines that are good againſt all or many Diſeaſes.

Panchros, a precious Stone of almoſt all Colours.

Panchymagoga or Panchymagogues, univerſal Purges, Medicines that diſperſe all Humours of the Body; See Extractum Panchymagogicum.

Pancratium, the Exerciſe of Wreſtling, Cuffing, Kicking, &c. together.

Pancreas (in Anat.) the Sweet-bread, a fat Subſtance conſiſting of many Glandules or Kernels wrapt up in the ſame Coat: Its principal Office is to ſeparate and convey an inſipid Lymphatick Juice, or as others ſay, a ſomewhat acid or ſharp Juice into the Gut Duodenum by a Canal or Paſſage nam'd the Pancreatick; See Ductus Pancreaticus. It is alſo call'd Pancration, Pancreon, Callicreas, Callicreon and Lactes.

Pancreatick, belonging to the Pancreas or Sweet-bread; as the Pancreatick Juice.

Pancreaticus Ductus, See Ductus Pancreaticus.

Pandalea, a Word us'd by modern Phyſicians for a ſolid Electuary.

Pandects, Books that handle all manner of Subjects or Queſtions, or all the parts of the Subject whereof they treat: Alſo a Volume of the Civil Law, otherwiſe call'd Digeſts; which See.

Pandemius Morbus, a Diſeaſe that is univerſally rife or common in any Place.

Pander, one that procures the Hire of a Strumpet, a male Bawd, a Pimp; in Dutch it ſignifies a taker of Pawns or Pledges.

Pandiculation (Lat.) a ſtretching one's ſelf, and yawning together; the reſtleſneſs, ſtretching and uneaſineſs that uſually accompanies the cold fit of an Ague or Intermitting Feaver.

Pandoxatrix (in old Records) an Ale-wife that both brews and ſells Ale or Beer.

Pandore or Pandure, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument.

Pane, a Square of Glaſs, Wainſcot, &c.

Panegyrick (Gr.) a Speech deliver'd before a ſolemn and general Aſſembly of People; an Oration of Thanks and Praiſe to an Emperour or great Prince.

Panegyriſt, a maker of Panegyricks.

Panella or Panellum (Lat.) a little Page, a Schedule or Roll of Parchment, &c. Whence the Law-Term Impannellare, to Impannel a Jury. See Pannel.

Panetia (in ancient Deeds) a Pantry or Place to ſet up cold Victuals in.

Panick, as a Panick Fear or Fright, i. e. a ſudden and diſtracting Fear without any known cauſe, ſo call'd from the God Pan, who is ſaid to have ſhew'd himſelf ſometimes to Labouring-Men, and put them into ſuch terrible Frights, that many of them dy'd thereof.

Panick or Painick, a ſort of ſmall Grain like Millet.

Panicula (Lat.) Cats-tail, a Subſtance that grows on the Pine and ſome other Trees: Among Herbaliſts it is taken for a kind of ſoft woolly Beard or String, on which the Seeds of ſome Herbs hang down, as in Reeds, Millet, &c. It ſignifies the ſame with Juba, and is oppos'd to Spica.

Panis (Lat.) Bread.

Panis Conventualis, See Panis vocatus Blackwhytlof.

Panis fortis & durus, when a Malefactor upon his Tryal ſtands mute, and obſtinately refuſes to Plead; among other Puniſhments he is uſually condemn'd Ad panem fortem & durum, i.e. to have only hard dry Barley-bread and Puddle-water. See Paine fort & dure.

Panis Militaris, (in old Records) Ammunition or Camp-bread, a courſe and black ſort of Bread; hard Bisket.

Panis Porcinus, Sow-bread, an Herb.

Panis vocatus Blackwhytlof, Bread of a middle ſort, between White and Brown; ſuch as in Kent is call'd Ravel-bread: In Religious Houſes this was the courſer Bread made for ordinary Gueſts, and diſtingu[illegible]d from Panis Conventualis, which was pure Manchet or white Bread.

• Pannade (Fr.) the curveting or prancing of a luſty Horſe.

Pannage or Pawnage, the Maſt of the Woods, as of Beech, Acorns, &c. which Swine and other Cattel feed on: Or the Money taken for feeding of Hogs with the Maſt of the Queen's Foreſt: Alſo an Impoſition or Tax upon Cloth.

Pannel, a Pane or Square of Wainſcot, &c. alſo a kind of Saddle for carrying Burdens on Horſe-back. In a Law-ſenſe the Parchment or Roll of Paper, on which are written the Names of ſuch Jurors as the Sheriff returns, to paſs their Verdict upon any Tryal; whence the uſual Phraſe To impannel a Jury.

In Falconry, Pannel is the Pipe next to the Fundament of an Hawk.

Panniculus (Lat.) a little Clout or Rag, Panniculus Bombycinus, fine thin Silk.

Panniculus Carnoſus (in Anat.) the fleſhy Pannicle, a ſort of Membrane or Skin, in ſome parts thick and muſculous, in other parts thin, with many Canals of Fat in it, which covers the whole Body.

Pannier, properly a Dorſer or Basket to put Bread in; alſo a Hamper, ſuch as are carry'd by Beaſts of Burden.

Pannier-Man, an Under-Officer in the Inns of Court, that winds the Horn, or rings the Bell, to call the Gentlemen to Dinner and Supper: He alſo provides Muſtard, Pepper and Vinegar for the Hall, and has ſome Allowances for his Fee.

Pannus (Lat.) any Cloth, Stuff or Clothing: Alſo a Diſeaſe of the Eye, when the Veſſels that run to the corners ſwell with Blood, by reaſon of a ſtoppage or inflammation; ſo that a fleſhy Web afterwards covers the whole Eye, or part of it.

Panoplia (Gr.) compleat Armour or Harneſs.

Panſelene, the full Moon.

Panſy, a Flower commonly call'd Hearts-eaſe.

Panſophia, Univerſal Wiſdom, or a general Knowledge in all things.

To Pant, to fetch one's Breath ſhort, to beat quick.

Pantais or Pantas (in Falconry) a Hawk's hard fetching of Wind; a dangerous Diſtemper.

Pantaloons, a ſort of Garment formerly worn, conſiſting of Breeches and Stockings faſten'd together, and both of the ſame Stuff: Alſo a Buffoon or Jack-pudding dreſs'd in ſuch a Habit.

Pantarbe (Gr.) a precious Stone, call'd in Spaniſh Pantarva, and in Engliſh the Stone of the Sun.

Panters, Toils or Nets to catch Deer with.

Pantex (Lat.) the Paunch or Belly; alſo a Sore or Gall on the Neck of Draught-Beaſts.

Panthea, or Signa Panthea, certain ancient Statues, which by the different Figures that were upon them, repreſented all the Gods, or at leaſt a great part of the moſt conſiderable of them.

Pantheologia, the whole Sum or Body of Divinity.

Pantheon, a noted Temple at Rome, anciently dedicated to all the Heathen Gods, and now to the Virgin Mary and all the Saints, under the Name of S. Maria. della Rotonda.

Panther (Gr.) a kind of ſpotted wild Beaſt; the Leopard being the Male, and the Panther the Female.

Panthera, the ſame with Panther; alſo a great Drawing-Net to catch all kind of Fowl.

Pantler, or Maſter of the Pantry, an Officer that keeps the Bread in a King's Court, or in a Nobleman's Houſe.

Pantoſle (Fr.) a Slipper to wear in a Chamber for Eaſe and Convenience.

Pantometer (Gr.) a Mathematical Inſtrument that ſerves to meaſure all ſorts of Angles, Lengths, Heights, &c.

Pantomimus (Gr.) a Mimick or Buffoon, who among the Ancients, appear'd on the Stage, and by his Geſtures and Signs, repreſented all ſorts of Actions.

Pantry, a Room or Cloſet where Bread and cold Meat is kept.

Panurgia (Gr.) Craftineſs, Subtilty, readineſs of Wit, ſkill in all kind of Matters.

Panus, the Woof about a Quill in a Weaver's Shuttle: Among Surgeons, a Botch or Sore in the glandulous or kernelly Parts, as under the Armpits, Ears, Groin, &c.

Papa, the Pope, from the old Greek Word Pappas, ſignifying a Father: This Title was anciently given to Clergy-men of the Greek Church, but is now particularly apply'd in the Latin Church, to the Biſhop of Rome.

Papacy, the Dignity of a Pope, or the time of his Government.

Papal, belonging to the Pope; as A Papal Benediction, the Papal Power.

Papaver (Lat.) Poppy or Cheſs-boul, a Flower: The Flowers of red Poppy cool and aſſwage Pain, and diſpoſe to Sleep; ſo that they are often us'd in Feavers, Pleureſies, Quinſeys, and other Diſeaſes, eſpecially of the Breaſt.

Papaverous, belonging to Poppey.

Papayer, a kind of Fruit-tree that grows in ſome of the Caribbee-Iſlands in America.

Paper, a Subſtance made of Rags whiten'd and ground in a Mill, till it looks like Puddle-water, the top of which is afterwards ſcumm'd off with a Mould, dry'd and gumm'd according to Art. See Papyrus.

Paper-Office, an Office in the Royal Palace at White-Hall, where all Acts of the Council-board, Proclamations, Diſpatches and Inſtructions for Foreign Miniſters, Letters of Intelligence, and other publick Papers are kept and diſpoſed of. Alſo an Office ſo call'd, belonging to the Queen's Bench.

Papilio (Lat.) the Butterfly, an Inſect; alſo a Pavilion or Tent.

Papilionaceous Flower (among Herbaliſts) ſuch an one as ſomewhat repreſents the Figure of a Butterfly with its Wings ſpread out: The Plants that have this Flower are of the Pulſe-kind; as Peas, Vetches, &c.

Papilla (in Anat.) the Nipple or Teat in the middle of each Breaſt, which is of a ſpungy Subſtance, and cover'd with a very thin Skin; being of an exquiſite Senſe, ſo as to afford Pleaſure to the Nurſe that ſuckles a young Child, both by the ſuckling of the Milk thro' it, and the Mouth of the Infant as it is ſucking.

Papillæ Inteſtinorum, ſmall Glandules or Kernels of which the innermoſt Coat of the Inteſtines or Guts is full; their Uſe being to ſoak in the ſtrain'd Juice call'd Chyle, and to diſtribute it to the Lacteal Veins.

Papillarum Proceſſus, or Proceſſus Mammillares, the ends of the Olfactory Nerves which convey the ſlimy Humours by the Fibres that pierce thro' the Os Cribriforme or Sieve-like Bone, to the Noſtrils and Palate.

Papio, the Baboon, a ſort of Ape.

Papiſts, a Name given to thoſe that acknowledge the Pope's Soveraignty, or profeſs the Popiſh Religion.

Papiſtry or Popery, the Doctrine, Opinions, or Principles of the Papiſts.

Pappoſe or Pappous Herbs, ſuch as are full of Down.

Pappus (Lat. among Herbaliſts) that ſoft light Down, which grows out of the Seeds of ſome Plants, as Thiſtles, Dandelion, Hawk-weed, &c.

Papula, a Swelling with many reddiſh Pimples that eat and ſpread; alſo a kind of Small Pox. See Exanthemata.

Papyrus (Gr.) a flaggy Shrub growing in the Marſhes and ſtanding Waters near the River Nile in Egypt; alſo that ſort of Paper which was made of it.

Par (Lat.) as To be at Par, i. e. to be equal.

Par Vagum (in Anat.) a pair of Nerves that ariſe below the Auditory ones from the ſides of the Oblongated Marrow, and is uſually counted the Eighth.

Par of Exchange (in Trade) is when a Perſon to whom a Bill is payable receives of the Acceptor, juſt ſo much Money in value, with reſpect to Weight and Fineneſs, as was paid to the Drawer by the Remitter. Thus ſuppoſing 36 Shillings of Holland to contain juſt as much Silver as 20 Engliſh Shillings; a Bill of Exchange drawn at the rate of 30 Shillings Dutch for each Pound Sterling, is according to the Par, viz. Par pro pari, or Value for Value.

Parable, a Declaration or Expoſition of a thing by way of Similitude or Compariſon; an Allegory, a dark Saying.

Parabola (Gr.) the comparing of things together; a Parable or Similitude: In Rhetorick, a figurative Expreſſion when one thing is utter'd and another ſignify'd: For Example, As Cedars beaten with continual Storms, ſo great Men flouriſh.

In Geometry, Parabola is one of the three Conick Sections, which ariſes from a Cone's being cut by a Plane, parallel to one of its Sides, or parallel to a Plane that touches one ſide of the Cone. The Quotient in Geometrical Diviſion is likewiſe ſo call'd by Diophantus and other Writers.

Parabolical or Parabolick, belonging to a Parable or to a Parabola.

Parabolick Conoid, See Paraboloid.

Parabolick, Cuneus, a kind of Solid mention'd by Dr. Wallis.

Parabolick Pyramidoid, a ſolid Figure ſo nam'd by the ſame Author, from its particular Geneſis or Formation.

Parabolick Space, is the Area or Content comprehended between the Curve or crooked Line of the Parabola and any entire Ordinate.

Parabolick Spindle, a ſolid Body made by the Rotation or turning of a Semi-Parabola about its Ordinate.

Parabolism, or Depreſſion of an Equation (in Algebra) the Diviſion of the Terms of an Equation, by the known Quantity that is involved or multiplied into the firſt Term.

Paraboloid (in Geom.) a Solid made by the turning of a Parabola about its Axis; it is otherwiſe call'd a Prabolick Conoid.

Paracelſian, a Phyſician, that in curing Diſeaſes, follows the Method of Paracelſus.

Paracelſick Medicines, ſuch Remedies as are prepar'd after the manner of that noted Chymiſt.

Paracenteſis (Gr.) a Puncture or Prick. In Surgery, an Inciſiou or Opening made in the lower Belly to let out Water, as in the Dropſy; or elſe in the Breaſt, to diſcharge corrupt Matter lodg'd there.

Parachroniſmus, an Errour in Chronology, a Miſtiming ſomewhat in the relation of any particular Action or Adventure.

Paracium (in Doomſday-Book) the Tenure that is between Parceners, viz. that which the youngeſt owes to the eldeſt.

Paraclet (Gr.) an Advocate, or Interceſſour; alſo a Comforter: The Word being often found in the New Teſtament, is to be underſtood in the former Senſe, when it relates to our Bleſſed Saviour, and in the latter, when apply'd to the Holy Ghoſt.

Paracmaſtica, a Feaver that declines daily; alſo declining Age.

Paracme, the declining of a Diſtemper, when its Rage is abated, and the Patient judg'd beyond Danger.

Paracynanche, an Inflammation in the outward Muſcles of the Larynx or Throat, accompany'd with a continual Feaver and difficulty of Breathing.

Parade (Fr.) Oſtentation, great Shew, State. In Military Affairs, the Place where Troops aſſemble or draw together, in order to mount Guards, or for any other Service.

Paradiaſtole (Gr.) Separation, Diſtinction. In Rhetorick, a dilating or inlarging on a Matter by Diſtinction; as Vir bonus oppugnari poteſt, pecunia non oppugnari: Alſo a Figure which disjoyns things that ſeem to have one Import, and ſhews how much they differ, by ſubjoyning to each its proper Meaning; as Triſte lupus ſtabulis, maturis frugibus imbres.

Paradigma, an Example, or Inſtance of ſomething ſaid or done.

Paradiſe, the Garden of Eden, where Adam was plac'd during his Innocency; the Manſion of Saints and Angels that enjoy the ſight of God, the Place of Bliſs in Heaven: Among the Greeks it was taken for an Incloſure or Park ſtor'd with all ſorts of Plants and wild Beaſts for Pleaſure; and any fine Garden or delightful Place is now uſually ſtyl'd a Terreſtrial Paradiſe.

Paradiſi Avis, the Bird of Paradiſe, a rare Bird ſo call'd, either upon account of its fine Colours, and the ſhape of its Body; or becauſe it is not known where it is bred, whence it comes, or whither it goes.

Paradiſi Grana, Cardamum-ſeed.

Paradox, a thing that ſeems ſtrange, abſurd and contrary to common Opinion: In Rhetorick, Paradoxon is ſomething caſt in by the by, contrary to the Opinion or Expectation of the Auditors, and otherwiſe call'd Hypomone.

Paradoxal or Paradoxical, belonging to a Paradox, ſurprizing.

† Paradoxology, a ſpeaking by Paradoxes.

Paradrome, a Walk or Gallery, that has no Shelter over head.

Paraenetical, apt to perſuade, or admoniſh.

Paraetonion, a ſort of white glewy Subſtance like Chalk found on the Sea-ſhore.

Parage (Law-Term) equality of Name, Blood or Dignity; more eſpecially of Land in the dividing of an Inheritance between Coheirs: Whence we have the Words to Diſparage, and Diſparagement: Alſo an old Word for Parentage.

Paragium, Peerage or the Quality of great Perſons: In the Civil Law, the Right of Noblemens younger Children, to hold part of the main Eſtate, without doing Homage to the elder Brother: In the old Laws of England, it ſignifies Parage or Peerage, and is more eſpecially taken for the equal Condition between two Parties to be eſpouſed or married.

Paragoge (Gr.) a producing or bringing forth: In Grammar, a deducing or deriving; alſo a Figure, when a Letter or Syllable is added at the end of a Word; as Poteſtur for Poteſt, Veſtirier for Veſtiri.

Paragogical, belonging to that Figure.

Paragon (Ital.) a compleat Model or Pattern; as A Paragon of Beauty.

Paragoricks, See Anodynes.

Paragraph, a Portion of Matter in a Diſcourſe or Treatiſe, contained between two Breaks, i. e. which begins with a new Line, and ends where the Line breaks off: Thus Books are commonly divided into Chapters, theſe into Sections, and Sections into Paragraphs.

Paragraphe, a Writing or Note in the Margin of a Book: In Rhetorick, a declining or waving of the Matter in Controverſy: Alſo a Figure us'd by Poets, when after having diſpatch'd one Subject they paſs on to another; as Hactenus arvorum cultus & ſidera cœli; Nunc te Bacche canam: Alſo the ſame as Paragraphus, or a Paragraph in a Treatiſe.

Paralipomena, the two Books of Chronicles in the old Teſtament, ſo call'd in Greek, becauſe they give an Account of ſome things more largely, which were left out or paſs'd by in the Hiſtory of the Kings.

Paralipſis, an omitting or paſſing by: In Rhetorick, a kind of Irony, wherein that thing ſeems to be let paſs, which nevertheleſs is deſign'd to be inſiſted on at large, with theſe Words, Taceo, Mitto; i. e. I ſay nothing of, I paſs by, &c. Thus, I will not ſpeak of the Injury I have receiv'd from him, &c.

Paralius, a ſort of Spurge, an Herb ſo call'd, becauſe it grows in Places near the Sea.

Parallactical, or Parallactick, belonging to a Parallax.

Parallactical Angle, an Angle made by the oblique cutting of a Circle of Altitude, or Vertical Circle with the Eclipticfk.

Parallax (i. e. Variation or Change) a Term made uſe of by Aſtronomers, to ſignifie the difference between the true and the apparent place of a Planet; which difference proceeds from the Errour of the Sight, at ſo vaſt a diſtance, and is greater or leſſer, according as the Star is nearer or more remote from the Earth.

Horizontal Parallax, is when the Sun, Moon or other Planet is in the Horizon, which is the greateſt of all: Or it is the difference between the real and apparent Place of ſuch a Planet, when it is either Riſing or Setting.

Parallax of Latitude, is an Arch of a great Circle paſſing by the Poles of the Zodiack to the apparent Place of the Star, and comprehended between two Circles of the Ecliptick, equally diſtant; one of which paſſes by the true place of the Star, and the other by its apparent Place.

Parallax of Longitude, is an Arch of the Ecliptick lying between two great Circles, whereof the one paſſes from the Poles of the Ecliptick and the Star's real Place, the other from the ſaid Poles by its apparent Place.

The Moon's Parallax to the Sun is the Exceſs of of the Parallax of the Moon above that of the Sun.

Angle of Parallax, that Angle which is made in the Center of a Planet, by two Lines imagined to be drawn from the Center of that Planet, to the Surface and Center of the Earth.

Parallel, equally, or every where alike diſtant, aſunder.

Parallel Circles (in Aſtron.) are all the leſſer Circles; particularly the Circles of Latitude, which being parallel to one another, and to the Equinoctial, ſerve for the better counting of the Degrees of Northern or Southern Latitude.

Parallel Planes (in Geom.) are thoſe Planes, that have all the Perpendiculars drawn between them equal to each other, i. e. when they are every where equally diſtant. For Parallel Dial-Planes, See Dial-Planes.

Parallel Rays (in Opticks) are thoſe that keep an equal diſtance from the viſible Object to the Eye, which is ſuppos'd to be infinitely remote from the Object.

Parallel Ruler, an Inſtrument made of Braſs, Steel or Wood, to draw Lines parallel to each other; being of great uſe in Architecture, Fortification and other parts of the Mathematicks.

Parallel Sphere, See Sphere.

In Fortification, the Counterſcarp is drawn parallel to the Face of its Baſtion, and generally the Line of Approaches to the Front of the Place Attacked, to prevent its being enfiladed, or ſcour'd in length.

A Parallel, a compariſon of Perſons or Things one with another; as The Parallel of Alexander and Cæſar.

In Geography, a Parallel is a Space on the Terreſtrial Globe, comprehended between two Circles parallel to the Equinoctial; between each of which in the longeſt Summer-day, there is a variation of a quarter of an Hour. See Climate.

Parallels or Parallel Lines (in Geom.) Lines that always keep at an equal diſtance one from another, and will ſo continue, tho' never ſo far extended; ſo that they cannot poſſibly go farther from, or come nearer to each other.

Parallels of Altitude or Almicanters (in Aſtron.) are Circles parallel to the Horizon, imagined to paſs through every Degree and Minute of the Meridian, between the Horizon and the Zenith, or Vertical Point.

Parallels of Declination, are Circles parallel to the Equinoctial; likewiſe ſuppoſed to paſs thro' every Degree and Minute of the Meridians, between the Equinoctial and each Pole of the World.

Parallels of Latitude (on the Celeſtial Globes) are leſſer Circles parallel to the Ecliptick, imagined to paſs through every Degree and Minute of the Colures.

Parallels of Latitude (on the Terreſtrial Globes) are the ſame with Parallels of Declination on the Celeſtial.

Paralleliſm, Parallel or Compariſon; as He made a long Paralleliſm, betwixt the nature and effects of Wine and Melancholy.

Paralleliſm of the Earth's Axis (in Aſtron.) is the Earth's keeping its Axis in its yearly Revolution round the Sun (according to the Copernican Syſtem) in a Poſition always parallel to it ſelf.

Parallelogram (in Geom.) a quadrilateral or four-ſided Figure, the oppoſite Sides of which are parallel; ſo that the Term may be apply'd to the Square, Oblong or long Square, Rhombus and Rhomboid.

Parallelogram is alſo an Inſtrument made of five Rulers of Braſs or Wood, with Sockets to ſlide or ſet to any proportion, in order to inlarge or diminiſh any Map or Draught.

Parallelogram-Protractor, a Braſs Semi-circle with four Rulers in form of a Parallelogram, made to move to any Angle; one of which Rulers is an Index that ſhews on the Semi-circle the quantity of any inward or outward Angle.

Parallelopiped, a ſolid Figure bounded by ſix Parallelograms, of which the two oppoſite ones are always equal and parallel.

Parallelopleuron, any Figure may ſo call'd that has two parallel Sides; But ſome Geometricians apply the Term to an imperfect Parallelogram, or kind of Trapezium, having unequal Angles and Sides, yet not all ſo, in regard that ſome of them anſwer one to another; obſerving a certain regularity and proportion of Parallels.

Paralogiſm, a fallacious or deceitful method of Arguing, whereby from two Propoſitions a falſe Concluſion is brought forth; as, William is a Living-creature, a Jack-daw is a Living-creature; therefore William is a Jack-daw.

To Paralogize, to reaſon captiouſly, to argue deceitfully.

Paralytical, belonging to, or partaking of the nature of the Palſey.

Paralytick, ſick of, or troubled with the Palſey.

Paralyſis, the Palſey, a Diſeaſe, which cauſes a reſolution or ſlackening of the Nerves, ſeizing either on the Whole Body, or on any particular Member of it; when both the Motion and Senſe of the Part is loſt, it is call'd a Dead Palſey: Paralyſis is alſo the Greek Name of a Flower, commonly call'd a Primroſe.

Parament (Fr.) an Ornament for an Altar: Paraments is us'd by Chaucer and other ancient Writers for Robes of State.

Parament or Parement (among Hunters) the red Fleſh between the Skin and Body of a Deer: In Architecture Parement is an uniform courſe of Stones.

Parameſe (Gr. in Muſick) the Sound of the fifth String, being next to the middlemoſt; alſo the Note call'd B-fa-be-mi.

Parameſus, the next Finger to the middle one, the Ring-Finger.

Parameter or Latus Rectum (in Conick Sections) is a third Proportional to the Line call'd Abſciſſa, and any Ordinate of a Parabola: The Term is alſo us'd in the Ellipſis and Hyperbola, but there it has a different Proportion.

Paramount (Fr.) Soveraign or Abſolute; as A Paramount Authority.

Lord Paramount (in Common Law) is the higheſt Lord of the Fee; as he that holds of a Superiour Lord, yet has a Tenant under him, is call'd the Meſne Lord: So that none ſeems to be abſolutely Lord Paramount but the King, who is alſo ſtyl'd Patron Paramount to all the Benefices of England.

Paramour, a Lover or Sweet-heart.

Paranete (Gr. in Muſick) the Sound of the ſixth String, ſo call'd as being next the laſt. Paranete Synemmenon the Note call'd C-ſol-fa. Paranete Diezeugmenon, D-la-ſol-re. Paranete Hyperbolæon, G-ſol-re-ut.

Paranites, a kind of Amethyſt, a precious Stone.

Paranymph, a Bride-man or Bride-maid, that is joyn'd with the Bridegroom or Bride, to ſee all things well order'd at a Wedding: Alſo one that makes a Speech in Commendation of thoſe that are commencing Doctors in an Univerſity.

Parapegma, a brazen Table fixt to a Pillar, on which Laws, Ordinances, Proclamations, &c. were anciently engrav'd; alſo a Table ſet up publickly, containing an account of the riſing and ſetting of the Stars, Eclipſes of the Sun and Moon, the Seaſons of the Year, &c. Whence Aſtrologers give the Name of Parapegmata, to the Tables on which they draw Figures according to their Art.

Parapet (Ital. in Maſonry) a Wall or Balcony Breaſt-high, ranging about a Pillar, Tower, Steeple, or other Building. In Fortification, a Breaſt-work rais'd to cover Men againſt the Enemy's Cannon and ſmall Shot, on Ramparts, Baſtions, &c. It is uſually made of Earth eighteen or twenty Foot thick, ſix Foot high towards the Place, and four or five towards the Field.

The Term is alſo apply'd in general to any Line that ſecures Men from the Enemies Fire; ſo there are Parapets of Barrels, of Baskets, and of Bags, fill'd with Earth.

Paraphe (Fr.) a Flouriſh, a peculiar Knot or Mark ſet to a Deed or Letter, after or inſtead of a Name, in the ſigning of it; and generally any ſuch graceful ſetting out of one's Hand or Name in Writing.

Paapherna or Paraphernalia Bona (Gr.) thoſe Goods that a Wife brings her Husband over and above her Dower, as Furniture for her Chamber; wearing Apparel, Jewels, &c. In Common Law, they are call'd Paraphanalia, and are not to be put into the Husband's Inventory, eſpecially in the Province of York.

Paraphimoſis (in Surgery) a Fault in a Man's Yard, when the Præputium is ſo ſhort that it cannot cover the Glans; alſo a narrowneſs and ſtraightneſs of the Womb. The Term is likewiſe us'd when any other Parts that ſtop the natural Paſſages are drawn back, ſo that they cannot be reduc'd to their proper Places.

Paraphoron, a ſort of pale and rough Allum.

Paraphraſe, an Expoſition of a Text in clearer Terms, and more at large, wherein the Words are chang'd, but the Senſe is retain'd; ſo as to ſupply what the Author might have ſaid or thought upon the ſame Subject: Alſo a kind of Mark us'd in Printing.

To Paraphraſe, to make a Paraphraſe of, to comment upon.

Paraphraſt, a Paraphraſer, one that expounds a Matter by other Words.

Paraphraſtical, done by way of Paraphraſe, belonging to ſuch an Expoſition.

Paraphrenitis, a Madneſs accompany'd with a continual Feaver, by reaſon of ſome Matter that is lodg'd in the Cerebellum or leſſer Brain, and hinders the Paſſage of the Animal Spirits; whence the Lungs and Midriff are oppreſs'd.

Paraphroſyne, a ſlight ſort of Frenzy or Dotage.

Paraplegia, a Palſey that ſeizes all the parts of the Body below the Head, occaſion'd by a ſtoppage of the Spinal Marrow.

Paraquetto, a ſmall ſort of Parret, a Bird.

Pararhythmus, a preternatural fetching of Breath.

Paraſanga, a Meaſure of the Roads among the ancient Perſians, containing, thirty, forty, or ſixty Furlongs, according to the variations of Time and Place.

Paraſcenium (among the Ancients) the back part of the Scene or Stage in a Play-houſe.

Paraſceve, the Eve of the Sabbath or other Holy-day; eſpecially Eaſter-eve.

Paraſelene, a Mock-Moon, a Meteor in a watriſh Cloud reſembling the Moon.

Paraſiopeſis, a keeping Silence. In Rhetorick, a Figure when we ſay we will not ſpeak of ſuch a thing; which intimation alone makes it ſufficiently underſtood, or at leaſt encreaſes the Suſpicion.

Paraſite (among the Ancients) was the Prieſt's Gueſt, whom he invited to eat part of the Sacrifice: Whence the Word is taken for a Smell-feaſt, a Trencher-friend, a flattering Spunger or Hanger-on.

Paraſitical, belonging to a Paraſite.

Paraſitical Plants (among Herbaliſts) thoſe that are nouriſh'd by the Stock of others, as Miſletoe, Moſs, &c. ſome call them Epidendræ, becauſe they do not grow on the Ground, but on the Arms and Limbs of Trees.

Paraſol (Fr.) a ſmall ſort of Canopy or Umbrello, which Women carry over their Heads, to ſhelter themſelves from Rain, &c.

Paraſtades (Gr. in Architect.) the Poſts or Pillars, on both ſides of a Door, call'd Jaumbs.

Paraſtata, a Buttreſs or Square Pile, ſet at the Sides of Pillars; alſo an Under-Officer, or Lieutenant in the Wing of an Army.

Paraſtatæ or Epididymidæ (in Anat.) certain Veſſels inwrapped in the ſame Coat with the Spermatick Veſſels, which with their various Windings make up that Body that is fix'd on the back of the Teſticles.

Paraſtatica, a Pilaſter or ſquare Pillar ſet in a Wall.

Paraſynanche, an Inflammation of the Muſcles of the upper part of the Oeſophagus or Gullet, attended with a continu'd Feaver.

Paraſynaxis (in the Civil Law) a Conventicle, or unlawful Meeting.

Paratheſis, a putting to, a Grammatical Figure, in which two or more Subſtantives are put together in the ſame Caſe; as Urbs Roma, the City of Rome; it is call'd Appoſitio in Latin. Alſo a Figure in Rhetorick, when a ſmall hint of a thing is given to the Auditors, with a Promiſe to inlarge on it at ſome other convenient Time. In the Art of Printing, Paratheſis ſignifies the Matter contain'd within two Crotchets, thus marked [ ]

Paratitla (in the Civil Law) a Summary Explication of the Law-Titles, and the Subject-Matter of them, as they are contain'd in the Volumes call'd The Digeſt & Code.

Paravail or Tenant Paravail (Law-Term) the loweſt Tenant, or he that is Tenant to one that holds his Fee of another; ſo call'd becauſe it is preſum'd he has Avail or Profit by the Land.

Parazon, a Wood-knife.

To Parboil, to boil but in part.

To Parbreak (old Word) to vomit.

Parbuncle (Sea-Term) a Rope that is us'd in the nature of a pair of Slings; being faſten'd together at both ends, and ſo put double about a Cask, or other weighty thing, to hoiſe it into the Ship.

Parcel, Part, Portion, Bundle, Sum.

Parcel-Makers, two Officers in the Exchequer that make the Parcels of the Eſcheators Accounts, ſo as to charge them with every thing they have levy'd for the Queen's Uſe, and deliver the ſame to one of the Auditors of that Court.

To Parcel, to divide into Parcels.

To Parcel a Seam (in Sea-Language) is when a narrow piece of Canvas, about a Hand's breadth, is laid upon a Ship's Seam newly calked, and afterwards daub'd over with Tar.

Parceners (in Common Law) when one dies poſſeſs'd of an Eſtate, and having Iſſue only Daughters; ſo that the Lands deſcend to thoſe Daughters, who are call'd Parceners, and are but as one Heir: The ſame Law is, if he have not any Iſſue, and his Siſters be his Heirs.

Parceners (according to Cuſtom) are the Sons of a Man that dies having Poſſeſſion of Lands in Gavel-kind, as in Kent, and ſome other franchiſed Places.

To Parch, to burn or dry up.

Parchment, See Pergamena.

Parcinary (Law-Term) a holding or poſſeſſing of Land, by Joynt-Tenants otherwiſe call'd Coparceners, ceners, pro Indiviſo, i. e. without dividing their common Inheritance.

Parco fracto (Lat.) a Writ that lies againſt one that breaks a Pound, and takes away the Beaſts lawfully impounded.

Parcus (in old Records) a Pound to confine treſpaſſing or ſtraying Cattel; whence Imparcare, to impound; Imparcatio, Pounding, &c.

Pardalis (Gr.) the Panther, a wild Beaſt.

Pardon (Fr.) Forgiveneſs, eſpecially that which Almighty God admits Sinners to; alſo ſuch Indulgence as the Pope pretends to grant in freeing his Votaries from the Pains of Purgatory, &c. In Common Law, the remitting or forgiving of a Felony or other Offence againſt the Queen, &c.

Pardon ex Gratia Regis (i. e. by the King's Favour) that Pardon which the King affords, with ſome ſpecial regard to the Perſon or other Circumſtances.

Pardon by the Courſe of Law, is that which the Law in Equity allows for a light Offence, as Caſual Man-ſlaughter, when one kills a Man without any ſuch Intention.

Pardonable, to be pardoned.

Pardoners, were Perſons that formerly carry'd about the Pope's Indulgences, and ſold them to the higheſt Bidders: They are mention'd in Stat. 22. H. 8.

Pardus (Gr.) the Leopard or Male Panther; a wild Beaſt.

Pareas, a ſort of Serpent.

Parecbaſis, Digreſſion: In Rhetorick, a departing or wand'ring as it were from the main Subject or Matter in hand.

Parecheſis, a Reſemblance of a thing; a Figure much us'd in Rhetorick, and call'd Alluſio in Latin.

Paregmenon, a Derivative: Alſo a Rhetorical Figure that joyns Words together which are deriv'd one from another; as Diſcreet, Diſcretion.

Paregorica, Medicines that comfort, mollify and aſſwage.

Parelcon, a protracting or drawing out in length: In Grammar, a Figure, wherein a Word or Syllable is added to the end of another; as Adeſdum, Etiamnum, Numnam, &c.

Pareil (Fr.) equal, like; alſo the Name of one of the ſorts of Characters or Letters us'd by Printers.

Parelium or Parhelium (Gr.) a Mock Sun; a Meteor, ſometimes appearing on each ſide of the Sun, occaſion'd by the Refraction or breaking of its Beams on a Cloud.

Paremptoſis, a falling or coming in between; a Grammatical Figure when a Letter is added in the middle of a Word, as πτόλις for πόλις. Alſo a Term us'd by ſome Writers in Phyſick, when Blood ſlides from the Heart into the great Artery.

Parencephalos, a part of the Brain call'd Cerebellum in Latin.

Parenchymata (in Anat.) thoſe Bowels thro' which the Blood paſſes for its better Fermentation and Perfection; as the Heart, Liver, Lungs, Spleen, &c. It is alſo ſometimes taken in a large Senſe, for all the Bowels.

Parenchymous Parts (among old Anatomiſts) ſuch fleſhy Parts of the Body as fill up the void Spaces between the Veſſels, and do not conſiſt of Veſſels themſelves: But by the Means of Glaſſes it has been ſince diſcover'd, that all the Parts of an Animal Body, are nothing elſe but a Net-work of ſmall Veſſels and Canals.

Parent (Lat.) a Father or Mother; alſo Creatour, Original, Cauſe; as God is the great Parent of the World; Plenty is the Parent of Luxury.

Parentage, Kindred, Stock, Family.

Parentalia (among the Romans) Feaſts, Sacrifices, and other ſolemn Rites, perform'd by them, at the Funerals of their Relations and Friends.

Parentation, the performance of ſuch Funeral Solemnities.

† Parenticide, one that kills Father or Mother, or ſuch a Murder.

Parentheſis (Gr.) an interpoſition, or putting between: In Grammar, a Figure when ſome Vowel is put in the middle of a Word, which nevertheleſs does not make a Syllable, as νόος for νοῦς. Alſo a Clauſe put into the midſt of another Sentence, which may be left out, and yet the Senſe remain entire, or the Marks that include ſuch a Clauſe, and are thus expreſs'd ( ).

Parerga (in Architect.) ornamental Additions to a principal Work; alſo ſmall pieces of Paintings on the Sides, or in the Corners of the chief Piece. See Landskip.

Pareſis, a ſort of Palſey; a Diſeaſe.

Parget, the Plaiſter of a Wall.

Parhelium, See Parelium.

Parhypate (Gr.) in Muſick the Sound of the String next the Baſs. Parhypate Hapatôn, the Note C-fa-ut. Parhypate Meſon, the Note F-fa-ut.

Parian Marble, an excellent ſort of white Marble, ſo call'd from Paros, an Iſland of the Ægean Sea, which afforded good ſtore of it.

Parietals, or Parietal Bones (in Anat.) two Bones of the fore part of the Head, which are the thinneſt in the Scull, and almoſt of a ſquare Figure.

Parietaria (Lat.) an Herb that grows upon Walls, and is commonly call'd Pellitory of the Wall, being of a cleanſing and cooling Quality.

Parilian or Palilian Feaſts, See Palilia.

Paris or Herb Paris, an Herb otherwiſe call'd True-Love or One-berry: The Berries and Leaves are cooling and drying; the former being us'd inwardly in the Plague and Malignant Diſeaſes, and the Leaves outwardly, in Peſtilential Buboes and other hot Swellings.

Pariſh, a Territory which in Spiritual Matters is under the Charge of a particular Prieſt; either a Rector or a Vicar.

Pariſh-Church or Parochial Church, that which the People of every Pariſh reſort to, in order to aſſiſt at Divine Service; the other Churches being either Cathedral, where the Biſhop of the Dioceſs has his Chair or Seat, or elſe Collegiate, which is endow'd for a Body or Society of Regular Clergymen.

Pariſhioner, an Inhabitant of a Pariſh.

Pariſthmia (Gr. in Anat.) two Glandules or Kernels joyn'd together, and having one common Cavity, which opens into the Mouth: They ſerve to ſend forth a certain ſlimy Matter into the Jaws and Mouth; being otherwiſe call'd Tonſillæ & Amygdalæ.

Pariſyllabical Nouns (in Grammar) thoſe Nouns which conſiſt of equal Syllables, or that have not more Syllables in one Caſe than in another.

Paritour, See Apparitour.

Parity (Lat.) Equality, Evenneſs.

Park, an Incloſure or Place fenc'd about for the keeping of Deer, or any other ſort of wild Beaſts for Chace.

Park of Artillery (in a Camp) a Poſt out of Cannon-ſhot of the Enemy or Place beſieged, fortify'd to keep the great Guns, artificial Fires, Powder, and other Warlike Amunition; where to prevent Accidents by Fire only Pike-men do Duty.

Park of Proviſions, another Place in the Camp, ſet a-part on the Rear of every Regiment, for Sutlers and others to bring all ſorts of Proviſions to ſell for the uſe of the Army.

Park-boat (Law-Term) a being free from the Duty of incloſing a Park.

Park-Leaves, a ſort of Herb.

Parley (Fr.) a Conference with an Enemy about ſome Affair or Propoſal.

To Beat or Sound a Parley, to give the Signal for ſuch a Conference, by beat of Drum or ſound of Trumpet; which is uſually done by the Beſiegers to have leave to bury their Dead, and by the Beſieged, in order to ſurrender the Place upon certain Terms.

Parliament (in France) a Supreme Court of Judicature; alſo the Seſſion or Term during which the Judges of that Court ſit. In England, it is the chief Aſſembly and Council of the Nation, met together to make or alter Laws, and to debate Matters of Importance relating to the Common-wealth: It conſiſts of the three Eſtates of the Realm, viz. the King or Queen, the Lords Spiritual, and Lords Temporal, and the Commons.

The Societies of the two Temples, or Inns of Court, do likewiſe call that Aſſembly a Parliament, wherein they conſult about the common Affairs of their reſpective Houſes.

Parliament de la Bond, a Parliament ſo call'd in King Edward II's Time, to which the Barons came arm'd againſt the Spencers with colour'd Bands upon their Sleeves for diſtinction.

Clerk of the Parliament, an Officer that records all Acts done in the High Court of Parliament, and engroſſes them fairly on Parchment-Rolls, in order to be kept for Poſterity.

Parliamentary, belonging to, or agreeable to the Method of Parliaments.

Parliamentum Diabolicum (i. e. the Deviliſh Parliament) a Parliament held at Coventry, An. 38. H. 4. wherein Edward Earl of March, afterwards King, and ſeveral of the Nobility were attainted.

Parliamentum Indoctorum (i. e. the Parliament of the Unlearned) a Parliament held at Coventry An. 6. H. 4. and ſo call'd, in regard that by ſpecial Precept to the Sheriffs in their ſeveral Counties, no Lawyer or Perſon skill'd in the Law was to be admitted.

Parliamentum inſanum (i. e. the Mad Parliament) a Parliament ſo termed in Hiſtory, which was held at Oxford, An. 41. H. 3.

Parliamentum Religioſorum, a Conference had in the Parlour or Common Room of a Monaſtery, where the Friers withdrew after Dinner, to diſcourſe and converſe together.

Parlour, a low Room to receive Company in.

† Parlous, dangerous, ſhrewd, ſubtil, notable.

Parmacity, an excellent Medicine: See Sperma Ceti.

Parmeſan, a ſort of Cheeſe ſo call'd, becauſe it is made in the Dukedom of Parma in Italy.

Parnel, a Woman's Name, probably contracted from the Latin, Petronilla; alſo a Nick-name particularly apply'd to any wanton Woman.

Prattling Parnel, a kind of Herb.

Parochial (Gr.) belonging to a Pariſh.

Parochia (Gr. among the Romans) a Living in Lands or Houſes given to old Captains, Colonels, &c. for their Maintenance. But the Word has been ſince apply'd to the Dioceſs or Precinct of a Biſhop, and afterwards to what we now ſtrictly call a Pariſh; being deriv'd from the Greek Word Parœcia, i.e. an Aſſembly of Neighbouring Inhabitants.

Parochianus (in old Writers) a Title given to any Perſon living within the Dioceſs or Juriſdiction of a Biſhop.

Parochus (among the Ancients) an Officer that provided Salt, Wood, and other Neceſſaries for thoſe that travell'd upon the Publick Account.

Parodick Degree, See Degree.

Parodontides, Swellings in the Gums.

Parody, a Poetick Sport, which conſiſts in putting ſome ſerious Pieces into Burleſk, and affecting as much as is poſſible, the ſame Words, Rhimes and Cadences.

Parœcia, See Parochia.

Parœmia, a Proverb. In Rhetorick, the Continuation of a Trope or Figure, with reſpect to the common Uſe; as Æthiopem lateremve lavare.

Parole (Fr.) Speech, Word, Saying; as A Priſoner ſet at Liberty upon his Parole, i.e. upon his Word or Promiſe, to return at the time appointed: In a Law-ſenſe, it is ſometimes us'd for a Plea in Court.

Leaſe Parole, a Leaſe by word of Mouth, to diſtinguiſh it from one in Writing.

Will Parole, See Will.

Paromœon (Gr.) a Figure in Grammar when all the Words of a Sentence begin alike, or with the ſame Letter: as O Tite, tute, Tati, tibi tanta Tyranne tuliſti. [illegible] when ſeveral Nouns or Verbs are produc'd like the former, only with a little Variation of the Caſes or Tenſes; as Multa viri virtus animo, multuſque recurſat Gentis honos.

Paronomaſia (i. e. a Likeneſs of Words) a Rhetorical Figure, in which by the Change of a Letter or Syllable ſeveral things are alluded to; as Bolder in a Buttery than in a Battery. This Figure in Latin is call'd Agnominatio.

Paronychia or Panaritium, a preternatural Swelling or Sore, under the Root of the Nail, in one's Finger; a Felon or Whitlow. See Panaritium.

Paronychia foliis rutaceis, Rue-Whitlow-graſs, an Herb good for King's-evil, Swellings, &c.

Paropiæ, the leſſer Corners of the Eye.

Paroptoſis, a roaſting or boiling; alſo a kind of burning, anciently us'd in ſeveral Diſeaſes.

Parotides (in Anat.) certain Glandules or Kernels under and behind the Ears, appointed to ſtrengthen the Partition of the Veſſels, and to ſoak up the Moiſture of the Brain; alſo a preternatural Swelling of thoſe Kernels, commonly call'd A Swelling of the Almonds of the Ears.

Paroxyſm, a Fit or Return in an Ague, Feaver, or other Diſeaſe.

Parpunctum or Perpunctum (in old Writers) a Coat of Mail, a Doublet lined and quilted for defenſive Armour.

Parrels (in Sea-Affairs) thoſe Frames made of Trucks, Ribs and Ropes, which go about the Maſts, and are made faſt to the Yards at both Ends; ſo that by them, the Yards may ſlide up and down upon the Maſts.

Parret, a known Bird of divers Colours brought from the Weſt-Indies.

Sea-Parret, a Fiſh that has very ſparkling and beautiful Eyes, the Balls of which are as clear as Cryſtal; no Teeth, but Jaws ſo ſolid, that it can cruſh Oiſters, Muſcles, Cockles, and other Shell-fiſh to pieces, to get out their Fleſh: Theſe Sea-Parrets are excellent Meat, and ſome weigh twenty Pounds.

Parrheſia (Gr.) Liberty or Freedom of Speech: In Rhetorick, a Figure, when one ſpeaks boldly or freely about Matters diſpleaſing to others or liable to Envy.

Parricide (Lat.) the Murderer of a Father or Mother, alſo ſuch a hainous Murder; againſt which the Romans made a Law, ordaining, That the Perſon convicted of this Crime, after he had been firſt whipt till the Blood came, ſhould be ty'd up in a Leathern Sack, together with a Dog, an Ape, a Cock and a Viper, and ſo thrown into the Sea, or next River.

To Parſe, to expound a Leſſon, according to the Rules of Grammar, as School-boys do.

Parſimonious, Saving or Thrifty.

Parſimony, Frugality, Sparingneſs, good Huſbandry.

Parſley, a Pot-herb, hot and dry in the ſecond Degree.

Macedonian Parſley, otherwiſe called Aliſanders, one of the Furnitures of Winter-Sallets.

Parſly-Hedge, a ſort of Herb.

Parſley-Pert or Break-Stone, an Herb of ſingular Virtue to provoke Urine, and againſt Gravel or Stone in the Kidneys.

Parſnep or Parſnip, a Plant whoſe Root is well known, and taken for a very nouriſhing ſort of Food.

Parſon, Perſona (Lat. Law-Term) the Rector or Miniſter of a Pariſh-Church, ſo call'd becauſe he repreſents that Church, and bears the Perſon of it, as well in ſuing as being ſued, in any Action relating to the ſame.

Parſon Imperſonee, one that is put in poſſeſſion of a Church, whether Appropriate or Preſentative, by the Act of another.

Parſon Mortal, the Rector of a Church, made for his own Life, was formerly ſo call'd, and in Latin, Perſona Mortalis; but a Collegiate or Conventual Body, to whom the Church is for ever appropriated; was ſtyled Perſona Immortalis, or Parſon Immortal.

Parſonage, a Spiritual Living, compos'd of Glebe-Land, Tithes and other Offerings of the People, ſet a-part for the maintenance of the Miniſter of a particular Church: Alſo the Parſon's Manſion or Dwelling-Houſe.

Part, a Piece of any thing, Share, Side, Duty: In Logick, that which is joyn'd to any Univerſal; ſo Species's are ſaid to be Parts of the Genus. In Mathematicks, a leſs Quantity compar'd with a greater.

Among Anatomiſts, a Part is taken for that whereof the whole Body is compos'd, and which partakes with it of common Life and Senſe; every part ſerving for its peculiar Uſe. Theſe Parts are either Principal or Inſervient, Organical or Inorganick, Similar or Diſſimilar, &c. which See in their proper Places.

Aliquant and Aliquot Parts, See Aliquant and Aliquot.

Proportional Part, a Part or Number that is Agreeable to, or bears any Proportion to ſome other Part or Number.

Part of Fortune (in Aſtrol.) the Lunar Horoſcope, or the Place from whence the Moon takes her Progreſs at that very moment that the Sun riſes from the Point of the Eaſt.

Partage, Partition, a ſharing or dividing.

To Partake, to take part of.

Partart, See Patart.

Parterre (Fr.) a Garden with Knots or Figures; a Flower-Garden, eſpecially that part of it, which is border'd with Box, and contains variety of fine Flowers.

Parters of Gold and Silver, See Finers.

Partes Finis nihil habuerunt, &c. (in Common Law) an Exception taken againſt a Fine levied.

Parthenis or Parthenium (Gr.) an Herb call'd Stinking May-weed.

Partial (Lat.) biaſſed to one's Party or Intereſt.

Partial Eclipſe, See Eclipſe.

Partiality, a being partial, an inclining to one Party more than another.

To Participate, to partake of, to have a ſhare in, to take part with.

Participation, the Act of Participating.

Participial (in Grammar) belonging to, or that is of the Nature of a Participle; as Participial Nouns.

A Participial, an Adjective derived from a Verb, tho' not an abſolute Participle.

Participle, one of the eight Parts of Speech, ſo call'd, becauſe it partakes both of the Noun and of the Verb; as loving, loved; eating, eaten, &c.

Particle, a ſmall undeclined Word, a ſmall Parcel, little Part, Crum.

Particular, proper, peculiar; ſingular, extraordinary, uncommon; intimate, familiar.

A Particular, a particular Circumſtance; an Inventory of Goods.

To Particularize, to inſiſt or inlarge upon Particulars, to give a particular Account of.

Particularity, a Particular, a particular Matter.

Partile Aſpect (in Aſtrol.) the moſt exact and full Aſpect that can be; ſo call'd, becauſe it conſiſts preciſely of ſo many Parts or Degrees as are requiſite to compleat it, even to a Degree: Thus the Planet Mars in the 24th Degree of Aries, and Venus in the 24th of Libra, are ſaid to be in partile Oppoſition.

Partiſan, a Favourer or Abetter of a Party, a Stickler: In the Art of War, a good Partiſan is an able Soldier well skill'd in commanding a Party; who knows the Country, how to avoid Ambuſhes, and to ſurprize the Enemy. Alſo a Farmer of the French King's Revenue.

Partiſan or Pertuiſan, a Weapon like a Halbard, ſometimes us'd by Lieutenants of Foot.

Partition, a parting, ſharing, or dividing, that which ſerves to divide a Room, &c. In a Law-ſenſe, Partition is a dividing of Lands deſcended by the Common Law or by Cuſtom, among Coheirs or Parceners, whether Sons, Daughters, Siſters, or otherwiſe of Kin to the Anceſtour, who was poſſeſs'd of the Eſtate.

Partitione facienda, a Writ that lies for thoſe who hold Lands or Tenements joyntly, and would ſever to every one his Part, againſt him or them that refuſe to joyn in making the Partition.

Partizan, See Partiſan.

Partlet (in old Statutes) the looſe Collar of a Doublet, to be ſet on or taken off by it ſelf; alſo a kind of Neck-kerchief or Band.

Partner, one that takes part, or is joyn'd with another in ſome Concern.

Partners (in a Ship) ſtrong Pieces of Timber, bolted to the Beams that compaſs and ſhut in the Maſts at the Deck, ſo as to keep the Maſts ſteady in the Steps, and alſo from rolling or falling over the Ship's Sides.

Partnerſhip, a Rule in Arithmetick, the ſame as the Rule of Fellowſhip; which See.

Partridge, a dainty Fowl that flies low and not far, making a great Noiſe in its Flight: Theſe Birds lie in Coveys ſeveral together, and are catch'd with Dogs and Nets, or with Hawks.

Partus (Lat.) the bringing forth of Young in natural Births.

Partus Cæſareus, a Birth when a Child is cut out of the Womb for want of Paſſage.

Partus Difficilis, a difficulty in bringing forth.

Party, a Perſon, one that is at Law with another; alſo Aſſociation, Faction, or Side: In the Art War, a ſmall Body of Horſe or Foot, ſent out to diſcover, or upon any Military Execution.

Parties to a Fine or Deed, they that are named therein, as Parties to or concerned in it; they that levy the Fine, and they to whom it is levy'd; or they that make the Deed, and they to whom it is made.

Party per Bend (in Heraldry) parted or divided through the Bend.

Party per Pale, divided through the Pale; See Bend and Pale.

Party-Jury, a Jury conſiſting of half Engliſh-Men and half Foreigners: See Half-Tongue, and Medietas Linguæ.

Parvis, a Court before a Church-Porch, or any Palace or ſtately Houſe; whence that Diſputation at Oxford, call'd Diſputatio in Parviſiis: It is alſo apply'd to the Mooting or Law-Diſputes among young Students at the Inns of Court.

Parvity or Parvitude (Lat. in Philoſ.) little-neſs, ſmalneſs.

Parvo Nocumento, a Writ of Nuſance; See Nuſance.

Parvum & Craſſum (in Anat.) the fourth pair of Muſcles of the Head, ſo nam'd becauſe it is but a little one, yet pretty thick: It takes its from the tranſverſe Proceſſes of the uppermoſt Vertebra, or Turning-Joynts of the Neck, and is let into the hinder Root of the Mammillary Proceſs.

Parus, the Tit-mouſe or Coal-mouſe, a Bird.

To Pary (in Fencing) to put by, or keep off.

Parylis (Gr.) an Inflammation, Rottenneſs, or Swelling in the Gums.

Paſcage or Paſcuage (old Word) grazing or feeding of Cattel.

Paſch-Flower, a ſort of Plant, probably ſo call'd from its Flowering about Eaſter-time.

Paſcha (Heb.) the Paſſover, a Feaſt kept by the Jews in remembrance of God's ſignal Mercy to them, when the deſtroying Angel paſs'd over their Houſes, but ſlew all the firſt-born of the Egyptians: Alſo the Feſtival of Eaſter, or Chriſtian Paſſover, celebrated about that time in memory of out bleſſed Saviour's Reſurrection.

Paſcha Clauſum (in ancient Deeds) the Octave or eighth Day after Eaſter, call'd Low-Sunday, which cloſes or concludes that Solemnity.

Paſcha Floridum, Palm-Sunday, or the Sunday before Eaſter, when the proper Hymn or Goſpel ſung was, Occurrunt turba cum floribus & palmis, &c. i.e. The Multitude come forth with Flowers and Palm-branches.

Paſchal, belonging to the Jewiſh Paſſover, or to Eaſter; as The Paſchal Lamb.

Paſchal Rents, certain Rents or Duties, otherwiſe termed Synodals, and paid yearly by the inferiour Clergy to the Biſhop or Arch-Deacon, at their Eaſter-Viſitation. See Chriſmatis Denarii.

Pas de ſouris (Fr.) a Term in Fortification, the ſame as Berme and Foreland; See Foreland.

To Paſh, to daſh together.

Paſquil, a ſlanderous Libel poſted up for Publick View; ſo call'd from Paſquin, a certain Statue in the City of Rome, upon which all Lampoons or Satyrical Papers are uſually fixed, and father'd on him as the Author.

Paſquinade, a Satyrical Invective or Libel, ſavouring of the Paſquin at Rome.

Paſs, State, or Condition; a Licence to Travel, a Thruſt in Fencing.

To Paſs, to come or go through, by, or over; to croſs, to go beyond; to ſpend time, to be current as Money is.

Paſs-Port, a Licence granted by one that has Authority, for the ſafe Paſſage of any Man, from one Place to another; a Paſs or Safe-conduct.

Paſſable, that may be paſſed over; alſo tolerable, indifferent.

Paſſade (Fr.) an Alms or Benevolence given to poor Paſſengers: Alſo the Manage, Turn, or Courſe of a Horſe backward and forward upon the ſame Plot of Ground.

Paſſade or Paſſado, a Paſs or Thruſt in Fencing.

Paſſage, a going from one Place to another, the Place through which one goes; or the liberty of Paſſing: A Place in a Book or Diſcourſe, an Event or Chance, a Tranſaction; alſo a kind of Game with three Dice. In a Law-ſenſe Paſſage ſignifies the Fare or Hire paid for being convey'd beyond Sea, or over a River.

Paſſagio, a Writ impowering the Keepers of the Ports to grant a Paſſage over Sea.

Paſſagium, a Word anciently us'd for a Voyage or Expedition to the Holy Land, made by the Kings of England in Perſon.

Paſſant (Fr.) paſſing or going by: Among Heralds it is apply'd to a Lion repreſented in any Eſcutcheon, in a walking Poſture; but with reſpect to moſt other Beaſts, they call it Tripping.

Paſſarado (Sea-Term) any Rope with which the Sheat-blocks or Pulleys of the Main and Fore-Sails are haled down aft; or the Clew of the Main-ſail to the Cubbridge-head of the Main-maſt, and the Clew of the Fore-ſail to the Cat-head; which is only done when the Ship goes large.

Paſſator (in old Latin Records) one that has the Intereſt; or Command of the Paſſage of a River.

Paſſenger, one that paſſes or travels by Land or Water; alſo a kind of ſmall trained Hawk.

Paſſeover, See Paſcha.

Paſſe-pierre, or Pierce-pierre; a ſort of Stone-Parſley, an Herb.

Paſſe-Port, See Paſs-Port.

Paſſe-Velours (Fr.) a kind of Flower.

Paſſe-Volant, a Faggot in a falſe Muſter of Soldiers, one that is foiſted into a Company to make up the Number on a Muſter-day; an Hireling or baſe Fellow.

Paſſer (Lat.) the Sparrow, a Bird; alſo a kind of flat Fiſh, the Flounder, the Bret or Holybut. Paſſer Troglodytes, the Wren.

Paſſerina, the Herb Chick-weed, ſo call'd becauſe Sparrows are greatly delighted with it.

Paſſibility, an aptneſs or qualification to ſuffer.

Paſſible, capable of Suffering.

Paſſion, tranſport of Mind, ſtrong Deſire or Inclination, Affection, Fondneſs; Anger, or Wrath; Suffering: Among Phyſicians, it is taken for any Pain or Diſturbance in the Body; as The Iliack Paſſion, i.e. a painful wringing in the ſmall Guts. See Iliack.

The Paſſions, the Affections of the Mind; as Love, Hatred, Fear, Joy.

Paſſion-Flower, a Flower ſo call'd from the reſemblance it has of ſeveral Croſſes, when ſpread out to its full length.

Paſſion-Week, the Week next before the Feſtival of Eaſter, when our Saviour's Paſſion is commemorated.

Paſſionate, prepoſſeſſed with Paſſion, haſty, inclined to Anger, ſoon angry; alſo amorous, affectionate, fond, deep in Love.

Paſſionate for a thing, that has a ſtrong Inclination for it.

Paſſive, apt to ſuffer or bear, oppoſed to Active: Thus Wood with reſpect to Fire that acts upon it, has a paſſive or ſuffering Quality.

Paſſive Principles (among Chymiſts) Water and Earth, ſo termed becauſe either their Parts are at reſt, or elſe at leaſt not ſo ſwiftly moved, as thoſe of Spirit, Oil and Salt; ſo that they ſerve to check and hinder the quick Motion of the Active Principles.

Paſſive Voice of a Verb (in Grammar) that which betokens Suffering, or being acted upon; as Amor, I am loved; Doceor, I am taught, &c.

Paſta (in old Records) Paſte or kneeded Dough, before it is bak'd.

Paſtel, a Plant ſowed in the Spring, of which in ſome Places there are ſeveral Crops in a Year: It is otherwiſe call'd Woad, and of great uſe among the Dyers.

Paſtern, the hallow of a Beaſt's Heel; alſo a Shackle for a Horſe.

Paſtil, a ſort of Paſte of ſeveral Colours, gumm'd and ground, of which Crayons are made to draw upon Paper or Parchment: Alſo a certain Compoſition of dry Perfumes to burn in a Chamber: Alſo a ſweet Ball for ſmelling made of Wax, Gum-Storax, Indian Balſam and other Ingredients.

Among Confectioners, Paſtils are a kind of perfum'd Sugar-paſte of ſeveral Colours, of which there are different ſorts uſually dreſs'd upon China-Diſhes, to ſet off a Deſert or Banquet of Sweetmeats; as Apricock-Paſtils, Cinnamon-Paſtils, Orange-flower-Paſtils, &c.

Paſtime, Sport, Recreation, Divertiſement.

Paſtinaca (Lat.) the Parſnep, a Root of a fattening and cleanſing Quality.

Paſtination (in Husbandry) the opening breaking fine and laying looſe of Earth in order to be planted.

Paſtions, See Biſtort.

Paſtitium, a Word us'd in Doomſday-Book for Paſture-ground.

Paſtophori (Gr.) certain Prieſts, whoſe Buſineſs it was, at ſolemn Feſtivals, to carry the Shrine of the Deity, when they were to pray for Rain, fair Weather, &c.

Paſtor (Lat.) properly a Shepherd or Herdſman, but figuratively taken for a Curate or Miniſter of a Church.

Paſtoral, belonging to a Shepherd, or to a Church-Miniſter; as A Paſtoral Song, a Paſtoral Letter.

A Paſtoral, a ſort of Poem relating to Affairs between Shepherds and Shepherdeſſes.

Paſtry, Work made of Paſte or Dough; alſo the Place where ſuch Work is perform'd.

Paſturable, that ſerves or is fit for Paſture.

Paſturage, Paſture or Paſture-ground.

Paſture, Land that is neither Meadow nor Ploughed, but reſerved for the feeding of Cattel: Alſo ſuch Fodder or Food; alſo the Viands, Feeding or Feeding-place of Deer.

To Paſture, to put into Paſture, to feed Cattel.

Paſtus (in old Latin Writers) an Entertainment or Treat challenged as a Cuſtomary Due, from the Vaſſal to his Lord.

Paſuage or Paſnage, Money taken for Malt, or the feeding of Hogs. See Pannage.

Pat, that is fit, ſuitable, or to the purpoſe.

Patache (Fr.) a kind of Pinnace or ſmall Ship.

Patacoon, a Spaniſh Coin worth about four Shillings and eight Pence Sterling.

Patagons, a People inhabiting Terra Magellanica in the Weſt-Indies, ſaid to be ten Foot in height.

Patart or Partart, a Dutch Stiver, a Coin, five of which make Six-Pence Engliſh.

Pate, the Head: In Fortification, a kind of Platform of an Oval Figure, encompaſs'd with a Breaſt-work, without any other Defence, for the moſt part but that fore-right: Theſe Pates are commonly raiſed in Marſhy Grounds, to cover the Gate of a Town.

Patee (in Heraldry) as A Croſs Patee, i. e. a kind of Croſs whoſe Ends are broad and opened: Thus 'tis ſaid, The Field Sable, a Croſs Patee Argent: This Figure of a Croſs is alſo call'd Formee.

Patees, See Petty Patees.

Patefaction (Lat.) an opening or laying open; a diſcovering or making manifeſt.

Patella (Lat.) a deep Diſh with broad Brims: Among Anatomiſts, the round, broad Bone, at the joynting of the Thigh and Leg; the Whirl-bone of the Knee.

Patents, Writings ſealed open, with the broad Seal of the Kingdom. See Letters Patent.

Clerk of the Patents, an Officer appointed, An. 16. Jac. 1.

Patentee, the Perſon to whom the King grants his Letters Patent.

Pater (Lat.) a Father.

Pater-Guardian, a Title given to the Head of a College or Monaſtery of Franciſcan Friers.

Pater-Noſter (i. e. Our Father) the Lord's Prayer, ſo call'd from the firſt two Words of it in Latin: Whence the great Beads of a Chaplet, generally u'sd by Papiſts at their Devotions, are alſo termed Pater-Noſters.

Pater Patratus, the Title of the firſt and principal Perſon in the Herald's College among the ancient Romans.

Paternal, belonging to a Father, Fatherly.

Paternity, the Quality of a Father, Fatherhood, Father-ſhip.

Path of the Vertex, an Aſtronomical Term made uſe of by Mr. Flamſted, to ſignify a Circle deſcrib'd by any Point of the Earth's Surface, as the Earth turns round its Axis; which Point is the ſame with the Zenith or Vertical Point in the Ptolemaick Syſtem.

Pathema or Pathos (Gr.) Paſſion or Sufferings: In the Art of Phyſick, all preternatural Diſturbance, with which a Humane Body is annoy'd.

Pathetical or Pathetick, that moves or ſtirs up the Paſſions or Affections.

Parthetick-Nerves (in Anat) the fourth Pair, which ariſe from the top of the Oblongated Marrow, and paſſing thro' the Scull are beſtow'd on the Muſcle of the Eye call'd Trochlearis, which they aſſiſt in rolling the Eye about; and ſince that Motion uſually happens upon ſome Paſſion of the Mind, as Love, Anger, &c. theſe Nerves are fitly ſtyl'd Oculorum Motores Pathetici.

Pathognomonicum (among Phyſicians) a proper inſeparable Sign, which is peculiar to a Diſeaſe, and to all of its kind; as a true Pleuriſy is always accompany'd with a continual Feaver, hard Breathing, Stitches and a Cough.

Pathology, that part of Phyſick which treats of the preternatural Conſtitution of a Man's Body; ſo as by that Means to diſcover the Nature, Cauſes and Differences of Diſeaſes.

Pathopœia, the raiſing of a Paſſion, that Method in Rhetorick, by which the Mind is mov'd to Hatred, Anger, Pity, &c.

Pathos, Paſſion, that which one ſuffers or has ſuffer'd: In Rhetorick, it ſignifies the ſeveral Affections, which the Oratour ſtirs up in his Hearers: In Phyſick, the ſame as Pathema; which ſee.

† Partibulary (Lat.) belonging to a Gallows.

Partibulum, a kind of Fork to which the Slaves at Rome, and others condemn'd to ſervile Puniſhments, having their Hands ty'd, were whipt about the Streets, and ſometimes crucify'd; alſo a Gallows or Gibbet.

Patience, a Vertue enabling to endure Pain, Croſſes, Afflictions, &c. with Calmneſs of Mind and Conſtancy: Alſo an Herb, being a ſort of large and very ſower Sorrel. See Dock.

Patient, Suffering, induring, that quietly bears Afflictions, Affronts, or Injuries.

A Patient, a Perſon that is under the Hands of a Phyſician or Surgeon in order to the Cure of ſome Diſtemper or Wound. In Philoſophy, the Patient, i. e. that which ſuffers is oppos'd to the Agent, or that which acts.

Patina (Lat.) a Pot or Pan of Earth or Metal in which things were boil'd, dreſs'd or potted, and ſerv'd up to Table in their Broth or Pickle; alſo a Platter, Charger or Baſon, us'd by the Prieſts for that purpoſe.

Patine (among Roman Catholicks) the little flat Saucer or Plate, with which the Chalice is cover'd at Maſs.

Patonce (in Heraldry) as A Croſs Patonce, i. e. a Croſs whoſe Ends are broad, and as it were, three ways hooked: It may be thus expreſs'd, Gules, a Croſs Potence Argent.

Patres Conſcripti (Lat. i. e. enrolled Fathers) the Senatours of Rome, anciently ſo call'd, becauſe Romulus firſt wrote down their Names on Tables of Gold: But they that were choſen from among the Knights to be Senatours, were termed Patres Allecti.

Patria, one's Country or Birth-place: In a Law-ſenſe, it is taken for the Men of a Neighberhood; as Inquiſitio per Patriam, i. e. a Jury of the Neighbouring Inhabitants.

Patriarch (Gr.) one of thoſe Primitive Fathers, famous in old times for the Generations that ſprung from their Loins, ſuch as were Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob and his twelve Sons: Among the Chriſtians in proceſs of time, certain Biſhops who enjoy'd Independant Sees, were call'd Patriarchs; as thoſe of Jeruſalem, Antioch, Alexandria and Conſtantinople.

Patriarchal, belonging to a Patriarch.

Patriarchate, the State, Dignity, or Juriſdiction of a Patriarch, or Primate of a National Church.

Patricians (among the Romans) thoſe that were accounted the moſt noble, as being deſcended from the Senatours and firſt Founders of their Commonwealth.

Patriciate, the Order, Rank, or Dignity of the Patrician Families.

Patrick, a proper Name of Men, from the Latin Word Patricius, a Nobleman.

Patrimonial, belonging to an Eſtate or Inheritance.

Patrimony, the ancient Eſtate of a Family; more eſpecially an Inheritance or Eſtate, left by a Father to his Son: Whence the Endowments or Revenues ſettled upon a Church or Religious Houſe, were call'd Eccleſiaſtical Patrimony.

Patrimony of St. Peter, a Province in Italy, which with its Dependencies and Profits is united to the See of Rome.

Patrinus, a Word us'd in old Latin Records for a God-father.

Patriot, a Father of his Country, a great Benefactor to the Publick.

Patrocination, a patronizing, protecting, or defending; a maintaining the Right of any one.

Patroll (Fr. Military Term) a Round that goes about in the Night, conſiſting of five or ſix Men commanded by a Sergeant, or fewer if Horſe: Theſe ſet out from the main Guard, to ſee what is done in the Streets of a Garriſon, and to keep all in Order, Peace and Quietneſs.

To Patroll, to be upon the Patroll, to move up and down, as the Out-guards of an Army do upon the Enemies Approach.

Patron (Lat.) the Perſon under whoſe Protection one puts himſelf; a powerful Friend or Advocate: In the Civil-Law, a Maſter that has made his Slave or Servant free: In the Canon and Common Law, one that has the Right of Preſentation to a Benefice: Alſo the particular Guardian-Saint of a Kingdom, Town, &c.

Patronage, Protection, Defence; alſo the Right of Preſentation to a Church-Living reſerved to the Founder of it.

Patronal, belonging to a Patron.

Patroneſs, a Female Patron.

To Patronize, to protect, or defend.

Patronymicks (Gr. in Grammar) ſuch Names as Men derive from thoſe of their Fathers or Anceſtours, with ſome little Addition, as Æneades from Æneas.

Pattacoon. See Patacoon.

Patten or Pattin (Fr.) a kind of wooden Shoe; alſo that part of a Pillar, on which the Baſe is ſet.

Pavan or Pavane, a grave and majeſtick ſort of Dance, that came from Spain, wherein the Dancers turn round, and wheel about one after another: Alſo the graveſt and ſloweſt ſort of Inſtrumental Muſick, conſiſting generally of three Strains.

Paucity, fewneſs, a being of ſmall Number.

Paudiſhaw (i. e. an Expeller of Princes, or of Injuries) a Title belonging to the Grand Seignior, and which the Turks likewiſe give to the Emperour of Germany, calling him Nem Paudiſhaw.

Paveſe or Pavice (Ital.) a large Shield that covers the whole Body: Among the ancient Romans, it was a kind of Buckler, whoſe two ſides bended inward like the Roof of a Pent-houſe or Shed of Boards.

Paviage, Money paid towards the paving of the Streets, or High-ways.

Pavillion (Fr.) a Tent, or Tabernacle of State: In Architecture, the main part of a Building; alſo a Building by it ſelf, ſo call'd from the ſhape of its Roof reſembling a Tent: Alſo the Flag of a General Officer in the Fleet.

Paul (Heb. Wonderful, or Reſt) an eminent Apoſtle, who after Chriſt's Aſcenſion was converted to the Faith, and appointed to Preach to the Gentiles; ſince a common Chriſtian Name of Men.

St. Paul's-School, a famous School in St. Paul's Church-yard, London, Founded An. Dom. 1512 for the teaching of 153 Children Gratis, by Dr. John Colet, Dean of St. Pauls, who endow'd it with large Revenues, and committed the Overſight thereof to the Company of Mercers.

Paulo poſt Futurum, a Tenſe belonging to Greek Verbs: See Tenſes.

Paunch, Belly, Maw, Guts: Among Sea-men thoſe Mats of Sinnet or Rope-yarn, which are made faſt to the Main and Fore-yards, to ſave them from galling againſt the Maſts, are termed Paunches or Pantches.

Pavo, the Pea-cock, a Bird; alſo the Peacock-Fiſh, ſo call'd from the variety of its Colours.

Pavois (Fr.) a Pavice or great Shield.

Pavoiſade or Pavezado, a Target-defence in Galleys, wherein the Slaves that row on the Benches, are cover'd from the ſmall Shot of the Enemies.

Pauper (Lat.) Poor, he or ſhe that is poor: Whence the Law-Phraſe, To ſue in Forma Pauperis, when the Judge of a Court aſſigns an Attorney, Clerk, or Counſel, to maintain the Cauſe of a poor Perſon, and to plead for him or her without Fees.

Pauſe, Reſt, Stop, breaking off. In Muſick, Pauſe or Reſt, is an artificial Diſcontinuance of the Voice or Sound. See Reſt.

Pauſea or Pauſia (Lat.) a kind of Olive.

Pawl (Sea-Term) a piece of Iron bolted to one end of the Deck-beams, and bearing upon the Whelps of the Capſtan, ſo as to keep the Capſtan from recoiling or turning back: So that the Mariners uſually ſay, Heave a Pawl, i. e. heave a little more for the Pawl to get hold of the Whelps.

To Pawl the Capſtan, to ſtop it with the Pawl.

Pawn, a Pledge, alſo a Term uſed at Cheſs-play.

Pawn-broker, one that lends Money upon any ſort of Goods, or Commodity.

Pawnage. See Pannage.

Pax (Lat.) Peace: Alſo a kind of Image among the Papiſts, which is given to be kiſs'd, when they go to the Offering.

To Pay the Seams of a Ship (in Sea-Language) is when the Seams are laid over with hot Pitch: Paying of a Ship is alſo, when after her Soil is burnt off, a Coat of new Stuff is laid on, ſuch as is made of Tallow and Sope, or of Train-Oil, Roſin and Brimſtone boil'd together.

A Ship is alſo ſaid To be paid, when in tacking about bout all her Sails are Back-ſtay'd, i. e. lie flat againſt the Maſts and Shrowds.

Paynims, Pagans or Heathens; a Word much us'd in old Romances.

Pea, a well known ſort of Pulſe; in Doomſday-book, a Hill.

Peace, in a general Signification, is oppoſed to War and Strife; Concord, Agreement, Reconciliation; Reſt, Quietneſs, Silence: In a Law-ſenſe it is defin'd to be a quiet and inoffenſive Behaviour towards the Queen and her People.

Peace of God and the Church, a Phraſe anciently us'd for that time of Vacation and Reſt, which the People had from Law-ſuits and Trouble, between the Terms.

Peace of the Queen, is that Peace and Security, both for Life and Goods, which the Queen affords to all her Subjects, or others taken into her Protection.

Clerk of the Peace, an Officer belonging to the Seſſions of Peace, whoſe Buſineſs is to read Indictments, to inroll the Acts and draw up the Proceſs; to return to the Queen's Bench the Copies of Indictments, Out-lawries, Attainders, &c.

Juſtices of the Peace, See Juſtices.

Peach, a large delicious Stone-fruit, that grows ripe at the end of Summer; of which there are ſeveral kinds.

Peak, the ſharp Point of any thing, the top of a Hill.

Green Peak, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Woodpecker.

Peak, or The Devil's Arſe a-peak, a great unfathomable Hole in Derby-ſhire, the Wonders of which are elegantly deſcrib'd in Latin and Engliſh Verſe by Mr. Tho. Hobbes of Malmsbury, and Charles Cotton, Eſq;.

Peaking, that is of a puling ſickly Conſtitution.

Peal, a great Noiſe, particularly of Bells, Thunder, Rain, &c.

Pean (in Heraldry) when the Ground of Furrs in a Coat of Arms is Sable or Black, and the Powderings are Or or Yellow.

Pear, a well known Fruit.

Pear-bit, a kind of Bit for Horſes.

Pear-main, a ſort of Apple.

Pearch, or Perch a Rod or Pole with which Land is meaſur'd, forty of which in length and four in breadth make an Acre: It contains ſixteen Foot and a half, and eighteen Foot in the meaſuring of Coppice-Woods: Alſo a kind of Freſh-water Fiſh.

Geometrical Pearch, See Gad.

To Pearch, to light upon, as a Bird does.

Pearl, a Shell-fiſh in the Perſian Seas, being a kind of Oiſter in which is found a hard and clear Subſtance, commonly call'd Pearl, and reckon'd among the moſt precious Gemms. Alſo a Web on the Eye; alſo a ſmall ſort of Printing-Letter: Among Hunters, that part of a Deer's Horn which is about the Burr.

In Heraldry, Pearl is the Silver or white Colour in the Coats of Barons and other Noblemen; anſwering to Luna in thoſe of Soveraign Princes, and Argent in thoſe of the Gentry.

Pearled Boiling of Sugar (among Confectioners) is when after having dipt the top of one's Fore-finger into the boiling Sugar and apply'd it to the Thumb, a ſmall Thread or String continues ſticking to both; even altho' they were quite ſtretch'd out by entirely ſpreading the Hand: This degree of Boiling may alſo be known, by a kind of round Pearls that ariſe on the top of the Liquor.

Peaſant, (Fr.) a Country-man, a Country-clown or Boor.

Peaſantry, the Country-people.

Peaſe Everlaſting, a ſort of Pulſe that bears a fine Flower or Bloſſom.

Peaſe-Bolt, or Peaſe-Haum, a Country-word for Peaſe-ſtraw.

Peat, a kind of Fuel, dug out of Mooriſh Ground, which burns very well after it is dry'd.

Peccadillo (Span.) a pardonable Sin, a ſmall Fault.

Peccant (Lat.) committing a Fault, offending, tranſgreſſing: Among Phyſicians, the Humours of the Body are ſaid to be Peccant, when they contain ſome Malignity, or elſe abound too much.

Peccavi (i. e. I have offended, or done amiſs) a Word us'd in this Common Expreſſion, I'll make him cry Peccavi.

Pechiagra (Gr.) the Gout in the Elbow-joynts.

Pecia (in ſome old Writers) a piece or ſmall parcel of Ground.

Peck, a dry Meaſure, containing two Gallons; the fourth part of a Buſhel, or the fifth Part in Water-meaſure.

Pecten (Lat.) a Comb, a Wooll-card, a Rake, a Harrow; alſo the Raſor-fiſh; The Scollop-fiſhes are alſo call'd Pectines in Latin Writers of Natural Hiſtory.

Pecten Arboris, the Grain of the Wood of any Tree.

Pecten Veneris, Venus-comb, or Shepherds-Needle, an Herb that grows amidſt Corn.

Pectineus (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Thigh which has its Beginning from the outward part of the Os Pubis, or Pectinis; whence its Name is deriv'd: Afterwards it deſcends obliquely backwards, and is let into the hinder part of the Thigh-bone.

Pectinis Os, or Pubis Os, the Share-bone, which is the lower and inner, or the fore-part of the Os Innominatum. The upper Part of this Bone is call'd its Spine, into which the Muſcles of the lower Belly are inſerted.

Pectinitis, the Scollop-ſtone.

Pectoral, belonging to the Breaſt.

Pectoralis, the Pectoral Muſcle, a Muſcle of the Arm, ſo call'd from its Situation; which takes riſe above from the Clavicula, below from the Breaſt-bone, and all the Endings of the upper Ribs, and is implanted by a ſhort but broad ſtrong Tendon to the upper Part of the Shoulder-bone.

A Pectoral, a Breaſt-plate, Armour, or Defence for the Breaſt.

Pectorals, or Pectoral Medicines, ſuch Medicines as are us'd in Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, which by making thin, thickening, or allaying Heat, render the Matter which cauſes Coughing, fit to be diſcharg'd.

Pectus (Lat.) in Anat. the fore-part of the Breaſt or Cheſt, reaching from the Neck-bone to Midriff.

† Peculation, a robbing or cheating of the Publick: Among the ancient Romans, Peculatio or Peculatus, was a Crime in a Perſon, who being the Diſpoſer, Keeper, or Receiver of the Publick Treaſure, waſted it or converted it to his own Uſe.

Peculiar, ſingular, particular, private, proper.

Peculiar Form, See Structure.

A Peculiar, a particular Pariſh or Church that has Juriſdiction within it ſelf for Probate of Wills, &c. being exempt from the Ordinary and the Biſhop's Courts: Thus the Queen's Chappel is a Royal Peculiar, free from all Spiritual Juriſdiction, and only govern'd by the Queen her ſelf as Supreme Ordinary.

Court of Peculiars, a Court that takes Cognizance of Matters relating to ſuch Pariſhes as are exempt from the Biſhop's Juriſdiction in ſome Dioceſſes, and peculiarly belong to the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury.

Peculium (Lat.) the Money or Eſtate of one, who is under the Power of another, which a Son may get by his own Induſtry under a Father, or a Servant under a Maſter, with his Leave.

Pecunia, Money; it was alſo anciently us'd for Cattel, and ſometimes for other Goods: So it is often expreſs'd in Doomſday-book, Paſtura ibidem ad peciniam villæ, i. e. Paſture-ground for the Cattel of the Village.

Pecunia Sepulchralis, Money heretofore paid to the Prieſt, at the opening of the Grave, for the Benefit of the departed Soul.

Pecuniary, belonging to Money; as A Pecuniary Mulct; i. e. a Fine paid in Money.

† Pecunious, Moneyed, or full of Money.

Pedage, Money given for paſſing a-foot, or on Horſe-back, thro' any Foreſt or Country.

Pedagogue (Gr.) properly a Servant that takes care of his young Maſter's Behaviour, attending him at his Exerciſes and to School; an Inſtructer or Teacher.

Pedagogy, Inſtruction, Diſcipline; as The Pedagogy of the Law.

Pedal, belonging to, or containing a Foot in Meaſure.

Pedale (in ancient Latin Writers) a Foot-cloth, a Carpet or Piece of Tapeſtry laid on the Ground, to tread on, for greater State and Ceremony.

Pedals, low Keys of ſome Organs to be touch'd with the Foot.

Pedaneous, going on foot; as A Pedaneous Judge.

Pedani, or Pedarii Senatores (among the Romans) young Senatours, who follow'd the Opinion propos'd by the older, and were always of their Side.

Pedant, one that inſtructs or governs Youth: But the Word is more eſpecially taken for a conceited Pretender to Scholarſhip, a Paltry School-Maſter; a peremptory Coxcomb, a pragmatical Fellow.

Pedantick, that ſavours of a Pedant, Pedant-like.

Pedantiſm, the Profeſſion of a Pedant, or ordinary School-Maſter.

Pedantry, Pedantick Way or Humour, Ink-horn-Terms.

† Pedee, an ordinary Foot-boy, a Drudge; as What muſt I be your Pedee upon all Occaſions?

Pederaſt (Gr.) a Buggerer.

Pederaſty, a luſting after Boys, Sodomy, Buggery.

Pederero (Ital.) a ſort of Cannon commonly call'd Petterero by Sea-men, and chiefly us'd to diſcharge Stones, broken Iron, or Partridge-ſhot, &c. on the Enemies when they attempt to board the Ship.

Pedeſtal (Lat. in Architect.) that part of a Column or Pillar which ſerves to ſupport it, having its peculiar Baſe and Cornice according to the ſeveral Orders.

Pedicle, a little Foot; alſo the Stalk of any Fruit, Flower, or Herb.

Pedicula, or Pedicularis, an Herb ſo call'd becauſe it makes Cattel that feed on it very full of Lice; Yellow-rattle, or Cock's-comb.

Pedicularis Morbus, the Louſy Diſeaſe.

Pediculus, a little Foot, the Stalk or Stem of an Apple, Pear, Grape, Fig, &c. Among Herbaliſts, the Foot-ſtalk of any Leaf, Flower, or Fruit: Alſo a Louſe, an Inſect.

Pedigree, Deſcent from Anceſtours, Stock, Race.

Pediluvium (Lat.) a ſort of Bath for the Feet.

Pediment, a kind of Ornament in Architecture, the ſame as Fronton; which See.

Pedler, one that ſells ſmall Wares about the Streets; a Hawker; a Scotch or wand'ring Merchant.

Pedobaptiſm, (Gr.) Infant-Baptiſm, the baptizing of Children.

Pedules, a kind of ſhort Hoſe or Stockings that were anciently in Uſe, and otherwiſe call'd Vamps; which See.

Pedware, a Country-word for Pulſe, as Peaſe, Beans, &c.

Peek, Spleen, Grudge; as There is a Peek between them.

Among Sea-men, Peek is us'd in ſeveral Senſes; viz. An Anchor is ſaid To be a Peek, when the Cable is perpendicular between the Hawſe or Hole thro' which it runs out, and the Anchor; and to bring a Ship thus, is call'd Heaving a-peek. To Peek the Miſſen, is to put the Miſſen-yard right up and down by the Maſt.

A Ship is ſaid To ride a-peek, when ſhe lies with her Main and Fore-yards hoiſed up, having one end of the Yards brought down to the Shrowds, and the other raiſed up an end; which is done to contrary Sides, ſo that the Yards appear a-croſs each other like St. Andrew's Croſs.

To Ride a broad Peek, is much after the ſame manner, only the Yards are raiſed up but half ſo high: The Yards are generally thus Peek'd up when the Veſſel lies in a River, leſt being a-croſs, another Ship ſhould fall foul and break them.

There is alſo a Room in the Hold of a Ship call'd the Peek, which reaches from the Bitts forward to the Stem: In this Place Men of War uſually keep their Powder, and Merchant-men outward bound lay up their Victuals.

Peel, the Rind of Fruit; alſo a kind of Slice to ſet Bread, Pies, &c. into an Oven. Among Printers, a wooden Inſtrument, with which they hang up the printed Sheets to dry.

To Peep, to look thro' a Hole or Chink; to begin to grow out; as Horns, Teeth, &c.

Peer, a Mole or Rampart rais'd in a Harbour, to break the Force of the Sea, and for the better Security of Ships that ride there; as The Peer of Dover, &c. Alſo a ſolid Wall between two Doors or Windows; alſo a ſort of ſquare Pillar.

Peers (q. Pares, i. e. Equals) the Nobles or chief Lords of Parliament; which Name is thought to be deriv'd from the Twelve Pairs or Peers of France, appointed by K. Charles the Great, or Lewis the Younger: Alſo in Common Law Jury-men impannell'd upon an Inqueſt are call'd Peers.

To Peer upon or at a thing, to leer or peep at it.

Peerage, the Dignity of the Lords or Peers of the Realm; alſo an Impoſition or Tax for the Maintenance of a Sea-Peer.

Peerdom (in France) the Dignity of a Peer, annexed to a great Fee; as To erect a Dukedom into a Peerdom.

Peereſs, a Peer's Lady.

Peerleſs, that has no Peer, or Equal; incomparable, matchleſs.

Peganum (Gr.) the Herb Rue.

Pegaſus, the winged Horſe, a Northern Conſtellation, conſiſting of 23 Stars.

Pegging, a Term us'd by Sow-gelders, when they cure Hogs of a Diſeaſe call'd the Garrel.

Pegma (Gr.) a ſort of wooden Engine anciently us'd in Stage-Plays, eſpecially in the Shews on the Roman Amphitheaters; alſo a kind of Pageant made uſe of in Triumphs.

Peitrel, or Poitral (Fr.) the Breaſt-leather of a Horſe.

Pela, a Peel, a Pile, a Fort: The Citadel or Caſtle in the Iſle of Man was granted under that Name to Sir John Stanley, by K. Henry IV.

Pelagia, a Shell-fiſh call'd the Purple: But the Writers of Natural Hiſtory make uſe of the Term

Pelagiæ, to expreſs ſuch Shell-fiſhes, as never or very ſeldom are found near the Shores, but always continue in the Deep or thoſe Parts of the bottom of the Sea, which are moſt remote from Land.

Pelagians, a ſort of Hereticks ſo call'd from one Pelagius or Morgan a Britain, their firſt Founder: They deny'd Original Sin, and had many other erroneous Tenets.

Pelamis or Pelamys, a Sea-fiſh of the Tunny-kind.

Pelecinus or Pelecinum (Gr.) Hatchet-vetch, a Weed that grows amidſt Corn.

Pelecoides, a Name which ſome give to a certain Geomatrical Figure, that ſomewhat reſembles a Hatchet.

Pelf, paltry Stuff, Riches unjuſtly heaped up.

Pelf or Pill of a Fowl (in Falconry) the Refuſe and broken Remains, left after the Hawk is relieved.

Pelican, a Water-Fowl, that in ſhape reſembles a Heron, and cries like the braying of an Aſs: This Bird is ſaid to have ſo tender a Love for her young Ones, that ſhe'll wound her own Breaſt to feed them with her Blood.

Pelican or Blind Alembick, a kind of Chymical Veſſel with Ears and Handles uſually made of Glaſs for the diſtilling of Liquors by Circulation: Alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument to pull out Teeth.

Pelidnus (Gr.) a black and blew Colour in the Face, which often happens to Melancholick Perſons.

Pellage, Cuſtom or Duty paid for Pelts or Skins of Leather.

Pellamountain, a ſort of Herb.

Pellets (in Heraldry) the ſame as Agreſſes or Ogreſſes.

Pellicle (Lat.) a little Skin. To Evaporate to Pellicle, See To Evaporate.

Pelliparius (in old Statutes) a Skinner, Currier, or Leather-dreſſer.

Pellis, the Skin or Hide of a Beaſt flead off; a Fell or Pelt.

Pellitory of Spain, an Herb of a hot and moiſt Quality; a great Purger of the Brain.

Pellitory of the Wall, an Herb ſo call'd from its growing naturally upon Walls; reputed to be cold and moiſt.

Pell-Mell (Fr.) confuſedly, in a Confuſion or Diſorder; as They enter'd the Town Pell-mell.

Pellota, (in the Foreſt-Law) the Ball or round fleſhy part of a Dog's Foot, which by that Law, in all Dogs that are near any of the King's Foreſts, is to be cut off; which is call'd Expeditating or Lawing.

Pells, as Clerk of the Pells, an Officer of the Exchequer, who enters every Teller's Bill in a Parchment-Roll call'd Pellis Receptorum, i. e. the Skin or Roll of Receipts, and makes another Roll of Payments termed Pellis Exituum.

Pellucid, that may be ſeen through, clear, bright.

Peloton, See Plotton.

Pelt, the Skin of a Beaſt: In Falconry, the Carcaſs of any Fowl diſmember'd.

Pelt-Monger, a Skinner, or Dealer in Skins.

Pelt-Wooll, Wooll pull'd off from the Pelt, or Skin of a dead Sheep.

To Pelt, to annoy by throwing Stones, diſcharging ſmall Shot, &c. Alſo to be in a Chaſe or fit of Anger, to fret and fume.

Pelta (Gr.) a kind of Target or Buckler us'd by the Romans, which was of a Figure ſomewhat long, and bended in ſhape of a Half-Moon.

Peltalis Cartilago, the ſame as Enſiformis; which See.

Pelvis, a Baſon: In Anatomy, a Place at the bottom of the lower Belly, in which the Bladder and Womb are contain'd.

Pelvis Aurium, the hollow part of the Ear, the ſame as Cochlea.

Pelvis Cerebri, the Tunnel of the Brain. See Choana.

Pelvis Renum, a skinny Veſſel in each Kidney, which receives the Urine, and conveys it into the Bladder.

Pelure, rich Furr, from the Latin Word Pellis, a Skin.

Pemphigodes (Gr.) a ſpotted Feaver, or as ſome ſay, a flatulent or windy Feaver.

Pemptæos, an Ague that comes every fifth Day.

Pen, a Quill cut to write with, a Writer or Author; alſo a Fold for Sheep, or a Coop for Fowl: Alſo a Bay or Pond-head to keep in Water, to drive the Wheels or Hammer of an Iron-Mill. In Welch, a Head; whence the Name of the County and Town of Penbroke, i. e. the Cape or Sea-Promontory.

To Pen, to write, to indite or couch in Writing, to coop or ſhut up.

Pen-man, a Perſon skill'd in fair Writing, or in the Method of Inditing or Compoſing Books, &c.

Pen-ſtock, a Floud-gate plac'd in the Water of a Mill-pond to hinder its Current. See Pen.

Penal (Lat.) belonging to, or bringing Puniſhment; as The Penal Laws againſt Popiſh Recuſants, &c.

Penalty, a Puniſhment by Forfeiture of a Sum of Money; a Fine.

Penance, any ſort of Mortification enjoyn'd by Prieſts or Father Confeſſours of the Church of Rome, which as they pretend, ſerves to make Atonement for Sins.

Penates (Lat.) a Name given to all the Houſhold-Gods, which the ancient Romans us'd to worſhip in their particular Habitations or Dwelling-houſes.

Pencil, a ſmall Inſtrument, made of Bears, Ermins, or Hogs-Hairs put into Quills of ſeveral Sizes, to be us'd in Drawing, Painting, &c.

Pencil of Rays (in Opticks) a double Cone of Rays joyn'd together at the Baſe; one of which has its Vertex or Top in ſome one Point of the Object and the Glaſs for its Baſe; as the other has its Baſe on the ſame Glaſs, but its Vertex in the Point of Convergence.

Pendant Feathers (in Falconry) thoſe Feathers which grow upon a Hawk's Thigh.

A Pendant, a Jewel, q. Pendent, i. e. hanging down, properly ſuch a Jewel, as Women hang in their Ears.

A Pendant (in a Ship) is a ſhort Rope made faſt at one end either to the Head of the Maſt, or to a Yard, or to the Clew of a Sail, and at the other end having a Block or Pulley and Shiver, to let in ſome running Rope.

Pendants, are alſo long Streamers of Silk or other Stuff cut pointing out towards the end, and there ſlit into two Parts, whoſe uſe is in Fleets, to diſtinguiſh the Squadrons by hanging them out in the Tops: They are alſo us'd in great Ships for Ornament and Triumph, being there hung out at every Yard-arm, and at the Heads of the Maſts.

Pendent, a Supporter of Stone in Building.

Pendeloches (Fr.) little pieces of Cryſtal, cut in the ſhape of a Pear, and us'd to ſet off a Baſket of Noſegays or Flowers; alſo Bobs or dangling Jewels.

Pendulous, hanging down, dangling.

Pendulum (Lat.) a Weight hung at the end of a String, Chain, or Wire; which continually ſwinging to and fro with an equal Poiſe, ſerves to meaſure the Parts or Differences of Time.

Pendulum, is alſo a Clock, Watch, or Movement, whoſe Motion is by that means exactly regulated. Theſe kind of Watches were firſt invented by M. Chriſtian Huygens of Zulichem, and ſince fitted to go at Sea by the Right Honourable the Earl of Kincardin both Fellows of the Royal Society.

Royal Pendulums, are thoſe Clocks whoſe Pendulum ſwings Seconds, and goes eight Days, ſhewing the Hour, Minutes and Seconds.

Penelope (Gr.) a ſort of Fowl, taken for a Turkey, or for the common gray Widgeon.

Penerarius (in old Latin Records) a Pennon, or Enſign-Bearer.

Penetrability, Aptneſs to be penetrated, or pierced.

Penetrable, that may be penetrated.

Penetrant, penetrating, piercing; ſubtil, quick, ſhrewd.

To Penetrate, to go deep into, to get or pierce into or through, to dive into.

Penetration, a penetrating or piercing thro'; alſo Quickneſs of Parts or Wit.

Penetration of Dimenſions (in Philoſ.) an Expreſſion us'd by ſome to ſignify, That two Bodies are in the ſame Place, ſo as the Parts of one may every where pierce into, and equally fill up the Dimenſions or Places of the Parts of the other.

Penetrative, that eaſily penetrates, or is of a piercing Quality.

Penguin, a ſort of Bird common about the Straights of Magellan in America.

Penicilli (Lat.) Worm-ſhells, a ſort of Shells found in the Sea.

Penicillus, a Spunge, or other thing that ſerves to ſcour, wipe, or make clean; a Painter's Pencil, or Plaiſterer's Waſhing-bruſh; alſo a kind of Tent for Wounds: In our Old Records, it is taken for a Pennon or Pendant, a Banner or Streamer.

Penidium, a certain Compoſition made of Barley-water and Sugar; which cures the Cough and Hoarſeneſs, and helps all Diſtempers of the Lungs and Breaſt.

Peninſula, a Tract of Land ſurrounded on all ſides with Water, except in one Place, where it is joyn'd to the Continent by a ſmall Neck of Land call'd an Iſthmus; as Africa the greateſt Peninſula of the Word joyned to Aſia, that of Morea to Greece, &c.

Penis (in Anat.) a Man's Yard, a nervous and ſkinny Part, well furniſh'd with Veins and Arteries, and containing the Canal of the Ureters.

Penis Cerebri, a part of the Brain otherwiſe call'd Conarium and Glandula Pinealis. See Conarium.

Peniſtons, a kind of courſe Woollen Cloth, mention'd in Stat. 43. Eliz. cap. 10.

Penitence (Lat.) Repentance.

Penitent, repenting, being ſorrowful upon account of having committed any Sin or Crime.

A Penitent, a penitent Perſon.

Penitential, belonging to Repentance.

A Penitential, a Penance-Book, a Book that directs Prieſts how to enjoyn Penance.

Penitentiary, a Prieſt that impoſes upon an Offender, what Penance he thinks fit: Alſo a Place in Rome, where Prieſts ſit and hear the Confeſſion of thoſe who come to them for that purpoſe; the Penitentiary's Court or Dignity.

Pen-maen-mawr, a very ſteep Rock in Caernarvon-ſhire, thro' which the Road lies, not without great Difficulty and Terrour to Travellers: For on one ſide, you would think the Rocks ready to cruſh you; on the other, the Sea and Precipice down to it, are ſo frightful and dangerous, that one falſe Step hazards the Life.

Pennance, See Penance.

Pennant (Sea-Term) a Rope to hoiſe up a Boat, or any heavy Merchandize aboard a Ship.

Pennata Folia (Lat. among Herbaliſts) Winged Leaves, ſuch Leaves of Plants as grow directly one againſt another on the ſame Rib or Stalk; as thoſe of Aſh, Walnut-tree, &c.

Penner, a Caſe to put Pens in.

Pennon or Penon, (Fr.) a Flag or Banner ending in a Point or Tip, wherein the Arms of thoſe before whom it is carry'd, either in War, or at a Funeral, are painted in their proper Colours: In Heraldry; the Figure that reſembles ſuch a Flag; alſo Streamer in a Ship.

Pennoncel, a little Penon or Flag.

Penny, a ſmall Coin worth four Farthings, and of which Twelve make a Shilling; its Weight is 32 Grains of Wheat well dried; alſo the eighth part of a Flemiſh Groot.

Penny-Poſt, a Poſt-Office that conveys Letters and Packets under a Pound-weight, paying one Penny for each to all Parts of the City of London, and ten Miles round about.

Penny-royal, an Herb of a digeſting or ripening Quality, which ſome call Pudding-graſs.

Penny-weight, a Weight contains 24 Grains, and of which 20 make an Ounce Troy. A Penny-weight of Gold Bullion is worth 4 Shillings, and of Silver-Bullion, 3 Pence.

Penny-wort or Navel-wort, a kind of Herb.

Penon, See Pennon.

Penſa, Peſa, or Piſa (in old Latin Writers) a Wey of Salt, Cheeſe, &c. containing 256 Pounds.

Ad Penſam, the full Weight of Twelve Ounces Troy, which was anciently paid in Money into the Exchequer, for a Pound Sterling; as Payment of a Pound de Numero, i. e. by Tale imported juſt 20 Shillings; and Ad Scalam, i. e. according to the Scale 20 s. 6 d.

† Penſile, hanging.

Penſion (Lat.) Boarding, or Money paid for Diet and Lodging: Alſo a certain Sum paid Yearly by a Prince or State to any Perſon for Service required from him: Alſo a Yearly Allowance made by a Company or Corporation, to the poor Members of it, during their Life.

The Penſion (of Grays-Inn) an Aſſembly of the Members of the Society, to conſult about the Affairs of the Houſe; which in the two Temples is call'd the Parliament, and in Lincoln's-Inn the Council: Alſo in thoſe and other Inns of Court, Penſions are certain Yearly Payments, made by every particular Member to the Houſe.

Penſion-Writ, a Writ or Order in Grays-Inn, againſt ſuch of the Society, as are in arrear for Penſions and other Duties, whereby they are debarr'd from coming into Commons, till all be paid.

Penſioner, one who receives a Penſion; alſo one that is maintain'd at the Queen's Charge, in a College or Hoſpital: But in the Univerſity of Cambridge, it is taken for a Scholar that pays for his Commons.

The Queen's Penſioners, or Gentlemen-Penſioners, a Band of Gentlemen ſo call'd, who are arm'd with Partiſans, and attend as a Guard upon the Queen's Perſon in her Palace: They were firſt appointed A. D. 1539. and their Salary is 80 Pounds Sterling per Annum: In the time of K. Henry VIII. they were call'd Spear-men.

Penſive, thoughtful, being in a brown Study; ſorrowful, ſad.

Pentadactylus (Gr.) an Herb otherwiſe call'd Palma Chriſti; alſo a kind of Shell-fiſh.

Pentagon, a Geometrical Figure that has five Angles and as many Sides; capable of being fortify'd, with the like Number of Baſtions.

Pentagonal, belonging to ſuch a Figure.

Pentameter (in Grammar) a Greek or Latin Verſe, which conſiſts of five Feet; and is chiefly us'd in Elegiack Poetry; as Candida cæruleo nata Venus Pelago.

Pentamyron (among the Apothecaries) an Ointment compounded of five Ingredients, viz. Maſtick, Nard, Opobalſamum, Storax and Wax.

Pentapetalous Plants (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Plants as have a Flower conſiſting of five Leaves.

Pentapharmacum, a Medicine made up of five ſeveral Ingredients: Alſo a Banquet conſiſting of five ſorts of Courſes, or different Diſhes of Meat.

Pentaphyllum, the Herb Cinque-foil or five-leav'd Graſs, good for Wounds, and of a binding Quality; ſo as to ſtop a Looſeneſs, bleeding at the Noſe, the Piles, ſpitting of Blood, &c.

Pentapleuron, the leſſer Plantain; an Herb.

Pentaptoton (in Grammar) a Noun that has but five Caſes; as Nemo.

Pentaſpaſt, an Engine that conſiſts of five Pullies, three above and two below.

Pentaſtich, a Stanza or Diviſion in a Poem, conſiſting of five Verſes; alſo a Piazza or Porch that has five Rows of Pillars.

Pentateuch, the five Books of Moſes, viz. Geneſis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Pentatheton, a Plaiſter proper for Bruiſes, and when the Skin is flea'd or gall'd.

Pentathlum (among the Ancients) an Exerciſe conſiſting of five Games or Sports, viz. Leaping, Running, Quoiting, Darting and Wreſtling.

Pentecontarcha, a Captain that has the Command of fifty Men.

Pentecoſt, the Feſtival of Whitſuntide ſo call'd in Greek, becauſe it is the Fiftieth Day after Chriſt's Reſurrection.

Pentecoſtals, certain Offerings made at that Time, by Pariſhioners to their Prieſt, and ſometimes by inferiour Churches or Pariſhes to the chief Mother-Church: Theſe Offerings were alſo call'd Whitſun-Farthings.

Penteris, a Galley or other Sea-Veſſel, row'd with five Benches of Oars on a ſide, one above another.

Penthemimeris (in Grammar) part of a Greek or Latin Verſe, conſiſting of two Feet, and a Syllable either long by Nature, or allow'd to be ſo by the Figure call'd Cæſura; as Cum ſua Gentiles.

Pentorobon, the Plant and Flower call'd Peony.

Penultima (Lat. in Grammar) that Syllable of a Word which is before the laſt.

Penumbra (in Aſtron.) a faint kind of Shadow, or the utmoſt Edge of the perfect Shadow, which happens when the Moon is eclipſed; ſo that it is ſcarce poſſible to diſcern where the Shadow begins and where the Light ends.

Penurious, covetous, nigardly, grudging, ſtingy.

Penury, extreme Want of Neceſſaries, or Proviſions for Life; great Need, or Poverty.

Peony, See Piony.

People, the whole Body of Perſons of all ſorts and degrees, that live in a Country or make up a Nation.

To People, to ſtock with People, to ſend a great Number of Perſons to inhabit and improve a Country.

Pepanſis (Gr.) a Ripening: In the Art of Phyſick, a correcting and bringing to order of depraved and corrupt Humours of the Body.

Pepaſmus, a digeſting or ripening of preternatural Humours.

Pepaſticks, Medicines that digeſt and allay Rawneſs in the Stomach, &c.

Peplion, Peplis, or Peplos, ſmall purple Sea-ſpurge, an Herb that grows plentifully on the Sands near Penſans in Cornwall, and no where elſe in England.

Pepo, the Pumpion, a large kind of Melon.

Pepper, a well known Indian Spice.

Pepper-wort, an Herb of a ſharp and cleanſing Quality.

Pepſis (Gr.) a boiling or ſeething, a concocting or digeſting: Among Phyſicians, the Concoction or Fermentation of Victuals and Humours in a Humane Body; as when Meat is turn'd into the Humour call'd Chyle, and that into Blood.

Peptick, that ſerves to concoct or digeſt.

Peracute (Lat.) very ſharp; as A Peracute Diſtemper: See Acute Diſeaſe.

Peracutum Menſtruum, See Menſtruum percutum.

Peracter (Gr.) a Mathematical Inſtrument, the ſame as Circumferentor; which See.

Peragration (Lat.) a travelling, or wandering about; a Progreſs, or Ramble.

Month of Peragration, a Term in Aſtronomy; See Month.

Perambulation, a walking thro' or about. See Proceſſion.

Perambulation of the Foreſt, the Surveying or walking about the Foreſt, by Juſtices or other Officers thereto appointed, in order to ſet down the Limits or Bounds of it.

Perambulatione facienda, a Writ ſu'd out by two or more Lords of Manours lying near one another, who conſent to have their Bounds ſeverally diſtinguiſh'd; and it is directed to the Sheriff enjoyning him, to make a Perambulation for that purpoſe.

Perambulator, a Walking-wheel, a rolling Wheel made of Wood or Iron, with a Movement, a Face divided like a Clock and Indexes, to ſhew how many Yards, Poles, Furlongs and Miles one goes in driving it before him; a uſeful Inſtrument for the Meaſuring of Roads, Rivers, and all level Lands.

Peravail, See Paravail.

Perca, the Pearch, a River and Sea-fiſh.

Percaptura (in ancient Writers) a Wear or Place in a River made up with Banks, Damms, &c. for the better Convenience of preſerving and taking Fiſh.

Percarum Lapis, the Pearch-ſtone, a kind of Stone found in the Head of that Fiſh.

To Perceive, to begin to ſee; to diſcover, ſpy, or find out; to apprehend, or underſtand.

Percepier, an Herb growing in moſt Parts of England, which bears ſmall Flowers of a greeniſh Hue, and is good to provoke Urine: It is otherwiſe call'd Parſley-pert, or Parſley Break-ſtone.

Perceptible or Perceivable, that may be perceived.

Perception, the Act of perceiving, comprehending or knowing; the clear and diſtinct Apprehenſion of any Object.

Perch, a Meaſure of which forty make a Furlong: In Hereford-ſhire, a Perch of Walling, is ſixteen Foot and a half, and a Perch of Ditching, twenty one Foot. See Pearch.

Perchers, the Paris-Candles formerly us'd in England; alſo the bigger ſort of Candles, eſpecially of Wax, which were commonly ſet upon the Altars.

Percival, a proper Name of Men, from Perchaval a Village of Normandy in France.

Perchnopteros (Gr.) a baſtard Eagle like a Vultur, that is ſhort-winged, and keeps about Pools and Lakes.

Perchnos, another ſort of Eagle, which likewiſe often reſorts to Lakes and fenny Places.

Percolated (Lat.) paſſed thro' a Strainer or Sieve.

Percolation, a percolating or ſtraining thoroughly: See Colation.

† Percontation or Percunctation, an asking of Queſtions, a ſtrict Inquiry.

Percuſſion, a knocking, beating or ſtricking; a

Word more eſpecially us'd in Philoſophy; as Bells and Drums make a great Noiſe, by reaſon of the Percuſſion of the Air.

Perdicium (Gr.) Pellitory of the Wall; an Herb.

Perdition (Lat.) utter Ruin or Deſtruction.

Perdix, the Partridge, a Bird. Perdix Ruſſa, the Spaniſh Partridge, with the Bill and Legs of a Red Colour.

Perdonatio Utlagariæ (Law-Term) a Pardon for one that is out-lawed for Contempts, and afterwards ſurrenders himſelf of his own accord.

Perdrigon (Fr.) a ſort of Plum.

Perdue, loſt, forlorn.

A Perdue, a Sentinel or Soldier plac'd in an advanced and dangerous Poſt.

Perdues, the forlorn Hope of an Army, a Body of Men put upon the moſt deſperate Services, and ſo call'd from their being as it were given over for loſt.

To Lie perdue, to lie flat upon one's Belly.

Perduration, (Lat.) a continuing or laſting very long.

Peregrination, a travelling into Foreign Countries; a journeying up and down, a going on Pilgrimage, a Progreſs.

Peregrine, foreign, Out-landiſh: Among Aſtrologers, a Planet is ſaid To be peregrine, when found in a Sign or Place of Heaven, where it has none of its five Eſſential Dignities, viz. Houſe, Exaltation, Triplicity, Term or Face; which is counted an Eſſential Debility or Weakneſs.

Peregrine, a Chriſtian Name of Men; alſo a Hawk of the Falcon-kind.

Peremptory, abſolute, expreſs; alſo pragmatical, malapert, ſaucy.

Peremptory Action (in a Law-ſenſe) is a determinate and final Act, which cannot be renew'd or alter'd: And a Peremptory Exception is an Exception that always takes Place and cannot be avoided.

† Perennity, Long Continuance, Laſtingneſs.

Perfect, compleat, entire; excellent, accompliſhed; well skill'd in, arrant.

Perfect Concords, in Muſick. See Concords.

Perfect Criſis, a Term in Phyſick. See Criſis.

Perfect Fifth, See Diapente.

Perfect Flowers (among Herbaliſts) are thoſe that have the finely colour'd ſmall Leaves, call'd Petala, with the Stamina, Apices and Stylus; which See.

Perfect Numbers (in Arithm.) ſuch whoſe Aliquot or even Parts joyn'd together, exactly return the whole Number; as 6, 28, &c. for of 6 the half is 3, the third part 2, and the ſixth part 1; which added together make 6: Of theſe perfect Numbers there are but Ten between Unity and one Million of Millions.

To Perfect, to make perfect, to bring to Perfection, to finiſh.

Perfection, the State or Condition of that which is perfect; alſo great Accompliſhment, Excellency.

Perfidious, treacherous, baſe, falſe-hearted.

Perfidy, or Perfidiouſneſs, Breach of Faith or Truſt; Treachery, Falſeneſs.

Perfoliata, (Lat.) the Herb Thorough-Wax, good for Ruptures, Bruiſes, King's-Evil Swellings, St. Anthony's Fire, &c.

Perforans Muſculus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Fingers, ſo call'd becauſe its Tendons run thro' thoſe of the Perforatus: It ariſes from the upper and fore-part of the Ulna, &c. and it is divided into four round Tendons, which paſſing thro' the Fiſſures or Clefts of the perforated Muſcle, end in the upper and fore-part of the third Bone of each Finger: This Muſcle is alſo nam'd Profundus from its Situation and Tertii Internodii Digitorum Flexor, from its Uſe.

Perforans Pedis, a Muſcle of the leſſer Toe, which taking riſe from the back-part of the Tibia, is divided into four Tendons, which march thro' the Holes of the Tendons of the Perforatus Pedis, and are let into the third Bone of each leſſer Toe: So that it is otherwiſe call'd Flexor Tertii Internodii Digitorum Pedis from its Uſe.

Perforata, a ſort of St. John's-wort, an Herb ſo call'd, becauſe its Leaf is naturally pierc'd with many ſmall Holes.

To Perforate, to pierce through.

Perforated, bored or pierced thro'; a Term us'd by Herbaliſts, when the Leaf of any Plant being held againſt the Light, ſeems full of little Holes: In Heraldry, it is us'd to expreſs the piercing or paſſing of one Ordinary, in part, thro' another; as He bears Or, a Bend Ermin perforated thro' a Chevron Gules: But when a Hole is only made in the Ordinary, without any thing to fill it up, 'tis call'd Piercing.

Perforatus Muſculus, a Muſcle belonging to the Fingers, and ſo nam'd becauſe its Tendons are pierc'd thro' to admit thoſe of the Perforating Muſcle: It ariſes from the inner Knob of the Shoulder-bone, as alſo from the fore-part of the Radius, and is divided into four Tendons, which are inſerted to the upper part of the ſecond Bone of each Finger: It is alſo termed Sublimis, and Flexor Secundi Internodii Digitorum.

Perforatus Pedis, a Muſcle of the leſſer Toes, ſo call'd becauſe its Tendons are perforated or pierced like thoſe of the Fingers; as alſo Flexor Secundi Internodii Digitorum Pedis & Sublimis: This Muſcle ſprings from the lower and inner part of the Os Calcis, and has its four Tendons implanted at the upper part of the ſecond Bone of each leſſer Toe.

Perforation, a perforating, piercing, or boring.

To Perform, to do, to fulfil, to bring to paſs, to put in Execution.

Performance, the Act of performing, or a Work done.

Perfrication, a rubbing or chafing thoroughly, or all over.

Perfume (Fr.) any thing that ſends forth a ſweet Scent; as Muſk, Civet, ſweet Powder, &c. alſo the Scent it ſelf.

To Perfume, to give a ſweet Scent to, to ſweeten.

Perfumer, one that makes and ſells Perfumes.

Perfunctory (Lat.) done careleſly, or ſlightly, ſlubbered over.

Pergamena (Gr.) Parchment, the Skins of Sheep prepar'd to write on, and for ſeveral other Uſes; ſaid to have been the Invention of the Kings of Pergamus in the leſſer Aſia.

Periamma, or Periapta, that which is faſten'd or ty'd about any thing; but it is more eſpecially us'd for a Medicine which is thought to drive away Diſeaſes, as the Plague, &c. by being bound about the Patient's Neck.

Perianthium, or Calyx (among Herbaliſts) the Flower-cup in moſt Plants, which being of a ſtronger Conſiſtence than the Flower it ſelf, is deſign'd to ſtrengthen it, and compaſſes it about at the bottom.

Peribolus (in Architect.) the outward Wall encompaſſing any Place; alſo a Park or Warren.

Pericardian, or Pericardick, belonging to the Pericardium; as The Pericardian Vein.

Pericardium (in Anat.) a double Membrane, Skin or Bag, which ſurrounds the whole Subſtance of the Heart, containing a Liquor to moiſten, make ſlippery, and as ſome ſay, to cool that noble Part.

Pericarpium, a Medicine apply'd to the Wriſts, to cure an Ague, &c.

Pericarpum, a kind of round Root; a great Drier, and good againſt Hemlock.

† Periclitation (Lat.) an adventuring, hazarding, or indangering.

Periclymenos or Periclymenon, Wood-bind, a Shrub that bears the Honey-ſuckle Flower.

Pericranium (Gr. in Anat.) a Membrane or Skin that lies under the thick hairy Skin of the Head and immediately covers the whole Scull, except juſt where the Temporal Muſcles lie.

Peridot (Fr.) a precious Stone of a greeniſh Colour.

Peridromis (Gr. in Architect.) an open Gallery or Walk encompaſſing a Square of Buildings, or a Publick Place.

Periepiphimoſis, the ſame as Paraphimoſis; which See.

Perigæum or Perigee (in Aſtron.) that Point in the Heavens, in which the Sun or any other Planet, is neareſt or at its leaſt Diſtance from from the Center of the Earth.

Perigee of the Equant, See Apogee of the Equant.

Perihelion, that Point of a Planet's Orbit, in which it is neareſt to the Sun.

Peril (Lat.) Danger, Hazard; as A Traveller ventures thro' many Perils: It is ſometimes uſed by way of Threatning; as Do ſuch a thing at your Peril.

Perileucos (Gr.) a ſort of Gem or precious Stone, with a white Thread drawn from its top to the bottom.

Perillous (Lat.) full of Peril, dangerous.

Perimeter (Gr. in Grammar) a Verſe that has a Syllable above the juſt Meaſure: In Geometry, the Compaſs or Sum of all the Sides that bound any Figure.

Perinæum (in Anat.) the ligamentous Seam betwixt the Scrotum and the Fundament.

Perinde Valere (in the Eccleſiaſtical Law) a Diſpenſation granted to a Clerk, who being otherwiſe uncapable of a Benefice or other Spiritual Function, is actually admitted to it.

Perinictides (Gr.) certain Puſhes, or little Bliſters like Wheals.

Periocha (in Grammar) an Argument containing the Sum of a Diſcourſe; as thoſe of Terence's Comedies, &c.

Period, a perfect Sentence, Concluſion, or Cloſe; a full Stop at the end of any Sentence. In Arithmetick, a Period is a Diſtinction made by a Point or Comma, after every ſixth Place or Figure; and it's uſed in Notation or Numeration, for the readier diſtinguiſhing, reading and naming the ſeveral Figures in a great Number.

In Aſtronomy, Period is a certain Number of Revolutions of the Planets, &c. In Chronology, a Revolution of a certain Number of Years; as The Callippick, the Julian, and the Metonick Periods; which ſee in their proper Places. In the Art of Phyſick, it is taken for the Space between the coming of Fits, in intermitting Diſeaſes.

Periodical, belonging to, or that has its Periods; that returns at certain Times: In an Aſtronomical Senſe, that performs its Motion or Courſe regularly, ſo as to return again, and to diſpatch it always in the ſame Period or ſpace of time.

Periodical Motion of the Moon, is that whereby ſhe finiſhes her Courſe round about the Earth in a Month.

Periodical Month, See Month.

Periodus, a Period; alſo a Term in Phyſick: See Typus.

Periodus Sanguinis, a continual Circulation of the Blood, thro' all the Parts of the Body, to nouriſh and enliven it.

Periœci (in Geogr.) thoſe Inhabitants of the Earth, who live under the ſame Parallels, but oppoſite Semi-circles of the Meridian, and conſequently in the ſame Zone and Climate: So that they have the ſame Elevation of the Pole, the ſame length of Days and Nights; and the Seaſons of the Year at the ſame time; but when 'tis Noon with one, it is Midnight with the other.

Perioſteum (in Anat.) a thin Skin that immediately encloſes all the Bones of the Body, except ſome few, as the Teeth, the Bones of the Ear, &c. Its Uſe is to cover the Bones, and to bear up the Veſſels, which enter them for their Nouriſhment.

Peripatetick Philoſophy, that which is founded on the Principles of Ariſtotle and his Succeſſours, and ſo call'd from their Action of Walking while they ſtudy'd or taught.

Peripateticks, the Diſciples or Followers of Ariſtotle, Theophraſtus, Cratippus and other Philoſophers of that Sect, who us'd to diſpute walking in the Place at Athens, call'd Lycæum.

Periphery (in Geom.) the Circumference of a Circle, or of any other regular crooked-lin'd Figure.

Periphimoſis, See Paraphimoſis, and Phimoſis.

Periphraſis, Circumlocution; a Rhetorical Figure, when that which might have been ſaid in one or two Words is expreſs'd by many; as when we ſay, The firſt Founder of the Roman Empire, meaning Julius Cæſar.

Periphraſtical, belonging to a Periphraſis.

Periploca Apocynum, the Herb Dog's-bane.

Peripneumonia, an Inflammation of the Lungs and Breaſt, accompany'd with a ſharp Feaver, ſhortneſs of Breath, a Cough and an heavy Pain.

Peripneumonical, belonging to, or troubled with that Diſeaſe.

Peripteron or Periptere (in Architect.) a Temple or Place encompaſs'd about with Pillars and a kind of Wings, on the out-ſide on all the four Quarters, whereas in the Periſtyle, they ſtand on the inſide.

Periſcii or Periſcians (in Geogr.) People whoſe Shadows turn round about them in the ſpace of 24 Hours; and theſe are ſuch as inhabit the frozen Zones, within the Compaſs of the Arctick and Antarctick Circles; becauſe the Sun being above their Horizon for many Days without ever ſetting, the Shadow turns as the Sun does.

Periſcelis, a Garter; whence Eques aurea Periſcelidis, a Knight of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter.

Periſcyphiſmus (in Surgery) a particular manner of laying open the fore-part of the Head to the Scull.

To Periſh (Lat.) to go to ruin, wrack, or decay; to be ruin'd, to be caſt away; to dye or come to one's End.

Periſhable, apt to periſh, or come to Ruin, frail, brittle.

Periſſologia (Gr.) a Rhetorical Figure, when more Words are us'd than need; as Let Reuben live and let him not die. Alſo a Diſcourſe full of ſuperfluous, and unneceſſary Words.

Periſtaltick (in Anat.) as The Periſtaltick Motion of the Entrails, i. e. the quibbling or Worm-like crawling as it were of the Guts, by which means the Excrements are inſenſibly puſh'd from top to bottom and voided: It is alſo ſometimes taken for the Motion of the Veſſels whereby the Humours; as Water, Chyle, Blood, &c. aſcend and deſcend.

Periſtaphylinus Internus & Externus, two Muſcles of the Uvula, one of which ſerves to draw it forwards, and the other backwards.

Periſtereon, the Herb Vervain; alſo a Dove-houſe.

Periſtroma, rich Tapiſtry-work among the Ancients, with which their Rooms were hung, or their Floors or Beds ſpread. In Anatomy, Periſtromata are the Coats that cover the Bowels.

Periſtylos or Periſtyle, (in Architect.) a Place beſet round about with Pillars on the in-ſide of the Court: It is alſo ſometimes taken for a Row of Pillars, as well without as within any Building; as in Cloiſters, Galleries, &c. See Amphiproſtylos & Proſtylos.

Periſyſtole, (in Anat.) the time of Reſt between the Contraction and Dilatation of the Heart.

Perit, a certain Meaſure, being the Twentieth Part of a Droit, a Droit the Twenty Fourth Part of a Mite, a Mite the Twentieth Part of a Grain, a Grain the Twenty fourth Part of a Penny-weight, and a Penny-weight the Twentieth Part of an Ounce.

Peritius or Peritius Menſis, the Peritian Month, a Month among the Macedonians, which anſwer'd to that of February.

Peritonæum, (Gr. in Anat.) a Membrane, or Skin of an Oval Figure, conſiſting of two Coats which clothes the whole Lower Belly on the in-ſide, and its Entrails on the out-ſide.

Peritrochium, (in Mechanicks) a kind of Wheel. See Axis in Peritrochio.

Perittoma, whatever is ſuperfluous in the Body, the Excrement or Ordure left after Digeſtion; alſo the Relicks of Diſeaſes.

Perjuration or Pejeration, (Lat.) a being forſworn, by taking a falſe Oath.

Perjury, a Crime committed, when a Lawful Oath is adminiſter'd by one that has Authority, to any Perſon in any Judicial Proceedings, who ſwears abſolutely and falſely in a material Point, relating to the Iſſue or Cauſe in Queſtion.

Periwinkle, a ſmall Shell-fiſh call'd a Sea-ſnail or Whelk: Alſo an Herb that is hot almoſt in the ſecond Degree, of a ſomewhat dry and binding Quality.

Perizoma, (Gr.) a ſort of Garment that only ſerv'd to cover the Privities; alſo a Girdle fit for thoſe that are burſten.

To Perk up or Perk up again, to lift up the Head, or appear lively, to recover after Sickneſs.

Perkin, a proper Name of Men; as it were Peterkin, i. e. little Peter.

Perla, (Lat.) the Dragon-fly, Adders-bott, or Water-Butterfly; an Inſect.

Permagy, a ſort of Boat us'd at Conſtantinople.

Permanent, (Lat.) durable, continuing, laſting, conſtant.

Permeating, (in Philoſ.) piercing into and paſſing thro'; as when Smoak or Fumes get thro' the Pores of a Body.

Permeation, the Act of permeating, or paſſing through.

Per Minima, (in Chymiſtry and Phyſick) a Term made uſe of to expreſs the perfect Mixture of the ſmalleſt Particles of ſeveral Bodies or Ingredients: Thus if Silver and Lead be melted together, they'll mingle and be united with one another per minima.

Permiſſion, (Lat.) a Rhetorical Figure, when we profeſs to have deliver'd the whole Matter, and to leave all to the Auditors Judgment and Diſpoſal.

Permiſtion, a mixing or mingling together.

To Permit, to allow, ſuffer, let, or give leave.

Permutation, a permuting or exchanging. See Exchange.

Permutatione Archidiaconatus & Eccleſiæ eidem annexæ cum Eccleſia & Præbenda, a Writ to an Ordinary, enjoyning him to admit a Clerk to a Benefice, upon Exchange made with another.

To Permute, to exchange Church-Livings one for another.

Per my & per tout, (Fr. Law-Phraſe) a Joynt-Tenant is ſaid to be ſeized of the Land he holds joyntly, per my & per tout, i. e. to be poſſeſs'd of every Parcel, and of the whole.

Perna, (Lat.) a Gammon or Peſtle of Bacon; alſo a ſort of Shell-fiſh.

Pernancy, as Tithes received in Pernancy, i. e. Tithes taken, or that may be taken in kind.

Pernicious, (Lat. properly that which brings or cauſes Death) deſtructive, miſchievous, very hurtful.

Pernicity, a Word us'd by ſome Philoſophical Writers for Celerity, or extraordinary Swiftneſs of Motion.

Pernio, a preternatural Swelling caus'd by the Winter-Cold, eſpecially in the Hands or Feet; a Kibe or Chilblain.

† Pernoctation, a lodging or lying out all Night.

Pernour of Profits, (Fr. in Common-Law) he that takes or receives the Profits.

Perona, (Gr. in Anat.) the leſſer and more ſlender Bone of the Leg, which is faſten'd on the out-ſide, to the greater Bone call'd Tibia; whence the firſt and ſecond Muſcle in the Leg is nam'd Peroneus. This Bone is alſo termed Fibula in Latin.

Peroneus Primus, a Muſcle of the Tarſus, which ſome call Longus, as being the longeſt Muſcle ſeated on the Perona or Fibula: It begins from above half the upper Part of that Bone, and ends in the upper and hindermoſt Part of the Os Metatarſi of the great Toe.

Peroneus Secundus, a Muſcle of the Tarſus, by ſome call'd Semi-fibulatus, which ariſes above the middle of the outward Part of the Fibula, under the Belly of the Peroneus Primus, and is let into the upper and outward Part of the Os Metatarſi of the little Toe.

Peroration, (Lat.) the cloſe or laſt part of an Oration or Speech.

To Perpend, to ponder or poiſe thoroughly in one's Mind, to conſider of or deliberate upon ſtrictly, to examine or try exactly.

Perpender or Perpend-ſtone, a Stone fitted to the Thickneſs of a Wall, ſo as to ſhew its ſmoothed Ends on each ſide.

Perpendicular, that falls, or is directly downright: Among Aſtronomers, thoſe Stars that are Vertical, i. e. right over our Heads are ſaid to be perpendicular, becauſe their Beams fall directly upon us.

A Perpendicular or Perpendicular Line, (in Geom.) a Right Line, which ſtands ſo upon another, that the Angles on either ſide are equal: Such as in Mechanick Uſes is commonly call'd a Plumb-line.

A Right-line is ſaid to be Perpendicular to a Plane, when it is perpendicular to all the Lines it meets with in that Plane: And one Plane is Perpendicular to another, when a Line in one Plane is perpendicular to the other Plane.

Perpendicular or Right Plane, is when a Plane, after the manner of a well built Wall, inclines or leans on one Side no more than it does on the other.

Perpendicular Dial-plane, See Dial-planes.

Perpendicular to a Parabola, (in Conick Sections) is a Right-line, cutting that Figure at the Point wherein any other Right-line touches it, and which is alſo it ſelf perpendicular to that Tangent.

To Let fall a Perpendicular, to draw a Line perpendicularly upon another, from a given Point plac'd above it.

Perpendiculum, (Lat.) a Perpendicular, a Level, a Plumb-line.

Perpendiculum Chronometrum, the ſame as Pendulum; which See.

To Perpetrate, to commit a Crime.

Perpetual, continual, uninterrupted, conſtant; alſo never-ceaſing, everlaſting, endleſs.

Perpetual Cauſtick. See Infernal Stone.

Perpetual Glandules. See Glandules.

Perpetual Pills, the Regulus of Antimony made up into Balls of the Bigneſs of a Pill, which being ſwallow'd and voided fifty times, will purge every time, and yet there's hardly any ſenſible Loſs of Subſtance.

To Perpetuate, to make perpetual, to cauſe a thing to laſt or abide for ever.

Perpetuation, the Act of perpetuating.

Perpetuity, Continuance, without Interruption, Everlaſtingneſs, Endleſneſs: In a Law-ſenſe, it is us'd when a Settlement is made of an Eſtate in Tail, ſo that it cannot be undone or made void.

To Perplex, to entangle or confound, to diſquiet or trouble.

Perplexed, confounded, troubled; alſo difficult, hard to be underſtood, doubtful.

Perplexity, Irreſolution, Doubtfulneſs, Uncertainty; Trouble or Anguiſh of Mind.

Per quæ Servitia, a Judicial Writ iſſuing from the Note of a Fine, and lying for the Cogniſee of a Manour, Lordſhip, &c. to oblige the Tenant of the Land, at the time of the Fine levied, to attorn or make an Acknowledgment to him as Lord.

Perquiſite, (Law-Term) any thing that a Man gets by Induſtry, or purchaſes with his own Money, different from that which deſcends to him by Inheritance.

Perquiſites, are alſo all manner of Profits ariſing by the by, ſuch as proceed from an Office or Place, &c.

Perquiſites of Court, thoſe Profits that come to a Lord of a Manour, by Virtue of his Court-Baron, over and above the Yearly Revenues of his Land, as Fines of Copy-holds, Hariots, Waifs, Strays, &c.

Perquiſition, diligent Search, or ſtrict Enquiry.

Perrewigh, (old Word) imbroider'd with precious Stones.

Perriers, a ſort of great Guns that ſhoot Stones, us'd by Privateers.

Perruke or Perruque, a Periwig; an artificial Head of Hair, in Imitation of the Life.

Perry, a ſort of Drink made of Pears.

† Perſtrutation, (Lat.) ſearching thoroughly, or all over, ſcanning narrowly.

Per ſe, (i. e. by himſelf or itſelf) In Logick, we ſay a thing is conſider'd Per ſe, when 'tis taken in the Abſtract, and without any other things that may be joyn'd thereto: In Chymiſtry, a thing is ſaid To be diſtilled Per ſe, when 'tis done without the uſual Addition of other things with it: It is alſo ſaid, a Man performs ſome Action, or executes an Office Per ſe, when he does it himſelf in Perſon, and not by a Proxy or Deputy.

Perſe, Sky-colour, ſo call'd as it were the Colour the Perſians delight in.

Perſea, (Gr.) a Tree that grows in Egypt like a Peach-tree, and bears a Fruit of the Bigneſs of a Pear or Apple.

To Perſecute, (Lat. properly to follow cloſe or purſue) to oppreſs, vex, or trouble; to haunt, to teaz, to dun.

Perſecution, a perſecuting; any unjuſt or violent Purſuit or Oppreſſion; eſpecially upon account of Religion.

Perſeverance, Conſtancy, Firmneſs, Reſolution to abide in any Way of Living, or in any Opinion.

Perſeverant, perſevering, conſtant, ſtedfaſt, ſteady, reſolute.

To Perſevere, to continue or be ſtedfaſt, to hold on conſtantly.

Perſeus, a Northern Conſtellation, conſiſting of 38 Stars.

Perſica or Perſica Malus, (Lat.) the Peach-Tree.

Perſick Epocha. See Epocha.

Perſick Order, (in Architect.) is where the Columns or Pillars that ſupport the Entablature, are made in Shape of Men or Women; ſo call'd becauſe the Lacedemonians having defeated the Perſians rais'd Trophies in mark of their Victory, and repreſented them under the Figure of Slaves, bearing up their Porches, Arches or Houſes.

Perſicaria, the Herb Arſe-ſmart or Cule-rage, o a hot and dry Quality, being chiefly apply'd outwardly to Wounds, hard Swellings, and old Sores.

Perſicus Ignis, a Swelling, commonly call'd a Carbuncle.

To Perſiſt, to ſtand firm and fixed; to hold on in an Opinion, Demand or Allegation.

Perſon, a Term individually apply'd to every Man or Woman; as There were an hundred Perſons in that Aſſembly: Alſo the outward Form o Shape of one's Body; as I am extremely pleas'd wit his Perſon: Alſo a Term in Divinity; as The thre Perſons, or Subſiſtences of the Bleſſed Trinity.

The Perſons of a Verb, (in Grammar) ar three in Number, either Singular or Plural; as love, thou loveſt, he loves, &c.

Perſona Imperſonata. See Parſon Imparſonee.

Perſonable, having a good Preſence, Air o Meen, comely: In a Law-ſenſe, enabled to maintain Plea in Court; as Such a Foreigner was mad Perſonable by Parliament: Alſo a being in Capacity to take any thing granted or given.

Perſonage, the ſame with Perſon; as She was comely Perſonage; but it is more eſpecially taken fo an honourable or renowned Perſon; as Alexande and Charles V. were great Perſonages.

Perſonal, belonging to a Perſon: In a Law-ſenſe, it is oppoſed to Real; ſo Things, Goods o Chattels Perſonal, ſignify any moveable thing belonging to a Man, whether it be quick or dead.

Perſonal Chattels. See Chattels Perſonal.

Perſonal Tithes, are Tithes paid out of ſuch Profits as ariſe by Labour of a Man's Perſon; as by Buying and Selling, Merchandize, Handicrafts, &c.

Perſonal Verb, (in Grammar) a Verb that conjugated or declined with all the three Perſons and in both Numbers; whereas an Imperſonal Verb is only us'd in the Third Perſon Singular.

Perſonality or Perſonalty, the Abſtract o Perſonal, a being the Perſon: So an Action is ſaid To be in the Perſonalty, when it is brought againſt the right Perſon, or the Perſon againſt whom it lies in Law.

Perſonata or Perſolata, (Lat.) the great Clotburr, or Burr-dock, an Herb.

Perſonate, a ſort of Benefice or Title in a Collegiate Church.

To Perſonate, to act or repreſent a Perſon.

Perſonati, a Term us'd by ſome Herbaliſts fo ſuch Flowers as expreſs the gaping Mouths of ſom living Creatures.

Perſons ne Prebendaries ne ſeront chargee as Quinſimes, &c. (Fr.) a Writ that lies for Prebendaries, or other Spiritual Perſons, being diſtrained by the Sheriffs or Collectors of Fifteenths, fo the fifteenth part of their Goods, or to be contributary to Taxes.

Perſpective, a Mathematical Art, which ſhews how to repreſent Objects on a plain Surface, a naturally as they would appear to our Sight, if ſeen thro' that Plane, ſuppoſing it to be as tranſparent as Glaſs. This Science is either Speculative or Practical; alſo Aerial, Lineal and Military.

Aerial Perſpective, is a proportionable Diminution, or Leſſening of the Dies and Colours of a Picture, when the Objects are ſuppoſed to be at a very great diſtance.

Lineal Perſpective, is the Diminution of thoſe Lines in the Plan of a Picture, which repreſent other Lines very remote.

Military Perſpective, is when the Eye is ſuppoſed to be at an infinite diſtance from the Table, or Plane.

Practical Perſpective, is the Method of delineating, or making a Draught of that which is apparent to our Eyes, or that which our Underſtanding conceives with reſpect to Forms in which Objects are ſeen.

Speculative Perſpective, is that which explains the Reaſons of the different appearance of certain Objects, according to the diverſity of Places where the Eye is fix'd that beholds them.

Perſpicacious, quick-ſighted, quick-witted, quick of Judgment and Underſtanding.

Perſpicacity, quickneſs of Sight or Apprehenſion.

Perſpicil, a kind of Mirrour or Looking-glaſs, wherein the Shape of any thing is clearly repreſented.

Perſpicuity, Clearneſs, Plainneſs in Diſcourſing or Writing; as An Oratour ought to take care of nothing ſo much as of Perſpicuity of Style.

Perſpicuous, that is ſo clear that the Light may be ſeen thro' it; alſo eaſie to be apprehended, plain, evident, manifeſt.

Perſpiration, a breathing or ſteeming thro': Among Phyſicians, it is taken for a ſweating or breathing out of Humours thro' the Pores of the Body.

To Perſtringe, to touch lightly, or to glance at a thing in diſcourſe.

To Perſuade or Perſwade, to convince, ſatisfy, or make to believe; to adviſe, or put one upon.

Perſuaſion, the Act of perſuading; alſo Advice, Motion, Opinion, Belief.

Perſuaſive or Perſuaſory, that is apt, or of force to perſuade.

A Perſuaſive, a Diſcourſe, or Argument that tends to perſuade.

Perſultation, properly a leaping, skipping, or friſking over, as Cattel do in the Fields: In Surgery, it is taken for a burſting of Blood thro' the Veſſels, occaſion'd by their Thinneſs.

Pert, brisk or lively, talkative or ſaucy.

† Perterebration, a boring thro' with an Auger or Wimble; a drilling, or making a Hole thorough.

Pertica, (Lat.) a Pole to beat down Fruit with; a Perch, or long Staff to meaſure with; alſo a ſort of Comet otherwiſe call'd Veru: In our ancient Writers, Perticæ ſignifie the Perchers, larger Sconces or Candleſticks for Tapers or Lights, that were ſet on the Altars of Churches.

Perticata Terræ, the fourth part of an Acre of Land.

Pertinacious, (i. e. that holds faſt, and will not let go) obſtinate, ſtubborn, wilful, ſtiff in Opinion.

Pertinacity or Pertinacy, Obſtinacy, Stubbornneſs, &c.

Pertinence, Fitneſs, or Suitableneſs.

Pertinens, a Word us'd in old Latin Records, for a Kinſman or Kinſwoman.

Pertinent, that is to the purpoſe, fit, pat.

Pertingency, (in Philoſ.) a reaching to; as The pertingency of the Object to the ſenſitive Organ.

Pertingent, reaching to, touching.

Pertingent Lines, (in Heraldry) See entire Pertingent.

Pertranſient, paſſing or ſtriking through as a Colour does in a precious Stone.

Pertranſient Lines, (in Heraldry) See entire Pertranſient.

Pertuiſan or Partiſan, a kind of Spear like a Halbard, but having its Iron-head longer, broader and ſharper.

Perturbation, Diſturbance, Trouble, Diſorder.

Perturbator, a Diſturber; as He is a Preturbator of the Peace.

† To Pervade, to go over, or through.

Perverſe, wicked, froward, untoward, croſs-grain'd.

Perverſion, a perverting, overthrowing, or corrupting; as They endeavour the Perverſion of all.

Perverſity or Perverſneſs, Frowardneſs, Croſſneſs, ill Nature, Malice.

To Pervert, to turn upſide down, to reduce or miſ-lead; to debauch, corrupt or ſpoil.

† Perveſtigation, a diligent Inquiry, or Search after.

Pervicacious, froward, wilful, ſtubborn, headſtrong.

Pervicacy, Stiff-neckedneſs, Stubbornneſs, Wilfulneſs.

Pervigilium, (Lat.) a watching or ſitting up all Night; alſo a watching, or being reſtleſs for want of Sleep in a Diſeaſe.

Pervinca, the Herb Perwinkle.

Pervious, paſſable, eaſie to be paſſed thro'.

Pervis, See Parvis.

Peruſal, a peruſing or reading over; as The Peruſal of a Book.

To Peruſe, to look, or read over.

Peruvian Bark, otherwiſe call'd Quinquina and Jeſuits Powder, the Bark of a Tree, brought ſome years ſince, from Peru, a Province of America; being the moſt certain Remedy that ever was yet known, to hinder the Fits of Agues and Feavers.

Perwinkle. See Periwinkle.

Pes, (Lat.) the Foot, taken largely for the Thigh, Leg and Foot; alſo a Foot in Meaſure, or Twelve Inches.

Pes Anſerinus, Gooſe-foot; a ſort of Herb. Pes Columbinus, Doves-foot, an Herb. Pes Cornicis, the Herb Bucks-horn or Dogs-tooth. Pes Leonis, Pade-lion, or great Sanicle, an Herb. Pes Leporis, the Herb Hares-foot, or Hares-Cummin.

Pes Monetæ, (i. e. the Foot of Money) a Term anciently us'd to expreſs a true and reaſonable Adjuſtment of the real Value of all current Coins.

Peſa, a Wey, a certain Weight, or Meaſure of Cheeſe, Wooll, &c. See Penſa.

Peſage, a Cuſtom or Duty paid for the weighing of Merchandizes or Wares.

Peſſary, (Gr.) a kind of Suppoſitory, or Medicine made of the length of the middle Finger, to be put up into the Neck of the Womb, againſt ſeveral Diſeaſes that happen thereto.

Peſſona, (in old Latin Records) Maſt of the Foreſt; or Money taken for feeding Hogs with Maſt. Tempore Peſſona, in Maſt-time, or the Seaſon when Maſt is ripe.

Peſſulus or Peſſus, the ſame as Peſſary.

Peſt, Plague, Bane, Ruin; as He is the Peſt of the Common-wealth.

Peſt-Houſe, an Hoſpital for Perſons ſick of the Plague.

To Peſter, to plague, annoy, or trouble.

Peſterable Wares, ſuch Goods as are troubleſome, and take up much room.

Peſtiferous, bringing the Peſtilence or Plague; deſtructive, deadly.

Peſtilence or Plague, a Diſeaſe ariſing from an Infection in the Air, accompany'd with Botches, Boils, and ſeveral other dreadful Symptoms.

To Perpetrate, to commit a Crime.

Perpetual, continual, uninterrupted, conſtant; alſo never-ceaſing, everlaſting, endleſs.

Perpetual Cauſtick. See Infernal Stone.

Perpetual Glandules. See Glandules.

Perpetual Pills, the Regulus of Antimony made up into Balls of the Bigneſs of a Pill, which being ſwallow'd and voided fifty times, will purge every time, and yet there's hardly any ſenſible Loſs of Subſtance.

To Perpetuate, to make perpetual, to cauſe a thing to laſt or abide for ever.

Perpetuation, the Act of perpetuating.

Perpetuity, Continuance, without Interruption, Everlaſtingneſs, Endleſneſs: In a Law-ſenſe, it is us'd when a Settlement is made of an Eſtate in Tail, ſo that it cannot be undone or made void.

To Perplex, to entangle or confound, to diſquiet or trouble.

Perplexed, confounded, troubled; alſo difficult, hard to be underſtood, doubtful.

Perplexity, Irreſolution, Doubtfulneſs, Uncertainty; Trouble or Anguiſh of Mind.

Per quæ Servitia, a Judicial Writ iſſuing from the Note of a Fine, and lying for the Cogniſee of a Manour, Lordſhip, &c. to oblige the Tenant of the Land, at the time of the Fine levied, to attorn or make an Acknowledgment to him as Lord.

Perquiſite, (Law-Term) any thing that a Man gets by Induſtry, or purchaſes with his own Money, different from that which deſcends to him by Inheritance.

Perquiſites, are alſo all manner of Profits ariſing by the by, ſuch as proceed from an Office or Place, &c.

Perquiſites of Court, thoſe Profits that come to a Lord of a Manour, by Virtue of his Court-Baron, over and above the Yearly Revenues of his Land, as Fines of Copy-holds, Hariots, Waifs, Strays, &c.

Perquiſition, diligent Search, or ſtrict Enquiry.

Perrewigh, (old Word) imbroider'd with precious Stones.

Perriers, a ſort of great Guns that ſhoot Stones, us'd by Privateers.

Perruke or Perruque, a Periwig; an artificial Head of Hair, in Imitation of the Life.

Perry, a ſort of Drink made of Pears.

† Perſcrutation, (Lat.) ſearching thoroughly, or all over, ſcanning narrowly.

Per ſe, (i. e. by himſelf or it ſelf) In Logick, we ſay a thing is conſider'd Per ſe, when 'tis taken in the Abſtract, and without any other things that may be joyn'd thereto: In Chymiſtry, a thing is ſaid To be diſtilled Per ſe, when 'tis done without the uſual Addition of other things with it: It is alſo ſaid, a Man performs ſome Action, or executes an Office Per ſe, when he does it himſelf in Perſon, and not by a Proxy or Deputy.

Perſe, Sky-colour, ſo call'd as it were the Colour the Perſians delight in.

Perſea, (Gr.) a Tree that grows in Egypt like a Peach-tree, and bears a Fruit of the Bigneſs of a Pear or Apple.

To Perſecute, (Lat. properly to follow cloſe or purſue) to oppreſs, vex, or trouble; to haunt, to teaz, to dun.

Perſecution, a perſecuting; any unjuſt or violent Purſuit or Oppreſſion; eſpecially upon account of Religion.

Perſeverance, Conſtancy, Firmneſs, Reſolution to abide in any Way of Living, or in any Opinion.

Perſeverant, perſevering, conſtant, ſtedfaſt, ſteady, reſolute.

To Perſevere, to continue or be ſtedfaſt, to hold on conſtantly.

Perſeus, a Northern Conſtellation, conſiſting of 38 Stars.

Perſica or Perſica Malus, (Lat.) the Peach-Tree.

Perſick Epocha. See Epocha.

Perſick Order, (in Architect.) is where the Columns or Pillars that ſupport the Entablature, are made in Shape of Men or Women; ſo call'd becauſe the Lacedemonians having defeated the Perſian rais'd Trophies in mark of their Victory, and repreſented them under the Figure of Slaves, bearing up their Porches, Arches or Houſes.

Perſicaria, the Herb Arſe-ſmart or Cule-rage, o a hot and dry Quality, being chiefly apply'd outwardly to Wounds, hard Swellings, and old Sores

Perſicus Ignis, a Swelling, commonly call'd a Carbuncle.

To Perſiſt, to ſtand firm and fixed; to hold on in an Opinion, Demand or Allegation.

Perſon, a Term individually apply'd to every Man or Woman; as There were an hundred Perſon in that Aſſembly: Alſo the outward Form o Shape of one's Body; as I am extremely pleas'd wit his Perſon: Alſo a Term in Divinity; as The thre Perſons, or Subſiſtences of the Bleſſed Trinity.

The Perſons of a Verb, (in Grammar) ar three in Number, either Singular or Plural; as love, thou loveſt, he loves, &c.

Perſona Imperſonata. See Parſon Imparſonee.

Perſonable, having a good Preſence, Air o Meen, comely: In a Law-ſenſe, enabled to maintain Plea in Court; as Such a Foreigner was mad Perſonable by Parliament: Alſo a being in Capacit to take any thing granted or given.

Perſonage, the ſame with Perſon; as She was comely Perſonage; but it is more eſpecially taken fo an honourable or renowned Perſon; as Alexande and Charles V. were great Perſonages.

Perſonal, belonging to a Perſon: In a Law-ſenſe, it is oppoſed to Real; ſo Things, Goods o Chattels Perſonal, ſignify any moveable thing belonging to a Man, whether it be quick or dead.

Perſonal Chattels. See Chattels Perſonal.

Perſonal Tithes, are Tithes paid out of ſuc Profits as ariſe by Labour of a Man's Perſon; as b Buying and Selling, Merchandize, Handicrafts, &c

Perſonal Verb, (in Grammar) a Verb that i conjugated or declined with all the three Perſons and in both Numbers; whereas an Imperſonal Verb is only us'd in the Third Perſon Singular.

Perſonality or Perſonalty, the Abſtract o Perſonal, a being the Perſon: So an Action is ſai To be in the Perſonalty, when it is brought againſt th right Perſon, or the Perſon againſt whom it lies i Law.

Perſonata or Perſolata, (Lat.) the great Clotburr, or Burr-dock, an Herb.

Perſonate, a ſort of Benefice or Title in a Collegiate Church.

To Perſonate, to act or repreſent a Perſon.

Perſonati, a Term us'd by ſome Herbaliſts fo ſuch Flowers as expreſs the gaping Mouths of ſom living Creatures.

Perſons ne Prebendaries ne ſeront chargees as Quinſimes, &c. (Fr.) a Writ that lies for Prebendaries, or other Spiritual Perſons, being diſtrained by the Sheriffs or Collectors of Fifteenths, fo the fifteenth part of their Goods, or to be contributary to Taxes.

Perſpective, a Mathematical Art, which ſhew how to repreſent Objects on a plain Surface, a naturally as they would appear to our Sight, if ſee thro' that Plane, ſuppoſing it to be as tranſparen as Glaſs. This Science is either Speculative or Practical; alſo Aerial, Lineal and Military.

Aerial Perſpective, is a proportionable Diminution, or Leſſening of the Dies and Colours of a Picture, when the Objects are ſuppoſed to be at a very great diſtance.

Lineal Perſpective, is the Diminution of thoſe Lines in the Plan of a Picture, which repreſent other Lines very remote.

Military Perſpective, is when the Eye is ſuppoſed to be at an infinite diſtance from the Table, or Plane.

Practical Perſpective, is the Method of delineating, or making a Draught of that which is apparent to our Eyes, or that which our Underſtanding conceives with reſpect to Forms in which Objects are ſeen.

Speculative Perſpective, is that which explains the Reaſons of the different appearance of certain Objects, according to the diverſity of Places where the Eye is fix'd that beholds them.

Perſpicacious, quick-ſighted, quick-witted, quick of Judgment and Underſtanding.

Perſpicacity, quickneſs of Sight or Apprehenſion.

Perſpicil, a kind of Mirrour or Looking-glaſs, wherein the Shape of any thing is clearly repreſented.

Perſpicuity, Clearneſs, Plainneſs in Diſcourſing or Writing; as An Oratour ought to take care of nothing ſo much as of Perſpicuity of Style.

Perſpicuous, that is ſo clear that the Light may be ſeen thro' it; alſo eaſie to be apprehended, plain, evident manifeſt.

Perſpiration, a breathing or ſteeming thro': Among Phyſicians, it is taken for a ſweating or breathing out of Humours thro' the Pores of the Body.

To Perſtringe, to touch lightly, or to glance at a thing in diſcourſe.

To Perſuade or Perſwade, to convince, ſatisfy, or make to believe; to adviſe, or put one upon.

Perſuaſion, the Act of perſuading; alſo Advice, Motion, Opinion, Belief.

Perſuaſive or Perſuaſory, that is apt, or of force to perſuade.

A Perſuaſive, a Diſcourſe, or Argument that tends to perſuade.

Perſultation, properly a leaping, skipping, or friſking over, as Cattel do in the Fields: In Surgery, it is taken for a burſting of Blood thro' the Veſſels, occaſion'd by their Thinneſs.

Pert, brisk or lively, talkative or ſaucy.

† Perterebration, a boring thro' with an Auger or Wimble; a drilling, or making a Hole thorough.

Pertica, (Lat.) a Pole to beat down Fruit with; a Perch, or long Staff to meaſure with; alſo a ſort of Comet otherwiſe call'd Veru: In our ancient Writers, Perticæ ſignifie the Perchers, larger Sconces or Candleſticks for Tapers or Lights, that were ſet on the Altars of Churches.

Perticata Terræ, the fourth part of an Acre of Land.

Pertinacious, (i. e. that holds faſt, and will not let go) obſtinate, ſtubborn, wilful, ſtiff in Opinion.

Pertinacity or Pertinacy, Obſtinacy, Stubbornneſs, &c.

Pertinence, Fitneſs, or Suitableneſs.

Pertinens, a Word us'd in old Latin Records, for a Kinſman or Kinſwoman.

Pertinent, that is to the purpoſe, fit, pat.

Pertingency, (in Philoſ.) a reaching to; as The pertingency of the Object to the ſenſitive Organ.

Pertingent, reaching to, touching.

Pertingent Lines, (in Heraldry) See entire Pertingent.

Pertranſient, paſſing or ſtriking through as a Colour does in a precious Stone.

Pertranſient Lines, (in Heraldry) See entire Pertranſient.

Pertuiſan or Partiſan, a kind of Spear like a Halbard, but having its Iron-head longer, broader and ſharper.

Perturbation, Diſturbance, Trouble, Diſorder.

Perturbator, a Diſturber; as He is a Preturbator of the Peace.

† To Pervade, to go over, or through.

Perverſe, wicked, froward, untoward, croſsgrain'd.

Perverſion, a perverting, overthrowing, or corrupting; as They endeavour the Perverſion of all.

Perverſity or Perverſneſs, Frowardneſs, Croſſneſs, ill Nature, Malice.

To Pervert, to turn upſide down, to reduce or miſ-lead; to debauch, corrupt or ſpoil.

† Perveſtigation, a diligent Inquiry, or Search after.

Pervicacious, froward, wilful, ſtubborn, headſtrong.

Pervicacy, Stiff-neckedneſs, Stubbornneſs, Wilfulneſs.

Pervigilium, (Lat.) a watching or ſitting up all Night; alſo a watching, or being reſtleſs for want of Sleep in a Diſeaſe.

Pervinca, the Herb Perwinkle.

Pervious, paſſable, eaſie ro be paſſed thro'.

Pervis, See Parvis.

Peruſal, a peruſing or reading over; as The Peruſal of a Book.

To Peruſe, to look, or read over.

Peruvian Bark, otherwiſe call'd Quinquina and Jeſuits Powder, the Bark of a Tree, brought ſome years ſince, from Peru, a Province of America; being the moſt certain Remedy that ever was yet known, to hinder the Fits of Agues and Feavers.

Perwinkle. See Periwinkle.

Pes, (Lat.) the Foot, taken largely for the Thigh, Leg and Foot; alſo a Foot in Meaſure, or Twelve Inches.

Pes Anſerinus, Gooſe-foot; a ſort of Herb. Pes Columbinus, Doves-foot, an Herb. Pes Cornicis, the Herb Bucks-horn or Dogs-tooth. Pes Leonis, Pade-lion, or great Sanicle, an Herb. Pes Leporis, the Herb Hares-foot, or Hares-Cummin.

Pes Monetæ, (i. e. the Foot of Money) a Term anciently us'd to expreſs a true and reaſonable Adjuſtment of the real Value of all current Coins.

Peſa, a Wey, a certain Weight, or Meaſure of Cheeſe, Wooll, &c. See Penſa.

Peſage, a Cuſtom or Duty paid for the weighing of Merchandizes or Wares.

Peſſary, (Gr.) a kind of Suppoſitory, or Medicine made of the length of the middle Finger, to be put up into the Neck of the Womb, againſt ſeveral Diſeaſes that happen thereto.

Peſſona, (in old Latin Records) Maſt of the Foreſt; or Money taken for feeding Hogs with Maſt. Tempore Peſſonæ, in Maſt-time, or the Seaſon when Maſt is ripe.

Peſſulus or Peſſus, the ſame as Peſſary.

Peſt, Plague, Bane, Ruin; as He is the Peſt of the Common-wealth.

Peſt-Houſe, an Hoſpital for Perſons ſick of the Plague.

To Peſter, to plague, annoy, or trouble.

Peſterable Wares, ſuch Goods as are troubleſome, and take up much room.

Peſtiferous, bringing the Peſtilence or Plague; deſtructive, deadly.

Peſtilence or Plague, a Diſeaſe ariſing from an Infection in the Air, accompany'd with Botches, Boils, aud ſeveral other dreadful Symptoms.

Peſtilence-wort, a kind of Herb.

Peſtilent, plaguy, deſtructive, dangerous, miſchievous; as a A peſtilent Hereſy, a peſtilent Fellow, &c.

Peſtilential, belonging to or partaking of the Nature of the Plague.

Peſtilential Bubo. See Bubo Peſtilential.

Peſtilential Feaver, is that which does not only afflict the Patient with a bare Diſtemper, or vehement Heat ariſing from Putrefaction, but alſo with a malignant and venomous Quality.

Peſtis, (Lat.) a Peſtilence, Plague or Infection.

Peſtle, an Inſtrument to pound or bruiſe with in a Mortar; alſo the end of a Leg of Pork.

Pet, as To take Pet or be in a Pet, to be offended, to ſnuff at, to be angry.

Petach. See Patache.

Petala, (Gr. among Herbaliſts) thoſe fine coloured Leaves of which the Flowers of all Plants are made up; whence Plants are diſtinguiſh'd into Monopetalous, Tripetalous, Pentapetalous and Polypetalous; which See in their proper Places.

Petaliſmus, a kind of Baniſhment among the Syracuſians, for five Years; which was inflicted by writing the Offender's Name upon an Olive-leaf. See Oſtraciſmus.

Petaloides, a ſort of Urine which ſeems to have little Leaves or Scales in it.

Petarade, (Fr.) a Horſe's farting and yerking out behind.

Petard, an Engine of Metal in Shape of a Cap or high-crown'd Hat, with narrow Brims, from ſeven to eight Inches deep, and five broad at the Mouth. 'Tis charg'd with fine Powder well beaten, and afterwards fix'd to a thick Plank call'd the Madrier, in order to break down Gates, Port-cullices, Draw-bridges, Barriers, &c. Theſe Petards are alſo made uſe of in Counter-mines to break thro' into the Enemies Galleries and ſpoil their Mines.

Petardeer, he that manages or applies a Petard.

Pete. See Peat and Petus.

Petechialis Febris, a kind of malignant Feaver, otherwiſe call'd Pulicaris; which See.

Peter, the Name of one of the Twelve Apoſtles, derived from the Greek Word Petra, a Rock; and ſince a common Chriſtian Name of Men.

St. Peter ad Vincula. See Gule of Auguſt.

St. Peter's-Fiſh, a ſort of Sea-fiſh.

Peter-Men, thoſe who formerly us'd unlawful Arts and Engines, for catching Fiſh in the River Thames.

Peter-Pence, a Tribute given to the Pope by Inas King of the Weſt-Saxons, during his Pilgrimage at Rome, A. C. 720; which was a Penny for every Houſe: It was alſo call'd Romefeoh, i.e. the Fee of Rome, Romeſcot, and Rome-penny.

St. Peter's Wort, an Herb like St. John's Wort, only the Leaves are a little broader, and not ſo much pierced through.

Petigo, a ſort of Diſeaſe, a Running-ſcab; See Lichen.

Petit, (Fr.) petty, little, ſmall. See Petty.

Petit Cape or Petty Cape, a Writ that lies when any Action Real is brought, and the Tenant appears, but afterwards makes Default. See Cape.

Petits Choux, (Fr. in Cookery) a ſort of Paſte for garniſhing, made of fat Cheeſe, Flower, Eggs, Salt, &c. bak'd in a Pye-pan, and Ic'd over with fine Sugar.

Petitio, (Lat.) a Demand or Requeſt; alſo among the Romans, a canvaſſing or ſuing for an Office or Place.

Petitio Induciarum, a Civil-Law-Term. See Emparlance.

Petitio Principii, (in Logick) when a Diſputant ſuppoſes that for a Principle certain and granted, which is uncertain, and it behoves him to prove: It is commonly call'd, Begging the Queſtion.

Petition, a Supplication or Requeſt made by an Inferiour to a Superiour; eſpecially one having Juriſdiction and Authority.

To Petition, to preſent or put up a Petition.

Petitioner, he or ſhe that puts up a Petition.

Petra, (Gr.) a Rock, a great Stone. In our old Records it is taken for a ſort of Weight commonly call'd a Stone, which in ſome Places conſiſts of Sixteen, in others of Fourteen, Twelve or Eight Pounds.

Petrary, an Engine anciently made uſe of to caſt Stones. See Mangon.

Petrification, the Act of petrifying, the changing of a mixt Body into a ſtony Subſtance.

To Petrify, to turn into, or to grow into Stone: Thus Ruſhes, Graſs, or Sticks lying in petrifying Springs of Water, are ſaid to be chang'd into Stone; whereas they are only incruſtated or cover'd all over with a ſtony Coat, proceeding from abundance of ſtony Matter diſſolved in the Water during its Paſſage thro' the Earth.

Petrobuſians, a ſort of Hereticks, that deny'd the keeping of Feaſts.

Petroleum, Rock-oil, a certain Liquor that flows out of a Rock, of which there is a Spring in Zant and other Iſlands of the Archipelago: It quickly takes Fire, and burns even in the Water.

Petronel, a kind of Harquebuſs or Horſeman's Gun, ſo call'd becauſe it is hang'd at the Breaſt.

Petroſelinon, a kind of Parſley growing amidſt Rocks; the Herb and Root is good to expel Wind, provokes Urine, and opens Stoppages of the Liver and Spleen.

Petroſum Os, (in Anat. i.e. the rocky Bone) the inner Proceſs of the Bones of the Temples, ſo call'd by reaſon of its Hardneſs and Craggedneſs.

Petterero. See Pederero.

Pettifogging, practiſing as a Pettifogger.

Pettifogger, an ignorant and troubleſome Lawyer or Attorney; from the Dutch Word Fogen, To comply or inſinuate; or the Saxon, Fogere; a Suitor Sollicitour.

Pettiſh, apt to take pet, or be angry, waſpiſh peeviſh, froward.

Pettitoes, Pigs Feet ſous'd.

Petto, (Ital.) as To keep a thing in Petto, i.e. to keep it in one's Breaſt.

Petty, (Fr.) little, ſmall; as A Petty King or Prince.

Petty Bag, as The Clerks of the Petty Bag, three Officers of Chancery, who record the Return of all Inquiſitions out of every Shire; make all Patents of Cuſtomers, Gaugers, Controllers, &c. each Record being put into a little Leathern Bag; whence they have their Name.

Petty Cape. See Petit Cape.

Petty Cotty, a ſort of Herb.

Petty Larceny, ſmall Theft. See Larceny.

Petty Patees, (in the Confectionary Art) a ſort of ſmall Pyes made of March-pane, and fill'd with Sweet-meats.

Petty Sergeanty or Petit Sergeanty. See Sergeanty.

Petty Singles, (in Falconry) the Toes of a Hawk.

Petty Tally, (in Sea-Affairs) a competent Proportion or Allowance of Proviſions or Victuals, according to the number of the Ship's Company.

Petty Treaſon or Petit Treaſon. See Treaſon.

Petulancy, (Lat.) Wantonneſs, Sauc1neſs, Rudeneſs.

Petulant, wanton, malapert, rude.

Petum, (Lat.) Tobacco; a well known Plant.

Petus or Peta, (in old Records) Peat, a ſort of Earth apt to burn, and dug up in ſmall pieces for Fuel.

Peucedanum, (Gr.) Maiden-weed, Hogs-fennel or Sulphur-wort, an Herb good againſt Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, a Cough, Stoppages of the Liver, Spleen, Reins, &c.

Pevetts, are the ends of the Spindle of any Wheel in a Watch; and the Holes into which they run, are call'd Pevett-holes.

Pewet or Puet, a kind of Bird.

Pezica, (Gr.) a ſort of Muſhroom.

Phace, the Lentil, a kind of Pulſe.

Phacos, the ſame; alſo a Spot in the Face like a Nit; the ſame as Lenticula and Lentigo.

Phænomena, (in Aſtron.) Appearances of Meteors, or any other Signs in the Air or Heavens.

Phænomenon, (in natural Philoſ.) any Appearance, Effect, or Operation of a natural Body which offers it ſelf to the Conſideration of a curious Inquirer.

Phagedæna, a Diſeaſe in the Stomach, an immoderate Appetite that cannot be ſatisfy'd; alſo a ſort of running Canker that eats the Fleſh to the very Bone.

Phagedænica or Phagedenicks, Medicines that eat down the ſuperfluous Fleſh of Ulcers, &c.

Phagedenick Water, a Mixture of Sublimate corroſive and Lime-water, which eats away proud Fleſh, and is us'd for cleanſing old Ulcers; as alſo in a Gangrene, the Itch, &c.

Phagrus, the Hake; a Sea-fiſh.

Phalacrocorax, the Cormorant, a Water-fowl, which in Cornwall is call'd the Shag.

Phalacroſis, a falling off the Hair, Baldneſs.

Phalænæ, a ſort of Inſects call'd Souls, which fly for the moſt part in the Night.

Phalanga, a ſmooth Club anciently us'd in War by the Africans; alſo a Leaver to lift up any weighty thing.

Phalangium, a venomous Spider, of which there are ſeveral ſorts.

Phalangium or Phalangites, an Herb ſaid to cure the biting of a Tarantula.

Phalangoſis, a Fault in the Eye-lid, when there are two rows of Hair; or when the Hair grows inward, and offends the Eyes.

Phalanx, (among the Ancients) a great ſquare Battalion ſet in cloſe Array, with the Soldiers Shields joyn'd and Pikes turn'd croſs-ways; ſo that it was almoſt impoſſible to break thro' them: This ſort of Battalion was invented by the Macedonians, and conſiſted of 8000 Men. Phalanx is alſo taken by ſome Anatomical Writers, for the Order and Rank obſerv'd in the Finger-bones.

Phalaris, a kind of Water-fowl; alſo the Herb Canary-ſeed, or Quaking-graſs.

Phaleucian Verſe, a Greek or Latin Verſe, conſiſting of eleven Syllables, or five Feet, viz. a Spondee, a Dactyle, and three Trochees.

Phanatick, that has vain Viſions and Apparitions; inſpired or pretending to Revelations and new Lights. See Fanatick.

Phantaſm or Phantome, an Apparition, a Viſion of Night-Ghoſts; an idle Conceit between ſleeping and waking.

Phantaſtical Colours, ſuch as appear in the Rain-bow, or are produc'd by a Triangular Glaſs-Priſm, the Surface of thin Muſcovy-Glaſs, &c. They had this Name from the Peripatetick Philoſophers, who erroneouſly took them to be no real Colours.

Phantaſtry, a being fantaſtical, or whimſical.

Phantaſy, an inward Senſe or Imagination, whereby any thing is repreſented to the Mind, or imprinted on it.

Pharaoh, (Heb. a making bare, or uncovering) a general Name or Title anciently belonging to the Kings of Egypt, as Cæſar to the Roman Emperours.

Phare, a Watch-Tower, or high Place by the Sea-coaſt, wherein Lights are continually kept, to guide Ships into a Haven; ſo call'd from Pharos, an Iſland in the Canopick Mouth of the River Nile, where ſuch a Tower was built by Soſtratus, the famous Architect of Gnidos.

Phariſaical, belonging to the Phariſees.

Phariſaiſm, the Profeſſion, or Opinions of that Sect.

Phariſees, a Sect of the Jews ſo call'd from the Hebrew Word Phareſh, i. e. to ſeparate; becauſe they apply'd themſelves more eſpecially to the Study of the Law, and were diſtinguiſh'd from others, by pretending to more Holineſs than the reſt of the People.

Pharmaceutice, (Gr.) the Knowledge of Medicines, or Art of compounding them.

Pharmaceutick, belonging to Medicines, or Drugs.

Pharmacopœia, a Diſpenſatory, or Collection of Medicines.

Pharmacopola, one that ſells Medicines, an Apothecary.

Pharmacum, any kind of Medicine, a Medicinal Compoſition or Remedy, a Potion; alſo Poiſon.

Pharmacy, that part of Phyſick which teaches the Choice, Preparation and Mixture of Medicines; the Apothecary's Art; to which may be added the Chymical Reſolution of Bodies, in order to make good Medicines out of them.

Pharſang or Paraſang, a ſort of Meaſure us'd among the ancient Perſians. See Paraſanga.

Pharyngetrum, (Gr. in Anat.) a Word ſometimes us'd for the Pharynx, and ſometimes for the Bone Hyoides.

Pharyngotomia. See Laryngotomia.

Pharynx, the upper part of the Oeſophagus, or Gullet at the Mouth of the Stomach, which conſiſts of three Pair of Muſcles that open it in the Action of Swallowing; whereto ſome add an odd Sphincter-Muſcle, which ſerves to ſtraighten it.

Phaſeolus, Faſels, long Peas, or Kidney-beans, a kind of Pulſe.

Phaſes, Appearances: In Aſtronomy, the ſeveral Poſitions in which the Moon and other Planets appear to our Sight, as when they ſeem to be horned, dark, half-inlightened, or full of Light.

Phaſganium, the Herb Glader, or Sword-graſs.

Phaſianus, the Pheaſant, a Bird ſo call'd from Phaſis, now Faſſo, a River of Colchis, near the Mouth of which they are obſerv'd to reſort in great Flocks.

Phaſma, an Apparition, a Viſion, or Sight.

Phegapyrum or Fagopyrum, Buck-wheat, Brank or Crop, us'd for Bread among poor People, and proper to fatten Chickens.

Phellandrium, an Herb like Parſley, good to break the Stone in a Humane Body.

Phellodrys, a kind of Cork-tree like an Oak.

Phellos, the Cork-tree, the Bark of which ſoaked in hot Water, ſtops a Flux of Blood.

Phengites, a ſort of Marble that ſhines with yellow and tranſparent Veins.

Phenomena. See Phænomena.

Pheon, (in Heraldry) the barbed Head of a Dart, or Arrow; as He bears Sable a Feſs Ermin, between three Pheons.

Phiala, (Gr.) a Vial, or Veſſel made of Glaſs to drink out of.

Philadelphus, that loves his Brother, or Brothers; alſo the Herb Cleavers or Gooſe-graſs.

Philanthropos, that loves Men, courteous, kind; alſo a ſort of Burr ſo call'd, becauſe it ſticks to People's Cloths.

Philanthropy, a generous Love for Mankind in general; Humanity, Courteſy, Kindneſs.

Philautia, Self-love.

Philetæria, the Love that we ſhew to our Companions and Friends; alſo an Herb call'd wild Sage, a kind of Burr.

Philibert, (Germ. bright and famous) a proper Name of Women.

Philip, the Name of many famous Men, particularly of Alexander the Great's Father, as alſo one of the Apoſtles, and others mention'd in the New Teſtament; and ſince, a common Chriſtian Name, which in Greek ſignifies a Lover of Horſes: There is alſo a Gold-Coin ſo call'd, worth three Shillings Sterling.

Philologer, an Humaniſt, a Man of Letters.

Philological, belonging to Philology.

Philology, (i. e. Love of Learning or Diſcourſe) the Study of Humanity, good Literature, or Skill in the Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Philonium, an Opiate Medicine, of which there are two ſorts, viz. the Philonium Romanum and Perſicum.

Philoſopher, one that is skill'd in, or applies himſelf to the Study of Philoſophy.

Philoſophers Stone, See Tranſmutation of Metals.

Philoſophical, belonging to that Science.

Philoſophical Calcination. See Calcination.

Philoſophical Egg, (among Chymiſts) a thin Glaſs-Veſſel ſhap'd like an Egg, having a long Neck or Stem, and us'd in Digeſtions that take up a conſiderable time.

Philoſophical Tree, See Diana's Tree.

To Philoſophize, to play the Philoſopher, to diſpute, or argue like a Philoſopher.

Philoſophy, (i. e. Love, or Study of Wiſdom) the Knowledge of things Natural and Moral, grounded upon Reaſon and Experience.

Philoſophy Mechanical, See Mechanical Philoſophy.

Philter or Philtrum, a Love-Potion, or Love-Powder; any kind of Medicine, or a Charm that ſerves to procure Love: Among ſome Anatomiſts, it is taken for the Hollow that divides the upper Lip.

Philyra or Philura, the Linden-tree; alſo the thin Skin between the Bark and Wood of that Tree, of which Ropes were anciently made.

Philyræa, See Phyllyræa.

Phimoſis, a binding or tying up with a Bridle or Rein. In Surgery, a binding or preſſing together, caus'd by a kind of hard Fleſh in the Fundament: Alſo when the Glans of the Yard is ſo ſtraightly bound by the Præputium that it cannot be uncover'd: Alſo the turning up of the Eye-lids, occaſion'd by an Inflammation. See Paraphimoſis.

Phineas (Heb. bold Countenance) the Son of Eleazar the Prieſt, who ſhew'd his Zeal in killing Zimri and Cosbi, as they were committing Fornication before the People of Iſrael.

Phleborrhagia, the breaking, or burſting of a Vein.

Phlebotomum, an Inſtrument to let Blood with, a Fleam, or Lancet.

Phlebotomus, a Surgeon that lets Blood.

Phlebotomy, a Diſcharge of Blood procur'd by the artificial cutting or opening of a Vein, in order to reſtore Health.

Phlegm, one of the Humours of the Body.

Phlegm or Water, one of the five Chymical Principles; the Water that comes firſt in the Diſtillation of Acid Spirits, &c.

Phlegm of Vitriol, the Moiſture that is drawn off when calcin'd Vitriol is diſtill'd in order to get its Spirit and Oil. It is us'd to waſh ſore Eyes, &c.

Phlegma, (Gr.) Inflammation, Heat; alſo the Humour call'd Phlegm.

Phlegmagoga or Phlegmagogues, Medicines to draw away, or purge Phlegm.

Phlegmaſia, an Inflammation, Heat, or Burning.

Phlegmatick, full of, or troubled with Phlegm.

Phlegmon, (in Surgery) a Swelling that proceeds from a too great flowing of the Blood in the Fleſh or Muſcles, cauſing Heat, Redneſs, Beating and Pain.

Phlegmonodes, an Inflammation like the former.

Plegmonodes Febris, a Feaver with an Inflammation of the Blood.

Phlegontis, a precious Stone, in which appears as it were, a Flame of Fire.

Phloginos, a precious Stone of a Flame-Colour.

Phlogites, a precious Stone that reſembles flaming Fire.

Phlogium, a ſort of Violet, a Flower.

Phlogoſis, an Inflammation; eſpecially a light one in the Eyes, with a ſmall Pain and Redneſs, which ſometimes turns to a real Ophthalmy, and is the Original of it.

Phlomis, a kind of Flower, which ſome take for a Primroſe.

Phlox, Flame; alſo a Flower of no Smell, but of a fine Flame-colour.

Phlyctæna, a Swelling that riſes with Bliſters, call'd Wild-fire; a Wheal or Puſh fill'd with a white, and ſomewhat yellowiſh Humour; a Pock, or Pimple with Matter in it: Alſo a little Ulcer in the Horny Coat of the Eye.

Phlyctænodes, certain hot watery Puſhes like the former.

Phocæna, the Porpois, a Sea-fiſh, being a kind of Dolphin, but of a thicker and ſhorter Body.

Phœnicea, a kind of Herb, wild Oats.

Phœnicobalanus, the Fruit of the Egyptian Palm-tree; a ſort of Date, which when ripe, looks black and is very ſtrong.

Phœnicurus, the Red-tail, or Red-ſtart; a Bird.

Phœnigmus, a Medicine, that cauſes the Body to break out in red Wheals and Puſhes.

Phœnix, an Arabian Bird about the bigneſs of an Eagle; of which 'tis reported, There is but one of them in the World at a time, and that having liv'd Five Hundred Years, ſhe builds a Neſt of combuſtible Spices, which taking fire from the Sun, ſhe fans it with her Wings, and burns her ſelf therein; but out of her Aſhes there ariſes a Worm, and from that Worm a new Phœnix: Alſo the Name of one of the Southern Conſtellations; alſo a Palm-tree or Date-tree.

Phœnix Inſurance-Office, the firſt Office tha was ſet up in London for the Inſuring of Houſes from Accidents by Fire, and ſo call'd from its Emble or Device: The Rate for Inſuring 100 Pounds on Brick-Houſe, is 6 Shillings for one Year, 12 Shillings for two Years, 18 Shillings for three Years 19 Shillings and 6 Pence for four Years, Pound 10 Shillings for ſeven Years, and 2 Pounds 1 Shilling for eleven Years: The Number of Houſe ſo inſured ſince Anno Dom. 1681, is Ten Thouſand

Phonicks, the ſame as Acouſticks; which See.

Phoſphorus, (i. e. bringer of Light) the Plan Venus, ſo call'd when it riſes before the Sun, an Heſperus, at its Appearance after Sun-ſet; the Morning-ſtar, or Day-ſtar: Alſo a Subſtance Chymically prepar'd, which being ſet in the Light, o Air, will ſhine in the Dark; and of this there ar ſeveral kinds.

Phoxinus, a kind of River-fiſh, unknown to us, but call'd Raſiere in French, and Bambela by the Italians. Phoxinus lævis, the Minnow.

Phragmites, a Sea-reed or Cane.

Phrantick. See Frantick.

Phraſe, Expreſſion, form or manner of Speech.

To Phraſe it, to expreſs a thing after a particular manner.

Phraſeology, a Collection of Phraſes, or elegant Expreſſions in any Language; a Phraſe-Book.

Phrenes, (in Anat.) the Membranes about the Heart; alſo the Diaphragm or Midriff.

Phreneſis or Phrenitis, Frenzy or Dotage, a Diſtemper accompany'd with a continual Feaver, as alſo often with Madneſs and Anger; which does not proceed (as the Ancients thought) from an Inflammation of the Brain, but from too much Heat in the Animal Spirits.

Phrenetick, belonging to, or troubled with a Frenzy.

Phrenetick Nerves, otherwiſe call'd Stomachick, thoſe Nerves that ſpring from the ſixth Pair, or Dr. Willis's eighth Pair: They go down between the Skins of the Mediaſtinum, and ſpread forth Branches into them.

Phrenick Veſſels, the Veins and Arteries that paſs thro' the Diaphragm, Mediaſtinum and Pericardium.

Phrenitis. See Phreneſis.

Phrenſy. See Frenzy.

Phrice, Horrour, Dread, Fright, Trembling.

Phricodes, a Feaver, during which, beſides the Heat, the Patient is diſturb'd with frightful Imaginations.

Phryganides, the Cades-fly; an Inſect.

Phryganion, the Cades-worm.

Phrygian Mood, (among the Ancients) a Warlike kind of Muſick, fit for Trumpets, Hautboys, &c. which ſerv'd to raiſe the Minds of Men for undertaking Military Atchievements or Martial Exerciſes: Alſo a chearful, ſprightly Meaſure in dancing.

Phrynion, an Herb or Shrub good againſt the Poiſon of a Toad.

Phrynos, the biggeſt ſort of Frog that lives amidſt Briers and Brambles, and is venomous.

Phtharticum, a corrupting Medicine.

Phthiriaſis, the louſy Diſeaſe; alſo a ſcaly Scab on the Eye-brows.

Phthiroctonon, the Herb Staves-acre, ſo call'd becauſe the Seed of it kills Lice.

Phthiſical or Tiſſical, belonging to, or troubled with the Conſumption of the Lungs.

Phthiſis, the Phthiſick or Tiſſick, a Conſumption of the whole Body, when the Lungs are ulcerated and corrupted; which is accompany'd with a ſlow continued Feaver, ſtinking Breath and a Cough.

Phthoe, the ſame as Phthiſis.

Phthongus, a Sound, Tune or Note in Muſick.

Phthora, Corruption, Deſtruction, great Slaughter; alſo a ſort of Wolf-bane, an Herb.

Phu, a kind of wild Nard; a Shrub.

Phycis, a Fiſh that makes a Neſt of Sea-weed, and there lays her Spawn.

Phycitis, a precious Stone, having the Colour of Sea-weed.

Phycos thalaſſion, a ſort of Sea-weed.

Phygethlon, (in Surgery) a Swelling that proceeds from an Inflammation of the Glandules or Kernels, whereby Nature drives out ſomething; as about the Groin, in the Plague.

Phygeton, a ſmall red Swelling in the Glandules of the Skin, which cauſes a pricking Pain.

Phylacteries, (among the Jews) certain Parchment-ſcrolls, having the Ten Commandments, or ſome other Paſſages of Scripture written on them, which the Phariſees us'd to wear about their Forehead, Neck and Arms, and on the Hem of their Garments: Alſo Preſervatives or Charms againſt Poiſon or Witchcraft.

Phyllandrion, a kind of Herb that grows in Fens and Marſhes.

Phyllanthion, an Herb anciently made uſe of to die Purple.

Phyllis, (i. e. a Leaf) a proper Name of Women, often apply'd to Shepherdeſſes by Virgil and other Poets.

Phyllitis, the Herb Harts-tongue, that has only Leaves, without Stalk, Flower or Seed: It is good againſt Swellings of the Spleen, a Looſeneſs, ſpitting of Blood, &c.

Phyllon, the Leaf of a Tree, &c. alſo a leavy Herb, which ſome take for Knot-graſs.

Phyllyrea, Mock-Privet, a Shrub, the Leaves of which are of a bright green Colour like the Olive: It is in great Requeſt for making Hedges in fine Gardens.

Phyma, a Swelling, of which there are five ſorts, viz. Callus, Furunculus, Hydroa, Varus, and Verruca; See them under thoſe Words. Others only reckon it a Swelling in the Glandules, which quickly comes to run with Matter.

Phymatodes, a Swelling like the former.

Phyſalis, the Plant call'd Hops.

Phyſalos, a Toad.

Phyſema, Mock-Pearl, an empty Bubble inſtead of Pearl; alſo the Roſin of the Pine-tree: Alſo a ſwelling or puffing up in any part of the Body; as a Tympany.

Phyſeter, the Whirl-pool, puffing or ſpouting Whale, ſo call'd becauſe it ſpouts out more Water than the other ſorts of Whales.

Phyſica, Phyſicks or Natural Philoſophy; or Books treating of that Subject.

Phyſical, belonging to Natural Philoſophy, or to the Art of Phyſick; as Phyſical Motion, a Phyſical Remedy, &c.

Phyſical Diviſion. See Diviſion Phyſical.

Phyſical Proſthaphæreſis. See Equation Aſtronomical.

Phyſician, a Doctor or Profeſſour of Phyſick.

Phyſick, the Art of curing Diſeaſes, and preſerving Health; alſo a Remedy in general, a Purge.

Phyſicks or Natural Philoſophy, a Science which ſhews the Nature of Things, with their various Cauſes, Effects, Properties, Motions, and Operations.

Phyſiognomer or Phyſiognomiſt, one skill'd in Phyſiognomy.

Phyſiognomicks, ſuch Signs as are taken from the Countenance of a ſick Perſon, ſo as to make ſome Judgment of his Diſtemper.

Phyſiognomy, an Art which diſcovers or gueſſes at the Natures, Conditions and Fortunes of People, by obſerving the Countenance and Diſpoſition of their Members: Sometimes it is taken for the Aſpect, Countenance or Look it ſelf.

Phyſiologer, one that is verſ'd in Phyſiology.

Phyſiological, belonging to that Science.

Phyſiology, a Diſcourſe of Natural Things; Phyſicks or Natural Philoſophy, being either General, that relates to the Affections and Properties of Matter or Body in general; or elſe Special and Particular, which conſiders Matter as formed or diſtinguiſhed into ſuch and ſuch Species or Kinds.

Phyſiology, is alſo a part of Phyſick, which treats of the Conſtitution and Structure of a Humane Body and its ſeveral Parts, eſpecially ſo far as it is in its Natural State; producing Reaſons for its reſpective Functions and Operations.

Phyſis, Nature; alſo the natural or privy Parts.

Phyſocele. See Pneumatocele.

Phyteuma, a ſort of Toad-flax; an Herb.

Phytologia, a Diſcourſe or Treatiſe of Plants or Herbs.

Piacular, (Lat.) ſerving for an Atonement, or that has Power to atone for.

Pia Mater, (in Anat.) the inmoſt Film or Skin which incloſes the Brain. See Mater Tennis and Meninges.

Piannet, the leſſer Wood-pecker, a Bird ſpeckled with Black and White on the Wings.

Piaſter, a Foreign Coin about the Value of a Crown in Engliſh Money.

Piazza, (Ital.) a broad open Place, as a Market-place: Alſo the Walks about a Place, ſet with Pillars; as The Piazza in Covent-Garden.

Pica, (Lat.) the Pye or Mag-pye, a Bird; alſo the Longing of Women with Child: Alſo a kind of Printing-Letter; the ſixth Character in order of Size from Pareil; ſmall Pica being a Degree leſs, and Double Pica, a third Degree beyond it.

Pica Glandaria, the Jay; a Bird.

Picard, (in old Statutes) a ſort of Boat of fifteen Tun or more uſ'd on the River Severn.

Picarium or Bicarium, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Bowl or Cup with two Ears or Handles.

Piccage. See Pickage.

Picea, (Lat.) the Pitch-tree or Roſin-tree.

Picheria, (in old Records) a Pitcher, a Pot.

Pick, a ſort of Tool uſ'd by Carvers.

Pick-Purſe, a kind of Herb.

Pickadil, (Dutch) the Hem about the Skirt of a Garment; the Extremity or utmoſt end of any thing: Whence a great Gaming-Houſe built by one Higgins a Taylor, famous for making ſuch old-faſhion'd Skirts, was call'd Pickadilly, and a Street in the Suburbs of London is ſtill known by that Name.

Pickage, Money paid in a Fair for breaking up the Ground, in order to ſet up a Stand, Booth or Stall.

Pickaroon, a ſort of Pirate-ſhip.

To Pickeer, to skirmiſh; as when particular Perſons fight between two Armies, before the main Battel is begun.

Pickery, an American Beaſt like a Hog.

Picket or Piquet, (Fr.) a Stake ſharp at one end, and commonly pointed with Iron, which is made uſe of by Engineers to mark out the Ground and Angles of a Fortification: There are alſo large Pickets, ramm'd into the Earth, to hold together the Faſcines or Faggots in any Work caſt up in haſte.

Pickets, are alſo Stakes drove into the Ground by the Tents of the Horſe in the Field, to tye their Horſes to, and before the Foot to reſt their Arms about them in a Ring; each Company having for the moſt part three, viz. two for Muskets, and one for Pikes. Picket is alſo the Name of a certain Game at Cards; See Piquet

To Stand upon the Picket, is when a Horſeman for ſome Offence, is ſentenc'd to have one Hand ty'd up as high as it can reach, and then to ſtand on the Point of a Stake with the Toe of his oppoſite Foot; ſo that he can neither ſtand, nor hang well, nor eaſe himſelf by changing Feet.

Pickrel, a young Pike-fiſh.

Picle or Pightel, a ſmall Parcel of Land incloſ'd with a Hedge, which in ſome Parts of England is commonly call'd a Pingle.

Piquette, (Fr.) a tart ſort of Wine uſ'd in ſome Parts of France, by the meaner ſort of People.

Picra. See Hiera Picra.

Picris, (Gr.) bitter Lettice, wild Succory, or Hawks-weed; an Herb.

Pict-Wall, a famous Wall heretofore built by the Romans on the Northern Bounds of England, to prevent the Incurſions of the Scots and Picts: It begins at Bulneſs upon the Iriſh Sea, runs by Carliſle thro' Cumberland, and afterwards paſſing the Rivers of Cambec, Irthing and Poltroſs, it enters Northumberland, &c.

Picture, the Image or Repreſentation of a Perſon or Thing made in Painting or Graving.

Picus, (Lat.) a Bird that makes Holes in Trees, or picks her Food under the Bark of them: Of theſe there are ſeveral ſorts; as the Wood-pecker, the Hickwall, the Emmet-hunter, &c.

To Piddle, to eat here and there a Bit; alſo to ſtand trifling.

Pie, a well known Diſh of Meat, or Fruit bak'd in Paſte: Among Printers, a heap of Letters confuſedly mingled together; alſo a kind of Bird.

Piece, Part, Portion, Slice; alſo a Pound Sterling or Twenty Shillings; alſo a certain Number of Ells or Yards of Cloth, Stuff, Silk, &c.

Piece of Eight or Piece of eight Ryals, a Spaniſh Coin; of which there are ſeveral ſorts, viz. that of Sevil and Mexico worth about 4 s. 6 *d.*¼ Engliſh: Of Peru valu'd at 4 s. 3 *d.*¼: Of Pillar at 4 s. 6 *d.*¾: Alſo of Leghorn in Italy at 4 s. 10 d.

Pieces, (in Warlike Affairs) ſignify Cannon or great Guns, as Battering-Pieces which are uſ'd at Sieges, and are for the moſt part of 24 Pounds: Field-pieces that carry a Ball of about 10 or 12 Pound Weight, and are generally planted in the Van or Front of the Army, as the heavy Cannon is in the main Battel.

Pied, ſpotted, or ſpeckled; as A pied Horſe.

Piedouche, (Fr. in Architect.) a little ſquare Baſe ſmoothed and wrought with Mouldings, which ſerves to bear up a Buſt or Statue drawn half-way, or any ſmall Figure in Relief.

Pied-droit, a ſquare Pillar, partly ſet within a Wall, which differs from a Pillaſter in this reſpect, that it has no Baſe nor Capital: It is alſo taken for part of the Jaumbs of a Door or Window.

To Piep, to cry like a Chicken.

Pie-Powder Court, (from the French Words Pie a Foot, and Poudreux duſty) a Court held in Fairs, to do Juſtice to Buyers and Sellers, and for Redreſs of all Diſorders committed in them: 'Tis ſo call'd becauſe the Suiters are commonly Country-People with duſty Feet; or from the Diſpatch in hearing of Cauſes, even before the Duſt goes off from their Feet.

To Pierce, to bore thro', to broach a Veſſel.

Pierced, bored thro': In Heraldry, when an Ordinary or Charge has a Hole in it, ſo that the Field appears thro', ſuch an Ordinary or Charge is ſaid To be pierced.

Pieſtrum, (Gr.) a Preſs, a Wine-preſs, Oil-preſs, &c. Alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument, to beat in pieces the Bones of the Head in drawing a dead Child out of the Womb.

Pietantia, (in old Latin Records) a Pittance, a Portion of Victuals diſtributed to the Members of a College, or others upon ſome great Feſtival or Solemnity.

Pietantiarius, the Pittancer or Officer in Collegrate Churches, who was to give out the ſeveral Pittances, according to the Appointment of the Founders or Donours.

Piety, Godlineſs, Devotion; alſo natural Affection or Love for one's Country, Parents or Relations.

Pigeon, a well known Fowl.

Pigeon's-Foot, a ſort of Herb.

Piger Henricus, (Lat. i.e. ſlothful Henry) a Chymical Veſſel, ſo call'd upon account of the exceeding Slowneſs of the Operation perform'd by it.

Piggin, a kind of Wooden Veſſel with one Handle ſtanding upright, much us'd by good Houſewifes in the Country.

Pight, (old Word) propped, ſettled.

Pightel. See Picle.

Pigments, ſuch prepared Materials as Painters, Dyers, and other Artificers make uſe of to imitate particular Colours: They are alſo us'd for the ſtaining or colouring of Glaſs, or painting on it; for the counterfeiting of Gems, or precious Stones, &c.

Pigmentum, (Lat.) Pigment, or Paint with which Women us'd to colour their Faces; alſo a Pretence or Diſguiſe, a cunning Shift, or Put-off: It is alſo taken among our old Writers, for a ſort Drink made of Honey, Wine and Spice.

Pigritia, Slothfulneſs, Lazineſs, Sluggiſhneſs Alſo an American Beaſt call'd a Sloth, of the bigneſs of a Fox, which altho' it has Feet, and is always in Motion, creeps ſo ſlowly upon the Belly, that it ſcarce goes an hundred Paces in twelve or fifteen Days.

Pigus, the prickly Carp; a Fiſh.

Pike, a ſort of River-fiſh; alſo a Weapon for a Foot-Soldier, from 14 to 16 Foot long, arm'd at the end with a ſharp Iron-ſpear: In Husbandry, a a Prong, or Iron-folk.

Pilaſter. See Pillaſter.

Pilch, a piece of Flannel, or Woollen Cloth to be wrapt about a young Child; alſo a Covering for a Saddle.

Pilchard, a kind of Sea-fiſh ſomewhat like a Herring, but leſſer.

Pilcrow, an old Word for a Paragraph.

Pile, a Heap of Wood, or other things laid one above another; a Maſs of Building; alſo the backſide of a piece of Money: In Heraldry, an Ordinary conſiſting of a two-fold Line in form of a Wedge; which perhaps repreſents the Figure of the Roman Pilum, or tapering Dart; as He bears a Pile Gules, by the Name of Shandois.

Piles, are alſo great Stakes ramm'd into the Earth for a Foundation to build upon, in Marſhy Grounds: Alſo a Diſeaſe in the Fundament.

Pile-wort, an Herb ſo call'd from its Uſe in curing the Piles.

Pilettus, or Pilatus, (in the old Foreſt-Laws) a Blunt, or blunted Arrow; an Arrow that had a Pile or Button fix'd near the Point, to keep it from going too far into the Mark.

To Pilfer, to ſteal things of ſmall Value.

Pilgrim, (Ital.) one that travels out of a Principle of Devotion thro' Foreign Countries, to viſit Holy Places.

Pilgrimage, a Journey for that purpoſe.

Pill, a ſolid Medicine conſiſting of Powders, Gums, Extracts, &c. made up like a little Ball, that it may be more eaſily ſwallow'd: Alſo a Term in Heraldry, the ſame with Pelf: Which See.

Pilla Terræ, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Pill, ſmall piece, or ſlip of Ground.

To Pillage, (Fr.) to plunder, rifle, or rob.

Pillar or Column, (in Architect.) one of the principal things in which the Beauty and Proportion of a Building does conſiſt; being divided into three Parts, viz. the Pedeſtal, the Shaft, and the Ornaments. In a figurative Senſe, it is taken for Support, Maintenance, Prop; as Such a Prelate is the Pillar of the Church; ſuch a Prime Miniſter, the Pillar of the State.

Pillaſter, a kind of ſquare Pillar which is generally as broad at top as at bottom, and has the ſame Meaſure, Chapiter and Baſe with the Columns, according to their ſeveral Orders: When theſe Pillaſters do not ſtand alone by themſelves, they are made to jut out of the Wall a third part, or a quarter, alſo ſometimes only a ſixth or an eighth part of their Breadth, with reſpect to the variety of different Works.

Pillaw, a Diſh of Rice dreſs'd after the manner of the Turks.

Pillion, a kind of Saddle for Women to ride upon.

Pillory, a Wooden Engine or Frame, on which Cheats and other Offenders ſtand expos'd to Publick Shame.

Pillow, a kind of Cuſhion to lay one's Head on: In Sea-Language, a piece of Timber that the Boltſprit Maſt bears and reſts upon, at its coming out of the Ship's Hull aloft, cloſe by the Stem.

Piloſella, (Lat.) the Herb Mouſe-ear, which is of a very binding Quality, and good for Wounds, Fluxes, Ruptures, &c.

Pilot, properly one who upon certain Coaſts and Shores, not well known to others, is employ'd for the conducting of Ships into Roads or Harbours, or over Bars and Sands, or thro' winding Channels; tho' it be commonly taken for the Steerſ-man that ſtands at the Helm and manages the Rudder.

The Pilot-Bird, a Bird about the Caribbee-Iſlands in America, which gives notice to Ships that ſail that way, when they come near any of thoſe Iſlands.

Pilotage, the Office of a Pilot or Steerſ-man of a Ship.

Pilula, (Lat.) a little Ball, or round Knop; alſo a Pill made by an Apothecary.

Pilum, (among the Ancients) any Shaft of Wood arm'd with Iron, a Javelin or Dart; alſo a Peſtle to pound with in a Mortar.

Pimp, a Procurer of, or an Attendant upon Whores; a Setter.

To Pimp, to play the Pimp.

Pimpernel, an Herb moderately hot and dry; good againſt the Plague, Conſumption, ſpitting of corrupt Matter, &c.

Pimpompet, a kind of Antick Dance, in which three Perſons hit one another on the Breech, with one of their Feet.

Pin-wheel, (of a Clock) See Striking-wheel.

To Pinch, to nip hard with the ends of the Fingers; to wring as Shoes do; to reduce to extremity, to nip or taunt.

Pinched in, (Sea-Term) See Houſed in.

Pindarick, as A Pindarick Ode, i. e. a Copy of Verſes after the manner of the Poet Pindar, whoſe Strains are lofty and almoſt inimitable.

Pinealis Glandula. See Conarium.

Pinfold, a Place to pen up Cattel in.

Pingle. See Picle.

Pinguedo, the Fat of Living-Creatures. See Adeps.

Pinion, the Wing of a Fowl: Alſo the leſſer Wheel of a Clock or Watch; which plays in the Teeth of another.

Pinion of Report, that Pinion of a Watch which is commonly fix'd on the Arbor of the great Wheel, and in old Watches us'd to have but four Leaves, or Teeth. Its uſe is to drive the Dial-wheel, and carry about the Hand.

To Pinion one, to bind his Arms faſt.

Pinipinichi, a milky Juice drawn out of certain Trees in India, ſomewhat thick and clammy, being a ſtrong Purge for Choler.

Pink, a well known ſweet-ſmelling Flower; alſo a ſort of little ſwift ſailing Ship; alſo a kind of yellow Colour us'd in Painting.

To Pink, to wink with the Eye; alſo to cut Silk, Taffety, Cloth, &c. with variety of Figures.

Pinna, (Latin) a Shell-fiſh which ſome call a Naker; alſo the Fins of a Fiſh, or the Feathers of a Bird's Wing; alſo a Battlement in a Wall, or Fortification.

Pinna Auris, (in Anat.) the upper and broader part of the Ear, call'd the Wing.

Pinnæ Naſi, the Sides of the Noſe.

Pinnace, a kind of ſmall Sea-Veſſel.

Pinnacle, the Battlement, or higheſt Top of a great Building or Spire; thence alſo figuratively taken for the Height of Glory.

In Pinnas Bibere, (Lat.) an old Cuſtom of Drinking brought in by the Danes, which was to fix a Pin on the Side of a Waſſel-bowl or wooden Cup, and ſo to drink exactly to the Pin, as it is now done in a ſeal'd Glaſs.

Pinnata Folia, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Leaves of Plants, as are deeply indented or jagged, ſo that their Parts reſemble Feathers.

Pinne, (in Falconry) a Diſeaſe in the Foot of an Hawk, occaſion'd by a wateriſh Humour.

Pinner, a Maker of Pins for Womens Cloths; alſo a kind of Coif, or Dreſs for their Heads.

Pinnion. See Pinion.

Pinnock, a ſort of Bird.

Pinnophylax, (Gr.) a little Shell-fiſh like a Shrimp, which waits on the Naker-fiſh, and gets a Share of her Prey.

Pinſon or Pump, or a ſort of Shoe without Heels.

Pint, an Engliſh Meaſure for Liquors, two of which make a Quart.

Pintado, an American Pheaſant, adorn'd with that Variety of Colours, as if they were moſt artificially painted.

Pintel or Pintle, (in Gunnery) an Iron-pin that ſerves to keep the Gun from recoiling; alſo a Man's Yard.

Pintles or Gudgeons, (in Sea-Affairs) certain Iron-hooks, four, five, and ſometimes ſix in Number, by which the Ship's Rudder is faſten'd to the Stern-poſts.

Pinules, the Sights of the Mathematical Inſtrument call'd an Aſtrolabe.

Pinus, (Lat.) the Pine-tree.

Pioneers, (in the Art of War) ſuch Labourers as are employ'd for the Service of an Army, to level the Ways, caſt up Trenches, make Approaches in Sieges, undermine Forts, &c.

Piony or Peony, a Plant that bears a very fair red Flower.

Pious, (Lat.) godly, devout, religious.

Pip, a white thin Scale under the Tip of the Tongue, a Diſeaſe in Poultry; alſo any Spot or Mark upon Cards.

Pipe, a Reed, a Device to take Tobacco in, a Conduit or Channel; a ſort of Muſical Inſtrument: Alſo a Meaſure of Wine or Oil containing 126 Gallons, or half a Tun: Alſo a Roll in the Exchequer Court, otherwiſe call'd The Great Roll.

Clerk of the Pipe, an Officer of the Exchequer, who having all Accounts and Debts due to the Queen, drawn out of the Remembrancer's Office, charges them down in the great Roll, which is made up like a Pipe: He alſo writes Summons to the Sheriffs, to levy the ſaid Debts upon the Goods and Chattels of the Debtors; and has the engroſſing of all Leaſes of the Queen's Land.

Pipe-Office, an Office or Court in the Queen's Treaſury, where the Clerk of the Pipe ſits as Preſident.

Pipe-Tree, a certain Tree bearing two ſorts of Flowers, the White and the Blew; which laſt is alſo call'd Lilach.

Piper, (Gr.) Pepper, a Spice that grows in moſt of the Provinces of India.

Piperitis, Pepper-wort, Spaniſh Pepper, Dittander, or Cock-weed; an Herb which cures the Hip-gout, and is commended for a Leproſy.

Pippin, an excellent kind of Apple.

Piquant, (Fr.) ſharp, biting, nipping, keen.

Pique, Peck, Spleen, Grudge, Diſtaſte.

Piquet or Picket, a certain Game at Cards, perhaps ſo call'd from Pique, as it were a ſmall Conteſt or Scuffle.

Piracy, (Gr.) the Trade or Practice of a Pirate.

Pirate, one that maintains himſelf by Pillage and robbing at Sea; a Rover: In former times the Word was taken in a good Senſe, for a Perſon to whoſe Care the Mole or Peer of a Haven was committed, and ſometimes for a Sea-Soldier.

Piratical, belonging to a Pirate.

Pirus, (Lat.) a Pear-tree.

Piſcary, a Place where Fiſh is kept or ſold, a Fiſh-market: In Common Law, a Liberty of fiſhing in another Man's Waters.

Piſcatrix, a kind of Sea Frog-fiſh.

Piſces, one of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, and the laſt in order of reckoning; which is ſo call'd from it ſuppoſed Figure reſembling two Fiſhes, and makes up a Conſtellation of 35 Stars.

Piſcinarius, one that keeps Fiſh or Fiſh-ponds; in old Records, a Fiſh-monger.

Piſcis Meridianus, (i. e. the Southern Fiſh) a Conſtellation in the South part of the Heavens, which contains Twelve Stars.

Piſſaſphaltus, (Gr.) a kind of Mineral conſiſting of Pitch, and the Slime call'd Bitumen imbody'd together: Alſo a Mixture of Pitch and Brimſtone, good to cure the Scab in Sheep.

Piſſelæon, an Oil made of Pitch, or of the Roſin of the Cedar-tree.

Piſſoceros, the Pitch-wax made by Bees in their Hives; or any Compoſition of Wax and Pitch.

Piſtachoe or Piſtake-Nut, a kind of ſmall Nut growing in Egypt and Syria: Theſe Nuts have a fine Spicy Smell, and are very nouriſhing and grateful to the Stomach.

Piſtol, a ſmall and light ſort of Fire-arms, to be diſcharged with one Hand.

Piſtole, a Spaniſh Piece of Gold worth Seventeen Shillings Sterling: The French Piſtole, or Louis d' Or, is alſo ſettled at the ſame Value.

Piſtolochia or Polyrrhizon, a kind of Aſtrologe or Hart-wort, that ſends forth many weak ſlender Stalks, which creep upon the Ground.

Piſtrix, (Lat.) a Mill or Grinding-houſe; alſo a ſort of ſpouting Whale-fiſh.

Piſum, Peaſe, a ſort of Pulſe.

Pit, a deep Hole, particularly ſuch a one in which the Scots uſe to drown Women found guilty of Theft.

Pit-fall, a kind of Gin or Trap to catch Birds.

To Pitch, to do over with Pitch or Tar; as To Pitch or Pay a Ship; alſo to fix or ſet down, to fall over or upon.

Among Mariners, when a Ship falls too much with her Head into the Sea, or beats againſt it, ſo as to indanger her Top-maſts, the uſual Phraſe is, That ſhe will pitch her Maſts by the Board. When a Maſt is put or let down into the Step, they ſay, The Maſt is pitched: And when the Maſt being in the Step, ſeems to be plac'd too near the Stern, 'tis ſaid, That Maſt is pitched too far aft, and ſo on the contrary.

Pitching-Pence, a Duty paid for pitching, or ſetting down every Sack of Corn or Pack of Merchandizes, in a Fair or Market.

Pitheus, Pithias, or Pithites, (Gr.) a kind of Comet, or Blazing-ſtar, reſembling the Shape of a Tub: Theſe are of ſeveral ſorts, viz. ſome of an Oval Figure, others like a Tun or Barrel ſet upright, and ſome like one leaning on one Side, or cut ſhort off, &c.

Pithy, full of Pith or Marrow, ſubſtantial, full of good Matter.

Pitiful, inclined to Pity, compaſſionate, tender-hearted; alſo that deſerves to be pitied, woful, ſad; alſo ſorry, wretched, deſpicable.

Pitileſs, not to be mov'd with Pity, unmerciful, cruel.

Pittacium, (Gr.) a Tablet dawb'd over with Pitch to engrave upon; a Scroll with ſome Inſcription upon it; a Roll or Liſt. Alſo a Piece of Cloth anointed over with Salve to be laid on a Wound, or apply'd to the Head, &c. to eaſe Pain.

Pittance, (Fr.) properly a ſmall Portion of Victuals allow'd to Monks, or others, for a Meal; ſhort Commons, a ſmall part of any thing.

Pittania. See Pietancia.

Pitthannaw, a large and ſtately Bird in ſome Parts of America and elſewhere, being a kind of Eagle white-mailed, and having a Head as big as a Child's Head of a Year old, with two or three purple Feathers in it, as big as a Swan's, and tranſparent Quills: This Bird airies in the Woods, preys only on Fawns and Jackals, and is ſeldom ſeen, but whenever it comes forth all other Birds ſkulk and diſappear.

Pituita, (Lat.) Phlegm, or Rheum, Snivel, Snot.

Pituitaria, an Herb call'd Staves-acre, that dries up Rheum.

Pituitaria Glandula. See Glandula Pituitaria.

Pituitous, Phlegmatick, full of Phlegm or Wateriſh Humours.

Pity, Compaſſion, Concern.

Pitys, (Gr.) the Kernel of a Pine-apple.

Pityſma, a kind of Exerciſe, when one goes faſt on his Toes, moving his Arms forward and backward.

Pityocampa, a Worm breeding in the Pine-tree, the biting of which is venomous.

Pityriaſis, the falling of Dandriff or Scurf from the Head.

Pityriodes, a kind of Settlement in Urine like Bran.

Pityron, Bran, Gurgeons, the refuſe of Ground Wheat; alſo Scurf or Dandriff.

Pitys, the Pine-tree.

Pityuſa, a ſort of Spurge; an Herb.

Pix, (Lat.) Pitch. Pix foſſilis, Stone-pitch, eſpecially found in the Iſland of Barbadoes, and uſeful for the paying of Ships, &c.

Placability, (Lat.) placable Temper, Eaſineſs, to be pacify'd or appeas'd.

Placable, eaſy to be pleaſed, ſoon appeaſed, mild, gentle.

Placaert or Placaet, (Dutch) a Proclamation or Ordinance, by the States of Holland.

Placard, (among the French) a Table wherein Laws, Orders, &c. are poſted or hung up: Alſo a Libel or abuſive Writing, poſted up or diſperſed abroad: In our Common-Law, a particular Licence, by which a Man is allow'd to ſhoot in a Gun, or to uſe unlawful Games, &c.

Place, Space or Room, in which a Perſon or Thing is, or may be; Employment, Office or Dignity; a Paſſage of Scripture: In Philoſophy, Place is ſaid to be either Abſolute or Relative, the former being that Space which any Natural Body takes up or fills; but the latter is the apparent, ſecundary or ſenſible Poſition of ſuch a Body, with reſpect to other contiguous or adjoyning Bodies. See Locus Primarius & Relativus.

Place, is alſo ſometimes taken for that Infinite Space, which is poſſeſs'd by, and comprehended within the Material World.

Geometrick Place, is a certain Bound, Compaſs of Extent, in which any Point may ſerve for the Solution of a Local or Undetermined Problem. See Local Problem.

Plane Place, is when the Point reſolving the Problem is in the Circumference of a Circle, and then it is alſo termed by Geometers, Locus ad Circulum.

Simple Place, is when the Point that reſolves any Problem, is in a Right-Line; whence 'tis otherwiſe call'd Locus ad Lineam rectam.

Solid Place, is when the Point is in one of the Conick Sections: And Surſolid Place, is when the Point is in the Circumference of a Curve of an higher Gender than the Conick Sections.

Place of the Sun or Planet, (in Aſtron.) is the Sign and Degree of the Zodiack, which the Planet is in: Or it is that Degree of the Ecliptick reckon'd from the beginning of Aries, which is cut by the Planet's Circle of Longitude: Whence it is often call'd, The Longitude of the Sun, Planet or Star. See Locus Apparens, and True Place of a Planet or Star.

In Fortification, Place is generally taken for the Body of a Fortreſs or ſtrong Hold: A Regular Place, is a Place whoſe Angles and Sides are every where equal; and an Irregular Place, is one, the Angles and Sides of which are unequal.

Place of Arms, (in a general Senſe) a ſtrong City or Town, choſen for the chief Magazine of an Army.

Place of Arms of an Attack or Trench, a Poſt near it, ſhelter'd by a Breaſt-work or Shoulder-work, for Horſe and Foot to be at their Arms, to make good the Trenches againſt the Sallies of the Enemy.

Place of Arms of a Camp, a large Piece of Ground, at the Head of the Camp, to draw out the Army in order of Battel.

Place of Arms of a Troop of Horſe, or Company of Foot in the Camp, is that Spot of Ground on which the Company draws out.

Place of Arms in a Garriſon, a large open Spot of Ground in the middle of the City or Town, where the great Streets meet, or elſe between the Ramparts and the Houſes, for the Garriſon to rendevous in, as Occaſion may require.

Place of Arms Particular, a Place near every Baſtion, whence the Soldiers ſent from the Grand Place, to the Quarters aſſign'd them, relieve thoſe that are either upon the Guard or in Fight.

Place of Arms without, a Place allow'd to the Covert-Way, for the planting of Cannon, to force thoſe that advance in their Approaches, to retire.

Place of Units, (in Arithm.) See Unit.

To Place, to put, lay or ſeat.

Placenta, (Lat.) a Cake, a Cheeſe-cake.

Placenta Uterina, (in Anat.) a Part which in Colour and Subſtance ſomewhat reſembles the Liver; whence by ſome it is call'd Hepar Uterinum: Its Fleſh is ſoft and full of Glandules or Kernels, having many Fibres and ſmall Veſſels: It ſerves to convey Nouriſhment to the Child in the Womb, and is taken out after the Birth.

Placitare, to pleaſe much or often: In a Law-ſenſe, to plead Cauſes.

Placitator, a Pleader.

Placitum, a Sentence of the Court, an Opinion, an Ordinance or Decree; a Maxim or Principle in any Art: In our Common-Law, Placita ſignifies Pleas or Pleadings; it was alſo ſometimes taken for Penalties or Fines.

Placket, the fore-part of a Woman's Petticoat or Shift; alſo a piece of Armour that covers the Breaſt-plate.

Plad, a kind of Mantle which the Highlanders in Scotland wear about their Shoulders; alſo a ſort of Scotch or Iriſh Stuff.

Pladaroma or Pladaroſis, (Gr.) exceſſive Moiſture, or Weakneſs proceeding thence; alſo a little ſoft Swelling which grows under the Eye-lids.

Plaga, (Lat.) a Country, or Coaſt, a Part, or Quarter of the World; alſo a Wound, Blow, or Stripe. See Ictus Orbus.

Plaget, See Pledget.

Plagiarian, as the The Plagiarian Law; a Law made againſt Plagiaries.

Plagiariſm, the Practice of a Plagiary.

Plagiary, one that ſteals other Mens Children, or Servants, to ſell them in a Foreign Country; a Man-ſtealer, or Kidnapper; alſo a Book-thief, one that ſets up for an Author by filching or copying other Men's Works.

Plague, a Diſeaſe. See Peſtilence: Alſo Puniſhment, Judgment, Scourge; alſo a plaguy, or troubleſome Fellow.

To Plague, to vex, or teaz.

Plaideurs. See Counters.

Plain, (Lat.) even, ſmooth, flat, not having any Ornament; manifeſt, clear, downright, ſincere, honeſt.

Plain Chart, a Chart, or Plat that Seamen ſail by, whoſe Degrees of Longitude and Latitude are made of the ſame length.

Plain Coats of Arms, (in Heraldry) are ſuch as have no Rebatements.

Plain Deſcant. See Deſcant.

Plain Sailing, the Method of ſailing by the Plain Chart; or the Art of finding all the Varieties of the Ship's Motion on a Plain; where all the Meridians are made Parallel, and the Parallels at Right-angles with the Meridians.

Plain Scale, a thin Ruler either of Wood, or Braſs, about a Foot in length, on which a Line of Chords, Sines, Tangents, Secants, Leagues, Rhumbs, &c. is mark'd out with its ſeveral Degrees, for the better keeping an Account of the Ship's Way.

Plain Table, an Inſtrument commonly made of Walnut-tree 14½ Inches long, and about 11 Inches broad, with a Frame large enough to ſtrain a Sheet of Paper; a Box, Needle and Card, a three legg'd Staff, an Index, &c. fitted for the Surveying or Meaſuring of Land.

Plain Triangle. See Triangle.

A Plain, a flat Country, a plain Field.

A Plain or Plane, a Term in Mathematicks. See Plane.

Plaint, (Fr.) Complaint, Lamentation: In Common-Law, it is the exhibiting, or propounding of any Action Perſonal or Real in Writing.

Plaintiff, one that complains, or ſues in an Aſſize, or in any Perſonal Action; as in an Action of Debt, Treſpaſs, Detinue, &c.

Plan, a Draught, Model, or Ground-plot; a Deſign, Ground-work, or Project of any piece of Work.

Plancere, (in Architect.) the under part of the Roof of the Corona, or Drip, which is the upper part of the Cornice.

Plancher, (Fr.) a Plank, or Board.

Planchia, (in old Latin Records) a Plank of Wood.

Planching, (in Carpenters Work) a laying the Floors of a Building.

Plane, a Joyner's Tool, to ſmooth Boards with: In Geometry, a Plane, or Plain Surface is that all the Parts of which lie even between its Extremities, or bounding Lines, and it is the ſhorteſt Extenſion from one Line to another; as a right Line is the ſhorteſt Extenſion from one Point to another.

Plane of a Dial, is the Surface upon which any Dial is ſuppoſed to be drawn.

Plane or Plan, (in Fortification) a Draught repreſenting a Work as it would appear on the plain Field, were it cut off level with the Ground, ſo as to ſhew the length of its Lines, the Angles and Diſtances between them, the Breadth and Thickneſs of the Moats, Ramparts, Breaſt-works, &c. See Ichnography.

Plane of Gravitation or Gravity, (in any weighty Body) is a Plane imagined to paſs thro' the Center of Gravity of that Body.

Plane of the Horopter, (in Opticks) is that which paſſes thro' the Horopter, and is perpendicular to the Plane of the two Optical Axes.

Plane of Reflection, (in Catoptricks) is that which paſſes thro' the Place of Reflection, and is always perpendicular to the Plane of the Glaſs, or Reflecting Body.

Plane of Refraction, is a Surface drawn thro' the Ray and Axis of Incidence.

Geometrical Plane, (in Perſpective) a plain Surface parallel to the Horizon plac'd lower than the Eye, in which the viſible Objects are imagin'd without any Alteration, except that they are ſometimes reduc'd from a greater to a leſſer Size.

Horizontal Plane, a Plane that is likewiſe parallel to the Horizon, and paſſes thro' the Eye, or is ſuppos'd to have the Eye fix'd in it.

Vertical Plane, (in Optick's and Perſpective) is a plain Surface which paſſes along the Principal Ray, and conſequently thro' the Eye, being perpendicular to the Geometrical Plane.

Plane Number, (in Arithm.) that which ariſe from the Multiplication of two Numbers one into another; thus 12 is a Plane Number, becauſe it may be produc'd by the Multiplication of 4 by 3.

Plane Problem, (in Mathem.) ſuch an one as cannot be ſolved Geometrically, but by the Interſection, or cutting either of a right Line and a Circile, or of the Circumferences of two Circles.

To Plane, to make ſmooth with a Joyner's Plane: Alſo to fly, or hover as a Bird does without moving its Wings.

Plane-tree, a tall ſort of Tree with long Roots.

Planet, (Gr.) a Wandering Star, of which there are ſeven that take their Names from the chief Heathen Deities, viz. Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Sol, or the Sun, Venus, Mercury and Luna, or the Moon; but in the Copernican Syſtem, the Earth is reckon'd among the Primary Planets, becauſe 'tis ſuppos'd to move about the Sun. Theſe Planets are ſo call'd, in regard they are not always in the ſame Poſition one to another as the fixed Stars are, but wander in the Zodiack by their proper Motions.

Planetary, belonging to one or more Planets.

Planetica Arthritis, the wandering Gout.

Planifolious Flowers, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch as are made up of plain Leaves ſet together in circular Rows round the Center, whoſe Face is uſually notched, uneven and jagged; as Hieracia, or Hawk-weed, Sonchi, &c.

Planimetry, a Science which reaches to meaſure all ſorts of Surfaces and plain Figures, in order to know their Content.

To Planiſh, as To Planiſh a Diſh, i. e. to plane i as Silver-Smiths and Pewterers do.

Planiſphere, a plain or flat Projection of the Sphere; the Circles of the Sphere drawn in plano, or on a plane Surface: Such are the general Maps either of Heaven or Earth, Aſtrolabes and other Inſtruments of the like Nature.

Plank, a piece of Timber ſaw'd broad, and to a convenient thickneſs for Carpenters or Joyner Work.

Planometria. See Planimetry.

Plant, (Lat.) an Herb, a young Tree to ſe figuratively a young Man or Maid.

Imperfect Plants, (among Herbaliſts) are ſuch as either really want both Flower and Seed, or elſ ſeem to do ſo; in regard that no Seed or Flower has yet been diſcovered to belong to them; as Coral, Spunges, Sea-weed, Muſhrooms, Moſſes, &c.

To Plant, to ſet Trees, or Herbs; to People a Country; to level, or turn a great Gun.

Plant-Animal. See Zoophyte.

Planta, (Lat.) a Plant of an Herb, or Tree; alſo the Foot with the Toes, the Sole of the Foot.

Plantago, Plantain, an Heeb of a cooling and drying Quality, good for Wounds and Ulcers, ſpitting of Blood, Fluxes of the Belly, &c.

Plantagenet, a Sirname of Jeffry Count of Anjou, Father of our King Henry II. from whom deſcended a long Race of Kings of England, viz. from the ſaid King Henry to Richard III. The Name was taken from a Broom-ſtalk in old French, call'd Plane de Geneſte, which Count Jeffry wore in his Hat during a Pilgrimage he undertook.

Plantal, cauſing to ſprout forth, or grow; as The Plantal Faculties of the Soul.

Plantar, belonging to the Sole of the Foot; as The Plantar Arteries and Muſcles.

Plantaris, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Tarſus, ſo nam'd from its Tendon ſtretched out in the Sole of the Foot, as that of Palmaris is in the Palm of the Hand: It ariſes from the back part of the outermoſt Knob of the lower Appendage of the Thigh-bone, and is inſerted on both ſides the firſt Internode of each leſſer Toe.

Plantation, a planting, or ſetting; a Company of People ſent from one Country to ſettle in another: Alſo a Spot of Ground in America for the planting of Tobacco, Sugar-canes, &c.

Planter, one that plants, or ſets; alſo a Maſter, or Owner of a Plantation in the Weſt-Indies.

Plantula Seminalis, (among Herbaliſts) is the little Herb that lies as it were an Embryo in miniature in every Seed.

Plaſh, a Place full of ſtanding Water, a Puddle.

To Plaſh, to daſh with Water: In Husbandry, to bend, or ſpread the Boughs of a Tree.

Plaſm, (Gr.) a Mould for the caſting of Metal, or ſuch like running Matter as will harden again.

Plaſtice, the Art of making the Figure of any thing, eſpecially out of Earth, Morter, &c.

Plaſtick Virtue, that Faculty which can form or faſhion any kind of thing: An old Phraſe and a ſure Refuge of Ignorance among the Ancients; for whatever they could not explain, they commonly call'd a Plaſtick Virtue.

Plaſtron, a Fencing-Maſter's quilted Breaſt-Leather, which ſerves for his Scholars to puſh at.

Plat, as The Plat Veins of a Horſe, i. e. certain Veins on each Shoulder, where a Horſe is uſually blooded.

Plat-band, (in Architect.) a ſquare Mould which is ſet at the end of the Architrave of the Dorick Order, and paſſes immediately under the Triglyphs: It is alſo the Faſcia of the Chambranles, and the ſame Name is given to ſeveral other Members that have no Ornaments, only a certain Breadth, without much Projecture, or jutting out.

Plat Baſtion. See Baſtion.

Plat-fond, (Fr.) a Cieling, eſpecially the flooring above a Portico, or Porch.

Plate, Veſſels made of Gold, or Silver, &c. a flat piece of Metal: In old Statutes, a Hoy, or Sea-Veſſel: In Heraldry, Plates ſignifie the Figure of Balls, or Bullets, when they are Argent, or of a white Colour.

To Plate, to cover with a thin Plate of Gold, or Silver; as To Plate Braſs-Money; alſo to bring any Metal into Plates, or thin Pieces.

Platen or Platine, the Plate of a Printer's Preſs.

Platform, (in Architect.) a row of Beams that bear up the Timber-work of a Roof, and lie on the top of the Wall: Alſo a ſmooth and open Walk on the top of a Building, from whence a fair Proſpect may be taken of the Gardens, or Fields lying near it; a flat Roof that is not arched.

In Fortification, Platform is a Place made level on the Rampart, for the planting of a Battery of Cannon: Alſo the whole Work raiſed on a re-entring Angle. See Battery.

Platform or Orlope, (in a Man of War) is a Place on the lower Deck of ſuch a Ship behind the Main Maſt, and round about the Main Capſtan, where, in the time of Service, Proviſion is made to take Care of the Wounded Men.

Platick Aſpect, (in Aſtrol.) a Ray caſt from one Planet to the Body of another, not exactly, but only within the Orb of its Light; ſo that this Aſpect takes up more room than the Partile, which is confin'd to the ſame Degree. See Partile Aſpect.

Plato, an excellent Philoſopher, and chief of the Academicks, who was at firſt call'd Ariſtocles, and Sirnam'd Plato, from his great Fore-head and broad Shoulders: He was the moſt famous of all Socrates's Diſciples, and ſtyl'd the Divine. To improve his Knowledge, he travell'd into Italy and Egypt, and is thought to have read the Books of Moſes.

Platonick, belonging to Plato, or his Tenets.

Platonick Bodies, (in Geom.) the ſame with Regular Bodies: Which See.

Platonick Year, the ſpace of 36000 Years.

Platts, (in Sea-Affairs) flat Ropes made of weaved Rope-yarn, to keep the Cable in the Hawſe from galling; they are likewiſe us'd in Anchor-flooks to ſave the Pendant of the Fore-ſheat from galling againſt the Anchor. Plats are alſo a ſort of Braſs-Compaſſes made uſe of by Seamen on Charts and Maps.

Platycoriaſis, (Gr.) a Diſeaſe in the Eye, when the Sight, or Apple is broken and ſpread, ſo that it cannot be cured.

Platyphyllon, a kind of Spurge with broad Leaves.

Platyſma, (in Surgery) a broad Linnen-cloth to be put upon Sores.

Platyſma Myodes. See Myodes Platyſma.

† A Plaudite, (Lat.) a clapping of Hands, in token of Approbation, of any Action, &c. properly of a Stage-Play.

Plauſible, that ſeems to deſerve Applauſe, or a favourable Reception; ſeemingly fair and lawful, colourable.

Plea, Excuſe: In a Law-ſenſe, it is that which either Party alledges for himſelf in Court.

Foreign Plea, that whereby Matter is produc'd in any Court which may be try'd in another.

Pleas of the Crown, all Suits in the Queen's Name for Offences committed againſt her Crown and Dignity, or her Crown and Peace; as Treaſons, Felonies, Miſpriſions of either and Mayhem. Pleas of the Crown of Scotland are ſuch as relate to Robbery, Rape, Murder, and wilful Fire.

Common Pleas, thoſe that are held between Common Perſons, yet according to the general Definition they muſt comprehend all others, tho' the Queen be a Party.

The Court of Common Pleas, a Court kept for the hearing and determining of thoſe Cauſes, by certain Judges belonging to that Court. See Common.

Clerk of the Pleas, an Officer in the Exchequer, in whoſe Office, the Officers of that Court ought to ſue, or be ſued upon any Action.

To Plead, to put in a Plea, or defend one's ſelf at Law; to alledge, to pretend.

Pleadings, (in a Law-ſenſe) are all the Sayings of the Parties, after the Count or Declaration, viz. whatever is contain'd in the Bar, Replication and Rejoynder.

Pleaſant, delightful, agreeable, merry, witty.

To Pleaſe, to content or ſatisfy, to be complaiſant to, or to humour; to be pleaſed, or be willing.

Pleaſurable, pleaſant or agreeable.

Pleaſure, Content, Joy, Delight, Diverſion; alſo good Turn, Kindneſs, Service, Will.

To Pleaſure, to do one a Pleaſure, to give Content, to oblige, to humour.

Plebania or Plebanalis Eccleſia, (in old Latin Records) a Mother-Church, which has one or more ſubordinate Chappels.

Plebanus, a Rural Dean, ſo call'd becauſe the Deaneries were commonly united to the Plebania, or chief Mother-Churches within a particular Diſtrict.

Plebeian, one of the Commonalty, a mean Perſon.

Plebiſcitum, (among the Romans) was a Statute or Law made by Conſent of the People, without the Senate; an Order of the Commons.

Pledge, Pawn, Surety, Bail, Proof.

To Pledge, to leave for a Pledge, to pawn.

To Pledge one, to be Surety, or engage that he ſhall receive no Harm whilſt he is drinking; an ancient Cuſtom ſaid to be firſt occaſion'd by the Outragiouſneſs of the Danes heretofore in England, who often us'd to ſtab the Natives as they were drinking.

Pledges, (in Common-Law) are Sureties either Real or Perſonal, which the Plaintiff finds to proſecute his Suit.

Plegiery or Pleggery, Suretiſhip, an Undertaking or Anſwering for.

Pledget or Pleget, a kind of flat Tent for a Wound; alſo a piece of Rag folded up, which the Surgeon applies after letting Blood.

Plegiis Acquietandis, (Lat.) a Writ that lies for a Surety, againſt one for whom he is Surety, if he neglect to pay the Money at the Day appointed.

Pleiades, (Gr.) the Seven Stars which are near together towards the eighteenth Degree of the Sign Taurus.

Plenarty, (Lat.) a Term us'd in Common-Law, when a Benefice is ſupply'd, being directly contrary to Vacation, which ſignifies its being void.

Plenary, (Lat.) full, entire and perfect; as A Plenary Indulgence.

Plenilunium, the full Moon.

Plenipotency, (Lat.) full Power.

Plenipotential, belonging to a Plenipotentiary.

Plenipotentiary, an Ambaſſadour or Commiſſioner, that receives full Power and Authority from a Prince or State, to treat with others to whom he is ſent, and conclude upon all Points contain'd in his Commiſſion.

Pleniſt, a Philoſopher that admits of no Vacuum.

Plenitude, Fulneſs; as A Plenitude of Grace. In the Art of Phyſick, the ſame as Plethory; which See.

Plenteous or Plentiful, abundant, fruitful, great.

Plenty, Abundance, great Store.

Pleonaſmus, (Gr. in Grammar) the adding of a Letter or Syllable, either to the beginning of a Word, which is call'd Proſtheſis, or in the middle, termed Epentheſis, or to the end, named Paragoge. In Rhetorick, Pleonaſmus is a Figure wherein ſome ſuperfluous Words are added to expreſs the Earneſtneſs of the Speaker, and a greater Certainty in the Matter; as I ſaw it with theſe Eyes.

Pleſance, (old Word) Pleaſure or Delight.

Plethora or Plethory, (Gr.) a Fulneſs, or too great abounding of the Humours, eſpecially of the Blood.

Plethorick, troubled with a Plethory, full of Humours, purſy.

Plethron, a Greek Meaſure, containing a ſixth Part of a Furlong, or 100 Foot.

Plevin, (Fr. in Common-Law) a Warrant or Aſſurance.

Pleura, (Gr. in Anat.) the Membrane, or Skin which covers the In-ſide of the Cheſt, ſticking to the Ribs.

Pleuritis, the Pleuriſy, an Inflammation of that Membrane, and of the Muſcles lying between the Ribs, attended with a continual Feaver, Stitches in the Side, Difficulty of Breathing, and ſometimes ſpitting of Blood.

Pleuritis Notha, a Baſtard Pleuriſy, whoſe Symptoms are not ſo violent, and which in ſome Reſpects differs from the former.

Pleuron, a Side or Rib.

Pleurorthopnœa, a Diſeaſe of the Side, when the Patient cannot fetch his Breath unleſs he ſits upright.

Plexus, (Lat.) a weaving or platting together.

Plexus Choroides, (in Anat.) an admirable Contexture, or weaving together of ſmall Arteries in the Brain like a Net.

Plexus Nervoſus, is when two or three Nerves meet together and jut out.

Plexus Reticularis, the ſame as Plexus Choroides.

Pliable or Pliant, that bends eaſily, ſupple, yielding, eaſy to be perſwaded, ready to obey.

Plica, (Lat.) a Pleat, Fold or Wrinkle: Alſo a Diſeaſe riſe among the Polanders, which cauſes their Hair to cling together like a Cow's Tail; beſides that they are crooked-back'd, have their looſe Joynts, breed Lice, and are troubled with other Symptoms.

Plight, State and Condition of the Body; as To be in good Plight or Caſe. In a Law-ſenſe, it is ſometimes taken for an Eſtate, with the Habit and Quality of the Land.

To Plight, to engage or promiſe ſolemnly; as To plight one's Faith and Troth.

Plinthus or Plinthis, (Gr.) a Brick or ſquare Tile: In Architecture, Plinth is a flat ſquare Member, otherwiſe call'd the Slipper, which ſerves for the Foundation of the Baſe or Foot of a Pillar: The Abacus, or upper part of the Tuſcan Pillar, is likewiſe termed a Plinth by Vitruvius, and the Word is ſtill us'd for a like Member about the Chapiter of a Pillar, but then 'tis always call'd The Plinth of the Capital. The ſame Name is alſo ſometimes given to a thick Wall, in which there are two or three Rows of Bricks plac'd in Form of a Plat-band.

Pliſtobolinda, Raffling, a kind of Game at Dice, wherein he that throws moſt takes up all.

Pliſtolochia, a ſort of wild Mallow, an Herb.

Plita Terræ, (in old Latin Deeds) a Plight or Pightel, a ſmall Portion or Spot of Ground.

Plite, an ancient Meaſure, ſuch as our Yard or Ell; as A Plight of Lawn, An. 3. Ed. 4.

Plocamos Iſis, (Gr.) a Shrub that grows in the Sea like Coral.

Ploce, a binding, tying or winding about: Alſo a Rhetorical Figure, in which a Word is ſo repeated by way of Emphaſis, that it not only expreſſes the thing ſignify'd, but alſo the Quality of it; as In that great Victory, Cæſar was Cæſar; i. e. a mighty Conquerour.

To Plod, to labour earneſtly in a Buſineſs, to have one's Head full of it.

Plonkets, a kind of courſe Wollen Cloth mention'd in ſome Statutes.

Plot, a Deſign, Device or Contrivance; a Spot of Ground; alſo the ſame with a Sea-chart.

To Prick a Plot, (among Sailers) is to note down the Traverſe of the Ship's Way, and after due Obſervation, to make a ſmall Prick in the Plot or Chart in that Latitude and Longitude, where the Ship is ſuppos'd to be at that time.

Plotton, (in the Art of War) a ſmall ſquare Body of Muſketeers, ſuch as is uſually drawn out of a Battalion of Foot, when they form the Hollow Square to ſtrengthen the Angles: The Term is corruptly taken from the French Word Peloton, i.e. a Clew or Bottom of Thread: Alſo ſuch a Knot of Men.

Plover, a Bird of a brown Colour ſpotted with Yellow, about the Bigneſs of a Pigeon, much coveted by thoſe that love Dainties.

Plough or Plow, a well known Engine to till the Ground with: In the Weſtern Parts of England, it is alſo taken for a Team of Horſe or Oxen: Alſo a Mathematical Inſtrument made of Box or Pear-tree, and us'd by Sea-men, to take the Height of the Sun or Stars, in order to find the Latitude.

Plough-Alms, a Penny which every Plough-Land anciently paid to the Church.

Plough-Land, the ſame with a Hide of Land. See Hide.

Plough-man's Spikenard, a ſort of Herb.

Plough-Monday, the next Monday after Twelfth Day, when our North Country Plough-men draw a Plough from Door to Door, and beg Plough-money to drink: In other Parts, if the Plough-man after that Day's Work, come with his Goad or Whip to the Kitchen-hatch and cry Cock in the Pot, before the Maid ſays, Cock on the Dung-hill, he gains a Cock for Shrove-Tueſday.

Pluck, the Entrails of a Calf or Sheep, which are uſually ſold together.

Plug, a great wooden Peg, to ſtop the Bottom of a Ciſtern or Caſk.

Plumaceoli, (Lat.) Bolſter's us'd by Surgeons, the ſame as Splenia.

Plumage, the Feathers of a Bird, or a Bunch of Feathers: In Falconry, it is taken for the Feathers under a Hawk's Wing.

Plumb-Line, Plumb-Rule, or Plummet, an Inſtrument us'd by Carpenters, Maſons, Bricklayers and others, to find whether a Pillar, Wall, &c. ſtand upright.

Plumbagine, Lead naturally mingled with Silver: Artificial Plumbagine is pure Lead turn'd almoſt into Aſhes by the Vehemency of Fire.

Plumbago, (Lat.) Plumbagine; alſo the Herb Lead-wort or Arſe-ſmart.

Plumbum, Lead, a ſort of Metal.

Plumbum Uſtum, (i. e. burnt Lead) a Chymical Compoſition made of two parts of Lead, and one part of Sulphur or Brimſtone melted in a Crucible or Pot, and turn'd to a black Powder.

Plume, a Set of Oſtridge-Feathers prepar'd for Ornament: In Falconry, the general Colour or Mixture of the Feathers of a Hawk, which ſhews her Conſtitution.

Among Herbaliſts, Plume is taken for that part of the Seed of a Plant, which in its Growth becomes the Trunk, being divided at its looſe End into ſeveral Pieces cloſely bound together like a Bunch of Feathers: In Corn, it is that part which ſhoots out towards the ſmaller End of the Seed, and thence by ſome is call'd the Acroſpire.

Plume-Allum, a kind of Talk, a Mineral.

Plume-ſtriker, a Pick-thank or Flatterer, ſo call'd from pulling or bruſhing Feathers or Hairs off from other Mens Cloaths.

To Plume, to pick, or pluck the Feathers off.

Pluming, (in Falconry) is when a Hawk ſeizes a Fowl, and pulls the Feathers from its Body.

Plummer, one that deals, or works in Lead.

Plummet, a Plumb-line us'd by Carpenters, Maſons, &c. alſo an Inſtrument to ſound the Depth of the Sea.

To Plunder, (Dutch) to rob, ſpoil, or take away by Violence; as Soldiers do in time of War.

Plunge, Trouble, Incumbrance; as To put to a Plunge, To be in a great Plunge.

To Plunge, to dip over Head and Ears.

Plungeon or Diver, a ſort of Water-fowl.

Plunket-Colour, a kind of blew Colour.

Plural, belonging to many; as The Plural Number, a Term us'd in Grammar, when more than one Perſon or Thing is expreſs'd. See Singular Number.

Plurality, greater Part, or greater Number; as A Plurality of Votes, Opinions, Worlds, &c.

Plurality of Benefices, is when a Parſon has two, three, or more Spiritual Livings.

Pluries, the Name of a Writ that goes out in the third Place, after the Original Writ call'd Capias, and the Sicut alias have been iſſu'd without any Effect.

Pluſh, a kind of Silk-Manufacture.

Pluvial, a Prieſt's Veſtment or Cope.

Pluvialis, (Lat.) the Plover, a Bird ſo call'd becauſe it delights in Places wet with Showers of Rain and Marſhes.

† Pluvious, that abounds in, or cauſes Rain; rainy, ſhowery.

To Ply, to give one's Mind to, or to be intent upon a thing; alſo to attend at a certain Place, in order to get a Fare, after the manner of Coach-men, Water-men and Porters.

Pneuma, (Gr.) a Puff or Blaſt of Wind, Breath, Spirit.

Pneumatical or Pneumatick, belonging to Wind, windy; it is more eſpecially apply'd to ſuch Engines as are mov'd or us'd by means of Air or Wind; as the Air-Pump, &c.

Pneumatocele or Phyſocele, a windy Rupture, when the Skin of the Scrotum is ſtretch'd out with Wind; it is alſo call'd Hernia Ventoſa in Latin.

Pneumatodes, a fetching the Breath ſhort.

Pneumatomphalus, a Swelling in the Navel, occaſion'd by Wind.

Pneumatoſis, the breeding of Animal Spirits, which is perform'd in the Barky Subſtance of the Brain.

Pneumon, the Lungs.

Pnigalium, a Diſeaſe call'd the Night-mare.

Pnigites, a ſort of fat black Earth, the Taſte of which is like that of Vitriol.

Pnigmus, ſtrangling or choaking.

To Poach or Poche, to boil Eggs: Alſo to deſtroy Game by unlawful means; as by laying Snares, Gins, &c.

Poade of Ruſſia, a Weight containing 40 Pounds.

Pocard, a kind of Water-fowl.

Pock, a Scab of the Small-pox.

Pocket of Wooll, the Quantity of half a Sack. See Sack of Wool and Sarplar.

Pockified or Pocky, that has got the French-Pox.

Pockwood-tree, an Indian Tree, the Wood of which is brought over in great Quantities, by reaſon of its great Virtue and Uſe in Phyſick, being of a diſſolving and cleanſing Quality.

Poconis, a ſort of Root peculiar to Virginia and Mary-Land, of admirable Efficacy to aſſwage Swellings and Aches.

Pod, the Husk of any Pulſe.

Podagra, (Gr.) the Gout in the Feet.

Podagra Lini, the Herb Dodder, or Withwind.

Podders, poor People employ'd to gather Peaſe, Peaſe-cod Gatherers.

[illegible] ſeveral [illegible] Italy, as at Venice, Genoa, &c.

Podex, (Lat.) the Fundament, or Breech.

Poem, a piece of Poetry, a Compoſition in Verſe, a Copy of Verſes.

Poeſy or Poetry, a Poet's Work, the Art of making Verſes.

Poet, one that writes or makes Verſes.

Poetaſter, a paltry Poet, a pitiful Rhimer.

Poeteſs, a female Poet, a Woman ſkill'd in Poetry.

Poetical or Poetick, belonging to Poetry, having the Air of Poetry.

Poetical Riſing and Setting of the Stars, is peculiar to the ancient Poets, who generally refer the Riſing and Setting of the Stars to that of the Sun, and accordingly make three ſorts of Poetical Riſing and Setting, viz. Achronychal or Acronychal, Coſmical, and Heliacal; Which See under thoſe Articles.

Poetry. See Poeſy.

Poge, a Cold in a Horſe's Head.

Pogonias, (Gr.) a ſort of Comet, or Blazing-Star with a Beard.

Poinant, (Fr.) ſharp, tart, biting, Satyrical, cutting, keen, bitter.

Point, the ſharp end of any thing, an Head or chief Matter, a Mark of Diſtinction; alſo a ſort of Needle-work.

In Geometry, a Point is defin'd to be the beginning of Magnitude, and conceiv'd ſo ſmall as to have no Parts; being the ſame in Quantity as an Unite in Number.

In Navigation, Point is the 32d part of the Mariner's Compaſs, containing 11 Degrees, 15 Minutes; the half of which, being 5 Degr. 38 Min. is call'd a Half-point, and the half of this laſt, being 2 Degr. 49 Min. is termed a Quarter-point: So that ſailing by the Compaſs, is ſailing upon a Point.

The Sea-men alſo call the utmoſt End of any Cape, or Head-land, running out into the Sea, a Point; and when 'tis ſaid, Two Points are one in another, the meaning is, they are juſt ſo in a right Line one againſt another, that the Innermoſt is hinder'd from being ſeen by the Outermoſt.

Point of Concourſe, (in Opticks) is that Point where the Viſual Rays, inclining towards each other, and being ſufficiently lengthen'd, meet together, are united in the middle, and croſs the Axis: This Point is commonly call'd the Focus, and ſometimes the Point of Convergence.

Point of Concurrence, (in Perſpective) is the ſame as the Principal Point: Which See.

Point of Divergence. See Virtual Focus.

Point of Incidence, (in Opticks) is that Point on the Surface of a Glaſs or other Body, on which any Ray of Light falls.

Point of Inflection of a Curve. See Inflection-Point.

Point Principal, a Term in Perſpective. See Principal Point.

Point Senſible, (according to Mr. Lock) is the leaſt Particle of Matter, or Space that can be diſcern'd, and which to the quickeſt Sight is about thirty Seconds of a Circle, whereof the Eye is the Center.

Point Champain, or Point Champion Tenn, (in Heraldry) is an Abatement of Honour, belonging to one that kills his Priſoner of War after Quarter demanded, and his Commander's Leave to give it.

Point Dexter parted Tenn, another Abatement due to a Braggadochio, that boaſts of more than he did, or can do.

Point plain Sanguine, an Abatement proper for a Lier that tells falſe Stories to his Sovereign.

Point in Point [illegible] a Mark of Diſho[illegible] [illegible] upon the Wear[illegible] [illegible] in an [illegible] part of the [illegible]

Points, are alſo certain Places in an Eſcutcheon, that ſhew diſtinct Names, according to the variety of their Situation, viz. the Dexter Chief Point, the Middle-Chief, the Siniſter-Chief, the Honour-Point, the Feſſe-Point, the Nombril-Point, the Dexter-Baſe, the Middle-Baſe, and the Siniſter-Baſe: Which See in their proper Places.

Points of Station, (in Aſtron.) thoſe Degrees of the Zodiack, in which a Planet ſeems to ſtand ſtill, and not to move at all.

Point-Blank, (in Gunnery) is when the Piece being levell'd, the Shot, or Bullet goes directly forward, and does not move in a crooked Line, as Bombs and High-rais'd Random-ſhots do. The Term is deriv'd from the French Word Blanc, i. e. a White, or Mark to ſhoot at: Whence it is commonly taken for directly, poſitively, or abſolutely; as He told me point-blank, he would take it.

To Point, to make ſharp at the end, to mark with Points and Stops, to ſhew with the Finger.

To Point a Cannon, to level it againſt a Place.

Pointing the Cable, (in Sea-Language) is when the Strands of a Cable about two Foot from the End, being untwiſted to make Sinnet, are laid one over the other again, and made all faſt together with a piece of Marlin, or ſmall Line; which is done to keep the Cable from ravelling out, as alſo that none of it may be cut off and ſtole away.

Poiree or Pozree, (Fr.) an Herb call'd white Beets.

To Poiſe, to weigh with the Hand, to put into an equal Ballance.

Poiſon, whatſoever is able to break and deſtroy the orderly Diſpoſition of the Body and its Humours, or elſe to hinder the natural Courſe of the Spirits.

To Poiſon, to give Poiſon, to infect, to corrupt, to marr or ſpoil.

To Poiſon a Piece, a Term in Gunnery. See To Cloy and to Nail.

Poitral, a Breaſt-plate, or an Horſe's Breaſt-Leather.

Poitrel, a Tool, with the ſharp end of which Letters are engrav'd, and rubb'd out with the broad end.

Poke, a Bag: Pokes were alſo a ſort of long-ſleev'd Gowns, which Faſhion grew ſo affected and extravagant, that the wearing of them was forbidden by Philip Repingdon Biſhop of Lincoln, Anno Dom. 1410.

Polaque, a kind of Veſſel us'd on the Mediterranean Sea.

Polar, (Lat.) belonging to the Points call'd Poles.

Polar Circles, (in Aſtron.) two leſſer Circles of the Sphere, which are parallel to the Equator, and at an equal Diſtance of 23½ Degrees from the Polar Points or Poles of the World, and the Tropicks: One of theſe Polar Circles about the North Pole is uſually termed the Arctick Circle, and the other about the South Pole the Antarctick; which See.

Polar Dial, is that whoſe Plane is parallel to ſome great Circle that paſſes thro' the Poles; ſo that the Pole is neither raiſed above, nor depreſſed below the Plane.

Polar Projection, a Repreſentation of the Globe of Heaven or Earth, drawn on the Plane of one of the Polar Circles.

Polar Star. See Pole-Star.

Polarity, the Property of the Magnet or Load-

[illegible] of a piece of Iron touch'd by it, to point towards the Poles of the World.

[illegible] a long Stick for meaſuring, it is the ſame with Perch or Rod, or as ſome call it Lugg: By Stat. 35 Eliz. this Meaſure is a length of 16 Foot and a half; but in ſome Countries it conſiſts of 18 Foot, and is called Woodland-Meaſure; in ſome Places of 21 Foot termed Church-Meaſure; and in others of 24 Foot under the Name of Foreſt-Meaſure.

In Mathematicks, Pole is a Point 90 Degrees diſtant from the Plane of any Circle, and in a Line perpendicularly rais'd in its Centre, which Line is called the Axis.

Pole of a Glaſs (in Opticks,) is the thickeſt part of a Convex, or the thinneſt of a Concave Glaſs; and if the Glaſs be truly ground, 'twill be exactly in the middle of its Surface: 'Tis alſo ſometimes called the Vertex of the Glaſs.

Poles of the World, are the two ends of the imaginary Axis or Right Line, about which the Sphere of the Univerſe is conceiv'd to move or turn. One of theſe is call'd the North or Arctick Pole, from its nearneſs to the Conſtellation nam'd Arctos in Greek, i. e. the Bear; and the other the South or Antarctick Pole, becauſe it is oppoſite to the former.

Poles of the Ecliptick or Zodiack are Points in the Solſticial Colure 23 Degrees 30 Minutes diſtant from the Poles of the World; thro' which all Circles of Longitude in the Heavens do paſs, as the hour-Circles do through the Poles of the Equator.

Poles of the Equator, or Equinoctial, are the ſame with thoſe of the World.

Poles of the Horizon, are the points called Zenith and Nadir.

Poles of a Dial, All Dials whether they be Upright or Reclining, are Horizontal Dials in ſome parts of the Earth; and the Zenith and Nadir of that Horizon are the Poles of that Dial.

Pole-ſtar, a Star in the Tail of the Conſtellation of Cynoſura or the leſſer Bear, ſo call'd becauſe it is not above 2 Degrees and a half diſtant from the North Pole of the World, and ſeems to the naked Eyes as if it were exactly in that Point.

Poldavies, a kind of courſe Canvas us'd by Sales-men, in making up their Wares.

Poleine, a ſort of Shooe pick'd and turn'd up at the Toe, they firſt came in faſhion in the time of K. William II. and under Richard II. were ty'd up to the Knees with Gold and Silver-Chains.

Polemonia or Polemonium, (Gr.) wild Sage, an Herb.

Polemical or Polemick, Controverſial, belonging to Controverſy or Diſpute; as Polemical Logick, Polemical Divinity, &c.

Polemicks, Diſputations, Treatiſes, or Diſcourſes about controverſial Points, ſo call'd from the Greek Word Polemos, i. e. War or Strife, by reaſon of the jars and ſquabbles that uſually ariſe about ſuch Points.

Polota (in old Latin Writers) the Ball of a Dog's Foot which is often cut out, in thoſe that range about a Foreſt.

Policy, (Gr.) the Government of Church and State, a prudent managing of Affairs, Conduct, Addreſs, cunning Way.

Policy of Inſurance, an Inſtrument or Writing, whereupon a certain Conſideration, by the Inſurers of Ships, Goods, Houſes, &c. to Merchants or others, obliging them to pay the Summ inſured in caſe of Loſs.

To Poliſh, (Lat.) to ſmooth, to make clear or bright, to burniſh; to civilize, to refine one's [illegible]

Poliſhable, that may be poliſhed.

Poliſher, he or ſhe that poliſhes, alſo a Poliſhing-Iron.

Polite, well poliſhed, neat; or exact, well-bred, accompliſhed, genteel.

Political, belonging to Policy, or Civil Government.

Political Day, See Day.

Politician, a States-man, a Perſon skill'd in the Art of Governing, or that paſſes a true Judgment of it. Sometimes it is taken in an ill Senſe, for one that is full of crafty Tricks, cunning Shifts, Artifices and Intrigues.

Politick, belonging to Politicks; crafty, ſubtil, cunning.

Politicks, the Art of governing a State or Common-wealth, Policy, Addreſs, Subtilty; alſo a Book, or Treatiſe of Political Affairs.

Politure, a poliſhing or trimming, Politeneſs, Neatneſs.

Polity, Government; as Eccleſiaſtical Polity.

Polium, (Gr.) the Herb Poley, good to open ſtoppages of the Spleen and Liver, as alſo to provoke Urine and the Courſes.

Poll, a Head: Alſo a ſetting down the Names of thoſe that have a right to Vote, at the publick Election of Magiſtrates, &c.

To Poll, to ſhave the Head: Alſo to take a Poll, to ſet down the Names and reckon up the Number of Perſons concern'd in an Election, in order to know which of the Competitours has moſt Votes.

Poll-Tax, a Tax when every Subject is aſſeſs'd by the Poll or Head, to pay a certain Summ of Money, according to his Quality, Degree, or Employment.

Pollard, a Chevin or Chubfiſh: Alſo a Stag or Male Deer, that has muſen'd or caſt its Head; alſo a ſort of Bran, with ſome Meal amongſt it; alſo a kind of baſe Coin, which with Crocards, Staldings, &c. have been long ſince prohibited and diſus'd.

Pollard or Pollenger, (in Husbandry) an old Tree that has been often lopped, and ſo diſtinguiſh'd from a Timber-Tree.

Polled Deed, See Deed-poll.

Pollex, (Lat.) the Thumb of the Hand, or the great Toe of the Foot; alſo a Thumb's-breadth, an Inch in Meaſure.

Pollinctor, an Embalmer of Dead Bodies, one that by waſhing them with ſweet Ointments, &c. prepares them for their Burial; an Undertaker.

To Pollute, to defile or make filthy, to corrupt or ſtain.

Pollution, Polluting, Defilement, Uncleanneſs.

Pollution Nocturnal, an involuntary voiding of the Semen in the Night, during one's Sleep.

Pollux, a fixed Star of the ſecond Magnitude or Light, in the Sign Gemini.

To Polt, (Country-Word) to beat, bang, or thraſh.

Poltron, (Fr.) a Coward, or Hen-hearted Fellow.

Polyacanthos, (Gr.) a certain rough Herb with many Prickles, the Star-thiſtle or Caltrop.

Polyacouſticks, Inſtruments contrived to multiply Sounds, as Polyſcopes or multiplying Glaſſes do the Images of Sounds.

Polyanthemum, a Plant with many Flowers; Crow-foot, Gold-cup, or Gold-knap, Batchelors-button.

Polychreſton, a Soveraign Remedy fit for many Diſeaſes: Alſo a kind of Chymical Salt, or a general Furnace that may be us'd for moſt ſorts of Operations.

Polychronius, a Diſeaſe that afflicts the Patient for a long time.

Polycnemon, an Herb like wild Savoury, or Organy.

Polyedron or Polyedrous Figure, (in Geom.) a Solid Body contained under, or consisting of many Sides.

Polygala or Polygalon, the Herb Milk-wort an handful of which steep'd in Wine purges Choler by Stool.

Polygalactos, abounding with Milk.

Polygamy, a being marry'd to ſeveral Wives, or Husbands at the ſame time.

Polygarchy, the Government of a Commonwealth in the Hands of many.

Polyglott, that is of many Languages, as, The Polyglott Bible, a Polyglott Dictionary.

Polyglotta, the American Mock-bird, ſo call'd becauſe it imitates the Notes of all Birds, and ſurpaſſes all in the ſweetneſs of its Voice.

Polygon, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of many Angles and Sides, i.e. ſuch an one as has more than four or five Angles; being either Regular or Irregular. Alſo a ſpot of Ground of that Figure, which is, or may be fortify'd according to the Rules of Art.

Regular Polygon, is that whoſe Sides and Angles are all equal one to another.

Irregular Polygon, is a Polygon which has unequal Sides and Angles.

Exterior Polygon, (in Fortif.) the Out-lines of all the Works drawn from one outmoſt Angle to another; or it is the diſtance of one outward Point of a Baſtion to the Point of another, reckon'd quite round the Work.

Interior Polygon, the main Body of the Work or Place, excluding the Out-works; or the diſtance between the Centers of ſeveral Baſtions.

Polygonal Numbers, ſuch as are the Aggregates or Summs of a Series, or Rank of Numbers in Arithmetical Progreſſion beginning with Unity, and ſo plac'd that they repreſent the Figure of a Polygon.

Polygonaton, the Herb Solomon's Seal, which is of a binding quality, good for Wounds and the Falling-ſickneſs; as alſo to ſtop Fluxes, & cement broken Bones.

Polygonoides, an Herb having Leaves like Laurel, and good againſt the biting of Serpents.

Polygonum, Polygony or Knot-graſs, an Herb chiefly us'd for ſtopping all ſorts of Fluxes, Wounds, Ulcers, and Inflammations of the Eyes.

Polygophora, Drinks, or Liquors full of excellent Spirits.

Polygram, (in Geom.) a Figure that conſiſts of a great Number of Lines.

Polygrammos, a kind of Jaſper-ſtone with many white ſtreaks.

Polyhedron. See Polyadron.

Polyhiſtor, a learned knowing Man that hath read much; alſo a Title of Solinus's Book, q. d. a Collection of Hiſtories.

Polyhymion, the leſſer Centaury; an Herb.

Polyhymnia or Polymnia, one of the nine Muſes, who preſided over the Hymns and Songs that were play'd on the Lute and Harp.

Polymitarius, an Embroiderer, a Worker with Silk and Gold in Tiſſue or Tapeſtry.

Polymorphum Os, (in Anat.) the fourth Bone of the Foot, ſo call'd from the Diverſity of its Shape.

Polyneuron, the Herb Ribwort-Plantain, ſo nam'd by reaſon of the great number of its ſmall Fibres or Strings.

Polynomial or Multinomial Roots, (in Algebra) ſuch as are compos'd of many Names, Parts, or Members.

Polypetalous Flower, (among Herbaliſts) the Flower of a Plant conſiſting of many, or more than ſix diſtinct Flower-leaves, which are ſet round to form it, and fall off ſingly, Polyphon, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument that has many Strings and Sounds.

Polypodes, Sows, or Hog-lice, a ſort of Inſects.

Polypodium, Polypody or Oak-fern, an Herb ſo call'd from the great Number of its Roots and Leaves, which purge gently, being very proper for ſtoppages of the Liver, Spleen, &c.

Polyptoton, (in Grammar) a Noun that is declined with many Caſes: In Rhetorick, a Figure in which ſeveral Caſes of the ſame Noun, or Tenſes of the ſame Verb, are us'd in the compounded Clauſes; as,

Cedere juſſit aquam, juſſa receſſit aqua.

Polypus, the Pourcontrel, a kind of Fiſh that has a great many Feet, and changes its Colour like the Place where it is: Alſo a lump of ſpungy Fleſh ariſing in the hollow of the Noſtrils, which ſometimes has many diſtinct Branches or Feet, that reach either to the out-ſide of the Noſe or to the in-ſide of the Mouth.

Polypyrenous Fruit, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Fruit of Trees, Herbs, &c. as contain two or more Kernels or Seeds within it.

Polyrrhizon, a ſort of Birth-wort, an Herb with many thick Roots. See Piſtolochia.

Polyſarcia, bigneſs, or groſſneſs of Body.

Polyſcope, a multiplying Glaſs that repreſents to the Eye one Object as many.

Polyſpaſton, a Windleſs with many Pulleys or Truckles: In Mathematicks, it is the ſame as the Trochlea or Pulley: In Surgery, a kind of Engine for the ſetting of Joynts.

Polyſpermæ Plantæ, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch Plants or Herbs that have more than four Seeds, which ſucceed each Flower, without any certain Order or Number.

Polyſpermos, abounding with Seed.

Polyſyllabical, belonging to a Polyſyllable, or having many Syllables.

Polyſyllabical Eccho's. See Tautological Eccho

Polyſyllable, (in Grammar) a Word that conſiſts of more than three Syllables.

Polyſyndeton, a Figure of Speech that abounds with Conjunctions copulative, as,

Fataque, fortunaſque virum, moreſque, manuſque.

Polytrichon or Polytrix, the Herb Maiden-hair; alſo a precious Stone with greeniſh Hairs.

Polytrophia, much Nouriſhment.

Polytrophus. See Oligotrophus.

Polyzonos, a precious Stone, with many white Circles about it.

Pomada, (Ital.) a kind of Exerciſe, which is to vault over a Wooden Horſe, laying one Hand only on the Pummel of the Saddle.

Pomander, (in Dutch Pomamber, q. d. an Apple of Amber) a little round Ball made of ſeveral fragrant Perfumes, to ſmell to or hang about the Wriſt; a Roll of Perfume, a Musk-Ball.

Pomatum, a ſweet Ointment made of the Apples call'd Pome-waters, and Hog's Lard, commonly us'd for Chaps or roughneſs of the Skin.

To Pome, (among Gardiners) to grow to a round Head; as a Cabbage that begins to pome.

Pome-citron, a Fruit ſomewhat like a Lemon, but much larger, the Peel of which is us'd in Cordials againſt Poiſon and all infectious Diſeaſes.

Pome-granate or Pomgranate, a round Fruit ſo call'd from its being full of Grains, or becauſe it grows chiefly in Granada, a Country of Spain; its Rind and Kernels are of great uſe in Phyſick, ſerving to comfort and ſtrengthen the Bowels, &c.

Pome Paradiſe, a Fruit call'd a John-Apple.

Pome-water, a large ſort of Apple full of a very ſweet Juice.

Pomelegryſe, (old Word) the dapple gray Colour.

Pomellum, (in old Latin Records) a Pommel or round Ball, ſet on the top of a Building.

Pomey, (in Heraldry) the figure of an Apple or Ball, which is always drawn of a green Colour.

Pomiferous Plants, (according to Mr. Ray) ſuch as bear the largeſt Fruit cover'd with a thick hard Rind or Bark, as a Cucumber, Melon, Pumpkin, Gourd, &c. in which reſpect they are diſtinguiſh'd from the Bacciferous Herbs that only have a thin Skin over the Fruit.

Pomiferous Trees, are thoſe that have their Flower on the top of the Fruit, and their Fruit ſhap'd like an Apple or Pear.

Pommel, the round knob on a Saddle-bow, or on the Hilt of a Sword.

To Pommel, to maul, bang, or beat ſoundly.

Pomœrium, (Lat. among the Romans) a certain ſpace about the Walls of a City or Town, as well within as on the out-ſide, whereon it was not allow'd to plough or build Houſes, for fear of hind'ring the defence of the Place.

Pomona, a Nymph of Latium reckon'd to be the Goddeſs of Orchards and Fruits; whence the Word is taken for a Title to ſeveral Treatiſes of Fruit-trees.

Pomp, (Gr.) Glory, Grandeur, or State, ſuch as appears in publick Shews; Pageantry, Vanity of Worldly Things.

Pompets, Printers Balls, with which they lay the Ink on the Chace or frame of Letters.

Pompholygodes, (Gr.) Urine with many Bubbles upon it, which happen when the Body is puffed up or full of Pain.

Pompholyx, a Bubble of Water: Alſo a ſmall and light ſpark, which whilſt Braſs is trying flies upwards and ſticks to the Roof and Sides of the Work-houſe; this Subſtance by reaſon of its drying quality is often us'd againſt Cankers, malignant Ulcers, Rheums of the Eyes, &c.

Pompilos, a kind of Fiſh that ſwims with its Belly upwards.

Pompion or Pumpkin, a ſort of Fruit of the nature of Melons.

Pompous, (Gr.) full of Pomp, magnificent, ſtately, glorious, lofty.

Pomum, (Lat.) an Apple, a well known Fruit.

Pomum Adami, (in Anat.) a knob in the fore-ſide of the Throat, being the convex part of the firſt Cartilage or Griſtle of the Larynx nam'd Scutiformis: It is ſo call'd as being fooliſhly taken for a piece of the Apple ſtuck in Adam's Throat as a part of his Puniſhment, and afterwards derived to his Poſterity: alſo the name of a ſort of Orange.

Pomum Amoris or Pomum Aureum, Apple of Love, an Herb ſo call'd for its fair and lovely appearance.

Pomum Odoriferum, a ſweet Ball, or Roll of Perfume.

Pond-weed, an Herb that grows in Ponds, or marſhy Grounds.

To Ponder, to weigh in Mind, to conſider.

Ponderoſity or Ponderouſneſs, (Lat.) Weightineſs, Heavineſs.

Ponderous, Weighty, Subſtantial, Maſſy, as Gold is more ponderous than Silver. In Aſtrology, thoſe Planets are ſaid To be ponderous, that move ſlowly like a Man under a Burden, as Saturn, Jupiter and Mars, which in their daily Motion can never reach one whole Degree.

Pondo, (Lat.) a Pound-weight.

Pondus, a Load, Poiſe or Weight, a Pound-weight of twelve Ounces. In our old Records it ſignifies Poundage, a Duty paid to the King according to the weight of Merchandizes.

Pondus Regis, the Standard-weight appointed by our ancient Kings.

Pone, a Writ by which a Cauſe depending in the County-Court or other Inferiour Court, is remov'd to the Common-Pleas.

Pone per Vadium, a Writ enjoyning the Sheriff to take Surety of one for his Appearance at a Day aſſigned.

Ponendis in Aſſiſis, a Writ founded upon the Statute of Weſtm. 2. cap. 38. and that of Articuli ſuper Chartas, cap. 9. which ſhew what Perſons the Sheriffs ought to impannel upon Aſſizes and Juries, and what not.

Ponendum in Ballium, a Writ commanding a Priſoner to be bailed in Caſes bailable.

Ponendum Sigillum ad Exceptionem, a Writ whereby the Queen requires the Juſtices to put their Seals to Exceptions laid in by the Defendant againſt the Plaintiff's Declarations, or againſt the Evidence, Verdict, or other Proceedings in Court.

Poniard, (Fr.) a Dagger.

Pons, (Lat.) a Bridge, a Ladder in a Ship.

Pons Cerebri, a Term us'd by ſome Anatomical Writers, for a certain heap of innumerable Filaments or ſmall Strings proceeding from the more ſolid Subſtance of the Brain; whence all the Nerves take their riſe.

Pont de Jonc & Pont Volant. See Bridge of Ruſhes and Bridge flying.

Pontage, a Contribution toward the maintaining or rebuilding of Bridges; alſo Toll taken for that purpoſe of thoſe that paſs over Bridges.

Pontibus Reparandis, (Lat.) a Writ directed to the Sheriff, requiring him to charge one or more Perſons to repair a Bridge that belongs to them.

Ponticum Abſinthium, Roman Wormwood, an Herb very good againſt the Dropſie.

Pontifex or Pontifex Maximus, the Chief Prieſt among the ancient Romans, who was Sovereign Judge in Matters of Religion, and to whoſe Care the direction of all Ceremonies was committed; which Title is now given to the Pope or Biſhop of Rome.

There were alſo Pontifices Minores, or Inferiour Pontiffs who were Aſſiſtants to the chief Pontiff, and the Word has been ſince us'd to ſignifie a Biſhop, Prelate, or Prieſt.

Pontifical, belonging to a Pontiff, Biſhop, or Prieſt.

A Pontifical, a Book of Pontifical Rites and Ceremonies.

In Pontificalibus, (i. e. in Pontifical Ornaments) a Term apply'd to a Prelate or Biſhop, clad in his Epiſcopal Veſtments, with which he performs Divine Service on Feſtival Days; alſo to any Perſon wearing his beſt Apparel or richeſt Attire.

Ponton, (Fr. in Fortif.) a Floating-bridge, a kind of Bridge made of two great Boats plac'd at ſome diſtance one from another, and both plank'd over, as is the ſpace between them, with Rails on the Sides; the whole ſo ſtrong built, as to be ſufficient for tranſporting the Horſe, with the Cannon and Baggage, as well as the Foot-Soldiers.

Poll-evil, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, a Swelling that grows like a Fiſtula between the Ears and the Nape of the Neck.

Poles-hole, a Place in Derby-ſhire, near which is a little Brook conſiſting of both hot and cold Waters which are unmixt, and yet ſo near that a Man may put his Finger and Thumb, one in Hot and the other in Cold; both at the ſame time.

Poop, the Stern or uppermoſt Part of the Ship's Hull, the Deck or Floor of the Round-Houſe or Maſter's Cabbin.

Poor-man's Sauce or Carrier's Sauce, Sauce made of a Shalot, cut very ſmall, with Salt, white Pepper, Vinegar and Oil.

Popa, (Lat.) certain Butcher-Prieſts among the Romans, whoſe Buſineſs was to provide and kill the Beaſt offer'd in Sacrifice.

Pope, a Title commonly given to the Biſhop of Rome; See Papa.

Popedom, the Pope's Dignity or Office.

Popery, the Popiſh, or Roman-Catholick Religion.

Popingey or Popinjay, a kind of Parret of a greeniſh Colour; alſo an Herb which takes Name from that Bird.

Popiſh, belonging to the Perſon, Principles, or Practices of the Pope.

Poplar, a Tree that delights in marſhy Ground; of which there are two ſorts, one White and the other Black.

Poples, (Lat. in Anat.) the joynting where the Thigh is joyn'd to the Leg-bone call'd Tibia, the Ham of one's Leg behind the Knee.

Poplitea Vena, the Vein of the Ham, which takes riſe from the Iliacal Branches of the Vena Cava, and ſometimes reaches down the back of the Leg even to the Heel.

Popliteus, by ſome call'd Subpopliteus, a Muſcle of the Leg, which ariſes from the outward Head of the lower Appendix of the Thigh-bone, and is let into the upper part of the Tibia on the In-ſide; this Muſcles aſſiſts the other in bending the Tibia, ſerving alſo to turn the Foot and Toes outwards when we ſit with our Knees bended.

Poplitick, belonging to the Ham, as The Poplitick Vein or Muſcle.

Poppey, a Plant bearing a Flower of a deep red Colour, of great Efficacy to provoke Sleep.

Populace or Populacy, the common, or meaner Sort of People.

Populago, (Lat.) the Herb Colts-foot.

Popular, belonging to the common People, that courts the Favour of the People; alſo acccepted of, or beloved by the People.

Popular Diſeaſe, a Diſtemper that is rife among the People.

Popularity, an endeavouring to pleaſe the People, the affecting of popular Applauſe.

† Population, an unpeopling, laying waſte, or deſtroying.

Populeum, (Lat.) an Ointment made of Poplar-buds, of a cooling and allaying Quality.

Populous, full of People.

Populus, (Lat.) the People, the common People, the Multitude; alſo the Poplar-tree, or Aſpen-tree.

Porca, a Sow-pig, a Porket: In old Records, a balk or ridge of Land lying between two Furrows, on which the Corn grows.

Porcaria, the Herb Purſlain; in Doomſ-day Book, it is taken for a Swine-ſty.

Porcelain or Porcelane, the chalky Earth, of which China-ware is made, which being beaten and ſteept in Water, affords a kind of Cream on the top, and a groſſer Subſtance at the bottom: The former ſerves to make the fineſt Diſhes, and the other the courſer Sort of them. Alſo the Veſſels, or Ware made of that Earth.

Porcellana or Portulaca, (Lat.) the Herb Purſlain.

Porcellio, the Cheſlep, Sow, or Hog-louſe, an Inſect.

Porcellus, a little Hog, a young Pig. Porcellus Indicus, the Guiney-Pig.

Porcetra, a young Sow or Yelt, which hath farrow'd but once.

Porch, See Portico.

Porcupine, a Creature of the Bigneſs of a Rabbet arm'd with ſharp Darts and Prickles that reſemble Writing-Pens: It is a ſort of Hedge-hog, bred in Africa, but it's Briſtles or Quills are much larger than thoſe of Europe.

Porcus, (Lat.) a Hog.

To Pore, to look cloſe, as they do that are ſhort-ſighted.

Pores (Gr. in Philoſ.) are ſmall void Spaces between the Particles of Matter, of which all Bodies are made up.

Pores of the Skin, certain Holes ſo ſmall that they cannot be perceived, wherein the Hair grows, and thro' which Sweat with other Humours and Vapours paſs out inſenſibly.

Porime, (in Geom.) a Theorem or Propoſition, ſo eaſie to be demonſtrated, that it is almoſt Self-evident.

Poriſm, a kind of Theorem in Form of a Corollary, which depends upon, or is drawn from ſome other Theorem already demonſtrated; 'Tis alſo commonly taken for a general Theorem diſcover'd by finding out ſome Geometrical Place.

Poriſtick Method, (in Mathem.) is that which ſhews when, by what Means, and how many different Ways a Problem may be reſolved.

Porket, a young Hog.

Porocele, a Rupture that proceeds from hard Matter, or from the Stone.

Poromphalus, a brawny piece of Fleſh, or a Stone bunching out in the Navel.

Poroſis, the breeding of Callous or hard Matter; a ſoldering, or knitting together of broken Bones.

Poroſity, a being porous, or full of Pores.

Porotticks, Medicines, which by their drying, thickening and binding Qualities turn part of the Nouriſhment into Callous or hard Matter.

Porous or Poroſe, full of Pores.

Porphyrion, a Bird of the bigneſs of a Cock, of a blew Colour, with a purple Beak, long Legs and cloven Feet, having five Claws, the biggeſt of which is in the middle.

Porphyrites, Porphyry, a kind of fine reddiſh Marble, ſpotted with white.

Porphyritis, a Fig of a purple Colour.

Porpoiſe, a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Sea-hog.

Porrigo, (Lat.) Scurf or Scales on the Head, Eyebrows, or Beard.

Porrum, a Leak, a Plant which provokes Urine and the Courſes, cleanſes the Lungs and Stomach, cures a Cough, ſhortneſs of Breath, &c.

Porrus, a Leak; alſo a kind of Wart.

Port, Carriage, Meen, Behaviour: Alſo an Inlet of the Sea between the Land, with good Anchorage, where a Ship may ride ſecure from Storms, for the Convenience of Loading and Unloading: Alſo the Larboard, or left Side of a Ship: Thus a Ship is ſaid To heel a Port, when ſhe does not ſwim upright, but leans to the left Side; and to bring thing a Port, is to carry it to the left Side of the Ship.

Port, is alſo a ſort of red Wine ſo call'd, becauſe 'tis brought from O Porto, a Haven in Portugal.

The Port, the Court of the Grand Seignior, or Emperour of the Turks at Conſtantinople.

Ports or Port-holes, are thoſe ſquare Holes in a Ship, thro' which her great Guns are thruſt out.

Port-Laſt, the ſame as the Gun-wale of a Ship; whence 'tis ſaid, A Yard is down a Port-Laſt, when it lies down on the Deck.

Port-Ropes, the Ropes that ſerve to hale up the Ports of the Ordinance.

Port-Sale, the Sale of Fiſh as ſoon as it is brought into the Harbour; alſo an Out-cry or publick Sale of any Commodity to thoſe that bid moſt.

To Port, to carry; as To port Books about to ſell.

To Port the Helm, (in Sea-Language) is to put the Helm on the Larboard, or left Side of the Ship: But 'tis obſervable that the Sea-men never ſay Larboard the Helm, which is the ſame thing; becauſe the Words Starboard and Larboard, being of a near Sound in caſe of Haſte, the one might be miſtaken for the other.

Porta, (Lat.) a Gate, a Port, a Door. In Anatomy, the Port-vein. See Vena Porta.

Portable, that may be carry'd, or born.

Portable Barometer, an Inſtrument firſt invented by Mr. Boyle, to make Obſervations of the Weight of the Air on the tops of Hills, bottoms of Mines, &c.

Portage or Porterage, the Carriage of Goods by Porters, &c.

Portal, a leſſer Gate, where there are two of a different Bigneſs; alſo a kind of Arch of Joyner's Work before a Door.

† Portative, that may be carry'd from Place to Place.

Portcullice, an Engine like a Harrow, made of ſeveral great pieces of Wood laid a-croſs one another, each Bar at the bottom being pointed with Iron: It is uſually hung over the Gate-ways of fortify'd Places, to be let fall for the keeping out of an Enemy, in caſe of a Surprize; See Orgues.

Portcullice, is alſo the Name of one of the four Marſhals or Purſuivants at Arms.

Portegue, a certain Gold-coin worth three Pounds and ten Shillings.

To Portend, (Lat.) to ſignifie before a thing happens, to fore-ſhew or fore-bode, to betoken before-hand.

Portentous, that portends or betokens ſome future Good or ill Luck, monſtrous, ſtrange.

Porte-Paine, (Fr.) a kind of Towel us'd in the Court of France, for the carrying of Bread, to ſerve for the Table.

Porter, a Door-keeper, a Carrier or Bearer of Burdens, &c.

Porter in the Circuit of Juſtices, an Officer that carries a white Wand before the Juſtices in Eyre: There is alſo a Porter bearing a Verge, or Rod before the Juſtices of each Bench.

Porter of the Door in the Parliament-Houſe, an Officer who belongs to that high and honourable Court, and enjoys ſeveral Privileges.

Portglaive, a Sword-bearer, one that carries the Sword before a Prince or Magiſtrate.

Portgreve or Portreve, the Title of the Governour of ſome Sea-Port Towns, and anciently that of the chief Magiſtrate of London.

Portico or Porch, (in Architect.) a long Walking-Place, cover'd either with an arched Roof, or an even Floor ſupported by Pillars; it may be alſo taken for any manner of Diſpoſition, or Order of Pillars in a Gallery.

Portiforium, (in Latin Records) the Enſign or Banner, provided of old in all Cathedrals, and moſt Pariſh-Churches, to be ſolemnly carry'd in the Front of any Proceſſion.

Portio dura & mollis, See Auditory Nerve.

Portion, a Lot or Share of any thing, that is to be parcell'd out or divided; alſo that Eſtate or Sum of Money, which a Woman brings her Husband in Marriage.

Portioner, (Law-Term) a Parſon who being joyn'd with others in ſerving a Cure by Turns, ſhares with them the Tithes or Profits of the Living.

Portly, that bears a good Port or Meen, ſtately, comely; as A Man of a portly Gate.

Port-men, the twelve Burgeſſes of Ipſwich are ſo call'd; as alſo the Inhabitants of the Cinque-Ports.

Portmannimote, (in ancient Deeds) the Portmote or Port-men's Court, held in any City, Town, or Community.

Portmanteau or Portmantle, (Fr.) a kind of Cloak-bag, to carry Neceſſaries in a Journey.

Portmote, (Sax.) a Court kept in Haven-Towns, as Swainimote in the Foreſt. In Stat. 43 Eliz. it is call'd the Portmote-Court.

Portſokne, the Soke or Liberties of any Port, i. e. City or Town.

Portraiture, (Fr.) the Picture, Repreſentation, or Deſcription of a Perſon.

To Portray, to paint or draw to the Life, to deſcribe or ſet out in a lively manner.

Portuas, a ſort of Book prohibited amongſt others by Stat. 3 and 4 Edw. 6. perhaps the ſame with that which Chaucer calls a Porthoſe, i. e. a Breviary or Maſs-Book, in theſe words; For on my Porthoſe, I make an Oath.

Portulaca, Purſlain, a cold and moiſt Herb, which ſtirs up the Appetite, cures the Heat of the Stomach and Urine, &c.

Porzana, (Ital.) the Girardine, a kind of Water-fowl.

Porus, (Gr.) a Pore, or little Hole in the Skin; alſo the Brawn, or hard thick Skin: Alſo a kind of rough and ſoft Stone full of Pores, which may be eaſily crumbled into Sand by rubbing.

Porus Biliarius or Meatus Hepaticus, (in Anat.) a Pipe or Channel that paſſes directly from the Liver to the Ductus Communis, and conveys the Gall into the Gut Duodenum.

Poſca, (Lat.) a kind of Potion or Drink made of Vinegar and Water; alſo Wine diluted or mingled with Water in the Preſs. See Oxycratum.

Poſe, (Phyſical Term) a Rheum in the Head, properly a Humour which falling into the Noſe, ſtops the Noſtrils, and hinders the Voice.

To Poſe, to puzzle, to put to a non-plus.

Poſited, put, placed, laid.

Poſition, a putting or laying: In Logick, the Ground-work upon which an Argument is raiſed; the laying down of a Principle; a Maxim or Aſſertion: Among Aſtrologers, the reſpect which a Planet has to other Planets and parts of the Figure, is call'd its Poſition.

Poſition or the Rule of Poſition, otherwiſe call'd the Rule of Falſe, a Rule in Arithmetick, wherein any falſe or ſuppoſitious Number is taken at Pleaſure to work the Queſtion by, inſtead of the Number ſought, and ſo by the Errour or Errours found, the true Number required is diſcover'd: This Rule is either ſingle, or double.

Single Poſition, is when there happens in the Propoſition, ſome Partition of Numbers into proportional Parts; ſo that by one falſe Poſition we have means to diſcover the true Reſolution of the Queſtion.

Double Poſition, is when there can be no Partition in the Numbers to make a Proportion, and therefore two falſe Poſitions muſt be made in order to ſolve the Queſtion propounded.

Poſition or Site, (in Philoſ.) is an Affection or Property of Place, and expreſſes the manner of any Natural Body's being in a particular Place.

Poſitive, abſolute, certain, effectual, ſure, true, real.

Poſitive Degree of Compariſon, (in Grammar) the firſt Degree which ſignifies the thing ſimply and abſolutely, ſo as not to compare it with others.

Poſitive Divinity, that which is agreeable to the Poſitions and Tenets of the Fathers of the Church.

Poſitive Levity, See Levity.

Poſitive Quantities, (in Algebra) thoſe that are of a real and affirmative Nature, either having or being ſuppos'd to have the Affirmative or Poſitive Sign + before them. So that they are always oppos'd to the Negative Quantities, which are defective and have this Sign − before them. See Negative Quantities.

Poſture, Diſpoſition, as The Poſture of the Soul.

Poſnet, a Skillet, a Kitchin-Utenſil.

Poſſe, (Lat.) to be able or poſſible: It is alſo ſometimes taken Subſtantively for a Poſſibility, as ſuch a thing is ſaid to be in Poſſe, when it may poſſibly be; but of a thing in being, we ſay It is in Eſſe.

Poſſe Comitatus, or Power of the County, a Law-Expreſſion which ſignifies the Aid and Aſſiſtance of all Knights, Gentlemen, Yeomen, Labourers, &c. above the Age of fifteen Years within the County, which is us'd where a Poſſeſſion is kept by Force, or in caſe of a Reſcue contrary to the Command of the Queen's Writ, or in Oppoſition to the Execution of Juſtice.

To Poſſeſs, to have, enjoy, or be Maſter of.

Poſſeſſion, the poſſeſſing or abſolute Enjoyment of any thing: In a Legal Senſe 'tis ſaid to be twofold, viz. Actual and in Law; the former is when a Man actually enters into Lands or Tenements deſcended to him; and the other when ſuch an Eſtate is fallen to him, but he has not as yet enter'd upon it.

Unity of Poſſeſſion, is when the Poſſeſſion, or Profit is united with the Property. Thus, if the Lord purchaſe the Tenancy held by Heriot-Service, then the Heriot is extinct by Unity of Poſſeſſion, i. e. becauſe the Seignory or Lordſhip and the Tenancy are now in one Man's Poſſeſſion: Among the Civilians this is called Conſolidation; which See.

Poſſeſſive, belonging to, or implying Poſſeſſion; as A Pronoun poſſeſſive, a Term in Grammar.

Poſſeſſives, ſuch Adjectives as ſignifie the Poſſeſſion of, or Property in ſome Thing.

Poſſibility, a being poſſible, Likelihood.

Poſſible, that may be done, or may happen, Likely.

Poſſoun, a Beaſt in Virginia, the Female of which has a Bag under her Belly, from whence ſhe lets forth her young Ones, and takes them in again at Pleaſure; 'tis ſomewhat like a Guinea-Pig, and is frequently eaten by the Inhabitants.

Poſt, a great Stake, or piece of Wood driven into the Ground; alſo an appointed Station or Stand, Place, Employment: Alſo a ſpeedy way of travelling, or a Meſſenger that carries Letters.

In the Art of War, Poſt ſignifies any ſpot of Ground that is capable of lodging Soldiers: Thus 'tis ſaid, To gain a Poſt with Sword in Hand. Advanced Poſt is a ſpot of Ground before the other Poſts to ſecure thoſe behind.

To Poſt it, to go or ride Poſt. To Poſt one's ſelf in a Place, is to take up his Stand there.

To Poſt an Account, is to put an Account forward from one Book to another; as to tranſcribe, or enter what is written in a Merchant's Waſte-Book into the Journal, &c.

Poſt, a Latin Prepoſition ſignifying after, and us'd in ſeveral Compound Words; as Poſt-Brachiale, (in Anat.) four ſmall Bones that make up the Palm of the Hand. See Metacarpus.

Poſt-Communion, the Office ſaid in the Church after the Communion.

To Poſt-date a Writing, to ſet a newer Date upon it, ſome time after the real or firſt Date.

Poſt-Diem, (Law-Term) the Return of a Writ after the Day aſſigned, or the Fee of four Pence paid for ſuch a Default.

Poſt-Diluvians. See Antediluvians.

Poſt-Diſſeiſin, a Writ that lies for one who having recover'd Lands or Tenements upon a Præcipe quod reddat, is again diſſeiſed or put out of Poſſeſſion by the former Diſſeiſor.

Poſt-Fine, a Duty belonging to the King, for a Fine formerly acknowledged before him in his Court.

Poſt-Term, the Return of a Writ, not only after the Day appointed, but alſo after the Term, for which the Cuſtos Brevium takes the Fee of twenty Pence; it is alſo ſometimes taken for the Fee it ſelf.

Poſtage, Money paid for the Carriage of Letters, &c.

Poſtea, (Lat.) afterwards, hereafter. In Common Law, it is the Record of Proceedings by Niſi Prius, in the Court of Common Pleas after a Verdict, and ſo call'd becauſe it begins with theſe Words, Poſtea die & loco, &c.

Poſteriority, a being after, or behind. In a Law-ſenſe, a Man holding Lands or Tenements of two Lords, is ſaid to hold of the ancienter by Priority, and of the other by Poſteriority.

Poſteriour, that comes after, latter.

Poſterity, Off-ſpring, Iſſue, Children; alſo After-times, or After-ages.

Poſtern, a Back-door: In Fortification, a falſe Door uſually made in the Angle of the Flank and of the Courtin, or near the Orillon, for private Sallies.

Poſthume or Poſthumous, born after the Death of the Father; alſo publiſhed or ſet forth after the Author's Deceaſe.

Poſtick, that is behind, or on the back-ſide; added, or done after.

Poſticum, (Lat. in Architect.) the Poſtern Gate, or Back-door of any Building.

Poſtil, a ſhort Note, or Explication upon any Text.

Poſtillion, a Poſt's Guide or Fore-runner, a Poſtboy; alſo he that rides upon one of the foremoſt of the Coach-Horſes, when there are ſix or eight.

To Poſtpone, to ſet behind, or eſteem leſs, to make leſs account of, to leave or neglect.

Poſt-Scenium, (Lat. among the Romans) the back part of the Theater, where the Actors retir'd and undreſs'd themſelves.

Poſtſcript, that which is added after the Concluſion of a Letter, or other Writing, as being ſomewhat that comes next to Mind, or of which the Perſon is inform'd after the finiſhing of ſuch a Letter, &c.

Poſtventional, coming, or that is come after; as A poſtventional Change of the Moon, i. e. a Change that happens after ſome great Moveable Feaſt, Planetary Aſpect, appearance of a Comet, &c.

Poſtulata, Poſtulates, Demands or Requeſts; alſo fundamental Principles in any Art or Science which are taken for granted.

In Mathematicks, Poſtulates are ſuch eaſie and ſelf-evident Suppoſitions, that they need no Proof or Explication to cauſe them to be underſtood; as That a Line may be drawn from one Point to another, or That a Circle may be deſcrib'd on any given Center, &c.

Poſtulation, a requiring or demanding: In a Law-ſenſe, a Demand made upon the unanimous voting any Perſon to a Dignity or Office of which he is not capable by the ordinary Ca-

Poſt

…on of Statutes; as when a Clergyman [illegible] a Bishop, that is actually possess'd of another See.

Posture, the disposition of the Members of the Body, in different Situations; also the Circumstances and State of Affairs.

Posy, a Nosegay; also a Device, or Motto for a Ring.

Pot, a Vessel to put Liquor or any other thing in; also a kind of Head-piece worn by light Horsemen.

Pot or Pu, (in Guernsey and Jersey) half a Gallon or 120 cubical, or solid Inches.

Pot-pourri, (Fr. in Cookery) a Hotch-potch, or Dish of several sorts of Meat; as Ducks, young Turkeys, Leverets, &c. first larded and fry'd in Lard to give them a Colour, and afterward stew'd in Broth, with White-wine, Pepper, Salt, a bunch of Herbs, &c.

Potable, (Lat.) that may be drunk; as Potable Gold.

Potage, (Fr.) Porridge or Broth made of the Juice of Meat, Herbs, Roots, &c.

Potage de Sante, (i. e. Health-Potage) a rich Potage made of the Broth of Buttock-Beef, with a Knuckle of Veal and Mutton, boil'd again in a Pot with Capons, fat Pullets and other sorts of Fowl.

Potage de Sante, (for Fiſh-Days) is prepar'd with chopt Lettice, Purſlain, Sorrel, Beets, and other ſavoury Herbs, firſt ſtew'd in an earthen Pot with Butter and afterwards boil'd in Water.

Potamogeton, (Gr.) Pond-weed, an Herb.

Potans or Potence, that ſtrong ſtud of a Pocket-Watch, wherein the lower Pevet of the Verge plays, and in the middle of which, one Pevet of the Crown-Wheel runs.

Potatoe, a ſort of Root firſt brought from the Weſt-Indies, of great Virtue to nouriſh and ſtrengthen the Body.

Potence. See Potans and Potent.

Potency, (Lat.) Power; as To ſhew his Potency.

Potent, that is of great Power, powerful, mighty.

Potent or Potence, (in Heraldry) as A Croſs Potent, i. e. a Croſs, the ends of which reſemble the top of a Crutch; for in old times Crutches were called Potents: Thus 'tis ſaid He bears Sable, a Croſs Potent Or.

Potent, Counter-Potent, a Term in Heraldry. See Vairy Coppy.

Potentate, one that has Soveraign Power and of a large Extent, a mighty Prince or Monarch.

Potential, having a Power or poſſibility of acting or being; it is uſually oppoſed to Actual.

Potential Cautery, (in Surgery) a Cauſtick made of Lime-Stone and other Ingredients. See Cautery.

Potential Coldneſs, a Relative Quality which ſome Drugs, Simples, or Compound Medicines are ſuppos'd to be endued with. Thus in the Writings of old Phyſicians, ſuch a Plant or Drug is expreſs'd to be cold in the ſecond or third Degree; not that it is actually cold to the Touch, but in its Effects and Operations if inwardly taken.

Potential Mood, (in Grammar) is the ſame in Form with the Subjunctive, but differs in this reſpect, That it always has imply'd in it Poſſum, Volo, or Debeo; as Roget quis that is rogare poteſt, i. e. a Man may aſk.

Potentilla, (Lat.) wild Tanſey or Silver-weed; an Herb ſo call'd from its admirable Virtues.

Poterium, (Gr.) a Pot, or Cup to drink out of; alſo a ſort of Thiſtle.

Potion, a Phyſical Mixture to drink; ſome of which are Purgative, others proper to cauſe Sweat, others Cordial, &c.

Pottle, an Engliſh Meaſure, containing two Quarts or half a Gallon.

([illegible] or Bay-boards) in Sea-Language, [illegible] are [illegible] Bulk-heads or Partitions made in a Ship's Hold, for the ſtowing of Corn or other Goods that are apt to ſhoot from one ſide to the other.

Poulaines. See Poleines and [illegible]

Poulet, (Fr.) a Chick, or Chicken.

Poulets Mignons, (in Cookery) a Diſh of ſmall fat Chickens larded and barded, or cover'd with thin ſlices of Bacon.

Poulterer, one that ſells Poultry, or all ſorts of Fowl.

Poultice or Poultis, a Medicine made of ſeveral Ingredients boil'd together and apply'd hot to the affected Part, to aſſwage Swellings, Inflammations, &c.

Pounce, the Talon, or claw of a Bird of Prey; alſo a ſort of Powder ſtrew'd upon Paper [illegible] bear Ink, or to ſoak up a Blot.

To Pouncy, (old Word) to jagg, or cut in and out.

Pound, a ſort of Weight containing 16 Ounces Aver-du-pois and 12 Ounces Troy. A Pound Sterling in Money is 20 Shillings, and a Pound Scotch is 20 Pence; a Pound Iriſh is 15 Shillings: A Pound Flemiſh contains 20 Schellings or 6 Guilders, which is equal to 12 Shillings Engliſh Money.

A Pound Weight of Silver-Bullion is worth 3 Pounds Sterling, and a Pound-Weight of Gold-Bullion amounts to 48 Pounds.

Pound, an Incloſure to keep Beaſts in, but more eſpecially a Place where Cattel diſtrained for any Treſpaſs are put till they be replevy'd or redeem'd.

To Pound, or to ſhut up in a Pound; alſo to beat in a Mortar.

Poundage, the Fee paid to the Pounder of Cattel; alſo an allowance or abatement of twelve Pence in the Pound, upon the receipt of a Summ of Money: Alſo a Duty granted to the Queen of 12 Pence for every 20 Shillings Value of all Goods exported or imported, except ſuch as pay Tunnage, Bullion, and a few others.

Poundagium, (in old Latin Writers) the Liberty of Pounding Cattel.

Pounder, one that puts Cattel in a Pound; alſo a great Gun, as A Ten-Pounder, i. e. a Cannon that carries a Ball of ten Pounds Weight.

Poupeton, (Fr.) a little Baby, a Puppet: In Cookery, a Meſs made in a Stew-pan, as it were a Pie, with thin ſlices of Bacon laid underneath; Pigeons, Quails, or other ſorts of Fowl dreſs'd in a Ragoo in the middle; and a peculiar Farce or Diſh of ſtuff'd Meat called Godivoe on the top; the whole to be bak'd between two gentle Fires.

Poupeton for Days of Abſtinence, is likewiſe prepar'd with a good Fiſh-Godivoe, Soles cut in ſlices in a Ragoo, and a fine Artichoke-bottom in the middle.

Poupiets, a Meſs made of long and thin ſlices of Bacon, cover'd with Veal-ſtakes of the ſame bigneſs, as alſo with a good Farce, in order to be roll'd up and roaſted on a ſmall Iron-Spit, wrapt up in Paper.

Pourcontrel, a kind of Fiſh. See Polypus.

Pour fair proclamer, que null inject fimes ou ordures en foſſes, ou rivers pres Citees, &c. (Fr.) a Writ directed to the Mayor, Sheriff, or Bailiff of a City or Town, commanding him to proclaim, That none caſt Filth into the Ditches or Places near adjoyning, and if any be caſt already, to remove it.

Pourfil, (a Term in Painting) as A Face drawn in Pourfil, i. e. ſide-ways, a Side-face.

Pour-party, a Law-Term oppoſed to pro indiviſo. To make Pour-party, is to divide and ſever the Lands that fall to Parceners, and which before the Partition they held joyntly or in common.

Pourpreſture, is when a Man takes to himſelf, or encroaches any thing that he ought not; eſpecially any Nuſance or Prejudice done to the Queen's Tenants, an encroachment upon her Foreſts, &c.

Pour ſeiſir terres la feme que tient en Dower, &c. a Writ whereby the King in former times, ſeiz'd upon the Land, which the Wife of his Tenant in Capite deceaſed, had for her Dowry, in caſe ſhe marry'd without his leave.

Pourſuivant. See Purſuivant.

To Pourvey. See to Purvey.

Powder, any thing that is ground, or beat very ſmall. Phyſical Powders, are dry Medicines pounded in a Mortar and ſifted for ſeveral Uſes.

Powder or Gun-powder, a compoſition of Salt-peter, Brimſtone and Charcoal-duſt.

Gun-Powder-Treaſon Day, a Feſtival kept Yearly for the happy deliverance of King James I. and the three Eſtates of the Realm, from a moſt trayterous and bloody intended Maſſacre by the Papiſts, who had conſpir'd to cauſe the Parliament-Houſe to be blown up with Gun-powder, and were juſt ready to put their Helliſh Deſign in Execution.

Jeſuits Powder. See Peruvian Bark & Quinquina.

Powder of Projection. See Projection.

Powder-Cheſts, (in Sea-Affairs) long Boards joyn'd in form of a Triangle and fill'd with Gun-powder, Pebble-ſtones, &c. which being fired when the Ship is boarded by an Enemy, will ſoon make all clear before them.

Powder-Room, a Room in a Ship's Hold, where the Powder is ſtow'd.

Powderings, certain Devices us'd for the filling up of any void ſpace in carved Works, Writings Eſcutcheons, &c. which laſt are ſometimes ſaid To be powder'd with Ermins.

Power, Ability, Force, Authority, Influence, natural Faculty, &c. Alſo a Sovereign State, or Prince; as Theſe two Powers keep a good Correſpondence together.

Power of the County. See Poſſe Comitatus.

Powers, the third Order of the Hierarchy of Angels, ſo call'd from their peculiar juriſdiction over Devils and all Infernal Spirits.

Powers of Numbers or of Algebraick Quantities, are Numbers that ariſe from the multiplying of any Number or Quantity by itſelf, then that Product by the Root or firſt Number, the third Product by the Root again, and ſo on ad Infinitum: As 3, 9, 27, 81, 243, &c. where 3 is the Root or firſt Power, 9 is the Square or ſecond Power, 27 is the Cube or third Power, 81 is the Biquadrate, ſquared Square or fourth Power, and 243 is the fifth Power.

In Mechanicks, Powers are the ſix Faculties or Principles of that Art, viz. the Ballance, the Leaver, the Wheel, the Pulley, the Screw and the Wedge, which are uſually ſtyl'd, The ſix Mechanick Powers. The Force or Strength made uſe of for the moving of a Weight by any Engine, is alſo call'd the Power; whether the Engine be ſet on work by Men, Horſes, Water, or Wind, &c.

Powt, a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Sea-Lamprey; alſo a kind of Bird.

To Powt, to look gruff or ſurly, to hang out the Lip.

Pox or French-Pox, a loathſome Diſeaſe. See Lues Venerea.

Poy, the Pole us'd by Rope-dancers to ſtay themſelves with.

Poyning's Law, an Act of Parliament made under King Henry VII. whereby the Laws of England became of Force in Ireland; and ſo call'd becauſe it was eſtabliſh'd, when Sir Edward Poyning was Lieutenant there.

Pozzolana, a kind of Sand found in the Territory of Pozzuolo near the City of Naples in Italy.

Practicable, (Lat.) that may be practiſed or done.

Practical or Practick, belonging to Practice; uſually oppos'd to Speculative.

Practice, actual Exerciſe, eſpecially that of the Profeſſion of a Lawyer, Phyſician, or Surgeon; the having Clients or Patients: Alſo Uſage, Cuſtom, Way; Intrigue, Device, or under-hand Dealing.

Practice, (in Arithm.) a Method that ſerves for the more eaſie and ſpeedy reſolving of Queſtions in the Rule of Three, when the firſt Term is 1 or Unity.

Practice of a Court of Judicature, the Way of proceeding there in Law-Suits.

Practick, the practical part of any Art or Science.

Practick of Scotland, the Courſe of pleading the Law, or the Rules of Courts in that Kingdom.

To Practiſe, to put into Practice, to exerciſe a Profeſſion.

To Practiſe upon, to endeavour to bring over, win, or draw into one's Intereſt; to tamper with, to corrupt or bribe.

Practitioner, one that practiſes in the Law, &c.

Præciæ or Præclamitatores, (Lat.) Cryers, certain Officers among the ancient Romans, that went along the Streets of the City before the Flamen Dialis or Jupiter's High Prieſt; to cauſe all People to give over their Work, on publick Holy-Days.

Præcipe in Capite, was a Writ iſſuing out of the Court of Chancery, for a Tenant that held of the King in chief, as of his Crown, and not as of any Honour, Caſtle, or Manour.

Præcipe quod reddat, a Writ of great Diverſity, both in its Form and Uſe, extending as well to a Writ of Right as to others of Entry or Poſſeſſion. See Ingreſſu and Entry.

Præco, (among the Romans) the Publick Cryer, an Officer, whoſe Buſineſs it was in the Aſſemblies of the People to call the Claſſes and Centuries, according to their Order, and to cauſe Silence to be kept in the Temples, during the time of Sacrificing: Alſo one that in a Port-ſale, nam'd the things to be ſold, and ſet a Price on them.

Præcordia, properly the Parts about the Heart, the Heart-ſtrings, or film of the Heart: It is alſo taken at large by Anatomical Writers, for all the Entrails contain'd in the Thorax or Cheſt.

Prædatory, that belongs to Robbing, Pillaging, or Plundering.

Prædicable & Prædicamentale Accidens. See Accident

Prædicament. See Predicament.

Præfectus Prætorio, (Lat.) was the Chief Commander of the Prætorian Bands, among the Romans, and may be call'd Colonel of the Guards: Theſe Officers, who were generally two in Number, had the Command not only of the Guards, but alſo of all the Armies and adminiſter'd Juſtice; the Emperour's leaving to them the ſole Management of Affairs.

Præfectus Urbis, the Prefect, or Governour of the City, who was anciently one of the Chief Magiſtrates of Rome, and govern'd it in the Abſence of the Conſuls and Emperours: His chief Buſineſs was to look after the Civil Government, Proviſions, Buildings, and Navigation; and he was the proper Judge in the Cauſes of Patrons, Freed-men, and Slaves.

Præficæ Mulieres, a ſort of mourning Women, who at Funeral Solemnities prais'd the Dead, made [illegible] Beasts [illegible] [illegible], to stir up others to [illegible]

Pre-fine, (Law-Term) that Fine which is paid upon suing out the Writ of Covenant.

Præfocatio Matricis, the suffocation of the Womb. See Hysterical Passion.

Præmunire. See Premunire.

Prænomen, (among the Romans) that which was set before the Nomen, or General Name, and signify'd as much as our Proper Name, which serves to distinguish Brothers one from another; as Marcus, Lucius, Flavius, &c.

Præparantia, (in the Art of Physick) Medicines that digest or ripen.

Præparantia Vasa, (in Anat.) the preparing Vessels, the Spermatick Veins, and Arteries, which go to the Testicles and Epididymes: They were so call'd by the Ancients, who thought their Office was to prepare the Seed, and the Name is still continued, altho' those Vessels are now found to have no such Use.

Præpositus Sacri Cubiculi, (among the Romans) an Officer, whose Charge was to attend in the Emperour's Chamber, and to take care of his Bed and Cloathing; he also march'd at the Performance of any Ceremonies, after the Master of the Horse-Guards: So that the Title with us, may be properly given to the Lord Chamberlain.

Præpositus Villæ, the Constable of a Town, or Petty Constable; also a Reeve, or chief Officer of the King in a Town, Manour, or Village: In old Records, the Reeve, or Bailiff, of the Lord of the Manour, sometimes call'd Serviens Villæ.

Præputium, (in Anat.) the Fore-skin that covers the Nut or Head of a Man's Yard; also the fore-part of the Clitoris in Women.

Præsepia, the Holes of either Jaw, in which the Teeth are set.

Præsidium, a Garrison, or Guard; any Aid, or Help. In the Art of Physick, is taken for a Remedy.

Præstatio, a performing, or paying; in old Records, it is also taken for Purveyance.

Præter Naturam. See Secundum Naturam.

Prætexta, a Robe or long white Vest, edged with a Purple Border, which the Sons of Persons of Quality wore at Rome, till the Age of fifteen Years, and their Daughters till they were marry'd: It was also worn by the Magistrates, Priests, and Senatours upon solemn Days.

Prætextata Comœdia, a Comedy, or Play, wherein Kings and Magistrates who had a Right to wear the Robe edg'd with the Purple Border, were represented on the Stage, as common and mean Persons were brought forth in the Play call'd Togata.

Prætextati, were such Children as still wore the Robe Prætexta.

Prætor, a great Magistrate in Rome; a Name at first given to all Magistrates, afterwards to the Generals of Armies, and even to the Emperours themselves: In process of time, Prætors were appointed to administer Justice to the Citizens, and others to Strangers; and lastly, there were Prætors made for the Government of Provinces: Their Business was to see Justice done, to preside over Games, and to take Care of the Sacrifices; and their Power was so great, that they could alter Laws, repeal them, and make new ones.

Prætores Ærarii, were the Officers of the Treasury or Exchequer.

Prætores Cereales or Frumentarii, certain Prætors, established by Julius Cæsar, whose Business it was to see that the City of Rome was supply'd with Corn.

Prætorian, belonging to a Prætor; as a Prætorian [illegible] the Prætor's Authority.

Prætoriani, the Prætorian Guard, a Band of Ten thousand Soldiers, who were peculiarly attending upon the Emperour's Person.

Prætorium, the Place where the Prætor administer'd Justice; it was also taken for his Palace, and sometimes for his Pleasure-House: It also signify'd the Pavilion or Tent of the General of the Army, where the Council of War met.

Pragmatical, (Gr.) busily medling and intruding into other Peoples Concerns, foolishly talkative, impertinent, saucy: In Natural Philosophy, the Word is sometimes us'd in a good Sense, and signifies Practical, Mechanical, and Problematical: Thus Stevinus, in his Hydrostatical Elements, calls some Mechanical and Practical Experiments there laid down, by the Name of Pragmatical Examples.

Pragmatical or Pragmatick Sanction, an Ordinance made by the French King Charles VII. A. D. 1438, in an Assembly of the Gallican Church, that contains a Regulation of the Ecclesiastical Discipline, in Conformity to the Canons of the Council of Basil.

To Prance, to throw up the Fore-legs, as Horses do when they caper, tread loftily, and wantonly, or when they bound and carry themselves stately.

Prancer, a prancing Horse.

Prank, a shrewd, unlucky, or mischievous Trick; as To play mad Pranks.

To Prank up, to set off, deck, or trim.

Prasina Bilis, a Distemper in the Gall, when it turns green like the Colour of a Leak.

Prasion, (Gr.) the Herb Hore-hound, or a kind of Organy.

Prasius, a green precious Stone, often mark'd with black Specks, and sometimes with a white Line.

Prasoides, another Stone of the Colour of Leeks, a sort of Topaz.

Prason, a Leak; also a kind of Sea-weed, green as a Leak.

To Prate, to talk over-much, saucily, or Idly.

Pratique or Prattick, a Licence to Traffick or Trade, granted to the Master of a Ship in the Ports of Italy, upon a Bill of Health, i. e. a Certificate, that the Place whence he came is not annoy'd with any infectious Disease.

To Prattle, to talk or chat as Children do, to babble, prate, or talk impertinently.

Pravity, (Lat.) Corruption of Manners, Lewdness.

Prawn, a small sort of Sea-Fish.

To Pray, to entreat, or beseech; to desire, or beg of.

Prayer, a Request, or Desire, especially such as is made to Almighty God.

Common-Prayer Book, a Book containing the Publick Divine Service, with the Prayers, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Church of England.

To Preach, (Fr.) to Proclaim or Publish, to deliver a Sermon or Discourse, to insist upon a Doctrine or Tenet.

Preachment; as Leave off your Preachments; i. e. forbear talking so much at large, or desist from making such long Speeches.

Pre-Adamites, those People who are suppos'd by some to have liv'd before Adam.

Preamble, (q. d. walking before) the introduction or beginning of any Discourse: Among Lawyers, the beginning of an Act of Parliament is call'd The Preamble, which shews the Intent of the Makers of the Act, and the Mischiefs they would remedy or prevent thereby.

Prebend, a ſort of Benefice or Portion which every Canon or Member of a Cathedral or Collegiate Church, receives for his Maintenance; and theſe are either Simple or with Dignity.

Simple Prebends, are those that have no more but the Revenue, towards the Maintenance of the Prebendary. Prebends with Dignity, are ſuch as have Juriſdiction join'd with them, according to the different Orders in ſeveral Churches.

Prebend or Prebendary, a Clerk or Parſon that enjoys a Prebend; ſo call'd à præbendo conſilium Epiſcopo aut Decano, i. e. from affording Aſſiſtance or Advice to the Biſhop or Dean.

Precariæ, (in old Records) certain Days-Works, that the Tenants of ſome Manours are bound to do for the Lord in Harveſt; and which in ſeveral Places are commonly call'd Bind-days, for Biden-days, which in Saxon ſignifies the ſame thing.

Precarious, enjoy'd only upon Courteſie, or held at another's Will and Pleaſure: In the Civil Law, it ſignifies, granted to one upon Entreaty, to uſe ſo long as the Party thinks fit, and no longer.

Precarium Nomen, (in ancient Deeds) a precarious Title to an Eſtate, at the Will and Pleaſure of the Lord.

Precaution, Caution, Warning, or Heed, given or us'd before-hand.

To Precede, to go firſt or before, to excel or ſurpaſs.

Precedence or Precedency, a taking Place before.

Precedent, fore-going.

A Precedent, (commonly pronounc'd, and falſly written Preſident) an Example; as This is not to be drawn into Precedent. Among Lawyers, an Original Deed or Writing to draw others by.

A Precedent-Book, a Book containing Precedents or Draughts for Attorneys, &c.

Precellency, Excellency or Preheminence, above another thing.

Precentor, the Chanter that begins the Tune in a Cathedral.

Prece Partium, (Lat.) a Law-Term us'd when a Suit is continu'd by the Requeſt, Conſent or Agreement of both Parties.

Precept, Inſtruction, Rule, Leſſon, Command. In a Law-Senſe, it is taken, 1. For a Command in Writing iſſu'd out by a Juſtice of Peace or other Magiſtrate, for the bringing of a Perſon or Records before him. 2. For the Inſtigation by which one Man eggs on another to commit a Felony, as Theft, Murder, &c.

Preceptive, belonging to Precepts.

† Preceptor, a Tutour, a Maſter, an Inſtructer or Teacher.

Preceptories, certain Benefices anciently poſſeſs'd by the more eminent ſort of Knights Templars, who were call'd and appointed by the Authority of the chief Maſter.

Preceſſion of the Equinoxes, (in the new Aſtronomy) the advancing or going forward of the Equinoctial Points, which happens upon account that the Axis of the Earth is not always preciſely parallel to it-ſelf, as it turns round the Sun by its Yearly Motion.

Precinct, Bounds or Extent of Juriſdiction; alſo a particular Juriſdiction, within which ſeveral Pariſhes are comprehended.

Precious, that is of great Price or Value.

Precipice, a ſteep Place, a downright Pitch or Fall; an imminent Danger.

Precipitant, dangerous; as A precipitant Counſel.

Precipitate, over-haſty.

Precipitate, (in Chymiſtry) any Subſtance that is got out of the Pores of the Menſtruum or Liquor in which it was diſſolved, and by ſome means precipitated, or made fall down to the bottom of the Veſſel: But this Name is commonly given by way of Eminence to Mercury or Quick-ſilver, diſſolved in Acid Menſtruums, and afterwards precipitated down to the bottom in fine Powders; of which there are ſeveral ſorts, viz.

Green Precipitate, which is prepar'd by mingling the Diſſolutions of Quick-ſilver and Copper together, both made in Spirit of Nitre: Afterwards the Mixture being evaporated to Dryneſs, the Maſs at the bottom is powder'd, and has diſtilled Vinegar pour'd upon it, to be digeſted till the Liquor turns Green, and a little Blewiſh: Then all theſe Diſſolutions are mixed and evaporated in a Sand-heat as before; but this with ſome others is improperly call'd a Precipitate, there being no Precipitation at all.

Red Precipitate, is Mercury diſſolved in Spirit of Nitre, and then the Moiſture being evaporated in a Sand-heat, the Fire is gradually encreaſed to the third Degree till the Matter turns red.

There is alſo another ſort of Red Precipitate, call'd Philoſophical Precipitate, and often Precipitate per ſe, which is made with running Mercury put into a Matraſs, and ſet in a Sand-heat for forty Days, or till all the Mercury be reduc'd to a red Powder. This corroſive Powder is commonly call'd red Mercury, and us'd by Surgeons to eat away corrupted Fleſh.

White Precipitate, is Mercury or Quick-ſilver diſſolved in Aqua Fortis, or Spirit of Nitre, upon which when Salt-Water, and a little Spirit of Sal Armoniack is pour'd, the Precipitate ſinks to the bottom, and is of a white Colour.

Yellow Precipitate; See Turbith Mineral.

To Precipitate, to throw or caſt down headlong, to hurry or over-haſten, to do in haſte. In a Chymical Senſe, to ſeparate a Matter that is diſſolved, ſo as to make it fall or ſettle at the bottom.

Precipitation, Hurry, too great Haſte, Raſhneſs: In Chymiſtry, the falling or ſinking down of the Particles of any Mixt Body, that are kept ſuſpended or propped up in the Menſtruum, or Liquor which diſſolv'd it.

Precipitous, over-haſty, raſh, unadviſed.

Preciſe, certain, fixed, particular, exact, ſcrupulous or ſuperſtitious; finical or affected.

Preciſian, one that is over-ſcrupulous in Matters of Religion.

Precognition, Fore-knowledge.

To Preconceive, to take up before-hand; as This is an Opinion which he had preconceiv'd.

To Preconiſe, (Canon-Law-Term) to make a Report in the Pope's Conſiſtory, That the Party preſented to a Benefice is qualify'd for the ſame.

Precontract, a Contract or Agreement made before another Contract; which has Relation more eſpecially to Marriages.

Precurſor, a Fore-runner, a Meſſenger ſent before; as St. John the Baptiſt was our Saviour's Precurſor.

Predatory; See Predatory.

Predeceſſour, he or ſhe that was in a Place or Employment before one.

Predeceſſours, Anceſtours or Fore-Fathers.

Predeſtinarian, one that believes or maintains the Doctrine of Predeſtination.

To Predeſtinate, (a Term in Divinity) to decree, ordain, or appoint what ſhall come hereafter.

Predeſtination, the Act of Predeſtinating, Fore-appointment; the Decree of God, by which from Eternity he has appointed to Glory, thoſe whom he fore-ſees will co-operate with his Grace.

To Predetermine, to determine things, or appoint before-hand. [illegible]

Predial [illegible] Things arising and growing from the Ground, [illegible]

Predicable (in Logick) a common Term or Word that may be attributed to more than one Thing: Thus the Word Triangle may be apply'd to any Figure, that has three Sides and Angles, whether it be Right-lined, or Spherical.

Predicables or Universals, are five in number, viz. Genus, Species, Proprium, Differentia and Accidens.

Predicament, a Class, Rank, or Order of Things dispos'd under the same Kind. Logicians usually reckon up ten Predicaments, or Categories, viz. Substance, Accidence, Quantity, Quality, Action, Passion, Duration as to Time or Place, Situation and Habit, or outward Appearance.

To be in the same Predicament, is to be under the same Circumstances; in the same State, or Condition.

Predicant, as Predicant Friers, i. e. such as by their Order are allow'd to preach.

Predicate, the latter Part of a Logical Proposition, that which is affirmed of the Subject: So when 'tis said James is a Merchant, the Word Merchant is call'd the Predicate, because it is affirmed, or spoken of the Subject James.

To Predicate, to publish, to cry, or preach up; also a Term in Logick; as These two Terms predicate [illegible] together.

Predication, a preaching, or crying up.

Prediction, a Prophecy, or foretelling of a thing.

To Predispose, to dispose before-hand.

Predominancy, a being Predominant, an over-ruling Quality, or Power.

Predominant, over-powering, prevailing, chief.

To Predominate, to over-power, to bear chief Sway, or Rule.

Predy, a Sea-Word for ready; as Make predy the Ordinance: A Predy-Ship, is when all her Decks are cleared, her Guns, small Shot, &c. well fitted for a Fight. To make the Hold predy, is to stow every thing handsomly there, and remove any thing that may be troublesome.

Pre-elected, elected, or chosen before-hand.

Pre-election, a choosing before-hand.

Pre-eminence or Pre-heminence, advantagious Quality, or Degree above others.

Pre-eminent, advanced above the rest.

Pre-emption, First buying, or buying any thing before others, which was a Privilege formerly allow'd the King's Purveyor, with respect to Corn and other Provisions for the King's House, but taken away by Stat. 12 Car. 2.

To Pre-engage, to engage before-hand.

To Pre-exist, to exist, or have a Being before.

Pre-existence, the State, or Condition of that which pre-exists; as The Doctrine of the Soul's Pre-existence.

Pre-existent, existing, or being before.

Preface, (q. d. a speaking before) a Preamble, or Speech preparatory to a Discourse, or Treatise.

Prefatory, that is in form of, or by way of Preface; as A Prefatory Discourse.

Prefect, a Magistrate among the ancient Romans; See Praefectus.

Prefecture, the Office, or Dignity of a Prefect; the Government, or chief Rule of a Province or City.

To Prefer, to esteem above, or set more by, to promote or advance; to bring in, in speaking of a Law, a Bill or Inditement.

[illegible] that [illegible] pre- [illegible] another; [illegible] [illegible] Figure [illegible] [illegible] Christ [illegible]

To Prefigure, [illegible] to foreshew [illegible]

To Prefix, to appoint before, to appoint a Time or [illegible]

Pregnancy, the being with Child; also Quickness of Apprehension, or ripeness of Judgment.

Pregnant, great with Child; also quick, being of a prompt and ready Wit; also in Gardening, it signifies full, as a Bud, Seed or Kernel that is ready to sprout.

Negative Pregnant; See Negative.

Pregnotary; See Prothonotary.

Pregustation, a tasting before.

To Prejudge, to judge before.

Prejudicate, proceeding from Prejudice; as Prejudicate Opinions, prejudicate Stiffness; See [illegible]

Prejudication, a judging before-hand, a Precedent at Law.

Prejudice, rash Judgment before Tryal, Prepossession; also Dammage, Hurt, Harm, Injury.

To Prejudice, to do Prejudice, to injure or hurt.

Prejudicial, hurtful, disadvantagious.

Preke, a kind of Fish.

Prelacy, Prelature, or Prelateship, the Prelate's State or Dignity.

Prelate, a Clergy-man advanced to a high Station in the Church; as a Patriarch, Archbishop, or Bishop.

Prelatical, belonging to Prelates.

Prelection, a Lecture, or Lesson; a Reading, or Discourse made in Publick on any Art, or Science.

Prelibation, an Antepast, or Fore-taste.

Preliminary, that goes before the main Matter; as A preliminary Discourse, or Question.

A Preliminary, the first Step in a Negociation, Treaty, or important Business.

Prelude, properly the preparatory Notes of Musicians before they begin to play, a Voluntary, or Flourish; whence it is figuratively taken for an Entrance upon a Business.

Preludious, preparatory; as These are preludious Suspicions to farther Evidence.

Premature, too soon ripe, untimely.

Prematurity, the State, or Condition of that which is premature.

To Premeditate, to muse, think upon, or contrive before-hand.

Premeditation, the Act of Premeditating, musing, &c.

To Premise, to speak, or treat of before, by way of Introduction, or Preface.

Premises or Premisses, things spoken of, mentioned, or rehearsed before. In Logick, the two first Propositions of a Syllogism: In an Instrument or Deed for the Conveyance of an Estate, the Office of the Premisses is to express the Names of the Grantor, Grantee, and the thing granted.

Premium, a Word us'd in Schools for a Reward: Among Merchants, it is taken for that Summ of Money, which is given to an Insurer for the Insuring the safe Return of any Ship, or Merchandize.

To Premonish, to fore-warn.

Premonition, a giving Warning, or advising before-hand.

Premonstratenses, an Order of white Monks, that observe the Rule of St. Augustine, founded by one Norbert a German, and so call'd from Premontre, a Place in the Bishoprick of Laon in France, where they were first settled.

Præmunire, (a Law-Term) or To fall into a Præmunire, is to incur the ſame Puniſhment that was to be inflicted upon the Tranſgreſſors of a Law made Anno 16 Rich. 2. commonly call'd the Statute of Præmunire, by which the Pope's Uſurpations in the diſpoſing of Church-Livings in England, and other Abuſes were reſtrain'd. The Penalty was then appointed to be perpetual Baniſhment, forfeiture of Lands, Goods and Chattels, &c.

Præmunire, is alſo a Writ that lies where one Man ſues another in the Spiritual Court for any thing that may be determin'd in the Queen's Court; for which great Puniſhment is ordain'd by ſeveral Statutes, viz. That he ſhall be out of the Queen's Protection, impriſon'd without Bail or Mainpriſe, till he have made a Fine at the Queen's Will, and that his Lands and Goods ſhall be forfeited, if he do not appear within two Months.

The ſame Penalty is likewiſe impos'd on Perſons attainted in Præmunire upon divers other Offences, by Statutes lately made: Whence the uſual Phraſe, To run himſelf into a Præmunire, is apply'd to one who takes a ready Courſe to involve himſelf in Trouble.

Prender, (Fr. in Common-Law) the Power, or Right of taking a thing before it is offer'd: Thus Things lying in Prender, are ſuch as the Lord of a Mannour may have before the Tenant Attourns to, or acknowledges him; as the Ward of the Body of an Heir, or of the Land, Eſcheats, whereas thoſe things that lie in Render, he cannot take before Attournment; as Rents, Reliefs, Heriots, &c.

Prender de Baron, properly ſignifies to take a Huſband; but it is commonly us'd for an Exception, to diſable a Woman from purſuing an Appeal of Murder againſt one that kill'd her former Huſband.

Prenomination, a nominating, or naming before.

Prenotion, Fore-knowledge.

Prentice. See Apprentice.

Preoccupation, a poſſeſſing, or enjoying before; as That Land was in his Preoccupation: Alſo Prepoſſeſſion, or Prejudice.

To Preordain, to ordain before-hand.

Preordinate, fore-ordained.

Preparation, the Act of preparing, or diſpoſing, Proviſion made for ſome Deſign, or Ceremony: In Phyſick and Chymiſtry, Preparation is the manner of compounding, ordering, and diſpoſing of Medicines for ſeveral Uſes.

Preparative or Preparatory, that ſerves to prepare.

To Prepare, to get, or make ready, to provide; to fit, or fit up, to diſpoſe, or incline one to a thing.

Prepenſed, Fore-thought, as Malice prepenſed: Altho' a Man be kill'd upon a ſudden Quarrel, yet if there were Malice prepenſed between them, the Law takes it for Murder, as it is expreſs'd in ſome Statutes, prepenſed Murder.

To Preponderate, to out-weigh, or weigh down, to be of greater worth, or Value; alſo to weigh in Mind, deliberate, or conſider.

Prepoſition, (i.e. putting, or ſetting before) one of the eight Parts of Speech in Grammar, ſo call'd becauſe it is ſet before a Noun, or a Verb.

Prepoſitor, (School-Term) a Scholar appointed by the Maſter, to over-ſee the reſt: ſuch a one is otherwiſe call'd Obſervator and Monitor.

To Prepoſſeſs, to prevent, to fill one's Mind before-hand with Prejudice, to biaſs.

Prepoſſeſſion, Prejudice.

Prepoſterous, having the wrong end forward, being quite out of order, topſy-turvy; headſtrong, raſh.

Prepuce. See Præputium.

Prerogative, a ſpecial Privilege, and peculiar Authority, or Pre-eminence above others.

The Queen's Prerogative, are thoſe Rights of Majeſty that are peculiar to Her, and which learned Lawyers call Jura Summa & Individua, as being Sacred and inſeparable from their Perſons. They are alſo commonly ſtyl'd Flowers of the Crown, and are ſuch as theſe, viz. The Queen's Kingdom is ſubject to no Man's Suit, Her Poſſeſſions cannot be taken from Her by any Diſſeiſin, Her Goods and Chattels are under no Tribute or Cuſtom, No Act paſſing both Houſes of Parliament can be a Law, till Her Royal Aſſent be obtain'd, &c.

Prerogative of the Archbiſhops of Canterbury and York, a ſpecial Pre-eminence that thoſe Prelates have in certain Caſes, above ordinary Biſhops, within their reſpective Provinces.

Prerogative Court, a Court depending on the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, in which all Wills or Teſtaments are proved, and Adminiſtrations granted that belong to the ſaid Archbiſhop by his Prerogative: The Judge of this Court is ſtyl'd Judex Curiæ Prerogativæ Cantuarienſis, the Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury. The Archbiſhop of York has alſo the like Court termed his Exchequer, but far inferiour to this in Power and Profit.

Preſage, a Sign, or Token, ſhewing what will happen.

To Preſage, to fore-bode, or betoken, to foretell, to divine, or gueſs.

Presbyter, (Gr.) an ancient and reverend Perſon, a Prieſt; as A Presbyter of the Church of England; alſo a Lay-elder.

Presbyteral, belonging to a Prieſt, or Elder.

Presbyterian, belonging to the Presbyterians.

Presbyterians, a conſiderable Party of Non-conformiſts, ſo call'd from their admitting of Lay-Elders into their Church-Government.

Presbyterium, (in ancient Deeds) the Presbytery, i.e. the Quire, or Chancel ſo call'd, becauſe it was the Place ſet a-part for the Biſhop, Prieſts, and other Clergy, while the Laity were confin'd to the Nave, or Body of the Church.

Presbytery, Prieſthood, Eldership; alſo a Government of the Church by Elders.

Presbytia, a dimneſs of Sight, when the Bal of the Eye is ſo flat, that the Viſual Rays paſs th Retina, or Net-like Coat before they are united; which Defect is uſually incident to old Age, and may be help'd by Convex Glaſſes, or Spectacles which will cauſe the Rays to meet ſooner, and fal exactly on the Retina.

Preſcience, (Lat.) Fore-knowledge.

To Preſcribe, to order, ordain, or appoint.

To Preſcribe againſt an Action, (Law-Phraſe) not to be liable to it, for want of being ſued with in the time limited by the Law.

Preſcript, an Ordinance, or Order.

Preſcription, a preſcribing, or ordering, a determining, or limiting. In a Law-Senſe, a Title, o Right to any Thing grounded upon a continu Poſſeſſion, or Enjoyment of it by a particular Per ſon, his Anceſtours, or Predeceſſours beyond th Memory of Man.

Preſence, a being preſent; alſo Meen, or Look Preſence of Mind, readineſs of Wit.

Preſent, that is in a certain Place at Hand, o in Sight; or that is of the Time wherein we live.

Preſent Tenſe, (in Grammar) a Tenſe, which ſpeaks of the Time that now is; as Amo, I love, o do love: See Tenſes.

A Preſent, a free Gift.

To Preſent, to make a Preſent, to offer, t name to a Benefice, to bring an Informatio againſt.

Preſentation, the Act of preſenting: In a Law-Senſe, the offering of a Clerk to the Biſhop by the Patron, to be inſtituted in a Benefice of his Gift.

Preſentee, the Clerk that is ſo preſented by the Patron. The Queen's Preſentee, is he whom the Queen preſents to a Church.

Preſentment, (Law-Term) is a bare Declaration or Report, made by Jurors, or ſome other Officers, as Juſtice, Conſtable, Searcher, Surveyor, &c. of an Offence inquirable in the Court, to which it is preſented.

Preſervation, a preſerving, or keeping.

Preſervative, a Remedy made uſe of to keep off Diſeaſes.

To Preſerve, to keep, to guard or defend from Miſchief; to order Fruits as Confectioners do.

To Preſide, to be Ruler or Chief; to have the Government, Rule, Care, or Management of Perſons or Things.

Preſidency, the Place, or Office of a Preſident.

Preſident, a Governour, Overſeer or Chief Magiſtrate: In a Law-Senſe, the Queen's Lieutenant in a Province, as The Preſident of Wales, York, Berwick, &c.

The Lord Preſident of the Queen's Privy Council, a great Officer of the Crown, whoſe Employ is to attend upon the Soveraign, to propoſe Buſineſs at Council-Table, and to report the ſeveral Tranſactions there managed.

Preſident, See Precedent.

Preſidial, a particular Court of Judicature in France.

Preſſing to Death, See Paine forte & dure.

Preſſure, a preſſing, Calamity, Affliction or Misfortune; as To ſink under weighty Preſſures.

Preſt, a Duty in Money to be paid by the Sheriff, upon his Account in the Exchequer, or for Money left in his Hands.

Preſt-Money, Earneſt-Money commonly given to a Soldier or a Sea-man, when he is liſted; from the French Word Preſt, or the Latin, Præſto, i.e. ready at hand; becauſe it binds thoſe that receive it, to be ready for Service at all times appointed.

Preſtation-Money, a certain Sum of Money paid every Year, by Arch-Deacons to their Biſhop. See Præſtatio.

Preſter, (Gr.) a venomous Serpent, whoſe Sting cauſes a deadly Thirſt; alſo a kind of Tempeſt or Whirl-wind, that Scorches and blaſts where it blows.

Preſtiges, (Lat.) Illuſions, Impoſtures, juggling Tricks.

† Preſtigiation, (Lat.) a deceiving, juggling, or playing Leger-de-main.

Preſtigious, deceitful, as A preſtigious Sleight of the Devil.

Preſto, a Spaniſh Word us'd by Jugglers, to ſignifie quickly, or ſpeedily.

To Preſume, (Lat.) to imagine, think, conjecture, or ſuppoſe; to have too good an Opinion of.

Preſumption, Conjecture, Gueſs, Suſpicion: alſo Arrogance, Pride, Self-conceit. In a Law-ſenſe, Preſumption is of three Sorts, 1. Violent, which often ſerves for full Proof, as if one being kill'd in a Houſe, a Man is ſeen to come out of it, and no other Perſon was at that time in the Houſe. 2. Probable Preſumption, which has but a ſmall Effect. 3. Levis ſeu temeraria, i.e. Light and raſh, which is of no force at all.

Preſumptuous, proud, haughty, bold.

To Preſuppoſe, to ſuppoſe before-hand, to take for granted.

Preſuppoſition, a being preſuppoſed.

Pretence, Opinion, Conceit, Colour, Appearance, or Shew.

[illegible], See [illegible] of Preſence.

To Pretend, to maintain, or affirm; to uſe a Pretence, or make as if.

Pretended, feigned, ſuppoſed, counterfeit.

Pretended Right or Title, (Law-Term) When one is in Poſſeſſion of Lands or Tenements, and another lays claim to, and ſues for it, the pretended Right and Title is ſaid to be in him, that does ſo claim and ſue.

Pretenſion, Claim, or laying claim to.

Preterimperfect Tenſe, (in Grammar) a Tenſe that ſignifies the time not perfectly paſs'd; as Amabam, I loved or did love.

Preterition, a Figure in Rhetorick; See Occupation.

Pretermiſſion, the Act of pretermitting, or paſſing over, or over-ſlipping.

To Pretermit, to leave undone, to omit, paſs over, or neglect.

Preternatural, that is beſides Nature, or out of its Courſe; extraordinary.

Preterperfect Tenſe, (in Grammar) a Tenſe that ſpeaks of the Time perfectly paſs'd, with the Sign have; as Amavi, I have loved.

Preterpluperfect Tenſe, a Tenſe that ſignifies the time more than perfectly paſs'd, with the Sign had; as Amaveram, I had loved.

Pretext, Pretence, Cloak, Colour, Blind, Shew.

Pretorium, See Prætorium.

To Prevail, to have the Advantage over, to have the better on't, to carry it, to be of greater Force.

Prevalence or Prevalency, a being prevalent.

Prevalent, prevailing, powerful, effectual.

To Prevaricate, to play faſt and looſe, to ſhuffle and cut, to make ſhew of doing a thing, and act quite contrary. In a Law-ſenſe to work by Colluſion in Pleading, to betray one's Cauſe to the Adverſary.

Prevarication, the Act of prevaricating, double dealing, Deceit.

Prevaricator, he that prevaricates, or deals treacherouſly: Alſo a Maſter of Arts in the Univerſity of Cambridge, choſen at a Commencement, to make an ingenious Satyrical Speech reflecting on the Miſdemeanours of the principal Members.

To Prevent, to come before, to out-ſtrip, to be before-hand with, or get the ſtart of, to keep off Danger, or Miſchief, &c.

Preventer-Rope, (in Sea-affairs) a little Rope made faſt over thoſe call'd Ties, to ſecure the Yards, in caſe ſome of the Ropes ſhould break.

Preventional full Moon, that full Moon which comes before any great moveable Feaſt, or Planetary Aſpect.

Preventive, that ſerves to prevent.

Previous, leading the Way, or going before; as A previous Diſcourſe.

Priapiſm, a Diſeaſe wherein there is an erection of the Yard, without any Provocation of Luſt; ſo call'd from Priapus the Laſcivious God of Gardens.

Price, the Eſtimation, Value, or Rate of things.

Price Current, a weekly Account publiſh'd in London, of the current Value of moſt Commodities.

To Prick, to make a hole with a Point; to ſet down a Tune or Song, to trace the Steps of a Hare. See Pricket.

To Prick the Chart or Plot, (among Mariners) to make a Point in the Sea-Chart, whereabout the Ship is at preſent, or is to be at ſuch a time, in order to find the Courſe they are to ſteer, &c.

Prick-wood or Spindle-tree, a ſort of Shrub, proper to make Hedges.

Pricker, a Term in Hunting for a Huntſman on Horſe-back.

Pricket, a Spitter, or young male Deer of two years old, beginning to put forth the Head.

Pricketh, When a Hare beats in the plain High-way, where the Footing may yet be perceived, it is ſaid, she Pricketh.

Pride, Haughtineſs, Loftineſs, Vanity.

Pride-Gavel, a Rent paid to the Lord of the Manour of Rodeley in Glouceſter-ſhire, by ſome of his Tenants, for the Liberty of Fiſhing for Lampreys in the River Severn.

Prieſt's-Cap, See Bonnet à Preſtre.

To Prig, (Canting-word) to Filch, or ſteal.

To Prim, to be full of affected Ways, to be much conceited.

Primacy, the firſt Place, or chief Rule, eſpecially in Eccleſiaſtical Affairs; the Dignity, or Juriſdiction of a Primate.

Primævill, that is of the firſt, or more ancient Time; as The Primæval Ages of the Church.

Primage, a cuſtomary Allowance due to Mariners for loading a Ship, at the firſt ſetting forth from any Harbour.

Prima Naturalia, the ſame as Atoms or Minima Naturalia; which See.

Primarium Latus, (Lat. in Geom.) a Right-line in any Conick Section, drawn thro' the Vertex, or top of the Section, and Parallel to the Baſe of the Cone.

Primary, firſt in Order, Principal, Chief.

Primary Planets, (as ſome ſay) are the three upper Planets, viz. Saturn, Jupiter and Mars. But a Primary Planet, more properly is one that moves round the Sun as its Center; whereas a Secondary Planet, turns about ſome other Planet.

Primate, a chief Archbiſhop, who has Superiority of Juriſdiction over other Archbiſhops and Biſhops.

Prime, chief, great, Soveraign, excellent, ſingular.

Prime Figure, (in Geom.) is that which cannot be divided into any Figures more ſimple than it ſelf.

Prime Number, (in Arithm.) is that which can be only meaſur'd by an Unite; See Number.

Prime Verticals, are Direct Erect North or South Dials, whoſe Planes lye parallel to the prime Vertical Circle.

Prime, the Flower or Choice, the Time when a thing is in its greateſt Beauty: Alſo one of the ſeven Canonical Hours in the Roman Church. In ſurveying, a Meaſure containing $19\frac{4}{50}$ Inches.

Prime of a Gun, the Powder that is put in the Pan, or Touch-hole.

Prime of the Moon, the New Moon at her firſt Appearance, or about three Days after the Change; at which time ſhe is ſaid to be primed: See Golden Number.

To Prime, to put the Prime into a Gun; alſo to lay the firſt Colour in Painting.

Prime-Print or Privet, a kind of Shrub.

Primer or Priming-Iron, (in Gunnery) a long piece of Iron, ſharp at the ſmall end to pierce the Cartridge that holds the Powder, thro' the Touch-hole of a great Gun, in order to put in the Prime-powder or Touch-powder, to fire off the Piece.

Primer or Primmer, a little Book, which Children are firſt taught to read, and to pray by: Alſo a ſort of Popiſh Prayer-book; alſo a kind of Printing-letter.

Primero, a Game at Cards formerly much in Uſe.

Primicerius, (Lat.) the Maſter, or Chief in any Office, among the ancient Romans.

Primicerius Cubiculi, the firſt Groom, or firſt Gentleman of the Bed-Chamber.

Primicerius Notariorum, the Principal Secretary of State, who kept a general Regiſter of the whole Empire.

Primer Seiſin, (Fr. Law-Term) a branch of the King's Prerogative, whereby he had the firſt Seiſin or Poſſeſſion, i. e. the entire Profits for a Year of all Lands and Tenements, of which his Tenant immediately dy'd poſſeſſed; the Heir being at full Age, or until he were ſo, if under Age: But theſe Charges are now taken away by Stat. 12. Car. 2.

Primigenious, (Lat.) firſt in its kind, Original, Natural.

Priming-Iron, See Primer.

Priming-Horn, a great Horn full of Touch-powder, which the Gunner has by his Side, when the Ship is in a Fight, ready to prime the Piece.

Primipilus, (Lat.) the Colonel of the firſt Legion among the Romans, the firſt Centurion or chief Captain, who had the Charge of the Standard or Banner.

Primitiæ, the firſt Fruits of the Year that are offer'd to God: But in our Law, it is taken for the Profits of every Church-living for one Year, after it is become void, which belong to the Queen; See Firſt Fruits.

Primitive, belonging to the firſt Age, ancient; as The Primitive Church.

Primitive Cancer, See Cancer Primitive.

A Primitive or Primitive Word, (in Grammar) an original Word, from which others of the kind are derived.

Primogeniture, the Title and Privilege of an elder Brother, in right of his Birth.

Primordial, primitive, original.

Primores Dentes or Inciſivi Dentes, (Lat.) the four foremoſt Teeth in each Jaw.

Primroſe, a little yellow ſweet Flower that over-ſpreads the Fields and Meadows in the very beginning of the Spring.

Primula Veris, (Lat.) the Primroſe, or Cowſlip.

Primum Mobile, (i. e. the firſt Mover) the Tenth or higheſt Sphere of the Heavens, which according to the Ptolemaick Aſtronomy is ſuppos'd to contain all other Spheres within it, and to give them Motion, turning it ſelf and them quite round from Eaſt to Weſt in the ſpace of twenty four Hours.

Prince, one that governs a State in chief, or that is deſcended from ſuch. In England, the King's or Queen Regent's eldeſt Son is ſtyl'd The Prince of Wales. It is alſo figuratively taken for a principal, Chief, or moſt excellent Perſon; as Ariſtotle is the Prince of Philoſophers.

Prince's Feather, a kind of Flower.

Principal, chief, main.

Principal Point, (in Perſpective) the Point where the Principal Ray falls on the Table, which ſome Writers call The Point of Concurrence, and the Center of the Picture.

Principal Ray, the perpendicular Ray, which goes from the Beholder's Eye to the Vertical Plane, or Table.

A Principal, the Head of a College in an Univerſity: The chief Perſon in ſome of the Inns of Chancery, is alſo call'd Principal of the Houſe.

Principal, is alſo the main Summ of Money borrowed or let out to Uſe, and diſtinguiſh'd from the Intereſt or Profits that ariſe thereby: In a Law-ſenſe, it is the ſame as Heir-loom; which See. At Urchenfield in Hereford-ſhire certain Principals, as the beſt Beaſt, Bed, Table &c. paſs to the eldeſt Child, and are not to be divided or ſhar'd with the other Goods.

Principality, the Juriſdiction, or Dominion of a Prince: Principalities is alſo taken for one of the Orders of Angels.

Principality of Cheſter, See County Palatine.

Principes, (in the Roman Military Diſcipline) the main Body of the Forces, or middle Order of the Legionary Soldiers divided into Ten Centuries. See Triarii.

Principle, the firſt Cauſe of the Being or Production of any thing; a Motive or Inducement; a Maxim or undoubted Truth; alſo a good practical Rule of Action. Thus a Perſon is ſaid To be a Man of Principles, when he acts according to the known Rules of Religion and Morality.

Principle or Firſt Principle, is alſo a thing ſelf-evident, and as it were naturally known; as That the Whole is greater than a Part, that nothing can be and not have a Being at the ſame time, &c.

In Arts and Sciences, Principles, are the firſt Grounds and Rules of them, otherwiſe call'd Elements and Rudiments; as the Principles of Geometry, Algebra, Aſtronomy, &c.

In Chymiſtry, there are five Principles of mixt natural Bodies, viz, Phlegm or Water, Mercury or Spirit, Sulphur or Oil, Salt and Earth. Of theſe three are Active, viz. Spirit, Oil and Salt, and two Paſſive, Water and Earth.

The Ariſtotolean or Peripatetical Principles, are the four Elements, Earth, Water, Fire, Air: The Epicurean Principles, are Magnitude, Figure and Weight.

Principled, endued with Principles; as A Perſon well-principled.

Princock, a Youngſter too ſoon ripe-headed; a pert and forward Youth.

Printing, or the Art of Printing, an ingenious Art which firſt appear'd in the World about the Year 1430 or 1440, and is ſaid to have been invented at Haerlem in Holland by one Laurence Coſter; or as others will have it, at Mentz in Germany, by John Fauſt, or John Guttemberg of Straſburg: It was alſo brought early into England by Caxton and Tourner, whom King Henry VI. employ'd for that purpoſe: One of the firſt printed Books now extant is Cicero de Officiis, A. D. 1465, kept in [illegible] lleian Library at Oxford.

Prior, a Governour of a Convent of Monks.

Priors Aliens, were certain Priors born in France, that had the Government of Monaſteries founded for outlandiſh Men in England, which were ſuppreſs'd by King Henry V.

Prioreſs, a Governeſs in a Monaſtery of Nuns, either in chief or under an Abbeſs.

Priority, a being firſt in Order, Rank, or Dignity: In a Law-ſenſe, it is taken for an Antiquity of Tenure, compar'd with another that is not ſo ancient; as To hold by Priority, is to hold of one Lord more anciently than of another.

Priory, a Religious Community under the Direction of a Prior or Prioreſs.

Priſage, (Fr.) that Cuſtom or Share which belongs to the Queen, out of ſuch Merchandizes as are taken at Sea, by way of lawful Prize.

Priſage, (of Wines,) an old Word found in the Statutes of King Henry VIII. being a Cuſtom for the King to challenge two Tun of Wine at his own Rate, which is 20 s. per Tun, out of every Veſſel loaded with Wine of leſs Burden than forty Tun: It is now call'd Butlerage, becauſe receiv'd by the King's or Queen's chief Butler.

Priſcilla, a proper Name of Women, being a Diminutive of Priſca, which in Latin ſignifies ancient.

Priſcillianiſts, a ſort of Hereticks whoſe Ringleader was one Priſcillianus: They deny'd the Perſons of the Trinity, and held that all Things had their beginning from two Gods, the one Good, and the other Bad.

Priſe, (Fr.) the Act of taking, a Prize. In our old Statutes, it ſignifies the things taken of the King's Subjects by Purveyors; alſo a Toll or Cuſtom due to the King.

Priſm, (Gr. in Geom.) a Solid bounded by ſeveral Planes, whoſe Baſes are Polygons equal, Parallel, and alike ſituated. Alſo a ſolid Glaſs made in form of a Triangular Priſm, thro' which the Sun's Rays being convey'd are refracted, and ſhew an admirable variety of fine Colours like thoſe of the Rain-bow.

Triangular Priſm, a kind of Priſm whoſe two oppoſite Baſes are Triangles alike, parallel and equal.

Priſmatical, belonging to Priſms; as Priſmatical Glaſſes.

Priſmoid, a ſolid Figure contain'd under ſeveral Planes, whoſe Baſes are Right-angled Parallelograms, parallel and alike ſituated.

Priſtine, (Lat.) ancient, former, accuſtomed, wonted.

Priſtis, (Gr.) a kind of Whale-fiſh of a wonderful length, ſo call'd from its cutting the Water as it goes; alſo a long and narrow Ship or Galley ſhap'd like that Fiſh.

Privacy, (Lat.) Familiarity, Retirement, Secrecy.

Privado, (Span.) a private Friend, a Favourite.

Privateer, a Veſſel fitted out by one or more private Perſons, with a Licence from the Prince or State, to prey upon the Enemy; alſo the Commander or Captain of ſuch a Ship.

Privation, a depriving, bereaving, or taking away; Want, Lack, or being without. In a Law-ſenſe, it is apply'd to a Biſhop or Parſon of a Church, when by Death or other Act, they are depriv'd of their Biſhoprick or Benefice.

Privative, that implies Privation, or taking away; as A Privative Particle in Grammar.

Privet, a ſort of ever-green Shrub us'd much in Gardens for Borders, Knots, &c.

Privilege, (Lat.) a Prerogative or Advantage above others; a ſpecial Grant or Right whereby a private Perſon, or a particular Corporation is freed from the Rigour of the Common Law; which is either Perſonal or Real.

Perſonal Privilege, that which is allow'd to any Perſon againſt or beyond the Courſe of Common Law; as a Member of Perliament may not be arreſted, nor any of his Servants during the Seſſion of the Parliament.

Real Privilege, that which is granted to a Place, as to the Univerſities, that none may be call'd to Weſtminſter-Hall, upon any Contract or Agreement made within their own Precincts, or ſued in other Courts.

Privity, private Knowledge; as, She did it without her Husband's Privity. In a Law-ſenſe, private Familiarity, inward Relation. Thus if there be a Lord and Tenant, and the latter holds of the other by certain Services, there is a Privity between them, in reſpect of the Tenure. Privities are alſo the Privy or ſecret Parts of the Body.

Privy, ſecret, private, particular, acquainted with, or acceſſory to.

Privy Counſellour. See Counſellour.

A Privy, a Houſe of Office. In a Law-ſenſe, one that is Partaker, or has an Intereſt in any Action or Thing; as Privies in Blood, i. e. thoſe that are linked in Conſanguinity: Privies in Repreſentation, ſuch as Executors or Adminiſtrators to a deceaſed Party: Privies in Tenure, as the Lord of a Manour by Eſcheat, that is, when the Land falls to the Lord for want of Heirs.

Privy Seal, a Seal that the Queen firſt ſets to ſuch Grants as paſs the Great Seal of England: altho' ſometimes us'd in things of leſs Conſequence, that never paſs the latter; as for the Payment of Money, &c.

The Lord Privy Seal, a great Officer who has the charge or keeping of that Seal, and is by his Place, of the Queen's Privy Council, next in Dignity to the Lord Preſident.

Prize, (Fr.) that which is taken, any kind of Booty; alſo a Reward propoſed to one that ſhall do a thing beſt; alſo a Match or Tryal of Skill, at Sword-playing.

Prize-Office, an Office appointed for the Sale of Ships taken from an Enemy as lawful Prize.

Probability, (Lat.) a being probable or likely, Likelihood, appearance of Truth.

Probate of Teſtaments, the producing and proving of the Wills of Perſons deceaſed before the Eccleſiaſtical Judge, appointed by the Biſhop or Ordinary of the Place, where the Party died.

Probation, Proof, Tryal or Eſſay; eſpecially the Tryal of a Student, who is about to take his Degrees in an Univerſity, or of a Novice before he is admit- to profeſs a Religious Life.

Probationary, belonging to Probation, as The Probationary Laws.

Probationer, a Scholar, or Novice that undergoes a Probation.

Probator, (Law-Term) an Approver or Accuſer, one who undertakes to prove a Crime charged upon another; properly an Accomplice in Felony, who having prov'd the Charge againſt another as Principal or Acceſſory, either by Duel or Tryal by the Country, was pardon'd for Life and Members, but puniſh'd with Tranſportation.

Probe, a Surgeon's Inſtrument, with which he ſearches the Depths, Windings, and other Circumſtances of Wounds or Ulcers.

Probity, Honeſty, Goodneſs, Uprightneſs.

Problem, (Gr.) a Propoſition with a Queſtion annexed: In Geometry, a Propoſition referr'd to Practice, and ſo oppos'd to a Theorem, in regard that it always implies ſomething to be done; as To divide a Line into any number of given Parts, To draw the Circumference of a Circle thro' ſeveral given Points, &c.

Local Problem. See Local.

Solid Problem. See Solid.

Problematical, belonging to a Problem; alſo that may be argued Pro and Con; as A Problematical Diſcourſe.

Problematical Reſolution, (in Algebra) the Method of ſolving hard Queſtions, by certain Rules call'd Canons.

Probole, the Proceſs of a Bone. See Apophyſis.

Proboſcis or Promuſcis, the Trunk or long Snout of an Elephant.

Procacity, (Lat.) Malapertneſs, Saucineſs.

Procatarctick, (Gr.) as a Procatarctick Cauſe, i. e. the firſt or beginning Cauſe of a Diſeaſe, which co-operates with others that follow; as a violent fit of Paſſion, or exceſſive heat in the Air, which may corrupt or breed ill Juice in the Bloud, and cauſe a Feaver.

Procedendo, (Lat.) a Writ which lies where a Plea or Cauſe is removed from a Superiour to an Inferiour Court, by Writ of Privilege or Certiorari; ſo as to bring it back again to the Court, where the Suit was firſt begun, to be proceeded in there, after it appears that the Defendant has no cauſe of Privilege, or that the Matter in the Bill is not well proved.

Proceeds, that which ariſes from a thing; as The Neat Proceeds among Merchants. See Neat Weight.

To Proceed, to come from, or be derived, to ſpring or have its riſe from; to act or deal.

Proceleuſmaticus Pes, (in Grammar) a Foot conſiſting of four ſhort Syllables; as Pelagius.

Procerity, Length, Heighth, Tallneſs.

Proceſs, a going forward, a Series or Courſe of Things: In a Law-ſenſe, the manner of proceeding in every Cauſe, or the beginning or principal part of it: In Chymiſtry, it ſignifies the whole exact courſe of any Operation or Experiment: In Anatomy is the ſame with Proceſſus; which See.

Proceſſion, a paſſing on, or going forward; a ſolemn walking of the Clergy and People in the Church of Rome, in their Ornamental Habits, with Hymns, Muſick, &c. There was alſo a cuſtomary Proceſſion of the Pariſh-Prieſt, the Patron of the Church, and the Pariſhioners with the chief Flag or Holy Banner, in Aſcenſion Week, to take a C paſs round the Bounds of the Manour, and pray for a Bleſſing on the Fruits of the Earth: Whence our preſent Cuſtom of Perambulation, which is ſtill commonly call'd Proceſſioning and going in Proceſſion.

Proceſſion, is alſo the Ceremony of a Prince's paſſing on Foot, from one Place to another, with a Train of Noble-men and other Attendants; as at a Coronation, Funeral Solemnity, &c.

Proceſſional, belonging to a Proceſſion.

Proceſſum continuando, (Lat.) a Writ for the Continuance of a Proceſs, after the Death of the chief Juſtice, or other Juſtices in the Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer.

Proceſſus, Proceſs, going forward, Proficiency: In Anatomy, a Proceſs, or Knob at the end of a Bone.

Proceſſus Chymicus, a Proceſs of Chymical Operations.

Proceſſus Ciliaris, a Term in Anatomy. Se Ciliare Ligamentum.

Proceſſus Mammillares. See Papillarum Proceſſus.

Proceſſus Peritonæi, two Pipes or Channels, one on each ſide the Os Pubis, or Share-Bone, which reach to the Skin of the Scrotum thro' the Holes of the Tendons of the Oblique and Tranſverſe Muſcles.

Proceſſus Styliformis, or Styloides, a kin of outward Proceſs or Knob of the Bones of the Temples, which is ſlender and long, having the Horn of the Bone call'd Hyoides, tyed to it.

Proceſſus Zygomaticus, or Jugalis, an outward Proceſs of the Bones of the Temples, which runs forward, and is joyn'd with the Bone of the upper Jaw; from which Juncture is formed the Bridge termed Zygoma, that reaches from the Eye to the Ear.

Prochein Amy, (Fr. i. e. a Friend near at hand a Term us'd in Common-Law, for one who bein next of Kin to a Child in his Nonage, is allow'd to manage his Affairs, and to redreſs any Wron done to him.

Prochroniſm, (Gr.) an Errour in Chronology o Computation of Time; a ſetting things down befor the real time they happen'd in.

Procidentia, (Lat.) a falling down of a thin out of its Place.

Procidentia Ani, a falling of the Rectum Inteſti num, or Strait Gut thro' the Fundament, which i occaſion'd by a too great Looſeneſs, and often happens to Children.

Procidentia Uteri, a looſening of the inner Coa of the Vagina, or Neck of the Womb: Some thin the Womb it ſelf may fall down, but the Ligament are ſo ſtrong as to hinder any ſuch Fall.

To Proclaim, to publiſh with a loud Voice, o declare with Solemnity.

Proclamation, the Act of proclaiming, a ſolem publiſhing, with ſound of Trumpet, or beat o Drum: Alſo a Declaration or Order iſſued out b the Queen, to give notice of what She thinks fit t Her Subjects.

Proclamation of a Fine, Notice openly and ſolemnly given at all the Aſſizes held in the County, within one Year after the engroſſing of it.

Proclamation of Rebellion, publick Notice given by an Officer, That a Man not appearing upon a Sub-pœna, or an Attachment in the Chancery, ſhall be accounted a Rebel, unleſs he ſurrender himſelf by a Day aſſigned in the Writ.

Proclivity, Aptneſs, Diſpoſition, or Inclination to any thing.

Procondyli, (Gr. in Anat.) the Bones of the Fingers next the back of the Hand.

Pro Confeſſo, (Lat. Law-Term) when after a Bill exhibited in Chancery, the Defendant appears upon a Habeas Corpus iſſu'd out to bring him to the Bar, and the Court aſſigns him a Day to anſwer; which being expir'd, and no Anſwer put in, a ſecond Habeas Corpus is granted, and a farther Day appointed; on which Day if he do not anſwer, the Bill upon the Plaintiff's Motion, ſhall be taken pro confeſſo, i. e. as if it had been confeſſed by the Defendant's Anſwer.

Proconſul, a Roman Magiſtrate, ſent to govern a Province, with a Conſular and extraordinary Power: His Equipage was provided at the Charge of the Publick, conſiſting in Pavilions, Charging-Horſes, Mules, Clerks, Secretaries, &c. but the Office laſted no longer than one Year.

To Procraſtinate, to put or drive off from Day to Day.

Procraſtination, a procraſtinating or delaying.

To Procreate, to beget; as To procreate Children.

Procreation, the Act of Procreating.

Proctor, an Advocate, who for his Fee undertakes to manage another Man's Cauſe in any Court of the Civil or Eccleſiaſtical Law: In the Weſt of England, they give the Name of Proctor to one that gathers the Fruits of a Benefice for another.

Proctors, are alſo two Perſons choſen from among the Students in an Univerſity; to ſee good Orders and Exerciſes duly performed there.

Proctors of the Clergy, thoſe who are choſen to appear for the Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, as alſo for the common Clergy of every Dioceſs at the Parliament, and to ſit in the Lower Houſe of Convocation.

Procuracy, the Deed, or Writing, whereby one is made a Procurator.

Procuration, a Power by which one is intruſted to act for another.

Procuration, or Procuration-Money, a Duty which Pariſh-Prieſts pay yearly to the Biſhop or Arch-Deacon, upon account of Viſitation: Alſo that Money which is given to Scriveners, by thoſe that take up any Summ of them at Intereſt.

Procurator, (Lat.) a Proctor, a Factor or Sollicitor, that manages another Man's Affair; alſo a Governour of a Country under a Prince, a Steward: In ſome old Statutes, it is taken for one that gathers the Fruits of a Benefice for the Parſon.

Procurator of St. Mark, a Magiſtrate at Venice, who is the next Perſon in Dignity to the Dogue or Duke of that Common-wealth.

Procurator Monaſterii, the Advocate of a Religious Houſe, who was to ſollicit the Intereſt, and plead the Cauſes of the Society.

Procuratores Eccleſiæ Parochialis, the Church-wardens, who were to act as Proxies and Repreſentatives of the Church.

Procuratorium, the Procuratory or Inſtrument, by which any Perſon or Community did conſtitute or appoint their Proctor or Proctors to repreſent them in any Judicial Court or Cauſe.

To Procure, to get for another, to help to; it is alſo taken in an ill Senſe, for to act as a Pimp or Bawd.

Procyon, a fixed Star of the ſecond Magnitude, going before the Dog-Star; the leſſer Dog-ſtar.

Prodes Homes, (Fr. i. e. Wiſe Men,) a Title often given in our old Books to the Barons, or other Military Tenants that were call'd to the King's Council, and were to give their Advice, according to the beſt of their Prudence and Knowledge.

Prodigal, profuſe, laviſh, waſteful, riotous; alſo vain-glorious, fooliſh.

Prodigality, a being Prodigal, Profuſeneſs, Laviſhneſs.

Prodigious, monſtrous, wonderful, extraordinary, exceſſive, vaſt.

Prodigy, an effect beyond Nature, a monſtrous or preternatural Thing.

† Prodition, Treaſon, Treachery.

Prodiſſarius Canis, (in old Records) a Setting-Dog, a Lurcher.

Prodromus, (Gr.) a Fore-runner or Harbinger; Prodromus Morbus, a Diſeaſe that comes before a greater; as Straightneſs of the Breaſt precedes a Conſumption, or the Rickets.

To Produce, (Lat.) to yield or bring forth, to cauſe, to ſhew or expoſe to View. In Geometry, To produce a Right-line, is to continue or draw it out farther, till it have any appointed Length.

Product, Fruit, Effect; as The Products of the Earth, of one's Wit, &c. In Arithmetick, it is the Number ſought, or ariſing from the Multiplication of ſeveral Numbers given: So if 5 be given to be multiply'd by 3, or 3 by 5, the Product is 15. It is alſo ſometimes termed the Rectangle and the Fact. In Geometry, when two Lines are multiply'd one by another, the Product is always call'd the Rectangle; which See.

Production, Product, or Fruit; alſo a lengthening: Productions are alſo Works or Effects either of Nature or Art. In Anatomy, the Parts of Bones that bunch a little out.

Productive, apt to produce, or bring forth.

Proecthesis, (Gr.) a running out firſt or before: In Rhetorick, a Figure wherein the Speaker by his Anſwer (containing a Reaſon of what he or ſome other has ſaid or done) defends himſelf or the other Perſon as unblamable.

Proegumena, (in the Art of Phyſick) a fore-going inward Cauſe of a Diſeaſe, occaſioned by another Cauſe; ſo that if it be remov'd, the Diſeaſe may ſtill continue: As a Plethory or ill Juice in the Bloud, produc'd by ill Diet; whence proceed Stoppages of the Veſſels, &c.

Proem, (Gr.) a Preface, an Ent'rance into a Diſcourſe.

Proepizeuxis, a Grammatical Figure, when a Verb is put between two Nouns, which ought to be plac'd at the end.

Profanation, the Act of profaning.

Profane, ungodly, unholy, irreligious, wicked; alſo unhallowed, common, ordinary: It is often oppoſed to Sacred; as Sacred and Profane Hiſtories.

To Profane, to abuſe Holy Things; to pollute, or unhallow.

Profections, (in Aſtrol.) are equal and regular Progreſſions or Courſes of the Sun, and other Significators in the Zodiack, according to the Succeſſion of the Signs; allowing to each Profection the whole Circle and one Sign over: As if the Sun in the firſt Year, be in 24 Degrees of Aries, next Year it will be in 24 Degrees of Taurus.

To Profeſs, to declare and make one's ſelf known to be of ſuch a Religion, Sect or Party; to apply one's ſelf to a particular Study or Calling, and to make a publick Exerciſe of it; alſo to proteſt, or declare ſolemnly.

A Profeſſed Monk or Nun, one that having made his or her Vow, is admitted to be of a Religious Order.

Profeſſion, a Condition of Life, Calling, Trade, or Art that one makes choice of; publick Confeſſion, Proteſtation.

Profeſſour, one that profeſſes any Religion or Perſwaſion: Alſo a Lecturer or Reader of any Art or Science in the Publick Schools of an Univerſity.

Proffer, Offer, Attempt: In a Law-ſenſe, the time appointed for taking the Accounts of Sheriffs and other Officers in the Exchequer, which is twice in the Year.

Proficiency, the ſtate or quality of a Proficient.

Proficient, one that profits by his Studies, or his Application to any Art; one that is forward in Learning.

Profil, (Ital.) a Term in Painting which properly ſignifies a Head or Face ſet ſide-ways, as on Coins or Medals, and ſuch a Face is ſaid to be in Profil, or in a Side-view. It is alſo taken for the Draught of any Piece of Architecture or Fortification; wherein is ſet down the Breadth, Depth and Height of the whole Work; but it does not repreſent the Length, which Property belongs to the Plan or Ground-plot: So that 'tis much the ſame with a Proſpect of a Place, City, Building, &c. view'd ſide-ways, and expreſs'd according to the Rules of Perſpective.

Profil, is alſo ſometimes taken for the Out-lines of any Figure, but that way of Expreſſion is improper.

Profit, (Fr.) Gain, Advantage, Intereſt.

To Profit, to make a Progreſs, to improve, to get Profit or Advantage, to be uſeful. To Profit by, to make a Benefit of.

Profitable, beneficial, advantageous, uſeful.

Profligate, (Lat.) wicked, villanous; debauched, or lewd, to the higheſt degree.

To Profligate one's ſelf, to give himſelf up to all manner of Vice, Lewdneſs and Debauchery.

Profluence, a flowing plentifully, an Abundance.

Profound, deep, moſt commonly taken in a figurative Senſe, and often joyn'd to other Words to add a greater Weight and Force to them; as Profound Reverence, profound Learning, &c.

Profundity, Deepneſs, Depth.

Profundus Muſculus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle that bends the Fingers.

Profuſe, laviſh, waſteful.

Profuſion or Profuſeneſs, (properly a pouring out) a needleſs and laviſh ſpending, exceſſive Liberality.

To Prog, to uſe all Endeavours to get or gain; as To prog for Victuals, Riches, &c.

Progenitour, (Lat.) Anceſtour, or Fore-father.

Progeny, Offspring or Iſſue.

Prognoſis, (Gr.) a knowing before, Fore-boding, Fore-knowledge: In the Art of Phyſick, it is the ſame as Prognoſtick Sign; which See.

To Prognoſticate, to fore-tell, conjecture, or gueſs.

Prognoſtication, The Act of prognoſticating.

Prognoſticator, one that prognoſticates, or pretends to fore-tell future Events.

A Prognoſtick, a boding Sign or Token of ſomething to come.

Prognoſticks, or Prognoſtick Signs, (among Phyſicians) are Signs by which they diſcover what is like to become of a ſick Perſon, with reſpect to Recovery, or Death.

Programma, an Edict or Proclamation ſet up in a publick Place; a Bill upon a Door; alſo a Bill poſted up, or deliver'd by Hand, to give publick Notice of ſome Speech or Ceremony to be performed in a College, or School in an Univerſity.

Progreſs, a proceeding or going forward in Buſineſs; alſo a Journey taken by a Prince or Nobleman for Pleaſure.

Progreſſion, a going on; and in Mathematicks, a Series or Train of Quantities which follow one another, and keep a certain Reaſon or Proportion among themſelves.

Arithmetical Progreſſion, or Continual Proportion Arithmetical, is a Conſequence or Train of Numbers, or other Quantities in continued Arithmetical Proportion; which is when they proceed by equal Differences, either encreaſing or decreaſing.

Geometrical Progreſſion, is the like Train of Numbers or Quantities in Geometrical Proportion continued, which is when they proceed by equal Ratio's or Reaſons, whether encreaſing or decreaſing. See Proportion.

Month of Progreſſion. See Month.

Progreſſive, that proceeds or goes on; as A Progreſſive Motion, Progreſſive Devotion, &c.

To Prohibit, to forbid, to bar or keep from.

Prohibited Commodities, ſuch Goods as are not to be brought in, or convey'd out of the Nation.

Prohibitio de vaſto directa parti, (Lat.) a Judicial Writ directed to the Tenant, forbidding him to make Waſte upon the Land in Controverſy, during the Suit.

Prohibition, a forbidding, an Hinderance. In Aſtrology, it is when two Planets are applying to an Aſpect, and in the mean while another Planet interpoſes either its Body or Aſpect; ſo that the Matter which ſhould have been brought to Concluſion is delay'd or hinder'd.

Prohibition, is alſo the Name of a Writ, to forbid any Court either Spiritual or Secular to proceed in a Cauſe there depending, upon intimation that the Cognizance of it does not belong to that Court: But it is now moſt uſually taken for that Writ which lies for one impleaded in the Court Chriſtian, for a Cauſe belonging to the Temporal Juriſdiction or Cognizance of the Queen's Court.

Prohibitory, that belongs to a Prohibition, or that forbids; as A Prohibitory Edict.

Project, Deſign, Purpoſe, Contrivance.

Projected, deſigned, contrived; in a Mathematical Senſe, drawn upon a Plane.

Projectiles, or Projected Bodies, (in Philoſ.) ſuch Bodies as being put into a violent Motion by any Force apply'd, are caſt off from the Place, where they receiv'd their Quantity of Motion, and afterwards move at a diſtance from it; as a Stone thrown out of one's Hands, or by a Sling, an Arrow ſhot from a Bow, a Bullet from a Gun, &c.

Projection, the Act of projecting: In Chymiſtry, it is when any Matter to be calcin'd or fulminated is put into a Crucible Spoonful after Spoonful: The pretended caſting of the Powder of the Philoſopher's Stone into a Crucible of melted Metal, in order to change it into Gold or Silver, is alſo called Projection.

Powder of Projection, a ſort of Matter much boaſted of by ſome Alchymiſts that pretend to be Maſters of the Philoſopher's Stone, who affirm it to be the Seed of Gold it ſelf, and to have the Faculty of multiplying or encreaſing Gold, when ſome ſmall Quantity is us'd for that purpoſe.

Projection of the Sphere, (in Aſtron.) is a delineating or drawing the Circles of the Sphere, or any parts of them, upon the Plane of ſome one Circle, as on the Horizon, Meridian, Equator, Tropick, &c. Thus Aſtrolabes, Quadrants, Sun-dials, Maps, &c. are Projections of the Sphere, which are of three ſorts; viz. Gnomonick, Orthographick and Stereographick.

Gnomonick Projection, is that where the Plane of Projection is parallel to a great Circle of the Sphere, and where the Eye is ſuppos'd to be in the Center of the Earth.

Orthographick Projection, is that wherein the Eye is taken to be at an infinite diſtance from the Circle of Projection, ſo that all the Viſual Rays are parallel among themſelves, and perpendicular to the ſaid Circle.

Stereographick Projection, is that which ſuppoſes the Eye to be in the Pole of the Plane of Projection, 90 Degrees diſtant from, and perpendicular to it.

Projectour, one that projects, or contrives any Deſign.

Projecture, (in Architect.) the jutting or leaning out of any part of a Building, the coping of a Wall: All Margents that hang over beyond the Shaft of a Pillar are alſo termed Projectures. In Anatomy, Projecture is the ſame as Proceſs and Apophyſis; which See.

Projecturing Table. See Table.

Pro Indiviſo, (Law-Term) an Occupation or Poſſeſſion of Lands or Tenements belonging to two or more Perſons in common, ſo that none knows his reſpective Portion or Share; as it happens to Co-parceners before the partition or dividing of their Inheritance.

Prolabia, (in Anat.) the utmoſt prominent, or bunching out parts of the Lips.

Prolapſus Uteri. See Procidentia Uteri.

Prolegomena, (Gr.) Preparatory Diſcourſes, containing things of which the Reader is to be inform'd, to the end that he may better underſtand the Subject of a Book or particular Science; Prefaces, or Preambles.

Prolepſis, Anticipation, Prevention, Pre-occupation; a conceiving of things in Mind before-hand. In Grammar, a Figure of Conſtruction in which the Whole does duly agree with the Verb or Adjective, and then the Parts of the Whole are reduc'd to the ſame Verb or Adjective, with which they do not agree; as Duæ Aquilæ volaverunt, hæc ab Oriente, illa ab Occidente; it is call'd Anticipatio in Latin.

In Rhetorick, Prolepſis is a Figure, whereby we prevent what another intends to alledge. It is divided into two Parts, viz. Hypophora, in which an Objection being ſtarted, the Speaker makes Anſwer to his own Demand; and Anthypophora, which is a contrary Inference, wherein an Objection is refuted by the oppoſing of a contrary Sentence.

Proleptical or Proleptick, belonging to the Figure Prolepſis.

Proleptick Diſeaſe, a Diſtemper that always anticipates; as if an Ague come to Day at four a Clock, to morrow an Hour ſooner.

Proles, (Lat.) the Iſſue of one's Body; an Offſpring, Race, or Stock: In a Law-ſenſe, it is alſo ſometimes taken for the Iſſue of an unlawful Bed.

Prolifical or Prolifick, fit for Generation, apt to breed or bring forth, fruitful.

Prolifick Signs, (in Aſtrol.) are Cancer, Scorpio and Piſces. See Barren Signs.

Prolix, tedious or large in Speech, &c.

Prolixity, a being prolix, Tediouſneſs in diſcourſing or writing.

Prolocutor, (i. e. one that ſpeaks before others) a Chair-Man, or Speaker of the Higher or Lower Houſe of Convocation, or General Aſſemblies of the Clergy; whoſe Office is to cauſe the Names of the Members to be call'd over, to read all things propounded, to gather the Suffrages or Votes, &c.

Prologue, (Gr.) a Fore-ſpeech, a Preface, properly a Speech made to recommend a Stage-Play, or Fable to the People.

To Prolong, (Lat.) to make a thing laſt longer, to lengthen, to ſpin or ſtretch out.

Prolongation, a prolonging, lengthening, &c.

Promenade, (Fr.) a Walk in the Fields to take the Air.

Prometheus or Hercules, (Gr.) the Name of a certain Conſtellation or Cluſter of Stars.

Prominence, (Lat.) the jutting of a thing out or over.

Prominent, hanging over, jutting or ſtanding out.

Promiſcuous, mingled together, or one with another; confuſed.

Promiſe, an Aſſurance by Word of Mouth to do any thing: In a Law-ſenſe, it is when upon a valuable Conſideration, a Man binds himſelf by his Word, to perform ſuch an Act, as is agreed on and concluded with another, upon which an Action or Suit may be grounded; whereas if it be without Conſideration, it is call'd a Nude Contract, and bears no Action.

To Promiſe, to make a Promiſe, to engage or give one's Word.

Promiſſory, belonging to Promiſe.

Promittors or Promiſſors, a Term in that part of Aſtrology, which relates to Nativities and Treats of Directions, which are ſo call'd becauſe they promiſe in the Radix, ſomething to be accompliſh'd when the Time of ſuch Direction is fulfilled, and are only the Planets, or their Aſpects, and in ſome Caſes fixed Stars, to whom their Significators are directed.

Promontory, (in Geogr.) a Mountain, Hill, or any high Ground, running out a great way into the Sea.

To Promote, to raiſe, advance, or prefer; to carry on, or farther, to encreaſe.

Promoter, one that promotes or carries on a Buſineſs. In a Law-ſenſe, Promoters or Promooters, are a ſort of Informers, who for proſecuting ſuch as offend in penal Actions, have part of the Fines for their Reward: They chiefly belong to Spiritual Courts, the Exchequer, and Queen's Bench.

Promotion, Preferment, Advancement, eſpecially a raiſing to Eccleſiaſtical Dignities.

Prompt, ready, quick, nimble, active, Prompt Payment, a preſent paying of Money, a Term in Merchandize.

To Prompt, to tell or whiſper, to put one upon.

Promptitude or Promptneſs, Readineſs, Quickneſs.

Promptuary, a Store-houſe, a Buttery.

Promulgated, publiſhed, ſet abroad, or proclaimed.

Promulgation, the Act of promulging or publiſhing.

To Promulge, to proclaim or publiſh; as To promulge a Law, properly ſaid of the Roman Laws, which were hung up in the Market-Place, and expos'd to publick View, for three Market-days before they were paſſed or allowed.

Promuſcis. See Proboſcis.

Pronaos or Pronaus, (Gr. in Architect.) a Church-Porch, a Portico to a Palace, great Hall, or ſpacious Building.

Pronator Radii Quadratus, (Lat. in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Arm, which takes Riſe from the lower and inner part of the Bone call'd Ulna, and is inſerted to the upper and outward part of the Radius.

Pronator Radii Teres, a Muſcle by ſome call'd Pronator Superior Rotundus, which ariſes from the inner Knob of the Shoulder-Bone, and has its Inſertion a little above the middle of the Radius on the out-ſide. This Muſcle with the former ſerves to move the Radius inwards.

Prone, (Lat.) inclined to a thing.

Prong, a Pitch-fork.

Pronominal, (Lat.) belonging to a Pronoun; as A Pronominal Particle.

Pronotary, See Protonotary.

Pronoun, a Part of Speech that is ſet before or ſtands for a Noun, of which there are ſeveral ſorts, viz. Perſonal, as I, Thou, He: Relative, as Who, Which; Poſſeſſive, as Mine, Thine; Demonſtrative, as He, They.

To Pronounce, to utter or ſpeak, to rehearſe, to paſs one's Judgment or Verdict, to declare.

Pronunciation, the manner of pronouncing, a diſtinct uttering of Words, Syllables, Letters, &c.

Proof, an Eſſay or Tryal, an Argument or Reaſon to prove a Truth, Teſtimony, Mark: Among Printers, a Proof ſignifies a Printed Sheet ſent to the Author or Corrector of the Preſs, in order to be corrected.

To Propagate, to cauſe any thing to multiply or encreaſe, to ſpead abroad: It properly ſignifies to cut down an old Vine, that of it many young ones may be planted.

Propagation, the Act of propagating, encreaſing, ſpreading abroad, &c.

Pro partibus liberandis, (Lat.) a Writ for the partition or dividing of Lands among Co-heirs.

Propenſe, prone, inclinable to.

Propenſion or Propenſity, Inclination, Bent; as Such is our Propenſion to Evil.

Proper, peculiar, convenient, fitting; alſo that is of a fine or tall Stature.

Proper Fraction, (in Arithm.) ſuch a one as is leſs than Unity, having its Numerator leſs than the Denominator; as $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{2}{3}$, $\frac{3}{4}$, &c. See Fraction.

Proper Motion, (in Aſtron.) the Motion of a particular Planet from Weſt to Eaſt, as it is diſtinguiſh'd from its forced daily Motion from Eaſt to Weſt, cauſ'd by the Primum Mobile.

Proper Navigation, is the guiding of a Ship to any propoſed Harbour, where the Voyage is to be perform'd in the vaſt Ocean.

Properneſs, Talneſs of Stature.

Property, natural Quality or Virtue, Right or Due that belongs to every Man, rightful Poſſeſſion of a thing: Alſo a Stalking-Horſe, Tool, or Blind; as He was but their Property. In a Law-ſenſe, Property or Propriety is the higheſt Right that a Man has, or can have to any thing, and in no ways depending on any other Man's Courteſy.

Prophane, See Profane.

Prophaſis, (Gr.) an Excuſe, a Pretence or Colour; an Occaſion, or fore-going Cauſe: Among Phyſicians, a Fore-knowledge of Diſeaſes.

Prophecy, a Prediction, or Fore-telling.

To Propheſy, to fore-tell things to come, to expound Divine Myſteries.

Prophet, one that fore-tells future Events: a Perſon inſpired by God to reveal his Laws, Commands, and Myſteries, and to give Warning of his approaching Judgments: An Expounder of the Holy Scriptures: Among the ancient Heathens, it was taken for the Chief Prieſt of a Temple, or an Interpreter of Oracles.

Propheteſs, a Woman that propheſies.

Prophetical or Prophetick, belonging to a Prophet, or to Prophecy.

Prophylactick, that part of Phyſick which prevents or preſerves from Diſeaſes.

Propinquity, (Lat.) Nearneſs, Nighneſs.

To Propitiate, to make propitious, to atone, to pacify or appeaſe.

Propitiation, the Act of propitiating, an appeaſing of the Divine Anger by Sacrifice, or Prayer; an Atonement.

Propitiatory, that ſerves, or is of force to propitiate or atone: as A propitiatory Sacrifice.

The Propitiatory or Mercy-Seat, (among the ancient Jews) a Table or Cover lin'd on both ſides with Gold-plates, and ſet over the Ark of the Covenant, on each ſide of which was a Cherubin of Gold, with Wings ſpread over the Propitiatory, and their Faces looking one towards another: Whence the Word is taken to ſignifie any Place of Atonement.

Propitious, favourable, merciful, kind.

Proplaſm, (Gr.) a Mould, wherein any Metal or ſoft Mater that will afterwards harden, is caſt.

Proplaſtice, the Art of making Moulds, in which any thing is caſt or framed.

Propolis, Hive-droſs, or Bee-glue; a kind of thick Subſtance like Wax, with which Bees ſtop Holes and Clefts in their Hives: Alſo the Suburbs of a City.

Propoma, a Drink made of Wine, Honey, or Sugar.

Proportitas, (Latin Law-Term) the Declaration, or Deliverance, or Verdict of a Jury.

Proportion, Agreement, Agreeableneſs, Anſwerableneſs; Rule or Meaſure, the Relation that the Parts have among themſelves, and to the Whole. In Architecture, the relation that all the Work has to its Parts, and which every one ſeparately has to the Idea of the whole Building.

In Mathematicks, when two Quantities or Numbers are compar'd one to another, with reſpect to their Greatneſs or Smallneſs, ſuch a Compariſon is termed Ratio, Reaſon or Rate: But when more than two are compar'd, the Compariſon is generally call'd the Proportion, that they have one to another; altho' the Words Ratio and Proportion are often us'd promiſcuouſly.

Proportion or Relation in Quantity, is either the Reſpect that the Reaſons of Numbers have one to another, or elſe that which their Differences have one to another: This Proportion is Arithmetical, Geometrical, or Harmonical.

Arithmetical Proportion, is when ſeveral Numbers differ according to an equal Difference; as 2, 4, 6, 8; ſo that 2 is the common Difference between 2 and 4, 4 and 6, 6 and 8.

Geometrical Proportion, is when divers Numbers differ according to like Rate or Reaſon; i. e. when the Reaſons of Numbers compar'd together are equal: So 1, 2, 4, 8, which differ one from another by double Reaſon, are ſaid to differ by Geometrical Proportion; for as 1 is half 2, ſo 2 is half 4, and 4 half 8.

Harmonical Proportion, is that wherein the firſt Term is to the laſt in a Geometrical Reaſon, equal to that of the Difference of the two firſt to the Difference of the two laſt: Thus 2, 3, 6, are in Harmonick Proportion, because the firſt Number 2 is to the laſt 6, as the Difference of the two firſt, viz. 1 is to the Difference of the two laſt, viz. 3.

Proportionable, agreeable to the Rules of Proportion.

Proportionality, a Likeneſs of Proportion.

Proportionals, proportional Numbers, or Quantities; i. e. ſuch as are in Mathematical Proportion: Thus if when four Numbers are conſider'd, it appears that the Firſt has as much Greatneſs or Smallneſs with reſpect to the Second, as the Third has with reſpect to the Fourth, thoſe four Numbers are call'd Proportionals.

Continued Proportionals. See Diſcrete or Diſjunct Proportion.

Mean Proportionals. See Mean.

Propoſitum, (Lat.) an old Law-word for Purport, Intention, or Meaning.

Propoſal, Propoſition, or Offer.

To Propoſe, to ſpeak, offer, declare, put or ſet forth, to move or make a Motion.

Propoſition, a thing propoſed, a Motion, whatſoever is ſaid of any Subject, whether true or falſe: Alſo a thing propoſed to be demonſtrated, proved, or made out; and in Mathematicks, it is either a Problem or a Theorem, which See.

Propoſitions Conditional. See Conditional Propoſitions.

Propotiſma, (Gr.) the taking a Doſe of Phyſick.

To Propound, to propoſe, to ſet on foot ſome Diſcourſe, with an Offer to maintain it, or ſome Doubt or Queſtion to be reſolved: To make Offers or Propoſals upon a Difference, towards a Reconciliation; or upon any Buſineſs whatever.

Propounder, he that propounds a Matter: In a Law-ſenſe, Propounders are Monopolizers or Engroſſers of Commodities.

Pro-Prætor, a Deputy-Prætor, a Roman Magiſtrate, who had all the Power of a Prætor conferred upon him, and all the Enſigns of Honour, belonging to that Office. See Prætor.

Proprietary or Proprietor, one that has a Property in any thing; an Owner: It was heretofore uſ'd for a Perſon having the Fruits of a Benefice to himſelf, and his Heirs or Succeſſours, as Abbots and Priors had to them and their Succeſſours.

Proprietate probanda, a Writ that lies for one, who would prove a Property before the Sheriff.

Propriety, proper Senſe; as In Propriety of Speaking. The Proprieties of a Speech, the peculiar Phraſes or Expreſſions in ſuch a Language.

Proptoſis, (Gr.) the falling down of ſome part of the Body, as of the Eye, the Caul, &c.

Propylæum, (in Architect.) the Porch of a Temple or great Hall; a Gate-Houſe.

Pro-Quæſtor, a Deputy or Vice-Treaſurer. See Quæſtor.

Pro rata. See Onerando pro rata portione.

Prorogation, a proroguing, deferring, or putting off; eſpecially a putting off the Seſſion of Parliament, to a certain time appointed by the Queen; which differs from an Adjournment in this reſpect, that when the Parliament is prorogued in open Court, ſuch Bills as paſs'd in either or both Houſes, and had not the Royal Aſſent, muſt begin again at the next Aſſembly; but if it be only adjourned, all things continue in the ſame State they were in before the Adjournment.

To Prorogue, to prolong, to put off for ſome time.

Proſaick, being in, or belonging to Proſe.

Proſcenium, (Gr.) the fore-part of the Scene, among the Ancients; a Building as high as the laſt Portico of the Theater, whoſe Face or Front was adorn'd with many ranges of Pillars: Alſo a raiſed Place on which the Actors play'd, like that which we call the Stage.

Proſcarabæus, the Oil-Beetle, or Oil-Clock, an Inſect ſo call'd, becauſe it ſends forth a great deal of fat Sweat.

To Proſcribe, (Lat.) to out-law, to baniſh.

Proſcription, (among the Romans) a Confiſcation of Goods, and ſetting them to open Sale; an Outlawry or Baniſhment.

Proſe, the plain uſual way of Expreſſion, oppos'd to Verſe; in regard that it is not ty'd up to thoſe Meaſures or Rhimes, which are requiſite in Poetry. Proſe is alſo a part of the Popiſh Maſs in Latin Verſe.

To Proſecute, to purſue, carry on, or go on with, to ſue at Law.

Proſecution, a proſecuting, Purſuit, Continuance.

Proſecutor, one that follows a Cauſe, or ſues in another's Name. See Promoters.

Proſelyte, (Gr. i. e. Out-comer or Stranger) a Perſon converted from that Faith or Judgment he was of before, to another; it was heretofore meant only of one converted from Heatheniſm to the Jewiſh Religion.

Proſodia or Proſody, that part of Grammar, which teaches the right Method of accenting, and of pronouncing Syllables long or ſhort.

Proſodian, one ſkill'd in Proſody.

Proſonomaſia, (i. e. a naming over and above) a Rhetorical Figure, when Alluſion is made to the likeneſs of Sound in ſeveral Names or Words; as Quis locus aut lacus, ab aratore orator. In Latin it is call'd Agnominatio.

Proſopopœia, (i. e. the feigning of a Perſon) an Ornament in Rhetorick, whereby Things that are void of Life are repreſented as living reaſonable Creatures, and brought in to ſpeak or receive an Addreſs; a Figure very often us'd by Poets and Oratours both ancient and modern.

Proſpect, (Lat.) a View, or Sight afar off; a View, Deſign, or Aim.

Proſpective, as A proſpective Glaſs, i. e. a Glaſs ſet in a Frame, to take a View of things at a conſiderable diſtance.

To Proſper, to make proſperous, to give Succeſs; to ſucceed or be ſucceſsful; to thrive, to have a fair Gale of Fortune.

Proſperity, the Condition of one that has all things according to his Heart's Deſire, and ſucceeds in all his Undertakings; Happineſs, good Luck, good Fortune, good Succeſs.

Proſperous, favourable, fortunate, lucky, having all things according to Wiſh.

Proſpheromena, (Gr. in the Art of Phyſick) Meats or Medicines taken inwardly.

Proſphyſis, (in Surgery) a Coalition or growing together, when two Fingers are joyn'd to each other.

Proſtatæ, (in Anat.) two Glandules or Kernels, otherwiſe call'd Adſtantes & Corpora Glandoloſa, that lye under the Seminal Bladders near the common Paſſage of the Semen and Urine, which they ſerve to lubricate or make ſlippery; affording alſo a kind of Vehicle to the Seminal Matter.

† Proſternation, a caſting, beating, or bearing down.

Proſterhys, the fore-ſide of the Breaſt; alſo a fleſhy part in the Hollows of the Hands and Feet, and betwixt the Fingers.

Proſthaphæreſis, (in Aſtron.) is the ſame with the Equation of the Orbit of a Planet, or the Difference between its true and mean Motion: The Angle made by the Lines of the Planet's mean Motion is alſo call'd the Proſthaphæreſis. See Equation Aſtronomical.

Proſtheſis, a Grammatical Figure, when a Letter or Syllable is added to the beginning of a Word, as Gnatus for natus, tetuli for tuli, &c. In Surgery, Proſtheſis is taken for that which fills up what is wanting, as is to be ſeen in fiſtulous and hollow Ulcers, filled up with Fleſh by that Art: Alſo the making of artificial Legs and Arms, when the natural ones are loſt.

A Proſtitute, (Lat.) a common Harlot, a ſhameleſs Whore.

To Proſtitute, to expoſe or ſet open to every one that comes, to yield up one's Body and Honour to Luſt, to ſenſual Pleaſure, or mercenary Intereſt.

Proſtitution, the Act of Proſtituting, a Harlot's ſetting out the Uſe of her Body for Hire: It is alſo figuratively taken for a ſtooping to any mean or baſe Action or Office.

Proſtomia, the red-tinctured part of the Lips.

Proſtrate, (Lat.) laid flat along.

To Proſtrate one's ſelf, to caſt one's ſelf at another's Feet.

Proſtration, the Act of proſtrating.

Proſtylos or Proſtyle, (Gr. in Architect.) a Building that has only Pillars in the Front, according to the Model of ſome of the Temples of the Ancients.

Protaſis, a Maxim, or Propoſition; alſo the firſt Part of Comedy or Stage-Play, that explains the Argument of the Piece.

Protatick, belonging to a Protaſis.

To Protect, (Lat.) to defend, to maintain, to countenance.

Protection, the Act of protecting, Defence, Shelter: In a general Law-ſenſe, it is taken for that Benefit and Safety which every Subject, either Free-born, or a Stranger, has by the Queen's Laws: In a ſpecial Signification, an Exemption or Freedom granted by the Queen to a Perſon from Suits of Law or other Vexations: Alſo a Writing to ſecure one from an Arreſt for Debt.

Protector, a Defender, one that undertakes to defend the Miſerable and Afflicted: One that is made choice of to govern a Kingdom during the Minority of a Prince.

Protectrix, a Patroneſs, or Defendreſs.

Protervity, Waywardneſs, Frowardneſs, Peeviſhneſs.

Proteſt, a Declaration againſt a Party charged with the Payment of a Bill of Exchange, for refuſing to pay the ſaid Bill.

To Proteſt, to make ſuch a Proteſt, to declare or affirm, to make a ſolemn Promiſe, to vow or ſwear: In a Law-ſenſe, openly to affirm, That one does not at all, or but conditionally yield his Conſent to any Act, or to the Proceedings of a Judge, &c.

Proteſtancy or Proteſtantiſm, the Religion or Doctrine and Principles of Proteſtants.

Proteſtants, a Name given to the firſt Reformers in Germany, from the publick Proteſtation they made at Spires, A. D. 1529, to appeal from the Decrees of the Emperour Charles V. to a General Council: And ſince apply'd to all thoſe that have forſaken the Doctrine and Superſtitions of the Church of Rome.

Proteſtation, a proteſting againſt, an open declaring of one's Mind, a ſolemn Vow or Aſſurance: In a Law-ſenſe, a Defence or Safeguard to the Party that makes it, from being concluded by the Act he is about to do; ſo that Iſſue cannot be joyn'd.

Proteus, a Sea-Deity, who as the Poets feign'd, could change himſelf into what Shape he pleas'd: Whence the Name is apply'd to all crafty and deceitful People, that can be of any Humour, and comply with all Diſpoſitions, either good or bad.

Prothyrides, (Gr. in Architect.) the Coins or Corners of a Wall, the Croſs-beams or overthwart Rafters.

Prothyrum, a Porch at the outer Door of an Houſe; a Fence of Pales or Rails, to keep off Horſes or Carts from the Door.

Protocol, the firſt Draught of a Deed, Contract, or Inſtrument; a Precedent-Book.

Proto-Foreſtarius, an Officer whom the King heretofore made Chief of Windſor-Foreſt, to determine all Cauſes of Death or Mayhem there; a kind of Lord Chief Juſtice in Eyre.

Protomartyr, the firſt Martyr, or Witneſs of the New Teſtament, who ſuffer'd Death in Teſtimony of the Truth of the Goſpel; as St. Stephen the Protomartyr.

Protonotary or Prothonotary, (i. e. chief Notary or Scribe) a principal Clerk, of whom there are three belonging to the Common Pleas, and one to the Queen's Bench: The former enter and inroll all Declarations, Pleadings, Recognizances, &c. made in that Court, and draw up all Judicial Writs with ſeveral other ſorts. The Protonotary of the Queen's Bench records all Civil Actions ſued there, as the Clerk of the Crown-Office does all Criminal Cauſes. There is alſo an Officer in the Court of Rome call'd the Protonotary.

Protopathia, a primary or original Diſeaſe not cauſed by another.

Protoplaſt, (i. e. firſt formed or made) a Title given to our firſt Father Adam.

Prototype, an original Type, the firſt Model or Pattern of a thing.

Prototypon, (in Grammar) a primitive, or original Word.

Protozeugma, a Grammatical Figure. See Zeugma.

To Protract, (Lat.) to prolong, or delay the time; to lay down a Draught of a thing, a Map, &c. upon Paper or Parchment.

† Protraction, a protracting or putting off, a deferring or delaying.

Protracting-Pin, a taper piece of Braſs with a Silver-Point, and a ſmall Head holding a fine Needle, to draw black Lines on Mathematical Paper, and to prick off any Degrees and Minutes from the Protractor.

Protractor, an Inſtrument made of Braſs or Silver; conſiſting of a thin Semi-circle divided into Degrees and a Parallelogram with Scales. Its Uſe is chiefly to lay down an Angle of any aſſigned Quantity of Degrees; or an Angle being protracted, to find the quantity of Degrees it contains: So that this Inſtrument is very ſerviceable to Surveyors or Engineers in plotting and making of Draughts.

To Protrude, a Word us'd by ſome Poets, for to thruſt or puſh forward.

Protuberance, a riſing or ſwelling out; alſo the Proceſs or Knob of a Bone.

Protuberant, bunching, or ſtanding out.

Proveditor, (Ital. i. e. Provider,) a great Military Officer in Italy, eſpecially at Venice; an Overſeer joyn'd to the General of an Army.

Provender, (Fr.) Food for Cattel.

Proverb, (Lat.) a common or old Saying.

Proverbial, belonging to a Proverb.

To Provide, to furniſh with, to prepare, to take care of, to ſee to, to look after.

Providence, Warineſs, Fore-ſight, more eſpecially the Supreme Intelligence of God, and his Government of all created Beings.

Provident, having good Fore-caſt, wary, thrifty, ſaving.

Providentia, Providence, Fore-caſt: In ſome old Records, Proviſion of Meat or Drink.

Providential, belonging to Divine Providence.

Province, (among the Romans) a conquer'd Country, without the Bounds of Italy, which was govern'd by a Deputy or Lieutenant, and had peculiar Laws and Privileges: It is now taken for a conſiderable part of a Kingdom or Country; alſo the Extent of an Archbiſhop's Juriſdiction: Alſo Office or Buſineſs; as It is his Province to do it.

The United Provinces of the Netherlands, the Seven Northern Provinces of the Low-Countries, that made a firm Alliance at Utrecht, A. D. 1579, by which they united themſelves, ſo as never to be divided; yet reſerv'd to each Province all its former Rights.

Rights, Laws and Cuſtoms. Theſe Provinces are Guelderland with Zutphen, Holland, Zealand, Utrecht, Friezland, Over-yſſel, and Groeningen.

Province-Roſe, a kind of Roſe [illegible]

Provincial, belonging to a Province, or to the Country of Provence in France; as A Provincial Synod, a Provincial or Country-word.

Provincial Synod. See Synod.

A Provincial, a Superiour or Chief Governour of all the Religious Houſes of the ſame Order in a Province.

To Provine, (in Husbandry) to propagate the Vine, to lay a Vine-ſtock in the Ground that others may come from it: Provining is alſo when a Twig of Oſier, or any other Tree is ſet in the Ground, that it may take Root and grow.

Proviſion, a providing, or taking care of; alſo any thing provided, neceſſaries for Life: In the Canon-Law, the Pope's providing of a Biſhop or other Perſon, a Spiritual Living before the Death of the Incumbent: Alſo the Wages due to a Factor. See Factorage.

Proviſional, done by way of, or belonging to a Proviſo.

Proviſo, (Ital.) a Clauſe or Condition made in any Deed or Writing, without the Performance of which the Deed becomes void: Alſo if a Plaintiff deſiſts from proſecuting an Action, the Defendant may take forth a Writ call'd Venire facias, which has theſe Words in it, Proviſo quod, &c. to the end that if the Plaintiff take out any Writ to that purpoſe, the Sheriff ſhall ſummon but one Jury upon both: In this caſe, it is call'd Going to Tryal by Proviſo. See Defeaſance.

Proviſor, (a Title of Dignity in ſome Colleges) the Patron or chief Governour; alſo one that ſues to the Court of Rome for a Proviſion: It is ſometimes alſo taken for one that has the care of providing things neceſſary; a Purveyor.

Proviſor Monaſterii, (in our ancient Hiſtories) the Treaſurer or Steward of a Religious Houſe, who had the keeping of Goods and Money, and the Overſight of all Accounts.

Proviſor Victualium, the Queen's Purveyor.

Provocation, a provoking or urging.

A Provocative or Provocative Medicine, a Medicine that ſerves to ſtrengthen Nature, in order to Venery.

To Provoke, to move or ſtir up, to anger or urge; in a Phyſical Senſe, to diſpoſe to, or cauſe.

Provoſt, (Fr.) a Preſident or Governour of a College or Collegiate Church: Alſo a Magiſtrate in France, whoſe Buſineſs is to take Cognizance of Enemies, Robbers, and others that commit Outrages; a kind of Sheriff.

The Great Provoſt, the ordinary Judge of the French King's Houſhold.

Provoſt-Marſhal, an Officer appointed to ſeize and ſecure Deſerters and all other Criminals, as alſo to ſet Rates on Proviſions in the Queen's Army: Alſo an Officer in the Royal Navy, who has charge of the Priſoners taken at Sea.

Provoſt of Merchants, the chief Magiſtrate or Mayor of the City of Paris in France.

Provoſt of the Mint, an Officer appointed to provide for all the Moneyers, and to overſee them.

Provoſtal, belonging to a Provoſt.

Prow, the fore-part of a Ship, i. e. that part of the Fore-caſtle which is aloft, and not in the Hold; properly that between the Chace and the Loof: Alſo an old Word for Honour.

Prowеſs, (Fr.) Valour, a valiant or mighty Act or Thing; an Exploit.

To Prowl, to go about pilfering or filching; to gape after Gain.

Proximity, (Lat.) Nearneſs or Neighbourhood, a high Degree of Kindred.

Proxy, a Deputy, one that acts or does Buſineſs in the Name of another: Alſo a Proctor's Warrant or Commiſſion from his Client, to manage a Cauſe on his behalf. Proxies are alſo yearly Payments made by Pariſh-Prieſts to their Biſhop or Arch-Deacon. See Procurations.

Prudence, Wiſdom, the firſt of the Cardinal Vertues, that teaches us to govern our Lives, Manners, Words and Actions, according to the Dictates of right Reaſon.

Prudent, wiſe, diſcreet, adviſed.

Pruna, (Lat.) a burning or live Coal; alſo a Carbuncle, Plague-ſore, or fiery Botch.

Prune, a Plum, a dried Plum.

To Prune, (in Husbandry) to trim Trees by cutting off the ſuperfluous Branches or Roots: Alſo a Term in Falconry: as the Hawk prunes, i. e. picks her ſelf; but a Hawk is properly ſaid to [illegible] her ſelf, when beginning at her Legs, and fetching Moiſture from her Tail, ſhe embalms her Feet, and ſtrikes the Feathers of her Wings thro' her Beak; and this fetching off the Oil is call'd the Note.

Prunel, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Sickle-wort.

Prunella, (Lat.) a kind of Fruit ſomewhat like a Prune; alſo the Herb Self-heal, good againſt a Quinſy, and other Diſeaſes of the Mouth and Jaws.

Prunella Cærulea, the Herb Bugle, ſo call'd from its blew Flowers.

Prunellæ Sal. See Sal Prunellæ.

Prunello, a ſort of Plum; alſo a kind of Silk.

Pruniferous Trees or Shrubs, (among Herbaliſts) are ſuch whoſe Fruit is pretty large and ſoft, with a Stone in the middle, as the Black-Thorn or Slow-Tree, the Bullace-Tree, the Black-Cherry-Tree, &c.

Prunum, (Lat.) a Prune or Damſon, a Plum, Sloe, or Bullace.

Prunus, the Plum-Tree; Prunus Sylveſtris, the Sloe or Bullace-Tree.

Prurient, itching.

Prurigo, an itching or tickling, an Itch.

Pruritus, the Itch, a Diſeaſe, a dry unevenneſs of the Skin.

Prutenick Tables, certain Aſtronomical Tables for finding out the Motions of the Heavenly Bodies, fram'd by Eraſmus Rheinoldus, Profeſſour of the Mathematicks at Wittenberg, firſt publiſh'd A. D. 1551. and dedicated to Albert Marqueſs of Brandenburgh, and Duke of Pruſſia.

To Pry into, to ſearch, enquire, or dive into.

Prytanis, (Gr.) the Preſident or Chief of the Council, a Magiſtrate in Greece, the ſame with Curio among the Romans, ſuch as the fifty honourable Perſons at Athens that made the Council of State.

Pſalm, (Gr.) a Hymn upon ſome Sacred Subject, a Divine Song.

Pſalmiſt, a Title given to King David by way of Eminence, upon account of his admirable Skill in compoſing Pſalms or Sacred Hymns.

Pſalmody, a ſinging and playing together on a Muſical Inſtrument; a ſinging of Pſalms.

Pſalmography, a writing of Pſalms.

Pſalter, a Collection of David's Pſalms, a Book of Pſalms.

Pſaltery, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument with ten Strings, ſomewhat like a Harp, but more pleaſant.

Pſammiſmus, a Bath of warm Sand, with which the Feet of Dropſical Perſons are dried.

Pſammodea, ſandy and gravelly Matter in the Urine.

Psammodytes, a ſort of Fiſh ſo call'd becauſe it runs under, and hides it ſelf in the Sand.

Psammos, Sand or Gravel; alſo Gravel that breeds in Mens Bodies, and is voided in Fits of the Stone.

Psecades, (among the Ancients) certain Chamber-maids that us'd to dreſs their Miſtreſſes Heads with ſome liquid Perfumes, which they let fall Drop by Drop upon them.

Psecas, a Drop, or miſling Dew, a drizzling Rain.

Pseudacorus, Yellow Flower-de-luce, a Plant.

Pseudanchusa, wild Bugloſs, or Sheeps-tongue.

Pseudisodomum, (in Architect.) a kind of Building, the Walls of which are made of Stone of an unequal Thickneſs.

Pseudobunion, Herb St. Barbara, or Winter-creſſes.

Pseudodictamnum, Baſtard Dittany, an Herb.

Pseudodipteron, (in Architect.) a falſe Dipteron, a kind of Temple among the Ancients, which was ſurrounded but with one Row of Pillars; yet the Row from the Wall was ſet at the Diſtance of two Rows.

Pseudography, falſe Writing, a counterfeit Hand.

Pseudology, a falſe ſpeaking or lying.

Pseudomartyr, a counterfeit Martyr, a falſe Witneſs.

Pseudomelanthium, Cockle or Corn-roſe, a Weed.

Pseudomenos, (in Logick) a ſophiſtical Argument, a Fallacy in Reaſoning, a captious Concluſion.

Pseudomoly, baſtard Moly, or our Lady's Cuſhion, an Herb.

Pseudonarcissus, the yellow Daffodils, or Crows-bill, a Flower.

Pseudonardus, baſtard Spike, an Herb.

Pseudonymous, that has a counterfeit Name.

Pseudoperipteron, an ancient Form of a Temple, where the Side-Pillars were ſet in the Wall on the in-ſide, which was ſufficiently enlarged to encloſe the Space uſually allow'd for the Portico's of the Peripteron; which See.

Pseudoporticus, a falſe Porch.

Pseudopropheta, a falſe Prophet.

Pseudosphex, a kind of Waſp that flies alone.

Pseudostella, (in Aſtron.) any ſort of Comet or Meteor, newly appearing in the Heavens like a Star.

Pseudothyrum, a Poſtern-Gate, a Back-door.

Psilothron, the Herb Briony or white Vine, ſo call'd becauſe its Juice is us'd by Curriers, to fetch the Hair off their Hides: Alſo an Ointment to take away Hair from any part of the Body.

Psimmythium, Ceruſs or white Lead.

Psitta, the Fiſh call'd a Plaice.

Psittacus, the Parret, a Bird.

Psoas Magnus or Lumbalis, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Loins, which proceeds from all the Vertebra's or Turning-Joynts of the Loins, and their tranſverſe Proceſſes within the lower Belly. Afterwards being joyn'd with the Fibres of the Iliacus Internus, it has its Inſertion with them in the lower Part of the leſſer Trochanter of the Thigh-bone.

Psoas Parvus, a Muſcle of the Thigh which takes its Riſe from the upper part of the firſt Vertebra of the Loins, immediately below the Cavity of the Midriff, and is inſerted with a ſtrong Tendon to that part of the Share-bone which is joyn'd to the Os Ilium.

Psora, Scabbineſs, Mangineſs, a wild Scab that makes the Skin ſcaly.

Psoriasis, a dry itching Scab, often accompany'd with an Exulceration.

Psorica, Medicines againſt the Scab.

Psorophthalmy, a Scab and Inflammation of the Eyes, with itching.

Psychotrophon, the Herb Betony.

Psychrica, cooling Medicines againſt the Scab.

Psydracion, a little Ulcer in the Skin of the Head; alſo a ſwelling in the Skin like a Bliſter, with moiſt Matter in it.

Psyllium, the Herb Flea-bane or Flea-wort.

Ptarmica, (Gr.) Medicines that cauſe ſneezing; alſo the Herb Sneez-wort.

Pteris, Fern or Brake; the Herb Oſmund.

Pterna, the ſecond Bone of the Foot. See Calx.

Pteron, (Gr.) the Wing of a Bird: In Architecture, two Walls raiſ'd up in Height like a Wing, the Wing or Iſle of a Building.

Pterygion, a little Wing, the Fin of a Fiſh; alſo the Pinnacle or Battlement of a Temple, &c. In Anatomy, the Wing or round riſing of the Noſe or Eye; alſo the Proceſs or Knob of the Sphenoides, or Wedge-like Bone, which reſembles a Wing: Alſo a Skin otherwiſe call'd Unguis and Ungula, that grows from the inner Corner of the Eye, to the Apple, and often darkens the Sight.

Pterygoides, the Wing-like Proceſſes of the Os Sphenoides, or Bone that is ſhap'd like a Wedge.

Pterygoideus Externus & Internus, two Muſcles that ariſe from the Proceſſus Pterygoides or Aliformis of the ſame Sphenoides.

Pterygopalatinus or Sphenopterygopalatinus, a Muſcle of the Gargareon, or Cover of the Wind-pipe, which ariſes from the Proceſs of the Wedge-like Bone, paſſes over the Proceſſus Pterygoides, and is let into the fore-part of the Gargareon.

Pterygopharyngeus, a Muſcle, that takes Riſe from the Pterygoidal Proceſſes of the Wedge-like Bone, as alſo from the Root of the Tongue, and the Ends of the Os Hyoides; from whence its Fibres run after the manner of a Semi-circle, and meet in a middle Line, on the upper and back part of the Glandulous Membrane of the Jaws.

Pterygostaphylinus Externus, a Muſcle which moves that piece of Fleſh in the Roof of the Mouth which is call'd Uvula: It ſprings from a ſmall Knob on the under ſide of the Wedge-like Bone, and is inſerted into the hinder part of the Uvula.

Pterygostaphylinus Internus, a Muſcle that ariſes from a ſmall Knob of the ſame Wedge-like Bone, and marches over part of the Proceſſus Pterygoideus; from whence turning back, it has its Inſertion into the fore-part of the Uvula.

Ptisana, Ptiſan, a kind of Cooling Drink made of Pearl-Barley with Liquoriſh, Raiſins, &c. boil'd in Water: It is proper for thoſe that are in a Feaver, and much us'd by the French.

Ptyelismus, a too great Spitting.

Ptyalon, Spittle, or that Matter which is brought up from the Lungs by Coughing.

Ptyas, a kind of Adder, or Aſp of a green Colour.

Ptylosis, a Fault in the Eye-lids, when the Brims grow thick, and the Hairs of the Eye-brows fall off.

Pubes, (Lat.) the Privy Parts, or the Hair that grows thereabouts.

Pubis Os, the Share-bone. See Pectinis Os and Coxæ Os.

Publican, a Farmer of Publick Rents or Revenues.

Publication, a publiſhing or giving open Notice of a thing.

Publick, common, belonging to the People; maniſeſt, known by every Body.

The Publick, the generality of People or of Fellow-Citizens.

Publick Notary, See Notary Publick.

To Publiſh, to make publick, to ſpread abroad.

Pucelage, (Fr.) Virginity, Maiden-head.

Puchia, (in old Latin Records) a Pouch, a Bag or Purſe.

To Pucker, to ſhrink up or lie uneven, as ſome Clothes are apt to do.

Pucker, (Country-word) a Neſt of Caterpillars or ſuch like Vermin.

Pudder, Noiſe, Buſtle: as To keep a Pudder, about Trifles.

Pudding, a well known Diſh. In Sea-Affairs, Puddings are certain Ropes nailed to the Arms of the Main and Fore-yards near the ends, to keep the Ropes call'd Robbins, from galling upon the Yards, when the Top-ſails are haled home.

Pudding of the Anchor, the binding of Ropes about the Anchor-Rings, to preſerve the Clinch of the Cable from galling with the Iron.

Pudding-graſs, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Penny-royal.

Puddock or Purrock, a Country-word for a ſmall Incloſure.

Pudenda, the Privy Parts, alſo the Name of an Artery of the Penis.

Pudicæ Plantæ, the ſame as Senſitive Plants; which See.

† Pudicity, Chaſtity, Modeſty.

Puerile, belonging to a Child, Childiſh, Boyiſh.

Puerility, Boyiſhneſs, Childiſhneſs, a Childiſh Trick.

Puerpera, a Woman in Child-bed.

Puffin, a ſort of Coot or Sea-gull, a Bird ſuppos'd to be ſo call'd from its round Belly, as it were ſwelling and puffing out.

Puggered, as the red puggered Attire of the Turkey.

Pugil, (Lat.) a Fighter at Fiſti-cuffs, a Champion. Among Apothecaries, it is taken for a ſmall Handful of Herbs, Drugs, &c. or as others will have it, as much as may be taken up at once with the Thumb and two Fingers.

Pugnax Avis, the Ruff or Reeve, a ſort of fighting Bird.

Puiſne or Puny, (Fr. i. e. born after) a Law-word for younger. See Mulier.

Puiſſance, Power, Force, Might.

Puiſſant, powerful, mighty.

Puke, a ſort of Colour.

To Puke, to be ready to vomit or ſpue.

Pulegium, (Lat.) an Herb commonly call'd Penny-Royal, Puliol-royal, and Pudding-graſs, which is us'd in Phyſick to provoke the Courſes and help Delivery; it is alſo good for the Stone, Jaundice, Dropſy, &c.

Pulex, a Flea; alſo a little Inſect that feeds on Pot-herbs.

Pulicaris Febris or Petechialis, a malignant Feaver ſo nam'd, becauſe it makes the Skin look as if it were flea-bitten.

Pulicaria, the Herb Flea-wort, or Flea-bane.

Puling, ſickly, weakly, crazy.

Puliol or Puliol-Mountain, a ſort of Herb; Puliol-Royal, the ſame as Penny-Royal.

Pulla, (in old Latin Records) a Pool or Lake of ſtanding Waters.

Pullet, a young Hen: In Sea-Affairs, a cloſe Room within the Hold of a Ship, in which laying ſome Pigs of Lead or other weighty things, ſhe may be ſufficiently ballaſted, with the Loſs of little of the Hold, and more Room left for the Stowage of Goods.

Pulley, a Wheel that is channell'd quite round, and faſten'd to a piece of Wood or Iron, which by means of a Rope running in the Channel, heaves up great Weights. See Trochlea.

Pulleys for Ships. See Blocks.

Pulley-Piece, an Armour for the Knee; alſo that part of a Boot which covers the Knee.

† To Pullulate, (Lat.) to ſpring or come up young, to bud forth; to encreaſe, to multiply.

Pulmonaria, an Inflammation in the Lungs; alſo the Herb Lung-wort, that cures Diſeaſes of the Lungs.

Pulmonaria Arteria, or Vena Arterioſa, (in Anat.) a Veſſel in the Breaſt, that ſprings immediately out of the right Ventricle of the Heart, from whence it conveys the Bloud to the Lungs, having a double Coat like that of the Arteries.

Pulmonaria Vena or Arteria Venoſa, a Veſſel which after having accompany'd the Wind-pipe and Pulmonary Artery in all their Branchings in the Lungs, and by its ſmall Twigs receiv'd the Bloud out of that Artery, it diſcharges itſelf thro' the left Auricle of the Heart into the Ventricle of the ſame Side.

Pulmonarius, diſeaſed in the Lungs.

Pulmonary, belonging to the Lungs; as The Pulmonary Veſſels, i. e. thoſe that carry the Bloud from the Heart to the Lungs, and back again; being two in Number, viz. the Pulmonary Artery, and the Pulmonary Vein. See Pulmonaria Arteria & Vena.

Pulmones, (Lat.) the Lungs, the Inſtruments of Breathing in all Living-Creatures.

Pulp, that part of Fruit which is good to eat, lying between the Rind and the Stone or Kernel. In the Art of Phyſick, the ſoft part of Fruits, Roots, or other Bodies which is drawn out by ſoaking or boiling; as The Pulp of Tamarinds, Caſſia, Dates, &c.

Pulpitum, (among the Romans) a Place raiſed, on which the Actors acted their Plays, and where Victory was repreſented; being that part which we now call the Stage: Alſo a Pulpit or Desk to preach or make an Oration in.

Pulſatilla, a Plant call'd Paſque-Flower, the diſtilled Water of which is excellent for cleanſing and curing Wounds.

Pulſation, a knocking, beating, or ſtriking, particularly the beating of the Pulſe.

Pulſe, a general Name for all thoſe ſorts of Grain that are contain'd in Cods, Husks, or Shells; as Beans, Peas, Vetches, &c.

Pulſe, (Lat.) the beating of the Arteries, according to the different flowing of the Animal Spirits, by which Phyſicians make a Diſcovery of the Health or Indiſpoſition of the Body. Among Mathematical Naturaliſts, it is taken for that Stroke, with which any Medium is affected by the Motion of Light, Sound, &c. thro' it.

Pulſion, the driving or forcing of any thing forward.

Pulverization, a pulverizing, or reducing to Powder.

To Pulverize, to reduce any Mixt Body into a fine Powder, by pounding it in a Mortar, or by means of ſome other Artifice.

† Pulverulent, full of Duſt or Powder, duſty.

Pulvillus, (Lat.) a little Pillow, or Cuſhion; alſo a Bolſter us'd by Surgeons in dreſſing Wounds.

Pulvis, Duſt, Powder, the Oar or Sand of Metal. Among Apothecaries, Powder made of ſeveral ſorts of Drugs; as Powder of Crabs-Claws, of Sena, &c.

Pulvis de Tribus. See Cornochine Powder.

Pulvis Fulminans, (i.e. thundering Powder) a Chymical Mixture of three Parts of common Salt-Peter, two Parts of Salt of Tartar, and one of Brimſtone all finely powder'd: A Dram of this Compoſition, being put on a Shovel over a gentle Fire till it melts and changes Colour by degrees, will ſoon go off with a terrible Noiſe like that of a Musket, yet without Danger to any Perſon in the Room, becauſe its Force is chiefly downward.

Pumex, the Pumice-Stone, a ſpungy, light, crumbling Stone caſt forth out of the Burning-Mountains, and ſerviceable in Graving, Poliſhing, and for other Uſes.

Pump, a well known Engine us'd both on Land and at Sea.

Bare-Pump, Burr-Pump and Chain-Pump. See Bare, Burr and Chain.

The Pump ſucks, a Sea-Phraſe us'd, when the Water being out, it draws up nothing but Froth and Wind.

Pump-Brake, the Handle, which the Sea-men pump by.

Pump-Can, a great Can or Bucket, with which Water is pour'd into the Pump, to fetch and make it work, when they are minded to uſe it.

Pump-Dale, the Trough wherein the Water that is pumped out, runs along the Ship-ſides, and ſo out of the Scupper-holes.

Pumpkin. See Pompion.

Pumps, a ſort of Shooes without Heels us'd by Rope-dancers, Running Foot-men, &c.

To Pun, to quibble or play with Words.

Punch, a ſort of ſtrong Drink made of Brandy, Water, Lime-juice, Sugar, Spice, &c.

Punch or Punchinello, a Fellow of a ſhort and thick Size, a Fool in a Play, a Stage-Puppet.

Punch or Punching-Iron, a Shoemaker's Tool to make Holes with.

To Punch, to bore with a Punch; alſo to thruſt one with the Fiſt.

Punchion, a kind of Chizzel, us'd by Carpenters, Joyners, &c.

Punchion of Wine, the Quantity of 84 Gallons: Of Prunes from 10 to 12 Hundred Weight.

Punctilio, (Ital.) a little Point, a Trifle, a Thing of no Value or Moment. Punctilio of Honour, a nice Point of Honour.

Punctual, that does a thing as it were to a Point given.

Punctuality, Exactneſs; as A Man of great Punctuality.

Punctuation, the Method of Pointing, and making Stops in Writing.

Punctum, (Lat.) a Point or Prick.

Punctum or Foramen Lachrymale, (in Anat.) an Hole in the Noſe, by which the Matter or Liquor of the Tears paſſes to the Noſtrils.

Punctum Saliens, a little Speck or Cloud that appears in a Brood-egg, and ſeems to leap before the Chicken begins to be hatch'd.

Puncture, (in Surgery) a Prick or Pricking; as The Puncture of an Artery; alſo a Fracture of the Scull-Bone, by a pricking or thruſting Inſtrument.

Pundbrech, (Sax. Law-word) an unlawful taking of Cattel out of the Pound.

Pundfold, a Pound, a Pin-fold.

Pundle, as She is a very Pundle, i.e. an ill-ſhap'd and ill-dreſs'd Creature.

Punese, (Fr.) the Bug, an Inſect.

Pungency, the Quality of that which is pungent.

Pungent, pricking, ſharp; as A pungent Sauce.

Punger, a kind of Sea-fiſh.

Pungitius, (Lat.) the Prickling or Banſtickle, a River-fiſh.

Punick Faith, Perjury, Falſhood, Treachery, from the Pœni or Carthagenians, who were counted a perfidious ſort of People.

Punicum Malum, the Pomegranate, a kind of Fruit.

To Puniſh, to inflict Bodily Pain upon one that has committed an Offence or Crime; to chaſtiſe, to correct.

Puniſhable, fit to be puniſhed.

Puniſhment, Correction, Chaſtiſement.

Punk, an ugly ill-favour'd Strumpet.

Punter, a Term us'd at the Game of Cards call'd Baſſet.

Puny, little, ſmall, peaking, weakly; alſo younger; as A Puny Judge. See Puiſne.

Pupil, an Orphan or Fatherleſs Child, one under Age or Ward; alſo a Tutour's Scholar at the Univerſity.

Pupilla or Pupula, (in Anat.) the Ball or Apple of the Eye; the opening of the Coat call'd Uvea or Choroides, which is capable of being ſpread out, or drawn together like a Muſcle, according to the different degree of Light the Eye is expoſed to.

Puppis, the Stern, Poop, or hinder Part of a Ship, ſometimes alſo taken for the whole Ship.

Puppis Vena, (in Anat.) that Vein which ſpreads itſelf about the hinder part of the Head.

Pura Eleemoſyna, (i.e. pure Alms) a Tenure o Manner of holding Lands in Scotland peculiar t Church-men, who pay nothing upon that Account. See Frank Almoine.

Purchace, Bargain, Booty.

To Purchaſe, to obtain or get: In a Law-ſenſe to buy Lands or Tenements with Money, or by an other Agreement, and it is oppos'd to the getting o them by Deſcent or Right of Inheritance; Amon Sea-men, it is taken in the ſame Senſe with to draw thus they ſay, The Capſtan purchaſes apace, i.e. draw in the Cable a-pace; and when any thing canno be drawn or hal'd in with the Tackle, the uſu Phraſe is, The Tackle will not purchaſe.

Pure, (Lat.) ſimple, uncompounded; chaſ free from Corruption, Spot or Stain; clean, nea exact; alſo meer or downright; as Pure Malice, pure Knave, &c.

Purfle, (Fr.) a ſort of Trimming formerly u for Womens Gowns, which was made of Tinſel o Gold-Thread, and otherwiſe call'd Bodkin-work: A ſo a kind of Ornament about the Edges of Muſi Inſtruments, particularly of Viols, Violins, &c.

Purflew, (in Heraldry) a Term made uſe of t expreſs Ermines, Peans, or any other Furrs, wh they make up a Border round a Coat of Arm Thus 'tis ſaid, He bears Gules a Bordure purflew Ver whereby it is meant that the Furr of the Border Verry.

Purgantia, (Lat.) purging Medicines.

Purgation, (a Chymical Term) a ſcowring cleanſing: In Phyſick, a purging by Stool: In Law-ſenſe, the clearing one's ſelf of a Crime, wh is either Canonical or Vulgar.

Canonical Purgation, is when the Party ſuſpe ed makes Oath in the Spiritual Court, That he is cle of the Offence laid to his Charge, and brings ſeve honeſt Neighbours to ſwear upon their Conſcienc and Belief, that he ſwears truly.

Vulgar Purgation, was either by Combat, Tryal by Fire or Water. See Combat and Ordeal.

Purgative, that is of a purging Quality, ap purge.

Purgatory, a certain Place, where Roman C tholicks believe the Souls of the Faithful are to puri purify'd by Fire from thoſe Blemiſhes they carry with them out of this World, before they are admitted to the State of perfect Bliſs.

To Purge, to cleanſe the Body from ill Humours, by proper Medicines; alſo to clear one's ſelf of a Crime or Imputation.

Purification, the Act of purifying or cleanſing.

Purification of a Metal, (among Chymiſts) is taken for the purging or cleanſing it from the Mixture of other Metals, with their Droſs and Impurities.

The Purification of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, a Feſtival commonly call'd Candlemas-day; which See.

Purificatory, a Linnen-cloth, with which the Prieſt in the Church of Rome wipes the Chalice and his Fingers after the Ablution.

To Purify, to make pure or clean. To purify Gold or Silver, is to ſeparate the other Metals that are mixed with it.

Purim, a Feaſt among the Jews, appointed by Mordecai, in memory of their Deliverance from Haman's Conſpiracy, and kept March 14. It was ſo call'd from the Perſian Word Pur, i. e. Lot, or a Feaſt of Lots.

Puriſt, (Lat.) one that affects to ſpeak or write neatly and properly.

Puritans, a Name given to thoſe that diſſent from the Church of England, upon account of their pretending to a Purity of Doctrine and Worſhip beyond other Proteſtants.

Puritanical, belonging to the Puritans.

Purity or Pureneſs, the being pure, unmixed or clear; Cleanneſs, Neatneſs or Exactneſs of Style, Uprightneſs, Honeſty, Innocence.

Purl, a kind of edging for Bone-lace; alſo a ſort of Drink made of Ale mingled with the Juice of Wormwood.

To Purl, to run with a murmuring Noiſe, as a Stream does.

Purlock. See Puttock.

To Purloin, (Fr.) to lurch, to get privily away, to pilfer or filch.

Purlue or Purlieu, (q. d. pure Ground) all that Ground near any Foreſt which being anciently made Foreſt, is afterwards by Perambulations ſeparated again from the ſame, and freed from that Servitude which was formerly laid upon it.

Purlue-Man, one that has Land within the Purlue, and forty Shillings a Year Free-hold; upon which account he is allow'd to hunt or courſe in his own Purlue, with certain Limitations.

Purpars, (in old Latin Deeds) Pour-party, that Part or Share of an Eſtate, which being firſt held in common by Copartners, is by Partition allotted to any of them.

Purport, Meaning, the Tenour or Subſtance of a Writing.

Purpoſe, Deſign, Reſolution, Intent; ſubject Matter of Diſcourſe.

Purpreſture. See Pourpreſture.

Purpriſum, (in old Latin Records) a Cloſe or Incloſure; alſo the whole Compaſs of a Mannour.

Purpura, (Lat.) the Purple, a Shell-fiſh; the Die anciently taken out of that Fiſh; a Purple Garment or Scarlet-Robe; alſo the Dignity of a Magiſtrate, or great Officer.

Purpura Febris, the Purples or ſpotted Feaver.

Purpure or Purple, (in Heraldry) a Colour conſiſting of much Red and a little Black: In the Coats of Noblemen it is call'd Amethyſt, and Mercury in thoſe of Soveraign Princes.

Purr, a Bird ſo call'd; alſo a ſort of Drink. See Ciderkin.

Purrel, (in old Statutes) a Liſt ordain'd to be made at the end of Kerſey-Cloaths, to prevent Deceit in leſſening their Length.

Purrock. See Puddock.

Purſe, a little Bag to put Money in; Money or Eſtate; alſo a Gratification of 500 Crowns given by the Grand Seignior.

Purſer, an Officer in a Ship, whoſe Buſineſs is to receive Proviſions from the Victualler, and to ſee that they be well laid up and ſtowed: He is alſo to keep a Liſt of the Names of all the Ship's Company, and to ſet down exactly the time of every Man's Admittance into Pay; to the end that the Pay-Maſter or Treaſurer of the Navy may iſſue out his Disburſements, and Pay by the Purſer's Book.

Purſevant or Pourſuivant, (Fr. i. e. Follower) a Meſſenger attending the King in his Wars, alſo in the King's or Queen's Exchequer, at the Council-Table, in the Court or Chamber, to be ſent upon any ſpecial Occaſion or Meſſage, particularly for the apprehending of a Perſon accuſed or ſuſpected of any Offence.

Purſevants at Arms, the Marſhals that attend the Heralds, and uſually ſucceed them when they die or are preferred, being four in Number; viz. Blew-Mantle, Rouge-Croſs, Rouge-Dragon, and Portcullis.

Purſlain or Purſlane, an Herb much us'd in Sallets, whoſe Leaves and Seeds are of a very cooling Quality.

Purſuance, what follows, Conſequence; as In purſuance of the Orders he receiv'd from Court.

Purſuant, following, according or agreeable to.

To Purſue, to follow or run after, to go on with, or carry on.

Purſuit, running after, Diligence or Trouble to get any thing.

Purſy, over-fat, ſhort-winded, broken-winded.

To Purvey, to provide; as He purvey'd all Neceſſaries.

Purveyance, the providing of Corn, Fuel, Victuals, &c. for the Queen's Houſe.

Purveyor, an Officer of the King, Queen, or other great Perſonage, appointed for that purpoſe.

Purview, (Fr.) a Law-word, for the Body of an Act of Parliament, beginning with Be it enacted: Thus a Statute is ſaid To ſtand upon a Preamble and upon a Purview.

Purulent, (Lat.) full of corrupt Matter, mattery.

Pus, Corruption, or thick Matter white as Milk, that iſſues out of a Wound or Sore.

Puſillanimity, Faint-heartedneſs, want of Courage or Generoſity.

Puſillanimous, faint-hearted, cowardly.

Puſtes, (Gr.) the ſwift Whale, a Fiſh ſo call'd, becauſe it as it were cuts the Water; being often found in the Weſtern Ocean.

Puſtule, (Lat.) a Puſh, Bliſter, or little Wheal on the Skin.

To Put over, (in Falconry) a Hawk is ſaid To put over; when ſhe removes the Meat from her Gorge into her Bowels, by traverſing with her Body, and chiefly with her Neck.

Putage, (Fr.) a Law-word for Fornication on the Woman's Side; Whoredom.

Putaniſm, a Whore's Trade or way of Living; Harlotry, Whoring, Wenching.

Putative, (Lat.) reputed, ſuppoſed, commonly taken for; in oppoſition to evident, or unqueſtionable.

Putchamines, a kind of Damſins; a Fruit peculiar to Virginia, and Mary-land.

Putid, (Lat.) ſtinking, naſty, ſtale and rank; affected, unpleaſant.

Putlock or Putlog, a Pole or Stake of Wood, to be put in a Scaffolding-hole.

Putrefacientia, See Septica.

Putrefaction, (Lat.) Corruption, Rottenneſs: Among Naturaliſts, it is defin'd to be a ſlow kind of Corruption in Bodies wrought generally by the Moiſture of the Air, or ſome other ſurrounding fluid Matter; which quite changes the Texture, and ſometimes the Figure of the Mixt Body from what it was before.

Chymical Putrefaction, is the diſſolving of a Concrete or ſolid Body, with a moiſt Heat, which corrupts the very Subſtance of it, and pierces thro' its moſt inward Parts.

Putrid, corrupt, rotten; as A putrid Feaver. See Synochus.

To Putrify, to corrupt or rot, to rot or grow rotten.

Puttock, a kind of long-winged Kite, a Bird of Prey.

Puttocks or Puttock-Shrowds, (in Sea-affairs) are ſmall Shrowds or Ropes, reaching from the Shrowds of the Fore-maſt, Main-Maſt, and Miſſen-Maſt, for the Men to get into the Tops or Caps of the Maſts; and if there be any Top-gallant-maſts, there are likewiſe Puttocks, to go from the Top-Maſt Shrowds into thoſe.

Putty, Powder of calcin'd Tin us'd by ſeveral Artificers; alſo a kind of Compoſition that Painters make uſe of to ſtop up Holes in Wood, &c.

Putura, (in old Latin Records) a Cuſtom claimed by Keepers of Foreſts, and ſometimes by Bailiffs of Hundreds, to take Man's-meat, Horſe-meat, and Dog's-meat of the Tenants gratis within the Bounds of the Foreſt, or Liberty of the Hundred.

A Puzzle, a dirty Slut, alſo a Difficulty or Trouble.

To Puzzle, to confound, to put to a Non-plus, to gravel.

Pycar or Pyker, a kind of Ship mention'd in Stat. 2. An. 31. E. 3.

Pyce, an Eaſt-India Coin, worth ſomewhat above a Farthing Engliſh Money. See Rupee.

Pycnoſtylos or Pycnoſtyle, (Gr. in Architect.) a ſort of Building among the Ancients, where the Pillars ſtood ſo cloſe one to another, that the Intercolumniation or Diſtance between them, had but a Diameter and a half of the Pillar.

Pycnotica, (in the Art of Phyſick) Medicines that are of a thickening Quality.

Pyebald, a Horſe of two Colours, as ſome Parts White, and the others Bay, Iron-gray, or Dun-colour.

Pyelos, a hollow Veſſel to waſh in, a Bathing-tub. In Anatomy, a Cavity or hollow Place in the Brain, thro' which the Phlegm paſſes to the Palate and Noſtrils.

Pygargus, a wild Beaſt like a Fallow Deer, ſo call'd becauſe its back Parts are white; alſo the Puttock or the Ring-tail, a Bird of Prey.

Pygon, a Greek Meaſure of 20 Fingers Breadth.

Pygme, the Length from the Elbow to the end of the Hand, when the Fiſt is cloſed.

Pygmæi, certain fabulous People that took Name from their being not above a Cubit high, and ſaid to be at continual War with the Cranes: 'Tis alſo reported that they do not live above eight Years, and that their Women are fit for Marriage at five. Whence any ſhort or inconſiderable Fellow is commonly call'd a Pygmy.

Pylorus, the Keeper of a Gate, a Porter. In Anatomy, the lower Orifice or Mouth of the Stomach, by which the Meat is let into the Entrails; the Maw-gut: It is alſo call'd Janitor in Latin.

Pyon or Pyus, putrify'd Bloud chang'd into white Matter.

Pyoſis, a gathering together of corrupt Matter, in any part of the Body.

Pyracantha, a prickly Herb call'd Ever-green, whoſe Berries ſhine like Fire.

Pyramid, (in Geom.) a ſolid Figure, whoſe Sides are bounded by plain Triangles that end in one Point at the top; but the Baſe may be a Triangle, a Square, a Polygon, &c.

Optick Pyramid, the Figure which the Rays of Light drawn out in Length from any Object thro' a tranſparent Medium, make to the Eye, where they end in a Point.

Pyramids of Egypt, certain vaſt Piles of Building, anciently counted one of the ſeven Wonders of the World, which were raiſed up Spire-wiſe, with a ſharp Point at top, and ſerv'd as Monuments for the Kings of that Country, who were uſually bury'd under them.

Pyramidal or Pyramidical, belonging to, or ſhap'd like a Pyramid.

Pyramidales Muſculi, (in Anat.) certain Muſcles of the Noſtrils; as alſo of the lower Belly, which laſt lie upon the loweſt Tendons of the Recti; ſo that proceeding from the Os Pubis, or Share-bone, the higher they climb, the narrower they grow, and end about the Navel in the White Seam. Theſe Muſcles take Name from their Figure, reſembling that of a Pyramid.

Pyramidalia or Pyramidal Veſſels, certain Veſſels that prepare the Semen.

Pyramidalis or Succenturiatus Muſculus, one of the Muſcles of the lower Belly which lies on the Rectus, helping with the reſt to preſs the Belly, and to thruſt out what is contain'd in it.

Pyramidoid. See Parabolick Pyramidoid.

Pyrauſta or Pyragonus, the Fire-fly or Salamander-fly; an Inſect.

Pyrethrum, Bartram, wild or baſtard Pellitory, an Herb the Root of which is very biting and hot.

Pyreticks, Medicines that cure Feavers.

Pyretologia, a Diſcourſe, Deſcription or Treatiſe about Feavers.

Pyriaſis, a precious Stone of a black Colour, which with rubbing burns the Fingers.

Pyriformis or Iliacus Externus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Thigh, which takes the firſt Name from its Figure reſembling a Pear, and the ſecond from its Situation: It ariſes from the lower and inner part of the Os Sacrum, and is inſerted by a round Tendon to the upper part of the Root of the great Trochanter: This Muſcle moves the Thigh-bone ſomewhat upwards, and turns it outwards.

Pyrimalum, the Pear-apple, or Pear-main; a ſort of Fruit.

Pyrites, a Marchaſite or Fire-ſtone, of which there are ſeveral ſorts.

Pyritis, a precious Stone which burns the Fingers, if one holds it hard.

Pyroboli, certain Fire-works us'd by the Ancients. See Malleoli.

Pyrola, the Herb Winter-green of great Uſe in Wounds, either taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd.

Pyromancy, a Divination or Soothſaying by means of Fire.

Pyropus, a Carbuncle of a fiery Redneſs, a Ruby.

Pyros, the Grain call'd Wheat.

Pyroſis, a burning Redneſs of the Face.

Pyrotechnick, belonging to Pyrotechny.

Pyrotechny, the Art of making Fire-works: Alſo the Chymical Art, which makes uſe of Fire as the chief Inſtrument in the ſeparating and gathering together of the purer Subſtances of Mixt Bodies.

Pyrotic

Pyrotica or Urentia, burning Medicines, ſuch as cauſe Redneſs or Bliſters in the Skin, or that cloſe up and bring Wounds to a Cruſt or Scab.

Pyrrhicha, a kind of Dance invented by Pyrrhus the Son of Achilles, which was perform'd by Soldiers in Arms, with which they ſtruck certain Shields by the Cadency and Sound of Muſical Inſtruments.

Pyrrhichius, a Foot in Greek or Latin Verſe, which conſiſts of two ſhort Syllables, as Bonus.

Pyrrhocorax, the Corniſh Cough, a Bird having a red Bill.

Pyrrhoniſm, a doubting the Truth of every thing, a being certain of nothing; which was the Profeſſion of Pyrrho a noted Greek Philoſopher, the firſt Founder of the Scepticks, and of his Followers call'd Pyrrhonei.

Pyrrhopœcilos, a kind of Marble with red Spots, whereof the Egyptians made Obeliſks, which they dedicated to the Sun.

Pyrrhula, the Woop, or Bul-finch; a Bird.

Pyrum, the Pear, a known Fruit.

Pythagorean or Pythagorical, belonging to Pythagoras a famous Philoſopher, who was the chief that held Tranſmigration, or the paſſing of Souls out of one Body into another.

Pythagorean Syſtem, (in Aſtron.) is the ſame as the Copernican, and the moſt ancient of any; as being maintain'd by Pythagoras and his Followers: In this Syſtem, the Sun is ſuppos'd to be at reſt in the Center of the World, and the Earth to be carry'd round the Sun by a yearly Courſe, in a Track or Path between Venus and Mars.

Pythia, the Pythian Games in Greece, celebrated in Honour of Apollo, becauſe he kill'd a monſtrous Serpent call'd Python.

Python, a venomous Serpent; alſo a familiar or propheſying Spirit, or one poſſeſſed with it.

Pythoneſs, a Woman ſo poſſeſs'd; a Propheteſs; a Sorcereſs, or Witch.

Pyulcus, a Surgeon's Inſtrument with which corrupt Matter is diſcharged.

Pyx, the Veſſel wherein the Hoſt is kept in Popiſh Churches.

Pyxacantha, the Box-thorn, or Barberry-tree.

Pyxis, a Box, properly made of Box-tree Wood; alſo an Apothecary's Galley-pot: In Anatomy, the hollow part of the Hip-bone, otherwiſe call'd Acetabulum.

Pyxis Nautica, the Mariners Compaſs.

Q U

Quab, a kind of Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Water-weeſel, or Eel-powt.

Quack or Quack-Salver, (Dutch) a Mountebank, a bold and ignorant Pretender to the Art of Phyſick.

Quadraceſſis, (Lat.) a Roman Coin containing 10 Aſſes, or 2*s.* 6*d.* Sterling.

Quadrageſima, the fortieth Part.

Quadrageſima-Sunday, the firſt Sunday in Lent, ſo call'd from its being about the fortieth Day before Eaſter.

Quadrageſimal, belonging to Lent.

Quadran or Cadran, (Fr.) the Dial-plate of a Watch or Clock; a Sun-dial: In Poetry, a Stanza or Staff containing four Verſes.

Quadrangle, (in Geom.) a Figure that conſiſts of four Angles, and as many Sides; as a Square, Long Square, Rhombus, &c.

Quadrangular, that belongs to, or is in Form of a Quadrangle.

Quadrans, (among the Romans) three Ounces in Weight; the quarter Part of a Pound, or of any whole Thing diviſible into twelve Parts.

Quadrant, (in Mathem.) is an Arch that contains the fourth part of a Circle or 90 Degrees: The Space comprehended between a Quadrantal Arch and two Semi-diameters perpendicular one to another in the Center of the Circle, is alſo often call'd a Quadrant; from the Figure of which a certain Inſtrument takes its Name, which is of great Uſe in practical Geometry, Aſtronomy, Navigation, &c. Alſo an Inſtrument us'd by Gunners, for levelling, planting, or lowering a Piece of Ordinance.

Quadrant of Altitude, is part of the Furniture of an Artificial Globe, being a thin Braſs-plate divided into 90 Degrees, and marked upwards with 10, 20, 30, &c. which is rivetted to a Braſs-nut fitted to the Meridian, and has a Screw in it to ſcrew upon any Degree of the Meridian; its Uſe is for meaſuring Altitudes, to find Amplitudes and Azimuths, to deſcribe Almicantar's, &c.

Quadrant Aſtronomical. See Aſtronomical Quadrant.

Quadrant Triangular. See Triangular Quadrant.

Quadrantal, (Lat.) a Figure that is every way ſquare like a Die; alſo a Veſſel containing eight Congies or Gallons; the ſame as Amphora.

Quadrantal, belonging to a Quadrant.

Quadrantal Triangle, a Spherick Triangle, that has at leaſt a Quadrant for one of its Sides, and one Angle Right.

Quadrantata Terræ, (in old Records) the fourth part of an Acre of Land.

Quadrate and Line of Shadows, (on a Quadrant) is a Line of natural Tangents, plac'd on the Arks of the Limb, for the more ready meaſuring of Altitudes or Heights. Among Printers, Quadrates are certain ſquare Pieces of Metal, made uſe of to fill up the Blanks or void Spaces, in compoſing the Lines of a Page.

Quadrate, four-ſquare.

To Quadrate, to agree or anſwer; as The Anſwer does not quadrate with the Queſtion. In Gunnery, To quadrate or ſquare a Piece, is to ſee whether it be duly plac'd, or well pois'd on the Carriage and Wheels.

Quadratick Equations, (in Algebra) are ſuch as retain on the unknown Side, the Square of the Root or Number ſought; and they are either Simple or Adfected; which See in Kerſy's Algebra, p. 82.

Quadrature of a Figure, (in Mathem.) is the finding of a Square equal to the Area or Content of it.

Quadrature of the Circle, is when a Square or any other Right-lined Figure, is found equal to the Area of a Circle, or a Right-line equal to its Circumference.

Quadrature of the Parabola. See Parabolick Space.

Quadrature of a Surface. See Cubature.

Quadratures of the Moon, (in Aſtron.) are the middle Points of her Orbit between the Points of Conjunction and Oppoſition, which ſhe comes to, when ſhe is in the firſt and third Quarters: They are ſo call'd becauſe a Line drawn from the Earth to the Moon, is then at Right Angles, with one drawn from the Earth to the Sun.

Quadratus Femoris, (in Anat.) a Muſcle ſo nam'd from its ſquare Figure; it ariſes from the Proceſs of the Hip-bone call'd Iſchium, and is inſerted to the hinder part of the Thigh-bone, partly below the great Trochanter; ſo as to aſſiſt the Marſupialis in turning the Thigh-bone outwards.

Quadratus Genæ, or Tetragonus, is a great ſquare Muſcle that lies under the Skin of the Neck, and is ſpread over the whole lower Region of the Face. It takes its Riſe from the Spines of the Vertebræ, alſo from the Skin on the upper part of the Cucullaris and Pectoral Muſcle: One part of it is inſerted to the middle of the lower Jaw; but the other broader Portion goes farther to its Implantation in the Cheeks, below the Corner of the Lips.

Quadratus Lumborum, is a ſhort, thick, fleſhy Muſcle, ſituated in the Region of the Loins, or between the laſt Rib and Spine of the Os Ilium: It ſprings from the hinder part of the Spine of the ſame Bone, and is let into all the Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ or Turning-joynts of the Loins, on the in-ſide under the Pſoas Muſcle.

Quadriennial, belonging to the Space of four Years.

Quadrigemini, (according to ſome Anatomiſts) are four ſmall Muſcles that turn the Thigh toward the out-ſide, and are plac'd upon the Articulation or Joynting of the Thigh, one by another.

Quadrigeſimals. See Chriſmatis Denarii.

Quadrilateral Figures, (in Geom.) are ſuch Figures, whoſe Sides are four Right-lines, which make as many Angles: Theſe are five in Number, viz. the Rectangle, Rhombus, Rhomboid, Square, and Trapezium; which See under thoſe Articles.

Quadrin, (Fr.) a Mite, a ſmall Piece of Money, worth about a Farthing.

Quadrinomial Root, (in Algebra) a Root conſiſting of four Names or Parts. See Binomial.

Quadripartite, divided into four Parts.

Quadripartition, (in Mathem.) a dividing by 4. or a taking the fourth Part of any Number or Quantity.

Quadriremis, a Galley or Sea-Veſſel, with four Banks of Oars.

Quadriſyllable, a Word made up of four Syllables.

Quadrivium, (Lat.) a Place where four Ways meet, or that has four Turnings or Partings; as Carfax in Oxford.

Quadrugata Terræ, (in old Records) a Piece of Land that may be till'd with four Oxen or Horſes.

Quadruped, a four-footed Beaſt.

Quadrupedal, having four Feet.

Quadrupedal or Quadrupedian Signs, (in Aſtrol.) thoſe Signs that repreſent the Figure of Four-footed Beaſts, viz. Aries, Taurus, Leo, Sagittarius, and Capricorn.

Quadruple, that is four times as much, four-fold.

Quadruplication, the doubling or folding of a thing four times.

Quæ Plura, was a Writ that lay upon an Inquiſition made by an Eſcheator in any County of ſuch Lands or Tenements as any Man dy'd poſſeſſed of, and all that was in his Poſſeſſion was ſuppos'd not to be found by the Office.

Quæ Servitia. See Per quæ ſervitia.

Quæſta, (in ancient Deeds) an Indulgence or Remiſſion of Penance, expos'd to Sale by the Popes; whence the Retailers of them were call'd Quæſtuarii.

Quæſtor, an Officer among the old Romans, who had the Charge of the Publick Money, as our Treaſurers or Lords Commiſſioners of the Treaſury have at this Day: Alſo the Pay-Maſter of the Army, in any of the Provinces.

Quæſtores Parricidii, were Quæſtors ſent into the Provinces, by Order of the Senate, to try Criminal Cauſes: Their Power was great, having Lictors and other Officers to attend them; and they were choſen yearly, yet ſometimes they were continued longer.

Quæſtores Urbani, the City-Quæſtors, who receiv'd the Taxes laid upon the People, and went to meet foreign Ambaſſadours, taking care to treat them in their Journey, and to furniſh them an Houſe, at the Charge of the Common-Wealth.

Quæſtus, Gain, Profit, Advantage, a way of getting one's Living or getting Money. In our Law Records, it is taken for that Land which does not deſcend by Hereditary Right, but is gain'd by Labour and Induſtry.

To Quaff, to drink large Draughts, to tipple.

Quagmire, a marſhy or boggy Place.

Quail, a ſort of Bird.

To Quail, to curdle, as Milk does.

Quaint, neat, fine, accompliſhed.

To Quake, to tremble, to ſhake, or ſhiver.

Quakers, a modern Sect of Enthuſiaſts who took Name at firſt from their ſtrange Geſtures and quaking Fits, which came upon them in their Publick Aſſemblies.

Quakeriſm, the Doctrine or Opinion of the Quakers.

Quale Jus, a Judicial Writ that lies where a Religious Perſon has Judgment to recover Land, and is iſſued out to the Eſcheator, between Judgment and Execution, to enquire whether the Party has any Right to recover ſuch Land, or whether Judgment be obtain'd by Colluſion between the Demandant and the Tenant; to the end that the true Lord be not defrauded.

Qualification, Condition of a Thing, particular Quality or Endowment.

To Qualify, to give the Quality or Character of; to temper, to appeaſe, to ſoften.

Quality, Condition, Nature; Inclination, Habit; alſo noble Birth, Title of Honour. In a Philoſophical Senſe, it ſignifies the Affections or Properties of any Being; whereby it has an Influence on our Senſes ſo and ſo, or gets ſuch and ſuch a Name.

The Four firſt Qualities or Tactile Qualities, as ſome count them, are Heat and Cold, Moiſture and Drineſs: The Four Second Qualities, or as they may be termed, Chymical Qualities, are Volatility and Fixity, Corroſiveneſs and Corroſibility; which See in their Places.

Occult Qualities, certain Qualities ſo named by the Ancients, of which no rational Solution or Account could be given, in their Method, or according to their Principles.

Senſible Qualities, are ſuch as are the more immediate Objects of our Senſes.

Qualm, a fainting Fit, a Scruple of Conſcience.

Qualmiſh, troubled with or ſubject to Qualms.

Quam diu ſe bene geſſerit, (Lat. i. e. as long as he ſhall behave himſelf well) a Clauſe often us'd in Letters Patent, for the Grant of Offices, particularly in thoſe of the Barons of the Exchequer.

Quandary, Suſpenſe, a Study or Doubt what to do.

Quantity, Extent, Bigneſs, Number: In Grammar, the Meaſure of Syllables, with reſpect to their being pronounced long or ſhort: In Logick, Univerſals, Predicaments, and all ſuch Terms: Among Mathematicians and Naturaliſts, it is taken for whatever is capable of being eſtimated, number'd or meaſured in any wiſe; ſo that being compar'd with another thing of the ſame Nature, it may be ſaid to be greater or leſs than, equal or unequal thereto. But Quantity may be diſtinguiſh'd into ſeveral ſorts, viz.

Moral Quantity, that which depends on the Manners of Men, and the free Determination of their Wills; as Good and Evil, Dignity and Power, Rewards and Puniſhments, the Price and Value of Things, &c.

Natural Quantity, is what Nature furniſhes us with in Matter and its Extenſion, or in the Powers and Forces of Natural Bodies; as Weight, Motion, Heat, Cold, Light, Thickneſs and Thinneſs, &c.

Rational Quantity, ariſes from the Operation of the Underſtanding only, ſuch as the Largeneſs or Narrowneſs of the Mind's Capacity, or of its Conceptions, &c.

Permanent Quantity, as Extenſion into Length, Breadth and Thickneſs.

Succeſſive Quantity, that which is apply'd to Time and Motion.

Tranſcendental Quantity, as Duration or Continuance, the Continuation of any Being's Exiſtence, Time, &c.

Quantity, is alſo divided into Continued and Diſcrete; which See.

The Quantity of Matter in any Mixt Body, is its Meaſure ariſing from the joynt Conſideration of its Bigneſs and Thickneſs: As if a Body be twice as thick, and take up twice as much Space as another, it will be four times as great.

The Quantity of Motion in any Body, is its Meaſure that ariſes from the joynt Conſideration of the Quantity of Matter in, and the Swiftneſs of the Motion of that Body.

Quantities Simple and Compound, a Term in Algebra. See Simple and Compound Quantities.

Quantum Meruit, (Lat. i. e. how much he has deſerv'd) an Action upon the Caſe ſo call'd, as being grounded upon a Promiſe, to pay one for doing a thing, as much as he ſhould merit or deſerve.

Quarantaine. See Quarentine.

Quardecue, (Fr.) the fourth part of a French Crown, containing 16 Sols.

Quare ejecit infra Terminum, a Writ that lies for a Leſſee, who is ejected or caſt out of his Farm, before the Term be expired; againſt the Feoffer or Leſſor that ejects, in order to recover the reſidue of the Term.

Quare impedit, a Writ which lies for a Perſon that has purchas'd a Manour, with an Advowſon belonging to it, againſt one that diſturbs him in the Right of his Advowſon by preſenting a Clerk thereto, when the Church is void. It differs from the Writ call'd Darrein Preſentment, becauſe that lies where a Man and his Anceſtours formerly preſented, and this for one that is the Purchaſer himſelf.

Quare incumbravit, a Writ that lies againſt a Biſhop, who within ſix Months after the Vacation of a Benefice, beſtows it on his Clerk, while two others are contending at Law for the Right of Preſenting.

Quare intruſit, matrimonio non ſatisfacto, a Writ that lies for a Lord againſt his Tenant being his Ward, who after convenient Marriage offer'd him, marries another, and enters upon his Land without making an Agreement with his Lord and Guardian: But all Wardſhips being taken away by Act. 12 Car. 2. this Writ is become uſeleſs.

Quare non admiſit, a Writ that lies againſt a Biſhop, refuſing to admit his Clerk, that has recover'd in a Plea of Advowſon.

Quare non permittit, is a Writ which lies for one that has Right to preſent for a Turn, againſt the Proprietary.

Quare obſtruxit, a Writ that lies for him, who having a Liberty to paſs thro' his Neighbour's Ground, cannot enjoy his Right by Reaſon that the Owner has block'd up the Paſſage.

Quarentena, (in old Records) a Furlong, a Quantity of Land, containing 40 Perches.

Quarentina habenda, a Writ that lies for a Widow to enjoy her Quarentine.

Quarentine or Quarentain, the Space of forty Days, as the Seaſon of Lent is before Eaſter; but more properly a Right allow'd by the Law of England to the Widow of a Landed Man, of continuing forty Days after his Deceaſe, in his chief Meſſuage or Manour-Houſe: Alſo a Prohibition of thoſe that come from any infected Place, to enter a Town that is healthful, till forty Days be expir'd.

Quareria, (in ancient Writers) a Quarry of Stone.

Quarrel, Strife, Diſpute, Difference, Brangle; alſo a Pain of Glaſs: In a Law-ſenſe, if a Man releaſe all Quarrels, it ſignifies as much as all Actions Real and Perſonal.

To Quarrel, to diſpute or fall out, to find fault with.

Quarrelſome, apt to quarrel, or create Quarrels and Brangles.

Quarril, (Fr.) a kind of Coin worth three Half-pence of our Money; the fourth part of a Real.

Quarry, a Place whence Stones are digged out: Among Hunters, the Reward given to Hounds after they have taken the Game: In Falconry, any Fowl that is flown at and kill'd.

To Quarry, to feed upon the Quarry.

Quart, an Engliſh Meaſure containing two Pints, and being the fourth part of a Gallon; alſo a Sequence of four Cards at the Game call'd Picket.

Quartan Ague, is that whoſe Fit returns every fourth Day.

Quartarius, (Lat.) the fourth part of a Roman Congius or Gallon.

Quartation, a particular manner of purifying Gold us'd by Refiners, who melt three Parts of Silver with one of that noble Metal, and then caſt the Mixture into Aqua fortis, which will diſſolve the Silver, and leave the Gold in a black Powder at the bottom.

Quartelois, (Fr.) Sur touts or upper Garments, with Coats of Arms quarter'd on them; the old Habit of our Engliſh Knights in their Warlike Expeditions.

Quarter, the fourth part of any thing: In Meaſure, the Quantity of eight Buſhels, or the fourth part of a Chaldron: A Quarter in Aver-du-pois Weight is 28 Pounds, and in the leſſer Weights the fourth part of a Dram: Among Carpenters, it is a Piece of Timber four Square and four Inches thick: In Heraldry, a Partition of juſt a fourth part of the Field made by two Right-lines; as He bears Argent a Quarter Gules.

In Sea-Language, the Quarter is that part of the Ship's Hull or main Body, which lies from the Steerage-Room to the Tranſom: A Ship is alſo ſaid to have a fat or broad Quarter, when the Tuck or Truſſing of it lies deep in the Water.

A Quarter of Wheat, is the Quantity of eight Buſhels ſtriked.

Falſe Quarter. See Falſe.

In Military Affairs, Quarter ſignifies the ſparing of Mens Lives, and giving good Treatment to conquer'd Enemies; as The Conquerour offer'd good Quarter, the Enemy ask'd Quarter, &c. Alſo the Ground a Body of Men encamps on, or the Forces themſelves: So 'tis ſaid, ſuch a Quarter is well fortify'd, the Enemies Quarters were beat up, &c.

Quarter at a Siege, is an Incampment upon any of the chief Avenues or Paſſages that range about the Place Beſieged, to prevent Relief or Convoys.

vour. This is either commanded by the General of the Army, and then call'd the King's or the General's Quarter, or else by a Lieutenant-General.

Quarters of Refreshment, the Place or Places, where Troops that have been much harraſs'd are put in, to recover their Strength or Health, during ſome time of the Summer, or Seaſon of the Campaign.

Winter-Quarters, the Place or Places where Troops are lodg'd during the Winter: Alſo ſometimes the Space of Time between two Campaigns; as The Army is marching into Winter-Quarters, the Winter-Quarters will be but ſhort.

Quarters in a Clock or Movement, are little Bells which ſound the Quarters, or other Parts of an Hour.

Quarters of Heaven, are the four principal Points, viz. Eaſt, Weſt, North and South. Among Aſtrologers, certain Interſections of the Sphere, as well in the World as in the Zodiack, of which two are termed Oriental, and counted Maſculine; the other two being Occidental and Feminine.

Quarters of the Moon, when the Moon is diſtant from the Sun a Quarter of the Zodiack or three Signs, turning to us juſt half her inlighten'd Body, ſhe is ſaid To be in the firſt Quarter. But when ſhe comes to be diametrically oppoſite to the Sun, and ſhews us her whole inlighten'd Body, that Appearance is call'd Full Moon or Oppoſition: Laſtly, when the Moon goes on towards her Conjunction, ſhe ſhews more than half of her inlighten'd Body, and that Appearance is call'd The third or laſt Quarter.

To Quarter, to break or cut into Quarters.

Quarter-Bullet, a Bullet quarter'd into four or eight Parts.

Quarter-Days, the Days that begin the four Quarters of the Year, viz. The Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, commonly call'd Lady-day, March 25; The Feſtival of St. John Baptiſt, or Midſummer-day, June 24; The Feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, or Michaelmas-day, September 29; and the Nativity of our Lord God, or Chriſtmas-day, December 25.

Quarter-Deck of a Ship, all that part which ranges over the Steerage, to the Maſter's Round-houſe, or Cabbin.

Quarter-Maſter, a Military Officer, whoſe Buſineſs is to look after the Quarters or Lodgings of the Soldiers: Beſides the Quarter-Maſter General of the whole Army, every Regiment of Foot has a Quarter-Maſter, and every Troop of Horſe one, who is to do the ſame for thoſe Bodies.

Quarter-Maſters at Sea, certain Officers, whoſe Duty it is to rummage in the Ship's Hold upon all Occaſions, to overlook the Steward in the Delivery of Victuals to the Cook; as alſo in his pumping and drawing the Beer, &c. Theſe Officers are more or fewer according to the Ship's Burden, and are likewiſe employ'd in the loading of it.

Quarter-pierced, (in Heraldry) a Term us'd when there is a Hole of a Square Figure made in the middle of a Croſs.

Quarter-round, See Echinus.

Quarter-Seſſions, a Court held by the Juſtices of Peace in every County, once every Quarter of a Year, to determine Civil and Criminal Cauſes.

Quarter-Staff, a kind of Weapon us'd by Foreſters, Park-keepers, &c.

Quarter-Waiters, Officers that attend by turns, for a quarter of a Year, at a Prince's Court.

Quarter-Watch, (in Sea-affairs.) See Watch.

Quarter-Winds, is when the Wind comes in from the Main-maſt Shrowds even with the Quarter.

Quarterage, a Quarter's Salary or Allowance.

Quartering, (among Sea-men) is when a Ship under Sail goes at large, neither by a Wind, nor before the Wind, but as it were betwixt both. Alſo when a Ship ſails with Quarter-Winds, ſhe is ſaid To go Quartering: This Term is alſo us'd when a Piece of Ordinance may be ſo traverſed, as to ſhoot in the ſame Line, or on the ſame Point of the Compaſs as the Ship's Quarter bears.

Quartern, a ſort of Meaſure, the fourth part of a Pint.

Quartile, (in Aſtrol.) is an Aſpect of the Planets, when they are 3 Signs, or 90 Degrees diſtant from each other, and it is marked thus □.

Quarto, a Book is ſaid To be in Quarto, when 'tis ſo printed that every Sheet of it makes four Leaves.

Quartzum, a kind of Metallick Stone.

To Quaſh, to overthrow or make void, to ſpoil or bring to nothing, to diſappoint.

Quaſi modo Sunday, Low-Sunday, or the next after Eaſter, ſo call'd from the firſt Words of the Latin Hymn ſung at Maſs on that Day, beginning thus, Quaſi modo geniti, &c.

† Quaſſation, a ſhaking, or brandiſhing; a ſhattering.

Quater-Couſins, fourth Couſins, the laſt Degree of Kindred; whence 'tis ſaid of Perſons whoſe Friendſhip declines, That they are not Quater or Cater Couſins.

Quaternary, belonging to a Quaternion.

Quaternio or Quaternus, (in old Records) a Book or Volume; properly in Quarto, having each Sheet folded into four Leaves.

Quaternion, the Number of Four, as A Quaternion of Learned Men, a Quaternion or File of four Soldiers.

A Quatrain, a Stanza or Staff of four Verſes; alſo a French Farthing.

Quaver, a Meaſure of Time in Muſick, being the half of a Crotchet, as a Crotchet is the half of a Minim, a Minim the half of a Semi-brief, &c. Alſo a Shake or Trill in Singing.

To Quaver, to run a Diviſion with the Voice.

Quaviver, a ſort of Fiſh that delights in Aqua viva, (as the Name ſeems to import) i. e. Water that flows with a ſtrong and vigorous Stream: It is otherwiſe call'd a Sea-dragon.

Quay or Key, a broad ſpace of Ground pav'd upon the Shoar of a River or Harbour, for the loading and unloading of Goods.

Queach, a thick buſhy Plot of Ground, a Place full of Shrubs or Brambles.

Quean, a Drab, a Jade, a naſty Slut.

Queaſy, ſickiſh at Stomach, apt to vomit.

Queen, is either a Soveraign Princeſs that holds the Crown by Right of Bloud, or one that is marry'd to a King; which laſt is commonly call'd Queen Conſort: Queen is alſo a Term us'd at Cards and Cheſs-Play.

Queen Dowager, a King's Widow that lives upon her Dowry.

Queen's College, a College in Oxford, which took Name from Queen Philippa, Wife of K. Edward III. and was founded by her Chaplain Robert de Eglesfield, Rector of Burgh under Stanmore in Weſtmorland, A. D. 1340.

Queen-Gold, a Duty or Revenue that belongs to every Queen of England, during her Marriage to the King, and ariſes from certain Fines or Offerings, for divers Grants made by the King, upon Contracts, Agreements, Pardons, &c.

Queen of Hungary's Water, See Hungary.

Queer, (Canting-word) odd, fantaſtical, foppiſh.

Queeſt, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Ring-dove.

Que Eſtate, (Fr. in Common Law) is a Plea whereby a Man intitling another to Land, &c.

ſays, That the ſame Eſtate he had, he has from him.

Qui eſt Meſme, (i. e. that is the ſame) a Term of Art us'd in an Action of Treſpaſs, or ſuch like, for a poſitive Juſtification of the very Act complained of by the Plaintiff as a Wrong.

Queint, (old Word) quenched, alſo ſtrange.

To Quell, to reſtrain, to keep under, to ſtop.

Quem redditum reddit, a Judicial Writ that lies for him to whom a Rent-ſeck or Rent-charge is granted by Fine levy'd in the Queen's Court, againſt the Tenant of the Land that refuſes to attorn to, or own him as Lord, to cauſe ſuch an Attournment.

Queue, a Term corruptly us'd by Heralds for the French Word Queue, i. e. the Tail of a Beaſt, &c. Thus if a Lion be repreſented with a forked or double Tail, they ſay, He is double Queued.

Quentin, a ſort of Linnen-cloth.

Quercula, (Lat.) Oak of Jeruſalem; Quercula Minor, the Herb Germander.

Quercus, the Oak-tree.

Querela, a Complaint, a bewailing or lamenting, when one finds himſelf grieved with a thing: In old Records, an Action or Suit at Law preferr'd in any Court of Juſtice, where the Plaintiff was Querens or Complainant, and the Complaint or Declaration was Querela; whence the Engliſh Word Quarrel.

Querela coram Regina & Conſilio diſcutienda & terminanda, a Writ whereby one is call'd to juſtify a Complaint of a Treſpaſs made to the Queen herſelf, before the Queen and her Council.

Querela freſcæ fortiæ, is a Writ of freſh Force. See Freſh Force.

Querens non invenit Plegium, a Return made by the Sheriff, upon a Writ directed to him, with this Condition inſerted, Si A fecerit B ſecurum de clamore ſuo proſequendo.

Querent, an Enquirer, the Perſon that demands a Queſtion of an Aſtrologer.

Querimonious, complaining, making Moan, bewailing.

Queriſta, (in old Records) a Queriſter or Boy that ſings in the Quire of a Church.

Querk or Quirk, a Cavil, Shift or Fetch; as The Querks and Tricks of the Law.

Quern, a Hand-mill: The Querns a Shole in the Sea about a Mile broad, lying North-Weſt from the Brake.

Querpo. See Cuerpo.

Querquedula, (Lat.) the Teal, a Water-fowl.

Querries, (from the French Word Ecurie a Stable) Perſons that are converſant in the Queen's Stables, and have the Charge of her Horſes committed to them.

Querry, alſo ſignifies a Prince's Stables. A Gentleman of the Querry, one of thoſe Gentlemen, whoſe Office it is to hold the Queen's Stirrup, when ſhe mounts on Horſe-back.

Querulous, (Lat.) apt to complain, full of Complaint, moanful, doleful.

Query, Queſtion, Propoſition, Doubt.

Quæſited, (among Aſtrologers) the Perſon or Thing enquired after.

Queſt, Search; as To go in queſt of new Adventures.

Queſt. See Inqueſt.

Queſt or Queſt-Men, Perſons who are choſen yearly in every Ward, and meet about Chriſtmas, to enquire into Abuſes and Miſdemeanours committed therein, eſpecially ſuch as relate to Weights and Meaſures.

To Queſt, to go in queſt of, or ſeek out, as Hunting-Dogs do; to vent or wind as a Spaniel does.

Queſta, (in ancient Writers) a Queſt, Inqueſt or Inquiry made upon the Oaths of an impannell'd Jury.

Queſtion, a Demand to which an Anſwer is requir'd; a Doubt, an Account: Queſtions are alſo Propoſitions made by way of Diſpute; as Cicero's Tuſculan Queſtions.

To Queſtion, to ask Queſtions, to call into Queſtion, to doubt.

Queſtionable, that may be called in Queſtion, or to an Account; doubtful, uncertain.

Queſtioniſt, a Student in the Univerſity of Cambridge, that ſtands for the Degree of Batchelour of Arts.

Queſtor, a Publick Treaſurer, the Chamberlain of a City. See Quæſtor.

Queſtus. See Quæſtus.

Queſtus eſt nobis, is the Form of a Writ of Nuſance, which lies againſt him to whom the Houſe or other thing that breeds the Nuſance is alienated or made over.

To Quetch, to budge or ſtir.

Queue d'Hironde, (Fr. in Fortif.) a Swallow's Tail, a kind of Out-work, whoſe Sides open and ſpread towards the Head or Campaign, and draw cloſe, or grow narrow at the Gorge.

Quia improvide, (Lat.) is taken for a Superſedeas granted in behalf of a Clerk of the Chancery, ſued againſt the Privilege of that Court in the Common Pleas, or in many other Caſes where a Writ is falſely ſued out.

To Quibble. See To Pun.

Quick-Silver, a Prodigy among Metals, which is fluid like Water; and tho' a very heavy Body, yet it eaſily flies away, when ſet over the Fire.

Quiddany or Quiddeny, Conſerve of Quinces.

Quiddity, (in School-Philoſophy) the Eſſence, Being, or Definition of a Thing; alſo a Quirk or ſubtil Queſtion, a Pun.

Quid Juris clamat, (Lat.) a Judicial Writ that lies for the Grantee of a Reverſion or Remainder, when the particular Tenant refuſes to attorn to, or acknowledge the new Lord.

Quid pro quo, (i. e. what for what) a Law-Phraſe when there is a mutual Performance of a Contract or Agreement by both Parties, and one thing is given for another of like Value; as Ten Pounds in Money for a Horſe, &c. Among Phyſicians, it is when a Medicine of one Nature or Quality is put for another.

Quiet, that is at reſt, peaceable, peaceful, calm; alſo Reſt, or Peace.

Quietare, to make Quiet: In our old Deeds, to quit, acquit, diſcharge, or ſave harmleſs.

Quiete clamare, to quit Claim, or renounce all Pretenſion of Right and Title.

Quietiſm, the Doctrine or Opinions of the Quietiſts.

Quietiſts, a Sect of Religious Perſons lately ſprung up among the Roman Catholicks, ſo call'd from their profound Study and Contemplation.

Quietus eſt, (i. e. he is acquitted) a Phraſe us'd by the Clerk of the Pipe and Auditors in the Exchequer, in their Acquittances and Diſcharges given to Accountants: A Quietus eſt granted to the Sheriff likewiſe diſcharges him of all Accounts due to the Queen.

Quietus Redditus, a Quit-Rent, or ſmall Acknowledgment paid in Money to ſome Lords of Manours. See Quit-Rent.

Quinarius, the Number of Five; alſo a Roman Coin of the Value of five Aſſes, or half the Denarius, equal to 3 Pence 3 Farthings Engliſh.

Quincumpeda, a Perch or Rod of five Foot long.

Quincunx, five Ounces, five Inches, or five Twelfths of any entire thing divided into twelve

Parts; alſo a Meaſure of about half a Pint: In Aſtrology, an Aſpect when Planets are diſtant 5 Signs or 150 Degrees, which is marked thus Vc or Q.

Quindecagon, (in Geom.) a plain Figure of fifteen Angles and Sides; which if they be all equal one to another, is call'd a Regular Quindecagon.

Quinquaceſſis, a Roman Coin of 50 Aſſes, Value 2 s. 1 d. ob. in Engliſh Money.

Quinquageſima Sunday, ſo nam'd from its being about the fiftieth Day before Eaſter, and commonly call'd Shrove-Sunday.

Quinquatria, certain Feaſts kept at Rome, in Honour of Minerva, for five Days together; whence they had their Name.

Quinqueangled Figure, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of five Angles; the ſame as Pentagon.

Quinquenervia Plantago, the middle ſort of Plantain, an Herb ſo call'd from its five Fibres or Strings.

Quinquennales Ludi, were Games celebrated every five Years in divers Cities in Honour of ſuch Emperours as had been Deify'd or enroll'd among the Gods.

Quinquennial, belonging to the Space of five Years, or that is of ſo long Continuance.

Quinquepartite, divided into five Parts.

Quinque Portus. See Cinque Ports.

Quinqueremis, a Galley with five Oars on a Seat.

Quinque-viri Menſarii, (among the Romans) five Men appointed by the Conſuls to diſcharge the Debts of the People that were ruin'd by Uſuries and Exactions.

Quinquina, otherwiſe call'd The Jeſuits Powder; a kind of Bark brought from Peru in America, and counted a great Remedy againſt Agues, Feavers, &c.

Quinſieme. See Quinzieme.

Quinſy or Squinſy, a Diſeaſe in the Throat. See Squinancy and Angina.

Quint, a Sequence of five Cards of the ſame Colour, at Picket.

Quint-Exact, (old Law-Term) the laſt Call of a Defendant, who is ſued to an Outlawry; ſo that if he does not appear, he is return'd Outlawed by the Judgment of the Coroners; and if a Woman, Waved. See Exigent.

Quintain, (Fr.) a Game or Sport ſtill in Uſe at Marriages in Shrop-ſhire and elſewhere, which conſiſts in running a tilt on Horſe-back, with Poles againſt a thick Plank or Poſt fixt in the Ground for that purpoſe: He that breaks moſt Poles, and ſhews moſt Activity, wins the Prize, which was formerly a Peacock, and now a Garland.

Quintal or Kintal, an hundred Pound-Weight at ſix ſcore per Cent. of Lead, Iron, and other Metals. See Kintal.

Quinteſſence, (Lat.) the pureſt Subſtance drawn out of any Natural Body; a Medicine made of the efficacious active Particles of its Ingredients ſeparated from all Faces or Dregs; the Spirit, chief Force, or Virtue of any thing.

Quinteſſential, belonging to Quinteſſence.

Quintile, (in Aſtrol.) one of the new Aſpects invented by Kepler, and thus noted C. or Q. It happens when Planets are diſtant a fifth Part of the Zodiack, or 72 Degrees one from another.

Quintilis, the Month of July, at firſt ſo call'd by the ancient Romans, as being the fifth Month from March.

Quintuple, that is five times as much, five-fold.

Quinzain, a Stanza or Staff of fifteen Verſes.

Quinzieme or Quinzime, (Fr. i. e. fifteenth) a certain Tax ſo call'd, becauſe it is rais'd upon the fifteenth Part of Mens Lands and Goods. See Fifteenth: Alſo the fifteenth Day after any Feſtival; as The Quinzaine of St. John Baptiſt.

Quip, a Gibe, Jeer, or Flout.

Quire, that part of a Church, where the Divine Service is ſaid or ſung. See Choir; alſo the Quantity of 24 or 25 Sheets of Paper.

A Book in Quires, a Book that is in Sheets or unbound.

Quiriſter, one that ſings in the Quire of a Cathedral, or Collegiate Church.

Quirites, a Name anciently given to the People of Rome, from Cures a City of the Sabines, with whom Romulus made an Alliance, and ſhar'd his City with them; ſo that both the ſaid People, being united into one Body, were call'd by one common Name Quirites.

Quirk. See Querk.

Quirry or Querry, the Groom of a Stable.

Quiſtrel, (old Word) a proud, twittering, twatling Goſſip.

Quit, ſafe or free from.

To Quit, to leave, forſake, go from, or part with; to leave off, or give over, to free, diſpenſe with, or excuſe.

Quit-claim, (Law-Term) a Releaſe or acquitting of a Perſon from any Action that ſuch a one had, has, or may have againſt him: Alſo a quitting of one's Claim or Title.

Quit-Rent, a certain ſmall Rent or Acknowledgment paid yearly by ſeveral Tenants of Manours; and ſo call'd becauſe ſuch Payment does acquit the Tenant from all other Services or Duties to the Lord. In ſome old Records, 'tis expreſs'd White Rent, becauſe paid in Silver.

Quitaſole, a Spaniſh Word for an Umbrello.

Quitch-graſs or Couch-graſs, a ſort of Herb.

Quitter, the Matter of a Sore or Ulcer.

Quiver, a Caſe for Arrows.

To Quiver, to ſhiver or ſhake.

Quo Jure, (Lat. i. e. by what Right) a Writ that lies for a Man who has Land, in which another challenges Common of Paſture Time out of Mind; and it is to force him to ſhew by what Title he lays Claim to the Common.

Quo Minus, is a Writ that lies for him that has a Grant of Houſe-boot and Hay-boot in another Man's Wood, againſt the Grantor making ſuch Waſte, that the Grantee cannot enjoy his Right: Alſo a Writ, which any Man that pays the Queen a Fee-Farm Rent, may have out of the Exchequer againſt any other Perſon for any Debt or Dammage, and brings the Cauſe to Tryal in that Court.

Quo Warranto. (i. e. by what Warrant or Authority) a Writ that lies againſt a Corporation or private Perſon, that uſurps any Franchiſe or Liberty upon the Queen; as to have Waif, Stray, Fair, Market, Court-Baron, &c. without a good Title: Or elſe againſt one that intrudes himſelf as Heir into Land.

Quod Clerici beneficiati de Cancellaria, a Writ to exempt a Clerk of the Chancery from contributing to the Proctors of the Clergy in Parliament.

Quod Clerici non eligantur in Officio Ballivi, &c. a Writ which lies for a Clergy-man, who by reaſon of ſome Land he has, is made or about to be made a Bailiff, Beadle, Reeve, or ſome ſuch like Officer.

Quod ei deforceat, a Writ that lies for a Tenant in Tail, in Dower, or for Life, againſt him that enter'd, and took away the Land recovered, or againſt his Heir.

Quod permittat, a Writ lying for the Heir of him that is diſſeiſed, or put out of Poſſeſſion of his Common of Paſture, againſt the Heir of the Diſſeiſor deceaſed.

Quod Perſona nec Prebendarii, &c. a Writ that lies for Spiritual Perſons, who are diſtrained

i

in their Spiritual Poſſeſſions, for the Payment of a Tax call'd a Fifteenth, with the reſt of the Pariſh.

Quodlibet, (i. e. what one will) a Quiddity, a Querk or Fetch.

Quodlibets or Quodlibetical Queſtions, certain Queſtions ingeniouſly diſputed pro and con, in the Schools at an Univerſity; where a Man may hold what part of the Controverſy he pleaſes.

Quoil or Coil, (Sea-Term) the Ring of a Cable, Hawſer, or other Rope, when the Fakes or Turns are laid upon one another. If half the Cable or Rope be cut off, and ſo laid up, it is call'd a Half-quoil.

To Quoil, is to lay the Turns of a Rope round after ſuch a manner on the Deck or Floor of the Ship, that ſo it may be more readily ſtowed out of the Way, and alſo run out ſmooth and free, without Knecks or Kenks, i. e. without Twiſtings or Doublings.

Quoin or Coin, a Wedge faſten'd on the Deck, cloſe to the Breech of the Carriages of the great Guns, to keep them firm up to the Ship's Sides. See Coins.

Quorum, (Lat. i, e. of whom) a Word often us'd in our Statutes, and in the Commiſſions of Juſtices of the Peace: Thus where a Commiſſion is directed to ſeven Perſons, or to any three of them, among whom A B and C D are to be two; there A B and C D are ſaid To be of the Quorum, becauſe the reſt cannot proceed without them. So a Juſtice of the Peace and Quorum, is one without whom the reſt of the Juſtices cannot act, in ſome Caſes.

Quota, a Share of Contribution; as He was obliged to find his Quota: In old Records, an Impoſition or Tax to be levied in equal manner.

Quotation, a quoting or citing.

To Quote, to cite, alledge, or bring in an Author or Paſſage.

Quotidian, that happens every Day, daily.

Quotidian Ague, an Ague whoſe Fits return every Day.

Quotient, (in Arithm.) the Number that ſhews quoties or how many times the Diviſor or Number dividing is contain'd in the Dividend, or Number to be divided: As if 15 were to be divided by 5, which contains it juſt three times; then 3 is the Quotient in that Diviſion.

Quotient Geometrical. See Diviſion Geometrical.

Quoyl. See Quoil.

Quyke, a Word anciently us'd for a quick or living Beaſt.

R A

TO Rabate, (in Falconry) a Hawk is ſaid to Rabate, when by the Motion of the Bearer's Hand, ſhe recovers the Fiſt.

To Rabbet, to channel Boards, a Term us'd by Carpenters and Joyners: Among Shipwrights, Rabbiting is the letting in of the Planks, to the Ship's Keel which is conveniently hollow'd away, that the Planks may joyn the better and cloſer; and this hollowing is termed The Rabbet of the Keel.

Rabbin or Rabby, a Doctor or Teacher of the Jewiſh Law.

Rabbinical, belonging to the Rabbies.

Rabbiniſt, one that follows, or is skill'd in their Doctrine or Opinions.

Rabble, the Dregs or Riff-raff of the People.

Rabid, (Lat.) mad, furious, outragious.

Rabies, Rage, Fury, Madneſs, as of Dogs; Fierceneſs, Terribleneſs.

Rabies Hydrophobica. See Hydrophoby.

Rabinet, the ſmalleſt Piece of Ordinance but one; being 1½ Inch Diameter at the Bore, 5 Foot 6 Inches long, and weighing 300 Pounds: It takes a Charge of 6 Ounces of Powder, and carries a Ball 1¼ Inch Diameter, and 8 Ounces Weight: its Point-blank Shot is 70 Paces.

Race, (Fr.) a Lineage or Generation proceeding from Father to Son: Alſo the Courſe or running of Perſons a Foot or on Horſe-back, ſtriving who ſhall get to the Goal or Place appointed before the other.

Racha, an Hebrew Word of Reproach or Diſdain, ſignifying ſhallow or empty.

Rachel, (i. e. a Sheep) the Daughter of Laban, and one of Jacob's Wives.

Rachet, (Fr. old Law-Term) the ſame as Theftbote, a Recompence or Fine paid for the Redemption of a Thief.

Rack, a Wooden Frame made to hold Hay or other Fodder for Cattel; or to lay Spits on in a Kitchin: Alſo an Engine with Cords and Strings to force a Confeſſion from an Offender, ſuch as was brought into the Tower of London, by John Holland Duke of Exeter: This Engine was then in Deriſion call'd The Duke's Daughter, and is now quite out of Uſe in England.

Rack of Mutton or Veal, the hinder part of the Neck.

To Rack, to put upon the Rack, to torture or torment. To Rack Wine, to draw it off from the Lees or Dregs.

Rack-Vintage, the ſecond Voyage uſually made by our Merchants into France for racked Wines.

Racket, an Inſtrument to throw the Ball with at Tennis-play.

Rackoon, a Creature in New-England, which ſleeps all Day in a hollow Tree, and in Moon-ſhine Nights goes out to feed on Clams by the Sea-ſide, when the Tide is low, where it is hunted by Dogs: It has a Tail like a Fox, and in other reſpects much reſembles a Badger, being cloth'd with a thick and deep Furr.

Radegund, (Sax. favourable Counſel) a proper Name of Women.

Radiæus Externus & Internus, (Lat. in Anat.) certain Muſcles of the Wriſt; one of which ſerves to bend it, and the other to ſtretch it out.

Radiancy, Brightneſs.

Radiant, bright, ſhining, ſparkling or glittering like the Sun-beams.

Radiation, a darting or caſting forth Rays or Beams of Light. In Opticks, it is conſider'd as threefold, viz. Direct, Reflected and Refracted. See Ray.

Radical, belonging to the Root, inbred.

Radical Moiſture, a Term us'd by ſome Writers to expreſs that fundamental Juice which they will have to be ſpread like a Dew thro' all the Parts of an Animal Body, in order to nouriſh and preſerve the Natural Heat, as the Oil in a Lamp keeps up and feeds the Flame.

Radical Queſtion, (in Aſtrol.) is a Queſtion propos'd, when the Lord of the Aſcendant and Lord of the Hour are of one Nature and Triplicity.

Radical Sign, a Term in Algebra. See Surd Root.

Radicality, a being radical, or a Quality which has Relation to a Root.

Radicated, rooted, or that has taken Root.

Radicula, (Lat.) a little Root, a Radiſh-root; alſo the Herb Soap-weed, good to waſh Wooll with.

Radicle, a Word us'd by Herbaliſts, to expreſs that Part of the Seed of a Plant which upon its Growth becomes its Root.

Radius, (Lat.) a Ray or Beam of the Sun, or other bright Star. In Geometry, it is the ſame with the Semi-diameter, or half the Diameter of a Circle; See thoſe Terms. In Opticks, a ſtraight Line full of Light, or an inlightening made by a Right-Line: See Ray. In Anatomy, the upper and leſſer Bone of the Arm, between the Elbow and the Wriſt; alſo the greateſt Bone of the Leg.

Among Aſtrologers, Radius or Ray, is taken for the Configuration or Aſpect of two Stars; So Saturn is ſaid To behold Venus with a hoſtile Ray, when ſhe is ſquare with him.

Radix, the Root of a Tree or Plant, particularly a Radiſh; the Principle or Ground of any thing: In Grammar, a primitive or original Hebrew Word. In Anatomy, the Sole of the Foot.

In Aſtrology, Radix is us'd for the beginning of Things, or the Ground-work; whence is inferr'd the Reaſon of computing the Motions of the Heavenly Bodies relating to ſuch a Perſon or Thing: So the Figure drawn for the time of any Perſon's Birth is call'd the Radix, with reſpect to Directions, Progreſſions, Revolutions, &c.

Radknights. See Rodknights.

Raffle or Raffling, a Game when the ſame Point is thrown with ſeveral Dice.

Raft, a Float-boat of Timber.

Rafter, a Piece of Timber for Building.

Rag, a Tatter or old Piece of Cloth. Among Hunters, Rag or Rake, is a Company or Herd of young Colts.

Rag-bolts, (in a Ship) a ſort of Iron-Pins full of Jaggs or Barbs on each Side, to keep them from flying out of the Holes, into which they are driven.

Rag-wort, an Herb of a bitter Taſte, and cleanſing Quality.

Rage, (Fr.) extreme Paſſion, Fury, Madneſs.

Raggamuffin, a pitiful raſcally Fellow.

Ragged, beſet with Rags, jagged or notched. Ragged Hawk, (in Falconry) a Hawk that has its Feathers broken.

Ragguled, (in Heraldry) a Term us'd when the Out-Lines of an Ordinary are ragged or notch'd after an irregular manner, in which reſpect it differs from Indented; as He bears Sable a Croſs Ragguled Or.

Ragoo, (Fr. in Cookery) an high-ſeaſon'd Diſh of Meat, after the French Way.

Raja, (Lat.) the Ray or Scate; a Sea-fiſh. Raja Clavata the Thorn-back or Maid.

Rail, a wooden Fence to encloſe a Place: Alſo a ſort of Bird ſo nam'd, as ſome think, by reaſon of the Feathers that hang looſe from its Neck reſembling a gather'd Piece of Cloth, that Women uſually wear about their Necks in their Dreſſing-Rooms, and which is likewiſe call'd a Rail or Night-rail.

Raillery. See Rallery.

Raimund, (Germ. i. e. quiet Peace) a proper Name of Men.

Rainbow, a Meteor of divers Colours, viz. red, purple, blew, green, yellow, &c. produced by the Refraction of the Sun-beams, to a hollow wateriſh Cloud.

Raip, a Rod to meaſure Ground.

To Raiſe, to lift or lift up, to ſet higher; to levy or gather, to encreaſe, to prefer or advance; to occaſion or cauſe.

To Raiſe a Deck. See Deck.

Raiſed in Fleſh, a Term us'd by Falconers, when a Hawk proſpers or grows fat.

Rake, a well known Tool for Husbandry: Rake of Colts. See Rag.

In Sea-Language, the Rake of a Ship, is ſo much of her Hull or Main Body, as hangs over both the ends of her Keel; that part of it which is before, being call'd her Rake forward on, as the other Part at the ſetting on of the Stern-poſt is termed her Rake afterward on: The hindermoſt part of the Rudder is alſo call'd The Rake of the Rudder.

Rake or Rake-ſhame, a baſe raſcally Fellow.

Raked Table, a Term in Architecture. See Table.

Raker, one that is employ'd in cleanſing the Streets. See Scavenger.

Rallery, (Fr.) pleaſant drolling or playing upon an Diſcourſe; jeſting, jeering.

To Rally, to play and droll upon, to banter or jeer: In Military Affairs, to gather together diſperſed Troops.

Ralph, (Germ.) a proper Name of Men, contracted from Rodolph, i. e. helpful counſel.

Ram, a Male Sheep, alſo a Warlike Engine, anciently made uſe of to batter Walls, &c.

Ram's Head, an Iron-Leaver to heave up great Stones with: Among Sea-men, a great Block or Pulley, with three Shivers into which the Ropes call'd Halliards are put, and at the Head of it other Ropes nam'd Ties are let into a Hole.

To Ram, to beat or drive in.

Ramadam, the Mahometans Lent, during which they faſt all the Day long with ſo much Superſtition, that they dare not waſh their Mouths, nor ſwallow their Spittle.

Ramage, Boughs or Branches of Trees: A Ramage-Hawk or Falcon, one that is wild and coy, as having been long amidſt the Boughs, preying for it ſelf.

Ramale, (Lat.) a ſeared or dead Bough cut off from a Tree.

To Ramble, to go up and down, to go aſtray.

Ramberge, (Fr.) a kind of ſwift Galley or Advice-Boat.

Rambooz or Rambuze, a ſort of Drink chiefly us'd at Cambridge, being made of Wine, Ale, Eggs and Sugar; but in Summer, of Milk, Wine, Sugar and Roſe-Water.

Ramequin, (Fr. in Cookery) toaſted Cheeſe and Bread, a Toaſt and Cheeſe. Ramequins are alſo ſmall Slices of Bread-crum cover'd with a Farce made of pounded Cheeſe, Eggs and other Ingredients bak'd in a Pie-pan: They are made of a round or ſquare Figure, and ſerve either for Out-works, or to garniſh other Diſhes.

Ramex, (Lat.) Rupture or Burſtenneſs.

Ramification, (in Anat.) the ſpreading of ſmall Branches of the Veſſels that iſſue out from one large one: Thus the ſeveral Branches of the Aorta or great Artery, by which the Arterial Bloud is convey'd to all the outward Parts of the Body are call'd the Ramifications of that Artery.

Ramilia, (in old Latin Records) Lopping and Topping; the Branches or Heads of Trees cut off or blown down.

Ramiſt, a Follower of Peter Ramus, a modern Writer, noted for reducing many of the Liberal Arts and Sciences into an elegant Method and Abridgment.

Rammer, an Inſtrument to drive Stones or wooden Piles into the Ground: Among Gunners, a Staff with a round Piece of Wood at the end of it, ſomewhat leſs than the Bore of the Ordinance, to drive home the Powder, with the Shot and Wadding to the Breech of the Piece.

Rammiſh, that ſmells rank like a Ram or Goat.

Ramolade, (Fr. in Cookery) a kind of Sauce made of Parſley, Chibbol, Anchovies, and Capers all chopt ſmall, and well temper'd in a Diſh with a little Pepper, Salt, Nutmeg, Oil and Vinegar.

To Ramp, to [illegible], friſk or jump about, to play Gambols or wanton Tricks.

Rampant, ramping, wanton: In Heraldry, it i when a Lion or other Beaſt of Prey is painted in Poſture of climbing or ſtanding upright on th hinder Legs, and rearing up the Fore-feet directl againſt the Dexter or right Point of the Eſcut cheon, as it were ready to combat with an E nemy.

Rampa

Rampart or Rampier, (in Fortif.) a great maſſy Bank of Earth rais'd about the Body of a Place, conſiſting of ſeveral Baſtions and Courtins, to keep off the Enemies great Shot, and to cover the Buildings; where the Soldiers continually keep Guard, and Cannon is planted for the Defence of the Place.

Rampick, (old Word) a Tree that begins to decay at the top thro' Age.

Rampions, a kind of Root proper for Sallets.

Ramſons or Buckrams, a ſort of Herb.

Ramus, (Lat.) a Bough, Branch, or Arm of a Tree. In Anatomy, any Branch of the greater Veſſels.

Ramus Anterior, (ſc. Vena ſubcutanea) a Branch of the Subcutaneous Vein, which paſſes under the Muſcles of the Bone of the Arm call'd Ulna, to the little Finger, and there joyns a Branch of the Cephalica.

Ramus Poſterior, another Branch of the Subcutaneous Vein of the Arm, running near the Elbow: It ſends out a Branch that goes to the Wriſt, and afterwards uniting with the Cephalica Interior, it makes up the Mediana.

Ran, an old Saxon Word ſignifying an open or publick Theft, and ſtill us'd in this Expreſſion, He has taken all he could rap and ran.

Rana, (Lat.) the Frog, a Living-Creature; alſo the Frog of a Horſe's Hoof.

Rana Piſcatrix, a Sea-fiſh call'd the Toad-fiſh, or Fiſhing-frog.

Rancour, conceal'd or ſecret Grudge, Spite, Spleen, or inveterate Hatred, which a Man keeps in his Breaſt till he finds an Opportunity of Revenge.

Rand, the Seam of a Shooe: Rand of Beef, a long fleſhy piece, cut out from between the Flank and Buttock.

Randal, (Sax.) a proper Name of Men, from Randolph, i. e. pure Help.

Random, Chance, Hazard; as To leave all at Random.

Random or Random-ſhot, (in Gunnery) is a Shot made, when the Muzzle of a Gun is rais'd above the Horizontal Line, and is not deſign'd to ſhoot Point-blank or directly forward.

Randoze-Ring of a Gun, that which is next before the Touch-hole, between it and the Trunnions.

Range, Row or Rank, Ramble or Jaunt; alſo a Grate for a Kitchin-fire; alſo the Beam that runs between two Horſes in a Coach.

In Gunnery, Range ſignifies the Line a Shot goes in from the Mouth of the Piece: If the Bullet goes in a Line parallel to the Horizon, it is call'd the Right or Level Range; but if the Gun be mounted to 45 Degrees, then the Ball will have the higheſt or utmoſt Range; and ſo proportionably all others between 00 Degr. and 45° are termed Intermediate Ranges.

To Range, to diſpoſe, put, ſet or place in its Rank or Order; to draw up in Battel-array; to ramble, rove, or ſtray about; alſo to ſift thro' a Sieve.

Ranger, a ſworn Officer of a Foreſt or Park, whoſe Buſineſs is to walk daily thro' his Charge, to drive the Beaſts out of the disforeſted into the foreſted Lands, and to preſent all Treſpaſſes done in his Bailywick at the next Court held for the Foreſt.

Ranges, (in a Ship) two Pieces of Timber, one of which runs a-croſs upon the Fore-caſtle a little behind the Fore-maſt, and the other in the Beak-head before the Bolt-ſprit; their Uſe being to faſten the Sails and Ropes of thoſe Maſts.

Rangifer, (Lat.) a kind of Stag, ſo call'd from its lofty Horns reſembling the Branches of Trees.

The Blood of this Beaſt is counted an excellent Remedy againſt the Scurvy, and its Hoofs are good for the Cramp.

Rangle, (in Falconry) is when Gravel is given to a Hawk to bring her to her Stomach.

Raninæ Venæ, (Lat.) the Frog-veins; certain Veins that appear under the Tongue. See Ranulares.

Rank, ſtinking, noiſome; alſo that ſhoots forth too many Branches or Leaves; over-fruitful.

Rank, Diſpoſal or Order of Perſons or Things; Place or Dignity: In Military Diſcipline, the ſtraight Line, the Soldiers of a Battallion or Squadron make as they ſtand Side by Side.

To Double the Ranks, is to put two Ranks into one, ſo that the Files become the thinner, and the Ranks the cloſer fill'd.

To Rankle, to grow rank, to feſter.

To Ranſack, to plunder or rifle.

Ranſom, an Agreement for Redemption, a Summ of Money paid for the redeeming of a Captive, or for the Liberty of a Priſoner of War, or for the pardoning of ſome notorious Offender.

To Ranſom, to pay a Ranſom for, to redeem.

Rant, an extravagant Flight or Tranſport in Expreſſions, Poetry, &c.

To Rant, to rage, rave or ſwagger.

Ranters, certain Hereticks of the Family of Love.

Ranula, a Swelling under the Tongue, in that Part by which it is faſten'd to the Ligament. See Batrachos and Hypogloſſis.

Ranulares, thoſe Branches of the outward Jugular or Throat-Veins, which run to the Tongue, and are very apparent under it.

Ranunculus, a little or young Frog: Alſo a Plant whoſe Flower reſembles an Emony, and is of an extraordinary lively Colour; Crow-foot, or Golden-knap: Alſo a Swelling, the ſame as Ranula.

Ranunculus Bulboſus, Devils Crow-foot, a Plant of ſingular Uſe for aſſwaging and drying up hard Swellings. Ranunculus repens, creeping Crow-foot.

Rapa, the Rape-root, a Turnep.

Rapacious, ravenous, greedy, properly ſaid of Birds of Prey; but often apply'd to Uſurers and People gaping after Gain.

Rapacity or Rapaciouſneſs, Ravenouſneſs, Extortion, Greedineſs.

Rape, a wild Radiſh; alſo a Tool us'd by Farriers: Alſo the carrying away of a Virgin, with an intent to deflower or to marry her againſt her own Conſent, or that of her Parents: Alſo the Act of Violence itſelf committed upon the Body of a Woman.

Rape of the Foreſt, a Treſpaſs done in the Foreſt.

Rapes, are alſo certain Diviſions of the County of Suſſex, as Kent is divided into Wapentakes: Theſe Rapes are ſix in Number, viz. of Chicheſter, Arundel, Brembe, Lewis, Pevenſey and Haſtings.

Rape-Wine, a ſort of ſmall Wine.

Raphael, (Heb. the Phyſick of God) the Name of the Angel that appear'd to Tobit.

Raphanitis, (Gr.) a kind of Flower-de-luce.

Raphanus, the Radiſh-root, which is good for the Stone, and to force Urine. Raphanus Ruſticus, Horſe-radiſh, a Root which provokes Appetite, expels Gravel, and is commended for Coughs, &c.

Raphe, a Term in Anatomy, the ſame as Suture; which See.

Rapid, (Lat.) ſwift, quick, that has a boiſterous or violent Motion.

Rapidity or Rapidneſs, Swiftneſs, Quickneſs.

Rapier, (Fr.) a long Sword made only for thruſting.

Rapine, (Lat.) Robbery, Pillaging, a taking a thing by open Violence or Force, diſtinguiſh'd in that reſpect from Theft, which is the taking of Goods, &c. in private againſt the Owner's Will.

Rapiſtrum, wild Muſtard, Carlock, a Weed.

Rapparees, certain Iriſh Robbers ſo call'd.

Rapt or Rapt up, (Lat.) raviſhed or tranſported; as Rapt into an Eſtaſy, Rapt up with Joy.

Raptor, a Seizer or Taker away by Force, an Extortioner: In a Law-ſenſe, a Raviſher of Women; ſuch a one in former Times was puniſh'd with the Loſs of his Eyes and Stones.

Raptu Hæredis, a Writ that lies for the taking away of an Heir holding in Socage, of which there are two ſorts, one when the Heir is marry'd, and the other when he is not.

Rapture, a ſnatching or taking away; as The Rapture of St. Paul to the third Heaven. Alſo a Tranſport of Mind, caus'd by exceſſive Joy, Admiration, &c.

Poetical Rapture or Fury, the Heat of a Poet's Fancy.

Raptured, raviſhed; as To be raptured in Bliſs.

Rapum, (Lat.) Rape, a Turnep or Naphew. Rapum Porcinum or Rapum Terræ, Sow-bread or Swine-bread. Rapum Sylveſtre, Rampions.

Rapunculus, wild Rape.

Rare, that happens but ſeldom, uncommon, extraordinary; excellent, ſingular, ſcarce, hard to be got: In Philoſophy and Phyſick, thin, not compact.

Rare Bodies, ſuch Natural Bodies as have more Space, or take up more Room, in Proportion to their Matter, than other Bodies do.

Rare-Lines or Rattlings, (in a Ship) thoſe Lines with which are made the Steps Ladder-wiſe to get up the Shrowds and Puttocks, as alſo the Topmaſt Shrowds in great Ships.

Rarefacientia, (Lat. in Phyſick) rarifying Medicines, ſuch as by diſperſing the Vapours and Humours, make the Pores of the Body larger.

Rarefaction, rarifying, a making or becoming thin. Rarefaction of a Natural Body, (in Philoſ.) is when it takes up more Dimenſions, or a larger Space than it did before.

To Rarify, to make or to grow thin.

Rarity, a rare Thing, a Thing that is extraordinary for Beauty or Workmanſhip, a Curioſity; alſo Rareneſs or Uncommonneſs: Among Philoſophers, Thinneſs, oppoſed to Denſity or Thickneſs.

Raſant Line of Defence, (in Fortif.) a Line drawn from the Point of the Baſtion along the Face, and lengthen'd till it come to the Courtin, ſo as to ſhew how much of the Courtin will ſcour or clear the Face: It is alſo call'd the ſecond Flank, and the flanking or ſtringent Line.

Raſberry or Raſpis-berry, a Fruit, a kind of Wood-ſtrawberry.

Raſcal, a Rogue, a Villain, a ſorry Rake, or paltry Fellow. Raſcal Deer, a lean Deer.

Raſcality, the baſe Rabble, the Riff-raff, Scum, or Dregs of the People.

Raſceta, the ſame as Carpus; which See.

Raſion, (Lat. in Surgery) the ſhaving or ſcraping of Bones.

Raſis, a kind of hard Pitch which is beaten to Powder, and put into Medicines.

Raſkel, (old Word) Traſh, Trumpery.

Raſor or Razor, an Inſtrument us'd by Barbers to ſhave with; alſo a ſort of Fiſh.

Raſp, a kind of File.

Raſpatory, a Butler's Tool to chip Bread with; alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument to ſcrape foul and ſcaly Bones.

Raſpis-berry. See Raſberry.

Raſure, ſhaving or ſcraping; a daſh thro' Writing.

Rats-tails. See Cratches.

Ratafiaz, (Fr.) a delicious Liquor made of Apricocks, Cherries, or other Fruit, with their Kernels bruis'd and ſteept in Brandy; adding Sugar, Spice, and ſome other Ingredients.

Ratally, according to a certain Rate, by equal Portions; as Ratally diſtributed.

Ratch or Raſh, (in Clock-work) a ſort of Wheel with twelve large Fangs, which running in the ſame Center with the Dial-wheel, ſerves to lift up the Detents every Hour, and to make the Clock ſtrike.

Ratchet, (in a Watch) are the ſmall Teeth at the bottom of the Fuſee or Barrel that ſtop it in winding up.

Rate, Price, Value, Proportion, Aſſeſſment or Tax, Rank or Order; alſo a Term in Arithmetick. See Reaſon.

To Rate, to ſet a Rate or Value upon, to aſſeſs or tax, to reprove or chide.

Rate-tithe, a certain Duty paid by the Owner of Sheep or other Cattel, when kept in a Pariſh, for leſs time than a Year, which is pro rata, according to the Cuſtom of the Place.

Rateen or Ratteen, Woollen Stuff, a kind of ſtrong Shalloon.

Rath or Rathe, early ripe, as Rathe Fruit, a rath Egg, &c.

Ratification, (Lat.) a ratifying or confirming. In a Law-ſenſe, the eſtabliſhing of a Clerk in a Prebend formerly given him by the Biſhop, &c. where the Right of Patronage is doubted to be in the Queen.

To Ratify, to confirm, eſtabliſh, or allow, eſpecially by a Publick Act.

Ratio, (Lat.) Reaſon, Conſideration, Regard. In Mathematicks, the Rate, Reaſon, or Proportion that ſeveral Quantities or Numbers have one to another, with reſpect to their Greatneſs or Smallneſs.

Ratiocination, a rational Way of debating, arguing, or diſputing; the Act of exerciſing the Faculty of reaſoning; the Operation of Reaſon, or Reaſon reduc'd into Diſcourſe.

Ratiocinative, belonging to Ratiocination.

Ration, a Share or Proportion of Proviſions or Forage; the Allowance of Meat, Drink, or Forage for one Day, given to Sea-men and Soldiers for the Subſiſtence of them and their Horſes.

Rationabili parte bonorum, a Writ that lies for a Wife againſt her Husband's Executors, that deny her the third Part of his Goods, after Debts and Funeral Charges defrayed.

Rationabilibus diviſis, a Writ for ſettling the Boundaries between two adjoyning Lordſhips or Manours, for one Lord againſt another, that has encroach'd upon his Waſte.

Rational, endued with Reaſon, reaſonable.

Rational Horizon. See Horizon.

Rational Number. See Number.

Rational Quantities, (in Mathem.) thoſe Quantities between which there is any expreſſible Reaſon or Proportion; all ſuch as are in any wiſe commenſurable to a given Quantity. See Irrational Quantities.

Rational Way of erecting a Figure, (in Aſtrol.) a particular Method of diſtributing the Spaces of the twelve Houſes, firſt invented by Abenezra, and ſo call'd by Regiomontanus for its Excellency above thoſe of the Ancients: This Method now generally in Uſe among Aſtrologers, is perform'd by dividing the Equator into twelve equal Parts, by ſix great Circles drawn thro' ſeveral Sections of the Horizon and Meridian, after the ſame manner as Ptolemy and his Followers did the Zodiack.

Rationale, (Lat.) the Breaſt-plate of the High-Prieſt, among the ancient Jews: Alſo a rational Account; as Biſhop Sparrow's Rationale on the Book of Common Prayer.

Rationis Os, the Bone of the Fore-head, ſo call'd by ſome Anatomiſts.

Ratitus Quadrans, a Roman Coin that weigh'd four Ounces, and had the Figure of a Ship ſtamp'd on it.

Ratteen. See Rateen.

Rattle, a Child's Toy; alſo an Herb otherwiſe call'd Cocks-comb.

To Rattle, to make a Noiſe; to ſcold at, or quarrel with: Among Hunters, a Goat is ſaid To rattle, that cries or makes a Noiſe thro' Deſire of Copulation.

Rattle-ſnake, a huge Snake, common in Virginia, and other Parts of America, having a Rattle in its Tail made of Bones encloſ'd in a dry Husk: The Bite of theſe Snakes is deadly, yet they never meddle with any thing unleſs provoked.

Rattlings, (among Sea-men) the Small Ropes that croſs the Shrowds like Steps. See Rare-lines.

Ratton, a kind of Fox in the Weſt-Indies, which has this peculiar Property, that if any thing be offer'd that has lain in Water, ſhe wipes and turns it about with her Fore-feet, before ſhe puts it to her Mouth.

Ravage, (Fr.) Havock, Waſte, Spoil, Ruin.

To Ravage, to make ravage, to ranſack, ſpoil, or lay waſte.

Rauca, (Lat.) a Worm that breeds in the Root of an Oak.

Raucedo, Raucity or Hoarſeneſs.

Raucomen, a kind of Fruit like a Gooſe-berry, peculiar to Virginia and Mary-land.

To Rave, to be light-headed, to have a roving or wand'ring Head, to talk idly, to dote.

To Ravel or Ravel out, to run into Threads, as ſlight Cloth, Silk or Stuff does that is not cloſe wove.

Ravel-Bread. See Panis vocatus Black-whitlof.

Ravelin, (Fr. in Fortif.) a ſmall Work in Form of a Triangle, conſiſting only of two Faces which make a Saliant Angle, and commonly call'd a Half-moon by the Soldiers: It is generally rais'd before a Courtin to cover the oppoſite Flanks of the two next Baſtions; and is alſo us'd for the Defence of a Bridge or Gate.

Ravenous, greedy, gluttonous.

To Ravin, to devour or eat greedily.

To Raviſh, to take or ſnatch away, to rob or take by Force, to wreſt from, to commit a Rape upon a Virgin; alſo to charm or pleaſe exceedingly, to tranſport with Joy, Admiration, &c.

Raviſhment, the raviſhing or violent deflowering of a Virgin: In Common Law, it is alſo us'd for the taking away either a Woman or an Heir in Ward; alſo Rapture, or Tranſport of Joy, &c.

Raviſhment de Gard, a Writ that formerly lay for the Guardian by Knights-Service, or in Socage, againſt one that took from him the Body of his Ward.

Ray, (Fr.) a Beam of the Sun, or any other Star; figuratively the Luſtre or Brightneſs of any thing: Alſo a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Thorn-back.

In Opticks, Ray is a Line ſuppoſed to paſs from the Eye toward the Object, or from the Object toward the Eye, and is termed a Viſual Ray: Theſe are of ſeveral ſorts, viz. Common, Direct, Convergent, Divergent and Parallel.

Common Ray, is a Right-line drawn from the Point of the Concourſe of the two Optical Axes, thro' the middle of the Right-line, which paſſes by the Center of the Apple of the Eye.

Direct Ray, is that which is convey'd from a Point of the Viſible Object directly to the Eye thro' one and the ſame Medium.

Convergent Rays, are thoſe which iſſuing from divers Points of the Object, incline towards one and the ſame Point tending to the Eye.

Divergent Rays, are thoſe which going from a Point of the Viſible Object, are diſperſed, and continually depart one from another, accordingly as they are remov'd from the Object.

Parallel Rays, are thoſe that keep an equal Diſtance from the Viſible Object to the Eye, which is ſuppos'd to be infinitely remote from the Object.

Principal Ray, (in Perſpective) is the perpendicular Diſtance between the Eye and the Vertical Plane or Table.

Ray of Incidence or Incident Ray, (in Catoptricks) is a Right-line which falls from ſome Point of an Object upon the Surface of a Looking-glaſs or piece of poliſhed Metal.

Ray of Incidence or Incident Ray, (in Dioptricks) is a Ray of Light which paſſes in a Right-line, from a certain Point of the Viſible Object in one Medium, until it meet with a ſecond Medium.

Ray of Reflection, is the Right-line by which the Reflection is made; and Ray of Refraction or broken Ray, is a Right-line whereby the Ray of Incidence changes its Straightneſs, or is broken in paſſing through the ſecond Medium, whether it be thicker or thinner. See Reflection and Refraction.

Rays Convergent and Divergent. See Convergent and Divergent.

To Ray. See To Ree.

Ray-Cloth, Cloth that was never coloured or died.

Razant Line of Defence. See Raſant.

To Raze, to lay even with the Ground, to pull down.

Razers, the Tuſhes or Teeth of a Boar.

Razor. See Raſor.

Reach, the Diſtance as far as a Gun, Bow, &c. can carry, or as a Man can come at; whence it is figuratively taken for Capacity or Power: Among Mariners, a Reach is the Diſtance of any two Points of Land which bear in a direct Line one towards another.

Reaction, (Lat. in Philoſ.) as The Reaction or reciprocal Motion of one Part of the Matter against another.

Read or Reve, (old Word) Counſel or Advice, as in the firſt of the ſinging Pſalms:

The Man is bleſt that hath not bent
To wicked Read his Ear.

To Re-adjourn, to adjourn again.

Re-admiſſion, the Act of re-admitting.

To Re-admit, to admit or receive again.

Reaſan, the Name of the Royal Banner or Standard of the Danes, during the time that England was ſubject to them, on which the Figure of a Raven was embroider'd.

Re-afforeſted, (Law-word) made Foreſt again; as The Foreſt of Dean formerly diſ-afforeſted, was re-afforeſted by Stat. 20 Car. 2.

Reaks; as To play Reaks, i. e. to domineer or hector, to ſhew mad Pranks.

Real, that is indeed, true.

Real Chattels. See Chattels Real.

Real Conjunction. See Conjunction.

Real Horizon. See Horizon.

Real, a Spaniſh Coin. See Ryal.

Realgal, (Arab.) a Word us'd by Chymiſts for red Arſenick.

Reality, real Exiſtence, a being indeed, the Truth of a Matter: In a Law-ſenſe, Reality or Realty is oppos'd to Perſonalty; which See.

Realm, Kingdom; as The Realm of England.

Ream, the Quantity of twenty Quires of Paper.

To Reanimate, (Lat.) to revive, to put in heart again.

Rear, (in the Art of War) the hindmoſt Part of an Army or Fleet.

Rear or Rear-Guard, the laſt of the three Lines of an Army, drawn up in Battalia; the firſt being the Van or Van-Guard, and the ſecond the Main Body: The Rear-Guard is otherwiſe termed the Corps de Reſerve or Body of Reſerve.

Rear-Admiral, the Admiral of the third Squadron in a Royal Fleet, who has his Flag in the Ship's Miſen-top, with the Arms of his Country.

Rear Half-Files, the three hindmoſt Ranks, when a Battalion is drawn up ſix deep.

Rear-Rank, the laſt Rank of a Battalion or Squadron.

To Rear, to raiſe or ſet up on end, to train or bring up a Child. To Rear a Boar, a Term us'd by Hunters for to diſlodge him.

To Re-aſcend, to aſcend or get up again.

Reaſon, that Faculty of the Soul whereby we diſcourſe and judge of Things; Argument, Proof, Cauſe, Matter, Account: Among Logicians, Reaſon is an Argument, either neceſſary or probable, or a proper Anſwer to the Queſtion, Why it is ſo?

In Arithmetick, the Reaſon or Rate betwixt two Numbers, is a certain Proportion, eſpecially the Quotient of the Antecedent divided by the Conſequent: So if it be demanded, What Reaſon or Rate 6 has to 2? the Anſwer is Triple Reaſon; for if the Antecedent 6 be divided by the Conſequent 2, the Quotient is 3.

In Geometry, Reaſon is the mutual Habit or Compariſon of two Magnitudes of the ſame kind one to another, in reſpect of their Quantity.

To Reaſon, to diſcourſe upon or about a thing, to diſpute or argue.

Reaſon-piece. See Architrave.

Reaſonable, agreeable to the Rules of Reaſon, juſt, right, conſcionable, convenient, competent, moderate.

Reaſonable Aid, (Law-Term) a Duty that the Lord of the Fee formerly claim'd of his Tenants holding by Knights-Service, or in Socage, in order to marry his Daughter, or make his Son a Knight.

To Re-aſſemble, to ſummon or call together again; to aſſemble, meet, or get together again.

To Re-aſſume, to retake, to take upon one's ſelf again.

Re-attachment, (Law-Term) a ſecond Attachment of one that was formerly attached and diſmiſs'd the Court, without Day, as by the not coming of the Juſtices, or ſome ſuch Accident.

To Re-baptize, to baptize again.

To Rebate, to channel, or chamfer; to blunt, to check. Among Merchants, to abate or allow what the Intereſt of any Summ of Money comes to, for the time that it is paid before it becomes due: In Heraldry, to ſet a Mark of Diſhonour in an Eſcutcheon.

Rebatement, the Act of rebating, a Deduction or Diſcount upon the Payment of ready Money; the Diminution of Figures in a Coat of Arms. See Abatement.

Rebecca, (Heb. fat and full) the Wife of Iſaac; whence it is taken for a Chriſtian Name of Women.

Rebeck, an old Trot, Chaucer; alſo a certain Muſical Inſtrument of three Strings.

Rebel, (Lat.) a Perſon that openly rebells againſt the Prince or State; one that is diſobedient to Parents or other Superiours: In a Law-ſenſe, it is us'd for one that wilfully breaks a Law, and ſometimes for a Villain diſobeying his Lord.

To Rebell, to riſe up in Arms, or revolt againſt one's Soveraign.

Rebellion, (q.d. a renewing the War) properly a ſecond Reſiſtance made by ſuch as being heretofore overcome by the Romans, had yielded themſelves to their Subjection: But it is now commonly taken for any tumultuous oppoſing or riſing up in Arms againſt the Authority of the Prince or Supreme Power in a Nation.

Rebellious, apt to rebell, diſobedient, undutiful.

Rebellious Aſſembly, (Law-Term) the gathering together of twelve or more Perſons, with a Deſign to change any Statutes or Laws of the Realm, to ruin the Incloſures of a Park or other Ground, to break down the Banks of a Fiſh-Pond, to deſtroy the Game in a Chace or Warren, to burn Stacks of Corn, &c.

Rebellum, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Replication or Rejoynder, an Anſwer in a Court of Equity.

Rebeſk or Arabeſk Work, a ſort of fine Flouriſhes or branched Work in Carving, Painting or Embroidery.

Rebinare Terram, (in old Latin Records) to give a ſecond Stirring or Ploughing to Land that lies fallow, in order to prepare it for ſowing Wheat, &c.

Rebiſola, a Chymical Word ſignifying a Medicine made of Urine, good againſt the Jaundice.

To Rebound, to bounce up again, as a Ball does from the Ground.

Rebuff, the Refuſal of a Suit by a Superiour to an Inferiour with Scorn; a rough Denial, a diſdainful or ſnappiſh Anſwer.

To Rebuke, to reprove or check, to chide.

Rebus, a kind of Symbol or Device repreſented in a Picture, with a Motto or ſhort Sentence alluding to one's Name, &c. Thus one John Eaglesfield ha the Picture of an Eagle's Head with this Verſe:

Hoc aquilæ caput eſt, ſignumque figura Johannis.

In Heraldry, Rebus's are Coats of Arms that bear an Alluſion to the Sirname of the Perſon; as Three Caſtles for Caſtleton; three Coneys for Conisby; three Cups for Butler, &c. and ſuch Bearings a very ancient.

Rebutter, (Law-Term) is when the Donee, by Virtue of a Warranty made by the Donor, repels or thruſts out his Heir, becauſe tho' the Land was intailed to him, yet he is likewiſe Heir to the Warrantor: And if I allow my Tenant to hold Land without obliging him to make Good any Waſte, and afterwards I ſue him for Waſte made, he may debar me of this Action, by ſhewing my Grant; and this is alſo a Rebutter.

To Recall, to call back, or to call home.

To Recant, (Lat.) to unſay, to recall what one has ſaid or written before.

Recantation, a recanting, revoking, or unſaying.

To Recapitulate, to rehearſe briefly, or ſumm up the Heads of a former Diſcourſe.

Recapitulation, the Act of recapitulating.

Recaption, (Law-Term) a ſecond Diſtreſs made on a Perſon formerly diſtrained, for the ſame Cauſe, and even during the Plea grounded on the former Diſtreſs: Alſo the Writ or Remedy the Law affords him that is twice diſtrained for one Thing.

To Recede, to go back; as I am under ſuch Engagements that I cannot recede.

Receipt, the Act of receiving; an Acquittance or Diſcharge in Writing for Money received; alſo a Medicine preſcribed for the Cure of a Diſeaſe.

Receivable, that may be received.

To Receive, to take what is given, paid, or put into one's Hands; to entertain or treat, to lodge or lodge or harbour, to admit or allow of, to embrace [illegible], to bear or suffer.

Receiver, a Perſon that receives: It is ſometimes taken in an ill Senſe, for one that takes ſtoln Goods from Thieves and conceals them: Also the [illegible] Chymical Veſſel. See Recipient.

Receiver of Fines, an Officer who receives the Money of all ſuch as compound with the Queen, upon an Original Writ in Chancery.

Receiver General of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, an Officer belonging to the Dutchy-Court, that gathers in all the Revenues and Fines of the Lands of the ſaid Dutchy; with all Forfeitures, Aſſeſſments, &c.

Receiver General of the Court of Wards and Liveries, an Officer formerly belonging to that Court, which being now taken away by Act of Parliament, the Officer is alſo out of Doors.

Receiver of Rents, &c. an Officer of great Account, belonging to the Queen, or ſome other Perſon of Honour.

Recent, new, freſh, lately done or happned.

Receptacle, a Place fit to receive or hold any thing; a Ware-houſe or Store-houſe, an Harbour or Shelter, a Neſt or Lurking-hole.

Receptaculum Chyli, (in Anat.) a Cavity or hollow Part, into which all the Lacteal Veins empty themſelves, which was firſt found out by Pecquet, [illegible]. See Ductus Thoracicus.

Reception, the Act of kindly receiving or entertaining any Perſon, or of accepting any thing; ſaid alſo of the Solemnities of a Publick Audience or Admittance; as The Reception of the Ambaſſadours was ſplendid and magnificent.

In Aſtrology, Reception is a ſort of accidental Dignity or Fortitude happening to two Planets, eſpecially if agreeable in Nature, when they are poſited in each other's Houſes, Exaltation, Triplicity, &c.

Receptive, apt or fit to receive or hold.

Receſs, a retreating, or withdrawing; alſo a Place of Retreat or Retirement.

Receſſion of the Equinoxes, (in the new Aſtron.) the going back of the Equinoctial Points every Year about 50 Seconds; which happens by reaſon that the Earth's Axis after many Revolutions round the Sun, actually ſwerves from that Paralleliſm which it ſeems to keep with itſelf all the time of its yearly Revolution.

To Rechace, (among Hunters) to make homewards, to drive back towards the Place where the Game was firſt rouzed or ſtarted.

Recheat, a certain Leſſon, which Huntſmen wind upon the Horn, when the Hounds have loſt their Game, to call them back from purſuing a Counter-ſcent.

Recidivation, a relapſing or falling back into ſickneſs again.

Recidivus Morbus, (Lat.) a Relapſe, which happens when the Original Matter that was left in the firſt Diſtemper, begins to ferment and work again.

Recipe, a Phyſician's Bill, in which he directs the Apothecary what Medicine he ſhould prepare or compound for the Patient: It is ſo call'd as beginning with the Word Recipe, i.e. Take ſo and ſo.

Recipient or Receiver, (among Chymiſts) a Veſſel which in Diſtillation is luted or made faſt to the Beak or Noſe of the Alembick, Retort, &c. to receive the Matter which is raiſed or forced over the Head by the Fire: That Glaſs out of which the Air is drawn by Mr. Boyle's Air-pump, and within which any Living-Creatures or other Bodies are ſhut up to make Experiments upon, is alſo uſually call'd the Receiver by that noble Writer.

Reciprocal, mutual, interchangeable, that is returned on both Sides; as Reciprocal Kindneſſes. In Logick, it is ſaid of Terms that have the ſame Signification, and may be turned either way; as A Reaſonable Creature is a Man, a Man is a Reaſonable Creature.

Reciprocal Figures, (in Geom.) are ſuch as have the Antecedents and Conſequents of the Ratio in both Figures.

Reciprocal Proportion, is when in four Numbers the Fourth is leſſer than the Second, by ſo much as the Third is greater than the Firſt; and on the contrary: Thus 4 : 10 :: 8 : 5, are Reciprocal Proportionals.

To Reciprocate, a Term in Grammar; as Reciprocal Verbs reciprocate or reflect the Action upon the Agent.

Reciprocation, a reciprocating, interchanging, or returning like for like; as A Reciprocation of Love.

Reciſion, a cutting or paring off, a diſannulling, undoing, or making void.

Recital, Relation, Account, Report.

Recitative Muſick or A Recitative, a kind of Singing that comes near plain Pronunciation, after ſuch a manner as Dramatick Poems are rehearſed upon the Stage.

Recitative Style, a Style or Way of Writing fitted for that purpoſe.

To Recite, to relate or rehearſe, to ſay by Heart or without Book.

To Reck, (old Word) to care.

To Reckon, to caſt up or count, to eſteem, to believe or think, to deſign.

To Reclaim, to recall or turn back from ill Courſes, to take up and leave off one's Vices; to contradict or gainſay a thing.

In Falconry, a Partridge is ſaid To Reclaim, when ſhe calls back her young One's; and to reclaim a Hawk, is to tame or make it gentle.

Reclination of a Plane, (in Mathem.) is the Quantity of Degrees that any Plane on which a Dial is ſuppos'd to be drawn, lies or falls backwards, from the truly vertical or upright Plane.

Reclining, bending or leaning back; ſo the Plane of a Dial that leans from you, when you ſtand before it is ſaid To be a Reclining Plane. See Dial-Plane.

Recluſe, a Monk or Nun that is ſhut up, and may not ſtir out of the Religious Houſe or Cloiſter.

Recogniſance or Recognizance, (Fr. i.e. Acknowledgment) a Bond or Obligation acknowledged for a Debt or Duty in ſome Court of Record, or before ſome Judge, Maſter of the Chancery, or Juſtice of the Peace.

Recogniſance of Aſſize, the Verdict of Twelve Men impannelled upon an Aſſize or Jury, when a Man is attainted of Diſſeiſin, with Robbery of any manner of Goods or Moveables; and the Jurymen ſo impannell'd are call'd, Recognitors of the Aſſize.

Recogniſee, the Perſon to whom one is bound in a Recogniſance.

Recogniſor, one that enters into ſuch a Bond or Obligation.

Recognition, Acknowledgment, Review or Examination.

Recognitione per vim & duritiem facta, a Writ to the Juſtices of the Common Bench, to ſend for a Record touching a Recogniſance, which the Recogniſor affirms to have been acknowledged by Hardſhip and Force; that if it be ſo, it may be made void.

Recognitors. See Recogniſance of Aſſize.

Recoil of a Cannon, the Motion or Run it takes backward when fir'd.

To Recoil, to give ground, to come back, as a Gun does.

To Recoin Money, to coin it a-new.

To Recollect, to reflect upon one's ſelf, to call a thing to Mind, or think of it.

Recollection, the Act of recollecting, Reflection of the Mind; alſo the ſame with Recapitulation.

Recollects, a Branch of the Order of Franciſcan Friers, that go bare-foot, and wear high Sandals.

To Recommence, to commence or begin again or a-new; as To recommence a Law-ſuit.

To Recommend, to commit to one's Favour, Protection or Care.

Recommendable, that deſerves to be recommended or eſteemed, Praiſe-worthy.

Recommendation, the Act of recommending.

Recommendatory, that ſerves to recommend; as A recommendatory Letter.

Recompence, Requital, Reward, Amends, a Gift or Advantage made or ariſing to one upon account of ſome Service done, or good Action perform'd.

To Recompence, to requite, to make amends.

Reconcileable, that may be reconciled.

To Reconcile, to make thoſe Friends again that were at Variance, to make up Differences, to make agree what ſeems contrary.

Reconciliation or Reconcilement, a reconciling, a renewing of Friendſhip.

Recondite, ſecret, hidden; as Recondite Myſteries.

To Reconduct, to conduct or lead back again.

Record, Teſtimony, Evidence, Witneſs, a Publick Act enrolled: In a Law-ſenſe, it is defined to be an authentick and uncontrollable Teſtimony in Writing, contain'd in Parchment-Rolls, and preſerv'd in Courts of Record.

To Record, to regiſter or enroll; alſo to begin to ſing or tune Notes, as a Bird does.

Recordare facias or Recordari facias, a Writ directed to the Sheriff for removing a Cauſe from an Inferiour Court to the Queen's Bench or Common Pleas; ſo call'd becauſe it enjoyns the Sheriff to make a Record of the Proceedings, and then to ſend up the Cauſe.

Recorder, a Perſon for the moſt part well skill'd in the Law, whom the Mayor or chief Magiſtrate of a City or Town Corporate, or of a Court of Record, aſſociates to him for his better Direction in Matters of Juſtice, and Proceedings according to Law.

Recordo & Proceſſu mittendis, a Writ to call a Record, together with the whole Proceeding in the Cauſe, out of an Inferiour Court into the Queen's Court.

To Recover, (Fr.) to get again, to reſtore to Health, to be on the mending Hand, to repair or retrieve.

Recoverable, that may be recovered.

Recovery, a regaining, or getting again, &c. Remedy, Help: In a Legal Senſe, the obtaining any thing by Judgment or Tryal of Law, which is of two ſorts, viz. True and Feigned.

True Recovery, is an actual or real Recovery of any thing, or the Value of it by Judgment: as if a Man ſhould ſue for any Land or other Thing moveable or immoveable, and have a Verdict and Judgment for him.

Feigned Recovery, is a certain Form or Courſe ſet down by Law, for the better aſſuring one's Title to Lands or Tenements, the effect of it being to diſcontinue and deſtroy Eſtates-Tail, Remainders and Reverſions, and to bar or cut off the Intails of them. It is alſo call'd a Common Recovery, from its being a beaten and common Path to that End for which it is appointed.

To Recount, to relate.

To Recoupe, (Fr.) to cut again, to reply quickly and ſharply to a preceding Demand: Among Lawyers, it is taken for to defalk or diſcount; as The Defendant ſhall recoupe the Rent in the Damages.

Recourſe, Refuge, Application, Addreſs: To have Recourſe to God, i. e. to fly to him for Succour: Alſo Paſſage, Return; as The Recourſe of Blood or Spirits.

Recreant, (old Word) a faint-hearted or coward-ly Fellow.

To Recreate, (Lat. q. d. to create a-new) to re-freſh, to divert or delight, to make merry.

Recreation, a pleaſing Divertiſement after Labour, Refreſhment, Paſtime, Sport.

Recreative, that ſerves to recreate, diverting, pleaſant, delightful, entertaining.

Recredentials, an Anſwer to the Credential Letters of an Ambaſſadour.

Recrement, any ſuperfluous Matter in the Blood, or in any part of the Body: In Chymiſtry, the Word is us'd when any Liquor is diſtilled over again ſeve-ral times.

Among Phyſicians and Anatomiſts, Recrements are alſo taken for ſuch Juices as are ſeparated in the ſeveral Glands of the Body for certain particular Uſes; as the Spirits, the Lympha, the Gall, the pro-per Ferments of the Stomach, Guts, &c. Theſe are diſtinguiſh'd from Excrements which are thruſt out of the Body, as being of no farther Uſe to it.

To Recriminate, to return an Accuſation or Re-proach.

Recrimination, the Act of recriminating, where-by the Party accuſed charges his Accuſer with the ſame Fact.

Recrudeſcentia, a growing freſh, raw or ſo again; a rankling or feſtering: Among Phyſicians it is us'd when a Diſeaſe being about to end, begin to invade and grow worſe again.

Recruit, (Fr.) new or freſh Supply: In the Ar of War, Recruits are new Men raiſed to ſtrengthe the Forces on Foot; either to make the Troops an Companies more numerous than they were at fir or to fill up the Places of Men kill'd or deſerted.

To Recruit, to ſupply or fill up, to re-enforce.

Rectangle, (in Geom.) a right or ſtraight Angl made by the falling of one Line perpendicular upo another: Alſo a Right-lined Figure conſiſting o four Sides, and as many Right Angles; but it i moſt commonly taken for a Parallelogram, that ha Right Angles but unequal Sides; eſpecially the Ob-long or Long Square.

In Arithmetick, Rectangle is the ſame with th Fact or Product; which See.

Rectangled or Right-angled Triangle, a Triangle that has one Right Angle.

Rectangular, A plain Figure is ſaid To be rectan-gular or Right-angled, when one or more of its An-gles are Right: 'Tis alſo apply'd to Solids in reſpe of their Situation; ſo that if their Axis be perpen-dicular to the Horizon, they are accounted Rectan-gular or Right Cones, Cylinders, &c.

Recta priſa Regis, (in ancient Latin Deeds) th King's Right to a Priſe or taking of one Butt or Pip of Wine before the Maſt, and another behind th Maſt, as Cuſtom for every Ship loaded wi Wines.

Rectatio, a Claim of Right, or appeal to La for Recovery of it.

Rectification, a rectifying, making right, o correcting: In Chymiſtry, it is either the drawing o the Dregs, or the refining of any Liquor by repeat Diſtillations.

Rectifier, a Perſon that rectifies: In Navigatio an Inſtrument conſiſting of two Circles either lai one upon, or ſet into the other, and ſo faſten'd i thei their Centers that they repreſent two Compaſſes, one fixed the other moveable, each of them divided into the 32 Points of the Compaſs, and 360 Degrees: Its Uſe is to find the Variation of the Compaſs, and to rectifie the Ship's Courſe, having the Amplitude or Azimuth given.

To Rectify, to ſet to rights again, to redreſs, correct, mend, or better: Among Chymiſts, to diſtill any Spirit over again, in order to bring it to a more pure State, by ſeparating the Parts of a different Kind that might be drawn along with it.

To Rectify the Globe, is to bring the Sun's Place in the Ecliptick on the Globe, to the ſide of the Braſs-Meridian, that is marked with Degrees; to raiſe the Pole above the Horizon, as much as the Latitude of the Place; to fit the Hour-Circle exactly to the Point of Twelve at Noon; and (if there be occaſion) to ſcrew the Quadrant of Altitude to the Zenith: All this is to be done before any Problem can be wrought on the Globe.

To Rectify a Nativity, (in Aſtrol.) is to bring the eſtimated and ſuppoſed Time of a Perſon's Birth, to the real and true one.

Rectifying of Curves, (in Mathem.) is the finding a ſtraight Line equal to a curved or crooked one, or a Plane equal to a curved Surface.

Rectilineal Angle, (in Geom.) an Angle, that conſiſts of Right Lines.

Rectilineal, or Right-lined Figures, ſuch as have their Extremities or ends all Right-lines,

Recti Minores, (in Anat.) two ſmall Muſcles of the Head, which appear both in ſight at once: They ariſe from the hinder part of the firſt Vertebræ of the Neck, and are let into the middle of the Os Occipitis, in two ſhallow Depreſſures or ſinking Parts of the ſaid Bone.

Recti Interni Minores. See Annuates Muſculi.

Rectitude, Rightneſs, Straightneſs; as The Rectitude of a Line; alſo Uprightneſs, Juſtice, Honeſty.

Rectitudo, (Lat.) Rightneſs, Uprightneſs, Evenneſs: In old Law-Records. Rectitudines is taken for Rights or legal Dues, belonging either to God or Man.

Recto, the Name of a Writ of Right, not only to recover the Poſſeſſion of Lands or Tenements, which a Man had, or ſome of his Anceſtours, but alſo the Property, whereof the Anceſtour was not ſeized or poſſeſſed, as of Fee, at his Death.

Recto de Advocatione Eccleſiæ, a Writ of Right lying where a Man has Right of Advowſon, but the Parſon of the Church dying, a Stranger preſents his Clerk, and the former not having brought his Action of Quare Impedit or Darrein Preſentment within ſix Months, ſuffer'd the Stranger to uſurp upon him.

Recto de Cuſtodia Terræ & Hæredis, was a Writ that lay for one whole Tenant holding of him in Chivalry died under Age, againſt a Stranger that enter'd upon the Land, and took the Body of the Heir. 'Tis now become uſeleſs as to Lands holden in Capite, or by Knights-Service, but not where there is a Guardian in Socage, or appointed by the laſt Will and Teſtament of the Anceſtour.

Recto de Dote, a Writ of Right of Dower, which lies for a Woman that has receiv'd a part of her Dower, and deſigns to demand the Remainder in the ſame Town againſt the Heir or his Guardian, if he be a Ward.

Recto de Dote unde nihil habet, a Writ that lies where the Husband having divers Lands and Tenements has ſettled no Dower on his Wife, and ſhe is forc'd to ſue for her Thirds againſt the Heir.

Recto quando Dominus remiſit, a Writ that lies for the Demandant or Tenant, where Lands or Tenements belonging to the Seigniory or Juriſdiction of any Lord, are in demand by a Writ of Right; and the Lord holding no Court, or otherwiſe at the Requeſt of either of the Parties, has ſent the Writ to the Queen's Court to have the Cauſe try'd there for that time, ſaving to himſelf at other times the Right of his Seigniory.

Recto de rationabili parte, a Writ that lies between Privies of Blood, as Brothers or Siſters in Gavelkind, or other Coparceners, and for Land in Fee Simple; ſo that when one Party enters upon all the Land and Deforces or forceably keeps out the other, the Party ſo deforced ſhall have this Writ to recover part.

Recto ſur Diſclaimer, a Writ that lies where a Lord in the Queen's Court of Common Pleas avows upon his Tenant, and the Tenant diſclaims or diſowns to hold of him; upon which Diſclaimer the Lord ſhall have this Writ, and if he prove that the Land is holden of him, he ſhall recover the ſaid Land for ever.

Rector, a Governour or Ruler; the chief of a Foreign Univerſity, or of a Convent of Jeſuits: Alſo the Principal or Head of a College in England: Alſo a Parſon that has the Charge of a Pariſh-Church, whoſe Office is to take care of the Pariſhioner's Souls, to preach, to adminiſter the Holy Sacraments, to viſit the Sick, &c.

Rectorial, belonging to a Rector or Rectory.

Rectory, a Spiritual Living or Parſonage, with all its Rights, Tithes, Glebes, and other Profits.

Rectum or Commune Rectum, (in old Latin Writers,) a Tryal at Law, or in common Courſe of Law.

Rectum Inteſtinum, (in Anat.) the ſtraight Gut, which begins at the firſt Vertebra or a Turning-Joynt of the Os Sacrum, and goes directly downward to the end of the Rump, or the utmoſt end of the Back-bone.

Rectus Femoris, a Muſcle of the Leg ſo nam'd from its ſtraight Situation and Progreſs: It ariſes from a little Knob of the Os Ilium, and at the Patella or Knee-pan, is united with the Tendons of the Vaſtus Externus and Internus, and Cruræus; with which it is inſerted to the upper part of the Bone call'd Tibia.

Rectus Internus Major, a Muſcle of the Head, which takes Riſe from the fore-part of all the Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Neck, except the firſt and ſecond; but has its Inſertion to the Fore-Appendix of the Os Occipitis, near the Hole that ſends forth the oblongated Marrow.

Rectus Internus Minor, a Muſcle of the Head, which with its Partner appears on the fore-part of the firſt Vertebræ, as the Recti Minores do on the back-part, and ſprings near its Tranſverſe Proceſſes; from whence aſcending directly, it is let into the Fore-Appendix of the Os Occipitis, immediately under the former.

Rectus Lateralis, a ſhort thick fleſhy Muſcle of the Head, ariſing from the upper part of the end of the Tranſverſe Proceſs of the firſt Vertebra of the Neck, between the former and the Obliquus Superior; whence it aſcends directly, and is implanted to the Os Occipitis, in the Space made by the Proceſſus Mammillaris and Styloides.

Rectus Major, a Muſcle of the Head, which taking riſe from the upper Part of the double Spines of the ſecond Vertebræ of the Neck, becomes broader in its Aſcent, and is inſerted to the hinder part of the Os Occipitis.

Rectus Muſculus, is alſo one of the Muſcles of the Abdomen or lower Belly, ſo call'd from the Uprightneſs of its Poſition: Its uſe in common with the other Muſcles of this Part, is to help drive out the Ordure and Urine, by preſſing the Belly.

Rectus Palpebræ Superioris, a Muſcle that lifts up the upper Eye-lid.

Rectus in Curia, (i. e. Right in Court) a Law-Phraſe, as when one ſtands at the Bar, and no Man objects any thing againſt him: Alſo when an Outlawry is reverſed, ſo that the outlawed Perſon may again partake of the Benefit of the Law, he is ſaid To be rectus in Curia.

Recumbency, a relying or depending upon; as He had a great Recumbency upon his Promiſe.

† Recuperation, a Recovering.

Recuperator, (among the Romans) a Commiſſioner or Judge appointed by the Prætor to examine private Matters; a Judge Delegate.

To Recur, to run back, or return.

Recurrent Nerves, certain Nerves which Dr. Willis takes to be a diſtinct Pair by it ſelf; but it is uſually reckon'd a Branch of the Par vagum or eighth Pair, ſpringing out of their Trunks, and ſo nam'd, becauſe firſt they deſcend, and then aſcend again to ſupply the Muſcles of the Larynx: Theſe Nerves are alſo call'd Vocal by ſome, becauſe they are ſpent upon the Organs or Inſtruments of Speech.

Recurrents, or Recurrent Verſes, ſuch Verſes as are read the ſame backward and forward; as Roma tibi ſubito motibus ibit amor.

Recurſion, a running back.

Recuſancy, the State of Recuſants or Non-Conformiſts.

A Recuſant, a Roman Catholick ſo call'd from refuſing to ſubmit to the Diſcipline of the reformed Church: But the Law comprehends under this Name all that ſeparate from the eſtabliſh'd Church of England of whatever Sect or Opinion.

Red, a lively Colour repreſenting the Quality of Fire, which is expreſs'd in Heraldry by Gules, Ruby and Mars.

Red Book of the Exchequer, an ancient Manuſcript Volume, that contains ſeveral Treatiſes on divers Subjects, and is in the keeping of the Queen's Remembrancer in the Office of Exchequer.

Red-Gums, certain red Spots, to which new-born Infants are ſubject.

Red-ſhank, a Bird that has red Legs and Feet.

Red-ſtart, another Bird ſo call'd from its red Tail; the word Stert in Saxon ſignifying a Tail.

Red-ſtreak, a ſort of Apple, of which the beſt Cider is made.

Redan or Redent, (Fr. in Fortif.) an indented Work made in Form of the Teeth of a Saw with Salient and Re-entring Angles that flank or defend one another. Theſe Works are uſually raiſ'd on the ſides of a Place that lie next a Marſh or River. See Indented Line.

Reddendum, (Lat. i. e. to be yielded, to be paid) a Law-word us'd for the Clauſe in a Leaſe, &c. whereby the Rent is reſerved to the Leſſor.

Redditarium, a Rental, a Book or Roll, in which the Rent and Services of a Manour or other Eſtate are ſet down.

Redditarius, a Renter, a Tenant.

Reddition, a giving again or reſtoring; the Surrender or ſurrendring of a Place. In a Law-ſenſe, a Judicial Confeſſion and Acknowledgment, that the Land or Thing in Queſtion belongs to the Demandant, or at leaſt not to the Perſon ſo ſurrendring.

Redditus, (Lat.) Revenue, Rent.

Redditus Albi & Nigri. See Rents of Aſſize.

Redditus Aſſiſus, a ſet or ſtanding Rent.

To Redeem, to buy off, to purchaſe again, to recover.

Redeemable, that may be redeemed.

Redeemer, Ranſomer, Deliverer, Saviour; as Chriſt the Redeemer of Mankind.

To Redeliver, to deliver or give up again.

To Re-demand, to demand, aſk or require again.

Redemption, a redeeming or ranſoming, a purchaſing the Freedom of another from Bondage.

† Redevable, (Fr.) indebted, obliged or beholding to.

Redintegrated, (Lat.) begun a-freſh, renewed, ſet on foot a-new.

Redintegration, a making whole again, a renewing; as A redintegration of Kindneſs. In Chymiſtry, a reſtoring any Mixt Body, whoſe Form is deſtroyed, to its former Nature and Conſtitution, and ſo as that it may have the Properties it had before.

Rediſſeiſin, (Law-Term) a Diſſeiſin made by one, who once before was adjudged to have diſſeiſed, or unlawfully put the ſame Perſon out of the Poſſeſſion of his Lands or Tenements; for which there lies a ſpecial Writ, call'd a Writ of Rediſſeiſin.

Redituaries, (Lat.) a certain Order of Friers, being a Branch of the Franciſcans.

Redolent, yielding a ſweet Smell or Scent, perfumed.

† Redonation, a giving back, or reſtoring that which was taken away.

To Redouble, to double again, to encreaſe, to repeat; to come again with greater Force; to grow more violent.

Redoubt or Redoute, (Fr. in Fortif.) a ſmall Fort of a ſquare Figure, that has no Defence but in the Front; its uſe being to ſecure the Lines of Circumvallation, Contravallation and Approach: In marſhy Grounds, theſe Redoubts are often made of Maſon's Work, and are alſo ſet before the Counterſcarp to keep off the Enemy, and cover the Sallies of the Garriſon.

† Redoubted, much feared, dreadful.

To Redound, to abound over and above, to be ſuperfluous, to turn to, or light upon.

To Redreſs, to ſet to rights again, to reform Abuſes, to remove Grievances.

To Redreſs a Stag, (a Term in Hunting) to put him off his Changes.

Redubbers, (Law-Word) thoſe that buy Cloath which they know to be ſtollen, and change it into ſome other Form or Colour.

To Reduce, (Lat.) to bring back, to reſtore, to bring or turn into, to bring under one's Dominion, to ſubdue or bring to ſubjection.

Reducible, that may be reduced.

Reducing Scale, a Mathematical Inſtrument us'd by Surveyors, to reduce any Map or Draught, being a thin broad Piece of Box, with ſeveral different Scales of equal Parts, to turn Chains and Links into Acres and Roods upon Sight.

Reduct, a Chymical Term ſignifying a Powder, by which calcin'd Metals and Minerals are diſſolved and reduc'd again to their Regulus or pure Subſtance: Alſo a Term in Fortification. See Reduit.

Reductio ad Impoſſibile. See Apagogical Demonſtrations.

Reduction, a reducing or bringing back. In Arithmetick, Reduction is a particular way of reducing Money, Weights, Meaſures or the like into their leaſt or greater Parts, which are in common uſe, in order to find how many Pieces of one kind are equal in Value, to a given Number in another; and this Rule is either Deſcending or Aſcending.

Reduction Deſcending, performed by Multiplication, is when ſome Integers of a Number of a greater Denomination being given, it is requir'd to find how many Integers of a leſſer Denomination are equal in Value to that given Number of the greater: As when it is propos'd to find how many Shillings are contain'd in 20 Pounds, likewiſe how many Pence in 220 Shillings, or how many Hours in 365 Days, &c.

Reduction Aſcending, is when ſome Integers of a leſſer Demonination being given, it is demanded to find how many Integers of a greater Denomination are equal in Value, to that given Number of the leſſer: As when it is requir'd to find how many Pence are contain'd in 500 Farthings, how many Shillings in 348 Pence, or how many Days in 864 Hours, &c. and this is perform'd by Diviſion.

In Aſtronomy, Reduction, is the Difference between the Argument of Inclination, and the Eccentrical Longitude, that is to ſay, the Difference of the two Arches of the Orbit, and the Ecliptick, comprehended between the Node, and the Circle of Inclination.

Reduction of Equations, (in Algebra) is the reducing them into a proper Diſpoſition, in Order to their Solution; by clearing them from all ſuperfluous Quantities, and ſeparating the known Quantities from the unknown, to the end that at length every reſpective Equation may remain in the feweſt and ſimpleſt Terms; the known Quantity or Quantities poſſeſſing one part of it, and the unknown the other.

Reductive, that ſerves to reduce, as, A reductive Salt, made uſe of by Chymiſts.

Reduit, (Fr.) a By-place, Nook or Corner in an Apartment. In Fortification, Reduit or Reduct, is an advantageous piece of Ground, intrenched and ſeparated from the reſt of the Place, to retire to in caſe of Surprize.

Redundancy, (Lat.) a being redundant, Exceſſiveneſs, Superfluity.

Redundant, overflowing, abounding, very plentiful, exceeding, ſuperfluous.

Redundant Nouns, (in Grammar) are thoſe that have a Number or particular Caſe more than is uſual.

Reduplication, a redoubling: In Rhetorick, a Figure when one part of a Verſe or Sentence ends in the ſame Word, with which the following begins; as, The World counts nothing ſo deſpicable as Poverty; Poverty, a lingering ſort of Death.

Reduplicative, that ſerves to expreſs, a Redoubling or Repetition.

Reduplicate Pronouns, (in Grammar) are ſuch as I my ſelf, Thou thy ſelf, He himſelf, &c.

Reduplicative Propoſitions, (in Logick) are thoſe in which the Subject is repeated, Thus Men as Men are rational, Kings as Kings are ſubject to none but God.

Reduvia, (Lat.) the looſeneſs and cleft of the Skin about the root of the Nails; alſo the Slough or a caſt Skin of a Serpent.

Reduvius, the Sheep's Teck, an Inſect, which lives a whole Year in a ſhorn Fleece, and lays Eggs of a red Colour.

Ree, a Portugueſe Coin, of which 40 make 1 Ryal or 6 Pence in Engliſh Money.

To Ree or Ray, (Country-Word) to handle Corn in a Sieve, ſo as the chaffy or lighter part may gather to one Place.

Reed, the long Graſs that grows in Fens or watery Places; among Husbandmen, it is Straw bound up for thatching, and by ſome call'd Helm: Alſo a Jewiſh Meaſure of three Yards and three Inches.

To Re-edify, to rebuild, or build up again.

Reef, (Sea-Term) When there is a great Gale of Wind, the Mariners commonly roll up part of the Sail below, to the end that it may become the narrower, and not draw ſo much Wind: And this tucking up the Sail they call a Reef, or Reefing the Sail; and when it is done, the Sail is ſaid To be reefed.

Reefed Top-maſt, is when a Top-maſt being ſprung, i.e. crackt or almoſt broken in the Cap, they cut off the lower piece that was near broken off, and ſet the other part, now much ſhorter, in the Step again.

Reek, Steam, or Vapour: In Country-Affairs, a Mow, or Heap of Corn, Hay, &c. laid up for its Preſervation.

Reek-Stavel, a Frame of Wood ſet on Stones, upon which ſuch a Mow is raiſed.

To Reek, to caſt a Steam or Smoak.

To Re-enforce, See to Re-inforce.

To Re-enter, to enter upon, or take Poſſeſſion of again.

Re-ent'ring Angle, a Term in Fortification. See Angle.

Re-entry, (in Common Law) the reſuming, or taking Poſſeſſion again of what one had lately forgone.

To Re-eſtabliſh, to eſtabliſh, or ſettle again; to reſtore to its former State or Condition; to repair.

Re-eſtabliſhment, a re-eſtabliſhing, or repairing; Reſtauration, Recovery.

Reeve or Reve, (Sax.) the Bailiff of a Franchiſe or Manour.

To Reeve, a Sea-Term, ſignifying to put in, or pull thro'; as, A Rope reeved thro' a Block or Pulley.

Re-examination, (Lat.) a ſecond Examination.

To Re-examine, to examine again, or anew.

Re-extent, (Law-Term,) a ſecond Extent on Lands, or Tenements, upon Complaint made that the former was partially performed. See Extent.

Refection, a refreſhing, a Repaſt, or Meal.

Refectives, Medecines that refreſh and renew Strength.

Refectory, or Refectuary, a Room in a Monaſtery, where the Friers, or Nuns eat together.

To Refel, to diſprove by Arguments, to confute, or prove falſe.

To Refer, to ſend back, to direct to a Paſſage in a Book, to leave to one's Judgment, or Determination; to put a Buſineſs into the Hands of another, in order to be conſidered, or managed.

Referee, a Perſon to whom a Buſineſs is referred in Law.

Reference, a certain Mark in a Book, referring the Reader to another Place: Alſo the making up of a Difference by Referees, or Arbitrators.

Referendary, (among the Romans) an Officer that made Report of Petitions, or Requeſts, preſented to the Emperour, and of his Anſwer, or Pleaſure therein: The like Officer belong'd to the Court of our ancient Saxon Kings, and is now under the Maſter of Requeſts at the German Emperour's and Pope's Courts; as alſo at the Courts and Parliaments of France.

Referrible, that may be referred to.

To Refine, to make finer, to purge and purify, eſpecially Metals by melting, or Liquors by drawing them off from the Lees.

To Refine upon, to grow nice, to handle nicely, to make Critical Remarks.

To Refit a Ship, to fit it out again; to make it fit for farther Service.

To Reflect, to beat, or ſend back Light or Heat, to return, or redound.

To Reflect upon a Perſon, to be ſharp upon him, or to abuſe him. To Reflect upon a Thing, to make a Remark upon it, to think of it ſeriouſly.

Reflected Ray or Ray of Reflection, is that by which the Reflection is made upon the Surface of a reflecting Body.

Reflected Viſion. See Viſion.

Reflection, or Reflexion, a beating, or returning back; Conſideration, Meditation; alſo Cenſure, Reproach, or Abuſe.

In Metaphyſicks, (according to Mr. Lock's Definition,) Reflection, is that Notice which the Mind takes of its own Operations, and the manner of them, by reaſon whereof there come to be Ideas of thoſe Operations in the Underſtanding.

In Natural Philoſophy, Reflection, is the regreſs, or return that happens to a moving Body, occaſion'd by the meeting of another Body, which it cannot penetrate, or pierce. Thus the material Rays of Light are variouſly reflected from ſuch Bodies as they cannot paſs through.

Reflection, (in Catoptricks) is when a Ray of Light falling on a hard or poliſhed Body, is reflected or turned back into the Air, in an Angle equal to that of its Incidence: So the Beams of the Sun falling upon a Looking-glaſs are reflected back. See Angle of Reflection.

Reflection of the Moon, (according to Bullialdus) is her third inequality of Motion, which Tycho Brahe calls by the Name of her Variation.

Reflecting, or Reflexive Dials, are made by a little piece of Looking-glaſs Plate, duly placed, ſo as to reflect the Sun's Rays on the top of a Cieling, &c. where the Dial is drawn.

Reflecting Teleſcope. See Teleſcope.

Reflexive, capable of reflecting, apt to beat, or return back.

Reflexivity, a being reflexive, the Quality of that which reflects, as The Reflexivity of the Clouds.

To Reflow, to flow, or run back.

Reflux of the Sea, the flowing back, or ebbing of the Water off from Shore; as its flowing, or coming on upon it is called the Flux of the Sea. See Tide.

† Refocillation, a comforting, reviving, or cheriſhing.

Reform, Reforming, Reformation; alſo a diſbanding ſome part of an Army.

To Reform, to put in the old, or in a better Form, to mend, to reſtore the ancient Diſcipline in the Church or State, or in a private Family: Alſo to take up, or return from ill Courſes, to an orderly Way of Living.

In Military Affairs, to Reform, is to reduce a Body of Men, either diſbanding the Whole, and putting the Officers and Soldiers into other Bodies, or only breaking a Part, and retaining the reſt.

In Falconry, a Hawk is ſaid To Reform, when ſhe prunes or picks her Feathers. See To Prune.

Reformado, or Reformed Officer, an Officer whoſe Company or Troop is diſbanded, and yet he continu'd in whole or half Pay; ſtill being in the way of Preferment, and keeping his Right of Seniority: Alſo a Gentleman, who ſerves as a Volunteer in a Man of War, in Order to learn Experience, and ſucceed the Principal Officers.

Reformation, the Art of Reforming, an amendment of Manners, Errours, or Abuſes; alſo the Time when the Reformed, or Proteſtant Religion was firſt eſtabliſh'd.

Reformer, a Perſon that reforms.

Reformists, Monks, whoſe Diſcipline, or Rules have been reformed.

Refractary, or Refractory, Obſtinate, Unruly, Headſtrong, Wilful.

Refracted, broken back again, as A refracted Beam: Thus a Ray of Light, paſſing out of the Air into the Water, is ſaid To be refracted. See Refraction.

Refracted Angle, (in Opticks) is the Angle contained between the Refracted Ray, and the Perpendicular.

Refracted Dial, a kind of Dial drawn in a concave, or hollow Bowl, ſo that the Hour-Lines may ſhew the true Hour, when the Bowl is fill'd with Water, or ſome other Liquor.

Refracted Viſion. See Viſion.

Refraction, (in Philoſ.) is the bowing, and bending, or change of Determination in the Body moved; which happens to it, whilſt it enters or pierces thro' any Medium.

In Dioptricks, Refraction, is the variation of a Ray of Light, from that Right-line in which its Motion would have continu'd, were it not for the reſiſtances made by the thickneſs of the Medium, thro' which it paſſes, ſo as to hinder its ſtraight Courſe, and turn it aſide.

Refraction from the Perpendicular, is when a Ray falling inclined from a thicker Medium into a thinner, as from Glaſs into Air; in breaking, departs farther from that Perpendicular.

Refraction to the Perpendicular, is when a Ray falling inclined from a thinner or more tranſparent Medium, upon a thicker or leſs tranſparent, as from Air upon Water; in breaking, comes nearer the Perpendicular, drawn from the Point of Incidence, at Right Angles on the Surface of the Water, in which the Refraction is made.

Aſtronomical Refraction, is a Refraction caus'd by the Atmoſphere, or Body of the Air; ſo that a Star ſeems riſen higher above the Horizon, than really it is.

Horizontal Refraction, is that which makes the Sun or Moon appear juſt on the Edge of the Horizon, when they are as yet ſomewhat below it.

Angle of Refraction. See Angle.

To Refrain, to bridle, to forbear, to keep one's ſelf from.

Refrane, a Spaniſh Proverb.

Refrangibility, (in Philoſ.) the Quality of that which is refrangible.

Refrangible, capable of being refracted.

Refrenation, properly a bridling, a checking, curbing, or holding in: The Word is us'd among Aſtrologers, when a Planet applying to another, by Conjunction, or Aſpect, before it draws near, becomes retrograde; by which means it is, as it were, pull'd back, and weaken'd.

To Refreſh, (Fr.) to recruit one's ſelf, to renew, or revive.

Refreſhment, that which ſerves to refreſh, as Proviſions, Victuals, &c.

Refret, the Burden of a Ballad, or Song.

Refrigerant. See Refrigeratory.

To Refrigerate, (in the Art of Phyſick) is to cool; as To refrigerate the Bowels.

Refrigeration, a refrigerating, refreſhing, or cooling.

Refrigerative, that ſerves to refrigerate, or that is of a cooling Quality.

A Refrigerative, a cooling Medicine, a Cooler.

Refrigeratory, or Refrigerant, (among Chymiſts) that part of an Alembick, or Diſtilling-Veſſel, which is plac'd about the Head of the Still, and fill'd with Water to cool it, that the ſpirituous Vapours may the more eaſily thicken into Drops, and deſcend thro' the Neck of the Veſſel.

Refuge, a Place of Safety to fly to, a Shelter.

Refugee, a French Proteſtant, fled from the late Perſecution in France.

Refulgency, Brightneſs, as of precious Stones.

Refulgent, ſhining, bright, glittering.

Refuſus Aquæ, (in ancient Writers) high Water, the return of a Stream when it is damm'd or ſtopt for the uſe of a Mill,

To Refund, to pay, or give back Money that was wrongfully paid; to pay back the Coſts, or Charges of a Law-Suit.

Refuſal, a refuſing, a Denial.

Refuſe, that droſſy Stuff which comes away from Oar or Metal, in the melting or trying of it; whence it is generally taken for the worſt of any thing, after the beſt has been culled out.

To Refuſe, to deny the granting of a Suit, or the acceptance of a thing offer'd in Payment, or by way of Preſent; to deny the doing of any thing.

Refutantia, (in old Latin Records) an Acquittance or Acknowledgment for renouncing all future Claim.

Refutatio Feudi, (in Civil Law) the loſs of a Feudal Tenure, by forfeiture; which is of two kinds; either by not performing the Service required, or by committing ſome villainous Act againſt the Lord or Sovereign.

Refutation, a refuting, a contrary Argument which deſtroys what the other alledg'd.

To Refute, to confute, to diſprove; to convince, or confound by Reaſon.

To Regain, to gain a ſecond time, to get again, to recover what one has loſt.

Regal, belonging to a King, or Queen; Royal, Kingly, Princely.

Regal Fiſhes, ſuch Fiſhes as belong to the Queen by her Prerogative, viz. Whales and Sturgeons, to which ſome add Porpoiſes.

Regal or Regalio, a noble Treat, or ſumptuous Entertainment.

To Regal or Regale, to treat Royally, to entertain with Princely Fare.

Regale, the French King's Prerogative to diſpoſe of Benefices during the Vacancy of a Biſhop's See. Among Chymiſts, Regale is taken for a kind of Cement with which Gold is purify'd.

Regale Epiſcoporum, (in old Records) the Temporal Rights and Legal Privileges of Biſhops.

Regalia, the Rights of a King or Queen; or the Enſigns of the Royal Dignity. See Royalty.

Regard, (Fr.) Conſideration, Reſpect, Account.

Regard of the Foreſt, the overſeeing and viewing of the Foreſt; alſo the Compaſs of it, i. e. all that Ground which is a part or Parcel of it.

To Regard, to look upon with Concern, to heed or conſider, to have reſpect to.

Regardant, (in Heraldry) a Lion or other Beaſt of Prey repreſented looking back behind him.

Regarder of the Foreſt, an Officer of the Queen's Foreſt, who is ſworn to make the Regard of it, as alſo to view and enquire of all Offences or Defaults committed by the Foreſters and all other Officers, concerning the Execution of their reſpective Offices.

Regel or Rigel, a fixed Star of the firſt Magnitude or Light in Orion's left Foot.

Regency, (Lat.) the Government of a Kingdom by one or more Subjects, during the King's or Queen's Minority or Abſence.

Regenerate, (a Term in Divinity) born a ſecond time, new-born: Thus we are ſaid to be regenerate by Baptiſm, and to become the Children of God thro' Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

To Regenerate, to beget again, to cauſe to be born again.

Regeneration, a being born again, a new and Spiritual Birth.

Regicide, a King-killer, or the Murder of a King.

Regifugium, a Feaſt celebrated every Year by the ancient Romans Feb. 24, in remembrance of the driving out of Tarquin the Proud, and the Overthrow of Kingly Government.

Regimen or Regiment, Government, Rule: In Grammar, the Caſes of a Noun govern'd by a Verb: Among Phyſicians, the Method to be obſerv'd by a Patient, with reſpect to his Diet, Bodily Exerciſe, &c.

Regiment, (in Military Affairs) a Body of ſeveral Troops of Horſe or Companies of Foot, commanded by a Colonel, which commonly conſiſts of ſeven or eight Troops of Horſe or Ten Companies of Foot, tho' ſometimes more, ſometimes fewer: So that the Number is as uncertain, as that of the Men in a particular Troop or Company.

Regiments of Guards. See Guards.

Regina Prati, (Lat. i. e. Queen of the Meadow) an Herb commonly call'd Meadow-ſweet.

Regio Aſſenſu, a Writ by which the King or Queen gives the Royal Aſſent to the Election of a Biſhop.

Region, a Country, Coaſt or Quarter. In Geography, a large extent of Land, inhabited by many People of the ſame Nation, and encloſed within certain Limits or Bounds: It is alſo taken for our Hemiſphere, or the ſpace within the four Cardinal Points of the Heavens or of the Air, &c.

Elementary Region, (according to Ariſtotle) is a Sphere bounded by the Moon's Orb, comprehending the Earth's Atmoſphere.

Ethereal or Celeſtial Region, (in Coſmogr.) is that vaſt Extent of the Univerſe which contains the Heavens with all their Hoſt; as The Sun, Moon and Stars, &c.

Planetary Region, that part of the Heaven, where the Neighbouring Planets move.

Regions, are alſo certain particular Diviſions of the Air, which are reckon'd to be three in Number, viz. the Upper, Middle and Lower.

The Upper Region of the Air, is that Part of it, which is above the tops of the higheſt Mountains on Earth: It is more pure, thin and Light, than the lower ones, as alſo free from Meteors and Exhalations.

The Middle Region, is that which reaches from the Tops of the higheſt Mountains down to the lower Air, in which we breath.

The Loweſt Region, is that Part of the Air which we live in, and which is bounded by the Reflection of the Sun-beams, or is ſuppoſed to reach as far as they are reflected or beat back again.

Some Anatomiſts divide the Cavities or hollow Spaces in an Animal Body into ſeveral Regions or Parts, which they diſtinguiſh into Publick and Private; but their Method is not much receiv'd: However the Abdomen, or lower Belly, is uſually diſtinguiſh'd into three Regions, viz. the Uppermoſt, Middle, and Lower.

Regiſter, a Memorial, a Book of publick Acts or Records; particularly one of our moſt ancient Law-Books, containing moſt of the Forms of the Writs us'd at Common Law; alſo an Officer that keeps Regiſters.

In the Art of Printing, Regiſter is a Rule for the equal Diſtribution of the Lines and Pages. Among Chymiſts, Regiſters are Holes left in the ſides of a Furnace, with Stopples to them, to let in or keep out the Air accordingly as the Fire is requir'd to be greater or leſs.

Regiſter of a Pariſh-Church, a Book wherein Baptiſms, Marriages and Burials are orderly regiſter'd in every Pariſh; which laudable Cuſtom was firſt eſtabliſh'd by Tho. Cromwell Earl of Eſſex, and Vicar General to King Henry VIII. A. D. 1538.

To Regiſter, to enter in a Regiſter, to record.

Regiſtry, properly a Place where any thing is laid up; the Office, Books and Rolls of a Regiſter, eſpecially thoſe in which the Proceedings of the Chancery, or any Spiritual Court are recorded.

Regius Morbus, (i. e. the Royal Diſeaſe) the Jaundice ſo call'd by the Latins, becauſe it is eaſily cur'd in King's Courts with the Paſtimes and Divertiſements there, which cheer the Mind.

Regius Profeſſor, (i. e. the King's or Queen's Profeſſour) a Title given in the Univerſity-Statutes to every Reader of thoſe five Lectures, viz. of Divinity, Hebrew, Greek, Law and Phyſick, which were founded by King Henry VIII. in each Univerſity.

To Regorge, to bring or caſt up, to vomit.

Regrate, (old Word) Courteſie, Eſteem.

Regrater or Regrator, a Law-word formerly us'd for one that bought by the Great, and ſold by Retail; but it now ſignifies one that buys and ſells again any Wares or Victuals in the ſame Market or Fair, or within five Miles of it: Alſo one that trims up old Wares for Sale; a Broker, or Huckſter.

Regrateria, (in old Records) Regatery or ſelling out by Retail.

Regreſs, returning or coming back; as To have free Egreſs and Regreſs.

Regret, (Fr.) Grief, Sorrow, Concern for the loſs or wanting of a thing; Reluctancy, or Unwillingneſs to do a thing.

To Regret, to lament, bewail, [illegible].

Regula, (Lat.) a Rule, a Pattern; In our old Records, it is often uſ'd for the Book of Rules, Statutes or Orders of a Monaſtery or religious Houſe, and ſometimes for the Martyrology or Obituary.

Regula Rei & Cenſus. See Coffe or Coffet.

Regular, that is according to a certain Rule, orderly, exact or punctual.

Regulars or Regular Clergy, ſuch as live under ſome certain Rule of Obedience, and lead a Monaſtick Life; as Abbots, Monks, Regular Canons, &c. in which reſpect they are diſtinguiſh'd from the Secular, that have ordinary Converſation with the People of the World, and take upon them the Cure of Souls, but are not ſubject to any Rule of Religious Orders; as Biſhops, Pariſh-Prieſts, &c.

Regular Attack. See Attack.

Regular Baſtion. See Baſtion.

Regular Bodies, a Term in Geometry. See Body.

Regular Curves. See Curves.

Regular Decagon. See Decagon.

Regular Figures, ſuch Figures as have their Sides and Angles all equal one to another: Whence all Regular many-ſided Planes are Regular Polygons.

Regular Fortification. See Fortification.

Regularity, agreeableneſs to the Rules; Exactneſs, ſtrict Order.

To Regulate, to govern, order, direct or guide; to frame or ſquare, to determine or decide; to maintain good Diſcipline in an Army or Family.

Regulation, the Act of regulating.

Regulator, a Perſon that regulates or directs: In Mechanicks, a ſmall Spring belonging to the Ballance of new Pocket-Watches.

Regulus, (Lat.) a petty King, Prince, or Duke, alſo the Baſilisk or Cockatrice, a Serpent; alſo a little Bird call'd a Wren. Alſo the Name of a fixed Star, the ſame as Baſilicus; which See.

Regulus or Regule, (among Chymiſts) is the moſt fixed and hardeſt Matter of a Metal or Mineral, found after Tryal, at the bottom of the Crucible, and clear'd from the Faces or Dregs; ſo termed, as being the Royal or noble part of the Mixt Body; as Regulus of Gold, Antimony, Arſenick, &c.

Rehabilitation, a re-enabling or reſtoring to a former Ability; as the Pope's Bull for re-enabling a Clergy-man, to exerciſe his Function, who was formerly diſabled.

Rehearſal, Relation, Report; alſo private practiſing; as The Rehearſal of a Play.

To Rehearſe, to relate or tell, to repeat, to practiſe in private in order to publick Performance.

Rehoboam, (Heb. the Breach of the People) King Solomon's Son and Succeſſour.

To Reject, (Lat.) to caſt off, to refuſe; to ſlight, or deſpiſe.

Rejectable, that may be rejected.

Rejection, a rejecting or caſting off.

To Reign, to rule as a King or Soveraign Prince, to have the Sway, to be in vogue.

To Re-imbark, to go a ſecond time on Shipboard, to take Shipping again. To Re-imbark in new Troubles, to engage one's ſelf again in freſh Diſorders.

To Re-imburſe, to repay or pay back again.

Re-imburſement, the Act of repaying, &c.

Re-impreſſion, a ſecond Impreſſion or Edition of a Book.

Reinard, (Fr.) a Word uſ'd in burleſque Poetry for a Fox; morally taken for a Man of Sleight and Cunning to ſurprize or inſnare others.

To Re-infect, to infect or corrupt again.

Re infecta, (Lat. i. e. without doing any thing) as The Ambaſſadors return'd re infecta, i. e. without Succeſs or ſpeeding in their Affairs.

To Re-inforce, to add new Force or Strength, to ſtrengthen again, to recruit.

Re-inforced Ring, (in Gunnery) the next Ring above the Touch-hole.

Re-inforcement, a re-inforcing; Recruit, Supply.

To Re-ingratiate one's ſelf with one, to get into his Favour again.

Reins or Kidneys, certain Bowels of a fleſhy Subſtance, whoſe Office is to ſtrain the Urine into the Pelves or Baſons in the middle of their Body, and to cauſe it to run thro' the Veſſels call'd Ureters into the Bladder.

Reins, are alſo two long Slips of Leather faſten'd on each ſide of a Curb or Snaffle, which the Rider holds in his Hand, to keep a Horſe in ſubjection.

To Re-inſtate, to reſtore to the former State, or Condition; to re-eſtabliſh or ſettle again.

To Rejoyce, to fill with Joy, to Delight; to be merry or glad.

To Rejoyn, to joyn again, or to get together again; to reply, or make a ſecond Anſwer.

Rejoynder, a Law-word, eſpecially uſ'd in Chancery, for a ſecond Anſwer made by the Defendant; or an Exception to a Replication; the Civilians call it Duplicatio.

Reiſters, a Name given to the German Horſe, that came into France, during the Regency of Queen Catharine de Medicis.

Reit, (old Word) Sedge, or Sea-weed.

To Re-iterate, (Lat.) to repeat, to do or ſay the ſame thing over again.

Re-iteration, the Act of re-iterating.

Reke, (old Word) to care for; as I reke not ſuch a thing.

Relais, a French Term in Fortification, the ſame as Berme and Foreland; which See.

Relapſe, a falling or ſliding back again; but it is moſt commonly taken for a falling back into any Diſeaſe or Sickneſs: Or elſe in a Theological Senſe, for a falling back into the ſame Hereſie which one has before abjur'd.

To Relapſe, to fall ſick again; to commit the ſame Fault.

To Relate, to tell or give an Account of; to belong to, to be agreable or anſwerable. In a Law-ſenſe, Bills of Parliament, to which the Queen Aſſents on the laſt Day of the Seſſion, are ſaid to relate and be of force from the firſt Day of the beginning of the Parliament. See Relation.

Relation, Rehearſal, an Account of ſome Adventure, Hiſtory, &c. alſo Reſpect, Regard, Agreeableneſs; alſo Kindred or being of Kin, a Kinſman or Kinſwoman; as ſuch a one is my Relation. In Logick, it is one of the ten Predicaments or Accidents belonging to Subſtance.

In Common Law, Relation is when two Times, or other Things are conſider'd, as if they were all one; ſo that the following thing, is ſaid To take effect by Relation at the time preceding: Thus if A give a Writing to B to be deliver'd to C, as the Deed of A, when C has paid a Summ of Money; as ſoon as the Money is paid, and the Writing deliver'd, this ſhall be taken as the Deed of A, at the time when it was firſt deliver'd.

Relation Inharmonical, (in Muſical Compoſition) a harſh Reflection of Flat againſt Sharp in a croſs Form; viz. when ſome harſh and diſplea-ſing

ſing Diſcord is produc'd in comparing the preſent Note of another Part.

Relative, having Relation, or Nearneſs to ſome other thing.

Relative Gravity, the ſame as Specifick; which ſee.

Relative Propoſitions, (in Logick) thoſe that include ſome Relation and Compariſon; thus, Where the Treaſure is, there is the Heart; As much as thou haſt, ſo much art thou worth.

Relative Space. See Space.

Relative Terms, are when there is a kind of Oppoſition, yet ſuch, as that the one cannot be without the other; as Father and Son, Husband and Wife, Maſter and Servant.

A Relative, (in Grammar) is a Word (commonly a Pronoun) that in Concord, or Agreement anſwers to ſome fore-going Word (generally a Noun Subſtantive) which is therefore call'd an Antecedent; as, Gemma quam mihi dediſti, the Jewel which thou gaveſt to me.

To Relax, to looſen, or ſlacken; to yield, or give way; to grow remiſs, or ſlack.

Relaxantia, looſening Medicines, the ſame as Chalaſtica.

Relaxation, looſening, ſlackening, a giving one's ſelf ſome Reſt from Labour, Reſpit, Breathing-time: In a Law-ſenſe, a Releaſe or Diſcharge, an Abatement, or releaſing of Canonical Puniſhments. In Anatomy, a dilatation, or widening of the Parts, or Veſſels of the Body.

Relay, (a Term in Hunting) the Place where the Dogs are put in readineſs, to be caſt off when the Game comes that Way; alſo the Cry, or Kennel of Relay-Hounds.

Relays, is alſo ſometimes taken for freſh Horſes, or the Stage where they are kept.

Releaſe, a Diſcharge, a ſetting at Liberty; a general Acquittance. In Common Law, an Inſtrument, or Deed, by which Eſtates, Rights, Titles, Entries, Actions, &c. are ſometimes extinguiſhed, ſometimes transferred, ſometimes inlarged, and ſometimes abridged; and it is either in Fact, or in Law.

Releaſe in Fact, is that which the very Words expreſly declare. Releaſe in Law, is that which does acquit, by way of Conſequence or Intendment of Law.

To Releaſe, to ſet at Liberty, to let go, to free from.

Releaſement, a releaſing, or diſcharging; as Orders are come for the releaſement of Ships.

Relegation, a ſending away, and confining to ſome far Country; a Baniſhment for a time only.

To Relent, to abate, as the Extremity of Heat or Cold does; to ſweat, or give like Marble, or other Stone; to yield or give way, to be ſorry for, to grow pitiful or compaſſionate.

Relevation, a raiſing, or lifting up again.

Relicks, or Reliques, certain Remains of the Bodies, or Cloaths of Saints, preſerved by Roman Catholicks with great Veneration, but forbidden to be us'd, or brought into England, by ſeveral Statutes.

Relict, a Law-word for a Widow.

Relictâ Verificatione, (Law-Phraſe) as when a Defendant having pleaded, and the Iſſue being entred of Record, afterwards the Defendant relictâ Verificatione, i. e. relinquiſhing his Proof, or Plea, acknowledges the Action, and thereupon Judgment is enter'd for the Plaintiff.

Relief, charitable Aſſiſtance, afforded to one in Want, or Diſtreſs; Comfort, Succour, Supply, Redreſs at Law: Alſo a certain Fine, or Summ of Money, that in old Time the Tenant holding by Knight-ſervice, Grand-ſergeanty, or otherwiſe, and being at full Age at his Anceſtour's Death, was oblig'd to pay to his Lord upon his Entrance.

Relief, is alſo a Term in Carving, &c. See Relievo.

Relief of a Hare, (among Hunters) the Place where the Hare goes to feed in the Evening.

To Relieve, to ſupply the Wants and Neceſſities of another; to aid or aſſiſt, to ſuccour.

To Relieve the Guard or Trenches, (in Military Affairs) is to bring forth Men upon the Guard, or into the Trenches, and ſend thoſe to reſt that have been doing Duty there before.

Relievo or Relief, (Ital.) imboſſed Work, in Maſonry, Carving, Caſting, &c. which is of two ſorts, viz. Alto & Baſſo.

Alto Relievo, or High Relief, is when the Figures are made at length, according to the Life; or when the Images, or Repreſentations are cut, ſtamped, or otherwiſe wrought after ſuch a manner, that a conſiderable part of the Body is rais'd above the Plain on which they are formed.

Baſſo Relievo, Baſs or low Relief, is when only half a Body is repreſented, or when the Work is low, flat, or but a little raiſed: Thus when a Coin, or Medal has its Figure low, thin, and hardly diſtinguiſhable from the Plain, we ſay, Its Relief is low, and weak; but when 'tis much raiſed, it is ſaid To be bold, and its Relief ſtrong.

Religion, the Worſhip of a Deity, Piety, Godlineſs, Devotion; alſo the Sacredneſs of an Oath.

Religioniſt, one that profeſſes a Religion.

Religious, belonging to Religion, or to a Regular Order; Devout, Pious, Godly; alſo exact, ſtrict, or punctual in doing one's Duty, keeping Promiſes, &c.

Religious Houſes, are Houſes ſet a-part for Pious Uſes; as Churches, Monaſteries, Hoſpitals, and all other Places where Charity is extended to the relief of the Poor, and Orphans, or for the Exerciſe of Religion.

The Religious, or Religious Perſons, ſuch as enter into a Monaſtery, or Nunnery, to live there after a devout, and regular manner.

To Relinquiſh, to forſake, to yield up, or part with.

Reliquary, a Shrine, or Casket, in which the Relicks of deceaſed Saints are kept.

Reliquator, one that is in Arrears, or behind hand in his Accounts, or in making Payments.

Reliques. See Relicks.

Reliquiæ, (Lat.) Relicks, Remains, or Remainders: Alſo the Aſhes and Bones of the Dead, that remain'd after the burning of their Bodies, and which the ancient Romans kept very religiouſly in Urns, or Earthen Pots, and afterwards laid them up in Tombs.

To Reliſh, to give a Reliſh or Taſte, to have a good Savour; to approve or like, to be agreeable.

Reliſhable, that reliſhes, or taſtes well, that may be approved of.

Relloleum, a Word apply'd by ſome Chymiſts, to ſignifie a certain peculiar Virtue; as in the Herb St. John's Wort, the firſt Virtue is Heat, and ſerves to heal; the other being accidental, and occult, or hidden, is a Preſervative againſt Worms and Corruption.

Reluctancy, (properly a wreſtling, ſtruggling, or ſtriving againſt,) Averſeneſs, Unwillingneſs.

To Rely, to truſt, or intruſt, to depend upon.

To Remain, to be left, to ſtay or be behind, to be over and above.

The Remains, all that is left of a Perſon or Thing.

Remainder, that which remains, or is left: In a Law-ſenſe, an Eſtate limited in Lands, Tenements, or Rents, to be enjoy'd after the Expiration of another particular Eſtate. The Difference between a Remainder and a Reverſion is, that by the latter, after the appointed Term, the Eſtate returns to the Donor, or his Heirs, as the proper Fountain; whereas by a Remainder, it goes to ſome third Perſon, or a Stranger. In Mathematicks, Remainder is the Difference, or that which is left after the taking of a leſſer Quantity or Number from a greater.

To Remancipate, to ſell, or return a Commodity to him that firſt ſold it.

To Remand, to ſend for home, or to ſend back again.

Remanentes, or Remanſi, certain Words us'd in Doomſday-Record for appertaining, or belonging to; as, De hominibus qui huic manerio remanſi ſunt, i.e. Of the Men, or Tenants, belonging to the Manour.

Remark, (Fr.) Note, Obſervation, taking notice of; Note, or Worth.

Remarkable, worthy Remark, obſervable, notable.

Remedileſs, (Lat.) that is not to be remedied, paſs'd Remedy.

Remedy, Phyſick, Medicine; Cure, Help, Eaſe, Comfort; means for the redreſs of Diſorders, or Miſchiefs; ſhift in Misfortunes.

Remeligo. See Remora.

To Remember, to have in one's Memory, to call to Mind; to mind, or be mindful of.

Remembrance, Rememb'ring, Memory, as when the Idea of ſomething formerly known, preſents it ſelf again to the Mind, without the Operation of the like Object on the outward Senſory, or Inſtrument of Senſe.

Remembrancer, one that puts in Mind.

Remembrancers of the Exchequer, are three Officers, or Clerks there, viz. I. The Queen's Remembrancer, who enters into his Office all Recognizances taken before the Barons, for any of the Queen's Debts: He alſo takes all Bonds on the ſame account, or for Appearance, or for the obſerving of Orders, and makes out Proceſs for the breach of them.

II. The Lord Treaſurer's Remembrancer, whoſe Charge is to put the Lord Treaſurer, and the reſt of the Judges of that Court, in remembrance of ſuch Things as are to be called on and dealt in for the Queen's Benefit: He alſo makes Proceſs againſt all Sheriffs, Eſcheators, Receivers, and Bailiffs, for their Accounts, &c.

III. The Remembrancer of the Firſt Fruits, who takes all Compoſitions and Bonds, for Firſt Fruits, and Tenths, and makes Proceſs againſt ſuch as do not pay the ſame.

Reminiſcence, the Faculty, or Power of remembring, whereby ſuch Ideas, or Notions, as were once percieved, or imprinted on the Mind, but afterwards forgotten, are call'd again and brought freſh to its Remembrance.

Remiſs, negligent, ſlack, careleſs.

Remiſſible, that is to be remitted, pardoned, or forgiven; pardonable.

Remiſſion, Pardon, Forgiveneſs. Among Phyſical Writers, the abatement of the Efficacy, or Power of any Quality; and it is uſually oppos'd to Intenſion; which See.

To Remit, to ſend back, to return, to make a return of Money, &c. to forgive an Offence, or Debt; to yield, to abate, or grow leſs.

Remitment or Remittance, a return of Money, &c.

Remitter, (Law-Term) a reſtitution of one that has two Titles to Lands, or Tenements, and is poſſeſs'd of them by the latter; which proving defective, he is reſtor'd to the former, and more ancient Title; ſo that he may continue in quiet Poſſeſſion.

Remnant, that which remains, or is left of any thing.

Remonſtrance, a Complaint backed with Reaſons, an expoſtulary Declaration, more eſpecially made to a Prince or Superiour, ſhewing the Inconveniences, or ill Conſequences of a thing enjoyn'd, or propos'd to be done, &c. Alſo a Cloath, in which the Hoſt, or Sacrament is expos'd on a Popiſh Altar.

Remonſtrant, one that makes a Remonſtrance.

Remonſtrants, a Sect of Arminians in Holland, ſo call'd from their Remonſtrances in the Synod of Dort, &c.

To Remonſtrate, to ſhew by Reaſon and Inſtances, to make appear, to lay before.

Remora or Remeligo, the Ship-halter, a little Fiſh call'd a Sea-Lamprey, or Suck-ſtone, which was anciently thought to ſtick to the Keel of a Ship, and ſtop its Courſe: Whence Remora is taken for any Delay, Stop, Lett, or Hinderance; alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument to ſet a broken Bone.

Remora aratri, the Herb Reſt-harrow, or Cammock.

Remorſe, (q. d. a biting, or gnawing again) check, or ſting of Conſcience; Trouble of Mind, for the committing of evil Actions.

Remote, far diſtant.

Removable, that may be removed.

Removal, removing, change of Place or Abode.

To Remove, to Set or take away, to carry from one Place to another, to ſhift Lodgings.

To Remount, (Fr.) to mount again, to ſet or to get up again.

To Remount the Cavalry, (in Military Affairs,) to furniſh the Troopers with new Horſes, for thoſe that have been kill'd or diſabled.

Remulus, (Lat.) a little Oar: It is taken by ſome Anatomical Writers, for the narrow part of the Ribs, which joyns the Vertebræ, or Turning-joynts of the Back-bone.

To Remunerate, to recompence, reward, or requite.

Remuneration, the Act of Remunerating, or Rewarding.

Renal Artery, (in Anat.) an Artery, which is ſaid by ſome, to riſe out of the Aorta, and to enter the Kidneys, bringing to them the ſerous part of the Arterial Blood.

Renal Glandules, two flat and ſoft Glands, or Kernels, of the thickneſs of a Nut, above the Reins on each Side: They are otherwiſe called Renes Succenturiati, and Capſulæ Atrabiliariæ, becauſe they contain a blackiſh Liquor, which, as ſome think, ſerves, as it were Leaven for the Blood, to ſet it a working.

Renalis. See Adipoſa Vena.

Renard. See Reinard.

Rencounter, (Fr.) an accidental Meeting, an unexpected Adventure, a chance Fight, or Scuffle.

To Rencounter, to meet, or meet with.

Rends, (in a Ship) are the ſame as the Seams between her Planks.

To Rend, to tear, or pull in pieces; to divide by Factions, or Hereſies.

To Render, to return, to give, to yield, or give up; to turn, or tranſlate out of one Language into another: Alſo a Law-word, us'd in the levying of a Fine, which is either Single, whereby nothing is granted, or render'd back again by the Cogniſor to the Cogniſee; or Double, which contains a Grant, or Render back again, of ſome Rent, Common, or other thing out of the Land itſelf, to the Cogniſor.

In a Manour, ſome things are ſaid To lie in Render, i.e. ſuch as muſt be deliver'd and anſwer'd by the Tenants, as Rents, Reliefs, Heriots, and other Services; which are oppos'd to things which lye in Prender, i.e. that muſt be taken by the Lord, or his Officer, when they happen, as Eſcheats, Waifs, &c. See Prender.

Rendezvous or Rendevous, (Fr. i. e. render your ſelves) a Place appointed for the drawing up of a Company of Soldiers; alſo any Meeting-place, or an Appointment to meet.

Renegado, or Renegade, (Span.) one that has deny'd or renounced the Faith, or that has revolted from the Chriſtian Religion; a Chriſtian turned Turk, [illegible]

Renes, (Lat.) [illegible] or Kidneys, which [illegible] the Channels or [illegible] ariſing from the [illegible] or Vеnels that [illegible]

Renes Succenturiati, a ſort of Glandulous Bodies plac'd above the Kidneys, [illegible] is [illegible] They are otherwiſe call'd Glandulæ [illegible] Capſulæ [illegible] and Glandulæ [illegible] ſis, by [illegible]

To Renew, to make new or a-freſh.

Renewal, the Act of Renewing.

Renimed, or Running-mead, a famous Meadow in the County of Surrey, where the Barons of England aſſembled in great Numbers to claim their Liberties of King John, A. D. 1215.

Renitency, (Lat.) a reſiſting, or ſtriving againſt; In a Philoſophical Senſe, it is taken for that Reſiſtance which there is in ſolid Bodies, when they preſs upon, or are driven one againſt another; or the Reſiſtance that any heavy Body makes, by reaſon of its Weight, to a Man's Arm or Hand, when he is about to lift it up.

Rennet, a kind of Pippin, an Apple ſo call'd from Rennes a Town of Normandy in France.

Rennet, or Runnet, the Maw of a Calf, commonly uſed to turn Milk for Cheeſe-curds.

Renovation, (Lat.) a making new or freſh, a Renewal; the reſtoring of a Thing to the Condition in which it was before.

To Renounce, to forſake, to quit Claim, to give over; to deny abſolutely, or diſown, to revoke at Cards.

Renown, Fame, great Reputation or Note.

Rent, (in Common Law) ſignifies a Summ of Money, or other Conſideration iſſuing Yearly out of Lands or Tenements, of which there are three Sorts, viz. Rent-charge, Rent-ſeck, and Rent-ſervice.

Rent-charge, is where a Man makes over his Eſtate to another by Deed indented in Fee, Fee-tail, or for Term of Life; yet reſerves to himſelf by the ſame Indenture, a Summ of Money to be paid him Yearly, with a Clauſe of Diſtreſs for Non-payment.

Rent-ſeck, (i. e. a dry Rent) is that which a Man making over his Eſtate by Deed Indented, reſerves Yearly to be paid him, without any Clauſe of Diſtreſs contained in the Indenture.

Rent-ſervice, is where a Man holds Lands, &c. of his Lord by Fealty, and a certain Rent, or by Fealty, Service and Rent; or that which a Man making Leaſe to another for Term of Years, reſerves to be paid him Yearly upon that Account.

Rents of Aſſiſe, fixed or determined Rents, anciently paid by Tenants in a ſet Quantity of Money or Proviſions, and ſo call'd, becauſe they were aſſiſed, or made certain. Theſe were call'd Redditus Aſſiſæ de Aſſiſa, or Redditus Aſſiſus, and ſo diſtinguiſh'd from Redditus mobilis, or variable Rent, that did riſe and fall like the Corn-rent now reſerv'd to Colleges.

Rents Reſolute, ſuch Rents or Tenths as were payable to the Crown, from the Lands of Abbies, and Religious Houſes, and which after their Diſſolution were ſtill reſerved to the Crown.

Fee-farm Rent, and Quit-rent. See Fee-farm and Quit.

Renter-Warden, an Officer that receives the Rents and Profits belonging to a particular Company or Corporation.

To Renter, to ſow Cloth after a particular manner, to fine-draw.

Renunciation, a renouncing or diſclaiming of a Thing: Alſo a Term in the Canon-Law. See Reſignation.

Renunculus, (Lat.) a little Kidney; alſo the Flower commonly called Crow-foot.

To Reobtain, to obtain or get again.

Repaire, [illegible] reſorting; Among Hunters, [illegible] are the Haunts, or Places that the Hare repairs, or runs to.

To Repair, to mend a Building, to refit a Ship; to furbiſh a Sword, [illegible] recover; to give Satisfaction, or make Amends for; alſo to go, or betake one's ſelf.

Repairer, a Reſtorer, a maker new of a Thing; particularly an Artificer, that chaſes Figures in, and beautifies Sword-hilts, Buckles, Plate, &c.

Reparation, the Act of repairing, a mending, or making up again of things fallen to Decay; a making good of Damages, Satisfaction or Amends for Injuries, &c.

Reparatione facienda, a Writ that lies in divers Caſes, particularly, where three Perſons are Tenants in Common, or Joint Tenants of a Mill or Houſe which is fallen to Decay, and one is willing to repair it, but the other two will not conſent: In this Caſe, the Party willing ſhall have this Writ againſt the other two.

Repartee, (Fr.) a quick and witty Reply, a ſmart and ready Anſwer.

Repartition, (Lat.) a dividing or ſharing again; the regulating or adjuſting of a Tax laid upon ſeveral Perſons, ſo that none be over-burden'd.

To Repaſs, to paſs over again.

Repaſt, Food taken at certain Hours of the Day, eſpecially Dinner and Supper; a Meal.

Repaſtum, (In old Latin Records) one Meal's Meat given to Servile Tenants, when they were at work for their Lord.

To Repeal, to revoke, diſannual, or make void a Statute or Law.

Repeek or Peek & Repeek, a Term us'd in the Game at Cards call'd Picket, when the Player has a Fifteenth, fourteen by Kings, &c. and the Ruff, before he plays a Card.

To Repel, (Lat.) to beat, force, or drive back.

Repellentia, repellent Medicines, ſuch as allay the Swelling of a Part, and drive the Humours another Way.

To Repeople, to People, or Stock with People again.

Repercuſſion, a ſtriking or beating back; Reflection.

Repercuſſive, that ſerves to drive or beat back; as A repercuſſive Medicine, i. e. a Medicine that drives back any Humour or Flux by its cold and binding Quality.

Repertory, a Book in which things are methodically ſet down, for the ready finding of the ſame.

Repetition, a repeating, a ſaying the ſame thing over again; a Rehearſal: In Rhetorick, a Figure, when the Oratour thinking his firſt Expreſſion not ſufficiently underſtood, and being impatient to make his Hearers ſenſible of his Meaning, repeats or explains the Matter another Way.

Repetundarum Crimen or De Repetundis, a Crime ſometimes committed by the Magiſtrates among the ancient Romans, when they took Bribes, or exacted any thing contrary to Law from their Allies, or Subjects, or from the Citizens of Rome; Extortion, Bribery.

To Repine, to grieve, or grudge at.

To Replant, to plant, or ſet again.

Repleader, (Fr. Law-Term) to plead again to that which was once pleaded before.

Replegiare, (Lat.) to redeem a thing taken or detain'd by another by putting in Legal Sureties.

Replegiare de Averiis, a Writ brought by one, whoſe Cattel are diſtrained, or put in the Pound on any account, by another, upon Surety given to the Sheriff, to proſecute or anſwer the Action in Law.

To Repleniſh, a Term in Divinity, ſignifying to fill; as Repleniſh them with the Grace of thy Holy Spirit.

Replete, full; as A Foreſt replete with wild Beaſts.

Repletion, a being ſtuffed or filled up, ſaid of the Body over-charged with Humours, or of the Stomach over-loaded with Meat; a Surfeit.

Replevin or Replevy, the bringing of a Writ call'd Replegiari facias, by one that has his Cattel or other Goods diſtrained, and putting in Surety to the Sheriff, that upon Delivery of the thing diſtrained, he will purſue the Action againſt the Diſtrainer. Replevy is alſo us'd for the bailing of a Man.

To Replevin, to let one to Mainprize, or Bail upon Surety.

To Replevy, to recover by a Replevin; as To replevy a Diſtreſs, i. e. to recover Goods diſtrained.

Replication, a making a Reply, a ſecond anſwering; an Anſwer to an Objection, Diſcourſe, or Treatiſe: In a Law-ſenſe, an Exception of the ſecond Degree made by the Plaintiff upon the Defendant's firſt Anſwer: It is alſo that which the Plaintiff replies to the Defendant's Anſwer in Chancery.

To Reply, to anſwer, to make a Reply, Anſwer, or Repartee.

Reponces, (Fr.) a ſort of ſmall wild Radiſhes, that grow naturally in the Fields, and are eaten in Sallets.

Report, Talk, Tale, Story; Relation, Account, or Information; Reputation, Name; alſo the Noiſe of a Gun that is diſcharged: In a Law-ſenſe, a Relation of Caſes argued, debated or adjudged in any of the Queen's Courts of Juſtice, with the Cauſes and Reaſons of the ſame delivered by the Judges.

Alſo when the Chancery, or other Court refers the ſtating of ſome Caſe, or comparing an Account, to a Maſter in Chancery, or other Referree, ſuch a Certificate is call'd a Report.

Repoſe, Reſt, a ceaſing from Motion or Labour; Sleep, Quiet, Peace, Quietneſs of Mind.

To Repoſe, to put, or lay upon; to commit, or leave a thing to one's Care.

To Repoſe or Repoſe one's ſelf, to reſt, or take one's Reſt; to ſleep, or ſlumber.

Repoſition, a ſettling again: In Surgery, the reducing or ſetting of a Member put out of Joynt.

Repoſition of the Foreſt, an Act whereby certain Foreſt-Grounds made Purlieu, upon a ſecond View were laid to the Foreſt again.

Repoſitory, a Place where things are laid up and kept; eſpecially a Building, or Room ſet a-part for keeping a Collection of natural and artificial Rarities; as The Repoſitory in Greſham College, &c.

Repoſſeſſed, put in Poſſeſſion again.

To Reprehend, to reprove or rebuke, to blame, to find fault with.

Reprehenſible, that may be reprehended, reproveable.

Reprehenſion, a reprehending, controlling, or blaming; Reproof.

To Repreſent, to make appear, to ſhew, or lay before; to be in the Room of one, or ſupply his Place; to figurate, or be like to; as in Painting, carved Work, &c. to deſcribe, or expreſs.

Repreſentation, the Act of repreſenting, a Portraiture, Figure, Deſcription, &c.

Repreſentative, that ſerves to repreſent.

A Repreſentative, one who repreſents another's Perſon; thus the Members of the Houſe of Commons in Parliament, are the Repreſentatives of the People of England.

Repreſentment, a repreſenting, Repreſentation.

To Repreſs, to reſtrain, to keep back, or under, to curb or quell, to ſtop or ſtay.

Reprieve, to take back, ſuſpend, or reſpit a Malefactor, from the Execution and proceeding of the Law, for ſome time.

Reprimand, Reproof, Rebuke, Check.

To Reprimand, to reprove ſharply, and with Authority; to rebuke, check, or chide.

To Reprint, to print again.

Reprizal, or Reprizals, (Fr.) a taking again, a ſeizing upon an Equivalent for a Loſs ſuſtained upon another's Account. See Law of Mark.

Reprizalia, a Term us'd by the Civilians in the ſame Senſe. See Clarigatio.

Repriſe, a retaking; alſo the Repetition, upholding, or Burden of a Ballad, or Song.

In a Law-ſenſe Repriſes are certain Allowances, and Duties paid Yearly out of a Manour, and Lands; as Rent-charges, Penſions, Annuities, Fees of Stewards or Bailiffs, &c. Therefore in mentioning the clear Yearly Value of a Manour, we ſay, It is ſo much per annum ultra repriſas, i. e. beſides all Repriſes.

Reproach, upbraiding, Diſgrace, Shame, Injury, Offence.

To Reproach, to upbraid, or twit, to tax, charge, or lay to one's Charge; to hit in the Teeth, to caſt, throw, or fling in one's Diſh.

Reproachable, that deſerves Reproach; as A reproachable Action.

Reproachful, ſhameful, diſhoneſt; outragious, injurious, abuſive.

Reprobate, (Lat.) one whom, as ſome believe, God has predeſtinated to Damnation; a very wicked, or lewd Perſon.

To Reprobate, to reject, or caſt off utterly.

Reprobation, a reprobating, or caſting out of Favour; the Eternal Decree, by which God is ſaid to reject ſome Perſons.

Reproof, Rebuke, Check.

Reprovable, worthy to be reproved.

To Reprove, to take up, to check, blame, or chide.

Repſilver, (Sax.) Money anciently paid by Servile Tenants, to be freed from the cuſtomary Duty of Reaping for their Lord.

Reptile, a creeping thing, any Creature that crawls upon its Belly, or that reſts upon one part of its Body, while it advances the other forward; as an Adder, Snake, Earth-Worm, &c.

Republican, a Common-wealth's Man, a great Admirer of, or Stickler for Government, after the manner of a Common-wealth.

Republick, a Common-wealth, a free State; a ſort of Government in which many bear Rule.

To Repudiate, to divorce, or put away one's Wife.

Repudiation, the Act of repudiating, or divorcing.

To Repugn, to be contrary or againſt, to claſh with.

Repugnancy, a being contrary, Contrariety, Contradiction, Averſeneſs.

Repugnant, that claſhes with, contrary; as This is clearly repugnant to the Word of God.

Repullulation, a budding forth, a ſpringing up again.

Repulſe, Denial, Refuſal; as To meet with, or ſuffer a Repulſe.

To Repulſe, to thruſt, or turn away; to reject, to deny.

Reputable, that is of good Repute.

Reputation or Repute, Fame, Report; Credit, Eſteem.

To Repute, to think, count, or look upon.

Requeſt, (Fr.) Supplication, Petition.

The Court of Requeſts, a Court of the ſame Nature with the Chancery, formerly appointed for the redreſſing of Wrongs by Equity, but now quite laid aſide. See Court.

To Be in Requeſt, to be in vogue, to be much ſought after, or highly eſteem'd.

To Requeſt, to entreat, pray, or humbly deſire.

Requiem, as To ſing a requiem, i. e. to ſing a Maſs for the Souls of deceaſed Perſons, ſo call'd from theſe Latin Words contained therein, Requiem æternam dona eis Domine, Lord give them everlaſting Reſt, &c.

To Require, to ask, or demand peremptorily, or with Authority.

Requiſite, neceſſary, convenient.

Requital, Reward, Acknowledgment.

To Requite, to reward, or make Amends for.

Rere-County, a Word us'd in the Statute of Weſtminſter, and ſignifying ſome publick Place appointed by the Sheriff, for the Receipt of the King's Money, after his County-Court is done.

Res, (Lat.) Thing, Matter, Affair, Buſineſs.

Res Naturales, natural Things, which according to ſome Phyſical Writers, are three in Number, viz. Health, the Cauſes of Health, and its Effects.

Res non Naturales, Things not natural, which are ſix, viz. Air, Meat and Drink, Sleeping and Watching, Motion and Reſt, Things that are let out of and retained in the Body, and the Affections, or Paſſions of the Mind: Theſe are ſo termed, becauſe when they exceed their due Bounds, they often occaſion Diſeaſes.

Res præter Naturam, Things beſide Nature, which are Diſeaſes, with their Cauſes, Symptoms and Effects.

Reſalutation, a ſaluting again.

Reſceit, (in Common Law) a receiving, or admitting of a third Perſon to plead his Right, in a Cauſe already begun between two others: It is alſo apply'd to an Admittance of Plea, tho' the Controverſy be only between Two.

Reſceit of Homage, the Lord's receiving Homage of his Tenant, at his admiſſion to the Land.

To Reſcind, (Lat.) to cut off, or cancel; to diſannul, repeal, or make void.

Reſciſſion, or Reciſion, a cutting off, diſannulling, aboliſhing.

Reſciſſory, that ſerves to reſcind; as A reſciſſory Act, i. e. an Act that makes void a former Act, or Law.

Reſcous, a Law-word for Reſcue, a Reſiſtance againſt lawful Authority, as by violently taking away, or procuring the Eſcape of one that is arreſted, which is call'd a Reſcous in Fact: So if a Man diſtraining Cattel for Dammage done in his Ground, drives them in the High Way towards the Pound, but they get into the Owner's Houſe, where he withholds them, and refuſes to deliver them upon Demand; this Detainer is a Reſcous in Law.

Reſcuſſor, he that commits a Reſcous.

Reſcuſſu, or Breve de Reſcuſſu, a Writ that lies for ſuch a Fact.

Reſcribendary, a certain Officer belonging to the Court of Rome, who ſets a value upon Indulgences and Supplications.

Reſcript, a Writing which is in anſwer to a Letter, Petition, Writ, &c.

Reſcue, (Fr.) Help, Deliverance.

To Reſcue, to ſave or deliver, to ſet at Liberty, to free from an Oppreſſour.

Reſearch, ſtrict Inquiry, diligent ſeeking after.

Reſemblance, Likeneſs, Agreeableneſs.

To Reſemble, to favour, or be like.

To Reſent, to be ſenſible of, or to ſtomach an Affront.

Reſentment, a ſenſible Apprehenſion, or revengeful Remembrance of an Injury.

Reſervation, (Lat.) a reſerving, or keeping in Store, a Reſtriction, or Reſerve: In Romances, it is us'd for Reſervedneſs, i. e. that Diſtance and State, which Ladies obſerve towards thoſe that court them. In Common Law, it is taken for that Rent, or Service which the Grantor in any Deed obliges the Grantee to perform to him.

Reſerve, ſomething kept to be us'd, as there ſhall be occaſion; alſo Exception, or Limitation.

Reſerve, or Body of Reſerve, (in the Art of War) the laſt of the three Lines of an Army drawn up for Battel. See Rear.

To Reſerve, to keep in ſtore, to lay up, to ſave: In a Law-ſenſe, to keep, or provide; as when a Man lets his Land, and reſerves a Rent to be paid to himſelf for his Maintenance. Sometimes it is taken for to except, as when a Man lets a Houſe, and reſerves to himſelf one Room, that Room is excepted out of the Demiſe.

Reſerved, laid up, kept; alſo cloſe, wary, ſhy.

Reſet, the receiving, entertaining, or harbouring of a proſcribed, or out-lawed Perſon.

Reſetter, he that ſo receives ſuch a Perſon.

Reſettled, ſettled again, re-eſtabliſhed.

Reſiance, a Law-word for Reſidence; a Man's Continuance, or abode in one Place.

Reſiant, a Perſon that reſides, or dwells in a certain Place.

To Reſide, (Lat.) to ſtay, continue, or abide; alſo to lie, to be lodged or placed in; as The Supreme Power reſides in the Queen.

Reſidence, continual dwelling, Stay, or ſojourning in a Place; more eſpecially taken in the Canon and Common, Law for the Continuance, or Abode of a Parſon, or Vicar upon his Benefice: Alſo the Place where one uſually reſides, Abode, or Dwelling-place; alſo the Office, or Employ of a Reſident.

Reſident, reſiding, dwelling.

A Reſident, a Miniſter that is ſent to continue for ſome time in the Court of a Foreign Prince, or State, for the diſpatch of publick Buſineſs.

Reſidentiary, belonging to a Reſident.

A Reſidentiary, a Parſon that is reſident; as He was a conſtant Reſidentiary in his Benefice. See Stagionarius.

Reſidual, a Term us'd by Mathematicians for Reſidue, or Remainder.

Reſidual Figure, (in Geom.) the remaining Figure after Subtraction of a Leſſer from a Greater.

Reſidual Root, (in Algebra) a Root compoſed of two Parts, or Members only joyn'd together by the Sign —: Thus $a - b$, or $6 - 4$ is a Reſidual Root; and ſo call'd becauſe its true Value is no more than the Reſidue, or Difference between the Parts a and b.

Reſidue, that which is left remaining of a Summ of Money, or of an Eſtate; the reſt, the Remainder.

To Reſign, to ſurrender, to yield or give up, to make over.

Reſignation, a voluntary reſigning, or giving up: In a Theological Senſe, an entire Submiſſion to the Will of God: In Common Law, the giving up of a Bea Benefice into the Hands of the Ordinary, which by the Canoniſts is alſo termed Reſignation.

Reſignee, the Party to whom a thing is reſigned.

Reſigner, the Perſon that reſigns.

Reſignment, the Act of reſigning, or giving up.

Reſiliency, or Reſilition, the State or Quality of that which is reſilient.

Reſilient, leaping back, rebounding, or recoiling.

Reſina, (Lat.) Roſin: Among Phyſicians and Herbaliſts, it is taken for a Fat, and Oily Liquor, iſſuing either of its own accord, or elſe let out by cutting, from any Tree or Plant.

Reſina Auri, (among Chymiſts) is a Gum, or Extract drawn from Gold.

Reſina Terræ, Sulphur, or Brimſtone; [illegible] Terræ potabilis, Sulphur [illegible] and [illegible] to a Liquor, Balſam, or Oil.

Reſine, or Roſin, is alſo an artificial Roſin Chymically prepar'd and drawn from any Plant or Drug that abounds with reſinous Particles; as Reſine of Jalap, Benjamin, Scammony, Turbith, &c.

Reſinous, or Reſinaceous, roſiny, that yields Roſin, or partakes of its Nature.

Reſipiſcence, (q. d. a being wiſe again) a changing one's Mind from doing amiſs; the reflection that a Man makes upon his bad Conduct, which obliges him to Reformation; Repentance, amendment of Life.

To Reſiſt, to withſtand, oppoſe, or be againſt.

Reſiſtance, the Act of reſiſting or withſtanding, or of defending one's ſelf againſt any Force that is offer'd: In a Philoſophical Senſe, it is taken for the Property of ſolid Bodies, which reſiſt and oppoſe whatever comes againſt them.

Reſiſtance of the Medium, is the Oppoſition againſt, or hind'rance of the Motion of any Natural Body, moving in a Fluid, as in the Air, Sky, Water, &c.

Reſolvable, that may be reſolved.

Reſolve, Intention, Deſign, Purpoſe; alſo Deliberation, Debate, Deciſion; as The Reſolves of the Houſe of Commons.

To Reſolve, (properly to looſe, or untie) to determine, ſolve, or clear a hard Queſtion, Difficulty, &c. to ſoften, or melt; to reduce or turn into, to be reduced, or changed; to deſign, or purpoſe.

Reſolvedneſs, firm Diſpoſition.

Reſolvend, a Term in the Extraction of the Square, and Cube Roots, &c. ſignifying that Number which ariſes from encreaſing the Remainder after Subſtraction, by drawing down the next Square or Cube, &c. and placing it after the ſaid Remainder.

Reſolvents, Medicines that ſerve to diſſolve and diſperſe. In Chymiſtry, certain Liquors that are us'd for the diſſolving of Metals, or Minerals; as Aqua Fortis, Spirit of Nitre, &c.

Reſolute, fully reſolved, ſtout, bold.

Reſolution, Reſolve, Mind, full Purpoſe or Intention; Reſoluteneſs, Courage, Stoutneſs, Determination, or Deciſion; the ſolving, or clearing of a Matter; the reducing of a Subſtance to its firſt Principles. In Chymiſtry, it is a violent ſeparating of the Parts of Mixt Bodies, by means of a Reſolvent, or diſſolving Ingredient.

In Mathematicks, Reſolution, is a Method of Invention, by which the Truth or Falſhood of a Propoſition, or its poſſibility or impoſſibility, is diſcover'd in an Order contrary to that of Syntheſis, or Compoſition: It is alſo call'd Analyſis and the Analytical Method. See Algebra and Analyſis.

Reſolutive, that is of a diſſolving Quality.

† Reſonant, ſounding, or ringing again with an Ecchoe; reſounding.

Reſorts, a meeting together of People, a Refuge, as An Oath is the laſt reſort of Truth.

To Reſort, to repair, or betake one's ſelf to.

Reſort or Reſſort, (Fr.) Juriſdiction, the diſtrict, or extent of a Juriſdiction; the Authority of a Court of Juſtice: The Word is properly uſed in a Writ of Tail, or Couſenage, as Deſcent is in a Writ of Right.

To Reſound, to ring, or ecchoe again.

Reſpect, Eſteem, Honour, Reverence; Conſideration, Regard, Relation.

To Reſpect, to ſhew Reſpect, to honour, to conſider or regard, to concern.

Reſpectful, full of Reſpect, ſubmiſſive, humble.

Reſpective, mutual, particular; relative, or having Relation.

Reſpectu Computi Vicecomitis habendo, a Writ for the reſpiting of a Sheriff's Account, upon juſt Occaſion directed to the Treaſurer, and Barons of the Exchequer.

Reſpiration, the Act of Breathing, the taking in, and letting out of Air thro' the Wind-pipe, in order to fan, and purify the Blood in the Lungs, and to preſerve Life.

To Reſpire, to take, or fetch Breath, to breathe.

Reſpit or Reſpite, Breathing-time, Delay, Forbearance, continuance of Time.

Reſpite of Homage, the forbearing of Homage for a time; upon which account, ſuch as held by Knight-Service in Capite, us'd to pay a ſmall Summ of Money into the Exchequer, every fifth Term.

To Reſpite, to give ſome Reſpite, to put off.

Reſplendency, great Luſtre, or Brightneſs.

Reſplendent, ſhining, gliſtering or glittering, bright.

Reſpondeat Superior, (i. e. let the Superiour Magiſtrate anſwer or account for the Matter) a Form of Speech us'd in Law, as where the Sheriffs of London are removeable for Inſufficiency, 'tis ſaid reſpondeat Superior, i. e. the Mayor, and Commonalty of that Honourable City: And upon the inſufficiency of the Bailiff of a Franchiſe or Liberty, reſpondeat Dominus Libertatis, i. e. the Lord of the ſame Liberty.

Reſpondent, a Student in an Univerſity, who anſwers the Opponent, or Adverſary in a Diſputation: In the Civil Law, he that makes Anſwer to ſuch Interrogatories, or Queſtions as are demanded of him.

Reſponſal, or Reſponſe, an Anſwer made by the Pariſh-Clerk and People, during the time of Divine Service.

Reſponſalis, (Law-Term) one that gives an Anſwer, or appears for another in Court at a Day appointed: In the Canon-Law, an Attorney, or other Perſon, that excuſes or declares the cauſe of the Parties Abſence.

Reſponſible, able to anſwer for a Matter, or to pay Money; anſwerable, accountable.

Reſponſions, a Word us'd among the Knights of St. John of Jeruſalem, for certain Accounts made to them, by ſuch as held their Lands, or Stocks.

Reſponſory Song, an Anthem, in which the Quiriſters ſing by turns, as it were one anſwering another.

Reſt, Quiet, Peace; alſo a Term in Muſick. See Pauſe.

Reſt-harrow or Cammock, a ſort of Herb.

Reſtagnation, (Lat.) an over-flowing, or running over; a being all in a Plaſh.

Reſtauration, a Reſtoring or Re-eſtabliſhing, Re-eſtabliſhment.

Reſtinction, properly a quenching, or putting out; a ſtifling: Among Chymiſts, it is taken for the quenching of any Metal, or Mineral in ſome exalting Liquor, to bring it to greater Perfection.

Reſtipulatio, (in the Roman Law) a putting in a Pledge to anſwer an Action; an ent'ring into Covenant, upon Articles or Terms; a mutual Engagement between Parties; a Counter-bond.

Reſtitution, a reſtoring, returning, or giving back again, a refunding, or making good. In Philoſophy, the returning of Elaſtick, or Springing Bodies, to their natural State, is call'd The Motion of Reſtitution.

In Common Law, Reſtitution, is taken for the ſetting one in Poſſeſſion of Lands, or Tenements that has been unlawfully diſpoſſeſſed of them.

Reſtitutione extracti ab Eccleſia, a Writ to reſtore a Man to the Church, which he had taken for his Sanctuary, being ſuſpected of Felony.

Reſtitutione Temporalium, a Writ that lies where a Man being choſen, and confirmed Biſhop of any Dioceſs, has the Queen's Royal Aſſent thereto, for the Recovery of the Temporalities, or Barony of the ſaid Biſhoprick.

Reſtive, or Reſty, drawing back inſtead of going forward, as ſome Horſes do; ſtubborn, headſtrong, froward.

Reſtorative, that is of a reſtoring, or ſtengthening Quality.

A Reſtorative, a Medicine proper to reſtore Strength.

To Reſtore, to give up again, to re-eſtabliſh, or ſettle again; to ſet again in its firſt State, or Condition.

To Reſtrain, to keep in, to bridle or curb; to limit, confine, or ſtint.

Reſtraint, is when any Action is hinder'd or ſtopped, contrary to the Inclination, or Choice of the Mind.

Reſtrict Line, (in Palmeſtry) is that which diſtinguiſhes, and ſeparates the Hand from the Arm, either by a ſingle or double croſſing: This Line determines the Subject of the Art, and is otherwiſe call'd the Diſcriminal Line, as alſo the Dragon's Tail.

Reſtriction, a reſtraining or holding back, a curbing within narrower Bounds; Limitation, Stint.

Reſtrictive or Reſtringent, that is of a binding Quality.

To Reſtringe, to bind hard, to make coſtive; as Quinces reſtringe thoſe Parts which they are apply'd to.

Reſty. See Reſtive.

Reſul Allah, a Title which the Turks give to Mahomet their falſe Prophet, ſignifying the Meſſenger of God.

Reſult, Concluſion, upſhot or iſſue of a Buſineſs; Effect, or Fruits.

To Reſult, to follow, to accrue, or ariſe from.

To Reſume, to take up again, in ſpeaking of a Buſineſs, Argument, or Diſcourſe.

Reſummons, a ſecond Summons for a Man to anſwer an Action, where the firſt Summons is defeated, by the Death of the Party, or ſome other Cauſe of the like Nature.

Reſumption, a reſuming, or taking back again. In a Law-ſenſe, the taking again into the Queen's Hands ſuch Lands or Tenements, as before upon Surprize, or other Errour, She had deliver'd to the Heir, or granted by Letters Patent to any Man.

Reſumption of Grants, a recalling by Act of Parliament of ſuch Grants of Lands, &c. as were made to private Perſons in former Reigns, in order to apply them to the Publick Uſe.

Reſumptives, Medicines that ſerve to reſtore decayed Nature.

Reſurrection, a riſing up again to Life.

Reſuſcitation, a raiſing up again, properly from Sleep, or Death; a Reviving.

To Reſuſcitate, to revive, or renew; as To reſuſcitate one's Anger, To reſuſcitate a Diſpute, &c.

To Retail, or Sell by Retail, to buy by the Great and ſell again by Parcels.

To Retain, to keep, or hold back a thing once deliver'd and afterwards demanded again; to preſerve ſuch good or bad Qualities as one had formerly; to keep in Mind, or to remember.

Retainable, that may be retained.

Retainer, a Servant that does not belong to the Houſehold, but only wears a particular Livery, or Badge, given by his Maſter, and attends ſometimes upon ſpecial Occaſions.

Retaining-Fee, the firſt Fee given to a Serjeant or Counſellour at Law, to engage or keep him from pleading, or acting for the adverſe Party.

To Retaliate, to do like for like, to return; as To retaliate a Kindneſs, or Injury.

Retaliation, the Art of Retaliating.

To Retard, to delay, to hinder or ſtop, to keep or put off.

Retare, (in old Latin Records) to implead, or proſecute at Law,

Retatio, the retting, or ritting of Flax or Hemp, i. e. expoſing it to the Sun, or ſoaking it in Water, till it be ripen'd, and made fit to run.

Retchleſs, ſloathful, lazy, careleſs.

Rete, (Lat.) a Net, a Snare, or Trap. In Anatomy, the ſame as Omentum, or the Caul.

Rete Mirabile, a fine Plexus, or Weaving together of many ſmall Arteries in the Brain, eſpecially of brute Beaſts; ſo call'd by reaſon of its admirable Structure.

Rete-Penny, (in ancient Deeds) a Rate-Penny, or cuſtomary due of one Penny for every Perſon, paid to the Pariſh-Prieſt.

Retenementum, (Lat. Law-word) Reſtraint, Detainment, With-holding: A full and abſolute Conveyance was anciently made in this Phraſe, Sine ullo retenemento, i. e. without any Reſtraint, or Limitation.

Retention, the Act of retaining, or holding back; alſo a Faculty of the Mind, whereby it makes a farther Progreſs in Knowledge.

Retention of Urine, the ſtay of Urine in the Bladder, caus'd by ſome ſtoppage of the Paſſages.

Retentive, that ſerves to retain, or hold in; as The retentive Faculty, i. e. the retaining Power of Nature, which keeps the Nouriſhment, or Food within the Body of a Living-Creature, ſo long as it is convenient.

Retiarii, (among the Romans) a ſort of Sword-players, who fought with a Trident, or three forked Inſtrument in one Hand, and a Net in the other, in which they endeavour'd to intangle their Adverſary.

Reticence, a Rhetorical Figure, when ſomething is conceal'd that ought to be declar'd; Concealment, or paſſing over in Silence.

Reticularis Plexus, (Lat. in Anat.) the folding of the Carotidal Artery in the Brain, reſembling a Net. See Choroides.

Reticulum, a little Net; alſo the Caul, or inner Skin that covers the Bowels; alſo a Caul of Net-work for a Woman's Head. Alſo one of the Stomachs of Animals that chew the Cud. See Abomaſum.

Retiformis Plexus. See Plexus Choroides.

Retiformis Tunica, or Retina, one of the Tunicles, or Coats of the Eye, which reſembles the Figure of a Net, and is the principal Inſtrument of Sight.

Retinentia, (in old Records) Retinue, or Perſons that are Retainers to a Prince, or Nobleman.

Retirade, (Fr. in Fortif.) a Retrenchment conſiſting of two Faces that make a Re-ent'ring Angle, and uſually rais'd in the Body of a Work that is deſign'd to be diſputed Foot by Foot, after the firſt Defences are broke down.

Retiration, (a Term in Printing) the out-ſide of a Sheet, as it lies on the Preſs.

To Retire, to withdraw, depart, or go away; to be gone.

Retired, withdrawn, departed; alſo ſolitary, or lonely.

Retired Flank. See Flank Retired.

Retirement, retiring from Company, or Worldly Converſation, Privacy, private Life.

Retort, a Chymical Veſſel of a round Figure, with a hollow Beak, or Noſe retorted, or wreathed backwards: It is made of Glaſs, or Earth, and ſometimes of Iron, and us'd for the diſtilling of Oils, Volatile Salts and Acid Spirits.

To Retort, to turn, or throw back, to return; as I retorted the Argument upon himſelf.

Retorted, returned; alſo bended, bowing in and out, wreathed back.

To Retract, to recant, or unſay.

Retractation, a retracting, a revoking of one's Opinion, &c. Alſo a Rhetorical Figure otherwiſe call'd Ploce in Greek.

Retractores Alarum Naſi & Elevatores Labii Superioris, certain Muſcles that ariſe from the fourth Bone of the upper Jaw, and are let into the Alæ Naſi and the upper Lip; their Uſe being to lift up the Noſe and upper Lip; as their Name imports.

Retractus Aquæ, (in old Records) the Retreat of the Tide; Ebb, or low Water.

Retrahens Auriculam, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Ear, which ſome call Triceps Auris, becauſe it has ſometimes three Beginnings: It takes Riſe from the upper and fore-part of the Apophyſis Maſtoides, and is inſerted to the middle of the Concha Auriculæ.

Retraite, (Fr.) retiring, Retreat, Shelter: Alſo a Term in Fortification, the ſame as Berme and Fore-land.

Retraxit, (Lat. i. e. he has withdrawn) a Law-Term us'd when the Plaintiff, or Demandant comes in Perſon into the Court, and ſays He will proceed no farther; which is a Bar of all other Actions of the like Nature.

Retreat, a retiring, or going away; a Retiring-place: In Architecture, a diminiſhing, or making ſmall: Alſo a beat of Drum ſo call'd. See Tat-too.

To Retreat, to make one's Retreat, to retire from a Place.

To Retrench, (Fr.) to cut off, or abridge; to diminiſh, or leſſen; alſo to caſt up a Work call'd a a Retrenchment.

Retrenchment, a retrenching, cutting off, or paring away, eſpecially of ſuperfluous Expences: In Fortification; any kind of Defence, conſiſting of a Ditch and Breaſt-work ſecur'd with Gabions, or Bavins loaded with Earth; moſt properly that which is behind another, as when Men are beaten from one Poſt, and throw up another Retrenchment.

Particular Retrenchment, that which is made in Baſtions after ſome part of them is won, the Enemy being ſo far advanc'd, that he is no longer to be reſiſted, or beaten from the firſt Poſt.

Retribution, (Lat.) a giving back, a making Recompence, or Requital.

To Retrieve, (Fr. from retrouver to find again) to recover, get again, or repair; as To retrieve one's Honour: It is properly a Term in Hawking; for when Partridges have been once ſprung, the ſpringing or finding them again is call'd Retrieving.

Retroactive, (Lat. in Philoſ.) driving back; as A retroactive Motion.

Retroceſſion, a going back.

Retroceſſion of the Equinoxes, is the going backward of the Equinoctial Points, or firſt Points of the Signs Aries and Libra, about 50 Seconds every Year.

Retroduction, a leading, or bringing back.

Retrogradation, (in Aſtron.) a going backward; as The Retrogradation of a Planet.

Retrograde, that retrogrades, or goes backward. A Planet is ſaid to be retrograde, when by its proper Motion in the Zodiack, it goes backward, or contrary to the Succeſſion of the Signs; as from the ſecond Degree of Aries to the firſt, &c. But this Retrogradation is only apparent, and only occaſion'd by the Obſerver's Eye being plac'd on the Earth.

To Retrograde, to turn back, to go backwards, as Mars retrogrades more than Jupiter.

Retrogreſſion, the ſame as Retrogradation.

Retromingent, that ſtales, or piſſes backwards, as All Female four-footed Beaſts are retromingent.

Retropannagium, (in ancient Deeds) After-Pannage, or the running of Hogs in a Foreſt, or Park, when the Maſt, or Acorns are eaten, and little left but Hips, Haws, &c.

Retroſpect, or Retroſpection, a looking back.

Retruſe, hidden, as Things of a retruſe Nature.

Return, coming back, Anſwer, Acknowlegment.

Return of a Fore-right Side, a Term in Perſpective. See Orthography.

Return of Writs by Sheriffs and Bailiffs, is their Certificate made to the Court of what they have done about the ſerving of the Writs directed to them.

Returns, Return-Days, or Days in Bank, certain Days in each of the four Terms peculiarly ſet a-part for the ſeveral ſorts of Proceedings in any Cauſe to be determined; every Term having four, five, or ſix Returns, which are of ſix Kinds, ſo that one of them is repeated in moſt Terms with the Name of this or that Feſtival, whereto they are appropriated; viz. Craſtino, which is the Morrow after the Baſis, or Day nominated; Octabis, the eighth Day after incluſively; Quindeno, the fifteenth Day after, Tres, that Day three Weeks; Menſe, that Day Month; and Quinque, that Day five Weeks. Thus Hilary-Term has four Returns, viz. Octabis Hilarii, Jan. 20. Quindeno Hilarii, Jan. 27. Craſtino Purificationis, Feb. 3. and Octabis Purificationis, Feb. 10; Eaſter-Term five, viz. Quindeno Paſchæ, Tres Paſchæ, Menſe Paſchæ, Quinque Paſchæ, and Craſtino Aſcenſionis Domini: Trinity-Term four, viz. Craſtino Trinitatis, Octabis Trinitatis, Quindeno Trinitatis, & Tres Trinitatis: And Michaelmas-Term ſix, viz. Tres Michaelis, Menſe Michaelis, Craſtino Animarum, Craſtino Martini, Octabis Martini, and Quindeno Martini.

Theſe Returns likewiſe conſiſt of four ſeveral Days, viz. the Day of Return, or of Eſſoin, for the Defendant in a Perſonal Action, or the Tenant in a Real one to be eſſoined; 2. the Day of Exception for the Plaintiff, or Demandant to lay an Exception if no Eſſoin be caſt, that the Defendant ſhall not be Eſſoined. 3. Returna Brevium, the Day on which the Sheriff muſt return the Writ; 4. the Day of Appearance for the Parties and Jurors in the Court of Common Pleas. Whenever any one of theſe Days falls upon a Holy-day, or Sunday, the next Day executes a double Office, as if the Day of Eſſoin ſo happens, the next Day ſerves both for the Day of Eſſoin, and the Day of Exception.

Returns of a Mine. See Gallery.

Returns of the Trenches, the ſeveral Windings and crooked Lines of the Trenches, drawn in ſome meaſure parallel to the Sides of the Place attacked, to prevent being enfiladed, or having the Enemy's Shot ſcour along the length of the Line.

To Return, to ſend, or come back, to reſtore, or render; to requite, or repay, to give an Anſwer.

Returnable, that may be returned.

Returno habendo, a Writ that lies for one who has avowed a Diſtreſs made of Cattel, and prov'd his Diſtreſs to be lawfully taken, for returning to him the Cattel diſtrained, which before were replevied by the Party diſtrained, upon Surety given to proſecute the Action.

Returnum Averiorum, is a Judicial Writ granted to one that is impleaded, for the taking and unjuſt detaining of another Man's Cattel, and who appearing upon Summons is diſmiſſed without Day, becauſe the Plaintiff makes Default, and it lies for the return of the Cattel to the Defendant.

Returnum irreplegiabile, a Judicial Writ ſent out of the Common-Pleas Court to the Sheriff, for the final Return, or Reſtitution of Cattel to the Owner, unjuſtly taken by another as committing a Treſpaſs; and ſo found by the Jury before the Juſtices of Aſſize in the County; or otherwiſe by Default of Proſecution.

Reuben, (Heb. the Son of Viſion) Jacob's eldeſt Son by Leah; from whom deſcended the Reubenites, one of the twelve Tribes of Iſrael.

Reve. See Reeve.

To Reveal, (Lat.) to lay open, diſcloſe, or diſcover a Myſtery, or Secret.

Reveiller, (Fr. i. e. to awake) the Beat of Drum in a Morning, that ſummons the Soldiers from their Beds, and is commonly call'd the Travelly.

Revels, Sports of Dancing, Maſking, Dice-playing, acting Comedies, or Farces, &c. us'd in Prince's Courts, Noble-mens Houſes, or Inns of Court, and commonly perform'd by Night; their Name in French, being derived from Reveiller to awake.

Maſter of the Revels, an Officer that has the ordering, or chief Command in thoſe Paſtimes; and who in the Inns of Court is ſome young Student choſen for that Purpoſe.

Revel-Rout, a riotous Concourſe or Aſſembly of People.

To Revel, to make merry, eſpecially in the Night-time; to riot.

Revelation, a revealing, laying open, or diſcovering.

Revenge, the Act of taking full Satisfaction, for an Affront, or Injury done.

Revenue, the Yearly Profits of Land, Money at Intereſt, or Offices; Income, Rent.

To Reverberate, to reflect, ſtrike, or beat back again: Among Chymiſts, it is either to cauſe the Flame of a Wood, or Coal-fire to be ſo blown with the Bellows, as that it may be beaten back down on the Metal; or elſe to make the Flame beat back on a Veſſel plac'd in a Reverberatory Furnace, by ſtopping up its Sides cloſe, and fixing a Dome, or arched Cover over it.

Reverberation, the Act of reverberating.

Reverberatory, that ſerves to reverberate.

A Reverberatory, a kind of ſtrong Chymical Furnace of two Bricks thickneſs, with an arched Cover on the top, us'd for the calcining of Minerals, diſtilling of acid Spirits, &c. by a reverberated Flame.

To Revere, to ſtand in Reverence, to honour with awful Reſpect.

Reverence, ſubmiſſive Carriage towards Superiours, or honourable Perſons; alſo a Congee, or Bow in token of Reſpect ſhewn to thoſe we meet, or are acquainted with.

To Reverence, to honour, or reſpect.

Reverend, worthy to be rever'd, or honour'd; a Title uſually given to Clergy-men; as alſo Right Reverend to Biſhops, and Moſt Reverend to Arch-biſhops.

Reverent or Reverential, reſpectful, awful.

Reverſe, (in the Art of War) that is on the back, or behind; as A reverſe View, a reverſe commanding Ground, a reverſe Battery, &c.

A Reverſe, a back-ſtroke in Fencing.

The Reverſe of a Medal or Coin, the oppoſite Side to that, on which the Effigies is ſtampt.

To Reverſe, to repeal, aboliſh, or make void.

Reverſed, repealed, aboliſhed. In Heraldry, turned backward, or upſide down; viz. 1. when a Man bears in his Eſcutcheon another reverſed; which is peculiar to one that raviſhes a Maid, or Widow, or runs away from his Soveraign's Banner; 2. when a Man's own Eſcutcheon is entirely reverſed, which is due to a Traytor.

Reverſible, that may be reverſed.

Reverſion, a returning, or coming back again. In Rhetorick, Reverſio is the ſame Figure with that which is call'd Epiſtrophe in Greek.

In Common Law Reverſion, ſignifies 1. a Poſſibility reſerved to a Man's ſelf and his Heirs, to have again Lands, or Tenements, made over conditionally to others, upon the failing of ſuch Conditions; 2. when the Poſſeſſion and Eſtate, which was parted with for a time, ceaſes, and is determined in the Perſons to whom they were alienated, aſſigned, or granted, and their Heirs; or effectually returns to the Donour, his Heirs or Aſſigns whence it was derived. Alſo the Right a Perſon has to any Inheritance, or Place of Profit after another's Deceaſe.

Reverſus Indicus, (Lat.) the Indian Jagg-fiſh, with reverſed Prickles.

To Revert, to return, as an Eſtate, or Honour does to the Crown, &c.

Reveſtiary or Reveſtry, and by Contraction, Veſtry, the Place where Church-Veſtments are kept.

To Revictual a Ship, to furniſh it with freſh Victuals, or Proviſions.

Review, a ſecond looking over, or Re-examination: In Military Affairs, the Appearance of a Body of Troops under Arms to be view'd, in order to know, whether they be compleat as to Numbers and well-conditioned.

Bill of Review, (in Chancery) a Bill taken out by Licence of that Court, where a Cauſe has been heard, and the Decree ſigned and enrolled; but ſome Errour in Law appears upon the Decree, or ſome new Matter is diſcover'd after the making of the ſaid Decree.

To Revile, to reproach, to abuſe, to taunt, or rail at.

Reviſal, a ſecond Examination.

Reviſe, (among Printers) a ſecond Proof of a printed Sheet drawn off, to ſee whether the Faults markt in the firſt be duly corrected.

To Reviſe, to review, to read over a Printer's Reviſe: To Reviſe a piece of Work, to look over it again, in order to mend what is amiſs, or make it more correct; to lick it over again.

Reviſer, one that reviſes, or reviews; alſo a certain Officer in the Court of Rome.

To Reviſit, to give a ſecond Viſit, to viſit again.

To Revive, to bring to Life again, to recreate, or refreſh; to renew, or ſet on foot again; to come to Life again, to recover; to flouriſh again.

In Chymiſtry, to Revive, is to reſtore a Mixt Body that lies diſguiſed by Salts, Sulphurs, or other things mingled with it, to its natural Form and Condition: Thus Cinnabar and the other Preparations of Mercury, are revived into Quick-ſilver.

Bill of Reviver, (in Chancery) is when a Bill has been preferred againſt one in that Court, and before the Cauſe is heard, or the Decree inrolled, either Party dies; ſo that this Bill muſt be brought to revive the Proceedings, and finally determine the Cauſe.

Reviving, (in a Law-ſenſe) ſignifies a renewing of Rents and Actions, after they are extinguiſhed.

Re-union, the Act of re-uniting, rejoyning, or cloſing together again; the Reconciliation of interrupted Friendſhip.

To Re-unite, to unite, or joyn together again things that were ſeparated, or diſmembred; to reconcile thoſe that have been at Variance.

Revocable, that may be revoked, reverſed, or repealed.

Revocation, as revoking, or repealing; in a Law-ſenſe, the calling back of a thing granted.

To Revoke, to call back again, to repeal a Law, to make void, or deſtroy an Act or Deed, to take away a Commiſſion or Truſt; to renounce an Errour.

Revolt, Rebellion, Riſing.

To Revolt, to rebel, or riſe againſt a Soveraign Prince or State, &c. to renounce, or forſake one's Religion.

To Revolve, to caſt about in one's Mind.

Revolution, properly a rolling back, or whirling round; a notable change of Government, or great Turn of Affairs.

In Aſtronomy, Revolution, is the turning round of any Heavenly Body, till it return to the ſame Point in which it was, when it firſt began to move, and ſo finiſhes its circular Courſe: But the Revolution, or (as ſome call it) the Reſtitution of the Anomaly, is the return of a Planet, to any one Point of its Eccentrick, after it has parted from it.

Mean Revolution of a Planet, (in the Zodiack) is the return of the Line of the mean Motion of a Planet, from any one Point of the Zodiack to the ſame Point again: And the True Revolution of a Planet in the Zodiack, is the Return of the Line of the true Motion of that Planet, from any one Point of the ſaid Circle, to the ſame Point again.

Revulſion, (i. e. plucking away, or back) a Term in the Art of Phyſick, which ſignifies the forcing of Humours to contrary Parts.

Revulſoria, is when the Courſe of the Bloud, that guſhes out of one Part, is turn'd another Way, by the opening of a Vein in a remote, or convenient Place: Among our Surgeons, this is often call'd Bleeding for a Revulſion.

To Revy, a Term us'd in a Game at Cards.

Rew, Rank, Row; as A Rew of Muck, or Dung.

Rewet, the Lock of a Harquebuſs, or other Gun.

Rewey, as Rewey Cloaths, i. e. ſuch as are full of Rews, and unevenly wrought.

Rewiſh, (Dutch) lecherous, a Word apply'd to the Copulation of Doves.

Reyneting, an excellent Apple that keeps all the Winter. See Rennet.

Rha or Rha Ponticum, (Lat.) a kind of purging Root of a yellow Colour, and longer than Rhubarb, ſo call'd from Rha, a River of Pontus in Aſia, about which it grows.

Rhabarbarum, Rhubarb, a Root brought from China, but taking Name from Barbary in Africa, where it has grown in abundance: It gently purges Choler and Phlegm, cures the Jaundice, looſeneſs of the Belly, bloudy Flux, &c.

Rhabdoides, (Gr. in Anat.) a Suture or Seam in the Scull-bone, the ſame with Sagittal Suture.

Rhabdology, the Art of counting, or numbering by certain Rods call'd Napier's Bones; which See.

Rhabdomancy, a kind of Divination or Soothſaying by a Wand, Rod, or Staff.

Rhabdos, a Rod, or Wand; alſo a Meteor like a ſtraight Wand.

Rhachis, the Spine, or Chine-bone of the Back.

Rachiſagra, the Gout in that Part.

Rachitæ or Rachiæi, certain Muſcles that li over the Back-bone.

Rhachitis, the Rickets, a Diſeaſe in Children which proceeds from an unequal Nouriſhmen of the Parts of the Body, being accompanied wit a Looſeneſs of them, crookedneſs of Bones, ſtraightneſs of the Breaſt, a great ſwelling Head, Knobs about the Joynts, Weakneſs, Faintneſs, a Cough, &c

Rhagades, Chaps, or Clefts in the Hands Feet, Lips, &c. Alſo certain Sores, or little Ulcers in the Fundament, like thoſe which are ſometimes occaſion'd by great Cold in the Hands.

Rhagion, a ſmall Grape-ſtone; alſo a litt venomous Spider with very ſhort Feet, reſemblin the Stone of a black Grape.

Rhagoides, the third Coat, or thin Skin, tha encompaſſes the Eye, wherein is the Hole b which we See; it is otherwiſe call'd the Uve Tunicle.

Rhamnus, the white Bramble call'd Rhamn or Chriſt's-thorn; the Rhein-berry Buſh.

Rhamnus Catharticus, Buck-thorn, a Shrub the Berries of which are a ſtrong Purge, and th Syrup much in Uſe.

Rhandir, a part in the Diviſion of a Countr in Wales, before the Conqueſt, that contain'd fou Tenements; as every Gavel comprehended fou Rhandix's, every Townſhip four Gavels, and ever Manour four Townſhips.

Rhanteres, (in Anat.) the inward Corners of the Eyes, from whence the Tears drop.

Rhaphanus. See Raphanus.

Rhaphe, a Suture, or Seam of the Scull-bon

Rhaphius, a Beaſt ſhap'd like a Wolf, an ſpeckled like a Leopard.

Rhapſody, a Contexture, or a Repetition of great Number of Heroick Verſes, eſpecially H mer's Poems, which being ſcatter'd up and dow were gather'd together, and digeſted into Books b Piſiſtratus: Whence the Word is commonly tak for a confuſed Collection of divers Paſſages, N tions, &c. muſter'd up for the compoſing of ſo Work; alſo for a tedious impertinent ſpinnin out of a Diſcourſe, to little or no purpoſe.

Rhegma or Rheris, that which is broken, Rupture or Breaking: In Surgery, the breakin or burſting of any Part as of a Bone, the inn Rim of the Belly, the Eye, &c.

Rhetorical, belonging to Rhetorick, eloquen well-ſpoken.

† To Rhetoricate, to uſe Rhetorical Figur to play the Rhetorican, to ſpeak like an Or tour.

Rhetorications, turns of Rhetorick, unſoun or empty Reaſonings.

Rhetorician, one ſkill'd in, or a Profeſſour of Rhetorick; a Rhetorick-Maſter, an Oratour.

Rhetorick, the Art of ſpeaking well and eloquently; a Science that teaches to find out things moſt proper to perſwade.

Rheuma, Rheum, a flowing down of Humours from the Head upon the lower Parts.

Rheumatick, troubled with Rheum; alſo belonging to the Rheumatiſm.

Rheumatiſm, a wand'ring Pain in the Body, often accompany'd with a ſmall Feaver, Swelling, Inflammation, &c.

Rhexis. See Rhegma.

Rhine-Grave, a Title belonging to the Count Palatine of the Rhine in Germany; like thoſe of Landigrave and Burgrave, with which the Emperour formerly ſent his Judges or Governours into the Provinces, who in Proceſs of Time became abſolute Proprietors of them; and Soveraign Princes.

Rhine-Land Rod, a Meaſure of two Fathom, or twelve Foot, us'd in Fortification by Dutch Engineers.

Rhinenchytes, (Gr.) a ſmall Syringe to ſquirt Medicinal Liquors into the Noſtrils.

Rhinoceros, a huge wild Beaſt, ſo called from the Horn that ſhoots out of its Noſe or Snout: Its Skin is full of wrinkles like the Elephant's, with deep Furrows, and ſo hard that it cannot be pierc'd with a Sword. Alſo a Bird bigger than an Eagle, call'd The horned Pie of Ethiopia. Alſo the Horn-noſed Chafer, an Inſect of the Beetle-kind.

Rhizagra, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to draw out a Splinter, Bone, or Tooth.

Rhizotomum, a Medicine that roots out a Diſeaſe.

Rhodelæum, Oil of Roſes.

Rhodi Radix, Roſe-wort, a kind of Herb.

Rhodinum, Roſe-Vinegar, or any Compoſition made of Roſes.

Rhodites, a precious Stone of a Roſe-colour; alſo Wine with Roſes infus'd.

Rhodium Lignum, a ſort of Wood that ſmells like Roſes, growing in the Iſle of Rhodes, and in the Canary-Iſlands.

Rhododaphne, a Shrub, having a Flower like a Roſe; and a Leaf like the Laurel, or Bay-leaf.

Rhododendros or Rhododendron, a Shrub, with Leaves like an Almond-Tree, but greater, otherwiſe call'd Oleander, or Roſe-bay. Alſo a Plant in Switzerland, that grows to a Man's Height, with Purple Flowers like Roſes; the ſame as Rhododaphne.

Rhodomel, Honey of Roſes.

Rhodon, the Roſe, a Flower.

Rhodoza, an Herb that bears a Leaf like a Nettle, and a Flower like a Roſe.

Rhodoſaccharum, Sugar of Roſes.

Rhodoſtagma, Roſe-water.

Rhoe. See Rhus.

Rhoeas, red Poppey, a ſort of Flower.

Rhomboidal, belonging to a Rhomboides.

Rhomboides, a kind of Muſcle-fiſh: In Geometry, a Quadrilateral, or four-ſided Figure, that has only its oppoſite Sides and Angles equal.

In Anatomy, Rhomboides, is a pair of Muſcles of the Shoulder-Blade, ſo nam'd from its Figure: They ariſe from the two lowermoſt Vertebræ of the Neck, as alſo from the four upper Spinal Proceſſes of the Vertebra's of the Back, and go as far as the Baſis, or Root of the Shoulder-blade; which they move backward, and obliquely upward.

Rhombus, a Fiſh call'd a Turbot, Bret-cock, or Birt; alſo a Spinning-wheel, Reel, or Whirl; alſo the Rhumbs, or Points of the Mariners Compaſs. In Geometry, a four-ſquare Figure, having all its Sides equal, and its oppoſite Angles alſo equal; two of them being Acute, and the other two Obtuſe; it is commonly call'd a Diamond-cut, like the Glaſs of old Windows. Rhombus is alſo a Surgeon's Bandage, reſembling that Figure.

Rhonchus, a ſnorting, or ſnoring; alſo a ſneering at, or mocking; a Scoff, Flout, or Jeer.

Rhopalon, the Water-lilly, a Flower ſo call'd from its Root's being like a Club.

Rhubarb, the Root of a certain Plant. See Rhabarbarum.

Rhumbs. See Rumbs.

Rhus, a buſhy Shrub call'd Sumach, Leather-Sumach, or Curriers-Sumach, with the Leaves of which, Hides are dreſſed and tanned; it grows in Spain, and elſewhere.

Rhyas, a Diſeaſe in the Eyes, that cauſes continual watering, or weeping: It is occaſion'd by a conſuming of the Caruncle, or ſmall piece of Fleſh in the great Corner of the Eye, ſo that it can no longer hold its Liquor.

Rhyme, Meeter, or Verſe. See Rime.

Rhyptica, ſcouring Medicines, that ſerve to cleanſe away Filth.

Rhythmical, belonging to, or made in Rhyme.

Rhythmus, Rhyme, or Meeter, Number, or Harmony in ſpeaking. Among Phyſicians, it is taken for a certain Proportion of Pulſes, Time, Life, Age, &c.

Rhytidoſis, a Wrinkling, of any Part of the Body.

Rial. See Ryal.

Rialto, the Name of a ſtately Marble-Bridge, in the City of Venice, where the Merchants meet, as in our Royal Exchange.

Rib, a Side-bone of the Body: In Archery, a hard Gooſe-quill, that lies between the Feathers.

Ribbs of a Ship, are the Timbers of the Futtocks, when the Planks are off; ſo call'd in general, becauſe they are bending like the Ribbs of a Carcaſs: So that if a Ship by lying aboard another, in a Sea-gate, or Wave, have thereby any of thoſe Timbers broken, the uſual Phraſe is, That ſhe has ſome of her Ribbs broken.

Ribbs of the Parrels, certain little long pieces of Wood, which are made with Holes like the Comb under the Beak-head, and belong to the Parrels of the Yards.

To Rib-roaſt, to beat, or bang one ſoundly.

Ribaldry, or Ribaudry, (Fr.) Whoredom, Whoring, Debauchery, lewd or licentious Talking.

Ribaud, (in old Statutes) a Vagabond, a luxurious Spend-thrift; a Whoremonger, or Leacher, a Perſon given to all manner of Lewdneſs.

Ribbon, a narrow piece of Silk, &c. In Heraldry, the eighth part of a Bend, which is born a little cut off from the Out-lines of the Eſcutcheon: Thus He bears Or a Ribbon Gules.

Ribes, (Lat.) the Curran-buſh, Baſtard Currans, or Common Ribes.

Ribibble, (old Word) a Cittern, or Fiddle.

Ribolla, a kind of ſtrong Wine ſo call'd.

Ric, a Saxon Word, ſignifying a Kingdom. Among Falconers, a Diſeaſe in a Hawk's Head that cauſes it to ſwell.

Rica, (Lat.) a kind of Vail, with which the Roman Ladies us'd to cover their Faces.

Rice, a ſort of Pulſe, or Grain, much us'd in Turkey, and other Eaſtern Countries: The Chine- ſes make a kind of Wine of it, coloured, and taſting much like Sack: Among Country Huſband-men, Rice is taken for the Shrouds, or tops of Trees, the fellings of Coppices, or Underwood.

Rich, that has great Incomes, abounding with, plentiful, very precious, noble.

Richard, (Sax.) a proper Name of Men, ſignifying powerful Diſpoſition: Of this Name there were three Kings of England, and one of Cyprus.

Riches, vaſt, or great Eſtate, Wealth: Alſo a Term in Hunting, for a Company of Marterns, or Sables.

Ricinus, (Lat.) the Wood-teek or Dogs-teek, an Inſect that annoys Dogs, Sheep, &c. alſo a kind of Vermin, that gets under a Man's Skin: Alſo an Herb in Egypt, otherwiſe call'd Palma Chriſti, the Seed of which reſembles a Teek.

Rick or Reek, a Heap of Corn or Hay.

Rickets, a Diſeaſe very riſe among Children, in England. See Rhachitis.

To Rid, to free from, or diſengage.

Riddance, ridding or clearing; Diſpatch.

Ridder. See Rudder.

Ridder-Roll. See Roll.

Riddle, a hard Queſtion, a dark Saying; alſo a kind of Sieve, to riddle or ſift Coals.

Ride of Hazle, or other Wood, a whole plump of Sprigs growing out of the ſame Root.

To Ride, to go on Horſe-back, or in a Coach, Waggon, Cart, &c. to manage a Horſe.

In Sea-Affairs, a Ship Rides, when ſhe is held in ſo faſt by her Anchors that ſhe does not drive away by the Tide or Wind: But a Ship is ſaid To ride well, when ſhe is made faſt to her Anchors in a good Road, and does not ſtrain or ſtretch her Anchors over-hard: Alſo when the Ship is ſo built, that in Riding, ſhe does not over-beat her ſelf into a Head-Sea, as that the Waves over-rake or waſh her over from Stem to Stern.

To Ride a-croſs, is to ride with the Main-yards and Fore-yards hoiſed up to the Hounds; both Yards and Arms being topped alike.

To Ride a-peek, to ride with one end of the Yards peeked up, and the other end hanging down: Alſo when a Ship in weighing Anchor, is brought directly over it, 'tis termed Riding a-peek.

To Ride a-ſhot, or by a ſhot, is when a Ship rides with two Cables ſpliced or faſten'd together, that it may be double in length, which is called A Shot.

To Ride a-thwart, to ride with the Ship's Side upon the Tide.

To Ride betwixt Wind and Tide, is when the Wind has equal Force over her one Way, and the Tide the other Way.

To Ride Hawſe-full, is when the Ship in ſtreſs of Weather, falls ſo deep into the Sea with her Head, that the Water breaks in to her Hawſes.

To Ride Portoiſe, is when the Yards are down a Port laſt, or ſtruck upon the Deck.

To Ride Wind-road, is when the Wind has more Power over a Ship in her Riding, than the Tide has.

Rideau, (Fr.) a Curtain, a Bed-Curtain. In Fortification, a Ditch, the Earth whereof is raiſed on its Side: Alſo a ſmall riſing Ground that runs along a Plain, and ſometimes almoſt parallel to the Front of the Place, to which it is very prejudicial; as being a Work ready thrown up by Nature, to cover the Beſiegers, and ſecure their Approach.

Riders, (in Sea-Affairs) great pieces of Timber, ſome in the Hold, and others Aloft, bolted upon the other Timbers to ſtrengthen them, when the Ship is but weakly built.

Ridge, the top of a Hill, Houſe, &c. the upper Edge of a Bank or Riſing-ground; a piece of Land between two Furrows. In Architecture, Ridges are the ſpaces between the Channels of Timber or Stone wrought.

Ridge-Band, that part of a Draught-Horſe's Harneſs, which runs over a-croſs his Back.

Ridged, raiſed, that has many Ridges and Channels.

Ridgeling or Ridgel, the Male of any Beaſt, that has been but half gelt.

Ridicule, (Lat.) that which is ridiculous; as To turn into Ridicule, i. e. to turn off with a Droll, to make Sport with.

To Ridicule, to render ridiculous, to make a May-game of.

Ridiculous, fit to be laughed at; impertinent, foppiſh.

Riding, a Diviſion of York-ſhire of which there are three; viz. The Eaſt-Riding, Weſt-Riding, and North-Riding.

Riding-Clerk, one of the ſix Clerks in Chancery, who in his turn for one Year, keeps the Controllment Books of all Grants that paſs the Great Seal.

Riens arreare, (Fr. Law-Phraſe) a kind of Plea, put in to an Action of Debt upon arrearages of Account, whereby the Defendant alledges, There is nothing in Arrear.

Riens deins le Gard, was a Challenge to a Jury or Inqueſt of London, for that four ſufficient Men, &c. were not impanelled; but it is repeal'd by Stat. 7. H. 7.

Riens paſſe per le fait, is the Form of an Exception taken to an Action in ſome Caſes.

Riens per Diſcent, a Form of Pleading, when an Heir is ſued for a Debt of his Anceſtour, and he has not Aſſets in his Hand, nor any Lands liable to be extended.

Rier County. See Rere-County.

Rife, frequent, common; as The ſmall Pox is very rife this Year.

To Rifle, to pillage, rob, or take away by Force.

Rifletum, (in old Latin Records) a Coppice or Thicket; a Place full of Buſhes or Thorns.

Rifling or Raffling, a particular Way of Chaffering, when a Company of Men ſtake down a piece of Money againſt a Commodity, and he that throws moſt upon the Dice takes it.

Rift, Cleft, or Chink.

Rifts, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, when Corruption is lodg'd in the Palate of the Mouth.

Rig, a Horſe that has had one of his Stones cut, and yet has got a Colt; alſo a ramping, or wanton Girl.

To Rig a Ship, to fit out a Ship, to furniſh her with Tackling; as Cordage, Ropes, &c.

A Ship is ſaid in general, To be well Rigged, when her Ropes are of a fit Size, in proportion to her Burden; as alſo when her Univerſary Ropes, as the two Main Shrowds, Tackles, Crow-feet, &c. are put up: A Ship is alſo ſaid To be over-rigged, when her Ropes are too big for her; which is a great Prejudice to her Sailing, and is apt to make her Heel, or lie on one Side.

Rigging, all Ropes whatever that belong to any part of a Ship; eſpecially thoſe which are peculiar to the Maſts and Yards.

Right, Juſtice, Equity, Reaſon; Authority, Power, Prerogative or Privilege: In a Law-ſenſe, any Title or Claim, by virtue of a Condition, Mortgage, &c.

Right, ſtraight, honeſt or juſt, true, proper, natural, perfect.

Right Angle, (in Geom.) is when one of its Legs ſtands exactly upright, or perpendicularly on the other, and inclines or leans no more one way than it does the other. See Angle.

Right-angled Figure, a Figure whoſe Sides are at Right Angles, or ſtand perpendicularly one on another.

Right-angled Triangle, is that which has one Right Angle.

Right Aſcenſion & Deſcenſion, Terms in Aſtronomy. See Aſcenſion and Deſcenſion.

Right Attack. See Attack.

Right Cone. See Cone.

Right Line, a Line that lies equally between its Points, without turning or bending any way, and conſequently the ſhorteſt.

Right Muſcles. See Recti & Rectus.

Right Sailing, is when a Voyage is perform'd on ſome one of the four Cardinal Points.

Right Sine, the ſame as Sine; which See.

Right Sphere. See Sphere.

Right the Helm, a Sea-Phraſe, us'd when the Steer-man is bid to keep the Helm even with the middle of the Ship.

To Right one, to do him Right, or Juſtice.

Righteous, Juſt, Upright; Equitable, Reaſonable.

Rightful, that is grounded on juſt Right, lawful.

Rigid, exact in the obſerving of Rules and Diſcipline; ſevere, ſtrict, ſtiff, ſtern.

Rigidity, Severity, Strictneſs, Sternneſs.

Riglet, (among Printers) a ſmall Rule, that ſerves for the dividing of Chapters, &c.

Rigols, a ſort of Muſical Inſtrument, by ſome ſuppos'd to be the ſame with Clarichord or Clavichord.

Rigor, (Lat.) a great ſtiff Cold, Roughneſs, Stiffneſs, Rigour, Extremity: Among Phyſicians, it is taken for a ſhaking of the Skin and Muſcles of the whole Body, accompany'd with Chilneſs; the cold Fit of an Ague, &c.

Rigour, Severity of Manners and Diſpoſition, Harſhneſs, Sternneſs, Cruelty, utmoſt Extremity.

Rigorous, full of Rigour, over-harſh.

†Rill, a Rivulet, or little Brook.

Rim, the Border, or Edge of any thing: In a Watch or Clock, it is the circular part of its Ballance.

Rima, a Rift, Cleft, or Chap in Wood or Stone, where it is not cloſe joyned; a Chink, or Cranny: In Surgery, a Fiſſure, or cleft of a Bone.

Rime, a falling Miſt that diſſolves by Degrees.

Rime or Rhyme, the likeneſs of ſound at the end of Words; a Time, Chime, &c. alſo a mean kind of riming Verſe, made by ſome unſkilful Perſon.

Rime-Doggrel, paltry, pitiful Rimes.

Rimy, hazy, foggy; in ſpeaking of the Weather.

Ring, an Ornament for the Finger.

Ring of an Anchor, that part to which the Cable is faſten'd.

There are alſo four Rings, or Circles of Metal, about a great Gun; viz. the Baſe-ring, Re-enforced Ring, Trunnion-ring, Cornice-ring and Muzzle-ring; which See in their proper Places.

Ring of Saturn, a ſolid Circular Arch and Plane, like the Horizon of an Artificial Globe; which entirely encompaſſes that Planet, but does not touch it in any Part. 'Tis this Ring, and its different Poſitions in reſpect of the Sun and of the Beholder's Eye, that occaſions all the various Appearances of Saturn, with his Anſæ or Handles, (as ſome Aſtronomers call them) or with none, with broad, or narrow ones, &c.

Ring-Bolts, (in a Ship) certain Iron-Pins, which ſerve for the bringing to of the Planks, and thoſe Parts, to which the Breeches and Tackles of the Ordinance are faſten'd.

Ring-Dove, a kind of Wood-Pigeon; a Bird.

Ring-Head, an Engine to ſtretch Woollen Cloath.

Ring-Leader, the Head, or chief Abetter of a Faction or Party.

Ring-ſtraked, marked with Streaks; a Word us'd Gen. 30. 39.

Ring-tail, a kind of Puttock or Kite, having whitiſh Feathers about the Tail.

Ring-Walk, a round Walk made by Hunters.

Ring-Worm or Tetter, an impure Humour that removes from one Part to another, with Redneſs and Itching.

To Rinſe, to waſh lightly, to waſh the Soap out of Linnen, after the firſt Lather; to waſh, or cleanſe a Drinking-glaſs, &c.

Riot, Exceſs, Luxury, Debauchery, Revel-rout, Tumult, Rabble: In a Law-ſenſe, it ſignifies the forcible doing of an unlawful Act, by three or more Perſons aſſembled together for that Purpoſe.

Riotous, given to Luxury, lewd, diſorderly; that commits a Riot, tumultuous.

Riotouſneſs, riotous or extravagant Proceeding, irregular courſe of Life.

Ripariæ, (in old Latin Records) any Waters either Salt or Freſh that run between Banks.

Ripator or Riparius, a Ripper or Fiſherman.

Ripiers, Men that bring Fiſh from the Sea-Coaſts to the inner parts of the Land; ſo nam'd from the Latin Word Ripa a Bank or Shore, or from the Engliſh Ripp, a kind of Basket or Frail for the carrying of Fiſh, &c. Theſe Fiſher-men are otherwiſe call'd Tranters.

To Ripple Flax, to rub or wipe off the Seed-Veſſels.

Riſagallum, (Lat.) white Arſenick or Rats-bane.

Riſe, the Head, or Spring of a River; Occaſion or Cauſe, Preferment.

To Riſe, to ſpring up, to proceed or come from, to get up from Bed or from one's Seat.

To Riſe the Tacks, (in Sea-Language) is to ſlacken the Ropes call'd Tacks.

Riſible, capable of laughing.

Riſing of the Sun or Stars, is their appearing above the Horizon.

Riſing-Anvil. See Anvil.

Riſing-Timbers, (in Sea-Affairs) the Hooks plac'd on the Keel of a Ship, ſo call'd becauſe according to their riſing by Degrees, ſo her Rake and Run, likewiſe riſe from the flat Floor.

Riſing, a Country-Word for Barm or Yeſt.

Riſings, (in a Ship) thoſe thick Planks which go before and behind on both Sides, under the ends of the Beams and Timbers of the ſecond Deck, to the third Deck, half Deck, and quarter Deck; ſo that the Timbers of the Deck bear on them at both Ends by the Ship's Side.

Riſk, Hazard, Venture, Peril, Danger.

Riſſole, (Fr.) a ſort of minced Pie made of Capons-Breaſts, Calves-Udder, Marrow, Bacon, fine Herbs, &c. and fry'd in Lard to give it a brown Colour. Riſſoles for Days of Abſtinence are made of a delicious Fiſh-farce, or elſe with white Muſhrooms and Spinage.

Riſus Sardonius, a forced Laughter; alſo a kind of convulſive Grinning, caus'd by a Contraction, or drawing together of the Muſcles on both Sides of the Mouth.

Rite, an Order, or Rule, to be obſerved on ſolemn Occaſions; a Church-Ceremony.

Ritornello (Ital.) the repeating of a Couplet of Verſes at the end of a Stanza, or Staff; or of ſix Notes at the end of a Song.

Ritual, a Book containing the particular Rites and Ceremonies of a Church; eſpecially of the Roman, or Greek.

Ritualiſt, one that ſtickles, or ſtands up for Rituals or Ceremonies in Religious Worſhip.

Rivage, (Fr.) Bank, Shore, or Water-ſide: Alſo a certain Toll, or Duty anciently paid to the King, in ſome Rivers, for the Paſſage of Boats, or Veſſels.

Rival, (Lat.) one that ſtands in Competition with another, eſpecially in Love-Affairs, one that courts the ſame Miſtreſs: The Word properly ſignifies one that has Water from the ſame River with another.

To Rive, to cleave aſunder, or in Pieces.

River, (in Geog.) a great Quantity of Water, continually running from its Source, or Spring-head, till it falls into the Sea.

Rivulet, a little River, or Brook, a ſmall Current of Water, which ariſes for the moſt part from Springs; but its Courſe is not very long, and its Bed is ſtraight and ſhallow.

Rix-Dollar, a German Coin worth four Shillings, five Pence and three Farthings of our Engliſh Money.

Roach or Rochet, a ſort of Fiſh.

Road, a High-way to travel in; alſo an open Place near the Land, for Ships to ride at Anchor in: A good Road, is a Place where neither the Sea nor Wind has much Power over the Ship.

Roader, a Ship that rides at Anchor in a Road.

To Roam about, to rove, range, or ramble up and down.

Roan, a ſort of Colour; as A roan Horſe, i. e. a Horſe of a bay, black, or ſorrel Colour intermixt all over with gray or white Hairs.

To Roar, to cry out like a Lion; to make a Noiſe as the Sea does; to cry out hideouſly.

Rob. See Apochyliſma.

Robbery, (according to the Law-Definition) is a felonious taking away of another Man's Goods openly againſt his Will, and putting him in Bodily Fear: This Offence was at firſt ſo call'd, either becauſe the true Man was depriv'd of ſome of his Robes, or Garments, or becauſe his Money, or Goods were taken out of ſome part of his Robe about his Perſon.

Robbins, (in Sea-affairs) certain ſmall Ropes that are reeved, or put thro' the Eyelet-holes of the Sail, under the Head-ropes, and ſerve to make faſt, or tie the Sails to the Yards.

Robe, a long Veſt, or Gown that covers the whole Body; whence Divines and Lawyers are uſually ſtyl'd Men of the long Robe.

Roberdſmen or Robertſmen, a ſort of mighty Thieves, mention'd in ſeveral old Statutes, and ſaid to take Name from Robin Hood, a famous Robber on the Borders of England and Scotland, in the time of King Richard I.

Robert, a proper Name of Men, which in the German Tongue, ſignifies famous in Counſel: There were of this Name one Emperour of Germany, one King of France, and four Kings of Scotland.

Robert-Sauce, (in Cookery) a kind of Sauce made of Onions, Muſtard, Butter, Pepper, Salt and Vinegar.

Robins. See Robbins.

Roborantia, (Lat.) Medicines that ſtrengthen and Comfort the Heart.

Robuſt, ſtrong like Oak, ſtrong-limbed, luſty, hardy, ſturdy.

Rocambole, (Fr.) a kind of ſmall mild Garlick of the bigneſs of a Shallot; otherwiſe call'd Spaniſh Garlick.

Roche, an old Word for a Rock.

Roche Allum, a Mineral Salt of a very binding Quality found in the Veins of the Earth, in many Places of Europe.

Rochet, a kind of Surplice, or Ornament worn by Biſhops, &c. alſo the Roach-fiſh.

Rock, a Maſs of Stone rooted in the Ground: Alſo an Inſtrument us'd in ſome Parts for the ſpinning of Flax or Hemp.

Rockadillio, a kind of Sweat-meat made in Spain, and ſo call'd from its Figure reſembling a Rock.

Rocket, a Creature in America, whoſe Skin is of the Colour of a faded Leaf marked with yellow or blewiſh Spots: They leap up and down continually, and take great delight in looking upon Men. Alſo a Sallet-herb much of the ſame Nature as Creſſes: Alſo a ſort of Fire-work, that runs up very high into the Air.

Rod, a Wand, or ſmall Stick: Alſo a Land-Meaſure of 16 Foot and a half, and in *Stafford*ſhire of 20 Foot; the ſame as Pearch and Pole; which See. This muſt always be diſtinguiſh'd from Rood, which is a ſquare Meaſure containing the fourth part of an Acre.

Rod-Knights or Rad-Knights, (Sax.) were certain Servitours, that held Land by ſerving their Lord on Horſe-back.

Rod-Net, a kind of Net to catch Black-birds, or Wood-cocks in.

Rodge, a ſort of Water-fowl ſomewhat like a Duck, but of a leſſer Size.

Rodolphus. See Ralph.

Rodomontado, (Ital.) a vain-glorious bragging, or boaſting; from Rodomonte the vapouring Hector in the Poem call'd Orlando furioſo.

Roundellus, (in old Latin Records) a Roundle, an old Riding-cloak.

Roe, a kind of Deer; alſo the Milt of a Fiſh.

Rogatio, (Lat.) a Queſtion, a Demand; a Deſire, or Requeſt: Whence Rogatio Legis, among the Romans, was the propoſing of a Law to the People, for their Approbation.

Rogation-Week, the next Week but one before Whitſunday; ſo call'd from the Duty of making Supplications and Faſting, enjoyn'd at that time by the Church, as a Preparative to the Feſtival of Chriſt's Aſcenſion. It is alſo call'd Gang-week, and by ſome Graſs-week; which See under thoſe Articles.

Roger, a proper Name of Men from the High-Dutch Word Ruger, i. e. Reſt, or Quiet; or from Rodgar, i. e. ſtrong Counſel.

Rogue, Villain, Knave, Cheat; alſo an idle ſturdy Begger, that wanders up and down from Place to Place, without a Licence. It is alſo ſometimes us'd in a familiar Way, for a Word of Kindneſs, as He or She is a pretty Rogue.

Roguery, Villany, Malice, Knavery; alſo Rallery, Drolling, or Banter.

Roguiſh, wicked, malicious, knaviſh; pleaſant, wanton.

Rohob. See Apochyliſma.

To Roiſt, to ſwagger, boaſt, or vaunt.

Roke, as To make one's ſelf all in a roke, i. e. to put one's ſelf into a great Sweat.

Roll, a Bundle of any thing rolled up; a ſtrickle to ſtrike a Meaſure even, a Book-binder's Tool to gild the Edges of a Cover, &c. Alſo a Liſt of the Names of the Inhabitants of a Pariſh, which Collectors carry about for the gathering of publick Duties and Taxes.

Among Lawyers, Roll is taken for a Sheet of Paper, or Skin of Parchment, which may be turned or wound up in Shape of a Pipe, of which there are ſeveral ſorts in the Exchequer; as the great Wardrobe-Roll, the Cofferer's Roll, the Subſidy-Roll, &c.

Roll of Court, the Court-Roll in a Manour in which the Names, Rents and Services of the Tenants are copied and inrolled.

Roll of Parchment, (in Merchandize) is the Quantity of ſixty Skins.

Roll or Rowle, (in a Ship) a round piece of Wood or Iron, into which the Whip-ſtaff is let; being made to turn about, that it may carry over the Whip the eaſier from Side to Side.

Ridder-Roll, a Schedule, or ſmall Piece of Parchment added to ſome Part of a Roll, or Record.

The Rolls or the Office of the Rolls, (in Chancery-Lane) an Houſe firſt built by King Henry III. for Converted Jews, and call'd Domus Converſorum; but King Edward III. having expell'd them for their Lewdneſs, caus'd the Place to be ſet a-part for keeping the Rolls, or Records of Chancery, the Maſter of which is the ſecond in Chancery, and ſits as Judge in the Abſence of the Lord Chancellour, or Lord Keeper. See Maſter of the Rolls.

Rolls of Parliament, the Manuſcript Regiſters, or Rolls of the Proceedings of our old Parliaments: For before the Invention of the Art of Printing, all Statutes were engroſs'd on Parchment, and publickly proclaim'd in every County; which Cuſtom continu'd till the Reign of King Henry VII.

Roll-rich Stones, certain huge Stones in the Weſtern Part of Oxford-ſhire ſet in a Circle; which ſome have thought to be the Monuments of a ſignal Victory, others a Burying-Place, and others a Place for the Coronation of the Daniſh Kings.

Roller, a Swathing-band for young Children; alſo a round piece of Wood to remove great Stones or Timber with a Leaver; alſo an Inſtrument to roll Barly, or other Grain.

Rolling-Preſs, a ſort of Preſs to print Pictures engrav'd on Copper-plates, Callicoes, &c.

Roman, belonging to the City, People, or Church of Rome.

Roman Beam, a ſort of Ballance, otherwiſe call'd a Stelleer, conſiſting of an Iron-beam with Notches, a Hook at one end, and a Poiſe of Lead; it is much us'd by Butchers and others that keep Markets.

Roman Catholicks, Papiſts that follow the Doctrine and Diſcipline of the Church of Rome; ſo call'd from their pretending to be the only true Members of the Catholick, or Univerſal Church.

Roman Letter, a particular Character us'd in Writing and Printing.

Engliſh Roman, a ſort of large Printing-letter.

Roman Indiction, a Circle, or Revolution of Fifteen Years, within which ſpace of Time, the Romans us'd to exact ſeveral ſorts of Tributes of the conquer'd Nations; ſo that at the end of the firſt five Years, Gold was demanded in token of the Roman Dominion; the next five Years, Silver for the Soldiers Pay; the laſt five Years, Braſs and Iron for other Uſes. See Indiction and Cycle of Indiction.

Roman Order of Architecture, is the ſame as the Compoſite, being made up of the Corinthian and Ionick Orders, but ſet off with more Ornaments than either: It was invented by the Romans under Auguſtus, and ſet above all the others, to ſhew (as ſome ſay) that they were Lords over all other Nations.

Romance, a feigned Story about amorous Adventures, or Warlike Atchievements expreſs'd in fine Language; alſo a Tale of a Tub, a meer Fiction, or Lye.

To Romance, to tell a magnificent Lye, to bounce, crack, or vapour.

Romancer, a Teller of Lie, Tales, or falſe Stories.

Romanciſt, a Writer of Romances.

Romaniſt, one that belongs to the Church of Rome, a Roman Catholick, or Papiſt.

To Romanize, to bring over to the Roman Cuſtoms, or Faſhions; as He has Romaniz'd his Grecian Ladies.

Romantick, belonging to, or that ſavours of a Romance; fabulous, feigned.

Rome, the chief City of Italy, heretofore the Seat of the Roman Empire, and now of the Popes.

Rome-ſcot, or Rome-feoh, (Sax.) a certain Tribute formerly paid to Rome, and commonly call'd Peter-pence; which See.

Romiſh, belonging to the Church of Rome.

Rompee, (Fr. i. e. broken) a Term us'd among Heralds, when a Chevron is drawn in an Eſcutcheon, broken, or with an opening in the middle; as He bears a Chevron Rompee between three Mullets.

Rondel, (Fr. in Fortif.) a round Tower ſometimes raiſed at the Foot of the Baſtions.

Rood, the fourth Part of an Acre, containing forty ſquare Perches, or Poles; alſo an old Word for a Croſs.

Rood-Loft, a Shrine on which a Crucifix was plac'd, or the Image, or Relicks of a Saint; which Shrine was uſually ſet up juſt over the Paſſage out of the Body of the Church into the Chancel.

Roof, the top of a Houſe, or Coach; the Palate of the Mouth.

Roof-Tiles, or Creſt-Tiles, Tiles made on purpoſe to be laid on the Roof, or Ridge of a Houſe.

Roof-Trees, or Ruff-Trees, (in a Ship) thoſe Timbers which go from the Half-deck, to the Fore-caſtle; ſerving to bear up the Gratings and Ledges, where the Nettings are faſten'd: That piece of Timber is alſo call'd a Roof-Tree, which is us'd upon occaſion, to be ſet over the Half-deck, for Nettings, Sails, or Pieces of Canvas to be laid over it.

Rook, a Bird that preys upon Carrion, &c. whence the Word is figuratively taken for a notorious Cheat, or ſharping Fellow.

Roomer, (among Sea-men) a Ship is ſaid To be roomer, when ſhe has more Room, or is larger than ordinary.

Root, that part of a Tree, or Herb, which grows downwards; the Principle, Riſe, or beginning of a Thing: In Grammar, a primitive or original Word. In Mathematicks, it is a Number, or Quantity conſider'd in Order to be multiply'd once, or more times by it ſelf to make Products call'd Powers.

Square-Root, is a Quantity or Number, which being multiply'd once by it ſelf, produces the Power call'd a Square; ſo 4 is the ſquare-Root of 16.

Cube-Root or Cubick Root, is ſo termed with reſpect to a triple Multiplication of it ſelf to make a Cube: Thus 4 is the Cubick Root of 64, and ſo onward to the Biquadratick Root, Surſolid Root, &c.

Rove, or Arrobas, a Foreign Weight of 10, 20, 25, 30, and 40 Pounds.

Rope of Pleaſure, a Rope of maſſy Gold made by the ancient Inhabitants of Peru in America, which is ſaid to have been of ſo prodigious a Thickneſs and Length, that 600 luſty Men were not able to lift it up from the Ground; but it was caſt into a Lake, leſt the Spaniards ſhould get Poſſeſſion of it.

Ropes of a Ship, are in general all her Cordage; but the following are more particularly ſo call'd, viz. the Boat-rope, Bolt-rope, Breſt-rope, Bucket-rope, Buoy-rope, Gueſt-rope, Guy-rope, Keel-rope, Paſſaredo-rope, Preventer-rope, Rudder-rope, and Top-rope: all which See in their proper Places.

Rope-yarns, the Yarns of any Rope untwiſted, but moſt commonly made of the ends of Cables half worn out: They are taken to ſerve, or wind about ſmall Ropes, to make Sinnet, Mats, Caburns, &c. as alſo to make up the Sails to the Yard-arms, and for ſeveral other Uſes.

Ropy, clammy, or ſlimy.

Rorid, (Lat.) dewy, moiſt; as A rorid Cloud.

Roriferus Ductus. See Ductus Roriferus.

Ros, Dew that falls on the Ground: Among the ancient Phyſicians, it is taken for a kind of Moiſture, whereby all the Parts of a Living-creature are nouriſhed, and which is found as it were a Dew ſprinkled on them.

Ros Vitrioli, (according to Angelus Sala) the firſt Phlegm, or Water that is diſtilled from Vitriol in Balneo Mariæ.

Roſa, the Roſe, a Flower, of which there are ſeveral ſorts; alſo a Diſeaſe the ſame with Eryſipelas, or St. Anthony's Fire. Alſo a kind of Comet. See Diſcens.

Roſa Solis, a kind of Herb; alſo a pleaſant Liquor made of Brandy, Sugar, Cinnamon and other Ingredients agreeable to the Taſte, and comfortable to the Heart.

Roſary, a Maſs with Prayers to the Virgin Mary; alſo a pair of Beads call'd Fifteens, containing 15 Paternoſters and 150 Ave-Maries; both much in uſe among the Confraternity of the Roſary founded by St. Dominick.

Roſatum, (Lat.) Wine made of Roſes infuſed.

Roſe, a well known ſweet-ſcented Flower, much uſ'd in Phyſick for cooling and comforting the principal Parts of the Body: Alſo a proper Name of ſeveral Women.

The Golden Roſe, a Roſe which the Pope uſually bleſſes at Maſs, upon a Sunday in Lent, which is afterwards carry'd in Proceſſion, and convey'd as a Preſent to ſome Soveraign Prince.

Roſe-Copper. See Copper.

Roſe-Noble, an Engliſh Coin valu'd at 16*s.* 8*d.*

Roſe-Ryal, an ancient Gold-coin worth one Pound and Ten Shillings.

Roſe-Wood, a kind of Shrub.

Roſe-wort, a Sort of Herb.

Roſemary, a well-known moſt fragrant and wholeſome Plant; the Flowers of which are more eſpecially good for the Head and Brain.

Roſetum, (Lat.) a Garden of Roſes, or a Place planted with Roſes: In our ancient Deeds, a low watery Place full of Reeds and Ruſhes; alſo Thatch made of Reeds for the covering of Houſes.

Roſin, an oily Juice, or Moiſture that runs out of ſome Trees, particularly the Turpentine-tree, Pine, Firr, &c.

Roſin of Amber, a kind of Subſtance that ariſes from the Tincture of Amber diſtilled, and ſticks to the bottom of the Veſſel.

Roſin of Jalap. See Jalap and Reſine.

Roſined, rubbed, or done over with Roſin:

Roſtra, (Lat.) a Place adorned with the Prows of Ships taken by the Romans, from the Antiatæ, where Orations were uſually made to the People.

Roſtra Leporina. See Labia Leporina.

Roſtriformis Proceſſus, (in Anat.) a Proceſs of the Shoulder-blade, and of the lower Jaw-bone. See Coracoides and Corone.

Roſtrum, the Beak, or Bill of a Bird; the Snout of a Beaſt, or Fiſh; the Beak, or Prow of a Ship: Among Chymiſts, the Noſe of an Alembick, or Still, the Pipe that conveys Liquor deſtilling into the Receiver.

Rota, a Wheel; alſo the Name of the firſt Juriſdiction of the Court of Rome.

Rota Ariſtotelica, (i. e. Ariſtotle's Wheel) a Wheel conſider'd as moving along a Plane till it has made one entire Revolution; ſo that then its Center will have deſcrib'd a Line equal to that of the Wheel's Circumference.

Rotation, a wheeling, or moving about like a Wheel.

Rotator Femoris Extrorſum. See Obturator Externus.

Rotator Major & Minor, two Proceſſes in the upper part of the Thigh-bone, otherwiſe call'd Trochanteres; in which the Tendons of many Muſcles are terminated.

Rote, as To ſay a Leſſon by rote, i. e. to ſay it as roundly, as the Wheel runs in its Rote, or Track.

Rother-Beaſts, a Word uſ'd in old Statutes, and ſtill in the Northern Parts of England for horned Beaſts; as Cows, Oxen, Steers, Heifers, &c. whence Roſoth, or Rother-ſoil is taken in Hereford-ſhire for the Soil, or dung of ſuch Cattel.

Rottello, (Ital.) a Weight uſ'd at Aleppo, of which there are ſeveral ſorts, viz. the Rottello of 720 Aleppo-Drams equal to 4 Pounds 14 Ounces and 12 Drams; the Rottello of 700 Drams 4*l.* 12 ou. 11 dr. and that of 680 Drams, or 4*l.* 10 ou. 10. dr.

Rotula, a little Wheel; a Roll, or Bill: In Anatomy, the Whirl-bone, or round broad Bone of the Knee.

Rotuli Placitorum, (in ancient Writers) Court-Rolls, or Records upon Roll; the Regiſter of Tryals, Judgments, and Decrees in a Court of Juſtice.

Rotulus Wintoniæ, Doomſday-Book, ſo call'd, becauſe it was formerly kept at Wincheſter.

Rotundity, Roundneſs; as the Rotundity of a Sphere, of a Period, &c.

Rotundus Muſculus; (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Bone of the Arm nam'd Radius, which ſerves to turn the Palm of the Hand downwards.

Rou, (old Word) ugly, froward.

To Rove, to ramble about, to have rambling Thoughts.

Rouge-Croſs & Rouge-Dragon, the Names of two of the Marſhals or Purſevants at Arms. See Purſevants.

Rough, uneven, rugged, ſevere, harſh, grim; hairy or briſtly, homely, proud.

Rough Sea, a Term us'd by Sailers when the Waves grow high.

Roughings, (Country-Word) latter Paſture, or Graſs that comes after Mowing.

To Roul, (in Military Affairs) Officers of equal Quality, who mount the ſame Guards, and take their turns in relieving one another, are ſaid To Roul.

Roulade, (Fr.) a Trill, Trilling, or Quavering: In Cookery, Roulades are Veal-ſtakes, thin ſlices of Bacon, with other ſlices of Calves or Sheeps-Tongues, all cover'd with a particular Farce, roll'd up together and boil'd in a Pot.

Rounce, the handle of a Printing-Preſs with which it is turn'd.

Rouncevals, a kind of large and ſweet Peaſe, ſo call'd from Ronce-Valles, a Place on the Borders of Spain, at the Foot of the Pyrenean Mountains, famous for the encreaſe of them.

A Round, a Ring or Circle: In Military Affairs, a Watch commanded by an Officer that goes in the Night about the Ramparts of a fortify'd Place, to ſee that the Sentinels do their Duty; or in the Streets of a Garriſon-Town to keep good Order. Among Stone-cutters, Rounds are the Fragments or broken pieces of Statues.

Round-Heads, a Name given to the Parliament's Party in the Civil Wars, in the time of King Charles I. from their affecting to wear ſhort Hair.

Round-Houſe, a Pariſh-Priſon, to ſecure thoſe that commit Diſorders in the Night: Alſo the uppermoſt Room or Cabbin in the Stern of a Ship, where the Maſter lies.

Round-Shot, (in Gunnery) any round Ball, or Bullet made for a Piece.

To Round in or Round aft, a Sea-Term, belonging to the Main and Fore-Sail: For when the Wind larges, i. e. grows fairer upon them, the Sailers let riſe the Main-Tacks or Fore-Tacks, and hale aft the Fore-ſheat to the Catt-Head, as alſo the Main-ſheat to the Cubbridge-Head; and this Work is call'd Rounding aft, or Rounding in the Sail. Afterwards the Sheats being thus haled down, they keep them from flying up with a Rope call'd the Paſſarado; which See.

Round-Shot, (in Gunnery) round Bullets fitted in Proportion to the Bore of the Piece.

Round Figures. See Article in Arithmetick.

Roundel. See Rundle.

Roundelay, a Shepherd's Song, as it were a Song ſung in a Round, by a Company where each takes his Turn.

Rount, (in Horſes) a kind of Fleſh-colour, or a Bay intermixt with White and Gray.

Roupie. See Rupee.

To Rouſe or Rowze, to awake, to raiſe or ſtir up: In Falconry, it is when a Hawk lifts up and ſhakes her ſelf.

To Rouſe a Hart (among Hunters) is to raiſe him from his Harbour.

To Rouſe in the Cable or Hawſer, a Word of Command us'd at Sea, when it is requiſite to hale in part of the Cable or Hawſer that lies ſlack in the Water, and is in Danger of being foul about the Anchor, on the turning of the Tide.

Rouſing Lie, a whiſking great one.

Rouſſelet, (Fr.) a kind of delicate ſmall Pear.

Rouſſerolle, a ſort of King's-Fiſher; a Bird.

Rout, Multitude or Throng of People, Squabble, Noiſe; alſo the defeat, or overthrow of an Army.

Rout of Wolves, (among Huntſmen and Foreſters) a Company, or Herd of thoſe wild Beaſts.

To Rout, to put to Rout, or Flight; to put one out of his Meaſures; to ſnore, or ſnort; to root up the Ground, as Swine do.

Route, (Fr.) Road, Way; eſpecially that which Military Forces are to march thro'; as Such a Body of Soldiers took the ſame Route.

Rowel, the goad or pricks of a Spur, ſhap'd like the Figure of a Star: In Surgery, a kind of Iſſue made by drawing a ſkain of Thread or Silk thro' the nape of the Neck.

Rowen, (Country-Word) rough Paſture full of Stubble, or Weeds: Rowen-Hay, i. e. latter Hay.

Rowing of Clothes, is the ſmoothing of them with a Roller, &c.

Rowl. See Roll.

Rowland, (Germ. Counſel for the Land) a proper Name of Men.

Rouncy, a Word us'd in Chaucer for a Cart-Horſe.

To Rowze. See To Rouſe.

Royal, (Fr.) belonging to a King or Queen, Kingly, Princely, Noble, Magnificent: Among Hunters, one of the Starts of a Stag's Head. See Torch Royal.

Royal Aſſent, is the Approbation which the Queen gives to an Act already done by others; as to the Election of a Biſhop by Dean and Chapter; and to a Bill paſſed in both Houſes of Parliament; which Aſſent being given, the Bill is indorſed with theſe Words, La Reine le veut, i. e. it pleaſes the Queen; but if ſhe refuſes to agree to it, thus, La Reine s'aviſera, i. e. the Queen will adviſe or conſider.

Royal Exchange, a ſtately Pile of Building in the City of London, which was at firſt founded by Sir Thomas Greſham, a worthy Merchant, A. D. 1566. juſt a hundred Years before it was burnt: But it is now built of excellent Stone, with ſuch curious and admirable Architecture, eſpecially for a Front, a high Tower or Steeple, in which is an harmonious Chime of twelve Bells; and for Arch-work, that it is the nobleſt Structure of that Uſe in the World.

Royal Fort. See Fort.

Royal Obſervatory. See Obſervatory.

Royal Parapet or Parapet of the Rampart, (in Fortif.) a Bank or Breaſt-work about three Fathom broad, and ſix Foot high, rais'd on the edge of the Rampart towards the Country, to cover the Men who defend that Poſt.

Royal Society. See Society.

Royaliſt, one that is of the King's or Queen's Party, or maintains his or her Intereſt; a loyal Perſon.

Royalty, Royal Dignity, Kingſhip.

Royalties, the Royal Rights or Prerogatives of a King or Queen; which according to the Civilians, are ſix in Number, viz. The Power of Judicature, Power of Life and Death, Power of War and Peace, Power of levying Taxes; Goods that have no Owners, as Waifs, Eſtrays, &c. and Coining of Money.

The Enſigns of Royalty, (in England) are the Crown, the Scepter and Croſs, the Scepter and Dove, St. Edward's Staff, four ſeveral Swords, the Globe, the Orb and Croſs, and other ſuch like things us'd at the Coronation of our Kings and Queens.

Roynes, (in old Records) Currents, Streams, or other uſual Paſſages of Rivers or running Waters.

Rubace or Rubacel, a kind of precious Stone, the ends of which are of a yellowiſh Colour.

Rubarb. See Rhubarb and Rhabarbarum.

Rubecula, (Lat.) the Robin-red-breaſt, or Ruddock; a Bird.

Rubellio or Rubellus, the Rochet or Roach, a Fiſh.

Rubeola, a ſort of ſmall Pox, or Meazles.

Rubet, the Toad-ſtone, a Stone ſaid to be found in the Head of a Toad.

Rubeta, (Lat.) a Toad that is ſomewhat red, a Land-toad that keeps about Buſhes; a Ruddock.

Rubetaria Natrix, the croaking Water-ſnake.

Rubetarius, a kind of Hawk call'd a Hen-harrier.

Rubetra, the Stone-chatter, Blackberry-eater, Mortetter or Black-cap; a ſort of Bird.

Rubetum, a Cloſe full of Ruſhes and Brambles; a Place where many Buſhes grow.

Rubia, an Herb call'd Goſlin-Weed or Clivers; Madder, with which Skins are colour'd, or Wooll died. Rubia Sylveſtris, the Herb Wood-roof.

Rubican; as A rubican Horſe, i. e. a true mixt roan Horſe.

Rubicellus, (Lat.) a pale Ruby, a precious Stone.

Rubicilla, the Woop or Bulfinch, a Bird.

† Rubicund, Bloud-red, ruddy.

Rubiginous, ruſty, foul.

Rubigo, (Lat.) Ruſt, ruſtineſs of Iron or Braſs, Foulneſs, blaſting of Corn or Vines: Among Herbaliſts, it is taken for Mildew, a Diſeaſe that happens to Plants, caus'd by a dewey Moiſture, which falling upon them, and continuing for want of the Sun's Heat to draw it up, by its ſharpneſs gnaws and corrupts the inmoſt Subſtance of the Plant.

Rubinus, the Ruby, a precious Stone.

Rubrica, Marking-ſtone, Ruddle or red Oaker; alſo a kind of Ring-worm, or red Tetter.

Rubrick, a ſpecial Title or Sentence of the Civil and Canon Law, or of any Book written or printed in red Letters: Alſo the Title-Rules or Directions for due performing the Service of the Common Prayer.

Rubus, a Bramble, a Buſh, the Blackberry-Buſh: Rubus Caninus, the wild Eglantine or Dog-brier: Rubus Idæus, the Hind-berry or Raſp-berry Buſh.

Ruby, a tranſparent Gem of a Blood-red Colour, which if it be large, and has a ſparkling Luſtre, is call'd a Carbuncle or a great and radiant Ruby: Among Heralds, Ruby is taken for the red Colour in the Arms of Noble-men, the ſame with Mars in the Coats of Soveraign Princes, and Gules in thoſe of inferiour Gentlemen.

Ruck, a Bird of prodigious Strength and Bigneſs; ſo that ſome Writers have reported things paſs'd Belief; as that it is able to truſs up a Lion with its Talon or Claws, &c.

Ructation, belching or breaking of Wind; a Motion of the Stomach, by which Vapours and windy Matters are ſent forth at the Mouth.

Rudder or Ridder, (in Husbandry) the wideſt ſort of Sieves for ſeparating Corn from the Chaff.

Rudder, (of a Ship) that piece of Timber which is hanged on the Stern-Poſts by four, five, and ſometimes ſix Iron-hooks, call'd Pintles; being as it were a Bridle to direct the Ship's Courſe, and turn her about at the Pleaſure of the Steersman.

Rudder-Irons, the Cheeks of that Iron whereof the Pintle is part, which is faſten'd and nail'd down about the Rake of the Rudder.

Rudder-Rope, a Rope let thro' the Stern-poſt and the Head of the Rudder; ſo as both ends may be ſpliced or faſten'd together; its Uſe being to ſave the Rudder, if by any Accident it ſhould be ſtruck off from the Irons.

Ruddle a ſort of red Chalk. See Sinoper.

Ruddock, a kind of Bird; alſo a Land-toad.

Rude, (Lat.) rough, courſe, unpoliſhed; unskilful, ignorant, clowniſh; uncivil, ſaucy, malapert; roguiſh, arch, unlucky.

Rudge-waſhed Kerſey, a ſort of Kerſey-Cloath made of Fleece-wooll, only waſh'd on the Sheep's Back.

Rudiments, (Lat.) the firſt Elements, Principles, or Grounds of any Art or Faculty, in regard thoſe that come firſt to be inſtructed, are to be ſuppos'd altogether rude or ignorant.

Rudis, a knotty rough Stick, which the Prætor, among the Romans, us'd to give the Gladiators or Sword-players, as a Mark of their Freedom and Diſcharge from that Exerciſe.

Rudus, Rubble or Rubbiſh of old ruinous Houſes, ſhards or pieces of Stone broken and ſhatter'd: Alſo a ſort of groſs Morter which the ancient Roman Builders made uſe of, for ſmoothing, equally filling, and levelling the Surface of Walls, before the fine Plaiſter was laid on. It was alſo us'd for the ſecond Bed, or Lay of the Flooring.

Rue, an Herb of ſingular Virtue againſt Poiſon or Infection., and the Vapours of the Mother: It is otherwiſe call'd Herb-Grace and Serving-man's Joy.

Rueful, ſad, woeful.

Ruff, an Ornament for the Neck, made of ſeveral Rows of fine Linnen, ſtiffen'd and plaited, formerly worn inſtead of a Band or Crevatt: Alſo a ſort of Bird ſo call'd, becauſe in fighting they raiſe up their Feathers like a double Ruff: Alſo a Fiſh that is ſomewhat ſmaller than a Perch, and takes the ſame Bait: Alſo a beating, or gettting the better at a Game of Cards.

To Ruff, to trump at Cards: In Falconry, a Hawk is ſaid To ruff, when ſhe hits the Prey, but does not truſs it.

Ruff-tree. See Roof-tree.

Ruffian, a wicked, raſcally Fellow, an Aſſaſin, a deſperate Villain; a Deboſhee.

Ruffianly, like a Ruffian, boiſterous, rude, or ill-bred.

To Ruffle, to fold into Ruffles, to rumple or towze; to diſcompoſe, or diſorder.

Rufter-Hood, (in Falconry) a plain Leather-hood, which is large and open behind, to be worn by a Hawk, when ſhe's is firſt drawn.

Rugged, rough, uneven, ſevere, croſs, skittiſh.

Rugitus, (Lat.) a roaring of Lions, a great crying out; alſo a rumbling, or Croaking of the Guts.

Rugoſity, a being rough, full of Wrinkles, Plaits, or Furrows; Ruggedneſs.

Ruin, Fall, Decay, Undoing, Deſtruction, Overthrow.

To Ruin, to bring to Ruin, to deſtroy, to undo; to Spoil, or lay waſte.

Ruinant Battery. See Battery Sunk.

Ruinous, falling to decay, ready to fall, going to wrack.

Rule, Law, or Principle to go by, Statute, or Decree of a Religious Order; Sway or Command: In Arithmetick, a Method of reſolving Queſtions relating to that Art, of which there are ſeveral Kinds.

Rule of Falſe or Falſehood. See Poſition.

Rule of Three or Rule of Proportion, ſo call'd becauſe by Means of three Numbers given, it finds out a fourth unknown, which ſhall have the ſame Proportion to one of thoſe given Numbers, as they have one to another; upon account of its great Uſefulneſs, it is alſo ſtyl'd The Golden Rule; which See.

Carpenter's Rule, an Inſtrument to meaſure Timber, or Boards with.

Rum, a ſort of Liquor us'd in Barbadoes, much ſtronger than Brandy.

Rumb or Rhumb, (in Navigat.) the Courſe of a Ship; that is to ſay the Angle which ſhe makes in her Sailing, with the Meridian of the Place where ſhe is: Alſo one Point of the Mariners Compaſs, or eleven Degrees and a quarter, viz. the $\frac{1}{32}$ part of the Circumference of the Horizon, or of the Compaſs-card, which repreſents that Circle.

Rumb or Rumb-Line, is a Line deſcribed by the Ship's Motion on the Surface of the Sea, ſteered by the Compaſs; ſo as to make the ſame, or equal Angles with every Meridian.

Theſe Rumbs, are Spiral Lines proceeding from the Point where we ſtand, and winding about the Globe of the Earth, till they come to the Pole, where at laſt they loſe themſelves; but in Mercator's Charts, and the Plain ones, they are repreſented by ſtraight Lines. Their Uſe is to ſhew the bearing of any two Places one from another; i. e. upon what Point of the Compaſs any Land, or Shore lies from another.

Complement of the Rumb, is the Angle made with any Circle parallel to the Equator, by the Line of the Ships Run, or Courſe.

Rumbeg, (i. e. Lord, or Prince of Rome) a Title given to the Pope by the Turks.

To Rumble, to make a hollow Noiſe.

Rumen, (Lat.) the Cud of Beaſts; the Dewlap, or looſe Skin of the Throat; the Paunch, or Belly; alſo a Teat, or Dug.

Rumex, the Herb Sorrel, or ſowr Dock; alſo a kind of Weapon like a Spear.

† Rumigeration, a ſpreading a Rumour, or Report abroad.

Ruminant Animals, Living-Creatures that chew the Cud; as Oxen, Sheep, Deer, Goats, Hares, &c.

Ruminant Signs, (in Aſtrol.) thoſe Signs of the Zodiack, which are repreſented by Creatures endu'd with that Quality; viz. Aries, Taurus and Capricornus.

To Ruminate, to chew the Cud: In a figurative Senſe, to ponder ſeriouſly, to weigh in Mind; to conſider, muſe, or think upon.

Rumination, the Act of ruminating, or chewing the Cud; which ſome define to be a natural Motion of the Stomach, Mouth and other Parts, mutually relieving one another; by which means the Meat eaten haſtily at firſt, is convey'd back to the Mouth again, there chew'd, and then ſwallow'd down a ſecond time, to the great Advantage of the Creature.

Ruminar, (Lat.) the Cud, or Chewing-fiſh; a Sea-fiſh, the only one that chews the Cud; having broad Teeth in each Jaw, for that purpoſe.

To Rummage, (Sea-Term) to remove any Goods, or Luggage from one Place to another; eſpecially to clear the Ship's Hold of any Goods, or Lading, in order to their being handſomely ſtowed and placed: Whence the Word is us'd upon other Occaſions, for to rake into, or to ſearch narrowly.

Rummer, a ſort of Drinking-glaſs, ſuch as Rheniſh Wine is uſually drunk in; alſo a Brimmer, or Glaſs of any Liquor fill'd to the top.

Rumour, (Lat.) Report, Bruit, Fame, or common Talk.

Rumoured, generally talked of; as It is a thing rumoured about, or abroad.

Rumple, a Fold made by tumbling, or touzing.

Rumſchah, (i. e. King of Rome,) a Name, or Title for the Pope, among the Perſians.

Run of a Ship, is that Part of her Hull, which is always under Water; growing thinner and lanker by Degrees from the Floor-Timbers to the Stern-poſt: Thus the Sea-men ſay, A Ship has a good Run, when it is long, and the Water paſſes cleverly to the Rudder; which is of great Importance to her Sailing.

To Run the Gantlet. See Gantlet.

Runagate, a rambling, or roving Fellow.

Runaway, one that runs away from his Maſter's Service, or his Prince's Colours in a Fight:

Runcilus or Runcinus, (in Doomſday-book) a Sumpter-horſe, or Load-horſe; it is alſo ſometimes taken for a Cart-horſe.

Rundle or Roundel, (in Heraldry) the Figure of a round Ball, or Bullet. See Balls.

Rundlet or Runlet, a ſmall Veſſel containing an uncertain Quantity of any Liquor from 3 to 20 Gallons: A Runlet of Wine is to hold 18 Gallons.

Rune, (Sax.) a Water-courſe, ſo call'd in the Marſhes of Somerſet-ſhire.

Rungs, (Sea-Term) the Ground-timbers, or Timbers that give the Floor of a Ship, and are bolted to the Keel.

Rung-Heads, the ends of thoſe Rungs, which are made ſomewhat compaſſing, and direct the Sweep, or Mould of the Futtocks.

Runner, a Perſon that runs; alſo the upper Stone of a Mill: In Sea-affairs, a Rope, which belongs to the Garnet and Bolt-tackles; having a double Block, or Pulley at one end, and a Hook at the other end, to hitch into any thing for the hoiſing of Goods into the Ship.

To Over-hale the Runner, is to pull down that end which has the Hook in it, that it may be hitched into the Slings, &c.

Runnet. See Rennet.

Runt, a Scotch, or Welch Neat or Cow of a ſmall Size; whence it is taken for a Dwarf, or ſhort Fellow.

Rupee or Roupie, an Eaſt-India Coin worth 2*s.* 3*d.* Sterling; one ſixteenthth part of which is an Ana, and one Quarter of an Ana is a Pyce; in which Coin-Accounts are kept at Surat.

Rupicapra, (Lat.) the Rock-goat; a wild Beaſt.

Rupta, (in old Writers) a Troop, or Company of Soldiers.

Ruption, (in Surgery) a breaking, or burſting of any Part of the Body.

Ruptory, a corroſive Medicine, or Cauſtick.

Ruptura, (Lat.) a Rupture, a burſting: In ſome old Writers, it is taken for Ground that is broken, or plough'd Land.

Rupture, Breaking, Rent; breach of Treaty, or Friendſhip, falling out; alſo Burſtenneſs, or burſt Belly.

Rupture-wort, an Herb ſo call'd as being excellent for Ruptures and inward Bruiſes.

Rural, belonging to the Country.

Rural Dean, a Church-Officer under the Arch-Deacon: Every Dioceſs has in it one or more Arch-Deaconries for diſpatch of Eccleſiaſtical Buſineſs, and every Arch-Deaconry is ſubdivided into fewer, or more Rural Deanries: The Office of theſe Deans is upon Orders, to ſummon the Clergy; to ſignifie to them ſometimes by Letter the Biſhop's Pleaſure, and to give Induction for the Arch-Deacon living a-far off.

Ruſca Apum, (in old Latin Records) a Hive of Bees.

Ruſca Butyri, a Tub, or Barrel of Butter ſalted up; which in Ireland, is ſtill call'd a Ruſkin.

Ruſcum or Ruſcus, a rough prickly Shrub, of which Bruſhes, or Brooms were anciently made; Butchers-broom, Knee-holm, or petty Whin.

Ruſh-grown, a Term in Archery. See Bobtail.

Ruſſet, a dark brown Colour.

Ruſſetin, a ſort of Apple.

Ruſtical or Ruſtick, (Lat.) Country-like, Clowniſh, Booriſh; rude, unmannerly, homely.

Ruſticated, infected with the Manners of the Country-People; made clowniſh.

Ruſtici, (Lat.) Husband-men, Yeomen, Peaſants: In our ancient Writers, the Churls, Clowns, or inferiour Tenants, who held Lands and Cottages by the Service of Plowing, and other Labours of Husbandry for the Lord.

Ruſticity, Clowniſhneſs, Churliſhneſs, Rudeneſs.

Ruſticula, (Lat.) the Rail, or the Woodcock; a Bird: Ruſticula Minor, the Snipe, or Snite.

Ruſtick. See Ruſtical.

Ruſtick Coins, a Term in Architecture. See Coins.

To Ruſtle, to make a Noiſe, as Armour, or new Garments do.

Ruſy, (Fr.) full of Strategems and Devices, ſubtil, crafty; as A Ruſy General, i. e. a politick Commander of an Army.

Rut, the Copulation of Deer, wild Boars, &c. alſo the Track, or Mark of a Wheel in the Road.

Rut of the Sea, a Phraſe us'd by Sailers, where the Sea, or Waves daſh againſt any thing.

Ruta, (Lat.) Rue, or Herb-grace, good to diſſolve clammy and groſs Humours, and to drive out Wind: Ruta Sylveſtris great St. Johns-wort.

Rutarii, (in old Records) mercenary Forces, or hired Solders, in the Service of our old Engliſh Kings, who came from Foreign Parts, eſpecially from Germany.

Ruth, (Heb. watered, or filled) the Wife of Boaz, from whom King David was deſcended; thence taken for a Chriſtian Name.

Ruthful, Compaſſionate, Pitiful; as A ruthful Countenance.

Ruticilla, the Red-ſtart; or Red-tail, a Bird.

Rutilus, the Roach, or Rochet; a Fiſh.

Ruttier, (Fr.) a Book, giving Directions for the Courſe a Ship is to take; alſo an old experienced weather-beaten Soldier.

Ryal or Rial, a Piece of Gold, which in the Time of King Henry VI. was current for Ten Shillings; under Henry VIII. for Eleven Shillings, Three Pence; and under Queen Elizabeth, for Fifteen Shillings.

Ryal, is alſo a Spaniſh Coin, worth Six Pence Three Farthings of our Engliſh Money: The Italian Rial is current for Seven Pence; and eight Ryals amount to the Value of a Coin call'd a Piece of Eight.

Ryas. See Rhyas.

Rymmers about, (in ancient Deeds) Vagabonds; or idle, roaming Fellows.

S A.

Sabbatarian, one that keeps the Jewiſh, or Seventh Day Sabbath; alſo a ſtrict Obſerver of the Sabbath.

Sabbatarians, a Sect of Hereticks, who kept the Jewiſh Sabbath inſtead of the Lord's Day.

Sabbath, (Heb. from Shabath, i. e. Reſt) a Celebration of the Seventh Day of the Week, as a Day of Reſt among the Jews, in Remembrance of God's reſting from the Work of the Creation on that Day; which anſwers to our Saturday: Inſtead of which, the Firſt Day of the Week, called the Lord's-Day or Sunday, is obſerved by Chriſtians in Memory of our Bleſſed Saviour's Reſurrection.

Sabbath-Day's-Journey, a Jewiſh Meaſure of 2000 Cubits or 3648 Foot.

Sabbatical or Sabbatick, belonging to the Sabbath.

Sabbatick Year, (among the ancient Jews) every Seventh Year, wherein it was not lawful for them to Till the Ground, and their Slaves were then made free.

Sabbatine, a Theſis or Diſputation upon any part of Logick or Moral Philoſophy in the Colleges of Paris in France.

Sabbatism, the keeping of the Sabbath.

Sabbatum, the Sabbath, the Jews Sabbath-Day, the Day of Reſt: In Doom's Day Record, it is us'd for Peace or Quiet.

Sabellians, a ſort of Hereticks, ſo call'd from Sabellius, their Firſt Ring-Leader: They affirm'd the Father, Son and Holy Ghoſt, to be one only Perſon having Three Names.

Sabina, (Lat.) the Herb Savin, ſo call'd from the Sabines, an ancient People of Italy.

Sable, a rich Fur, of Colour between Black and Brown, being the Skin of a wild Beaſt of the ſame Name, like a Pole-Cat, but ſomewhat Bigger, which is bred in Muſcovy, but the moſt and beſt in Tartary. Among Heralds, Sable is taken for a black Colour in the Arms of Gentle-men; but in thoſe of the Nobility, they call it Diamond, and in the Coats of Soveraign Princes 'tis termed Saturn.

Sable or Sabre, (Fr.) a kind of Simetar, Hanger, or broad Sword.

Sabliere, a Sand-Pit or Gravel-Pit: In Architecture a piece of Timber, as long as a Beam, but not ſo thick.

Sabulonarium, (in old Latin Records) a Liberty to dig Gravel or Sand, within a certain Precinct.

Saccharum, (Greek) Sugar, a kind of Honey of a Gummy Subſtance formerly found in Reeds; but now the Juice of certain Indian Canes or Reeds, refin'd and harden'd by boiling and baking.

Saccharum Saturni, Sugar of Lead, a Chymical Medicine. See Salt of Saturn.

Sacculi or Ductus Adiposi, (in Anat.) certain Bladders of Fat about the Skin, and in the Spaces between the Muſcles: They are otherwiſe call'd Veſſiculæ adipoſæ and Lobuli.

Sacculi Medicinales, ſeveral Simples, which being compounded and beaten together, are ty'd up in little Bags, to be apply'd to the diſeaſed Part.

Sacculus, a little Sack, Bag or Purſe, a Satchel.

Sacculus Chyliferus, or Roriferus, (in Anat.) a certain Paſſage which is the beginning of the Ductus Thoracicus, and otherwiſe call'd the Common Receptacle, becauſe it promiſcuouſly receives the Humours call'd Chyle and Lympha: It is ſeated under the Cœliack Artery and Emulgent Veins, between the Kidneys and Capſulæ Atrabiliariæ, upon the Vertebra's of the Loins.

Sacculus Cordis, the Skin or Bag that encompaſſes the Heart; the ſame with Pericardium.

Saccus, a Sack, Bag or Pouch: By ſome Anatomical Writers it is taken for the Gut call'd Rectum.

Saccus cum Brochia, an old Tenure or Cuſtom of holding Land by the Service of finding a Sack and a Broach to the King, for the Uſe of his Army.

Sacer Ignis, (i. e. Holy Fire) a kind of Inflammation; otherwiſe call'd Herpes Exedens.

Sacer Morbus, (i. e. Holy Diſeaſe) the Falling-Sickneſs.

Sacer Musculus (in Anat.) a Muſcle which may be alſo call'd Tranſverſalis Lumborum, and lies under the Tendinous part of the Longiſſimus Dorſi: It ariſes from the Os Sacrum, as alſo from all the Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Loins, and is inſerted to their Upper Spines.

Sacerdotal, belonging to a Prieſt, Prieſtly.

Sachem, a general Name for any great Prince or Ruler among the People of the Weſt-Indies.

Sack of Cotton-Wooll, a Quantity from One hundred Weight and a half, to Four hundred Weight: Of Sheeps-Wooll 26 Stone, every Stone containing 14 Pounds; but in Scotland 24 Stone, and each Stone 16 Pounds.

Sacks of Earth, (in Fortif.) are made of courſe Cloth, the largeſt of them being about a Cubick Foot wide, and the leſſer ſomewhat more than half a Foot: They ſerve for ſeveral Uſes, as to make Retrenchments in haſte, to Place on Breaſt-Works, or at the Head of Breaches, &c. or to repair them when beaten down.

To Sack, to Plunder or Pillage, to lay waſte or deſtroy.

Sackbut or Sagbut, an Inſtrument of Wind-Muſick, ſomewhat like a Trumpet.

Sacrafield Rents, certain ſmall Rents paid by ſome Tenants of the Manour of Chuton in Somerſetſhire, to the Lord of that Manour.

Sacrament, (Lat.) a Term in Divinity, for a great and ſacred Myſtery, or as it is defin'd in the Catechiſm of the Church of England, An outward and viſible Sign of an inward and ſpiritual Grace; ſuch are the Sacraments of Baptiſm and the Lord's-Supper: For the Original Signification of the Word, See Sacramentum.

Sacramental, belonging to a Sacrament.

Sacramentalia, (in ancient Deeds) certain Sacrament-Offerings, or accuſtomed Dues, heretofore paid to the Pariſh-Prieſt at Eaſter, &c. Alſo thoſe that were in Uſe in the Vicaridge of Burceſter, A. D. 1212, as one Penny for a Marriage, one for Churching a Woman, and one for a Burial. See Oblations of the Altar.

Sacramentarians, they that hold Errours about the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper; a Name falſely given by Papiſts to the Proteſtants, and chiefly to the Calviniſts.

Sacramento recipiendo quod Vidua Regis ſe non maritabit ſine licentia Regis, was a Writ or Commiſſion to one, for the taking an Oath of the King's Widow, that ſhe ſhall not marry without his Majeſty's Licence.

Sacramentum, an Oath given to Soldiers to be true and faithful to their General and Country; any thing done by virtue of an Oath. In our Law-Records, an Oath, the Common Form of all Inquiſitions, made by a Free and Legal Jury.

Sacramentum Altaris, the Sacrifice of the Maſs, or what we now call the Sacrament of the Lord's-Supper.

Sacre. See Saker.

Sacred, holy, hallowed, that deſerves Veneration; that is not to be injured, or broken.

Sacred Writ, the Book of Holy Scripture.

Sacrifice, an Offering made to God.

To Sacrifice, to offer up in Sacrifice, to devote or give one's ſelf up to; to quit or leave a thing upon ſome Conſideration.

Sacrificial, belonging to Sacrifices; as Sacrificial Meats.

Sacrilege, the ſtealing of Sacred Things, Church-robbing: Alſo an alienating to Lay-men, and to profane or common Purpoſes of what was given to Religious Perſons and to Pious Uſes.

Sacrilegious, belonging to, or guilty of Sacrilege.

Sacriſtan, a Sexton or Veſtry-Keeper.

Sacrolumbalis. See Dorſi Longiſſimus.

Sacros, an Arabian Weight, conſiſting of an Ounce, and worth Seven Denarii.

Sacrum Os, (in Anat.) the broadeſt of all the Bones of the Back, which bears up all the other Vertebræ or Turning-joints, and in ſhape ſomewhat reſembles a Triangle: It conſiſts of Five or Six Bones, which are plainly diſtinguiſhable in Infants, but cannot be ſo well diſcern'd in grown Perſons.

Sadduces, an Heretical Sect among the ancient Jews, ſo call'd from Sadoc their Firſt Founder, or as others ſay, from the Hebrew Word Sadoc, i. e. Juſtice, by reaſon of their Pretenſions to the greateſt Strictneſs in that Point: They deny'd the Being of Angels and Spirits, as alſo the Reſurrection of the Body, yet were ſo Religious as to ſpend a Third part of the Day in reading the Law and the Prophets.

Sadduciſm, the Principles and Doctrine of the Sadduces.

Safe, that is out of danger, ſecure, truſty.

A Safe, a ſort of Cup-board, to keep Victuals contrived with Holes to let in the Air.

Safe-Conduct, a Security or Protection given by the Queen under the Broad Seal, or by ſome other Perſon in Authority, for a Stranger's quiet coming in and paſſing out of the Realm.

Safe-Guard, the Protection which a Prince, Juſtice, or other Magiſtrate gives to thoſe that implore Aid againſt Oppreſſion: In Military Affairs, a Protection given by a Prince or his General, to ſome of the Enemies Country, to be ſecur'd from being ravag'd by his Men or quartering them; alſo Soldiers left in ſuch Places for that purpoſe.

There is alſo a kind of Duſt-gown, or upper Garment, worn by Women, commonly call'd a Safe-Guard; alſo a coloured Stuff-Apron, and a ſort of Swathing-Band for a young Child.

Safe-Pledge, (Law Term) Surety given for one's Appearance at a Day appointed.

Saffron, a Plant that bears a yellowiſh and ſweet-ſcented Flower of the ſame Name; which is much eſteem'd for its Virtue, and is more eſpecially counted a great Chearer of the Heart.

Saffron of Gold, a Chymical Preparation of Gold, the ſame as Aurum Fulminans; which See Saffron of Mars, or of Steel. See Crocus Martis.

To Sag, to hang down on one ſide.

Sagacious, (Lat.) that is of quick Parts, apprehenſive, ſubtil, ſhrew'd.

Sagacity, quickneſs of Apprehenſion or Underſtanding; ſharpneſs of Judgment or Wit.

Sagamore, a King or Supreme Ruler among the Indians.

Sagani, (in the Language of the Chymical Philoſophers) are Spirits, as they imagine them, of the Four Elements.

Sagapenum, the Gum of Fennel-Giant, a Plant that grows chiefly in Media.

Sagbut. See Sackbut.

Sagda or Sagdo, a ſort of Gem about the bigneſs of a Bean, and of a Leek-green Colour, which draws Wood to it ſelf as the Load-ſtone do's Iron, and the Agate Straws.

Sage, (Lat.) prudent, wiſe, diſcreet, conſidering.

A Sage, a Wiſe Man or Great Philoſopher; as The Seven Sages of Greece.

Sage is alſo the Name of a ſweet-ſmelling wholeſome Herb, comfortable to the Brain and Nerves, purifying the Blood, good for Wounds, &c.

Sage-Roſe, or Holly-Roſe, a ſort of Flower.

Sagibaro, or Sachbaro, (in old Latin Records) a Judge or Juſtice.

Sagitta, an Arrow, Shaft, or Dart; alſo the Herb Adder's-Tongue, that grows in marſhy Grounds: Among Herbaliſts, the upper part of any ſmall Cyon, Graft, or Twig of a Tree: It is alſo taken by ſome Mathematical Writers for the Verſed Sine of any Arch, becauſe it reſembles a Dart or Arrow ſtanding on the Chord of the Arch. See Verſed Sine: Sagitta is alſo a Conſtellation in the Northern Hemiſphere, conſiſting of Eight Stars.

Sagitta barbata, a bearded or broad Arrow.

Sagittalis Sutura, or Veruculata, (in Anat.) a Suture or Seam in the Scull, ſo call'd from its Arrow-like ſhape, which begins at the Coronal, or Crown-Suture, and ends at the Lambdoidal.

Sagittaria, an Herb call'd Water-Archer or Arrow-Head.

Sagittarius, or Sagittary, (i. e. Archer or Bowman) the Ninth Celeſtial Sign in the Order of the Zodiack, that is thus marked (♐) and which the Sun enters in the Month of November.

Sagmen, the Herb Vervain.

Sagum, a ſort of Woollen Coat or Caſſock for Soldiers, which the Greeks and Romans us'd, and was peculiar to the Gauls.

Saick or Saique, a kind of Sea-Veſſel, built on purpoſe to carry Merchandize, and us'd chiefly on the Mediterranean Sea, as alſo among the Turks.

To Saigner a Moat, (in Military Affairs) to empty the Water of a Moat or Trench, by Conveyances under Ground, that it may be paſs'd over more eaſily, after having laid Hurdles or Bulruſhes upon the Mud that remains.

Sails, (in a Ship) thoſe large pieces of doubled Canvas which catch the Wind, and ſerve to give way to the Ship; ſo that every Yard has its proper Sail, which takes its Name from the Yard: Thus the Main-ſail is that which belongs to the Main-yard, the Fore-top-ſail that which is peculiar to the Fore-top-maſt-Yard, &c.

Theſe Sails are alſo diſtinguiſh'd into Head-ſails and After-ſails: The former being ſuch as belong to the Fore-maſt and Bolt-ſprit, are us'd to keep a Ship from the Wind, and to flat her; but the After-Sails as thoſe of the Main-maſts and Miſſen-maſts, ſerve to keep a Ship to the Wind. In Falconry, the Wings of a Hawk are termed Sails.

Sailers, the elder Men employ'd in hoiſing the Sails, getting the Tacks a-board, haling the Bowlings and ſteering the Ship.

Sailing. See Mercator's Sailing and Plain-Sailing.

Sainfoin, a kind of Graſs, otherwiſe call'd Holy Graſs, Medick-fodder, Spaniſh Trefoil, and Snail or horned Clover-Graſs; much cry'd up of late for improving barren Land.

Saingaraz, (Fr. in Cookery) as Rabbets dreſs'd à la Saingaraz, i. e. larded, roaſted, and put into a Ragoo of Gammon: Fat Pullets, Pigeons, and Chickens may alſo be dreſſed after the ſame manner.

Saint, a Holy or Godly Perſon. The Saints in Heaven, thoſe bleſſed Spirits whom God has admitted to partake of his Everlaſting Glory: In the Roman Church they are call'd Saints whom the Pope has canonized or appointed as ſuch.

Saker, or Sacre, a kind of Hawk, being the Third in Eſteem, next the Falcon and Gyrfalcon, but difficult to be manag'd; alſo a ſort of great Gun of which there are Three Sizes, viz.

Saker Extraordinary, a Cannon of Four Inches Diameter at the Bore, Ten Foot long, and weighing 1800 Pounds: Its Charge is 5 Pounds of Powder; the Diameter of its Ball $3\frac{3}{4}$ Inches, and the Weight of it 7 Pounds 5 Ounces; the Point-blank Shot of the Piece 163 Paces.

Saker Ordinary, is 3¾ Inches Diameter, at the Bore 9 Foot long, and Weighs 1500 Pounds: It takes 4 Pounds of Powder for its Charge, and carries a Ball of 3½ Inches Diameter, and 6 Pounds Weight; its Point-Blank Shot being 160 Paces.

Saker of the leaſt Size, is 3½ Inches Diameter at the Bore, 8 Foot long, and of 1400 Pounds Weight: It bears 3 Pounds and Six Ounces of Powder for its Load, carries a Bullet of 3¼ Inches Diameter, and of 4 Pounds and 12 Ounces Weight; and the Point-Blank Shot is 150 Paces.

Sal, (Lat.) Salt, to which Chymiſts attribute three Qualities; viz. Fixed, Volatile and Eſſential. See Salt.

Sal Alkali, Salt made of an Herb call'd Kali in Arabick; which is brought from Spain in great hard Clods, of an aſh or blackiſh Colour, and is chiefly us'd in the making of Glaſs.

Sal Ammoniack, or Armoniack, a kind of Salt, ſo call'd from the Greek Word Ammos, i. e. Sand, becauſe it was heretofore digged up in Lumps under the Sands in Cyreniaca, a Country of Africa; but that which is now us'd, is taken from the Sulphur-Pits of Pozzuolo in Italy. There is alſo an Artificial ſort of Sal Armoniack, made by Chymiſts, of Five Parts of Humane Urine, one of Sea-Salt, or Sal Gemmæ, and half a one of Wood-Soot, boil'd together, into a Maſs; which Maſs is afterwards ſublimed into the Form of that Salt.

Sal Circulatus Paracelſi, the ſame with the Alkaheſt.

Sal Gemmæ, a Salt digged up, for the moſt part, in Poland, as alſo in Hungary, Calabria, and elſewhere; and ſo Named, from its Tranſparent and Cryſtalline Brightneſs.

Sal Lambrot, or Saiebrot, (among Chymiſts) a ſort of very ſharp and eager Salt.

Sal Nitrum, See Nitre.

Sal Petræ, Salt-Peter, a Salt fill'd with abundance of Spirits out of the Air, which make it Volatile: It is taken from amidſt Stones and Earth of Old ruined Buildings; ſome of it is alſo to be found in Cellars and other moiſt Places.

Sal Polychreſtum, a Preparation of Salt-Peter, made by burning equal Parts of it with Sulphur or Brimſtone in a Crucible, by which means it is depriv'd of its Volatile Parts: It is ſo called, as being good for many Uſes, and is given for a Purge from half a Dram to Six Drams.

Sal Prunellæ, Salt-Peter that has ſome of its moſt Volatile Parts ſeparated from it, by burning upon it, when melted in a Crucible, about a Thirtieth Part of its Weight of Flower of Brimſtone: It is ſometimes called Lapis Prunellæ, and Cryſtal Mineral; being uſually given to cool and provoke Urine in Feavers and Quinſies.

Sal Volatile Oleoſum, an aromatick Volatile Salt, made of Volatile Salt of Sal Armoniack diſtill'd with Salt of Tartar, and dulcify'd or ſweeten'd with Spirit of Wine; to every Ounce of which is added a Dram and half of ſome Aromatick Oil or Eſſence drawn from one or more ſweet-ſcented Plants; as Balm, Cinnamon, Cloves, Roſemary, &c. It is a noble Medicine, good for the Head, and a great Cordial.

Salacious, luſtful, leacherous, wanton.

Salacity, Inclination to Venery, Leachery, Wantonneſs.

Salad, (Fr.) a kind of Head-piece or Helmet worn by Light Horſemen.

Salamander, (Gr.) a ſpotted Creature like a Lizard, commonly, but falſly, ſuppos'd to ſubſiſt in the hotteſt Fire, and to quench it: Whence perhaps a ſort of Spirits, which the Hermetical, or Chymical Philoſophers, imagine to be the Inhabitants of the Element of Fire; are call'd Salandri and Saldini.

Salamander's Blood, a Name given to the more fixed and ſtrongeſt Part of Spirit of Nitre, which ſends forth Red Vapours as it is Diſtilling.

Salary, (Lat.) Wages given to Servants, a Yearly Penſion, or Allowance; in a Law-Senſe, a Conſideration, or Recompence made to a Man for his Pains and Induſtry in another's Buſineſs.

Salebrot, See Sal Lambrot.

Sali, (Lat.) a kind of Birds that are great Breeders; Heath-Cocks.

Saliant Angle, (in Fortif.) an Angle that carries its Point outward from the Body of the Work. See Angle.

Salicaſtrum, a kind of Wild Vine running upon Willow-Trees; an Oſier or Withy.

Salick, See Salique.

Salient, (i. e. Leaping.) a Term in Heraldry, to expreſs a Lion leaping and ſtanding upright, with his Right Fore-Foot in the Dexter chief Point, and his hinder Left Foot in the Siniſter baſe Point of the Eſcutcheon; in which reſpect it is diſtinguiſh'd from Rampant.

Saligot, or Salligot, a Plant, otherwiſe call'd Water-Nut, and Water-Caltrop.

Salii, (among the Romans) the Prieſts of Mars, who went Dancing along the Streets in their Proceſſions, and had round Bonnets on their Heads, with two Corners ſtanding up, and Party-colour'd Coats.

Salina, a Salt-Pit, a Houſe or Place, where Salt is made.

Saline, Salt, Briniſh; as Saline Particles, Saline Blood, &c.

Salique, or Salick Law, a Law made, as ſome ſay, by King Pharamond, or, according to others, by Philip the Long; by virtue of which, the Crown of France cannot fall from the Lance to the Diſtaff i. e. cannot be Inherited by Women: It is ſo call'd from theſe Words, Si aliqua, often mention'd therein, or elſe from the River Sala, near which the Franks anciently Inhabited.

Saliva, (Lat.) Spittle, an inſipid Liquor, which being ſeparated in the Glandules or Kernels of the Jaws, ſerves to moiſten the Mouth and Throat: It alſo helps the chewing and ſwallowing of Meat, and furthers the Fermentation of it in the Stomach.

Salivares Ductus, See Ductus Salivares.

To Salivate, to gather or make Spittle, to cauſe Rheum to flow into the Mouth; to Flux.

Salivation, a Fluxing, or Drawing Humours out of the Mouth by Salivating Medicines, eſpecially ſuch as are made of Mercury or Quick-ſilver: It is alſo ſometimes taken for a Preternatural encreaſe of Spittle.

Saliunca, (Lat.) a kind of Spike or Lavender; an Herb.

Salix, the Sallow or Willow-Tree; the Withy or Oſier.

Sallena, (among Chymiſts) a kind of Salt-Peter.

Sallet, a Diſh of raw Herbs dreſs'd with Salt, Oil and Vinegar: In Old Statutes, a Salad or Old-faſhion'd Head-Piece.

Salligot, See Saligot.

Sallow, pale; as A Sallow Countenance.

Sallow-Tree, a Tree otherwiſe call'd Goats-Willow.

Sally, (in the Art of War) the iſſuing out of the Beſieged from their Town or Fort, and falling upon the Beſiegers, to cut them off and deſtroy their Works; as, To make a Sally, to repulſe a Sally, &c.

Sally is alſo taken for a Tranſport, or ſudden Fit of Paſſion, Brunt, Heat; alſo a flaſh of Wit, Rant or Flight: Alſo a particular Way of Ringing a Bell.

To Cut off a Sally, is to get between thoſe that made it and home.

Sally-Port, a Door in the Body of the Place, thro' which a Sally is made.

Salmagundi, or Salmigund, (in Cookery) an Italian Diſh made of cold Turkey, Anchovies, Lemmons,

Lemmons, Oil, and other Ingredients: Alſo a kind of Hotch-Potch, or Ragoo of ſeveral ſorts of cold Meats, cut into Pieces and ſtew'd on a Chafing-Diſh, with Wine, Verjuice, Vinegar, &c.

Salmerinus, or Salmero, (Lat.) the Salmon-Peel, a kind of Fiſh.

Salmo, the Salmon, a large Fiſh that breeds in the Sea, but runs up a great way into freſh-Water Rivers; ſo that conſiderable quantities of them are taken every Year in all the Rivers of England.

Salmon-Peel, a Fiſh that agrees with the Salmon, in the Red Colour of its Fleſh, and perhaps alſo in kind: Theſe are ſo plentiful in ſome Rivers of Wales, that they become almoſt of no value; ſo that the Fiſhermen ſometimes fling them to the Hogs.

Salmon-Pipe, an Engine to catch Salmons or ſuch like Fiſh.

Salmon-Sewſe, the young Fry of Salmons.

Salmoneta, (Lat.) the Salmon-Trout, or young Salmon.

Salomonis Sigillum, See Sigillum Solomonis.

Salpa, the Goldlin; a ſort of Fiſh.

Salpiçon, (Fr. in Cookery) a kind of Ragoo or Farce made of Gammon, Capons-Livers, Fat Pullets, Muſhrooms, Truffles, &c. proper for large roaſted Joints of Beef, Veal, or Mutton, eſpecially Legs; making a Hole in them, taking away the Meat, and putting this Ragoo in its room.

Salpuga. (Lat.) a ſort of venomous Ant, an Inſect.

Saſſaparilla, See Sarſaparilla.

Salſifie, (Fr.) Goats-bread, an eatable Root.

Spaniſh Salſifie, or Scorzonera, a Root that is admirable good boil'd, both for the Pleaſure of the Taſte, and the Health of the Body.

Salt, the third of the Five Chymical Principles, and the Firſt of thoſe termed Hypoſtatical; being an active Subſtance, ſaid to give all Bodies their Conſiſtence, and to preſerve them from Corruption; as alſo to occaſion all the Variety of Taſtes. Theſe Salts are of three kinds, viz. Eſſential, Fixed and Volatile.

Eſſential Salt, is drawn from the Juice of Plants, by Cryſtallization.

Fixed Salt, is made by calcining or reducing the matter to Aſhes, and boiling them in a good deal of Water; afterwards the Liquor being ſtrain'd, and all the Moiſture evaporated, the Salt remains in a dry form at the bottom of the Veſſel.

Volatile Salt, is that which is chiefly drawn from the Bodies or Parts of living Creatures, and from ſome fermented or putrified Parts of Plants. Mr. Boyle alſo reckons three other ſorts of Salt; viz. Acid, Urinous and Lixivious; which, ſee under thoſe Articles.

Salt of Glaſs, the Scum that is ſeparated from the Matter, before it be vitrify'd or chang'd into Glaſs.

Salt of Saturn, otherwiſe call'd Saccharum Saturni, or Sugar of Lead, is the Body of that Metal, open'd and reduc'd to the form of a Salt, by Diſtilled Vinegar.

Salt of Steel, See Vitriol of Mars.

Salt of Sulphur, is the Salt call'd, Sal Polychreſtum ſoak'd with Spirit of Sulphur, and then reduc'd to an Acid Salt, by evaporating or drawing off all the Moiſture.

Salt of Tartar, is made either by Powdering what remains in the Retort, after the Diſtillation of Tartar: or elſe by Calcining bruiſed Tartar, wrapped up in a Paper, till it turn White. Either of theſe muſt have a great deal of hot Water poured on it, to make a Lie; then the Liquor is ſtrain'd and evaporated in a Sand-heat, till the fix'd Salt remain at the bottom of the Veſſel.

Salt-Peter, a kind of Mineral Salt, the main Ingredient of Gun-powder, and that which makes it take Fire.

Salt-Silver, an ancient Cuſtomary Payment of one Penny at the Feſtival of S. Martin, made by ſervile Tenants to their Lord, to be excus'd from the Service of carrying their Lord's Salt from Market to his Larder.

Saltatorium, (in old Latin Records) a Dear-leap or Place to keep Deer in.

Saltier, or Salteer, (in Heraldry) the Name of one of the Ordinaries, drawn in form of S. Andrew's Croſs: As Pearl, a Saltier Ruby; the Coat of the Lord Macklesfield, Saltus, (Lat.) a Leap, Friſk, or Skip; alſo a Foreſt, a thick Wood, a Lawn in a Park: In our Law-Records, it is taken for High-Wood, in oppoſition to Coppice or Under-Wood.

Saltz, or Sultz, a Word us'd by ſome Chymiſts for a Pickle, made of Salt diſſolv'd by the Coldneſs, or Moiſture of a Cellar.

Salva Gardia, (Lat. Law-Term) Security given by the King to a Stranger, that is afraid of being us'd in a violent manner, by ſome of his Subjects, for ſeeking his Right by Courſe of Law.

Salvage-Money, a Recompence allow'd both by the Statute and Civil Laws for Dammages ſuſtain'd by a Ship, that has ſav'd or reſcu'd another, which was ſet upon by Pirates or Enemies.

Salvagius, (in ancient Latin Deeds) Savage, Wild; as Salvagius Catus, the wild Cat.

Salvatella, (in Anat.) a Vein which takes its riſe from the Liver, and runs thro' the Arm and Wriſt into the Little Finger.

Salvation, (i. e. a Saving, a Term in Divinity) a being ſav'd or reſcu'd from endleſs Miſery, and admitted to a State of everlaſting Happineſs.

Salvatory, a Surgeon's Box, with Partitions, to hold ſeveral ſorts of Salves, Ointments, and Balſams.

† Salubrious, wholeſome, healthful.

Salubrity, wholeſomneſs, healthfulneſs, clearneſs; as The Salubrity of the Air.

To Salve, to ſave or preſerve; as To Salve a Ship or the Goods of it. To Salve the Matter, to make up a Buſineſs, ſo as to come off well.

Salver, one that has ſav'd a Ship or its Merchandizes: Alſo a Piece of Wrought Plate, broad and flat, with an Edge round about, and a Foot underneath, made uſe of to hold a Glaſs, or Cup of Liquor, ſo as to ſave the Carpet, or the Cloaths of thoſe that Drink, from Drops.

Salvia, (Lat.) the Herb Sage, ſo call'd because it is eſteem'd good for many Diſeaſes.

Salvo, an Exception, a Come-off; as To find a Salvo for every Objection.

Salutary, ſound, wholeſome, good, comfortable, profitable, uſeful.

Salutation, ſaluting or greeting, the formal Act of ſhewing Reſpect, or Civility, either in Words, or by the Carriage of the Body.

Salute, an outward Mark of Civility; as a Bow or Conge, a Kiſs. In Military Affairs, a Diſcharge of Cannon or ſmall Shot, or both, in Honour of ſome Perſon of extraordinary Quality: The Colours alſo ſalute Princes and Generals, which is done by Bowing them down to the Ground.

Salute, a Gold-Coin, worth about Five Shillings Sterling, made by King Henry V. (in France) after his Conqueſt there, on which the Arms of England and France were Stamp'd quarterly.

Salutiferous, bringing Health or ſafety.

Samarr, or Simarr, a ſort of long Robe or Gown.

Sambenito, (Span.) a Coat of Coarſe Sack-Cloth, in which, among Roman Catholicks, Penitents are reconcil'd to the Church.

Sambuca, (Gr.) a Triangular Inſtrument of Muſick, taken for a Dulcimer, an Harp, or a Sackbut: Alſo a warlike Engine, or kind of portable Bridge which Beſiegers anciently made uſe of for paſſing over from their Wooden Turrets, to the Walls of the Place Beſieged.

Sambucus, the Elder-Tree; a Shrub of very great uſe in Phyſick.

Samech, the Name of the Hebrew Letter S; alſo a Chymical Word for Tartar, or the Salt of it.

Samphire, or Sampier, a Plant which generally grows upon rocky Cliffs in the Sea: It is uſually pickled and eaten for a dainty Sallet.

Samplar, (corrupted from the Latin Word Exemplar) a Pattern or Model.

Sample, ſome part of a Commodity, given as a Pattern, to ſhew the Quality or Condition of it.

Sampſon, or Shimſon, (Heb. i. e. there the ſecond time) one of the Judges of Iſrael, who was endu'd from Heaven with prodigious Strength, and perform'd wonderful Exploits againſt the Philiſtines.

Sampſuchus, (Gr.) the Herb call'd Sweet-Marjoram.

Samuel, or Shemuel, (Heb. heard of God) a great Prophet and Prieſt, and, at firſt, Judge of Iſrael, till Saul was made King, whom he Anointed, as alſo David, his Succeſſour.

Sanamunda, (Lat.) the Herb Avens, or Herb Bennet.

Sanative, that ſerves to heal, or is endu'd with a healing Quality; as Sanative Waters, i. e. the Mineral Waters of any kind; ſuch are thoſe of Dulwich, Epſom, Tunbridge, &c.

Sanballat, (Heb. a Bramble hid in Secret) a violent oppoſer of Nehemiah, and the Jews that were about to rebuild the City and Temple of Jeruſalem.

Sance-Bell, or The Sanctus Bell, a little Bell, formerly us'd in every Church, and rung when the Prieſt ſaid, Sanctus, Sanctus Dominus Deus Sabaoth, i. e. Holy, Holy Lord God of Sabaoth.

Sanchia, a proper Name of Women, from the Latin Word Sancta, i. e. Holy.

Sanctification, a Sanctifying, Hallowing, or making Holy.

To Sanctify, to make Holy.

Sanctimony, or Sanctity, Holineſs, Devoutneſs.

Sanction, Decree, Ordinance, eſpecially ſuch as relate to Eccleſiaſtical Affairs; as the Conſtitution made at the Council of Baſil, for the Reformation of the Church: Alſo Confirmation. Settlement; as The Laws of Chriſtianity have the greateſt Sanction of any Laws in the World.

Pragmatick Sanction. See Pragmatick.

Sancti Viti Chorea. See Chorea Sancti Viti.

Sanctuary, a ſanctified or Holy Place; a Church or Chappel: Among the Ancient Jews, the moſt holy Place of the Tabernacle, wherein God gave viſible Tokens of his Preſence: Alſo a Place of Refuge, or Place privileged by a Prince for the Safeguard of Offenders Lives.

Sanctum Sanctorum, (i. e. the Holy of Holies) the innermoſt and holieſt Place of the Jews Temple, where the Ark was kept.

Sand-Bag, a kind of Bag or Cuſhion, us'd by Gravers to turn their Plate on.

Sand-Blind, purblind, or ſhort-ſighted.

Sand-Eel, a kind of Sea-Fiſh, which at certain Seaſons of the Year, lies hid under the Sands, and is often taken on the Coaſts of England.

Sand-Fire, See Aſh-Fire.

Sand-Gavel, a certain Duty paid to the Lord of the Manour of Redeley, in Glouceſterſhire, by his Tenants, for Liberty granted them to dig up Sand for their Uſe.

Sandalis, (Gr.) a kind of Palm or Date-Tree.

Sandalium, a Sandal, a rich ſort of Wear for the Feet, made of Gold, Silk, or ſome valuable Stuff, and particularly us'd by the Roman Ladies; conſiſting of a Sole and hollow above the Foot. Whence the Slippers, which the Pope, and Biſhops of the Church of Rome wear, when they Officiate, are call'd Sandals. Sandal, is alſo a kind of Flat-Shooe; the upper-part of which is open, and faſten'd with Latchets, worn by Capuchin Friers, and ſome other Monks.

Sandalum, Red Bearded French Wheat, which our Norfolk-men call Brank.

Sandarack, Red Arſenick, a Mineral us'd by Painters, and others, for a bright Red Colour; which is of two ſorts; viz. one Natural, found in Mines of Gold and Silver; and the other Artificial, made of Orpiment, put into an Earthen Pot cloſe ſtopt and bak'd for Five Hours in a Furnace. Sandarack, is alſo the Gum of Juniper reſembling Maſtick, of which Varniſh is made.

Sanders, a precious ſort of Indian Wood, of which there are three kinds; viz. Red, Yellow, and White: They are all of a cooling Quality, eſpecially the Red, which is often us'd in Phyſick againſt hot Diſeaſes.

Sandever, the Droſs of Glaſs, or the Scum that ariſes from the Aſhes of the Herb Kali, or Glaſswort, us'd in the making of Glaſs.

Sandling, a Sea-Fiſh like a Plaice.

Sandyx, a kind of Red or Purple Colour, made of Ceruſs and Ruddle burnt together; Patiſe, or Red Arſenick: Alſo a Shrub, that bears a Flower of a Scarlet-Colour.

Sangiack, a Turkiſh Governour of a City, or Country, next in Dignity to a Beglerbeg.

Sanglier, (Fr. among Hunters) a Wild-Boor of Five Years old.

Sanguification, (Lat. in the Art of Phyſick) the making of Blood, the changing of the Humour call'd Chyle into Blood; which is perform'd in all the Parts of the Body, and not as the Ancients imagin'd, in ſome peculiar Part, as the Heart, Liver, &c.

Sanguinalis Herba, or Sanguinaria, ſtraight or upright Vervain; alſo Male Knot-Graſs or Swines-Graſs; Bloud-wort or Wall-wort, an Herb good to ſtanch Blood.

Sanguinary, that delights in ſhedding Blood, bloody, blood-thirſty, cruel.

Sanguine, full, or abounding with Blood, being of a Complexion, wherein that Humour is Predominant, or of a blood-red Colour: In Heraldry, it is taken for the Murrey-Colour, which is chiefly us'd in the Coats of Knights of the Bath: When born by Noble-men, it is termed Sardonyx, and Dragons-Tail in the Coats of Soveraign Princes.

Sanguinem Redimere, (Lat. i. e. to redeem the Blood) a Phraſe us'd in old Records, to pay the Merchet, or accuſtom'd Fine, for leave given to ſervile Tenants, to diſpoſe of their Daughters in Marriage.

Sanguis, Blood, a red florid Humour, contain'd in the Veins and Arteries, ſo as to give nouriſhment, life and ſtrength to all the Parts of the Body.

Sanguis Calcetus, (among Chymiſts) whatever is of as quick and ſharp a Taſte as Calx.

Sanguis Draconis, the Gum of the Dragon-Tree, ſo call'd from its red Colour: It is us'd in Painting, as alſo in Phyſick, for its Virtue in ſtopping Fluxes.

Sanguiſorba, a blood-ſucking Fly, an Inſect; alſo the Herb Burnet or Pimpernel.

Sanguiſuga, the Blood-ſucker, or Horſe-leech; an Inſect.

Sanhedrim, (Heb.) the Supreme Council, or Court of Judicature among the ancient Jews; conſiſting of the High-Prieſt and Seventy Seniors or Elders, who were to conſult about the greateſt Matters of the Common-wealth, both Eccleſiaſtical and Civil.

Sanicle, or Self-heal, an Herb very effectual for the healing of Green-Wounds, and the ſtopping Lasks, Gonorrhea's, and other Fluxes.

Sanies, (Lat.) corrupt and filthy Blood, Matter iſſuing out of a Wound; but it is more eſpecially taken by Surgeons, for a Wat'ry Matter that riſes up in Ulcers, almoſt after the ſame manner as the Sap in Trees.

Sanity, Health, Soundneſs.

Santalum, (Lat.) Sanders, the Wood of a Tree that grows in the Eaſt and Weſt-Indies, in large and thick Foreſts: It is much us'd in Phyſick, and particularly good to open Stoppages of the Spleen and Liver.

Santalum Cæruleum. See Nephriticum Lignum.

Santerna, Artificial Borax, or Gold-ſoder.

Santonica, a kind of Wormwood, an Herb, ſo call'd from the Santones, or Inhabitants of Guienne, a Province of France.

Santons, certain pretended Mahometan Prophets, in great Veneration among the Turks.

Sap, the Juice of Trees, which riſing up from the Root, runs to the ends of the Branches, and ſerves for their Nouriſhment; alſo the whiteſt and ſofteſt part of Timber.

Green Sap, the thicken'd Juice of the Rhamnus, or Buck-thorn Berry, us'd among Diers and Painters Colours.

Sap or Sappe, (Fr. in Fortif.) a digging with Pick-Ax and Shovel, at the Foot of a Work, to undermine, or overthrow it: But it is moſt commonly taken for a deep Trench, carry'd far into the Ground and deſcending by Steps from top to bottom, in order to make a Paſſage into the Covert-Way, &c. See Deſcent.

To Sap, to undermine, to dig into, to cut open.

Sap-Green, a ſort of Green Colour, us'd by Painters. See Verditure.

Saphæna, (Gr. in Anat.) the Crural Vein, a Vein that goes down under the Skin of the Thigh and Leg, and turns towards the upper part of the Foot, where it ſends forth ſeveral Branches, ſome of which go to the great Toe.

Saphatum, a dry Scurf in the Head.

Saphire. See Sapphirus.

† Sapience, Prudence, Wiſdom.

Sapina, (Lat.) a kind of Pine-nut.

Sapinus, a ſort of Pine Firr-Tree, good for Shipping.

Sapling, a young Tree.

Saponaria, (Lat.) the Herb Soap-wort, good for ſhortneſs of Breath, to provoke the Courſes, &c.

Sapo Sapientiæ, (i. e. Soap of Wiſdom) common Salt, ſo call'd in the Language of ſome Chymiſts.

Sapor, Taſte, Savour, Reliſh.

Saporifick Particles, (in Philoſ.) ſuch as by their Action on the Tongue, occaſion that Senſe which we call Sapor or Taſte.

Saporous Bodies, ſuch Bodies as are capable of yielding ſome kind of Taſte, when touch'd with the Tongue; in which reſpect they are diſtinguiſh'd from Inſipid, that afford no Taſte.

Sapphick Verſe, a Verſe in Greek and Latin Poetry, conſiſting of a Trochee, Spondee, Dactyle, and two Trochees; as Sedibus gaudens variis doliſque; and having at the end of every Three Verſes, an Adonick, which conſiſts of a Dactyle and a Spondee; as Diva dolore. This kind of Verſe is ſo call'd, as being firſt invented, or chiefly us'd by Sappho, a famous Poeteſs of Mitylene.

Sapphirus, (Gr.) the Sapphire, a Gem or precious Stone, of a blew Colour, tranſparent and glittering with golden Sparkles: Among Heralds, Sapphire is taken for the blew Colour in the Coats of the Nobility anſwering to Jupiter, in the Eſcutcheons of Soveraign Princes, and Azure in thoſe of the Gentry.

Saraband, a kind of Muſical Compoſition in Triple Time; alſo a Dance to the ſame Meaſure.

Saracenica, a ſort of Birth-wort, an Herb.

Sarah, (Heb. Dame or Miſtreſs) the Wife of the Patriarch Abraham, and Mother of Iſaac; whence it is commonly taken for a Chriſtian Name of Women.

Sarcaſm, (Gr.) a biting or nipping Jeſt, when one is jeer'd as it were out of his Skin; a bitter Scoff or Taunt: Alſo a Rhetorical Figure, wherein ſuch Scoffs are us'd.

Sarcaſtical, or Sarcaſtick, belonging to, or done by way of Sarcaſm.

Sarcel, or Sercil, the Pinnion of a Hawk's Wing.

Sarcites, (Gr.) a precious Stone that looks like Beef; alſo a ſort of Dropſy, the ſame with Anaſarca.

Sarcling, (Lat.) as Sarcling-time, i. e. the Seaſon that the Husbandman weeds his Corn in.

Sarcocele, (Gr.) a Rupture, which conſiſts in a fleſhy ſwelling of the Teſticles.

Sarcocolla, a Gum that drops from a Tree of the ſame Name, growing in Perſia, which is like the Powder of Frankincenſe, and ſo call'd, by reaſon of its admirable Virtue in healing Sores, and filling them up with Fleſh; a kind of Balſam good for the cloſing of Wounds.

Sarcoepiplocele, a fleſhy Rupture, or bunching out of the Caul, either about the Navel, or in the Cods.

Sarcoma, a lump of Fleſh, growing in any part of the Body, eſpecially in the Noſtrils or loweſt part of the Noſe, where it ſticks out like the proud Fleſh of an Ulcer.

Sarcomphalum, a fleſhy Excreſcence or bunching out in the Navel.

Sarcophagus, or Sarcophagum, (i. e. Eat-fleſh) a ſort of Stone ſo call'd, becauſe Coffins were anciently made of it, which quickly conſum'd the dead Bodies; for they had the virtue to waſte away a Corps to nothing, ſave the Teeth, in Forty Days: Whence the Word is us'd in general for any Stone-Tomb, Monument, or Sepulchre.

Sarcoſis, a breeding of Fleſh; alſo a lump of Fleſh; the ſame as Sarcoma.

Sarcoticks, Medicines that fill up Wounds with Fleſh.

† Sarculation, (Lat.) a Weeding or plucking up of Weeds.

Sarculatura, (in ancient Writers) Weeding of Corn: Una Sarculatura, was the Tenant's Service of one Day's Weeding for the Lord.

Sarda, (Gr.) a precious Stone, half tranſparent, and of the colour of bloody Fleſh, a Cornelian: Alſo the Name of a certain Fiſh; the Sprat or Pilchard.

Sardachates, a kind of Agate, of a Cornelian Colour.

Sardel, or Sardine, the Pilchard, a Sea-Fiſh, perhaps ſo nam'd, as being often found on the Coaſts of the Iſland of Sardinia.

Sardius Lapis, a ſort of Onyx-ſtone, of a black Colour; call'd a Carneol.

Sardonian, or Sardonick Laughter, an immoderate and deadly Laughter, ſaid to be caus'd by eating a certain venomous Herb in Sardinia: Alſo an involuntary ſhew of Laughter occaſion'd by a convulſive wreſting of the Muſcles of the Mouth.

Sardonyx, a Gem or precious Stone, partly of the Colour of the Nail of a Man's Finger, and partly of a Cornelian Colour: Among Heralds it is taken for the Murrey Colour, born in the Coats of Noble-Men.

Sargus, the Baſe, a Sea-Fiſh.

Sarkellus, (in old Latin Records) a kind of unlawful Net or Engine, for deſtroying Fiſh.

Sarplar of Wool, a quantity of Wool, otherwiſe call'd a Pocket, or a Half-Sack; a Sack containing 80 Tod, a Tod 2 Stone, and a Stone 14 Pounds: In Scotland, it is termed Serpliath, and contains 80 Stone.

Sarpliar, or Sarp-Cloth, a piece of Canvas to wrap Wares in; a Packing-Cloth.

Sarraſine, (Fr.) the Herb Heart-wort or Birth-wort: In Fortification a kind of Portcullice, otherwiſe call'd Herſe, which is hung with a Cord over the Gate of a Town, &c. to be let fall upon any Surprize.

Sarſaparilla, a Plant growing in Peru and Virginia, of great uſe in the Gout and Venereal Diſtempers: It is commonly call'd Prickly Bind-weed, and is alſo very effectual againſt Agues.

Sarſe. See Searce.

Sarſenet, a ſlight ſort of Silk.

Sart, a piece of Wood-Land turn'd into Arable. See Aſſart.

Sartorius, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Leg, which takes Name from the uſe Taylors make of it in ſitting Croſs-Legg'd: It is alſo call'd Longiſſimus Femoris, upon account of its exceeding the reſt of the Muſcles of that part in length, and Faſcialis from its paſſing over the Muſcles of the Thigh and Leg like a Swathing-Band: It ariſes from the Fore-part of the Spine of the Os Ilium, cloſe by the Membranoſus, and is inſerted Four Fingers breadth below the upper part of the Bone nam'd Tibia on the in-ſide.

Saruck, a Name which the Turks give to their Turbant; which See

Saſh, a ſort of Girdle.

Saſh, or Saſh-Window, a kind of Window fram'd with large Squares, and corruptly ſo call'd from the French Word Chaſſis, i. e. a Frame.

Saſhoons, Leather put under a Boot about the Small of the Leg.

Saſſafras, a Tree of great Virtue, growing in Florida, and other Parts of America, the Bark of which has a ſweet Smell like Cinnamon: A Decoction of the Wood, Root, and Bark, is much uſ'd in Phyſick; being good for the Hip-Gout, Stoppages, Ague, Venereal and Hydropical Diſtempers.

Saſſe, a Lock or Sluce, eſpecially in a Cut-River, with Flood-Gates to ſhut up or let out the Water, for the more ready Paſſage of Boats and Barges.

Saſſons, (corrupted from Saxons) a Name formerly given in contempt to the Engliſh, who rather affected that of Angles, but are ſtill call'd Saſſons by the Welſh.

Satan, the Devil, properly, an Adverſary, an Enemy to God and all Goodneſs; the Word is of an Hebrew Original, and deriv'd from Sitnah, i. e. Hatred or Spitefulneſs.

Satanical, belonging to Satan, Deviliſh.

Satchel, a little Sack or Bag.

It Sate me Sore, (old Expreſſion) it touch'd me greatly.

Satellite-Inſtrument, an Inſtrument which was invented by M. Romer, Mathematician to the French King, and may be added to a Watch: Its Uſe is to aſſiſt in finding the Longitude both at Sea and Land by Jupiter's Satellites, to give Notice of an approaching Eclipſe, to ſhew which Satellite is eclipſed, when an Eclipſe happens, &c.

Satellites, (Lat.) Life-Guards or Officers attending upon a Prince: Among Aſtronomers it is taken for thoſe Planets which are continually, as it were, waiting upon or rolled about other Planets: Thus the Moon may be call'd the Satellite of the Earth, and the reſt of the Planets the Satellites of the Sun; but the Word is chiefly uſ'd for thoſe newly diſcover'd ſmall Planets that make their Revolution about Saturn and Jupiter.

Satellites of Jupiter, are Four ſmall Moons or wand'ring Stars, that move round about the Body of Jupiter, as the Moon does round the Earth: Galilæus firſt diſcover'd theſe by the help of the Teleſcope.

Satellites of Saturn, are Five little Stars, that in like manner roll about Saturn, and were accurately diſcover'd by M. Caſſini, A. D. 1684. as alſo by M. Hugens, by means of certain excellent Object-Glaſſes.

To Satiate, to ſatisfie, to cloy or glut.

Satiety, Fulneſs, Glut, Surfeit.

Satira, a Word uſ'd by our old Latin Writers, for a broad Diſh or Platter.

Satire. See Satyre.

Satiſfaction, a being Satisfied, Content, Pleaſure, Payment, making Amends, Recompence; Atonement; Reparation of Dammage.

Satiſfactory, ſufficient to ſatisfie or give Satisfaction.

To Satiſfy, to fill with Meat; to humour, pleaſe, or content; to pay, to diſcharge a Debt; to convince.

Satten, or Sattin, a ſort of Silk.

Satrapa, (Perſ.) a Title anciently given to the Chief Governour of a Province under the King of Perſia; a great Ruler, or Peer of the Realm; a Lord Lieutenant or Preſident of a Country.

Satrapy, the Government or Juriſdiction of a Satrapa; a Lieutenancy, a Dutchy.

Saturday, the Seventh and laſt Day of the Week, on which our Saxon Anceſtours uſ'd to worſhip the Idol Saturn or Seater.

Saturdays-Stop, the ſpace of Time, in which of old, it was not lawful to take Salmons in Scotland, and the North of England; that is, from Even-Song on Saturday till Sun-riſing on Monday.

Saturantia, (Lat.) Medicines that qualifie ſharp Humours.

Satureia, the Herb Savoury, good to ſeaſon Meats and Broths, and to procure Appetite.

Saturity, Fulneſs, Exceſs, Glut; as To feed to Saturity.

Saturn, the moſt ancient of the Heathen Gods: Alſo the Name of the higheſt of the Planets, but ſloweſt in Motion; by Aſtrologers counted an Enemy to the Nature of Man, and all Living-Creatures, and therefore termed the Greater Infortune: Among Chymiſts, Saturn is taken for Lead, and among Heralds, for the black Colour in the Coats of Soveraign Princes; anſwering to Diamond in the Eſcutcheons of Noble-men, and Sable in thoſe of Gentle-men.

Saturnalia, certain ſolemn Feaſts and Sacrifices appointed in Honour of Saturn, which were kept Yearly by the ancient Romans on December 17th. continuing Five, and ſometimes Seven Days: It was a time of great Revelling and Liberty; ſo that the Rich ſent Preſents to the Poor, Servants ſat at Table with their Maſters, and were allowed even to ridicule them.

Saturnia, a Name heretofore given to the Country of Italy: In Chiromancy, the Line of Saturn, which goes thro' the middle of the Palm of the Hand to the Root of the middle Finger: This Line, if it be cut and parted, is call'd Via Combuſta, i. e. the Burnt Way.

Saturnine, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of the Planet Saturn; heavy, dull, melancholy.

Satyr, or Satire, a Word that ſignifies all manner of Diſcourſe, wherein any Perſon is reprov'd; but commonly taken for a Poem, that ſharply and wittily rebukes Vice, and reflects upon the Vicious; a Lampoon.

Satyriaſis, or Satyriaſmus, an immoderate deſire of Venery; it is alſo ſometimes taken for the Leproſy, becauſe that Diſeaſe makes the Skin rough like that of a Satyr: Alſo the Swelling of the Glandules or Kernels behind the Ears.

Satyrical, belonging to Satyr, ſharp, biting, nipping, cutting, abuſive, cenſorious, critical.

Satyrion, Stander-Graſs, Rag-Wort, or Prieſts-Pintle, an Herb.

Satyriſt, a Writer of Satyrs.

To Satyrize, to rally after a Satyrical manner, to criticize upon, to lampoon.

Satyrs, certain Fabulous Demi-Gods among the ancient Heathens, ſaid to preſide over Foreſts. They were repreſented with Horns on their Heads, long pricked up Ears, whisking Tails, Goats-feet, their Bodies all over hairy, and the Hair ſtanding an end on their Foreheads; being the proper Emblems of Inſolence and Laſciviouſneſs: Whence boiſterous, deformed, and luſtful Men are commonly call'd Satyrs.

Savage, (Fr.) wild, fierce, barbarous.

The Savages, the wild People in the Indies.

Savanna's, (Span.) Paſture-Grounds in America, for the feeding of Deer and other Cattel.

Sauce-alone, a kind of Herb.

Saucidge. See Sauſage.

Sauciſſe, (Fr.) a Sauſage: Alſo a Pudding us'd in Sieges, i. e. a long piece of Cloth having its Sides ſow'd together in ſhape of a Gut, and as wide as to hold a Tennis-Ball; which being dipt in Pitch or Tar, and fill'd with Powder, is laid ſo as to reach from the Mine, Fougade or Bomb-Cheſt, to the Place where the Engineer ſtands to ſet it on Fire.

Sauciſſon, a thick and ſhort Sauſage: In the Art of War, Sauciſſons are Faggots made of the Bodies of Under-wood, or of the Branches of great Trees, bound together in the middle and at both ends, in which reſpect they differ from Faſcines that are made of ſmall Wood: Theſe Sauciſſons ſerve to make Shoulder-works, Traverſes or Breaſt-works in Ditches full of Water, to render the Way firm for Carriages, and for other Uſes.

To Save, to deliver, to keep or preſerve, to ſpare.

Saver Default, (Fr. i. e. to excuſe a Default) a Law-Expreſſion us'd when a Man having made a Default in Court, comes afterwards and ſhews a good Cauſe why he did it, as Impriſonment at the ſame time, or ſuch like.

Savine, a Plant, good to cure Ulcers, running Sores, and Childrens ſcabby Heads; it is alſo too well known to be efficacious for forcing the Courſes, and cauſing Miſcarriage.

Saviour, a Perſon that ſaves or delivers.

Saul, (Heb. asked or lent, alſo a Grave) the firſt King of Iſrael, who being overcome in a great Battel againſt the Philiſtines, fell upon his own Sword.

Saunders. See Sanders.

Saunkeſine, (Fr. old Law-Word) the Determination or final Race of a Deſcent of Kindred.

To Saunter-about, to go idling up and down.

Savonet, (Fr.) a Waſh-ball or other ſort of Compound, to waſh the Face or Hands with.

Savour, Taſte or Reliſh, Scent or Smell.

Savoury, that has a good Savour, that taſtes or reliſhes well.

Savoury, or Winter-Savoury, an wholeſome Pot-Herb that is alſo of good uſe in Phyſick for Diſeaſes of the Breaſt and Womb, &c.

Savoys, a ſort of fine Cabbage, firſt brought from the Territories of the Dukedom of Savoy.

Saurites, (Gr.) a Stone found in the Belly of a Lizard.

Saurus, the Lizard; alſo the Lizard-Fiſh or Haydeck.

Sauſage or Saucidge, a kind of Pudding made of Pork chopt ſmall with Spice and other Ingredients.

Sauſage or Warlike-Sauſage. See Sauciſſe.

Bolonia-Sauſages, thick and ſhort Sauſages made at Bolonia, a City of Italy.

Saw, (old Word) a Proverb or grave Saying: Alſo a well known Iron-Tool us'd by Carpenters, Stone-cutters, &c.

Saw-fiſh, a kind of Sea-fiſh, ſo nam'd as having a ſharp-toothed Bone like a Saw in its Forehead, about three Foot long.

Saw-wort, an Herb having Leaves notched about like the Teeth of a Saw.

Saxatilis, (Lat.) the Grounding, a kind of Gudgeon; a Sea-fiſh.

Saxifraga, Medicines that break or diſſolve the Stone in Humane Bodies; alſo the Herb Saxifrage.

Saxifrage, a ſort of Herb ſo call'd becauſe it breaks the Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder.

Saxons, a warlike People, who with the Angles and Jutes their Neighbours, came hither from Jutland, a Province of Denmark, and are ſaid to have taken Name from their crooked Swords, call'd Seaxes in their Language: They got Footing in Great Britain, A. C. 440, ſubdu'd moſt part of the Iſland, and divided it into Seven petty Kingdoms, which were all united under King Egbert in 819, by the Name of England, i. e. the Land of the Angles.

Saxon-lage, or Weſt-Saxonlage, the Law of the Weſt-Saxons, which was of Force in Nine Counties, viz. Kent, Surrey, Suſſex, Barkſhire, Hamſhire, Wiltſhire, Somerſetſhire, Dorſetſhire, and Devonſhire. See Danelage and Merchenlage.

Saxum, (Lat.) Stone or Rock-ſtone. Saxum arenarium, Sand-ſtone or Free-ſtone.

Say, a thin ſort of Stuff.

Scabinus, (Lat.) a Sheriff, an Alderman, a Clerk of a Market, a Surveyor of Buildings, a Scavenger: In ſome old Charters, the Wardens of the Corporation of Linn in Norfolk, are ſtyled Scabini.

Scabies, the Itch or Mange, a Diſeaſe; a Scab or Gall.

Scabioſa, the Herb Scabious, ſo call'd from its Virtue in curing the Itch; it is alſo good for Impoſtumes, Coughs, Pleuriſy, Quinſey, &c.

Scabrous, rough, rugged, uneven, unpoliſhed; as A ſcabrous Verſe.

Scacurcule, a Word us'd by ſome Chymiſts for a Spirit drawn out of the Bone of a Hart's Heart.

Scala, (Lat.) a Ladder, a pair of Stairs.

Scalado, (in a Siege) a furious Attack upon the Wall or Rampart of a fortify'd Town or Caſtle, made with Scaling-Ladders to mount immediately, without carrying on any Works in Form.

Scalæ Gemoniæ. See Gemoniæ Scalæ.

Ad Scalam, (i. e. for the Scale) a Phraſe us'd in the old Way of Paying Money into the Exchequer, where the Summ of Twenty Shillings and Six Pence was told out for a Pound Sterling; the odd Six Pence being allow'd to make up the full Weight.

Scale, (in Mathem.) ſignifies any Meaſures or Numbers that are commonly us'd, or the Degrees of any Arch of a Circle or of Right Lines divided from thence; as Sines, Tangents, Secants, &c. drawn or engrav'd upon a Ruler for ready uſe and practice in particular Operations. Of theſe Scales there are ſeveral ſorts, viz.

The Plain Scale, and the Diagonal, which ſerve to repreſent any Numbers or Meaſures whatever, whoſe Parts are equal one to another: Thus Engineers have a Scale or Rule to make a Draught of Fortifications on Paper; and Gunners make uſe of another ſort, to take the Dimenſions of a Piece of Ord'nance: In Maps there is a Scale of Miles, to ſhew the Diſtance of one Place from another.

Scale of Muſick, commonly call'd the Gam-ut or Scale of the Gam-ut, is a kind of Scheme or Rule, conſiſting of certain Lines and Spaces on which the Figures of the Muſical Notes are ſet down in their natural Order, ſo as to ſhew the ſeveral Degrees, whereby a Voice or Sound may either aſcend or deſcend. The Name of it is taken from the Greek Letter Gamma, which Guido Aretinus, (who reduc'd the Muſical Scale of the ancient Greeks into this Form) ſet at the bottom, to ſignifie from whence it was deriv'd; and this Scale or Gam-ut has been taken ever ſince for the Firſt Foundation or Ground-work of all Muſick both Vocal and Inſtrumental.

Scalenous Cone. See Cone.

Scalenum, or Scalenous Triangle, (Gr.) a Triangle that has all its Three Sides unequal: In Anatomy, Scaleni are Three Muſcles of the Cheſt, ſo nam'd from their Figure, having Three unequal ſides.

Scalenus Primus, a Muſcle that ariſes from the Fore-part of the Second, Third, and Fourth Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ, or Turning-joynts of the Neck, and is let into the Firſt Rib; its Uſe being to draw the upper Rib together with the reſt upwards, in fetching one's Breath.

Scalenus Secundus, a Muſcle, which taking riſe from the ſecond, third, fourth and fifth Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Neck, ſide-ways, paſſes over the firſt Rib to its Inſertion in the ſecond, and ſometimes to the third.

Scalenus Tertius, a Muſcle, that has its beginning near the former, from the ſame Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ, of the Neck, as alſo from the ſixth of thoſe Proceſſes, and is ſoon inſerted to the firſt Rib.

Scallaga, (in ancient Writers) a Quarry or Pit of Stones, or rather of Scales or Slates for covering Houſes.

Scall, Scurf on the Head.

Scallion, a kind of Shalot or ſmall Onion.

Scallop. See Scollop.

Scalp, or Hairy Scalp, the Skin that covers the Scull-bone.

Scalper, or Scalping-Iron, a Surgeon's Inſtrument, to ſcrape or take away corrupt Fleſh from the Bones.

Scalprum, (Lat.) an Inſtrument with which any thing is ſcraped, pared, graved, or cut; a Graving-Tool. Scalprum Chirurgicum, a Surgeon's Scalper or Lancet.

Scalprum Raſorium. See Raſpatory.

To Scamble, to rove or wander up and down. Scambling Town, a Town wherein the Houſes ſtand at a great diſtance one from another.

Scamillus, (Lat.) a Foot-Stool or little Bench. In Architecture Scamilli Impares are certain Zocco's, or Blocks, which ſerve to raiſe the reſt of the Members of any Pillar or Statue; they were plac'd beneath the Projectures of the Stylobatæ-Cornices, and are well repreſented by the Pedeſtals of our Statues.

Scammonia, (Gr.) the Herb Scammony, otherwiſe call'd purging Bind-weed, which is of great uſe in Phyſick.

Scammonium, the Juice of Scammony; which is very purgative. See Diagridium.

Scammozzi's Rule, a two Foot Joynt-Rule, fitted for the uſe of Builders, and firſt invented by the famous Architect of that Name.

Scannum, or Scannum Caducum, (Lat. i. e. a falling Bench) a Word us'd in ſome old Records for a Ducking-ſtool.

Scannum Hippocratis, or Hippocrates's Bench, the Name of a certain Inſtrument that is Six Ells long, and us'd in the Setting of Bones.

To Scan, to ſift or canvas a Buſineſs, to examine a thing thoroughly, to conſider it well.

To Scan a Verſe, to meaſure or prove a Verſe, according to the number of its Feet.

Scandal, (Gr.) Stumbling-Block or Offence, ill Name, bad Example, Shame.

To Scandal, to defame, or ſlander.

To Scandalize, to give Offence, to raiſe a Scandal upon one.

Scandalous, giving Offence, Defaming; Abuſive, Shameful, Diſgraceful.

Scandalum Magnatum, an Offence, or Wrong done to the Perſon of any Peer, or great Officer of the Realm, by ſcandalous Reports, falſe News, &c. Alſo the Writ that lies for their recovering Dammages thereupon.

Scanderbeg, a Name given to George Caſtriot; Prince of Epirus, who caus'd that Country, and Macedonia, to revolt againſt Amurath II. Emperour of the Turks.

Scanſion, (Lat. in Grammar) the ſcanning of a Verſe.

Scant, that is leſs than requiſite, ſcarce.

Scantling, Size or Meaſure.

Scanty, ſhort or ſcarce, as Proviſions ſometimes are; alſo that has not Stuff enough allow'd, or too ſtraight, in ſpeaking of a Garment.

Scapha, (Gr.) a Skiff or Cock-Boat, properly a Boat made of a whole Tree cut hollow. Among ſome Anatomiſts, it is taken for the inner rim of the Ear.

Scaphoides, the third Os Tarſi in the Foot, which is joyn'd to the Ancle-Bone and the three hinder-Bones: It is otherwiſe call'd Os Naviculare in Latin, and takes both Names from ſome reſemblance it has to a Boat.

Scapula, (Lat.) the hinder part of the Shoulders: Alſo the Shoulder-blade; a broad Bone, of a Triangular Figure, having three Proceſſes, which is very thin in the middle, but grows thicker about the Proceſſes.

Scapular, belonging to the Shoulder-blades.

A Scapular, or Scapulary, a long narrow piece of Stuff, worn by Monks and Nuns over the reſt of their Habit, and hanging down from their Shoulders to their Feet.

Scapularis Externa & Interna, the Scapular Veins, two ſmall Veins ſo call'd; the former of which ariſes from the Muſcles, covering the Scapula, or Shoulder-Blades; and the other from thoſe Muſcles that lie in the hollow of the ſame Bones.

Scapus, (Gr.) the ſhaft or ſhank of a Pillar between the Chapiter and the Pedeſtal: Among Herbaliſts, the upright ſtalk or ſtem of a Plant.

Scar, the Seam or Mark of a Wound: Alſo an old Word, ſignifying a ſteep Rock; whence Scarborough-Caſtle in Yorkſhire took its Name.

Scarabæus, (Lat.) the Beetle or Bug, an Inſect.

Scaramangis, (Gr.) a kind of Garment which the Ancients wore over a Coat of Mail.

Scaramouch, the Name of a famous Italian Buffoon, who Acted in England, Anno Dom. 1673.

Scare, a ſort of Fiſh.

To Scare, to put in Fear, to Fright.

Scare-Crow, a Figure made of Straw or Clouts, and uſually ſet up in Fields that are ſow'd with Grain, to ſcare or fright away the Birds.

Scarf, a well known part of Womens Attire, or an Ornament worn by Military Officers.

Scarf-skin, (in Anat.) the outmoſt skin, ſerving to defend the Body; which being full of Pores or little Holes, diſcharges Sweat, and other Moiſture.

Scarfed, covered with a Scarf: In Sea Language, it is the ſame as pieced, faſtened or joyned in: thus the Stem of a Ship is ſaid to be Scarfed into her Keel, when the two Pieces are ſhap'd or cut away ſlanting, ſo as to joyn with one another cloſe and even,

Scarification, a Scarifying, cutting or lancing; an opening of the Skin with a Pen-Knife or Lancet.

To Scarify, (in Surgery) to Lance or open a Sore, to make an Inciſion in any part of the Body, in order to let out Blood or corrupt Humours.

Scariola, (Lat.) an Herb call'd Broad-Leav'd Endive.

Scarp, (Fr. in Fortif.) the inward ſlope of the Moat, or Ditch of a Place i. e. the ſlope of that ſide of the Ditch, which is next to the Place, and looks towards the Field: Alſo the Foot of the Rampart-Wall; or the ſloping of the Wall from the bottom of the Work to the Cordon on the ſide of the Moat.

Scarpe, (in Heraldry) the Figure of a Scarf, ſuch as is worn by Military Commanders, being a Subdiviſion of the Bend: Thus 'tis ſaid, He bears Argent a Scarpe Azure.

Scarus, (Gr.) the Scar, Cud or Chewing-Fiſh, a Sea-Fiſh that feeds on Herbs and Chews the Cud like a Beaſt.

Scatch, a kind of Bit for Horſes.

Scate, a Sea-Fiſh; alſo a ſort of Patten to ſlide upon Ice.

Scathe, (old Word) Hurt, or Dammage.

To Scatter, to ſpread abroad here and there.

Scavage, Schevage, or Schewage, a Toll formerly exacted by Mayors, Sheriffs, &c. of Merchant-Strangers, for Wares ſhew'd or offer'd to Sale, within their Precincts; but it is taken away by Statute 19. H. 7.

Scavenger, (from the Dutch Word Scaven, to ſcrape) a Pariſh-Officer, of whom two are choſen Yearly, that hire Men call'd Rakers or Duſt-men, and Carts, in order to cleanſe the Streets, and carry away the Dirt and Filth.

Scauros, (Gr.) that has great Ancles bunching out; ſtump or club-footed.

Scawrack, a ſort of Sea-weed.

Sceleton. See Skeleton.

Sceleton Serpentis, (Lat.) a kind of Stone which reſembles the Bones of a Serpent, roll'd up in Folds.

Scellum, or Schellum, (Dutch) a Rogue, Villain, or Vagabond.

Scelotyrbe, (Gr.) a wand'ring Pain in the Legs, which proceeds chiefly from the Scurvey.

Scelotyrbitis Aqua, a ſort of Water proper for that Diſtemper.

Scene, (properly a Tabernacle or Tent) the front or fore-part of a Theater or Stage, on which Plays are acted: Alſo the Decoration that conſiſts of Paintings, in which are repreſented Buildings, Landskips, &c. round the Stage: Alſo part of a Dramatical Poem or Play, which is divided into Acts, and thoſe Acts into Scenes, when a freſh Actor enters upon the Stage, or one that was on it, goes off: It is alſo taken for the Place where the Action of the Play has happen'd; and thence Tranſlated to ſignify the Place of any great Action or notable Exploit; as, The Scene of War, The Scene of Affairs, &c.

Scenical or Scenick, belonging to a Scene.

Scenographical or Scenographick, belonging to Scenography.

Scenography, (in Perſpective) is that ſide which declines from, or makes Angles with a ſtraight Line, imagin'd to paſs thro' the two outward Convex Points of the Eyes, and is generally call'd by Workmen, The Return of a Fore-right ſide: The Scenographick Appearance differs from the Orthographick in this reſpect, that the latter ſhews the ſide of a Figure, Body, or Building, as it is ſeen when the Plain of the Glaſs ſtands parallel to that ſide; but Scenography repreſents it as it ſeems thro' a Glaſs, not parallel to that ſide.

In Architecture and Fortification, Scenography is the manner of delineating or making a Draught of the ſeveral Parts of a Building or Fortreſs, with its Shadows and Dimenſions, according to the Rules of Perſpective.

Scenopegia, the Feaſt of Tabernacles kept by the Jews, in Memory of their Travels thro' the Wilderneſs, where they liv'd Forty Years together in Tents.

Scepter, a Royal Staff, or Battoon, born by Kings at their Coronation, or ſome other great Solemnity: Its length was heretofore equal to the height of the Prince's Stature, but the faſhion of it is now alter'd; and it is figuratively taken for Royal Authority, or Kingly Power.

Sceptical or Sceptick, belonging to the Scepticks or Scepticiſm; that is in doubt or ſuſpence, doubtful.

Scepticiſm, the Doctrine or Opinion of the Scepticks.

Scepticks, a Sect of Philoſophers, who contemplated and conſider'd Matters, but doubted of every thing, and would admit of no Determination: Whence the Term is apply'd to a Perſon who maintains there is nothing certain, and no real Knowledge at all to be had.

Sceptos, a kind of Light'ning daſh'd to the ground with great Force; Alſo a Meteor falling out of the Clouds.

Scharpenny or Scharnpenny, (Sax. i. e. Dung-penny) a ſmall Duty heretofore paid by ſome cuſtomary Tenants that they might be excus'd from penning up their Cattel in their Lord's Pound or Yard, for the benefit of the Dung.

Schedule, a Leaf or Scroll of Paper or Parchment; an Inventory of Goods annexed to a Will, Leaſe or other Deed, which contains ſome Particulars left out in the main Writing.

Schelwracus, (Lat.) the Shell-drake or black Diver; a Water-Fowl.

Schelling, a Coin in Holland and Flanders, containing 12 Groots or 6 Stivers and equal to $6\frac{1}{3}$ of our Engliſh Money; ſo that 20 Schellings Flemiſh, make 12 Shillings Sterling, and 33 s. 4 d. Flemiſh amount to 20 s. Sterling.

Schematiſmus, (Gr.) the Habit, Conſtitution, or Diſpoſition of the Body: In Grammar the particular manner of forming one Word from another.

Scheme, Model, Draught, the Drawing of any Figure on Paper, &c. the repreſenting of any Geometrical, or Aſtronomical Figure, or Problem by Lines, ſo as to make it ſenſible to the Eye, and this is otherwiſe call'd a Diagram: Among Aſtrologers, it is a Repreſentation of the Celeſtial Bodies in their proper Places for any Moment, or an Aſtrological Figure of the Heavens, which is often termed Schema Cœli, and the making of it, Erecting or Drawing a Scheme.

Scheeren-Silver, or Shearing-Silver, a ſmall Summ of Money paid of old to the Lord of a Manour by the Tenant, for the Liberty of Shearing his Sheep.

Scheſis, (Gr.) the Habit or Conſtitution of the Body; accordingly as it is fleſhy or lean, hard or ſoft, thick or ſlender: Alſo a Rhetorical Figure, whereby a certain Affection or Inclination of the Adverſary is feign'd on purpoſe to be anſwer'd, and which, in Latin, is call'd Affictio.

Schetick Feaver, a Feaver ſo call'd, becauſe it is chiefly ſeated in the Blood, and may be eaſily cur'd; upon which account it is oppos'd to an Hectick Feaver, that is fixed in the very Habit of the Body, and not to be remov'd without great Difficulty.

Schilus, a Lake-Fiſh, not unlike a Pike, but reſembling a Pearch in the ſize, order, and roughneſs of its Fins.

Schirrus. See Scirrhus.

Schiſm, properly a cut or cleft; thence generally taken for a Diviſion or Rent in the Church, caus'd by diverſity of Opinions.

Schiſmatical or Schiſmatick, inclining to, or guilty of Schiſm.

A Schiſmatick, a Separatiſt, one that occaſions Schiſm, by ſeparating from the true Church, and ſetting up New Doctrines or Diſcipline.

Schiſtos, a Stone of a Saffron-Colour, that may be eaſily cleft into thin Plates; alſo a kind of Stone, call'd, the Warming-Stone.

Schiſtum, a ſort of Allum, Plume-Allum.

Schœnanthum, Camel's-Hay, or ſweet-ſmelling Reed, an Herb of great Uſe in Phyſick, particularly for Stoppages of the Liver or Spleen, Hickups, Wind in the Stomack, &c.

Schœnobates, (among the Ancients) a kind of Rope-Dancer, or Tumbler, who rolled about a Rope, as a Wheel does round the Axle-Tree, and hung by the Feet or Neck.

Schœnobatica, the Art of Dancing upon Ropes.

Schœnoprasum, Porret, or Cives, a kind of Plant.

Schœnus, a Ruſh or Bulruſh; a Cord or Rope, ſuch as was us'd by Rope-Dancers: Alſo a Meaſure of Land, which contain'd Sixty Stadia or Furlongs, or Forty, according to Pliny: Among the Hebrews, ſomewhat above 145 Foot.

Schœnum, a cheap ſorry Ointment, made of ſweet Ruſhes, which Whores us'd to dawb themſelves with, to appear leſs ſtinking.

Scholar, one that learns any thing at School or elſewhere; a Man of Learning, a Learned Perſon.

Scholaſtici, (among the Romans) thoſe that aſſiſted the Governours of Provinces in the Exerciſe of their Office, and were as their Counſellours; who alſo inſtructed them in matter of Law, and drew up Petitions.

Scholaſtick or Scholaſtical, belonging to a Scholar or School.

Scholaſtick-Divinity, School-Divinity, ſuch as is in uſe among the Roman-Catholicks, and relates chiefly to ſeveral nice Points that are uncertain and diſputable.

Scholiaſt, one that makes Scholia's or Notes upon an Author; a Commentator or Expoſitor.

Scholion or Scholium, a Gloſs; brief Comment or ſhort Expoſition: In Mathematicks, a Note or Remark, made as it were by the by, on any Propoſition, Subject or Diſcourſe, before advanced, treated of, or delivered.

School, a Place where any Art or Science is taught.

To School, or tutour, to check or chide ſeverely.

Schoolman, one skill'd in School-Divinity.

Sciæna, (Gr.) a Sea-Fiſh of the Whale-kind.

Sciagraphy or Sciography, a Profile or Platform, the firſt rude Draught of a thing: Alſo the Art of Dialling, or of ſhewing the time of the Day by Shadows: Alſo that Part of Aſtronomy which ſerves for finding out the Hour of the Day or Night, &c. by the Shadow of the Sun, Moon or Stars.

In Architecture Sciagraphy, is ſometimes taken for the Draught of a Building cut in its Length or Breadth, to ſhew the Inſide of it, as the Conveyance of every Room, with the thickneſs of the Walls, Timber-works, Floors, Vaults, &c.

Sciatheran, the Pin or Cock of a Dial, which ſhews the Hours by its Shadow.

Sciatica, a Diſeaſe in or about the Hip-bone; the Hip-gout.

Sciatica-Creſſes, a ſort of Herb good for that Diſtemper.

Sciatick-Vein, a Vein ſeated above the outward part of the Ancle.

Scidaceum (in Surgery) a kind of Fracture or breaking of a Bone, according to its length or long-wiſe.

Science, (Lat.) Knowledge, Learning, Skill; Knowledge founded upon or gain'd by certain, clear and ſelf-evident Principles.

The Seven Liberal Sciences, are Grammar, Logick, Rhetorick, Arithmetick, Geometry, Aſtronomy and Muſick.

Scientifical or Scientifick, Learned, full of Learning, Inſtructive.

Scilla, (Gr.) Squills or Sea-Onion, an Herb; alſo the Shrimp or Prawn; a Fiſh.

Scillites, Wine wherein Sea-Onion is ſteep'd.

Scillites acetum, Vinegar of Squills.

Scimeter. See Cimeter.

Scincus, a kind of Land-Crocodile or Newt about the River Nile.

Scincus Marinus, a little Fiſh us'd by Apothecaries in the Compoſition of Mithridate.

† Scintillation, a ſparkling up of Fire.

Sciography. See Sciagraphy.

Scioliſt, (Lat.) one that makes much ſtir with a little Knowledge, a ſmatterer in Learning.

Sciomancy, (Gr.) the calling up of Ghoſts by Magick; a Divining or Soothſaying by Shadows.

Scion or Cyon, a Graft, tender Shoot, or young Sprig of a Tree.

Scioptricks, a part of Opticks. See Obſcura Camera.

Sciothericum Teleſcopicum, a Mathematical Inſtrument invented by Mr. Molyneux being an Horizontal Dial with a Teleſcope fitted for obſerving the true Time both by Day and Night, to adjuſt Pendulum-Clocks, Watches, and other Time-keepers.

Scire facias, a Judicial Writ to call a Man to ſhew Cauſe to the Court from which it is ſent, why Execution of a Judgment paſſed ſhould not be made out.

Scirona, a Word us'd by ſome Chymiſts for the Dew of Autumn.

Scirpus, (Lat.) a kind of Ruſh without a knot, a Bulruſh us'd for Mats, Weeks of Candles, &c.

Scirrhoma or Scirrhoſis, (Gr.) an Eſcar or Scar, the hardneſs of any Part of the Body, eſpecially the Liver, &c. alſo the ſame as Scirrhus.

Scirrhous, belonging to a Scirrhus; as A Scirrhous Tumour.

Scirrhus, a kind of hard unmoveable Swelling without Pain, which reſiſts the Touch, proceeding from Melancholy or ſome other tough and clammy Humour.

† Sciſſure, (Lat.) a Cut or Cleft, a Rent or Chap.

Sciurus, (Gr.) the Squirrel, a Creature ſo call'd from its ſhadowy or thick Tail.

Sclerophthalmy, a hard blearedneſs of the Eyes accompany'd with Pain; a ſlow Motion of the Eyes with redneſs and dryneſs of them.

Scleroſis, a hard Tumour or ſwelling of the Spleen.

Sclerotes, or Sclerotica Tunica, the horney Coat of the Eye. See Cornea Tunica.

Sclerotica, Scleroticks or hard'ning Medicines, ſuch as unite the Parts more firmly among themſelves.

To Scoat or Scotch a Wheel, to put a Stone or piece of Wood under the Wheel of a Cart, Waggon, &c. to ſtop it from going forward.

Scolecion, (Gr.) a ſort of Scarlet-Worm, an Inſect.

Scolioſis, a wreſting, or making crooked: Among Phyſicians, a diſtorting or wrenching of the Vertebræ, or turning Joynts of the Back-bone.

Scollop, a Shell-Fiſh; alſo a ſort of indenting or notching in Embroidery-Work.

Scollop-ſhell, (in Heraldry) the Figure of that Shell, which is often put in the Coats of Arms of Military Perſons.

Scoloopomachærion, (Gr.) a Surgeon's Knife with which Wounds of the Breaſt are widen'd: It is alſo us'd in lancing large Swellings, and in opening the Abdomen or lower Belly.

Scolopax, the Wood-cock or the Snite; a Bird; alſo the Saw-fiſh or the Sea-ſnite.

Scolopendra, a Venomous Worm that has eight Feet and a piked Tail; the Caterpillar an Inſect with many Feet: Alſo a ſort of Worm call'd a Bear-worm, engender'd of a Melancholy Humour; which makes the Gums to become ſwollen and ulcerated and looſens the Nerves and Teeth: Alſo a kind of Water-Serpent call'd the Sea-Scolopendra; about a Cubit in Length; alſo an Inſect nam'd the Sea-Galley-worm: Alſo a certain Fiſh, which having ſwallow'd a Hook, caſts up her Bowels, and being rid of it, ſucks them in again.

Scolopendria, the Herb Harts-tongue.

Scolopendrium, a kind of Herb call'd Ceterach, Stone-wort, Finger-fern or Milt-wort.

Scolymus, the Artichoke; a well known Plant.

Scomber or Scombrus, the Mackerel; a Sea-fiſh.

Scomma, a Mock, Jeer, Flout, or ſcurrilous Jeſt.

Sconce, a ſort of branched Candle-ſtick: In Fortification, a ſmall Fort built for Defence of ſome Paſs, River, or other Place; a Block-houſe.

To Sconce, (a Word us'd in Oxford-Univerſity) to ſet up ſo much in the Buttery-Book upon one's Head, to be paid as a Puniſhment for a Duty neglected or an Offence committed: Whence it is commonly taken for to fine or ſet a Fine upon.

Scoop, an Inſtrument to hold Corn.

Scoop or Scooper, a ſort of Wooden Shovel, to throw up Water.

Scooper, a kind of Water-Fowl, ſo call'd from its long narrow Beak arched upwards, which reſembles the crooked Scoop with which Mariners throw up Water to wet their Sails.

Scope, (Gr.) Proſpect, Aim, End, Purpoſe.

Scoper-Holes. See Scupper-Holes.

Scops, (Gr.) the leſſer Owl with Feathers prick'd up above the Ears.

Scorbutical or Scorbutick, (Lat.) belonging to or troubled with the Scurvey.

Scorbutus, the Scorbute or Scurvey; a Diſeaſe.

Scordion or Scordium, (Gr.) an Herb growing plentifully in Cambridge-ſhire, and call'd Water-Germander; its uſe in Phyſick is to defend the Heart from Venom and Infection.

Scordotis, an Herb like Hore-hound.

Score, Account or Reckoning, Account or Conſideration; alſo the number Twenty; as Threeſcore, Fourſcore, &c. In Muſick it is taken for the Original Draught of the whole Compoſition, in which the ſeveral Parts, viz. Baſs, Treble, Second Treble, &c. are diſtinctly ſcored or marked.

Scoria, (Gr.) the droſs or refuſe of Metals tried by the Fire.

Scorodon, Garlick, a known Plant.

Scorodoprasum, a Plant between Garlick and Leaks.

Scorpaena or Scorpides, the leſſer Scorpion-fiſh.

Scorpidion, a little Engine anciently us'd for ſhooting Poiſon'd Arrows or Darts.

Scorpio or Scorpius, the Scorpion, a venomous Inſect of a blackiſh Colour, that has eight Feet, and ſtings with the Tail: Alſo the Scorpion-Fiſh that Darts Poiſon with its Prickles on the Head and Back: Alſo an Engine or kind of Croſs-Bow, made uſe of to ſhoot ſmall envenomed Arrows or Darts.

Scorpio, is alſo the Name of one of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, being the Eighth in Order, and uſually thus Marked (♏.) Aſtrologers ſay, It Sympathizes with the Land-Scorpions, which when the Moon is in this Sign, are more fierce and dangerous.

Scorpioides, a ſort of Pulſe.

Scorpion-Grass, or Scorpion-Wort, an Herb good againſt the Poiſon of Scorpions.

Scorpites, a precious Stone of the Colour or Shape of a Scorpion.

Scorpiuron, or Scorpiurus, a kind of Heliotrope, or Turn-ſole, an Herb having Seeds, the Figure of which reſembles a Scorpion's Tail.

Scorzonera, an Herb ſomewhat like Goats-beard, but of a broader Leaf; the Root of which is a Soveraign Remedy againſt Pains of the Heart, Melancholy, and the bitings of all venomous Creatures.

To Scorse or Scourse, (old Word) to change.

Scot, Part or Portion; a Shot or Club: In a Law-Senſe, according to Raſtall, a certain Cuſtom, or Common Tallage, made to the Uſe of the Sheriff or his Bailiffs: But it is now taken for a cuſtomary Contribution laid upon all Subjects according to their Ability; thus whoever are Aſſeſſed or Rated to any Contribution, are generally ſaid To pay Scot and Lot.

Scot-free, excuſed from paying his Scot or Club; alſo free from Puniſhment.

Scotale, (in the Foreſt-Charter) the keeping of an Ale-Houſe within the Foreſt, by an Officer of the ſame, who under Colour of his Office, cauſes Men to come to his Houſe and ſpend their Money, for fear of having Diſpleaſure; it is otherwiſe termed Aleſhot.

Scots, or Scotch-men, the People of Scotland, a part of Great Britain.

Scotch-Collops, Slices of Veal, well beaten or fry'd, after the Scotch Way.

Scotia, (Gr. in Architect.) a Member hollow'd like a Demi-channel, between the Torus and the Aſtragal; the Roundel on the Baſe or Bottom of Pillars: It is alſo ſometimes Plac'd under the Larmier or Drip, in the Cornice of the Dorick Order. See Trochilus.

Scotoma, a dizzineſs or giddineſs, cauſing a dimneſs in the Sight, ſo that on a ſudden the Patient is as it were in the dark, and thinks every thing goes round.

Scovel, an Oven-Mop. See Maulkin.

To Scoul, or Scowl, to look gruff or crabbed, to put on a ſower Look, or grim Countenance; to knit one's Brows.

Scoundrel, (Ital.) one whom a bad Life, or guilty Conſcience forces to abſcond or hide himſelf; a ſorry Rogue, a pitiful Raſcally Fellow.

To Scour, or Scower, to cleanſe, or make clean; to purge by Stool; to exerciſe Piracy, or Rob on the Sea. To Scour away, to ſcamper or run away haſtily. To Scour about, to ramble or run raking about.

To Scour the length of a Line, (a Military Phraſe) to rake a Line from end to end with the Shot, ſo that every Bullet which comes in at one end, ſweeps all along to the other, and leaves no place of Security.

Scourge, a Whip made of Thongs, &c.

To Scourge, to Whip, to Chaſtiſe or puniſh.

Scout, a Spy ſent to bring Tidings of the Enemies Army, or to diſcover their Deſigns: Alſo a kind of Judge or Magiſtrate in Holland.

Scouts, or Scout-Watches, Sentinels that keep Guard in the advanced Poſts.

Scrag, or Lean Scrag, a Body that has nothing but Skin and Bone.

Scraggy, very lean.

To Scrall, or Scrawl, to ſcribble, to write after a ſorry careleſs manner.

To Scramble, to ſnatch eagerly, to ſtrive to catch or lay hold of; to climb up.

To Scranch, to crunch, crack or break any hard thing between the Teeth.

Scrat, (old Word) an Hermaphrodite, one that is of both Sexes.

Scratches, a kind of Itch, a Diſeaſe that happens to Horſes.

To Scrawl. See To Scrall.

Scray, a ſort of Sea-Swallow; a Bird.

To Screak, to make a noiſe like a Door, whoſe Hinges are Ruſty, or a Wheel that is not well Greas'd.

To Scream, or Scream out, to cry out, eſpecially as one that is ſcar'd or frighted.

To Screech, to howl or hoot, as the Screech-Owl does.

To Screek. See To Shrick.

Screen, a Device to keep off the Wind, or the heat of the Fire: Alſo a Frame made of Laths, and us'd by Labourers to ſift Earth, Sand, Gravel, &c. in order to make Mortar: Alſo another ſort, made of Wire, for the ſeparating of Corn from Duſt, Cockle, Ray, &c.

To Screen, to ſift thro' a Screen; alſo to ſhelter, cover, defend or protect.

To Scribble, (Lat.) to ſcratch or daſh with the Pen; to write ill, in ſpeaking of an Author.

Scribe, a Writer or Pen-man, a Secretary, a Notary or Scrivener, a Clerk. Among the Romans, Scriba, was an Officer belonging to the Publick, or to ſome Magiſtrate who wrote Acts or Decrees, and gave out Diſpatches.

Scribes, a powerful Sect among the Jews, who manag'd the Affairs of the Synagogues, expounded the Levitical Law, and made it intelligible to the People; upon which account they were call'd Doctors of the Law, and Lawyers in St. Luke.

Scriniarii Memoriæ. See Magiſter Scrinii Memoriæ, & Scrinium Memoriæ.

Scrinium, (Lat.) a Coffer, a Casket to hold Jewels, a Cupboard to put Books or Papers in; an Office or Chamber.

Scrinium Diſpoſitionum, (among the Romans) was the Office or Chamber, where the Emperour's Commands and Orders were diſpatch'd, and the chief Officer there was ſtyl'd Comes Diſpoſitionum; or Magiſter Scrinii Diſpoſitionum.

Scrinium Epiſtolarum, the Office of thoſe who wrote the Emperour's Letters; the chief Officer there was Nam'd Magiſter Scrinii Epiſtolarum; which See

Scrinium Libellorum, the Office of Requeſts, where the Petitions preſented to the Emperour, to beg ſome Favour of him were uſually kept: The chief of this Office was ſtyl'd Magiſter Scrinii Libellorum; which See

Scrinium Memoriæ, a Place where Minutes were kept to put an Officer in mind of the Prince's Order, to the end he might afterwards diſpatch Letters Patent at large for the ſame: There were 62 Secretaries belonging to this Office, who were call'd Scriniarii Memoriæ, or Memoriales, 12 of whom ſtay'd the Chancery, and 7 others named Antiquarii, were employ'd in tranſcribing old Books, in order to tranſmit them to Poſterity: The Firſt of theſe Officers was call'd Magiſter Scrinii Memoriæ; which See Scrinium Veſtimentorum, the Ward-Robe where the Emperour's Cloaths and Robes were kept.

Scrip, a Budget or Bag; alſo an old Word for a little Piece; as A Scrip of Paper.

Scriptura, (Lat.) Writing, the writing or making a Book; the Style or manner of writing us'd by any Author. It was alſo taken among the Romans, for the Tribute paid to the Publick for the grazing of Cattel in common Paſtures, which was ſet down in Books of Accounts; alſo the Revenue of Publick Duties let to Farm. See Magiſter Scripturæ.

Scriptural, belonging to Holy Scripture.

Scripture, or Holy Scripture, the Holy Writ, the Sacred Writings of the Old and New Teſtament.

Scripturiſts, thoſe that ground their Faith upon Scripture only.

Scritory. See Scrutoire.

Scrivener, one that draws up and engroſſes Writings or Deeds, as Bonds, Bills, Leaſes, Releaſes, &c.

Scrobiculus, (Lat.) a little Ditch or Furrow.

Scrobiculus Cordis, (in Anat.) the Heart-Pit, the Pit of the Breaſt, or as it is commonly call'd of the Stomach; otherwiſe termed Antica̧rdium.

Scrofa, an old Sow that has had ſeveral Litters of Pigs.

Scrofula, a little Pig; alſo the King's-Evil, a Diſeaſe, a Wen in the Throat. See Struma.

Scrofularia, the Herb Blind-Nettle, Pile-Wort, or Pig-Wort, good for the King's-Evil, Piles, Cankers, eating Ulcers, &c.

Scrofulous, belonging to a King's-Evil ſwelling.

Scroll, a ſlip or Roll of Parchment, &c. In Architecture the ſame as Voluta; which See.

Scrotocele, a Rupture of the Cods.

Scrotum, that Bag which contains the Teſticles of the Male, the Cod; conſiſting of a Skin a fleſhy Panniculus, and two diſtinct Coats.

Scrotum Cordis, the Skin that encompaſſes the Heart; the ſame as Pericardium.

Scrub, an old Broom; a pitiful ſorry Fellow.

To Scrub, to rub hard.

Scruff, little Sticks, Coals, Cockle-ſhells, &c. which poor People gather up for Fewel at ebbing Water, by the ſide of the River Thames.

Scruple, (Lat.) Doubt, Niceneſs in point of Conſcience: Alſo the third Part of a Dram, or 20 Grains in Apothecaries Weight.

Scrupuloſity, or Scrupulouſneſs, a ſcrupulous Humour, Nicety, Exactneſs.

Scrupulous, full of Scruples, or Doubts, Curious, Nice, Strict, Preciſe.

Scrupulus, (Lat.) the leaſt of Weights, us'd by the Ancient Romans, being the 24th. part of an Ounce; but with us the third part of a Dram.

To Scruſe, to crowd, to preſs or thruſt hard.

To Scrutinize, (Lat.) to make a ſtrict Enquiry into, to examine thoroughly.

Scrutiny, ſtrict Search, or diligent Inquiry: Alſo a Peruſal of Suffrages or Votes at an Election of Magiſtrates, &c. an Examination of the Poll: Alſo a particular Way of chuſing a Pope at Rome, which is done by ſmall Bills, written in unknown Characters and Sealed up, or by little Balls of ſeveral Colours thrown into a Box.

Scrutoir, or Scritory, a ſort of large Cabinet with ſeveral Drawers, and a place for Pen, Ink and Paper, the Door of which opening downwards, and reſting upon Frames or Irons, ſerves for a Table to write on.

Scry, (in Falconry) a great Flock of Fowl.

† Scud, a ſudden ſhower of Rain.

To Scud, or Scuddle away, to ſcamper or run away all of a ſudden.

Scuffle, a Quarrel with Fighting, a Fray or Buſtle.

Sculk, (among Hunters) a Company, as A Skulk of Foxes.

To Sculk, to hide one's ſelf, to lie hid, to lurk here and there, to go ſneaking after one.

Scull, the Bone of the Head, the Brain-Pan; alſo a little Oar, to row with.

Sculler, a Boat row'd with Sculls, or the Waterman that manages it.

Scullery, a Place to waſh and ſcour in.

Scullion, a Drudge that does the meaneſt Services in a Kitchen.

Sculp, (Lat.) a Cut, Print, or Engraved Picture; as A Book full of fine Sculps.

Sculptor, a Carver.

Sculpture, the Art of Carving Figures in Wood, Stone, or Metal; a Sculp or printed Picture.

Scum, Froth, Droſs, the dregs of the People.

Scumber, (a Term in Hunting) the Dung of a Fox.

To Scummer, (old Word) to Squirt a watery Subſtance out of the Body.

Scupper-holes, or Scoper-holes, (Sea-Term) little Holes made thro' the Ship ſides, cloſe to all the Decks, thro' which the Water that comes from the Pump, or any other Way, is carry'd off into the Sea.

Scupper-Leathers, certain round long Leathers, nailed over thoſe Holes in the loweſt Deck, as alſo in the Manger, which keep the Sea-Water from coming into the Ship, and yet give way for it to run out.

Scupper-Nails, ſhort Nails with broad Heads, made purpoſely to faſten on the Scupper-Leathers, as alſo on the Coats of Maſts and Pumps.

Scurf, a whitiſh ſcaly ſwelling, raiſ'd in the Skin of the Head by a ſlimy and mixt Phlegm.

Scurrility, (Lat.) Buffoonry, ſaucy Drolling or Scoffing.

Scurrilous, Railing, ſaucily Abuſive.

The Scurvy, a Diſeaſe, the Symptoms of which generally are yellow Spots on the Hands and Feet, weakneſs of the Legs, ſtinking Breath, looſeneſs of the Teeth, bleeding of the Gums, Convulſions, running Gout, Colick, &c.

Scurvy-Graſs, an Herb ſo call'd from its particular Virtue in curing that Diſtemper.

Scurvy, bad, naughty, untoward, ſorry, pitiful.

Scut, the Tail of a Rabbet or Hare.

Scutcheon, the Key or Center-Stone in a Building; alſo a ſmall Plate of Iron or Braſs to be ſet before a Lock: Among Gardiners, a Bud to be grafted: In Heraldry, the Ground on which a Coat of Arms is blazon'd or painted. See Eſcutcheon.

Scutiformis Os, (Lat. in Anat.) the Whirl-Bone of the Knee, otherwiſe call'd, Mola, Patella, and Rotula.

Scutiformis Cartilago, the loweſt Part of the Breaſt-bone, otherwiſe call'd Enſiformis Cartilago; which See. Alſo a Griſtle of the Larynx, or top of the Wind-Pipe, the ſame as Thyroides.

Scuttle, a Duſt-Basket; alſo the Wooden Conduit or Trough in a Mill, thro' which the Flower falls into the Meal-Tub; alſo the Bowl on the Top-Maſt of a Ship.

Scuttles, are alſo Square-Holes, capable for the Body of a Man to paſs thorough at any Hatch-way, or part of the Deck into any Room below: Alſo thoſe little Windows and long Holes which are cut out in Cabbins to let in Light: There are likewiſe other ſmall Scuttles or Holes with Gratings over the Ordnance, which ſerve to give vent to the ſmoak in a hot Fight.

Scutum, (Lat.) a Buckler, Shield, or Target: an Eſcutcheon: Among Anatomiſts it is ſometimes taken for the Knee-Pan, or Round Bone of the Knee.

Scybalon, (Gr.) Dung or Ordure, eſpecially of Sheep, Goats, &c. Riff-raff, or Rubbiſh.

Scylla, the Name of a Rock in the Sea, between Sicily and Italy, over-againſt which, is the Gulph Charybdis, ſo that the Paſſage there is dangerous for Ships; whence the Proverb, To avoid Sylla, he falls into Charybdis: Alſo a kind of Fiſh like a Shrimp, otherwiſe call'd Squilla.

Scyphus, a great Cup, Jug, or Bowl to drink out of: In Anatomy, the Infundibulum or Tunnel of the Brain: Thoſe Paſſages that convey the Spittle from the Os Cribriforme, or Sieve-like Bone to the Palate, are likewiſe ſo call'd by ſome Writers.

Scytale, a Scourge or Thong of Leather; a Staff to beat Flax with; alſo a Field-Mouſe, or Shrew; alſo a Serpent, that has a Back of a wonderful gliſtering Colour.

Scytalides, (in Anat.) the three ſmall Bones in each Finger.

Scythica, Sweet-Root, or Liquoriſh.

Scythica Muſtela, the Sable or Martern, a kind of Weeſel.

Sea, that general Collection of Waters which encompaſſes the Earth, and has ſeveral Names given it, according to the different Countries that it waſhes; as The Britiſh Sea, the Iriſh Sea, the German Sea, &c.

Sea-Bind-weed, an Herb that grows on the Sea-Coaſts, and is of great efficacy in curing the Dropſey.

Sea-board, towards the Sea; a Word us'd by Mariners.

Sea-Bream, a Fiſh found in great plenty on the Coaſts of America; the Eye of which is counted very delicious and grateful to the Palate; whence the Proverb, It is worth a Bream's Eye.

Sea-Calf. See Calf.

Sea-Chart, or Sea-Card, a Geographical Deſcription of Coaſts, with the true Diſtances, Heights, Courſes, or Winds leading to them; it is alſo call'd a Plot. See Plot, and Charts Hydrographick.

Sea-Cock, a kind of Crab-Fiſh.

Sea-Devil, a monſtrous Fiſh in the Weſt-Indies. See Devil.

Sea-Drags, (among Mariners) any thing that hangs over the Ship in the Sea, as Shirts, Gowns, &c. or the Boat when it is towed, or whatever hinders the Ship's Courſe when ſhe is under Sail.

Sea-Garland, a kind of Herb.

Sea-Gate, when two Ships are brought cloſe one to another, by means of a Billow or Wave, the Sailers ſay, They lie aboard one another in a Sea-Gate.

Sea-Holly, a ſort of Herb.

Sea-Longs, a Word us'd by Mariners for the Froth of the Sea.

Sea-Navel, a ſmall Shell-Fiſh, reſembling the Figure of a Navel.

Sea-Navel-Wort, an Herb.

Sea-Quadrant. See Back-Staff.

Sea-Turn, a Breez, or Gale of Wind that comes off from the Sea.

Sea-Unicorn. See Unicorn.

Sea-Urchin. See Urchin.

Sea-Yoke, when the Sea is ſo rough that Men cannot govern the Helm with their Hands, they make faſt two Blocks or Pulleys on each ſide of the Helm, and let two ſmall Ropes, call'd Falls, thro' them which are faſten'd to the ſides of the Ship: Then they ſet ſome Men at each Tackle, who guide the Helm according to Directions; and this is termed a Yoke to Steer by.

Seah, an Hebrew Meaſure, being a third part of an Epha, or 2 Gallons and 4 Pints.

Seal, the Print of a Coat of Arms made in Wax and ſet to any Publick Inſtrument, by a Prince, State, or Magiſtrate, which renders the Deed Authentick: All Courts of Juſtice, and Corporations have their peculiar Seals to give Authority to their Writs, Decrees, Acts, &c. and private Perſons have likewiſe their particular Seals for the Diſpatch of Buſineſs.

Seal, or Sea-Calf, a Fiſh, the skin of which ſerves to make Watch-Caſes, Covers of Books, and for ſeveral other Uſes.

Seals, a Term in Hunting. See Buttons.

To Seal, to ſet a Seal to a Writing, &c. To Seal Hermetically (among Chymiſts) is to ſtop the Mouth or Neck of a Glaſs-Veſſel with a Pair of Pincers heated Red-hot.

Sealer, an Officer in Chancery, appointed by the Lord-Chancellour, for the Sealing of Writs and Inſtruments in his Preſence.

Seam, a ſtitch with a Needle; alſo the Fat of an Hog, clarified or tried.

Seam of Corn, a Meaſure of 8 Buſhels: Of Glaſs, the quantity of 120 Pounds, or 24 Stone, each 5 Pounds Weight: Of Wood, an Horſe-load.

Seams, (of a Ship) are thoſe Parts where the Planks meet and are joyned together: There is alſo a peculiar manner of ſowing the Sails, termed a Monk-Seam, which See.

The Seams, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, when the Hoofs grow ſoft and rugged.

Seamſter, and Seamſtreſs, a Man or Woman that ſows, makes up, or deals in Linnen-Clothes.

Sean, a ſort of long and large Fiſh-net.

To Sear, to burn with a hot Iron, or with a Wax-Candle.

Sear-Leaves, withered or dead Leaves of a Tree, as in the Fall.

Sear-Wood, dead Boughs cut off from Trees in a Foreſt.

Searce, or Sarſe, a fine Hair-Sieve.

Searcher, one that ſearches, ſeeks or looks for: Alſo an Officer eſtabliſh'd by Act of Parliament, whoſe Buſineſs is to examine, and by a peculiar Seal, to mark the Defects of Woollen Cloth. See Alnager.

To Sease. See To Seize.

Sea-apple, a kind of Shell-Fiſh.

Season, one of the Four Parts or Quarters of the Year; which are Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter: Alſo a proper Time to do any thing in.

Seasonable, that is done in ſeaſon, convenient, proper.

Seasonings, an Aguiſh Diſtemper, which Strangers are ſubject to, in the Weſt-Indies, upon their firſt coming.

Seater, an Idol Worſhipped by our Saxon Anceſtours, on the Day call'd Saturday, which thence took its Name.

Seax, a kind of Sword made like a Seithe, and us'd by the Old Saxons.

Sebastocrator, a great Officer in the Court of the Emperours of Conſtantinople; from the Greek Word Sebaſtos, i. e. Honourable, and Crator, Powerful.

Sebasten, an Aſſyrian Plum, much like a ſmall Prune, which, when ripe, is greeniſh, inclining to black, very ſweet, and having a Juice ſo clammy and ſticking, that Bird-Lime is made of it: In Phyſick it is very effectual againſt roughneſs of the Throat, and other Diſtempers proceeding from Cold.

Sebastian, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Greek, Reverend or Majeſtical.

Secale, (Lat.) Rie, a ſort of Grain.

Secant, (i. e. cutting; in Geom.) a Right-line, drawn from the Center of a Circle, thro' one end of a given Arch or Angle, till it meets or cuts another Line, call'd a Tangent, rais'd at the other end on the out-ſide.

Secession, a going aſide, a retiring, or withdrawing, a departing from a ſide, a revolting.

Secession of a Parliament, the Adjournment or breaking up of it.

To Seclude, to ſhut a-part from others, to ſhut out.

Seclusion, the Act of ſecluding.

A Second, one that backs or defends another, eſpecially in a Duel. A Second in Time, is the Sixtieth part of a Minute; and in Aſtronomy, the Sixtieth part of a Degree of any Circle.

To Second, to come in as a ſecond Perſon; to back, aid, or aſſiſt another; to favour or Countenance.

Second Axis, or Diameter. See Conjugate of the Hyperbola.

Second Captain, and Lieutenant in Second, one whoſe Company has been broke, and he is joyn'd to another, to act and ſerve under the Captain or Lieutenant of it: There are alſo Second Captains and Lieutenants of the Firſt Creation, that is, who were never ſo in other Companies.

Second Deliverance, a Writ that lies for one, who after a return of Cattel replevied, adjudged to him that Diſtrain'd them, by reaſon of a Fault in the Party that replevy'd; for the replevying of the ſame Cattel again, upon Security given for the Re-delivery of them, in caſe the Diſtreſs be juſtify'd.

Secondary, a Word us'd by Philoſophical Writers for Second; as Secondary Cauſes.

Secondary Circles, (in Aſtron.) all Circles, which interſect or cut one of the ſix greater Circles of the Sphere at Right Angles, as the Azimuths, or Vertical Circles, with reſpect to the Horizon, the Meridian and Hour-Circles to the Equinoctial, &c.

Secondary Circles, (in reference to the Ecliptick) or Circles of Longitude of the Stars, are ſuch as paſſing thro' the Poles of that great Circle, are at right Angles thereto, by the means of which, all Points in the Heavens are referr'd to the Ecliptick. That is, any Star, Plane, or other Phænomenon, is underſtood to be in that Point of the Ecliptick, which is cut by the Secondary Semi-Circle, which paſſes thro' ſuch Star or Plane.

Secondary Planets, are ſuch as move round others, whom they reſpect as the Center of their Motion, tho' they alſo move along with the Primary Planets, in their Yearly Courſe round the Sun; and theſe are alſo call'd the Satellites; which See.

A Secondary, the Second Man in any Place, or he that is next to any chief Officer; as the Secondaries of the Fine-Office, the Secondaries of the Pipe, and thoſe belonging to the Remembrancers in the Exchequer; the Secondaries of the Counters, who are the next Officers to the Sheriff of London, in each of the Priſons call'd Counters, &c.

Secondine. See Secundine.

Secrecy, or Secretness, the keeping of a Matter ſecret or private.

Secret, private, cloſe, hidden; cloſe, or that keeps counſel.

A Secret, a thing which few People know, or that ought to be kept private; a particular way, means, or knack, of which one is ignorant till ſhew'd by another.

Secretary, one that is employ'd in Writing Letters, Diſpatches, &c. for a Prince, Nobleman, or particular Society: Alſo one that attends upon an Ambaſſadour, Envoy, or Reſident for that purpoſe.

The King's Secretaries, certain Officers that Sign the Diſpatches of the Seal; alſo the Clerks of the King's Chamber and Cloſet.

Secretion, (i. e. ſeparating, or ſetting a-part from others) a Term us'd in Philoſophy and Phyſick, for the ſeparation of one Humour or Juice from another, in the Body of a Living-Creature or Plant, by means of Glands, or ſomething of the like Nature.

Sect, a Party profeſſing the ſame Opinion in Divinity or Philoſophy.

Secta ad Curiam, a Writ that lies againſt a Man, who refuſes to perform Suit, either to the County-Court, or Court-Baron.

Secta facienda per illam quæ habet eneciam partem, a Writ to oblige an Heireſs that has the Elder's part of the Co-heirs, to perform Service for all the Co-Parceners.

Secta unica tantum facienda pro pluribus hæreditatibus, a Writ which lies for that Heir who is diſtrained by the Lord, to more Suits than one, upon account of the Land of ſeveral Heirs deſcended to him.

Sectarian, belonging to a Schiſmatical Sect; as A Sectarian Miniſter.

Sectary, the Follower of a particular Sect, ſeparated from the Eſtabliſh'd Church.

Sectio Cæsarea, a Term in Anatomy. See Hyſterotomotocia.

Section, a cutting or dividing, the dividing of a thing, or part of a thing divided; a certain Diviſion in the Chapters of ſome Books. In Mathematicks, it ſignifies the Cutting of one Plane by another, or of a Solid by a Plane.

Conick Section, is the Figure made by the Solid Body of a Cone's being ſuppoſed to be cut by a Plane; and theſe Sections, or Figures, are generally counted Four in Number, viz. the Circle, Ellipſis, Hyperbola, and Parabola; which See under thoſe Articles.

Section of a Building, (in Architect.) is underſtood of the Profile or Draught of its Heights and Depths raiſed on the Plane, as if the whole Fabrick, or Building, were cut aſunder, to diſcover the In-ſide.

Sectis non faciendis, a Writ that lies for a Woman, who ought not to perform Suit of Court for her Dower.

Sector, an Inſtrument made of Wood, Ivory, Braſs, &c. having a Joynt, and ſometimes a Piece to turn out, to make a true Square with Lines of Sines, Tangents, Secants, Rumbs, Polygons, &c. ſo that it is of excellent uſe in all the practical Parts of the Mathematicks, and more eſpecially contriv'd for Aſtronomy, Projection of the Sphere, Navigation, Dialling, &c. as alſo for Fortification and Gunnery.

Sector of a Circle, is a part of a Circle, or a mixt Triangle, comprehended between two Radii, or Semi-Diameters, making an Angle at the Center, and an Arch, or part of the Circumference.

Sector of a Sphere, is a Conical Solid, whoſe Vertex, or Top ends in the Center of the Sphere, and its Baſe, or Bottom, is a Segment of the ſame Sphere.

Secular, belonging to a Seculum, or Age, i. e. the ſpace of an Hundred Years; alſo relating to this World, or Life; as The Pope is a Secular Prince, the Secular Power, &c. Alſo that is converſant in the World, without being engaged in a Monaſtick Life, or to obſerve the Rules of any Religious Order; as A Secular Prieſt, a Biſhop; ſo that in this laſt Senſe, the Term is oppos'd to Regular; which See.

Secular Games, one of the moſt ſolemn Feaſts that were Celebrated among the Ancient Romans, at the end of every Age, with Publick Sacrifices, Divertiſements, &c.

Secularity, the ſtate or condition of a Secular Perſon, a Secular Life.

Secularization, the Act of Secularizing.

To Secularize, to make Secular; as To Secularize a Monk.

Secunda ſuperoneratione Paſturæ, a Writ that lies where Admeaſurement of Paſture has been made, and he that firſt ſurcharged the Common, does again ſurcharge it, notwithſtanding the Admeaſurement.

Secundans, (in Mathem.) is an infinite Series, or Rank of Numbers, that begins from nothing, and proceeds as the Squares of Numbers in Arithmetical Proportion; as 0, 2, 4, 9, 16, 25, 36, 49, 64, &c.

Secundary. See Secondary.

† Secundation, a ſeconding, forwarding, or making Proſperous.

Secundine, (Lat.) the Secundine, After-Birth, or After-Burden, conſiſting of Three Membranes, or Skins, Nam'd Allantois, Amnion, and Chorion, which cover a Child in the Womb, and are voided with the Placenta after the Delivery.

Secundum Naturam, (i. e. according to the Courſe of Nature) a Phraſe us'd by Phyſicians, when all things are duely performed, as in a ſtate of Health: On the contrary Præter Naturam, i. e. beſides Nature, ſignifies that all things are in an ill State.

Secure, that is out of danger, ſafe; fearleſs, or careleſs.

To Secure, to make ſecure, to ſave, to protect or ſhelter; to keep from, to ſeize on a Thing, to apprehend or lay hold of one, to clap him into Priſon.

Securidaca, (Lat.) a kind of Pulſe, call'd Ax-vetch, Hatchet-vetch, or Ax-wort.

Securitas de bono geſtu. See Surety of the Peace.

Securitate Pacis, a Writ that lies for one who is threatned Death or Danger, againſt him that ſo threatens; it is taken out of the Chancery, and directed to the Sheriff.

Securitatem inveniendo quod ſe non divertat ad partes exteras ſine licentia Regis, a Writ that lies for the King againſt any of his Subjects, to ſtay them from going out of his Kingdom without his Leave.

Security, Safety, the being out of Danger, Bail, or Surety for the payment of Money; Aſſurance, Unconcernedneſs, Careleſneſs.

Sedan, a Chair in which Perſons of Honour or Quality are uſually carry'd.

Sedate, that is of a quiet, peaceful, or moderate Temper, or Diſpoſition of Mind, compoſed, undiſturbed.

Sedative, that has an allaying, quieting, or aſſwaging Quality; as Sedative Medicines, i. e. ſuch as are effectual to give Reſt, and to allay or eaſe Pain.

Se defendendo, (Law-Term) a Plea for one that is charged with the Death of another, ſaying, He was forced to do what he did in his own Defence; the other ſo aſſaulting him that if he had not done as he did, he muſt have been in hazard of his own Life.

Sedentary, that ſits much, or works ſitting; that keeps at home, or ſeldom ſtirs abroad.

Sedentary Parliaments, (in France) thoſe that are fixt or ſettled in a Place.

Sedge, a kind of Weed.

Sediment, (Lat.) the Dregs, Grounds, or Lees, of any thing ſettling or ſinking down to the bottom.

Sedimentum Urinæ, the Sediment of Urine, certain Parts of the nouriſhing Juice, which being ſeparated from the Blood with the Serum, by reaſon of their Weight, ſink to the bottom of the Urine.

Sedition, Mutiny, popular Tumult, Riſing, or Uproar.

Seditious, apt, or tending to raiſe Sedition, Factious, Mutinous.

To Seduce, to Miſlead, Abuſe, Deceive, or Cheat; to Corrupt, or Debauch.

Seducement, or Seduction, the Act of Seducing, Miſleading, &c.

Sedulity, continual Care, Diligence, Earneſtneſs.

Sedulous, very careful or diligent, induſtrious; painful, earneſt, cloſe at Work.

Sedum, (Lat.) Houſe-Leek, or Sengreen, an Herb of a cooling and binding Quality, us'd in Feavers and Inflammations, to quench Thirſt and abate Heat.

See, (old Word) a Seat, ſtill us'd for the Seat or Dignity of a Biſhop or Arch-Biſhop.

Seed, a white, hot, ſpirituous, thick, clammy and ſaltiſh Humour, made out of the thinneſt part of the Blood in the Teſticles, and Epididymides: Alſo that Matter which in all Plants and Fruits is diſpoſed by Nature for the Propagation of the kind: It is figuratively apply'd to a Cauſe that produces ſome Effects; as The Seeds of War, Vertue, Vice, &c.

Seed-leap, or Seed-lip, the Hopper, or Veſſel, wherein Husband-men carry their Seed-Corn, at the time of Sowing.

Seel, or Seeling, (Sea-Term) the ſudden and violent tumbling of a Ship, ſometimes, to one ſide, and ſometimes to the other, when a Wave paſſes from under her ſides faſter than ſhe can drive away with it.

Lee-Seel, is when a Ship thus rolls to the Leeward, wherein there is no danger, tho' it be in a Storm, becauſe the Sea will preſently right her; but if ſhe Seels to the Windward there is fear, leaſt ſhe come over too ſhort, or ſuddenly, and ſo by the breaking of the Sea right into her, ſhe ſhould either Founder, or elſe have ſome of her upper Works carry'd away.

Seeling, (in Falconry) is the running of a Thread thro' the Eye-lids of a Hawk firſt taken; ſo that ſhe may ſee very little or not at all, to make her the better endure the Hood.

Seen, or Spene, a Country-Word for a Cow's Teat or Pap.

Seem, or Seam of Glaſs, See Seam.

Seer, a Perſon that ſees; the Prophets are call'd Seers in the Old Teſtament.

Seggrum, a ſort of Herb.

Segment, properly a paring, ſhred, or piece cut off from ſomething; a Term in Mathematicks; as a Segment of a Circle, which is part of a Circle, bounded by a Right Line, leſs than the Diameter, and by a part of the Circumference; or it is a Figure contain'd between a Chord and an Arch of the ſame Circle.

Segment of a Sphere, is a Portion of it, cut off by a Plane, in any part except the Center; ſo that the Baſe of ſuch a Segment muſt always be a Circle, and its Surface a part of that of the Sphere; the whole Segment being either greater or leſs than a Hemiſphere.

† Segregation, (q. d. a taking out of the Flock) a ſeparating, ſevering, or putting a-part.

Segreiant, (in Heraldry) a Term apply'd to Griffins, when drawn in a ſaliant, or leaping Poſture.

Seiant, (Fr. i. e. ſitting) a Term likewiſe us'd by Heralds, when a Lion, or other Beaſt, is repreſented in an Eſcutcheon ſitting like a Cat, with the Fore Feet ſtraight.

Seignior, or Signior, (Ital.) Lord, Maſter: In a Law Senſe, the Lord of the Fee, or of the Manour.

Grand Seignior, (i. e. great Lord) a Title uſually given to the Emperour of the Turks.

Seigniory, the Dominion, Juriſdiction, or Power of a Lord; Lordſhip.

Seigniorage, a Prerogative of the Queen, whereby ſhe Challenges Allowance for Gold and Silver brought in the Maſs to be Coin'd.

Seimbole, a Pipe, or half a Tun of Wine.

Seiriaſis, an Inflammation in the Head, which proceeds from exceſſive Heat, and happens chiefly to young Children. See Siriaſis.

Seiſin, (Fr. in Common-Law) poſſeſſion of, or a Right to Lands or Tenements, which is twofold, viz. Seiſin in Fact, and Seiſin in Law; the former is an Actual taking of Poſſeſſion in Perſon, and the latter when ſomething is done which the Law accounts a Seiſin; as an Inrolment, &c.

Seiſina habenda quia Rex habuit annum, diem & vaſtum, a Writ that lies for delivery of Seiſin to the Lord, of his Lands or Tenements, after the King, by Virtue of his Prerogative, has had the Year, Day and Waſte.

Seizable, that may be ſeized.

To Seize, to take or lay hold of, to take by force or wrongfully.

To Seize, or Seaſe, (in Sea-Language) to make faſt or bind; eſpecially to faſten two Ropes together with Rope-Yarn, &c. Alſo the faſtening of a Block or Pulley at the end of a Pendant, Tackle, or Garnet, &c. is call'd Seizing.

The Boat's Seizing, is a Rope tied to a Ring, or little Chain in the fore-ſhip of the Boat, by which means it is faſten'd to the Ship's ſide in a Harbour.

Seized of, a Law-Word, for poſſeſſed of.

Seizing, (in Falconry) is ſaid of a Hawk's taking any thing in her Claws and holding it faſt.

Seizure, Seizing, Diſtreſs, Attachment; as To make Seizure, i. e. to ſeize, or take away prohibited Goods.

Seker, (old Word) in like manner.

Selago, (Lat.) an Herb like Savin, anciently much us'd in the curing of Eye-Sores; Hedge-Hyſſop.

Selah, or Sela, (Heb.) a Note of Muſick, more eſpecially us'd in David's Pſalms; ſome take it for a Note of Obſervation, ſome for a kind of Pauſe, or Reſt, and others for the lifting up of the Voice.

Select, choſen out of others, choice.

To Select, to pick out, to cull.

Selenites, (Gr.) a ſort of Stone, the brightneſs of which was heretofore thought to encreaſe and decreaſe, according to the Courſe of the Moon: 'Tis now call'd Mirrour-Stone, or Muſcovy-Glaſs, becauſe it repreſents the Image of that which is ſet behind it, and that Country affords great ſtore of it.

Selenitium, a ſort of Ivy, an Herb.

Selenium, or Selenogonium, a ſort of Piony; a Plant, ſo call'd from its being helpful to Lunatick Perſons.

Selenographick Charts. See Charts Selenographick.

Selenography, a Deſcription of the Face of the Moon, as diſtinguiſhed by Spots, &c. which may be ſeen by help of a Teleſcope.

Self-heal, an excellent Herb for Wounds, either inward or outward.

Selander, Sellander, or Solander, a dry Scab, growing in the very bent of the Ham of a Horſe's hinder Leg.

Selibra, (Lat.) half a Pound, or Six Ounces.

Sella Curulis, the Curule Chair, or Chair of State, adorned with Ivory, on which the great Magiſtrates of Rome had a Right to ſit and be carry'd in a Chariot.

Sella Equina, ſeu Turcica, ſeu Sphenoides, (in Anat.) a part of the Brain made up of Four Proceſſes of the Os Sphenoides: It contains the Glandula Pituitaria, and in Brutes the Rete Mirabile.

Sella Solida, a Chair or Seat, made of a piece of Wood, on which the Roman Augurs, or Sooth-ſayers ſate, when they were taking their Obſervations.

Sellery, or Celery, an Herb, which being brought up in a hot Bed, and afterwards tranſplanted into rich Ground, is uſually eaten as an excellent Winter-Sallet.

Selvage, the outmoſt edge of Linnen-Cloth.

Sem, or Shem, (Heb. a Name, or Renowned) the eldeſt of Noah's three Sons, whom ſome think to be the ſame with Melchiſedech.

Semblable, (Fr.) ſeeming, likely.

Semblance, appearance, likeneſs, ſhew; as There was not the leaſt Semblance of it.

Semeioſis, (Gr.) a noting, or marking: Among Phyſicians it is taken for an Obſervation or Remark, whereby ſome things being diſcover'd, they find out others that were unknown. See Diagnoſis.

Semeiotica, that part of Phyſick which treats of the Signs of Health and Sickneſs, enabling the Phyſician to make probable Gueſſes about the Conſtitution and State of his Patient.

Semen, (Lat.) Seed or Grain, the Seed of Living-Creatures, or Plants.

Semen Veneris, the Scum of Braſs ſo termed by ſome Chymiſts.

Sementinæ Feriæ, (among the Romans) certain Feaſts appointed in Seed-time, in order to pray to the Gods, to vouchſafe them a plentiful Harveſt.

Semets, (according to Dr. Grew) are the Apices of the Attire of a Plant. See Apices.

Semi-breve, or Semi-brief, a Muſical Note of half the Quantity of the Breve, or Brief, containing two Minims, four Crotchets, &c. See Brief.

Semi-Circle, one half of a Circle, bounded by the Diameter, and half the Circumference. Alſo a Mathematical Inſtrument made of Braſs, with an Index, Sights, Box and Needle, &c. divided into 180 Degrees, being half the Theodolite; which See.

Semi-Circular, belonging to, or made in the ſhape of a Semi-Circle.

Semi-Circular Muſcles. See Claudent Muſcles.

Semi-Colon, a half Colon, a ſtop or Point in a Sentence between a Comma and a Colon; which is thus marked (;) expreſſing a Pauſe greater than the former, and leſs than the latter.

Semi-Congius, a Meaſure of half a Gallon: See Congius.

Semi-Cotyla, half a Cotyla. See Cotyla.

Semi-Cubical Paraboloid, (in Geom.) is a Curve, or crooked-lin'd Figure, whoſe Ordinates are in Subtriplicate of the Duplicate Proportion of the Diameter; that is, the Cubes of the Ordinates are as the Squares of the Diameters.

Semi-Cubitus, half a Cubit in Meaſure.

Semi-Cupium, (i. e. a half-Bath) a Bath which reaches up the Navel of thoſe that ſit in it.

Semi-Diameter, (in Mathem.) half the Diameter, or a Line drawn from the Center of a Circle to any Point of the Circumference: It is alſo ſometimes taken for half the Diameter of any other Figure, and otherwiſe call'd Radius.

Semi-Diapaſon, a Term in Muſick, ſignifying a defective, or imperfect Octave.

Semi-Diapente, an imperfect Fifth.

Semi-Ditone, the leſſer Third, having its Terms, as Six to Five.

Semi-Dolium, a Veſſel containing half a Tun; a Pipe.

Semi-Fibulæus, (in Anat.) the Name of a Muſcle of the Body, the ſame as Peroneus Secundus.

Semi-fiſtular Flowers, are ſuch, whoſe upper part reſembles a Pipe, cut off Obliquely; as in Ariſtolochia or Birth-wort.

Semi-Lunares Valvulæ. See Sigmoidales.

Semi-Membranoſus, a Muſcle of the Leg, ſo call'd, from its being half Tendinous and Membrane like, lying immediately under the Semi-nervoſus: It ariſes from the Protuberance or Knob of the Os Iſchium, and is inſerted to the Superiour part of the upper Appendix of the Bone call'd Tibia, backwards.

Semi-Modius, half a Buſhel.

Semi-Nervoſus, or Semi-Tendinoſus, a Muſcle of the Thigh, ſo nam'd from its being half-Tendinous and Nerve-like: It takes its riſe from the outward part of the Knob of the Os Iſchium, and is inſerted to the Tibia, immediately below the end of the Muſcle call'd Gracilis.

Semi-Obolus, half an Obolus. See Obolus.

Semipedal, conſiſting of half a Foot in Meaſure.

Semi-Quadrat, or Semi-Quartile, (in Aſtrol.) a new Aſpect, invented by Kepler, when two Planets are diſtant from each other 45 Degrees, or 1 Sign and 14 Degrees, which is the fourth Part of the Semi-Circle.

Semi-Quaver, a Note in Muſick, containing half the quantity of the Quaver.

Semi-Quintile, an Aſpect of the Planets, when they are at the diſtance of 36 Degrees one from another.

Semi-Sextile, another Aſpect of the Planets, when diſtant one from another 30 Degrees, or one Sign; and it is thus marked SS.

Semi-Speculum, a Surgeon's Inſtrument, to widen a Wound in the Neck of the Bladder.

Semi-Spinatus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle which ſeems to be a Continuation of the Sacer, and may not improperly be call'd Tranſverſalis Dorſi: It ariſes from all the Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ, or Turning-Joynts of the Breaſt, and paſſing Obliquely upwards, is inſerted to the upper Spines of the ſaid Vertebræ.

Semiſſis, or Golden Drachmal, a Roman Gold-Coin, worth 7 s. 6 d. in Engliſh Money.

Semi-Tendinoſus. See Semi-Nervoſus.

Semi-Tertian Ague, a kind of Ague mixt of a Tertian and a Quotidian.

Semi-Tone, (in Muſick) a half Tone, of which there are two ſorts, viz. a Greater and a Leſſer; the Enharmonical Dieſis, being the Difference between them.

Semi-Vowels, certain Conſonants ſo call'd, becauſe they have half the ſound of Vowels; as f, l, m, n, &c.

Semi-Uncia, or Semuncia, (Lat.) half an Ounce.

Seminal Leaves, (among Herbaliſts) are two ſmall, plain, ſoft, and undivided Leaves, which come up, or ſhoot forth, at firſt, from the greateſt part of all Seeds that are ſown in the Earth; which Leaves are uſually very different from thoſe of the ſucceeding Plant, in Size, Figure, Surface, and Poſition.

Seminalia Vaſa. See Vaſa Seminalia.

Seminalis, the Herb Knot-Graſs, or Swine-Graſs.

Seminariſt, one that is brought up, or taken out of a Seminary or College.

Seminary, a Seed-Plot, or Nurſery, for the raiſing of young Trees or Plants: It is alſo figuratively taken for a School or College, which is a Nurſery of Learning, and particularly for a College ſet a-part for the training up of Prieſts of the Romiſh Church, who were to propagate their Doctrine in England, or other Proteſtant Countries, and were thence call'd Seminary Prieſts.

Seminifick, that makes or breeds Seed.

Semis, or Semiſſis, (among the Romans) half a Pound Weight, ſix Ounces, or the half of any entire thing diviſible into twelve Parts: It is uſually taken by Apothecaries for half an Ounce.

Semita Luminoſa, (i. e. the ſhining Path) a Name given by Mr. Childrey to a kind of bright Track in the Heavens, which a little before the Vernal Equinox (ſays he) may be ſeen about ſix a Clock at Night reaching from the Weſtern edge of the Horizon, up towards the Pleiades, or Seven Stars. This Phænomenon is plainly ſeen with us about the beginning of October, and towards the end of February.

Semper-vivum, the Herb Sengreen, Aygreen, or Houſe-Leek.

Sempiternal, perpetual, continual, endleſs, everlaſting.

Semuncia, half an Ounce; alſo among the Romans, half the twelfth Part, or the twenty fourth Part of any thing.

Sena, the Leaves of a Shrub, growing in Syria, Perſia, Arabia, and other Eaſtern Countries, good to Purge Cholerick, Phlegmatick, and Melancholick Humours.

Senacherib, (Heb. the Bramble of Deſtruction) a King of Aſſyria, who made War againſt Hezekiah, King of Judah.

Senate, (among the Romans) was a Body conſiſting of Counſellors of State, appointed to give Advice to thoſe who had the Soveraign Authority veſted in them: Alſo the Houſe or Place where the Senators aſſembled; whence the Word is taken to ſignify a Parliament, the Court of Aldermen in a City, &c.

Senator, a Member of the Senate, a Parliament-Man, an Alderman: The Senators were ſo call'd by the Romans, from their advanced Age, in Imitation of the Greeks, who ſtyl'd their Senate Geruſia, i. e. an Aſſembly of Old Men.

Senatorian, belonging to a Senator.

To Send, to cauſe a Perſon to go, or a thing to be carry'd: In Sea-Language, a Ship is ſaid To Send, or To ſend much that Way, when under Sail or at Anchor, ſhe falls with her Head or Stern deep into the Trough of the Sea, i. e. the Hollow between two Waves.

Sendal, a kind of thin Cyprus-Silk.

Senecio, an Herb growing on Walls and Tiles, with a Gray Down, like Old Mens Hair; Groundſel, which is good for Inflammations of the Paps, and the King's Evil.

Seneſcallo & Mareſchallo quod non teneant placita de libero tenemento, &c. a Writ directed to the Steward, or Marſhal of England, forbidding them to take Cognizance of any Action in their Court that concerns Free-hold, Debt, or Covenant.

Seneſchal, or Seneſhal, (Fr.) the chief Juſtice, or Magiſtrate of a certain Precinct in France: Alſo the Steward of a Court; as The Lord High Steward of England. See Steward.

Sengreen, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Houſe-Leek.

Senior, (Lat.) Elder.

Seniority, Eldership, Precedency: In Military Affairs, it is taken for the order of Time, ſince the firſt raiſing of a Regiment, or an Officer's receiving his Commiſſion: Thus the Colonels of Horſe, Command by the Seniority of their Commiſſions, but thoſe of Foot, have Precedency and Command, according to the Seniority of their Regiments.

Senſation, (in Philoſ.) the Impreſſion that Objects make upon the Senſes, or the perceiving of things by the Senſes, from whence they are convey'd to the Underſtanding.

Senſe, the Faculty of a Living-Creature, whereby it receives the Impreſſion of outward Objects: Alſo an Affection or Paſſion of the Soul; Reaſon, Judgment, Wit, Opinion, Signification, Meaning: It is alſo ſometimes taken for Senſuality or Brutiſhneſs; as To gratify one's Senſes. The Five Natural Senſes are Hearing, Seeing, Feeling, Taſting and Smelling.

Common-Senſe, thoſe general Notions that ariſe in the Minds of Men, by which they know, or apprehend things after the ſame manner.

Senſeleſs, that has no Senſe or Feeling; alſo void of Reaſon, Fooliſh, Impertinent.

Senſibility, or Senſibleneſs, the quality of being ſenſible.

Senſible, that falls within the Compaſs of the Senſes; that may be felt or perceived; alſo that feels, apt to perceive, apprehenſive; that is of good Senſe or Judgment.

Senſible Horizon. See Horizon.

Senſible Point. See Point Senſible.

Senſitive, that has the Faculty of Feeling or Perceiving; as The Senſitive Soul.

Senſitive Plant, or Chaſte Plant, an admirable Plant in America, ſo call'd, becauſe when touch'd, the Leaves hang down and cloſe up together, as if they were withered and dead; but as ſoon as the Hand is remov'd, it ſpreads it ſelf open and flouriſhes again.

Botanick Writers mention many kinds of theſe Plants, whoſe Frame is ſo nice and tender, that at the leaſt Touch, they'll contract or draw together their Leaves or Flowers, ſome of which do it with Heat, and others with Cold.

Senſorium Commune, (in Anat.) the Seat of the Common Senſe, that part of the Brain, where the Nerves from the Organs of all the Senſes are terminated, or end; which is the beginning of the Medulla Oblongata.

Senſory, the Organ or Inſtrument of Senſe; as the Eye of Seeing, the Ear of Hearing, &c.

Senſual, Voluptuous, given to Pleaſures, Carnal or Fleſhly.

Senſuality, a gratifying or pleaſing the Senſes, a giving one's ſelf up to unlawful Pleaſures, a letting looſe the Reins of the Carnal Appetite.

Sentence, a certain number of Words joyn'd together, a Witty or Wiſe Saying, a Judgment or Decree of a Court of Juſtice.

Sententious, full of pithy Sentences.

Sentiment, (Fr.) Thoughts, Mind, Opinion, Inclination, Paſſion.

Sentinel, or Sentry, a private Soldier taken out of the Corps de Guard, and plac'd in a Convenient Poſt, to ſtand and watch carefully, for the Security of the ſaid Guard, or of any Body of Troops, or Poſt, to prevent Surprize from the Enemy.

Sentinel Perdue, a Sentinel ſet near an Enemy, in ſome very dangerous Poſt, where he is in hazard of being loſt.

Sentis, (Lat.) a Brier, Bramble, or Thorn, the Dog-Brier or Blackberry-Buſh.

Senvy, the Plant of whoſe Seed Muſtard is made.

Separability, (Lat.) the quality of that which is ſeparable.

Separable, that may be ſeperated.

Separate, diſtinct, particular, different.

To Separate, to ſever, part, divide or put aſunder.

Separatio. See Diaſtole.

Separation, the Act of ſeparating or putting aſunder; Divorce or parting of Man and Wife; In Aſtrology, it is when two Planets have been in Conjunction or Partile Aſpect, and the lighter by reaſon of its ſwifter Motion is going out of the Moiety of both their Orbs.

Separatiſt, one that ſeparates or withdraws himſelf from the Communion of the Eſtabliſhed Church; a Schiſmatick or Sectary.

Separatory, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to pick ſplinters of Bones out of a Wound: Alſo a Chymical Veſſel for ſeparating Oil from Water.

Sephyros, (in ſome Phyſical Writers) a hard and dry Impoſtume, an hard Inflammation of the Womb.

Sepia, (Gr.) the black Cuttle or Cuttle-Fiſh, whoſe Blood is as black as Ink.

Seps, (Gr.) a venomous Serpent or Eft, upon whoſe ſtroke or biting the Fleſh and very Bones rot; alſo the Horn-fretter or Horn-worm, an Inſect.

Septana, (Lat.) a Septan Feaver, an intermitting Feaver, that returns every Seventh Day; or a Feaver that finiſhes its Courſe in Seven Days.

Septangle, or Septangled Figure, (in Geom.) a Figure that has Seven Angles and as many Sides; the ſame as Heptagon.

Septangular, belonging to ſuch a Figure.

September, one of the Twelve Months of the Year, ſo call'd as being the Seventh from March.

Septenarius, (Lat.) the Number of Seven, a Verſe of Seven Feet.

Septenary, belonging to Seven, or containing Seven in Number.

A Septenary, Seven Years of one's Life.

Septennial, belonging to the Space or Age of Seven Years.

Septentarius, (Lat.) a Conſtellation in the Northern Hemiſphere conſiſting of Thirty Stars.

Septentrio, the Seven Stars, or Conſtellation Nam'd Charles-wain; the North-Part of the World, the North-Coaſt, Pole, or Wind.

Septentrional, belonging to the North, Northern.

Septentrional Signs, the firſt ſix Signs of the Zodiack, ſo call'd, becauſe they Decline from the Equator towards the North; being the ſame with Boreal Signs.

Septica, (Gr. among Phyſicians) ſuch things as by a miſchievous Heat and ſharpneſs corrupt and rot the Fleſh; which are otherwiſe termed Putrefacientia.

Septieme, (Fr.) a ſeventh or ſequence of ſeven Cards, at the Game of Picket.

Septifolium, (Lat.) the Herb Setfoil, Tormentil, or Aſh-weed.

Septimarian, a Weekly Officer in Monaſteries.

Septinervia Plantago, (Lat.) the common Plantane, an Herb that has Seven Fibres or Strings.

Septuaceſſis, a Roman Coin, containing 70 Aſſes, and equal to 4 s. 4 d. ob. in Engliſh Money.

Septuagenary, belonging to the Number of Seventy, or Seventy Years Old.

Septuageſima, the third Sunday before the firſt Sunday in Lent; ſo call'd, as being about Seventy Days from Eaſter.

Septuageſimal, belonging to Septuageſima.

The Septuagint, or Septuagint-Bible, the moſt Authentick Greek Tranſlation of the Sacred Writings of the Old Teſtament, by the Seventy two Jewiſh Elders, at the appointment of Ptolomey Philadelphus, King of Egypt.

Septum, (Lat.) a Coat, or Fold for Sheep; any Place paled in, or incloſed; a Cloſe or Park.

Septum Auris, (in Anat.) the Drum of the Ear.

Septum Cordis, that fleſhy part of the Heart, which divides the right Ventricle from the left.

Septum Lucidum, or Speculum Lucidum, a kind of Partition, which diſtinguiſhes the Ventricles of the Brain, ſo nam'd from its Thinneſs and Tranſparency.

Septum Narium, that part which ſeparates the Noſtrils one from another.

Septum Tranſverſum, the Diaphragm, or Midriff.

Septuncial, belonging to Seven Ounces.

Septunx, a Weight of Seven Ounces; alſo among the Romans, Seven Parts of any whole or entire Thing, divided into Twelve.

Sepulchral, belonging to a Grave or Funeral.

Sepulchre, a Burying-place, Grave, or Tomb.

Sepulture, a burying or laying in the Ground; Interrment, Burial.

Sequatur ſub ſuo periculo, a Writ that lies where a Summons ad Warrantiſandum is awarded, and the Sheriff returns, That he has nothing whereby he may be ſummoned; then goes out an Alias & Pluries, and, if he do not come at the Pluries, this Writ is iſſued forth.

Sequel, a Conſequence or Concluſion, a continued Succeſſion.

Sequence, a following of things in Order, one juſt after another, particularly a ſet of Cards of the ſame Suit or Colour.

Sequeſter, (among the Romans) a Mediator or Umpire betwixt two Parties, a Sollicitor of a Proceſs at Law, an Attorney or Proctor: Alſo a Procurer of Voices in the Election of Officers, or a Corrupter of Witneſſes.

To Sequeſter, to ſeparate, ſever, or put aſunder; to withdraw, or retire from the World. In the Civil Law, a Widow is ſaid To Sequeſter, when ſhe comes to Court, and Diſclaims to have any thing to do with her deceaſed Husband's Eſtate.

In Common Law, To Sequeſter, or Sequeſtrate, is to ſeparate a thing in Controverſy, from the Poſſeſſion of both Parties that contend for it.

Sequeſtration, the Act of Sequeſtrating or diſpoſing of a thing contended for, which is either Voluntary, when done by conſent of each Party; or Neceſſary, being that which the Judge does of his own Authority, whether the Parties will or not: It is alſo taken for the Act of the Ordinary diſpoſing of Goods and Chattels of a deceaſed Perſon, whoſe Eſtate no Man will meddle with: Alſo the gathering of the Fruits of a void Benefice to the uſe of the next Incumbent.

Sequeſtration, is alſo a Term much uſ'd in the time of the Civil Wars under King Charles I. for a ſeizing upon the Rents of the Eſtates of thoſe that were then call'd Delinquents, for the uſe of the pretended Common-wealth.

Sequeſtrator, or Sequeſtree, the third Perſon, who is intruſted with the keeping of a thing in Controverſy between two Parties: Alſo an Officer that receiv'd the Rents of the Eſtates of Recuſants and Delinquents.

Sequeſtro habendo, a Judicial Writ for diſſolving a Sequeſtration of the Fruits of a Benefice made by a Biſhop at the Queen's Command, thereby to force a Parſon to appear at another's Suit: For the Parſon, upon his Appearance, may have this Writ for the Diſcharge of the Sequeſtration.

Seraglio, (Ital.) a Prince's Palace among the Eaſtern Nations, eſpecially that of the Emperour of the Turks, where his Concubines are kept, a Retinue or Train of Women.

Seraph, a Turkiſh Gold Coin, worth about Five Shillings Sterling.

Seraphical, or Seraphick, belonging to, or becoming the Seraphims, Angelical, Divine; as A Seraphick Love.

Seraphim, the higheſt Order of Angels, ſo call'd from the fervency of their Love to God; the Word in Hebrew, ſignifying fiery or burning.

Serapias, (Gr.) an Herb call'd Dog-ſtones, or Rag-wort.

Seraſquier, or Seraskier, (among the Turks) a kind of General, or Commander in chief of all the Military Forces in Europe.

Seravitian Marble, a ſort of Marble, having Aſh-coloured Spots, and ſo nam'd from Seravitia, a Town of Italy, near which it is found.

Sercil-Feathers, (in a Hawk) thoſe that are call'd Pinions in other Fowl.

Sere, (in Falconry) the Yellow between the Beak and Eyes of a Hawk.

Serein, (Fr.) a dampiſh and unwholeſome Vapour, that falls after Sun-ſet in hot Countries; a kind of Mildew.

Serenade, Night-Muſick, eſpecially that which is performed by a Lover to Charm his Miſtreſs, at her Door, or under her Window.

Serene, (Lat.) clear, fair, or bright, that is without Clouds or Rain, chearful, calm, quiet.

Moſt Serene, a Title of Honour given to Soveraign Princes or their Children, and to ſome States, or Common-Wealths.

Serenity or Sereneneſs, clearneſs of the Sky, fair Weather, calmneſs of Mind, chearfulneſs of Looks. The Title of Your Serenity is uſ'd in ſpeaking or writing to ſome Princes or Chief Magiſtrates of Common-Wealths.

Sergaſſo, an Herb ſomewhat like Samphire, of a Yellow Colour, and bearing an empty Berry, like a Gooſe-berry: It lies ſo thick on the Sea, near the Iſland of Maco, that it hinders the Paſſage of Ships, unleſs they be carry'd with a ſtrong Wind.

Serge, a ſort of Woollen Stuff.

Sergeant, an Officer in a Corporation that arreſts People for Debt. Alſo an inferiour Officer in a Company of Foot-Soldiers, or Troop of Horſe, who ſometimes Commands ſmall Detachments; His particular Duty is to ſee Men keep their due Diſtances in Rank and File, to receive and carry Orders, to go the Rounds, &c.

Sergeant at Law or Sergeant of the Coif, a Learned Lawyer of the higheſt Degree in the Common Law, as a Doctor is in the Civil: They have the Court of Common Pleas ſet a-part for themſelves, and alſo Liberty to Plead in other Courts, where the Judges call them Brothers, and hear them with great Reſpect: Alſo a Griffin ſo termed in Heraldry. See Coif.

Sergeant-Counters. See Counters.

Sergeants at Arms, certain Officers whoſe Buſineſs it is to wait on the King, to arreſt Traytors or Perſons of Quality offending, to attend the Lord High Steward of England ſitting upon the Tryal of a Peer; as alſo on the two Houſes of Parliament, on the Lord Chancellour or Lord Keeper, on the Lord High Treaſurer, &c.

Sergeants of the Mace, Officers in the City of London, and other Towns Corporate, that attend the Mayor or other Chief Magiſtrate for Houſe-hold Service or Matters of Juſtice.

Sergeanty, (in Common Law) a Service that cannot be due to any Lord from his Tenant, but only to the King or Queen; and this Tenure is either Grand or Petty: Grand Sergeanty is, where a Man holds certain Lands of the King by the Perſonal Service of carrying his Banner or Lance, or leading his Horſe; or being his Champion, Carver, Butler, &c. at his Coronation: Petty Sergeanty is, where one becomes Tenant to the King, by yielding him Yearly ſome ſmall Thing towards his Wars; as a Buckler, Arrow, Bow, &c.

All Tenures are now turn'd into Free and Common Soccage by Stat. 12 Car. 2. but the Honourary Services of Grand Sergeanty are therein excepted.

Series, (Lat.) Order, Courſe, continued Succeſſion of Things.

Infinite Series, (in Algebra) certain Progreſſions or Ranks of Quantities orderly proceeding, which make continual Approaches to, and if infinitely continued, would become equal to what is enquired after.

Serinus, the Siskin, a ſort of Bird.

Serious, ſober, grave; important, ſolid; ſincere, true, earneſt.

Seriphium, a kind of Sea-wormwood, an Herb ſo call'd from the Iſland of Seriphus, where it grows plentifully.

Seris, the Herb Cichory or Endive.

Serle's Scale, a Mathematical Inſtrument made of Wood or Braſs, with Lines fitted to the Art of Dialling.

† Sermocination, (Lat.) communing, talking, or holding a Diſcourſe.

Sermonium, (in old Records) a kind of Interlude or Hiſtorical Play, which the Inferiour Orders of the Clergy, aſſiſted by Boys and Children, us'd to Act in the Body of the Church, ſuitable to the Solemnity of ſome high Proceſſion-Day.

Sermountain, a ſort of Herb.

Seron of Almonds, the quantity of Two Hundred Weight: Of Anis-ſeeds from 3 to 4 C: Of Caſtle-Soap from 2½ C to 3¾ C.

Serosity, (Lat. among Phyſicians) Wateriſhneſs, wateriſh Matter; more-eſpecially apply'd to the thinner or wateriſh Part of the Maſs of Blood.

Serous, belonging to the Humour call'd Serum, Wateriſh.

Serpent, a venomous Creature crawling on the Ground, and in ſhape reſembling an Eel, as a Snake, Adder, Viper, &c. Alſo a Conſtellation, or Company of Stars in our Northern Hemiſphere: Alſo a kind of Fire-work or Squib.

Serpentarius. See Ophiuchus.

Serpentary, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Dragons-wort, or Vipers-Graſs.

Serpentary-Wood, a kind of Wood that grows in Malabar, a Country of Eaſt-India, and is commended for its Virtue in expelling Poiſon.

Serpentine, belonging to a Serpent, going in and out, or winding about.

Serpentine Line, a crooked winding Line, that incloſes it ſelf continually, as it were a Serpent wrapt up in Folds. See Spiral Line.

Serpentine Powder, a weak ſort of Gun-powder that is not Corned, and will not keep long at Sea.

Serpentine Stone, a kind of Marble.

Serpentine Verses, Verſes that begin and end with the ſame Word; ſo call'd, becauſe they run in a manner into themſelves, as Serpents are pictured, with the Tail in the Mouth; ſuch are the following Verſes, viz.

Ambo florentes ætatibus, Arcades ambo,
Creſcit amor Nummi, quantum ipſa Pecunia Creſcit.

A Serpentine, (in Chymiſtry) a long Pipe made of Tin, or Copper tinned, which ſerves for the ſubtilizing of Spirits, and takes Name from its Shape, becauſe it winds and turns as it riſes.

Serpet, a ſort of Ruſh of which Baskets are made.

Serpheta, a Word us'd by ſome Chymiſts for a Medicine that diſſolves the Stone in a Man's Body.

Serphus, (Gr.) a kind of Vermin like an Ant.

Serpigo, (Lat.) a Tetter, or Ring-worm.

Serpyllum, a kind of wild, or running Betony, or wild Thyme that grows on Hills and dry Grounds.

Serra, a Saw, a known Tool us'd by Carpenters, Joyners, &c. Alſo a certain Fiſh.

Serrata, an Herb call'd Water-Germander, or Engliſh Treacle.

Serration, (in Surgery) the Sawing of Bones.

Serratula, Saw-wort, an Herb.

Serratus, Major Anticus, (in Anat.) a Muſcle which ariſes from the Root of the Scapula, or Shoulder-Blade, and is inſerted to the Eight upper Ribs, ſide-ways, by certain Digituli, or diſtinct fleſhy Portions, which reſemble the Teeth of a Saw.

Serratus Minor Anticus, a Muſcle that takes its riſe from the Proceſs of the Shoulder-blade call'd Coracoides, and is let into the Bony part of the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Ribs.

Serratus Inferior Posticus, a Muſcle of the Thorax, or Cheſt, which is continued not only from the Spines of the Vertebra's of the Loins, but alſo from all thoſe of the Thorax, till it comes to its jagged Termination, at the bending of the Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and the end of the Twelfth Ribs.

Serratus Superior Posticus, a Muſcle of the Thorax, which lies immediately under the Rhomboides: It ſprings from two lower Spines of the Vertebræ of the Neck, and Three upper ones of the Cheſt; but is implanted at the bending of the Second, Third, and Fourth Ribs, by ſo many diſtinct fleſhy Endings, ſhap'd like the Teeth of a Saw; whence its Name.

Sertula Campana, the Herb Melilot or Claver.

Servage, a Word us'd in ſome old Statutes for Service.

To Serve, to attend, or wait on; to do ſervice, or kindneſs.

To Serve a Battery, (in the Art of War) is to ſee that the Guns play well.

To Serve a Rope, (in Sea-Language) to roll Sinnet, Rope-Yarn, or a piece of Canvas, &c. faſt round about the Rope, to preſerve it from galling or fretting in any ſuſpected Part.

Servant, a Man or Woman that ſerves another; alſo a Lover.

Servi, (Lat.) Servants, Bond-men or Slaves. In our old Records, it is taken for ſervile Tenants, pure Villains, or Villains in Groſs, who without any determined Tenure of Land, were appointed by the Lord to ſuch ſervile Works as he thought fit, and receiv'd their Wages or Maintenance at his Diſcretion: In this reſpect they were diſtinguiſh'd from Villani; which See.

Service, the ſtate or condition of a Servant, the employ of one that ſerves the Queen either at home or in the Wars; Good Turn or Office, Reſpect; the uſe that is made of a thing: Alſo a courſe or certain Number of Diſhes ſerv'd up to Table; alſo a Term at Tennis-Play.

Service or Divine-Service, Adoration or profound Reverence given to God, the Form of Publick Worſhip in the Church; particularly the Common Prayer, with other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England.

Service or Sorb-Apple; a ſort of Fruit.

Serviceable, ready to ſerve one, or to do him a good Turn; uſeful, profitable.

Serviens Villæ, See Præpoſitus Villæ.

Servientibus, certain Writs relating to Servants and their Maſters breaking the Statute-Laws made againſt their Abuſes.

Servile, belonging to a Servant, or to Bondage; Servant-like, ſlaviſh, mean, pitiful, baſe.

Servility, or Servileneſs, the Quality or Condition of a Servant, ſlaviſhneſs, ſlaviſh Humour, mean Spirit.

Serving-man's Joy, an Herb. See Rue.

Servitiis acquietandis, a Judicial Writ that lies for one diſtrained for Services to F, who owes and performs to R, for the acquittal of ſuch Services.

Servitium, (Lat.) Service, Bondage: In a Law-ſenſe, that Service which the Tenant owes to his Lord, upon account of his Fee.

Servitium Forinſecum, is that Service which is due to the King or Queen; and Servitium Intrinſecum, that which is owing to the Chief Lord of the Manour.

Servitium Regale, Royal Service, or the Rights and Prerogatives that within ſuch a Manour belong to the King, if Lord of it; which were generally reckon'd to be Six in Number, viz. 1 Power of Judicature in Matters of Property. 2 Power of Life and Death in Felonies and Murders. 3 a Right in Waifs and Strays. 4. Aſſeſments or laying of Taxes. 5 Coining of Money. 6 Aſſize of Bread, Beer, Weights and Meaſures. All theſe entire Privileges were annexed to ſome Manours in their Grant from the King, and were ſometimes made over to Religious Houſes.

Servitour, a Serving-Man or Waiter; a poor Univerſity-Scholar that attends others for his Maintenance.

Servitours of Bills, Servants or Meſſengers belonging to the Marſhal of the Queen's Bench, ſent abroad with Bills or Writs to ſummon Men to that Court, but now more commonly call'd Tip-ſtaves.

Servitude, a ſervile Condition, Bondage, Thraldom, Slavery.

Serum, (Lat.) Whey, Butter-milk: Among Phyſicians it is taken for a watery, thin, yellowiſh Humour, conſiſting chiefly of Water, a moderate quantity of Salt, and a little Sulphur; which is mingled with the Blood, and ſerves to convey it thro' the ſeveral Parts of the Body.

Seſamoidea Oſſa, (in Anat.) certain ſmall Bones, to the Number of 16, 19, 20 or more, which are found in the Joynts of the Hands and Feet, and ſo call'd from their Shape, reſembling that of Seſamum-Seeds.

Seſamoides, an Herb that purges Melancholy; Catch-fly.

Seſamum or Seſama, a ſort of Grain or Corn growing in India: The ſtalk is like that of Millet, but longer and bigger, the Leaf Red, the Flower Green, the Seed White and incloſ'd in little Cods like Poppey-ſeed. The Oil of Seſamum is much us'd in Phyſick.

Seſcuncia or Seſcunx, (among the Romans) an Ounce and a half, or the eighth part of any thing divided into Twelve.

Seſelis, (Gr.) Seſeli, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Hart-wort.

Seſqui (Lat.) ſo much and half ſo much; the whole of a Thing and half more.

Seſquialter, containing one and a half: Alſo a Term in Muſick. See Time.

Seſquialteral Proportion, (in Mathem.) is when any Number, Line, or other Quantity contains another once, with an Addition of its Moiety or Half; and the Number or Quantity ſo contain'd in the greater is ſaid to be to it in Subſeſquialteral Proportion; as 6, 9. 8, 12. 20, 30, &c.

Seſquihemina, (Lat.) one Meaſure call'd Hemina, and a half. See Hemina.

Seſquijugerum, an Acre and a half.

Seſquilibra, a Pound and a half.

Seſquimenſis, a Month and a half.

Seſquimodius, a Buſhel and a half.

Seſquiobolus, one Obolus and a half; three Farthings.

Seſquipedalis, a Foot and a half long; Seſquipedalia Verba, great, big, vaunting Words.

Seſquiquadrate, (in Aſtrol.) an Aſpect or Poſition of the Planets, when they are at the Diſtance of 4 Signs and a half or 135 Degrees from each other.

Seſquiquartile, one of the new Aſpects, when two Planets are likewiſe diſtant 135 Degrees one from another.

Seſquiquintile, an Aſpect when two Planets are diſtant 108 Degrees one from another.

Seſquitertian Proportion, (in Mathem.) is when one Number or Quantity contains another once and a third part of it more; as 6, 8; 12, 16; 21, 28; &c.

Seſquiuncia, an Ounce and a half.

Seſſion, a Sitting, or Meeting of a Council, Aſſizes, &c.

Seſſion of Parliament, the Time reckon'd from the firſt ſitting of a Parliament, till it be Prorogu'd or Diſſolv'd.

Seſſions, (in a Law-ſenſe) is taken for the Sitting of Juſtices in Court upon Commiſſion; as the Seſſions of Oyer and Terminer; the Quarter-Seſſions, otherwiſe call'd the General Seſſions and Open Seſſions, to which are oppoſed Eſpecial or Privy Seſſions, that are procur'd upon ſome ſpecial Occaſions. See Quarter-Seſſions.

Petty-Seſſions, or Statute-Seſſions, are kept by the High Conſtable of every Hundred, for the placing and ordering of Servants, &c. See Statute-Seſſions.

Seſtertia, an ancient ſort of Weight, as the Seſtertia of Cleopatra in Egypt, and other Parts of Africa, were 2½ Pounds; for 50 Seſtercias make 125 Pounds: In Thracia it was but 2 and ⅙ of a Pound.

Seſtertius, a Silver-Coin in uſe among the ancient Romans; being a quarter Part of the Denarius, worth 2½ Aſſes, or ſomewhat above 7 Farthings Engliſh: The great Seſtertius, or Seſtertium, was a Summ of Money containing 1000 ſmall Seſterces, i. e. about 7 l. 16 s. 3 d. Sterling.

To Set, to put, lay or place.

To Set the Land, Sun, or Ship, by the Compaſs, (Sea-Phraſe) to obſerve how the Land bears upon any Point of the Compaſs: Or upon what Point of the Compaſs the Sun is, in order to know the Hour of the Day; or when two Ships ſail in ſight one of another, to mark upon what Point the chaſed bears, which is termed, To ſet the Chace by the Compaſs.

To Set the Miſſen, to put the Miſſen-ſail abroad.

To Set taught the Shrowds, is to make the Shrowds ſtiffer when they are too ſlack.

Set-bolts, Iron-pins us'd for forcing the Planks of the Ship and other Works, and bringing them cloſe one to another.

Set-foil, an Herb ſo call'd from its Seven-Leaves, very effectual to ſtop all Fluxes of Blood and Humours.

Set-Wall, a kind of Herb, growing near Walls.

Set-Wort. See Setter-wort.

Setaceum, (Lat.) a kind of Iſſue call'd a Seton, or Setum; which See.

Setanium, a ſort of Medlar; alſo March, or Summer Wheat of three Months growth.

Sethim. See Sittim.

Seticauda, the Briſtle-Tail, a ſort of Fly.

Seton, (in Surgery) is when the Skin of the Neck, or other Part, is taken up and run thro' with a kind of Pack-Needle, and the Wound afterwards kept open with Briſtles, or a Skean of Thread, Silk, or Cotton, which is moved to and fro, to diſcharge the ill Humours by Degrees.

Setter, a Setting-Dog to catch Fowl with; alſo a Sergeant or Bailiff's Aſſiſtant; alſo a Companion of Sharpers, a Pimp.

Setter-Wort, or Set-Wort, an Herb ſo nam'd from Settering, i. e. curing of Cattel, and otherwiſe call'd Bears-Foot.

Setting-down, (in Falconry) is when a Hawk is put into the Mew.

To Settle, to eſtabliſh or fix, to order, to adjuſt, to fix one's Abode, to reſt as Liquors do.

To Settle a Deck, (Sea-Phraſe) to lay the Deck of a Ship lower than it was at the firſt.

Sevantly, well, honeſtly, as Sevantly Woven, an Expreſſion us'd in ſome Acts of Parliament in Queen Elizabeth's Reign.

Several, many, divers, ſundry, different.

A Several, a Particular; as In all the Severals we are to run thro'.

Several-Tail, (Law-Term) is that by which Land is Intailed ſeverally to Two or more Perſons: Thus, if Two Men and their Wives have Land given to them and to the Heirs of their Bodies, theſe have Joynt Eſtates during their Lives, but their Heirs have ſeveral Inheritance; becauſe the Iſſue of one ſhall have his Moiety, and the Iſſue of the other the other Moiety.

Several Tenancy, a Plea, or Exception taken to a Writ that is laid againſt Two Perſons as Joynt, who are ſeveral.

Severance, the Severing or Singling of Two, or more, that are joyned in one Writ. Thus if two joyn in a Writ de Libertate probanda, and one of them be afterwards Non-ſuited, here Severance is allow'd, ſo that notwithſtanding the Non-Suit of the one, the other may ſeverally proceed.

Severance in Debt, is where two or more Executors are nam'd Plaintiffs, and one refuſes to proſecute.

Severance of Corn, the cutting and carrying it off from the Ground; alſo ſometimes the ſetting out of the Tithe from the reſt of the Corn.

Severe, (Lat.) ſtrict, rough, ſtern, ſharp, harſh, crabbed.

Severians, a ſort of Hereticks that condemn'd Marriage, and eating of Fleſh.

Severity, Auſtereneſs, Strictneſs, Sourneſs, Gravity.

Seutomalache, (Gr.) the Herb Spinage.

Sevum, or Sebum, Sewet, Tallow.

Sew, (Country-word) a Cow, when her Milk is gone.

To Sew, to ſtitch with a Needle; to drain or empty a Pond: Among Sea-men, a Ship, at low Water, is ſaid To be Sewed, when ſhe comes to lie on the Ground, or lie dry, and if the Water leave her in any one Part only, they ſay ſhe Sews in that Part.

Sewel, (a Term in Hunting) that which is ſet or hung up, to keep a Deer out of any Place.

Sewer, an Officer that uſhers or comes in before the Meat of a Prince, or other great Perſonage, and places it on the Table: Alſo a Shore, Paſſage, or Gutter, to carry Water into the Sea, or a River.

Clerk of the Sewers, an Officer belonging to the Commiſſioners of Sewers, who writes down all things they do, by virtue of their Commiſſion.

Commiſſioners of Sewers, certain Perſons appointed by the Great Seal of England, to ſee Drains and Ditches well kept and maintain'd, eſpecially in Fenny Countries, that the Water may be duely convey'd into the Sea, and Graſs preſerv'd on the Land, for the feeding of Cattel.

Sex, the different Nature of Male and Female, which diſtinguiſhes one from the other.

Sexaceſſis, (Lat.) a Roman Coin, value 60 Aſſes, or 3 s. 9 d. in Engliſh Money.

Sexagenary, belonging to the Number Sixty.

Sexagenary Arithmetick, that which proceeds by Sixties, as the Diviſion of Circles, Time, &c. into 60 Degrees, every Degree into 60 Minutes, every Minute into 60 Seconds, &c.

Sexagenary Tables, (in Aſtron.) certain Tables made up of Proportional Parts, ſo that by looking on them, one may readily find the Product of two Sexagenaries to be multiply'd; or the Quotient of two that are to be divided.

A Sexagenary. See Sexageſimal Fractions.

Sexageſima, the Second Sunday before Lent, or the next to Shrove-Sunday; ſo call'd, as being about the Sixtieth Day before Eaſter.

Sexageſimal Fractions, or Sexagenaries, are ſuch as always have 60 for their Denominator; which being uſually omitted, the Numerator is only ſet down: thus 4°, $59'$, $32''$, $50'''$, $16''''$, are to be read 4 Degrees, 59 Minutes of a Degree, 32 Seconds or 60th Parts of a Minute, 50 Thirds, 16 Fourths, &c. Theſe Fractions were anciently altogether uſed in Aſtronomical Operations, and thence ſome call them Aſtronomicals; they are alſo ſtill retain'd in many Caſes, tho' Decimal Arithmetick now begins to be us'd in ſuch Calculations.

Sexangle, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of Six Angles.

Sexennial, that is of Six Years continuance, or ſtanding.

Sextain, a Stanza or Staff, containing Six Verſes.

Sextans, (Lat.) two Ounces, being the Sixth part of Twelve Ounces, which made the Roman As, or Pound, or of any other entire thing divided into Twelve Parts: Alſo a Meaſure which contain'd two Ounces of Liquor.

Sextant, an Aſtronomical Inſtrument, ſo call'd, as being the Sixth part of a Circle: It has a Limb divided into Degrees, and is us'd as a Quadrant.

Sextarius, an ancient Roman Meaſure, which held 24 Ounces of Wine, and was equal to about a Pint, Engliſh Meaſure; but according to Weight it contain'd no more than 1 Pound and 8 Ounces.

Sextile, (in Aſtrol.) an Aſpect, when two Planets are diſtant 60 Degrees, or one Sixth part of the Zodiack, viz. two whole Signs, and it is marked thus ✱.

Sextilis, the Month of Auguſt, ſo call'd by the ancient Romans; as being the Sixth in the Year, in beginning to reckon from March.

Sexton, (contracted from Sacriſtan) an Officer that looks to a Pariſh-Church, opens and locks the Pews, keeps the Veſtments of the Miniſters, &c.

Sextry, an old Word for a Veſtry.

Sextula, (Lat.) the Sixth part of an Ounce, i. e. a Dram and a Scruple.

Sextum, the Title of the Third Volume of the Canon-Law, which contains the Decrees of the Popes, from Gregory IX. to Boniface VIII. by whoſe Authority it was compil'd.

Sextuple, ſix-fold, or ſix times as much.

Seyſa, (in old Latin Record) a Seaſon of the Year; due Time.

Shack, (in Norfolk and Suffolk) the liberty of Winter-Paſturage; the Lords of Manours having the Privilege to feed their Flocks of Sheep at pleaſure upon their Tenants Land, during the ſix Winter Months: Alſo a Cuſtom in Norfolk to have Common for Hogs, from the end of Harveſt till Seed-time, in all Mens Grounds: Whence to go at Shack in that County, ſignifies as much as to go at large.

Shacking-time, the Seaſon when Maſt is ripe.

Shackle-Bolts, or Shackles, a ſort of Fetters put upon Malefactors in Priſon.

On board a Ship, Shackles, are a kind of Rings, made ſomewhat long-wiſe, and larger at one end than the other; their uſe is to ſhut faſt the Ports, having a Billet thruſt thro' them: There are alſo ſmaller Shackles faſten'd to the Corners of the Hatches, to lift them up, and let them down.

Shackſhirs. See Chackſhirs.

Shad, a ſort of Fiſh, about the bigneſs of an Herring.

Shade, a Place ſhelter'd from the Sun; alſo an Ornament for a Woman's Head.

Shade of Protuberance, (in Aſtron.) the Shadow made by the greateſt bunching out part of a globulous or round Body.

Shadrach, (Heb. a little tender Dug) the Name of one of the three Children, who being caſt into the Fiery Furnace by order of King Nebuchadnezzar, were miraculouſly preſerved.

Shaffa Sagittarum, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Sheaf of Arrows, containing 24 in Number.

Shaft, an Arrow, the Body of a Pillar, the Spire of a Church-Steeple, the Tunnel of a Chimney. Among the Derby-ſhire Miners, it is taken for a round or ſquare Hole, like a Well, made to free the Works from the Springs that riſe therein.

Shaftment, a kind of Meaſure, of about half a Foot, commonly taken on a Hand of the largeſt ſize, from the top of the Thumb, held out ſtraight, to the lowermoſt Corner of the Palm.

Shag, a ſort of hairy Stuff; alſo a Sea-Fowl.

Shagreen, that is out of Humour, Vexed: Alſo a ſort of rough-grained Leather; as A Shagreen Caſe.

Shaggen, or Shaggy, rough with Hair.

Shake-Time, (Country-Word) the Seaſon of the Year when Maſt and ſuch Fruits fall from Trees.

Shallop, (Fr.) a kind of Bark, or light Ship, having only a ſmall Main-Maſt, a Fore-Maſt and Lugg-ſails, to hale up and let down upon Occaſion: They are commonly good Sailers, and often us'd as Tenders upon Men of War.

Shallow, that is not deep, in ſpeaking of Water; that has but little Brains or Wit; empty or dry, as ſome Diſcourſes are.

A Shallow, a Flat or Ford in the Sea, or in a River.

Shalm, or Shawm, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument.

Shaloon, (Fr.) a ſort of Woollen Stuff, chiefly us'd for the Linings of Coats, and ſo call'd from Chalons, a City of France, where it was firſt made.

Shalot, a kind of ſmall Onion, much us'd in Sances, and to Seaſon Victuals.

Sham, pretended, falſe; as A Sham Buſineſs, a ſham Plot; alſo a Flam, Cheat, or Trick.

To Sham one, to put a Sham or Trick on him.

Shamade, a beat of Drum for a Parley. See Chamade.

Shambles, a Place where Butchers ſit and ſell Meat.

Shame, an uneaſineſs of the Mind, upon account of having done ſomething which is unſeemly, or that tends to leſſen one's Eſteem among others; alſo Diſgrace or Reproach.

To Shame, to put to Shame or Diſgrace, to make one aſhamed.

Shamellæ, (in old Latin Records) Shambles, or Stalls to ſell Meat, &c.

Shamgar, (Heb. Deſolation of the Stranger) one of the Judges of Iſrael, who kill'd Six Hundred Philiſtines with an Ox-Goad.

Shamoys, (Fr.) a kind of Wild-Goat.

Shamoy, or Shamoy-Leather, a ſort of Leather made of the Skin of that Beaſt tanned; which is much eſteem'd for warmth and ſoftneſs, as alſo becauſe it may be waſh'd.

Shampinion, a Muſhroom.

Shamsheer, a ſort of Sword among the Perſians, ſomewhat like a Scimetar.

Shank, the Leg of a Man's Body, the Stalk of a Plant, the Tunnel of a Chimney, the Stem of a Candle-ſtick, Lock, &c. Shanks, is alſo taken for the Skin of the Leg of a kind of Kid, which bears the Furr call'd Budge.

Shank, or Shank-Painter, (in Sea-Affairs) a ſhort Chain faſten'd under the Fore-Maſt Shrowds, with a Bolt to the Ship's Side, and having a Rope made faſt to it at the other end; ſo that the whole Weight of the after-part of the Anchor, when it lies by the Ship's Side, reſts upon this Chain.

Shank of an Anchor, the Beam or longeſt part of it.

Shanker, a pocky Sore, or Botch in the Groin, or in the Yard.

Shapournet, (in Heraldry) a Figure whoſe ſhape reſembles a Livery-Hood or Cap, worn at the Univerſities, and call'd Chaperon in French.

Shard, a broken piece of a Tile, Earthen Pot, &c. Alſo a Gap, or open Place in a Hedge.

Share, a part or portion, eſpecially of Goods on board a Ship, which belong to ſeveral Perſons by Proportion. See Flotſon: Alſo a Man's Yard or Groin.

Share-wort, an Herb good to cure a Pain in that part.

Shark, a kind of Sea-Wolf, or Sea-Dog, the moſt ravenous of all Fiſh, and of a vaſt length and bigneſs: Swimmers are in great Danger from them; for they'll chop a Man in two at a Bite, their devouring Jaws being ſet with three or four Rows of ſharp broad Teeth: Whence the Word is commonly taken for a ſharping Fellow that lives upon the Catch.

To Shark up and down, to go Sharking or Shifting about.

Sharp, keen, ſmart, ſhrill; ſevere, biting nipping; violent, quick, ſubtil.

To Sharp, to ſpunge, to trick or chouſe one out of a thing.

To Sharpen, to make ſharp, to whet.

A Sharper, a cunning Man, a ſharping ſubtil Fellow that lives by his Wits, a Rook, a Cheat.

Sharping-Corn, or Sharpning-Corn, a cuſtomary Preſent of Corn, which at every Chriſtmas, the Farmers in ſome Parts of England, make to their Smith, for ſharp'ning their Plough-Irons, Harrow-tines, &c.

Shash, the Linnen of which a Turkiſh Turbant or Cap is made; alſo a kind of Girdle made of Silk, &c.

To Shatter, to ſhake or break to pieces, to indammage or impair.

To Shave, to ſhear or pair; to cut off the Hair with a Raſor; to trim or barb.

Shave-Grass, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Horſe-tail.

Shaw, (Country-Word) a Wood that encompaſſes a Cloſe; alſo a Perſian Word for a King.

Shaw-Bander, a kind of Vice-Roy, or great Officer among the Perſians.

Shaw-Fowl, an Artificial Bird, made on purpoſe by Fowlers to ſhoot at.

Shaw-Zaddeh, the Grand Seignior's Son, ſo call'd by the Perſians; the Word in their Language ſignifying a King's Son.

Sheading, a Riding, Tithing, or Diviſion in the Iſle of Man; the whole Iſland being divided into ſix Sheadings, in every one of which there is a Coroner or chief Conſtable.

To Shear, to clip, or cut.

Shear-Grass, a kind of Herb.

Shear-Man, a Cloth-ſhearer.

Shears, or A Pair of Shears, great Sizzers us'd by Taylors, and ſeveral Artificers: Among Seamen, two Maſts, Yards, or Poles, ſet up an end at ſome diſtance, and bound a-croſs each other aloft near the Top, are alſo call'd A Pair of Shears; their uſe is to ſet in or take out a Maſt, to which purpoſe there is faſten'd at the place where they croſs one another, a ſtrong double Block or Pulley with a Strap. Theſe Shears likewiſe ſerve to hoiſe Goods in or out in Boats that have no Maſts.

Shear-Hooks, great Iron-Hooks, ſometimes us'd when a Ship under Sail deſigns to board another. They reſemble a Sickle in ſhape and ſize, and are let into the Main-Yard Arms, and Fore-Yard Arms, in Order to ſpoil, cut or tear the Enemies Shrowds, Sails, or Rigging.

Shear-Shanks, a kind of Knot, which is made upon a Rope call'd a Runner, when it being too long, Goods cannot be hoiſed in, over the Ship's ſides; ſo that the Runner is ſhortned by this Knot at pleaſure, and as ſuddenly let looſe again.

Sheat or Shut, a Country-Word for a young Hog: Alſo a kind of Fiſh.

Sheats, (in a Ship) are Ropes bent to the Clews of the Sails, which ſerve in all the lower Sails to hale aft or round off the Clew of the Sail; but in the Top-Sails they are made uſe of to hale home, i. e. to draw cloſe the Sail to the Yard-Arms: Thoſe Planks under Water, which come along the Run of the Ship, and are clos'd to the Stern-poſt, are alſo call'd Sheats.

The Sheats are ſaid To be flown, when they are not haled home and cloſe to the Blocks or Pulleys; and the Ship is then ſaid To Sail with flown Sheats.

To Eaſe the Sheat, is to veer it out, or to let it go out gently. To Let fly the Sheat, is to let it run out violently, as far as it will go; ſo that the Sail will then hang looſe, and hold no Wind. When the Sea-men would have the Sheats of the Main or Fore-Sail haled aft, they ſay, Tally the Sheats.

Falſe Sheat, a Rope bound to the Clew of the Sail, above the Sheat-block, to ſuccour and eaſe the Sheat, leſt it ſhould break, when there happens an extraordinary Guſt or very ſtiff Gale of Wind.

Stern-Sheats, the Planks that are within board abaft in the Run of the Ship.

Sheat-Anchor, the biggeſt Anchor in a Ship, which is the Mariners laſt Refuge, when in ſtreſs of Weather, they are forc'd to ride on a Lee-Shore.

Sheat-Cable, the Maſter-Cable or Principal Cable.

To Sheath a Sword, to put it up in the Sheath or Scabbard.

To Sheath a Ship, (in Sea-Language) is to Caſe that part of her which is under Water with ſomething to keep the Worms from eating thro' her Planks; which is uſually done with thin New Boards, after having laid Hair and Tar mixt together on the old Sides: But this hinders a Ship's Sailing, and therefore ſome of late have been Sheathed with Milled Lead.

Sheath-Fiſh, a delicate Indian Fiſh of the Colour of a Muſcle, ſo call'd from its being cover'd with a thin Shell like the Sheath of a Knife.

Shed, a Pent-Houſe, Hut, or Shelter made of Boards.

To Shed, to ſpill, to ſend forth; as To ſhed Blood or Tears; to caſt the Teeth, Horns, &c.

Sheen or Shene, (old Word) ſhining, bright.

Sheep, a well-known Creature. See Ovis.

Sheep's-Head, the Head of a Sheep with its Appurtenances: Alſo a ſort of Fiſh on the Coaſts of Virginia, of which Broth may be made like that of Mutton: In a figurative Senſe, a meer Blockhead, a heavy dull Fellow.

Sheepiſh, faint-hearted like a Sheep, ſoft-headed, ſimple, ſilly.

Sheer, altogether, quite; as this Fancy is Sheer new; He carry'd it Sheer away.

To Sheer, a Word us'd in the Northern Parts for to Reap.

Among Sea-men, a Ship is ſaid To Sheer, or go Sheering, when in her Sailing, ſhe is not ſteadily Steered: Alſo when a Tide-Gate runs very Swift, it will cauſe a Ship to go in and out, and ſo not ſtraight forward, which is likewiſe termed Sheering; and ſometimes there is Danger, being near the Land, leſt ſhe ſhould Sheer a-ſhore, or ſhould Sheer home her Anchor, i. e. draw it home.

Sheevers. See Shivers.

Shekle, or Sicle, a Jewiſh Silver-Coin, worth about 2 s. 6 d. of our Money; on one ſide of which, was Stampt a Manna-Pot, with this Inſcription in Hebrew, The Shekle of Iſrael, and on the other ſide, Aaron's Rod that Budded, with this Motto, Holy Jeruſalem. There was alſo a common Shekle, in Value half ſo much, and in Weight half an Ounce; beſides another Gold-Shekle, which amounted to thirty Shillings.

Sheldaple, a Bird, otherwiſe call'd a Chaffinch.

Sheldrake, a ſort of Water-Fowl.

Shelf, a Board made faſt to a Wall, to lay things on; alſo the Till of a Printing-Preſs; alſo a heap of Sand in the Sea.

Shelter, a ſafe Place againſt ill Weather, Lodging; Refuge, Protection.

To Shelter one, to receive one into his Houſe; to protect or defend him.

Shem. See Sem.

To Shend, (old Word) to blame.

Shent, (old Word) a Barrow-Pig.

Shepherd, one that keeps, or looks after Sheep; a Country-Swain, or Lover.

Shepherds-Bodkin, a ſort of Herb.

Shepherds-Needle, an Herb of great Virtue in all Pains of the Kidneys.

Shepherds-Purſe, an Herb good to ſtop all manner of Fluxes.

Sherbet, a kind of pleaſant Drink, much in requeſt among the Turks and Perſians: It is made of fair Water, Juice of Lemmons, Sugar, Amber, and other Ingredients.

Sheriff, (Sax. Shireve, i. e. Governour of the Shire) a chief Officer appointed yearly by the King in every Shire or County: But there are two Sheriffs in Middleſex, choſen by the Citizens of London, under the Name of Sheriffs of London and Middleſex.

Sheriffalty or Shrievalty, the Office of a Sheriff, or the time during which that Office is held.

Sheriffwick, the Juriſdiction of a Sheriff, or the Extent of his Authority.

Sheriff-Tooth, ſeems to be an Ancient Tenure, or Manner of holding Land by the Service or Duty of providing Entertainment for the Sheriff, at his County-Turns or Courts. In Derby-ſhire the King's Bailiffs heretofore took Six Pence of every Bovate or Ox-gang of Land, in Name of Sheriff-Tooth.

Sherman's-Craft or Sheerman's-Craft, an Art us'd at Norwich, where Worſteds, Stamins, and Fuſtians are Sheer'd, as well as all other Woollen Cloth.

Sherry or Sherry-Sack, a ſort of Wine brought from Xeres, a Town of the Province of Andaluſia in Spain.

Shew, Appearance, Publick Sight, Pretence, or Colour.

To Shew, to let ſee, to diſcover, or make known, to prove or make appear; alſo to appear or look, to make a ſhew as if.

Shewing, (in a Law-Senſe) is a being quit of Attachments in any Court, and before whomſoever in Plaints ſhewed and not avowed.

Shield, a kind of round Buckler with which Foot-Soldiers were armed in former Times: It is alſo figuratively taken, for Protection or Defence.

To Shieve, to fall a-ſtern; a Term us'd by Sailers.

Shift, a Shirt or Smock; a Remedy or Expedient; an After-Game, a Trick, a Device to eſcape or get off.

To Shift, to change, to change one's Lodging; to double or dodge, as wild Beaſts do when hunted.

Shifter, as A Notable Shifter, i. e. a Shifting Fellow, one that knows all manner of Shifts and ſubtil Tricks.

Shifters, (at Sea) certain Men a-board a Man of War, appointed by the Cooks to Shift or Change the Water in which the Proviſions of Fleſh or Fiſh are laid for ſome time, for the wholeſome feeding of the Ship's Company.

Shifting, a Word uſ'd in Kent for the Partition or Dividing of Land among Co-heirs, where it is of Gavel-kind Nature; from the Saxon Word Shiftan, to divide.

Shiloh, (Heb. i. e. Sent) a Name appropriated in Holy Scripture to our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

Shilling, an Engliſh Silver Coin, worth Twelve Pence, and of which, Twenty make a Pound Sterling; altho' among our Saxon Anceſtours, it conſiſted but of Five Pence: A Scotch Shilling is equal to one Penny Engliſh.

Flemmiſh Shilling. See Schelling.

Shingle, a Lath or Tile of cleft Wood, to cover Houſes with.

Shingles, a Diſeaſe, a ſort of S. Anthony's Fire, which ſome call the Running-Worm, others the Wild-Fire; 'tis a ſpreading Inflammation about the Waſte, which kills the Patient, if it get quite round: Alſo the Name of a Shelf, or Sand-bank in the Sea, about the Iſle of Wight.

Ship-Ladders. See Ladders.

Ship-Money, a Tax anciently laid upon the Ports, Towns, Cities, &c. of England, and revived by King Charles I. but declared to be contrary to the Laws and Statutes of this Realm, by Stat. 17 Car. I.

Ship-ſhapen. See Wale-reared.

Ship-waſh, the Name of a dangerous Shelf that lies without Baudſey, being Nine Miles long, and for the moſt part, a Quarter of a Mile broad.

Shippen, a Country-Word for a Cow-Houſe.

Shipper, (Dutch) the Maſter of a Ship; but we generally pronounce it Skipper, and uſe the Word for any Common Sea-man.

Shire or County, a Portion of Land, ſo call'd from the Saxon Word Scyran to divide: Of theſe Diviſions there are Forty in England, and Twelve in Wales, in all Fifty Two.

Shire-Clerk, an Under-Sheriff; ſometimes it is taken for a Clerk in the County-Court, or Deputy to the Under-Sheriff.

Shiver, a piece of cleft Wood: On board a Ship, Shivers are little round Wheels, in which the Rope of a Block or Pulley runs: They are fixt in the Block with Cocks or Pins, and turn with the Rope; being uſually made of Wood, but ſome are of Braſs, as thoſe in the Heels of the Top-Maſts.

To Shiver, to break into Shivers, or Pieces; alſo to ſhake for Cold or Fear.

Shoal. See Shole.

Shock, Brunt, Onſet, Encounter or Engagement in Fight; Blow, Diſaſter: Among Huſband-men, ſeveral Sheaves of Corn ſet together.

A Shock of Soap-Boxes, Canes, Wood-Trays, &c. is Sixty in Number.

To Shock, to claſh with, to daſh againſt, to oppoſe, or be contrary to.

Shogg, the meeting of two hard Bodies that ſtrike one againſt the other with violence.

Shole, a company of Fiſh; Sholes are alſo Flats in the Water.

Sholing, (Sea-Term) as Good Sholing, i. e. a ſafe and convenient going in with the Shore, when the Water grows ſhallow by Degrees, and not too ſuddenly; nor is ſometimes deep, and ſometimes ſhallow.

Shooberry-Neſs, part of a great Flat, which begins below Lee-Town, about a Mile from the ſhore, and runs down the River Thames to the North-Eaſt-End of the Whittaker.

Shoot, a ſhooting with Bows or Guns, a young Sprout, Sprig, or Bud; a great Pig that has done Sucking: Among Hunters, a young Boar.

To Shoot, to grow up as Plants doe, to fall like a Star, to caſt forth, to diſcharge Shot, &c. Among Sea-men, the Ballaſt is ſaid to Shoot, when it runs from one ſide of the Ship to the other.

Shooting-ſtick, a kind of Wedge commonl made of Box, which Printers make uſe of to lock up the Pages in the Chace or Frame.

Shop-lift or Shop-lifter, one that Steals Goods or Wares out of a Shop, under pretence of cheap-ning them.

Shorage, a Duty paid for Goods brought on Shore.

Shore, a Coaſt or Tract of Land on the Sea-ſide; alſo a Prop to Support any part of a Building In a Ship, Shores are pieces of Timber ſet to bea up any others from ſinking or falling.

Shorling, the fell or skin of a Shorn Sheep.

Short Accent, (in Grammar) ſhews that the tim of pronouncing a Syllable ought to be ſhort, and i thus marked (˘)

Short-ſhank or Short-ſtart, a kind of Apple.

Shot, all ſorts of Bullets for whatſoever Fire-Arms, from the Cannon to the Piſtol; alſo the reach of any Gun, as far as it can carry a Ball.

Shot for Ord'nance are of ſeveral ſorts, a Caſe-ſhot, Chain-ſhot, Croſs-bar-ſhot, Langrel-ſhot Round-ſhot, and Trundle-ſhot; all which See i their proper Places.

Shot of a Cable, (among Sea-men) is the ſplicing or faſtening of two Cables together, that a Ship may ride ſafe in deep Waters and great Roads.

Shot by the Board, a Sea-Phraſe, us'd when a Maſt or Yard is broken by the Enemies Shot, in a Fight.

Shot or Scot, a Reckoning, Club, or Score i a Victualling-Houſe, Tavern, &c. or the Money paid for it.

Shoud, a certain Magiſtrate among the Turks.

Shoveler, a Fowl otherwiſe call'd a Pelican.

Shoulder, a Part of the Body: In Archery, tha part of the Head of an Arrow, which a Man ma feel with his Finger, before it comes to the point o the Head.

Shoulder-Pight, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, when th pitch or point of the Shoulder is diſplac'd, which makes the Horſe halt downright.

Shouldered-Head, the beſt ſort of Head of a Arrow for piercing; being between Blunt and Shar made with Shoulders.

Shouldering, (in Fortif.) a Retrenchment o Work caſt up for a Defence on one ſide, whether i be made of Heaps, or Baskets full of Earth, Faggots, &c. Alſo a ſquare Orillon, ſometimes in th Baſtions, on the Flank, near the Shoulder, to cove the Cannon of a Caſemate: Alſo a Demi-Baſtion, o Work conſiſting of one Face and one Flank, which ends in a Point, at the Head of a Horn-work, o Crown-work.

Shouldering-Piece, a Member in Architectur otherwiſe call'd a Bracket.

Shrape or Scrape, (Country-Word) a plac baited with Chaff, or Corn, to entice Birds.

Shrew or Shrew-Mouſe, a kind of Field Mouſe, of the bigneſs of a Rat, and Colour of Weaſel, very miſchievous to Cattel, which goin over a Beaſt's Back, will make it Lame in the Chine and the Bite of it cauſes the Beaſt to ſwell to th Heart and die. Whence Shrew is commonly taken for a Scold, or curſt ill-natur'd Woman.

Shrewd, ſubtil, cunning, ſharp, ſmart, witty.

Shrievalty. See Sheriffalty.

Shrift, or Shriving. See Shrove-tide.

To Shriek, to cry out, as one that is murdering or ſtruck with ſome ſudden Fright.

To Shriek or Shrike, (among Foreſters) t cry or make a noiſe, as a Badger does at Rutting time.

Shrimp, a ſmall Sea-Fiſh; alſo a little ſho Fellow, a meer Dwarf.

Shrine, a Box or Caſe to hold the Relicks of Saint, a Place where Offerings and Prayers are mad to ſome Saint. See Rood-loft.

T

To Shrivel, to Wrinkle, to run up in Wrinkles, or Scrolls.

Shroud. See Shrowd.

Shrove-Tide, the time juſt before Lent, ſo call'd from the Saxon Word to Shrive, i. e. to confeſs; becauſe our Anceſtours then us'd to confeſs their Sins and receive the Sacrament, in order to a more Strict and Religious keeping of the Lent-Faſt next enſuing.

Shrove-Tueſday, the Day before the firſt Day of Lent, commonly call'd Aſh-Wedneſday, Seven Weeks before Eaſter.

Shrowd, a Cloth of Linnen or Woollen, to wrap up a dead Body in: Among Sea-men, Shrowds are taken for thoſe great Ropes in a Ship, that come from either ſide of all Maſts; being faſten'd below, by Chains to the Ship's ſides, and aloft over the Head of the Maſt.

To Shrowd, to cover, to ſhelter: In Husbandry, to cut off the Head-branches of a Tree.

Shrub, a Dwarf-Tree, a little ſorry Fellow.

To Shrub one, to cudgel or bang him ſoundly.

To Shrug, to ſhrink up the Shoulders.

To Shudder, to ſhiver, or ſhake with Cold, &c.

To Shuffle, to mingle the Cards in any Game, to ſhift off, to dodge, to play faſt and looſe.

To Shunt, a Country-Word for to ſhove.

Shuttle, an Inſtrument us'd by Weavers; a ſhatter-brain'd or giddy-headed Fellow.

Shy, reſerved, wary, coy.

Siagonagra, (Gr.) the Gout in the Jaws.

Sib, (Sax.) Kindred; whence the Word Goſſip, commonly taken for a God-father or God-mother.

Sibyllæ, (Gr. i. e. God's Counſel) the Sibyls, certain Virgin-Propheteſſes, among the ancient Heathens, who, as they believ'd, were inſpir'd by Jupiter, and are thought by ſome to have propheſy'd concerning our Saviour's Nativity.

Sibyllini Libri, (Lat.) the Sibyls Books wherein their Predictions were written, and which were had in ſo great Authority among the Romans, that they did nothing of Moment, either in Peace or War, without firſt conſulting them, and committed them to the Cuſtody of two Perſons of the Patrician Order, ſtyl'd Duumviri Sacrorum; which See.

Siccity, a Philoſophical Term for Drineſs..

Sicelica or Sicelion, (Gr.) an Herb growing in Vineyards.

Sichetum or Sikettus, (in old Latin Records) a Sich or ſmall Current of Water that uſes to be dry in the Summer; alſo a Water-furrow, or Gutter.

Sicilicum, or Sicilicus, the fourth part of an Ounce; two Drams; alſo a Meaſure of Ground 20 Foot broad and 30 long. i. e. a Plot containing 600 Foot ſquare.

Sicle, or Siclus. See Shekle,

Sickle, a toothed Reap-hook.

Sicut alias, a ſecond Writ ſent out where the firſt was not executed, and ſo nam'd from thoſe two Latin Words contain'd in it.

To Side, to be of a Side or Party, to take part with.

Sides of Horn-works, Crown-works, &c. (in Fortif.) are the Ramparts and Breaſt-works that encloſe them on the Right and Left, from the Gorge to the Head.

Side-lays, a Term us'd by Huntſmen, when Dogs are ſet in the Way, to be let ſlip at a Deer as he paſſes by.

Sides-men, certain Officers that are Yearly choſen in every Pariſh, to aſſiſt the Church-Wardens.

Sider, a known Drink made of Apples bruis'd and preſs'd,

Sideratio, (Lat.) the blaſting of Trees or Plants, with an Eaſtern Wind, or with exceſſive Heat and Drought: Alſo a benumming, when one is ſuddenly depriv'd of the Uſe of his Limbs and all Senſe, a being Planet-ſtruck: Among Surgeons, it is taken for an entire Mortification of any Part of the Body, the ſame as, Sphacelus; which See,

Sidereal, or Siderean, belonging to the Stars, ſtarry.

Sidereal Year. See Year.

Siderites, (Gr.) a precious Stone like Iron, a ſort of Diamond; alſo the Load-ſtone that draws Iron.

Sideritis, an Herb call'd Wall-ſage or Stone-ſage, growing on old Walls or Tiles; Iron-wort, a kind of Plant call'd Clowns All-heal, becauſe it ſpeedily Cures all Wounds made with Iron or Steel.

Sideropœcilos, a precious Stone like Iron, with variety of ſpots.

Sideros, Iron, a Metal.

Sidlingi, (in old Latin Writers) Sidelings, Balks between or on the ſides of the Ridges of ploughed Lands.

Sief Album, a kind of Medicine for the Eyes. See Collyrium.

Siege, the incamping of an Army before a Place deſign'd to be attacked, the whole time of lying before it, and all that is done for the taking of it, either by Force or Famine: Thus 'tis uſually ſaid, To lay Siege, to Carry on a Siege, to raiſe a Siege.

Sigillum, (Lat.) a little Image graven, or molten; a Seal or Print, a Signet.

Sigillum Hermetis, Hermes's Seal, a Chymical Term. See To Seal Hermetically.

Sigillum Salomonis, Solomon's Seal, an Herb.

Sigla, Notes or Characters, Short-hand, initial or beginning Letters, which by Abbreviation are put for whole Words; as, S. P. Q. R. for Senatus Populuſque Romanus.

Sigmoidales, (Gr. in Anat.) certain Valves of the Arteria Pulmonaria, otherwiſe call'd Semilunares from their reſemblance to the ſhape of a Half-moon, or part of a Circle: They ſeparate, to give Paſſage to the Blood from the right Ventricle of the Heart into that Artery; but they ſhut the Paſſage and are clos'd up by the Blood, if it endeavours to return.

Sigmoides, the Proceſſes of the Bones, whoſe Figure reſembles the Letter C, or Sigma of the Ancient Greeks: Alſo the three Valves of the Aorta, or great Artery, which hinder the Blood from returning back to the Heart.

Sign, (Lat.) Mark or Token, Foot-ſtep, Repreſentation, Miracle, Wonder.

Algebraical Signs, are ſuch Marks as the following, viz. + which ſignifies more, or that the Quantities between which it ſtands are to be added; as — is put for leſs, which implies Subſtraction, and + for into, which denotes Multiplication: Two Quantities ſet one above and another below a Line, expreſs Diviſion; as $\frac{a}{b}$ which ſignifies that a is to be divided by b, &c.

Aſtronomical, or Celeſtial Signs, are the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, viz. Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricornus, Aquarius & Piſces. Theſe were firſt call'd Signs by the ancient Aſtronomers, as being Marks to diſtinguiſh whereabout the Sun is throughout his whole yearly Courſe.

Sign Manual, the ſetting of one's Hand and Seal to a Writing.

To Sign, to Subſcribe, or put one's Hand to.

Signa, (Lat. among the Romans) Enſigns or Banners, of which there were ſeveral ſorts: On ſome of them the Emperour's Image was repreſented; others had a Hand ſtretch'd out as a Symbol of Concord; ſome had a Silver Eagle; and others a Dragon with a Silver-head, and the reſt of the Body of Taffety.

Signal, Notable, Special, Remarkable, Famous.

A Signal, a Sign or Token given for the doing of any Thing.

To Signalize one's Self, to make himſelf Famous by ſome Signal Action.

Signature, Sign Manual, one's Hand ſet to a Writing: In the Art of Printing, the particular Letter of the Alphabet ſet at the bottom of every Sheet, as a Mark to keep them in their due Order. Among Naturaliſts, the reſemblance of a Plant, or Mineral to a Man's Body, or any part of it.

Signet, a Seal ſet in a Ring.

The Privy Signet, one of the King's Seals, with which his private Letters are ſeal'd: It is alſo us'd for Grants and other things that afterwards paſs the Great Seal.

Clerk of the Signet, an Officer continually attending upon the Principal Secretary of State, who always has the keeping of the Privy Signet, for the Sealing of ſuch Letters, Grants, &c.

Signifer, (Lat.) one that carries the Colours, a Standard-bearer, an Enſign or Cornet: Alſo the Zodiack-Circle, ſometimes ſo call'd, as having or carrying the Twelve Signs.

Significavit, a Writ de Excommunicato capiendo, which iſſues out of the Chancery upon a Certificate given by the Ordinary, of a Man that ſtands obſtinately Excommunicate the ſpace of Forty Days; for the laying him up in Priſon, without Bail or Mainprize, until he ſubmit himſelf to the Authority of the Church: There are alſo ſome other Writs of this Name.

Significancy, a being ſignificant.

Significant, that ſignifies or expreſſes much, that is to the purpoſe, expreſſive, clear, effectual.

Signification, Meaning, Senſe,

Significator, a Term, apply'd by Aſtrologers to a Planet that ſignifies ſomething remarkable in Nativities or Horary Queſtions.

To Signify, to mean or imply a certain Senſe, to intimate or declare, to notify or give notice of, to make acquainted with, to preſage or be a Sign of.

Signior. See Seignior.

Signum, (Lat.) a Sign, Mark, or Token, a Cognizance or Badge, an Image or Figure, a Standard or Enſign. Alſo a Croſs, which in the Times of the Saxons and Normans was uſually prefix'd to the Name of a ſubſcribing Witneſs in Charters and other Deeds, before the Invention or uſe of Seals; as ✠ Signum Roberti Epiſcopi Linc. ✠ Signum Nigelli de Oily, &c.

Signum Morbi, the Symptom of a Diſeaſe.

Signum Pugnæ, the Signal of Battel; which among the Romans, was a Coat of Arms of a purple Colour, ſet upon the General's Pavilion or Tent.

Sike, (old Word) ſuch; as Sike Miſter Men, i. e. ſuch kind of Men.

A Sike, a Country-Word, ſignifying a Quillet, or Furrow.

To Sike, (old Word) to ſigh.

Siker, (old Word) ſure; as I am Siker of it.

Silence, (Lat.) Peace, Ceſſation of noiſe, or of ſpeaking.

To Silence, to impoſe or command Silence, to put to a Non-plus, to ſuſpend a Church-man.

Silent, that holds his Peace, or ſays nothing, that makes no noiſe, quiet, ſtill.

Silentiary, a Gentleman-Uſher, who ſees good Rule and Silence kept in Court or elſewhere.

Siler, (Lat.) a ſmall Withy, or Oſier.

Silery. See Cilery.

Silex, a Flint-Stone.

Silicia, a kind of Herb, Fenigreek.

† Siliceous, belonging to Flint, Flinty.

Siligo, a kind of Corn with an upright Stalk, and the Grain very white, fine Wheat, of which Manchet-bread is made.

Siliqua, (among Herbaliſts) the Seed-Veſſel, Husk, Cod, or Shale of ſuch Plants as are of the Pulſe-kind: Alſo a Weight call'd a Caract, of which ſix make a Scruple, in uſe among Finers of Gold and Silver: Alſo a Roman Coin, the ſame as Ceratium; which See.

Siliquaſtrum, an Herb with a Leaf, much like Ale-Coſt, but of a ſharp biting Taſte, Pepper-wort, or S. Mary-Herb, Braſil-Pepper.

Silk-Graſs, a rare Plant in Virginia, having thin and fibrous Leaves, of which is made a kind of fine Stuff, with a Gloſs like Silk, and Cordage, much better than of Hemp or Flax, both for Strength and Continuance.

Silk-Throwſter, one that winds, twiſts, and ſpins, or throws Silk in order to fit it for uſe.

Sillabub, or Sillibub, a kind of Drink made of Stale Beer, White-wine or Sack, ſweeten'd with Sugar, Milk milked into it from the Cow, Nutmeg, &c. Whence it is figuratively taken for a florid, but frothy and empty Diſcourſe.

Sillon, (Fr.) a bulk or ridge of Land betwixt two Furrows: In Fortification, a Work rais'd in the midſt of a Moat or Ditch, for its defence, when it is too wide: It is otherwiſe call'd Envelope, Counter-Guard, and Lunette.

Silo, (Lat.) one that has a Noſe crooked upwards, an Ape-Noſed or Snut-Noſed Fellow; alſo one that has hanging Eye-brows.

Silphium, (Gr.) the Herb Laſer-wort.

Silver, a Metal next in value to Gold, as alſo more ſmooth and poliſh'd by Nature.

Silver-Bush, a Plant, kept as a great Rarity by ſeveral Herbaliſts.

Silver-Cautery. See Cautery.

Silver-ſickneſs, or Silver-ſquincy, is when an Advocate, or pleading Lawyer, being brib'd by the other Party, feigns himſelf ſick, or not able to ſpeak.

Silver-ſmith, one that makes all ſorts of Silver and Gold-Plate.

Silver-ſpoon Head, (in Archery) the head of ſome ſort of Arrows, ſo call'd from the reſemblance they have to the Knobs of ſome Silver-Spoons.

Silver-weed, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd White Tanſey.

Silures, (Lat.) a Name anciently given to the People of South-Wales.

Silurus, (Gr.) a Fiſh, much like a Sturgeon, the Sheath-Fiſh or Shad-Fiſh.

Simarr, a kind of Gown with long Sleeves, worn by Women.

Simeon or Shimeon, (Heb. Hearing or Obedience) the Patriarch Jacob's ſecond Son by Leah, and Father of one of the Twelve Tribes of Iſrael.

Simia, (Lat.) an Ape, a Jackanapes; alſo one that endeavours to be like another, an Imitator.

Simia Marina, the Sea-Ape, a ſort of Fiſh found in the Red-Sea, and the German Ocean.

Simila or Similago, fine Flower, or Meal.

Similar Arches, or Arks of a Circle, (in Geom.) ſuch as are like Parts of the whole Circumference.

Similar Bodies, (in Natural Philoſophy) thoſe Bodies that have their Particles of the ſame kind and nature one with another.

Similar Numbers or Plain Numbers, (in Arithm.) are thoſe Numbers that may be ranged into the form of Similar Rectangles, or Squares i. e. into Rectangles, whoſe Sides are proportional, ſuch are 12 and 48; for the Sides of 12 are 6 and 2, and the Sides of 48 are 12 and 4.

Similar Parts or Simple Parts, (in Anat.) thoſe Parts of the Body that are throughout of the ſame Nature and Frame; as the Fleſh, Bones, Veins, Arteries, Nerves, &c.

Similar Polygons, (in Geom. and Fortif.) ſuch as have their Angles ſeverally equal, and the Sides about thoſe Angles proportional.

Similar Rectangles, are thoſe that have their Sides about the equal Angles proportional, which is a Property belonging to all Squares.

Similar right-lin'd Figures, are ſuch as have equal Angles, and the Sides about thoſe equal Angles proportional.

Similar Segments of a Circle, are ſuch as contain equal Angles.

Similar Solid Numbers, are thoſe whoſe little Cubes may be ſo ranked, as to make Similar and Rectangular Parallelopipeds.

Similar Triangles, are ſuch as have all their three Angles reſpectively equal one to another.

Simile, a Similitude, Parable, or Compariſon.

Similitude, Likeneſs, Reſemblance, Compariſon: In Rhetorick, it is taken for a Form of Speech, wherein the Oratour compares one thing with another; as Power conſtrain'd is like a glorious Slave.

Similitudinary, belonging to, or expreſs'd by way of Similitude.

Simitar, Scimitar, or Cimetar, a ſort of broad Sword, much us'd in Turkey and Perſia.

Simnel, a kind of Cake or Bun, made of fine Flower.

Simon, (Heb. Obedient) a proper Name of Men, which was born by one of the Apoſtles, and ſeveral other eminent Perſons, mention'd in the New Teſtament and the Book of Maccabees.

Simon, a ſort of Compoſition. See Cement.

Simoniacal, belonging to, or done by Simony.

Simoniſt, one that is guilty of that Offence.

Simony, a Trade of Spiritual Things, a buying or ſelling of Church-Livings; any unlawful Contract, to have a Man preſented to a Parſonage; ſo call'd from Simon Magus, who would have bought the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt of the Apoſtles for Money.

Simple, (Lat.) pure, unmixt, uncompounded, ſingle, oppoſed to double; plain, void of Ornament, or Deceit; alſo downright, honeſt, innocent, harmleſs, ſilly, fooliſh.

Simple-Addition. See Addition.

Simple Eccentricity. See Eccentricity.

Simple-Flank. See Flank.

Simple Flowers. See Monopetalous Plants.

Simple Number. See Number.

Simple Place, a Term in Geometry. See Place Simple.

Simple Quantities, (in Algebra.) are ſuch as have but one Sign, whether Poſitive or Negative: Thus $3a$ or $+3a$ and $-2b$ are Simple Quantities; but $a+b+c-d+f$ are Compound ones. See Compound Quantities.

Simple Tenaille. See Tenaille.

Simple Wound. See Wound.

Simples, Phyſical Herbs, probably ſo call'd, as being the chief Ingredients of which compounded Medicines are made.

Simplar or Simpliſt, one that has skill in ſuch Simples.

Simpleton, a ſilly half-witted Perſon.

Simplex Charta. See Charta Simplex.

Simplex Beneficium, (in old Latin Records) a leſſer Dignity in a Cathedral or Collegiate Church, a Sine-Cure, a Penſion out of a Pariſh-Church, or any other Benefice, oppoſed to a Cure of Souls.

Simplex Juſticiarius, a Style anciently us'd for a Puny Judge that was not chief in any Court.

Simplicia, (in the Art of Phyſick) Simples or Medicines that are unmixt and uncompounded.

Simplicity, Plainneſs, Singleneſs, plain Dealing, downright Honeſty; alſo Indiſcretion, Sillineſs, Fooliſhneſs: Alſo the Name of an American Bird, otherwiſe call'd Humility; which See.

Simpling, as To go a Simpling, i. e. to go into the Fields, to gather Simples or Phyſical Herbs.

Simula, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Manchet, or White-Loaf.

Simulation, Diſſembling, Feigning, Diſguiſe.

Sinapi, (Gr.) Senvy-Seed, or Muſtard, which provokes Appetite, is good for Mother-Fits, the Falling-Sickneſs, Lethargy, Palſey, &c.

Sinapiſmus, an outward Medicine to be apply'd to the Head, made of Muſtard, Wild Radiſh, Salt and Yeſt.

Sinapium, a ſharp Sauce prepared with Muſtard-ſeed.

Sincere, honeſt, true, true-hearted, plain, downright, free, open.

Sincerity, Uprightneſs, Honeſty, Plainneſs.

Sinciput, (Lat.) the fore-part of the Head, reaching from the Forehead to the Coronal or Crown-ſuture.

Sine or Right Sign, (in Geom.) is a Right Line, drawn from one end of an Arch or Angle, perpendicularly upon the Diameter that paſſes thro' the other end of the ſame Arch.

Verſed Sine of an Arch or Angle, an Arch or Angle leſs than 90 Degrees, being that part of the Diameter which is comprehended between the Arch and the Right Sine.

Sine Complement of an Arch or Angle, is what that Arch or Angle wants of 90 Degrees, or what it is greater than 90 Degrees, when it exceeds them.

Sine aſſenſu Capitali, a Writ that lies where a Dean, Biſhop, Prebendary, Abbot, or Maſter of an Hoſpital, &c. alienates or diſpoſes of Lands holden in right of his Houſe, without the Conſent of the Chapter, Convent, or Society; in which Caſe the Succeſſour ſhall have this Writ.

Sine Cura or Sine-Cure, a Benefice without Cure of Souls.

Sine Die, (Law-Term i. e. without Day) when Judgment is given againſt the Plaintiff, he is ſaid to be in Miſericordia pro falſo clamore ſuo; but when againſt the Defendant, 'tis ſaid, Eat inde ſine Die.

Single, ſimple, alone.

Single, or Simple Eccentricity. See Eccentricity.

Single Tenaille. See Tenaille.

A Single, (among Hunters) the Tail of a Buck, Roe, or any other Deer.

To Single out, to pick out, or ſet a-part from other Perſons or Things.

Singular, peculiar, particular, ſpecial; rare, matchleſs, choice; odd, or affected.

Singular Number, (in Grammar) that Number whereby a Noun Subſtantive is apply'd to ſignify but one Perſon or Thing; as Homo, a Man; whereas the Plural ſignifies more, as Homines, Men.

Singularity, a being Singular, Uncommonneſs, Excellency, Rarity; a Particular or Affected Way, Affectedneſs.

Singultus, (Lat.) the Hickups, a Convulſive and Diſorderly Motion of the Midriff; a ſobbing.

Sinical Quadrant, a Mathematical Inſtrument, made of Braſs or Wood, on which Sines are drawn from each ſide, cutting one another, with an Index likewiſe divided by Sines, 90 Degrees on the Limb, and Sights on the Edge: It is us'd by Sea-men to ſolve any Problem of Plain-Sailing, and Queſtions in Aſtronomy.

Siniſter, (properly that is on, or towards the Left-Hand) untoward, unlucky, unfortunate; alſo indirect, diſhoneſt, unfair.

Siniſter Aſpect, (in Aſtrol.) an Appearance of two Planets that happens according to the Succeſſion of the Signs: As Saturn in Aries, and Mars in the ſame Degrees of Gemini; here Saturn is ſaid to caſt a Siniſter Aſpect on Mars.

Siniſter Side or Part of an Eſcutcheon (in Heraldry) is the Left Side Part. Siniſter Chief Point, is next the Middle Chief on the Left Side; and Siniſter Baſe Point is next the Baſe Point at the Bottom of the Eſcutcheon.

To Sink, to drive, fall, or ſettle to the bottom, to deſtroy or undo; to fail or faint.

To Sink a Deck, (in Sea-Language) is to lay the Deck of a Ship lower than it was before.

Sinnet, a Line made of Rope-Yarn, generally of two, ſix or nine Strings, which being platted one over another, are beaten ſmall and flat with a wooden Mallet: Their main uſe is to ſerve, or bind about Ropes, to keep them from Galling.

Sinonia, a Paracelſian Term for the white glew of the Joynts.

Si non omnes, a Writ of Aſſociation, whereby if all in Commiſſion cannot meet at the Day appointed, it is allow'd, That two or more of them may finiſh the Buſineſs.

Sinoper or Sinople, a kind of Mineral, ſo nam'd from Sinope, a City of Paphlagonia, in the leſſer Aſia, near which it was heretofore found in great abundance: But it is commonly call'd Ruddle, or Red-lead, and us'd by Painters for a deep Red, or Purple Colour.

Sinuoſity, a being full of Turnings, Windings, or Bendings.

Sinus, (Lat.) properly the large Lappet of a Gown, which the Romans us'd to caſt over their Shoulder; a Boſom; the running or hollowneſs of Water-banks, a Gulph or great Bay of the Sea: In Geometry, a Sine; which See.

In Anatomy, Sinus is taken for any Cavity or hollow Space, in, or between the Veſſels of an Animal Body: In Surgery, it is when the beginning of an Impoſtume, or Ulcer, is narrow, and the bottom large: And ſome Philoſophical Writers call thoſe Fiſſures or Clefts, which are between the ſeveral Strata, or Layers of the Earth, in Mines, &c. by this Term Sinus.

Sinus Meningium, (in Anat.) certain Cavities or hollow Parts in the Brain, which Galen calls the Ventricles of the thick Membrane: The Firſt and Second, or the Lateral Sinus's are ſeated between the Brain and the Cerebellum, and end in the Vertebral Sinus's: The third begins from the Os Cribriforme, and ends in the middle of the former: The fourth ariſes from the Glandula Pinealis and ends likewiſe in the middle of the Lateral Sinus's: They are otherwiſe call'd Ventriculi Cerebri; which See.

Sinus Oſſium, are thoſe Cavities of the Bones, which receive the Heads of other Bones.

Sion, (Heb. Drineſs) the Name of a Mountain in Judæa, often mention'd in the Holy Scriptures.

Sion-College, a College in London, founded by Thomas White, Doctor in Divinity, for the uſe of the Clergy of the City and Liberties, with Part for the Maintenance of Twenty poor People.

Sion, or Sium, (Gr.) an Herb, call'd Water-Parſley, yellow Water-Creſſes, or Bell-Rags.

Siphon, a Cock, or Pipe in a Conduit, the Tap or Faucet of a Veſſel: Alſo a Tube or Pipe of Glaſs or Metal, which is uſually bent to an acute Angle, and has one Leg ſhorter than the other: Theſe Siphons or Cranes, are often us'd to draw off Liquors out of one Barrel or Veſſel into another, without raiſing the Lees or Dregs; ſo that the Liquor beginning to run, will continue ſo till all be empty'd, without any other force than the natural preſſure of the Air. Sometimes Glaſs-Tubes, or Pipes, tho' ſtraight, are call'd Siphons.

Si quis, (Lat.) a Paper or Bill ſet up in ſome open Place on a Poſt or Wall, to proclaim any thing that is loſt, &c. ſo call'd from the firſt Words of it in Latin, Si quis invenerit, i. e. If any one has found, &c.

Si recognoſcat, a Writ that lies for a Creditor againſt his Debtor, who before the Sheriff in the County-Court has acknowledged himſelf to owe his Creditor ſuch a Summ, received of him in pecuniis numeratis, i. e. in numbred or ready Money.

Sirens, certain Sea-Monſters or Mermaids on the Coaſts of Sicily, having the upper Parts of their Bodies like Women and the lower ones like Fiſhes, who (as the Story goes) us'd to allure Paſſengers on Shore, where they were robb'd and devour'd: But Ulyſſes being deſirous to hear their Harmony, ſtopt the Ears of his Companions with ſoft Wax, and caus'd himſelf to be bound to the Main-maſt of the Ship; whereupon being diſcontented at the loſs of ſo great a Prize, they threw themſelves into the Sea, and were chang'd into Rocks. Whence 'tis ſaid of a Woman having a charming Voice, That ſhe Sings like a Siren.

Siriaſis, a fault in Trees, when by exceſſive Heat, they are ſcorch'd and burnt: Alſo a Diſeaſe in Children, proceeding from an Inflammation of the Brain, occaſion'd by the heat of the Sun.

Sirius, the Dog-ſtar, a bright Star of the firſt Magnitude or Size, in the Conſtellation call'd Canis Major, which towards the Latter end of Summer cauſes a vehement and raging Heat; whence the Dog-days take their Name.

Sirones, a ſort of Puſhes or Wheals which ariſe in the Palms of the Hands and Soles of the Feet, containing in them certain ſmall Inſects like Lice.

Sirocco, (Ital.) the South-Eaſt Wind.

Siler or Siſarum, (Gr.) the Skirret-root, the white Carret, or Yellow Parſnip.

Siſkin, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Green-finch.

Siſtrum, (Gr.) a ſort of Muſical Inſtrument of an Oval Shape like a Racket, in uſe among the Ancients.

Siſymbrium, Water-mint or Spear-mint, an Herb Siſymbrium aquaticum, Water-creſſes.

Siſyrinchion, a kind of great Onion.

Site, or Scite, the Situation or ſtanding of any Territory, Place, or Building: In Logick, it is that Predicament, which declares a Subject to be ſo, or ſo placed. See Poſition.

Sith, an old Word for Since.

Sithcundman, (Sax.) one that had the Office to lead the Men of a Town, or Pariſh; the High Conſtable of a Hundred.

Siticines, (Lat. among the Romans) were thoſe who ſounded upon a ſort of Trumpet that had a very ſorrowful and mournful Tone, at their Funeral Solemnities.

Sitis, Thirſt, a failure of the Juice call'd Spittle, which occaſions the deſire of Drink; Drought, or Drineſs.

Sittim, or Sethim, (Heb.) a certain Wood growing in Judæa, of which the Ark was made.

Situate or Situated, ſeated; as The Town is ſituated upon a Hill.

Situation, the manner of being ſituated, Seat. See Site.

Sixain, (in the Art of War) an Order of Battel for Six Battalions. Any number of Battalions produc'd by the Multiplication of Six, may be drawn up in this Order; for twelve Battalions will make two Sixains, eighteen will make three, and ſo on.

Size, Proportion, Bigneſs, Length; alſo a ſort of Compoſition us'd by Plaiſterers to make the White-waſh ſtick on Walls; alſo a kind of Paſte us'd by Shoomakers: Alſo that glewiſh, oily Matter, which Painters in Diſtemper mix with their Colours.

Among the Scholars in the Univerſity of Cambridge, a Size is taken for ſo much Bread or Beer ſet upon any of their Names in the Buttery-Book, as amounts to the value of a Farthing, and is noted with the Letter S.

To Size, to meaſure Pots, Veſſels, &c. to waſh or rub over with Size; to Score as Students doe in the Buttery-Book of a College at Cambridge; which at Oxford, is termed to Battle.

Sizeable, that is of a fit or convenient Size.

Sizel, (a Term us'd in the Mint) the remainder of the long flat Bars of Metal, which is to be melted down again, after the round pieces of Money have been cut out according to their reſpective Sizes.

Sizer, a Cambridge-Scholar, of the loweſt Rank, the ſame as a Servitor at Oxford.

Sizieme, (Fr.) a ſequence of Six Cards at the Game of Picket.

Skarfed, (Sea-Term) when one piece of Timber is let and faſten'd into another. See Scarfed.

To Skatch a Wheel, to ſtop or ſtay the Wheel of a Cart, Waggon or other Carriage, by putting a piece of Wood, a Stone, or ſuch like under it.

Skeg, a kind of wild Plum of a reddiſh Colour growing in Hedges: The Skeg in a Ship, is that ſmall and ſlender Part of the Keel, which is cut ſlanting and is left a little without the Stern-poſt; but theſe Skegs being found inconvenient, are not now much in Uſe.

Skegger-Trout, a ſort of Fiſh.

Skeleton, (Gr. in Anat.) a ſet of cleaned and dried Bones of the dead Body of a Man or other Living-Creature, artificially joyn'd together by means of their Ligaments, or elſe with Wires, in their natural Places and Order.

Skeletta, (in old Latin Records) a little Bell for a Church-ſteeple; whence our Veſſels call'd Skillets uſually made of Bell-metal.

Skellum, a Dutch Word for a Rogue.

Skepe or Scuttle, (among Husbandmen) a ſort of flat and broad Basket to winnow Corn with.

Sketch, a rude Draught, the firſt Draught of a Fancy, eſpecially in Painting or Drawing.

To Sketch, to chalk out, to deſign.

Skew; as, To look ſkew, or a-ſkew, to ſquint or leer, to look ſhy, or with an evil Eye upon one.

To Skew, See, To Skue.

Skeyn, a kind of Iriſh ſhort Sword.

To Skid a Wheel, to ſtop the Wheel of a Coach or Cart with a Hook, at the deſcent of a Hill.

Skiff, or Shallop, the leſſer of the two Boats that belong to a Ship.

Skill, Capacity, Knowledge, Experience.

Skilled, that has Skill, or is well verſed in; skilful.

Skink, a four-footed Serpent, a kind of Land-Crocodile: Alſo a ſort of ſtrong Scotch Potage, made of Knuckles and Sinews of Beef, long boiled.

Skinker, (Dutch) a filler of Drink, a Butler or Cup-bearer.

Skip, a Leap or Jump. Skip, or Skip-kennel, is alſo a nick-name for a Foot-man.

Skip-jack, a pitiful Fellow that skips or ſcampers up and down; a ſorry Intruder.

Skipper, the Maſter of a Dutch Ship; alſo a common Sea-man.

Skippound, (qu. Ship-pound) is the Dividend of a Laſt of Corn, laden in a Ship, and contains 300, 320, 340, and 400 Pounds.

Skirmiſh, a ſmall Encounter of a few Men, when they fight in Confuſion without obſerving Order.

To Skirmiſh, to engage or fight after ſuch a manner; as ſtraggling Parties do before the main Battel is joyn'd.

Skirret, a Plant whoſe Root is ſomewhat like a Parſnip, which being dreſs'd after the ſame manner, is counted a great Dainty, and a ſtrengthening Food.

Skittiſh, jadiſh or reſty, as ſome Horſes are; alſo humourſome, fantaſtical, rugged.

Skreen. See Screen.

To Skue or walk ſkuing, to waddle, to go ſideling along.

To Skulk. See To Sculk.

Skuppers. See Scuppers.

Skute, (Dutch) a little Boat.

Skyvenage, (in old Statutes) the Precincts of the Town of Calais in France, ſo call'd whilſt in the Poſſeſſion of the Engliſh.

Slab, a Puddle: Among Carpenters and Joyners, the out-ſide ſappy Plank or Board ſawn off from the ſides of Timber.

Slabby, plaſhy, full of Dirt.

Slade, (Sax. in old Records) a long flat piece or ſlip of Ground.

Slam, the winning of all the Tricks at Cards.

To Slander, to back-bite, or ſpeak evil of.

Slanderous, apt to ſlander, or rail at, foul-mouthed, abuſive.

Slank, ſlim, ſlender; alſo a kind of Sea-weed.

Slatch, (Sea-Term) when the middle part of a Cable or Rope hangs ſlack without the Ship, or in the Water, the uſual Phraſe is, Hale up the Slatch of the Cable or Rope: Alſo a ſmall Interval or Time of fair Weather after a great deal of foul, is termed a Slatch of fair Weather.

Slattern, a ſlattering Woman, i. e. one that minds nothing, but leaves all at random.

Slay, an Inſtrument belonging to a Weaver's Loom that has Teeth like a Comb.

To Slay, (old Word) to kill.

Sleaved, as Sleaved Silk, i. e. ſuch as is wrought fit for Uſe.

Sled, or Sledge, a ſort of Carriage without Wheels, whereon to lay a Plough or other weighty thing to be drawn; or ſuch as thoſe on which Traytors are uſually drawn to the Place of Execution.

Sledge, is alſo a great Hammer that Smiths hold with both Hands in beating out Iron on the Anvil.

Sleeper, a Perſon that ſleeps: Among Shipwrights, thoſe Timbers are termed Sleepers, which lie before and behind in the bottom of a Ship; their Uſe being to ſtrengthen and bind faſt the Timbers call'd Futtocks and Rungs; as alſo to line out and make the narrowing of the Ship's Floor.

To Sleer, to leer, peer at, or blink.

Sleet, Rain and Snow falling together.

To Slide, to glide along, to ſlip.

Sliding-Rules or Scales, are Mathematical Inſtruments to be us'd without Compaſſes, in Gauging, Meaſuring, &c. having their Lines fitted ſo as to anſwer Proportions by Inſpection.

Slime, ſoft Mud; alſo a clammy or glewiſh Humour.

Sliming, (in Falconry) is ſaid of a Hawk's muting long-ways, in an entire Subſtance without dropping any thing.

Slimy, full of Slime, ropy.

Sling, an Inſtrument to throw Stones with; alſo another ſort us'd by Brewers to heave Veſſels out of a Dray, and ſtow them in a Cellar: In Sea-Affairs, a Rope ſpliced, or faſten'd into it ſelf at each end, and making an Eye ſufficiently large, to receive a Cask or Pack, that is to be hoiſed up.

Slinging of the Yards, is when the Yards are faſt bound aloft to the Croſs-Tree, and to the Head of the Maſt, by any Rope or Chain; which is done, that if the Tye ſhould happen to break or be ſhot into pieces in a Fight, the Yard nevertheleſs may be kept from falling down on the Hatches.

Slink, a caſt Calf.

To Slink, to ſteal or ſneak away.

Slips. See Cuttings.

To Sliver, to cut into Slivers, or thin Slices.

† Slocken, ſoftned; as Slocken with over-much Moiſture.

Slocker or Slockſter, (Dutch) one that entices away other Mens Servants; a Kid-napper.

Sloe, a ſort of Wild Plum.

Sloe-worm, a kind of Inſect.

Sloop, a ſmall Sea-Veſſel.

Slops, a wide ſort of Breeches worn by Seamen.

Slot, (among Hunters) the view or print of a Stag's Foot in the Ground.

Sloth, Idleneſs; alſo a kind of wild Beaſt. See Pigritia.

Slouch, a great lubberly Fellow; a meer Country-Bumpkin.

Sloven, a naſty, beaſtly Fellow.

Slough, a deep and muddy Place, the caſt Skin of a Snake, the damp of a Coal-pit, the Scar of a Wound.

Slough of a wild Boar, the Bed, Soil, or Mire, wherein he wallows, or the Place in which he lies in the Day-time.

Slough-Silver, a certain Rent paid to the Caſtle of Wigmore, inſtead of ſome Days-work in Harveſt, heretofore performed by the Tenant for his Lord.

Slouth, (a Term in Hunting) a Herd or Company of ſome ſorts of wild Beaſts; as, A Slouth of Bears.

Slow in Motion, a Phraſe us'd by Aſtrologers, when a Planet's daily Motion happens to be leſs than its mean Motion.

To Slubber a thing over, to do it careleſly, or without due Application.

Sluce, a Frame of Wood ſet in a River to keep out the Water; a Vent or Drain for Water on Land.

Slug, a heavy ſort of great Gun; or a ſort of Shot for a Gun; alſo a Ship that ſails heavily.

Slug or Slug-Snail, a Dew-ſnail that has no Shell.

Smack, Taſte, Reliſh, Smattering; an eager Kiſs; alſo a ſmall light Sea-Veſſel.

Smackering, a longing for, or being deſirous of; as, To have a ſmackering after a thing.

Smaka, (in old Records) a Smack or little Ship.

Small-Craft, (Sea-Term) all ſuch Lines, Nets and Hooks, as ſerve to catch Fiſh; alſo all manner of ſmall Veſſels; as Catches, Hoys, Crays, &c.

Small-piece, a Scotch Coin, worth Two Pence Farthing Engliſh, of which three make a Noble.

Small Pox, an infectious Diſeaſe. See Variolæ.

Smallage, a wholeſome Herb often put into Broth, &c.

Smalt, a kind of Blew Powder-Colour, us'd in Painting; blew Enamel.

Smaragdus, (Gr.) the Emerald, a precious Stone that is tranſparent and of a lovely Green Colour, very much comforting the Eyes.

Smaris, the white Cackerel, a Sea-fiſh.

Smart, quick, violent, ſharp, biting, brisk, witty; alſo ſharp pain, as of a Wound or Sore.

Smatterer, one that has ſome ſmatch or tincture of Learning.

Smattering, a ſuperficial, or light Knowledge.

Smectis, (Gr.) Fullers-Earth.

Smectymnuus, a Word made out of the firſt Letters of the Names of Five Presbyterian Miniſters, who about A. D. 1641, wrote a Book againſt Epiſcopacy and the Common-Prayer, viz. Stephen Marſhal, Edmund Calamy, Thomas Young, Matthew Newcomen, and William Spurſtow: Whence they and their Followers were call'd Smectymnians.

Smegma, (Gr.) Soap, or any thing that ſcours; a Waſh-ball.

Smegmatick, belonging to Soap, Soapy, that is of a ſcouring Faculty.

Smelling, a Senſe probably occaſioned by the Effluvia or ſmall flowing Parts of Bodies, that mingle themſelves with the Air, and get up into the Noſtrils, which are cover'd with a very Nervous ſenſible Coat, and communicate certain correſponding Motions to the Brain; ſo that the Soul may judge differently of Bodies ſending forth their reſpective Effluvia: Therefore when thoſe Effluvia produce a grateful Senſation, ſuch a Body is ſaid, To have a ſweet Smell, but when a diſagreeable one, we ſay, It ſtinks.

Smelt, a ſmall Sea-fiſh.

To Smelt, to melt Metal in the Oar, in a particular Furnace made for that Purpoſe, and call'd, The ſmelting-Furnace.

Smeth, a certain Ointment to take away the Hair.

To Smicker, to look amorouſly, or wantonly.

Smilax, (Gr.) the Yew-tree: Alſo an Herb that has leaves like Ivy, with Berries and white Flowers, which runs upon Trees, and ſmells like a Lilly.

Smilax-Hortenſis, the French Bean, or Kidney-bean. Smilax lævis, Rope-weed, or Withy-weed.

Smired, (Sax.) anointed.

Smiris or Smyris, (Gr.) the Emery or Emeril-ſtone, a hard Stone that Glaziers cut their Glaſs, and Jewellers poliſh their Jewels with.

To Smirk, to ſmile, or look pleaſant.

To Smite, to ſtrike, or hit: In Falconry, a Hawk is ſaid To ſmite or ſnite, when ſhe wipes her Beak or Bill after Feeding.

Smithy, a Smith's Shop, or Forge.

Smiting-Line, (in a Ship) a ſmall Rope made faſt to the Miſſen Yard-arm, which ſerves to looſe the Miſſen Sail without ſtriking down the Yard; for being pulled hard it breaks all the Rope-yarns with which that Sail is furled up: Whence the Word of Art is, Smite the Miſſen, i. e. pull by this Rope, that the Sail may fall down.

Smoke-Farthings, a certain Yearly Rent heretofore paid for the Cuſtomary Dues offer'd by the Inhabitants of a Dioceſs at Whitſontide, when they made their Proceſſions to the Mother Cathedral Church.

Smoke-Silver or Smoke-Penny, Money paid to the Miniſters of ſeveral Pariſhes inſtead of Tithe-wood.

Smooth Boiling of Sugar, (among Confectioners) is when the Sugar is Boil'd to ſuch a Degree, that the Artiſt having dipt the tip of his Fore-Finger into it, afterwards applying it to his Thumb, a ſmall Thread or String ſticks to both, which immediately breaks, and remains in a Drop upon the Finger.

Smoterlich, (old Word) Snout-fair.

Smug, Spruce, neat.

To Smug one's ſelf up, to trim or trick one's ſelf up, to ſet one's ſelf off to the beſt Advantage.

To Smuggle Goods, to run them aſhore, or bring them in by ſtealth, without paying the Cuſtom.

Smyrna, (Gr.) the Gum call'd Myrrh; which See.

Smyrnium, Lovage, or Parſley of Macedon; an Herb.

Snack, ſhare; as To go Snacks with one.

Snacket, a kind of Haſp for Caſements.

Snaffle, a ſort of Bridle or Bit for a Horſe.

Snag, a Knot, Knob, or Bunch.

Snail-Clover, an Herb. See Sainfoin.

Snake, a ſort of Serpent.

Snake-eater, an American Bird. See Hoactzin.

Snake-weed, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Adders-wort and Biſtort; which See.

Snap, a kind of Noiſe; alſo a Morſel, or Bit.

To Snap, to break, to catch; to ſnub or ſpeak roughly.

Snap-Dragon, an Herb; alſo a ſort of Sport.

Snap-haunce, a Fire-lock, a Gun that ſtrikes Fire without a Match.

Snappiſh, ſurly, rude, rough, crabbed.

To Snarl, to grin like a Dog; alſo to be intangled, as a Skain of Thread or Silk may be.

To Snatch or Snatch away, to catch ſuddenly, to wreſt or take away eagerly by force.

Snatch-Block, (in a Ship) a great Block or Pulley, having a notch cut thro' one of its Cheeks, for the more ready receiving in of any Rope: It is commonly faſten'd with a ſtrap about the Main-Maſt, cloſe to the upper Deck, and is chiefly us'd for the Fall of the Winding-Tackle, which is let into this Block, and then brought to the Capſtan.

Snead, Sneath, or Sneed, (Country-Word) the Handle of a Sithe or ſuch like Tool.

To Sneak, to lurk about, to creep up and down pitifully.

Sneaks or Sneaksby, a ſneaking ſorry Fellow that ſcarce dares ſhew his Head.

Sneath. See Snead.

To Sneer, to laugh fooliſhly, or ſcornfully.

Sneezing-Wort, an Herb ſo call'd from its Faculty of cauſing to ſneez.

Snet, (among Hunters) the Fat of all ſorts of Deer.

To Snicker or Snigger, to laugh in one's Sleeve.

Snipe, a ſort of Fowl.

Snite, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Rail.

To Snite, a Term in Falconry. See To Smite.

Snodde, (in old Records) a ſmooth roll or bottom of Thread, Silk, &c. from the Saxon Word Snod, a Fillet or Hair-lace, us'd by Women to ſmooth up their Hair, which in the North Parts of England is now call'd a Snude, and in Scotland a Snod.

To Snook, to lie lurking for a thing.

Snow-Drops, a ſort of Flower.

To Snub one, to take one up ſharply, to keep under or in ſubjection.

Snudge, an old Curmudgeon, or cloſe-fiſted Fellow.

To Snudge along, to go like a Snudge, or one whoſe Head is full of Buſineſs.

To Snuffle, to ſpeak in the Noſe.

Snurl, a Rheum in the Head.

Snut-noſed, that has a flat Noſe.

Soame, a Word us'd in the Weſtern Parts of England, for an Horſe-load.

Sober, (Lat.) temperate, moderate; ſerious, grave; modeſt, diſcreet.

Sobriety or Soberneſs, a Vertue by which one abſtains from eating and drinking more than is requiſite or fit for Nouriſhment; Temperance, Moderation, prudent Carriage.

Soc, a Power or Liberty of Juriſdiction: Whence the Law Latin Word Soca ſignifying a Seigniory or Lordſhip endowed by the King with Liberty of holding a Court of his Tenants call'd Sockmen.

Socage or Soccage, a certain Tenure of Lands, by inferiour Husbandry-Services to be performed to the Lord of the Fee; from the French Word Soc, a Coulter or Plough-ſhare. There were two ſorts of this Tenure, viz. Free or Common, and baſe Soccage, otherwiſe call'd Villenage; but by Stat. 12, Car. 2. all Tenures are adjudged and taken to be turned into the former free and common Soccage.

Socager, Sockman, or Sokeman, a Tenant that holds Lands and Tenements by Socage. See Socmen.

Sociable, (Lat.) that delights in, or is fit for Company or Converſation.

Society, Company, Converſation, Civil Intercourſe, Fellowſhip, Friendſhip: Alſo a Company of ſeveral Perſons joyn'd together for ſome common Intereſt, or to aſſiſt one another in the Management of any particular Buſineſs.

The Royal Society, a Fellowſhip of Noble, Learned and Ingenious Men, well skill'd in the moſt uſeful Parts of Knowledge, viz. Mathematical, Phyſiological, Mechanical, and Chymical, founded by K. Charles II. under the Name of the Preſident, Council, and Fellows of the Royal Society of London for improving Natural Knowledge.

Socinianiſm, the Principles and Opinions of the Socinians.

Socinians, an Heretical Sect that deny the Divinity of the Son of God, whoſe execrable Doctrine was firſt broach'd by Lælius Socinus, and afterwards promoted by Fauſtus Socinus of Siena A. D. 1555.

Socket, that part of a Candleſtick in which the Candle is ſet; alſo a piece of Braſs or Iron at the bottom of a Pike, Halbard, &c. Sockets in a Ship are the Holes, which the Pintles or Iron-pins of the Guns, call'd Murdering-pieces and Fowlers are let into.

Socmen, (among our Saxon Anceſtors) a ſort of Tenants that manur'd and till'd the Inland or peculiar Demeans of their Lord, yielding him Work and not Rent: But after the Conqueſt, the proper Socmen, were thoſe who held by no Servile Tenure, but generally paid their Rent as a Soke, or Sign of Freedom; tho' they were ſometimes oblig'd to certain Cuſtomary Duties for the Service and Honour of their Lord.

Socna, (Sax.) a Privilege or Liberty, and Franchiſe.

Socome, (in Common Law) a Cuſtom of grinding at the Lord's Mill: Of theſe there is Bond-ſocome, where the Tenants are bound thereto; and Love-ſocome, where they do it freely out of Love to their Lord.

Socque, (Fr.) a Sandal, wooden Pattin or Clog for the Feet, worn by the Friers call'd, Recollects.

Socrates, (Gr. ſaving Strength) a moſt Excellent Philoſopher of Athens, whom the Oracle pronounc'd to be the Wiſeſt Man on Earth.

† Sodality, Fellowſhip, Society, Brotherhood.

Sodom, (Heb. Champain Ground) one of the Five Cities of a very large, fruitful and pleaſant Plain in the Holy Land, which were utterly deſtroy'd by Fire from Heaven; the Country where they ſtood being ſwallow'd up in the Lake of Brimſtone, commonly call'd the Dead Sea.

Sodom-Apples, certain Apples that grow in thoſe Parts, and appear very fair to the Eye; but being full of Soot and Smoke, they crumble away at the firſt Touch.

Sodomite, one that commits Sodomy, a Buggerer.

Sodomitical, belonging to that hainous Crime.

Sodomy, Buggery, a Sin of the Fleſh againſt Nature, ſo call'd becauſe it was notoriouſly committed by the Inhabitants of the City of Sodom.

Sofa, a kind of Alcove much us'd in the Eaſtern Countries, being an Apartment of State, rais'd about two Foot above the Floor of the Room, and furniſh'd with rich Carpets and Cuſhions, where Perſons of the greateſt Honour are Entertained.

Sofees, a certain Sect among the Turks, that paſs for Religious Puritans, who commonly read in the Streets and publick Places, being ever very buſy with their Beads, that the World may take notice of their Counterfeit Devotion; and when they ſay any thing, it is but two Words; as Subhawn Allah, i. e. God is pure, or Iſtigfie Allah, God defend, and ſometimes Alloho Ekbec, God is great.

Soft Body. See Elaſtick Body.

Soil, Ground conſidered with reſpect to its Quality or Situation; Country: Among Hunters, the Slough or Mire, in which a Wild Boar wallows.

Soil-bound. See Cruſt-clung.

To Take Soil, to run into the Water, as a Deer does when cloſe purſued.

To Soil, to dung or muck, to dirty or foul.

To Sojourn, (Fr.) to tarry, ſtay, or continue for ſome time in a Place; to dwell, abide, or live a while in it.

Soit fait Comme il eſt deſire, (Fr. i. e. let it be done as it is deſired) a Form uſ'd when the Queen gives her Royal Aſſent to a private Bill, preferred to her in Parliament.

Soka or Soke, (Sax. Law-Term) the Liberty or Privilege of Tenants, excus'd from Cuſtomary Impoſitions or Burdens: Sometimes it was taken for the Territory or Juriſdiction, in which the Chief Lord exercis'd his Liberty of keeping Courts, or holding Tryals within his own Soke or Juriſdiction: Sometimes it was alſo taken for a Quit-rent, or Payment made to the Lord by his Tenant, for acting in Quality of a Sockman or Free-holder.

Soke-reeve, the Rent-gatherer in the Lord's Soke.

To Soke, to ſteep; to drain or empty one's Pockets.

Sokemanry, the Free Tenure, or holding of Land by Socage.

Soken. See Soc and Hamſoken.

Soker; as, An old Soker, i. e. a luſty Toper, ſound Tippler, or hard Drinker.

Sol, (Lat.) the Sun, the King of the Planets, Fountain of Light, and Eye of the World: Among Chymiſts it is taken for Gold, and in Heraldry for the Gold Colour, in the Coats of Soveraign Princes: Alſo the Name of one of the Muſical Notes. See Notes.

Solace, Conſolation, Comfort, Delight.

To Solace, to afford Solace or Comfort, to recreate one's Self.

Solachs, the Soldiers of the Grand Seignior's Foot-guards, who are about three Hundred in Number, and attend upon him armed with Bows and Arrows.

Soleus, (Lat. in Anat.) a Muſcle that helps to ſtretch out the Foot.

Solander, a Horſe-Diſeaſe. See Seliander.

Solanum, (Lat.) the Herb Night-ſhade or Banewort. Solanum Veſicarium, Alkakengi, or Winter-Cherry.

Solar, belonging to the Sun.

Solar Comet. See Diſceus.

Solar Cycle. See Cycle of the Sun.

Solar Spots. See Spots of the Sun.

Solar Year, is either Tropical or Sidereal: The former is that ſpace of Time which the Sun takes up in paſſing thro' the Zodiack, or in returning to the ſame Equinoctial or Solſtitial Point, which amounts to 365 Days 5 Hours and about 55 Minutes: And the Sidereal or Aſtral Year, is the ſpace the Sun employs in coming back to any particular fixed Star, which is a little longer than the other, viz. about 365 Days 8 Hours and 9 Minutes.

Solarium, (Lat.) a Sun-dial; alſo a piece of Ground levelled, or Place raiſed up and expoſed to the Sun, where People us'd to walk; a Terrace-Walk: In our ancient Writers, it is taken for an upper Room or Garret, which in ſome Parts of England, is call'd a Sollar.

In the Roman Law, Solarium, ſignifies Ground-rent; a Penſion or Tribute paid for the Soil, or for a Houſe that ſtands upon publick Land.

Soldan, a Mahometan Prince; as, The Soldan of Egypt.

Soldanella, (Lat.) an Herb, call'd Sea-Bind-weed.

Solder or Soder, a kind of Compoſition us'd by Plummers, Silver-Smiths, and other Artificers in the working and binding of Metals.

To Solder, to joyn or faſten with Solder.

Soldier, (Fr.) one that ſerves in the Wars for a certain Pay, which is call'd Solde by the French. In America there is a kind of Snail nam'd a Soldier, with a Foot like a Crab's Claw, which having no Shell of its own, harbours in that of the Periwinkle.

Soldiery, the Militia, or Body of Soldiers.

Sole, only or alone.

Sole Tenant, (Law-Term) a Man or Woman that holds Land only in his or her own Right, without any other joyned.

Solea, (Lat.) a Sole of a Shooe, a Galloſhe, a Slipper; alſo a ſort of Sea-fiſh, in ſhape reſembling the Sole of one's Foot.

Soleæ (among the Romans) Sandals, a rich Wear or covering for the Feet made of Gold and Silk, having Leather-Soles ty'd with Thongs on the back part of the Foot.

Solecíſm, (Gr.) an impropriety of Speech contrary to the Grammar-Rules: The Word is deriv'd from the Soli, a People originally of Attica in Greece, who being tranſplanted to Cilicia in the leſſer Aſia, quite loſt the purity of their Mother-Tongue, inſomuch that they became noted for their rude Pronounciation and uncouth Expreſſions.

Solemn, (Lat.) properly, uſed or done publickly every Year at ſome certain time, performed with great Pomp or State; authentick, effectual.

Solemnity, a ſolemn Action.

Solemnization, the Act of Solemnizing.

To Solemnize, to do or ſet forth after a ſolemn manner, to celebrate, as To Solemnize a Victory, a Marriage, &c.

Solen, (Gr.) the Sheath or Raſor-fiſh, a ſort of Shell-fiſh: Alſo a Surgeon's Frame in which a broken Leg or Thigh is placed.

Solet & Debet. See Debet & Solet.

Solid, (Lat.) maſſive, hard, ſtrong, firm; real, ſubſtantial; ſound, laſting.

A Solid, (in Geom.) the third kind of Magnitude, that has three Dimenſions, viz. Length, Breadth and Thickneſs; and it is often us'd in the ſame Senſe as Body; which See.

Solid Angle, an Angle made by the meeting of three or more Planes, and thoſe joyning in a Point, like that of a Diamond well cut.

Solid Baſtion, See Baſtion.

Solid Numbers, are thoſe that ariſe from the Multiplication of a plain Number by any others whatever: Thus 18 is a ſolid Number made of 6 multiply'd by 3, or of 9 multiply'd by 2.

Solid-Place. See Place Solid.

Solid Problem, is one that cannot be Geometrically ſolved but by the Interſection of a Circle and a Conick Section; or by the Interſection of two other Conick Sections beſides the Circle.

Solidago, (Lat.) the Herb Comfrey, Conſound, or Wall-wort, good to cloſe Wounds.

Solidata, (in old Records) the Hire or Pay of a Soldier. Solidata terræ, twelve Acres of Land.

† Solidation, a making ſolid or firm, a ſoldering or faſtening.

Solidity, Firmneſs, Soundneſs, Maſſineſs; in a figurative Senſe it is taken for ſoundneſs of Judgment, depth of Learning, &c.

In a Philoſophical Senſe, Solidity is a Quality of a Natural Body oppoſed to Fluidity, which conſiſts in the Parts of Bodies being interwoven and intangled one with another, ſo that they cannot ſpread themſelves ſeveral Ways, after the manner of Fluid Bodies. Among Architects, it is taken for the choice of a good Foundation and ſound Materials to work with.

Solidity of a Body, (in Geom.) is the number of little determinate ſolid Meaſures that are contained in it.

Solido, (Lat.) as A Bond in Solido, i. e. a Bond or Writing Obligatory for the Whole.

Solidum, the Whole, the Full and Whole; alſo a Weight of four Scruples in Uſe among the Ancients.

Solidus, an entire or whole piece of Gold-Coin, near the Value of our old Noble or Spur-Royal; but it is now taken for a Shilling.

Solifidian, one that holds Faith only without Works, as neceſſary to Salvation.

Soliloquy, a diſcourſing or meditating alone with one's ſelf.

Solipuga, (Lat.) a kind of venomous Ant or Piſmire, that in the heat of the Sun ſtings moſt vehemently, and is often found in the Silver-mines of the Iſland of Sardinia: It is alſo written Solifuga and Salpuga.

Solitary, loneſome, private, retired, unfrequented; alſo that loves to be alone.

Solitaurilia, (Lat.) a Sacrifice of a Sow, Bull and Sheep, which the Roman Cenſors offer'd every five Years, when they perform'd the Luſtrum, or number'd and tax'd the Citizens.

Solitude, a ſolitary or uninhabited Place, a Deſart; alſo a Retirement, or ſolitary Life.

Sollar or Solar, an upper Room of a Houſe, the Story next the Tiles. See Solarium.

To Sollicit, to importune or preſs, to move, urge, entice, or egg on; to proſecute a Buſineſs, to follow it hard.

Sollicitation, Motion, Inducement, Inſtance, Perſwaſion; the ſolliciting or proſecuting of a Buſineſs.

Sollicitour, one that Sollicits: In a Law Senſe, a Perſon employ'd to follow and take care of Suits, depending in Courts of Law or Equity.

Sollicitous, full of Care and Fear, troubled or much concerned about a thing.

Sollicitude, carking Care, great Trouble, anguiſh of Mind.

Solomon, (Heb. Peaceable) K. David's Son by Bathſheba, and his Succeſſour in the Kingdom.

Solomon's Seal, an Herb whoſe Leaves grow one above another, like the Rounds of ſome Ladders; whence it is call'd Scala Cœli, and Jacob's Ladder: It ſeals up the Lips of green Wounds and Ruptures, and ſtops Fluxes.

Solon, one of the Seven Wiſe Men of Greece and a Law-giver to the Athenians, about the Time when Tarquinius Priſcus reign'd at Rome.

Sols or Sous, a French Coin that contains 12 Deniers, and of which 20 make a Livre, being equal to $3\frac{1}{5}$ Farthings of Engliſh Money.

Solſtice, (Lat. in Aſtron.) the Time when the Sun being come to either of the Tropical Points is got fartheſt from the Equator; where it ſeems for ſome Days to be at a ſtand, before its Return back, which happens twice a Year, in the Summer and Winter-Seaſons.

The Eſtival or Summer-Solſtice, is when the Sun ent'ring the Tropick of Cancer on June 11, makes the longeſt Day and the ſhorteſt Night.

The Hyemal or Winter-Solſtice happens on December 11, when the Sun comes to the Tropick of Capricorn, the Day being at that time ſhorteſt and the Night at the longeſt, that is to ſay, in Northern Countries; for under the Equator there is no variation but a Continual Equinox, or equality of Days and Nights: And in the Southern Parts, the Sun's Entrance into Capricorn makes the longeſt Day, and into Cancer the longeſt Night.

Solſticial, belonging to the Solſtices.

Solſticial Colure. See Colure.

Solvable, that may be reſolved or explained, alſo that is able to pay.

Soluble, looſe or apt to go to Stool.

Soluble Tartar, a kind of Salt Chymically prepar'd by boiling 8 Ounces of Cream of Tartar and 4 Ounces of the fixed Salt of Tartar in three Pints of Water, for about half an Hour, in an Earthen Pan unglazed: When 'tis Cool it is to be ſtrain'd and the Moiſture being evaporated, the Salt will remain at the bottom; which is accounted a very good opening Medicine.

To Solve, to reſolve or decide.

Solvendo eſſe, a Law-Term, ſignifying that a Man has wherewith to pay, or as we ſay, is a Perſon Solvent.

Solvent, (in Chymiſtry) the ſame with Diſſolvent, being any Menſtruum or Corroſive Liquor that will diſſolve Bodies.

Solutio Chymica, (Lat.) is a reſolving any mixt Body into its Chymical Principles, which are Spirit, Salt, Sulphur, Earth and Water.

Solutio Continui, (in Surgery) a diſſolving of the Unity and Continuity of the Parts of the Body, as in Wounds, Ulcers, Fractures, &c.

Solution, the unfolding, explaining, or anſwering of any Queſtion propoſed; the ſolving of any Problem in the Mathematicks.

Solutione feodi militis Parliamenti, & Solutione feodi Burgenſis Parliamenti, are Writs whereby Knights of the Shire and Burgeſſes ſummon'd to Parliament, may recover their Allowance, if it be denied.

Solutive, that looſens the Belly: as A Solutive Medicine.

Sommons, See Summons.

Somnambulo, (Lat.) one that walks in his Sleep.

Somnifera, Medicines that bring or cauſe Sleep.

Somnolentia Continua, a conſtant Drowſineſs, or inclination to Sleep.

Somnus, Sleep, a ſtraight'ning of the Pores of the Brain, caus'd by the reſt or repoſe of the Animal Spirits, by which means the outward Senſes ceaſe from their Operations.

Somphos, (Gr.) a kind of wild Gourd.

Sonchites, the Herb Hawk-weed.

Sonchos, an Herb call'd Sow-thiſtle; alſo wild or jagged Lettice.

Sonnet, a ſort of Italian Poem, conſiſting of Fourteen Verſes, all whoſe Rhimes curiouſly anſwer one another.

Sonorous, (Lat.) ſounding or making a loud Noiſe.

Soop, Potage after the French Way.

Sope-wort, an Herb that puts forth joynted Stalks, with Leaves like Plantane: It is of a ſcouring and cleanſing Quality, being much us'd in the Cure of the Dropſy, French Pox, Wounds, &c.

Soph, a Word us'd at Cambridge for Sophiſter; which See.

Sophi, a Title given to the Supreme Monarch of Perſia, being equivalent to that of King or Emperour: The Word is Arabick, and properly written Tzcophi, i. e. Pure and Holy.

Sophia, (Gr. Wiſdom) a Proper Name of Women, particularly of the Dutcheſs Dowager of Hannover, the next Heir to the Crown of England.

Sophia Chirurgorum, the Herb Flix-weed us'd by Surgeons in Plaiſters for Wounds and foul Ulcers.

Sophiſm, a cunning ſhifting Argument or Speech: In Logick, 'tis when a Syllogiſm is not duely framed, or when falſe Matter is brought in under Colour of Truth.

Sophiſter, a ſubtil cavilling Diſputer, that makes uſe of Catches and Fetches, with a Deſign to deceive thoſe he goes about to perſwade: Alſo a young Student in the Univerſity of Cambridge.

Sophiſtical, belonging to a Sophiſm, captious, deceitful.

To Sophiſticate, to adulterate, debaſe, corrupt, or ſpoil Liquors, &c. But Wines and Chymical Preparations are more eſpecially ſaid To be ſophiſticated, when they are not made good in their ſeveral Kinds.

Sophiſtication, a ſophiſticating, adulterating, or falſifying.

Sophiſtry, the Art of circumventing or deceiving by falſe Arguments.

Sophronia, (i. e. prudent and temperate) a Chriſtian Name of ſeveral Women.

Soporal Arteries, (in Anat.) the Carotid Arteries ſo call'd, becauſe if they be tied, they immediately incline the Perſon to Sleep.

Soporative or Soporiferous, (Lat.) cauſing, bringing or procuring Sleep.

Sorb-Apple, the Service-berry, a kind of Fruit.

Sorboniſt, a Divine belonging to the College of Sorbonne.

Sorbonne, a Society or Corporation of Doctors of Divinity ſettled in the Univerſity of Paris, and famous over all Europe: It was founded by the French King St. Lewis, and Ralph de Sorbonne his Confeſſour, a Canon of the Church of Paris, who gave it its Name from the Village of Sorbonne, near Lyons, which was the Place of his Nativity.

Sorbonnique, an Act of Divinity, ſo call'd, becauſe 'tis always kept in the Hall of the Sorbonne.

Sorbus, (Lat.) the Sorb, Service-tree, or Quicken-tree, the Berries of which yield a ſharp Juice, that purges Watery Humours, and is very good for the Scurvey.

Sorcerer, one that uſes Witch-craft, a Wizzard, Magician, or Inchanter.

Sorcereſs, a Witch or Hag.

Sorcery, a kind of Witch-craft or Inchantment, a Magical Art that works by the Aſſiſtance and Miniſtery of the Devil.

Sordet or Sordine, (Fr.) a little Pipe put into the Mouth of a Trumpet, to make it ſound lower.

Sordid, (Lat.) foul, filthy, ſluttiſh; alſo baſe or mean, niggardly, pitiful, paltry.

A Sore, an Ulcer or Wound, that is ſore, raw, or painful: Alſo a Male Deer from four Years old.

Sore-age, (in Falconry) the firſt Year of every Hawk.

Sore-Hawk, a Hawk ſo call'd from the firſt taking her from the Eiry, till ſhe has mew'd or caſt her Feathers.

Sorel, a Male fallow Deer of three Years old.

Sorex, (Lat.) the Rat, or Field-mouſe.

Sorghum, a ſort of Millet-grain.

Sorites, (Gr. in Logick) a kind of Argument or imperfect Syllogiſm, conſiſting of ſeveral Propoſitions heaped up together, in which the Predicate of the former Propoſition becomes the Subject of the latter, until from the Predicate of the laſt Propoſition, and the Subject of the firſt, a Concluſion be inferred; as Man is a Living Creature, a Living-Creature is a Body, a Body is a Subſtance; therefore Man is a Subſtance.

Sorrance, a Word us'd amongſt Farriers for a Horſe's Diſeaſe.

Sorrel, a cooling Herb of a pleaſant ſharp Taſte, which makes it very deſirable in Sallets: Alſo a ſort of Colour among Horſes, a dark reddiſh Colour, intermix'd with red or white Hairs; or a Colour lighter than a light Bay, inclining to a Yellow.

Sorrow, an uneaſineſs of the Mind upon the Thought of a Good loſt, which might have been longer enjoy'd, or on the Senſe of a preſent Evil.

Sorry, that grieves or is much concern'd and troubled; alſo that is of little Value, pitiful, paltry.

Sors, (Lat.) Lot, Chance, Hazard: In old Records, it is taken for the Principal Money lent upon Uſury, and diſtinguiſh'd from the Intereſt.

Sort of Ballances, (among Traders) is four Dozen in Number.

Sortingcloths, a ſort of Cloth ſo call'd.

Sorus accipiter, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Sor, or Sore-hawk.

Sory, a kind of Mineral.

Sortilege, a Divination, or Sooth-ſaying by Lots; Sorcery.

Soſtrum, (Gr.) a Phyſician's Fee for curing of a Patient.

Sot, one that is void of Wit or Senſe; a Blockiſh dull Fellow.

Sote, (old Word) Sweet.

Soteria, (Gr.) Sacrifices for Health, the Games and Solemnities made by the People of Rome for the Health and Preſervation of the Emperour; eſpecially when he recover'd of any Sickneſs.

Sothale, a kind of Entertainment heretofore made by Bailiffs to thoſe of their Hundred for Gain, which was alſo termed Filctale.

Sothfaſt, (Sax.) true, faithful.

Souce, a ſort of Pickle for a Collar of Brawn, Pork, &c.

Soveraign or Sovereign, abſolute, ſupreme, independent; chief, excellent in its kind.

A Soveraign, an abſolute Monarch or Prince; alſo a Gold-Coin, Current at 22 s. 6 d. in 1 Hen. 8. In 34 Hen. 8. thoſe Soveraigns were valued at 20 Shillings a piece; in 4 Edw. 6. at 24 s.; in 6 Edw. 6, and 2 Eliz. at 30 s.

Soveraignty, the State or Quality of a Soveraign Prince; ſupreme Power.

Soulack, a great Officer among the Turks.

Soulescent, (Sax.) a Legacy which our zealous Anceſtours uſually bequeath'd at their Death to the Pariſh-Prieſt, inſtead of any Tithes that might be forgotten.

Sound, entire, whole, wholeſome, healthy, right or true, diſcreet or ſolid.

Sound, the Object of Hearing, which is cauſ'd by the tremulous Motion or Shaking of the Air; ſo that (according to Dr. Holder) if ſuch Motion be Uniform, it produces a Muſical Note or Sound; but if Difform, then it yields a Noiſe.

In Geography, a Sound is any great Inlet of the Sea, between two Head-Lands, where there is no Paſſage thorough; as Plimouth-Sound, &c.

The Sound, the Straight of the Baltick Sea, between Denmark and Sweden, ſo call'd by way of Eminency, as being the largeſt and moſt remarkable of all others.

Sound or Sounder, a Term us'd by Foreſters for an Herd or Company of Swine.

To Sound, to make or yield a Sound or Noiſe; to try the depth of the Water in the Sea, or in a River; to Pump or Sift one.

To Sound the Pump, (in a Ship) is to put down a ſmall Line, with ſomething that is weighty, to know what depth of Water there is in the Pump.

Sounding-Line, a Line, bigger than the Deep-Sea Line, and ſomewhat above 20 Fathom in Length, with a piece of Lead at it, of about 6 or 7 Pound-weight, and near a Foot long; by means of which the depth of the Water may be found, even when the Ship is under Sail.

Source, (Fr.) the Head or Spring of a River, the Place from whence it takes its riſe and flows: Alſo the Root, Cauſe, Occaſion, Original, or Beginning of a Thing.

Sous, a French Penny. See Sols.

Souſce, (Fr. in Cookery) a kind of Jelly, made of Hogs-Ears and Feet boil'd in Water, and afterwards cut into ſmall Pieces, to be ſtew'd in Vinegar and Sugar.

Souſe, a Country-Word for the Offal of Swine.

Soutage, courſe Cloth, or Bagging for Hops, &c. Alſo a Tax of Forty Shillings, heretofore laid upon every Knight's Fee.

South-bolt. See Vert.

Southern Signs. See Auſtral Signs.

Southern-Wood, an ever-green Plant, which by Herbaliſts is diſtinguiſh'd into Male and Female; and being drunk in Wine, is accounted a good Antidote againſt Poiſon: 'Tis alſo ſaid of this Herb, That no Vermin will come near the Place where it grows.

Sow, a Female Swine; a Term of Reproach often given to a fat, lazy, rank, big-breaſted Woman; alſo a kind of Inſect: Alſo a great Lump of melted Iron or Lead: Alſo a large Tub with two Ears, carry'd on Mens Shoulders by a Pole or long Stick, call'd a Sow-Stang.

Sow-bread, an Herb that Swine take great delight to feed on; whence its Name is deriv'd.

Sow-Thiſtle, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Hares-Lettice.

Sowlegrove, an old Name of the Month February, ſo call'd by the Inhabitants of South-Wales, who have this Proverb, Sowlegrove ſil lew, i. e. February is ſeldom warm.

Sowne, a Term of Art us'd in the Exchequer, where Eſtreats that Sowne, are ſuch as the Sheriff may gather, and Eſtreats that Sowne not, are thoſe that he cannot get.

Sowter, (old Word) a Shoomaker or Cobbler.

Space, (Lat.) diſtance either of Time or Place; In a Philoſophical Senſe, it is taken for Diſtance conſidered every Way, whether there be any ſolid Matter in it or not; and it is either Abſolute or Relative.

Abſolute Space, conſidered in its own Nature without regard to any outward thing, always continues the ſame and is Immoveable: But Relative Space, is that moveable Dimenſion or Meaſure of the former which appears to our Senſes, with reſpect to the poſition of Bodies within it.

Spacious, that is of a large Extent, or takes up a great deal of Ground; broad, large, wide.

Spade, one that is gelded, either Man or Beaſt; alſo a Deer of three Years; alſo one of the Figures on a Pack of Cards.

Spade or Spitter, (among Husband-men) a Tool to dig the Ground with: Cutting-Spade, a Tool with which they cut Hay-reeks or Corn-mows.

Spadix, (Gr.) the branch of a Palm or Date-Tree, of a red Die; whence it is taken for a light Red or bright Bay Colour.

Spadiers, Labourers that dig in the Mines in Cornwall.

Spagirica Medicina. See Hermetical Phyſick.

Spagirical or Spagirick, belonging to Chymiſtry, Chymical; as Spagirical Calcination.

Spagirical Calcination. See Calcination.

Spagirick Art, the Art of Chymiſtry, ſo call'd from the Greek Words Span and ageirein, i. e. to extract and to collect, or gather together, becauſe it ſhews how to ſeparate the purer Parts or Subſtances from mixt Bodies, and how to joyn them together again.

Spagiriſt, one that profeſſes or practiſes Chymiſtry; a Chymiſt.

Spahi, a Turkiſh Horſe-man compleatly Armed.

Spaid or Spayad, a Term us'd by Hunters, for a Red Male Deer of three Years old.

Spalls, Chips of Wood.

Span, a Meaſure from the Thumb's end, to the top of the little Finger, containing three Hands-breadths, or nine Inches.

Spangle, a ſmall round thin piece of Metal.

Spangled, cover'd or ſet off with Spangles.

Spaniel, a ſort of Dog, with long Hairs.

Spaniſh, belonging to the Country of Spain.

Spaniſh Flies. See Cantharides.

Spaniſh Pick-tooth, a ſort of Herb.

Spaniſh Trefoil, a kind of Graſs. See Sainfoin.

Spaniſh Wool, Wooll coloured red by a particular Art practiſed in Spain; ſo that it communicates its Die to Ladies, who are ſtudious either to improve what Colour they have, to refreſh what is decayed, or to Counterfeit what never was before.

Spanking, ſpruce, fine, jolly; as a ſpanking Laſs.

Spanner, (in Gunnery) the Cock of a Carabine or Fuſee.

Spar, a Bar of Wood; alſo Muſcovy-glaſs: Spars are alſo the ſpokes of a Spinning-wheel; alſo certain Stones found in Lead-mines, like Gems but not ſo hard.

Spar-hawk or Sparrow-hawk, a kind of ſhort-winged Hawk.

Sparables or Sparrow-Bills, a ſort of ſmall Iron-nails, which ſome Country-People wear in their Shooes.

Sparadrapum, (Gr.) a piece of Linnen-cloth dipt on both ſides in a thick Ointment or melted Plaiſter.

Sparagus. See Aſparagus.

Spare, thin, lean; alſo that is ſpared or ſaved.

To Spare, to ſave, to husband, to favour, to forgive or pardon.

Spare-Deck or Sparr-deck, the uppermoſt Deck in ſome great Ships, which lies between the Main and Miſſen Maſts, and is otherwiſe call'd the Orlope.

Sparganion, (Gr.) Sedge or Sword-graſs, an Herb.

Sparganoſis, a ſtretching of the Breaſts occaſioned by too great abundance of Milk.

Spark, a very ſmall part of Fire: Alſo a Youth that appears in a gay Suit of Cloths, a briſk young Gallant or Lover.

Sparkiſh, ſpruce, fine, genteel, airy.

To Sparkle, to caſt forth ſparks of Fire, to glance with the Eyes, to ſend forth ſmall Bubbles, as ſtrong Wine does in a Glaſs.

Spartum, (Gr.) a kind of Spaniſh Broom, a Shrub.

Sparus, a ſort of Sea-fiſh; alſo a ſmall Dart.

Spaſmatick, troubled with the Cramp.

Spaſmodica, Medicines againſt Convulſions.

Spaſmologia, a Diſcourſe or Treatiſe of Convulſions.

Spaſmus, a Convulſive Motion, a Diſeaſe, call'd the Cramp, which is the ſhrinking or plucking of the Sinews.

Spaſmus Cynicus or Canina Convulſio, the Dog-cramp. See Cynicus Spaſmus.

Spat, the Spawn of Oiſters, which is caſt in the Month of May; alſo a kind of Mineral Stone.

Spatæ Placitum, (in old Latin Records) Pleas of the Sword, or a Court Martial for the ſpeedy Execution of Juſtice upon Military Offenders.

Spatha, (Gr.) a two-handed or baſtard Sword, a Skimmer or Ladle: Among Apothecaries, an Inſtrument broad at the lower end, to take up Conſerves, Electuaries, &c.

Spathula or Spatula, a Spattle or Slice made of Silver or Steel, with which Surgeons and Apothecaries ſpread their Salves and Plaiſters: Alſo a wooden Inſtrument us'd by Confectioners and Cooks to ſtir Syrups or Liquors.

Spatter-daſhes or Spatter-plaſhes, a ſort of light Boots, without Soles.

Spattling-Poppey, a Flower.

Spatula fœtida, a ſort of Orrice, a Plant.

Spatum, the Mineral, call'd Spat.

Spavin, a Diſeaſe among Horſes, a ſwelling or ſtiffneſs in the Ham that cauſes them to halt.

Speaker of the Parliament, an Officer in that High Court, who is as it were the common Mouth of the reſt: And as the Parliament conſiſts of two Houſes, ſo there are two Speakers, viz. one ſtyled, The Lord Speaker of the Houſe of Peers, and the other, The Speaker of the Houſe of Commons. The firſt is uſually the Lord Chancellour or Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England, and the other a Member of the Houſe of Commons, choſen by the whole Houſe, and approved by the King.

Spear-men. See Penſioners of the King.

Speche or Speight, a Kind of Bird.

Special, (Lat.) ſingular, particular, excellent, extraordinary.

Specialty, (Law-word) a Bond, Bill, or ſuch like Deed under Hand and Seal. Specialitas or Specialty, was alſo heretofore taken for ſpecial or particular Acquaintance with any Perſon.

Species, kind, ſort; Money or Coin paid in Tale; alſo Images or Repreſentations of Objects: In Logick, one of the five Predicables, viz. that which is predicated or declared after the Term Quid or What; as if it be asked, What is Socrates? Anſwer, He is a Man. In Metaphyſicks, it is alſo an Idea, that relates to another more general one, to which it is ſubſervient, having under it Individuals and Singulars.

In the Art of Phyſick, Species properly ſignify the ſimple Ingredients in the Druggiſts and Apothecaries Shops, out of which Compound Medicines are made: But the Writers of Pharmacy uſually give that Name to ſome Aromatick or purging Powders, becauſe they were formerly kept ready prepared in the Shops, to make up Electuaries, Tablets, Pills, &c.

In Algebra, Species, are thoſe Letters, Characters, Notes, or Marks, which repreſent the Quantities in any Equation or Demonſtration: Whence the Literal Algebra is often ſtyled Specious Arithmetick, or Algebra in Species: This ſhort and uſeful Method of Notation was firſt brought in by Francis Vieta about the Year 1590, and by it he made many new Diſcoveries in that admirable Art.

Viſible-Species, are thoſe wonderfully fine ſuperficial Images of Bodies, which the Light produces and draws in their due Proportion and Colours, in the bottom of our Eyes.

Specification, a ſpecifying, expreſſing, or declaring.

Specifical or Specifick, ſpecial, particular; that belongs to the Character of a thing, and diſtinguiſhes it from another of a different Species or kind.

Specifick Gravity, (in Philoſ.) is the appropriate and peculiar Gravity or Weight, that any Species of Natural Bodies have, and by which they may be plainly diſtinguiſhed from all other Bodies of different kinds.

A Specifick or A Specifick Medicine, is a Remedy that has a peculiar Virtue againſt ſome Diſeaſe; as Quinquina or the Jeſuits Powder has to cure Agues or intermitting Feavers.

To Specify, to particularize, to mention in expreſs Terms, to expreſs in particular.

Specillum, (Lat.) a little Looking-glaſs: Alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument commonly call'd a Probe.

Specimen, an Eſſay, Tryal or Proof; a Model, or Pattern.

Specious, fair in Appearance, ſeemingly juſt and allowable, plauſible.

Specious Algebra, the modern Algebra practiſed by Species or Letters of the Alphabet. See Algebra and Species.

Spectacle, a publick Shew or Sight.

Spectator, a Beholder or Looker on.

Spectatreſs, a Female Beholder.

Spectre, a frightful Apparition, a Viſion, Ghoſt, or Spirit.

To Speculate, (properly to ſpy or watch in a high Tower) to contemplate, obſerve, or view; to conſider ſeriouſly, to meditate upon.

Speculation, the Act of Speculating, contemplating, &c. an Eſpial, a Notion: Alſo the Theory, or ſtudy of an Art or Science without regard to the Practice.

Speculative, belonging to Speculation, apt to ſpeculate, ſtudious in the obſervation of things Divine or Natural: Speculative is alſo more eſpecially oppoſed to Practical.

Speculum, (Lat.) a Looking-glaſs; alſo the Surface of an Opacous or dark Body, well poliſhed and made capable of reflecting the Sun-beams falling on it: Alſo a kind of Table framed by Aſtrologers, after they have erected the Figure of a Nativity; containing the Planets and Cuſps, with their Aſpects, Terms, &c.

Speculum lucidum. See Septum lucidum.

Speculum Matricis, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to open the Womb. See Dilatatorium and Dioptra.

Speculum Oculi, the Pupil, Apple, or Ball of the Eye.

Speculum Oris, an Inſtrument to ſcrew up the Mouth, that the Surgeon may diſcern the diſeaſed Parts of the Throat, or for the conveying in of Nouriſhment or Medicines.

Speedwell, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Fluellin.

Specks or Spikes, (Sea-word) great and long Iron-nails with flat Heads and of divers Lengths; ſome being a Foot or two long, and ſome ragged, ſo that they cannot be drawn out again: They are us'd in many parts of a Ship for the faſtening of Timbers and Planks.

Specking up of the Ord'nance, is when a Coin or the like, is faſten'd with thoſe Nails, cloſe to the breech of the Carriages of the great Guns, to keep them firm up to the Ship's Sides.

Spell, (Sax.) a Word or Saying: But it is now commonly taken for a ſort of Charm to drive away a Diſeaſe, by hanging a Sentence or Word written on a ſlip of Paper, about the Patient's Neck.

To Do a Spell, (in Sea-Language) ſignifies to do any Work by Turns, for a ſhort time, and then leave it. A freſh Spell, is when freſh Men come to Work, eſpecially when the Rowers are reliev'd with another Gang: To Give a Spell, is to be ready to Work in ſuch a one's room.

To Spell, to name or write down the Letters of a Syllable or Word: Among Sea-men, it is to let go the Sheats and Bowlings of a Sail, and Brace the Weather-Brace, that the Sail may lie looſe in the Wind: The Word is chiefly us'd about the Miſſen-Sail; for there inſtead of Saying Take in the Miſſen and peek it up, they ſay in one Word, Spell the Miſſen.

Spelt, a kind of Corn growing in Italy and Flanders.

Spelter, a ſort of imperfect Metal.

To Spend, to lay out, to conſume or waſte, to paſs away time: Among Mariners, when a Ship's Maſt or Yard is broken down by foul Weather, or any other Accident, they ſay, It is ſpent; but if it be done by the Enemies Shot in a Fight, the uſual Phraſe is, Such a Maſt or Yard is Shot by the Board.

Spene. See Seen.

Sperage or Aſparagus, a well known Plant.

Spergula, (Lat.) an Herb call'd Spurry, or Frank; Wood-roſe, a kind of Liver-wort.

Sperma, (Gr.) Sperm, the Seed of any Living-Creature; the Spawn or Milt in Fiſhes.

Sperma Ceti, (i. e. Whale's Seed) an oily Subſtance drawn from the Brains of large Whales, and afterwards well purified: It is an excellent Remedy in ſeveral Diſeaſes, and commonly call'd Parmacity.

Spermatical or Spermatick, belonging to, or full of Sperm.

Spermatick Parts and Veſſels, (in Anat.) are thoſe Arteries and Veins, which convey the Blood to the Teſticles; alſo thoſe Veſſels thro' which the Seed paſſes: Alſo all whitiſh Parts of the Body, which by reaſon of their Colour, were anciently thought to be made of the Seed; as Bones, Sinews, Griſtles, &c.

To Spermatize, to eject or throw out Sperm.

Spermatocele, a Rupture cauſ'd by the contraction or drawing together of the Veſſels that diſcharge the Seed, and its falling down into the Scrotum.

Sphacelismus, the gangreening or corrupting of any Part of the Body; alſo the blaſting of Trees.

Sphacelus, (in Surgery) a perfect Mortification of a Part, when the Native Heat is wholly extinguiſh'd, and all Senſe taken away, not only in the Skin, Fleſh, Nerves, and Arteries, but alſo in the very Bones: It is diſtinguiſh'd from a Gangrene, by the entire Corruption and Stench, it being alſo inſenſible of the Knife and Fire: 'Tis otherwiſe call'd Necroſis and Sideratio.

Sphæra, a Sphere or Globe, a Ball, Bowl, Rundle, or any thing that is round.

Sphæritis, a Plant that has round Heads.

Sphærocephalus, a ſort of Thiſtle having ſuch Heads.

Sphæromachia, a playing at Tennis, Hand-ball, or Bowls.

Sphagitides, the Jugular Veins according to ſome Anatomical Writers; being two great Veins on each ſide of the Throat, which nouriſh all the Parts of the Neck and Head.

Sphendamnos, the Maple-tree; alſo a ſort of Hemp.

Sphenoidalis Sutura, (in Anat.) a Suture or Seam in the Scull, that ſurrounds the Bone nam'd Os Sphenoides ſeparating it from the Os Occipitis, from the Os Petroſum, and from the Os Frontis.

Sphenoides, a Bone of the Cranium, common both to the Scull and upper Jaw. It is ſeated in the middle of the Baſis of the Skull, and is joyn'd to all the Bones of the Cranium by the Sphenoidal Suture, except in the middle of its Sides, where it is continued to the Oſſa Petroſa, as if they were but one Bone.

Sphenoïs. See Os Cuneiforme.

Sphenopalatinus, a Muſcle of the Gargareon, or Wind-pipe Cover, which ariſes from a Proceſs of the Os Sphenoides, between the Ala Veſpertilionis and Proceſſus Styloides; and is inſerted to the hinder part of the Gargareon.

Sphenopharyngæus, a pair of Muſcles that take riſe from the inner Wing of the Os Cuneiforme, and paſs obliquely downwards into the Gullet, which they ſerve to widen.

Sphenopterygopalatinus. See Pterygopalatinus.

Sphere, any ſolid round Body, which according to Geometrical Rules, is made by the Circumvolution or turning of a Semi-circle about its Diameter. It is alſo figuratively taken for the compaſs or reach of one's Power or Knowledge.

In Aſtronomy, Sphere ſignifies the whole Frame of the World, as being of a Spherical or round Figure, and more ſtrictly the Primum Mobile, which encloſes all the other Orbs and Heavenly Bodies: The Sphere is alſo conſidered with reſpect to its three different Poſitions, viz. Right, Oblique and Parallel.

A Right or Direct Sphere, is when both the Poles of the World are in the Horizon, and the Equinoctial paſſes thro' the Zenith, ſo that the Equator and all its Parallels, ſuch as the Tropicks and Polar Circles make right Angles with the Horizon, and are divided by it into two equal Parts; whence it is that the Sun, Moon and Stars, aſcend directly above, and deſcend directly below the Horizon; as at the Iſland of St. Lawrence and all other Places ſituated juſt under the Equinoctial Line.

An Oblique Sphere, is ſuch a Situation of the World, as that the Axis of it inclines obliquely or a-ſlant to one of the Sides of the Horizon; one of the Poles being raiſed any Number of Degrees leſs than 90 above it, and the other depreſſed as much below it; ſo that the Sun and Stars aſcend and deſcend obliquely, and ſome of them never aſcend at all: This Poſition happens to all Places wide of the Equator.

A Parallel Sphere, is when one Pole is in the Zenith, and the other in the Nadir, the Equator falling in with the Horizon, and all the Parallels of the Equator, being alſo parallel to the Horizon: In this Caſe all the Stars in their Courſe, neither aſcend above the Horizon, nor deſcend below it; but move in a Road parallel to it: This Poſition is peculiar to thoſe Places that lie directly under the North and South Pole.

Sphere or Material Sphere, a Mathematical Inſtrument made of Silver or Braſs-hoops or Rings, repreſenting the Principal Circles of the Sphere, for the more eaſy conceiving the Motions of the Heavens, and the true Situation of the Earth; which is alſo termed an Armillary Sphere.

Sphere of Activity of any Natural Body, is that determinate Space or Extent all round about it, to which and no farther the Effluvium's or flowing Particles continually ſent forth from that Body, do reach, and where they operate according to their Nature: Thus where-ever a Needle is plac'd ſo as that it can be mov'd by a Load-ſtone, it may be ſaid, To be within the Sphere of Activity of the Stone.

Sphere of a Planet, (in Aſtron.) the Orb or Compaſs, wherein it is conceived to move.

Sphere of a Planet's Activity, (in Aſtrol.) the extenſion of a Planet's Light and Virtue, ſo far as it is capable of making or receiving a Platick Aſpect. See Platick.

Spherical or Spherick, belonging to, or round like a Sphere.

Spherical Numbers. See Circular Numbers.

Spherick Geometry or Projection, is the Art of deſcribing on a Plane, the Circles of the Sphere or any parts of them in their juſt Poſition and Proportion; and of meaſuring their Arches and Angles when projected.

Spherick or Spherical Triangles. See Triangles.

Spheroid, (in Geom.) a Solid Figure, made from the Plain of a Semi-Ellipſis, turned about one of its Axes: If the Circumvolution or Rolling be perform'd about the longeſt Axis, it is call'd an Oblong Spheroid, but if about the Shorteſt, 'tis termed a Prolate Spheroid; ſuch is the Figure of the Planets, and of the Globe of our Earth.

Sphincter, (in Anat. i. e. Binder) a Name common to ſeveral Muſcles that bind, ſtraighten, or draw together the Anus, Bladder, Gullet, &c.

Sphincter Ani, a large, thick, fleſhy Muſcle, that encompaſſes the Anus, or end of the ſtraight Gut, and ſerves to keep in the Excrements; being much larger in Men than in other Animals, in regard that a greater Force is requiſite for that purpoſe, by reaſon of the upright Poſition of their Bodies.

Sphincter Gulæ. See Oeſephagæus Gulæ.

Sphincter Vaginæ, a Muſcle that lies immediately under the Clitoris, and ſtraightens the Vagina, or Neck of the Womb, which it encloſes with Circular Fibres, three Fingers in Breadth.

Sphincter Veſicæ, a Muſcle ſeated in the upper part of the Neck of the Bladder, immediately above the Glandulæ Proſtatæ; ſo that being ſtraighten'd, it hinders the involuntary diſcharge of the Urine.

Sphingium, a Monkey.

Sphinx, a Beaſt like an Ape, a Monkey, a Marmoſet: Alſo a monſtrous Witch, or Hag, near Thebes, ſaid to have had a Head and Face like a Girl, the reſt of the Body like a Dog, the Wings of a Bird, and Claws of a Lion; ſhe put forth Riddles, and kill'd thoſe Paſſengers that could not expound them.

Sphondyle, (Gr.) the Andever or Whirl-worm; an Inſect.

Sphondylium or Spondylium, Holy Ghoſt's Root or Cow-Parſnip; alſo a Vertebra or Turning-joynt of the Back-Bone.

Sphygmica, that part of Phyſick which treats of, or elſe Medicines that move the Pulſes.

Sphygmus, the Pulſe, the beating of the Heart and Arteries.

Sphyræna, the Sea-Pike or Spit-fiſh.

Spica, (Lat.) the Ear of Corn, the long tops of Herbs, as of Lavender, &c. Spica Celtica, a kind of Moſs, call'd Wolves-claw. Spica Ciliſſa, the Saffron-flower.

Spica Indica. See Nardus Indica.

Spica Nardi, Lavender-ſpike, Spike-nard.

Spice, the beginning or remains of a Diſtemper; alſo ſeveral ſorts of Indian Drugs or Grocery-Ware; as Cinnamon, Cloves, Mace, &c.

Spicery, a Place where Spices are kept.

Spicknel or Spignel, an Herb good againſt Catarrhs and Rheums, which is otherwiſe call'd, Mew, Baldmony and Bear-wort.

Spider, a well known Inſect, of which there is a monſtrous ſort in the Iſland of Nevis in America, with ten Feet that have every one four Joynts, and are horny at the ends; ſo that when they crawl, their Feet are ſpread as wide as a Man's Hand: Theſe Spiders have each two ſolid, ſharp, black Tuſhes, big enough for a Tooth-picker, and often apply'd to that Uſe: They prey upon Flies, and other Vermin of the like Nature, and their Webs are ſo ſtrong, that a ſmall Bird can ſcarce break thro' them.

Spigurnel, a Term anciently us'd for the Sealer of the King's Writs; which Office together with the Sergeancy of the King's Chappel John de Bohun reſign'd to K. Edward I.

Spike or Spikenard, a ſweet ſmelling Plant, the Oil of which is much us'd in Phyſick, being of a warming and ripening Quality.

Spikes, a Sea-word. See Speeks.

Spiked, ſharp-pointed: Among Mariners, the Touch-hole of a Gun is ſaid To be ſpiked, when Nails are purpoſely driven into it, ſo that no Uſe can be made of that Gun by an Enemy.

Spina, (Lat.) a Thorn or Prickle, a Prickle or Briſtle of an Hedge-hog; alſo the Spine or Chine-bone of the Back.

Spina acuta, the White-Thorn or Haw-thorn; alſo part of the Shoulder-blade, ſo call'd by ſome Anatomical Writers.

Spina alba or Spina regia, the wild Artichoke, or Ladies Thiſtle. Spina appendix, the Gooſeberry-buſh. Spina Chriſti or Spina Judaica, Chriſt's Thorn. Spina Fullonia, Fullers Teazel. Spinu peregrina, Globe Thiſtle, or Cotton-Thiſtle.

Spina Dorſi, (in Anat.) the hinder Prominences or Knobs, or the Vertebræ or Turning-joynts of the Back. Spina Sacra, the Rump.

Spina Ventoſa, an Ulceration in which the Bones are eaten by a malignant Humour, without any Pain of the Perioſteum or Skin that covers the Bone; whence often follows a neceſſity of cutting off the diſeaſed Part.

Spinachia, Spinage, an Herb of great requeſt in Cookery, both for Broths and Sallets; it is alſo good for Feavers and looſens the Belly.

Spinalis Colli, (in Anat.) a Muſcle ſo call'd from its accompanying the Spines of the Neck: It ariſes from the five upper Tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Cheſt, as alſo from the lower ones of the Neck; and has a large Inſertion to the lower part of the Vertebræ of the Neck Side-ways.

Spinalis Lumborum. See Sacer.

Spinalis Medulla. See Medulla Spinalis.

Spinati, certain Muſcles, whoſe Office is to ſtretch out and bend the Body backward, and to move it obliquely.

Spindle, an Inſtrument us'd in Spinning; alſo the main Body of the Capſtan or Draw-beam in a Ship. Alſo the Axis of the Wheel of a Clock or Watch, is call'd the Spindle, and its ends, the Pevets.

Spindle-Tree or Prick-Timber, a kind of Shrub.

Spine, (Lat.) the Back-bone, or long-joynted Chine-bone that goes down the Back; alſo the upper part of the Os Pectinis, or Share-bone. See Pectinis Os.

Spinellus, (Lat.) the Spinel-Ruby, a precious Stone ſomewhat ſofter, and not ſo bright as the true Ruby.

Spineola or Spinæa, a kind of Roſe.

Spinet, a Muſical Inſtrument, a ſort of ſmall Harpſichord.

Spingard, (old Word) a kind of Braſs-Gun.

Spink, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Chaffinch.

Spinner, a Perſon that ſpins; alſo a ſmall ſort of harmleſs Spider.

† Spinoſity, (Lat.) intricate Point, Difficulty.

Spinſter, (Law-Term) a Title uſually given to all unmarried Women from the Viſcount's Daughter downward in all Deeds, Bonds, &c. Spinning being figuratively taken for all ſorts of Work that Maids or unmarried Women are ſuppoſed to be employ'd in.

Spinturnix, (Gr.) a Bird that anciently us'd to come to the Altars, and carry'd away a Live-coal, as a Token of ill Luck, or burning to the Houſe where it lighted: Alſo a four-footed Beaſt with Wings like the Sphinx.

Spinus, (Lat.) the Sloe-tree, or Bullace-tree; Buck-Thorn, or Snag-tree; alſo a Bird, call'd a Siskin.

Spiral or Spiral Line, (in Geom.) a crooked Line that winds and turns round, ſeeming to be almoſt a Circle, only it does not meet or run again into its ſelf; but keeps on at a proportionate Diſtance; like the coiling of a Rope, or the folds of a Serpent, when ſhe lies cloſe in ſeveral turns; whence it is ſometimes call'd a Serpentine Line and Helix.

Proportional Spirals, are ſuch Spiral Lines as the Rhumb-lines on the Terreſtrial Globe.

Spiration, breathing.

Spire, a Steeple that riſes tapering by degrees, and ends in a ſharp Point at the top; alſo a heap of Corn or Graſs.

To Spire, to grow up into an Ear, as Corn does.

Spirit, (Lat.) an immaterial Being, a Subſtance diſtinct from Matter: Alſo Virtue or ſupernatural Power that enlivens the Soul, or the Soul it ſelf, the Ghoſt of a dead Body: It is alſo taken for Genius, Diſpoſition, or Nature; Wit, Livelineſs, Courage, Pride, &c.

Spirit or Mercury, (among Chymiſts) is one of the Five Principles that may be ſeparated from a mixt Body by Fire: It is ſubtil, light, piercing and active, and has its Particles in a very quick Motion; as being probably that which cauſes the growth and encreaſe of all Bodies.

This Principle, when it comes over wrapt up as it were in a little Oil, is call'd an Ardent Spirit, ſuch as Spirit of Wine; and therefore ſhould rather be termed an Exalted Oil: When it has in it a little Volatile Salt diſſolved, 'tis call'd a Volatile Spirit; as the Spirit of Harts-horn, Urine, &c. If it be mixt with Acid Salts, its Volatility is then check'd, and 'tis ſtyl'd an Acid or Fixed Spirit; as Spirit of Salt, Vitriol, Allum, &c.

Spirit of Nitre, is made by mingling one part of Salt-peter with three times as much Potters Earth dried, and diſtilling the Mixture in a large Earthen Retort ſet in a cloſe Reverberatory Fire. This Spirit is the beſt Aqua fortis, and is chiefly us'd for the diſſolving of Metals; but when dulcify'd or ſweeten'd it is a good Medicine to be taken inwardly in many Caſes.

Spirit of Salt, is made by drying and powdering the Salt, and then mixing it with thrice its Weight of Potters Earth powder'd: Afterwards a Paſte is made of theſe with a little Rain-Water, which being roll'd up into little Balls or Pellets about as big as Nuts, is to be diſtilled according to Art.

Spirit of Salt dulcified, is when equal Parts of this Acid Spirit and Spirit of Wine are mingled together, and digeſted by a gentle heat for about three or four Days.

Spirit of Sulphur, is only the Acid part of Sulphur or Brimſtone changed into a Liquor by Means of Fire: It is commonly call'd Oil of Sulphur per Campanam, from the Veſſel's Shape, being like a Glaſs-bell, in which it is uſually drawn.

Spirit of Wine. See Wine.

Univerſal Spirit, is the firſt Principle of Chymiſtry, that can be admitted for the Compoſition of Mixt Bodies; which being ſpread out thro' all the World, produces different Things, according to the ſeveral Matrices or Pores of the Earth, in which it ſettles.

Spirits, (in the Body of Living-Creatures) were reckon'd of three Sorts, viz. The Animal Spirits in the Brain, the Vital in the Heart, and the Natural in the Liver: But modern Authors diſtinguiſh them only into two kinds, the Animal in the Brain, and the Vital or Natural in the Maſs of Blood.

The Animal Spirits, are a very thin Liquor, which diſtilling from the Blood in the outward or barky Subſtance of the Brain, are there exalted into Spirit; from whence being convey'd into the Nerves and Spinal Marrow, they perform in thoſe Parts all the Actions of Senſe and Motion.

The Vital or Natural Spirits, are the moſt ſubtil parts of the Blood, which cauſe it to act and ferment; ſo as to make it fit for Nouriſhment.

To Spirit away Children, is to entice or ſteal them privily from their Parents or Relations in order to convey them beyond Sea, eſpecially to the Plantations in the Weſt Indies.

Spiritual, that conſiſts of Spirit without Matter; alſo devout, Religious, or Godly: Alſo the ſame as Eccleſiaſtical oppoſed to Temporal; as a Spiritual Living, or Benefice that belongs to a Clergy-man.

Spiritualities, the Profits which a Biſhop receives from his Spiritual Livings, and not as a Temporal Lord; which are the Revenues that ariſe from his Viſitations, the Ordaining and Inſtituting of Prieſts, Preſtation-money, &c. Theſe are uſually oppoſed to Temporalities; which See.

Spiritualization, (in Chymiſtry) an extracting or drawing of the moſt pure and ſubtil Spirits out of Natural Bodies.

To Spiritualize, to explain a Paſſage of an Author in a Spiritual manner, to give it a Godly or Myſtical Senſe: Among Chymiſts to reduce a compact Mixt Body into the Principle call'd Spirit.

Spirituous, full of Spirits.

Spiſſitude or Spiſſity, a Philoſophical Word for Thickneſs or Groſneſs.

Spit-deep, (among Husband-men) is as much Ground as may be digged up at once with a Spade.

Spitchcock-Eel, a ſort of large Eel that is uſually roaſted.

Spithama, (Gr.) the Meaſure of a Span, from the Thumb's end to the end of the little Finger.

Spitter, one that ſpits and ſpawls: Among Hunters, a red Male Deer, near two Years old, whoſe Horns begin to grow up ſharp and ſpit-wiſe; it is alſo call'd a Brocket or Pricket.

Spittle-Houſe. See Hoſpital.

Splanchnica, Medicines that are proper againſt Diſeaſes of the Bowels.

Splanchnologia, a Diſcourſe, Treatiſe, or Deſcription of the Entrails of a Humane Body.

Splanchnon, an Entrail, or Bowel.

To Splat a Pike, a Term us'd in Carving at Table, for to cut it up.

Splat that Bream, i. e. cut up that Fiſh.

Splaiting of the Shoulder, a Diſeaſe in Horſes occaſioned by ſome Slip, ſo that the Shoulder parts from the Breaſt, and leaves a rift or rent in the film under the Skin; which makes the Horſe trail his Legs after him.

Splen or Lien, the Spleen or Milt, a Bowel under the left Short Ribs over againſt the Liver, being a Receptacle for the Salt and earthy Dregs of the Blood; where by the help of the Animal Spirits, they are refin'd, and returning to the Blood, promote its farther Fermentation.

Spleen, is alſo a Diſtemper in that Part, and figuratively taken for Spite, Hatred, or Grudge.

Spleen-wort, an Herb that takes Name from its Quality; as being very efficacious in Diſeaſes of the Spleen: It is otherwiſe call'd Ceterach and Milt-waſte.

Splegget, a kind of Tent for a Wound. See Pledget.

Splendent, (Lat.) ſhining, or bright.

Splendid, glorious, magnificent, ſtately, noble.

Splendour, Brightneſs, great Light, as of the Sun and Stars; alſo Glory, Magnificence, Pomp.

Splenetick, belonging to the Spleen; alſo Spleen-ſick, troubled with a Diſeaſe or ill Humours in that Part.

Splenium, a long Plaiſter or Cloth to be laid on the Body of one that is ſick of the Spleen. In Surgery, a Bolſter made of Linnen ſeveral times doubled, even to the thickneſs of the Spleen, which is us'd upon Wounds, Ulcers, and Fractures: Alſo the Herb call'd large Spleen-wort.

Splenitick Artery, (according to ſome Anatomiſts) is the greateſt Branch of the Cœliaca, that goes from thence to the Spleen, and ends in it.

Splenica Vena, the left Branch of the Vena Portæ, which is beſtowed upon the Stomach and Caul, a part of the Gut Colon, and the Spleen.

Splenical Medicines, ſuch Remedies as are proper to remove the Diſtempers and ſtoppages of the Spleen.

Splenii Muſculi, certain Muſcles ſo call'd from their Figure ſomewhat reſembling an Ox's Spleen: They ariſe partly from the five lower Vertebræ of the Neck, and partly from the points of five of the upper Vertebræ of the Cheſt: The Fibres of theſe Muſcles are faſten'd to the hinder part of the Head, and ſerve to draw it backwards.

Splent, a kind of hard Swelling without Pain, that grows on the Bone of a Horſe's Leg.

Splents or Splints, the pieces of a broken Bone: Alſo certain flat pieces of Wood us'd by Surgeons in the binding up of broken Limbs; alſo Harneſs or Armour for the Arms.

Splice, a Word us'd by Sea-men, when to make an Eye at the end of any Rope, the ends of the Strands or ſeveral Twiſts, are drawn into thoſe of the other Rope's Strands with a Tool call'd a Fidd, and this is termed a round Splice: There is alſo another ſort, when the Strands of either Rope are put one into another, at a good Diſtance from the Ends, and thoſe Ends left out unſpliced.

To Splice, to make faſt the ends of Ropes one into another, by opening the Strands or Twiſts at the ends of both Ropes, and then with a Fidd, to lay every Strand in order one into another; Among Husband-men, Splicing is a particular way of Grafting; when the Stock of one Tree and the top of another are cut ſloping and faſten'd together.

To Split, to cleave or cut aſunder; to perplex a Cauſe or Law-Suit, by raiſing new Difficulties: Among Sea-men, a Sail is ſaid To be ſplit, when it is blown down.

Spodium, (Gr.) the Cinders after the melting of Iron or Braſs; alſo a ſort of Soot, which riſing from tried Braſs, falls down to the bottom, whereas Pompholyx ſtill flies upwards: It is alſo taken for burnt Ivory, or the Black Pieces which remain after Diſtillation, calcined in an open Fire till they become White.

Spoliation, (Lat. properly a robbing or ſpoiling) the Name of a Writ that lies in the Spiritual Court, for one Incumbent againſt another, when the Right of Patronage does not come in Debate.

Spondæus or Spondee, (Gr. in Grammar) a Foot of a Greek or Latin Verſe, conſiſting of two long Syllables; as Cœlum.

Spondylis, a kind of Serpent.

Spondylium, See Sphondylion.

Spondylus, a Knuckle, or Turning-joynt of the Chine or Back-bone; alſo the head of the Artichoke-thiſtle; alſo the whirl of a Spindle.

Spongia, Spunge, a kind of Sea-moſs growing on the Rocks.

Spongites, a Stone found in Spunges.

Spongoides Oſſa, (in Anat.) the ſame with the Cribriform, or Sieve-like Bones. See Ethmoides.

Sponk. See Spunk.

† Sponſion, (Lat.) a Promiſe, Engagement, or Obligation.

Sponſor, Surety, an Undertaker for another, a God-father.

Spontaneous, voluntary, free, that acts of its one accord.

Spontaneous Action. See Action.

Spooming or Spooning before the Wind, (among Mariners) is when a Ship being under Sail at Sea, is put right before the Wind; which is generally done in ſome great Storm, when they find the Ship too weak to indure the lying under the Sea: And when there is danger leſt ſhe ſhould bring her Maſts by the Board, by her violent Seeling or rolling about, and ſo founder; they uſually ſet up the Fore-ſail, to make her go the ſteadier, which is termed Spooning the Fore-Sail.

Sporades, (Gr.) certain Iſlands that lie ſcatter'd up and down in the Egean Sea or Archipelago: Among Aſtronomers, ſuch Stars as were never as yet rank'd in any particular Conſtellation, nor had peculiar Names given them.

Sporadici Morbi, (in the Art of Phyſick) thoſe Diſeaſes that are rife in many Places; or ſuch as being different in Nature, ſeize ſeveral People at the ſame time in ſeveral Countries.

Sportula, (among the Romans) a ſmall Preſent of Money, which with Wine and Bread, was diſtributed at certain Feaſts or other ſolemn Days of the Year; and ſo call'd from the Basket of the ſame Name, in which it was carry'd: Alſo a Summ of Money, equal to 1 Shilling 6 Pence 3 Farthings Engliſh.

Spots in the Sun, certain Opacous or ſhady Maſſes, which ſometimes appear ſticking to the Sun's Body, whoſe various Figures and Motion may be diſcern'd by means of convenient Teleſcopes.

Spouſe, a Bridegroom or Husband, a Bride or Wife.

Spouſe-breach, (old Law-word) Adultery or Incontinence between married Perſons, oppoſed to ſimple Fornication.

Spout (at Sea) a maſs of Water gather'd together between a Cloud and the Surface of the Sea, in Shape of a Pillar or Water-ſpout: Theſe Spouts frequently happen in the Weſt-Indies, and bring Ships that are near them into great Danger, unleſs they be broken and diſpers'd by Shot from the great Guns.

Sprain, a violent contortion or wreſting of the Tendons of the Muſcles, occaſioned by ſome ſudden Accident.

Spraints, (among Hunters) the Dung of an Otter.

To Sprawl or lie ſprawling, to lie on the Ground ſtretched out at full length.

Spray, (old Word) a Bough, Sprig, or little Twig.

Sprey, (old Word) broken Wood, or Wind-fall.

Spright, a Phantome, Spirit, or Hobgoblin.

Sprights, a kind of ſhort Arrows formerly us'd in Sea-Fights, which had wooden Heads made ſharp: They were diſcharged out of Muskets, and pierc'd thro' the Sides of a Ship, where a Bullet could not enter.

Sprightly, full of Spirit and Life, lively, brisk, airy.

Spring, Fountain, Original, a principle of Motion; alſo one of the Four Seaſons of the Year.

Spring-Arbor, (in a Watch) that part in the middle of the Spring-box, about which the Spring is wound or turned; and to which it is hooked at one end.

Spring-Box, is the Caſe or Frame ſhap'd like a Cylinder, that contains within it the Spring of a Watch or other Movement.

Spring-Tides, the Tides at New and Full Moons, which flow higheſt, ebb loweſt, and run ſtrongeſt. See Neep-Tides.

To Spring, to riſe, come, or ſpout out, as a River or Water does; to ſprout or ſhoot forth like Plants or Flowers, to ariſe or proceed, to take a Run or Leap.

To Spring a Maſt, (among Sea-men) when a Maſt is only crack'd and not quite broken in any Part whatever, as at the Hounds, Partners, &c. they uſually ſay, The Maſt is ſprung.

Springal, (Dutch) a Stripling, or young Man.

Springe, a Snare or Device made of twiſted Wire, to catch Birds or ſmall Beaſts.

Springer of an arched Gate, the Moulding that bears the Arch.

Springy or Elaſtick Bodies, (in Philoſ.) are ſuch as having had their Figure changed by the ſtroke or force of another Body, can recover their former Figure, which Bodies that are not ſo qualify'd will not do: Thus, if a piece of Steel be bent any way, it will return to its former ſtraightneſs, but a piece of Lead will ſtand bent in any Form.

Sprit-ſail, (of a Ship) the Sail belonging to the Bolt-ſprit Maſt.

Spruce, neat, or fine in Garb, gallant.

Spruce-Beer, a kind of Phyſical Drink, good for inward Bruiſes, &c.

Spruce-Leather, a ſort of Leather corruptly ſo call'd for Pruſſia Leather.

Sprunt, wonderful active, lively, or brisk.

Spud, a ſhort ſcurvy Knife, a Short-arſe, or little deſpicable Fellow.

Spullers of Yarn, Men employ'd to ſee whether it be well ſpun, and fit for the Loom.

Spume, the fome or ſcum of Gold or Silver.

Spun-Yarn, (Sea-word) the Yarns of untwiſted Ropes, whoſe ends are ſcraped or beaten thin, in order to be let into the end of other Ropes, and ſo made as long as Occaſion requires.

Spunge, a ſort of ſubſtance that grows under the Rocks: In Gunnery, a Rammer or Staff, with a piece a piece of Lambs-Skin about the end of it, to ſcour a great Gun, before it is charged with freſh Powder.

To Spunge, to waſh or rub a thing over with a Spunge: In Gunnery, to clear the inſide of a piece of Ord'nance, in order to prevent any Sparks of Fire from being lodged in her, which would indanger the Life of him that ſhould load or charge her again.

To Spunge upon, to eat and drink at another's Coſt.

Spunging-Houſe, a Victualing-Houſe near ſome Priſon, where Perſons newly Arreſted for Debt are kept for ſome time, till they agree with their Adverſary, or are remov'd to a cloſer Confinement.

Spunk, half rotten Wood, Touch-Wood, Match for Guns; alſo a Subſtance that grows on the ſides of Trees.

To Spur, to prick a Horſe with a Spur, to put on egg on, or forward.

Spur-Rial, a Gold-Coin, Current in the time of King James I.

Spurge, a ſort of Plant, the Juice of which is ſo hot and corroding, that it is call'd Devil's Milk; which being dropt upon Warts, eats them away.

Spurge-Flax, a kind of Shrub.

Spuria Angina. See Angina.

Spuriæ, (Lat. in Anat.) the Baſtard-Ribs. See Nothæ Coſtæ.

Spurious, baſe-born, baſtardly, that is not Genuine, or of the right Stamp; falſe, counterfeit.

Spurious Fleſh, the Fleſh of the Lips, Gums, Glans Penis, &c. ſo call'd by Anatomiſts, becauſe it is of a Conſtitution different from all the reſt.

Spurious Diſeaſes, Diſeaſes that Degenerate from their kind; as A Spurious Feaver, a Baſtard Pleuriſy or Quinſey, &c.

Spurkets, (among Shipwrights) are the Spaces between the upper and lower Furrocks or Compaſſing-Timbers; or betwixt the Timbers call'd Rungs on the Ship's ſides, fore and aft, above and below.

To Spurn, to kick out.

Spurry, a ſort of Herb.

Sputum, (Lat.) Spittle; alſo a thin Paint or Varniſh, like Leaf-Gold.

Squab, little and fat, or thick and ſhort; as, A Squab Child.

A Squab, a ſoft ſtuffed Cuſhion or Stool; alſo a thick fat Man or Woman.

A Squab Rabbet or Chick, one ſo young that 'tis ſcarce fit to be eaten.

Squabble, a Diſpute, Quarrel, or Brangle: Alſo a Term us'd by Printers, when ſome Lines are fallen out of Order, in making room for other Lines, in another part of the Form; in which Caſe, the Form is ſaid To be Squabbled.

Squadron, (in the Art of War) a Body of Horſe, from an Hundred to two Hundred Men, ſometimes more and ſometimes leſs, according as Generals think fit, or neceſſity requires: Alſo a certain number of Ships, eſpecially Men of War.

† Squalid, (Lat.) foul, naſty, filthy, ill-favoured.

Squalley, a Note of faultineſs in the making of Cloth.

Squalus, a certain Fiſh; the Scate or Ray.

Squama, the Scale of a Fiſh, Serpent, &c.

Squama æris, Braſs-Scales or Cinders.

Squamoſa or Petroſa Oſſa, (in Anat.) the Bones of the Scull behind the Ears.

Squamoſa Sutura, one of the Sutures or Seams of the Scull-Bones; ſo call'd, becauſe the Parts of the Bones joyn'd together by the Suture, lie much a-ſlope and like Scales. See Mendoſa Sutura.

To Squander away, to laviſh, to ſpend or waſte.

Square or Square Figure, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of four equal Sides, and as many Right Angles: Alſo an Inſtrument made of Braſs or Wood with two Shanks, having one Side perpendicular, or at Right Angles to the other; us'd by Carpenters, Joyners, Maſons, &c. In Aſtrology, Square is an Aſpect between two Planets, that are diſtant a fourth Part of the Zodiack, or 90 Degrees, which is counted an unfortunate Aſpect, but not ſo prejudicial as an Oppoſition.

Hollow Square, (in Military Diſcipline) a Body of Foot, drawn up with an empty Space in the middle, for the Colours, Drums, and Baggage; facing and cover'd by the Pikes, every way, to oppoſe the Horſe.

Long Square, a Geometrical Figure that has four Right Angles and four Sides; but two of the Sides are long, and the other ſhort.

Square Body, (in the Art of War) a Body that has as many Men in File, as in Rank, and is equal whatſoever way it Faces.

Square Equations, See Quadratick Equations.

Square Number, (in Arithm.) any Number that is Squared or Multiplied by it ſelf; as 4, which ariſes from the Multiplication of 2 by 2; thus 9 is likewiſe the Square of 3, 16 of 4, 25 of 5, &c.

Square-Root, the Side of a Square Number: So 2 is the Root or Side of the Square 4, 3 of 9, 4 of 16, 5 of 25, &c.

Square the Yards, a Sea-Term. See Yards.

Squaring, (among Mathematicians) is the making of a Square equal to any Figure given: Thus the Quadrature, or Squaring of a Circle, is a contriving of a Square equal and exactly Correſpondent to any Circle, or a finding out the Area or Content of ſome Square, that ſhall be exactly equal to the Area of ſome Circle; a Problem which has hitherto puzzled the ableſt Mathematicians, altho' they have come near enough the Truth, for any Uſe.

Squaſh, a little Creature in ſome parts of America, ſomewhat reſembling an Ichneumon or Indian Rat: Alſo a certain Summer-Fruit, growing in thoſe Parts, in manner of, and much like a Pumpion.

To Squaſh, to paſh or bruiſe flat.

Squatina, (Lat.) the King-ſtone, or File-fiſh; a ſort of griſtly Sea-fiſh.

Squilla, the Squill or Sea-Onion, good againſt the Head-ach, Falling-ſickneſs, ſtoppages of the Liver, Spleen, &c. Alſo the Prawn or Shrimp, a Fiſh; alſo a kind of Water-Inſect like a Prawn.

Squinancy or Quinſey, a ſwelling and inflammation in the Throat, which often ſtops the Breath and hinders the ſwallowing of Meat.

Squinanthus, (Lat.) Squinant, a ſweet-ſmelling Arabian Plant, otherwiſe call'd the ſweet Ruſh and Camel's-Hay.

Squobble. See Squabble.

Stabilitio Venationis. See Wanlaſs.

Stability or Stableneſs, (Lat.) Firmneſs, Sureneſs, Continuance.

Stable, firm, ſteady, fixed, ſure, laſting.

Stable-ſtand, (in the Foreſt-Law) is when one is found at his Stand in the Foreſt, with a Croſsbow, or Long-bow, bent ready to ſhoot at the Deer, or elſe ſtanding cloſe by a Tree with Gray-hounds in a Leaſh ready to ſlip; being one of the four Evidences or Preſumptions, whereby a Man is convicted of intending to ſteal the Queen's Deer; the other three being Backberond, Bloody-hand and Dog-draw; which See.

Staccado, a Pale or Fence. See Steccado.

Stachia, (in ancient Latin Records) an Eſtache, a Dam or Head made up of Stakes, Earth, Stones, &c. to ſtop a Water-Courſe.

Stachys, (Gr.) the Herb call'd baſe Hore-hound, wild Sage, Sage of the Mountain, or Field Sage.

Stack of Wood, (among Husband-men) a Pile of Wood 3 Foot long, as many broad, and 12 Foot high.

Stacte, a kind of Gum or creamy Juice that iſſues out of the Myrrh-Tree.

Staddles, young tender Trees. See Standils.

Stadium, (Gr.) a ſort of Meaſure peculiar to the Grecians, which uſually contain'd 125 Paces; but was different, according to the diverſity of Times and Places: It is now taken for a Furlong or the eighth part of an Italian Mile.

Staff-Officer. See Officer.

Stag, a red male Deer, five Years old.

Stag-Beetle, a ſort of Inſect.

Staggard, (among Hunters) a young male Deer of four Years old.

To Stagger, to trip or reel, to move or ſhake; to waver, or be in Doubt.

Staggers, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, ſomewhat of the Nature of the Vertigo, or Dizzineſs in Men or Women.

Stagger-wort, a kind of Herb.

Stagiarius or Stagionarius, (in old Latin Records) a Canon that actually kept his ſtated Reſidence in a Cathedral Church; diſtinguiſhed from Reſidentiarius, a Title given to every Canon inſtalled to the Privileges and Profits of Reſidence.

Stagma, (Gr.) a Drop: Among Chymiſts, the Juice of ſeveral Plants mingled together, in order to Diſtillation.

Stagnant, ſtanding, as the Water of Ponds or Pools.

To Stagnate, to lie ſtill after ſuch a manner; to want a free Courſe, as the Blood does, when grown too thick.

To Stain, to ſpot, defile, or dawb; to die Colours, to blur or blemiſh one's Reputation.

Stainand-Colours, (in Heraldry) are Tawney and Murrey.

Stainer or Painter-Stainer. See Painter.

Stalactitæ, (Gr.) a ſort of ſtony, ſparry Icicles, which hang down from the Tops or Arches of Grotto's, Caves, or Vaults under Ground; as alſo from the Roofs, and Chapiters of the Pillars of ſuch Places as are built over the Thermæ, or hot Springs.

Stalactites, the Drop-ſtone, a kind of ſoft Stone.

Stalagma, a diſtilled Liquor.

Stalagmias, the beſt kind of Shoomaker's Black.

Stalagmium, a Jewel or Ornament worn in the Ears; a Pendant, or Drop.

Staldings, a ſort of old Money. See Crocards.

Stale, that is not freſh, old; as Stale Beer, a Stale Maid, &c.

Stale, the Urine or Piſs of Cattel; alſo the round or ſtep of a Ladder: Alſo a living Fowl put in any Place to allure others ſo as they may be taken; a Decoy.

To Stalk, to go or walk ſoftly, as Fowlers do; to go ſtately, or ſtrut along.

Stalker, a Perſon that ſtalks or goes gingerly: Alſo a certain Bird reported to be in the Country of Mandingos in Africa, which ſtanding upright is taller than a Man.

Stalkers, a kind of Fiſhing-Nets mention'd in ſeveral old Statutes.

Stalking-Horſe, a Horſe made uſe of in Tunnelling for Partridges; whence it is figuratively taken for a Perſon employ'd as a meer Tool or Engine to bring about a Buſineſs.

Stall, a Stable for Cattel; a little Shop, or the fore-part of a Shop.

To Stall, to put into a Stall or Stable; alſo to glut or cloy.

Stall-boat, a kind of Fiſher's Boat.

Stallage, (Law-word) Money paid for the ſetting of Stalls in a Market or Fair; or the Right of doing it.

Stallion, a Stone-horſe kept to cover Mares; a Man maintain'd by a luſtful Woman, to ſatisfy her lewd Deſires; a Gallant, a Bulley.

Stam-wood, (Country-Word) the Roots of Trees grubbed up.

Stamina, (Lat. among Herbaliſts) are thoſe little fine Threads or Hairs which grow up within the Flowers of Plants encompaſſing round the Style, and on which the Apices grow at their Ends.

Stamine, (Fr.) a light ſort of French Stuff.

Stamineous Flower, an imperfect Flower, that wants thoſe fine coloured Leaves which are call'd Petala, and conſiſts only of the Stylus and the Stamina.

Stammel or Stammel-Jade, a great flouncing Mare; an over-grown bouncing Wench: Stammel is alſo a kind of red Colour.

To Stammer, to ſtutter, to falter in one's Speech.

Stanch, ſubſtantial, ſolid, good, ſound; downright; as A ſtanch Commodity, a ſtanch Knave, &c.

To Stanch, to ſtop a flux of Blood; to ceaſe to flow or run.

Stanchions, (in a Ship) certain pieces of Timber, which being like Pillars ſupport and ſtrengthen thoſe call'd Waſte-trees.

Stand, Pauſe or Stay, Uncertainty, Doubt; alſo a Frame to ſet a Candle-ſtick on, or a Veſſel in a Cellar, &c.

Stand of Burgundy-Pitch, (in Merchandize) a quantity from two and a half to three Hundred Weight.

Standard, the chief Enſign of a Royal Army or Fleet, belonging to the General or Admiral: Alſo the ſtanding Meaſure of the King or State, to which all other Meaſures are framed: Alſo the ſtanding Allay of Gold and Silver, as it is ſettled in the Mint; a Model or Rule.

Standards, Standils, or Staddles, (in Huſbandry) Trees reſerved at the felling of Woods for growth for Timber.

Stander-Graſs, a ſort of Herb.

Standing-Coins. See Coins in a Ship.

Standing Part of the Sheat, (in Sea-Language) that part which is made faſt to a Ring at the Ship's Quarter: So that when the Sailers ſay, Over-hale the Sheat, they mean, Hale up the ſtanding Part: But when 'tis ſaid, Hale the Sheat barely, it is to be underſtood only of the Running Part.

Standing Part of a Tackle, is the end of the Rope, where the Block or Pulley is faſten'd; as the other which is haled is call'd the Fall.

Standing-Lifts, the Lifts for the Sprit-ſail Yard. See Lifts.

Standing-Ropes, all thoſe Ship-Ropes that are not us'd to be removed or to run in any Blocks, but are only ſet tight or ſlack as Occaſion requires; as the Sheat-ſtays, Back-ſtays, &c.

Standiſh, a ſtanding Ink-horn for a Table.

Stank, (old Word) weary, weak, or faint.

Stannaries, the Mines and Works, where Tin is digged and purified; as in Cornwall and other Places.

Stannum, Tin or Pewter; a Metal.

Stanza, (Ital.) a certain number of Verſes commonly call'd a Staff, at the ending of which, the Strain is concluded.

Stapes, (Lat.) a Stirrup: In Anatomy, a little Bone of a Triangular Figure in the inner part of the Ear, conſiſting of two Branches, the cloſing of which is call'd, the Head of the Stapes.

Staphis, (Gr.) a dried Grape or Raiſin; alſo a kind of wild Vine, which bears Fruit more like a Bladder than a Grape.

Staphis-agria, the Herb Staves-acre, or Licebane.

Staphyle, a Grape that Raiſins are made of: Alſo a Diſeaſe in the Roof of the Mouth, when the Uvula grows black and blew like a Grape-ſtone.

Staphylinus, the Parſnep, a Root; alſo a kind of venomous Inſect.

Staphylodendron, a wild buſhy Tree bearing Cods like round Bladders, in which are ſmall Nuts with ſweet Kernels; Anthony's Nut-Tree, or Bladder Nut-Tree.

Staphyloma, a Diſeaſe in the Eye when the Cornea or Horny Coat being eat thro' or broken, the Uveous Tunicle falls out ſo as to reſemble the Figure of a Grape-ſtone.

Staphylopartes, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to raiſe up the Uvula, when it is looſen'd.

Staple, a City or Town, where Merchants joyntly lay up their Commodities for the better uttering of them by the Great; a Publick Store-Houſe.

Staple-Commodities of England, are chiefly Wooll, Wooll-fells, Leather, Cloth, Tin, Lead, &c. tho' now by Staple-Goods is generally meant, any good ſaleable Commodity, not eaſily ſubject to periſh.

Staple-Inn, the Name of one of the Inns of Chancery. See Inn.

Star, a luminous Globe either fixed or moving in the Heavens. See Fixed Stars.

In Fortification, Star or Star-Fort, is a Work having ſeveral Faces, generally made up of from five to eight Points, with Saliant and Re-ent'ring Angles that flank one another; every one of its Sides containing from 12 to 25 Fathoms.

Star of Bethlehem, a ſort of little white Flower.

Starboard, (Sea-Term) the Right-hand Side of a Ship or Boat; anſwering to the Larboard or Left. Thus 'tis uſually ſaid, Starboard the Helm, or Helm a Starboard, when he that Conds or gives Directions, would have the Steerſ-man put the Helm to the Right Side of the Ship.

Starboard-Watch. See Watch.

Star-Chamber, a Court formerly held by the Lord Chancellour and his Aſſiſtants, to puniſh Routs, Riots, Forgeries, Perjuries, &c. which took Name from a Chamber in Weſtminſter, where it was kept; the Cieling of which was at firſt adorned with the Figures of Stars: But this Court was quite diſſolved and taken away by Stat. 17. Car. I.

Star-Fish. See Five-foot.

Star-Redout, (in Fortif.) a ſmall Fort or Work, of four, five, ſix, or more Points.

Star-wort, an Herb of a drying and cooling Quality.

Stare or Starling, a ſort of Bird.

To Stare, to look ſtedfaſtly, to have a wild Look: Whence it is Figuratively ſaid, Such a one lay upon his Death-Bed with all his Sins ſtaring him in the Face.

To Start, to give a ſudden Leap, to begin to run, to move a Queſtion.

To Start a Hare, (a Term in Hunting) to force her to leave her Seat or Form.

Starting, (among Brewers) is the putting of new Beer or Ale to that which is decayed to revive it again.

To Startle, to cauſe one to ſtart by a ſurpriſing Fright, to ſtart or tremble for Fear.

Stater, (Gr.) a certain ancient Coin, worth about Two Shillings Four Pence. Stater aureus, a Gold-Coin of Sixteen Shillings Four Pence Value: Among Apothecaries, a weight of an Ounce and a Half.

Statera, a ſort of Ballance otherwiſe call'd the Roman Ballance; a Goldſmith's Ballance, Troy-Weight.

Statical Baroſcope and Hygroſcope, certain Inſtruments ſo call'd. See Baroſcope and Hygroſcope.

Staticks, a Science which Treats of Weights, ſhewing the Properties of Heavineſs and Lightneſs, the Equilibrium or equal Ballance of Natural Bodies, &c. being a part of the Mechanicks: When 'tis reſtrained to the Specifick Weights, and Equilibria of Liquors, it is call'd Hydroſtaticks; which See.

Station, (Lat.) a Standing-Place, a Bay or Road for Ships; Poſt, Rank, Condition: Among the Papiſts, a Church or Chappel appointed to pray in, and gain Indulgences: In Mathematicks, a Place, where a Man fixes himſelf and his Inſtruments, to take any Angles or Diſtances.

Stations of the Planets, (in Aſtron.) two Points in which the Planets are fartheſt removed from the Sun, on each Side; ſo call'd becauſe as they are aſcending therein to their Apogæum, or deſcending to their Perigæum, they ſeem in a manner to ſtand ſtill in the ſame Degree, and not change their Place in the Zodiack.

Station-Line. See Line of Station.

Station-Staff, a Mathematical Inſtrument made of two Rulers which ſlide to ten Foot, divided into Feet and Inches with a moving Vane or Sight, &c. It is us'd in Surveying for the more eaſy taking Off-ſets.

Stationarii, (Lat.) certain Soldiers poſted by the Romans in divers Places, to prevent Diſorders, eſpecially robbing on the High-ways; as the Grand Provoſts are in France at this Day: They were otherwiſe call'd Limenarchæ, and the chief Commander of them Irenarcha, i. e. Prince of the Peace, becauſe his Office was to ſecure the Peace and Quiet of the Common-Wealth.

Stationarius, a Garriſon-Soldier, a Sentinel; alſo a Stationer or Book-ſeller: In old Records, it is taken for a Canon that keeps his Station, or reſides in a Cathedral Church.

Stationary, ſettled in a Place: Among Aſtronomers, a Planet is ſaid To be Stationary, when it is about either of the Points call'd Stations; ſo that to an Eye placed on the Earth, it appears for ſome time to ſtand ſtill, and to have no progreſſive Motion forward in its Orbit, or Courſe round the Sun.

Stationers or Company of Stationers, a Company of London, which includes Book-ſellers, Paper-Stationers, Printers, Book-binders, &c. incorporated in the Third Year of Queen Mary I. But 'tis obſervable, That the Stationers are of greater Antiquity than the Art of Printing, and at firſt dealt in Manuſcript-Copies, Paper, &c. They probably took Name from certain particular Stations or Standing-Shops, for the utterance of their Wares; eſpecially about Pater-noſter-Row, and St. Paul's Church-Yard.

Statuary, a Carver of Statues, or Images.

Statue, a ſtanding Image of Wood, Stone, Metal, &c.

Statumen, (Lat.) whatever is made uſe of to ſupport any thing, a Buttreſs, a Prop: Among the Roman Maſons it was alſo taken for Morter mingled with Pebble-ſtones which ſerv'd for the firſt Lay in Flooring.

Stature, Natural Height, Size, or Pitch of any Perſon.

Status de Manerio, (in old Latin Records) all the Tenants and Legal Men within the Liberties of a Manour; aſſembled in their Lord's Court, to do their Cuſtomary Suit, and enjoy their Rights and Uſages.

Statute, a Law, Ordinance, or Decree.

The Statutes or Statute-Laws of England, the Acts of Parliament made and eſtabliſhed by the Queen and the three Eſtates of the Realm.

Statute-Merchant, is a Bond acknowledged before one of the Clerks of the Statutes Merchant, he Mayor of a City or Town Corporate, and two Merchants appointed for that purpoſe: The Execution upon this Bond is firſt to take the Debtor's Body, if to be found, or otherwiſe to ſeize upon his Land and Goods.

Statute-Staple, (properly ſo call'd) is a Bond of Record acknowledged before the Mayor of the Staple, and one of the two Conſtables of the ſame Staple; by Virtue of which Bond, the Creditor may immediately have Execution upon the Debtor's Body, Land and Goods. Statute-Staple improper is a Bond of Record founded upon Stat. 23. Hen. 8. being of the Nature of the former and acknowledged before one of the chief Juſtices, or elſe before the Mayor of the Staple and Recorder of London.

Statute-Seſſions, certain petty Seſſions or Meetings in every Hundred, for the deciding of Differences between Maſters and Servants, the rating of Servants Wages, and beſtowing ſuch People in Service, as being fit to ſerve, refuſe to ſeek or get Maſters.

Statuto Mercatorio, a Writ for the impriſoning of a Man that has forfeited a Bond call'd Statute-Merchant, till the Debt be ſatisfied: Of theſe there is one againſt Lay-Perſons, and another againſt Clergy-men.

Statuto Stapulæ, a Writ that lies to take the Body to Priſon, and ſeize upon the Lands and Goods of him that has forfeited a Bond call'd Statute-Staple.

Statutum de Laborariis, a Judicial Writ for the apprehending of ſuch Labourers as refuſe to work, according to the Statute.

Staves-acre, a ſort of Herb.

Stay, ſtop, continuance in a Place, Prop, Support: In a Ship, Stays are Ropes whoſe uſe is to keep the Maſt from falling aft or backward; and they are faſten'd to all Maſts, Top-maſts and Flag-ſtaves, except the Sprit-ſail Top-maſt. The Main-maſt and Fore-maſt, with the Maſts belonging to them have alſo Back-ſtays, which go on either ſide of the Ship, and keep the Maſt from pitching forward or over-board.

To Bring a Ship upon the Stays or To ſtay her, is to manage her Tackle, and ſails ſo that ſhe cannot make any way forward, which is done in order to her Tacking.

Steady, firm, conſtant, ſure: Alſo a Term us'd at Sea when the Conder would have the Steers-man at the Helm, keep the Ship even from making Yaws or going in and out in her Courſe.

Steatocele, (Gr.) a Rupture or ſwelling in the Scrotum, which is of a fatty or Suet-like Conſiſtence.

Steatoma, a preternatural Swelling that conſiſts of a Matter almoſt like Suet: It is ſoft and eaſily yields to the Touch, but ſoon returns to its proper ſhape and bigneſs when the Fingers are removed.

Steccado, (Span.) the Liſts, a Place railed in for the beholding of a Combat or Duel. In Fortification, a kind of Pale or Fence ſet before Trenches, to keep the Enemy from getting into them.

Stede, (old Word) Place.

Stedſhip, (old Word) Firmneſs or Sureneſs.

Steed, a Horſe; as A ſtately Steed.

Steel, a ſort of Metal: In Archery, the Body of an Arrow or Shaft made of Wood.

Steep-Tubs, certain Veſſels us'd at Sea for the ſhifting of Beef, Pork, Fiſh, &c. till the Salt be drained.

Steerlings, a ſort of old Coin. See Eſterlings.

Steer, a Bullock or young Ox.

To Steer, to guide a Ship with the Helm; to direct or manage an Affair.

Steerage, (in a Ship) the Act of ſteering; alſo a Room before the Bulk-head of the great Cabbin, where the Steers-man ſtands, ſleeps and eats.

Steeve, (among Sea-men) the Bolt-ſprit or Beak-head of the Ship is ſaid to Steeve, when it ſtands too upright or not ſtraight enough forwards.

Steeving, is alſo a Term us'd by Merchants, when they ſtow Cotton or Wooll, by forcing it in with Screws.

Steganography, the Art of ſecret Writing by Characters or Ciphers, known only to the Perſons that correſpond one with another; ſo that if the Letters ſhould be opened, none may be able to decipher them, or diſcover the Contents.

Stegnoſis, (Gr.) a binding and ſtopping up of the Pores of the Body.

Stegnotica, Medicines that are of a binding Quality.

Stella, (Lat.) a Star; alſo the Star-fiſh, Five-finger, or Sea-pad.

Stellate Plants, (among Herbaliſts) thoſe Plants that have their Leaves growing on the Stalks at certain Intervals or Diſtances, in the form of a Star with Beams. Of this kind is Croſs-wort, Madder, Lady's Bed-ſtraw, &c.

Stelleer. See Roman Beam.

Stellio, (Lat.) a Creature that ſomewhat reſembles a Lizard, and has ſpots on the Back like Stars; a kind of Evet or Newt call'd the Swift.

Stellionate, all kind of Couzenage or Knaviſh Practice in Bargaining or Merchandize; as the mortgaging or ſelling of a thing twice, paying Braſs-money, exacting a Debt when it has been already paid, &c.

Stem, (Gr.) the ſtalk of an Herb, Flower, or Fruit, the ſtock of a Tree; alſo a Race or Pedigree.

Stem of a Ship, that main piece of Timber which comes bowing-wiſe from the Keel below, (into which it is ſcarfed or pieced in right before the Fore-Caſtle) and ſerves to guide the Ship's Rake. In the Diviſion of a Firſt-rate Ship it is call'd the Main-ſtem.

To Stem, to ſtop, or put a Stop to.

Stenocoriaſis, (Gr.) a Diſeaſe in the Eye, when the Apple or Sight is ſtraighten'd or weaken'd.

Stenography, the Art of ſhort Writing.

Stentorian Voice, a roaring loud Voice, ſo call'd from one Stentor a Greek mention'd in Homer, whoſe Voice is ſaid to have been as loud as that of Fifty Men together.

Stentorophonick Tube, the Speaking-Trumpet, an Inſtrument invented by Sir Samuel Moreland. See Speaking-Trumpet.

Step, a Pace, the Threſhold of a Door, a Meaſure of two Foot and a half: Among Sea-men, a piece of Timber, having the Foot of any other Timber ſtanding upright fixed into it; as the Steps of the Maſts, Capſtan, &c.

Stephanitis, (Gr.) a kind of Vine, whoſe Leaves running amidſt the Grapes make Wreaths or Garlands.

Stephen, (i. e. a Crown) a proper Name of Men.

† Stercoration, (Lat.) a dunging, or covering with Dung.

Stercoroſus Fluxus, a Looſeneſs in which much liquid Ordure is often voided, proceeding from excrementitious Meats corrupted in the Stomach, or a great quantity of Excrements heaped up in the Entrails.

Stercus, Dung, Muck, Soil; Excrement, or Ordure voided by Stool.

Stereobates or Stereobata, (Gr. in Architect.) the firſt beginning of the Wall of any Building, that immediately ſtands on the Foundation; the Patten of a Pillar, whereon the Baſe is ſet; the Ground-work on which the Foot of a Pillar ſtands.

Stereographick Projection. See Projection of the Sphere in Plano.

Stereography, the Art of deſcribing or laying down the Figures of Solids upon a Plane.

Stereometry, a Science that ſhews how to meaſure ſolid Bodies, or to find their ſolid Contents.

Steril, (Lat.) barren, fruitleſs, unfruitful; dry, empty, ſhallow.

Sterility, Barrenneſs, Unfruitfulneſs, Drineſs, Poorneſs.

Sterling or Penny, the ſmalleſt Engliſh Coin, before the Reign of K. Edward I. mark'd with a Croſs, or Strokes croſs-wiſe; ſo that upon Occaſion it might be cut into Halves for Half-pence, or into Quarters for Farthings: But Sterling is now us'd as a general Name of Diſtinction for the Current Lawful Money of England. See Eaſterling.

Stern, ſevere, crabbed, grim, ſurly.

Stern, (a Term in Hunting) the Tail of a Gray-hound, or of a Wolf.

Stern of a Ship, is all the aftermoſt or hindermoſt Part of her; but ſtrictly taken, it is only the outmoſt Part abaft.

Stern-Chace, the Guns that are plac'd in the Ship's Stern: Alſo when one Ship in chaſing or purſuing another, follows the Chaſed a-ſtern, directly upon one Point of the Compaſs; it is call'd a Stern-chace.

Stern-Faſt, certain Faſtenings of Ropes, &c. behind the Stern of a Ship, to which a Cable or Hawſer may be brought or fixed in order to heave her a-ſtern, or to hold her Stern to a Wharf, &c.

Sternohyoides, (Gr. in Anat.) a Pair of Muſcles commonly ſaid to ariſe from the Uppermoſt part of the Breaſt-bone: But it has been ſince found out, that they actually take riſe from the inner part of the Clavicula, and have their Inſertion at the root of the Fore-bone of the Os Hyoides.

Sternothyroides, a Pair of Muſcles that ſpring from the upper and inner part of the Sternum; whence aſcending on the ſides of the Winde-pipe over the Glandulæ Thyroideæ, they are inſerted to the lower part of the Thyroïdal or Scutiform Cartilage.

Sternum Os or Sternon, the great Bone in the foremoſt part of the Breaſt joyned to the Ribbs, which conſiſts of three or four Bones and often grows into one Bone, in thoſe that are come to ripeneſs of Age.

Sternutation, (Lat.) Sneezing, which is a forceable driving out of the Head, ſome ſharp Matter, that twitches and diſturbs the Nerves and Fibres.

Sternutative, apt to provoke Sneezing.

Sternutatorium or Sternutamentum, a Medicine or Powder that will cauſe Sneezing.

Stew, a Place to keep Fiſh in alive for preſent Uſe. Stews is alſo taken for thoſe Places that were heretofore allow'd in England to Women of profeſſed Incontinency, and were quite ſuppreſs'd by K. Henry VIII. A. D. 1546: Brothel-houſes, or notorious Bawdy-houſes.

Steward, a Term us'd in different Significations, but always taken for an Officer of great Account within his Juriſdiction. The chief of theſe is the Lord High Steward of England, who is only appointed for a time, either to officiate at a Coronation, or upon the Tryal of ſome Noble-man or Peer of the Realm for High Treaſon, which being ended, his Commiſſion expires; ſo that he breaks his Wand and puts an end to his own Authority.

There is alſo the Lord Steward of the Queen's Houſe-hold, a great Officer at Court, a Steward of the Marſhalſea, &c. beſides the Stewards of Corporations, Manours, and Noble-mens Houſes.

Steward of a Ship, an Officer whoſe Buſineſs it is to receive the full Meſs of Victuals of all kinds from the Purſer, to ſee it conveniently ſtowed in the Hold, and to look well to it when there; alſo to look diligently to the Bread, Candles, &c. and to ſhare out the proportions of all the ſeveral Meſſes in the Ship.

Steward's-Room, a particular Apartment in the Ship's Hold, where the Steward ſleeps and eats, and where the Proviſions are ſtowed.

Stibium, (Lat.) a Mineral commonly call'd Antimony, of which there is good ſtore in the Mines of Derby-ſhire.

Sticha, (Gr.) binding Medicines outwardly apply'd, as Dragon's-Blood, &c.

To Stickle hard in a Buſineſs, to ſtrive earneſtly about it.

Stickler, a Buſy-body in Publick Affairs, a Promoter of Faction and Diſturbance; a zealous Man, a great Diſputer: Alſo a ſmall Officer, who us'd to cut Wood for the Priory of Ederoſe, within the Queen's Parks of Clarendon.

Sticticum Emplaſtrum, (Gr.) a Plaiſter to heal and cloſe up Wounds.

Stigma, (Gr.) a Mark with a hot Iron, ſuch as Malefactors have, when burnt in the Hand, or Cheek; a Brand: In Surgery, it is taken for a Scar.

Stigmatical or Stigmatick, branded with Infamy or Diſgrace.

To Stigmatize, to brand or mark with a hot Iron, to ſet a mark of Infamy upon; to defame or ſlander.

Stilbon, a Name ſometimes given to the Planet Mercury, becauſe it twinkles more than any of the reſt.

Stillatitious Oils, (in Chymiſtry) ſuch Oils as are drawn out of Mixt Bodies by means of Fire, and diſtinguiſh'd from thoſe that are made by Expreſſion, i. e. by preſſing or ſqueezing.

Stillatory, a Place to put a Still, or Alembick in.

Stiletto, (Ital.) a ſharp-pointed Dagger, or Tuck.

Stillicidium, (Lat.) the dropping of the Eaves of an Houſe, a little Gutter or Sink.

Stillicidium ſuper Partem, a Term in the Art of Phyſick. See Embroche.

Stillicidium Urinæ, the Strangury, a Diſeaſe.

Stilling, a Stand, or wooden Frame to ſet a Veſſel on in a Cellar.

Still-Yard or Steel-Yard, a Place near the River Thames in London, where the Company of Eaſterling, or Hanſe Merchants had their Abode: 'Tis ſo call'd from a broad Yard or Court, where Steel was much ſold, and upon which that Houſe was founded.

To Stimulate, (Lat.) to move or ſtir up, to ſpur or egg on.

Stingo, a ſort of Drink made in York-ſhire.

Stingy, niggardly, miſerably covetous.

To Stint, to bound or confine, to reſtrain or curb.

Stiony, (Gr.) a Diſeaſe in the Eye-lids.

Stipend, (Lat.) Salary, Hire, Pay.

Stipendiary, that ſerves for Wages, or Hire.

Stipone, a kind of ſweet compound Liquor drunk in the Summer-time.

Stiptical or Stiptick. See Styptick.

To Stipulate, (Lat.) to covenant, bargain, or agree.

Stipulation, the Act of ſtipulating; a Covenant made according to the uſual Form in Law, or rather an Agreement upon Words and Clauſes to be put into a Solemn Contract.

Stirk. See Sturk.

Stirrup, a well known Iron-frame faſten'd to a Saddle with a thong of Leather, for the Rider to reſt his Foot in: Among Seamen, it is taken for a piece of Timber faſten'd with an Iron that comes under the Ship's Keel, when ſome part of the Keel is loſt or beaten off by any Miſchance; which Iron is ſtrongly nailed with Spikes on each Side of the Ship.

Stitch, the ſewing with a Needle; alſo a ſharp twitching Pain.

Stitch-wort, an Herb by ſome call'd Birds-tongue, accounted effectual againſt Stitches and Pains of the Side.

Stithy, a Smith's Anvil: Alſo a Diſeaſe in Oxen, which cauſes the Skin to ſtick ſo cloſe to the Ribbs, that they cannot ſtir.

Stittle-back, a ſort of Fiſh.

Stiver, a Dutch Coin worth 1½ Penny Engliſh, of which 20 make a Guilder, and 6 a Flemiſh Shilling.

Stouked, a Sea-Term for Stopped: Thus when the Water in the bottom of a Ship cannot come to the Well, the Ship is ſaid To be ſtouked; and when any of the Limber-holes are ſtopt that the Water cannot paſs out, the uſual Saying is, The Limbers are ſtouked: Alſo when any thing is got in or about the bottom of the Pump, ſo that it is choak'd up and cannot work, they ſay, The Pump is ſtouked.

Stoker, one that looks after the Fire and ſome other Concerns in a Brew-houſe.

Stoccado, (Span.) a prick, ſtab, or thruſt, with a Weapon.

Stock, the trunk or ſtem of a Tree, a Race or Family; a Fund of Money; alſo the Cards not dealt, eſpecially at the Game of Picket: Alſo part of a Tally. See Counter-foil.

Stock of an Anchor, that piece of Wood which is faſten'd to the Beam, hard by the Ring, and ſerves to guide the Flook of the Anchor, that it may fall right to fix it ſelf in the Ground.

Among Ship-Carpenters, Stocks is a frame of Timber and great Poſts made a-ſhoar, to build ſmall Frigats, Pinnaces, Ketches, Boats, &c. Whence a Ship is ſaid To be on the Stocks, when ſhe is a Building.

To Stock, to ſupply, to furniſh.

Stock-Brokers. See Brokers of Stock.

Stock-fiſh, a ſort of Salt-fiſh dried, in which the Hollanders drive a great Trade, and with which they Victual their Ships.

Stock-Gilliflower, a Plant of which there are ſeveral ſorts both ſingle and double.

Stœbe, (Gr.) an Herb that grows in watery Grounds, Knap-weed.

Stœchas, an Herb and Flower call'd Sticados, Cotton-weed, or French Lavender; it is chiefly us'd in Phyſick for ſtoppages of the Urine, Liver, Spleen and Courſes.

Stode. See Stud.

Stoical, belonging to, or being of the Humour of the Stoicks; as A Stoical Gravity.

Stoiciſm, the Maxims and Opinions of the Stoicks.

Stoicks, a certain Sect of Philoſophers at Athens, that made a particular Profeſſion of Vertue and Auſterity, and were ſo nam'd from the Greek Word Stoa, i. e. a Porch, becauſe Zeno their firſt Founder taught in a common Porch of the City: They held that Things were order'd by an unavoidable neceſſity of Fate, and that a wiſe Man ought to be free from all Paſſions, ſo as never to be moved either with Joy or Grief.

Stole, a long Robe or Garment of State, in uſe among the Roman Ladies; but it is now more eſpecially taken for a kind of Prieſtly Ornament.

Stole or Stool, a Royal Ward-robe.

Groom of the Stole, the Head Gentleman belonging to a Prince's Bed-Chamber.

Stoma, (Gr.) the Mouth, a Part of the Body: Among Anatomiſts, it is alſo taken for the Mouth of any Vein or other Veſſel.

Stomacace, a ſoreneſs in the Mouth, rankneſs of the Gums.

Stomach or Stomack, that part of the Body which receives and digeſts the Food; alſo the Appetite to Meat; Heart or Spirit, Choler, Paſſion.

To Stomach or Stomach at, to be angry at, to reſent a thing.

Stomachful, that has a great Stomach or Spirit, diſdainful, dogged.

Stomachick Nerves. See Phrenetick Nerves.

Stomachicum, a Medicine good to open the Stomach.

Stomachus, (in Anat.) is properly the left or upper Orifice of the Ventricle or Stomach, by which Meats are received into it, and not the whole Stomach, which is termed Ventriculus.

Stones, ſuch kind of Minerals as are hard and may be crumbled or broken into ſmall Parts.

Stone of Beef, at London, is the quantity of 8 Pounds; In Hereford-ſhire 12 l. A Stone of Glaſs is 5 l. Of Wax 8 l. A Stone of Wooll (according to Stat. 11. H. VII.) ought to weigh 14 Pounds, yet in ſome Places, it is more, and in others leſs; as in Glocester-ſhire 15 l. in Hereford-ſhire 12 l.

Stone-break, an Herb. See Saxifrage.

Stone-Colick, a torturing Diſeaſe.

Stone-Cray, a kind of Diſtemper in Hawks.

Stone-Crop, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Wall-pepper; being of a very hot, ſharp and biting Quality.

Stone-Falcon, a ſort of Hawk that builds her Neſt in Rocks.

Stone-fly, a kind of Inſect. See May-fly.

Stone-henge, a wonderful Pile of Stones upon Salisbury-Plain, raiſed within the compaſs of a Ditch, as it were a Crown, with three Ranks one within another; ſome of the Stones being 28 Foot high and 7 Foot broad, upon the Heads of which others lie a-croſs with Mortiſes, ſo that the whole Frame ſeems to hang. This Monument is ſo remarkable that it has engag'd many Learned Pens in Conjectures about its Founder's Deſign and Antiquity, and no leſs than three or four entire Books have been written on that Subject.

Stone-Smich, a ſort of Bird.

Stook, a Shock of Corn containing twelve Sheaves.

Stooming of Wine, a putting Bags of Herbs or other Ingredients into it.

To Stoop, to bow or bend downwards; to cringe, or ſubmit: In Falconry, Stooping is when a Hawk being upon her Wings, at the height of her Pitch, bends down violently to ſtrike the Fowl.

To Stop, to ſtay, to keep from going forward, to hinder: Alſo a Term us'd by Sea-men, who when they come to an Anchor and veer out the Cable, ſay, Stop the Ship.

Stopper, (in a Ship) a piece of Rope that has a Wale-knot at one end and another Rope call'd a Lannier faſten'd into it; its Uſe being either to ſtop the Halliards or elſe the Cable, that it may not run out too faſt: The Word is Lay on the Stoppers; and a Ship is ſaid To ride by the Stoppers, when the Cable is faſten'd or ſtay'd only by them and not Bitted.

Stowage, Ware-houſe room for Goods.

Storax or Styrax, the Gum of a Syrian Tree, that is very ſweet-ſcented, and of ſingular Uſe in Phyſick.

Stork, a Fowl ſo call'd from the Greek Word Storge, i. e. Natural Affection, upon account of the great Care that it takes of its Dam, when grown old.

Stork-Bill, the Name of a certain Plant and Flower: Alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument, the ſame as Crows-bill; which See.

Storm, bluſtering Weather, Noiſe, Buſtle, Scolding; Aſſault or ſudden Attack, Perſecution, Trouble.

To Storm, to chafe or fume, to be in a Rage; to attack a fortify'd Place furiouſly; to brawl, or ſcold.

Stote, a kind of ſtinking Ferret.

Stove, a Stew, or hot Bath; a ſort of Furnace to warm a Room, or the Room it ſelf: Among Confectioners, it is a little Cloſet well ſtopt up on all Sides; where there are ſeveral ſtories or rows of Shelves, one above another made of Wires, to hold the Sweet-meats that are to be dried.

Stover, (Country-Word) Straw, or Fodder for Cattel.

Stound, a Veſſel of Earth or Wood that ſtands on end.

Stounds, (old Word) Sorrows, Dumps.

Stours, (old Word) Shocks or Brunts.

To Stow, (Sea-Term) to diſpoſe of or place Wares, Proviſions, Victuals, &c. in order, in the Hold of a Ship.

Stowage, the Place where Goods are laid up, or Money paid for ſuch a Place.

Stowe, (Sax.) a Place, a Village.

Stowk, a Country-Word, ſignifying the Handle of any thing.

Stowr, the round of a Ladder; alſo a Hedge-ſtake.

Strabiſmus, a ſquinting or looking a-ſquint, occaſioned by a fault in the Muſcles that move the Eye.

To Straggle, to go from one's Company, as Soldiers ſometimes do.

Straight, right, direct, narrow.

A Straight or Streight, a great Difficulty, Trouble, Diſtreſs, extreme Want. In Hydrography, a narrow Arm of the Sea ſhut up on both Sides by Lands, and affording a Paſſage from one great Sea into another; as The Straight of Gibraltar, the Straight of Magellan, &c.

Straights or Streights, a ſort of narrow Kerſey, or woollen Cloth.

Strain, Tune, flight of Speech or Eloquence: Alſo a breed of Horſes; and among Hunters, the View or track of a Deer.

To Strain, to paſs any Liquor thro' a Sieve, Cloth, &c. to preſs, wring or ſqueeze; to raiſe the Voice or force it high, to wreſt or offer Violence, to endeavour greatly: In Falconry, a Hawk is ſaid To Strain, when ſhe ſnatches at any thing.

Strake, the Iron with which the Fellies of a Wheel are bound: Among Shipwrights and Sailers, it is taken for a Seam between two Planks; as the Garboard-ſtrake is the firſt Seam next the Keel. A Ship is ſaid To heel a-ſtrake, when ſhe inclines or hangs to one Side more than to another, the quantity of a whole Plank's breadth.

Stramonia, (Lat.) the Apple of Peru, or Thorn-Apple.

Strand, a high Shore or Bank of the Sea, or of a great River: Whence a large Street in the Weſt-Suburbs of London lying near the Bank of the Thames is call'd The Strand. In Sea-Language Strand ſignifies the twiſt of a Rope.

Strand and Stream, an Expreſſion formerly us'd for an immunity or freedom from Cuſtom, and all Impoſitions upon Goods or Veſſels by Land or by Water.

Strand-Runner, a Bird of the bigneſs of a Lark, with a four-ſquare Bill reſembling a Raſp, which runs on the Rocks of Spitsberg and feeds on Worms.

Stranded, A Ship is ſaid To be Stranded, when either by Tempeſt or ill Steerage, ſhe runs on Ground and ſo periſhes.

Stranger, a Man born out of the Realm, a Perſon with whom we have no Acquaintance: In a Law-ſenſe, one that is not privy or Party to an Act; as A Stranger to a Judgment, i. e. he to whom it does not belong.

To Strangle, (Fr.) to throttle, choak, or ſtifle to Death.

Strangles, the thick Humour, which young Horſes void at their Noſtrils.

Strangle-Weed, a kind of Herb.

Strangury or Strangullion, (Gr.) a Diſeaſe, when the Urine is voided by Drops, with great Difficulty and Pain, and a continual inclination to make Water.

Strap, a Thong of Leather: In Surgery, a ſort of Band uſually made of Silk, Wooll, or Leather, to ſtretch out Members, in the ſetting of broken or disjoynted Bones: Or elſe it is us'd in binding Patients, when 'tis neceſſary to confine them, for the more ſecure performing of a painful Operation. Among Sea-men, a Strap is a Rope wound about a Block or Pulley, with an Eye, to make faſt the Block, where there is Occaſion to uſe it.

Strappado, (Ital.) a kind of Rack, a Puniſhment inflicted on Soldiers for ſome hainous Offence, by drawing them up on high with their Arms tied backwards.

Strapping, huge, luſty, bouncing; as A Strapping Laſs.

Strata, (Lat. among Naturaliſts) the Layers or Beds of different kind of Earthy Matter, that lie one over another without any regular Order, in the moſt part of the whole Globe of Earth, from its Surface downwards, to the greateſt Depth that can poſſibly be digged or mined.

Stratarithmetry, the Art of drawing up an Army or Battallion of Men, according to any Geometrical Figure that ſhall be required: And alſo of expreſſing the juſt number of Men contained in ſuch a Figure; as they ſtand in Array, either near at Hand or at a Diſtance.

Strategem, (Gr.) a politick Device, or ſubtil Invention in War.

Strath, an old Britiſh Word, ſignifying a Valley or Dale, which ſtill continues in the Names of ſeveral Places in England; as Strathdee, i. e. the Valley of Dee, Strathearn, the Vale of Earn, &c.

Stratification, (in Chymiſtry) a ſtratifying or putting different Matters Bed upon Bed, or one Layer on another, in order to calcine a Metal or Mineral.

To Stratify Gold and Cement, (in a Crucible) is to lay a Bed of Paſte call'd Cement, then a Plate of Gold, then another Layer of Cement, then another Plate of Gold; and ſo on, till the Crucible be full.

Stratum ſuper Stratum, a Term us'd by Chymiſts for Stratification.

Straw, Stubble, a Ruſh or thing of no value: Alſo a Word of Command to diſmiſs the Soldiers, when they have grounded their Arms, ſo that they be ready to return to them upon the firſt firing of a Gun or beat of Drum.

Strawberry, a known creeping Plant that bears a ſweet Berry, which is very delicious and wholeſome.

Strawberry-Tree, a kind of Shrub. See Arbutus.

Straw-Worm, a ſort of Inſect.

Stream, running Water, the Current or Courſe of a River.

Stream-Anchor, a ſmall Anchor made faſt to a Stream-Cable, for a Ship to ride by in gentle

Streams and in fair Weather; when the Sailers would only ſtop a Tide.

Stream-Works, certain Works in the Tin-mines, when the Miners follow the Veins of Metal by cutting Trenches, &c. See Lode-works.

Streamer, a Flag, or Pendant in a Ship.

Street-Gavel or Stret-Gavel, the Summ of two Shillings ſometime paid Yearly by every Tenant of the Manour of Cholington in Suſſex, to the Lord, for his going out and returning into it.

Strenuous, (Lat.) ſtout, valiant, hardy, active, vigorous.

Strepitus Judicialis, (in old Records) the Circumſtances of Noiſe, Crowd, and other Formalities at a Tryal in a publick Court of Juſtice.

Strepſiceros, (Gr.) a kind of Buck, or Goat with wreathed Horns; the Antelope.

Streſs, main point in a Buſineſs; alſo Storm or foul Weather at Sea. To lay ſtreſs upon, to inſiſt or rely upon.

To Stretch, to reach out: In a Ship at Sea, the Sailers ſay, Stretch forward the Hallyards or Sheats, when they would have that part which the Men are to hale by, deliver'd along, into the Hands of thoſe that are ready to hoiſe or hale.

Stretchers, (in a Boat) are thoſe wooden Staves the Rowers ſet their Feet againſt, when they row; that ſo they may be able to fetch the ſtronger Stroke.

Stria, (Lat.) a Groove, Gutter, or Furrow in Carpenters or Maſons Work; a Rebate, a Creaſe. Among the Writers of Natural Hiſtory, Striæ are taken for the ſmall Hollows, Channels, or Chamferings, which are found in the Shells of Cockles, Scollops, and other Shell-fiſhes.

Stricken, advanced; as Stricken in Years.

Strickle or Strickleſs, an Inſtrument to ſtrike off the Over-meaſure of Corn, &c.

Strict, (Lat.) cloſe, punctual, exact, poſitive; rigid, or ſevere.

Stricture, a Spark from a red-hot Iron, but it is chiefly us'd in a Figurative Senſe; as Brutes have ſome Strictures of Ratiocination.

Stride, two Steps, or a Meaſure of five Foot.

Strike, a Meaſure that contains four Buſhels, and two of which make a Quarter; alſo the ſame as Strickle or Strickleſs. Strike of Flax, is as much as is heckled at one Handful.

To Strike, to beat or hit, to affect or make an Impreſſion upon the Senſes or Mind; to make Meaſure even with a Strike or Strickle,

To Strike or Strike Sail, (in Sea-Language) is to let down, or lower the Top-ſails; ſo that when one Ship ſtrikes to another in this manner, it is a Compliment of Reſpect and Submiſſion; or a Token of Yielding.

When a Ship coming upon Shoal-water, beats upon the Ground, ſhe is alſo ſaid To ſtrike: Alſo when the Sea-men would have any of the Top-maſts taken down, the Word is, Strike the Top-maſts; and when they lower any thing into the Hold, with the Tackles or Ropes, they term it, Striking down into the Hold.

Striking the Top-ſails upon the Bunt, is when they are only let down half Maſt high.

Striking Part. See Watch-work.

Striking Wheel, (in a Clock) is that which by ſome is call'd the Pin-Wheel, upon account of the Pins that are plac'd on the Round or Rim of it: In Clocks that go 16 Days, the firſt or great Wheel is uſually the Pin-wheel, but in thoſe that go 8 Days the ſecond Wheel is the Pin-wheel or Striking-wheel.

String that Lamprey, i. e. cut it up; a Phraſe us'd by thoſe that are skill'd in Carving at Table.

Stringent, forcing, forceable, as To maintain a Truth in a ſtringent Way.

Strip, a ſmall piece of Cloth; In a Law-ſenſe Deſtruction, Ruin, Spoil; as To make ſtrip and waſte, or ſtrop and waſte.

Stripe, a Blow or Laſh; alſo a ſtreak in Silk, Cloth, or Stuff.

Stripling, a Young-man, or Youth.

Strichel. See Strickle.

Strix, (Gr.) the Screech-Owl, an unlucky Bird; alſo a Witch or Hag that changes the favour of Children, a Fairy or Hobgoblin; alſo a Channel, Gutter, or Strake in the rebating of Pillars.

Strobilus, the Artichoke-Plant; alſo a wild Pine-tree; or a Pine-apple.

To Stroll, to rove, or ramble about.

Strombus, (Gr.) a ſort of Shell-fiſh that have a Leader, whom they follow as it were their King.

Strond, (Sax.) the ſame as Strand, a high Shoar, or Street lying upon the River-ſide.

Strond and Streme. See Strand and Stream.

Strongyle, (Gr.) a kind of Allum in round Lumps.

Strophe, the firſt of the three Members of a Greek Lyrick Ode, or Poem; the ſecond being the Antiſtrophe, which anſwers thereto; and the third the Epode, which anſwers to neither, but is anſwer'd in the next Return. Strophe is alſo the firſt turn of the Chorus, or Quire of Singers in a Tragedy on one ſide of the Stage, anſwering to the Antiſtrophe on the other. See Antiſtrophe.

Strouds, (Sea-word) the ſeveral twiſts at the end of a Cable, or Rope.

Structure, (Lat.) manner, or way of Building; a Fabrick, or Pile of Building: Alſo the diſpoſure of the Parts of a Diſcourſe, the Order to be obſerved in the framing of it. In Philoſophy, Structure is the combination or reſult of all thoſe Qualities or modifications of Matter in any Natural Body which diſtinguiſh it from others; It is otherwiſe termed the Peculiar Form, or Texture of ſuch a Body.

Strude or Strode, a ſtock of breeding Mares.

To Struggle, to ſtir one's ſelf violently, to contend, to wreſtle or fight, to ſtrive or endeavour earneſtly.

Struma, (Lat.) a Wen or Swelling in the Neck or Arm-holes, a Botch; the King's-Evil, a Swelling that generally appears in the Glandulous, or Kernelly Parts.

Strumatick, belonging to, or troubled with ſuch Swellings.

Strumea, an Herb with which Beggers make their Fleſh raw; Crow-foot.

Strumpet, a light Houſewife, a common Harlot.

Strunt-Jager or Dung-Hunter, a kind of Bird that breeds in Spitsberg, or North-Eaſt Greenland.

To Strut, or Strut along, to walk after a proud and ſtately manner.

Struthio or Struthiocamelus, (Gr.) the Oſtrich or Eſtridge, a large Fowl.

Struthiomela, a ſmall ſort of Quinces.

Struthion, a little Sparrow, a Bird; alſo a Plant call'd Fullers-herb.

Strychnus or Strychnis, an Herb which makes thoſe mad that eat of it.

Stubble, ſhort Straw left after the Corn is reaped.

Stuck. See Stuke.

Stud, a Nail imboſſed in any thing.

Stud or Stode, a great Herd, or ſtock of breeding Mares.

Studding-Sail. See Gooſe-wing.

Student, (Lat.) one that ſtudies any Art or Science, eſpecially at the Univerſity; a ſtudious Man, a Scholar.

Studious, much given to ſtudy, bookiſh; alſo earneſt for, deſirous of, regardful.

Study, application of Mind to learn or to do any thing; alſo a Cloſet to ſtudy in, a Library.

Stuke or Stuck, a kind of compound Morter, fit for Imagery, made of Chalk and white Marble well pounded together and ſifted; Plaiſter of Paris.

Stum, the flower of Wine ſet a working.

To Stum, to put certain Ingredients into ſick or decayed Wine, in order to revive it and make it briſk. See Stooming.

Stupa or Stupea, (Lat.) the courſe part of Flax, Tow, Hards, Ockam to calk Ships with; alſo a Stupe us'd by Surgeons.

Stupefaction, a ſtupifying or benumming, an extraordinary Aſtoniſhment.

Stupefactive, that is of a ſtupifying Quality; as A ſtupefactive Medicine.

Stupendious or Stupendous, prodigious, wonderful, aſtoniſhing.

Stupes, (in Surgery) Pledgets of Tow, Cotton, &c. dipt in ſcalding-hot Liquors and apply'd to the diſeaſed Part.

Stupid, blockiſh, dull, ſenſeleſs.

Stupidity, Dulneſs, Blockiſhneſs.

To Stupify, to make ſtupid or dull, to benum or make inſenſible, to aſtoniſh or diſmay.

Stupor, (Lat.) Aſtoniſhment, Amazement; Senſeleſneſs, Numneſs; Wonder, Surprize.

Stupration, the deflow'ring or raviſhing of a Woman, the committing a Rape.

Sturbridge-Fair, a great Fair ſo nam'd from the River Sture, near Cambridge, where it is kept every Year in September: It is very Famous for reſort of People, and variety of Wares.

Sturdy, ſtrong, luſty, bold, blunt, reſolute.

Sturio, (Lat.) the Sturgeon; a Sea-fiſh.

Sturk or Stirk, (Country-Word) a Young Ox, or Heifer.

Sturnus, (Lat.) the Starling, or Stare; a Bird.

Stuyver, a Dutch Coin. See Stiver,

Sty, a Place for keeping or fatting Swine; alſo a kind of Swelling upon the Eye-lid.

Stygian Liquors, are Acid Spirits, ſo call'd by Chymiſts, from their Power to deſtroy or diſſolve Mixt Bodies.

Style, (Gr.) Character, or manner of Writing; way of Expreſſion: Alſo a particular Method of reckoning the Courſe of the Year; as The Old and New Style. See Stylo Novo.

In Dialling, Style is a Line whoſe Shadow on the Plane of the Dial, ſhews the true Hour-line, and it is the upper edge of the Gnomon, Cock, or Needle.

Style or Stylus, (among Herbaliſts) that middle bunching out Part of the Flower of a Plant, which ſticks to the Fruit, or Seed; being uſually long and ſlender, whence its Name is deriv'd.

Stylobata or Stylobates, (in Architect.) the Pedeſtal or Foot-ſtool of a Pillar, the Baſe on which it ſtands: It is alſo ſometimes taken for the Trunk of a Pedeſtal between the Cornice and the Baſe; which is otherwiſe call'd Truncus and Abacus.

Styloceratohyoides, (in Anat.) are Muſcles of the Bone nam'd Os Hyoides, which draw upwards the Tongue and Larynx, as alſo the Jaws in the Act of Swallowing: They ariſe from the outward Appendix of the Os Styliforme, and reach to the Horns or Points of the Os Hyoides: This pair of Muſcles is likewiſe termed Stylohyoideus.

Stylogloſſum, that pair of Muſcles which lift up the Tongue: They take riſe from the Appendix of the Os Styliforme, and are implanted about the middle of the Tongue.

Stylohyoideus. See Styloceratohyoides.

Styloides, certain Proceſſes of Bone, which are ſhap'd backwards like a Pencil and fix'd in the Baſis, or root of the Scull.

Stylo Novo, (i. e. in the New Style) a Term us'd for the New Computation of Time, according to the Settlement of Pope Gregory XIII. as Stylo Vetere or Old Style is the Computation according to that of Julius Cæſar: The New Style now goes eleven Days before the Old; ſo that the firſt Day of the Month among thoſe that hold the latter, is the twelfth Day with thoſe that obſerve the New. See Gregorian Account.

Stylopharyngæus, (Gr. in Anat.) a pair of Muſcles plac'd at the Foot of the Proceſſus Styloides, which widen the Gullet, and draw the Jaws upwards: They deſcend from an Appendix of a Bone that is ſhap'd like a Pencil, and are fix'd to the Sides of the Gullet.

Stymma, properly a thick Compoſition that is of a binding Quality; the groſs, or thick Matter of any Ointment; the thick Maſs that remains after the ſteeping of Herbs, Flowers, &c. and preſſing out their Oil.

Styptick, that is of a binding Nature, or Quality.

Styptick Water, a ſort of Liquor made of Colcothar calcin'd, or Vitriol diſſolv'd, with burnt Allum, Sugar-Candy, the Urine of a Young Man, and other Ingredients: It is of very good Uſe to ſtop Fluxes of Blood.

Styrax. See Storax.

Suaſory, (Lat.) that is apt, or tends to perſwade.

Suavity, Sweetneſs, Pleaſantneſs.

Subaction, a kneeding, working, or exerciſing: Among Apothecaries, it is us'd for the working or ſoft'ning of Plaiſters.

Subaltern or Subalternate, that ſucceeds by turns, that is appointed or placed under another.

Subaltern Officers, See Officers.

Subaltern Propoſitions, (in Logick) are ſuch as differ only in Quantity, and agree in Quality; as Every Triangle is Right-angled, ſome Triangles are Right-angled.

Subalterns, inferiour Judges, or Officers.

Sub-bois, (Fr.) Under-wood. See Sylva cædua and Vert.

Sub-Brigadeer, Sub-Lieutenant, &c. are Under-Officers in an Army, appointed for the eaſe of thoſe over them of the ſame Name. Sub-Lieutenants of Foot take their Poſt, at the Head of the Pikes.

Sub-buteo, (Lat.) the leſſer Buzzard, a Bird of Prey.

Subcartilagineum, (in Anat.) the upper part of the Belly under the Cartilages or Griſtles of the Cheſt; being the ſame as Hypochondria; which See.

Sub-chanter, an Officer in a Cathedral, or Collegiate Church, that begins the Anthem, in the Chanter's Abſence.

Subclavian Veſſels, (in Anat.) the Arteries and Veins that paſs under the Clavicles.

Subclavicular Vein, a branch of the Vena Cava, or hollow Vein, which runs under the Neck-bone.

Subclavius, a Muſcle of the Cheſt, which ariſes from the lower part of half the Clavicula, where it is joyn'd to the Spine of the Shoulder-blade; and is inſerted to the upper part of the firſt Rib, near the Sternum, or Breaſt-bone.

Subcontrary Poſition, (in Geom.) is when two Similar Triangles are ſo plac'd, as to have one common Angle at the Vertex or Top, and yet their Baſes not Parallel.

Subcontrary Propoſitions, (in Logick) are thoſe that particularly differ in Quality, and agree in Quantity; as Some Man is a Creature, Some Man is not a Creature.

Subcutaneus, (Lat. in Anat.) a Branch of the Baſilick Vein that runs towards the inner Condyle, or Joynt of the Arm: It ſpreads it ſelf into Ramus Anterior and Poſterior; which See.

Sub-Dean, a dignify'd Clergy-Man, next to a Dean.

Sub-Delegate or Judge Sub-Delegate, a Judge appointed under another; a Deputy.

To Subdelegate, to ſubſtitute or appoint another to Act under one's ſelf.

Subdititious, that is put or laid in the room of another, that is not what it pretends to be; foiſted, forged.

To Subdivide, to divide a ſecond time, to divide the part of a Whole already divided.

† Subdolous, Subtil, Crafty, Deceitful, Sly.

Subduction, a drawing or bringing up; a Deduction or Allowance, a Rebatement; alſo a Rule in Arithmetick, otherwiſe call'd Subtraction; which See.

To Subdue, to bring Under, to Conquer or Maſter, to Mortify.

Subduple Proportion, (in Mathem.) is when any Number or Quantity is contained in another twice: Thus 3 is ſaid to be Subduple of 6, as 6 is double of 3.

Suber, (Lat.) the Cork-Tree; Cork.

Subhastation, (in the Roman Law) a particular way of ſelling Confiſcate Goods, under a Spear or Pike, ſet up for that purpoſe; a Port-ſale, or Out-cry.

Subject, bound, obliged to ſome dependance, liable, apt, inclinable, wont.

A Subject, one that is under the Dominion of a Soveraign Prince; alſo the Matter treated of, or that which a Science is converſant about. In Philoſophy, the Subſtance to which Qualities are joyn'd.

To Subject, to make Subject, to bring under, to tie up to a Thing, to make liable, to oblige.

Subjection, the being a Subject, Obedience to a Superiour, great Dependance, Slavery, Obligation, Neceſſity.

To Subjoyn, to joyn, or add a thing next to another; as I ſhall only Subjoyn this to my Diſcourſe.

† Subitaneous, ſudden, haſty.

To Subjugate, to ſubdue, to bring under the Yoke of Bondage.

Subjugation, a ſubduing, or taming.

Subjunction, (i. e. joyning underneath) a Rhetorical Figure, otherwiſe call'd Subnexion and Subinſertion, as alſo Hypozeuxis in Greek; which See.

Subjunctive Mood, (in Grammar) is ſo call'd, becauſe it is commonly diſtinguiſh'd by ſome Conjunction or Adverb, and has ſome Condition Subjoyn'd to what is affirmed: But in reality, the Optative, Potential and Subjunctive, are but one and the ſame Mood, under different Names.

Subluxation, (in Surgery) an imperfect diſlocating or putting out of Joynt, when a Bone is got but a little or half out of its Place.

Sublevation, a lifting up, a helping, ſuccouring, or eaſing.

Subligaculum, (Lat.) Breeches, long Hoſe, or Drawers; alſo a ſort of Truſs us'd in Ruptures.

† Subligation, a binding, or tying underneath.

Sublimate Corroſive, or White Mercury, a ſtrong Corroſive Powder, made of Quick-Silver ſoak'd with Acids, and then ſublimed up to the Top of the Veſſel. It is us'd by Surgeons to eat away Corrupt or Proud Fleſh, to cleanſe old Ulcers, &c.

Sweet Sublimate. See Mercurius Dulcis.

To Sublimate or Sublime, (in Chymiſtry) to raiſe any volatile or light Matter by means of Fire, to the Top of the Cucurbit, or into its Head.

Sublimation, the Operation of Subliming, when the finer and more Subtil Parts of a Mixt Body, are ſeparated from the Maſs, and carry'd up in the Form of a very fine Powder, to the Top of the Veſſel.

Sublime, lofty, high, great; as A Sublime Notion, Style, &c.

To Sublime, to raiſe, to refine; as To Sublime one's Fleſh into a Soul: Alſo a Chymical Term, the ſame as To Sublimate; which See.

Subliming-Pots, the Veſſels that ſerve for the Subliming of any Mixt Bodies. See Aludels.

Sublimis, Sublime, high: In Anatomy, the Name of one of the Muſcles that bend the Fingers.

Sublimity or Sublimeneſs, Height, or Loftineſs of Expreſſion, Style, &c.

Sublimy, the ſame as Sublimate.

Sublinguales, (in Anat.) certain ſmall Glands or Kernels that run on each ſide of the Tongue, near its Tip, where they open into the Mouth, at a little diſtance from the Gums.

Sublinguium, the Cover of the Wind-Pipe, the ſame as Epiglottis.

Sublition, a plaiſtering, dawbing, anointing, or beſmearing: Among Painters, the graſing or laying the Ground-Colour under the perfect Colour.

Sublunary, that is under the Orb of the Moon, a Term uſually apply'd to all Things that are in the Earth, or in its Atmoſphere below that Planet.

Sub-Marſhall, or Under-Marſhall, an Officer in the Marſhalſea, who is Deputy to the Chief Marſhall of the Queen's-Houſe, commonly call'd the Knight-Marſhall, and has the keeping of the Priſoners there.

Submerſion, (Lat.) a plunging under Water, a drowning or ſinking.

Submiſſion, the Act of Submitting, or yielding; Reſpect, Humbleneſs.

Submiſſive or Submiſs, humble, reſpectful.

To Submit, to be ſubject, to yield, to humble one's ſelf; to leave, or referr to another.

Submultiple Number or Quantity, (in Mathemat.) is that which is contained in another Number or Quantity, a certain Number of times exactly: Thus 4 is Submultiple of 24, as being contain'd in it juſt 6 times. See Equimultiplee.

Submultiple Proportion, the Reverſe of Multiple Proportion; which See.

Subnervare, (in old Latin Records) to Subnervate, or cut the Sinews of the Thighs or Legs, to Ham-ſtring.

Subordinate, inferiour.

To Subordinate, to ſet under another.

Subordination, dependance of Perſons or Things, with reſpect one to another.

To Suborn, to ſet one upon the bearing of falſe Witneſs, or any other miſchievous Deſign; to ſend one privily, and inſtruct him what to do or ſay.

Subornation, the Act of Suborning: In a Law-Senſe, a ſecret or under-hand preparing, inſtructing, or bringing in a falſe Witneſs; alſo the Corrupting, or Alluring to do ſuch an Act: Whence Subornation of Perjury is taken for the enticing to that Crime

Subpœna, (Lat.) a Writ by which all Perſons under the Degree of Peerage, are call'd into Chancery, in ſuch Caſe only where the Common-Law fails, and has made no Proviſion: There is alſo a Subpœna for the Summoning of Witneſſes to teſtify, both in Chancery and other Courts. The Name of theſe Writs is taken from the Words contained therein, which charge the Party Summoned, to appear at the Day and Place appointed. Sub pœna centum librarum, i. e. under the Penalty of forfeiting 100 Pounds.

Sub-Reader, an Under-Reader in one of the Inns of Court, who reads the Text of Law the Reader is to Diſcourſe upon, and aſſiſts him in the Solemnity of the Reading.

Subſcapularis, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Arm, ſo named, from its Situation, as filling up the inward hollow part of the Scapula, or Shoulder-Blade: It ariſes from its whole Baſis in the upper and lower Rib, and is inſerted in a Semicircular manner to the Neck of the Os Humeri, or Shoulder-Bone:

This Muſcle is otherwiſe call'd Infra Scapularis and Immerſus.

To Subſcribe, to ſign or ſet one's Hand to a Writing; alſo to ſubmit, or conſent to.

Subſcription, a Subſcribing or Writing underneath, a ſetting one's Name at the bottom of a Letter, Bond, Indenture, or other Inſtrument.

Subſcription for a Book, is when the Undertakers propoſe Advantages to thoſe that take a certain Number of Copies at a ſet Price, and lay down part of the Money, before the Impreſſion is finiſh'd.

Subſequent, immediately following, or coming next after.

To Subſerve, to promote, or help forward, as They are ſuch Principles as will Subſerve your Intereſt.

Subſerviency, a being Subſervient.

Subſervient, ſerviceable, helpful.

Subſeſquialteral Proportion. See Seſquialteral.

To Subſide, to ſink or lower; as The Streams Subſide from their Banks.

Subſidence, a ſettling to the bottom, a ſettlement in Urine, &c.

Subſidiary, that is given or ſent to the Aid or Aſſiſtance of another; helping.

Subſidy, an Aid, Tax, or Tribute, granted by the Parliament to the Queen upon urgent Occaſions, and impoſed on every Subject, according to a certain Rate ſet on his Lands or Goods: In old Statutes, Subſidies are ſometimes confounded with Cuſtoms.

To Subſiſt, to ſtand or be, to have a Being; to live, to hold out, to continue.

Subſiſtence, Being, Abiding, Continuance; Food, Livelihood.

Subſiſtence-Money, Half-pay given to Soldiers, for their preſent Support.

Subſolanus, the Eaſt-Wind, ſo call'd by the Roman Mariners; becauſe it ſeems to riſe from under the Sun.

Subſtance, Eſſence or Being, Matter, Reality, the beſt and moſt nouriſhing part of a Thing; the moſt material Points of a Diſcourſe; alſo Eſtate, Goods, Wealth.

Subſtantia Corticalis Cerebri. See Cortical Part of the Brain.

Subſtantial, Eſſential, Real, Solid; Juicy, Pithy, Strong; Rich, Wealthy.

Subſtantive or Noun Subſtantive, (in Grammar) a Noun, or Word that denotes the abſolute Being of a Thing, and which joyn'd with a Verb, ſerves to make a perfect Sentence.

Subſtitute, a Deputy, one that ſupplies another's Place.

To Subſtitute, to put in the room of another; in ſpeaking either of a Perſon or Thing.

Subſtitution, the Act of Subſtituting.

To Subſtract. See To Subtract.

Subſtylar Line, (in Dialling) is that Line drawn on the Plane of the Dial, over which the Style or Cock ſtands at Right Angles with the Plane.

Sub-ſuper-Particular Proportion, (in Mathem.) is contrary to Super-particular Proportion; which See.

Subtended. See Subtenſe.

Subtenſe or Chord, (in Geom.) is a Line drawn under an Arch of a Circle, or a Right-Line drawn within a Circle at each End, and bounded in the Circumference, cutting the Circle into two unequal Parts, to both which it is Subtended, i. e. extended or drawn underneath.

Subterfluous, (in Philoſ.) that flows, or runs under.

Subterfuge, Evaſion, Eſcape, Shift; Hole to creep out at.

Subterraneous or Subterranean, that is encloſ'd within the Surface, Bowels, or hollow Parts of the Earth, that lies under Ground: Thus thoſe Trees, which being left there at the Univerſal Deluge, and ſo plentifully found in the Earth, in many Countries, are call'd Subterraneous Trees, and by ſome, Foſſil Wood.

Subtil or Subtle, cunning, crafty, ſharp, ready, quick; alſo ſmall, thin, fine, light, pure, ſeparated from its groſſer Parts.

Subtilization, the Act of Subtilizing: In Chymiſtry, the diſſolving or changing of a Mixt Body into a pure Liquor, or into a fine Powder.

To Subtilize, to make ſubtil or thin; alſo to uſe Subtilties, Tricks, or Shifts.

Subtilty or Subtlety, ſharpneſs of Wit, Craft; a ſubtil Trick, a cunning Fetch, a Querk.

To Subtract or Subſtract, to deduct, or take off.

Subtraction, a Subtracting, a taking off, or from. In Mathematicks, it is a Rule, by which a leſſer Quantity or Number is taken from a greater, to the end that the Remainder or Difference between the two Quanties or Numbers given, may be known; and in Arithmetick it is either Simple or Compound.

Simple Subtraction, (of Integers) is the Way of taking one Number out of another of the ſame kind, as Pounds, Ounces, Yards, &c. out of Pounds, Ounces, or Yards.

Compound Subtraction, is the Method of taking a Summ compounded of ſeveral different Species, from another Summ Compounded likewiſe of the ſame ſorts of Species; as Pounds, Shillings, and Pence, out of Pounds, Shillings, and Pence.

Subtrahend, the leſſer Quantity or Number, that is to be Subtracted or taken out of a greater.

Subtriple Proportion, is when one Number or Quantity is contained in another three times: Thus 2 is ſaid to be Subtriple of 6, as 6 is Triple of 2.

Subverſion, a turning upſide down, or overthrowing; the Ruin, or Deſtruction of States or Kingdoms.

To Subvert, to Ruin or Overthrow, as To Subvert the Government.

Sub-Vicar, an Under-Vicar. See Vicar.

Suburb, that part of a City or Town, which lies without the Walls.

Suburbian, belonging to the Suburbs.

Succago. See Apochyliſma.

Succarath, a kind of Wild Beaſt in America, ſomewhat reſembling a Lion in the Face, with a large and long Tail like a Squirrel.

Succedaneous, ſucceeding, or coming in the room of another; as A Succedaneous Medicament, i. e. a Medicine us'd after, or inſtead of another.

Succedent, ſucceeding; as Succedent Houſes in Aſtrology, which are the Second, Fifth, Eighth and Eleventh, ſo termed becauſe they ſucceed or follow Angles in a Figure of the Heavens; yet not ſo much in Order, as in Condition and Dignity.

To Succeed, to follow or come next after, to come in the Place of another; to go well forward, proſper, or ſpeed well; to fall out, or come to paſs.

Succentor. See Incentor.

Succenturiati Renes. See Renes Succenturiati, and Capſulæ Atrabiliariæ.

Succenturiatio, (in the Roman Military Diſcipline) a filling up the Number of Soldiers, that are wanting in a Company or Troop, either by Death or Abſence; a Recruit.

Succeſs, the Event or Iſſue of a Buſineſs, either good or bad; but it is often taken for a happy Iſſue, or good Luck.

Succeſsful, fortunate, lucky.

Succeſſion, a ſucceeding or coming after, a Series or Continued Order of Time; alſo an Inheritance or Eſtate come to one by Succeſſion.

Succeſſion of the Signs, (in Aſtron.) that Order in which they are uſually reckon'd; as firſt Aries, next Taurus, then Gemini, &c. It is otherwiſe termed Conſequence.

Succeſſive, that ſucceeds, or follows one after another.

Succeſſour, one that ſucceeds another in his Place or Eſtate.

Succinct, brief or ſhort, comprehended in a few Words.

Succinum, (Lat.) Amber, a kind of congealed Subſtance, ſo call'd, becauſe it ſeems to be made of a certain Juice, and is of different Colours; as White, Yellow, Dark-Brown, Black, &c.

Succiſa, a Plant nam'd Devils-bit.

Succory or Wild-Endive, an Herb which is good to cool and open Stoppages of the Liver, &c.

Succotrine Aloes, the fineſt ſort which is brought from the Iſland Succotra, on the Coaſt of Arabia, and from its Colour is call'd Aloes Hepatica, or Liver-coloured Aloes.

Succour, Help, Relief, Supply.

To Succour, to aſſiſt, help, or relieve in the Art of War, To Succour a Place, is to raiſe the Siege of ſuch a Place, driving the Enemy from before it. Among Sea-men, to Succour is to ſtrengthen or make more firm; as To ſuccour a Cable, Maſt, &c.

Succubus, (Lat.) a Devil that takes a Woman's Shape, to lie with a Man. See Incubus.

Succulent, full of Juice, juicy.

To Succumb, to fall down, ſink, or faint under; as To Succumb under the weight of Afflictions.

Succus, (Lat.) Juice, Moiſture, Sap.

Succus Pancreaticus, (in Anat.) the Pancreatick Juice. See Pancreas & Ductus Pancreaticus.

Succuſſion, (in Philoſ.) a violent jolting, or ſhaking.

Suck-ſtone, a Fiſh otherwiſe call'd a Sea-Lamprey.

Suckers of Trees, (in Husbandry) unprofitable Shoots that ſpring out of the root or ſide of the Stock.

Sucula, (Lat.) a little Sow: In Mechanicks, Sucula or Succula, is a bare Axis or Cylinder, with Staves in it to move it round, but without the Wheel call'd Tympanum, or Peritrochium.

Sue, an odd Word us'd among Sailers for the South-Wind.

Sudamina, (Lat.) certain red and angry Wheals or Pimples in the Skin, like Millet-grains; which often happen to Children and Youths: They uſually break out in the Neck, Breaſt, Arms, Shoulders, Thighs, &c.

Sudor, Sweat, an Humour of the Body, which conſiſts chiefly of Water, with a moderate quantity of Salt and Sulphur.

Sudorifica or Sudorifera, Medicines that provoke Sweating, the ſame as Hydroticks & Diaphoreticks.

Sudorifick, that makes, or cauſes Sweat.

To Sue, to put in, preſs, or ſtand for an Office, &c. to entreat earneſtly, to proſecute at Law. In Falconry, a Hawk is ſaid To ſue, when ſhe whets her Beak.

To Suffer, to undergo, to lie under any Pain, Grievance, or Inconvenience; to endure, or bear with; to permit, or give leave.

Sufferable, that may be ſuffered or endured.

Sufferance, Allowance, Forbearance, Permiſſion, Leave.

Bill of Sufferance, See Bill.

Sufferentia Pacis, (in old Latin Records) a Sufferance or Grant, of Peace or Truce.

Sufferſure, certain Puſtles or Wheals occaſioned by Heat in Children.

To Suffice, to be enough, to ſatisfie, or afford Satisfaction.

Sufficiency, a being Sufficient; Ability, Capacity: It is alſo us'd by Sir William Temple, for Pride, Conceit, or Preſumption.

Sufficient, that ſuffices, or is enough to ſatisfie Neceſſity; able, capable.

Suffimentum or Suffitus, a Perfume that is burnt and ſmoaked; particularly a Powder made of ſweet-ſcented Herbs, Gums, &c. which being thrown upon Coals, produces a pleaſant Smell.

† Sufflation, a blowing, or puffing up.

To Suffocate, to ſtop the Breath, to ſmother, ſtifle, or choak.

Suffocatio Uterina. See Hyſterica Paſſio.

Suffocation, a ſuffocating, ſtifling, &c. a Stoppage.

Suffragan or Biſhop Suffragan, a Titular Biſhop appointed to aid and aſſiſt the Biſhop in his Dioceſs; a Biſhop's Vice-gerent; or a Biſhop ſubordinate to an Arch-biſhop. See Biſhop.

Suffrage, a Vote or Voice given at an Election, in favour of any Perſon; alſo Approbation, or Allowance in general.

Suffrutex, (Lat.) a little Shrub. Among Herbaliſts, a low, woody, perpetual Plant, that ſends out no Leaves from its Root, and begins to be branched from the bottom of the Stalk; as Lavender, Rue, Sage, &c.

Suffumigation, the making a Fume, or Smoak underneath: In the Art of Phyſick, an outward Remedy, conſiſting of a Decoction of Roots, Herbs, Flowers, Seeds, &c. the Smoak of which is convey'd into the Body, from under a Cloſe-ſtool, for Diſeaſes of the Bowels, Fundament, or Womb.

Suffuſion, properly ſignifies a pouring upon, or ſpreading abroad; but is uſually taken for a Diſeaſe in the Eye call'd a Pin or Web. See Hypochyma and Cataract.

Sug, the Sea-flea, a kind of Inſect.

To Sug, to ſoak in Water.

Sugar, a very ſweet and pleaſant Juice or Liquor drawn out of certain Canes that grow in the Eaſt and Weſt-Indies: The Canes being bruis'd and ſqueez'd with Mills and Preſſes, are put into Veſſels, where the Liquor is boil'd ſeveral times, till it be brought to a due Conſiſtence by means of Lemmon-Juice, &c.

Sugar of Lead. See Salt of Saturn.

To Suggeſt, (Lat.) to prompt, to put into one's Mind, to put upon, to egg on.

Suggeſtion, a ſuggeſting, or prompting; an Inducement, or Perſwaſion.

Sugillata, (Lat.) a black and blew Spot made with a Blow; a black, or blood-ſhot Eye.

Sugillationes. See Molopes.

Suhak, the long-ear'd Goat of Scythia, which in its Wooll, Hair, Face and Horns ſeems to reſemble a Sheep.

Suit, (Fr.) a Petition, Requeſt, or Motion, eſpecially ſuch as is made to the Queen or any great Perſon: Alſo a proſecuting or following a Party at Law, being the ſame as Action, either Real or Perſonal; alſo the following one in Chace, as Freſh-Suit.

Suit of Court or Suit-Service, an Attendance that Tenants owe to the Court of their Lord. Suit-Covenant, is where the Anceſtour of one Man has Covenanted with another's Anceſtour, to ſue to his Court. Suit-Cuſtom, is when I and my Anceſtours have been ſeized or poſſeſſed of your own and your Anceſtours Suit, time out of mind. Suit Real, or Suit Regal, is when Men come to the Court call'd the Sheriff's Turn or Leet.

Suit of the Queen's Peace, is the purſuing a Man for breach of the Queen's Peace, by Treaſons, Inſurrections, or Treſpaſſes.

Suit-Silver or Sute-Silver, a ſmall Rent or Summ of Money paid by the Freeholders, to excuſe them from appearance at the Court-Barons, within the Honour of Clun in Shrop-ſhire.

Suiter or Suitor, a Petitioner, one that makes Suit to a Court, that ſtands for an Office, or that makes Love to a Woman.

To Suitor, to Woo or Court for a Wife; as He Suitor'd her in vain ſeveral Years.

Sulcus Aquæ, (in ancient Writers) a ſmall Brook, or Stream of Water.

Sull, a Word us'd for a Plough, in the Weſtern Parts of England.

Sull-Paddle, a ſmall Spade-ſtaff, or Tool to cleanſe the Plough from the Clods of Earth.

Sullen, ſtubborn, dogged, peeviſh, crabbed.

Sullus, (Lat.) a kind of Lark-fiſh, a Sea-hog.

To Sully, to defile, dawb, dirty, or foul; to ſtain, or blemiſh one's Reputation. To Sully the Fancy, to fill it with naſty, filthy, or impure Thoughts.

Sulphur, (Lat.) Brimſtone, a kind of Bitumen or congealed Mineral Juice: Among Chymiſts, the ſecond Hypoſtatical, or third Active Principle; a liquid clammy Subſtance that ſoon takes Fire, and riſes up like Oil, after the Spirit in Diſtillation: It is alſo termed by them Philoſophers Sulphur, and the Father of Metals.

Sulphur of Antimony. See Golden Sulphur of Antimony.

Sulphur Vivum, the grayiſh Sulphur, or Brimſtone, brought as it comes from the Earth, without being made up into Rolls.

Flower of Sulphur, the pureſt Chymical Sulphur, that ſticks to the Head of the Alembick.

Sulphur-Wort, a kind of Herb.

Sulphureous, belonging to, or full of Sulphur.

Sulphureous Spirit of Vitriol, After the Spirit and Oil of Vitriol in the diſtilling of that Mineral by a moſt violent Fire are forc'd into the Receiver; the Matter is commonly rectify'd in a Glaſs-Veſſel, and the firſt Spirit, that riſes then with a very gentle Heat; is termed the Sulphureous Spirit.

Sultan or Soldan, (i. e. Prince or Soveraign) a Title given to the Grand Seignior or Emperour of the Turks: It alſo belongs to other Mahometan Princes; as The Sultans of Egypt.

Sultana or Sultaneſs, the Grand Seignior's Wife, or Empreſs of Turkey.

Sultane, (Fr.) the ſame: Among Confectioners, a kind of Sugar-work made of Eggs, Powder-ſugar, and fine Flower.

Sultanin, a Turkiſh Gold-Coin worth about Eight Shillings, and ſo call'd becauſe ſtampt at Conſtantinople, where the Sultan lives.

Sultry or Sweltry, exceſſive-hot, in ſpeaking of the Weather.

Sumach or Sumack, a kind of rank-ſmelling Shrub that bears a black Berry made uſe of by Curriers to dreſs their Leather.

Sumage or Summage, an Horſe-load; alſo Toll paid for Carriage on Horſe-back.

Sumbriero, (Sp.) a Canopy of State held over Princes or great Perſons, in Spain and other hot Countries when they walk abroad, to ſcreen them from the exceſſive heat of the Sun.

Summ, a certain quantity of Money, the ſubſtance of a Diſcourſe, an Abridgment of a Book: In Mathematicks, the Quantity or Number which ariſes from the Addition of two or more Quantities or Numbers together, which is ſometimes call'd the Aggregate; thus of 4 added to 3, the Summ or Aggregate is 7.

Summ of an Equation, (in Algebra) is when the Abſolute Number being brought over to the other Side, with a contrary Sign, the whole becomes equal to O; and this Deſcartes calls the Summ of the Equation propoſed.

Summa, (Lat.) a Summ of Money, the chief point of a Matter: In our ancient Deeds, it is taken for any Load or Burden of a Horſe; and in many Charters, we find Summa Vini and Summa Ligni, for a Horſe-load of Wine or Wood.

Summa Frumenti, was the Quantity of Eight Buſhels or a Quarter of Wheat, ſtill call'd a Seam in Kent and other South Parts of this Kingdom.

Summary, conciſe, ſhort, brief, abridged.

A Summary, a brief gathering together of the whole Matter in a few Words; an Abridgment, or Abſtract.

Summed, (in Falconry) is when a Hawk has her Feathers, and is fit to be taken from the Eyrie or Mew.

Summer, one of the four Seaſons of the Year: In Architecture, the main piece of Timber or Beam that ſupports the Building; alſo an Architrave betwixt two Pillars.

Summer-Sault, a Gambol or Feat of Activity ſhew'd by a Tumbler.

Summer-Solſtice. See Solſtice.

To Summerſtir, (among Husband-men) to fallow or till Land in the Summer.

Summer-Tree, (among Carpenters) a Beam full of Mortiſes, for the ends of Joiſts to lie in.

Summit or Summity, (Lat.) the higheſt part or top of a Thing; as The Summity of a Hill, of a Plant, &c.

To Summon, to call one to appear before a Judge or Magiſtrate; alſo to demand the ſurrender of a Place.

Summoneas, a Judicial Writ of great Diverſity, according to the different Caſes wherein it is us'd; which See in the Table of the Regiſter-Judicial, Summoneas ad Warrantizandum; is the Proceſs whereby the Vouchee is call'd. See Voucher.

Summoner or Sumner, a petty Officer that cites or calls a Man to any Court of Juſtice, eſpecially the Eccleſiaſtical. See Apparitor.

Summonitores, (in old Latin Records) the Summoners or Apparitors, who cited Offenders to appear at a certain Time and Place, to anſwer any Charge or Complaint made againſt them.

Summonitores Scaccarii, thoſe Officers who aſſiſted in collecting the King's Revenues, and cited Defaulters into the Court of Exchequer.

Summons, a ſummoning to appear in Court, to anſwer to a Complaint, or to a Law-ſuit; which ſignifies as much as Vocatio in Jus, or Citatio among the Civilians.

Summons in Terra petita, a Summons made upon the Land, which the Party (at whoſe Suit the Summons is ſent forth) ſeeks to have.

Sumpter-Horſe, a Horſe that carries Neceſſaries and Proviſions for a Journey.

Sumptuary, belonging to Expences.

Sumptuary Laws, Laws made to reſtrain exceſs of Charge in Diet or Habit, ſuch as were in force among the ancient Romans. There were alſo heretofore many Laws in England, to prohibit coſtly Apparel, but all repealed by a Statute, Anno 1. Jac. I.

Sumptuous, rich, coſtly, ſtately.

Sun, a glorious Planet, the Spring of Light and Heat. See Sol.

Sun-Dew, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Luſt-wort, Moor-graſs and Red-rot.

Sun-Flower, a Plant bearing a fine large Yellow Flower.

Sunday, the firſt Day of the Week, ſo call'd from its being ſet a-part by our Saxon Anceſtours for worſhipping the Idol of the Sun.

Sunday-Letter, the ſame as Dominical Letter.

Sunk Battery. See Battery Sunk.

Superable, (Lat.) that may be overcome, or ſurpaſſed.

To Superabound, to be over and above, to be ſuperfluous.

Superabundance, very great Plenty, Exceſs, Superfluity.

Superabundant, over-flowing in Plenty, exceſſive, enough and too much.

To Superadd, to add over and above, to give Vantage.

† Superaffuſion, a pouring on the top, a ſhedding upon.

Superannuated, worn out with Age, ſtale, paſt the beſt, grown out of Date.

Superbipartient Number, (in Arithm.) a Number that divides another Number not exactly into two Parts, but leaves ſomething over and above.

Superbus Muſculus. See Attollens Oculum and Elevator Oculi.

Supercargo, (Ital.) a Perſon employ'd by the Owners of a Ship to go a Voyage, to overſee the Cargo or Lading, and to diſpoſe of it out and in, to their beſt Advantage.

† Superchery, (Fr.) a Cheat, or Trick; Fraud, Deceit.

Supercilious, (Lat.) that is of a ſour Countenance, or affected lofty Carriage, proud, haughty, ſtately.

Supercilium, (Lat.) the Brow or Eye-Brow, properly the ridge of Hair above the Eye-Lids. Alſo the lip or ſide of a Cavity or hollow Part at the end of a Bone, particularly the Cartilage or Griſtle of the Coxendix or Hip-bone.

Supereminence, Singular Excellency, Prerogative, or Authority above others.

Supereminent, excelling above.

To Supererogate, to give, or do more than is required.

Supererogation, a Supererogating or doing more than one's Duty, a performing more good Works than he is bound to do.

Supererogatory, belonging to ſuch a Practice; as Supererogatory Works, or Works of Supererogation, i. e. a ſort of Works held to be Meritorious among Roman Catholicks.

Superfetation, a ſecond conceiving before the firſt Young is brought forth, ſo that both Conceptions are in the Womb together; a breeding of young upon young, as Hares and Conies do.

Superficial, belonging to a Superficies, or Surface; outward, light, ſlight, imperfect.

Superficial Content. See Area.

Superficial Fourneau or Mine. See Caiſſon.

Superficial Wound, (in Surgery) a Wound that lies only in the Skin, or does not reach very deep.

Superficiarius, (Lat. among the Romans) one that builds a Houſe upon another Man's Ground, and pays a Quit-Rent for it.

Superficies, the Surface or outermoſt Part of any Thing, the Out-ſide. In Geometry, it is defin'd To be a Magnitude bounded by Lines, that only has Length and Breadth, without Depth or Thickneſs.

Superfine, very fine or thin; as Superfine Wire, Thread, Cards, &c.

Superfluity, that which is Superfluous, or more than needs, Overplus, Exceſs.

Superfluous, (properly overflowing) over-much, enough and to ſpare; alſo idle, unneceſſary, needleſs, unprofitable.

Supergeminalis, (Lat. in Anat.) a winding Veſſel, joyned to the Teſticles, the ſame as Epididymis.

Super-Humane, more than Humane, above Man's Capacity or Reach.

Superhumeralis, (in Anat.) the upper Part of the Shoulder.

To Superinduce, to bring in over and above, to lay upon; to cover, or draw over.

Superinduction, the Act of Superinducing.

Superinſtitution, (Law-Term) one Inſtitution upon another; as when a Clerk is admitted and inſtituted to a Benefice upon one Title, and another is likewiſe Inſtituted to it, by the Preſentment of another Patron.

To Superintend, to Overſee, or have the chief management of Affairs.

Superintendancy, the Place, Office, or Dignity of a Superintendant.

Superintendant, a chief Overſeer, or Surveyor; alſo a kind of Biſhop or dignified Clergy-man, among the Lutherans in Germany. The Preſbyterians in Scotland, had alſo once Superintendants that held their Office during Life, and whoſe Power was in a great meaſure Epiſcopal; for they appointed and ordain'd Miniſters, preſided in Synods, directed Church-Cenſures, &c.

Superintendent, that over-rules, or governs; as God is a Superintendent Principle over Nature.

Superiority, Pre-eminence, Excellence above others; alſo a being Superiour in a Monaſtery.

Superiour, upper or uppermoſt, prevailing; that is above others in Authority, Knowledge, Strength, &c. that has the advantage, or the better.

A Superiour, one of our Betters, the chief Governour or Governeſs of a Monaſtery, otherwiſe call'd Superiour Father, or Superiour Mother. In the Art of Printing, A Superiour, is a ſmall Letter plac'd above a material Word, which directs by a like Letter, to the Citation in the Margin.

Superiours, Magiſtrates, chief Governours, or Perſons in any high Station.

Superiours, or Superiour Planets, (in Aſtron.) the Planets Saturn, Jupiter and Mars, ſo call'd by way of Eminence, becauſe their Orbs are above the Sun.

Superlative, very great or eminent, extraordinary.

Superlative Degree, (in Grammar) the higheſt Degree of Compariſon, which is uſually expreſs'd in Engliſh, by putting the Particle eſt at the end, or moſt at the beginning of the Adjective, in its natural Signification; as Nobleſt or moſt Noble, Wiſeſt or moſt Wiſe, &c.

Superligamen, (Lat. in Surgery) a tying of Swathes, or Bands underneath.

Superligula, (in Anat.) the Cover of the Wind-pipe; otherwiſe call'd Epiglottis in Greek.

Supernal, that comes from above.

Supernatation, (in Philoſ.) a floating, or ſwimming at top.

Supernatural, that is above the Courſe, Strength, or reach of Nature,

Supernumerary, that is above the limited or uſual Number.

Superoneratione Paſturæ, a Judicial Writ that lies againſt one, who is impleaded in the County, for the over-burd'ning of a Common with his Cattel, in Caſe he was formerly impleaded for it there, and the Cauſe is removed to the Queen's Court at Weſtminſter.

Superparticular Proportion, (in Mathem.) is when one Quantity or Number contains another once, and a certain Part, whoſe Numerator is 1; ſo that the Number ſo contained in the Greater, is ſaid To be to it, in Superparticular Proportion.

Superpartient Proportion, is when one Quantity or Number contains another once, and ſome number of Aliquot Parts remaining; as $1\frac{2}{3}$, $1\frac{3}{4}$, $1\frac{3}{5}$, &c.

Super Prærogativa Regis, a Writ that lay againſt the King's Widow, for marrying without his Licence.

Superpurgation, an over-much purging by Stool. See Hypercatharſis.

Superſcapularis Superior. See Supraſpinatus.

To Superſcribe, to write over, or on the out-ſide of a Letter, Deed, &c.

Superſcription, that which is ſuperſcribed or written on the out-ſide, the Direction of a Letter.

To Superſede, to ſuſpend, demurr, put off, or ſtop an Affair or Proceeding; to Countermand.

Superſedeas, a Writ ſignifying a Command to ſtay, or forbear the doing of that which in Appearance of Law ought to be done, were it not for that Reaſon on which the Writ is granted.

Super Statuto, 1 E. 3. a Writ which lay againſt the King's Tenant holding in Chief, that alienated the King's Land without his Licence.

Super Statuto de Articulis Cleri, a Writ againſt the Sheriff or other Officer that diſtrains in the Queen's High Way, or in the Glebe-Land, anciently given to Rectories.

Super Statuto de York, quo nul ſerra Viteller, &c. a Writ lying againſt one that uſes Victualling, either in Groſs or by Retail, in a City or Borough-Town, during the time he is Mayor, &c.

Super Statuto facto pour Seneſhal & Marſhal de Royne, &c. a Writ lying againſt the Steward or Marſhal, for holding Plea in his Court; of Freehold, or for Treſpaſs or Contracts, not made within the Queen's Houſehold.

Super Statutum Edw. 3 verſus Servants & Labores, a Writ that lies againſt him who keeps another Man's Servants departed out of his Service againſt Law.

Superſtition, Idolatrous Worſhip, or vain Fear of the Deity; an idle ſilly Opinion or fooliſh Belief about Divine Worſhip, or about Omens or Signs of good and bad luck; Scrupulouſneſs, Over-nicety.

Superſtitious, given to Superſtition, over-ſcrupulous in Matters of Religion, or otherwiſe; bigotted, over-nice.

To Superſtruct, to build upon; as To Superſtruct one thing upon another.

Superſtructure, that which is built or raiſed upon ſome Foundation.

Supertripartient Quantity or Number, (in Mathem.) is that which divides another Quantity, or Number into three Parts, but leaves ſome Remainder.

† Supervacaneous, ſuperfluous, unprofitable, that ſerves to no Uſe or Purpoſe; unneceſſary, needleſs.

To Supervene, to come upon of a ſudden, to come in unlooked for, or unexpected.

To Superviſe, to overſee.

Superviſor, an Overſeer, a Surveyor.

Superviſor of a Will, one that is appointed to aſſiſt the Executor, and ſee that the Will be duely perform'd: It was formerly and is ſtill among ſome, a Cuſtom to make ſuch a Superviſor; but it is to little purpoſe.

Supinator Radii Brevis, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Bone of the Arm call'd Radius, which ariſes from the upper and outward part of the Ulna, and paſſing obliquely a-croſs that Bone, is inſerted to its upper part, below the Knob of the Radius, where the round Tendon of the Biceps ends.

Supinator Radii Longus, another Muſcle of the Radius, which takes riſe from the upper and outward part of the Shoulder-Bone, three Fingers breadth below the end of the Deltoides, and is implanted to the outward and lower part of the Radius, near the Wriſt: This Muſcle with the former ſerves to move the Radius outwards.

Supine, idle, careleſs, negligent, retchleſs.

Supines, (in Latin Grammar) are of two ſorts: The firſt of theſe ending in um, and having an Active Signification, is commonly ſet after Verbs of Motion; as Eo cubitum, I go to lie down: The ſecond Supine ends in u, and coming after an Adjective, has the Signification of an Infinitive Mood Paſſive generally attributed to it; as Dignus lectu, worthy to be read.

Supinity or Supineneſs, Sloth, Negligence, Careleſneſs.

Suppedanea. See Supplantalia.

To Suppeditate, to find, or furniſh; as To ſuppeditate Matter.

To Supplant, to trip up one's Heels, to undermine him; to deceive, or beguile.

Supplantalia or Suppedanea, Plaiſters apply'd to the Feet; which for the moſt part are made of Leven, Muſtard, wild Radiſh, Salt, Soap, Gunpowder, &c.

Supple, ſoft or limber, pliant, complaiſant, ſubmiſſive.

Supplement, (Lat.) any Addition made to ſupply ſomething that was wanting or defective; particularly an Addition to a Treatiſe.

Supplement of an Arch, (in Geom. or Trigonom.) is the number of Degrees that it wants of being a Semi-circle; as Complement ſignifies what an Arch wants of being a Quadrant.

Suppletory, that ſerves to ſupply ſome Imperfection, or Defect.

Suppliant, or Supplicant, a Petitioner, or humble Suiter.

To Supplicate, to make humble Requeſt, to entreat, beg, or beſeech earneſtly.

Supplication, humble Petition or Suit; earneſt and ſubmiſſive Prayer.

Supplicavit, a Writ that iſſues out of the Chancery, for taking the Surety of Peace againſt a Man, and was heretofore call'd Breve de minis.

Supply, Aid, Relief: In the Art of War, Supplies are taken for Recruits of Forces, or the furniſhing an Army with freſh Men.

To Supply, to make up what is wanting, to fill up one's Place, to furniſh with Neceſſaries.

Support, that which upholds, or bears up a Weight or Burden; Prop, Protection, Defence.

To Support, to bear or prop up, to protect or uphold; to countenance, favour, or back; to keep up, maintain, or feed; to aſſiſt or help.

Supportable, that may be ſuffered or endured; tolerable, ſufferable.

Supporters, Images to bear up Poſts, &c. in a Building: In Heraldry, the Figures of Lions, Tigers, Eagles, Griffins, or other Savage Creatures that are drawn ſtanding on each ſide of the Shield or Eſcutcheon, and ſeem to ſupport or uphold it; which Archievement is allow'd to none under the Degree of a Knight-Banneret.

Suppoſable, that may be ſuppoſed.

To Suppoſe, to grant, or take for granted, to put the Caſe; to imagine or think, to produce a falſe thing in ſtead of the true.

Suppoſition or Suppoſal, a ſuppoſing, a thing taken for granted; an uncertain Allegation.

Suppoſititious, put in the room of another thing, that is real or proper; falſe, forged, counterfeit.

Suppoſitory, a piece of a ſort of Paſte of about a Finger's length, which in ſome Caſes is put up the Fundament, to looſen the Belly: It is uſually made of purging Powders, Honey, Salt and other Ingredients.

To Suppreſs, to ſmother or ſtop a Writing, or Book; to take away, or put down an Office; to conceal, or paſs over in Silence.

Suppreſſion, the Act of Suppreſſing, Smothering, &c. Suppreſſion of the Courſes, is when they are ſtopt, and have not a free Paſſage; and Suppreſſion of Urine, is a Difficulty in making Water.

Suppreſſionis Ignis, (Lat.) a Term us'd by Chymiſts, for a Fire made above the Sand.

To Suppurate, to run with, or void Matter; as a Sore does.

Suppuration, gathering or reſolving to Matter, coming to a Head; mattering, or running with Matter.

Suppurative, that brings to Suppuration, that makes a Sore run.

Suppurgation, is when purging Medicines are too often us'd, which by too much opening the Veins, cauſes the Bloody Flux, drains the ſtock of Bloud, and expoſes Nature's ſtrength to apparent Danger.

Supputation, a counting, reckoning, or caſting up.

Supraſcapularis Inferior, (Lat.) the Name of a Muſcle of the Arm. See Infraſpinatus.

Supraſpinatus, or Supraſcapularis Superior, a Muſcle, ſo call'd from its being plac'd above the Spine of the Shoulder-blade: It ariſes from the ſaid Spine, as alſo from the Coſta Superior of the Shoulder-blade, and joyning its Tendons with the Infraſpinatus, is inſerted to the Head of the Shoulder-bone. The proper uſe of this Muſcle, is to lift the Arm upwards, towards the hinder part of the Head.

Supremacy, Soveraignty, the moſt tranſcendent height in Power and Authority; more-eſpecially the Supreme or Chief Power of the Kings and Queens Regent of England in Eccleſiaſtical Affairs.

Supreme, higheſt, chiefeſt, or moſt eminent of all; advanced to the higheſt Degree of Dignity and Authority.

Sura, (Lat.) the Calf of the Leg: Alſo the leſſer Bone of it, otherwiſe call'd Fibula and Focile minus.

Sural Vein, a Vein which runs down on the Calf of the Leg.

Suralis, a branch of the Crural Vein, which ſpreads it ſelf into two Branches, one Outward and the other Inward, and each of thoſe are divided into two more; ſo that in their Courſe, with the Branches of the Poplitæa, they make all that Net-work of Veins which appears on the upper Part of the Foot.

Surantler, the upper Antler on a Deer's Head.

Surbate or Surbating, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, a Bruiſe under a Horſe's Foot, often occaſioned by travelling too long unſhod.

To Surceaſe, to give over.

Surcharge, (a Term in Traffick) Charge upon Charge, or the Charge in any thing which is over and above that which is Juſt.

Surcharge of the Foreſt, (Law-Term) is when a Commoner puts more Beaſts into a Foreſt than he has Right to.

To Surcharge, to overload; a Word chiefly apply'd to the Stomach.

Surcingle, a Girdle with which the Clergymen of the Church of England uſually tie their Caſſocks: Alſo a kind of upper Girth, or Harneſs for Horſes. See Surſengle.

Surcoat, a Coat of Arms to be worn over Armour; alſo a ſort of upper Garment.

Sur cui in Vita, (Lat.) a Writ that lies for the Heir of that Woman, whoſe Husband has alienated her Land in Fee, and ſhe does not bring the Writ Cui in Vita for the recovery of her own Land: In which Caſe, her Heir may have this Writ againſt the Tenant after her Deceaſe.

Surculus, a Shoot, Set, or Slip, a Cion, or Graff; a young Twigg, or branch of a Tree.

Surd, (i. e. Deaf, void of Senſe or Reaſon) a Term in Mathematicks; as A Surd or Irrational Root, i. e. that Square Root, Cubick Root, or any other Root which cannot be perfectly extracted out of a Rational Number, and is uſually expreſs'd by ſome Character, call'd, the Radical Sign: Thus $\surd 5$, or $\surd(2)\,5$ ſignifies the ſquare Root of 5; $\surd(3)\,16$ the Cubick Root of 16, &c.

In Geometry, Figures incommenſurable to the Rational Square, are call'd Surds, as alſo Lines that have not any common Meaſure, with the given Rational Line.

Commenſurable Surds. See Commenſurable.

† Surdity, Deafneſs, Dulneſs.

Surety, Security or Bail; as To become Surety, i. e. to be bound for another.

Surety of the Peace, is the acknowledging a Bond to the Queen, before a Competent Judge of Record, for the keeping of the Peace: It is call'd Securitas Pacis in Latin, and differs from Securitas de bene geſtu, or Surety of the Good abearing, in this reſpect, That whereas the Peace is not broken without an Affray or Aſſault, the good Abearing may be violated, by the number of a Man's Company, or by his or their Weapons, and Harneſs.

Surface, (Fr.) the bare out-ſide of a Body, which conſider'd by it ſelf is Quantity extended in Length and Breadth only, without Thickneſs; and is the ſame with Superficies: Theſe in Geometry, are either Plane, or Curved.

A Plain Surface or Superficies, is made by the motion of a Right-Line always keeping in the ſame Plane; whether it be a Square or a Circle.

A Curved or crooked Surface, is Convex above or without, and Concave below or within; ſo that it may be conceiv'd like the Tilt of a Boat or Waggon: And ſuch a Surface may be produc'd, either by the motion of a Right-Line, on a Curve or crooked Line; or of a Curved Line, on a Right one.

Surfeit, an Indiſpoſition cauſ'd by exceſs in eating and drinking, or overcharging the Stomach.

Surge, a Billow, or Wave of the Sea; eſpecially ſuch as beat upon the Shore.

To Surge, to riſe up in Surges, or Waves: On board a Ship, when Men heave at the Capſtan, and the Cable happens to ſlip back a little, they ſay, The Cable Surges.

Surgeon or Chirurgeon, (Gr.) one that is skilled in, or profeſſes Surgery.

Surgery or Chirurgery, the Art of performing Cures on the Outward diſeaſed Parts of a Humane Body, by means of the Hands and proper Inſtruments: It is derived from the Greek Words Cheir, a Hand, and Ergon a Work. Surgery is alſo the Place, particular Room or Apartment, where Surgeons uſually perform their Operations. The ſeveral Parts of Surgery are Anaplerosis, Diæreſis, Diorthoſis, Exæreſis and Syntheſis; which See in their proper Places.

Surkney, a kind of White Garment like a Rochet.

Surmicha, (in old Latin Records) a Loaf of courſer White-Bread, ſuch as in Kent is call'd Ravel-bread.

To Surmiſe, to imagine, ſuppoſe, or think, to have a Suſpicion of.

To Surmount, to overcome, or get the better of; to excel, ſurpaſs, or out-do.

Surmounted, overcome, out-done, &c. Alſo a Term in Heraldry, for the bearing of one Ordinary upon another; as A Pile Surmounted of a Chevron.

To Surpaſs, to go beyond, to exceed or excell.

Surplice, a White Linnen Garment, worn by Miniſters in the Church, while they read the Publick Service.

Surpluſage, (Fr. in Common Law) a Superfluity or Addition of more than needs, which ſometimes is the Cauſe that a Writ abates: It is alſo ſometimes apply'd to Matter of Account, and ſignifies a greater Disburſement, than the Charge of the Accountant amounts to.

Surpriſal or Surpriſe, a coming upon unawares, a ſudden Aſſault; Amazement, or Aſtoniſhment.

To Surpriſe or Surprize, to take napping, or in the Deed doing; to lead one into Errour, by cauſing him to do a thing over-haſtily, to aſtoniſh or amaze.

Surprizing, that ſurprizes or cauſes Surprize; wonderful, ſtrange.

Surquedry, (old Word) Pride, Preſumption.

Surrebutter, (Law-Term) a Second Rebutter, a rebutting more than once. See Rebutter.

Surrejoynder, a ſecond Defence of the Plaintiff's Action, oppoſed to the Defendant's Rejoynder; which is call'd Triplicatio among the Civilians.

Surrender, a reſigning, or giving up: In Common Law, an Inſtrument, Deed or Writing, which teſtifies a Tenant's Conſent or Agreement, to yield and give up Lands or Tenements to the poſſeſſion of him that has the next immediate Remainder or Reverſion. There is alſo a cuſtomary Surrender of Copyhold Land to the Lord of the Manour, &c.

To Surrender, to yield or deliver one's ſelf up; to yield up, or give up a Thing; to lay down one's Office, or Place.

Surreptitious, (Lat.) done, or got by Stealth or Surprize.

Surrogate, one that is appointed to ſupply the Place of another; moſt commonly of a Biſhop, or of a Biſhop's Chancellour.

To Surrogate, to depute, or appoint in the room of another.

Surrogation, the Act of ſurrogating, or appointing a Deputy.

To Surround, to go round, or encompaſs.

Surſengle, a long upper Girth, to come over a Pad or Saddle, eſpecially ſuch as are us'd by Carriers, to faſten their Packs.

Surſiſe, a Word us'd in the Caſtle of Dover, for ſuch Penalties and Forfeitures, as are laid upon thoſe that do not pay their Duties, or Rent for Caſtleward.

Surſolid, (in Mathem.) the Fifth Power from any given Root or Side, either in Species or Numbers: So 32 is the fifth Power of the Root 2; for the Number 2 being ſet down five times and multiplied continually, produces 32.

Surſolid Place. See Place Solid.

Surſolid Problem, is that which cannot be reſolved, but by Curves of a higher Nature than Conick Sections.

Surtoot or Surtout, (Fr.) a great upper Coat.

Surtout, a Term in the Confectioners Art; as Piſtachoes in Surtout, i. e. the Kernels of Piſtachoe-Nuts, cover'd with Sugar, and order'd after the ſame manner as Almond Sugar-Plums. Alſo a Term in Cookery, as Pigeons dreſs'd in Surtout, i. e. Pigeons farced or ſtuffed, tied up, and every one cover'd on the Breaſt with a larded Veal-Collop, in order to be roaſted, wrapt up in Paper, and afterwards ſerv'd up in a Ragoo or Cullis.

Survey, a general View, a Draught of one's Lands, a Deſcription of a Country.

To Survey, to view or look about on all Sides, to overſee, to meaſure Land.

Surveying of Land, the Art of meaſuring the Area's or ſuperficial Contents of Lands, Fields, Grounds, &c. by the help of proper Inſtruments; being the Science of Planimetry reduced to Practice.

Surveying-Scale, is the ſame as Reducing Scale; which See.

Surveyor, a Meaſurer of Land, an Overſeer; eſpecially one that has the Overſight or Care of ſome great Perſon's Lands or Works; as The Surveyor-General of the Queen's Manours.

Surveyor of the Melting, an Officer in the Mint, who is to ſee the Bullion caſt out, and that it be not alter'd after the delivery of it to the Melter; which is after the Aſſay-Maſter has made Tryal of it: His Salary or Fee is 100 Pounds per Annum.

Surveyor of the Navy. See Navy.

Surveyor of the Ordinance. See Ordinance.

Survivance or Survivorſhip, an outliving of one.

To Survive, to outlive.

Survivor, one that outlives another: In a Law-Senſe, the longer Liver of two joint Tenants, or of any two Perſons joined in the Right of any thing.

Sus, (Lat.) a Swine, a Hog or Sow.

Suſanna, (Heb. Lily) a Chriſtian Name of Women.

Suſceptible, (Lat.) capable, or apt to receive an Impreſſion, or Form.

† Suſcitation, a raiſing, quickening, or ſtirring up.

Suskin, a kind of old Coin forbidden by Stat. 3. H. 5.

To Suſpect, (Lat.) to fear, or miſtruſt; to ſurmiſe, or think.

Suſpectful, apt to ſuſpect, or miſtruſt.

Suſpence, doubt, uncertainty of Mind.

To Suſpend, to defer, delay, put off, or ſtop; to wave, or avoid giving one's Judgment; to deprive one of an Office, or to forbid him the Exerciſe of it.

Suſpended, a Philoſophical Word for hanged up.

Suſpenſion, ſuſpending, ceſſation, or ceaſing for a while; as A Suſpenſion of Arms; alſo the being ſuſpended from one's Office.

Suſpenſion or Suſpenſe (in Common Law) is a temporal Stop of a Man's Right; as when a Seigniory or Rent, &c. by reaſon of the unity of Poſſeſſion, or otherwiſe, lies dormant for ſome time, but may be revived; and in that reſpect it differs from Extinguiſhment, which is when 'tis quite taken away or loſt for ever. Suſpenſion is alſo ſometimes taken, as in the Canon-Law, for the leſſer Excommunication.

Suſpenſor Teſticuli, (Lat. in Anat.) a Muſcle, otherwiſe call'd Cremaſter; which See.

Suſpenſorium, a Ligament of the Penis or Yard, which ariſes from the fore-part of the Os Pubis, or Share-bone, and is fixt to the upper part of the Dorſum Penis, on each ſide its great Vein.

Suſpenſory, a ſort of Truſs, or Bandage.

† Suſpicable, liable to Suſpicion.

Suſpicion, Jealouſy, Diſtruſt, Fear; Conjecture, Surmiſe.

Suſpicious, full of Suſpicions, Jealouſies, or Fears; Jealous, Diſtruſtful; alſo that may be Suſpected, or Feared.

Suſpiral, a Spring of Water, paſſing under Ground towards a Conduit or Ciſtern; alſo a Breathing-hole, a Vent, or Air-hole.

Suſpirium, (Lat.) a Sigh, a Short-breathing; the Phthiſick.

To Suſtain, to ſupport or uphold, to bear, hold, or keep up; to give Strength, to ſtrengthen or nouriſh; alſo to bear or endure.

Suſtenance, Nouriſhment, Food.

Sute-Silver. See Suit-Silver.

Sutler, one that ſells Victuals to Soldiers, in a Camp or Garriſon.

Suttle-Weight, (among Merchants) the pure Weight of Commodities, after the Allowance for Tare is deducted.

Suture, (Lat.) a Seam or Stitch: In Surgery, a ſowing together of the ſides or Lips of a Wound.

Alſo the joyning or cloſing of the Scull-bones like the Teeth of Saws, let one into another: Thoſe that joyn the Parts of the Scull to the Bones of the upper Jaw, are of three ſorts, viz. the Tranſverſalis, the Ethmoidalis, and the Sphenoidalis; which See under theſe Words. The Sutures joyning the Parts of the Scull, are four in number, viz. the Coronalis, Lambdoidalis, Sagittalis and Squamoſa; which See.

Among Naturaliſts, the Cloſures with which the Shells of Fiſhes are joyn'd one to another, are alſo call'd Sutures.

Falſe or Baſtard Sutures, (in Anat.) are thoſe Seams of the Scull, whoſe Figure reſembles the Scales of Fiſhes, and are joyn'd together, by paſſing one over the other.

Swab, a Cod of Beans.

Swabber, an Inferiour Officer a-board a Man of War, whoſe Buſineſs is to ſee, that the Ship be kept neat and clean; cauſing her to be waſhed well once or twice a Week, eſpecially about the Gun-wails and Chains.

Swad, a Peaſecod-ſhell; alſo a groſs fat Woman.

To Swaddle, to Swathe, or wrap up with Swathing-bands; alſo to cudgel, bang, or drub.

To Swag, to force, or bear downwards, as a Weight does; to hang down.

To Swagger, to play the Hector, to boaſt, vaunt, or huff.

Swain, a Country-man, a Clown.

Swain-mote or Swanimote, a Court, touching Matters of the Foreſt, held thrice a Year, before the Verderours, as Judges; and it is as requiſite in a Foreſt, as a Court of Pie-powder in a Fair.

Swallow, a ſort of Bird; alſo a Flying Sea-Fiſh; alſo a Gulph, or Whirl-Pool.

Swallow-Tail, (among Carpenters and Joyners) a particular way of faſtening together two pieces of Timber, ſo ſtrongly, that they cannot fall aſunder: In Fortification, a Single Tenaille, that is narrower towards the Place than towards the Country. See Queue d' Hironde.

Swallow-Wort, an Herb noted for its Virtue in reſiſting Poiſon. See Celandine.

Swamp or Swomp, a Bog or Marſhy Place, in Virginia and New-England.

Swan, a known Royal Fowl, concerning which there is a Law, That whoever ſteals their Eggs out of the Neſt, ſhall be impriſon'd for a Year and a Day, and fined according to the Queen's Pleaſure: Alſo the Name of a Conſtellation made up of Twelve Stars.

Swans-skin, a ſort of fine Flannel, ſo call'd, upon account of its extraordinary Whiteneſs.

Swang, a North-Country Word for a green Swarth or Furrow, amidſt Plough'd Land.

To Swap or Swop, to Exchange one thing for another; to Barter, or Truck.

Sward, the Rind of Bacon.

Sward or Green Sward, Among Huſbandmen, Ground is ſaid To have a Sward, or To be Swarded, when it is well grown, or Coated over with Graſs and other Herbs.

Swart-Rutter, (Dutch) a Horſeman with black Armour.

Swarthy, Sun-burnt, Tawny, Blackiſh.

Swaſh, a Stream, or Puddle of Water.

To Swaſh, to make fly about; to claſh, or make a Noiſe with Swords.

Swaſh-Buckler, a vain-glorious Sword-player, or Fencer; a meer Braggadochoe, a vapouring Fellow.

Swath or Swarth, Graſs or Corn, as it is laid in Rows by the Mower from the Sithe: In Kent 'tis call'd Sweath.

Swathe, or Swathing-Band, a Band to Swathe, or wrap up a young Child; alſo a long and broad Band, that ſerves to bind up or contain any diſeaſed Part, with the Surgeon's Dreſſings. Alſo a Term in Architecture. See Epiſtylium.

Sway, Power, Rule, Command.

To Sweal, to melt away waſtefully, as bad Candles do; alſo a Country-Word for to ſindge a Hog.

Sweating-Sickneſs, a Diſtemper, which in the Year 1551, over-ran the whole Kingdom, and was obſerv'd to begin in Shrewsbury.

Sweep, (among Sea-men) the Mould of a Ship, where ſhe begins to compaſs in at the Rung-heads, is call'd The Sweep of her, or The Sweep of the Futtocks: Alſo a kind of Refining Furnace. See Almond Furnace.

To Sweep, to cleanſe with a Broom: In Falconry, a Hawk, after ſhe has fed, is ſaid To Sweep, i. e. to wipe her Beak.

Sweep-Net, or Drag, a ſort of Fiſhing-Net.

Sweepage, a Crop of Hay in a Meadow.

Sweeping, (among Mariners) is taken for dragging along the Ground, at the bottom of the Sea, or Channel, with a three-flooked Grapnel, to find ſome Cable or Hawſer, that is ſlipped from an Anchor.

Sweet-bread. See Pancreas.

Sweet Ciſtus, a kind of Herb.

Sweeting, a ſort of ſweet Apple.

To Swelter, to broil with exceſſive Heat.

Swepe or Swipe, an Engine, having Croſs Beams, to draw Water with.

Swerves-delf. See Cnouts-delf.

To Swerve, to depart, or go from; as, To Swerve from the Truth.

Swift, quick, nimble, fleet: In Aſtronomy and Aſtrology, a Planet is ſaid To be Swift in Motion, when by its own proper Diurnal or Daily Motion, it exceeds or moves farther, than its Mean Diurnal Motion: And Slow in Motion, is when its Motion happens to be leſs than its Mean Motion.

Swifters, (in a Ship) are certain Ropes belonging to the Main and Fore-Maſts, which ſerve to ſtrengthen the Shrowds, and to keep the Maſts ſtiff.

Swifting a Boat, (in Sea-Language) is when the Gun-wale is encompaſs'd with a good Rope, and the Cheſt-Rope made faſt thereto, in order to keep the Boat from Swinging to and again in a ſtiff Gale.

Swifting the Capſtan-Bars, is ſtraining a Rope all round the outer ends of thoſe Bars, to ſtrengthen them, and make them bear all alike and together, when the Men heave or work there.

Swifting the Maſts, a particular manner of eaſing and ſtrengthening them, when a Ship is either brought a-ground or on a Careen; which is done by laying faſt all the Pendants of the Swifters and Tackles, with a Rope cloſe to the Maſts, and then carrying forward the Tackles, to hale them down as hard and tight as is poſſible.

Swill, Hog-waſh: In the Northern Parts, it is taken for a Shade or Shadow; and ſometimes for a Keeler, or Waſhing-Tub with three Feet.

To Swill, to gulp or ſwallow down greedily, to carouſe, or drink hard.

Swill-Bowl, a luſty Toper, a Drunkard.

Swilpough, (old Word) a Dilling, or Child Born when the Parents are old.

The Swin, a Channel ſo call'd that leads from the Buoy of the middle Ground up to the Buoy of the Nower, and has for the moſt part nine or ten Fathom Water in the midſt of it.

Swine-bread, Swine-creſſes and Swine-graſs, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Swine-Hull or Swine-Crue, (Country-Word) a Swine-Sty, or Hog-ſty.

Swine-Pipe, a Bird of the Thruſh-kind.

Swing-wheel. See Crown-wheel.

To Swinge or Swinge off, to whip or bang ſoundly, to mawl, to chaſtiſe ſeverely either with Words, or Blows.

Swingeing, huge, exceeding great; as A ſwingeing Stomach.

To Swingle, to beat; a Term among Flax-dreſſers.

Swingle-Staff, a Stick to beat Flax with.

Swink, (old Word) Labour.

Swipe, an Engine to draw up Water; alſo another ſort to throw Granadoes.

Swithin, (Sax. very high) a proper Name, particularly of a Biſhop of Winchester famous for his Holineſs, and upon that account Canonized for a Saint.

Swivle, a kind of Iron-ring that turns round about.

Swolling or Suling of Land, as much as one Plough can till in a Year, a Hide of Land; tho' ſome ſay it is an uncertain Quantity.

To Swoop, to fly down haſtily and catch up with the Talons or Claws, as a Bird of Prey does.

To Swop. See To Swap.

Sword, a well known Weapon.

Sword-Bearer, an Officer that carries the Sword of State before a Prince, or Magiſtrate; particularly before the Lord Mayor of the City of London.

Sword-Fiſh, a Sea-fiſh which has at the end of the upper Jaw, a Weapon like a Sword, with Teeth on each Side, five Foot long and ſix Inches broad near the Jaw: It alſo has Vents near the Eyes, to ſpout forth Water, with ſeven Fins; and is at perpetual Enmity with the Whale, which it often wounds to Death.

Sword-Graſs, a kind of Sedge.

Sword-ſleiper, a North Country-Word for a Sword-cutler.

Sworn Brothers, Soldiers of Fortune, who in any notable Expedition, us'd to engage themſelves by mutual Oaths to ſhare the Rewards of their Service: This Practice no doubt gave Occaſion to our Proverb of Sworn Brothers, or Brethren in Iniquity, by reaſon of their dividing Plunder and Spoil.

Syagros, (Gr.) a wild Sow; alſo a kind of Date-tree.

Syb and Som, an old Saxon Expreſſion, ſignifying Peace and Security.

Sybaritical, belonging to the Sybaritæ, effeminate, delicate, wanton, nice; from the Inhabitants of the City Sybaris, a People advanc'd to that height of Luxury and Voluptuouſneſs, that they taught their Horſes to dance to the ſound of the Flute: Inſomuch that the Crotoniatæ, who wag'd War with them, bringing a great number of Pipers into the Field of Battel, made their Horſes fall a dancing; whereupon they broke their Ranks, utterly overthrew them, and deſtroy'd their City.

Sycominus, (Gr.) the Mulberry Fig-tree.

Syce, the Fig-tree.

Sycites, a precious Stone in Colour like a Fig.

Sycoma or Sycoſis, a fleſhy Subſtance, Wart, or Ulcer that grows about the Fundament, and is ſo call'd from its reſembling the ſhape of a Fig.

Sycomore, a fair Tree abounding in many Parts of Egypt and Judæa, that bears Leaves like thoſe of the Mulberry-tree, and a ſort of Fruit like Figs, very wholeſome and pleaſant to the Taſte: So that thoſe Trees which go by the Name of Sycomores in England, are not rightly ſo call'd, as being rather a ſort of Maple with Leaves like thoſe of the Fig-tree.

Sycophant, (from Sycon a Fig and Phainein to diſcover) properly ſignifies one that to get a Reward of the Magiſtrate us'd to betray thoſe Fig-Merchants, who made any Exportations, without paying the Cuſtoms enjoyned by Law among the ancient Athenians: Whence the Word is figuratively taken for any one that curries Favour with another for Gain; an Informer, Tale-bearer, Pick-thank, or Flatterer.

Syderatio. See Sideratio.

Syllabical, belonging to Syllables.

Syllabicum Augmentum, (in Grammar) an Augmentation or Encreaſe made in Greek Verbs, by adding one Syllable at the beginning of ſome Tenſes: Thus, from the Preſent Tenſe τύπτω is formed the Preterimperfect Tenſe, ἔτυπτον, the Futurum Secundum ἔτυπον, the Aoriſtus Primus, ἔτυψα, &c.

Syllable, is an articulate, or compleat Sound, made of one or ſeveral Letters.

Syllepſis, (Gr. i. e. Conception or Comprehenſion) a Grammatical Figure, when two Nominative Caſes Singular of different Perſons are joyn'd to a Verb Plural; as Ego & tu ſumus in tuto: Alſo the Agreement of an Adjective, not with that Subſtantive which is neareſt, but with that which is moſt worthy or honourable, in any Sentence; as Rex & Regina beati.

Syllogiſm, (in Logick) a kind of Argument conſiſting of three Members, or Propoſitions; ſo that if the firſt and ſecond be granted, the third call'd the Concluſion muſt of neceſſity be admitted or allowed; as

Every Vice is odious,
Drunkenneſs is a Vice;
Therefore Drunkenneſs is odious.

Syllogiſms are of two ſorts, viz. either Categorical, or Hypothetical.

Categorical Syllogiſm, is that wherein both Propoſitions are Categorical, or Poſitive, as in the Example but now produced; or thus, Every Man is a Living-Creature, &c.

Horned Syllogiſm. See Dilemma.

Hypothetical Syllogiſm, is when one or both Propoſitions are Hypothetical, or upon Suppoſition; as, If he be a Man, he is a Living-Creature, &c.

Syllogiſtical, belonging to Syllogiſms, or Logical Diſputations.

Sylva, (Lat.) a Wood, or Foreſt.

Sylva cædua, (in our Statute-Laws) a Wood under twenty Years growth, Under-wood; in Law-French it is call'd Sub-bois.

† Sylvatick, belonging to Woods, or Foreſts.

Symbol, (Gr.) a Badge, Sign, or Token; a Motto, or Device; an Emblem, or Repreſentation of ſomething; as Two Hands joyned or claſped together are a Symbol of Fidelity. In Divinity, Symbol is taken for the Apoſtles Creed or Summ of Chriſtian Belief: The Elements of Bread and Wine in the Bleſſed Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, are alſo call'd Symbols.

In Algebra, Symbols are certain Characters, Signs, or Marks, which denote Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication, &c. See Characters and Signs.

Symbolical, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of a Symbol; Myſtical.

To Symbolize, to ſignify ſome hidden thing, by certain outward Signs; as An Eye ſymbolizes Watchfulneſs. To Symbolize, or Symbolize with, is to concur, or agree in any thing with; to partake of each others Qualities; as Fire and Air are ſymbolizing Elements.

Symmetral, the ſame as Commenſurable.

Symmetry, (in Architecture, Painting &c.) Uniformity, a due Proportion requiſite according to the reſpective Rules of thoſe Arts, to make all the Parts of the Work agree to and with the Whole: Among Phyſicians, it is ſometimes taken for a good Temper of Body.

Symmyſta, a Secretary, or Member of the Privy-Council, a Fellow-Prieſt.

Sympathetical or Sympathetick, partaking of, or belonging to Sympathy.

Sympathetical Inks, are ſuch as can be made to appear or diſappear very ſuddenly by the application of ſomething that ſeems to work by Sympathy. There are ſome ways of preparing Inks of this kind, which are very wonderful and ſurprizing, as well as curious and diverting.

Sympathetick Powder, a Powder made of green or Roman Vitriol, Chymically prepar'd, or elſe only open'd by the Sun-beams piercing into it, and imperfectly calcining it: 'Tis cry'd up to be of great Virtue for the curing of Wounds, when ſome of it is ſpread on a Linnen-cloth dipt in the Blood of the Wound; ſo that if the Cloth be many Miles off the Wounded Perſon, yet he ſhall be healed: However, he that depends only on this Remedy is in danger of paying dear for his Credulity.

To Sympathize, to agree, or be affected with; to have a mutual Affection or Fellow-feeling.

Sympathy, an agreeableneſs of natural Qualities, Humours, Temperature, &c. Fellow-feeling, Compaſſion. In a Medicinal Senſe, an Indiſpoſition of one part of the Body caus'd by the Diſeaſe of the other.

Sympepſis, (in Surgery) a concocting or ripening of Humours, that are growing to an Impoſthume.

Symphoneſis. See Synecphoneſis.

Symphoniaca, an Herb call'd Hen-bane.

Symphony, Muſical Sounds and Concords pleaſing to the Ear, either Vocal or Inſtrumental; alſo a Conſort of Inſtrumental Muſick.

Symphyſis, (in Surgery) the joyning of two Bones, when neither has a proper, diſtinct Motion: And it is either without any Medium, or elſe with one that ties them ſtraight together; as a Cartilage or Griſtle, a Ligament, or Fleſh, &c.

Symphyton, the Herb great Comfrey, or Wallwort; Bugle.

Symploce, (i. e. folding or joyning together) a Figure in Rhetorick, when ſeveral Sentences, or Clauſes, have the ſame Beginning and the ſame Ending; as,

Quam bene, Caune, tuo poteram nurus eſſe parenti.

Quam bene, Caune, meo poteras gener eſſe parenti.

This Figure in Latin, is call'd Complicatio or Complexio.

Symptom, an Accident or Effect accompanying a Diſeaſe, as the Head-ach comes with an Ague, a pricking in the Side with a Pleuriſy: Alſo a Sign or Token of any Thing.

Symptomatical or Symptomatick, belonging to, attended with, or cauſed by ſome Symptom.

Synactica, Medicines that contract, draw together, or ſtraighten any Part.

Synæreſis, (i. e. Contraction) a Figure of Proſodia, a contracting or clapping together of two Syllables or Vowels into one; as Alvaria for Alvearia.

Synagogue, a Congregation or Aſſembly; properly an Aſſembly of Jews, for the performing of Divine Service; in which it was anciently lawful to Pray, Expound the Scriptures, and Diſpute, but not to offer Sacrifice: The Word is ſtill us'd for a Jewiſh Church, or Place of Religious Worſhip.

Synalœpha, properly a gluing or mingling together. In Grammar, the joyning together of two Vowels or Diphthongs in the ſcanning of Verſes: Or a cutting off the ending Vowel of a Word, when the next Word begins with a Vowel; as Vit' eſt, for Vita eſt.

Synanche, a Quinſey that quite ſtops the Breath, being a preternatural Inflammation of the Muſcles of the Jaws.

Synarthroſis, (in Surgery) a compact or cloſe joynting of Bones that are void of any ſenſible Motion; as in the Scull, Teeth, &c.

Synathroeſmus, a Rhetorical Figure, when ſeveral Matters of different Nature are heap'd up together.

Synaxis, a gathering together, a Congregation, an Aſſembly; alſo the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, the Holy Communion.

Syncampe, a bending or bowing: In Anatomy, the Flexure or bent of the Arm, where the lower part of it is joyn'd to the upper.

Syncategorema, (in Logick) a Word that imports ſomewhat with another; ſuch are the Univerſal and Particular Terms, as, all, none, certain, &c. which ſignify little of themſelves, but add to the force of other Words.

Syncategorematical, belonging to ſuch a Term; that has no Predicamental, or Self-ſignification.

Syncellus, a dignify'd Clergy-man in the Greek Church, who was next to the Patriarch; a Biſhop's Suffragan.

Synchondroſis, (in Surgery) a joyning together of Bones by a Cartilage or Griſtle, as that of the Noſe, Chin, the Share-bone, &c.

† Synchronical, being or done together at the ſame time, that is of one time or ſtanding; Contemporary.

Synchroniſm, a happening of ſeveral remarkable Accidents, Tranſactions, or Paſſages, at one and the ſame time.

Synchoreſis, (i. e. a granting or allowing) a Rhetorical Figure, wherein an Argument is ſcoffingly yielded to, and then marred with a Retort upon the Objector; as, I grant indeed he is poor, he is forſaken, he is deſtitute of Friends; yet he is Vertuous. This Figure is call'd Conceſſio in Latin.

Synchriſm, a kind of liquid, or ſpreading Ointment.

Synchyſis, Confuſion, confuſed mingling together, Diſorder: In Grammar, it is a confuſed and diſorderly placing of Words in a Sentence: Among Rhetoricians, a Figure or Fault in a Speech, when the Order of Things is diſturb'd: In Surgery, a preternatural Confuſion of the Bloud or Humours of the Eyes.

Syncopation, a Term in Muſick, which is us'd when a Note of one Part ends and breaks off upon the middle of a Note of another Part.

Syncope, (i. e. cutting off) a Figure in Grammar, when a Letter or Syllable is taken away out of the middle of a Word; as Repoſtum for Repoſitum, Amârunt for Amaverunt. In the Art of Phyſick, it is a haſty decay of all the natural Faculties and Strength; a ſudden Fainting or Swooning away, with a very weak, or no Pulſe, and a loſs of Senſe and Motion.

In Muſick, Syncope, is the driving of a Note, when ſome ſhorter Note, ſet at the beginning of the Meaſure, or Half-Meaſure, is immediately follow'd by two, three, or more Notes of a greater Quantity, before you meet with another ſhort Note, equivalent to that which began the Driving; ſo as to make the Number or Time fall even again: As when an odd Crotchet comes before two, three, or more Minims; or an odd Quaver before two, three, or more Crotchets.

Syncriſis, (i. e. Compariſon) a Rhetorical Figure, in which contrary Things, and different Perſons are compared in one Sentence; as The Subtle commit the Fault, and the Simple bear the Blame.

Syncritica, relaxing, looſening, or opening Medicines.

Syndeſmus, a joyning together, a Band or Tie: In Grammar, a part of Speech call'd a Conjunction;

In Anatomy, a Ligament for the cloſing together of Bones and other Parts.

Syndic or Syndick, an Advocate or Attorney for the Commonalty of a City, the Recorder of a Town. In Germany, Switzerland, and other Parts, a certain Magiſtrate that has much the ſame Power as an Alderman amongſt us: The four Chief Magiſtrates of Geneva are alſo call'd Syndicks.

Syndicate or Syndickſhip, the Place or Dignity of a Syndick, or the time of one's being in that Office.

Syndrome, a Concourſe, a running or meeting together of many in the ſame Place. In the Art of Phyſick, a Concurrence, or appearing together of ſeveral Symptoms in the ſame Diſeaſe.

Synecdoche, (i. e. a receiving together) a Grammatical Figure, when the Ablative Caſe of the Part or the Adjunct is changed into the Accuſative; as.

Deiophobum vidi lacerum crudeliter ora. Virg.

In Rhetorick, Synecdoche is a Figure wherein the Name of a Part is put for the Whole, or the Name of the Whole for a Part; as if one ſhould ſay, England for Europe, or Europe for England: Alſo when the Genus is put for the Species, i. e. the Matter of which a thing is compounded for the thing it ſelf, and on the contrary; as if it were ſaid, Iron for a Sword, or a Sword for Iron.

Synecphoneſis or Symphoneſis, (in Grammar) a Colliſion, or clapping together of Vowels, when two Syllables are pronounced as one; as in this Verſe of Virgil.

Seu lento fuerint Alvearia vimina texta.

Where the e a in Alvearia are contracted into one Vowel or Syllable. This Figure is alſo call'd Synizeſis.

Synedreuonta, (in Phyſick) common Symptoms in a Diſeaſe, which neither take riſe from the Nature of it, nor of neceſſity accompany it; yet ſignify the greatneſs, continuation, &c. of the Diſeaſe.

Syngrapha, a Deed or Writing under the Hand and Seal of both Parties; an Obligation, Bill, or Bond between two or more.

Synizeſis. See Synecphoneſis.

Synneuroſis, (in Anat.) an Articulation or Joynting of the Bones with Nerves or Ligaments; as the end of the Arm-bone call'd Ulna is joyn'd to the Bones of the Wriſt.

Synocha, a continued intermitting Feaver, that laſts many Days, with great Heat, and ſometimes Putrefaction of the Blood.

Synochus, a continued Feaver for many Days, without any intermiſſion, or abatement of the Heat; which is either ſimple, or accompany'd with Putrefaction.

Synod, an Aſſembly, or meeting together of Clergy-men, to conſult about Church-Affairs, or Points of Religion; of which there are four kinds, viz. 1. General, where Biſhops, Prieſts, &c. of all Nations are aſſembled. 2. National, where thoſe of one Nation only come together. 3. Provincial, where they of one only Province meet. 4. Dioceſan, where thoſe of but one Dioceſs have a Meeting. See Convocation.

Synodal or Synodical, belonging to, or done in a Synod.

A Synodal, a Tribute, or Duty in Money paid to the Biſhop, or Arch-Deacon by the inferiour Clergy at Eaſter Viſitation, and ſo call'd, becauſe it was frequently given in a Synod.

Synodals Provincial, the Canons, or Conſtitutions of a Provincial Synod.

Synodales Teſtes, Synodical Witneſſes: The Urban and Rural Deans were at firſt ſo call'd from their giving Information of, and atteſting the Diſorders of Clergy and People in the Biſhop's Synod; whoſe Authority in proceſs of Time came to be devolved upon the Church-Wardens.

Synodale Juramentum, was the ſolemn Oath taken by thoſe Teſtes or Witneſſes, and is now by Church-Wardens to make their Preſentments.

Synodical, belonging to a Synod: In an Aſtronomical Senſe, belonging to the Courſe of the Moon.

Synodical or Synodick Month, the ſpace of Time taken up between the Moon's parting from the Sun at a Conjunction, and her returning to him again; which is 29 Days 12 Hours and 45 Minutes.

Synodical Revolution, is that Motion by which the Moon's whole Syſtem or Body is carry'd along with the Earth, round the Sun.

Synodon or Synodontes, the Sea-rough with Dog's Teeth; a ſort of Fiſh.

Synodus, an Aſſembly eſpecially of Clergy-men a Synod or Council. Among Aſtrologers, it is taken for a Conjunction of two or more Planets, and ſometimes for their meeting by Beams in other Aſpects.

Synœceoſis, a reconciling or joyning together of things that differ: In Rhetorick, a Figure, whereby contrary Qualities are united and attributed to the ſame Perſon, or Thing; as The Covetous Man wants as well what he has, as what he has not: This Figure is call'd in Latin, Conciliatio.

Synonyma's, Words of one and the ſame Signification; as Valiant, Stout, Couragious.

Synonymia, a Figure in Rhetorick, when divers Words of the ſame Signification are made uſe of to amplify a Matter; as proſtravit, perculit, afflixit, i. e. he overthrew, he beat down, he quaſh'd.

Synonymous, that is of the ſame Name, or ſignification.

Synopſis, a Summary of things diſpoſed ſo as to be ſeen at one View; an Abſtract, or Abridgment; an Inventory, a Brief.

Synovia, (in Anat.) the glewy Matter between the Joynts.

Syntagma, a diſpoſing or placing of things in an orderly manner; a Treatiſe, or large Diſcourſe upon a Subject.

Syntaſis, a preternatural Diſtention, or ſtretching out of the Parts.

Syntax, (in Grammar) that Part which teaches how to make a regular Conſtruction, or joyning together of Words and parts of Speech in Sentences, &c.

Syntectic, a kind of Looſeneſs, in which a fat Matter, as it were mixt with Oil or Greaſe is voided by Stool. It proceeds from the melting away the Subſtance of the Body by a violent hot Diſtemper of the Solid Parts; ſuch as ſometimes happens in an Inflammation of the Bowels, or in a vehement Burning, or Peſtilential Feaver.

Syntenoſis, (in Surgery) the joyning of one Bone to another, by a Tendon; as the Knee-pan to the Thigh-bone and Tibia.

Synteresy, Remorſe, Prick or Sting of Conſcience.

Synteretica or Syntereticks, that part of Phyſick, which gives Rules for the Preſervation of Health.

Syntexis, a lingering Sickneſs, a deep Conſumption and Diſſolution of the Body in which firſt the Fleſh is waſted, and afterwards the Subſtance of the more ſolid Parts.

Syntheſis, a compounding or joyning together: In Grammar, a Figure, in which a Noun Collective Singular is joyn'd to a Verb Plural, or to a Participle Plural, and of a different Gender; as Pars merſi tenuere ratem: This Figure is call'd in Latin, Compoſitio.

In Surgery, Syntheſis is that Method whereby the divided Parts are re-united, as in Wounds:

Alſo the Structure or Frame of the whole Body, or more ſtrictly that of the Bones.

Among Mathematicians, Syntheſis is taken for Compoſition, or a particular way of demonſtrating Propoſitions from their firſt Principles; and it is oppoſ'd to Analyſis, or Reſolution: Thus,

The Synthetical Method of Enquiry, or Demonſtration, is when the Artiſt purſues the Truth chiefly by Reaſons drawn from Principles before eſtabliſhed, and Propoſitions formerly proved; proceeding by a long regular Chain, till at laſt he comes to the Concluſion. This Method is follow'd in Euclid's Elements, as alſo in almoſt all the Demonſtrations of the Ancients, and is contradiſtinguiſhed from the Analytical; which See.

Synuloticks, Medicines that bring Wounds, or Sores to a Scar; the ſame with Cicatrizantia.

Synymenoſis, (in Surgery) the uniting of Bones together by a Membrane, or Skin; as in Infants, the Bones of the Sinciput, or hinder part of the Head are joyn'd to thoſe of the Fore-head.

Syphon. See Siphon.

Syringe, a ſort of Squirt us'd by Surgeons to convey Medicinal Liquors into a Wound, or [illegible]; alſo into the Ears, Fundament, Womb, &c. alſo an Apothecary's Gliſter-pipe: Alſo an Inſtrument made of Ivory, in uſe among Confectioners for the making of March-panes, &c.

Syringomata, Surgeons Knives to open Fiſtula's.

Syringotomia, the inciſion, or cutting of a Fiſtula.

Syrinx, a Reed, a Pipe, a Flute; a Syringe, or Squirt; alſo an Ulcer call'd a Fiſtula.

Syrites, a kind of Stone found in the Bladder of a Wolf.

Syrones, Wheal-worms; a ſort of Worms that breed in the Skin.

Syrtes, two dangerous Gulphs in the fartheſt Part of Africa, full of Quick-ſands, call'd the Greater and Leſſer Syrtis: Whence the Word is taken for any Quick-ſands, or Shelves in the Water, made by the drift of Sand, or Gravel.

Syrtites, a precious Stone found in the Sands on the African Shore; a kind of Sapphire.

Syrupus, Syrup, a Compoſition or Liquor of a ſomewhat thick Conſiſtence, made of Sugar boil'd up, with the Juice of Herbs, Flowers, or Fruits.

Syſſarcoſis, (in Surgery) a Connexion, or joyning of Bones by the means of Fleſh.

Syſſitietris, an Herb of good Fellowſhip, cauſing Mirth and Merriment.

Syſtem, properly ſignifies a regular orderly Collection, or Compoſition of many things together; a compleat Treatiſe, or Body of any Art or Science.

Syſtem of Philoſophy, is a regular Collection of the Principles and Parts of that Science into one Body, and a treating of them Dogmatically, or in a Scholaſtical Method; which is termed The Syſtematical Way, in contradiſtinction to the Way of Eſſay, in which the Writer delivers himſelf more looſely, freely and modeſtly.

Syſtem of the World, (among Aſtronomers) is taken for the general Fabrick, Conſtitution and Harmony of the Univerſe, or any orderly Repreſentation of it according to ſome noted Hypotheſis, in which the Heavenly Bodies are ſo diſpos'd among themſelves, as their Situation, Order, Motions and Properties may in ſuch an Author's Opinion beſt anſwer Appearances and Philoſophical Demonſtrations. Of theſe Syſtems the moſt conſiderable were advanc'd by Ptolemy, Copernicus and Tycho Brahe.

The Ptolemaick Syſtem, is that wherein the Globe of the Earth and Sea is fixed as the Center of the Univerſe, whilſt the Sun, Moon and Stars perform their Courſe round it every Day, each in their ſeveral Orbits and different Diſtances from it: So that the Moon is plac'd neareſt the Earth; next to the Moon Mercury, then Venus, the Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn; beyond thoſe, the Firmament or Orb of the fixed Stars, the Second Cryſtalline Heaven, the Firſt Cryſtalline; and Laſt of all that call'd Primum Mobile, or the Firſt Mover.

The Copernican Syſtem, the ſame with the moſt ancient or Pythagorean Syſtem, reviv'd by Nicholas Copernicus, is now much improv'd, and generally maintain'd by Aſtronomers. In this Syſtem, the Sun is ſuppoſed to be plac'd in the Center, or middle of the World; next to him, Mercury in about three Months Time makes his Ellipſis, or Oval Courſe; next to Mercury, is the Orbit of Venus, whoſe Period is 7½ Months: Next to Venus, our Earth and its Attendant the Moon perform a joynt Courſe, and meaſure out the Yearly Period: Next to the Earth, Mars alone, without any viſible Satellite, or Guard, rolls about the ſame Center in about two Years Time: Next to Mars, (tho' at a vaſt diſtance) Jupiter with his four remarkable Satellites, or Secondaries takes his round in twelve Years: And laſtly, Saturn accompany'd with his five little Moons, is ſaid to deſcribe the moſt remote, or fartheſt Orbit in the ſpace of 30 Years.

The Syſtem of Tycho Brahe, was propos'd by a famous Daniſh Noble-man of that Name, who makes the Earth the Center of both the Luminaries, and of the Orb of fixed Stars; but the Sun the Center of the other four Planets, which he counts Eccentrick to the Earth, and conſtantly moving in the liquid Æther, or Sky, about the Sun, &c.

In Muſick, Syſtem is an extent of a certain number of Chords, having its Bounds toward the Grave and Acute; which has been differently determined by the different Progreſs made in that Science, and according to the different Diviſions of the Monochord.

The Solar Syſtem, (in the New Aſtronomy) is the joynt Union or orderly Diſpoſition of all the Planets that move round the Sun as their Center, in determined Orbits, and never go farther from it than their proper and uſual Bounds.

Syſtema, (Gr.) a Syſtem, the Body of a Science, the compaſs of a Song: In Surgery, it is the ſame as Syntheſis; which See.

Syſtematical, belonging to, or reduced to Syſtems.

Syſtematical Way. See Syſtem of Philoſophy.

Syſtole, a Contraction, a drawing, ſtraight'ning, or preſſing together: In Grammar, a Figure of Proſodia, whereby a long Syllable is made ſhort; as ——— tulerunt faſtidia Menſes, Virg.

In Anatomy, Syſtole is the contraction or ſtraight'ning of the Ventricles of the Heart, by which the Blood is forcibly driven into the great Artery; as the Dilatation, or widening of thoſe Parts is termed Diaſtole; which See.

Syſtylos or Syſtyle, (in Architect.) a Building wherein the Pillars ſtand thick, the Intercolumniation, or diſtance between them being only two Diameters of the Column; but this Order is not altogether ſo cloſe as the Pycnoſtyle; which See.

Syxhundemen. See Twelfhende.

Syzeugmenon, a Muſical Note call'd B-fa-be-mi.

Syzygia, a joyning, yoking, or coupling together: Among Grammarians, the coupling or clapping of different Feet together in Greek or Latin Verſe: In Anatomy, the pairs of Nerves that convey Senſe from the Brain to the reſt of the Body.

In Aſtronomy, Syzygie, is the ſame as the Conjunction of any two Planets, or Stars; or when they are both ſuppoſed to be in the ſame Point in the Heavens; or when they are referred to the ſame Degree of the Ecliptick, by a Circle of Longitude, paſſing thro' them both. Among Aſtrologers, Syzygie is taken for the Intercourſe of the Planets one with another, or the mingling together of their Beams, either by Bodily Conjunction, or other Aſpects.

T A

Tabacum, (Lat.) Tobacco, an Herb that grows in the Weſt-Indies, and is now ſmoaked in Pipes almoſt all the World over. See Tobacco.

Tabanus, the Burrel-fly, Stowt, or Breez; an Inſect.

Tabby, a ſort of waved Silk.

Tabefaction, (Lat.) a rotting, corrupting, conſuming, or waſting away.

Tabard or Tabert, a ſhort Gown that reach'd no farther than the mid-Leg; alſo a kind of Jacket or ſleeveleſs Coat, whole before and open on both Sides, with a ſquare Collar, winged at the Shoulders: The Word is now us'd for the Coat of a Herald that is in Service.

Tabella, (Lat.) a little Table. See Tablet.

Tabellion, (in ancient Deeds) a Notary Publick, or Scrivener allow'd by Authority to engroſs and regiſter private Contracts, and Obligations.

Taberders. See Tabiters.

Tabernacle, (Lat.) a Pavilion, or Tent; eſpecially that among the ancient Jews, which was made to remove up and down as Occaſion requir'd, and wherein the Ark of the Covenant was kept: Whence it is taken for a kind of Chappel made of Boards ſuch as were rais'd in the City of London, after the dreadful Fire, A. D. 1666. till the Churches could be conveniently rebuilt, and which are ſtill in uſe in ſome Places, where the Pariſh-Churches are not large enough to hold the Congregation: Among Roman Catholicks, Tabernacle is alſo a little Veſſel, in which the Popiſh Sacrament is put on the Altar.

The Feaſt of Tabernacles, a Feaſt that was kept by the Iſraelites, ſeven Days together, and began on the fifth Day of the ſeventh Month; during which Solemnity they continu'd abroad in Tabernacles, or Tents, in Remembrance that their Fathers liv'd ſo for a long time, after their Deliverance out of the Land of Egypt.

Tabernaculum, (Lat.) a Shed, or Booth, a little Shop made of Boards; a Tabernacle, or Tent: In our old Records, a Publick Inn, or Houſe of Entertainment.

Tabernæ tres, the three Taverns, a Place between Rome and Capua upon the great Road call'd Via Appia, where Travellers uſually ſtopp'd, and which is mention'd in the Acts of the Apoſtles, Chap. 28.

Tabes, a Conſumption, a waſting of the Body, as in a Hectick Feaver; a pining away, a Phthiſick: It is often-taken for an Ulcer in the Lungs, which cauſes the whole Body to decay and periſh by Degrees: Alſo Corruption, Gore-blood, the Matter that iſſues out of a Wound.

Tabes dorſalis, a Conſumption in the Marrow of the Back-bone, which happens to thoſe that are too much given to Venery: So that the Patient is without a Feaver, and has a good Appetite, yet waſtes away, grows weak and ſhort-breathed, and at laſt dies of a Feaver, call'd Lipyria.

Tabid, dry, lean, or waſting away; as To be of a tabid Conſtitution.

Tabiters or Taberders, a Name given to the Batchelor-Scholars on the Foundation of Queen's College in Oxford, from a kind of Gown they wore call'd a Tabert, Tabarr, or Tabard.

Tabitha, (Heb. a Roe-buck) the proper Name of a Woman mentioned Acts 9. 36.

Tablature, a ſort of Muſick-Book, directing one that plays upon the Lute or Guitar, what Strings he is to ſtrike, by the Letters of the Alphabet: In Anatomy, it ſignifies a Diviſion, or parting of the Scull-bones.

Table, a well known piece of Houſhold-ſtuff for ſeveral Uſes; as to eat, write upon, &c. It is alſo taken for the Courſes, or Meat ſerv'd up at Meals; as Such a one keeps a good Table; i. e. He lives plentifully; there is good Eating and Drinking at his Houſe: Alſo an Index, or Collection of the Heads of the Chapters, or principal Matters contain'd in a Book.

In Architecture, Table is a ſmooth and ſimple Member of different Figures, but moſt commonly made in form of a long Square, or of a Triangle. A Projecturing Table, is that which jetts out beyond the naked Face of a Wall, Pedeſtal, or any Part whereto it ſerves as an Ornament: And a Raking-Table, is that which is hollowed in the ſquare of a Pedeſtal, or elſewhere.

Tables or A pair of Tables, ſquare Frames of Wood that open and ſhut like a Book; being painted, or inlaid on the in-ſide, with ſix Points of different Colours, for the playing at Cheſs, and other Games with Dice.

Tables of Houſes, (in Aſtrol.) certain Tables ready drawn up for the Aſſiſtance of young Practitioners in ſetting a Figure; ſo that by the help of ſuch a Table, any Perſon may ſoon learn to do it, which otherwiſe would be very difficult.

Tables of Sines, Tangents and Secants, (in Trigonom.) are proportional Numbers caſt up from, and depending on the given quantity of the Radius, or whole Sine in a Circle, from whence any other Sine, &c. may be found.

Aſtronomical Tables, are Tables of the Motions of the Heavenly Bodies.

Loxodromick Tables, Tables of Traverſes, which ſerve for the more eaſy and ready reſolving of Problems in Navigation. See Loxodromical.

To Table, to board, to entertain, or be entertained at one's Table.

Table-Rents, Rents paid to Biſhops, or Religious Perſons, and reſerved for their Table, or Houſe-keeping: Such Rents paid in Specie, or proviſion of Meat and Drink, were ſometimes call'd Bord-land Rents.

Tablet, a little Table: Among Apothecaries, Tablets are ſolid Electuaries, much the ſame as Lozenges; being uſually prepar'd with Sugar and ſome ſorts of Powder well imbodied together, and made up into little Cakes, to be given in many Diſeaſes, eſpecially thoſe of the Lungs and Breaſt.

Tabling of Fines, (Law-Phraſe) the making a Table for every County, where the King's or Queen's Writ runs, compriſing the Contents of every Fine paſſed in any one Term; as the Name of the County, Towns and Places, where the Lands or Tenements lie, the Name of the Demandant and Deforceant, with thoſe of every Manour mentioned in the Fine, &c.

Tabor or Taber, a kind of Drum.

Tabouret, (Fr.) a low Stool, a Cricket: The Privilege of the Tabouret, a peculiar Privilege for ſome great Ladies in France to ſit in the Queen's Preſence.

Tabula, (Lat.) a Table, a Board or Plank: In old Records, a preſcribed Form or Directory for Cathedral Churches, drawn up by an Officer call'd the Hebdomadery, at the beginning of every Week, appointing the ſeveral Perſons and their Parts in the Offices of the following Week; which Perſons ſo nominated to their reſpective Duties, were call'd, Intabulati. See Ebdomadarius.

Tabum, corrupt, filthy, black Gore, foul Bloud; alſo a thin ſort of Matter that iſſues from an ill Ulcer.

Tacamahacca, a ſweet Gum, of which Plaiſters are uſually made for the Tooth-ach and Head-ach.

Taces or Taſſes, an Armour for the Thighs.

Tachygraphy, (Gr.) the Art of ſwift Writing.

Tacit, (Lat.) ſilent, ſaid of any thing that is implied or meant, tho' not expreſs'd.

Taciturnity, a being ſilent, or of few Words; a cloſe, or reſerved Humour.

Tack, a kind of little Nail with a Head. On board a Ship, Tacks are great Ropes, having a Wale-knot at one end which is faſten'd into the Clew of the Sail; ſo that they are firſt reeved or let thro' the Timbers call'd Cheſs-Trees, and then brought in at holes in the Ship's Sides; their uſe being to carry forward the Sail-Clews, and to make them ſtand cloſe by a Wind.

Whence the uſual Sea-Phraſes, A Ship ſtands, or, Sails cloſe upon a Tack, i. e. cloſe by the Wind; Hale aboard the Tack; that is, bring the Tack down cloſe to the Cheſs-Trees; Eaſe the Tack, i. e. ſlacken it, or let it go or run out; Let riſe the Tack, i. e. let it go all out.

Tack about, a Word us'd among Sailers, when a Ship's Head is to be brought about ſo as to lie a contrary Way.

Tackle or Tackling, the Furniture and Ropes of a Ship, whereby ſhe is fitted for Sailing.

Tackles, are alſo ſmall Ropes which run in three Parts, having either a Pendant with a Block or Pulley faſten'd to them, or a Rope call'd a Lamier, and at the other end a Block and a Hook to catch hold, for the heaving of Goods and weighty Things into the Ship. There are alſo Tackles, which belong to the Maſts, and ſerve as a kind of Shrowds, to keep the Maſts from ſtraining.

The Boat's Tackles, a ſort of Tackles that ſtand, one on the Shrowds of the Main-Maſt, and the other on thoſe of the Fore-Maſt, ſerving to hoiſe in the Boat, and for ſeveral other Uſes.

The Gunners Tackles, the Ropes with which the Ordinance are haled in and out.

Winding-Tackles. See Winding.

Tactical, (Gr.) belonging to Martial Array.

Tacticks, Military Diſcipline, the Art of Marſhalling Soldiers in an Army.

Tactile, (in Philoſ.) that is an Object of, or has relation to the Senſe of Feeling, or to our Touch; as The chief Tactile Qualities are Heat, Cold, Dryneſs, Moiſtneſs, and Hardneſs.

Taction, a feeling, or touching.

Taddy, a ſort of Juice iſſuing out of a Spungy Tree in America, that grows ſtraight and tall, and has all its Branches ſprouting out at the very top. This Liquor is of a pleaſant Taſte, eſteemed by the Natives as a delicious Drink, and is good againſt the Stone: It is receiv'd in Earthen Pots hung under the Top of the Tree, where Inciſions are made for it to run out: But it muſt be ſav'd in the Night; and drunk betimes in the Morning, becauſe the Heat of the Sun would ſoon ſpoil it.

Tadpole, a young Frog.

Tænia, (Lat.) a Ribbon, a Head-band, a Fillet; alſo the Swathe-Fiſh, a Sea-Fiſh, ſo call'd from its reſembling a Swathe or Band. In Architecture, it is a Member of the Dorick Capital, the Shape of which is like a Square Fillet, being faſten'd below the Triglyphs, of which it ſeems to be the Baſe.

Tafferel, (Sea-word) the uppermoſt Part, Frame, or Rail of a Ship behind, over the Poop.

Taffety, a ſort of Silk.

Tag, the point of a Lace; alſo a Word us'd in Kent for a young Sheep.

Tail, the train of a Beaſt, Fowl, Fiſh, Comet, &c. Alſo a Law-Word for a Tally or piece of Wood cut in Notches, ſuch as are us'd by Brewers, Bakers, &c. which was formerly the Common Way of keeping all Accounts.

Tail, or Fee-Tail, that Inheritance which is oppoſite to Fee Simple; and ſo call'd, becauſe it is parted after ſuch a manner, that it is not in the Owner's free Power to diſpoſe; but is cut or divided by the firſt Giver, from all others, and ty'd to the Iſſue of the Donee: And this limitation of Tail is either General or Special.

Tail General, is that by which Lands or Tenements are limited to a Man and to the Heirs of his Body lawfully begotten; ſo that how many Wives ſoever the Tenant holding by this Title ſhall have, one after another, in Lawful Marriage; his Iſſue by them all have a poſſibility to inherit ſucceſſively.

Tail Special, is when Lands or Tenements are made over to a Man and his Wife, and to the Heirs of their two Bodies begotten, and it is termed ſpecial, becauſe if the Man bury his Wife before Iſſue, and take another; the Iſſue by his Second Wife cannot inherit the Land. Alſo if Land be given to a Man and his Wife, and to their Son John for ever, this is Tail Special.

Tail after poſſibility of Iſſue extinct, is where Land is given to a Man and his Wife, and to the Heirs of their two Bodies, and one of them overlives the other without Iſſue begotten between them: In this Caſe, the Survivor ſhall hold the Land for Term of Life, as Tenant in the Tail after poſſibility of Iſſue extinct.

Tail of the Trenches, (in The Art of War) the firſt Work the Beſiegers make at the opening of the Trenches, as the Head of the Attack is carry'd on towards the Place.

Taillior, (Fr. in Architect.) the flat ſquare Stone on the Capital of a Pillar, otherwiſe call'd Abacus and Plinth.

Tainct, a little red-coloured Inſect, being a kind of Spider that annoys Cattel in the Summer-time.

Taint, Convicted of a Crime; as Treaſon, Felony, &c. A Taint, a Conviction, a Blur, Spot, or Blemiſh in one's Reputation.

To Taint, to Corrupt, to Spoil or Marr, to Bribe.

To Take and Leave, (among Sea-men) when a Ship Sails ſo well that ſhe can come up with another, or out-ſail her at Pleaſure; 'tis uſually ſaid, She can take and leave upon her, whenever ſhe will.

Takel, (old Word) a Feather, or Arrow.

Talbot, a kind of Hound or Hunting-Dog.

Talcum, (Lat.) Talk, a kind of Mineral, White, and Tranſparent, like Cryſtal, of which is made a curious white Waſh, much coveted by Women, to preſerve their Beauty.

Talent, (Gr.) a certain Weight of Gold or Silver, which among the Hebrews amounted to 4500 Pounds Sterling, if Gold; and 375 l. if Silver. The Greek or Attick Talent was of two Sorts, the greater and the leſſer; the greater, in Engliſh Money, was worth about 233 Pounds 6 Shillings 8 Pence; and the other 165 l. or as ſome ſay, 100 l. as others, 120 l. and after ſome, 180 l. The Roman Talent of 24 Seſtertio's was equal to 187 l. But a Talent is now uſually taken for 62 Pounds Troy-weight, and Figuratively for a natural Endowment, Gift, or Capacity.

Tales, (Lat.) ſuch like: In Common Law, it is us'd for a Supply of Men Impannelled upon a Jury or Inqueſt that does not appear, or at their Appearance are Challenged as not indifferent: In which caſe, the Judge orders a Supply to be made by the Sheriff, of ſuch others as are there preſent; and hereupon the very Act of Supplying is call'd, A Tales de Circumſtantibus.

Taliſman, (Arab.) a Magical Image or Figure made under certain Conſtellations, with vain Remarks upon the Characters or Diſpoſitions of the Heavens; ſo that according to the keeping or waſting of it, the Perſon repreſented, is ſaid to be preſerved or to waſte away.

Taliſmanical, belonging to Taliſmans.

Taliſmaniſt, one that makes Taliſmans or that gives Credit to them.

Talk. See Talcum.

Tallage, (Fr. Law-Word) a Tribute, Impoſt, Toll, or Tax.

Tallagium Facere, (in old Latin Records) to give up Accounts in the Exchequer, where the Method of reckoning is by Tallies.

Tallatio, the keeping Account, as by Tallies, of all Battles or Deliveries of Meat and Drink in a College.

Tallia, the ſet Allowance in Meat and Drink, for every Canon and Prebendary in our old Cathedral Churches.

Talliari de certo Tallagio, to be Aſſeſſed at a certain Rate or due Proportion towards the Tallage or Tax formerly laid by the King on his Barons and Knights, and by them on their inferiour Tenants.

Tally, a cleft piece of Wood, to ſcore up an Account upon by Notches; particularly ſuch as is given by the Officers of the Exchequer, to thoſe that pay Money there upon Loans, &c.

Tally the Sheats, a Word of Command us'd at Sea, when the Sheat-Ropes of the Main-ſail or Fore-ſail are to be haled aft or backwards. See Sheats.

Tally-man, one that ſells Houſehold-Goods, Clothes, Linnen, Woollen, &c. to be paid by ſo much a Week.

Talmud, (Heb.) a Book compiled by the Rabbins or Jewiſh Doctors, containing their Traditions, Doctrines, Conſtitutions, Decrees, &c. which they us'd to obſerve more Religiouſly than the Law of God.

Talmudical, belonging to that Work.

Talmudiſt, one that is ſkilled in, or that maintains the Principles of the Talmud.

Talon, the Claw of a Bird of Prey: In Architecture, a ſmall Member, made up of a Square Fillet and a ſtraight Cymatium: It differs from the Aſtragal, which is a round Member; whereas the Talon conſiſts of two Portions of a Circle, one on the out-ſide and the other within; and when the Concave part is uppermoſt, 'tis call'd a Reverſed Talon.

Talpa, (Lat.) the Mole or Want, a little Creature: Alſo a kind of ſoft and pretty large Swelling, which uſually riſes in the Head and Face, and is ſo named from its preying upon the Scull under the Skin, as the Mole creeps under Ground.

Talſhide or Talwood, a Word us'd in ſome Statute-Laws for Fire-Wood, cleft and cut into Billets of a certain Size, which is limited by thoſe Statutes.

Talus, (Lat.) the Ancle or Huckle-Bone, otherwiſe call'd Aſtragalus; the Paſtern of a Beaſt; alſo a Die to play with.

Talus or Talut, (Fr.) any thing that goes ſloping; as the Talus of a Wall in Maſonry, when its thickneſs is leſſen'd by Degrees, as it riſes in Height. In Fortification, the Talus of a Baſtion or Rampart, is the ſloping or ſhelving allow'd to ſuch a Work, whether it be of Earth or Stone; which is uſually made thicker at the bottom or foot than at the top, for its greater Strength and Continuance.

Talus Exteriour or Outward Talus, is the Slope allow'd the Work on the out-ſide from the Place, and towards the Campaign or Field; which ought to be made as little as poſſible, to prevent the Enemies Scalado; unleſs the Earth be bad, and then a conſiderable Talus is abſolutely neceſſary.

Talus Interiour or Inward Talus, the Steepneſs of the Rampart, or other Work on the in-ſide, next the Place, which is commonly double the Outward Talus of the ſame Work.

Talwood. See Talſhide.

Tamarinds, a kind of Indian Fruit, ſomewhat like green Damſins, having within a black Subſtance or Pulp, which is very grateful to the Palate and Stomach, and is alſo of great Uſe in Phyſick, eſpecially for the Purging of Choler, and Correcting the ſharpneſs of Humours.

Tamariſk, a ſort of Shrub with a red Bark and Leaves like Heath; very good againſt the Spleen and Rickets.

Tambarine, a Muſical Inſtrument, us'd in old time, and ſuppos'd to be the ſame with the Clarion.

Tambour, (Fr.) a Drum, an Inſtrument of Martial Muſick; alſo a kind of fine Sieve us'd by Confectioners for the Sifting of Sugar: In Architecture, the Vaſe or Ornament in the Chapiter of Pillars of the Corinthian Order: Alſo the Name of part of a Tennis-Court.

Tamerlane or Timur-lenk, a Scythian, who having defeated the Turks, with a vaſt Army, took their haughty Emperour Bajazet, and caus'd him to be carried about in an Iron-Cage.

Tameſis or Thameſis, the River Thames, ſo call'd from the meeting and uniting of two Rivers nam'd Tame and Iſis. See Thames.

To Tamper with, to practiſe upon; to endeavour to draw in, bring over, or win; to corrupt, or bribe.

Tampkin, Tampion, or Tampin, a round piece of Wood, made fit for the Mouth of any great Gun, and ſo put into it, to keep out the Rain, or Sea-water.

Tampoon, (Fr.) a Bung, or Stopple for a Veſſel.

Tampoy, a curious ſort of Drink made of Gilliflowers, in the Moluccoes and Philippine Iſlands.

Tamy, a kind of Stuff.

Tan, the Bark of a young Oak, beaten ſmall and us'd by Courriers for the tanning, or dreſſing of Leather.

Tanacetum, (Lat.) the Herb Tanſey.

Tanacles, certain Inſtruments of Torture, like Pincers.

Tangent of a Circle, (in Geom.) is a Right-Line drawn without the Circle; perpendicular to ſome Radius, or Semi-diameter, and which is ſo nam'd, becauſe it touches the Circle but in one Point.

Tangent of a Parabola, (or other Conick Section, or Geometrical Curve) is a Right-Line drawn ſo as to cut the Axis, produced or lengthen'd, and touch the Section in one Point without cutting it.

Tangible, (in Philoſ.) that may be touched. Tangible Bodies, ſuch Bodies as are diſcoverable and ſenſible by our Feeling, or Touch.

Taniſtry, a certain ancient Cuſtom in Ireland, whereby a Man of ripe Age is to be preferred before a Child; the Uncle before the Nephew, &c. Whence it came to paſs that he who had moſt Power, or Policy, ſucceeded in any Principality, or Lordſhip. The Term is deriv'd from the Saxon Word Thane, i. e. a Noble-man.

Tank, (old Word) a little Pool, or Pond; a Ciſtern to keep Water in.

Tanquam, (Lat.) as it were, as if. In the Univerſities, a Tanquam is taken for a Perſon of Worth and Learning, that is fit Company for the Fellows of Colleges, &c.

Tanſey, a well known Garden-herb.

To Tantalize, to put in the Condition of Tantalus; to admit one near, or in view of ſome Happineſs or wiſh'd for thing, and yet not ſuffer him to enjoy it; to deceive with falſe Hopes. The Word takes its riſe from Tantalus, an ancient King of Phrygia, who (as the Story goes) having invited the Gods to a Feaſt, cauſ'd his Son Pelops to be kill'd, dreſs'd and ſerv'd up to Table; for which Fact he was Condemned to ſtand up to the Chin in Water in Hell, with delicious Apples hanging over his Head, and even bobbing him on the Lips; yet not to have Power to ſtoop to the one to quench his Thirſt, or to reach up to the other, to ſatisfy his craving Stomach.

Tantamount, that amounts to, or is worth as much, that is of like Value.

Tantivy, a full Gallop; as To ride Tantivy: Alſo a Nick-name given by the Diſſenters to a Worldly-minded Church-man, that beſtirs himſelf for Preferment.

To Tap, to broach a Veſſel; to give a Tap, or Blow: Among Hunters, a Hare is ſaid to Tap or Beat, i. e. to make a Noiſe: In Husbandry, To tap a Tree at the Root, is to open it round about the Root.

Tapaſſant, lurking, or ſquatting; a Term us'd in Hunting.

Taper or Tapering, that is broader at the bottom, and grows leſs by Degrees, till it come to the top, like a Cone, or Pyramid.

A Taper, a Torch, or Flamboy; alſo a long and large-ſiz'd Wax-light, ſuch as are us'd for the moſt part in Churches, or Chappels.

Taper-bored, (in Gunnery) when a piece of Ordinance is wider at the Mouth than towards the Breech, it is ſaid To be taper-bored.

Tapering, (among Sea-men) when a Rope or any thing elſe is much bigger at one end than at the other; as the Tackles are made tapering, which cauſe them to purchaſe or draw the better, and ſaves a great deal of Stuff.

Tapeſtry or Tapeſtry-Hangings, a ſort of Manufacture in Worſted, Silk, Silver and Gold-Thread, wrought in Figures of Foreſts, Images, &c. to beautify a Room and cover the Walls.

To Tappy, (among Hunters) to lie hid as a Deer does.

Tapſus, (Gr.) an Herb call'd white Mullein.

Tap-tow. See Tat-too.

Tarandus, (Lat.) the Tarand, a ſort of Buffle, or wild Ox; alſo the Rein-Deer.

Taratantara, a Word of Encouragement to Battel, ſounded by Trumpets.

Tarantula, a kind of venomous Spider abounding about Tarentum or Taranto, a City in the Kingdom of Naples in Italy, which caſts forth a Sting, only curable by the ſound of Muſick.

Taraxacum or Taraxacon, (Gr.) the Herb Dandelion, or Sow-thiſtle.

Taraxis, a diſturbance, or diſorder in the Humours of the Body; particularly thoſe of the Eye, Stomach and Bowels.

Tarchon, Taracon, or Garden-Dragon, an Herb.

Tarda, (Lat.) the Buſtard; a Fowl ſo call'd from the ſlowneſs of its Flight.

Tardity or Tardineſs, Slowneſs, Slackneſs; as His Tardineſs was a great hind'rance to him.

Tardy, dull, ſlow, lingering; alſo guilty, found tripping, or in a Fault.

Tare, (in Merchandize) an Allowance made to the Buyer, for the weight of the Bag, Frail, Cheſt, Cask, Hogſhead, &c. in which any Goods are put, or packed up; as Tret is a Conſideration allowed in the Weight for waſte in emptying and reſelling them.

Tare of Flax, the fineſt dreſs'd part of it made ready for the Spinner.

Tares, a ſort of Vetches; a Plant.

Target, a great Shield, or Buckler us'd of old among the Romans, Spaniards, and Africans.

Targum, the Chaldee Paraphraſe of the old Teſtament.

Tari, an Italian Coin worth five Pence Engliſh, of which ſix make a Palermo-Florin.

Tariff, (in Arithm.) a Table made to ſhew at firſt Sight any Multiple or Product of the Diviſor, when taken twice, thrice, or any Number of Times under Ten; which ſerves to diſpatch the Diviſion of a great Summ: Alſo a proportional Table contrived for the ſpeedy reſolving of a Queſtion in the Rule of Fellowſhip, when the Stocks, Loſſes and Gains are very numerous: Alſo a Book of Rates agreed upon between ſeveral Princes or States, for Duties or Impoſitions to be laid upon their reſpective Manufactures, Merchandizes, &c.

Tarmes, (Lat.) a Worm that eats Fleſh, a Timber-Worm, a Maggot.

To Tarniſh, (Fr.) to grow dull, to loſe its Gloſs, Luſtre, or Brightneſs.

Tarpawling or Tarpaulin, a piece of Canvas that is tarr'd all over, to be laid upon a Deck, or Grating, to keep the Rain from ſoaking thro'; or for the Eaſe and Coolneſs of the Ship's Company in great heat of Weather: In a Figurative Senſe, it is taken for a Perſon bred up at Sea, and well verſ'd in maritime Affairs, in Oppoſition to one brought into Command, or Office, that never was at Sea before; a down-right Sea-man.

Tarragon or Dragon-wort, a good Sallet-herb, to be eaten with Lettice, Purſlain, &c.

Tarras, a kind of Plaiſter, or ſtrong Morter, which no Water can ſoak thro'.

To Tarry, to lag, or loiter; to continue, or abide.

Tarſus, (Lat. in Anat.) the ſpace between the lower end of the two Focil-bones of the Leg, and the beginning of the five long Bones which bear up and are joynted with the Toes: It has ſeven Bones, that differ very much one from another in Shape and Bigneſs, viz. the Aſtragalus or Talus, the Os Calcis or Calcaneum, the Os Scaphoides, Naviculare, or Cymbiforme, the Os Cubiforme, and three other Bones nam'd Oſſa Cuneiformia; all which, See under thoſe Articles.

Tarſus, is alſo taken by ſome Anatomical Writers for the griſtly end of the Eye-lids, where the Hairs grow, and which is otherwiſe call'd Cilium. Alſo the Name of a City of Cilicia in the leſſer Aſia, noted for the Birth-place of S. Paul.

Tartane, a Ship of great bulk and burden, us'd in the Mediterranean Sea, and in the Eaſtern Parts.

Tartar, a Native or Inhabitant of Tartary, a Country of Aſia, the People of which are of a barbarous and Savage Diſpoſition: Whence the Proverbial Expreſſion, To catch a Tartar, i. e. to meet with one's Match, to be diſappointed, balked, or cowed.

Tartar, the Lees or Dregs of Wine, which ſtick like a hard Cruſt to the ſides of the Veſſel; ſometimes Red and ſometimes White, according to the Colour of the Wine.

Tartar Emetick. See Emetick Tartar.

Tartar Soluble. See Soluble Tartar.

Tartar Vitriolate, is made by pouring Spirit of Vitriol on Oil of Tartar per Deliquium: Afterwards when the Efferveſcence or bubbling is over, the Glaſs is to be ſet in the Sand, and the Moiſture drawn out in Vapours with a gentle Heat, till a very white Salt remains at the bottom. It is a good opening Medicine that purges a little, and alſo works by Urine.

Cream of Tartar, a Skin that ſwims at top of the Liquor in which Tartar has been boil'd.

Salt of Tartar, is made of Tartar waſh'd, purify'd and calcin'd in a Chymical Furnace; and Oil of Tartar is nothing elſe but that Salt diſſolved, by ſetting it in a Cellar in a Glaſs-Veſſel. See Oil and Salt.

Tartarean, (Poetical Word) belonging to Tartarus a deep place in Hell; Helliſh, Deviliſh, terrible.

To Tartarize, (in Chymiſtry) to refine, or purify by the means of Salt of Tartar.

Tartarous, belonging to, or full of Tartar.

Tartre, (Fr.) Tartar, or hard Lees of Wine. Tartre or à la Tarte, in Cookery, a particular Way of dreſſing Chickens after they have been breaded and broil'd upon a Grid-iron.

Tartuff, an Hypocrite, a counterfeit Pretender to Devotion.

Taſck, an old Britiſh Word ſignifying as much as Tribute; whence perhaps comes our Word Task, i. e. a Duty or Work laid upon any Perſon.

Taſſel, (in Falconry) the Male of a Hawk: Alſo a ſmall Ribbon, or Silk-twiſt ſowed to a Book, to be put in any Leaf for a Mark.

Taſſels of a Coach, certain Silk-cords faſten'd on each Side the Doors, which ſerve for a Stay to thoſe that ride in it.

Taſſes. See Taces.

Taſſum, (in old Latin Records) a Mow, or heap of Corn.

Taſte, one of the five outward Senſes, Savour, Reliſh, probably caus'd by the Salts that are in Bodies, which according to their various Configurations affect the Tongue as differently, and by tickling or otherwiſe moving thoſe ſmall Nerves which lie in the Papillæ of the Tongue, communicate a pleaſant or ungrateful Senſation to the Brain.

Tath, a Privilege that formerly belong'd to the Lords of Manours in Norfolk and Suffolk, of having their Tenants Flocks of Sheep folded at Night upon their own Ground, for the benefit of their Dung.

Tatous, an American wild Beaſt, as big as a Fox, and cover'd with Scales like Armour, in which it can wrap it ſelf up ſo artificially, as to be ſecured from all Attempts of Huntſmen, or Dogs, and can roll it ſelf down a ſteep Place like a Bowl, without Harm.

Tatter-de-mallion, a beggerly, ſhabby, or ragged Fellow.

To Tattle or Twattle, to talk a-pace, to chat, or prate.

Tat-too or Tap-too, the beat of Drum at Night for all Soldiers to repair to their Tents in the Field, or to their Quarters in a Garriſon: It is ſometimes call'd The Retreat.

Taudry or Tawdry, ridiculouſly gay, q. d. tricked up with ſuch tinſel Stuff, or Lace as is uſually ſold at Audery-Fair in Cambridge-ſhire.

Tavern, a Houſe where Wine is ſold by Retail.

Taught, (in Sea-Language) ſtiff, or faſt: Thus the Mariners ſay Set taught the Shrowds, Stays, &c. i. e. make them faſt; which is done when thoſe Ropes, or any others are too ſlack and looſe.

Taunt, (another Sea-Term) when the Maſts of a Ship are extraordinary tall for the Proportion of her, they ſay ſhe Is Taunt-maſted, or that her Maſts are very taunt.

A Taunt, a reproachful, abuſive, or nipping Jeſt; a Scoff, or Flout.

To Taunt, to joke ſharply upon; to revile, or rail.

Taurocolla, (Gr.) a kind of glewy Subſtance made of a Bull's Hide.

Taurus, a Bull, a ſtrong Ox; alſo the Name of a vaſt ridge of Mountains in Aſia: Alſo the Second Sign of the Zodiack marked thus (♉) which the Sun enters on April 21th. Among Aſtrologers, it is counted the Houſe of Venus, and Exaltation of the Moon; being of a fixed, and Earthly Quality.

Tautological, belonging to, or full of Tautologies.

Tautological Eccho's, are ſuch as repeat the ſame Sound or Syllable many times; whereas thoſe that repeat many Syllables or Words diſtinctly are termed Polyſyllabical Eccho's.

Tautology, a ſaying, or repeating of one thing ſeveral times over; a vain repetition of Words.

Taw, (in Heraldry) an Ordinary which is reckon'd among the Croſſes, and ſo call'd from its reſembling the Figure of the Capital Letter T.

To Taw, to tan, or dreſs Leather.

Tawdry. See Taudry.

Tawny, that is of a tanned, or yellowiſh, or dusky Colour; alſo a Colour us'd in Heraldry. See Tenny.

Tax, a certain Tribute or Duty rated upon every Town, &c. which was heretofore paid yearly to the King, but is not now rated without the conſent of Parliament.

To Tax, to lay a Tax upon; alſo to accuſe, or charge one with; to cenſure, or blame.

Taxable, that may be taxed, liable to Taxes.

Taxatio Bladorum, (in old Latin Records) an Impoſition laid upon Corn.

Taxatio Norwicenſis, the valuation of Eccleſiaſtical Benefices heretofore made thro' every Dioceſs in England, upon the Pope's granting to the King the tenth of all Spiritual Livings for three Years; which Taxation was made by Walter Biſhop of Norwich, appointed by the Pope to that Office An. 38. Hen. 3.

Taxation, an impoſing, or laying of Taxes; a Valuation.

Taxers, two Officers yearly choſen in Cambridge, to ſee the true Gage of all Weights and Meaſures: The Name took riſe from taxing or rating the Rents of Houſes, which was anciently the Duty of their Office.

Taxus, (Lat.) the Badger, Grey, or Brock, a wild Beaſt; alſo the Yew, or Yew-tree. Taxus porcinus, the Pig-badger.

Tazel. See Teazel.

Tea, a Liquor made of the Leaves of a Shrub of the ſame Name, brought from China and the Eaſt-Indies, the Virtues of which are now ſufficiently known.

Teage. See Tigh.

Teal, a delicate ſort of Fowl.

Team, a certain number of Horſes or other Beaſts, for the drawing of a Cart, Waggon, Plough, &c. Alſo a Flock of Ducks.

Team and Theam, or Tem and Theme, (Sax.) a Royalty granted in old times by the King's Charter, to the Lord of a Manour, for the keeping, reſtraining and judging of Bond-men, Neifs and Villains, with their Children, Goods and Chattels in his Court.

To Teaz, to vex, to peſter, to diſquiet one continually.

Teazel or Tazel, the Fullers-thiſtle, a kind of hard Burr us'd by Cloath-workers in the dreſſing of Cloath.

Technical, (Gr.) artificial, belonging to the Terms and Rules of Arts and Sciences; whence the Terms of Art are uſually call'd Technical Words.

Technology, a Deſcription of Arts, eſpecially the Mechanical.

Techy, froward, or apt to find fault with every thing.

Tecmarſis, (Gr.) a Conjecture or Gueſs: In the Art of Phyſick, that which relates to the Cauſe of Diſeaſes.

Tecolithos, a Stone like that of an Olive call'd the Stone of India, good againſt the Colick, and Stone in the Bladder.

To Ted, (Country-Word) to turn, or ſpread new-mown Graſs.

Tedder or Tether, a Rope with which the Leg of a Horſe or other Beaſt is tied, that he may graze within a certain Compaſs.

Te Deum, a Hymn of Thankſgiving uſ'd in Churches upon Solemn Occaſions, eſpecially for the obtaining of a Victory, and ſo call'd from the firſt Words of it in Latin, Te Deum Laudamus, i. e. We praiſe thee O God, &c.

Teding-Penny, Tething-Penny, or Tithing-Penny, a Tax or Allowance formerly paid to the Sheriff, from every Tithing, towards the Charge of keeping Courts.

Tedious, (Lat.) over-long, long-winded, ſlow; weariſome, tireſome, irkſome.

Teenage, (Country-Word) Bruſh-wood for Hedges or Fences. See Tinettum.

Teeth. See Dens and Dentes Sapientiæ.

Tegument, (Lat.) a Term uſ'd by Anatomiſts for a Covering of the Body; as The five Teguments, which are the Epiderma or Scarf-Skin, the Derma or true Skin, the Panniculus adipoſus, the Membrana Carnoſa, and the Common Membrane of the Muſcles. See thoſe Words in their proper Places.

Teil or Teil-tree, the ſame as the Linden-tree.

Teine, a Diſeaſe in Hawks that makes them pant, grow heavy, and loſe their Breath, when they fly.

Teint, (Fr.) Complexion, Colour of one's Face, Die: In Painting, an artificial, or compound Colour.

Telamones, (Lat. in Architect.) the Images of Men that ſeem'd to bear up the Out-jettings of Corniſhes in the Roman Buildings, which among the Greeks were call'd Atlantes.

Telbent. See Turbant.

Telephium, (Gr.) a great Ulcer hard to be cur'd, and ſo nam'd from Telephus King of Myſia, who was a long time troubled with one: Alſo the Herb Orpine, chiefly uſ'd for healing Ulcers of the Bowels, Wounds, Ruptures, Burns, &c. which Herb was firſt found out by the ſame Telephus.

Teleſcope, a Proſpective-Glaſs, an Optick Inſtrument made of two or more Glaſſes plac'd in a Tube, or Pipe of ſeveral Lengths, to view Objects at a Diſtance, and more eſpecially for Aſtronomical Obſervations.

Aerial Teleſcope, an Inſtrument ſo call'd by Mr. Chr. Huygens, and deſcrib'd in Philoſ. Tranſact. N°. 161. which is made for the Night; and to be uſ'd without a cloſe Tube.

Reflecting Teleſcope, another ſort of Teleſcope invented by Sir Iſ. Newton, of which there is a large Deſcription in Philoſ. Tranſact. N°. 81.

Teleſcopical, belonging to Teleſcopes.

Teleſcopical Stars, are thoſe that are not viſible to the naked Eye, but may be diſcover'd by the help of a Teleſcope.

Telicardios, (Gr.) a precious Stone like, or of the Colour of a Heart.

Telis, the Herb Fenigreek.

Tellers, four Officers in the Exchequer ſo call'd, whoſe Buſineſs is to receive and pay all Moneys belonging to the Queen; as alſo to make Weekly and Yearly Books both of their Receipts and Payments, which they deliver to the Lord Treaſurer.

Tellina, (Gr.) a kind of Shell-fiſh call'd a Limpin.

Telonium, a Toll-booth, or Cuſtom-houſe. See Thelonium.

Temantale, (in old Latin Records) a Tax of two Shillings, upon every Plough-land.

Temerity, Raſhneſs, Unadviſedneſs, Inconſiderateneſs.

Temper, Conſtitution of Body, natural Diſpoſition, or Humour.

To Temper, to moderate, allay, or qualify; to ſeaſon, to mingle.

Temperament, a proper and proportionable Mixture of the Elements, but more eſpecially of the Humours of a Humane Body; the uſual Conſtitution, Complexion, or Habit of the Body: Alſo a Medium or means, found out in a Buſineſs, or Controverſy.

Temperance, Moderation, Soberneſs; a Moral Vertue, that governs the Paſſions, and reſtrains the ſenſual Appetite.

Temperantia, (Lat.) Medicines that temper and allay acid or ſharp Humours.

Temperate, that is in good Temper, neither too hot nor too cold; moderate, ſober.

Temperate Zone. See Zone.

Temperature, the ſame as Temperament: Alſo a Quality in the Air which tempers it, and changes according to the diverſity of Seaſons, or the different Situations of Countries.

Tempeſt, (among Sea-men) a Wind accompany'd with Rain, or Hail, over-blowing ſo violently, that it is not poſſible for a Ship to bear any Sail; which they account a Degree higher than a Storm.

Tempeſtuous, ſtormy, boiſterous.

Templars or Knights-Templar, a Religious Order, which continuing for the ſpace of 200 Years, was far ſpread in Chriſtendom, and had a Governour in every Nation, particularly one in England, who was ſtyled Maſter of the Temple, and ſummoned to Parliament: Whence the chief Miniſter of the Temple-Church in London, formerly in their Poſſeſſion, is ſtill dignify'd with that Title: Their Habit was a white Cloak, or upper Garment, with a red Croſs on the Back, and a Sword girt about them. See Knights of the Temple.

Temple, a publick Building anciently raiſed in Honour, or for the Service of ſome falſe Deity: Whence it is ſometimes taken for a Church, or Place ſet a-part for the Worſhip of the true God.

Temple of Diana. See Epheſus.

The Temple or Templars-Inn, in Fleet-ſtreet, a famous College of Students in the Law, heretofore the chief Seat of the Knights Templar in England, which Order being ſuppreſs'd, it came into the Poſſeſſion of the Knights of S. John of Jeruſalem, whoſe principal Manſion was S. John's Priory near Smith-field; and of whom certain eminent Profeſſours of the Law, obtain'd a very large and perpetual Leaſe of this Temple, for the Yearly Rent of Ten Pounds, about the middle of the Reign of K. Edward III. Then it was divided into three particular Houſes, viz. the Inner, the Middle and the Outward Temple, which laſt afterwards became Eſſex-Houſe; and the Temple-Church yet ſtanding, was Conſecrated by Heraclius Patriarch of Jeruſalem, A. D. 1185.

Templies, certain Jewels formerly worn by great Ladies, on their Foreheads and Temples, and faſten'd to their Hair with Bodkins.

Temporal, that continues for a time; alſo Secular, or Worldly, in contradiſtinction to Spiritual; as The Lords Spiritual and Temporal of the Upper Houſe of Parliament: Alſo belonging to the Temples; as The Temporal Arteries and Muſcles.

Temporal Bones. See Temporum Oſſa.

Temporale Augmentum, (in Grammar) an Encreaſe, or alteration of the Quantity of the firſt Vowel, or Diphthong, in ſeveral Tenſes of a Greek Verb; as ἄγω in the Preſent Tenſe has ἦγον in the Preterimperfect Tenſe.

Temporalis, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the upper Jaw, otherwiſe call'd Crotaphites, which ariſing from part of the Os Frontis, Sincipitis, and Sphenoides, is inſerted to the upper part of the Proceſſus Coronæ of the lower Jaw. This Muſcle with its Partner, draws the lower Jaw upwards.

Temporalities, the Temporal State of the Church, or Church-men.

Temporalities of Biſhops, are ſuch Revenues, Lands, Tenements and Lay-Fees, as have been laid to Biſhops Sees by Kings, and other great Perſonages; and which belong to them, as they are Barons or Lords of Parliament.

Temporary, that laſts but for a time, fleeting, periſhable.

Temporary Fortification. See Fortification.

To Temporize, to obſerve, or comply with the Times, to be a Time-ſerver.

Temporum Oſſa, (Lat. in Anat.) the Temporal Bones, or Bones of the Temples which are ſituated in the lower part of the Sides of the Cranium, or Scull: Their upper part being thin conſiſts only of one Table of a Circular Figure, and is joyn'd to the Oſſa Parietalia by the ſquamous Sutures; but their lower Part, which is thick, hard and uneven, is united to the Os Occipitis, and Os Sphenoides.

To Tempt, to allure or entice, to egg on or ſet a-gog, to induce to Evil.

Temptatio, (in old Latin Records) an Aſſay, or Tryal; as Temptatio panis fiat bis in anno.

Temptation, a tempting, an Allurement, or Inticement: In Divinity, the means which the Devil makes uſe of to tempt Mankind to Sin, by ſetting before them a Scene of Worldly Pleaſures, Profits, &c.

Tempus pinguedinis & firmationis, (in ancient Latin Deeds) ſignifies the Seaſon of the Buck and that of the Doe: The former was reckon'd from the Feſtival of S. Peter ad Vincula, or Lammas-Day, Auguſt 1ſt. to that of the Exaltation of the Holy Croſs; and the latter from the Feſtival of S. Martin to that of the Purification of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary.

Tenable, holdable, or capable of Defence, when apply'd to a Town or Place of ſome Strength; alſo that may be maintained or held, in ſpeaking of an Opinion.

Tenacious, that holds or keeps with might and main; as To be tenacious of one's Liberty; alſo cloſe-fiſted, covetous, niggardly; alſo that ſticks faſt, or is clammy.

Tenacity, a being Tenacious, Cloſeneſs with reſpect to Expence, Niggardlineſs, Covetouſneſs.

Tenaille, (Fr.) a red-hot Pincer, ſuch as are us'd by Executioners in Foreign Parts to tear off the Fleſh of ſome Malefactors. In Fortification, a kind of Out-work like a Horn-work, but ſomewhat different; of which there are two ſorts, viz. the Single and the Double.

Simple or Single Tenaille, is a Work, whoſe Head or Front conſiſts of two Faces, which make one Re-ent'ring Angle; the Sides running directly parallel from the Head to the Gorge.

Double or Flanked Tenaille, is a Work that has its Front form'd by four Faces, which make two Angles Re-ent'ring or inwards, and three Saliant Angles; and the Wing or Sides of this Work likewiſe run ſtraight from the Head to the Gorge.

Tenaille of the Place, is the ſpace comprehended between the Points of two neighbouring Baſtions, that is to ſay, the Courtin, the two Flanks raiſed on the Courtin, and the two Sides of the Baſtions which face one another: So that 'tis the ſame with what is otherwiſe termed The Face of a Fortreſs.

Tenancies, (Law-word) Dwelling-houſes, or Places to live in, held of another.

Tenant or Tenent, (according to the Law-Definition) is one that holds or poſſeſſes Lands, or Tenements, by any kind of Right, whether in Fee for Term of Life, Years, or Will: To theſe belong ſeveral Additions; as Tenant by Charter, is he that holds Land by Feoffment, or Donation in Writing, or by ſome other Deed. Tenant in Chief, he that held of the King in right of his Crown. Tenant by Copy or Court-Roll, one admitted Tenant of any Lands, &c. within a Manour, which Time out of mind have been demiſable according to the Cuſtom of that Manour. Tenant by the Courteſey of England, he that holds for his Life, by reaſon of a Child begotten by him of his Wife, being an Heireſs and born alive.

Tenant in Demeſne, is he that holds the Demeans of a Manour for a Rent without Service. Tenant in Dower, a Woman that poſſeſſes Land by Virtue of her Dower, Marriage-Portion, or Joynture. Tenant by Elegit, he that holds by Virtue of the Writ call'd an Elegit. Tenant by Execution, he that holds by means of an Execution upon any Statute, Recogniſance, &c. Tenant in Frank-marriage, he that holds Lands or Tenements upon account of a Gift of them made to him upon Marriage between him and his Wife.

Tenant of the Queen, is he that holds of the Queen's Perſon, or as ſome Honour. Tenant in Mortgage, he that holds by means of a Mortgage. Tenant al Præcipe, is he againſt whom the Writ Præcipe is to be brought. Tenant in Service, is he that holds by any manner of Service. Tenant per Statute Merchant, one that holds Lands by Virtue of ſuch a Statute forfeited to him.

Tenant by the Verge, (in ancient Demeſne) he that is admitted by the Rod, in the Court of ancient Demeſne. Tenant at Will, he that holds at the Will of the Lord, according to the Cuſtom of the Manour; and a Tenant at Will by Common Law. There was alſo Tenant in Burgage, Tenant in Frank-fee, Tenant by Knight-Service, Tenant in Soccage, and Tenant in Villenage: And there is Tenant in Fee-ſimple, Tenant in Fee-tail, Tenant upon Sufferance, &c.

Particular Tenant, is one that holds Lands, &c. only for a Term. Several Tenant is oppoſite to Joynt Tenant, or Tenant in Common. Sole Tenant, is he that has no other joyned with him. Joynt Tenants are thoſe that have equal Right in Lands, or Tenements, by Virtue of one Title: Tenants in Common, have equal Right, but hold by divers Titles.

Very Tenant, is one that holds immediately of his Lord: So that if there be a Lord Meſne and Tenant, the Tenant is very Tenant of the Meſne, but not to the Lord above.

Tenaſmus or Teneſmus, (Gr.) a continual liſt to go to Stool, attended with an inability of voiding any thing, but ſometimes bloudy and ſlimy Matter.

Tench, a delicious freſh-water Fiſh.

To Tend, (Lat.) to drive or aim at, to wait on, look to, or take care of: In a Law-Senſe, to offer or ſhew forth, to endeavour; as To tend the Eſtate of the Party, to tend an Adverment, &c.

Tendency, Inclination, Aim, Drift.

Tender, ſoft, that is of a weak Conſtitution, feeble; kind, good-natured; nice, or ſcrupulous; exceptious, or touchy.

A Tender, a Nurſe that tends, or looks to ſick Perſons; Alſo a ſort of ſmall Sea-Veſſel that attends upon others of a larger Size; alſo an Offer, or Proffer of any thing.

To Tender, to indulge, make much of, or treat with great Tenderneſs; to preſent, or offer: In Common Law, carefully to offer or endeavour the performance of any thing; as To tender Rent, i. e. to offer it at the Time and Place, when and where it ought to be paid.

Tenderlings, (among Hunters) the ſoft tops of Deers Horns, when they begin to ſhoot forth.

Tendon, (Lat. in Anat.) is a ſimilar nervous Part joyn'd to Muſcles and Bones, by which the voluntary Motion of the Members is chiefly performed.

Tendrel, a little Griſtle; alſo a young tender Shoot, or Sprig of a Tree; eſpecially of a Vine.

Tenebræ or Tenebres, (Lat. i. e. Darkneſs) a Service us'd in the Roman Church, on Wedneſday, Thurſday and Friday before Eaſter, in repreſentation of our Bleſſed Saviour's Agony in the Garden: So that fifteen Lamps, or Candles (which is the number of Pſalms, or Canticles in the Office) being at firſt lighted on a Triangular Sconce, one of them is extinguiſhed at the end of every Pſalm repeated by the Prieſt, till all the Lights be put out, and the Congregation left in utter Darkneſs.

† Tenebroſity, Obſcurity, Darkneſs.

Tenebrous, dark, full of Darkneſs, gloomy.

Tenement, properly ſignifies an Houſe, or Home-ſtall: But in a Law-ſenſe, it is taken for Houſe, or Land, which a Man holds of another; and joyned with Frank it comprehends in general, Lands, Houſes, or Offices, in which we have an Eſtate for Life, or in Fee.

Tenementary Land, ſuch Land as the Saxon Thanes, or Noble-men who poſſeſs'd Bocland, or Hereditary free Eſtates, uſually let out to Tenants, under arbitrary Rents and Services; being their Outland, which was otherwiſe call'd the Tenants Land, or the Tenancy. See Inland and Outland.

Tenementis legatis, is a Writ that lies to London, or any other Corporation (where the Cuſtom is that Men may diſpoſe of Tenements as well as Goods and Chattels by their laſt Will) for the hearing any Controverſy about the ſame, and for redreſſing the Wrong.

Tenentibus in Aſſiſis non onerandis, &c. a Writ that lies for him to whom a Diſſeizor has alienated or made over Land of which he diſſeiz'd or diſpoſſeſs'd another, that he be not diſturb'd for the Dammages awarded, if the Diſſeizor have wherewith to ſatisfy them himſelf.

Teneriff, the chiefeſt and largeſt of the Canary-Iſlands, reaching about ſeventeen Leagues in length; and remarkable for a Mountain of a prodigious Height, i. e. about fifteen Leagues; which by ſome is call'd Tereyra, but commonly the Peek of Teneriff.

Tenerity, (Lat.) a Philoſophical Word for Tenderneſs; as The tenerity of Young Plants.

Teneſmus. See Tenaſmus.

Tenet or Tenent, a Doctrine, or Opinion.

Ten-foot Rod. See Station-ſtaff.

Tenne, Tenney or Tawney, (in Heraldry) a bright Colour made of Red and Yellow mixed, in the Coats of the Gentry; but in the Eſcutcheons of the Nobility 'tis termed Hyacinth, and Dragons-head, in thoſe of Soveraign Princes.

Tenon, (among Carpenters) that part of a Poſt, or Rafter, which is put into a Mortiſe-hole.

Tenor, (Lat.) the Subſtance or true intent and meaning of a Writing; the Senſe of one's Expreſſions, or Words: In Muſick, it is the Name of the firſt Mean or middle Part, next the Baſs.

Tenore indictamenti mittendo, a Writ whereby the Record of an Indictment and the Proceſs upon it, is call'd out of another Court into the Chancery.

Tenſare, (in ancient Deeds) to teen, to fence, or hedge in.

Tenſes, (in Grammar) the diſtinctions of Time in a Verb; the chief of which are five in Number; viz. the Preſent Tenſe, ſo call'd becauſe it treats of the time preſent, or that now is; as Lego, I read, or do read, the Preterimperfect Tenſe, the Preterperfect Tenſe, the Preterpluperfect Tenſe, which ſpeak all of the Time paſs'd, but after a different manner; as Legebam, legi, legeram, i. e. I read or did read, I have read, I had read; and the Future Tenſe, which expreſſes the Time to come; as Legam, I ſhall or will read: To theſe, in the Greek Tongue, are added two Aoriſts, a Second Future, and a Paulo poſt futurum; all which only betoken different manners of the Time paſs'd, or to come.

Tenſion, (in Philoſ.) a bending, or ſtretching out.

Tenſors or Extenſors, (in Anat.) are thoſe common Muſcles which ſerve to extend or ſtretch out the Toes, and have their Tendons let into all the leſſer Toes.

Tent, a ſort of Booth for Soldiers to incamp, or lie in; alſo a roll of Lint to be put into a Wound; alſo a ſort of Wine of a deep red Colour brought from Alicant in Spain: Among Lapidaries, Tent is that which they put under Table-Diamonds, when they ſet them in Work.

Tent-wort, a kind of Herb.

† Tentation, (Lat.) an eſſaying, or trying.

Tenter, a Stretcher, or Frame us'd by Clothiers and Diers.

Tenter-Hook, a ſort of Iron-nail.

Tenthredo, (Lat.) the leſſer Hornet, or Baſtard-Hornet; an Inſect.

Tenths, the Yearly Tribute, or Portion, which all Church-Livings yield to the Queen.

Tentigo, (Lat.) Stiffneſs, Stretching; alſo a Diſeaſe, the ſame as Priapiſmus.

Tenuious or Tenuous, ſubtil, fine, ſlender.

Tenuis, (Lat.) ſlender, thin, mean, ſorry, ſmall: Alſo a Grammatical Term to expreſs a Greek Vowel, or Conſonant that has no Aſpiration.

Tenuity, (in Philoſ.) Smalneſs, Thinneſs, Slenderneſs.

Tenure, (Law-Term) the manner whereby Tenants hold Lands or Tenements of their Lords.

Tepefaction, (in Philoſ.) a making warm, or hot.

Tephrias, (Gr.) a kind of Marble of an Aſh-colour.

Tephrion, a ſort of Medicine for Diſtempers of the Eyes.

Tephritis, a Stone having the Figure of a new Moon.

Tepid, (Lat.) luke-warm, cold and ſlack, indifferent.

Tepidity, Luke-warmneſs.

Teraphim, (Heb.) a Word us'd in the Holy Bible, and ſignifying Images, or Idols.

Terce and Tercel. See Tierce and Tiercel.

Tercet, a Third in Muſick.

Tercion or Tertian, a Wine-meaſure that contains 84 Gallons, and is the third part of a Tun.

Terebellum, (Lat.) a little Awger, Wimble, or Piercer.

Terebinthina, (Gr.) Turpentine, a kind of Gum.

Terebinthizuſa, a precious Stone, a ſort of Jaſper.

Terebinthus, the Turpentine-Tree.

Terebra or Terebrum, (Lat.) an Awger or Wimble, a Piercer; alſo an Inſtrument to engrave on Stones; alſo a Surgeon's Trepan, or Trepand-iron.

Terebration, a boring, or piercing; a Term more eſpecially us'd in Surgery.

Teredo, (Lat.) a little Worm of a Copper-Colour, found for the moſt part in rotten Wood; alſo a Moth that frets Garments.

Teredum, the corrupting, or rotting of a Bone.

Teres, long and round like a Tree, or Pillar; ſmooth, even.

Teres Major, (in Anat.) a round ſmooth Muſcle of the Arm, which ariſes from the lower Corner of the Scapula, or Shoulder-blade, paſſes under the upper Head of the Gemellus, and is inſerted by a ſhort flat Tendon below the Neck of the Shoulder-Bone cloſe to that of the Muſcle call'd Aniſcalptor, or Latiſſimus Dorſi.

Teres Minor, another Muſcle of the Arm, which in ſome Bodies is confounded with the Infra-ſpinatus, but in others is diſtinct: It takes riſe from the lower part of the inferiour Coſta of the Scapula, and goes down obliquely over the upper Head of the Gemellus major, to its Implantation in the Head of the Shoulder-bone.

Tergifœtæ, or Tergifetous Plants, thoſe Herbs that bear their Seeds on the back-ſides of their Leaves, ſo call'd by Herbaliſts upon that account; as the Capillaries, &c.

Tergiverſation, (i.e. turning the Back) a boggling, ſhuffling, or flinching; a dodging; a Fetch, or Shift. In the Roman Law, Tergiverſatio ſignifies a Non-ſuit, when the Plaintiff lets the matter fall.

Tergum, (Lat.) the Back of a Man, Beaſt, or other thing; an Hide, or Skin; a Target, or Buckler.

Term, a particular Word, or Expreſſion; a Limit, or Bound; a limited, or ſet Time: In a Law-ſenſe, the bounds and limitation of Time; as a Leaſe for Term of Life, or Years: In Geometry, the extremity, end, or bounds of a Magnitude; as a Point is the Term of a Line, a Line of a Superficies, and a Superficies of a Solid: And this in the Schools is call'd Terminus Quantitatis, or Term of Quantity.

Term of a Progreſſion, (in Mathem.) is every Member of the Progreſſion, whether it be Arithmetical, or Geometrical.

Terms, alſo ſignify Articles, or Conditions; the State, Caſe, or Paſs of an Affair; alſo Womens Monthly Courſes: In Logick, a Syllogiſm is compos'd of three Terms, viz. the Subject, the Attribute, and the Copula: In Aſtrology, Terms are certain Degrees of the Signs, in which ſuch reſpective Planets are obſerved to have their Virtues and Strength encreaſed; whence a Planet in thoſe Terms, is ſaid to have two Dignities.

In a Law-ſenſe, Terms are thoſe four Seaſons, or Times peculiarly ſet a-part for the hearing and determining of all Controverſies and Suits in the Courts at Weſtminſter and elſewhere; the reſt of the Year being call'd Vacation-time. The firſt of theſe is Hilary-Term, which begins January 23. or (if that be Sunday) the nex Day after, and ends the 12th of February following: The ſecond is Eaſter-Term, beginning the Wedneſday Fortnight after Eaſter-Day, and ending the Monday next after Aſcenſion-Day: The third is Trinity-Term, which begins the Friday next after Trinity-Sunday, and ends the Wedneſday Fortnight after. The fourth is Michaelmas-Term, beginning October 23d, or (if that prove Sunday) on the 24th, and ending the 28th. of November following: Every one of theſe Terms has ſeveral Returns, or Return-Days. See Returns.

Terms of an Equation, (in Algebra) are the ſeveral Names, or Members of which it is compoſed, and ſuch as have the ſame unknown Letter, but in different Powers, or Degrees.

Terms of Proportion, (in Mathem.) are ſuch Quantities, Numbers, or Letters as are compared one with another.

To Term, to call, or name.

Termagant, a ranting, luſty, bold Woman.

Termes, (Lat.) a Bough plucked off from a Tree with the Fruit on it, an Olive-branch; alſo a little Worm commonly call'd a Death-watch; a Maggot, or Gentle.

Terminalia, (Lat. among the Romans) the Feaſt of Land-marks kept in Honour of Terminus the God of Bounds, for the adjuſting and diſtinguiſhing the Limits of Fields and every Man's particular Eſtate.

To Terminate, to limit or bound, to ſet Bounds, to determine, or decide; to end, or put an End to.

Termination, (in Grammar) the ending of a Word.

Terminer, (Fr.) as A Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer for the Tryal of Malefactors. See Juſtices and Oyer.

Termini Cenſuales, (in old Latin Records) Rent-Terms, the four Quarterly Feſtivals on which Rent is uſually paid.

Terminthus, (Gr.) the Turpentine-tree; alſo a kind of Swelling in the Thighs, with a black Pimple on the top, as big as the Fruit of that Tree.

Terminus, (Lat.) a Limit, or Bound, a Meer, or Boundary parting one Man's Land from another; a Term, or Word. Alſo a Law-Term, during which, Matters of Juſtice are diſpatch'd; as Terminus S. Hilarii, Hilary-Term. Terminus Paſchæ, Eaſter-Term; Terminus Trinitatis, Trinity-Term; and Terminus St. Michaelis, Michaelmas-Term.

Terminus Quantitatis, a School-Word. See Term.

Termon-Land, Glebe-land, or Land belonging to the Church, anciently ſo call'd.

Termor, (Law-Word) one that holds Lands or Tenements for Term of Life.

Ternary or Ternion, three in Number; as A Ternary of Aces, Kings, or Queens at Cards; A Ternary of Paradoxes, &c.

Terpſichore, (Gr.) the Name of one of the Nine Muſes, to whom was attributed the Invention of Dancing and Balls.

Terra, (Lat.) the Earth, Land, Ground: In Doomſday-Regiſter, it is always taken for Arable, or Plough'd Land.

Terra Aſſiſa. See Aſſiſus.

Terra Damnata or Terra Mortua, the ſame as Caput Mortuum; which Terms are generally made uſe of by Chymiſts, to expreſs that Earthy Part, or thick droſſy Matter, which remains after the Diſtillation of Minerals, &c.

Terra exculcabilis, (in old Records) Land that may be Tilled, or Ploughed.

Terra extendenda, the Name of a Writ, commanding the Eſcheator to enquire and find out the true Yearly value of any Land, &c. by the Oath of twelve Men, and to certify the Extent of it into the Chancery.

Terra firma, the Continent, or main Land; ſo call'd by Geographers.

Terra fruſca, (in ancient Deeds) freſh Land, or ſuch as has not been lately ploughed.

Terra Gilliflorata, Land held by the the Tenure of paying a Gilliflower.

Terra Japonica, See Catechu.

Terra Lemnia, a ſort of red Earth digged out of a red Hill in the Iſland of Lemnos, and often us'd as a binding Medicine.

Terra lucrabilis, (in old Records) Land that may be gain'd from the Sea, or incloſed out of a Waſte to a particular Uſe.

Terra Normannorum, ſuch Land in this Kingdom, as heretofore became on Eſcheat to the Crown, being forfeited by ſome Norman Noble-man, who took part with the French King, or Dauphin in the time of K. Henry III.

Terra nova, (in old Charters) is taken either for Land newly granted, or made over to ſome Perſon; or elſe for Land newly grubbed up, or cleared from Woods.

Terra puturata, Land ſubject to the Cuſtom, or Duty call'd Putura; which See.

Terra Sabuloſa, gravelly, or ſandy Ground.

Terra Samia, a ſort of white, ſtiff and tough Earth, brought from the Iſland of Samos.

Terra Sigillata, a kind of Earth much us'd in Phyſick, and ſo call'd becauſe it is commonly tranſported from the Iſle of Lemnos ſealed up.

Terra veſtita, a Term us'd in old Charters, for Land ſown with Corn.

Terræ Filius, (i. e. Son of the Earth) a Scholar appointed to make Satyrical and jeſting Speeches at an Act in the Univerſity of Oxford, as the Prevaricator does at a Commencement in Cambridge. See Prevaricator.

Terræ Panis, the Herb Sow-bread.

Terræ Teſtamentales, (in the Saxon Laws) Lands that were held free from Feodal Services, deſcendable to all the Sons of the Owner, and deviſable by Will.

Terrage, an Exemption or Freedom from the Service of Ploughing, Reaping, &c. for the Lord; or from all Land-Taxes.

Terraneola, (Lat.) the Bird call'd a Bunting.

Terrapine, (among the Inhabitants of Virginia) a Tortoiſe, or Turtle, a Creature that abounds in thoſe Parts and is of three ſorts, viz. the Land-Turtle, or Tortoiſe, often found amidſt the Rubbiſh of old Houſes, or upon dry ſandy Banks. The River-Turtle, which caſts forth a ſtinking Smell, and is accounted poiſonous: And the Lake-Turtle that lives in Lakes and is moſt properly what they call the Terrapine.

Terraqueous, (Lat.) belonging to Earth and Water mix'd; as The Terraqueous Globe, in which the Earth and Water both together make one Spherical, or round Body.

Terrar, Terrer, or Terrier, (Law-Word) a Book, or Roll in which the ſeveral Lands of a ſingle Perſon, or elſe of a Town, or Manour, are particularly ſet down, with the quantity of Acres, Boundaries, Tenants Names, &c.

Terrarius, (in old Latin Records) a Land-holder, or Tenant.

Terrarius Cœnobialis, an Officer in Religious Houſes, whoſe Duty perhaps was to keep a Terrar of all their Eſtates, or to have their Lands exactly ſurvey'd and regiſter'd.

Terras or Terrace, a bank of Earth, an open Walk, or Gallery in a Garden, raiſed higher than the main Plot of Ground; alſo a flat Roof on a Houſe.

Terre, (Fr.) Earth, Ground, Land.

Terre Plain, (in Fortif.) the Surface of the Rampart, being the plain Space, or Walk on it, even with the level of the Ground; which is bounded next the Field, by the Parapet, or Breaſt-work, and toward the Body of the Place, by the Inward Talus, or Slope.

Terre-Tenant, (Law-Term) a Land-Tenant, or one that has the actual Poſſeſſion or Occupation of the Land: Thus when a Lord of a Manour has a Free-holder, who lets out his Free-hold to another to be occupied, this Occupier is call'd The Terre-Tenant.

Terrella, (Lat. i. e. a little Earth) a Name ſometimes given to a Load-ſtone, when it is turned into a Spherical, or round Figure, and plac'd ſo that its Poles, Equator, &c. may exactly anſwer to thoſe of the World; becauſe it is a very juſt Repreſentation of the great Magnetick Globe of the Earth, which we inhabit.

Terrene or Terreſtrial, belonging to the Earth, Earthy.

Terreſtrial Globe. See Globe.

Terreſtrial Line, a Term in Perſpective. See Line Terreſtrial.

Terrible, dreadful, fearful; alſo the Name of an Herb.

Terrier, a kind of Hunting-dog bred up on purpoſe to unkennel Foxes; alſo a ſort of Awger to bore with; alſo the ſame with Terrar; which S[illegible]

Terrine, (Fr.) an Earthen Pan: In Cookery, a Meſs made of a Breaſt of Mutton, cut into pieces, with Quails, Pigeons, and Chickens, cover'd with ſlices of Bacon on the bottom, and ſtew'd in a Pan between two gentle Fires.

To Terrify, to ſtrike a Terrour into, to put in a Fear or Fright, to fright or ſcare.

Terris bonis & catallis rehabendis poſt purgationem, a Writ that lies for a Clerk, to recover his Lands, Goods, or Chattels formerly ſeized, after he has clear'd himſelf of that Felony, with which he was charg'd and deliver'd to his Ordinary to be purged.

Terris & catallis tentis ultra debitum levatum, a Judicial Writ, for the reſtoring of Lands, or Goods to a Debtor that is diſtrained above the quantity of the Debt.

Terris liberandis, a Writ that lies for a Man convicted by Attaint, to bring the Record and Proceſs before the Queen, and to take a Fine for his Impriſonment, to deliver him his Lands and Tenements again, and to releaſe him of the Strip and Waſte: Alſo a Writ for the delivery of Lands to the Heir after Homage and Relief performed, or upon Security taken, that he ſhall perform them.

Territory, a compaſs of Land belonging to, or within the Juriſdiction of a State, City, or Town.

Terrour, Dread, great Fear, or Fright.

Terſe, exact, neat, clean; as A Terſe Style.

Terſion, (in Philoſ.) a wiping, or cleanſing the out-ſide of any thing.

Terſor, the Name of a Muſcle of the Humane Body. See Latiſſimus Dorſi.

Tertian. See Tercion.

Tertian Ague, or Feaver, is that which intermits entirely, and returns again every third Day, with its ſeveral Symptoms at a ſet Time.

To Tertiate a Piece, (in Gunnery) is to find the thickneſs of the Metal of a Cannon at the Touch-hole, Trunnions and Muzzle; in order to judge of its Strength, or whether it be well fortify'd, or not.

Teruncium or Teruncius, (Lat.) a ſmall Roman Coin of three Ounces, which was in value one fourth part of an As, and in weight the fortieth part of a Silver-Denarius.

Teſſera, a ſquare piece of any thing; a Watch-word, or Signal in War; a Ticket, a Tally or Score: In Anatomy, the 4th Bone of the Foot in that Part which is next the Leg.

Teſſeracoſte, (Gr.) the Forty Days between Eaſter and Holy-Thurſday; it may alſo be taken for the time of Lent: Alſo the time of a Woman's lying in before ſhe be Churched, or a Churching-Feaſt.

Teſſo, (in old Latin Records) a Grey, Brock, or Badger.

Teſt, a kind of Furnace made of Bricks, for the melting down Iron, &c. Alſo an Inſtrument us'd by Chymiſts and Refiners to purify Gold, or Silver, the ſame as a Coppel: Alſo an Oath appointed by an Act of Parliament, which conſiſts chiefly in renouncing the Pope's Supremacy, and the Tenet of Tranſubſtantiation: Whence Teſt is figuratively taken for any manner of Proof, or Tryal of Perſons, or Things.

Teſta, (Lat.) a Shell, or Shell-fiſh; alſo an Earthen Pot for Wine, Oil, or any other Liquors; alſo a burnt Tile, or Brick; a ſplint, or piece of a broken Bone.

Teſta de Nevil, an ancient and authentick Record, kept in the Queen's Remembrancers-Office in the Exchequer, which is ſaid to be compiled by Jollan de Nevil a Juſtice Itinernant under King

Henry III. and contains an Account of all Lands held in Grand, or Petty Sergeanty, with Fees and Eſcheats to the King, &c.

Teſtaceous, that has a Shell; as Teſtaceous Animals, i. e. Shell-fiſh, Snails, Tortoiſes, &c.

Teſtaceous Fiſhes, (among Naturaliſts) are ſuch as have ſtrong and thick Shells entire, and all of one piece; as the Cockle, Oiſter, Scallop, &c. But thoſe whoſe Shells are ſofter, thinner, and divided into diſtinct Joynts are termed Cruſtaceous Fiſhes; which See.

Teſtament, the laſt Will of a Perſon; a Solemn and Authentick Act whereby a Man expreſſes his Will, concerning the diſpoſal of his Eſtate after his Death; which is of two ſorts, either in Writing, or elſe Nuncupative, i. e. declared by Word of Mouth before ſufficient Witneſſes. See Will.

In the Scripture-Phraſe, it is taken for a Covenant; as The Books of the Old and New Teſtament.

Teſtamentary, belonging to a Teſtament.

Teſtamentum, (Lat.) a Teſtament, or laſt Will. In old Records, it ſometimes ſignifies a Writing, Inſtrument, or Deed for the conveying of Lands, or other Things; ſo call'd becauſe it bears a Teſtimony, or is atteſted by Witneſſes.

Teſtator, he that makes or has made a Teſtament, or laſt Will.

Teſtatrix, a Woman that makes ſuch a Will.

Teſtatum, a Writ in Perſonal Actions; as when one cannot be arreſted where the Action is laid, but is returned non eſt inventus; this Writ is ſent out into any other County, where ſuch Perſon is thought to have wherewith to ſatisfy; and 'tis ſo call'd becauſe the Sheriff has teſtify'd that the Party was not to be found in his Bailliwick.

Teſte, a Word uſually ſubſcrib'd in the laſt part of every Writ, where the Date begins thus, Teſte meipſa, i. e. Witneſs my ſelf; if it be an Original Writ in the Queen's Name: But if the Writ be Judicial, it bears the Name of the chief Judge of the Court, out of which it iſſues, and is thus expreſſed, Teſte Matthæo Hale, or Joanne Vaughan Milite, &c.

Teſter, the Value of Six-pence in Money.

Teſtes, (Lat. in Anatomy) the Teſticles of a Male, or Female: Thoſe of Men call'd Teſtes Viriles, are made of divers ſmall Veſſels, in which the Seed is bred, and cover'd on the out-ſide, with ſeveral Tunicks, or Coats. The Teſtes Muliebres in Women are a Part conſiſting of ſeveral Membranes and ſmall Fibres looſely joyn'd one to another.

Teſtes Cerebri, are the two lower and leſſer Protuberances or knobs of the Brain, ſo call'd from their reſembling the Figure of Teſticles.

Teſtich, a ſort of Perſian Carpet made of the fineſt Lawn; which are often ſent as Preſents to the greateſt Princes, and are ſo large, that in the Carriage, one of them is a ſufficient, if not too great a Burden, for ſeven luſty young Men.

Teſticles, the Organs of Seed in Men and Women. See Teſtes.

Teſticular, belonging to the Teſticles.

Teſticulus, (Lat.) a Teſticle. Teſticulus Venereus, a Swelling of the Cod, after impure Copulation.

Teſtiff, (old Word) wild, hair-brained, furious.

Teſtification, a teſtifying, or witneſſing.

To Teſtify, to witneſs or certify, to ſhew or expreſs; to make appear, or make known.

Teſtimonial, belonging to Teſtimony; as A teſtimonial Proof, i. e. a Proof by Witneſſes.

A Teſtimonial, a Certificate under the Hand of a Juſtice of Peace, Eccleſiaſtical Superiour, or ſome other Perſon in Authority.

Teſtimony, Witneſſing, Evidence, Depoſition, Relation, Report, Account; Proof, Token, Mark: Alſo the Quotation of one or more Paſſages in an Author: In the Holy Scriptures, it is uſ'd for a Law, or Ordinance.

Teſtoon, an old Silver-Coin among the French, which bore the Value of 18 Pence: But in the time of King Henry VIII. being made of Braſs lightly done over with Silver, it was reduced to 12 d. under Edward VI. to 9 d. and afterwards to 6 d. The Teſtoon of Portugal is worth 1 s. 3 d. Of Spain and Navarre 1 s. 8 d. Of Switzerland 1 s. 4 d. Of Italy, 1 s. 4 d.

Teſtudo, (Lat.) the Tortoiſe, or Shell-crab; a Tortoiſe-ſhell, an Arch, or Vault. Alſo among the Romans, a warlike Engine, or Fence made of Boards cover'd with raw Hides, and running upon Wheels; under which the Beſiegers of a Town got up cloſe to the Walls, to undermine or batter them: Alſo a Target-fence, when the Foot-ſoldiers held their Shields over their Heads, cloſe together, to keep off the Enemies Arrows, &c. Alſo a large but not very hard Swelling in the Head, which takes Name from its Shape, reſembling that of an Arch, or Tortoiſe, and ſticks ſo cloſe to the Scull, that it often infects and corrupts it.

Teſty, peeviſh, apt to take pet, ſnappiſh, crabbed.

Teta or Tetus, (Lat.) the Ring-Dove, or Queiſt; a Bird.

Tetanothrum, (Gr.) a Medicine to take away Wrinkles and ſmooth the Skin.

Tetanus, a kind of Cramp, a ſtiffneſs or ſtretching of the Sinews; whereby a Limb grows inflexible.

Tetartæus, a Quartan Ague.

Tether. See Tedder.

Tetrachord, (Gr. in Muſick) a Concord, or Interval of three Tones: Among the Ancients, it was an Inſtrument, or rank of four Strings, accounting the Tetrachord for one Tone.

Tetrachymagogon, a Medicine that purges four ſorts of Humours.

Tetracolon, (in Grammar) a Stanza, or Diviſion in Lyrick Poetry, conſiſting of four Verſes, or Lines.

Tetradiapaſon, (in Muſick) a quadruple Diapaſon; a Chord otherwiſe call'd a Quadruple Eighth, or Nine and Twentieth.

Tetradrachmon, a Coin of the Value of four Groats; alſo four Ounces in Weight.

Tetraedron or Tetrahedron, (in Geom.) one of the five Regular Bodies; being a Pyramid bounded by four equal and equilateral Triangles.

Tetraeteris, the ſpace of four Years; a Term uſ'd in Chronology, Aſtronomy, and Aſtrology.

Tetragon, (in Geom.) a Figure conſiſting of four Angles, and as many Sides; a Square: Among Aſtrologers, it is taken for a ſquare Aſpect.

Tetragonal, belonging to a Tetragon.

Tetragonias, a Comet, or Blazing-ſtar, whoſe Head is of a ſquare Figure, and its Tail, or Train, long, thick and Uniform; being not much different from the Meteor call'd Trabs.

Tetragoniſm, a Word uſ'd by ſome Foreign Writers in the ſame Senſe as the Quadrature, or ſquaring of the Circle.

Tetragonus, (in Anat.) a great ſquare Muſcle otherwiſe call'd Quadratus Genæ; which See.

Tetragrammaton, the Sacred Name of God, Jehovah, ſo call'd becauſe it conſiſts of four Hebrew Letters.

Tetrametrum, a Meaſure in Greek and Latin Verſe, conſiſting of four Metres, or eight Feet.

Tetrao, the Buſtard or Biſtard, a Bird.

Tetrapetalous Flower of a Plant, (among Herbaliſts) is that which only conſiſts of four Single coloured Leaves call'd Petala, ſet round the Stylus, to make up the whole Flower.

Tetrapharmacon, a Medicine conſiſting of four Ingredients; as Unguentum Baſilicum. See Baſilicon.

Tetraptoton, (in Grammar) a Defective Noun that has only four Caſes; as Plus, which wants the Dative and Vocative Singular.

Tetrarch, a Prince or Ruler of the fourth part of a Country; as Herod the Tetrarch.

Tetrarchy, the Government or Juriſdiction of a Tetrarch.

Tetras, the Number of Four, the Cater-point in Dice.

Tetraſtiche, a Gallery with four Ranks of Pillars.

Tetraſtick, a Sentence, or Epigram, compriſed in four Verſes.

Tetraſtylos, or Tetraſtyle, (in Architect.) a Building that has four Columns, or Pillars, in the Faces before and behind.

Tetraſyllabical, belonging to, or conſiſting of four Syllables.

Tetrax or Tetrix, a kind of Pheaſant or Buſtard.

Tetrobolum, a Coin of four Oboli, about four Pence half-penny of our Money; alſo a Weight of four Drams.

Tettigonia, a ſort of ſmall Graſs-hopper; an Inſect.

Teuchites, a kind of ſweet Ruſh.

Teuchrion, or Teuchrium, an Herb like Germander; great, or wild Germander; ſome take it for Pimpernel or Fluellin.

Teuchalis, the Herb Knot-graſs.

Teuthis, a Fiſh fenced with a long Bone ſtanding out, but wanting a Heart; a ſort of Cuttle-Fiſh.

Teutonick, belonging to the Germans anciently call'd Teutones and now Duytſh or Dutch People; as ſome think, from Tuiſco the Son of Mercury.

Teutonick Order, an Order of Knights, heretofore that of our Lady of Mount Sion, founded Anno Domini 1191. by Henry King of Jeruſalem, the Patriarch of that See, and other Chriſtian Princes, in favour of the German Nation. See Knights Teutonick.

Teution, (Gr.) the Plant call'd Beet.

To Tew, to tug, or pull; alſo to beat Morter.

To Tew-taw Hemp, to beat, or dreſs it in an Engine made for that purpoſe.

Text, (Lat.) the very Words of an Author, without any Expoſition or Remarks: Alſo a Portion of Holy Scripture, choſen for the Subject of a Sermon or Diſcourſe in Divinity.

Text-Letters, the Capital Letters in all ſorts of Hands that are uſually written.

Textuary, a Law-Book, or other Treatiſe, that contains only the bare Text, without any Comment or Gloſs upon it.

Texture, (properly a Weaving) a Compoſure, the ordering or framing of a Diſcourſe, &c. In Philoſophy, The Texture of a natural Body, is that peculiar Diſpoſition of the Particles or ſmall Parts, of which it is compos'd, ſo as to make it have ſuch a Form, or be of ſuch a Nature, or be endowed with ſuch Qualities.

Thack-tiles, a Word us'd in old Statutes for Plain Tiles, ſuch as are laid on the ſide of a Houſe.

Thalami nervorum opticorum, (in Anat.) are two Prominences or bunching Parts of the lateral Ventricles of the Brain; ſo nam'd, becauſe the Optick Nerves riſe out of them: They are of a ſomewhat long Figure, and of a Marrowy Subſtance on the out-ſide, but a little Aſh-coloured within.

Thalaſſiarcha, a Supreme, or principal Officer at Sea; an Admiral.

Thalia, one of the Nine Muſes, whom the Poets made to be the Inventreſs of Geometry and Husbandry.

Thalictrum, a kind of Herb; Flux-wort, or Lask-wort.

Thames, the chief River of Great Britain; which taking its Riſe in Gloceſter-ſhire, runs up to Oxford, and thence to London: The Sea flows up it gently 80 Miles; i. e. almoſt to Kingſton, ſo that Boats are drawn about 200 Miles, to Oxford, and many Miles higher.

Thanage of the King, a certain part of the King's Land, or Property; of which the Governour was ſtyl'd Thane.

Thane, Theyne, or Thegne, (Sax.) was ſometimes taken by our Anceſtours, for a Nobleman, ſometimes for a Magiſtrate, and ſometimes for a Free-man; but it more properly ſignifies an Officer, or Miniſter of the King.

Thane-Lands, ſuch Lands as were granted by Charters of the Saxon Kings to their Thanes, with all Immunities, except their being liable to Expeditions, repair of Caſtles, and mending of Bridges.

Thapſia, (Gr.) an Herb like Ferula, or Fennel-Giant, ſo call'd, from the Iſland of Thapſus, where 'tis ſaid to have been firſt found.

Thaſſare, (in old Latin Records) to lay up Hay, or Corn, into a Taſs, Stack, Rick, or Mow.

Thaughts, or Thoughts, (Sea-Term) the Benches, or Seats, on which the Rowers ſit in a Boat.

Thaumaturgicks, (Gr. i. e. Wonder-working) one of thoſe Arts mention'd by Dr. Dee in his Preface to Euclid, and there defined to be a Mathematical Science, which gives a certain Rule for the making of ſtrange Works, to be perceived by the Senſe, yet to be greatly wonder'd at: It may be taken for any Art that does, or ſeems to do Wonders.

Thavy's-Inn. See Inns of Chancery.

Theater, (Gr.) a Play-Houſe, a Building contrived with all manner of Conveniences for the Actors and Spectators, for the repreſenting and beholding of Comedies, Tragedies, &c. It alſo ſignifies the Stage in a Play-houſe, and in general any Scaffold raiſed for the Performance or Sight of any Publick Ceremony: In a Figurative Senſe we ſay, The World is a Theater and all Mankind are the Actors; Such a Country is the Theater of War, &c.

Theater of Oxford, a noble Pile of Building in that City, raiſed not long ſince by Dr. Gilbert Sheldon, Arch-Biſhop of Canterbury, and call'd in Latin, Theatrum Sheldonianum, where the Students of the Univerſity perform their Publick Exerciſes, &c.

Theatins, an Order of Religious Perſons founded by John Peter Caraffa, Biſhop of Theate, in the Kingdom of Naples.

Theatral or Theatrical, belonging to a Theater or Stage.

Theave, (Country-Word) an Ewe-Lamb of the firſt Year.

Theodo, (in old Latin Deeds) a young Plant, or Set; a Standard; it was alſo ſometimes taken for any Arm, Branch, or Bough of a Tree.

Theft, (in Common Law) is defined to be an unlawful felonious taking away another Man's Moveable, and Perſonal Goods, againſt the Owner's Will with an intent to ſteal them.

Theftbote, (Sax.) the maintaining, or favouring a Thief, by receiving ſtollen Goods from him.

Thelonio rationabili habendo pro Dominis habentibus Dominica Regnæ ad firmam, a Writ that lies for one that has of the Queen's Demeſne in Fee-farm, to recover reaſonable Toll of the Queen's Tenants there, if her Demeſne have been accuſtomed to be tolled.

Thelonium or Breve eſſendi quieti de Thelonio, a Writ lying for the Citizens of any City, or Burgeſſes of any Town that have a Charter or Preſcription, to free them from Toll, againſt the Officers of any Town or Market, who would force them to pay Toll of their Merchandize, contrary to their ſaid Grant or Preſcription.

Thelonmannus, (in ancient Deeds) the Toll-man, or Officer, who receiv'd the Toll.

Thelygonos, (Gr.) an Herb having Berries like an Olive, and call'd the Grace of God, which being ſteept in Drink, is ſaid to make a Woman conceive a Girl: Alſo a general Name given by Herbaliſts to all Feminine Plants.

Thelyphonon, an Herb, the Root of which kills Scorpions.

Thelypteris, Female Fern, or Sea-Fern.

Theme or Theam, a Subject to write, or ſpeak upon; an Argument laid down to be treated of: It is often us'd by Aſtrologers for the Poſition, or Place of the Heavenly Bodies, at any Moment, when they require the Succeſs of any thing then begun or propoſed; calling their Figure Thema Cœli.

Themis, a moral Deity or Goddeſs, ſuppoſed to have firſt taught Men Right and Juſtice, and therefore often taken by the Ancient Poets for Juſtice it ſelf.

Themmagium, (in old Lat. Records) a Duty heretofore paid by inferiour Tenants upon account of Theam, or Team. See Team.

Thenar, (Gr.) the Palm or hollow fleſhy part of the Hand: It is alſo taken by ſome Anatomical Writers, for an Abducent Muſcle which draws the Thumb from the Fore-finger.

Theobald, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Saxon, bold over the People.

Theoden, (Sax.) an Under-Thane; an Husbandman, or inferiour Tenant.

Theodolite, a Mathematical Inſtrument conſiſting of ſeveral Parts, as a Circle of Braſs divided into four Quadrants, each Quadrant being divided into 90 Degrees, and Subdivided by Diagonals, with Sights, a Box, and Needle, a Socket, Staff, &c. It is of good uſe in the Surveying of Land, for the taking of Heights, Diſtances, and Angles.

Theodom, (Sax.) Servitude.

Theodorus or Theodore, (Gr. i. e. the Gift of God) a proper Name of ſeveral Men.

Theodoſia, a Chriſtian Name of Women, anſwering to Theodore or Theodoſius in Men.

Theodoſian Code. See Code.

Theogonia, the Generation or Genealogy of the Fabulous Gods; a Book of the Poet Heſiod, ſo call'd.

Theologer or Theologian, a Divine, a Profeſſour of Divinity.

Theological, belonging to Divinity, Divine; as A Theological Diſcourſe, The Theological Vertues; which are Faith, Hope, and Charity.

Theology, a Science that teaches the knowledge of God and Divine Things.

Theomachia, a warring or fighting againſt God.

Theomagical, belonging to Divine Magick, or the Wiſdom of God.

Theophilus, a proper Name of Men; ſignifying a Friend, or Lover of God.

Theorbo, a Muſical Inſtrument, being a large Lute, us'd for the moſt part in the playing of Grounds and Thorough-Baſſes.

Theorem, (in Mathem.) a Declaration of certain Properties, Proportions, or Equalities, duly inferred from ſome Suppoſitions, or Conceſſions about Quantity; ſo that a Theorem relates only to Speculation, and is thereby diſtinguiſhed from a Problem, in which ſomething is always to be done: Theſe Theorems are of ſeveral ſorts; viz. 1.

An Univerſal Theorem, relating in general to any Quantity without Reſtriction; as, That the Rectangle of the Summ and Difference of any two Quantities, is equal to the Difference of their Squares. 2. Particular, when it extends only to a particular Quantity. 3. Negative, which Demonſtrates the impoſſibility of an Aſſertion; as That the Summ of two biquadrate Numbers cannot make a Square. 4. Local, which relates to a Surface; as That Triangles of the ſame Baſe and Height are equal.

A Plain Theorem, is that which has relation either to a Right-lined Surface, or to one bounded by the Circumference of a Circle; as That all Angles in the ſame Segment are equal.

A Solid Theorem, is that which treats about a Space bounded bv a Solid Line, i. e. by any of the three Conick Sections, as if a Right Line cut two Aſymptotick Parabola's, its two Parts terminated, or bounded by them, ſhall be equal.

A Reciprocal Theorem, is one whoſe Converſe, or Contrary is true; as That if a Triangle have two equal Sides, it muſt have two equal Angles: And on the contrary, That if it have two equal Angles, it muſt have two equal Sides.

Theorematick, conſiſting of, or belonging to Theorems.

Theoretick, Theorical, or Theorick, belonging to Theory; Speculative.

Theoreticks, thoſe things that belong to the Speculative part of Phyſick.

Theoriſt, one that forms, or maintains a particular Theory.

Theory, Contemplation, Meditation; more eſpecially the Study of any Art or Science, without reſpect to the Practice.

Theories of the Planets, certain Hypotheſes, or Suppoſitions about the Motions of the Heavens, according to which, Aſtronomers explain the Reaſons of the Phænomena, or Appearances of the Planets.

Therapeuticks, that part of Phyſick which ſhews the Method of healing, or curing Diſeaſes.

Theraphim or Teraphim, (Heb.) certain Idols or Images, made in the ſhape of Men.

Thereniabin or Tereriniabin, a Word us'd by ſome Authors for Oriental Manna.

Theriaca or Theriace, (Gr.) Treacle; any Medicine againſt Poiſon.

Theriacal, that belongs to, or has the Virtue of Treacle.

Therioma, a wild raging Ulcer, or Sore, the grand Pox; a Shanker.

Therionarca, a Shrub, bearing a Flower like a Roſe; which makes Serpents heavy and dull.

Thermæ, hot Baths, any Medicinal Waters that are hot.

Thermanticks, Medicines that cauſe Heat.

Thermocantharus, the Bath-fly; an Inſect.

Thermometer or Thermoſcope, a Philoſophical Inſtrument, uſually made of Glaſs fill'd with tinged Spirit of Wine, or ſome other proper Liquor, which by its riſing and falling, ſerves to meaſure, or ſhew the ſeveral Degrees of Heat and Cold, of any particular Place, or of the ſame Place in different Seaſons, and at different Times.

Thermometron, a Word us'd by ſome Writers in the Art of Phyſick, for that natural Heat, which is meaſured or perceived by the Pulſe.

Theſis, a general Poſition, or Argument laid down, or offer'd to be made good; a Subject to Diſpute upon.

Thethinga, (Sax.) a Tithing. Thething mannus, a Tithing-man. See Tithing, and Tithing-man.

Thew, an old Word for a Ducking-ſtool.

Thicket, a thick Buſh, a Place, or Hedge, full of Buſhes and Brambles.

To Thigh, a Term us'd in carving at Table; as Thigh that Woodcock, or Pigeon, i. e. cut it up.

Thight, (old Word) well joynted, or knit together.

Thill, the Beam, or Draught-Tree of a Cart, or Waggon, upon which the Yoke hangs.

Thiller or Thill-Horſe, the Horſe that is put under the Thill.

Thingus, (in old Latin Records) a Thane or Saxon Noble-man, a Knight, or Free-man.

Third-borow, a Word us'd in ſome Statutes for a Conſtable. See Head-borough.

Thirdendeal, a liquid Meaſure in uſe at Saliſbury,. which contains three Pints.

Thirdings, the third part of the Corn, or Grain, growing on the Ground at the Tenant's Death, due to the Lord as an Heriot, within certain Lands, belonging to the Manour of Turfat, in the County of Hereford.

Third night awn-hind, By the Laws of Saint Edward it was ordain'd, That if any Man lay three Nights in an Inn, he ſhould be accounted as one of the Family, and his Hoſt to be anſwerable for what Offence he ſhould commit: For man Night Uncuth, twa Night Gueſte, third Night Awn-hind, i. e. the firſt Night a Stranger, the ſecond Night a Gueſt, the third Night a Domeſtick.

Third-penny, the third part of Fines and Profits, ariſing from Law-Proceſſes, which in every County was heretofore allow'd to the Sheriff; the other two Parts being appointed for the King's Uſe.

Thiſtle, an Herb of which there are ſeveral kinds; as Carline-Thiſtle, Cotton-Thiſtle, Ladies-Thiſtle, &c.

Thiſtle-take, the Duty of a Half-penny heretofore paid to the Lord of the Manour of Hulton in the County of Cheſter for every Beaſt driven over the Common that was ſuffer'd to graze, or to take but a Thiſtle: And at Fiskerton in Nottingham-ſhire, there was an ancient Cuſtom of paying to the Lord a Penny for every Swine about a Year old kill'd by an Inhabitant, or Cottager; which purchace of leave to kill a Hog, was alſo termed Thiſtle-take.

Thlaſpi, (Gr.) an Herb call'd Shepherd's Purſe, Country-Muſtard, or wild Seen.

Thlipſis,, a ſqueezing, or cruſhing; alſo Affliction, or Trouble: In Anatomy, a preſſing together of the Veſſels of a Humane Body.

Thokes, (old Word) Fiſh with broken Bellies.

Tholus, (Gr. in Architect.) the Roof of a Temple, or Church, the Center, Scutcheon, or Knot in the midſt of an arched Roof; the Lantern, or Cupolo of a Publick Hall.

Tholus Diocletis, a ſort of Bandage us'd by Surgeons.

Thomas, the Name of one of the Twelve Apoſtles, ſignifying Deep in Hebrew, or as ſome ſay Twin, and often taken for a Chriſtian Name of Men.

St. Thomas's Hoſpital,, a noted Hoſpital in the Borough of Southwark, founded by K. Edward VI. and lately rebuilt with greater Advantage for the Poor People that are there Yearly Cured and Relieved.

Thor, a certain Idol of great Eſteem among the ancient Saxons and Teutonicks, thought to be the Same with Jupiter, or the God of Thunder: Whence the Day commonly call'd Thurſday and Thorſday by the Danes and Swedes, took Name; as having been Set a-part for his peculiar Service.

Thora, a kind of Wolf-bane; an Herb.

Thoracica, (Gr.) Medicines proper for Diſeaſes of the Breaſt.

Thoracica Inferior, (in Anat.) a branch of the Subclavian Vein, which ſpreads it ſelf on the Sides of the Breaſt by ſeveral Branches that communicate with thoſe of the Azygos under the Muſcles of the Breaſt.

Thoracica Superior, is likewiſe a branch of the Subclavian Vein, which ariſing from the Baſilica, paſſes to the Paps and Muſcles of the Breaſt.

Thoracicus Ductus. See Ductus Thoracicus.

Thoral Line, (in Palmeſtry) a certain Mark in the Hand otherwiſe call'd the Menſal Line, or the Line of Venus.

Thorax or Medius Venter, the Cheſt, all that Cavity or hollow Space, which is bounded above by the Neck-bones, below by the Diaphragm, or Midriff, before by the Breaſt-bone, behind by the Back-bone, and on the Sides by the Ribbs: It is of an Oval Figure cover'd on the in-ſide with a Membrane, or Skin call'd Pleura, and contains the Heart and Lungs.

Thore. See Torus.

Thorexis, the drinking of a generous Wine, which warms and cheriſhes the Breaſt.

Thorough-Toll, a certain Duty heretofore paid to the Earls of Richmond by the Inhabitants of a Place call'd Bowgh in York-ſhire.

Thorough-Wax, an Herb that is ſomewhat bitter in Taſte, of a binding Quality, and good againſt Ruptures.

Thorp, an ancient Saxon Name for a Village, or Country-Town.

Thos, (Gr.) a Lynx, a Creature reſembling a Wolf, but ſpotted like a Leopard; alſo a kind of Wolf that has a rough Coat in Winter, and is bare in Summer.

Thoughts. See Thaughts.

Thowls, thoſe ſmall Wooden Pins in the Gunnel of a Boat, between which the Rowers put their Oars or Sculls when they row.

Thracklat, a Term us'd by ſome Chymiſts for the Metal which is yet in the Mine.

Thraſcias, (Gr.) the North-weſt Wind ſo call'd by the Ancients, becauſe it blows from the Country of Thrace.

Thraſonical, inſolently boaſting, full of Oſtentation; from Thraſo, a notorious Braggadochio in Terence's Comedies.

Thrave a certain quantity of Corn, that contains four Shocks, every Shock conſiſting of ſix Sheaves.

To Threap or Threap down, (North-Country Word) to affirm poſitively, to perſiſt in a thing obſtinately.

Three-legged Staff, an Inſtrument conſiſting of wooden Legs, made with Joynts to ſhut all together, and to take off in the middle for the greater convenience of Carriage; on the top of which is uſually faſten'd a Ball and Socket to ſupport and adjuſt Inſtruments for Aſtronomy, Surveying, &c.

Threnodia, (Gr.) a mournful, or funeral Song; the Greek Title of the Book of Lamentations of the Prophet Jeremiah.

Threſher, one that threſhes, or beats Corn, &c. Alſo a Fiſh with a broad and thick tail, that ſerves to beat the Head of a Whale, to which it is a mortal Enemy.

Thridax, (Gr.) the Herb Lettice. Thridax agria, Sparrow-Hawks Herb, or Hawk-weed.

Thridborough or Thirdborough, a Word us'd in ſome old Statutes for a Head-borough, or Conſtable.

Thrift, Savingneſs, or Sparingneſs; alſo a ſort of Herb.

To Thrill, to drill, or bore.

Thrilled or Thirled, (Sax.) killed.

Thrimſa, an old German Coin, valued at the third part of a Shilling, or Four Pence.

Thrips, (Gr.) a little Worm, breeding in Timber; a Moth.

Thrithing or Triding, (Sax.) the third part of a County, or Shire, containing three, or more Hundreds, or Wapentakes; ſuch ſorts of Diviſions are the Laths in Kent, the Rapes in Suſſex, and the Ridings in Yorkſhire.

Thrithing, is alſo taken for a Court held within that Circuit, which was the ſame with our Court-Leet.

Thrithing-Reve, the Governour of a Thrithing, before whom all Cauſes us'd to be brought, that could not be determined in the Wapentakes or Hundreds.

To Thrive, to grow, or encreaſe mightily, to be in a good State or Condition, to become rich or proſperous.

Throat-wort, an Herb ſo call'd, as being good againſt Ulcers in the Mouth and Throat.

To Throb, to beat, pant, or ake, as the Heart ſometimes does.

Thromboſis, (Gr.) a congealing, or clotting together of any thing.

Thrombus, a Lump, Clot, or Cluſter of any thing, as of congealed Bloud, curdled Milk, &c. Among Surgeons a ſmall Swelling that ariſes after the Operation of Bloud-letting, when the Orifice is made too ſmall, or larger than the Capaciouſneſs of the Veſſels will admit.

Throne, a Chair of State plac'd in a part of a Room, raiſed two or three Steps from the Ground; which is richly adorn'd, and cover'd with a Canopy for Kings and Princes to ſit at certain times of Publick Solemnity: In a Figurative Senſe, it ſignifies the Supreme Command, or Soveraign Power of Princes; as He ſettled his Throne. Thrones is alſo taken for the third of the Nine Orders or Ranks of Angels.

Throſter or Throwſter, one that throws, twiſts, or winds Silk or Thread.

Thruſh, a Singing-Bird; alſo a Diſeaſe in the Mouth, eſpecially of young Children.

Wind-Thruſh, a Bird ſo call'd, becauſe it comes in high Winds into England, in the beginning of Winter.

Thryallis, (Gr.) a ſort of Mullein, or Roſe-Campion; an Herb.

Thumbs-breadth, the ſame as an Inch in Meaſure.

Thummim, See Urim.

Thunnus, (Gr.) the Fiſh call'd a Tunny.

Thuribulum, a Cenſer, or Smoaking-Pot, to burn Incence in; which in ſome old Records is expreſs'd Turribulum.

Thuriferous, bearing, or bringing forth Frankincence.

Thurſday, the fifth Day of the Week, ſo nam'd from the Idol Thor; which See.

Thus or Tus, (Lat.) Frankincenſe, Incenſe.

Thya, (Gr.) a kind of wild Cypreſs-Tree, whoſe Wood is very ſweet and laſting; the Life-Tree.

Thyites, a ſort of hard Stone, of which Mortars were anciently made.

Thymallus, a Fiſh of the Trout-kind, that ſmells like the Herb Thyme.

Thymbra, the Herb Savoury.

Thymelæa, a ſort of wild Olive; alſo a Shrub call'd Spurge-flax.

Thymiama, Incenſe, Perfume; a Sweet-Gum.

Thymick Vein, (in Anat.) a Branch of the Subclavicular Vein.

Thymion or Thymium, a kind of Wart, ragged at Top, like a Thyme-leaf, or as ſome ſay, coloured like Thyme-flowers.

Thymites, Wine made of Thyme.

Thymus, (in Anat.) a Conglobate Glandule, or Kernel in the Throat, that ſticks to the upper part of the Mediaſtinum, and lies between the Diviſions of the Subclavian Veins and Arteries: It is whitiſh, ſoft, and ſpungy, and larger in Children and Women than in Men.

Thymus or Thymum, the Herb Thyme or Time.

Thynnus or Thunnus, the Tunny, a Sea-Fiſh.

Thyroarytænoides, (in Anat.) a Pair of large Muſcles, that ariſe from the Cartilage, or Griſtle, call'd Scutiformis, and ſtretch themſelves forward to the Sides of the Arytenoides-Muſcle; their Uſe being to draw together, and cloſe the opening of the Larynx.

Thyroideæ Glandulæ, are two Glandules of a clammy ſolid Subſtance, wonderfully beautify'd with Veſſels of all Sorts, and hard Membranes: They reſemble a Hen's Egg in ſhape and bigneſs, and are ſeated at the lower part of the Larynx, at the Sides of the Scutiform, or Shield-like Cartilage: Theſe Glandules ſeparate a Liquor for moiſtening the Wind-Pipe, whereby the Voice is render'd firm, ſmooth, and ſweet; they alſo contribute to the roundneſs of the Neck, by their filling up the empty Spaces about the Larynx.

Thyroides, a Cartilage, or Griſtle of the Larynx, or Wind-Pipe, otherwiſe call'd Scutiformis: Some alſo give this Name to the Hole of the Os Pubis, or Share-bone.

Thyrſus, (among Herbaliſts) the upright and tapering Stem, or Stalk of a Plant: It is alſo often us'd for Spica, i. e. an Ear, or blade of Corn.

Tiara, (Gr.) a high ſharp-pointed Cap, heretofore worn by Soveraign Princes, and thoſe of the Royal Bloud, among the ancient Perſians; a Turban, or Shaſh: Alſo the Pope's Triple Crown.

Tibia, (Lat.) a Pipe, Flute, or Flagelet; a Muſical Inſtrument: In Anatomy, the Leg, or Part betwixt the Knee and the Ancle, conſiſting of two Bones, one outward, nam'd Focile minus, another inward and larger, which has uſurp'd the Name of the whole, and is termed Tibia, but others call it Focile Majus, and Canna Major.

Tibialis Anticus, a Muſcle of the Tarſus, ſo call'd from its Situation on the Fore-part of the Tibia: It ariſes from the lower part of the upper Appendage of that Bone, and has its Inſertion to the inſide of the Os Cuneiforme Majus, that bears up the Os metatarſi Pollicis: It pulls the Foot upwards, and directly forwards.

Tibialis Poſticus, a Muſcle of the Foot, which is ſeated on the back part of the Tibia, and otherwiſe call'd Muſculus Nauticus, becauſe Sea-men chiefly uſe it in climbing up the Maſts of their Ships: It takes riſe from the upper and back part of the Fibula, as alſo from the Ligament contain'd between the ſaid Bone and the Tibia, and is inſerted to the Os Naviculare, inwards and ſide-ways; ſo as to draw the Foot upwards and inwards.

Tick, a ſmall blackiſh Inſect; alſo a Diſeaſe in Horſes.

Tiching, a ſetting up of Turves to dry, that they may burn the better; a Term us'd by the Husband-men of the Weſtern Parts of England, when they are about to till the Ground by Burn-beating.

Tickle. See Grope.

Tide, the Ebbing or Flowing of the Sea, the former of which the Sea-men call Tide of Ebb, and the latter Tide of Floud.

Leeward and Windward Tides. See Leeward and Windward.

It is ſaid To flow Tide and half Tide, when the Tide runs three Hours, which is four Points of the Compaſs in the Offing, or open Sea, longer than it does by the Shore; where, by longer, is not meant more Hours (for it always Ebbs and Flows ſix Hours) but that if it be high Water a-ſhore at Twelve a Clock, 'twill not be ſo in the Offing till Three, which is the bound and time for the running of a half Tide. If it Ebbs and Flows more, the ſaying is, It runs half Tide and half Quarter, that is five Points.

When the Mariners are to go into a Harbour over a Bar, i. e. a Rock, or over a Shelf, they ſay, They'll bring their Tide with them; i. e. they'll come in with the Flood, that ſo they may ſafely get over ſuch Bar, or Sand.

To Tide it over or up, is to go over to a Place, with the Tide of Ebb, or Flood, then to ſtay at Anchor all the time the contrary Tide laſts, and afterwards to ſet in again upon the return of the ſame Tide.

A Tide-Gate, is when the Tide runs ſtrong.

Tides-Men, certain Officers that belong to the Cuſtom-Houſe, and are appointed to watch or attend upon Ships, till the Cuſtom of the Fraight be paid: Theſe Officers are ſo call'd, becauſe they go on board the Veſſels, at their Arrival in the Mouth of the River-Thames, and come up with the Tide.

Tidy, handy, neat, cleanly; as A tidy Servant.

Tierce, (Fr.) one of the Canonical Hours in the Roman Church; i. e. Eight a Clock Prayers in Summer, and Ten in Winter: Alſo a ſequence of Cards of the ſame Colour, at the Game of Picket; alſo a Thruſt in Fencing.

Tierce or Terce, a liquid Meaſure, containing Forty two Gallons.

Tierce or A Third, (in Muſick) is a certain diviſion of the Monochord, in which if the Terms be as 5 to 4, 'tis call'd a Tierce Major, or a Diton; but if they be as 6 to 5, then 'tis ſtyl'd a Tierce Minor, or Demi-Diton.

Tiercel or Tercel, a Male Hawk, ſo call'd becauſe it is a third part leſs than the Female in bigneſs and Strength.

Tiercet, a Song conſiſting of triple Stanza's, or a Staff of three Verſes.

Ties, (in a Ship) are thoſe Ropes by which the Yards hang, and that carry them up, when the Halliards are ſtrained.

Tiffany, a ſort of light Stuff.

Tiger, a fierce wild Beaſt having a ſpotted Skin; and being otherwiſe ſhap'd and armed like a Cat, but of a much larger Size: It is alſo figuratively taken for a cruel fierce Man.

Tigh or Teage, (in old Records) a Cloſe or Incloſure, a Croft: In Kent the Word Tigh is ſtill us'd in the ſame Senſe.

Tight, See Tite.

Tigillum, (Lat.) a little Rafter, or Beam: Alſo a Crucible or, Melting-pot us'd by Chymiſts.

Tigreſs, a Female, or She Tiger; a ranting Woman, a cruel Miſtreſs.

Tike, (Country-Word) a ſmall Bullock, or Heifer; alſo a kind of Worm.

Tilia, (Lat.) the Linden, or Teil-tree.

Tillage, the tilling, or ploughing of Land; Huſbandry.

Tiller, (among Sea-men) a ſtrong piece of Wood faſten'd to a Ship's Rudder; alſo that which ſerves for a Helm in a Boat.

Tiller or Tillar, (in Huſbandry) a ſmall Tree left to grow till it be fellable.

Tilt, a Cloth, or Tent that covers a Boat, to keep off Rain, &c.

Tilt-Boat, a cover'd Boat, ſuch as thoſe that go and return with the Tide, to convey Paſſengers between London and Graveſend.

Tilts, a kind of Exerciſe, when two armed Perſons on Horſe-back, run one againſt another with Lances, or Spears.

To Tilt, to run at Tilts, to fence or thruſt with Swords, or Foils; alſo to ſet a Veſſel ſtooping, when the Liquor in it begins to be low.

Tilth, the tilling, manuring, or improving of Land.

Timariots, (among the Turks) Soldiers that have a certain Portion of Conquer'd Lands allow'd them for Term of Life, to ſerve on Horſe-back as often and as long as they ſhall be required, and to find Arms at their own proper Coſt: This Portion is call'd Timara, from whence their Name is deriv'd, and it is thought equivalent to a Hundred Pounds Yearly Revenue amongſt us.

Timber, Wood for Building: A Timber of Skins or Furrs, is Forty in Number.

Timbers of Ermin, (in Heraldry) the rows or ranks of Ermin in Noble-mens Robes.

Riſing-Timbers in a Ship. See Riſing.

To Timber, (in Falconry) to neſtle, or make a Neſt; as Birds of Prey do.

Timbre or Timmer, a Term us'd among Heralds, for the Creſt, which in any Atchievement ſtands on top of the Helmet.

Timbrel, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument, which ſome call a Taber.

Time, is a certain Meaſure depending on the Motion of the Luminaries; as the Sun, Moon and Stars, by which the Diſtance and Continuance of things is meaſured: And it is either Aſtronomical, which is ſimply taken from the motion of the Stars; or Civil, which is the ſame ſort of Time apply'd to common Uſes.

Again, Aſtronomical, Mathematical, or Abſolute Time, flows equably in it ſelf without Relation to any outward Thing, and is otherwiſe termed Duration: But Relative, Apparent, or Vulgar Time, is the ſenſible and outward Meaſure of any Duration or Continuance eſtimated by Motion; and this is commonly us'd inſtead of true Time.

In Muſick, Time is that quantity or length, by which every particular Note has its due Meaſure appointed, without making it either longer or ſhorter than it ought to be; and it is twofold, viz. Duple or Common, and Triple.

Duple or Semi-breve Time, generally call'd Common, becauſe moſt us'd; is when all the Notes are encreaſed by two; as 2 Longs make a Large, 2 Breves a Long, 2 Semi-breves a Breve, 2 Minims a Semi-breve, 2 Crotchets a Minim, 2 Quavers a Crotchet, 2 Semi-quavers a Quaver, and 2 Demi-Semi-quavers a Semi-quaver: This kind of Time is uſual in Anthems, Almains, Pavans, Fantaſies, &c.

Triple Time, is that in which the Meaſure is counted by Threes; as one Semi-breve is equivalent to three Minims, one Minim to three Crotchets, &c. So that this ſwifter Time, or Meaſure is proper for Airy Songs and light Leſſons; as Courants, Jiggs, Sarabands, &c.

To theſe ſorts of Time may be added Seſquialter Proportion, which ſignifies a Triple Meaſure of three Notes to two ſuch like Notes of the Common Time.

Time-Note. See Meaſure-Note.

Timidity, (Lat.) Timorouſneſs, Fearfulneſs, Baſhfulneſs.

Timorous, fearful, baſhful.

Timotheus or Timothy, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Greek, an Honourer of God.

Tin, a Metal that comes near Silver in Colour, but differs very much in the figure of its Pores, as alſo in its Solidity and Weight.

Tin-Glaſs, a Metallick Matter white, ſmooth and like Tin; but hard, ſharp, brittle, and diſpoſed into Facets, or ſhining Scales, as it were pieces of Glaſs; whence it has its Name.

Tinca, (Lat) the Tench, a Freſh-water Fiſh.

Tincar, (Arab.) a ſort of Nitre, or Salt-peter, ſo call'd from its being dug out of the Earth.

Tincel or Tinſel, a kind of glittering Stuff, or Cloth made of Silk and Copper.

Tincker-men, thoſe Fiſher-men that us'd to deſtroy the young Fry in the River Thames, by Nets and unlawful Engines, till ſuppreſs'd by the Mayor and Citizens of London.

Tinct or Teint, (Lat.) a Colouring.

Tincture, a Colour, Stain, or Die; a ſmattering or imperfect Knowledge of any Art, or Science.

Among Heralds, the Colours in an Eſcutcheon, or Coat of Arms are call'd Tinctures. In Chymiſtry, Tincture ſignifies the moſt fine and ſubtil Parts of a Mixt Body drawn out in Spirit of Wine, or ſome ſuch proper Menſtruum, or diſſolving Liquor.

Tincture of the Moon, is a Diſſolution of ſome of the more rarify'd parts of Silver, made in Spirit of Wine and whetted by Alkali-Salts.

Tinctured, that has a Tincture; as He is tinctured with that Opinion.

† To Tind, to light; as To tind a Candle.

Tine, a Country-Word for the grain of a Fork.

To Tine an Egg, (among the Curious) is to dreſs it.

Tinea, (Lat.) the Moth, an Inſect that eats Clothes: Alſo a cruſty ſtinking Ulcer in the Head, which gnaws and conſumes the Skin.

Tinearea, Moth-wort, or Gold-flower; an Herb.

Tineman or Tienman, a petty Foreſt-Officer in old Times, who took care of Vert and Veniſon in the Night, and had other ſervile Employments.

Tinettum, (in ancient Latin Deeds) Trouſe, Bruſh-wood for Fencing and Hedging; which ſort of Under-wood, cut at length and not faggotted up, is ſtill call'd Teenet in Kent.

Tinewald, the Parliament, or Yearly Meeting of the States in the Iſle of Man.

Tinged, (Lat.) coloured, or died lightly.

Tinkar, a Chymical Word for Borax, or Gold-ſolder.

Tinnitus Aurium, (Lat.) a buzzing, or tingling in the Ears, which proceeds from a ſtoppage, or ſomething that pricks the Part, ſo that the Air ſhut up is continually moved by the beating of the Arteries, and the Drum of the Ear is lightly ſtruck; whence ſuch a Noiſe ariſes.

Tinnunculus, the Wind-vanner, or Keſtrel, a kind of Hawk: It is alſo written Tintinnunculus and Triſtunculus.

Tinpenny, a cuſtomary Duty heretofore paid to the Tithing-man, by the ſeveral Friburghs or Diviſions of his Precinct; as Tedinpenny ſignify'd the Money paid the Sheriff by the ſeveral Tithings.

Tintamar, (Fr.) a confuſed Noiſe, a hideous Out-cry, the jangling of Bells, &c.

Tip, the end, or utmoſt point of any Thing.

Tip-ſtaff, one of the Wardens of the Fleet's Men, who comes to the Queen's Courts with a painted Staff, for the taking into Cuſtody thoſe that are there committed, and to attend ſuch Priſoners as go at large by Licence: Alſo certain Officers that wait on the Judges, bearing a Rod tipt with Silver, and take into their Charge all Priſoners committed, or turned over at the Judges Chambers.

Tippet, a kind of Kerchief for Womens Necks; alſo a long Scarf which Doctors of Divinity and Noble-mens Chaplains wear over their Gowns.

To Tipple, to drink hard.

Tipſy, that is a little in Drink, fuddled.

Tipula, (Lat.) a Water-ſpider with ſix Feet, that runs on the top of the Water without ſinking.

Tire, the Ornament or Dreſs of Womens Heads; alſo the Iron-band of a Cart-wheel.

Tire or Teer of Ordinance, (as the Sea-men pronounce it) a ſet of great Guns on both Sides of a Ship, lying in a Rank from one end to the other, either above upon Deck, or below; the former of which are call'd the Upper Tire of Guns, and the latter the Lower-Tire: Some Ships alſo have the Fore and Half Decks furniſh'd with Guns, each making half a Tire.

To Tire, to dreſs; to weary, to be or grow weary.

Tiring, (in Falconry) is a giving the Hawk a Leg or Pinion of a Pullet, or Pigeon to pluck at.

Tirwhit, a Bird otherwiſe call'd a Lapwing.

Tiſſical, troubled with the Tiſſick, purſy, ſhort-winded.

Tiſſick, an Ulceration of the Lungs, accompany'd with an Hectick Feaver, and cauſing a Conſumption of the whole Body. See Phthiſis.

Tiſſue or Cloth of Tiſſue, (Fr.) rich Stuff made of Silk and Silver, or Silk and Gold-thread, woven together.

Tit or Titmouſe, a little Bird.

Tite, (among Sea-men) a Ship is ſaid To be tite or tight, when ſhe is ſo ſtanch as to let in but very little Water; and this is known by the Smell of it, when pumpt out; for if but little Water be let in, it will always ſtink, otherwiſe not.

Tithable, that may be tithed, or is liable to yield Tithes.

Tithe, the tenth Part of any thing; but chiefly taken for that Revenue which in every Country-Pariſh is allowed to the Parſon for his Maintenance; being a tenth Part of the Fruits of the Earth, &c. Theſe Tithes are of ſeveral ſorts, viz. Predial, Perſonal and Mixt; which See under thoſe Articles.

To Tithe, to take the tenth Part.

Tithing, (among our Saxon Anceſtours) a Company of Ten Men, with their Families joyned together in a Society, and all bound to the King for the peaceable Behaviour of each other.

Tithing-man, was the Chief or Principal Perſon of ſuch a Company, but is now taken in ſome Places for a Conſtable; the old Way of Tithing being long ſince left off. See Head-borough.

Tithing-penny, a Cuſtomary Duty paid to the Sheriffs by the ſeveral Tithings: It was alſo call'd Teding-penny, Thething-penny, and Tithe-penny.

Tithymalus or Tithymallus, (Gr.) an Herb call'd Sea-lettice, Wolfs-milk, or Milk-thiſtle.

Titillation, (Lat.) a Tickling, a pleaſant Itch; that Senſation, or Feeling, which one has in any part of the Body, when tickled.

Titinylk, a Word us'd in ſome old Writings, for a Tale-bearer.

Title, the Inſcription of a Book, or Act: Alſo an Addition or Mark of Honour given to Perſons according to their Rank, or Quality: Alſo Right, Claim; a juſt Cauſe for poſſeſſing, or enjoying any thing: In a Law-ſenſe, it is ſometimes taken for the means whereby a Man comes to an Eſtate; as His Title is by Fine, or Feoffment: Alſo Writings, or Records to prove one's Right.

Title of Entry, is when one poſſeſſed of Land, makes a Feoffment, or Donation of it upon a certain Condition, and the Condition is broken; after which the Feoffor has Title to enter into the Land, and recover the Free-hold.

Tits, a Country-word, for ſmall Cattel.

To Titter, to giggle, or laugh wantonly.

† Titubation, (Lat.) a ſtaggering, or ſtumbling.

Titular, that bears a Title only; as A titular Biſhop, a titular Office, &c.

Tmeſis, (Gr. a Cutting) a Grammatical Figure, in which a compound Word is as it were cut aſunder, and divided into two Parts, by ſome other Word that is put in between; as Septem ſubjecta trioni, for Subjecta ſeptemtrioni. Virg.

Toads-Flax or Flix-Weed, a kind of Herb.

Tobacco, a well known Plant, the ſmoak of which taken in Pipes is generally in much Requeſt; as being powerful to ſtop Rheums, to diſpoſe to Reſt, to take off Wearineſs, &c. Its Name is ſaid to be taken from Tobago, one of the Caribbee-Iſlands in America, from whence it was firſt brought into England, by Sir Francis Drake's Mariners, A. D. 1585.

Tobacconiſt, one that ſells, or deals in Tobacco.

Tobiah or Tobias, (Heb. the goodneſs of the Lord) the Name of ſeveral Perſons mention'd in the Old Teſtament, particularly in Ezra and Nehemiah; as alſo in the Apocrypha: Whence it is ſometimes made uſe of as a Chriſtian Name of Men.

Tobit, (of the ſame Signification) a Perſon, whoſe Hiſtory is contain'd in that Apocryphal Book, which bears his Name.

Tockawaugh, a wholeſome and ſavoury Root, peculiar to the Countries of Virginia and Maryland.

Tod of Wooll, the quantity of 28 Pounds, or 2 Stone.

Toft, (Law-Word) a Meſſuage, or Houſe, or rather the Place where a Meſſuage once ſtood, that is fallen or pulled down; alſo a Grove of Trees.

Toft-man, the Owner of a Toft.

Toga, (Lat. among the Romans) a great woollen Mantle without Sleeves, of divers Colours, ſet off with various Ornaments; which was worn both by Men and Women.

Toil, weariſome Labour, exceſſive Pains.

Toiles, (Fr.) Snares, or Nets ſet by Huntſmen for the catching of Wild Beaſts.

Toilet, a kind of Table-cloth, or Carpet, made of fine Linnen, Sattin, Velvet, or Tiſſue, ſpread upon a Table in a Bed-Chamber, where Perſons of Quality dreſs themſelves; a Dreſſing-cloth.

Toiſe, a Meaſure containing ſix Foot in length; a Fathom.

Toiſon d'Or, a Term us'd in Heraldry for a Golden-Fleece, which is ſometimes born in a Coat of Arms.

Tolerable, (Lat.) that may be indured or born with, ſufferable; alſo indifferent, paſſable.

To Tolerate, to ſuffer, to bear with, to wink at.

Toleration, tolerating, ſuffering or allowing of.

Toll or Tholl, (in Common Law) is either 1. a Liberty to buy and ſell within the Bounds of a Manour; or 2. a Tribute or Cuſtom paid for Paſſage, &c.

To Toll, to ring a Bell after a particular manner: In a Law-ſenſe, to bar, defeat, or take away; as To toll the Entry, i. e. to deny, or take away the Right of Entry.

Toll-Booth, a Cuſtom-houſe, or Place where Toll is paid: Alſo the Name of the chief Priſon of Edenborough in Scotland.

Toll-Corn, Corn taken for Toll, at grinding in a Mill.

Toll-Hop, a Toll-diſh, or ſmall Meaſure, by which Toll was taken for Corn ſold in an open Market.

Toll-through, Money paid for Paſſage in or thro' ſome High-ways, Ferries, Bridges, &c.

Toll-traverſe, an Acknowledgment given for paſſing thro' a private Man's Ground.

Toll-Tray, Toll taken by the Tray, or Diſh.

Toll-Turn, a Toll paid at the return of Cattel from Fairs, or Markets; though they were not ſold.

Tolſaſter or Tolſeſter, Exciſe, or Tribute heretofore paid to the Lord of a Manour, by the Servile Tenant, for Liberty to brew and ſell Ale.

Tolſey, a kind of Exchange or Place, where Merchants meet; as The Tolſey at Briſtol.

Tolt, a Writ whereby a Cauſe depending in a Court Baron is removed to the County-Court; ſo call'd becauſe it does Tollere loquelam, i. e. take away the Imparlance, or Suit from one Court to another.

Tolta, (old Latin Law-word) Extortion, Rapine, Wrong; any thing exacted, or impoſed, contrary to Right and Juſtice.

Toman, a kind of Perſian Coin.

Tomentum, Shear-wooll, Flocks, ſuch as are us'd in the ſtuffing of Bed-Ticks, Cuſhions, &c. Among Herbaliſts, it is taken for a ſoft downy Subſtance that grows on the tops of ſome Plants; which therefore take Name from thence; as Carduus tomentoſus, Gramen tomentoſum, &c.

Tome, (Gr.) a ſeparate Part, or diſtinct Volume of a large Book.

Tometica, Medicines which opening the Pores of the Body with their ſharp Particles, cut the thick and ſlimy Humours: They are otherwiſe termed Incidentia and Attenuantia.

Tomici Dentes, (i. e. cutting Teeth) the Fore-teeth, ſo call'd by ſome Anatomical Writers.

Tomin, (among Jewellers) a certain Weight of about three Carrats.

Tominejo, the American Humming-Bird.

Tomkin, (in Gunnery) a round piece of Wood, put into the Mouth of a great Gun, and cover'd with Tallow.

Tomotocia, (Gr.) the ſame as Hyſterotomotocia; which See.

Tondino, a Term in Architecture. See Aſtragal.

Tone, (Gr.) the ſound of the Voice, high or low, mean, deep or ſhrill: In Muſick, a certain Degree of raiſing or ſinking the Voice: It is commonly defin'd to be the ſixth part of an Octave; in which Senſe the Octave is ſaid, To be compoſed of five Tones, and two Semi-tones: A Tone, or whole Note is alſo divided into nine ſmall Parts call'd Comma's, five of which are appropriated to the greater Semi-tone, and four to the leſſer.

Tonica, Medicines which being outwardly aplied to, or rubbed into the Limbs, ſtrengthen the Nerves and Tendons.

Tonnage or Tunnage, a Cuſtom, or Duty paid to the Queen, for Merchandize carry'd out, or brought home in Ships, according to a certain Rate upon every Tun. The Duties of Tonnage and Poundage were firſt ſettled in the 45th Year of K. Edward III.

Tonnetight, (in ancient Deeds) the quantity of a Tun in a Ship's Fraight, or Bulk, for which Tonnage was paid to the King.

Tonſillæ, (Lat. in Anat.) two Glands or Kernels commonly call'd the Almonds of the Ears; which are ſeated at the Root of the Tongue, on each Side the Uvula: Alſo an Inflammation about the Jaws; the Mumps, the Glanders. See Pariſthmia.

Tooth. See Dens.

Tooth-Wort, a kind of Herb.

Tooth-wreſt, an Inſtrument to draw, or pull out Teeth.

Toothing, (among Maſons) a Corner-ſtone left for more Building.

Top, Height, the uppermoſt end of a thing: Among Sea-men, Tops are taken for thoſe round Frames of Board, that lye upon the Croſs-trees, near the Heads of the Maſts, where they get up to furle, or looſe the Top-ſails, &c.

To Top the Sail-yards, is to make them hang even.

Top-Armours, are a kind of Clothes, &c. ſet about the Round-tops of the Maſts; the ſame as the Fights or Waſte-Cloaths in the Cage-work, or Rails of the Ship: They ſerve not only for Ornament and Shew, but alſo cover ſuch Men, in a Fight as are there plac'd to throw Stink-pots, Fire-works, &c. and to fire ſmall Shot down on the Enemy.

Top-Gallant-Maſts, (in a Ship) are ſmall Maſts fixed to the Heads of the Main, and Fore-top-Maſts, on the top of which the Flag-ſtaves are ſet up for the Colours, Flags, Pendants, &c.

Top-Maſts, certain Maſts which are made faſt and ſettled to all the Maſts a-loft: viz. to the Main-Maſt, Miſſen-Maſt, Fore-Maſt and Bolt-Sprit.

Top-Ropes, thoſe Ropes which the Mariners make uſe of to ſtrike the Top-Maſts of the Main and Fore-Maſts, Toparch, (Gr.) the Governour, or Ruler of any Place, the Lord of a Manour; a Lord Lieutenant of a Country.

Toparchia, the Juriſdiction of a Toparch; a Lieutenancy, a Lordſhip.

Topaz, a precious Stone, of the Colour of fine Gold, the third in value next the Diamond; ſo call'd from the Iſland of Topazius, in the Red Sea, where they were often found. In Heraldry, Topaz is taken for the Gold-Colour in the Coats of the Nobility.

To Tope, to drink briskly, or luſtily.

Toph, a Word us'd by ſome Chirurgical Writers for a kind of Swelling in the Bones.

Tophet, (Heb. i. e. a Drum) the Name of a Valley, where the Ammonites us'd to Sacrifice their Children to the Idol Moloch, and caus'd Drums to be beat to hinder them from hearing the Cries of thoſe Innocents which they threw into the Fire. See Moloch.

Tophus, (Gr.) a Sand, or Gravel-Stone, that may be eaſily rubbed to Crums: Alſo a ſtony congealed Subſtance in any part of an Animal Body, which is alſo often termed A Tophaceous Matter.

Topiaria, the Art of making Arbours with Trees or Twigs cut and plaited.

Topiarius, a Gardener that orders Arbours or Bowers; or that makes divers kinds of Knots and Devices in Plants, as they grow.

Topica, Books that treat of Places of Invention in Logick: In the Art of Phyſick, Medicines apply'd outwardly to the Patient's Body, for curing his Diſeaſe.

Topical, applied to a particular Place, or Part; as A Topical Remedy: Alſo fetched from a Topick, or belonging to Topicks; as A Topical Diſcourſe, Topical Logick, &c.

A Topick, a common Place, or Head of Diſcourſe, a Subject, or Argument to be handled.

Topicks, that part of Logick, which treats of the Invention, or finding out of Places, or Arguments; or which draws probable Arguments from ſeveral Circumſtances of Matter of Fact.

Topinaria, the Mole, or Want, a little Creature living under Ground.

Topographical, or Topographick, belonging to Topography.

Topographick Charts. See Charts Topographick.

Topography, the Deſcription of a particular Place in any Country; as of London, Paris, &c. Alſo the Draught of ſome ſmall parcell of Land; as that of a Manour, a particular Eſtate, &c. or elſe ſuch as Surveyors ſet out in their Plots, for the uſe of the Proprietours.

Topping, eminent, chief, noted; as A Topping Man.

Topping the Lifts, (in Sea-Language) is the ſame with haling the Top-Sail Lifts; ſo that the Word of Art is, Top a Starboard, or Top a Port, i. e. hale upon the Starboard, or Larboard-Lift. See Lifts.

Tor, an old Saxon Word, ſignifying a Tower, Rock, or high Place; as The Tor of Salisbury, Glaſtenbury, &c.

Torce, (Lat.) a Term made uſe of by Heralds for a Wreath; which See.

Torch, a Staff of Deal, or other Roſiny Wood, on which Wax-Candles are ſtuck, to be lighted on ſeveral Occaſions.

Torch Royal, (among Hunters) the next Start in a Stag's Head, that grows above the Royal, and is otherwiſe call'd The Surroyal.

Torch-Weed, a kind of Herb.

Torcular, (Lat.) a Preſs for Wine, Oil, Cider, &c.

Torcular Herophili, (in Anat.) that place, where the four Cavities, or hollow Parts of the thick Skin of the Brain, call'd Dura Mater, are joyn'd together; the Brain-Tunnel.

Torcularis Vena, a Vein which goes up by the in-ſide of the Scull to the Brain.

Tordylon or Tordylium, (Gr.) the Herb Heart-Wort.

Tore. See Torus.

Toreutice, the Art of Turning, Chaſing, Engraving, or Imboſſing.

Tormen, (Lat.) the Griping of the Guts; the wringing of the Belly, as in the Wind-Colick.

Torment, violent Pain which the Body ſuffers; exceſſive Grief, or trouble of Mind.

To Torment, to put to great Pain, or to the Rack; to afflict, to diſquiet; to grieve, or vex; to plague, or be troubleſome to.

Tormentil, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Engliſh Set-foil, which is of a binding and drying Quality; good againſt Griping of the Guts, the Plague, and other Malignant Diſeaſes.

Tormina Alvi, the Griping of the Guts, or Wind-Colick.

Tormina Hysterica, the Womb-Colick, a Diſeaſe which happens to Women of a looſe and ill habit of Body.

Tormina post Partum, the After-Pains, or Pains which Child-Bed Women ſuffer after Delivery.

Tornado, (Span.) a ſudden, or violent Storm of ill Weather at Sea.

Tornequet. See Tourniquet.

Torpedo, (Lat.) the Cramp-Fiſh, which benums the Hands of thoſe that touch it.

† Torpid, benummed, ſlow, dull, heavy.

Torquilla, the Wry-neck; a Bird.

Torra, (in old Records) a Tor, Mount, or Hill.

† Torrefaction, a torrifying, ſcorching, or parching.

Torrent, a ſtrong Stream, or violent Land-Floud, caus'd by Rain, or melted Snow: Whence it is Figuratively taken for great heat, or violence of Paſſion, a ſwift Stream of Eloquence, &c.

Torricellian Experiment, ſo call'd from its Inventor, Torricellius, an Italian, is when a Glaſs-Tube or Pipe, of about 3 Foot in length and $\frac{1}{4}$ of an Inch Bore, being ſealed or cloſed in the Fire at one end, is at the other quite filled with Quick-Silver; afterwards being ſtopt with the Finger, it has its unſealed end thruſt down into ſome Quick-Silver contained in a Veſſel: Whereupon the Finger being remov'd from the Orifice and the Tube ſet upright, the Quick-Silver will deſcend or run out, till it remain in the Tube to the height of between 28 and 31 Inches, leaving in the top an apparent empty Space.

The Quick-Silver thus ſuſpended, or hanged up, has been found to encreaſe or leſſen its height in the Tube, accordingly as the Weather alters for dry or wet; and therefore when ſet in a Frame, with a Plate of Diviſions, to ſhew the ſeveral Degrees, 'tis call'd the Mercurial Barometer, or Quick-Silver Weather-Glaſs.

Torrid, burning-hot; as The Torrid Zone. See Zone.

Torrified, roaſted, dried, parched; as Rhubarb Torrified: It was alſo formerly the uſual Way to Torrify Opium, or Roaſt it againſt the Fire, before any Medicinal Preparation was made with it.

Tort, (Fr.) a Word us'd in Common-Law for Injury or Wrong; as Deſ on tort Meſme, i. e. in his own Wrong. 'Tis properly derived from Tordre, to twiſt, or wreſt, becauſe Wrong is wreſted or crooked, being contrary to that which is right and ſtraight.

Tort-feaſor, a Wrong-doer, a Treſpaſſer.

Torteaures, (in Heraldry) certain round Figures like Cakes or Balls, which are Gules, or of a red Colour, and by ſome called Weſtels.

Tortoiſe. See Teſtudo and Chelone.

Tortuous, (Lat.) winding, turning in and out; as A Tortuous Figure, i. e. a Figure, one part of which goes round within another.

Torturable, capable of being tortured.

Torture, Rack, exquiſite Torment or Pain.

Torus, (Lat.) a Bed, a Rope or Cord for a Bed, a Wreath: In Architecture, Torus, Tore, or Thore, is a round Member, encompaſſing the Baſe of a Pillar between the Plinth and the Liſt, which reſembles the ſhape of a great Ring, or of a round Cuſhion, ſwelling out as it were with the weight of the Pillar lying on it.

Tory, an Iriſh Robber, or Bog-trotter: Alſo a Nick-name given to the ſtanch Royaliſts, or High-flyers, in the Time of King Charles II. and James II.

Total, (Lat.) whole, entire, utter.

Total Eclipſe. See Eclipſe.

Total Proſtaphæreſis. See Equation Aſtronomical.

Totality, the Total, or whole Summ.

Totanus, (Lat.) the Pool-Snipe; a ſort of Water-Fowl.

Totted, a Term us'd in the Exchequer, when the foreign Oppoſer, or other Officer, has noted a good Debt to the Queen as ſuch, by writing the Word Tot to it.

To Totter, to ſhake, to ſtagger or reel.

Totteray, a cuſtomary Payment of four Pence, formerly made for every Buſhel and a half of Corn, ſold at Maldon in Eſſex: This Word ſhould be expreſs'd Tolteray, or Toll-tray.

Totum, a Whirl-bone, a kind of Die that is turned about.

Touch, feeling, a ſtroke in Painting, a witty Expreſſion, a tryal of Gold or Silver: In Muſick, an Organ or Harpſichord is ſaid To have a good Touch, when the Keys lie down, and are neither too looſe nor too ſtiff.

Touch the Wind, a Phraſe us'd at Sea, when the Steers-man at the Helm is bid to keep the Ship as near the Wind as may be.

Touch-hole, (in Gunnery) the hole of any Piece to give Fire to it.

Touch-Stone, a black ſhining Stone, which ſerves to try Gold and Silver.

Tovet or Tofet, a Meaſure of half a Buſhel or two Pecks.

Tour, (Fr.) Travel or Journey about a Country; as To make the Tour of France.

Tournament. See Turnament.

Tournelle, a Court for Criminal Cauſes belonging to the Parliaments of France.

Tourniquet, a Turn-Still: Alſo the Gripe-ſtick us'd by Surgeons in cutting off an Arm, &c.

Tourte, (in Cookery) a kind of Paſtry-work, bak'd in a Pan; a Pie.

Tout temps priſt & uncore eſt, (i. e. that is always ready, and is ſo at this preſent) a kind of Plea, by way of Excuſe or Defence, for one that is ſued for any Debt or Duty belonging to the Plaintiff.

Tow, the hard, or the courſe Part of Hemp and Flax.

To Tow, to hale a Ship or Barge along the Water, with Ropes drawn by Men or Beaſts on Land; or elſe by means of another Veſſel, or of ſome Engine: Alſo among Sea-men whatever is drawn after a Ship or Boat, with Ropes, &c. is ſaid To be towed after her, or To be in her Tow.

Towage, the Act of towing or drawing after ſuch a manner: Alſo that Money, or other Recompence, which is given by Barge-men, to the Owner of the Ground next a River, where they tow a Barge or other Veſſel.

Tower, a Caſtle, a Citadel or Fort.

The Tower of London, is not only a ſtrong Fort, but alſo a Noble Palace, in which our Kings with their Court have ſometimes Lodged, and a Royal Arſenal: Where are Arms and Ammunition for 60000 Men; the Treaſury for the Jewels and Ornaments of the Engliſh Crown; the general Mint for Coining Gold and Silver; the great Archive or Place for keeping the ancient Records of the Courts of Weſtminſter, and the chief Priſon for Confinement of Perſons of Quality that are Criminals in Matters of State.

Hollow Tower, (in Fortif.) a Rounding made of the remainder of two Briſures, to joyn the Courtin to the Orillon; where the Small-Shot are plac'd that they may not be too much expos'd to the Enemies View.

Town, a large ſpace of Ground, on which Houſes are built, inhabited by Men, and encompaſs'd with Walls.

Town-Major. See Major.

Townſhip. See Rhandix.

Towrus, (among Hunters) a Roe-Buck, eager for Copulation, is ſaid To go to his Towrus.

To Towz, to tug or pull about; to tumble, ruffle, or rumple.

To Towz or Toze Wooll, is to Card or dreſs it.

Toxica, (Gr.) poiſonous Drugs, with which Barbarians uſe to anoint their Arrows.

Topliardus, (in old Latin Records) a Weather-Sheep or Ram.

Tozy, ſoft like Wooll.

Trabeation, (Lat. in Architect.) the ſame as Entablature; viz. the Projecture on the top of the Walls of Buildings, which ſupports the Timber-work of the Roof.

Trabs, a Beam of a Houſe, any great piece of Timber; alſo a Meteor or Impreſſion in the Air like a Beam.

Trace, (among Hunters) the Foot-print of wild Beaſts.

To Trace, to follow by the Footing, to diſcover or find out by the Foot-ſteps; to make the Draught of a Building or Fortification upon Paper, &c.

Traces, the Tracks of ravenous Beaſts; as Wolves, wild Boars, &c. alſo the Harneſs of Draught-horſes.

Trachea, (Gr.) the Weaſand or Wind-Pipe, that conveys Air to the Lungs.

Trachelagra, the Gout in the Neck.

Trachelium, the Herb Throat-wort, which is of a binding and drying Quality, good for Ulcers and Inflammations of the Mouth.

Trachina, the Banſtickle; a Fiſh.

Trachomia, a ſcab or roughneſs of the inner part of the Eye-lid.

Trachomaticum, a ſort of Medicine for the Eyes.

Trachurus, the Mother of Anchovies, a Fiſh like a ſmall Herring, armed on both Sides with Prickles from the Head to the Tail.

Track, a Foot-print or Foot-ſtep, the rut of a Coach-wheel, the run of a Ship, a Mark that remains of any thing.

Tract, (Lat.) an extent of Ground, or of a Country, a ſpace of Time; a ſmall Treatiſe or Diſcourſe: Among Huntſmen, the footing of a wild Boar.

Tractable, that may be eaſily managed, or ordered; gentle, pliant.

Tractate, a Tract, or Treatiſe.

Trade, a Mechanick Art, Profeſſion, Employment, Dealing; Life, or Way of living.

Trade-Wind, a Wind that blows regularly at Sea, at certain Seaſons of the Year, and ſerves to promote trading Voyages. See Monſoon.

Tradition, the ſucceſſive delivery of Doctrines, Opinions, &c. by Word of Mouth, from Age to Age; as The Traditions of the Jewiſh Rabbins, of the Church of Rome, &c.

Traditional or Traditionary, belonging to, received by, or grounded upon Tradition.

Traditioniſt, one that ſtands for Tradition.

Traditor, (Lat.) a Traytor: Among the Primitive Chriſtians, one that gave up his Bible in time of Perſecution.

To Traduce, to defame, diſparage, or ſlander; to ſpeak ill of one undeſervedly.

† Traduction, a tranſlating, or turning out of one Language into another.

Traffick, (Fr.) ſale or exchange of Goods or Merchandizes; Trade, Trading.

To Traffick, to buy and ſell, to deal as a Merchant or Tradeſman: It is us'd Figuratively in an ill Senſe, for trading in Simoniacal Contracts, and making an unlawful Gain of Spiritual Things.

Trafine, an Inſtrument invented by Mr. Woodall the Surgeon, which being for the ſame Uſe as the Trepan, performs the Operation more advantageouſly, and with much greater Diſpatch.

Tragacanth, (Gr. i. e. Goats-thorn) a certain Gum that iſſues from a Shrub of the ſame Name, and is of great Uſe in Phyſick.

Trageæ, (in Pharmacy) a ſort of Medicinal Powders, ſome of which are put into a Linnen-Bag, and then into Wine or other Liquor, in order to be apply'd to ſeveral Parts of the Body: Others being compounded of Antidotes or Counter-poiſons and other Simples, are taken inwardly.

Tragedian, a Writer or Actor of Tragedies.

Tragedy, a ſort of Dramatick Poem, that repreſents ſome ſignal and extraordinary Actions performed by Illuſtrious Perſons; being cloſed for the moſt part, with ſome mournful and fatal End: It is ſo call'd from the Greek Words Tragos, a Goat, and Ode, a Song, becauſe the Actors anciently receiv'd a Goat for their Reward, or elſe a Veſſel made of Goat's-Skin filled with Wine. Tragedy is alſo Figuratively taken for a ſad and diſmal Accident; a fatal Event, or Iſſue.

Tragelaphus, a Beaſt with a Beard, and ſhaggy Hair like a Goat, but otherwiſe like a Stag; the Goat-Deer, or Goat-Hart, which is often found in the Foreſts of Bohemia.

Tragemata, Junkets, or Sweet-Meats; alſo certain Medicinal Powders, the ſame as Trageæ.

Tragical or Tragick, belonging to Tragedies; great, lofty; alſo diſaſtrous, ſad, cruel.

Tragick Poet, one well ſkill'd in the writing of Tragedies.

Tragi-Comedy, a Play that is half Tragedy and half Comedy.

Tragicomical, belonging to ſuch a Play.

Tragium, a ſhrub like Juniper, whoſe Leaves in Autumn ſtink like a Goat; alſo the Herb white Dittany.

Tragonatum, an Herb call'd Wild Campion.

Tragonia, the Herb Tarragon.

Tragopanas, a Bird in Ethiopia, that is larger than an Eagle, and has Horns like a Goat.

Tragopogon, Goats-beard, a Plant, the Root of which boil'd, is counted delicate Food, and it is alſo us'd raw in Sallets.

Tragopyrum, a kind of Buck-Wheat, or Bollimong.

Tragorchis, the Herb Rag-wort.

Tragoriganum, Goats-Organy, an Herb.

Tragos or Tragus, a Male-Goat; alſo the Shrub Wood-bind or Honey-ſuckle; alſo a kind of Corn, like Wheat, hard of Digeſtion.

In Anatomy, Tragus or Hircus, is a Protuberance or Knob on the in-ſide of the Ear, next the Temple, ſo call'd, becauſe it is ſometimes hairy: Whence another Knob oppoſite to it, and to which the ſoft Lobe of the Ear is joyn'd, is termed Antitragus.

Trajectitious, as Trajectitious Money or Wares, i. e. Caſh or Goods carried over Sea, at the Peril of the Creditor.

Trajectory of a Comet, is the Line which it deſcribes by its Motion.

To Trail, to draw or drag along, to hang on the Ground.

Trail-Board, (in a Ship) is a carved Board on each Side of her Beak, reaching from the main Stem to the Figure, or to the Brackets.

Train, (Fr.) the Attendance of a great Perſon, the Trail of a Gown or Robe of State; a Trap, or Wheedle: In Falconry, the Tail of a Hawk: Among Artificers, it is taken for the Number of Beats that a Watch makes in an Hour, or any other certain Time.

Train of Artillery, the whole ſet of great Guns and warlike Stores, belonging to an Army.

Train of Gun-powder, a Line of Powder ſo laid, as to convey the firſt to a greater Quantity, without hurting him that ſets it on Fire.

To Train or Train up, to bring up, to inſtruct, eſpecially in Military Diſcipline: Whence the ſettled Militia of the Kingdom are call'd The train'd Bands.

Trainel-Net, the ſame as Trammel.

Traitor. See Traytor.

Tramel or Trammel, a Drag-Net, a ſort of Fiſhing-Net: It is alſo taken in many Places for an Iron moveable Inſtrument in Chimneys, to hang Pots over the Fire.

Tramontane (Ital.) the North-Wind, ſo call'd in Italy, and on the Mediterranean Sea; becauſe it blows from beyond the Mountains which bound that Country.

To Trample upon, to tread under Foot, to reject with Scorn, to deſpiſe.

Trance, a tranſport or raviſhment of the Mind, which puts a Man beſides himſelf, and hinders the Functions of the Senſes for a time.

Tranche, a Word us'd by the French Armoriſts, to denote a particular manner of Counterchanging in an Eſcutcheon, which among our Engliſh Heralds is expreſs'd thus, Per Pale Argent and Azure, per Bend Counterchanged.

To Tranſact, (Lat.) to diſpatch, or manage Affairs; to covenant, treat, or agree; to article, or enter into Articles.

Tranſaction, a tranſacting or diſpatching of Buſineſs, a Paſſage or a Thing in Hand; Agreement, Articles.

Tranſalpine, that lies or lives on the other Side of the Mountains call'd The Alps, as The Tranſalpine Countries, Nations, &c.

To Tranſcend, to ſurpaſs, or go beyond.

Tranſcendency, Excellency.

Tranſcendent, extraordinary, lofty, excellent, admirable. In Logick, ſurpaſſing the Predicaments.

Tranſcendental Curves, (in Mathem.) are ſuch Curves, as when their Nature or Property comes to be expreſs'd by an Equation, one of the variable or flowing Quantities there, denotes a Curve or crooked Line; and when ſuch Curve Line is a Geometrick one, or one of the firſt Degree or Kind, then the Tranſcendental Curve is ſaid To be of the Second Degree or Kind, &c.

Tranſcendental Quantity. See Quantity.

† To Tranſcolate, to ſtrain thorough.

To Tranſcribe, to write, or Copy out.

Tranſcript, the Duplicate, or Copy of an Original Writing; as The Tranſcript of a Fine.

Tranſcription, the Act of Tranſcribing, or Copying.

Tranſcripto pedis finis levati mittendo in Cancellariam, is a Writ for certifying the Foot of a Fine levied before a Juſtice in Eyre, &c. into the Chancery.

Tranſcripto Recognitionis factæ coram Juſticiariis itinerantibus, &c. a Writ for the certifying of a Recogniſance taken before Juſtices in Eyre into the Chancery.

Tranſcurſion, a paſſing from one Place to another; as The tranſcurſion of a Comet.

To Transfer, to remove, or convey from one Place to another; to poſt from one part of a Book, or Writing to another, to commit the Management of a Buſineſs to another Perſon.

Transfiguration, the changing of one Figure, or Shape into another.

Transfigured, that has its Shape changed; as When Jeſus came to be Transfigured; which nevertheleſs cannot be properly ſaid of our Bleſſed Saviour, whoſe Transfiguration, was rather the putting on an exceeding Splendour, or Brightneſs, which made his Face ſhine as the Sun, and his Garment look as white as Snow.

To Transform, to turn or change from one Form, or Shape to another.

Transformation, the Act of Transforming.

Transformation of an Equation, (in Algebra) the changing of any Equation into one that is more eaſy.

Transfretation, the paſſing over a River, or croſſing the Sea.

To Transfuſe, to pour out of one Veſſel into another.

Transfuſion, the Act of Transfuſing.

Transfuſion of the Blood, a late Anatomical Invention experimented by the Royal Society, for conveying the Blood of one Living-Creature into the Body of another.

To Tranſgreſs, properly to paſs over, or go beyond the due Bounds, to treſpaſs upon a Law, or Order.

Tranſgreſſion, the Act of Tranſgreſſing, or committing a Treſpaſs, particularly a ſinning againſt the Commands of God, or the Church.

Tranſgreſſione, a Writ commonly call'd a Writ, or Action of Treſpaſs, of which there are two ſorts, one Vicontiel, ſo nam'd becauſe it is directed to the Sheriff and muſt be determined in the County: The other is termed a Writ of Treſpaſs upon the Caſe, which is to be ſued in the Queen's Bench.

Tranſient. See Tranſitory.

Tranſire, (Lat.) a Word us'd in the Statutes for a Warrant, or Let-paſs; from Tranſeo, to go, or paſs over.

Tranſit, a Paſs, or liberty to paſs; as He gave him his Tranſit: In Aſtronomy, it ſignifies the paſſing of any Planet juſt by, or under any fixed Star, or of the Moon, when ſhe covers or moves cloſe by any other Planet: In Aſtrology, Tranſits are certain Familiarities of the Stars gain'd by their Motion thro' remarkable Places of the Radical Figure of a Perſon's Nativity.

Tranſition, a Rhetorical Figure that conſiſts in paſſing from one Subject to another; the ſame as Metabaſis; which See.

In Muſick, Tranſition is when a greater Note is broken into a leſſer, to make ſmooth or ſweeten the roughneſs of a Leap; ſo as to paſs by Degrees to the Note next following: It is commonly call'd the breaking of a Note, and is ſometimes very neceſſary in Muſical Compoſitions.

Tranſitory or Tranſient, that ſoon paſſes away; fleeting, fading, periſhing.

To Tranſlate, to render, or turn out of one Language into another; to transfer, or remove from one Place to another.

Tranſlation, that which is tranſlated into another Language: In a Law-ſenſe, the Removal of a Biſhop from one Dioceſs to another; ſo that ſuch a Biſhop does not write Anno Conſecrationis, but Anno Tranſlationis noſtræ.

Tranſlation of Light and Nature, a Phraſe us'd by Aſtrologers, when a light Planet ſeparates from a more weighty one, and preſently joyns another more heavy; as ſuppoſe Saturn in 20 Degrees of Aries, Mars in 15 Degr. of Aries, and Mercury in 16 Degr. of the ſame Sign; here Mercury being a ſwift Planet ſeparates from Mars, and tranſlates his Virtue to Saturn.

† Tranſlucid, that ſhines through.

Tranſmarine, that comes from, or is of the Parts beyond Sea.

Tranſmeation, a paſſing through.

To Tranſmigrate, to paſs from one Place, or Body to another.

Tranſmigration, a tranſmigrating, or removing one's Habitation from one Place to another: In Philoſophy, it ſignifies the paſſing of departed Souls out of one Body into another, whether of the ſame or different kinds; which Opinion Pythagoras and his Followers are ſaid to have held.

Tranſmiſſion, a tranſmitting, or delivering over.

To Tranſmit, to convey, to deliver or make over.

Tranſmotio, (Lat.) a Rhetorical Figure, whereby the Oratour removes the imputation of any thing from himſelf: It is otherwiſe call'd Variatio and Tranſitus; as alſo Metaſtaſis, or Metabaſis in Greek.

Tranſmutable, capable of being tranſmuted, or changed.

Tranſmutation, the Act of Tranſmuting or Changing. In Chymiſtry, it is defined to be a changing the Subſtance, Quality, or Colour of Mixt Bodies; and of this Tranſmutation there are ſeven ſeveral Kinds, or Degrees, viz. Calcination, Sublimation, Solution, Putrifaction, Diſtillation, Coagulation and Tincture; which See under thoſe Articles.

In Geometry, Tranſmutation is a Science which ſhews how to reduce or change one Figure, or Body into another of the ſame Area, or Solidity, but of a different Form; as To change a Cone into a Pyramid, a Pyramid into a Parallelopiped, a Triangle into a Square, &c.

Tranſmutation of Metals, (among Alchymiſts) is what they call the Grand Operation, or Secret of finding the Philoſophers-Stone, which they give out to be ſo curious an Univerſal Seed of all Metals, That if any Metal be melted in a Crucible, and then a little of this Stone, or Powder of Projection be put into the melted Metal, 'twill (as they pretend) immediately change it into Gold, or Silver.

To Tranſmute, to change one Matter, or Subſtance into another; as To tranſmute Iron into Copper.

Tranſnominatio. See Metonymia.

Tranſom, an overthwart Beam, or Brow-Poſt: Alſo the Vane of a Mathematical Inſtrument call'd a Croſs-ſtaff, or a Wooden Member to be fixed a-croſs it, with a ſquare Socket, upon which it ſlides ſtiff upon the ſquare of the Croſs-ſtaff, and may be ſet to any Degree marked on it.

Tranſom or Tranſom-Piece, (in a Ship) is that main piece of Timber which lies a-croſs the Stern, between the two Faſhion-pieces, directly under the Gun-room Port, and lays out the Ship's Breadth at the Buttock.

Tranſparency, a being Tranſparent; thorough Brightneſs; as The tranſparency of precious Stones, Glaſs, &c. Alſo a Term in Heraldry, the ſame with Adumbration.

Tranſparent, that may be ſeen through, that affords a thorough Paſſage to the Rays of Light; very clear, or bright.

Tranſparent or Diaphanous Bodies, are ſuch whoſe Pores are all Right and nearly perpendicular to the Plane of their Surface, ſo as to let the Rays of Light paſs freely thro' them, without being refracted; and in that reſpect they differ from Opacous Bodies; which See.

Tranſpierced, pierced, or run thro'.

Tranſpiration, a breathing through; as of Vapours thro' the Pores of the Skin.

To Tranſpire, to be breathed forth, or to come out after ſuch a manner.

To Tranſplant, to plant in another Place, to remove a Colony or Company of People from one Country, or City to another.

Tranſplantation, the Act of Tranſplanting; the removing of Plants, Trees, or People from one Place to another: In Natural Magick, the removing of a Diſeaſe from one Creature to another, or from a Living-Creature to a Plant.

Tranſport, a violent motion of the Paſſions, a ſudden Sally; an Ecſtaſy, or Trance.

To Tranſport, to convey, or carry over to another Place; to carry, or put beſides one's ſelf.

Tranſport-Ship, a Veſſel to convey Paſſengers, Proviſions, &c.

Tranſportable, that may be tranſported.

Tranſportation, Tranſporting, Carriage from one Place to another.

To Tranſpoſe, to put out of its proper Place, to change the Order, to miſplace.

Tranſpoſition, a tranſpoſing, inverting, or changing the Order of Things.

Tranſpoſition of Equations, (in Algebra) is the putting over any quantity to the other Side of the Sign of Equality, with a contrary Sign to what it had before: Thus, ſuppoſe $a - 10 = 40$ then $a = 40 + 10$, i. e. 50.

To Tranſproſe, to turn out of Verſe into Proſe, to change, or alter the Style.

Tranſubſtantiated, changed into another Subſtance.

Tranſubſtantiation, (i. e. a change of one Subſtance into another) a Word abſurdly coined by the Papiſts, to ſignify a no leſs monſtrous Tenet, viz. a changing of the Elements of Bread and Wine, in the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper into the real Body and Blood of Chriſt.

Tranſubſtantiator, one that holds the Doctrine of Tranſubſtantiation.

To Tranſvaſate, to pour out of one Veſſel into another.

Tranſver[illegible]s Abdominis, (in Anat.) one of the Muſcles of the Abdomen, or Lower Belly, ſo nam'd becauſe its Fibres run a-croſs the Belly, and its Uſe is to preſs it exactly inward in Expiration, or ſending forth the Breath.

Tranſverſalis Colli, a Muſcle of the Neck, which ariſes from all the tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Neck, except the firſt and ſecond, and is inſerted to their upper Spines: By the acting of this Muſcle, the Vertebræ of the Neck are moved obliquely backwards, as when a Perſon looks over one Shoulder.

Tranſverſalis Dorſi. See Semi-ſpinatus.

Tranſverſalis Lumborum. See Sacer.

Tranſverſalis Pedis, a Muſcle of the Foot, ſo call'd from its Tranſverſe Situation: It takes riſe from the inner Os Seſamoides of the Great Toe, and is implanted to the lower part of the Metatarſal Bone, which ſupports the Toe next the leſſer; its Uſe being to bring the leſſer Toe towards the Greater.

Tranſverſalis Penis, a pair of Muſcles that ſpring near the Erectores Penis, and thence paſs Tranſverſely to their Inſertions at the upper Part of the Bulb of the cavernous or hollow Body of the Urethra.

Tranſverſalis Sutura, a Suture, or Seam of the Scull, which runs a-croſs the Face, and paſſes tranſverſely from one Temple to another, over the Root of the Noſe; ſo as to joyn the Os Frontis and the Sinciput: 'Tis the firſt of the real Sutures, and is uſually call'd Coronalis.

Tranſverſe, that goes a-thwart, or a-croſs, croſſing.

Tranſverſe Axis or Diameter. See Latus Rectum.

Tranſverſe Muſcles, (in Anat.) certain Muſcles that ariſe from the tranſverſe Proceſſes of the Vertebræ of the Loins, and from the Griſtly Bone call'd Ilium.

Tranſverſe Muſcle of the Shoulder, is the ſame with Rotundus, or the round Muſcle.

Tranters. See Ripiers.

Trantery, a Term us'd in ſome Manours, eſpecially thoſe of Hereford-ſhire, for the Money ariſing by Fines laid upon Ale-ſellers, and Victuallers, for breaking the Aſſize of Bread, and Ale.

To Trape, to go idly up and down.

Trapes, a meer Slattern, a dirty Slut.

Trapeza, (Gr.) a Table, a Banker's or Money-changer's Table.

Trapezium, (in Geom.) a Quadrilateral, or Square Figure, whoſe four Sides and Angles are not equal, but two of its Sides are parallel.

Trapezius, (in Anat.) a Muſcle of the Shoulder-blade, which ſerves to move it upwards, downwards and backwards: It takes Name from its Shape, and is otherwiſe call'd Cucullaris; which See.

Trapezoid, a Geometrical Figure that has all its four Sides and Angles unequal, and no Sides parallel.

Travado, a ſort of Whirl-wind, or ſudden and moſt impetuous Storm at Sea; ſuch as often ariſe on the Coaſts of Guinea, and are ſo termed by the Portugueſe.

To Travas. See To Traverſe a Piece.

Trave, Travel or Traviſe, a Place encloſed with Rails, to ſhooe an unruly Horſe in.

Travee, (Fr.) a Bay of Joiſts, the ſpace between two Beams.

Traves, a kind of Shackles for a Horſe that is taught to amble, or pace.

Travel, Pains; alſo the Pangs, or Labour of a Woman in Child-birth.

Travels, Journeys, Voyages; or a Book giving a particular Account of ſuch Voyages.

To Travel, to take Pains, to go, or to be upon a Journey; to paſs thro' ſeveral Countries.

Travellers Joy, a ſort of Herb.

Travelling Baroſcope. See Portable Barometer.

Travelly. See Reveiller.

Traverſe, (Sea-Word) the Way of a Ship, when ſhe makes Angles in and out, and cannot keep to her true Courſe; as To Sail by Traverſe: In Navigation, it is taken for the Variation or Alteration of the Ship's Courſe, upon the ſhifting of Winds, &c. See To caſt a Point of Traverſe.

In Fortification, Traverſe is a little Trench bordered with two Parapets or Breaſt-works, one on the right Side, and the other on the left, which the Beſiegers make quite a-croſs the Moat of the Place, to paſs ſecure from Flank-ſhot, and to bring the Miners to the Baſtion: The Word is alſo now often us'd for any Retrenchment, or Line fortify'd with Faggots, Barrels; Bags, or Baskets filled with Earth, &c. See Coffer. Alſo a Term in Maſonry and Joyners-Work. See Chambranle.

In Heraldry, Traverſe is a ſort of Partition made a-croſs an Eſcutcheon, and uſually expreſſed in theſe Terms: Parted per Pale Traverſe, Argent and Gules.

To Traverſe, to go croſs or through a Country, &c. to croſs, or thwart: In a Law-ſenſe, to oppoſe, to overthrow, or quaſh; to deny any part of the Matter, with which one is charged, to put the Proof of it on the Plaintiff's Part.

To Traverſe an Indictment, is to take Iſſue upon the chief Matter, and to contradict or deny ſome Point of it.

To Traverſe an Office, is to prove that an Inquiſition made of Lands or Goods by the Eſcheator is defective and untruely made.

To Traverſe a Yard. See Yards or Sail-Yards.

To Traverſe or Travas a Piece of Ordinance, (in Gunnery) is to turn it upon its Platform any Way at Pleaſure.

To Traverſe one's Ground, (in Fighting) is to go this Way and that Way.

Traverſed Horſe, (in Horſemanſhip) is a Horſe that has two White Feet on either Side.

Traverſe-Board, a little round Board hanged up in the Steerage of a Ship, and bored full of Holes upon Lines ſhewing the Points of the Compaſs; ſo that by moving a little Peg from Hole to Hole, the Steerſman keeps an Account how many Glaſſes, i. e. Half-hours the Ship ſteers upon any Point.

Traverſe-Table, a Paper, on which are ſet down the Traverſes, or various Courſes of the Ship, with the Points of the Compaſs, Diſtances, alteration of Winds, &c. ſo as to frame a Judgment of the Way ſhe makes.

Traverſes, Turnings and Windings: In a Figurative Senſe, Croſſes, Croſs Accidents, Troubles, Vexations.

Traverſes or Coudees, (in Fortif.) are Lines that return back from the end of the Trenches, and run almoſt parallel with the Place attacked.

Traverſing the Piece, (among Sea-men) is the removing and laying a Piece of Ordinance or great Gun, in order to bring it to bear, or lie level with the Mark.

Traveſted, (i. e. dreſs'd in the Habit of a different Sex) diſguis'd: It is more eſpecially apply'd to an Author, when his Senſe and Style is alter'd; as the Poems of Ovid and Virgil traveſted, i. e. turn'd into Burleſk Verſe.

Traviſe. See Trave.

Trauliſmus, (Gr.) a ſtammering Repetition of the firſt Syllable or Letter of a Word; as Tu Tu Tutullius for Tullius.

Traulotes, a ſtammering in Speech, when one cannot diſtinctly pronounce ſome Letters, eſpecially L and R.

Trauma, a Wound, Overthrow, Deſtruction, great Slaughter.

Traumatick, belonging to, or good for the curing of Wounds.

Traumaticks, Decoctions and Potions that fetch the ſerous and ſharp Humours out of the Body, and ſo thin the Bloud that it may be conveniently driven to the wounded, broken, or bruiſed Parts: Any Herbs or Drugs that are effectual in the healing of Wounds, and otherwiſe call'd Vulnerary.

Trawler-Men, a ſort of Fiſher-Men that us'd unlawful Arts and Engines, to deſtroy the Fiſh upon the River Thames; among whom ſome were ſtyl'd Hebber-men, others Tinckermen, Peter-men, &c.

Trayl-Baſton. See Juſtices of Trayl-Baſton.

Trayterous, (Fr.) belonging to a Traytor, Traytor-like.

Trayterous Poſition, a Tenet which ſome formerly held, for taking Arms by the King's Authority againſt his Perſon and thoſe that are Commiſſioned by him, which is Condemned by Stat. 14 Car. 2.

Traytor, a Betrayer of his King and Country, one that is guilty of High Treaſon; a falſe-hearted, treacherous Wretch.

Trecherous, Diſloyal, Unfaithful, Deceitful.

Treachery, Unfaithfulneſs, Diſloyalty, Falſehood.

Treacle, a Phyſical Compoſition, made of Vipers and other Ingredients.

Treaſon, Diſloyalty, Treachery, perfidious Dealing.

High Treaſon or Treaſon Paramount, an Offence againſt the Security of the King, Queen, or Common-Wealth, whether it be by Imagination, Word, or Deed; as to compaſs the Death of the King, Queen, or Prince, to raiſe War againſt them, to take part with their Enemies, to Coin or utter falſe Money, &c.

Petty Treaſon, is when a Wife kills her Husband, or a Servant his Maſter; alſo when a Layman or a Clergy-man kills his Biſhop or Superiour, to whom he owes Faithfulneſs and Obedience.

Treaſonable, belonging to Treaſon, Trayterous.

Treaſure, ſtore of Gold, Silver, or Jewels, Riches hoarded up; it is Figuratively taken for a thing of great Value and Excellence.

Treaſure-Trove, Money, Plate, or Bullion, which being found in any Place and not owned, belongs to the Queen, or to ſome other Perſon claiming by her Grant or by Preſcription: If any Mine or Metal be found in any Ground, it belongs to the Lord of the Soil, unleſs it be a Mine of Gold or Silver, which us'd to be always adjudged to the King, in whoſe Ground ſoever it be found; but by a late Act of Parliament the Queen has only the Preemption.

Treaſurer, an Officer that has the keeping, and laying out of the Treaſure belonging to a Soveraign Prince, State, or Corporation.

The Lord High Treaſurer of England, a great Officer who has the Charge and Management of all the Queen's Wealth contained in the Exchequer, as alſo the Check of all Officers employed in collecting Impoſts, Tributes, or other Revenues belonging to the Crown.

Treaſurer of the Queen's Houſehold, an Officer who is of the Privy-Council, and in the abſence of the Steward of the Queen's Houſehold, has Power with the Controller and Steward of the Marſhalſea, to hear and determine Cauſes about Treaſons, Miſpriſions of Treaſon, Murders, &c. committed within the Queen's Palace.

Treaſurer of the Navy. See Navy.

Treaſurer in Cathedral Churches, a Dignitary, who was to take charge of the Veſtments, Plate, Jewels, Relicks, and other Treaſure belonging to ſuch a Church. This Office is taken away as needleſs in ſome Cities, but ſtill continues in London and Salisbury.

Treaſury, a Place where the Publick Treaſure is laid up; alſo the Treaſury-Office.

Lords of the Treaſury, certain Perſons of Honour appointed as Commiſſioners to execute the Office of Treaſurer of England, when it is not committed to a ſingle Perſon.

Clerk of the Treaſury, an Officer in the Common Pleas, who has the charge of keeping the Records of that Court, and makes out all thoſe of Niſi Prius, as alſo all Exemplifications or Copies of Records in the Treaſury Treat, Entertainment.

Treat or Treate, (Law-word) taken out, or withdrawn; as The Juror was challenged, becauſe he could not diſpend forty Pounds, and for that cauſe he was Treat.

To Treat, to give a Treat or Entertainment, to entertain, to uſe or deal with, to handle or diſcourſe of a Subject, to be upon a Treaty or Bargain, to compound for a Debt.

Treatiſe, a Diſcourſe upon ſome particular Subject.

Treatment, Entertainment, Uſage.

Treaty, a Covenant, or Agreement, eſpecially ſuch as are made between different Nations or States, for Peace, Traffick, Navigation, &c.

Treble, threefold: Alſo the laſt or higheſt of the four Parts in Muſick.

Trebuchet or Tribuch, (old Word) a Tumbrel, or Ducking-ſtool.

Tredecile, (in Aſtron.) one of Kepler's new Aſpects, when two Planets are diſtant three Deciles or 108 Degrees one from another.

Treenels or Trenels, (q. Tree-nails) certain long wooden Pins made of the heart of Oak, with which the Planks in a Ship are faſten'd to the Timbers; and they always have Oakam driven into them, to prevent any Leak.

Trees and Shrubs, are diſtinguiſh'd by Herbaliſts into Bacciferous, Coniferous, Lanigerous, Nuciferous, Pomiferous, Pruniferous ones, &c. which See in their proper Places.

Treet, an old Word for Wheat. In Stat. 5. H. 3. Bread of Treet ſeems to be that ſort of Bread which was made of fine Wheat.

Trefoil, an Herb commonly call'd Three-leaved Graſs; of which there are ſeveral Sorts; as Heart-trefoil, Meadow-trefoil, Pearl-trefoil, &c.

Trellis, (Fr.) a Lattice, or Grate, Croſs-bars; alſo Cloth, otherwiſe call'd Buckram.

Trelliſed, lattiſed, grated with Wood.

Tremagium, Tremeſium, or Tremiſium, (in old Latin Records) the Seaſon for ſowing Summer-Corn; as Barley, Oats, Beans, &c. about March, the third Month, to which the Word may poſſibly allude: It was commonly oppos'd to Hibernagium, i. e. the Seaſon for ſowing Winter-Corn.

Tremella, Tremeuta, or Treumia, the Hopper of a Mill, into which the Corn is put, to fall thence to the Grinding-Stones; from the French Word Tremie of the ſame Signification.

Tremendous, that is much to be feared, dreadful.

Tremiſſis, or Golden Triens, a Roman Gold-Coin worth five Shillings Sterling.

Tremor, (Lat.) a trembling, ſhaking, or ſhivering, which happens when the voluntary Motion of a Part is depraved; Alſo an Earthquake.

Tren, an Inſtrument ſomewhat like an Eel-ſpear, with which Mariners ſtrike and kill Fiſh at Sea.

Trench, (Fr.) any Ditch, or Cut made in the Earth.

In Fortification, Trenches are Works carry'd on by the Beſiegers, either cut into the Ground, when it may be eaſily open'd, or elſe raiſed above it when rocky, with Bavins, Wooll-packs, Bags or Baskets, filled with Earth, &c. ſo that the Men may gain ground, and draw near the beſieged Place under Covert. Trenches, are alſo taken for ſuch Lines as are cut to defend and cover an Army incamped in the Field.

To Open the Trenches, is to begin to dig, or work upon the Line of Approaches; which is generally done in the Night, ſometimes within Musket-ſhot, and ſometimes within half, or whole Cannon-ſhot of the Place.

To Carry on the Trenches, is to advance them towards the Place. To Mount the Trenches, is to go upon Duty in them. To Relieve the Trenches, is to relieve thoſe that have been upon Duty there, for ſome time.

To Trench about, to fence with Trenches.

To Trench the Ballaſt, (Sea-Phraſe) to divide the Ballaſt into ſeveral Parts in the Ship's Hold.

Trencher, a kind of Wooden Plate.

Trenchia, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Trench, or Dike, newly cut.

Trendel or Trendle, a ſort of Weight, or Poſt in a Mill: Alſo a flat Tub or Veſſel, otherwiſe call'd a Keever.

Trenels. See Treenels.

Trental, (among Roman Catholicks) an Office for the Dead, that continues thirty Days, or conſiſts of thirty Maſſes; from the Italian Word Trenta, i. e. Thirty.

Trepan or Trepand-Iron, an Inſtrument indented like a Saw, with which Surgeons open a broken Scull, and by means of a Levatory within it, raiſe up the Parts that are cruſhed and ſunk down, in order to take out pieces of Bone and clotted Bloud.

Trepan is alſo taken for a crafty Knave, a meer Sharper, or Cheat.

To Trepan, to apply the Trepan in Fractures of the Scull: Alſo to inſnare, eſpecially after ſuch a manner as is us'd by Strumpets and Ruffians; to catch in a Trap, to Decoy, to bring into a Premunire.

Trepidation, (Lat.) trembling.

Treſpaſs, Offence, Sin, Fault, Injury, Wrong: In a Law-Senſe, any Tranſgreſſion under Treaſon, Felony or Miſpriſion of either; but moſt commonly taken for that Wrong, or Dammage which is done to the Queen in her Foreſt, or by one private Perſon to another.

Treſpaſſants, a Word us'd by Britton, a noted Lawyer, for Paſſengers.

Treſſel-Trees, (in a Ship) thoſe Timbers of the Croſs-Trees that ſtand along fore and aft at the Heads of the Maſts, and have the feet of the Top-Maſts faſten'd into them. See Croſs-Trees.

Treſſes, (Fr.) Locks of Hair hanging down looſely.

Treſſis, (Lat.) the weight or value of three Aſſes or Farthings.

Treſſure, a Term us'd by Heralds for an Orle, when it is flowered; and if there be two of them, 'tis call'd a double Treſſure, See Orle.

Treſtle, a three-footed Stool, a wooden Frame to bear up Tables, Scaffolds, &c.

Treſtornare, (in old Latin Records) to divert, or turn another Way; as Treſtornare Viam, i. e. to turn the Road.

Tret, an Allowance made for the Waſte or Refuſe that may be mixt with any Commodity; as Duſt, Moats, &c. which is always 4 in every 104 Pounds. See Tare.

Trettles, the Dung of a Rabbet or Coney.

Trevet or Trivet, an Iron-Inſtrument with three or four Feet, to ſet a Pot or Sauce-pan on, over the Fire.

Trevia, Treuva or Treuga, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Truce, or Treaty of Peace.

Trey or Trey-Point, the number Three at Cards or Dice.

Tria Prima, (Lat.) the three Hypoſtatical Principles of the Chymiſts, viz. Salt, Sulphur, and Mercury, of which (as they pretend) all Mixt Bodies are compounded, and into which at laſt they may be reſolved by means of Fire.

Trial. See Tryal.

Triangle, (in Geom.) a Figure that has three Sides, and as many Angles; and it is either Plain or Spherical; the former is that whoſe Sides are Right Lines; and the latter has Curves or Crooked Lines for its Sides; as the Arches of Circles, &c.

A Plain Triangle, may be conſidered with reſpect to its Angles or Sides; as to its Angles it is either Right-Angled, Obtuſe-Angled, or Acute-Angled: And as to its Sides, it is either Equilateral, Iſoſceles, or Scalenous; all which See under thoſe reſpective Articles, Triangular, belonging to, or made in form of a Triangle; three-cornered.

Triangular Compaſſes, an Inſtrument with three Legs or Feet, to take off any Triangle at once, uſed on Maps, Globes, &c.

Triangular Quadrant, is a Sector with a looſe Piece to make it an Equilateral Triangle; having the Calendar graduated on it, with the Sun's Place, Declination, &c. It is an Inſtrument of great uſe in the Arts of Dialling, Navigation, and Surveying.

Triangulare Oſſiculum, (Lat. in Anat.) the ſmall Triangular Bone, which is plac'd between the Lambdoidal and Sagittal Sutures, or Seams of the Scull.

Triangularis, a Muſcle, which with its Partner lies on each ſide the Griſtle call'd Cartilago Enſiformis, within the Hollow of the Breaſt: It ariſes from the lower part of the Breaſt-bone, and is inſerted to the bony endings of the fourth, fifth, ſixth, and ſometimes ſeventh and eighth Ribbs, near the Place where they are joyn'd to their Cartilages, or Griſtles.

Triangulus Septentrionalis or Deltoton, the Triangle, a Northern Conſtellation, conſiſting of ſix Stars.

Triarii, one of the four Orders of the Roman Soldiers; the other three being the Velites, Haſtati and Principes: Theſe Triarii had their Poſt in the Rear of the Army, and were to aſſiſt in caſe of Hazard.

Tribe, a Kindred, or Company of People that dwell together in the ſame Ward, or Liberty; a Race, or Family. See Tribus.

The Tribes of Iſrael, Twelve diſtinct Families among the Jews, deſcended from the Patriarch Jacob's Twelve Sons.

Triblet, a Tool us'd by Goldſmiths in the working of Rings.

Tribrachus or Tribrachys, (Gr.) a Foot in Greek and Latin Verſe, conſiſting of three ſhort Syllables; as Pŏpŭlŭs.

Tribuch. See Trebuchet.

Tribulation, (Scripture-Word) great Trouble or Anguiſh, Affliction, Croſs, Adverſity.

Tribulus, (Gr.) a Thiſtle, or Bramble; alſo a Caltrop, or Iron-ſpike.

Tribunal, (Lat.) Judgment-Seat, Court of Juſtice, Juriſdiction.

Tribune, a Magiſtrate among the ancient Romans, having a conſiderable Juriſdiction, of whom there were ſeveral ſorts, viz.

Tribuni Ærarii, Receivers General, or Officers who kept the Money deſigned for the Uſe of the War, in order to diſtribute it, as Occaſion requir'd, to the Quæſtors or Treaſurers of the Army.

Tribuni Celerum, the Captains of the Guards.

Tribuni Plebis, Tribunes of the People, certain Magiſtrates choſen from among the People, to defend their Liberties againſt the Power of the Nobles, and to hinder any Proceedings in the Senate, which they thought might be prejudicial to the Rights of the Commons: Theſe Tribunes were at firſt but two in Number like our London-Sheriffs, which was afterwards encreas'd to Ten.

Tribunus Cohortium Prætorianarum, the Tribune of the Pretorian Bands, much like our Captains of the Guard, whoſe Buſineſs it was to guard and attend upon the Emperour.

Tribunus Militum, a Military Tribune, an Officer who commanded in chief over a Body of Soldiers, the Maſter de Camp of a Roman Legion.

Tribus, a certain number of the People of Rome, who were diſtributed into ſeveral Diviſions: Theſe Tribes, or Wards being at firſt but three in Number, in proceſs of Time were encreaſed to Thirty five, and every one of them was ſubdivided into Ten Curiæ, or Pariſhes.

Tributary, that pays Tribute.

Tribute, is what a Prince, or State pays to another, as a token of Dependance; an Impoſition laid upon a ſubdued Country by the Conquerour; an Aſſeſſment, or Tax.

Trica Incuborum, a Diſeaſe among the Polanders. See Plica.

Tricennalia, (in old Writers) Trentals, Maſſes ſaid for the Dead, during thirty Days, or one Month after their Deceaſe.

Tricennial, belonging to the Term of Thirty Years.

Triceps, (Lat.) having three Heads, or three-headed. In Anatomy, a Muſcle of the Thigh, ſo nam'd from its three Heads, or Beginnings: The firſt and largeſt of which ariſing from the lower Edges of the Os Iſchium, and Os Pubis, or Share-bone, is let into the Linea Aſpera of the Thigh-bone, immediately below the Inſertion of the Quadratus Femoris: The Second Head takes riſe from the Share-bone, and joyns with the former, near its implantation at the middle part of the Linea Aſpera: The third and laſt Beginning of this Muſcle ſprings from the lower part of the Share-bone, and is likewiſe inſerted to the Linea Aſpera, immediately above the end of the Second Head of the ſame Muſcle.

Triceps Auris. See Retrahens Auriculam.

Triceſſis, the weight of thirty Pounds, or a Roman Coin of 30 Aſſes, value 1 s. 10 d. ob. Sterling.

Trichas, (Gr.) the Field-fare, a Bird.

Trichias, a kind of Fiſh, like a Sardine, or Sprat.

Trichiaſis or Trichoſis, a growing of much Hair: Alſo an hairy Urine, ſuch as Hairs ſeem to ſwim in, caus'd by Phlegmatick Humours: Alſo a fault in the Eye-lids, when there is a double row of Hairs. See Phalangoſis.

Trichiſmus, (in Surgery) a very ſmall Fracture or breaking of a Bone, like a Hair.

Trichitis, a ſort of Allum with thin Hairs, or Strings.

Trichomanes, the Herb Maiden-hair, or Goldilocks.

Trichophyllon, an Herb reſembling Fennel, whoſe Leaves are like Hairs; Coralline.

Trichoron, (in Architect.) a Building with three Lodgings, or Stories.

Trichrus, a precious Stone of three ſeveral Colours, black at bottom, bloud-red in the middle, and white at top.

To Trickle or Trickle down, to fall or run down in ſmall Drops.

Tricoccus, (Gr.) a Medlar with three Kernels; alſo a kind of Marigold, or Sun-flower.

Tricolon, (in Grammar) a Stanza, or Staff of three Verſes.

Tricongius, an ancient Meaſure, containing Eighteen Sextarii; a Sextarius being ſomewhat above a Pint of our Engliſh Meaſure.

Tricuſpides, (in Anat.) three Valves of a Triangular Form, plac'd at the Mouth of the right Ventricle of the Heart, and made of a thin Membrane or Skin; ſo as to give a Paſſage to the Bloud into that Part, and to hinder it from returning the ſame Way it came in.

Trident, a three-forked Inſtrument, any Tool that has three Teeth, Fangs, or Prongs; eſpecially that Mace which the Poets feign to have been born by Neptune the God of the Sea; as an Enſign of his Command.

Tridentine, belonging to Tridentum, or Trent, a City in the Country of Tyrol, in Germany, famous for the General Council held there A. D. 1545.

Triding, (Sax.) the third part of a County, or Shire. See Thrithing.

Tridingmot, the Court held for a Triding.

Triemimeris, (Gr. in Grammar) a branch of the Figure call'd Cæſura, when after the firſt Foot of a Greek or Latin Verſe, there remains an odd Syllable, which helps to make the next Foot; as in this Verſe:

Ille latus niveum molli fultus Hyacintho.

Triennial, that continues three Years, or that happens every third Year; as A Triennial Parliament, Government, Meeting, &c.

Triens, (Lat.) the third part of the Roman Pound, or Coin call'd As, weighing four Ounces: Or the third of any entire Thing diviſible into twelve Parts.

Triental, a ſmall Veſſel that held the third part of a Sextarius, about our half Pint; a Jill.

Trieterica, (Gr.) certain Feaſts of Bacchus the God of Wine kept every third Year.

To Trifallow, (in Husbandry) to till, or plough Land the third time.

Trifoil or Trefoil, an Herb call'd three-leaved Graſs: In Heraldry, the Figure of that Plant drawn on an Eſcutcheon.

Trifolium paluſtre, Marſh-trefoil, an Herb much commended in the Scurvy, and for pains in the Limbs.

† Triform, that has three Forms, Shapes, or Faſhions.

To Trig, to skid, ſcatch, or ſtop a Wheel; to ſet a mark to ſtand at, in playing at Nine-pins.

Trigamy, (Gr.) the having three Husbands, or three Wives at once.

Trigeminus, (Lat.) threefold.

Trigeminus or Trigeminum, (in Anat.) is a Muſcle of the Head, ſo nam'd becauſe it has a threefold Beginning, and ſeems to be made up of three diſtinct Muſcles: One of its Beginnings is from the tranſverſe Proceſſes of the fourth and fifth Vertebræ or Turning-joynts of the Cheſt; the Second from the firſt and ſecond of thoſe Vertebræ; and the Third from the Spine of the ſeventh Vertebra of the Neck: Afterwards they all unite together, and are inſerted to the Occiput, or hinder part of the Head, ſometimes by one, and ſometimes by a threefold Tendon: This Muſcle is otherwiſe termed Complexus.

Trigen, a ſort of Pole, whereby a Coach or Waggon is ſtopt from going too faſt down a Hill.

Trigger, an Iron to trig, or ſtay a Wheel.

Trigild. See Angild.

Triglyph, (Gr. in Architect.) a Member of the Frize of the Dorick Order ſet directly over every Pillar and in certain Spaces in the Intercolumniations, or diſtances between the Columns: They take Name from their three Glyphæ, or Triangular Gutters, and ſeem to have been deſign'd to convey the Guttæ, or Drops, which hang a little under them.

Trigon, a Triangle, or Figure conſiſting of three Angles: Alſo an Inſtrument of a Triangular Form ſometimes us'd in Dialling: In Natural Magick, it ſignifies a fourfold Change of the ſtarry Spirits, according to the number of the four Elements; each reigning and laſting Two hundred Years.

Among Aſtrologers, Trigon or Triplicity is taken for the joyning together of three Signs of the ſame Nature and Quality, beholding one another with a Trine Aſpect, and counted according to the four Elements: Thus Aries, Leo and Sagittarius, are the Fiery Trigon or Triplicity; Gemini, Libra and Aquarius the Airy; Cancer, Scorpio and Piſces the Watery; Taurus, Virgo and Capricornus the Earthy.

Trigonocratores, a Name given to the Planets, with reſpect to their being the Lords or Governours of thoſe Trigons; viz. the Sun and Jupiter of the Fiery, Saturn and Mercury of the Airy, Mars alone of the Watery, and Venus and the Moon of the Earthy.

Trigonometry, the Art of meaſuring Triangles, whether Plain or Spherical; being that part of Geometry, which ſhews how from any three Sides of a Triangle given, or Sides and Angles (but not three Angles alone) to find out the other Angles, or Sides.

Trijugum, (in old Lat. Records) a Trithing, or Juriſdiction of three Hundreds.

Trilateral, that has three Sides; as A trilateral, or three-ſided Figure in Geometry.

Trill, (Ital.) a quavering in Muſick, a graceful ſhaking of the ſame Note in Singing.

Trim, neat in Cloaths, ſpruce, curious, fine, handſome.

Trim of a Ship, is her beſt Poſture, proportion of Ballaſt, hanging of her Maſts, &c. which moſt fitly conduces to her good Sailing; and therefore to find the beſt Way of making any Ship ſail ſwiftly is call'd Finding her Trim.

To Trim, to furniſh, dreſs up, or ſet off; to ſhave one's Beard; alſo to carry it fair between two Parties.

To Trim a Boat, is to ſet a Boat ſo even on both Sides, as to ballance her and keep her from Swagging one way more than the other.

Trimacrus or Trimacer, (Gr.) a Foot in Greek or Latin Verſe conſiſting of three long Syllables; as trōgētē.

Trimerus, a kind of Fly that lives three Days.

Trimetrum, (in Grammar) a Trimeter Verſe of three Meaſures, an Iambick of ſix Feet.

Trimodia or Trimodium, a Meaſure of three Buſhels.

Trimærion or Trimorion, (in Aſtrol.) the joyning together of three Signs that are very near one another; whereby is made a ſquare Aſpect to the Apheta, or Giver of Life in the Figure, which coming to that Direction, commonly cuts off the Thread of Life.

Trine, (Lat.) belonging to the Number Three; as A trine Aſpect, which is when two Planets are diſtant from each other a third part of the Circle, i. e. 120 Degrees: It is noted thus △ and accounted by Aſtrologers an Aſpect of Amity and Friendſhip.

Trinervia Plantago, the leaſt ſort of Plantane, an Herb ſo call'd from its having three Fibres, or Strings.

Tringle, (Fr.) a Curtain-Rod, a Lath that reaches from one Bed-poſt to another: In Architecture, a little ſquare Member fixed exactly upon every Triglyph under the Platband of the Architrave; from whence hang down the Guttæ, or pendant Drops in the Dorick Order.

Trinitarians, or rather Anti-Trinitarians, a Sect of new Arian Hereticks that deny the Myſtery of the Bleſſed Trinity, and all diſtinction of the Divine Perſons: The Orthodox that believe the Trinity are alſo call'd Trinitarians by the Socinians.

Trinitarians or Mathurins, a particular ſort of Monks.

Trinity or Hearts-eaſe, a kind of Herb.

The Trinity, one only God in three Perſons; the Godhead being one and the ſelf-ſame for Eſſence, and for Subſiſtence or Perſonality, three; viz. Father, Son and Holy Ghoſt, and theſe three are one, 1 Joh. 5. 7.

Trinity-College, a College for Students in the Univerſity of Cambridge, Founded by K. Henry VIII. A. D. 1546. There is alſo a College of the ſame Name in Oxford-Univerſity, which was formerly call'd Durham-College, and owes its Foundation to Sir Thomas Pope, A. D. 1556.

Trinity-Houſe, or The Trinity-Houſe of Deptford-Strond, a Houſe at Deptford, which belongs to a particular Company, or Corporation of Sea-men, conſiſting of a Maſter, Wardens and Aſſiſtants, who are impower'd by the Queen's Charter to take Knowledge of thoſe that deſtroy Sea-marks, to reform Abuſes among Sailers, to examine Young Officers, and to adjuſt other Matters relating to Navigation and Maritime Affairs.

Trinity-Sunday, the firſt Sunday after Whitſunday, which is more eſpecially ſet a-part for the Adoration of the Bleſſed Trinity.

Trink or Trinke, (old Word) a ſort of Net to catch Fiſh with.

Trinket or Trinket-Sail, (Sea-Term) the Top-gallant, or higheſt Sail of any Maſt in a Ship.

Trinkets, Toys, Gew-gaws; any gay or trifling Things.

Trinobantes, a certain People anciently inhabiting thoſe Parts of the Iſland of great Britain, which are now called Middleſex and Eſſex.

Trinoda Neceſſitas, (in ancient Lat. Deeds) a threefold neceſſary Tax, or Impoſition, to which all Lands were liable in the Saxon Times, viz. towards the repairing of Bridges, the maintaining of Caſtles or Garriſons, and an Expedition to drive back invading Enemies.

Trinomial, (Gr. in Algebra) that conſiſts of three Names, or Parts; as A Trinomial Root, i. e. a Root conſiſting of three Parts joyn'd together by the Sign + as a + b + c &c. See Binomial.

Triobolum, the value of three Half-pence, or the Weight of half a Dram.

Triones, ploughing Oxen; alſo a noted Conſtellation, or Company of ſeven Stars, near the North-Pole, call'd Charles-wain.

Triophthalmus, a precious Stone that has the Figure of three Eyes.

Triorches, a kind of Hawk having three Stones, a Buzzard; alſo the Herb Rag-wort.

Triours, (Law-Term) ſuch as are choſen by a Court of Juſtice, to examine, whether a Challenge made to any of the Pannel of Jury-men, be juſt or no.

Trip, ſtumbling, falſe Step: Among Hunters, a Herd, or company of Goats; alſo a ſhort Journey, or Voyage; as A Trip to Holland, &c.

Among Mariners, a Ship is ſaid, To bear out her Top-ſails a-trip, when ſhe carries them hoiſed up to the higheſt; the Wind blowing not too hard, but a gentle, or Loom-gale.

To Trip, to ſtumble with the Feet, or falter with the Tongue. To Trip it, or to trip along, to go faſt and by little Steps, to hop. Alſo a Term in Heraldry. See Counter-tripping.

Tripartient, (Lat. in Arithm.) is any Number that divides another into three equal Parts, without any Remainder; as 4 divides 12, or 5 divides 15 juſt into three Parts.

Tripartite, divided into three Parts, or made between three Parties; as This Indenture tripartite.

Tripartition, (in Mathem.) is Diviſion by 3, or taking the third part of any Number, or Quantity.

Tripe, part of the Entrails of Neat-Cattel dreſs'd after a particular manner.

Tripe-Madame, a Sallet-herb, us'd chiefly in the Spring, when it is tender.

Tripetalous, (Gr.) as Tripetalous Plants, i. e. thoſe Plants whoſe Flower conſiſts of three Leaves, call'd Petala by Herbaliſts.

Triphthongue, (in Grammar) three Vowels joyn'd together and making but one Sound.

Triphyllon, the Herb Trefoil, or three-leaved Graſs.

Triple, (Lat.) threefold.

Triplicate Ratio, (in Mathem.) is the Ratio or Reaſon of Cubes one to another and muſt be well diſtinguiſhed from Triple Ratio: Thus in theſe Geometrical Proportionals, 2, 4, 8. 16, 32, 64; the Ratio of the firſt Term 2 to 16, the fourth Term is Triplicate, or as 8 which is the Cube of 2, to 64 the Cube of 4.

† Triplication, a making triple, a trebling.

Triplicity, the quality of that which is triple or threefold; a Word more eſpecially us'd by Aſtrologers to expreſs the Diviſion of the Signs according to the number of the Elements, each Diviſion conſiſting of three Signs; as The Fiery, Airy, Watery, and Earthy Triplicites. See Trigon.

Triploides, (Gr.) a Surgeon's Inſtrument with a threefold Baſe, us'd for a great Depreſſion, or ſinking of the Scull.

Tripolium, the Herb Star-wort.

Tripoly, an Herb call'd Turbith, or blew Camomel: Alſo a Stone which being reduced to Powder is us'd by Lapidaries to poliſh their Jewels: Alſo another kind of white and ſoft Stone, which ſerves to poliſh Braſs and Iron.

Tripos, the Tripod, or three-footed Stool, on which the Prieſteſſes of Apollo at Delphos, us'd to ſit when they deliver'd the Oracles: Alſo a Name given in the Univerſity of Cambridge to the Prevaricator, or Perſon that is called Terræ Filius at Oxford.

Tripping, a Term in Heraldry. See Paſſant.

Triptoton or Triptote, (in Grammar) a defective Noun that has but three Caſes.

† Tripudiation, (Lat.) a tripping on the Toes in a Dance.

Triquetra, a Triangle, or three-cornered Figure; alſo the Iſland of Sicily, ſo nam'd by the Romans from its triangular Shape.

Triremis, a Galley that has three Oars on each Side or Bank; or rather having three Ranks of Oars, one above another.

Triroda Terræ, (in old Records) a parcel of Land containing three Rods, or Perches.

Triſagium, (Gr.) a kind of Hymn in the Greek Church; much of the ſame Nature with that in the Service of the Church of England; Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth, &c.

Tris-Diapaſon, or Triple-Diapaſon, (in Muſick) a Chord, otherwiſe call'd a Triple Eighth, or Fifteenth.

To Triſe, (Sea-Word) to hale up any thing into the Ship by Hand, with a dead Rope, or one that does not run in a Block, or Pulley: Thus, if any Cheſt, Cask, or other Goods has only a Rope faſten'd to it, without any Tackle, and ſo is pulled up into the Ship by main Strength; it is ſaid, To be triſed up.

Triſmegiſtus or Hermes Triſmegiſtus, a famous Egyptian Philoſopher, Prieſt and King.

Triſmus or Trigmus, (Gr. in Surgery) the grinding of the Teeth, or a Convulſion of the Muſcles of the Temples, which cauſes the Teeth to gnaſh, whether one will or no.

Triſpaſt, (Gr.) an Engine that conſiſts of three Pulleys.

Triſſago or Triſago, (Lat.) the Herb Germander, or as ſome ſay, the ſtraight and upright Vervain.

Triſta, (in ancient Writers) a Station, or Poſt in Hunting.

Triſta, Triſtis or Triſtris, an Immunity, or Privilege, by which a Man is freed from his Attendance on the Lord of a Foreſt, when he goes a Hunting; ſo as not to be obliged to hold a Dog, follow the Chace, or ſtand at a Place appointed.

Triſyllabical, belonging to a Triſyllable.

Triſyllable, (in Grammar) a Word conſiſting of three Syllables; as Charity.

Tritæophyes or Tritæus, (Gr.) a Tertian Ague, an Ague that comes every third Day.

Trite, (Lat.) thread-bare, common; as A trite Saying, or Argument.

Trite, (Gr.) the third Muſical Chord: Trite Diezeugmenon the Note call'd C-ſol-fa-ut. Trite Hyperboleon, F-fa-ut. Trite Synemmenon, B-fa-be-mi.

Trichales, an Herb that is in Flower thrice a Year.

Tricheites, a ſort of Hereticks that held the Trinity to be divided into Three diſtinct Godheads.

Trithing. See Thrithing and Triding.

Tritiana Braſſica, (Lat.) a kind of large Colewort.

Triticum, the Corn call'd Wheat.

Triton, (Gr.) a fabulous Sea-Deity, Neptune's Trumpeter; a Fiſh ſhaped like a Man; alſo a Vane, or Weather-cock.

Tritone, a Term in Muſick which ſignifies a greater Fourth.

Trituration, (Lat.) properly a threſhing of Corn: Among Apothecaries, it is taken for pounding in a Mortar, whereby Drugs are reduced to Powder that they may be the better mingled.

Trivet. See Trevet.

Trivial, common, ordinary.

Triumph, (Gr.) a ſolemn Pomp, or Shew, at the Return of a General from ſome noted Victory. See Ovation.

To Triumph, to make ſuch a ſolemn and pompous Entry, to vanquiſh or conquer an Enemy, to ſubdue or maſter one's Paſſions, to glory or take a Pride in.

Triumphal, belonging to a Triumph; as A triumphal Arch.

Triumphal Crown, (among the Romans) a Crown at firſt made of Laurel, and afterwards of Gold, which the Cities uſually ſent to the Victorious General, to wear on the Day of his Triumphal Entry.

Triumphant, Triumphing, Victorious, Conquering.

Triumvir, one of the three Magiſtrates that govern'd the Roman Empire in Chief, or one of any three Officers who had equal Authority: In our ancient Records, a Trithing-man, or Conſtable of three Hundreds.

Triumvirate, the Government of the Triumviri, in which three great Men ſhar'd the Soveraign Power; as that of Auguſtus, Marcus Antonius, and Lepidus: But the meaner Triumvirs, or Triumviri Capitales were eſtabliſh'd in the Year 463. after the building of Rome, to take care of Priſoners, and ſee Execution done upon Malefactors.

Triumviri Menſarii, the three chief Bankers that had the charge of the Publick Money.

Triumviri Monetales, three Overſeers of the Mint, certain Officers appointed a little before Cicero's Time, whoſe Commiſſion was contained in theſe five Letters, A. A. A. F. F. for Ære, Auro, Argento, Flando Feriundo, i. e. for the Coining of Braſs, Gold, and Silver-Money.

Triuncis, the Weight of three Ounces; alſo a Braſs-Coin of that Weight.

Triune, (i. e. Three-one) as The Triune God, a Term made uſe of to expreſs the Unity of the Godhead in a Trinity of Perſons.

To Troat, to Cry as a Buck does at Rutting-time.

Trocheus or Trochee, (Gr.) a Foot in Greek and Latin Verſe, conſiſting of two Syllables, the firſt long, and the other ſhort; as Virgo.

Trochanter, a Term in Anatomy, the ſame as Rotator; which See.

Trochar, a Cane, or Pipe made of Silver, or Steel, with a ſharp-pointed End, us'd in tapping thoſe that are troubled with the Dropſy.

Trochilice, the Art of Wheel-work, or a Mathematical Science that demonſtrates the Properties of all Circular Motions.

Trochilus, the fin-footed Runner; a Bird ſo call'd becauſe it always runs; a Wren: In Architecture, it is that hollow Ring which runs round a Pillar, next to the Torus. 'Tis commonly call'd the Caſement, and often Scotia, from its ſhady dark Appearance.

Trochings, (among Hunters) the ſmall Branches on the top of a Deer's Head.

Trochiſcus, a Trochisk, or Phyſical Compoſition made of the Paſte of Powders and other Ingredients, in ſhape of a little Wheel or Ball: They are much the ſame with Tablets and Lozenges.

Trochlea, a Truckle or Pulley, wherein a Cord or Rope runs to draw any thing; and which is one of the Six Mechanical Powers or Principles: In Anatomy, it is a hollow part in the Bone of the Arm, or Shoulder, the ſame as Bathmis.

Trochlearis, the upper, or greater oblique Muſcle of the Eye. See Obliquus Superior.

Trochloid, the ſame with Cycloid; which See.

Trocholicks. See Trochilice.

Trochus, a Wheel, a Top for Children to play with; alſo a little round Lump of any thing.

Trocta or Trutta, the Trout, an excellent River-Fiſh.

Troculus, an American Bird that is no bigger than a Swallow, of a black and white Colour breeding in Chimneys, into the Sides of which it ſticks the ſharp ends of its Feathers to take reſt: The Neſt of this Bird hangs down by a String about a Yard long, and having brought forth Young, 'tis ſaid to throw down one at departure, in token of Gratitude to the Maſter of the Houſe for its Lodging.

Trove, an old Word, ſignifying a Path.

Troglodytes, or Paſſer Troglodytes, a little Bird call'd a Wren; a Hedge Sparrow that runs into Holes.

To Troll, to go a fiſhing with a particular Net ſo call'd.

To Troll about, to ramble up and down, in a careleſs or ſluttiſh Dreſs.

Troll-Madame, a Game commonly call'd Pigeon-holes.

Trollop, an idle, naſty Slut.

Troma, (Gr.) a Wound proceeding from an outward Cauſe.

Tromos, a Trembling, as when the voluntary Motion of the Members is impaired.

Tronage, a Cuſtom, or Toll, taken for the weighing of Wooll: Alſo the Act of weighing it in a Staple or Publick Market; from Trona, an old Word for a Beam to weigh with; which Standard was fixt at Leaden-Hall in London.

Tronator, an Officer, whoſe Buſineſs it is to weigh Wooll brought into the ſaid City.

Tronc-Weight, the ſame that we now call Troy-Weight.

Troop, a Collective Word, which implies ſeveral Perſons gathered together, or going in Company.

Troop of Horſe, a ſmall Body of Horſe or Dragoons, uſually about fifty, under the Command of a Captain, of which Regiments are made up: Troops, in the plural Number, is alſo taken to ſignify a conſiderable Number of Military Forces united together.

Independent Troop, one that is not imbodied with, or joyned to any Regiment.

Troop, as To beat the Troop, which is the ſecond Beat of Drum, when the Foot are to march: So that the General is the firſt, to give notice of the March, and the Troop the next, for the Men to repair to their Colours.

To Troop, to get, or flock together; as The Newſmongers troop to hear News.

To Troop away or To Troop off, is to run away.

Trooper, the common Name of every Horſe-Soldier: The French call them Maitres or Cavaliers.

Trope, (Gr. in Rhetorick) an Elegant turning of a Word from its proper and natural Signification to another; as the Word Flame, when we ſay The Flames of Love.

Troper, (in old Records) a Book of alternate Turns or Reſponſes in ſinging Maſs.

Trophy, a Mark or Monument of Timber or Stone, ſet up in a Place where Enemies were overcome, with their warlike Harneſs and other Spoils hanged on it; a ſign or token of Victory: In Architecture, an Ornament repreſenting the Trunk of a Tree charged or encompaſs'd all round about with Arms or Military Weapons, both Offenſive and Defenſive.

In Painting, Graving, Chaſing, &c. Trophies likewiſe ſignify the repreſentation of Pikes, Halbards, Drums, Corſlets, and other Inſtruments of War.

Trophy-Money, a Duty of four Pence paid yearly by Houſe-keepers on the Trained Bands, but charged on the Land-lord, for the Drums, Colours, Scarves, &c. of their reſpective Companies.

Tropical Year. See Year.

Tropicks, (in Aſtron.) are two leſſer Circles of the Sphere, parallel to the Equinoctial Line and equally diſtant from it, viz. 23½ Degrees on each Side: One of them paſſing thro' the Sign Cancer, Northwards is call'd The Tropick of Cancer, and the other lying under Capricorn, Southwards, bears the Name of The Tropick of Capricorn. Theſe Circles are the utmoſt Boundaries of the Sun's Courſe towards the North and South, and termed Tropicks from the Greek Word Tropos, i. e. turning back; becauſe the Sun being come to either of them, goes no farther towards either of the Poles, but returns towards the Equator; ſo that his Arrival at the former on June 11. makes our longeſt Day, and at the other on December 12. our ſhorteſt Day and longeſt Night. See Solſtice.

Tropological, belonging to Tropology; Moral.

Tropology, a Figurative Speech; a Moral Diſcourſe tending to the Reformation of Manners.

Trouble, (Fr.) Pains, Inconveniency, Misfortune, croſs Accident, Sorrow, Confuſion, Diſturbance, Diſquiet of Mind. Troubles, in the Plural Number, is alſo taken for Diſorders in the State, Broils, Civil Wars.

To Trouble, to cauſe Trouble, to Diſturb, Imbroil or Confound; to vex or diſquiet, to interrupt, to afflict; alſo to make Waters thick or muddy.

Trover, (in Common Law) an Action againſt him, who having found another Man's Goods, refuſes to deliver them upon Demand.

Trough, a hollow wooden Veſſel to kneed Bread in, or beat Apples for Cider, &c. a piece of a Trunk of a Tree made hollow to feed Swine in: Alſo a Pipe made of Boards, and lying open for the conveyance of Water.

Trough of the Sea, (among Sailers) is the ſpace between two Billows or Waves; ſo that when a Ship ſinks down there, they ſay, She lies in the Trough of the Sea.

To Trounce, to harraſs, or puniſh ſeverely; to ſharp, bubble, or cheat.

Trout, a delicious Freſh-water Fiſh.

Trowel, a Maſon's or Bricklayer's Tool, to ſpread Morter with.

Trox, (Gr.) a Worm breeding in, and fretting all kind of Pulſe; as Peas, Beans, &c.

Troxalis. See Tryxalis.

Troy, a famous City of the Leſſer Phrygia, whoſe Ten Years Siege by the Greeks, has been a great Subject for the Pens of Hiſtorians, and Poets.

Troy-Weight, a Weight of twelve Ounces to the Pound, for the weighing of Bread, Gold, Silver, precious Stones, Electuaries and Drugs; which took Name from that City, or elſe from Troyes, a Town of the Province of Champagne in France.

Trua, (Lat.) a Tray, a kind of wooden Veſſel for ſeveral Uſes. In old Records, a Sow or Swine.

Truand, (Fr.) a Vagabond, a lazy loitering Fellow; a ſturdy Rogue or common Begger: Whence Children that abſent themſelves from School are ſaid To play the Truands,

Trub or Trub-tail, a little ſquat Woman.

Trubs, a ſort of Herb.

Truce, a Ceſſation of Arms, and all Hoſtilities agreed upon for a time, between two Parties in a State of War.

Truch-man or Truchman, an Interpreter.

Truck, Exchange, or Bartering of Commodities: Among Sea-men, a Square piece of Wood at the top of a Maſt, in which the Flag-ſtaff is put. See Parrels.

In Gunnery, Trucks are entire round pieces of Wood like Wheels fixed on the Axle-Trees, of the Carriages, to move the Ordinance at Sea: Alſo a kind of Billiards, an Italian Game much us'd in Spain and Ireland.

To Truck, to barter, or exchange one Commodity for another; to chop, or ſwap.

Truckle, a little running Wheel.

To Truckle, to ſubmit, to yield or buckle to.

Truculent, (Lat.) that is of a cruel, rough, or fierce Look, or Diſpoſition; as A Truculent Aſpect.

To Trudge, to trot up and down, to toil and Moil, to take a great deal of pains about a Buſineſs.

True, natural, certain, ſure; faithful, truſty, unfeigned.

True Conjunction, a Term in Aſtronomy. See Conjunction.

True Declination of a Planet. See Declination.

True-Love. See Herb-Paris.

True Place of a Planet or Star, is a Point of the Heavens, ſhewn by a Right-Line drawn from the Center of the Earth, thro' the Center of the Planet or Star: Whereas its Apparent Place, is that which is found by a Right-line, drawn from the Obſerver's Eye thro' the Center of the Planet or Star. And this Point in the Heavens is referred to the Zodiack, or Ecliptick by the Star's Circle of Longitude.

Truffle, (Fr.) a kind of Muſhroom or Puff, cover'd with a blackiſh Skin, without either Stalk or Root, which grows within the Ground, eſpecially after great Rains, and is otherwiſe call'd Swine-bread.

Trugg, (Country-Word) a Milk-Tray or ſuch like Veſſel, a Hod to carry Mortar in: Alſo a kind of Meaſure us'd in old times, and containing about two Buſhels: Whence at Lemſter, at this Day, the Vicar has Trugg-Corn allow'd him for Officiating in ſome Chappels of Eaſe within that Pariſh.

Trull, a ſorry Wench, or pitiful Baggage; a vile Strumpet, or Camp-Whore.

Trumpery, Traſh, old paltry Stuff.

Trumpet, (Fr.) a known warlike Muſical Inſtrument, which is in uſe among the Horſe, and ſerves for the ſame purpoſes as the Drum among the Foot-Soldiers; alſo the Man that ſounds it.

Trumpet-Marine, an Inſtrument that has a Belly reſembling a Lute, and a very long Neck with one String, which being ſtruck with a Hair-bow, ſounds like a Trumpet.

Speaking-Trumpet, a ſort of Trumpet about ſix or eight Foot long, ſtraight and very wide at the End; the Mouth-piece being ſufficiently large to receive both Lips; ſo that when a Man ſpeaks within it, the Voice is convey'd after ſuch a manner as to be diſtinctly heard above a Mile.

To Trumpet or Trumpet out, to publiſh, to ſet or ſpread abroad.

Trumpeter, he that blows or ſounds a Trumpet: The Trumpeter in a Ship is always to attend the Captain's Command, and to ſound either at his going a-ſhore or coming a-board; alſo when a Ship is haled, charged, boarded, or enter'd.

Truncated Pyramid or Cone, (in Geom.) is one whoſe Top is cut off by a Plane parallel to its Baſe; a Truncated Cone or the Fruſtum of that Body is ſometimes call'd a Curti-Cone.

† Truncation, (Lat.) a maiming, or mangling; a cutting, or chopping off.

Truncheon, a Battoon, or ſhort Club: Truncheons are alſo ſhort and thick Worms with black Heads that breed near a Horſe's Maw and will eat their Paſſage thro' if not timely kill'd.

Truncus, (Lat.) the Stem or Stock of a Tree without the Boughs; a Body without a Head: In Anatomy, that Part of the Great Artery and Vena Cava, which deſcends from the Heart to the Iliack Veſſels. In Architecture, part of the Pedeſtal of a Pillar, otherwiſe termed Abacus and Stylobata; which ſee.

In our old Records, Truncus is taken for a Trunk or Wooden Box heretofore ſet in Churches before ſeveral Altars and Images, to receive the Offerings of pious and well-diſpoſed People, like the Boxes which are now uſually plac'd near the Church-Door, to hold all voluntary Contributions for the Poor.

Trundle, a kind of Carriage with low Wheels, to draw heavy Burdens on.

To Trundle, to roll along.

Trundle-Shot (in Gunnery) an Iron-Bolt 16 or 18 Inches long, ſharp-pointed at both Ends, and having a round Bowl of Lead caſt upon it, about a Hand's-breadth from each End.

Trundle-Tail, a Wench that runs fiſking up and down with a draggled Tail.

Trunk, a Cheſt or Box; the Stump, Stem, or Body of a Tree: Alſo a Man's Body having the Head, Arms and Legs cut off; all that Part which reaches from the Neck to the Hips; alſo the Snout of an Elephant: Alſo a Pipe to ſhoot Pellets, little Arrows, &c. by blowing ſtrongly; or a Wooden Pipe for the Conveyance of Water.

Trunks, a kind of Play otherwiſe call'd Troll-Madame and Pigeon-holes.

Trunk-Roots, (among Herbaliſts) are ſmall Roots which break or grow out of the Trunks of Plants; being of two ſorts, viz. 1. ſuch as grow by a downright Deſcent ſometimes all along the Trunk, as in Mints, &c. and ſometimes only in the utmoſt Point, as in Brambles; 2. ſuch as neither aſcend not deſcend, but ſhoot forth at Right-Angles with the Trunk.

Trunked (among Heralds) Trees cut off at each End, are ſaid To be Trunked.

Trunnions, (in Gunnery) two Knobs, Spindles, or Ears of Metal, ſticking out of the Sides of a Piece of Ordinance, on which it reſts upon the Cheeks of the Carriage, and is raiſed or lower'd at pleaſure.

Trunnion-Ring, the Ring about a Cannon, next before the Trunnions.

Truſs, a Bundle of Hay, &c. alſo a kind of Bandage for Perſons that are burſten.

In a Ship, Truſſes are certain Ropes made faſt to the Parrels of the Yards, to bind the Yard to the Maſt when the Ship rolls, and to hale down the Yards in a Storm or Guſt of Wind.

To Truſs, to make a Truſs, to tye or gird up; to hang one upon a Tree, to ſnatch up, as An Eagle Truſſes a Leveret.

Truſſing, (in Falconry) is a Hawk's raiſing any Fowl or Prey aloft; ſoaring up and then deſcending with it to the Ground.

Truſſel or Treſſel, a Prop.

Truſt, Confidence, Aſſurance; Credit, Tick.

Truſtee, one that has an Eſtate or Money put into his Hands for another's Uſe; a Guardian.

Truſty, that is true to his Truſt, faithful, ſure.

Trutina, (Lat.) a pair of Scales, a great pair of Ballances or Weights.

Trutine of Hermes, (in Aſtrol.) an artificial Method of rectifying a Nativity by finding out the Day of Conception and the Place of the Moon at that Time.

Trutta, or Truta. See Trocta.

To Try, to aſſay or eſſay, to prove, to examine, to endeavour.

Among Sea-men a Ship is ſaid To Try, when having no more Sails abroad but her Main-Sail, ſhe is let alone to lie in the Sea: And ſometimes when the Wind blows ſo hard that ſhe cannot maintain or bear out the Main-ſail, they'll make her Lie a-try under the Miſſen-Sail only.

Tryal, Eſſay or Experiment, Endeavour, Temptation: In a Law-Senſe, the Examination of all Cauſes Civil or Criminal before a proper Judge; of which there are ſeveral Sorts; as Matters of Fact ſhall be try'd by the Jurors, Matters of Law by the Juſtices, and Matters of Record by the Record it ſelf.

Trychnos (Gr.) the Herb call'd Night-ſhade.

Trygon, the Turtle-Dove; alſo the Poiſon-fiſh, a kind of Sea-fiſh.

Trynga, the Water-Thruſh; a Bird.

Tryphera or Truphera, gentle, eaſy Cauſticks.

Tryxalis or Troxalis, the Cricket, an Inſect.

Tuant (Fr. killing) as A Tuant Jeſt, i. e. a tart, biting Jeſt.

Tub, a Wooden Veſſel of ſeveral ſorts.

Tub of Tea, the Quantity of about 60 Pounds: Of Camphire, from 56 to 86 Pounds: Of Vermilion, from 3 to 4 Hundred Weight.

Tubal (Heb. Born or Worldly) one of the Sons of Japhet, by whoſe Poſterity Spain is ſaid to have been firſt peopled.

Tubal-Cain (i. e. Worldly Poſſeſſion or Birds-Neſt of the World) the Son of Lamech and the firſt Inventer of all curious Smiths-Work in Iron and Steel.

Tubæ Fallopianæ (Lat.) two narrow Paſſages proceeding from the Womb, which when they are a little removed from it, grow wider by degrees, having two large Orifices, or Holes like the Mouth of a Trumpet: They take Name from Fallopius an eminent Phyſician and Anatomiſt, who firſt found them out; and their Uſe is to receive the Eggs from the Teſticles and convey them into the Womb.

Tube, a Conduit-Pipe, any long Pipe thro' which Water or other Liquor is convey'd: Alſo the Pipe, or hollow Trunk of a Proſpect-glaſs, &c.

Tuber, (Lat.) a Truffle, or Puff growing in the Ground like a Muſhroom; a Knob or Knot in a Tree; a Swelling or Bunch in a Man's Body: Among Writers that treat of Plants, it is often taken to ſignify the round bunching-out Roots of ſome Herbs, which therefore they call Tuberoſe, or Knobby-Roots.

Tubercula, little Swellings or Puſhes, Pimples or Wheals: In Palmeſtry, the more eminent Muſcles, or knobby Parts under the Fingers, which are otherwiſe termed Montes; as Tuberculum, or Mons Veneris is the Knob at the Root of the Thumb; Mons Jovis, that of the Fore-Finger; Mons Saturni, that of the Middle-Finger; Mons Solis, that of the Ring-Finger; and Mons Mercurii, that of the Little Finger.

Tuberoſa, a kind of white ſweet-ſmelling Flower.

Tuberoſe or Tuberous, full of Bunches or Knots; as A Tuberous Plant. See Tuber.

Tuberoſity, a bunching out of ſome Parts of the Body.

Tubuli Lactiferi (in Anat.) certain ſmall Lactiferous or Milk-carrying Pipes, that are as it were the Store-houſe, where the Milk is kept, and thro' which it flows to the Nipples of the Breaſts of Females when they give Suck.

Tubuli Vermiculares, the ſmall winding Cavities that are formed on the out-ſide of the Shells of Sea Shell-fiſhes, in which ſome little Worms have their Abode and breed.

Tuck, a Rapier, or long Sword: Alſo a Sea-word, for the truſſing or gathering up of a Ship's Quarter under Water.

To Tuck, to turn, or gather up.

Tucker, a Fuller of Cloth: Alſo a long narrow ſlip of fine Linnen tuck'd or pinn'd along the top of a Woman's pair of Stays.

Tuckſels, the Teeth call'd Grinders.

Tuel, (among Hunters) the Fundament of a Beaſt.

Tueſday, the third Day of the Week ſo call'd becauſe it was ſet a-part for the Worſhip of Tuiſco; the moſt ancient and peculiar Idol-God of the Saxons and Teutonicks, or old Germans.

Tuft, a lock of Hair, a thicket of Trees, a bunch of Graſs, Feathers, Ribbons, &c. alſo the Creſt of a Bird.

Tufta, a Word us'd in ſome old Charters for a Cottage.

Tug, a Pull; alſo a Country-Word for a Waggon to carry Timber.

To Tug, to pull and hale; to labour hard, or ſtrive earneſtly for a Thing.

Tuggæ, (in old Lat. Records) Harneſs, Traces, or Ropes for drawing; from the Saxon Word getogan, to tug, pull, or draw.

Tuigh, the Name of a remarkable River in the Iſland of Barbadoes, the Waters of which yield an Oil on their Surface, that ſerves to burn in Lamps.

Tuilleries, a ſtately Pile of Building and Garden near the L'ouvre at Paris in France: 'Tis built all of free Stone, the Portal conſiſting of Marble-Pillars and Jaſper; and ſo call'd becauſe Tiles were ſome time made there.

Tuition, (Lat.) care of one's Education, Government, Guardianſhip, Patronage, Protection, Defence.

Tulip, a beautiful Flower, a kind of Lilly of various Colours, now common in England, but firſt brought out of Turkey: It is by ſome call'd the The Dalmatian Cap.

Tulipant, a Saſh, or Wreath worn by the Indians inſtead of a Hat.

M. Tullius Cicero, the moſt famous and eloquent of Roman Oratours.

To Tumble, to throw or roll down, to touſe or rumple, to fall down, to roll or wallow about.

Tumbler, one that plays tumbling Tricks; alſo a ſort of Hunting-Dog; alſo a kind of Drinking-Cup.

Tumbrel, an Engine contriv'd for the puniſhment of Scolds and unquiet Women, commonly call'd a Ducking-ſtool; alſo an old Word ſignifying a Dung-Cart.

Tumefaction, (Lat.) a tumifying, or cauſing to ſwell.

Tumid, puft up, or ſwollen, lofty; as A tumid Style.

To Tumify, to cauſe a Tumour, or Swelling; to riſe or ſwell, to be puffed up.

Tumour, (in Surgery) a Riſing, or Swelling caus'd by a ſettling of Humours in ſome parts of the Body, when they are inlarged and ſtretched out, beyond their due Proportion, ſo as to be render'd unfit to perform their proper Actions: Theſe Tumours are of ſeveral kinds, viz. Natural, Encyſted, Critical, Malignant, &c.

Natural Tumours, ſuch Swellings as are made of the four Humours contained in the Maſs of Blood, or elſe of ſeveral at once mingled together: Thus the Blood produces the Phlegmon, Choler the Eryſepelas, Phlegm the Oedema, and Melancholy the Scirrhus.

Encyſted or Baſtard Tumours, thoſe that proceed from a ſettling of mixt and corrupt Humours, the Matter of which is contain'd in certain proper Cyſtes, or ſkinny Bags; as the Meliceris, the Steatoma, the King's Evil, &c.

Critical Tumours or Impoſtumes, are thoſe that appear all at once in acute Diſeaſes, and put an end to them, with good or bad Succeſs; as A Phlegmon, a Boil, &c.

Malignant Tumours, thoſe that are always accompany'd with extraordinary and dreadful Symptoms; and whoſe Conſequences are very dangerous; as The Carbuncle in the Plague.

Peſtilential Tumours. See Impoſtume Peſtilential.

Venereal Tumours, thoſe that appear at the bottom of the Groin, and are the Product of impure Copulation.

Tumult, Uproar, great Buſtle, Stirr, Hurly-burly, Riot.

Tumultuary, done in a Tumult, or Hurry; Haſty, Diſorderly, Confuſed.

Tumultuous, full of Tumult, Seditious, Riotous.

Tun, a Wine-Veſſel; a Meaſure of Liquids; as Wine, Oil, &c. containing 2 Pipes, or 252 Gallons: Alſo a Weight of 20 Quintals, or 2000 Pounds; whereby the Contents or different Sizes of Sea-Veſſels are uſually expreſs'd; as A Ship of 200 Tuns.

Tun of Timber, a Meaſure of 40 ſolid Feet.

To Tun or Tun up, to put into a Tun.

Tun-Hoof, a kind of Herb.

Tuna, a Tree in America, on the Leaves of which are bred the coſtly Worms, call'd Cocheneal.

Tunable, that may be tuned, or put in Tune; agreeable to the Rules of Muſick.

Tunbridge, a Town in Kent, noted for its Wells, the Waters of which have been found of late very effectual for the curing of ſeveral Diſtempers.

Tune, an Agreement in Sound, an Air, or Song; a particular Way of ſinging, or playing on Muſical Inſtruments.

Tungreve, (Sax.) a Reeve, or Bailiff of a Manour, &c.

Tunica, (Lat.) an Under-garment, which the Ancients wore both at Rome and in the Eaſtern Countries: It was put under the Toga, and that of the Women was to be long and with Sleeves: Alſo a kind of Gilliflower, or the Herb Betony: In Anatomy, a Tunick, Membrane, or thin Skin.

Tunica Retiformis. See Retiformis Tunica, and Amphibleſtroides.

Tunick, a ſort of ſleeveleſs Coat; as A Tunick and Veſt.

Tunick or Tunicle, (in Anat.) a little Coat, Membrane, or Skin, covering any part of the Body: Of theſe there are four noted ones that belong to the Eye, viz. the Corneous, the Uveous, the Vitreous, and the Cryſtalline; to which there are as many Humours anſwerable: There are alſo four Tunicles of the Teſticles, or Cods, viz. Scrotum, Erythroides, Epididymis, and Dartos; all which See in their proper Places.

Tunnage. See Tonnage.

Tunnel, a Funnel thro' which any Liquor is pour'd into a Veſſel; the Funnel of a Chimney; alſo a ſort of Net to catch Partridges.

Tunneller, one that goes a Fowling with ſuch a Net.

Tunney, a kind of Sea-fiſh.

Tup, a Ram, or Male Sheep.

To Tup, as The Ram tups, i. e. covers the Ewe.

Turbant, a Wreath, or Ornament for the Head, us'd in Turkey and other Eaſtern Countries, inſtead of a of a Hat or Cap: It is made of a Shaſh, or one entire piece of Linnen call'd Telbent; but the Turbant it ſelf is termed Saruck by the Turks.

Turbary, (Law-Term) a Right to dig Turves in another Man's Ground; from Turba an old Latin Word for a Turf. Turbaria, (in old Records) is alſo ſometimes taken for the Ground where Turves are digged.

Common of Turbary, is a Liberty which ſome Tenants have by Preſcription to dig on the Lord's Waſte.

Turbiſh or Turbit. See Tripoly.

Turbith, an Herb ſo call'd by the Arabians, which grows in Cambaya, Surat, and other Parts of Aſia; a dangerous Drug upon account of its violent purging Quality.

Turbith Mineral or Yellow Precipitate, is a Chymical Preparation of Mercury or Quick-ſilver and Oil of Vitriol, which purges ſtrongly by Vomit and Stool, and is given in Venereal Diſtempers.

Turbo, (Lat.) a Whirl-wind, or great Storm; a Top, or Gigg that Boys play with: Alſo the Wry-neck a Bird, and a Fiſh call'd a Welk, or Wrinkle.

Turbot, a broad flat Sea-fiſh, which was of great Eſteem among the ancient Romans, as well as now a Days.

Turbulent, (Lat.) Boiſterous, Bluſtering, Seditious, Troubleſome.

Turciſm, the Religion, Principles, or Opinions of the Turks.

Turcoiſe or Turquoiſe, a precious Stone of an azure or blewiſh Colour, ſo call'd becauſe uſually brought to us by the Turks.

Turdus, (Lat.) the Thruſh, Throſtle, or Mavis, a Singing-Bird; alſo the Sea-carp, a Fiſh. Turdus viſcivorus, the Miſtletoe-Thruſh, or Shreitch.

Turgeſcence, a ſwelling up, or growing big: A Turgeſcence of Humours, is a violent or quick Motion of them.

† Turgid, ſwollen, or puffed up.

Turio, (Lat.) the Tendrel, or young Branch of a Tree; whence Turiones is taken by Herbaliſts, for the young tender Shoots, or Tops, which any Plants Yearly put forth out of the Ground.

Turk, a Native of Turkey, or a Subject of the Emperour of thoſe Dominions, who is ſtyled The Great Turk, and the Grand Seignior.

Turk's-Cap, a kind of Flower.

Turkey, a large Country in Aſia and Europe; alſo the Name of a well known Fowl. In Virginia, the Fowls are very large, ſome weighing between fifty and ſixty Pounds.

Turkey-pout, a Young Turkey.

Turkiſh, belonging to the Turks.

Turkiſh Epocha. See Epocha.

Turmerick, the Root of an Herb growing in Arabia and India, good againſt ſeveral Horſe-Diſeaſes, and a proper Cure for the Yellow Jaundice.

Turmoil, Buſtle, Stir.

To Turmoil, to toil, to rout, or keep a heavy doe.

Turn, Walk, Courſe, a good or bad Office; alſo a Turner's Lath: Alſo a Term that belongs to the Movement of a Watch, and ſignifies the entire Revolution, or going about of any Wheel, or Pinnion.

In a Law-Senſe, Turn, is the County-Court, or Queen's Leet, where the Sheriff is Judge, and which belongs to his Office; being kept twice every Year, viz. within a Month after Eaſter, and about the ſame time after Michael-mas. From this Court are exempted only Peers of the Realm, Clergy-men, and ſuch as have Hundreds of their own.

Sea-Turn. See Turnado.

Turn-Coat, one that goes over to another Party, or that changes his Religion.

Turn-Pike, (in the Art of War) a ſpar of Wood 12 or 14 Foot long, and 6 or 8 Inches Diameter, cut in form of a Hexagon, or Figure with ſix Angles; every ſide of it being bor'd full of Holes, thro' which Pickets, or ſhort Pikes are run, about 5 or 6 Foot long pointed with Iron, ſo that the Points ſtand out every Way: Theſe Turn-pikes are of great Uſe, to ſtop an Enemy, when ſet in a Breach, at the entrance of a Camp, or in any Gap.

Turn-ſole, a Plant ſo call'd becauſe its Flowers turn towards the Courſe of the Sun.

Turnado or Sea-Turn, a Wind which on ſome Coaſts, blows all Night from the Shore.

Turnament, (Fr.) Juſting, or Tilting, a War-like Exerciſe of armed Knights, or Gentlemen fighting one with another on Horſe-back, with Lances or Spears; a Sport much uſ'd in former Times, but now quite laid aſide.

Turnep, a well known Root that is very wholeſome, and more-eſpecially good in Conſumptions.

Turnetum or Tornetum, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Tax or Duty paid to the Sheriff, for holding his Turn, or County-Court.

Turney, a Word us'd in old Statutes for a Turnament, or Tilting.

Turning, (among Confectioners) a particular manner of paring Oranges, or Lemmons, when the outward Rind or Peel is par'd off very thin and narrow, with a little Knife proper for that purpoſe; turning it round about the Fruit, ſo as the Peel may be extended to a very great length without breaking.

Turno Vicecomitum, a Writ that lies for thoſe that are call'd to the Sheriff's Turn, or Court, out of their own Hundred.

Turpentine, a kind of clear Gum, or Roſin, iſſuing from the Turpentine-tree, the Larch, the Firr, and ſome other ſorts of Trees, which grow in great abundance in hot Countries.

Turpitude, (Lat.) Filthineſs, Baſeneſs, Shame.

Turquois. See Turcois.

Turrel, a kind of Tool us'd by Coopers.

Turret, a little Tower.

Turribulum. See Thuribulum.

Turritis, (Lat.) a ſort of Creſſes, an Herb.

Turſio or Tyrſio, a Sea-fiſh like a Dolphin, which ſome take for a Sturgeon, and others for a Porpoiſe.

Turtle, a ſort of Dove noted for its kind Diſpoſition and Chaſtity; living a ſingle Life, after the Death of its Mate: Alſo the Sea-tortoiſe, a Fiſh.

Turtur, (Lat.) the Turtle-dove.

Turunda, a Pellet of Bread, Dough, or Paſte, with which Capons are crammed: In Surgery, a Tent put into Wounds, or Ulcers.

Turundula, a ſmall Pellet, or Tent.

Tuſan. See Tutſan.

Tuſcan Order, (in Architect.) is that which was in uſe among the Tuſcans in Italy, in which the Column, or Pillar with the Baſe and Chapiter is to be ſeven Modules in Length, and to have its Thickneſs diminiſhed by Degrees, to a quarter Part: The Pedeſtal is one Module high, and the Baſe of the Column ought to be of the Height of half its Thickneſs.

Tuſcan Work, is the moſt ſimple and rude of the five ancient Orders of Pillars, ſo that it is ſeldom us'd except in Vaults in ſome Ruſtick Edifices, and vaſt Piles of Building; ſuch as the Amphitheatres, &c.

Tuſhes, the Name of four particular Teeth in a Horſe.

Tuſhes or Tuſks, (of a Wild Boar) the great Teeth that ſtand out.

To Tuſk, as Tuſk that Barbel, i. e. cut it up; a Term us'd in Carving at Table.

Tuſſilago, (Lat.) the Herb Foal-foot or Colts-foot, good for a Cough, ſhort Breath, Ulcer of the Lungs, and Conſumption.

Tuſſis, a Cough, a known Diſtemper.

To Tuſtle, to rumple, ruffle or touze.

Tut or Mound, an Imperial Enſign of a Golden Globe, with a Croſs on it.

Tut-mouthed, that has the Chin and Neither Jaw ſtanding out farther than the Upper.

Tutelage, (Lat.) Guardianſhip, Protection, properly of an Infant.

Tutelar or Tutelary, that performs the Office of a Guardian, that protects or defends.

Tutelary Angels, certain Angels that are ſaid to have the Protection of Kingdoms, Cities and particular Perſons.

Tutor, a private Maſter or Inſtructer, a Governour or Guardian.

Tutor in an Univerſity, is one that takes care to inſtruct and teach the Youth that are ſent thither from inferiour Schools; and the Scholar ſo taught is ſtyled the Tutor's Pupil.

To Tutor, to teach Manners, to ſchool or chide, to reprove or rebuke.

Tutoreſs, a Female Tutor, a Governante or Governeſs.

Tutſan or Tuſan, an excellent Wound-herb, otherwiſe call'd Park-leaves.

Tuty or Tutty, the Sparkles or Soot of Braſs, ſticking to the Furnace, which prepared according to Art, is very helpful for ſore Eyes, Cancers and ill-conditioned Ulcers

Tutty or Tuzzimuzzy, an old Word for a Noſe-gay.

Twain (old Word) Two; as The Vail of the Temple was rent in Twain, Mat. 27. 51.

Twaite (old Law-Term) a Wood grubbed up and turned into arable or ploughed Land.

Twang, a ſharp Sound, as of a Bow-String, &c. an ill ſound in one's Pronunciation; an Hogoe, or ill Taſte.

To Twang, to ſound like the String of a Muſical Inſtrument, or Whip, &c.

Twa-nights Geſte (Sax.) a Gueſt or Lodger for two Nights, for whom if he did any Harm, his Hoſt was not anſwerable but himſelf. See Third Night's awne-hinde.

Tway-blade, a ſort of Herb.

Tweag or Tweak, Perplexity, Trouble; as To be in a ſad Tweak.

Tweezers, Nippers or Pincers, to pull Hair up by the Roots.

Twelfhende, Twihind or Twihundne-men, (among our Saxon Anceſtours) the Ceorls or Huſbandmen of the lower Order, who were uſually valued at 200 Shillings; as the leſſer Thanes or Free-holders were valued at 600 Shillings, and thence ſtyled Syxehundne-men; and the Thanes or Noble-men rated at 1200 Shillings, who bore the Name of Twelfhundne-men.

Twelfth-Day or Twelfth-tide, the Feſtival of the Epiphany, appointed in remembrance of our Bleſſed Saviour's being made manifeſt to the Gentiles; and commonly ſo called, becauſe it is the Twelfth Day excluſively from the Nativity or Chriſtmas-Day.

Twelve Men, otherwiſe call'd the Jury or Inqueſt, is a Company of Twelve Perſons or upwards to the Number of Twenty four, by whoſe Oath, as to Matters of Fact, all Tryals paſs both in Civil and Criminal Cauſes, thro' all the Courts of the Common Law in this Realm.

Twibill, an Iron-Tool us'd by Paviers.

To Twifallow Ground, to till, or plough it a ſecond time.

Twight (Sax.) pulled.

Twigild See Angild.

Twilight (q. d. Double Light) Cock-ſhoot Time betwixt Day and Night; that doubtful half Light, which happens in the Dawn of the Morning juſt before Sun-riſing, and in the Dusk of the Evening a little after Sun-ſet.

To Twinge, to torment or gripe, to cauſe violent or ſharp Pains.

To Twinkle, to ſparkle as ſome Stars do, to wink often.

Twiſt, as the Twiſt of a Rope; alſo the Hollow on the in-ſide of the Thigh; alſo the Liquors Tea and Coffee mingled together: Among Carpenters, it is taken for a piece of Timber otherwiſe call'd The Girder.

To Twitch, to pinch, or pluck.

To Twitter, to ſneer, or laugh ſcornfully; to tremble, or ſhiver with cold.

Twivil, a Carpenter's Tool to make Mortiſe-holes with.

Two-penny Graſs, a kind of Herb.

To Twyer (Sax.) to ſing.

Tyhtlan, (old Saxon Law-Word) an Accuſation, Impeachment, or Charge for any Treſpaſs or Offence.

Tylus (Gr.) the Brawn, or Hardneſs of the Skin by much Labour: Alſo an Inſect that lies under Tiles and Stones, commonly call'd a Cheeſlip or Sow.

Tylwith, (Brit.) a Tribe or Family branching or iſſuing out of another; which in our Engliſh Heraldry, is call'd a Second or Third Houſe.

Tymborella, (Lat. Law-Word) a Tumbrel, or Ducking-ſtool.

Tympan, (Gr.) the Drum of the Ear: Alſo a Frame belonging to a Printing-Preſs cover'd with Parchment, on which every Sheet is plac'd in order to be printed off.

In Architecture, Tympan is that Part of the Bottom of Frontons or Pediments which is encloſed between the Cornices, and anſwers to the Naked of the Frize: It is alſo attributed to the Pannels of Doors in Joyners-Work, and to the Die or Square of Pedeſtals.

Tympan of an Arch, a Triangular Table plac'd in its Corners, and hollow'd ſometimes with the Branches of Laurel, Olive-Tree, or Oak; or with Trophies, according to the Dorick or Ionick Orders: But the richeſt are adorn'd with flying Figures as Fame, or ſitting Figures as thoſe of the Cardinal Vertues; which are proper for the Corinthian and Compoſite Orders.

Tympane, a kind of Muſical Inſtrument us'd in Germany.

Tympanites or Tympanias, the Tympany, a hard Swelling of the Belly; a kind of dry windy Dropſy, which cauſes the Skin in thoſe Parts, to ſtand out and ſound as it were a Drum.

Tympanum, a Drum, which among the Ancients was a thin piece of Skin or Leather ſtretch'd upon a Wooden or Iron-Circle, and beat with the Hand.

Tympanum or Tympani Membrana (in Anat.) the Drum or the Skin of the Drum of the Ear: 'Tis a ſmall, thin, round, tranſparent, nervous and dry Membrane of moſt exquiſite Senſe, which lies over the Hollow of the inner part of the Ear, and is the Inſtrument of Hearing.

In Mechanicks, Tympanum is much the ſame with the Peritrochium, being a kind of Wheel plac'd on an Axis or Cylindrical Beam, on the top of which are fixed Staves or Leavers for the more eaſy turning the Axis about, in order to raiſe the Weight required: But the Cylinder of the Tympanum is larger and ſhorter than that of the common Cylinder or Axis in Peritrochio

Type, the Figure, Shadow, or Repreſentation of a Thing; a Model, or Pattern.

Typha, Typh-Wheat, a ſort of Corn much like our Rie.

Typha aquatica, Water-torch, Cats-tail or Reed-Mace, an Herb.

Typhodes, a continual burning Feaver, as it were from an Inflammation of the Bowels.

Typhomania, Dotage, or Frenzy, accompany'd with a Lethargy.

Typhon, a violent Whirl-wind, a Hurricane; alſo a fiery Meteor, or Impreſſion in the Air.

Typhos, Smoak; a windy puffing up, or Swelling; alſo Arrogance, or Pride.

Typhlops, the Blind-worm, an Inſect, which is not really blind, but has very ſmall Eyes.

Typical, belonging to a Type or Figure.

† Typographer, a Printer.

Typographical, belonging to Typography.

Typography, Printing, or the Art of Printing.

Typus, a Type or Figure, an Example, a Mould; a Character, or Letter. In the Art of Phyſick, the Order that intermitting Feavers obſerve; conſiſting of Intenſion and Remiſſion, or Encreaſing and Decreaſing, according to ſome kind of Regularity: It is otherwiſe termed Periodus and Circuitus.

Tyrannical or Tyrannous, belonging to Tyranny, imperious, cruel, violent, unjuſt.

Tyrannicide, the murder of a Tyrant, or a Tyrant-killer.

To Tyrannize, to play the Tyrant, or uſe tyrannically; to oppreſs, or lord it over. The Paſſions are Figuratively ſaid To Tyrannize over the Soul.

Tyranny, cruel and violent Empire, or Dominion unlawfully uſurped, arbitrary and abſolute Power; outragious Cruelty, Oppreſſion or Violence.

Tyrant, one that has invaded, or uſurped the Soveraign Power in a State; Alſo a Prince, tho' lawful, that governs with Cruelty and Injuſtice; any one that abuſes his Authority, a cruel Governour, an Oppreſſour.

Tyriaſis, (Gr.) the Leproſy, a Diſeaſe.

Tyro, (Lat.) a new freſh-Water Soldier, a Novice, an Apprentice.

Tyrocinium, the firſt Exerciſe, or new beginning in any Art or Faculty; an Apprentiſhip.

Tyros, (Gr.) Cheeſe.

Tyroſis, (among ſome Writers in Phyſick) is when Milk that is eaten curdles in the Stomach into a Subſtance like Cheeſe.

Tyrotarichus, a kind of Meat made of powder'd Fleſh and Cheeſe; an old Cheeſe full of Mites.

Tyrſio, the Porpoiſe; a Sea-Fiſh.

Tyrunculus, (Lat.) a very young Soldier, Scholar, or Beginner in any Art or Trade.

V A

Vacancy, (Lat.) a being vacant, an empty Space, a void Place, or Dignity; as The Vacancy of a Biſhop's See: Alſo time of Leaſure.

Vacant, that is at leaſure, or has nothing to do, void; that is not filled up; as A vacant Benefice, or Office.

Vacant Cylinder. See Cylinder.

Vacaria, (in old Latin Records) a void Place or waſte Ground.

To Vacate, to empty, to annul or make void.

Vacation, a being at leiſure, or ceaſing from Buſineſs: In a Law-Senſe, the time between the end of one Term, and the beginning of another: Alſo the time from the Death of a Biſhop, or other Spiritual Perſon, till the Biſhoprick, or other Benefice be ſupply'd by another.

Vacation-Barriſters. See Barriſters.

Vacatura, (Latin, Law-Word) a Vacancy or Voidance of any Spiritual Living that ſhall hereafter happen; as Prima aut proxima Vacatura, i. e. the Firſt or next Voidance.

Vacca, (Lat.) a Cow. Vacca Lactearea, or Lactaria, a Milch-Cow.

Vaccaria, the Herb Cow-baſil or Thorough-wax, Decoctions of which in Wine, or the Leaves powder'd are good for Ruptures and Bruiſes.

Vaccarius, (in ancient Deeds) the Cow-herd, Cow-keeper, or Herdſman, who looks after the Common Herd of Cows.

Vaccary or Vacchary, a Houſe or Place to keep Cows in; a Dairy, or Milk-houſe: It is alſo taken in Stat. 37. H. 8. for a certain compaſs of Ground within the Foreſt of Aſhdown.

Vaccinium, (Lat.) a Black-berry, a Bilberry, or Hurtle-berry; alſo a Violet-flower.

Vaccula, a little, or young Cow; an Heifer.

Vachivia, (in old Records) a Vacchary or Dairy.

† Vacillation, a reeling, tottering, or ſtaggering; a joggling, or waggling; a wavering; Irreſolution, Uncertainty, Quandary.

Vacinium, (Lat.) the Flower of the Plant Hyacinthus, or Crow-Toes.

Vacuation. See Evacuation.

Vacui Dies, (among Phyſicians) are thoſe Days in which an imperfect and ill Criſis of a Diſtemper often happens, viz. the 6th. 8th. 10th. 12th. 16th. 18th, &c. Theſe are alſo termed Medicinal Days, becauſe Medicines may be given on them.

Vacuity, Emptineſs, void Space.

Vacuum, (in Philoſ.) a Space devoid of all Body: And this is diſtinguiſh'd into a Vacuum Diſſeminatum, or Interſperſum, i. e. ſmall void Spaces ſpread about between the Particles of Bodies: Or a Vacuum Coacervatum, which is a larger void Space, made by the meeting together of the ſeveral Diſſeminate or Interſperſed Vacuities but now mentioned.

Vadari aliquem, (in the Roman Law) to oblige a Perſon to give Security, that promiſes to appear in Court on a certain Day.

Vade Mecum, (i. e. go along with me) a Name given to any ſmall Treatiſe or Book, which a Man may conveniently carry about him, where-ever he travels.

Vadiare Duellum, (among ancient Writers) to wage a Combat. When a Perſon challeng'd another to decide a Controverſy by Camp-fight or Duel, and threw down a Gauntlet, or the like Sign of Defiance, if the other took it up; this was Vadiare Duellum, q. d. to give and take a mutual Pledge of fighting.

Vadimonium, (Roman Law-Term) a Promiſe or Bond for Appearance before a Judge at a Day appointed; a Recognizance.

Vadimonium deſerere, to make a Default, not to appear in Court according to Order, to forfeit his Recognizance.

In Vadio exponere, to pawn or leave any Equivalent, as a Pledge or Surety of returning Money borrowed, or owing.

Vadium, Wages, Salary, or other Reward of Service, upon Covenant or Agreement.

Vadium Mortuum, a Mortgage, Lands or Goods, ſo pawned or engaged to the Creditor, that he has a Right to the mean Profits for the Uſe of his Loan or Debt.

Per Vadium ponere, to take Security, Bail, or Pledges for the Appearance of an Offender in ſome Court of Juſtice.

† Vafrous, ſubtil, crafty, ſly, ſharp.

Vaga Arthritis. See Arthritis Vaga.

Vagabond, a wand'ring Begger, or idle Fellow that has no certain Place of Abode.

Vagary. See Figary.

Vagina, (Lat.) a Scabbard, a Sheath, a Caſe. Vagina Uteri, the Neck of the Womb.

Vaginalis. See Elythroides.

Vagrancy, a vagrant, diſorderly, or ill Courſe of Life.

Vagrant, wand'ring, or roving up and down; unruly.

A Vagrant, a Vagabond, or idle Fellow.

Vail, a piece of Stuff that ſerves to hide, or hinder any thing from being ſeen.

To Vail the Bonnet, to put off one's Hat, or give any Sign of Reſpect: In Sea-Affairs, to ſtrike Sail, in token of Sub miſſion.

Vails, Profits that ariſe to Officers or Servants, beſides their Salary or Wages.

Vain, (Lat.) empty, fooliſh, frivolous, uſeleſs, unprofitable.

Vain-glorious, full of Vain-glory.

Vain-Glory, a boaſting in vain, without Merit, to no benefit or purpoſe.

Vairy or Verry, (in Heraldry) is when the Field of a Coat of Arms is checker'd in two Colours, with the Figures of little Bells; ſo that if theſe Colours be Argent and Azure, 'tis Vairy Proper, and enough to ſay Vairy alone; but if the Colours are any other, they muſt be expreſsly named.

Vairy Coppy or Potent Counter-Potent, is a Bearing, in Heraldry, like the former; the Checker Work being in ſhape of Hammers or Mallets; but the Colours muſt be expreſs'd in blazoning the Coat; as Azure and Argent, &c.

Valect, Valet, or Vadelect, anciently ſignify'd a young Gentleman even of good Deſcent or Quality, but the Title is now given to the rank of Yeomen; a Servitour or Gentleman of the Privy-Chamber: In the Accounts of the Inner-Temple it is taken for a Bencher's Clerk or Servant, corruptly call'd Varlet, by the Butler of the Houſe.

Valediction, (Lat.) a Farewell, or taking leave of one.

Valedictory, belonging to ſuch an Act; as A valedictory Oration, i. e. Farewell-Speech.

Valentine, a certain Roman Biſhop, whoſe Feſtival is kept Febr. 14th. Whence among the Papiſts, thoſe Saints that are choſen as Patrons for the Year enſuing are call'd Valentines; and in England, the Cuſtom of chuſing Valentines, or ſpecial loving Friends among Young Men and Maidens, on that Day; about which Time, the Birds chuſe their Mates, and begin to couple.

Valentinians, a Sect of Hereticks ſet up by one Valentinianus.

Valerian, a Phyſical Herb us'd in Antidotes againſt the Plague and bitings of venomous Creatures; being alſo of great Efficacy againſt the Strangury and difficulty of Urine: It is otherwiſe call'd Set-Wall, and Capons-tail.

Valet, (Fr.) a Servitour, or mean Servant. See Valect.

Valet de Chambre, one that waits upon a Prince, or Perſon of Quality in his Bed-Chamber.

Valetudinary, (Lat.) ſickly, crazy, ſubject to Sickneſs, often indiſpoſed.

A Valetudinary, an Hoſpital, or Houſe for the Entertainment of ſick People.

Valetudo, (Lat.) a good, or ill Diſpoſition of the Parts of the Body.

Valgus, that has his Legs bowed outward, bow-legged, bandy-legged, ſhambling.

Valiant, (Fr.) bold and daring in Fight, full of Metal and Courage, ſtout, brave.

Valid, (Lat.) Authentick, Concluſive, binding; done in due Form, good in Law.

Validity, Strength, Power, Force, the authentickneſs or binding force of an Inſtrument, or Deed.

Vallar Crown. See Corona Caſtrenſis and Vallaris.

Valley or Vale, a hollow Place, or ſpace of Ground, encloſed or ſurrounded by Hills.

Valor, Vallow or Vate, (Country-Word) a hollow Mould in which a Cheeſe is preſs'd.

Valombreux, an Order of Monks founded by one Gualbert a Florentine, who betook himſelf to a ſolitary ſtudious Life in a Place call'd Valombre, i. e. The ſhady Valley.

Valore Maritagii or Value of Marriage, a Writ that lies for the Lord having proffer'd convenient Marriage to the Infant, without Diſparagement, if he refuſe to take the Lord's Offer, to recover the value of the Marriage.

Valour, Courage, Stoutneſs, Bravery.

Valuable, that is of great Value, important, weighty.

Valvaſour. See Vavaſour.

Value, Worth, Price, Eſteem.

Valves, are little thin Membranes, or Skins like folding Doors as it were, in the Veins and Arteries; as alſo in the Lymphatick and Lacteal Veſſels, and as ſome ſay, even in the Muſculous Fibres: They ſerve to hinder the Blood and other Humours from returning the ſame Way they came.

Valves, are alſo found in the Entrails, in the ſmall and great Guts, eſpecially in the Jejunum, and about the beginning of the Ileum, which are call'd Semi-circular from their Figure: The Uſe of them is to ſtop the Meat a little, that it may be the better fermented, and to keep it from aſcending or returning again.

Valvula, (Lat.) a Valve, or Fold in the Veſſels.

Valvula Major, the upper Part, or cover of the Iſthmus, which lies between the Teſtes and the foremoſt Worm-like Proceſs of the Cerebellum, or leſſer Brain: 'Tis of a marrowy Subſtance, and its Uſe is to keep the Lympha from falling out above the Nerves in the Baſis of the Scull.

Valvulæ Conniventes, thoſe Wrinkles that are found in the Gut Ileum and Jejunum: For the inner Coat of thoſe Guts being longer than the middle or the outward one, it wrinkles or bags out in many Places; ſo that the Paſſages being ſtraighten'd, the Matter contained in them deſcends more ſlowly, and the Lacteal Veſſels have the more time to draw in the Chyle.

Vambrace, Armour for the Arm.

Vamp, the Upper Leather of a Shooe.

Vamps or Vampays, an odd kind of ſhort Hoſe, or Stockings that cover'd the Feet, and came up only to the Ancle, juſt above the Shooe; the Breeches reaching down to the Calf of the Leg: Whence to graft a new Footing on old Stockings is ſtill call'd Vamping.

To Vamp or New-Vamp, to mend, or furbiſh up.

Vamplate, a Gauntlet, or Iron-Glove.

Van or Vanguard, (in the Art of War) the firſt Line of an Army drawn up in Battalia, which gives the firſt Charge upon the Enemy; the Front or foremoſt Part of any Body, or Bodies of Men.

Van-couriers or Vant-curriers, light-armed Soldiers ſent before to beat the Road, upon the approach of an Enemy.

Vane or Fane, a Device ſet on the top of a Houſe or other Building, to ſhew the turning and ſetting of the Wind; a Weather-cock.

Vanes (among Sea-men) thoſe Sights which are made to move and ſlide upon Croſs-ſtaves, Fore-ſtaves, Davis-Quadrants, &c.

Vanga, (in ancient Writers) a Spade, or Mattock; a Tool for digging.

To Vaniſh or Vaniſh away, (Fr.) to diſappear, to go out of Sight, to come to nought.

Vanity, (Lat.) Vainneſs, Emptineſs, Unprofitableneſs; Vain-Glory, Preſumption, Pride.

Vanned, fanned, or winnowed.

Vannellus, (Lat.) the Lapwing, or Baſtard Plover; a Bird.

Vannus, a Van, or Fan to winnow Corn; In old Records, a Vane, or Weather-cock.

To Vanquiſh, (Fr.) to ſubdue, overcome, or conquer; to worſt, to get the better of.

Vant-curriers. See Van-couriers.

Vantage, that which is given over and above juſt Weight and Meaſure; Overplus.

Vantarius, (old Latin Law-Word) a Fore-runner, or Footman; as Sir Richard Rockeſley held Lands at Seaton by Sergeanty, to be Vantarius Regis in Gaſcoigne, donec peruſus fuerit pari ſolutarum pretii quatuor denariorum, i. e. to be Fore-footman to the King, in Gaſcoigne, till he had worn out a pair of Shooes of Four Pence Value.

Vapid, palled, or dead; as Vapid Wine.

Vaporarium, (Lat.) a Stew, or Stove; a Bagnio, or Hot-houſe to ſweat in: Alſo a Decoction of Herbs and other Ingredients pour'd boiling-hot into a Veſſel and plac'd ſo as the Patient ſitting over it may receive the Fumes thro' an hole in the Chair, into the Fundament, or Womb.

Vaporation, a ſending forth of Vapours, or Fumes.

Vaporoſum Balneum, See Balneum Vaporis.

Vaporous, belonging to, or full of Vapours.

Vapour, a watery Exhalation, or Steam rais'd by Fire, the Heat of the Sun, that under Ground, or any other accidental Heat: In a Medical Senſe, Vapours is taken for a Diſeaſe, otherwiſe call'd Hyſterick or Hypochondriack Fits, i. e. Fits of the Mother, or Melancholy.

To Vapour, to huff; to crack, boaſt, or barg.

Vardingale. See Fardingale.

Variable, ſubject to Variation, or Change; changeable, fickle, uncertain.

Variance, Enmity, Difference, Diſpute, Quarrel; In a Law-Senſe, an alteration or change of Condition, after a thing done; alſo an alteration of ſomething formerly laid in a Plea.

Variation, Alteration, Change. Alſo a Term in Aſtronomy, which according to Tycho Brahe, is the third Inequality in the motion of the Moon, ariſing from her Apogæum's being changed; as her Syſtem is carried round the Sun by the Earth: But Bullialdus calls it the Moon's Reflection.

Variation of the Needle or Compaſs, is the declining or turning of the Magnetical Needle in the Mariners-Compaſs, from the true North-Point; which happens more or leſs in moſt Places, and is either Oriental, or Occidental.

Oriental Variation, is when the point of the Needle touch'd with the Load-ſtone, commonly call'd The Flower-de-luce, does not turn exactly towards the true North of the World, but deviates towards the Eaſt; and Occidental Variation, is when it declines towards the Weſt: Among Sea-men, 'tis uſually termed the North-Eaſting or North-Weſting of the Needle.

Variation of the Variation, is ſo call'd, becauſe the Variation of the Needle is not always the ſame in the ſame Place, but varies in proceſs of time from what it was.

Variciformes Paraſtatæ, (in Anat.) are two Veſſels near the Neck of the Bladder, ſo nam'd, becauſe they have many Turnings, for the better bringing of the Natural Semen to Perfection.

Varicoſum Corpus, that Contexture, or Net-work of Seed-Veſſels, which is let into the Teſticles.

Variegated, ſtreaked, ſpeckled, or ſet off with divers Colours.

Variegation, a diverſifying, or beautifying with various Colours.

Variety, Diverſity, Change.

Variolæ, (Lat.) the Small-Pox, a Diſeaſe, which conſiſts in an infectious diſorder of the Blood, accompany'd with a continual wand'ring Feaver, Pain in the Head and Loins, Reſtleſneſs, and a breaking forth of Pimples or Wheals, which ſwell and at laſt come to run with Matter.

Various, ſeveral, divers, different, changeable.

Varius, (Lat.) the Minow, a ſmall River-fiſh.

Varix, a crooked Vein, ſwelling with melancholy Blood, eſpecially in the Legs. See Cirſus.

Varlet, a ſorry Wretch, a pitiful Drudge; a Rogue, or Raſcal. In a repealed Statute of 20 Rich. 2. Varlets are taken for Yeomen, or Yeomen-Servants. See Valect.

Varniſh, a Compound of Gum, Spirit of Wine and other Ingredients, which ſerves to ſet a fine Gloſs on Cabinets, Cheſts of Drawers, &c. Alſo a Liquor made of Sandarach, or Juniper-Gum, with which Pictures and Maps are rubbed over, to make them ſhine and have a Gloſs: Alſo a kind of Ground which Engravers lay upon a Copper-Plate that is to be etched.

Varvels, ſmall Silver-Rings about a Hawk's Legs, having the Owner's Name engraven on them.

Varus, that has crooked Legs bending inwards, miſ-ſhapen, ſcambling, uneven; alſo a kind of Swelling. See Ionthus.

To Vary, to diverſify, to alter or change, to be fickle or unſteady, to falter in one's Anſwers; to diſagree with, or differ from one's ſelf.

Vas, (Lat.) any kind of Veſſel, Vas Breve. See Breve Vas.

Vaſa, (in Anat.) the Veſſels or hollow Pipes thro' which the Humours of the Body paſs; as the Veins, Arteries, Lymphatick Veſſels, thoſe that convey the Chyle, Spittle, &c.

Vaſa Capillaria. See Capillary Veins.

Vaſa Deferentia, are thoſe Veſſels that carry the Semen from the Teſticles to the Veſiculæ Seminales.

Vaſa Lactea, the milky Veſſels in the Meſentery, that ſerve for conveying the white Juice, call'd Chyle, to the little Bag that holds it, and from thence to the Ductus, or Paſſage leading to the Breaſt.

Vaſa Lymphatica. See Lymphatick Veſſels.

Vaſa Præparantia. See Preparantia Vaſa.

Vaſa Seminalia or Vaſa Spermatica, thoſe Arteries and Veins which paſs to the Teſticles.

Vaſculiferous Plants, (among Herbaliſts) thoſe Herbs which beſides the common Calyx or Flower-Cup, have a peculiar Veſſel or Caſe to hold their Seed; one belonging to each Flower, but ſometimes divided into diſtinct Cells.

Vaſe, a ſort of Flower-Pot ſet in a Garden: In Architecture, an Ornament above the Cornice.

Vaſſal, one that holds Lands of another by Homage and Fealty, a Tenant in Fee; alſo a Slave, or mean Servant.

Vaſſalage, the Condition, or Duty of a Vaſſal.

Vaſſaleus, (Lat. Law-word) a Vaſſal, who, according to Skene, is obliged to ſerve and ſhew reſpect to his Maſter, and yet is in a manner his Companion; being either Homologus or non homologus: The former is he that ſwears Service with exception of a higher Lord; and the latter is he that ſwears without Exception.

Vaſſeleria, Vaſſalage, or Tenure of a Vaſſal.

Vaſt, huge, large, ſpacious, great; whence it is Figuratively ſaid, A vaſt Fancy, a vaſt Wit, vaſt Parts, &c.

Vaſtellum, (in old Latin Deeds) a Waſtel-Bowl, or Piece of Plate ſet at the upper End of an Abbot's Table, with which he us'd to begin the Health or Grace-Cup to Strangers, or to his Fraternity. See Waſſel and Waſſel-Bowl.

Vaſti Muſculi, (in Anat.) certain Muſcles that help to ſtretch out the Leg, and are of two ſorts, viz. outward, and inward. See Vaſtus Externus & Internus.

Vaſtity or Vaſtneſs, exceſſive Bigneſs, or Hugeneſs; great Extent.

Vaſto, a Writ that lies for the Heir, againſt the Tenant for Term of Years or of Life, for making Waſte; or for him in the Reverſion, or Remainder.

Vaſtum, (in old Law-Records) a Waſte or Common, lying open to the Cattel of all Tenants, that have a Right of Commoning.

Vaſtum Foreſtæ vel Boſci, that part of a Foreſt or Wood, where the Trees and Under-Wood were ſo deſtroy'd, that it lay in a manner waſte and barren.

Vaſtus Externus, a Muſcle of the Leg, which is ſo named from its Bigneſs and Situation, and takes riſe from the outward part of the great Trochanter and Linea Aſpera of the Thigh-bone.

Vaſtus Internus, another Muſcle of the Leg, that has likewiſe a large Beginning, continued from the Linea Aſpera on the back part of the Thigh-bone, from immediately below the leſſer Trochanter, till within Three Fingers breadth above the lower Appendix of the ſaid Bone: At laſt its Tendon joyns thoſe of the Rectus, Vaſtus Externus, and Crureus, and is inſerted with them.

Vat or Fat, a kind of Veſſel to hold Beer, Ale, Cider, or any other Liquor in its Preparation.

Vate. See Vallor.

Vatican, one of the ſmall Hills of Rome, ſo called from Vaticinia, i. e. the Reſponſes and Oracles anciently there received: On this Hill ſtands a famous Palace of the ſame Name, with a Library founded by Pope Sixtus IV. who ſtor'd it with the choiceſt Books he could pick out of Europe, and allow'd a large Revenue for its perpetual Improvement.

Vaticination, a foretelling, prophecying, or ſooth-ſaying; a Prophecy.

Vavaſory, Lands held by a Vavaſour.

Vavaſour or Valvaſour, a Noble-man in old Times, who was next in Dignity to a Baron.

† Vaudevil, (Fr.) a Country-Ballad, or Song.

Vaudois, a Name given to certain People, who ſhook off the Superſtitions of Rome under Peter Valdo, a Citizen of Lyons, about the Year 1060, and whoſe Poſterity now inhabit the Vallies of Piedmont.

Vault, a round Roof built like an Arch; an arched Building: Alſo a particular Place under Ground, to lay Dead Bodies in; alſo a Neceſſary-Houſe.

To Vault, to cover Arch-wiſe: Alſo to leap or carry one's Body cleverly over a wooden Horſe made for that purpoſe, or over any thing of a conſiderable height; reſting one Hand upon the Thing it ſelf.

To Vaunt, to boaſt, brag, glory, or vapour.

Vauntlay, (among Hunters) a ſetting of Hounds in a readineſs, where the Chace is to paſs, and caſting off before the reſt of the Kennel come in.

Vaumure, (old Word) a Bulwark or Outwork for Defence againſt an Enemy.

Vauward, an obſolete Word for Van-Guard.

Vayvode, a Prince or chief Ruler of Tranſylvania, Valachia, and Moldavia, who is Tributary to the Emperour of the Turks.

Uber, (Latin) a Breaſt or Teat; a Pap, or Udder.

Ubiquiſte, a Divinity-Doctor that belongs to no particular College in the Univerſity of Paris.

Ubiquitarians, a Sect of Hereticks holding Chriſt's Body, as well as his Godhead, to be every where.

Ubiquity, a being in all Places at one time; Omnipreſence.

Vea, Vea, Vea, a Cry made by Sea-men, when they work or pull ſtrongly together.

Veal-Money, or Veal-noble-Money, a yearly Rent paid by the Tenants of one of the Tithings, within the Manour of Bradford in Wilt-ſhire, to their Lord, the Marqueſs of Wincheſter, inſtead of a certain Quantity of Veal formerly given in kind.

Vectis, (Lat.) an Iron-crow, a Leaver fitted for the raiſing or bearing of heavy Bodies; which is the Firſt of the Six Mechanick Powers or Principles: Alſo a Surgeon's Trepan or Trepand-iron, an Inſtrument us'd in great Fractures of the Scull.

Vector, (in the new Aſtron.) is a Line ſuppoſed to be drawn from any Planet moving round a Center, or the Focus of an Ellipſis to that Center; ſo called as being that Line by which the Planet ſeems to be carry'd round its Center, and with which it deſcribes proportionable Area's in proportionable Times.

Vedette, (Fr. in the Art of War) a Sentinel on Horſe-back, detached from the Main Body of the Army to diſcover and give notice of the Enemies Deſigns, or to guard an advanced Poſt.

To Veer, a Term us'd at Sea, when the Wind chops about, and changes often, ſometimes to one Point, ſometimes to another, and that ſuddenly, as in Storms; the uſual Phraſe being The Wind Veers.

To Veer out a Rope, is to put it out by Hand, or to let it run out of it ſelf; as Veer more Cable, i. e. let more of it run out: But this Word is not apply'd to any Running-Rope, except the Sheats.

Veering, as a Ship is ſaid, To go loſt Veering, i. e. at large, neither by a Wind, nor directly before the Wind, but betwixt both, when ſhe Sails with the Sheat veered out; which is alſo termed Quartering.

Vegetable, capable of living after the manner of Plants, Trees, &c. endued with Vigour, Moiſture, and Growth.

Vegetables, are ſuch Natural Bodies as grow and encreaſe from Parts organically framed; but have no proper Life or Senſe.

Vegetation, the way of Growth or Encreaſe of Bulk, Dimenſions, and Parts; which is peculiar to all Trees, Shrubs, Plants, and Minerals.

Vegetative, that quickens, or cauſes ſuch Growth.

Vegete, that has a growing Life, lively, quick, ſound.

Vehemence or Vehemency, Paſſion, Heat, Boiſterouſneſs, Fierceneſs, Eagerneſs, Earneſtneſs.

Vehement, violent, paſſionate, fierce, ſtrong, eager, ſharp.

Vehicle, a general Name for that which ſerves to carry or bear any Thing along; as The Pythagoreans, Platoniſts, and others hold, that even the pureſt Angels have Bodily Vehicles. Thus the Serum, or watery Humour, is ſaid to be the Vehicle which conveys the ſmall parts of the Blood, and to diſperſe them all over the Body.

Among Phyſicians, that Liquor, in which any Powder, or ſuch like Medicine is mix'd, to render it more fit to be ſwallow'd, is called a proper Vehicle for it.

Veins (in Anat.) are long and round Canals or Pipes which conſiſt of four Coats, viz. a Nervous, a Glandulous, a Muſcular, and a Membranous one; their Office being to receive the Blood that remains after the Nouriſhment is taken, and to carry it back to the Heart to be revived and improved; Theſe Veins have ſeveral Names according to the different Parts they paſs thro'; as the Axillary, the Baſilick, the Cephalick, the Hepatick, the Pulmonary, &c. which See in their proper Places.

Vein is alſo taken for the particular Nature or Quality of any Bed of Earth that is digged in Mines or Pits; in which Senſe 'tis ſaid, They met with a Vein of Gold, Silver, Lead or Coals, &c.

Veiny, belonging to, or full of Veins.

Veſours (Fr. Law-Term) ſuch as are ſent by the Court to take View of any Place in Queſtion, for the better Deciſion of the Right: Alſo Perſons ſent to view thoſe that eſſoign or abſent themſelves de malo Lecti, whether they be really ſo ſick as not to be able to appear, or whether they counterfeit: Alſo thoſe that are appointed to view an Offence, as a Man murdered, or a Virgin raviſhed; &c.

Velamen or Velamentum (Lat.) a Covering, a Carpet or Coverlet; alſo the Bag, Skin, or Bladder of an Impoſtume or Swelling.

Velamentum Bombycinum, the Velvet-Membrane, or Skin of the Guts.

† Velitation, a Skirmiſhing; a Quarrelling or Bickering in Words.

Velites, (Lat.) the light-armed Soldiers among the Ancient Romans. See Triarii.

Vellam, a ſort of Parchment made of Calves-skin dreſs'd more ſmooth and fine than ordinary.

Velleity (Lat. in Philoſ.) a wiſhing or woulding.

To Vellicate, to twitch, pluck, or nip.

Vellication, a plucking, twitching or giving a ſudden Pull: In a Chirurgical Senſe, Vellications are certain Convulſions that happen in the Fibres of the Muſcles.

Velling, ploughing up by the Turf; a Term us'd by Husbandmen in the Weſtern parts of England.

Velocity (Lat.) Swiftneſs, Nimbleneſs.

Velours (Fr.) a Velvet-Rubber for a Hat.

Veltraria (in old Latin Records) the Office of a Dog-leader, or Courſer.

Veltrarius, one that leads Gray-hounds or Hunting-dogs, which in Germany are call'd Welters, in Italy, Veltro's; and in France, Veautres; whence the corrupted Word Feuterer is us'd in ſome Parts of England, for a Dog-keeper.

Velvet, a ſort of Silk-Manufacture.

Velvet-Flower. See Floramour.

Velvet-Runner, a Water-Fowl, whoſe Feathers are black and ſmooth as Velvet.

Velum, (Lat.) a Veil, a Curtain.

Velum Quadrigeſimale (in Ancient Records) a Veil or piece of Hanging formerly drawn before the Altar in Lent, as a Token of Mourning and Sorrow.

Vena, a Vein, a Veſſel in an Animal Body that receives and brings back the Blood from the Arteries. See Veins.

Vena Azygos. See Azygos.

Vena Cava, the largeſt Vein in the Body, ſo named from its great Cavity or hollow Space, into which as into a common Channel all the leſſer Veins except the Pulmonaris empty themſelves; being divided into two thick Branches call'd the Aſcending and Deſcending Trunks. This Vein receiving the Blood from the Liver and other Parts, carries it to the Right Ventricle of the Heart, that it may be there a-new improved and inſpirited.

Vena Portæ, the Port-Vein, which takes Name from the two Eminences call'd by Hippocrates πύλαι i. e. Portæ or Gates, between which it enters the Liver.

Venæ Lacteæ, the Lacteal or Milky Veins, ſo nam'd from the White Colour of the Chyle which is carry'd by them: They ariſe from the innermoſt Membrane of the Bowels, and paſs to the Glandules of the Meſentery.

Venæ Lymphaticæ. See Lymphatick Veſſels.

Venæ Præputii, certain Veins that ariſe from the capillary Ends of the Artery of the Penis call'd Pudenda, and paſs into thoſe Veins which ſpring from the Corpora cavernoſa Penis.

Venæ Sectio, the opening of a Vein, a letting Blood.

Venal, that is to be ſold, that does any thing for Gain; mean, baſe.

Venality, the being Venal, or Saleable.

Venatick, belonging to Hunting or Chaſing.

Venatio (Lat.) the Exerciſe of Hunting, or Chaſing; but it is oftner us'd in our old Records, for the Prey taken, or Veniſon.

To Vend, to ſell or ſet to Sale, to put off Commodities.

Vendee (Law-Word) the Perſon to whom any thing is ſold, the Purchaſer.

Vendible, that is to be ſold; alſo that may be put off, ſaleable, fit for Sale.

† Vendication, a challenging to one's ſelf, a claiming.

Venditioni Exponas, a Judicial Writ directed to the Under-Sheriff enjoyning him to ſell Goods, which by Order, he had formerly taken into his Hands, for the ſatisfying a Judgment given in the Queen's Court.

Venditor Regis, the King's Seller or Sales-man, who expos'd to Sale thoſe Goods and Chattels that were diſtrain'd or ſeized, to anſwer any Debt due to the King.

Vendor, a Law-Word for a Seller.

Veneering, a ſort of in-laid Work among Joyners, Cabinet-makers, &c.

† Venefick, belonging to the Art of making Poiſons, poiſoning.

Venenum (Lat.) Venom, Poiſon.

Venerable, reverend, worſhipful, worthy of Reſpect.

To Venerate, to reverence, reſpect, or honour.

Veneration, Reverence, great Reſpect.

Venereal or Venereous, belonging to Venus the Goddeſs of Luſt.

Venereal Bubo. See Bubo.

Venereal Diſeaſe, a virulent and contagious Diſtemper, occaſion'd by immoderate Venery or Coupling of unſound Perſons, and commonly call'd the French Pox. See Lues Venerea.

Venereal Tumours. See Tumours.

Veneris Oeſtrum, the ſame with Clitoris.

Venery, the Act of Carnal Copulation, Luſtfulneſs; alſo the Art, or Exerciſe of Hunting.

Venew. See Venue.

Vengeance (Fr.) Revenge.

Venial (Lat.) that may be pardoned or forgiven, pardonable; as A Venial Sin, or Fault.

Venire facias, a Judicial Writ that lies where two Parties plead and come to Iſſue, for ſummoning twelve Men of the ſame County upon the Jury, to try the Cauſe. It is alſo a Proceſs upon an Audita Querela, or upon an Indictment in the Queen's-Bench.

Veniſon, the Fleſh of a Buck, Doe, or other wild Beaſt of Chace.

Venitarium (Lat.) the Hymn-book or Pſalter, in which the Pſalm Venite exultemus Domino, i. e. O come let us ſing unto the Lord, &c. was wrote with Muſical Notes, as it was to be ſung in Cathedral Churches at the beginning of Matins.

Venom, a certain malignant Quality in ſome Creatures and Plants, which is dangerous and deſtructive to others; Poiſon.

Venomous, full of Venom or Poiſon; poiſonous.

Vent, Air or Wind; as To give Vent to a Cask of Wine; alſo the ſale or uttering of Commodities: In Gunnery, the Difference between the Diameter of a Bullet, and the Diameter of the Bore of the Piece of Ordinance.

To Vent, to wind as a Spaniel-Dog does; to take Breath like an Otter; to diſcloſe, or reveal a Secret; to utter, or declare one's Thoughts; to let one's Paſſions breath out; to vend, or ſell off Goods, &c.

Venter, (Lat.) the Belly or Paunch: Among Anatomiſts, it is taken for a conſiderable Cavity or hollow Space in the Body of a Living-Creature, which is threefold; viz. the uppermoſt in the Head, the middle one in the Cheſt, and the Lowermoſt in the Belly. The Word is alſo us'd in this Engliſh Expreſſion, A Brother by the ſame Venter, i. e. by one Mother. Alſo one of the four Stomachs of Beaſts that chew the Cud. See Abomaſum.

Venter Equinus, a Chymical Term for Horſe-Dung.

Venter Infimus, (in Anat.) the lower part of the Belly, otherwiſe call'd Hypogaſtrium.

Ventiduct, a conveyance of Wind by Pipes or otherwiſe.

To Ventilate, to give Vent; as To ventilate a Vein, i. e. to breath, or open it.

Ventilated, fanned or cooled; as When the Bloud is ventilated and purged from oppreſſing Vapours.

Ventilation, properly a vanning or winnowing of Corn; a fanning or cooling.

Ventorium, (in old Latin Records) a Wind-fan for winnowing Corn.

Ventoſe, a Cupping-Glaſs, eſpecially ſuch a one as Mr. Hawksbey, has lately invented, which is apply'd without Fire, by means of a ſmall Air-pump, and puts the Patient to no Pain or Fright.

Ventoſity, Windineſs, or Wind pent up in a Humane Body, which breeds Colicks, Gripes and other Diſeaſes.

Ventre, inſpiciendo, a Writ for the ſearch of a Woman that ſays ſhe is with Child, and upon that account with-holds Land from the next Heir at Law.

Ventricle, (i. e. a little Belly) the Stomach, a a skinny Bowel ſeated in the lower Belly, under the Midriff, between the Liver and the Spleen: It conſiſts of four Tunicks, or Coats, viz. a Nervous, Fibrous, Glandulous, and Membranous one; and its Office is, to ferment or digeſt the Meat.

Ventriculi Cerebri, the Ventricles of the Brain, or certain Folds in that Part, four in Number; being the Partitions or Sub-diviſions of the Fornix: They receive the Serous Humours, and convey them to the Noſtrils; ſerving as it were a Sink to drain away the Excrementitious Matter of the Brain.

Ventriculi Cordis, the Ventricles of the Heart, which are two large Holes, one on the Right and the other on the Left Side of the Heart: The former receiving the Blood from the Vena Cava, or great hollow Vein, ſends it to the Lungs; whilſt the other receives the Blood from the Lungs, and diſtributes it thro' the whole Body by the Aorta, or great Artery and its Branches.

Ventriculus, a Ventricle, the Stomach; alſo the Core in a Botch or Boil that is broken.

Ventriloquus, a Perſon that ſpeaks inwardly, or as it were from the Belly; as one does that is poſſeſſed with an Evil Spirit.

To Venture, to hazard, to run a Hazard, or Risk; to expoſe to Danger.

Ventureſome or Venturous, apt to venture too much, bold, hardy.

Venue or Venew, (Law-Word) a Neighbouring Place, or a Place near that where any thing that comes to be tryed, happens to be done; as Twelve of the Aſſize or Jury ought to be of the ſame Venue, where the Demand is made.

Venue or Veny, a Thruſt or Puſh in Fencing.

Venus, (Lat.) the Goddeſs of Beauty and Love among the ancient Heathens: Alſo one of the Seven Planets, the brighteſt of all the Stars except the Sun and Moon; by Aſtrologers, counted Feminine, and the leſſer Fortune: Among Chymiſts, Venus is taken for Copper-Metal; and in Heraldry, for the green Colour in the Coats of Kings, or Soveraign Princes.

Venus-Comb, Venus-Hair and Venus-Looking-Glaſs, the Names of ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Venus Navel-Wort, an Herb of great Efficacy in the healing of Sores, or Ulcers in the Kidneys: It is otherwiſe call'd Wall Penny-wort and Kidney-wort.

Vepres, (Lat.) a Brier, or Bramble.

Veracity, a ſaying Truth, the Quality, or Vertue of ſpeaking Truth.

Veratrum, an Herb call'd Hellebore.

Verb, (in Grammar) one of the principal Parts of Speech, which expreſſes doing, ſuffering, or being, in that Thing or Perſon to which it is joyn'd; and 'tis either Perſonal, which is conjugated or formed with Three Perſons throughout all the Moods and Tenſes; or Imperſonal, which is only found in the Third Perſon Singular.

There are alſo ſeveral ſorts of Latin Verbs, viz. 1. a Verb Neuter, which under an Active Termination, has ſuch a kind of Active Signification, as is not capable of a Paſſive, as Curro, I run. 2. a Verb Deponent, which under the Paſſive Termination, has an Active Signification; as Glorior, I boaſt. 3. a Verb Commune, which under a Paſſive Termination, has a Signification either Active or Paſſive, as Oſculor, I kiſs or am kiſſed.

Verbal, conſiſting in Words, or delivered only in Words; as a Verbal Promiſe, i. e. a Promiſe made by Word of Mouth. In Grammar, that comes from, or belongs to a Verb; as a Verbal Adjective.

Verbal Accidents. See Accident.

Verbals or Verbal Nouns, thoſe Nouns that are derived from Verbs; as Conſiderable, Conſideration, Conſidering, from the Verb, To conſider; Maker, Sollicitour, Saviour, from their reſpective Verbs, to make, to ſollicit, to ſave, &c.

Verbaſculum, (Lat.) the Cowſlip, Oxlip, or Primroſe; a Flower.

Verbaſcum, an Herb call'd Petty Mullein, Wooll-blade, Torch-weed, High-taper, and Longwort; good for Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, for a Cough, and Spitting of Bloud, &c.

Verbatim, Word for Word, in the ſame Words; as He repeated it Verbatim.

Verbena, the Herb Vervain, much us'd by the ancient Heathens in their Sacrifices, and thought to have ſomething that was Divine in it. See Vervain.

Verberation, a beating or ſtriking, a Term in Philoſophy; as The Verberation of the Air, after ſeveral manners, cauſes the Variety of Sounds.

Verboſe, full of Words, talkative.

Verboſity, a being verboſe, the uſing of many Words.

Verd. See Vert.

Verdant, (Fr.) green; as A verdant Meadow.

Verde or Verdea, a ſort of white Florentine Wine.

Verdegreaſe, the Ruſt of Copper gather'd by laying Plates of that Metal in Beds, with the Husks of preſſed Grapes, and then ſcraping off the Ruſt of the Plates made by lying in thoſe Husks for ſome time.

Verdegreaſe or Verdeter, (among Painters) is a ſort of Magiſtery of the common Verdegreaſe, which is diſſolv'd in diſtilled Vinegar, and then cryſtalliz'd in a cool Place. Theſe are termed Cryſtals of Venus made by Vinegar.

Verdello, a ſort of greeniſh Marble, ſo call'd by the Italians, who uſe it inſtead of a Touch-ſtone, for trying Gold and other Metals.

Verderer or Verderor, a Judicial Officer of the Queen's Foreſt, whoſe Buſineſs is properly to look to the Vert, and ſee it well maintain'd: He is ſworn to keep the Aſſizes of the Foreſt; as alſo to view, receive, and inroll the Attachments and Preſentments of all manner of Treſpaſſes relating to Vert and Veniſon therein.

Verdict, (Lat. q. Vere dictum, i. e. a Thing truly reported) the Anſwer of a Jury made upon any Cauſe Civil or Criminal, committed by the Court to their Examination, which Report, according to Law, is held true and warrantable: Verdict is alſo commonly taken to ſignify one's Judgment or Opinion about any thing.

Verditure, one of the Four Green Colours, chiefly us'd by Painters; the other Three being Bice, Verdegreaſe and Sap-Green.

Verdour or Verdure, the greenneſs of Trees, Herbs, Leaves, &c.

Verdoy, a Term us'd by Heralds, when the Bordure of a Coat of Arms is charged with any kinds or parts of green Plants, Flowers, Fruits, Leaves, Seeds, &c.

Verebot, (in old Records,) a Packet-Boat, or Tranſport-Veſſel.

Verectum, a Word us'd in Dooms-Day-Book for Fallow Ground.

Verecundium, (old Latin Law-word) Injury, Treſpaſs, Dammage.

Veredictum Aſſizæ, the Verdict of an Aſſize, becauſe the Aſſiſors are ſworn to declare the Truth, and therefore are call'd Juratores, or Jurors.

Veredus, a Poſt-Horſe, a Hunting-Nag.

Verenda, the privy Parts of a Man.

Veretrum, a Man's Yard.

Verge, (Fr.) a Rod, Switch, or Wand; a Sergeant's Mace: Alſo a Stick or Rod, whereby one is admitted Tenant, who holding it in his Hand, ſwears Fealty to the Lord of the Manour, and upon that account is ſtyl'd Tenant by the Verge: It is alſo taken for the Compaſs of the Queen's Court, which bounds the Juriſdiction of the Lord-Steward of the Queen's-Houſehold, and of the Coroner of the Queen's-Houſe: This Verge was formerly reputed to reach Twelve Miles round about, and takes Name from the Rod which the Marſhal bears as a Token of his Authority. The Spindle of the Ballance of a Watch is alſo termed the Verge.

† Verge of Land. See Yard-Land.

Verger, an Officer in a Cathedral or Collegiate Church, that goes before the Biſhop, Dean, &c. holding a Verge or Rod tipt with Silver: The Juſtices alſo ſometime had their Vergers walking before them, with white Wands in their Hands.

Veridical, (Lat.) ſpeaking the Truth.

Verification, a verifying, or proving.

To Verify, to prove, to make good: Alſo a Law-Term among the French, ſignifying to record Edicts or Decrees in their Parliaments.

† Veriſimility, the probability or likelihood of a Thing.

Verity. Truth; as The Verity of the Thing will appear.

Verjuice, the Juice of ſowr and unripe Grapes, proper for Sauces, &c.

Vermicelli, (Ital. i. e. little Worms) a ſort of Italian Diſh, made of very ſmall thin ſlips of Paſte, ſeaſon'd with white Pepper, Salt, and Milan-Cheeſe well grated; to be put into Potage or Soop, with ſome other Ingredients.

Vermiculares, (Lat. in Anat.) certain Muſcles, ſo called from their Figure reſembling ſmall Worms. See Lumbrical Muſcles and Lumbricales.

Vermicularis, Worm-graſs, the leſſer Houſeleek; the Herb Stone-crop, Mouſe-tail, or Wall-pepper.

Vermiculated, inlaid, embroidered, wrought with Checker-work, or ſmall Pieces of divers Colours.

Vermiculation, Worm-eating, the breeding of Worms in Trees, Herbs, or Fruits; alſo the griping of the Guts, a Diſeaſe.

Vermiculus, (Lat.) a little Worm; a Grub.

Vermiformis Proceſſus, (in Anat.) a prominence or bunching Knob of the Cerebellum, or leſſer Brain, ſo nam'd from its Shape.

Vermillion, a lively deep red Colour, red Lead, Sinople, or Cinnabar; the Natural ſort is found under ſome almoſt inacceſſible Rocks in Spain: But the Artificial is made of a certain red Sand near Epheſus, or elſe of Brimſtone mixt with Quick-ſilver.

Vermillion-Tincture, a Natural red Die upon the Face; a Cherry-red.

Vermin, any kind of hurtful Creatures, or Inſects; as Rats, Mice, Fleas, Lice, Bugs, &c.

Verminatio, (Lat.) a breeding of Worms, or Bots, properly in Cattel; alſo a wringing of the Guts, as if they were gnawn by Worms.

Vermis, a Worm, a Grub; Vermin.

Vermivorous Animals, ſuch Living-Creatures as feed upon Worms.

Vernaccia, a kind of Italian Wine brought from a Town of that Name in Umbria, or the Dutchy of Spoleto, a Province of Italy.

Vernacular, (Lat.) proper or peculiar to the Country, where one lives, or was born; as He has quite forgot his vernacular, or Mother Tongue.

Vernal, belonging to the Spring.

Vernal Equinox, (in Aſtron.) the time when the Day and Night are of an equal length; which happens with us about the 10th Day of March See Equinox.

Vernix, (Lat.) the Gum of the Juniper-tree, or Varniſh made of it.

Veronica, the Herb Fluellin, or Speed-well good for Wounds and to provoke Sweat; it is alſo us'd in ſtoppages of the Lungs and Spleen, for the Colick, Conſumption, &c.

Verrel or Verril, a little Braſs or Iron-ring, at the ſmall end of a Cane, or Handle of a Tool, &c.

Verres, (Lat.) a Tame Boar, or Male Hog.

Verry or Varry, (among Heralds) a ſort of Checker in the Field of a Coat of Arms. See Vairy.

Verricular Tunick, (in Anat.) a Coat of the Eye, the ſame with Amphibleſtroides.

Verruca, (Lat.) a Wart, a little hard brawny Swelling, which breaks out of the Skin, and breeds in any part of the Body.

Verrucaria, the Herb Wart-wort, or Turn-ſole.

† Verſatile, that turns eaſily, apt to be turned any way.

Verſe, an order of Words having a certain Cadence, and meaſur'd by a determined number of Feet, which in modern Languages uſually end in Rhime: Alſo a Clauſe of a Sentence, a ſmall portion of a Chapter in the Bible, &c.

Verſed Sine of an Arch, (in Geom.) is a Segment of the Diameter of a Circle comprehended between the Foot of the Right-Sine and the lower Extremity, or end of the Arch.

Verſicle, a little Verſe.

Verſification, Verſifying, a way of making Verſes.

Verſifier, a maker of Verſes, a Poet; the Word is generally taken in an ill Senſe for a paltry Rhimer.

To Verſify, to make Verſes.

Verſion, that which is turned out of one Language into another; a Tranſlation.

Vert, (Fr.) the Herald's Word for a green Colour in the Coat-armour of the Gentry; which in the Eſcutcheons of Noble-men is call'd Emerauld, and Venus in thoſe of Soveraign Princes.

Vert, or Green-Hue, (Foreſt-Law-Term) every thing that bears a green Leaf within the Foreſt, ſo as to cover or hide a Deer; and 'tis either Over-vert, or Nether-vert: The former ſignifies great Woods, and in Law-Books is expreſſed by the Term Hault Bois; the latter denotes Under-Woods, and is otherwiſe call'd South-bois, or Sub-bois.

There is alſo Special Vert, and that is all Trees growing in the Queen's Woods within the Foreſt, and all Trees that grow there in other Men's Woods, if they be ſuch as bear Fruit to feed Deer: 'Tis ſo call'd becauſe thoſe that ſpoil ſuch Vert are liable to more grievous Puniſhment than thoſe that deſtroy any other Vert.

Vert-greece, See Verdigreaſe.

Vertagus, (Lat.) a Hound that will Hunt by himſelf, and bring home his Game; a Tumbler.

Vertebræ, (in Anat.) the Vertebres, or Turning-Joynts in an Animal Body, eſpecially thoſe of the Neck and Back-bone in a Man: Seven are uſually counted in the Neck, Twelve in the Dorſum, or Back, Five in the Loins, and as many in the Os Sacrum, or Share-bone.

Vertebralis, or Cervicalis, is a pair of Muſcles that ſerve to ſtretch out all the Vertebræ of the Body.

Vertex, (Lat.) the top of any thing; alſo a Whirlpool, or turning round of the Water. In Anatomy, the Crown of the Head, or the middle part of it, ſeated between the bounds of the Sinciput and Occiput. In Aſtronomy, that point of the Heaven which is juſt over our Head, and otherwiſe called Zenith. In Geometry, the point of any Angle is termed its Vertex; and that point of the Curve, or crooked Line of a Conick Section where the Axis cuts it, goes by the Name of the Vertex of that Section.

Vertex of a Cone, Pyramid, &c. is the Point of the upper extremity, or end of the Axis, or the top of the Figure.

Vertex of a Glaſs (in Opticks) is the ſame as its Pole; which See.

Vertical, belonging to the Vertex. In Aſtronomy, a Star is ſaid To be vertical, when it happens to be in that Point which is juſt over any Place: The Equator is likewiſe Vertical to thoſe that have a perpetual Equinox, becauſe it conſtantly paſſes by the Vertex of the place, and the Sun at Noon darts down its Rays ſo perpendicularly, that no Shadow is produced.

Vertical Angles, are thoſe Angles which being oppoſite one to another, do touch only in the Angular Point. See Angles.

Vertical Circles. See Azimuths.

Vertical Line. See Line Vertical.

Vertical Plane, in Perſpective; See Plain.

Vertical Point, the ſame with the Vertex and Zenith.

Verticalute, the Meridian Circle ſometimes ſo call'd by Aſtronomers, becauſe it paſſes thro' the Zenith, or Vertical Point.

Verticillate Plants, (among Herbaliſts) are ſuch as have their Flowers intermixed with ſmall Leaves, growing, as it were, in whirls about the Joynts of the Stalk.

Verticity, the property of the Load-ſtone, or of a touch'd Needle, to point North and South, or towards the Poles of the World. See Magnet and Magnetiſm.

Vertiginous, giddy.

Vertigo, (Lat.) a whirling or turning round, a Diſeaſe in the Head, when all things ſeem to turn round; Giddineſs, Dizzineſs, or ſwimming of the Head.

Vertue, an Habit of the Soul, by which a Man is inclined to do Good and to ſhun Evil; Moral Honeſty, good Principles. See Virtue.

Veru, (Lat.) a Spit or Broach: It is alſo us'd by ſome Writers for a Comet that reſembles a Spit; being nearly of the ſame kind as the Lonchites, only its Head is rounder and its Train longer and ſharper pointed.

Vervactum, Land that has been fallow and is plough'd in the Spring, to be ſown next Year.

Vervain, an Herb anciently us'd about Sacred Rites and Ceremonies: It is otherwiſe call'd Holy-Herb, Pigeon's-Graſs, and Juno's Tears; being very effectual againſt the yellow Jaundice, Dropſie, Gout, and other Diſeaſes.

Vervex, (Lat.) a Weather-Sheep.

Vervilago, the black Chameleon-Thiſtle.

Verviſe, a kind of courſe Woollen Cloth, otherwiſe call'd Plonkets.

Very Lord and very Tenant, (in Common Law) are thoſe that are immediate Lord and Tenant one to another; and a Man is not very Tenant until he has attorned to, or acknowledged his Lord by ſome Service.

Veſania, (Lat.) Madneſs, Fury, Rage.

Veſciæ, (in old Records) Vetches, or Tares.

Veſica, a Bladder: In Anatomy, a membranous or skinny Part in which any Liquor or Humour is contained; as the Urine, Gall, Seed, &c.

Veſica, or Veſica diſtillatoria (among Chymiſts) a large Braſs or Copper-Veſſel tinned over on the inſide; which is ſo named from its Figure, ſomewhat reſembling that of a blown Bladder, and us'd for the moſt part in the diſtillation of ardent or fiery Spirits. 'Tis otherwiſe call'd a Cucurbite, and commonly a Body.

Veſica Biliaria, the Gall-Bladder.

Veſica Urinaria, the Urine-Bladder, a Veſſel ſhap'd like a Pear, which is appointed to receive the Urine ſeparated in the Kidneys, and brought to it from the Ureters.

Veſicaria, the Plant call'd Alkakengi, or Winter-Cherry. Veſicaria Nux, a Bladder-Nut.

Veſicatorium, a Veſicatory, any Medicine that ſerves to raiſe Bladders or Bliſters in the Skin, eſpecially a Bliſtering-Plaiſter made of Spaniſh Flies dried and powder'd; a Cupping-Glaſs.

Veſicula, a Veſicle, or little Bladder.

Veſicula Fellis, the Gall-Bladder, the ſame as Folliculus Fellis; which See.

Veſiculæ adipoſæ. See Sacculi adipoſi.

Veſiculæ Seminales, the Seed-Bladders, which conſiſt of one thin Membrane divided into many little Cells like thoſe in a Pomegranate, or ſomewhat reſembling a bunch of Grapes: They are two in number, and by a peculiar Paſſage, ſend forth the Semen contained in them into the Urethra.

Veſicularis, the lower part of the Wind-pipe.

Veſpa, the Waſp, an Inſect.

Veſper, the Evening-Star, the Evening.

Veſperies, the laſt Act, or Exerciſe for taking the Degree of Doctor, among the Sorboniſts in France.

Veſpers, Even-ſong, or Evening-Prayers in the Roman Church.

Veſpertilio, (Lat.) the Bat, Flitter-Mouſe, or Rear-Mouſe.

Veſpertilionum Alæ, (in Anat.) two broad Membranous Ligaments, on each Side one, with which the bottom of the Womb is looſely tied to the Bones of the Flank; and which take Name from their reſemblance to the Wings of a Bat.

Veſpertine, belonging to the Evening: In Aſtronomy, a Planet is ſaid To be Veſpertine, when it ſets after the Sun. See Matutine.

Veſperugo, the Evening-Star, the Planet Venus, when it ſhines after Sun-ſet.

Veſſel, a general Name of a great many ſorts of Utenſils to put any thing in: Among Anatomiſts, a little Conduit, Paſſage, or Pipe, for conveying the Blood, or other Humours thro' the ſeveral parts of the Body.

A Veſſel of Election or Reprobation, a Scripture-Phraſe for an Elect, or a Reprobate Perſon.

In Abitecture, Veſſels are certain Ornaments generally ſet over the Cornices, and ſo nam'd becauſe they repreſent ſeveral ſorts of Utenſils that were in uſe among the Ancients: Ships, Barks, Hoys, &c. are alſo often call'd Veſſels, or Sea-Veſſels.

Veſſes, a ſort of Cloth moſt commonly made in Suffolk, and otherwiſe call'd Set-Clothes.

Veſt, a kind of Waſte-coat; a Garment.

To Veſt, to beſtow upon, to admit to the poſſeſſion of; as To veſt one with Supreme Power, or to veſt Supreme Power in one. In a Law-ſenſe, to Infeoff, to give Seiſin, or put in full poſſeſſion of Lands or Tenements.

Veſta, (Lat.) a Goddeſs of Nature, under whoſe Name the ancient Heathens worſhipped the Earth and Fire: In our ancient Records, it is taken for the Veſt, Veſture, or Crop of Corn, &c. on the Ground.

Veſtals, or Veſtal Virgins, a kind of Nuns appointed for thirty Years to the Service of the Goddeſs Veſta, and to take care of the Veſtal Fire; which when it went, out was not to be re-kindled by any earthly Fire, but by the Sun-beams: In this Station they were obliged to keep their Vow of Virginity, and ſuch as had the misfortune to break it, after a full Conviction were bury'd alive.

Veſtiary, a place in a Monaſtery, where the Monks Cloaths are laid up; the Friers Wardrobe.

Veſtibulum, (Lat.) a Porch, or Entry to a Houſe. In Anatomy, a Cavity, or hollow part in the Bone call'd Os Petroſum, which is ſeated behind the Feneſtra Ovalis in the barrel of the Ear, and cover'd with a thin Membrane.

Veſtigation, a tracing, or following by the Track; a ſeeking, or ſearching diligently.

Veſtiges, Foot-ſteps, Traces.

Veſtigia of Tendons, (among Naturaliſts) the little hallows in the Shells of Fiſhes, which are formed on purpoſe for the faſtening, or rooting of the Tendons of their Muſcles.

Veſtiſpici, (among the Romans) Slaves that look'd after their Maſter's Cloaths.

Veſtment, Raiment, Clothing, Garment, Habit; eſpecially a Prieſt's upper Garment, worn when he ſays Maſs.

Veſtry, a Room adjoyning to a Church, where the Miniſter's Veſtments and Sacred Utenſils are kept; alſo a Meeting of the chief Pariſhioners in that Place.

Veſtry-Clerk, a Scrivener that keeps the Pariſh-Accounts.

Veſtry-keeper, a Sexton, whoſe Buſineſs is to look after the Veſtry.

Veſtry-men, a ſelect number of the principal Inhabitants in every Pariſh, who yearly chooſe Officers for the Pariſh, and take care of its Concerns; ſo call'd becauſe they uſually meet in the Veſtry of the Church.

Veſtura, (in old Lat. Records) a Crop of Corn, or Graſs: It was alſo often us'd for an allowance of ſome ſet Portion of the Fruits of the Earth, as Corn, Graſs, Wood, &c. as a part of the Salary, or Wages due to ſome Officer, Servant, or Labourer, for his Livery, or Veſt: Among the Feudiſts, it is taken for the actual poſſeſſion of an Eſtate, &c. as Inveſtitura, with them, ſignifies a delivery of Poſſeſſion by a Spear or Staff.

Veſture, a Garment: In a Law-ſenſe, a Poſſeſſion, or an admittance to Seiſin, or Poſſeſſion.

Veſture of an Acre of Land, is the profit ariſing from it; a Term us'd in ſome old Statute-Laws.

Vetch, a ſort of Pulſe, otherwiſe call'd Fitch, or Tare: Beſides the common one, there are ſeveral other kinds; as Bitter-vetch, Crimſon-vetch, Hatchet-vetch, Kidney-vetch, Milk-vetch, yellow Wild Vetch, &c.

Veteran, or Veteran Soldier, (among the Romans) an old Soldier that had ſerved long in the Wars: Whence it is commonly taken for one that has been for a conſiderable time in a Place, or Office, and particularly in France for an Officer of twenty Years ſtanding.

Veterinaria Medicina, Phyſick for Cattel.

Veterinarius, a Horſe-leech, or Farrier; a Horſe-Doctor; alſo one that lets Horſes to Hire; a Hackney-man, a Horſe-Courſer.

Veternus, the Lethargy, or drowſy Diſeaſe, a continual deſire of Sleeping: Alſo Drowſineſs, Sluggiſhneſs, Slothfulneſs.

Vetitum Namium, (Law-Term) unlawful Naam, or forbidden Diſtreſs, as when a Bailiff diſtrains Cattel or Goods, and his Lord forbids him to deliver them to the Sheriff that comes to replevy them, or cauſes them to be driven into unknown Places. See Naam.

Vetonica, the Herb Betony, ſo call'd from the Vetones, an ancient People of Spain.

Vetturino, (Ital.) a hirer of Horſes in Italy, who is a Guide to Travellers, and brings back the Horſes.

To Vex, (Lat.) to teaze, to trouble, to torment, to oppreſs.

Vexation, Trouble, Diſturbance, Grief.

Vexatious, that cauſes Trouble or Grief, burdenſome, troubleſome.

V. G. an uſual Character, or Abbreviation of the Words Verbi gratia, i. e. to inſtance in a Word, namely; as E. G. is for Exempli gratia, i. e. for Example.

Vi & Armis, (Lat. i. e. by Force and Arms) a Law-Expreſſion, us'd in an Indictment, or Charge, to ſhew the forcible and violent Commiſſion of any Crime.

Vi Laica amovenda, a Writ directed to the Sheriff, when a Biſhop has certified into the Court of Chancery, That the Rector, or Vicar of any Church within his Juriſdiction is kept out of his Manſe, Glebe, or Church by any Lay-force, or intruding Power; which Writ is granted for removing all ſuch Violence and Uſurpation, and is therefore ſo call'd.

Vi Laica removenda, a Writ that lies where debate being between two Parſons, or Proviſors for a Church, one of them enters into it, with a great number of Lay-men, and holds the other out Vi & Armis: So that he that is kept out, ſhall have this Writ directed to the Sheriff to remove the Force.

Via, a Way or Paſſage, a Road or High-way, a Street.

Via Combuſta, (i. e. the Burnt Way) the ſpace of about 45 Degrees comprehended within the ſecond half of Libra and the whole Sign Scorpio is ſo termed by Aſtrologers, by reaſon of ſeveral violent and ill-boding fixed Stars placed in it. In Palmeſtry, the Line of Saturn, which aſcends thro' the middle of the Vola, or Palm of the Hand to the Tuberculum, or Knob at the root of the middle Finger, if it be parted, is alſo call'd Via combuſta.

Via Lactea (in Aſtron.) a white Circle which encompaſſes the whole Firmament, and may be ſeen in a clear Night, extending it ſelf ſometimes with a double Path, but for the moſt part with a ſingle one. Some of the Ancients imagin'd, That this Circle conſiſted only of certain Vapours hanging in the Air; but it has been lately obſerved to be an innumerable heap of fixed Stars, different in Situation and Size, and only diſcernible by the Teleſcope: It is commonly call'd The Milkey Way, and by ſome The Way to St. James's, and Watling-ſtreet,

In Chiromancy, Via Lactea, is a Line running from that which is termed Reſtricta, to another that bears the Name of Feriens,

Via Regia, the High-Way or Common Road, call'd the King's Way, becauſe it is appointed by him, and under his Protection.

Via Solis (i. e. the Sun's Way) a Name ſometimes given by Aſtronomers to the Eclyptick Line, becauſe the Sun never goes out of it: In Palmeſtry, a ſtraight Line, that runs downward from the Tuberculum or Knob at the Root of the Ring-Finger, into the Hollow of the Hand.

Vial, a ſmall thin Glaſs-Bottle.

Viands (Fr.) Meat, Food, Victuals; a Word chiefly us'd in Diſcourſes treating of Divinity.

Viaticum (Lat.) all manner of Proviſions for a Journey: Among the Romaniſts, that which is given to Monks to defray the Expences of a Journey, upon a Miſſion: Alſo the H. Sacrament given by Popiſh Prieſts to dying Perſons.

Vibex, a mark or print of a Stripe or Blow, a Wale after Whipping; alſo a black and blew Spot occaſioned by a Flux of Blood. See Molopes.

Vibo, the Flower of the Herb Britannica, good againſt being Thunder-ſtruck.

Vibration, properly a brandiſhing, or ſhaking: In Mechanicks, a moving to and fro as of a hanging Weight, eſpecially the Swing or regular Motion of a Pendulum in a Clock, of which there are 3600 in an Hour.

Vibriſſæ (Lat.) the Hairs that grow in the Noſtrils.

Vicar, properly one that is in another's ſtead or room, a Deputy: But the Word is chiefly us'd for the Parſon of a Pariſh who as it were ſupplies the place of a Rector, where the Predial Tithes are impropriated.

The Pope's Grand Vicar, a Cardinal that has Juriſdiction over all Secular and Regular Prieſts, over all Offenders againſt the Church of Rome; over the Jews in that City, and others of the Commonalty.

Vicar-General, a Title formerly given by Henry VIII. King of England to Thomas Cromwell Earl of Eſſex, with full Power to over-ſee the Clergy, and regulate Matters relating to Church-Affairs.

Vicarage or Vicaridge, the Spiritual Cure, or Benefice of a Vicar or Parſon.

Vicarage Endowed. See Endowment.

Vicario deliberando occaſione cujuſdam Recognitionis, &c. a Writ that lies for a Spiritual Perſon impriſoned, upon Forfeiture of a Recognizance, without the Queen's Writ.

Vicarious, belonging to a Vicar, ſubordinate; as A Vicarious Power.

Vice, an Habit contrary to Vertue; Sin, Lewdneſs, Wickedneſs, Debauchery: Alſo a Jeſter in a Play; alſo a ſort of Inſtrument us'd by Lock-ſmiths, Repairers, and many other Artificers; or an Inſtrument with two Wheels made uſe of to draw the Lead in Glazing-work: Alſo the Spindle of a Preſs.

Vice is alſo a Particle (from the Latin Vicis, i. e. Courſe, Stead, Place, or Turn) which in ſome compound Engliſh Words, ſignifies as much as inſtead, and implies a Subordination or the ſupplying of another's Place; as Vice-Admiral, Vice-Bailiff, Vice-Chancellour, &c.

Vice-Admiral, one of the three principal Officers in a Royal Fleet, who commands the ſecond Squadron, and has his Flag ſet up in the Fore-top of his Ship.

Vice-Chamberlain, a great Officer at Court, next to the Lord Chamberlain, who in his Abſence has the Controll and Command of all Officert belonging to that part of the Queen's Houſhold, which is call'd The Chamber, or above Stairs.

Vice-Chancellour of an Univerſity, an eminent Profeſſour, who is choſen yearly to take upon him the chief Management of Affairs in the Chancellour's Abſence.

Vice-Dominus (in Latin Records) a Viſcount, or Sheriff.

Vice-Dominus Abbatiæ ſeu Eccleſiæ, the Law-Advocate, or Protector of an Abbey or Church.

Vice-Dominus Epiſcopi, the Official, Commiſſary, or Vicar-general of a Biſhop.

Vice-gerent, one that governs or acts for, or under another; a Deputy, a Lieutenant.

Vice-Roy, a Deputy-King; one that governs a State inſtead of a King.

Vice-Treaſurer of the Exchequer. See Under-Treaſurer of England.

Viceſſis, a Roman Coin, of 20 Aſſes value, 1 ſhilling 3 pence in Engliſh Money.

Vicia, (Lat.) Vetches, or Tares, a ſort of Pulſe.

To Viciate. See To Vitiate.

Vicinage or Vicinity, Neighbourhood, Nearneſs.

Vicinetum, (Latin Law-word) the ſame with Venue; which ſee.

Vicious, given to Vice, ſinful, wicked, lewd, naughty.

Viciouſly, lewdly; alſo corruptly, falſely, as Viciouſly writ.

Vicis & venellis Mundandis, (Lat.) a Writ that lies againſt a Mayor or Bailiffs of a Town, &c. for the clear keeping of their Streets.

Viciſſitude, Change, or Turn, the interchanging or ſucceeding of one thing after another; as The Viciſſitude of Seaſons, Fortune, &c.

Vicontiel or Vicountiel, (Law-word) belonging to the Sheriff, as Writs Vicontiel, i. e. ſuch as are tryable in the County-Court before the Sheriff, and determined by him without Aſſize.

Vicontiels or Vicontiel Rents, certain Farms for which the Sheriff pays a Rent to the Queen, and makes what Profit he can of them.

Vicount or Viſcount, heretofore the Name of an Office, ſignifying as much as Sheriff; but now generally taken for a Title of Honour. See Viſcount.

Victim, a Sacrifice, properly ſuch as the ancient Romans offer'd to their Gods after a Victory: whence it is figuratively applied to a Perſon that ſuffers Perſecution or Death, to ſatisfy the Revenge or Paſſion of great Men, &c.

Victor, a Vanquiſher, or Conqueror.

Victoriola, (Lat.) Laurel of Alexandria, Tongue-Laurel; a Shrub.

Victoriatus, a Roman Coin ſo called from its being ſtampt with the Image of Victory, and worth 3 pence 3 farthings in Engliſh Money.

Victorious, that has got the Victory or Conqueſt.

Victory, the Defeat or Overthrow of an Enemy; a getting the Upper-hand or the better of one in any thing.

To Victual, to furniſh or ſtore with neceſſary Victuals or Proviſions; as To Victual a Garriſon or Ship.

Victualler, one that provides or ſells Victuals, an Alehouſe-keeper; alſo a ſmall Veſſel or Ship that carries Proviſions for a Fleet.

Victus, (Lat.) Victuals, Food, Proviſions, things neceſſary for Life, as Meat, Drink, &c.

Victus ratio, (in the Art of Phyſick) a particular manner of Living, by which Health is preſerv'd and Diſeaſes prevented.

Vidama, (Fr.) the Judge of a Biſhop's Temporal Juriſdiction in France where there is one in every Biſhoprick, who takes Name from the Epiſcopal City, as The Vidame of Beauvais, of Rheims, &c.

Viduitatis Profeſſio, (Lat.) the making a ſolemn Profeſſion to live a ſole and chaſte Widow; a Cuſtom heretofore obſerv'd in England and attended with divers Ceremonies.

Viduity, the State or Condition of a Widow, Widowhood.

View, (Fr.) Sight, or the Act of Seeing; Survey, Proſpect: Among Hunters the Print of a Fallow-Deer's Foot on the Ground. In a Law-Senſe, the Act of Viewers, as when an Action is brought and the Tenant knows not what Land it is the Demandant asks, the Tenant ſhall pray the View, i. e. that he may ſee the Land which is claimed.

View of Frank-Pledge, is the Office which the Sheriff in his County-Court, or the Bailiff in his Hundred perform'd in looking to the King's Peace, and ſeeing that every Man be in ſome Pledge : For in thoſe Courts every Free-man became bound with Sureties at Fourteen Years of Age, for his Truth to the King and his Subjects. See Frank-Pledge & Decennier.

To View, to take a View of, to look upon, to examine.

To View a place, (in the Art of War) is to ride about it before the Siege is laid, obſerving the ſtrength or weakneſs of its Situation and Fortification, in order to attack the weakeſt part.

Viewers, (in Common Law) thoſe that are ſent by a Court of Juſtice to take View of any Place in queſtion, for the better deciſion of the Right : Alſo ſuch as are appointed upon other Occaſions, as to take Cognizance of a Man in caſe of Sickneſs, or any Offence. See Vejours.

Vigil, (Lat.) the Eve, or Day next before any Solemn Feſtival, or Holy-day ; ſo call'd becauſe then Chriſtians in old times, us'd to Watch, Faſt and Pray in Churches.

Vigilance, or Vigilancy, Watchfulneſs, good Heed, application of Mind.

Vigilant, Watchful, careful, very diligent, circumſpect, wary.

Vigilia, (Lat.) a watching, or being awake ; alſo the Vigil, or Eve before any Feſtival.

Vigintiviri, twenty Magiſtrates, or Officers in old Rome, who were veſted with equal Authority.

Vigone, (Fr.) a ſort of Spaniſh Wooll ; or a Hat made of that Wooll.

Vigorous, full of Vigour, or Courage ; ſtout, ſtrong, luſty, briſk, mettleſome.

Vigour, Strength, Stoutneſs, Reſolution, Sprightlineſs, Briſkneſs.

Viguier, a kind of Magiſtrate, or Judge in ſome Provinces of France and Spain.

Vile, (Lat.) that is of no account, deſpiſable, mean, paltry ; wicked, filthy, baſe, lewd.

To Vilify, to ſet light by, or at nought ; to run down, to deſpiſe, to abuſe.

Vill, a Law-word, ſometimes taken for a Manour, and ſometimes for a Pariſh, or part of it.

Villa, a Village, a Manour-houſe out of a City or Town ; a Farm-houſe, or Home-ſtall.

Villa Regis, a Title formerly given to thoſe Country-Villages where the Kings of England had a Royal Seat or Palace, held the Manour in their own Demeſne, and commonly had a free Chappel, not ſubject to ordinary Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction.

Village, a certain number of Country-Houſes or Cottages, without any Wall or Incloſure.

Villager, an Inhabitant of a Village.

Villain, a Man of ſervile or baſe Degree, one that was a meer Bond-ſlave to the Lord of the Manour ; from the French word Vilain, i. e. vile or mean, or from the Latin, Villa a Country-Farm, whereto they were appointed to do Service : But it is now commonly taken for an arrant Rogue, or pitiful, baſe Fellow.

Pure Villain, was one whom the Lord might put out of his Lands, Tenements, Goods and Chattels at pleaſure ; as alſo beat and chaſtiſe, but not maim ; of whom the Lord took Redemption to Marry his Daughter and to make him free. But there are now no ſuch Slaves as theſe, tho' the Law concerning them ſtands unrepealed.

Villain in groſs, one who was immediately bound to the Perſon of his Lord and his Heirs.

Villain regardant to a Manour, one that was bound to his Lord, as a Member belonging and joyn'd to a Manour of which the Lord was Owner These were the ſame with the pure Villains above deſcribed.

Villain-Fleece, (in old Statutes) a Fleece of Wooll ſhorn from a ſcabbed Sheep.

Villainous, baſe, wicked, ſhameful, pitiful.

Villainous Judgment, (Law-Term) that Judgment or Sentence which caſts the reproach of Villany and Shame upon one againſt whom it is given ; as a Conſpiratour, Perjurer, &c. It is otherwiſe call'd Vile & odibile Judicium, i. e. baſe and hateful Judgment.

Villani, (Lat.) Farmers, or Villagers : In our old Law-Records, a ſort of Servile Tenants, ſo ſtyl'd, becauſe they were Villæ & Glebæ adſcripti, i. e. held ſome Cottages and Lands, for which they were charged with certain ſtated ſervile Offices, and were convey'd as an Appurtenance of the Manour or Eſtate to which they belong'd.

Villanis Regis ſubtractis reducendis, a Writ that lay for the bringing back of the King's Bondmen, that were carry'd away by others out of his Royal Manours.

Villanum Soccagium, See Villenage.

Villany, Baſeneſs, Wickedneſs, Lewdneſs.

Villenage, a ſervile or baſe kind of Tenure anciently belonging to Lands or Tenements, by which the Tenant was bound to do all ſuch Services as the Lord commanded, or were fit for a Villain to do; altho' every one that held in Villenage, was not a Villain or Bond-man.

Tenants in Villenage, or of baſe Tenure, the ſame that we now call Copy-holders, who were bound to the performance of certain Services agreed upon between both Parties ; as to carry the Lord's Dung into his Fields, to plough his Ground at ſet times, to reap his Corn, plaſh his Hedges, &c.

Villi, (Lat.) courſe Hairs ; alſo Wooll ; the Hair, or Nap of Cloth, as in Cotton, &c. Among Herbaliſts, ſmall Hairs like the grain of Pluſh, or Shag, with which ſome Trees do abound : Of this kind is the Uſnea Officinarum, or Moſs growing on Humane Sculls, and ſold in Apothecaries Shops.

Vinacea, a Grape-ſtone, the husk of Grapes.

Vinago, the Rock-Pigeon, or Stock-Dove ; a Bird.

Vinalia, Feaſts made by the Romans at the firſt broaching or taſting of their Wines ; St. Martin's Feaſts.

Vinca, or Vinca pervinca, the Herb Periwinkle, ſo call'd becauſe it binds or intangles every thing that is near it, with its Sprigs.

Vincent, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying in Latin, an Overcomer, or Conquerour.

Vincible, that may be vanquiſhed, or overcome.

Vindemia, (Lat.) the gathering of Grapes to make Wine, Vintage.

† Vindemial or Vindemiatory, belonging to a Vintage.

To Vindemiate, to gather Grapes, or other ripe Fruits ; as Apples, Pears, Cherries, &c.

Vindemiatrix, (i. e. the female Vintager) the Name of a fixed Star of the third Magnitude or Size, in the Conſtellation Virgo, whoſe Longitude is 185 Degr. 23 Min. Latitude 16 Degr. 15 Min.

To Vindicate, to defend or maintain, to make an Apology for, to clear or juſtify.

Vindication, the Act of vindicating, Defence, Apology.

Vindicative. See Vindictive.

Vindicta, (Lat.) Vengeance, Puniſhment : Alſo a Rod or Switch with which the Roman Prætor, or Judge touch'd the Head of a Slave when he was made free ; whence it was alſo taken for Liberty, or Freedom it ſelf.

Vindictive, revengeful.

Vine, the Shrub that bears Grapes.

Vine-fretter or Vine-grub, a kind of Worm that gnaws the Vine.

Vinea, a Vine, or a Vineyard: Alſo a warlike Engine cover'd with raw Hides, Hurdles, &c. under which in an Aſſault, the Roman Soldiers us'd to come cloſe to the Walls of a Town and ſcale them.

Vinegar, (i. e. eager Wine) Wine, or other Liquors made, ſharp for Sauces, &c.

Vinew, Mouldineſs, Hoarineſs, Muſtineſs.

Vineyard, a piece of Ground ſet with Vines.

Vinnet, (Fr.) a kind of Border, Flower, or Flouriſh, us'd by Printers in the beginning of a Book, Chapter, &c.

Vinoſity, (Lat.) a being vinous.

Vinous, belonging to, or that has the Taſte or ſmell of Wine.

Vintage, Vine-harveſt, or Grape-gathering; alſo the Seaſon for ſuch Gathering.

Vintager, a Vine-reaper, or Grape-gatherer.

Vintner, a ſeller of Wine, or Tavern-keeper.

Vintry, a Place noted for the Sale of Wine.

Vinum, (Lat.) Wine made of the Juice of Grapes, &c.

Vinum Hippocraticum, Hipocras, white or red Wine, wherein Sugar and Spice have been ſteept for ſome time, and afterwards ſtrained thro' a Bag call'd Manica Hippocratis, or Hippocrates's Sleeve; which See.

Vinum Medicatum, Wine in which Medicines have been infuſed, for the Uſe of ſick People.

Viol, a Muſical Inſtrument of ſix Strings: Alſo a Term us'd by Sea-men, when a kind of Hawſer, or three-ſtroud Rope is bound faſt with Nippers to the Cable, and brought to the Jeer-Capſtand to heave upon it, for the better weighing of the Anchor, when it is let fall in too ſtiff Ground, or the Sea runs too high.

Viola, (Lat.) the Violet, a Flower; alſo the Smelt, a freſh-water Fiſh. Viola Matronalis, Dame's Violet,

To Violate, to infringe, break, or tranſgreſs; to raviſh, or force a Woman. To violate Churches, is to commit profane and wicked Actions there.

Violation, the Act of Violating, Tranſgreſſing, &c.

Violence, Vehemency, Boiſterouſneſs, Fierceneſs, Eagerneſs, Earneſtneſs; Force, or Conſtraint uſed unlawfully; Oppreſſion, Outrage.

Violent, boiſterous, furious; haſty, paſſionate, eager; forcible, ſtrong, ſharp; toilſome, hard.

Violent Signs, (in Aſtrol.) are thoſe in which the malefick or ill-boding Planets, Saturn and Mars have any notable Dignities; as Houſe, or Exaltation; ſuch are Aries, Libra, Virgo, Capricornus and Aquarius. Alſo thoſe in which there are any violent fixed Stars of Note; as Caput Algol in Taurus, &c.

Violet, a well known Plant, bearing a ſweet-ſcented and medicinal Flower; of which there are ſeveral ſorts beſides the Common one, viz. Calathian-Violet, Corn-Violet, Dame's-Violet, &c.

Violin, (q. d. a little Viol) a Muſical Inſtrument with four Strings, which yields a very ſprightly and delightful Sound. There is alſo a Baſs-Violin, a large Inſtrument which has likewiſe four Strings, and in Shape reſembles a Viol.

Violiſt, one that is skilled in, or Teaches the Art of Playing on the Viol.

Viorna, (Lat.) an Herb call'd The Traveller's Joy.

Vipera, the Viper, or Adder, a ſort of Serpent in ſome hot Countries, the Bite of which is venomous, tho' the Fleſh be made uſe of in ſeveral Medicines.

Viperalis, the Herb Rue, Herb-grace.

Viperaria, Vipers-graſs.

Viperina, Vipers-Bugloſs, an Herb whoſe Roots and Seeds are Cordial and good againſt Melancholy.

Viperine, belonging to a Viper.

Virago. (Lat.) a manly, or couragious Woman.

Viraſon, a cool Gale of Wind, ſo call'd in Hiſpaniola.

Virelay, (Fr.) a ſort of comical Song; a Roundelay.

Vireo, (Lat.) a Canary-bird of a green Colour; a Green-finch.

Virga, a Rod, a Twig, a young Branch. In old Records, a Rod, or white Staff ſuch as Sheriffs, Bailiffs, &c. carry as a Badge, or Enſign of their Office.

Virga alnaria, a Yard meaſured according to the legal Ell, or true Standard.

Virga ferrea, a Yard according to the Queen's Standard kept in the Exchequer, which anciently was made of Iron, but now of Braſs.

Virga Paſtoris, the Herb Teazel, or Fuller's Thiſtle.

Virgæ, Verges, a Meteor repreſenting a bundle of Rods which is made by the Sun-Beams, obliquely paſſing thro' the more looſe and open parts of a watery Cloud, and uſually ſignifies Rain.

Virgata Terræ. See Yard-Land.

P. Virgilius Maro, the Prince of Latin Poets, whoſe admirable Works are written in an elegant, judicious, and for the moſt part, lofty and Majeſtick Style.

Virgin, a chaſte Maid, or Maiden.

Virgin Parchment, a ſort of fine Parchment made of the Skin of a young Lamb.

Virgins-Bower, an Herb. See Ladies Bower.

Virginal, belonging to a Virgin, Virgin-like, Maidenly.

Virginal Milk, or Virgin's-Milk, a kind of Compoſition, otherwiſe call'd Benjamin-Water. Alſo a Chymical Compoſition made by diſſolving Saccharum Saturni, or Sugar of Lead in a great deal of Water, till it turn white as Milk; whence the Name.

Virginals, a noble ſort of Muſical Inſtrument, touch'd after the ſame manner as the Organ and Harpſichord, and probably ſo call'd as having been counted a proper Inſtrument for Virgins to play on.

Virgineus Morbus, the Green-Sickneſs. See Chloroſis.

Virginia, a Province of Northern America, diſcover'd by the Direction, and at the Charge of Sir Walter Raleigh A. D. 1584, and ſo nam'd in honour of our Virgin Queen Elizabeth.

Virginia, or Virginia-Tobacco, the Tobacco-Plant growing in thoſe Parts.

Virginia-Frog, a kind of Frog that is eight or ten times as big as any in England, and makes a noiſe like the bellowing of a Bull.

Virginia-Nightingale, a Bird of a pure ſcarlet Colour, with a tuft on the Head.

Virginian Climer, a ſort of Herb.

Virginity, the ſtate or condition of a Virgin; Maiden-head.

Virgo, (Lat.) a Virgin, or Maid, a Damſel: Alſo one of the twelve Signs of the Zodiack, being the ſixth according to order, and marked thus ♍. Among Aſtrologers, 'tis reputed to be the Houſe and Exaltation of Mercury, of an earthy, cold and dry Quality.

Virgoleuſe, (Fr.) a ſort of Pear, a Fruit.

Virgula Divinatoria, a Hazel-rod ſhap'd into two Branches like the Letter Y; which being cut at the time of ſome Planetary Aſpect, and held by the two forked ends (as ſome Writers affirm) will ſerve to direct the Bearer where to find a Vein of rich Metal, or valuable Oar in the Earth. Others tie a Hazel-Wand to another ſtraight Stick, and holding it in their Hands do ſo walk over the Hills and Places where they expect Metals.

Viridario eligendo, a Writ that lies for the Choice of a Verderor in the Foreſt.

Viride æris, Verdegreaſe.

Virile, Manly, Stout.

Virilia, (Lat.) the privy parts of a Man, the cutting off of which was Felony by the Common Law, whether the Party conſented or not.

Virility, Man's Eſtate, Manhood; ability to perform the part of a Man in the Act of Generation.

Viri Monetales, certain Officers of the Mint, among the ancient Romans. See Curatores Denariorum.

Virtſungianus Ductus. See Ductus Virtſungianus.

Virtual, (in Philoſ.) equivalent, effectual.

Virtual Focus, or Point of Divergence (in Dioptricks) is a particular Point in a Concave Glaſs, ſo call'd by ſome Writers, who treat of that Science.

Virtue, Efficacy, Power, Force, Quality, Property.

Virtues, the Name of one of the Orders of Angels.

Virtuoſo, a learned and ingenious Student in Philoſophy; one that is well ſkill'd in the Secrets of Nature, and ſearches after new Diſcoveries for the Publick Benefit.

Virtute Officii, (Law-Term) a good and juſtifiable Act; ſuch as is done by virtue of an Office, or in purſuance of it; and is oppoſed to Color Officii. See Colour of Office.

Virulency, poiſonous, or venomous Quality.

Virulent, venomous, infectious, malicious.

Virus, (Lat.) Poiſon, Venom; alſo a rammiſh Smell, as of the Arm-pits: Alſo a kind of watery Matter, whitiſh, yellowiſh and greeniſh at the ſame time, which iſſues out of Ulcers and ſtinks very much; being endued with eating and malignant Qualities.

Vis, (Lat.) Force, Violence, Might, Power: In a Law-ſenſe, it alſo ſignifies Force, as Vi & Armis, i. e. by Force of Arms; and this Force is five-fold, viz. Vis Ablativa, Compulſiva, Expulſiva, Inquietativa, & Turbativa.

Vis Ablativa, is the forcible taking away of moveable things. Vis Compulſiva, is that Force whereby a Man is compelled to do that, which otherwiſe he would not do of his own free Will. Vis Expulſiva, is when one is caſt out of his Poſſeſſion by Force and Arms. Vis Inquietativa, is when one Man will not ſuffer another quietly to enjoy his Right, or to do any thing within his own Limits, or Bounds. Vis Turbativa, is that Diſturbance which is given to a Man in his Poſſeſſion, as when two ſtrive to poſſeſs the ſame thing: And from all theſe ſome ſort of Action will ariſe.

Vis Centrifuga, (in Philoſ.) is the Force by which any Natural Body rolling, or turning round about another, endeavours to fly off from the Axis of the Motion, in a Tangent to that Curve.

Vis Centripeta, is that Force by which a Body, from any Cauſe whatever tends towards any Point, as to its Center: Of this kind is Gravity, whereby Bodies tend towards the Center of the Earth; and ſuch is the Magnetical Force by which Iron tends towards the Center of the Magnet.

The Quantity of this Centripetal Force is of three kinds, viz. Abſoluta, Acceleratrix, and Motrix.

Vis Centripetæ Quantitas Abſoluta, is its Meaſure greater or leſs, according to the efficacy of the Cauſe that produces it, and which exerts it ſelf on all Bodies in the Regions round about; as the Magnetical Virtue in ſome Magnets is greater than in others of the ſame Dimenſions.

Vis Centripetæ Quantitas Acceleratrix, is its Meaſure proportionable to the ſwiftneſs which it produces in a given Time: Thus the power of a Loadſtone is greater at a leſs, and leſſer at a greater diſtance from the Stone.

Vis Centripetæ Quantitas Motrix, is its Meaſure proportionable to the Motion which it cauſes in a given time: As the Weight is greater in a greater Body and leſs in a leſſer; and in the ſame Body, it is greater near the Earth, and leſs in remote Regions.

Vis impreſſa, is an Impulſe, Force, or Action, communicated to and exerciſed upon any Body, in order to change its preſent State, either of Reſt or Motion uniformly forward in a Right-Line.

Vis inſita Materiæ, or Vis Inertiæ, is the bare Power of Reſiſtance only, by which every Body, as much as it may, endeavours to continue in that State in which it is, either of Reſt, or Motion; likewiſe uniformly forward in a Right-Line.

Vis Motrix, is the Power which produces the Motion of a Body from place to place: Thus Gravity is a Vis Motrix downwards, or towards the Center of the Earth.

Viſage, (Fr.) Face, or Countenance.

Viſcera, (Lat.) the Entrails, or Bowels contained in the three great Cavities of the Body, as Anatomiſts expreſs them. They are alſo call'd Exta and Interanea.

Viſceral, or Vicerous, belonging to the Bowels.

Viſcerous Fleſh, ſuch as that of the Stomach and Guts.

Viſcoſity, Clammineſs; a ſticking to any thing, like Glue, or Bird-lime.

Viſcount, or Vicount, (qu. Vice-Count) a Nobleman, or Perſon of Honour, next in Degree to a Count, or Earl; and created by Patent as an Earl is; his Mantle having two Doublings and a half of plain white Fur.

Viſcounteſs, a Viſcount's Wife.

Viſcountiel. See Vicountiel.

Viſcounty, the Territory of a Viſcount; a ſort of Lordſhip, or Juriſdiction in France; as The Viſcounty of Turenne is very conſiderable.

Viſcous, Clammy, Slimy, Glewy.

Viſcum, or Viſcus, (Lat.) Bird-lime, Glue; alſo a kind of Shrub call'd Miſletoe that grows on Oaks, Hazels, Aſh, and ſome other Trees.

Viſer, (Fr.) the ſight of an Head-piece.

Viſibility, (Lat.) a being viſible.

Viſible, that may be ſeen, or diſcerned.

Viſible Horizon. See Horizon.

Viſible place of a Star. See Apparent Place.

Viſible Species. See Species Viſible.

Viſier, a principal Officer and Stateſman in Turkey. The Grand Viſier, or Prime Viſier, is an Officer that governs the whole Turkiſh Empire in Chief under the Grand Seignior.

Viſion, Seeing, or Sight, a ſenſation in the Brain which proceeds from a due and various Motion of the Optick Nerve, produced in the bottom of the Eye, by the Rays of the Light coming from any Object; by which means the Soul perceives the inlighten'd Thing, together with its Quantity, Quality, and Modification.

Viſion, is alſo taken for a Divine Revelation in a Dream, or otherwiſe; which the Prophets and Holy Men had of old; alſo an Apparition, or Ghoſt.

Clear Viſion, (in Opticks) is cauſed by a great quantity of Rays in the ſame Pencil, inlightening the correſpondent Points of the Image ſtrongly and vigorouſly.

Confuſed Viſion, is occaſioned when the Pencils of Rays do intermix one with another.

Direct Viſion, is when the Rays of Light, come from the Object directly to the Eye.

Diſtinct Viſion, is cauſ'd when the Pencils of Rays from each point of an Object, do exactly determine in correſpondent points of the Image, on the Coat of the Eye call'd Retina.

Faint Viſion, is when a few Rays make up one Pencil: And tho' this may be diſtinct, yet it is obſcure and dark, at leaſt not ſo bright and ſtrong, as if a greater number of Rays met together.

Reflected Viſion, is when the Rays of Light are reflected, or turned back again from any Body to the Eye.

Refracted Viſion, is when thoſe Rays paſs thro' different Mediums.

Viſionary, one that is ſubject to Dreams, ſilly Notions, and extravagant Fancies; a fantaſtical Pretender to Viſions and Revelations.

Viſit, an Act of Civility performed by Friends going to each others Houſes, in order to maintain a friendly Correſpondence together.

To Viſit, to go to ſee, to go about in order to ſee whether things be as they ſhould: In Divinity, to afflict, or try by Afflictions; as If God ſhould viſit us with any Diſeaſe.

Viſitation, the Act of Viſiting, Afflicting, &c. It is alſo more eſpecially taken for the Office, or Act performed by the Biſhop in each Dioceſs every three Years, or by the Arch-Deacon once a Year, viſiting the ſeveral Churches and their Rectors, or Miniſters.

The Viſitation, the great Sickneſs with which the People of this Kingdom were ſorely afflicted during two Years, A. D. 1665 and 1666.

Viſitation of Manners, the Regarder's Office, ſo call'd in ancient Times. See Regarder.

Viſitor, one that viſits a Monaſtery, or Religious Houſe.

Viſne, a Law-word ſignifying a neighbouring Place, or a Place near at Hand. See Venue.

Viſorii Nervi. See Optick Nerves.

Viſorium, (among Printers) an Inſtrument, to which a Leaf of Written, or Printed Copy is fixt, that the Compoſitor may always have an Eye upon it.

Viſta, (Ital.) a Proſpect.

Viſu Franci Plegii, (Lat) a Writ to exempt one from coming to the view of Frank Pledge, who is not reſident within the Hundred; for Men are bound to this View, by reaſon of their Habitation, and not upon account of Lands held where they do not dwell.

Viſual, belonging to the Sight.

Viſual Point, (in Perſpective) a Point in the Horizontal Line, wherein all the Ocular Rays unite, and all others that are parallel to it: As if a Man ſtood in a long ſtraight Gallery, in which looking directly forwards, the Sides, Floor and Ceiling, at laſt ſeem to be united, and to touch one another in a Point or common Center.

Viſual Rays. See Ray.

Viſus, (Lat.) the Senſe of Seeing, by which Light and Colours are perceived: In old Records, Inſpection, or View.

Vital, belonging to, or ſupporting Life.

Vital Faculty, an Action whereby a Man lives, which is performed whether he deſign it or no; ſuch are the Motions of the Heart, the Act of Breathing, Nouriſhment, &c. It is the ſame as Natural Faculty, tho' the Ancients diſtinguiſh them, placing the Natural in the Liver, and the Vital in the Heart.

Vital Flame. See Flame.

Vital Indication, (in the Art of Phyſick) is uch an one as requires the reſtoring and preſerving of the natural Strength of the Body.

Vital Spirits, are thoſe that give Life and Motion to the whole Body.

Vitals, or Vital Parts, the noble Parts of the Body, that chiefly conduce to the preſervation of Life; viz. the Heart, Brain, Lungs and Liver.

Vitex, (Lat.) a kind of Withy, or Willow, otherwiſe call'd Agnus Caſtus; in Engliſh, Park-leaves, Abraham's Balm, Chaſte-tree and Hemp-tree.

To Vitiate, to corrupt or ſpoil one's Morals; to defile, or deflower a Virgin.

Vitiligo, or Vituligo, a kind of Leproſy; Morphew.

Vitis, (Lat.) the Vine-plant. Vitis alba, the white Vine Briony, or wild Nep; an Herb.

Vitreal, or Vitreous, belonging to Glaſs, Glaſſy; a Term in Anatomy, as the vitreous Humour, which is one of the three Humours of the Eyes, ſo nam'd from its reſembling melted Glaſs. 'Tis thicker than the aqueous Humour, but not ſo ſolid as the Cryſtalline, and exceeds both in Quantity.

Vitreous Tunicle, a thin Film, or Coat which is ſaid to ſeparate the vitreous, or glaſſy Humour from the Cryſtalline; tho' ſome abſolutely deny, that there is any ſuch Coat in the Eye, before the Humours are taken out and expoſed to the Air.

Vitrification, the Act of vitrifying, the changing of any Natural Body into Glaſs by the force of Fire, which among Chymiſts is look'd upon as the laſt Action of Fire: So that (generally ſpeaking) Bodies that have once gain'd the Form of Glaſs, continue in it, and are not capable of putting on any other Shape.

To Vitrify, to turn into Glaſs, to make, or to grow as hard and tranſparent as Glaſs.

Vitriol, a Mineral compounded of an acid Salt and Sulphureous Earth; of which there are four ſorts, viz. the White, the Blew, the Green and the Red; it is alſo call'd Copperas.

Vitriol of Mars, or Salt of Steel, a Chymical Preparation, made by diſſolving Iron or Steel in ſome proper Acid Menſtruum; then evaporating or drawing off the Moiſture, and bringing the Matter to Cryſtals by ſetting it in a cool place, Vitriol of the Moon, or of Silver. See Cryſtals of Silver.

Vitriol of Venus, or Copper, is a Solution of Copper in Spirit of Nitre, evaporated and cryſtallized to gain the Salt, as above in Steel: Theſe Cryſtals are us'd as Cauſticks; but will diſſolve if expoſed to the Air. There are other Cryſtals of Venus made by diſtilled Vinegar, being what is commonly call'd Verdegreaſe, which See.

Vitriolate Tartar. See Tartar Vitriolate.

Vitriolick, or Vitriolous, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of Vitriol.

Vitrum, (Lat.) Glaſs, alſo the Herb Woad.

Vitta, a Fillet, Head-band, or Hair-lace: By ſome Anatomical Writers, it is taken for that part of the Coat call'd Amnion, which ſticks to the Child's Head when it is juſt born.

Vitulus, a Calf. Vitulus Marinus, The Seal, or Sea-Calf; a Fiſh.

† Vituperation, a blaming, finding fault with, diſcommending, or diſpraiſing.

Vivacious, Lively, brisk.

Vivacity, Livelineſs, Sprightlineſs, Fire, Mettle, quickneſs or readineſs of Wit.

Viva Pecunia, a Term anciently us'd for live Cattel. See Pecunia.

Vivary, a place of Land or Water where Living Creatures are kept: In a Law-ſenſe, a Park, Warren, or Fiſh-pond.

Viver, the Sea-Dragon; a Fiſh.

Viverra, (Lat.) The Ferret, a little Creature that runs into the Burroughs of Rabbets, &c.

The Vives, a Diſeaſe in Horſes, a Swelling that ſometimes ariſes in certain Glandules, or Kernels on the ſide of a Horſe's Throat, and puts him in danger of being choak'd.

Vivification, the Act of vivificating, or vivifying.

To Vivify, to enliven, or quicken.

Viviparous, that brings forth young Ones living and perfect, and does not ſpawn or lay Eggs; in which reſpect, it is uſually oppoſed to Oviparous; as The Viper is a viviparous Creature.

Vixen, or Fixen, a Fox's Cub; a croſs or froward Child; a Scold, or ranting Woman.

Vizard, a Mask, or falſe Face put on for a Diſguiſe.

Uladiſlaus, a proper Name of Men, chiefly us'd in Poland.

Ulcer, a running Sore; which in Surgery, is defin'd to be a Solution of Continuity in the ſoft parts of the Body, accompanied with Putrifaction and a loſs of Subſtance; of which there are ſeveral ſorts, viz. Cancerous, Cavernous, Corroſive, Fiſtulous and Putrid.

Cancerous Ulcer, a large Ulcer having its Lips ſwoln, hard and knotty, of a brown Colour, with thick Veins round about, full of a dark blackiſh ſort of Bloud.

Cavernous Ulcer, is that the entrance of which is ſtraight and the bottom broad, wherein are many Holes fill'd with malignant Matter.

Corroſive Ulcer, that which by the ſharpneſs and ill quality of its Sanies, eats thro', makes hollow, corrupts and mortifies the Fleſh.

Fiſtulous Ulcer, that which has long, ſtraight and deep Holes, with much hardneſs in its Sides.

Putrid Ulcer, that wherein the Fleſh is ſoft and cruſty; the Matter call'd Pus and Ichor, being ſlimy and ſtinking like a dead Carcaſs.

Ulceraria, an Herb call'd ſtinking Hore-hound.

To Ulcerate, to cauſe, or to grow to an Ulcer.

Ulcerated Cancer. See Cancer Primitive.

Ulceration, a breaking out into Ulcers and Sores.

Ulcerous, belonging to, or full of Ulcers.

Ulcus, (Lat.) an Ulcer, a Botch or Boil.

Ule-Games, (old Word) Chriſtmas-Games or Sports.

Ulex, (Lat.) an Herb like Roſemary, that draws Gold to it,

Ullage of a Cask, is what ſuch a Veſſel wants of being full.

Ulmaria, (Lat.) the Herb Meadow-ſweet or Mead-wort; good for a Looſneſs, Bloudy-Flux, ſpitting of Bloud, &c.

Ulmus, the Elm-tree.

Ulna, an Ell, or the length of two Arms ſtretched out. In Anatomy, the greater Bone of the Elbow, otherwiſe call'd Focile Majus, which lies betwixt the Arm and the Wriſt, and is joynted upward with the Shoulder by Ginglymus; which See.

Ulna Ferrea, (in ancient Writers) the Standard Ell of Iron, kept in the Exchequer, for the Rule of Meaſure.

Ulnage. See Alnage.

Ulomelia, (Gr. in Surgery) the ſoundneſs of a whole Member.

Ulophone, a kind of Plant call'd the Black Chameleon-Thiſtle.

Ulpicum, (Lat.) great or wild Garlick; African Garlick.

Ultagium, (in old Records) Outrage, Violence.

Ultimate, laſt, utmoſt.

† Ultion, a revenging.

Ultramarine, that comes or is brought from beyond Sea; alſo the fineſt ſort of blew Colour us'd in Painting.

Ultramontanes, a Name given by the Italians to all People living on the hither ſide of the Alps, who with reſpect to their Country, are beyond thoſe Mountains.

Ulva, (Lat.) Reet, or Weed of the Sea, Sea-graſs; alſo Weeds growing in Pools, or ſtanding Waters.

Ulufagi, a ſort of inferiour Turkiſh Horſe-men, that ſerve in the Court of the Grand Seighiour.

Ulula, (Lat.) the whooping Owl, or Gill-hooter.

† Ululation, a howling like a Dog, or Wolf.

Umbella, (Lat.) a little Shadow, a Sconce, Skreen-fan, or Umbrella that Gentlewomen bear in their Hands to ſhadow them; a Bongrace, Among Herbaliſts, Umbellæ are taken for the round Tufts or Heads of ſome Plants.

Umbelliferous Plants, Herbs that have ſuch round Tufts, or that have ſmall Stalks ſtanding upon greater; their Tops being branched and ſpread out like a Lady's Umbrella; on each little Subdiviſion of which, there is a ſmall five-leav'd Flower; as Fennel, Angelica, Parſley, &c.

Umber, a Mungrel Creature bred of a kind of a Goat and a Sheep; alſo a certain nimble and tender-mouthed Fiſh, a ſort of Trout: Alſo a dark yellowiſh Colour us'd in Painting.

Umbilical or Umbilick, belonging to the Navel.

Umbilical Points (in Mathemat.) are the ſame with the Focus's; which See.

Umbilical Region, (in Anat.) is that part of the Abdomen or lower Belly, which lies round about the Navel.

Umbilical Veſſels, are the Veins, Arteries, &c. that belong to the Navel, or rather are enwrapped in the Navel-ſtring.

Umbilicalis. See Epigaſtrium.

Umbilicalis Ductus. See Ductus Umbilicalis.

Umbilicus, (Lat.) the Navel, a Boſs or Knob in the middle of the Belly, whereto the Navel-ſtring of a young Child in the Womb is joyned, and which is cut off after the Delivery.

In Mathematicks, the Umbilicus of an Ellipſis, &c. is that Focus or middle Point, about which the Motion of any rolling Body is made, and which it reſpects as its Center; ſo that either Focus or Center-point may be call'd by this Name.

Umbilicus Marinus, Sea-Navel-wort, an Herb; alſo a ſort of Shell-fiſh.

Umbilicus Terræ, the Herb Sow-bread.

Umbilicus Veneris, Navel-wort, an Herb of a cold, moiſt, and ſomewhat binding Quality; good for Inflammations and St. Anthony's Fire.

Umbelliſecæ, Midwives that cut the Navel-ſtrings of Infants.

Umbla, the Salmon-Trout; a Fiſh.

Umbles, Humbles, or Numbles, (Fr.) part of the Entrails of a Deer.

Umbra, (Lat.) a Shadow or Shade, a Term often us'd in the Obſervation of Eclipſes, eſpecially when the Moon is wholly over-ſhadowed or darken'd. See Penumbra: Alſo the Umber, a ſort of Fiſh.

Umbrage, Shadowing, Shadow, or Shade; as The Umbrage of Woods; alſo Suſpicion, Jealouſy, Diſtruſt, or Miſtruſt; alſo Pretence, or Colour.

Umbrella or Umbrello, a kind of broad Fan or Skreen, which in hot Countries People hold over their Heads to keep off the Heat of the Sun; or ſuch as are here commonly us'd by Women to ſhelter them from Rain: Alſo a Wooden Frame cover'd with Cloth or Stuff, to keep off the Sun from a Window.

Umpirage, the Office, or Judgment of an Umpire; Arbitration.

Umpire, a third Perſon choſen to put a final End to a Controverſy left to the Determination of two Arbitrators, in caſe they ſhould not come to an Agreement about the Matter.

Umple, a Word us'd in ſome ancient Statutes, for fine Lawn.

Un, a negative Particle, which is put for the Latin in, and may be joyned to almoſt all ſorts of Engliſh Words; as Unable for not able, unaccuſtomed, unacquainted, &c.

Unanimity, (Lat.) Agreement of Mind and Will, a common or general Conſent.

Unanimous, that is of one Mind, Heart and Will, of one Conſent or Accord.

Unare or Unnare, (in ancient Deeds) to Inn, to get in or make up Hay, fit for Carriage.

To Unbend, to looſen, or ſlacken; to eaſe or refreſh one's Mind. To unbend the Cable of an Anchor, (in Sea-Language) is to take it away. See Bend.

Unbrace that Mallard, i. e. Cut it up; a Term us'd by thoſe that are ſkilful in Carving at Table.

Uncia, (Lat.) an Ounce, the twelfth part of the Roman As, or Pound, or of any other entire thing: Alſo with us, the twelfth part of an Apothecary's Pound, containing eight Drams.

Unciæ, (in Algebra) ſignify thoſe Numbers which are prefixed, or ſet before the Letters of the Members of any Power produced from a Binomial, Multinomial, or Reſidual Root. Thus in the fourth Power of $a + b$ that is $aaaa + 4\,aaab + 6\,aabb + 4\,a\,bbb + bbbb$, the Unciæ are 4, 6, and 4.

Uncial, belonging to an Ounce.

Unciarum fœnus. See Uſura Centeſimis.

To Uncloy a Piece, (in Gunnery) is to put as much Oil as may be, about the Nail that is driven into the Touch-hole of a Gun, ſo as to make it glib, and afterwards by a Train to give Fire at the Mouth, and to blow the Nail out.

Uncome, an old Word for a Felon or Whitlow.

Uncore priſt, (Fr. Law-Term, i. e. ſtill ready) a Plea for the Defendant ſued for a Debt due at a Day paſs'd, to ſave the forfeiture of his Bond; ſaying, That he tender'd the Debt at the time and place appointed, and there was none to receive it, and that he is ſtill ready to pay the ſame.

Uncouth, odd, rough, harſh, unpoliſhed, foreign, barbarous; from the Saxon Word Uncuth, which ſignifies unknown, and is us'd in the old Saxon Laws, for a Stranger that comes to an Inn Gueſt-wiſe and lies there but one Night. See Third Night awne Hinde.

Unction, (Lat.) an Anointing.

Unctuoſity, a being Unctuous.

Unctuous, Oily, greaſy, fatty.

Uncus, (Lat.) a Hook, a Tenter; alſo a Surgeon's Inſtrument to draw a dead Child out of the Womb.

Uncuſtomed Goods, are thoſe for which no Cuſtom has been paid.

Undee, (in Heraldry) waved, made to reſemble Waves. See Wavey.

Under the Sea, (among Sailers) a Ship is ſaid to be ſo, when ſhe lies ſtill in the Sea, or waits for ſome other Ship, with her Helm laſhed or tied up a Lee.

Under the Sun-Beams, (in Aſtrol.) is when a Planet is not fully elongated, or diſtant 17 Degrees from the Sun's Body either before or after it. This is an Affliction, and reckon'd four accidental Debilities.

Under-Chamberlain of the Exchequer, an Officer there that cleaves the Tallies, written by the Clerk of the Tallies, and reads the ſame, that the Clerk and Controllers of the Pell may ſee their Entries be true: He alſo makes ſearches for all Records in the Treaſury, and has the keeping of Dooms-day Book.

Under-Chanter. See Sub-Chanter.

Under-Eſcheator. See Eſcheator.

Under-Maſted. See Low-Maſted.

Under-Sheriff. See Sheriff.

Under-Setter, a Law-word for an Inmate, or Lodger.

Under-Treaſurer of England, an Officer ſubordinate to the Lord Treaſurer, and formerly call'd Treaſurer of the Exchequer, whoſe Buſineſs is to Cheſt up the Queen's Treaſure at the end of every Term, to note the Content of Money in each Cheſt, and to ſee it carry'd into the Royal Treaſury in the Tower.

Under-Wood, Coppice, or any Wood that is not counted Timber.

Underling, one that acts under another, or only by his Orders.

To Undertake, to take upon one, to manage, to meddle with, to be Bail or Surety, to anſwer for.

Undertakers, Managers of any Buſineſs. In old Statute-Laws, thoſe Perſons whom the King's Purveyors us'd to employ as their Deputies; alſo ſuch as undertake any great Work, as draining of Fens, &c. The Word is now commonly apply'd to thoſe that take upon them to Imbalm dead Bodies, and to provide all things neceſſary for Funerals.

Undertide, (Sax.) the Evening-time.

Undimia, (Lat.) a ſort of Swelling, the ſame as Oedema; which See.

Undoing of a Boar, a Term us'd by Hunters for the dreſſing of it.

Undres, (in ancient Deeds) Minors, or Perſons under Age.

Undulate, or Undulated, (Lat.) made in faſhion of Waves; as watered Stuffs and the Grain of Wainſcot.

Undulation, a Motion like that of the Waves, a waving to and fro of the Air.

Unedo, (Lat.) the Fruit of the Arbut, or Strawberry-Tree, ſo call'd as being ſo bitter and unpleaſant, that one cannot eat above one at a time.

Uneſera, the leſſer Centaury; an Herb.

Uneth, (old Word) ſcarce, difficult.

Unformed, that is without Form, Faſhion, or Shape; rude, indigeſted.

Unformed Stars, (in Aſtron.) thoſe Stars which are otherwiſe call'd Nebulous, or Cloudy; and are ſcarce to be ſeen by the bare Eye, or even by a Teleſcope.

Ungeld, an old Saxon Law-word apply'd to a Perſon ſo far out of the Protection of the Law, that if he were murder'd, no Geld or Fine ſhould be paid, or Compoſition made by any that kill'd him.

Unguent, (Lat.) an Ointment, or liquid Salve.

Unguentaria, the Art of making Ointments; alſo a Woman that makes or ſells them. Unguentaria Nux, the Spice call'd Nutmeg.

Unguentum, an Unguent, any ſweet Ointment; a Perfume, a Salve.

Unguentum Apoſtolorum. See Apoſtolorum Unguentum.

Unguentum Armarium, Weapon-Salve.

Ungues, a kind of Shell-Fiſh.

Unguis, a Nail; by Anatomiſts defin'd to be a Similar, white and hard Part which ſecures the ends of the Fingers and Toes from outward Injuries, and in ſome meaſure adorns them: Alſo the Claw or Talon of a Beaſt or Bird; alſo a Diſeaſe in the Eye call'd a Haw. See Hypopyon.

Unguis Odoratus. See Blatta Byzantia.

Unguis Os, a little thin Bone in the great corner of the Orbit of the Eye, having a Hole in which the Lachrymal Gland lies.

Ungula, the Hoof of an Horſe or other Beaſt; alſo a tormenting-Iron with which Malefactors Sides were pinch'd or burnt: Alſo a ſort of hooked Inſtrument made uſe of by Surgeons, to draw a dead Child out of the Womb.

Ungula Caballina, the Herb Colts-foot.

Ungula Oculi, the round riſing of the Eye.

Unicorn, a timorous Beaſt that lives in the Woods, yet ſometimes ventures out into the Plain: 'Tis ſaid to be as big as an ordinary Horſe, having one white Horn in the middle of the Fore-head, about five Handfuls long, and is found in the Province of Agoas in the Kingdom of Damotas in Ethiopia.

Sea-Unicorn or Unicorn-Whale, a Fiſh eighteen Foot long, with Scales as big as a Crown-piece, ſix large Fins like the end of a Gally-Oar, a Head like a Horſe, and a Horn iſſuing out of the Fore-head nine Foot long; ſo ſharp as to pierce the hardeſt Bodies. Its Fleſh is wholſome, and very grateful to the Palate.

Uniform, that is of one Form, or Faſhion, that has all its Parts alike, regular, even.

Uniform Flowers of Plants, (among Herbaliſts) ſuch as are all round of the ſame Figure; having their fore and back Parts, as alſo their right and left Parts exactly alike; but when they are otherwiſe, they are termed Difform-Flowers.

Uniform Motions, the ſame with Equal or Equable ones, which See.

Uniformity, a being of one and the ſame Form, or Faſhion; Conformableneſs, Agreeableneſs. It is alſo taken for one Form of Publick Prayers, Adminiſtration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, appointed by divers Statutes of this Realm.

Unio, (Lat.) Union, Concord, Agreement, the number of one: Alſo a Pearl call'd an Union, for that many being found in one Shell, not any one of them is like the other; alſo an Onion, or Scallion with one Blade.

Union, the combining, or joyning of ſeveral things into one Society, Concord, Agreement, eſpecially that which ariſes from Solemn Leagues, Offenſive and Defenſive, made between Soveraign Princes and States. In a Law-Senſe, the conſolidating or joyning of two Churches into one, which is done by the Conſent of the Biſhop, Patron and Incumbent.

In a Philoſophical Senſe, Union is taken by Dr. Grew, for one of the three ways of Mixture, and he defines it to be a joyning together of Atoms, or very ſmall Parts which touch in a Plain; as in the Cryſtallization of Salts and other like Bodies. Union is alſo a Term us'd by Painters for the mutual Sympathy, or Agreeableneſs of the Colours in a Piece of Painting.

Union-Pearls, the beſt ſort of Pearls that grow in Couples.

Unjoynt that Bittern, i. e. Cut it up; a Term in Carving at Table.

Unison, (in Muſick) is one and the ſame Sound, whether produced by one ſingle Voice, or divers Voices ſounding in the ſame Tone; the agreement of two Notes or Strings of an Inſtrument in one and the ſame Tone: So that an Uniſon in this Science may be conſider'd as an Unite in Arithmetick, or a Point in Geometry, not diviſible into any Parts, as being the firſt Term to any Interval.

Unit, Unite, or Unity, (in Arithm.) the firſt ſignificant Figure or Number 1, which is one ſingle individual Part of Diſcrete Quantity. In Notation, if a Number conſiſt of four or five Places, that which is outermoſt towards the Right Hand is call'd The Place of Unites.

Unitable, that may be united, capable of Union.

Unitarian, an Anti-Trinitarian or Socinian, an Heretick that denies the Unity of the Godhead in three Perſons.

To Unite, to make one, to joyn together.

Unition, (in Surgery) the uniting of disjoynted Parts.

Unity, Oneneſs, Singleneſs, Union, Concord, Agreement: In Arithmetick, the firſt Principle of Number.

Unity of Poſſeſſion, (Law-Term) a joynt poſſeſſion of two Rights by ſeveral Titles; as when a Man having taken a Leaſe of Land from another upon a certain Rent, and afterwards buys the Fee-Simple, by which means the Leaſe is extinguiſhed: So that he who before only had the Occupation for his Rent is now become Lord of the ſame, and is to pay Rent to none but himſelf. In the Civil Law, it is termed Conſolidatio Fructus & Proprietatis.

Univerſal, belonging, or extending to all; general, common.

Univerſal Equinoctial Dial, a Mathematical Inſtrument made of two Rings of Braſs or Silver that open and fold together with an Axis or Bridge, a Slider, and little Rings to hang or hold it by: It is divided on one ſide of the great Ring into 90 Degrees, and ſometimes on the other into two Quadrants, or 180 Degrees: The innermoſt Ring is divided into 24 Hours, ſubdivided on the Face and out-ſide of it into every five Minutes. The Axis has the Sun's Declination on one ſide, and the Days of the Month with the Sun's Place on the other. The Uſe of this Inſtrument is to find the Latitude, the Hour of the Day, and moſt Propoſitions on the Globe.

Univerſal Spirit. See Spirit.

An Univerſal, (in Logick) that which is common in ſeveral things; a Predicable.

Univerſality, a being Univerſal, Generality.

Univerſe, the whole World, the whole Frame or Maſs of material Beings; as the Heavens, Stars, Earth, Water, &c.

Univerſity, a Society of Learned Men eſtabliſh'd by Publick Authority, for the Studying and Teaching of Languages, Arts and Sciences; as the Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge: Among the Civilians, Univerſitas is taken for a Corporation, or Body Politick.

Univerſity-College, the moſt ancient College in Oxford, Founded by King Alfred, and rebuilt by William Arch-Deacon of Durham.

Univocal, conſiſting of one Voice, Sound, or Name: In Logick, Univocal Terms are ſuch whoſe Name and Nature is the ſame; and theſe are oppoſed to Equivocals, whoſe Names are the ſame, but their Natures very different: For a thing To be predicated univerſally of any others, is to be attributed to all of them alike, and in the ſame proper Senſe.

Univocal Signs, (in Surgery) are certain Accidents or Signs of the Fracture of the Scull, viz. Dimneſs of Sight, loſs of the Underſtanding, and Vomiting of Choler: Theſe Signs are diſtinguiſh'd from others termed Equivocal, which confirm them; as a Flux of Bloud thro' the Noſe, Eyes or Ears, heavineſs of the Head, a Shivering of the whole Body, Convulſions, &c.

Unked, or Unkward, Solitary, Lonely.

To Unkennel, (a Term in Hunting) as To Unkennel a Fox, i. e. to drive, or force him from his Hole.

To Unlace, to undo a Lace: Among Carvers, to Unlace a Coney, is to Cut it open.

Unlage, a Saxon Word, ſignifying a wicked, or unjuſt Law.

Unlawful, not lawful, contrary to Law.

Unlawful Aſſembly, the Meeting of three or more Perſons by Force [illegible] ſome unlawful Act, and abiding to[illegible] they do not put it in Execution; as to Aſſault or beat any Perſon, to enter forcibly into his Houſe or Land, &c.

To Unleaſh, (among Hunters) is to undo the Leaſh or Line, in order to let go the Dogs after the Game.

Unlike Quantities and Signs, (in Algebra) See Like Quantities and Signs.

Unlimited Problem, (in Mathem.) ſuch an one as is capable of infinite Solutions; as To divide a given Triangle into two equal Parts, To make a Circle paſs thro' two Points aſſigned, &c.

To Unlute, (in Chymiſtry) to take away the Lute, Loam, or Clay; as To unlute a Veſſel.

To Unmoor, (Fr. Sea-Term) to weigh Anchor, to ſet Sail, to put out to Sea.

Unnatural, that is againſt Nature, monſtrous; alſo void of Natural Affection.

To Unparrel a Yard, (in Sea-Language) to take off the Frames call'd Parrels, that go round about the Maſts,

Unques priſt, (Fr. i. e. ever ready) a Plea in a Law-ſuit, whereby a Man profeſſes himſelf always ready to perform or do what the Demandant requires: As if a Woman ſue the Tenant for her Dower, and he coming in at the Day offers to prove, That he was always ready; and ſtill is to perform it; in which Caſe the Demandant ſhall recover no Dammages.

Unreclaimed, not reclaimed, or not reduced to Reaſon: In Falconry, untamed, wild; as An Unreclaimed Hawk.

To Unreeve a Rope, (among Sea-men) to pull a Rope out of a Block or Pulley.

To Unrig, to take away the Rigging, or Cordage; as To Unrig a Maſt: Whence To unrig a Woman, is to take off her Clothes, Attire, or Ornaments.

Unſcriptural, not preſcribed, or appointed in the Holy-Scriptures.

Unſeeling, (in Falconry) a taking away the Thread that runs thro' the Hawk's Eye-lids, and hinders her Sight.

Unſeltneſs, (old Word) Unhappineſs.

To Unſtock a Gun, is to take off its Stock.

To Unſtrike the Hood, (in Falconry) to draw the Strings of a Hawk's Hood, that it may be in a readineſs to pull off.

Unſummed, a Term us'd by Falconers, when a Hawk's Feathers are not at their full Length.

Untach that Curlew, i. e. cut it up; a Phraſe in uſe among expert Carvers.

Untenable, not tenable, not capable of being held by a Tenant; as His new Lodgings were made in a Moment as Untenable as the others.

To Untruſs, to undo a Truſs or Bundle; to ungird, or untie; as To Untruſs a Point, i. e. to untie or unbutton one's Breeches, in order to eaſe his Body.

Unweather, (Sax.) a Tempeſt, or Storm.

Unwieldy, that cannot well be managed, over-heavy, unactive.

To Unyoke, to take off the Yoke from a Beaſt: In a Figurative Senſe, to free one's ſelf out of Bondage or Slavery.

Vocabulary, (Lat.) a little Dictionary, or Book containing a Collection of Words.

Vocal, belonging to the Voice, conſiſting in, or uttering a Voice.

Vocal Muſick, that which is performed by Voices.

Vocal Nerves, the ſame as Recurrent; which See.

Vocality, a being Vocal.

Vocation, a Calling, an Employ, or Courſe of Life, to which one is appointed.

Vocative Caſe, (in Grammar) the fifth Caſe by which a Noun is declined; ſo nam'd, becauſe it is us'd in Actions of calling or ſpeaking to.

Vociferatio, (Lat.) a Bawling, Squealing, or Crying out aloud: In our old Law-Records, an Out-cry raiſed againſt a Malefactor; Hue and Cry.

Vogue, (Fr.) Eſteem, Credit, Reputation, Sway, Faſhion; as To be in Vogue, or in the Vogue.

Voice, Sound that comes out of the Mouth, Cry; alſo Approbation, or Allowance; a Vote, or the Right of Voting upon any Occaſion: Alſo a Term in Grammar; as The Active and Paſſive Voice of a Verb. See Active Voice and Paſſive Voice.

The Voice of God, a Scripture-Expreſſion for the Divine Command.

Void, empty, deprived of, that is of no Force or Effect.

A Void, a void or empty Space.

To Void, to go out, or depart from, to diſcharge or throw out by Stool or Vomit.

Void of Courſe, (in Aſtrol.) a Planet is ſaid to be ſo, when it is ſeparated from one Planet, and during its Stay in that Sign, does not apply to any other, either by Body or Aſpect.

Voidable, that may be voided.

Voidance, (Law-Term) a Want of an Incumbent or Clerk in Poſſeſſion of a Benefice; which is double, either in Law, when a Parſon has ſeveral Benefices incompatible; or in Deed, when the Incumbent is dead, or actually deprived.

Voided, (in Heraldry) is when there are Lines drawn on the In-ſide, and parallel to the Out-lines of any Ordinary: This expreſſes an Exemption or taking away ſomewhat of the thing voidable, and makes the Field appear tranſparent thro' the Charge.

Voided Baſtion. See Baſtion Hollow.

Voider, a kind of Table-basket for Diſhes, Plates, Knives, &c. taken away from Table: Among Confectioners, a wooden painted Veſſel to hold Services of Sweet-meats.

In Heraldry, Voider is one of the Ordinaries whoſe Figure is much like that of the Flanch or Flask, only the arched Line of which 'tis made, does not bend or bow in, ſo much as either: They are always born in Pairs; as The Field is Tenne, two Voiders Or.

Voire dire, (Fr. i. e. to ſpeak the Truth) as when 'tis pray'd upon a Tryal at Law, That a Witneſs may be ſworn upon a Voire dire, the Meaning is that he ſhall be obliged upon Oath, to declare the Truth, whether he may get or loſe upon the Matter in Debate, and if he be unconcern'd, his Teſtimony is allowed, otherwiſe not.

Voiſinage, Neighbourhood, Nearneſs.

Vola, (Lat.) the Palm of the Hand; alſo the Hollow of the Foot.

Volacious, (in Philoſ.) apt or fit to fly; as A Volacious Creature.

Volant, Flying; as A Camp Volant; which See. Alſo a Term in Heraldry. See Cloſe.

Volatica, (Lat.) a Witch, or Hag that flies in the Air: Alſo a Tetter or Ring-worm, a kind of Swelling accompanied with a Roughneſs of the Skin and much Itching. See Lichen.

Volatile, that flies or can fly, airy, light: In Chymiſtry, apt to fly, or ſteam out in Vapours.

Volatile Salt of Vegetables, is uſually drawn in a Retort, from the Fruits and Seeds fermented or putrified, and ſeems to be only the Eſſential Salt, driven up higher, and Volatilized by the Spirits, during the Fermentation and Diſtillation: And the Volatile Salt of Animals is drawn much after the ſame manner.

Volatile Spirit, is a Volatile Salt diſſolved in a ſufficient Quantity of Phlegm, or Water.

Volatile Spirit of Sal Armoniack is made either by mixing Quick-Lime, or Salt of Tartar with Sal Armoniack, and then pouring a ſufficient quantity of Water upon it: Afterwards the Matter is diſtilled in a Retort, if Quick-lime be uſed; otherwiſe in a Cucurbite, or Glaſs-Body.

Volatiles (according to ſome) are a kind of Living-Creatures that fly in the Air as Birds do.

Volatility, a being Volatile: Among Chymiſts, it is taken for the Property of ſuch Mixt Bodies whoſe Corpuſcles or very ſmall Parts, of which they are made, will riſe up by means of that Degree of Heat which is proper to ſublime or raiſe them.

To Volatilize, to make Volatile.

Volery, a great Bird-cage, a Cage ſo large that the Birds have room to fly up and down in it.

† Volitation, a flying or fluttering about, or up and down.

Volition, (in Philoſ.) the Act of Willing, an Act of the Mind when it knowingly exerciſes that Dominion it takes to it ſelf over any Part of the Man, by employing ſuch a Faculty in, or withholding it from any particular Action.

Volley, a great Shout: Alſo a general Diſcharge of Musket-ſhot in a Company, Regiment, &c. upon ſome extraordinary Occaſion.

Volſella or Vulſella, an Inſtrument to pluck up Hair by the Roots; a pair of Tweezers, or Nippers: Alſo a Surgeon's ſmall Pincers, which are of different Shape, according to the diverſity of their Uſe.

Volta, (Ital.) a Bounding-turn; a Term in Horſemanſhip.

Volubilis, (Lat.) the Herb Withe-wind, Bindweed, or Rope-weed.

Volubility, a being eaſily rolled; as The Volubility of a Wheel: Alſo a quick and eaſy Delivery in Speech or Pronunciation; glibneſs, fluentneſs, or nimbleneſs of Tongue.

Voluble, that ſpeaks with great Fluentneſs, nimble in Speech, having a round Pronunciation.

Volume, a part of a large Book; a Book of a reaſonable ſize or bigneſs, which may be bound by it ſelf.

Voluminous, that conſiſts of ſeveral Volumes, bulky.

Volumus, (Lat, i. e. we will) the firſt Word of a Clauſe in the Queen's Writs of Protection and Letters Patent.

Volunt, a Law-word for Voluntas, or Will, when the Tenant holds Lands or Tenements at the Will of the Leſſor, or the Lord of the Manour.

Voluntary, that is done, or ſuffer'd without Compulſion, or Force; free.

Voluntary Action. See Action.

A Voluntary, a Muſician's Play extempore, ſuch as comes next to his Fancy.

Volunteer, one that ſerves voluntarily in the Wars: Theſe are commonly Gentlemen, who without having any certain Poſt or Employ in the Army, go upon Warlike Expeditions, and run into Dangers, only to gain Honour and Preferment.

Volvox, (Lat.) the Vine-fretter; a Worm that gnaws Vines.

Voluptuary, a voluptuous Perſon.

Voluptuous, ſenſual, given to Carnal Pleaſures or Delights.

Voluta, (Lat. in Architect.) is that part of the Capital of the Ionick, Corinthian, and Compoſite Orders, which repreſents the Bark of Trees twiſted and turn'd into Spiral Lines, or (as ſome will have it) the Head-dreſſes of Virgins in their long Hair.

† Volutation, a rolling, tumbling, or wallowing.

Volvulus, (Lat.) the twiſting of the Guts, a Diſeaſe. See Chordapſus and Iliack Paſſion.

Vomer, a Coulter, or Plough-ſhare: In Anatomy, a Bone ſeated in the middle of the lower part of the Noſe, and having a Cleft on the upper Side in which it receives the lower Edge of the Septum Narium.

Vomica, an Impoſtume, or Boil: Alſo a fault in the Lungs, which in proceſs of time cauſes a ſmall Feaver, accompany'd with Reſtleſneſs and Leanneſs; afterwards encreaſing, it oppreſſes the neighbouring Veins, and infects the maſs of Blood, till at laſt being full grown and digeſted into Matter, it makes as it were a Neſt and lodges there.

Vomit, a vomiting, or caſting; alſo a Potion to cauſe vomiting.

To Vomit, to ſpue, caſt, or bring up.

Vomitory, that cauſes to vomit, or provokes Vomiting.

Voor, a Country-Word for a Furrow of Land.

Vopiſcus, (Lat.) of two Twins in the Womb, that which comes to perfect Birth.

Voracious, ravenous, feeding greedily, immoderate in eating, gluttonous.

Voracity, aptneſs to devour, Greedineſs, Gluttony.

Vortex, a Whirl-pool, a turning round of the Water in the Sea, or Rivers. According to the Carteſian Philoſophy, a Syſtem of liquid Air or Celeſtial Matter, which moves round like a Whirlpool and carries the Planets about the Sun, either ſwifter or ſlower according as they are farther off or nearer to its Center.

Votareſs, a female Votary.

Votary, one that has bound himſelf to the performance of a Religious Vow; alſo one devoted or wholly given up to Love, Learning, &c.

Vote, Voice, Advice, or Opinion about a Matter in Debate.

Votes, the things voted for, the Reſolves of an Aſſembly, or Parliament.

To Vote, to give in one's Vote, to reſolve by the greater number of Votes.

To Vouch, to avouch or maintain, to affirm, to warrant, to challenge a Thing: In a Law-ſenſe, to call one in Court to make good his Warranty.

To Vouch for one, is to paſs his Word for him.

Vouchee, a Perſon vouched at Law.

Voucher, the Tenant who calls another Man into the Court that is bound to him to Warranty: And it is either to defend the Right againſt the Demandant, or to yield him other Lands, &c. in Value; it alſo extends to Lands or Tenements of Free-hold, or Inheritance.

Foreign Voucher, is when the Tenant being impleaded in a particular Juriſdiction, as at London or the like, vouches one to Warranty, and prays that he may be ſummoned in ſome other County out of the Juriſdiction of that Court; ſo that he might more properly be call'd A Voucher of a Foreigner.

To Vouchſafe, to condeſcend, to be pleas'd to do a thing: In Divinity, to grant graciouſly: as Vouchſafe us the Aſſiſtance of thy Holy Spirit.

Vow, a Religious Promiſe, a Solemn and Devout Proteſtation.

To Vow, to make a Vow, to ſwear or proteſt ſolemnly, to aſſure.

Vowels, certain Letters of the Alphabet, ſo call'd, becauſe they expreſs a Sound of themſelves, without the help of a Conſonant; being five in Number, viz. a, e, i, o, u, y.

Voyage, (Fr.) a paſſing from one Country or Place to another, eſpecially by Sea. Sometimes it is taken for the Profit gain'd by going to Sea; ſo we ſay, Such a one made a good Voyage.

Voyager, a Traveller.

Voydance. See Voidance.

To Upbraid, to twit or hit in the Teeth, to reproach; to abuſe, or affront.

To Uphold, to ſupport, or maintain; to favour.

Upholſter or Upholſterer, a Trades-man that deals in all ſorts of Chamber-Furniture; as Tapeſtry, Bedding, &c.

Upland, high Ground, oppoſed to mooriſh, marſhy, or low Grounds.

Uplander, one that lives in the high Grounds, an High-lander.

Upper Attaint, a Horſe-Diſeaſe. See Attaint.

Upper Counter in a Ship. See Counter.

Upper Region of the Air. See Region.

Upright, ſet, or ſtanding up ſtraight, in oppoſition to ſitting or lying; alſo ſincere, honeſt, juſt.

Upright South Dials. See Prime Verticals.

An Upright, (in Architect.) a Repreſentation, or Draught of the Front of a Building.

Uproar, Hurly-burly, great Buſtle, Rout, or Riot.

Upſhot, Iſſue, end or Succeſs of a Buſineſs.

Upſtart, or Upſtart-Fellow, one of mean Birth that is grown Rich, or makes a conſiderable Figure of a ſudden, and behaves himſelf inſolently.

Upupa, (Lat.) the Hoop, or Hoopoe; a Bird.

Urachus, (Gr. in Anat.) a ſmall, Membranous, round Pipe with a very ſtraight Cavity, which conveys the Urine from the Bladder of a Child in the Womb, into the Coat call'd Allantoides; but after the Birth it becomes like a Ligament, and ſerves to bear up the Bladder.

Urania, (i. e. Heavenly) the Name of one of the Nine Muſes; who preſided over Aſtronomy.

Uranoſcopia, a Contemplating, or viewing of the Heavens.

Uranoſcopus, one that obſerves the Courſe of the Heavenly Bodies, an Aſtronomer: Alſo a kind of Fiſh which has but one Eye in the Head, and that ſo plac'd, that ſwimming it ſeems to look upwards.

Urbaniſts, the Name of a ſort of Nuns.

Urbanity, (Lat. q. d. the City-Faſhion) Civility, civil Behaviour, good Manners, good Breeding, Courteſy.

Urceolaris Herba, (Lat.) an Herb call'd Feverfew, or as ſome ſay, Pellitory of the Wall.

Urchin, an Hedg-hog; alſo a Dwarf, a little unlucky Boy, or Girl.

Sea-Urchin, or Sea-Hedge-Hog, a Fiſh ſo call'd, becauſe it is round and full of Prickles, like a Land Hedge-hog rolled up: Theſe are often ſent as Preſents to the Curious, to hang in their Repoſitories or Cloſets, &c.

Ure, Uſe, as To put one's ſelf in Ure, i. e. to accuſtom one's ſelf; Brought in Ure, To keep in Ure, &c.

Uredo, (Lat.) the blaſting of Trees or Herbs; alſo an Itch, or burning in the Skin.

Urentia, Medicines of a burning, or hot Quality.

Ureters, (Gr. in Anat.) two Conduits or Pipes that proceed from the Reins, and convey the Urine thence to the Bladder. Celſus calls them The White Veins.

Urethra, the Urinary Paſſage or Pipe thro' which the Urine paſſes from the Bladder to the end of the Penis: It alſo ſerves in Males for the diſcharging of the Semen.

Uretica. See Diuretica.

To Urge, (Lat.) to move, or preſs earneſtly; to provoke, anger, or vex; to inſiſt upon in Diſcourſe, to follow one cloſe in a Diſpute.

Urgency, preſſing Importunity, haſte of Buſineſs.

Urgent, Preſſing, Earneſt, admitting no Delay.

Uria, (Lat.) a Bird call'd a Naff.

Uriah, (Heb. the Fire of the Lord) a Chief Commander in King David's Army, by whoſe Order he was ſet in the Fore-front of the Battel, and kill'd by the Enemies.

Urica, (Lat.) an Hurt that comes to all manner of Grain by too much Moiſture.

Uriel, (Heb. the Fire of God) the Name of an Angel, as alſo of ſeveral Men mentioned in the Old Teſtament.

Urigo, (Lat.) burning with a Cauſtick; alſo the Itch of Luſt.

Urim and Thummim (Heb. Lights and Perfections) Twelve precious Stones in the Breaſt-plate of the High-Prieſt, which ſhone like the Flame of Fire.

Urina, (Lat.) Urine, Piſs, Stale, the Water of a Man or Beaſt.

Urina Pericardii. See Aqua Pericardii.

Urinal, a Glaſs-Veſſel to receive Urine, eſpecially when is to be carry'd to the Phyſician to give his Judgment of it.

Urinaria Fiſtula, the Urine-pipe; the ſame as Urethra.

Urinarius Ductus, See Ductus Urinarius.

Urinator, (Lat.) a Diver, or Swimmer under Water.

Urinatrix, the Diver, Didapper, or Dab-Chick; a Water-Fowl.

Urine, a Serous Excrement derived from the Bloud, which paſſes from the Reins by the Ureters to the Bladder, and is thence diſcharged as Occaſion requires.

Urines, (in Falconry) Nets to catch Hawks with.

Urinous, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of Urine.

Urinous Salts, (among Chymiſts) all ſorts of Volatile Salts drawn from Animals or other Subſtances, which are contrary to Acids.

Urna, (Lat.) An Urn, a Water-Pitcher: Alſo a Veſſel made uſe of by the Romans, to draw out of it the Names of thoſe who were firſt to engage at the Publick Plays; or to throw in the Notes and give their Votes in the Aſſemblies held at Rome, and Courts of Juſtice. Alſo a Pot made of different Matter, as Gold, Silver, Stone, Earth, &c. to keep the Aſhes and Bones of the Dead, after they were burnt, according to ancient Cuſtom. Alſo a certain liquid Meaſure containing four Gallons.

Urocriterium, (Gr. in the Art of Phyſick) a giving Judgment of Diſeaſes, by the ſight of the Urine.

Urocritica, Signs which are obſerved from Urine.

Urogallus, the Cock of the Wood, or Heath-Cock, a ſort of Fowl.

Urinomantia, a Divining or gueſſing at the nature of a Diſeaſe, by viewing the Patient's Urine.

Uropygium, or Orrhopygium, the narroweſt or loweſt part of the Chine, the Rump.

Uroſcopia, an Inſpection or looking into Urines, commonly call'd a Caſting of Waters.

Urry, a ſort of blew Clay, digged out of Coal-Mines, which lies next the Coals and is us'd for the Dunging of Land.

Urſa, (Lat.) a She-Bear.

Urſa Major, a Northern Conſtellation conſiſting of 27 bright Stars; which is commonly call'd The Great Bear, and Charles's Wain.

Urſa Minor, or The leſſer Bear, another Northern Conſtellation that conſiſts of ſeven Stars, of which the laſt and neareſt to the Pole is nam'd Cynoſura and Stella Maris.

Urſula, a proper Name of Women, ſignifying in Latin, a little She-Bear.

Urſulines, an Order of Nuns who obſerve the Rule of St. Auguſtine, and take upon them the Inſtruction and Education of young Virgins.

Urſus, (Lat.) a Male Bear; a wild Beaſt.

Urtica, (Lat.) the Nettle, an Herb ſo call'd becauſe it raiſes Bliſters: It is good againſt the Stone and Gravel, and the Buds or Tops taken in Broth in the Spring-time, purify the Bloud.

Urus, (Gr.) the Owre, a wild Beaſt like a Bull, but bigger and very ſwift.

Uſage, (Lat.) Cuſtom, common Practice, Faſhion, Way, Habit, Treatment, or Entertainment: In a Law-Senſe, the ſame as Preſcription; which See.

Uſance, (i. e. a Month's Uſe) the ſpace of time between any Day of one Month, and the ſame Day of the next following; as from Jan. 4, to Febr. 4, from July 6, to Auguſt 6: Which time is generally allow'd among Merchants for the payment of a Summ of Money expreſs'd in a Bill of Exchange, after it has been accepted.

Double Uſance, is the ſpace of two ſuch Months allowed upon the ſame Account.

Uſe, the Employing or the Enjoyment of a thing; Cuſtom, Practice, Exerciſe; Advantage, Service, Intereſt of Money: In a Law-Senſe, the Profit of Lands or Tenements, eſpecially that part of the Habendum

Habendum of a Deed, or Conveyance, which expreſſes to what Benefit the Party ſhall have the Eſtate.

Uſer de Action, is the purſuing, or bringing an Action at Law.

Uſher, an Under-Maſter in a School; alſo the Door-keeper of a Court.

Uſher or Gentleman-Uſher, an Officer that waits upon a Lady, or Perſon of Quality.

Uſher of the Black-rod. See Black-rod.

Uſhers of the Exchequer, are four in Number who attend the chief Officers and Barons in the Court at Weſtminſter, as alſo Juries, Sheriffs, Accountants, &c. at the pleaſure of the ſaid Court.

To Uſher in, to introduce, or bring in.

Uſnea, (Lat.) a kind of green Moſs which grows upon Humane Sculls that have been lying in the open Air for ſome Years, and which is us'd in Phyſick.

Uſquebagh, a ſtrong Iriſh diſtilled Liquor; the Name in that Language ſignifying as much as Aqua Vitæ.

Uſtion, (Lat.) a burning, a burning or ſearing with a hot Iron; a Term in Phyſick and Surgery.

Uſtrigo, a blaſting or bliting of Corn; a burning in Sores.

Uſtrina or Uſtrinum, the Place at Rome, where the Bodies of the Dead were burned; alſo a Melting-Houſe for Metals.

Uſual, that ſerves for Uſe, common, ordinary, accuſtomed.

Uſucaption, (Law-Word) the Enjoying of a thing for continuance of Time, or receiving the Profits; long Poſſeſſion, or Preſcription.

Uſufructuary, one that has the Uſe, and reaps the Profit of any thing, the Propriety of which reſts in another.

Uſura, (Lat.) Uſury, the Gain of any thing above the Principal or that which was lent, taken only in conſideration of the Loan; as well Corn, Apparel, Wares, or ſuch like, as Money.

Uſura Centeſimis, (among the Romans) Uſe-money, or Intereſt, at One per Cent. They paid Intereſt by the Month, and not by the Year as we do; ſo that the Term implies the Hundredth Part of the Summ every Month, and conſequently Twelve per Cent. per Annum. But this ſort of Uſury being looked upon as exorbitant, it was reduc'd to One per Cent. per Annum, and this was call'd Vnciarum fœnus.

Uſurer, one that lends upon Uſury, or for Gain.

Uſurious, belonging to Uſury; as An Vſurious Contract; alſo that practiſes Uſury; griping.

To Uſurp, to take away, or ſeize upon violently.

Uſurpation, the Act of Uſurping; an unjuſt Poſſeſſion of another Man's Propriety, gain'd by Violence againſt Right and Equity.

Uſury, Money taken for the Loan of any thing, or an unreaſonable and unlawful Gain exacted upon that Account.

Utas, a Law-Word, more eſpecially us'd in the return of Writs, which ſignifies the eighth Day following any Term, or Feaſt; as The Vtas of Saint Hilary, of St. John Baptiſt, of St. Michael, &c. thus any Day between the Feſtival and the Octave, is ſaid To be within the Vtas.

Utchunquois, a ſort of wild Cat peculiar to Virginia and ſome other Parts in the Weſt-Indies.

Utenſil, any thing that ſerves for Uſe, a neceſſary Implement, or Tool, a piece of Houſehold-ſtuff, or Furniture, eſpecially Kitchen-Tackling.

In Military Affairs, Utenſils are Neceſſaries due to every Soldier, and to be furniſhed by his Hoſt, where he is quarter'd; viz. a Bed with Sheets, a Pot, a Glaſs, or Cup, a Diſh, a place at the Fire, and a Candle.

Uteri Aſcenſio, (Lat.) the riſing of the Mother; a Diſeaſe. See Hyſterica Paſſio.

Uteri Procidentia, the falling of the Womb. See Procidentia Vteri.

Uterine, belonging to the Womb.

Uterine Brother, a Brother by the Mother's Side.

Uterine Fury, a Diſeaſe in the Womb that ſends forth Fumes to the Brain, cauſing extraordinary Paſſions and luſtful Deſires, that cannot be ſatisfy'd or appeaſed.

Uterus, (Lat.) the Matrice or Womb of a Woman; an Organical Part ſeated in the Hypogaſtrium or lower part of the Belly, where the Acts of Generation and Conception are perform'd.

Utfangtheſe, (Sax.) a Privilege or Royalty granted in Old Time by the King to the Lord of a Manour, impowering him to puniſh a Thief, committing Theft out of his Liberty, if taken within his Fee. See Infangtheſe.

Utility, (Lat.) Uſefulneſs, Benefit, Advantage, Profit.

Utlagatio, a Latin Law-Word for an Outlawry.

Utlagato Capiendo quando utlagatur in uno Comitatu & poſtea fugit in alium, a Writ for the taking or apprehending of a Man that is outlawed in one County and flies into another.

Utlagh, (Sax.) an Out-law, or Out-lawed Perſon.

Utland. See Inland.

Utlary or Out-lawry, a Puniſhment for ſuch as being called into Law, contemptuouſly refuſe to appear, after ſeveral Writs iſſued out againſt them, with an Exigent and a Proclamation thereupon awarded: The Effect of this is different; for if a Man be out-lawed at another's Suit in a Civil Cauſe, he ſhall forfeit all his Goods and Chattels to the Queen; if upon Felony, he ſhall loſe all the Lands and Tenements that he has in Fee or for Life, with his Goods and Chattels.

Utlepe, (old Law-Word) a Flight or Eſcape, made by Thieves or Robbers.

Utopia, (Gr. i. e. a fine Place) the feigned Name of a Country deſcribed by Sir Thomas More, as the Pattern of a well governed Common-wealth: Whence it is figuratively taken for any Imaginary, or feigned Place.

Utter, abſolute, entire; outward.

To Utter, to pronounce, or ſpeak forth; to tell, diſcover, or expreſs; to vend, or ſell Wares.

Utter-Barriſters, Perſons who for their long Study and great Induſtry beſtow'd upon the Knowledge of the Common Law, are call'd from their Contemplation to Practice, and publickly to take upon them the Defence of Clients: They are ſo nam'd from their Pleading without the Bar to diſtinguiſh them from Benchers, or thoſe that have been Readers, who are ſometimes admitted to plead within the Bar.

Utterance, Delivery, manner of ſpeaking; alſo ſale of Commodities.

Uva, (Lat.) a Grape, a Raiſin; alſo the ſame with Vvula; which See. Vva criſpa, a Raſp, or Gooſe-berry. Vva paſſa, a dried Grape.

Uvea Membrana ſive Tunica, (in Anat.) a Skin or Coat of the Eye, which is ſo nam'd from its reſembling the Skin of a Grape, and has a Hole in the fore-part, ſo as to leave a ſpace for the Apple of the Eye: Its outward Surface being of divers Colours is call'd Iris, and this makes the difference of Mens Eyes as to Colours, as Black, Gray, &c.

Uvigena or Uvigera, the ſame with Vvula; which See.

Vulcano or Volcano, (Ital.) a burning Mountain that caſts forth Flames, Smoak and Aſhes; ſo call'd from Vulcan the Heathen God of Fire.

Vulgar, (Lat.) common, general, ordinary; low, baſe, mean, vile.

Vulgar Algebra. See Algebra.

Vulgar Fractions, (in Arithm.) the ordinary ſort of Fractions, diſtinguiſhed from Decimal Fractions, &c. See Fractions.

Vulgar or Vulgate Tranſlation of the Bible, that Latin Tranſlation of it, which is generally received in the Church of Rome.

The Vulgar, the common ſort of People, the rude Multitude, the Rabble.

Vulnerable, that may be wounded.

Vulnerary, belonging to, or good for the healing of Wounds.

A Vulnerary, a Medicine proper to cure Wounds.

Vulnus, (Lat.) a Wound, a Hurt, a Sore; which in Surgery, is defined to be a Solution of the Continuity of the Parts by a ſharp Inſtrument, a Bullet, &c.

Vulpanſer, the Bergander, or Burrow-duck, a Bird of the kind of Geeſe.

Vulpecula, a little young Fox, or Fox-cub.

Vulpecula marina, the Sea-Fox-hound, a Fiſh that ſometimes grows to the bigneſs of an hundred Pounds weight.

Vulpes, the Fox, a Beaſt of Chace; alſo a kind of Sea-fiſh.

Vulpine, belonging to, or like a Fox; crafty, wily, ſubtil.

Vultur or Gripe, a large Bird of Prey.

Vultur volans. See Aquila.

Vulturine, belonging to, or partaking of the Nature of a Vultur.

Vulturius, (Lat.) a Vultur, an Extortioner; alſo an unlucky Chance at Dice, the ſame as Canis.

Vulturnus, the North-Eaſt Wind, or the South-Eaſt Wind.

Vulva, the Matrice, Mother, or Womb; alſo the Womb-paſſage, or Neck of the Womb; a Woman's Privities.

Vulva Cerebri, a ſomewhat long Furrow between the Eminences, or bunching out parts of the Brain.

Vulvaria, ſtinking Mother-wort; an Herb.

Uvula, the little piece of red, ſpungy Fleſh that hangs down from the Palate or Roof of the Mouth, between the two Glandules call'd Amygdalæ: Its uſe is to prevent the Air from ent'ring too cold into the Lungs, and to hinder any Liquor that is drunk from falling upon the Noſtrils: It is otherwiſe termed Uva, Uvigena and Uvigera; as alſo Cion and Columella.

Uvula-Spoon, a Surgeon's Inſtrument which is held juſt under the Uvula, with Pepper and Salt in it, to be blown up into the Hollow behind the ſame.

Uvularia, the Herb Horſe-tongue.

Uxor, (Lat.) a Wife.

Uxorium, (among the old Romans) a Mulct or Forfeit paid for not marrying; Money exacted by way of Fine of thoſe that had no Wives.

Uxorious, over-fond of, or doting upon his Wife.

Uzifur, a Name given by ſome Chymiſts to Cinnabar, made up of Sulphur and Mercury.

Uzziah. See Azariah.

Uzziel, (Heb. the Buck-Goat of God) the Son of Kohath, from whom the Uzzielites deſcended.

W A

To Wabble, to wriggle about as an Arrow ſometimes does in the Air.

Wad, a ſort of Flocks of Silk, courſe Flannel, or Cotton; alſo a Bundle of Straw, or Peaſe.

Wad or Wadding (in Gunnery) a ſtopple of Ockam, old Clouts, or Straw, put up cloſe to the Shot, to keep it from rolling out.

Wad-hook, a Rod, or great Iron-wire turn'd in a Serpentine manner, and having its end put upon a Handle or Staff to draw out Wads, or Ockam, that the Piece may be unloaded.

Waddemole, (old Word) a courſe ſort of Stuff us'd for covering the Collars of Cart-horſes: It is now call'd Woddemel, and in Oxford-ſhire Woddenel.

To Waddle, to go ſide-long, as a Duck does.

Waddles, the Stones of a Cock.

To Wade, to go in, or paſs thro' the Water of a River, Brook, &c. to dive into a Buſineſs.

Waft, (Sea-Word) a Sign made to Ships, or Boats for Men to come aboard; as a Coat, or Sea-gown, &c. hanged out in the Main-ſhrowds. To make a Waft, is to put out ſuch a Sign, which is often done to ſhew that the Ship is in ſome extraordinary accidental Danger, by a Leak, &c. and wants help from the Shore, or from ſome other Veſſel.

To Waft, is to convoy or guard any Ship or Fleet at Sea, as Men of War uſe to do Merchantmen.

Wafter, a Frigat to convoy after ſuch a manner.

Wafters or Waftors, three Officers with Naval Power, appointed by K. Edward IV. to guard Fiſher-men on the Coaſts of Norfolk and Suffolk.

To Wag, to move or ſtir, to ſhake.

Wag-tail or Water-ſwallow, a Bird.

Waga or Vaga, a Weigh, a quantity of Cheeſe, Wooll, &c. conſiſting of 256 Pounds Avoir-du-pois.

Wage, (Law-Term) a giving Security for the performance of a thing; as To wage Deliverance, &c. See Gage.

To Wage Law, to proſecute or carry on a Law-ſuit: When an Action of Debt, or Detinue is brought againſt one, the Defendant may wage his Law, i. e. ſwear upon a Book, and certain Perſons with him, That he does not detain the Goods, nor owe any thing to the Plaintiff, in manner and form as he has declared.

Wager of Law, the Offer of making ſuch an Oath.

Waggery, Wantonneſs, frolickſome or merry Pranks.

Waggiſh, wanton, toyiſh.

To Waggle, to joggle, or move up and down, to be always in Motion.

Waggoner, one that drives a Waggon; alſo the Name of a Northern Conſtellation, the ſame with Charles-wain.

Waif or Weif, (in Common Law) Cattel ſtrayed, or Goods ſtollen and quitted upon Hue-and-Cry; which being found, are to be proclaimed ſeveral Market-days, and if challenged within a Year and a Day, are to be reſtored to the Owner, eſpecially if he ſue an Appeal againſt the Felon, or give Evidence againſt him at his Tryal: Otherwiſe they belong to the Lord of the Manour, in whoſe Juriſdiction they were left, who by Preſcription or Grant from the Queen has The Franchiſe of the Waif.

Wail. See Wale.

Wain, (Sax.) a Cart, or Waggon.

Wainable, (in old Deeds) that may be Manured, or Ploughed; Tillable.

Wainage, the Furniture of a Wain, or Cart.

Wair, (among Carpenters) a piece of Timber two Yards long and one Foot broad.

Wait-Fee, See Wayt-Fee.

Waits, a ſort of Wind-Muſick.

To Waive, (Law-word) to quit, or forſake; as To waive the Company of Thieves.

Waived, a Woman is ſaid To be Waive, or Waived, as a Man To be Out-Lawed for contemptuouſly refuſing to appear when ſued in Law, or otherwiſe; in regard that Women cannot be Out-Lawed, becauſe they are not ſworn in Leets to the Queen, nor to the Law, as Men are.

Waived Goods, are ſuch as a Thief having ſtollen and being cloſe purſued, or elſe over-charged with the Burden of them, leaves behind him in his Flight; which are forfeited to the Lord of the Manour, unleſs the Owner come with a freſh Suit againſt the Felon. See Waif.

Wake, (among Sea-men) is taken for that ſmooth Water which a Ship leaves a-ſtern when under Sail, and is alſo call'd The Ship's Way; by which a good Gueſs may be given of the Speed ſhe makes.

A Ship is ſaid To ſtay a Weather of a Wake, when in her Staying ſhe does it ſo ſpeedily, that ſhe don't fall to the Leeward, but that when ſhe is tacked, her Wake is to the Leeward; which is a ſure Sign that ſhe feels her Helm well, and is nimble of Steerage. When a Ship being in Chace of another, has got as far into the Wind as ſhe, and ſails directly after her; the uſual Saying is, That ſhe has got into her Wake.

Wakes, certain Country-Feaſts which uſ'd to be celebrated for ſome Days after that Saint's Day, to whom the Pariſh-Church was dedicated, and are ſtill kept in ſome parts of England: Theſe Feaſts probably took Name, from the People's Cuſtom of awaking from Sleep, to Watch and Pray at the ſeveral Watches of the Night, on the Eve or Day before.

Wake-Man, (qu. Watch-man) the Title of the chief Magiſtrate of Rippon in York-ſhire.

Wake-Robin, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Cuckoo-Pintle, Prieſt's Pintle and Starch-Wort.

Walburg, (Sax. i. e. Gracious) an ancient proper Name of Women.

Wald, or Walda, (in old Records) a Wood, a wild woody Ground. See Weald.

Waldwin, a proper Name of Men, ſignifying a Conqueror in the German Tongue.

Wales or Wails, (Sea-Term) thoſe Timbers on the Ship's Sides, which lie outmoſt, and are uſually trod upon, when People climb up the Sides to get into the Ship: Theſe are reckon'd from the Water, and call'd her firſt, ſecond, or third Wale, Bend, or Bench.

Chain-Wales, thoſe Wales that are laid out farther than any of the others, and ſerve to ſpread out the Ropes call'd Shrowds. See Chain.

Gun-wale, the Wale that goes about the uppermoſt Strake, or Seam of the uppermoſt Deck in the Ship's Waſte.

Wale-knot, a round Knot or Knob, made with three Strands of a Rope, ſo that it cannot ſlip, with which the Tacks, Top-ſail Sheats, Stoppers and ſome other Ropes are made faſt.

Wale-reared, a Ship is ſaid To be Wale-reared when built ſtraight up after ſhe comes to her Bearing; which tho' it be unſightly, and as the Sea-men term it, not Ship-ſhapen, yet it cauſes her to have more room within Board, and to ride ſteady in the Sea; eſpecially if her Bearing be well laid out.

Walfleet-Oiſters, a ſort of Oiſters ſo call'd from a Wall on the Coaſts of Eſſex, built to keep the Sea from over-flowing thoſe Parts, along which they lie, and are taken in great abundance.

Waliſcus, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a Servant, or any Miniſterial Officer; from the Saxon Word Wealh, a Foreigner, or Stranger.

Walkers, a ſort of Foreſt-Officers appointed by the King or Queen, to walk about a certain ſpace of Ground committed to their Care.

Walking-Wheel. See Perambulator.

Wall-Creeper, a kind of Bird.

Wall-Flower, a Plant bearing a ſweet-ſcented yellow Flower.

Wall-Louſe. See Wood-Louſe.

Wall-Pepper. See Stone-crop

Walla, (in old Latin Records) a Wall, or Bank of Earth, caſt up for a Mound or Boundary; whence Wallare, to Repair, or keep ſuch Walls.

Wallet, a kind of Bag with two Pouches to it: Alſo the Name of a Channel on the Coaſts of England, which ent'ring between the Weſt Rocks and the Buoy of the Gun-fleet, iſſues out again at the Spits.

Wallowiſh, Unſavory, Taſteleſs.

Walt, (among Sea-men) a Ship is ſaid To be Walt, when ſhe has not Ballaſt ſufficient to keep her ſtiff enough and enable her to bear Sail.

Walter, a proper Name of Men, from the German Word Wald, a Wood, and Herr, a Maſter; or from the Saxon, Wealdan to rule, and Here an Army.

Walviaria Mulieris, (Lat. Law-Term) the waiving of a Woman; which anſwers to Utlagatio Viri, or the Out-lawing of a Man. See Waive.

To Wamble, to riſe up as ſeething Water does, to wriggle like an Arrow in the Air.

Wane, the decreaſe of the Moon.

Wang, an old Saxon Word ſignifying a Field.

Wangs, or Wang-Teeth, the Cheek, or Jaw-Teeth; according to theſe Verſes in Chaucer.

In witneſs that this is Sooth,
I bite the Wax with my Wing-Tooth.

Wanga, (in ancient Deeds) an Iron-Inſtrument with Teeth.

Wanlaſs, (a Term in Hunting) as Driving the Wanlaſs, i. e. the driving of Deer to a Stand; which in ſome Latin Records is termed Fugatio Wanlaſſi ad Stabulum, and in Doomſday-Book, Stabilitio venationis.

Wannagium, (in old Writers) Wainage, Furniture for a Wain, or Cart; alſo Wain-houſes, or neceſſary Out-Houſes for Husbandry.

Wanſdike, or Wodenſdike, (from the Saxon Idol Woden,) a wonderful Ditch that croſſes Wilt-ſhire from Eaſt to Weſt, and ſeems to have been deſign'd for a Boundary, or Fence, either to diſtinguiſh Territories, or to be a Guard againſt Enemies in that Frontier-Country.

Want, a North-Country Word for a Mole.

Want-Louſe, a ſort of Inſect.

Wantey, (Country-Word) a Surſingle, or large Girth for a Pack-Horſe.

Wapentake, a certain Diviſion of a County, otherwiſe call'd a Hundred: The Name is deriv'd from an ancient Cuſtom, wherein he that came to take the Government of a Hundred, was met by the better ſort of People, who touch'd his Weapon or Lance with their Spears; by which Ceremony they were united together, and enter'd into a mutual Aſſociation.

Wapp, (in a Ship) a Rope with which the Shrowds are ſet ſtiff with Wale-Knots; one end being made faſt to the Shrowds, and the Laniards brought to the other.

To Warble, to Chirp, Sing or Chatter, as a Bird does; to Sing in a trilling or quavering Way; to gargle or purl, as a Brook or Stream.

Warbling of the Wings, (in Falconry) is when a Hawk, after having mantled her ſelf, croſſes her Wings over her Back.

Ward, a particular Diſtrict or Quarter of the City of London, committed to the ſpecial Charge of one of the 24 Aldermen: Alſo a part, or diviſion of a Foreſt; alſo a Priſon, or a particular Apartment of it; The Heir of the King's Tenant holding by Knight's-Service, or in Chief, was alſo call'd a Ward during his Nonage.

Court of Wards, a Court firſt appointed by K. Henry VIII. for the determining of Matters relating to ſuch Heirs; to which was afterwards added the Office of Liveries, for the delivery of Poſſeſſion of Lands, Tenements, &c. Whende it was ſtyled The Court of Wards and Liveries; but this Court is abſolutely taken away and aboliſh'd by Stat. 12. Car. 2.

To Ward, to keep Guard or Watch, to Pary, or keep off a Blow.

Ward-Corn, a Duty heretofore enjoyned of keeping Watch and Ward with a Horn, to blow upon any occaſion of Surprize.

Ward-mote. See Wardmote.

Ward-Penny, or Watch-Penny, Money contributed for Watching and Warding.

Ward-ſtaff, the Conſtable's or Watch-man's Staff: Alſo a kind of Petty Serjeanty, which is a holding of Lands, as thoſe of Lambourn-Manour in Kent, by this Service, viz. to carry a Load of Straw in a Cart, with ſix Horſes, two Ropes, and two Men in Harneſs, to watch the ſaid Ward-ſtaff when it is brought to the Place appointed.

Wardage, the ſame as Ward-Penny; which See.

Warden, a Guardian or Keeper, one that has the keeping or charge of any Perſon or Thing by Office; as the Wardens of the ſeveral Companies or Corporations in the City of London, the Wardens of the Rolls in Chancery; Warden of the Marſhes, of the Alnage, of a College in the Univerſity, &c.

Warden or Lord Warden of the Cinque-Ports, a particular Governour of thoſe noted Havens, who has the Authority of an Admiral, and ſends out Writs in his own Name.

Warden of the Fleet, the chief Keeper of the Fleet-Priſon in London.

Warden of the Foreſt. See Keeper of the Foreſt.

Warden of the Mint, or Keeper of the Exchange and Mint, an Officer whoſe Buſineſs is to receive the Gold and Silver brought in by the Merchants, Goldſmiths, or others, to pay them for it, and to overſee all the reſt; his Fee being 400 Pounds per Annum.

Warden in a Religious Houſe, the Provincial's Deputy that Acts in his Abſence.

Warden-Pear, a large ſort of Pear that keeps long ſound.

Warder, a Beadle or Staff-man that keeps, Guard or Watch in the Day-time.

Warders, or Yeomen-Warders, (in the Tower of London) certain Officers who are counted the Queen's Houſehold-Servants: Their Duty is to attend Priſoners of State committed for Treaſon, or other Miſdemeanours; to wait at the Gates, to take an account of all Perſons that come into the Tower, and to enter their Names with thoſe of the Perſons they go to, in a Book to be peruſed by the Conſtable or Lieutenant: They are cloathed like the Yeomen of the Queen's Guards, with red Jackets and black Velvet-Caps.

Wardfeoh, or Wardfegh, (Sax.) the value of a Ward or Heir under Age, or the Money paid to the Lord of the Fee for his Redemption.

Wardmote, commonly call'd The Wardmote-Court, or Inqueſt, a Court kept in every Ward in the City of London, for the chuſing of Officers and tranſacting other Matters relating to ſuch a Ward.

Wardrobe, a Place where the Robes and Garments, of Princes or Noblemen are kept.

Clerk of the Queen's great Wardrobe, an Officer that keeps an Inventory, or particular Account of all things belonging to the Queen's Wardrobe.

Wardwite. See Warwite.

Ware, Merchandize, Commodity; alſo a Dam in a River. See Wear.

Warectabilis Campus, (in old Latin Records) a fallow Field.

Warectare, to fallow Ground, or plough up Land deſigned for Wheat in the Spring, in order to let it lie Fallow for the better Improvement.

Warectum, or Terra Warecta, Land that has been long untilled, fallow Ground. Tempus Warecti, the time during which Land lies Fallow.

Warfare, the ſtate of War, a Military Expedition.

Warin, a proper Name of Men, from Gerwin, which in the German Tongue ſignifies All-victorious.

Wariſon, (old Word) Reward.

Warlike, belonging to the Art, or Affairs of War; Valiant, Stout.

Warlike Engines. See Engines.

To Warn, to tell or give notice of a thing before hand, to admoniſh, to bid one provide for himſelf elſewhere; alſo to cite, or ſummon to appear in a Court of Juſtice.

Warning-Wheel, (in a Clock) is the third or fourth Wheel, according to its diſtande from the firſt Wheel.

Warniſtura, (in ancient Latin Deeds) Garniture, Furniture, Proviſion.

Warnoth, an ancient Cuſtom by which a Tenant holding of Dover-Caſtle, that fail'd in the payment of his Rent at a ſet Day, was oblig'd to forfeit double; for the ſecond Failure, treble, &c.

Warp, the Thread at length into which the Woof is Woven: Alſo the Name of a Shole that begins near the Buoy of Oarhedge, and comes out of the Swin up the River: Alſo a Term in uſe among Mariners. See To Warp a Ship.

To Warp, to caſt or bend, as Boards do when they are not dry.

To Warp a Ship, (in Sea-Language) is to hale her up to a Place by means of a Hawſer, or other ſufficient Rope laid out for that purpoſe, and faſten'd to an Anchor: 'Tis chiefly us'd when a Wind is wanting to carry the Ship into or out of an Harbour; and the Hawſer, or other Rope ſo made uſe of is termed a Warp.

Warrant, an Order, an authentick Power, Permiſſion, or Allowance.

Warrant of Attorney, a Deed by whch a Man appoints another to do ſomething in his Name, and warrants his Action, eſpecially ſuch a one, as in Perſonal, Mixt, and ſome Real Actions, is put in of courſe by the Attorneys, for the Plaintiffs or Demandants, Defendants or Tenants. See Letter of Attorney.

Clerk of the Warrants, an Officer belonging to the Court of Common-Pleas, who enters all Warrants of Attorney for Plaintiff and Defendant, and enrolls all Deeds or Indentures of Bargain and Sale acknowledged in that Court.

To Warrant, to ſecure, to maintain; to aſſure, or promiſe.

Warrant-Officer. See Officer.

Warrantable, that may be Warranted, maintained, or juſtified.

Warrantia Chartæ, is a Writ that lies for one, who being infeoffed in Lands or Tenements, with a Clauſe of Warranty, is impleaded in an Aſſize or Writ of Entry: In which Caſe, his Remedy is to take out this Writ againſt the Feoffer or his Heirs.

Warrantia Cuſtodiæ, a Judicial Writ that heretofore lay for him who was challenged to be a Ward to another, in reſpect of Land ſaid to be held in Knight's Service, which when it was bought by the Anceſtours of the Ward, was warranted to be free from ſuch Thraldom, and it lay againſt the Warranter and his Heirs.

Warrantia Diei, is a Writ lying where a Man having a Day ſet for his Perſonal Appearance in Court to any Action in which he is ſued, is employed in the mean time, in the Queen's Service; ſo that he cannot come at the Day appointed. This Writ is directed to the Juſtices, that they neither take nor record him in Default for that Day.

Warrantize, or Warranty, (in Common Law) is a Promiſe or Covenant by Deed, by which the Bargainer obliges himſelf and his Heirs, to Warrant or Secure the Bargainee and his Heirs againſt all Men in the quiet Poſſeſſion of any thing ſold or agreed on between them: And this Warranty paſſes from the Seller to the Buyer, from the Feoffer to the Feoffee; from one that releaſes, to him that is releaſed from an Action Real, &c.

Warren, a Franchiſe, or Place privileged either by Preſcription, or Grant from the Queen, to keep Beaſts and Fowl of Warren; as Coneys, Hares, Partridges and Pheaſants.

Warrener, a Warren-keeper.

Warrier, or Warriour, a warlike Man, one well ſkill'd in Military Affairs.

Warſcot, (Sax.) a Contribution that us'd to be made towards Armour, in the Saxon Times.

Warth, a cuſtomary Payment for ſome Caſtle-Guard, or for keeping Watch and Ward.

Warwite, or Wardwite, a being quit of giving Money, for keeping Watches or Wards.

Wary, Wiſe, Provident, Cautious, Thrifty.

Wary-Angle, a ſort of Mag-pie; a Bird.

† Waſe, a wreath of Cloth, &c. to be laid under a Veſſel that is born on the Head.

Waſhing of a Ship, (among Mariners) is when all the Guns being brought to one Side, and the Men got up on the Yards, they waſh her other Side, and ſcrape it as far as they can reach.

Waſhum, (in old Latin Records) a ſhallow or fordable part, of a River or Arm of the Sea; as the Waſhes in Lincoln-ſhire.

Waſkite, a kind of Hawk in Virginia.

Waſſail, or Waſſel, (Sax. Waes-heal i. e. Health be to you) an ancient Cuſtom ſtill us'd in ſome Places on Twelfth Day at Night, of going about with a great Bowl of Ale drinking of Healths; taken from a Ceremony performed by Rowena the Daughter of Hengiſt to King Vortiger, to whom at a Banquet, ſhe deliver'd a Golden Cup full of Wine.

Waſſel-Bowl or Waſtel-Bowl, a large Cup or Bowl of Silver or Wood, which the Saxons us'd in drinking Healths at their Publick Entertainments.

Waſſellers, a Company of People that make merry and drink together; eſpecially ſuch as in the Country go about from Houſe to Houſe, during the Feſtival of Chriſtmas, and ſing Catches for Drink or other ſmall Boon.

Waſte, Spoil, Havock, Deſtroying: In a Law-Senſe, the ſpoil or decay of Houſes, Woods, Lands, &c. made or occaſioned by the Tenant for Life or Years, to the Prejudice of the Heir or of him in Reverſion: Whereupon the Writ of Waſte is brought for recovery of the thing waſted and treble Dammages.

Waſte of the Foreſt, is when a Man cuts down his own Woods within the Foreſt, without the Licenſe of the Queen, or Lord Chief Juſtice in Eyre.

Waſte or Waſte Ground, thoſe Lands which are not in any Man's Poſſeſſion, but lie Common; ſo call'd, becauſe the Lord of the Manour cannot make ſuch Profit of them as of his other Lands, by reaſon of that Uſe which others have in paſſing to and fro: And yet none may build in it, cut down Trees, dig, &c. without the Lord's Leave.

Waſte, is alſo the middle of a Man's or Woman's Body; and the Waſte of a Ship, is that part of her which lies between the two Maſts, i. e. between the Main-Maſt and the Fore-maſt.

Waſte-Boards, are Boards ſometimes made fit ſo as to be ſet on the Sides of Boats, to keep the Sea from breaking in; and ſeldom us'd in a Ship.

Waſte-Cloaths, all ſuch Cloaths as are hung about the Cage-work, or uppermoſt Works of a Ship's Hull, to ſhadow the Men from the Enemy in an Engagement; whence they are alſo termed Fights.

Waſte-Trees, thoſe pieces of Timber which lie in the Waſte of a Ship.

Waſtel-bowl. See Waſſel-bowl.

Waſtel-bread, (in old Statutes) the fineſt ſort of white Bread or Cakes, ſuch as were ſopped in the Waſtel-bowl.

Waſtors, a kind of Thieves, or Robbers anciently known by that Name.

Watch, Guard; alſo a Pocket-clock for the meaſuring of Time: Among Sea-men, it is taken for the ſpace of four Hours; for the whole Company or Crew being divided into two Parts, one half is call'd the Starboard-Watch commanded by the Maſter, and the other the Larboard-Watch under the Direction of his chief Mate: And each of theſe are to watch in their turns, as alſo to trim the Sails, to pump, and do other Duties for four Hours, when the other Watch is to relieve them for four Hours more.

Quarter-Watch, is when one Quarter of the Ship's Company watch together, and ſo they allow themſelves the larger Reſt; the Ship being in Harbour or in a Road, and conſequently they having leſs to do or to look after.

Watch-Glaſs, a Glaſs whoſe Sand is four Hours running out, us'd by Sea-men to ſhift or change their Watches: They have alſo Half Watch-glaſſes, Hour-glaſſes, Minute and Half Minute-glaſſes; by which laſt the Knots are counted when they heave the Log in order to find the Ship's Way.

Watch-Work, the inner Parts of any Movement or Watch, which is deſign'd to ſhew the Hour, or any other diviſion of Time without Striking: For whatever may be contrived to produce ſuch an Effect, goes by the Name of Clock-work; and that part of the Movement is termed the Striking-part.

Watchet, a kind of blew Colour.

Water, one of the four Elements, of a cold and moiſt Quality; Rain, Urine: Alſo a certain Luſtre of Pearls, Diamonds and other precious Stones; or ſuch as is ſet on ſome Silks, Stuffs, &c. In Chymiſtry, the firſt of the Paſſive Principles otherwiſe call'd Phlegm. See Principles.

Water-Archer, a ſort of Herb.

Water-Bailiff, an Officer in the City of London, who has the Overſight and Search of Fiſh brought thither, and the gathering of the Toll that ariſes from the River-Thames: He alſo attends on the Lord Mayor, and has the chief Care of marſhalling the Gueſts at his Table; and arreſts Perſons for Debt or other Matters upon the River, by Warrant of his Superiours.

Water-Bailiffs, were alſo certain Officers formerly appointed in Port-Towns, for the ſearching of Ships.

Water-Bears, a ſort of Bears in Spitſberg, or North-Eaſt Greenland, that live by what they catch in the Sea; where they have been ſeen ſwimming twelve Miles from any Shore.

Water-Betony, an Herb good to ſoften hard Swellings and to cleanſe Ulcers.

Water-Born, (among Sea-men) a Ship is ſaid To be water-born, when lying even with the Ground, ſhe firſt begins to float or ſwim, and is juſt born up by the Water.

Water-Creſſes, a known Herb.

Water-Farcin, a Horſe-Diſeaſe. See Farcin.

Water-Gage, a Sea-Wall or Bank to keep off the Current, or overflowing of the Water: Alſo an Inſtrument to gage, or meaſure the Quantity or Depth of any Water.

Water-Gang, a Trench or Courſe to convey a Stream of Water, ſuch as are uſually made in Sea-Walls, to diſcharge and drain Water out of the Marſhes.

Water-Gavel, a Rent paid in old Times for fiſhing in, or other Benefit received from ſome River, or Water.

Water-Germander, a ſort of Herb.

Water-Lily, a ſort of Flower.

Water-Line, (among Shipwrights) a Line which ſhews the Depth that a Ship ſhould ſwim in, when ſhe is duely laded both a-head and a-ſtern; diſtinguiſhing that Part of her which is under Water, from that above.

Water-Meaſure, a ſort of Meaſure that is greater than Wincheſter-Meaſure, by about three Gallons in the Buſhel, and is now uſ'd for ſelling Coals in the Pool, &c.

Water-Ordeal. See Ordeal.

Water-Pepper, an Herb.

Water-poiſe, an Inſtrument to try the ſtrength of Liquors.

Water-Shoot, a young Twigthat ſprings out of the root or ſtock of a Tree.

Water-ſhot, (Sea-Term) a ſort of riding at Anchor, when a Ship is moored neither croſs the Tide, nor right up and down, but quartered between both.

Water-Swallow, a kind of Bird.

Water-Way, (in a Ship) a ſmall piece or ledge of Timber, which lies fore and aft on the Deck, cloſe by the Sides, to keep the Water from running down there.

Water-Willow, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Looſe-ſtrife.

Watery or Wat'ry, belonging to, or full of Water; moiſt, plaſhy.

Watery Humour of the Eye. See Aqueous Humour.

Watery Meteors. See Meteors.

Watery Triplicity, three Signs of the Zodiack, ſo call'd by Aſtrologers, upon account of their cold and moiſt Quality; which are Cancer, Scorpio and Piſces.

Watling-ſtreet, otherwiſe call'd Werlam-ſtreet, one of the four noted High-ways made by the Romans, which leads from Dover to London, St. Albans, Dunſtable, Towceſter, Atherſton and the Severn, near the Wrekin in Shrop-ſhire, and reaches to the Iſle of Angleſey. It took Name from one Vitellian, or as others ſay, from the Saxon Word Wedlian to beg, becauſe Beggers often ſat there to aſk Alms of Paſſengers.

To Wattle, to cover with Hurdles, or Grates.

Wattles, ſpleeted Grates, or Hurdles; alſo Folds for Sheep: Alſo the Gills of a Cock, or the red Fleſh that hangs under a Turkey's Neck.

To Wave, to faſhion, or make like the Waves of the Sea; as watered Silks or Stuffs are; to turn to and fro; to paſs by, to forego, to decline a Buſineſs: Among Sea-men, to make Signs for a Ship or Boat to come near, or keep off.

Wave-Loaves or Wave-Offerings, certain Loaves of Bread, which the ancient Jews were obliged to preſent as the firſt Fruits of every Year's Increaſe.

Waved or Wavey, (in Heraldry) is when a Bordure, Ordinary, or Charge in a Coat of Arms, has its Out-lines, indented or ſhap'd like the gentle riſing and falling of Waves.

To Waver, to be floating, or uncertain what to do; to be irreſolute, or unſteady.

Waveſon, (in the Admiralty-Law) ſuch Goods as after Shipwrack, appear ſwimming or floating on the Waves of the Sea.

To Wawl or Caterwawl, to cry or howl as Cats do in the Night.

To Wax, to do over, or dreſs with Wax; alſo an old Word for to grow, or become.

Waxſhot or Waxſcot, a Duty heretofore paid thrice a Year, towards the Charge of Wax-Candles in Churches: In old Records, it is expreſs'd by Ceragium.

Way, Road, ſpace to go from one Place to another; Expedient, Means, Courſe; Method, Manner; Cuſtom, Uſe; Condition, Paſs.

Way of a Ship, the ſmooth Water that ſhe makes a-ſtern when under Sail: It is alſo ſometimes taken for the Rake or Run of her forward, or aftward on: But it is chiefly apply'd to her Sailing: For when ſhe goes a-pace, 'tis ſaid She has a good Way, or makes a freſh Way: Again when the Seamen keep an Account how faſt ſhe ſails by the Log, they term it Keeping an Account of her Way; and becauſe moſt Ships are apt to fall to Leeward of their true Courſe, ſomewhat is always allow'd in caſting up the Log-board for her Leeward-Way or Lee-Way, which is one Point or more, according to her manner of Sailing.

Way of the Rounds, (in Fortif.) is a Space left for the Paſſage of the Rounds, between the Wall and the Rampart of a fortify'd Town: But it is not much in Uſe, becauſe not having a Breaſt-work above a Foot thick, it may be ſoon overthrown by the Enemies Cannon.

To Way a Horſe, is to teach him to travel in the Ways.

Way-faring, as A Way-faring Man, i. e. one accuſtomed to travel in the Roads; a Traveller.

Way-faring Tree. a Plant otherwiſe call'd the wild Vine, Bend-with and Hedge-Plant.

To Way-lay one, to lay Snares, or lie in wait for him in the Way.

Way-wiſer, (for Chariots) a Mathematical Inſtrument fitted to the great Wheel of a Coach or Chariot, to ſhew how far it goes in a Day. See Perambulator.

Way-wiſer, (for a Pocket) a Movement like a Watch, to count one's Step's or Paces, in order to know how far he walks in a Day.

Wayt-fee, (old Law-word) Ward-penny, or a Fee anciently paid for keeping Watch and Ward.

Wayward, froward, peeviſh.

Waywood. See Vayvode.

Weakling, as A poor Weakling, i. e. a weak Child that has little or no Strength.

Weal, as The Common-weal, i. e. the Publick Benefit, or Advantage.

Weald or Weld, (Sax.) the woody part of a Country; as The Weald of Kent.

Weanel, (Country-Word) a Young Beaſt newly weaned, or taken off from ſucking its Dam.

Weanling, a Young Creature fit to be weaned.

Weapons, all ſorts of warlike Inſtruments, except Fire-Arms.

Weapon-Salve, a kind of Sympathetical Ointment ſaid to cure a Wound, by being applied to the Sword, or other Weapon that made it. See Armarium Unguentum and Sympathetick Powder.

Wear or Ware, a Stank, or great Dam in a River, fitted for the taking of Fiſh, or for conveying the Stream to a Mill.

Weaſand or Weſand, the Throat-pipe, or Gullet.

Weather, the Diſpoſition of the Air.

Weather or Weather-ſheep, a Male Sheep gelt. In Chili, a Province of Southern America, the Weather-ſheep are almoſt as big as Camels, and are us'd to carry Burdens.

Weather-beaten, properly ſaid of a Ship that has endured ſtreſs of bad Weather and many Storms; worn out with hard Labour, old Age, &c.

Weather-Board, (Sea-word) that Side of a Ship which is to the Windward.

Weather-Cock, a Device ſet up on the top of a Building, to ſhew from what Quarter the Wind blows.

Weather-coiling of a Ship, (in Sea-Language) is when being a-hull, her Head is brought the contrary Way to that ſhe lay before, without looſing of any Sail, and only by bearing up the Helm.

Weather-Gage, the advantage of the Wind: Among Sailers, a Ship is ſaid To have the Weather-gage of another, when ſhe is to the Windward of her.

Weather-Glaſs, a Glaſs that ſhews the Change of Weather, with the Degrees of Heat and Cold. See Thermometer.

Weather-Man, (in Archery) one that carefully obſerves the Wind and Weather in Shooting.

Weather-wiſe, ſkilled in fore-telling the change of Weather.

To Weather, (Sea-Term) to double, or go to the Windward of a Place; as To Weather a Point, or Cape of Land: Whence it is figuratively taken for to overcome a Difficulty.

To Weather a Hawk, (in Falconry) is to ſet her abroad to take the Air.

Web, Cloth that is a weaving; alſo a Sheet of Lead; alſo a Pearl, or Spot in the Eye.

Webſter, a Weaver.

Wedbedrip, the cuſtomary Service which inferiour Tenants yielded to their Lord, in cutting down his Corn, or performing other Harveſt-Duties; from the Saxon Words Wed, a Covenant or Agreement, Biddan to bid or deſire, and Rippan to reap or mow: As it were a Covenant of the Tenant to reap for the Lord at the time of his bidding or commanding.

Wedge, a Tool to cleave Wood, &c. an Ingot, or Maſs of Gold, Silver, or Lead: Alſo a Quick-Sand that lies on the North Side of the Marget-Sands, and reaches ſix Miles in length; ſo nam'd from its being broad at the Weſt-End, and ſharp at the Eaſt-End.

Wedlock, Matrimony, Marriage.

Wedneſday, the fourth Day of the Week that takes Name from its being ſet a-part by our Saxon Anceſtours to the Worſhip of the Idol Woden; which See.

Aſh-Wedneſday. See Aſh.

Weed, any rank or wild Herb that grows of it ſelf.

Weed or Wede, (Sax.) a Garment or Suit of Cloaths; whence it is ſtill us'd for a Frier's Habit, a Widow's Vail, &c.

Week, the Cotton-match in a Candle or Lamp: Alſo the ſpace of ſeven Days, of which four make a Month.

Weel, a Bow-net to take Fiſh in.

Weeſel, a little wild Beaſt.

Weevil, a ſmall black Worm that eats Corn in the Lofts.

Weft, a thing woven; as A Weft of Hair.

Weif. See Waif.

Weigh of Cheeſe or Wooll, the Weight of 256 Pounds Avoir-du-pois; Of Corn 40 Buſhels: Of Glaſs 60 Bunches. See Wey.

Weights. See Avoir-du-pois and Troy-weight.

Weights of Auncel. See Auncel-weight.

To Weld, to forge Iron, as Smiths do.

Welkin, an old Saxon Word ſignifying a Cloud; but it is now ſometimes taken for the Firmament, or Skie.

Well, a Pit to hold Spring-water: In the Art of War, a Depth the Miner ſinks into the Ground, and thence carries on the Branches, to find out and diſappoint the Enemies Mines, or to prepare one.

To Welter, to wallow, or lie groveling; as To welter in one's Blood.

Wem, (old Word) the Belly, or Guts.

Wen, a kind of hard Bunch or Swelling that conſiſts of a thick, tough, phlegmatick Matter like Plaiſter.

Wence or Four Wence, a Word us'd in Kent, for a Place where four Roads meet and croſs each other.

Wench, a familiar or ſcornful Term for a Maid, or Girl; a Whore, or Crack.

Wencher or Wenching-Man, one that keeps Wenches Company, or goes a whoring; a Whore-maſter.

Wend, (Sax.) a large Tract of Land containing many Acres; as Down-wend, Chiltons-wend, Bronsford-wend, &c.

Wending, a Word us'd by Sea-men, for the turning about of a Ship, eſpecially when ſhe is at Anchor: Thus they ſay, How wends the Ship? i. e. which way does her Head lye?

Weold or Wold, (Sax.) a Foreſt.

Weorth, a Country-houſe, or Farm: Whence the Names of ſo many of our Country-Villages end in Worth; as Wandſworth, Thiſtleworth, Works-worth, Ricmanſworth, &c.

Were, a Saxon Word for a Man.

Were or Werræ, ſo much as one paid in old Time for killing a Man; when ſuch Crimes were only puniſhed with Mulcts, or Fines in Money.

Were-wolf, Man-Wolf or Wolf-man, a kind of Sorcerer, who by anointing his Body, and putting on an inchanted Girdle, takes upon him the Shape and Nature of a Wolf, worrying and deſtroying Men, &c.

Weregelt-thef, (old Law-Word) a Thief that may be redeemed.

Weregild or Wergeld, the Price, Value, or Fine ſet upon one's Head for the Murder of a Man; which was paid partly to the King for the loſs of his Subject, partly to the Lord whoſe Vaſſal he was, and partly to the next of kin.

Werelada, a particular manner of Purgation or clearing upon the Oath of other Men, according to the Eſtimate or Value of the Perſon accuſed.

Weriſh, (old Word) unſavoury.

Wervance, a Name given to any great Lord, among the Natives of the Weſt-Indies.

Wervagium, (in old Latin Deeds) Wharfage, or Money paid at a Wharf for Lading or Unlading Goods.

Weſt Erect Dials. See Direct Dials.

Weſt-Gate Buoy, the Name of a Road on the Coaſt of England which is very convenient for Ships, by reaſon of the Water-drift and Ground for Anchor-hold.

Weſtminſter, a City which being diſtinct from London, with ſeparate Magiſtrates and Privileges, was formerly at leaſt a Mile diſtant from it, but by degrees the Suburbs of the former joyn'd the latter, and made them both together one entire City: It ſeems to owe its riſe to Weſtminſter, a City diſtinct from London, with ſeparate Magiſtrates and Privileges, altho' their Suburbs, being now joyn'd together, make them as it were one entire City: It ſeems to owe its riſe to the noted Church or Abbey that Sibert King of the Eaſt Angles firſt founded there in honour of St. Peter, and which together with its Weſterly Situation from London, caus'd its Name to be changed from Thorney to the preſent one of Weſtminſter.

Weſtminſter-Hall, a ſpacious Room in which and in Places round it, Juſtice is publickly adminiſtred in the ſeveral Courts eſtabliſhed for that purpoſe.

Weſtminſter-School, a renowned School belonging to the Abbey of Weſtminſter, with a College, which conſiſts of ten Officers and forty Scholars, commonly call'd Queen's Scholars, who being choſen out of the School are maintained there, and when fitted for the Univerſity, they are plac'd with conſiderable Allowances in Chriſt-Church Oxford, and Trinity-College Cambridge.

Weſt-Saxonlage, the Law of the Weſt-Saxons, which took place in Nine Counties, viz. Kent, Surrey, Suſſex, Bark-ſhire, Ham-ſhire, Wilt-ſhire, Somerſet-ſhire, Dorſet-ſhire and Devon-ſhire.

Weſtels. See Torteauxes.

Wet Dock. See Dock.

Wey, the greateſt Meaſure for dry things; containing five Chaldron: Weys or Weighs, are alſo 165 Pounds, 180 Pounds, or 200 Pounds and a half for a Charge.

Whale, the greateſt of Sea-Fiſhes.

Wharf, a broad plain Place near a Creek or Hithe, to lay Wares on that are brought to or from the Water.

Wharfage, the Fee due for Landing Goods at a Wharf, or for Shipping them off, or taking them into a Boat or Barge from thence.

Wharfinger, the Owner or Keeper of a Wharf, or one that has the Overſight or Management of it.

Wharl, or Whern. See Whirl.

Wheal or Whelk, a Puſh, or Pimple.

Wheal-worm, a kind of Inſect.

Wheat-Ear, a ſort of Bird.

Whee, or Whey, a Word us'd in York-ſhire for an Heifer, or young Cow.

To Wheedle, to draw in craftily by fair Words, to coaks, or ſooth up.

Wheel or Way-wiſer, an Inſtrument to meaſure Lengths upon the Ground. See Perambulator and Way-wiſer.

To Wheel, to turn about: In Military Diſcipline, to make a Motion that brings a Battallion or Squadron to front on that Side where the Flank was; which is Wheeling to the Right or Left.

Wheel-Barometer. See Barometer.

Wheel-Fire, (among Chymiſts) a Fire for the melting of Metals, &c. when the Crucible that holds the Matter is encompaſs'd all round with lighted Coals. See Ignis Rotæ.

Wheelage, a Duty paid for the paſſage of Carts and Waggons.

To Wheez, to rattle in the Throat; to ſqueak as one does that has a Cold.

Whelk, a Blain, Puſh, or Pimple; alſo a kind of Shell-Fiſh, or Sea-Snail.

To Whelm or Whelve, to cover.

Whelp, a Puppy, or the young Cub of any wild Beaſt: Among Sea-men, Whelps are taken for Brackets or ſmall pieces of Wood faſten'd to the main Body of the Capſtan, or Draw-beam cloſe under the Bars which give the Sweep to it, and keep the Cable from ſurging or coming too high when it is wound about them.

Wherl. See Whirl.

Wherlicotes, certain open Chariots made uſe of in England by Perſons of Quality, before the Invention of Coaches.

Wherret, a box on the Ear, or flap on the Chaps.

Wherry, a ſmall Boat, ſuch as are commonly us'd for the carrying of Paſſengers on the River Thames.

To Whiffle, to trick one out of a thing, to ſtand trifling.

Whiffler or Whiffling Fellow, a meer Trifler; a pitiful poor or inconſiderable Wretch. Whiffler is alſo taken for a Piper that plays on a Fife in a Company of Foot-Soldiers: Alſo a young Free-man, that goes before and waits upon the Society, or Company to which he belongs, on ſome Publick Solemnity.

Whig, Whay, or very ſmall Beer; alſo a Nick-name, contradiſtinguiſhed from Tory, and given to thoſe that were againſt the Court-Intereſt in the time of K. Charles II. and James II: a Fanatick, a Factious Fellow.

Whiggiſm, the Tenets and Practice of the Whigs, a Fanatical, or Rebellious Humour.

To Whilk, to Yelp, or make a ſhrill Bark, as a little Dog does.

Whilom, (old Word) once, or heretofore.

Whim or Whimſey, a Maggety Fancy, or Conceit; a freakiſh Humour.

To Whimper, to begin to cry, as a young Child does.

Whimſical, full of Whimſeys, fantaſtical, freakiſh, humourſome.

Whin or Petty Whin, a Shrub, otherwiſe call'd Knee-holm.

Whins, the Furz, or Furz-buſh.

† To Whindle, to Whimper, or Whine.

To Whine, to ſqueak, or ſpeak with a doleful Tone: Among Hunters, an Otter is ſaid To Whine, when ſhe makes a loud Noiſe, or Cry.

Whiniard, a kind of crooked Sword.

To Whinny, to Neigh as a Horſe does.

Whip, Scourge, Laſh, Jerk; alſo a round ſort of a Stitch in Sowing.

Whip or Whip-ſtaff, (Sea-Term) a piece of Wood faſten'd into the Helm, which the Steers-man holds in his Hand to move the Helm and Govern the whole Ship: It goes thro' the Roll and is made faſt to the Tiller with a Ring, but this is not uſed in great Ships.

Whipſter, one that takes delight in Whipping; alſo a Sharper, or ſhifting Fellow.

Whirl, or Whern, a round piece of Wood put on the Spindle of a Spinning-Wheel.

Whirl-Bone, the round Bone of the Knee, the Knee-pan.

Whirl-pool, a Gulph where the Water is always turning round; alſo a kind of Sea-Fiſh.

Whirl-wind, a boiſterous Wind, a Hurricane or violent Storm.

To Whirl or Whirl about, to turn ſwiftly about.

Whiſk, a ſort of Bruſh made of Oſier-Twigs; alſo a kind of Neck-Ornament for Women now out of Faſhion; alſo the ſound of a Switch, &c.

Whisker, a tuft of Hair on the Upper Lip of a Man.

Whisket, a Country-Word for a Scuttle or Basket.

Whisking, ſwinging, or great; as A whisking Wind, a whisking Lye, &c.

Whiſpering-place, a remarkable Curioſity in the Cathedral of Glocester; being a Wall built ſo in an Arch of the Church, that if a Man Whiſpers never ſo low at one end, another that lays his Ear to the other end, ſhall hear each diſtinct Syllable.

Whiſt, or Whisk, the Name of a well known Game at Cards.

Whitaker, the North-Eaſt Point of a Flat or Shole, the Middle Ground.

White-Hart-Silver, a Fine paid into the Exchequer out of certain Lands in or near Blackmoor, or White-Hart-Foreſt in Dorſet-ſhire, which has continu'd from the time of K. Henry III, who impos'd it on Thomas de la Linde, for killing a beautiful White Hart, which that Prince had ſpared in Hunting, contrary to his expreſs Order.

White Lead. See Ceruſs.

White Line, a Term in Anatomy. See Linea Alba. Alſo a Term us'd by Printers, when a void Space is left between two Lines.

White Meats, Milk, Butter, Cheeſe, Eggs, &c. which in times of Superſtition were forbid in Lent, as well as Fleſh, till the Reign of King Henry VIII.

White-Pot, a Meſs of Milk with Eggs, fine Bread, Sugar, Nutmeg, &c. bak'd in an Earthen Pot.

White-Rent. See Quit-Rent.

White Sauce, (in Cookery) a Sauce made of blanched Almonds and the Breaſt of a Capon pounded together, with Cinnamon, Cloves, Ginger, Roſe-water and Sugar.

White Spurs, a ſort of Eſquires made by the King, ſo call'd from the Spurs they receiv'd at their Creation.

White Straits, a kind of courſe Cloath made in Devon-ſhire, about a Yard and half a quarter broad.

Whiting, Size to whiten Walls with; alſo a ſort of Fiſh: Alſo the Name of a Sand lying over againſt the Town of Orford, which is three Miles and a half in Length and three Cables length in Breadth.

Whitlow, a preternatural and very troubleſome Swelling in the Fingers-ends. See Paronychia.

Whitlow-Graſs, an Herb otherwiſe call'd Nailwort, being of great Virtue againſt Felons and Whitlows.

Whitster, one that whitens Linnen-Clothes.

Whitsun-Farthings. See Pentecoſtals.

Whit-Sunday, a Solemn Feaſt kept in memory of the Deſcent of the Holy Ghoſt upon the Apoſtles, as it were in the ſhape of fiery Cloven Tongues: This Feſtival took Name from the Saxon Word Wibed, i. e. Sacred, or from the white Robe which Catechumens in the Primitive Times us'd to wear at their Admiſſion to the Sacrament of Baptiſm.

Whitſuntide, the Seaſon of that Feſtival.

Whittail, a little Bird counted a great Dainty.

Whitten-Tree, a kind of Shrub.

To Whittle, to cut Sticks into ſmall Pieces.

To Whizz, to make a Noiſe as Liqour does when pour'd upon the Fire.

Whole-chace Boots, large Hunting or Winter-riding Boots; as Summer-riding Boots are call'd Demichace.

Whole Diviſions, (of a Battalion.) See Wings.

Wholeſome Ship. See Halſome Ship.

Whoodings, (Sea-Term) thoſe Planks that are joyn'd and faſten'd along a Ship's Sides into the Stern.

Whoop or Pewet, a ſort of Bird.

Whorlbat, a kind of Gauntlet with Straps and leaden Plummets, which the ancient Romans us'd in playing at Fiſty-cuffs, at their Solemn Games and Exerciſes. See Ceſtus.

Whortle, a ſort of Shrub.

Whorts or Whortle-berries. See Bilberries.

Whur, (in Falconry) the fluttering of Partridges, or Pheaſants as they riſe.

To Whur, to ſnarl, as a Dog does.

Wica, (in old Latin Records) a Country-houſe or Farm, ſuch a one as is now often call'd the Wike and the Wick.

Wichacan, a kind of Root peculiar to Virginia and Mary-land, which is very efficacious in healing all manner of Wounds.

Wichencreft, a Word us'd in the Laws of King Canute for Witchcraft.

Wick, (Sax.) a Borough, or Village; but is now ſcarce made uſe of, only at the end of ſome Names of Towns; as Berwick, Chiſwick, &c. There is alſo a Village near Kingſton upon Thames, call'd the Wick or Week.

Wicked, Ungodly, Debauched, Vile.

Wicker, a Twig of the Oſier-Shrub.

Wicket, a little Door within a Gate, or a Hole in a Door.

Widgeon or Wiggin, a ſilly ſort of Bird; whence it is figuratively taken for a Simpleton, or fooliſh Fellow.

Widow, a Woman whoſe Husband is dead.

Widow of the King, a Woman that after her Husband's death, being the King's Tenant in Knights-Service, was oblig'd to recover her Dower, or Marriage-Portion, by the Writ De dote aſſignanda, and could not marry again without the King's Conſent.

Widow-wail, a kind of Shrub.

Widower, a Man that ſurvives his deceaſed Wife.

Widowhood, the State or Condition of a Widow, or Widower.

To Wield, or Weld, to handle, to manage, to ſway.

Wife, a married Woman, whoſe Will, in the judgment of the Law, is ſubject to that of her Husband; ſo that 'tis commonly ſaid She has no Will, but fulget radiis Mariti, i. e. Shines with her Husband's Luſtre.

Wight, an old Word for a Man.

Wigreve, (Sax.) the Overſeer of a Wood, or of the High-ways.

Wild, fierce, furious, hair-brained; extravagant, impertinent; deſert, or uninhabited; alſo that grows of it ſelf, as ſome Trees and Herbs do.

Wilds, wild, or barren Countries; as He went thro' the Wilds of Scythia.

Wild-Fire, a ſort of Fire invented by the Grecians about A. C. 777. Gun-powder rolled up wet and ſet on Fire: Alſo the Running-worm, a kind of St. Anthony's Fire; a Diſeaſe.

Wild-Fire Arrows, ſuch as are trimmed with Wild-Fire and Shot burning, to ſtick in the Sails, Rigging, or Sides of Ships in a Fight.

Wild Water-Creſſes, an Herb otherwiſe called Ladies-Smock, and Cuckoe-Flower.

Wild-Williams, a ſort of Plant.

Wilfred, a proper Name of Men, from the Saxon Words Willa the Will, and Frede or Frid, Peace, as it were one whoſe Mind inclines to Peace and Quietneſs.

St. Wilfred's Needle, a certain narrow Hole in the Church of Rippon in York-ſhire, in which Women's Vertue us'd to be tried in old Times: For ſuch as were Chaſte, did eaſily paſs thro' it; but thoſe that had violated their Chaſtity, were miraculouſly ſtopt and held faſt.

Wilding, the Fruit of the Wilding-Tree, or Strawberry-Tree; a Crab-Apple.

Wile, a cunning Shift, or ſubtil Trick.

Will, a particular Faculty of the Soul, or the Act of that Faculty; Mind, Pleaſure, Reſolution, a good or bad Diſpoſition, Kindneſs or Unkindneſs towards one.

Will or Laſt Will, otherwiſe call'd Teſtament, a Solemn Act in Writing or otherwiſe, by which a Man declares what he would have done after his Death.

Will Parole or Nuncupative Will, a Will only by Word of Mouth, which being proved by Witneſſes, may be of as good Force, as that in Writing, except for Lands, which are not deviſeable but by a Teſtament in Writing made in the Life-Time of the Teſtator.

Will with a Wiſp or Jack in a Lanthorn, a certain Meteor or clammy Vapour in the Air, which reflects Light in the dark, commonly haunting Church-Yards, Fens, and Privies, as ſteaming out of a fat Soil: It alſo flies about Rivers, Hedges, &c. where there is a continual Flux of Air, and leads thoſe that imprudently follow it, quite out of the Way.

William; a proper Name of Men, from the Dutch Guild-helm, i. e. furniſhed with a gilt Helmet; or as others ſay, q. d. Viel-helm, i. e. the Shield or Defence of many.

Williams or Sweet William, a kind of Herb and Flower.

Will-jill, a ſorry, inconſiderable Hermaphrodite.

Willow-weed or Willow-herb. See Looſe-ſtrife.

Wily, full of Wiles, cunning, ſubtil, crafty.

Wimble, a ſort of Piercer to bore Holes with.

Wimple, the Muffler or plaited Linnen-cloth, which Nuns wear about their Neck; alſo a Flag, or Streamer.

Wimund, (Sax. Sacred Peace) a proper Name of Men.

To Win, to get or gain, to get the better, to obtain, to carry; to make one's ſelf Maſter of, to perſwade, or prevail with.

To Wince or Winch, to kick, or ſpurn; properly to throw out the hinder Feet, as a Horſe does.

Winch. See Windlaſs.

Winches, a kind of Engine to draw Barges, &c. up a River againſt the Stream.

Wincheſter-Gooſe, a pocky Swelling in the Groin.

Wind, the Air in Motion, the Current or Stream of the Air; Air pent up in the Body of a Living-Creature; Breath, Breathing, Scent: In a figurative Senſe, it is taken for Vanity; as Great Men are fed with empty Wind.

Trade-Wind. See Trade.

Wind-bound, ſtopt, or kept back by contrary Winds.

Wind-Colick, a painful Diſeaſe.

Wind-Egg, an addle Egg that has taken Wind.

Wind-fall, Fruit blown off the Tree by the Wind; figuratively a lucky Chance, ſome Eſtate or Profit unexpectedly come to one.

Wind-Furnace. See Furnace.

Wind-Gall, a ſoft Swelling, about half as big as a Pigeon's Egg, which riſes on the Joynt of a Horſe's Leg next the Foot, and is caus'd by over-riding.

Wind-Gun, an Inſtrument contrived to diſcharge a leaden Bullet, with great Violence, only by the means of Air thruſt into it.

Wind-row, Hay or Graſs raked in Rows, in order to be cocked up.

Wind-taught, (Sea-Term) ſtiff in the Wind, apply'd to any thing that holds or catches the Wind aloft: Thus too much Rigging, all high Ropes, or the like, are ſaid To hold the Ship Wind-taught, i. e. apt to make her ſtoop too much in her Sailing, in a ſtiff Gale of Wind.

Wind-Thruſh. See Thruſh.

To Win, to turn, to twine, twiſt, or roll about; to blow a Horn, to ſcent.

To Wind or Wend a Ship, to bring her Head about, which is done either with the Boat, or with ſome Oars within her ſelf put out at the Hawſe, or Stern-Poſts. The Ship is ſaid To Wind up, when ſhe comes to ride at an Anchor; and being under Sail, the Mariners uſe to ask How winds or wends the Ship? i. e. upon what Point of the Compaſs does ſhe lye withher Head?

Winding-tackle Blocks, thoſe main double Blocks or Pulleys, with three Shivers in each, which are made faſt to the end of a ſmall Cable that is brought about the Head of the Maſt, and ſerves inſtead of a Pendant, for the hoiſing of Goods into the Ship, &c.

Windlaſs or Windleſs, (in a Ship) a Draw-beam or piece of Timber having ſix or eight Squares, and fixt on the Stern aloft; which is now only us'd in ſmall Ships, and in Flemiſh Veſſels that are lightly Manned: But it will purchaſe or draw up much more than any Capſtan, in the weighing of an Anchor, and that without Danger to the Men that heave.

Windlaſs or Winch (among Husband-men) an Engine with which any Weighty Thing is wound up or drawn out of a Well or other deep Place.

Windles, Blades to wind Yarn on.

Windward Tide, a Tide that runs againſt the Wind

Wine, a Liquor made of the Juice of Grapes or other Fruits.

Spirit of Wine, is the oily part of Wine rarified by acid Salts diſtilled from Brandy.

Wing, that part of a Bird which is us'd in flying: In the Art of War, the Wing of an Army drawn up for Battel, or the Wing of one of its Lines, is the Horſe on the Flanks, or at the end of each Line, on the Right and Left.

Wing of a Battallion or Squadron, the Right and Left-hand Files, that make up each Side or Flank: When a Battallion is drawn up, the Pikes are in the Center or Middle, and the Musketeers on the Wings; which Wings are alſo call'd Great Diviſions or Whole Diviſions of the Battallion.

In Fortification, Wings are the large Sides of Crown-Works, Horn-works, Tenaillies and other Out-works of the like Nature; that is to ſay, the Ramparts and Breaſt-works, with which they are bounded, on the Right and Left from their Gorge to their Front.

Wing that Partridge or that Quail, i. e. cut it up; a Term in Carving at Table.

Winged, (among Herbaliſts) thoſe Plants or Herbs are ſaid To be Winged, which reſemble the Shape of a Wing.

To Winnow, to fan, or ſeparate Corn from the Chaff by Wind.

Winter, one of the four Seaſons of the Year; alſo a Part of a Printing-preſs.

Winter-Cherry. See Alkakengi.

Winter-Creſſes, a ſort of Herb.

Winter-Green, an Herb ſo call'd from its flouriſhing in Winter.

Winter-heyning, a Seaſon comprehended between November 11 and April 23; which Time by Stat. 20 Car. 2. is excepted from the Liberty of Commoning in the Foreſt of Dean.

Winter-Quarters. See Quarter.

To Winter-rig, (in Husbandry) to fallow, or till Land in the Winter.

Winter-Solſtice. See Solſtice.

Wire, Gold, Silver, Copper, or other Metal drawn out into long Threads for many Uſes.

Among Herbaliſts, Wires are thoſe long Threads which running from Straw-berries, &c. faſten again in the Earth, and propagate the Plant.

To Wire-draw, to draw out Gold or Silver-Thread; to ſpin out a Buſineſs; to decoy a Man, or get what one can out of him.

Wiſdom, the Knowledge of high Things, either Divine or Humane; good Conduct, Diſcretion.

Wiſe, diſcreet, learned, well skilled, cunning, witty: Alſo way, manner, or means; as He did it in this wiſe.

Wiſe-acre, a half witted Fellow, a Fool, or Ninny.

Wiſe-Man. See Cunning-man.

The Wiſe Men or Sages of Greece, are counted ſeven in Number, viz. Bias, Chilo, Cleobulus, Periander, Pittacus, Solon, and Thales.

Wiſp, a handful of Straw or Hay; alſo a Wreath ſet upon a Woman's Head, to carry a Pail or other Veſſel on.

Wiſta, (in old Records) a Wiſt, or half a Hide of Land.

Wit, one of the Faculties of the Rational Soul, Fancy, Underſtanding; Genius, or aptneſs for any thing, Cunning: But Mr. Lock diſtinguiſhes it from Judgment and defines it, To be a quick and ready gathering of Idea's, and putting thoſe together with great Eaſe and Variety, in which can be found any Reſemblance or Agreeableneſs, ſo as to make up pleaſant Pictures and delightful Images in the Fancy.

Witch, an old Hag, or Woman that deals with Familiar Spirits.

Witch-Elm, a kind of Tree.

Witchcraft, the black Art, whereby with the Aſſiſtance of the Devil, or evil Spirits, ſome Wonders may be wrought, which exceed the common Apprehenſions of Men.

Wite, (Sax.) Puniſhment, Penalty, Fine: Whence Witefree or Witfree; one of the Terms of Privilege granted to our Ports-men, ſignifying a freedom from Amerciaments or Fines.

Wites, (i. e. wiſe or noble Men) a Title given by our Saxon Anceſtours, to their chief Thanes or Lords.

To With-draw, to draw away or back, to retire or go away.

Withernam, (from the Saxon Words Wyther, i. e. another, and Nam, taking) a Term us'd in Common Law, when a Diſtreſs is taken and driven into a Hold or out of the County; ſo that the Sheriff upon the Replevin, cannot make Delivery of it to the Party diſtrained: In ſome old Statutes, it ſeems alſo to ſignify an unlawful Diſtreſs made by one that has no Right to Diſtrain, and in Latin is call'd Vetitum Namium; which See.

Withers, (among Farriers) the Ligament or Bone in the outward part of the Neck of a Horſe, near the Saddle-bow.

Witherſake, or Wytherſake, (in K. Canute's Laws) an Apoſtate, a perfidious Renegado.

To With-hold, to keep that which is another's; to keep back, ſtay, or ſtop.

Within Board and Without Board, in Sea-Language) that which is within, or without the Ship.

Withiwind or Bind-weed, a kind of Herb.

To Withſtand, to ſtand or be bent againſt, to reſiſt.

Withy, a Tree, otherwiſe call'd Oſier, and Water-willow.

Wittal, a contented Cuckold, one that Wits, i. e. knows himſelf to be ſo.

Wittena Gemotes, (among the Saxons) the Councils or Aſſemblies of the great Men, to aſſiſt the King.

Witwal, a ſort of Bird.

Wizard, a Sorcerer, or Inchanter; a Cunning-Man that tells where Things are that were loſt, &c.

Woad, an Herb like Plantain, much us'd in the dying of Cloath, &c. of a blew Colour. The ancient Britains likewiſe made uſe of it to paint their Bodies, eſpecially their Faces, with the moſt frightful Figures they could invent, to make them look terrible to their Enemies in War.

Woden, (i. e. Fire, or furious) a certain Idol worſhipped by the old Saxons, and thought to be the ſame with Mars; whence the 4th Day of the Week came to be call'd Wodenſday, or Wedneſday.

Wold, (Sax.) a Down, or Champain Ground, hilly and void of Wood; as Stow in the Wolds, and Cotſwold in Glouceſter-ſhire: Whence that Part of Leiceſter-ſhire which lies Northward beyond the Wreken, is call'd The Wold of Leiceſter-ſhire.

Wold, or Weld, a ſort of Herb, otherwiſe nam'd Dyer's-weed.

Wolf, a fierce wild Beaſt; alſo a kind of eating Ulcer.

Wolf-bane. See Aconitum.

Wolf's-milk, a kind of Herb.

Wolf's-head. See Woofeſhefod.

Wolves-Teeth, two Teeth in the upper Jaw of a Horſe next the Grinders, which grow ſharp-pointed, ſo as to prick the Tongue and Gums, and hinder the chewing of the Meat.

Wolviſh, partaking of the Nature of a Wolf; ravenous, greedy.

Wonder, a thing to be wonder'd at, or admir'd; alſo the Act of Wondering; Admiration, Surprize.

The Seven Wonders of the World, are, 1. The Pyramids of Egypt. 2. The Mauſoleum, or Tomb built by Artemiſia, Queen of Caria, for her Husband Mauſolus. 3. The Temple of Diana at Epheſus. 4. The Walls and hanging Gardens of Babylon. 5. The Coloſſus, or vaſt Image of the Sun on the Port of Rhodes. 6. The Statue of Jupiter Olympius ſitting on a Throne enriched with Gold, Ivory, Ebony and precious Stones. 7. The Pharus, or Watch-Tower built by Ptolemy Philadelphus King of Egypt; all which See in their proper Places.

Wonderment, the Act of Wondering; as He made a great Wonderment at it.

Wond'rous, wonderful, marvellous, ſurprizing.

Wong, or Wange, a Saxon Word for a Field: So in an ancient Charter of Garradon-Abbey in Leiceſter-ſhire, there is mention made of the Wicketwong, which is a large piece of incloſed Ground before the Abbey-Gate.

To Woo, to Court, to make Love to.

Wood, (old Word) furious, mad; from the Saxon Idol call'd Woden, which See.

Wood, a large ſpace of Ground beſet with Trees and Shrubs that grow naturally; alſo the Timber, or ſubſtance of Trees.

Wood and Wood, (Sea-Term) when two Timbers are let into each other, ſo that the Wood of one joyns cloſe to the other.

Sear-wood, See Sear.

Wood-bind, a Shrub that bears a ſweet-ſmelling Flower, commonly call'd Honey-Suckle, with which Walls and Arbours are often cover'd.

Wood-Caſe, (in Gunnery) a Caſe made of two pieces of hollow Wood, joyned together like two Half-Cartridges fitted to put into the Bore of a Piece.

Wood-Cock, a known wild Fowl.

Wood-Corn, a certain quantity of Oats or other Grain, anciently given by Cuſtomary Tenants to their Lord, for liberty to pick up dead or broken Wood.

Wood-Culver, or Wood-Pigeon, a Bird.

Wood-fretter, a kind of Worm; an Inſect.

Wood-geld, (old Law-word) the gathering or cutting of Wood within the Foreſt, or Money paid for the ſame to the Foreſters: Alſo an Immunity or Freedom from ſuch Payment by the King's Grant.

Wood-Lands, Places where there are many Woods; it is alſo more generally taken for incloſed Countries.

Wood-Lark, an admirable Singing-bird.

Wood-louſe, a ſort of Inſect or Vermin, otherwiſe call'd a Chinch or Bug, and by ſome a Wall-

Louſe; ſaid to be bred in Chaff, old Wood, plaiſter'd Walls and Poſts of Bed-ſteds: By its biting it raiſes painful Bliſters in the Skin, and being kill'd ſends forth a ſtinking ſmell.

Wood-men, certain Foreſt-Officers that have Charge eſpecially to look to the Queen's Woods.

Wood-monger, a Timber-Merchant, or Dealer in Wood.

Wood-mote, the old Name of that Foreſt-Court which is now call'd The Court of Attachments.

Wood-pecker, a ſort of Wild Fowl. In Virginia, theſe Birds are many of them lovely to behold; as being checker'd with green, yellow, black and white; and having a large ſcarlet-Tuft on their Crown.

Wood-plea Court, a Court held twice a Year in the Foreſt of Clun in Shrop-ſhire, for determining all Matters of Wood; and feeding Cattel there; which perhaps was anciently the ſame with Woodmote-Court.

Wood-roof and Wood-ſage, ſeveral ſorts of Herbs.

Wood-ſere, a kind of Inſect.

Wood-ſorrel, an Herb much of the ſame Quality as the common Sorrel, and of great Virtue in all peſtilential Diſeaſes.

Wood-ward, an Officer of the Foreſt, whoſe Buſineſs is to preſent any Offence againſt Vert, or Veniſon done within his Charge, at the next Swainmote, or Court of Attachments; and if he find any Deer killed or wounded, to give the Verderor notice of it. Theſe Officers are not allow'd to walk with Bows and Shafts, but only with Foreſt-Bills.

Wood-wax, a kind of Herb.

Woof, Thread weaved croſs the Warp, in a Weaver's Loom.

Woolfeſhefod, (Sax. a Wolf's Head) the Condition of an Outlawed Perſon, who if he could not be taken alive, might be killed and his Head brought to the King; his Head being accounted of no more Value than that of a Wolf. See Lupinum Caput gerere. It is alſo written Wulfeſhefod and Wulveſheved.

Wooll-blade, a ſort of Herb.

Wooll-Drivers, they that buy Wooll of the Sheep-Maſters in the Country, and carry it on Horſeback to the Clothiers, or to the Market-Towns, in order to ſell it again.

Wooll-ſtaple, that City, or Town where Wooll us'd to be ſold.

Wooll-winders, they that wind up Fleeces of Wooll into a kind of Bundle, to be packed and ſold by Weight, who are ſworn to do it truly between the Owner and the Merchant.

Word, what one Speaks or Writes, an Offer in any Bargain, a Promiſe.

Word or Watch-word, (in the Art of War) a Word that ſerves for a Token and Mark of Diſtinction, given every Night in an Army by the General; and in a Garriſon by the Governour, or other Commander in chief, to prevent Surprize, and hinder an Enemy or any treacherous Perſon from paſſing backwards and forwards.

Word of Command, the Terms us'd by Officers upon Exerciſe, or in Service.

Work, Labour, Buſineſs, Pains in doing any thing, Trouble; alſo the production, or reſult of one's Pains: In Military Affairs, Works ſignify all the Fortifications about the Body of any Place; as by Outworks is underſtood, thoſe without the firſt Incloſure.

World, the Univerſe, the Heaven and Earth; Society or Body of Men; People, the Publick.

Worldling, a worldly-minded Man, or Woman.

Worldly, fond of the Vanities, or hunting after the Pleaſures or Profits of the World.

Worm, a creeping Inſect, a kind of crooked Iron to unload a Gun, the Nut of a Screw: Alſo that winding long Pewter-Pipe which Apothecaries and Diſtillers place in a Tub of Water, to cool and thicken the Vapours in the diſtillation of Spirits; but Chymiſts call it a Serpentine.

Worm-Graſs, an Herb that kills Worms.

Worm-ſeed, the Seed of a Plant call'd Holy Worm-wood.

Worm-wood, an Herb good to kill Worms in a Humane Body, and to help Digeſtion.

To Worm, to work one out of a Place, &c.

To Worm a Cable, or Hawſer, (Sea-Phraſe) to ſuccour or ſtrengthen it, by winding a ſmall Rope all along between the Strands.

To Worm a Dog, to take out a kind of Worm from under his Tongue, which if let alone would make him mad.

To Worry, to towz, tug or pull, to pull or tear in pieces, as wild Beaſts do: To teaz, or vex.

To Worſt one, to overcome, or get the better of him.

Wort, new Drink, either Ale or Beer. In the end of Compound Words, it uſually ſignifies an Herb; as Cole-wort, Liver-wort, Rag-wort, Spoon-wort, &c.

Worth, Price or Value, Deſert or Merit.

Worthies, Men of great Worth, illuſtrious Perſonages.

The Nine Worthies; Of theſe, three were Jews, viz. Joſhua, David and Judas Maccabæus; three Heathens, Hector of Troy, Alexander the Great, and Julius Cæſar; and three Chriſtians, Arthur of Britain, Charles the Great of France, and Godfrey of Bouillon; but in ſtead of one of theſe laſt, ſome put Conſtantine the Great.

Worthine of Land, a particular Quantity or Meaſure of Ground ſo call'd in the Manour of Kingsland in Hereford-ſhire: Whence probably it may be, that in ſome Manours, certain Tenants are call'd Worthies.

Worthy, that deſerves any thing, vertuous or well-principled, honourable or commendable.

Woulding, (Sea-Term) the winding of Ropes hard round about a Yard or Maſt of a Ship, after it has been fiſhed or ſtrengthen'd by ſome piece of Timber or Plank nailed thereto; in order to make it hold the better.

Wound, (in Surgery) is defined to be a bloudy rupture or ſolution of the natural Union of the ſoft Parts, by a pricking, cutting, or bruiſing Inſtrument: With reſpect to ſituation, Wounds may be termed Simple, Compound, Dangerous, or Mortal.

Simple Wound, is that which only opens the Fleſh, and has no other Circumſtances attending it.

Complicated Wound, that which is accompany'd with grievous Symptoms, as Fluxes of Bloud, breaking or disjoynting of Bones, Lameneſs, &c.

Dangerous Wound, that which is complicated, and the Accidents whereof are dreadful; as when an Artery is open'd or pricked, when a Nerve or Tendon is cut, &c.

Mortal Wound, is that which muſt unavoidably be follow'd by Death, when it is ſituate deep in a principal Part, neceſſary for the preſervation of Life: Such are Wounds in the Heart, Lungs, Midriff, Liver, Spleen, &c. and generally in all the great Veſſels.

Wound-wort, a kind of Herb, good for the curing of Wounds.

Wrack or Sea-wrack, a Weed.

Wrack or Ship-wrack, is when a Ship periſhes at Sea, and no Man eſcapes alive: In which Caſe, whatever Goods are caſt upon Land, belong to the Queen, or to the Lord of the Manour; but if any Perſon come to Shore, or if either Dog or Cat be left alive, the Goods return to the Owner, if he claim them within a Year and a Day.

Wranglands, a Word us'd in ſome Law-Records for miſgrown Trees that will never prove Timber.

To Wrangle, to brawl or ſcold, to quarrel or bicker.

Wrath, extreme Anger, Indignation.

To Wreak, to diſcharge, to vent; as To Wreak one's Anger, or Malice upon one.

Wreath, a Garland, a piece of Cloth twiſted round; a Roll, ſuch as Women wear on their Heads to carry a Milk-Pail, &c. Alſo the Torce or twiſted Work in Architecture: Among Hunters a Boar's Tail is alſo termed a Wreath.

In Heraldry, Wreath or Torce repreſents a Roll of fine Linnen or Silk, like that of a Turkiſh Turbant, which is ſet out with the Colours born in the Eſcutcheon: This Wreath in an Atchievement, is plac'd between the Helmet and the Creſt, and immediately ſupports the latter.

To Wreath, to twiſt, or twine about.

Wreckfry, (Sax.) Wrack-free, exempt or freed from the forfeiture of Shipwracked Goods and Veſſels to the King or Queen; a Privilege granted by K. Edward I. to the Cinque Ports.

Wreck. See Wrack.

Wren, one of the leaſt ſort of Birds.

Wrench, a Sprain.

To Wrench, to ſprain one's Foot, to force open a Door, &c.

Wreſt, a ſort of Bow to tune Muſical Inſtruments with.

To Wreſt, to Wreath, twiſt, or turn about; to wring, ſnatch or pull a thing from one; to force the Senſe of a Paſſage or Author.

To Wreſtle, to uſe the Exerciſe of Wreſtling; to contend, or ſtruggle earneſtly; to ſtrive for the Maſtery.

Wretch, an unfortunate forlorn Creature.

Wretched, pitiful, miſerable, wicked, lewd, ſorry, ſcurvy.

To Wriggle, to turn here and there as a Snake does; to inſinuate, or ſcrew one's ſelf into another's Favour.

To Wring, to preſs orſqueeze hard, to pinch, to put to Pain, to gripe.

Wring-Cheeſe, a large Stone like a Cheeſe, and ſo plac'd between ſome others, that it ſeems to be preſs'd by them; a Curioſity to be ſeen near St. Neots in Cornwal.

Writ, (Law-Word) a written Precept or Order, by whcih any thing is commanded to be done relating to a Suit or Action; as the Defendant or Tenant to be ſummoned, a Diſtreſs to be taken, a Diſſeiſin to to be redreſſed, &c. Theſe Writs in reſpect of their Order are diſtinguiſh'd into Original and Judicial.

Original Writs, ſuch as are iſſued out in the Queen's Name, for the ſummoning of Parties before the Suit begins, or rather to begin the Suit; or thoſe that are directed to the Sheriff, enjoyning him to do ſome warrantable Act.

Judicial Writs, are ſent out by Order of the Court of Judicature where the Cauſe is depending, upon occaſion after the Suit begun; and the Subſcription of them bears the Name of the chief Juſtice of that Court, whence they proceed. See Teſte.

Writ of Aſſiſtance, a Writ for the Authorizing any Perſon to take a Conſtable or other Publick Officer, in order to ſeize prohibited or unacuſtomed Goods. This Writ iſſues out of the Exchequer, and another of the ſame Name is taken out of the Chancery, to give a Poſſeſſion.

Writ of Privelege, is that which a Privileged Perſon brings to Court, for his Exemption, upon account of ſome Privilege.

Writ of Rebellion. See Commiſſion of Rebellion.

Writer, one that Writes any thing, a Pen-Man, the Author of a Book.

Writer of the Tallies, a Clerk to the Auditor of Receipts in the Exchequer, whoſe Buſineſs is to Write upon the Tallies the whole Letters of Tellers Bills.

To Writhe, to wring, or twiſt, to wreſt; as To writhe one's Mouth, Neck, &c.

Wrong, Injury, Injuſtice. See Tort.

Wry-Neck, a little aſh-coloured and long-tongued Bird.

Wulpher, (Sax. Helper) a King of the Mercians, who firſt founded the Miniſter or Cathedral Church of Peterborough.

Wulveſheved, the ſtate or condition of ſuch as were out-lawed in the Saxons Time for not ſubmitting themſelves to Juſtice. See Woolfeſhefod.

Wydraught, a Water-courſe, or Water-paſſage; a Sink, or Common-ſhore.

Wyke, (Sax) a Farm, or little Village.

Wykettus, (in old Latin Records) a Wicket, or little Door.

Wyta or Wita, a Wite, Mulct or Fine, ſuch as was heretofore paid to make ſatisfaction for ſeveral ſorts of Offences. See Wite.

Wyver, the Name of a Creature little known otherwiſe than as it is painted in Coats of Arms and deſcribed by Heralds: 'Tis repreſented by Guillim as a kind of flying Serpent, and ſo may be deriv'd from Vipera, as it were a winged Viper or Serpent; but others will have it to be a ſort of Ferret call'd Viverra in Latin.

X A

Xangti, a Word us'd by the Chineſes for the Supreme Governour of Heaven and Earth; they having no other Name for God.

Xanthenes or Zanthenes, (Gr.) a precious Stone of an Amber-Colour.

Xanthium, the leſſer Burr-dock, Clot-burr, or Ditch-burr; a Plant which for its rarity and pleaſantneſs is only to be ſeen in the Gardens of the Curious.

Xanthos, a precious Stone of a bright yellow Colour.

Xenia, Preſents beſtowed by the Greeks to their Friends, Gueſts, or Strangers, for the renewing of Friendſhip, and as a Token of Hoſpitality: In our old Records, it is taken for ſuch Preſents or Gifts as us'd to be made to Princes, or to the Governours of Provinces; which Kings ſometimes exacted of their Subjects even againſt their Will.

Xenodochium, an Inn allowed by Publick Authority, for the Entertainment of Strangers or other Gueſts; an Hoſpital.

Xenoparochi, Officers appointed to provide Wood, Salt, &c. for Ambaſſadours and Strangers.

Xenophon, the Son of Gryllus, a famous Athenian Philoſopher, Hiſtorian and General.

Xerantica, Drugs, or other things that are of a drying Quality.

Xeraphium, a Medicine proper againſt breakings out of the Head, or Chin.

Xeraſia, a fault in the Hairs when they appear like Down, as it were ſprinkled with Duſt.

Xeriff, the Title of a Prince, or chief Ruler in Barbary.

Xerocollyrium, a dry Plaiſter for ſore Eyes.

Xeromyrum, a drying Ointment.

Xerophagia, the eating of dry Meats, a kind of Faſt among the Primitive Chriſtians: Alſo a Diet us'd by Wreſtlers.

Xerophthalmy, a dry red ſoreneſs or itching of the Eyes, without any dropping or ſwelling.

Xerotes, a dry Habit, or Diſpoſition of Body.

Xerxes, a King of Perſia, the Son of Darius and Grand-Son of Cyrus, who with an Army of 1000000 Men, and a Fleet ſo vaſt that it fill'd the whole Helleſpont, and joyn'd the two Continents together, was entirely defeated by the Greeks, whoſe Forces conſiſted only of 40000 Men.

Xeſta, an ancient Greek Meaſure that held 20 Ounces of Water, or 24 according to others.

Xiphias, the Sword-Fiſh, a Sea-fiſh that has a Snout like a Sword: Alſo a ſort of Comet or Blazing-Star ſhaped like a Sword; the Head reſembling the Hilt, and the Tail being ſtraight and pointed: But when it is leſſer and of a more contracted Form, it reſembles the Figure of a Knife or Dagger.

Xiphion, Stinking Gladden, or Spurge-wort, an Herb.

Xiphoides, (in Anat.) the pointed Sword-like Cartilage or Griſtle of the Breaſt-Bone, otherwiſe call'd Enſiformis Cartilago; which See.

Xiphomachæra, a two-handed Sword, a Back-Sword or Hanger.

Xoana, graven Images, Statues carv'd out of Wood or Stone.

Xochitototl, (Ind.) the Hang-Neſt of America, a Bird like a Sparrow, with Feathers of ſeveral Colours.

Xois, (Gr.) an Inſtrument with which a thing is ſcraped or ſhaved; a Paring-Knife, a Pen-Knife, a Graving-Tool, a Razor.

Xylinum, a kind of Wooll or Flax, growing in little Balls, Cotton, Fuſtian, Bumbaſt.

Xyloaloes, the Aloes-Tree Wood.

Xylobalſamum, the Wood of the Balſam-Tree.

Xylocaſſia, a ſort of Caſſia; a Shrub.

Xylocinnamon, or Xylocinnamomon, the Wood of the Cinnamon-Tree.

Xylocolla, Glue that ſerves for the joyning of Wood, &c.

Xylon, Wood, alſo the Cotton-Tree; a Shrub.

Xylophagus, a Worm that breeds under the Bark of Trees.

Xyris, a kind of Herb with ſharp Leaves.

Xyſtarches or Xyſtarchus, a Maſter of a Fencing, or Wreſtling-School.

Xyſter, a Surgeon's Inſtrument to ſhave and ſcrape Bones with.

Xyſtios, a Stone in the Indies of the Jaſper-kind.

Xyſtos, a large Portico or Gallery, where the Greek Wreſtlers us'd to practiſe in Winter-time; ſo call'd becauſe they had their Skins ſcraped and rubbed ſmooth, to cauſe Sweat, and make their Bodies more ſlippery, that their Adverſaries might have the leſs hold of them.

Xyſtus or Xyſtum, (among the Romans) an open Walking-Place, where People entertain'd one another; alſo a Knot-Garden.

Y A

Yacht, a ſmall ſort of a Ship, built rather for Swiftneſs and Pleaſure, than for Merchandize or Warlike Service.

Yandeu or Jandou, the great Oſtridge of the Iſland of Maragnana in America; a Fowl that exceeds the Stature of a Man.

Yap, a little Dog.

Yard, a well known Meaſure of three Foot in length, which King Henry I. is ſaid to have appointed by the length of his own Arm: Alſo a Court belonging to a Houſe; alſo a Man's privy Member.

Yards or Sail-Yards of a Ship, are thoſe long pieces of Timber, made ſomewhat tapering at each end and each fitted to its proper Maſt, to carry the Sails which are faſten'd to thoſe Yards at the Head, ſo as to be hoiſed up and let down together with them by the Ropes call'd Halliards.

The Terms of Art belonging to the Yards are 1. Brace the Yard, i. e. traverſe aft the Yard-Arm, whoſe Brace is haled; ſo that Traverſe the Yard, is the ſame as to ſay Brace it aft. 2. Square the Yards, i. e. See that they hang right a-croſs the Ship, and one Yard-Arm not traverſed more than the other. 3. Top the Yards, that is, make them hang even.

Yard-Land, a certain quantity of Land, which at Wimbleton in Surrey, is only 15 Acres; but in other Counties it contains 20, in ſome 24, in ſome 30, and in others 40: In the Statute of Wards, An. 28, E. 1. it is call'd a Virge of Land, and in old Latin Records, Virgata terræ.

Yare, (old Word) prompt, ready, eager or ſharp upon a thing; it is alſo taken among Sea-men for nimble, ready, quick, Be Yare at the Helm. i. e. Set a freſh Man to the Helm.

Yarn, Spun Wooll.

Yarrow, an Herb, otherwiſe call'd Milfoil and Noſe-bleed.

Yate or Yatt, a Country-Word for a Gate.

Yaw, (among Sailers) a Ship is ſaid To Yaw, or make Yaws, when thro' the fault of the Steer's-Man, ſhe makes Angles in and out, and is not kept ſteady in her Courſe; to prevent which, the Conner cries Steady, ſteady, keep her Thus, Thus!

Ybel, an old Britiſh proper Name of Men, from the Greek Eubulus, i. e. good Counſel.

Yconomus, (in ancient Latin Records) a Patron of a Church, an Advocate, Protector or Defender; It is corrupted from the Greek Word Oeconomus, i. e. a Manager of Houſehold-Affairs, a Steward.

To Yean or Ean, to bring forth Lambs, as a Sheep does,

Year, is properly the time the Sun takes up in paſſing thro' the 12 Signs of the Zodiack, and it is either Aſtronomical or Civil: The former is alſo diſtinguiſh'd into Tropical and Sidereal: And the Year is alſo either Solar or Lunar.

The Natural or Tropical Solar Year, is that time which the Sun takes to go from one Point of the Eclipticks to the ſame again, and contains 365 Days 5 Hours and 12 Minutes.

The Sidereal Year, is the time the Sun takes in departing from any fixed Star till it return to the ſame again; and it contains 13 Months, or 52 Weeks, or 365 Days, 6 Hours, and almoſt 10 Minutes; which odd Hours in four Years time amounting to 24, or one whole Day, make that which is commonly call'd Leap-Year. See Biſſextile and Intercalary.

The Civil Year, is that which is commonly in Uſe among all Nations; being very various both as to its Beginning and alſo as to its Length, accordingly as they follow the Courſe either of the Sun or Moon, or Both.

The Lunar Year, contains 12 Lunations or Synodical Months, and is leſs than the Solar by 11 Days; the exact Duration of it ~~being~~ 354 Days, 8 Hours, and 48 Minutes; ſo that its Head in about 33 Years, will run thro' all the Months and Seaſons of the Year; and this kind of Year is now us'd by Turks.

Year and a Day, (in Common Law) is a ſpace of Time that determines a Right in many Caſes, in ſome implying an Uſucaption, and in others a Preſcription: As in caſe of an Eſtray, if the Owner (after Proclamation made) does not challenge it within that time, 'tis forfeited: So the Year and Day is given in caſe of an Appeal, and alſo for the recovery of a Perſon Bruiſed or Wounded by another, &c.

Year, Day and Waſte, is a part of the Queen's Prerogative, by which ſhe challenges the Profits of the Lands and Tenements of thoſe that are attainted of Petty Treaſon or Felony, for a Year and a Day; and may at laſt waſte the Tenements, root up the Woods, Gardens and Paſtures, plough up the Meadows, &c. except the Lord of the Manour compound or agree with her for the Redemption of ſuch Waſte.

Yearling, a Beaſt a Year old.

To Yearn, to Bark as Beagles or Hunting-Dogs do at their Prey: Alſo to be moved with Compaſſion; as My Bowels Yearn.

To Yell, to make a dreadful howling Noiſe.

To Yelp, to cry like a Dog, or Fox.

Yelt, a Country-Word for a young Sow.

Yeme, a Word corruptly uſ'd in ſome old Latin Deeds for Hieme, i. e. in the Winter.

Yeomen, the firſt Degree of the Commons Freeholders, who have Lands of their own, and live upon good Huſbandry; ſo call'd from the High Dutch Gemen, or Gemain, i. e. Common: According to Sir Thomas Smith, a Yeoman is a free-born Engliſh-Man, who may lay out of his own free Land in yearly Revenue to the Summ of forty Shillings Sterling.

There are alſo Yeomen in the King's, Queen's or Prince's Court, who are a ſort of Under-Officers, in a middle Place between a Sergeant and a Groom; as The Yeoman of the Chandry, of the Scullery, of the Stirrup, &c.

Yeomen of the Guard, a ſort of Foot-Guards, of whom one half bear Harquebuſſes in their Hand, and the other half Partiſans, with large Swords by their Sides: They wear Scarlet-Coats reaching down to the Knees, and Scarlet-Breeches, both richly guarded with black Velvet, and rich Badges before and behind; as alſo round broad-crown'd Caps made of black Velvet and trimmed with Ribbons of the Queen's Colour: Their Office is to wait upon the Queen in her Standing-Houſes, alſo abroad by Water or Land: At preſent, there are a hundred of theſe Officers in daily waiting, and ſeventy more not in Waiting.

Yeoman-Treader, an Uſher in a Prince's Court.

Yeoman-Warder. See Warders of the Tower.

Yeomanry, the Body of Yeomen.

Yeoven or Yeaven, a Word uſ'd in ſome old Deeds for Given; as Yeoven the Day and Year firſt above Written, Yeoven and Proclaimed in the Caſtle of Kenelworth, &c.

To Yerk, to Jerk or Whip; to Wince, or throw out the Legs as a Horſe does.

Yew, a kind of Tree that generally grows in the moſt barren Grounds, and coldeſt Mountains.

Yew or Ewe, a Female Sheep.

To Yex, an old Word for to Hickup.

To Yield, to produce, or bring forth; to give or grant; to ſurrender, to give over or up, to part with, to make over; to ſubmit, to give Way or Place.

Yielding, that yields, brings forth, gives up, &c. alſo ſubmiſſive, complaiſant, pliant.

Ynca, a Name given to the ancient Kings of Peru in America, and to the Princes of their Family; ſignifying Lord, King, or Emperour, or one of the Royal Bloud.

Yoke or Yoak, (in Huſbandry) a Frame of Wood to couple Oxen for Drawing; or to put over the Neck of Swine, or other unruly Beaſts, to keep them from running through Hedges: Whence it is figuratively taken for Subjection, Slavery, or Bondage.

Sea-Yoke. See Sea.

Yoke-Elm, a ſort of Tree.

Yoke-Fellow, one that bears the ſame Yoak or Burden with another, eſpecially a Huſband, or Wife; each being joyn'd to the other by the ſame Band of Matrimony.

Yore, (old Word) heretofore, anciently; as Of Yore, In the Days of Yore, &c.

Yorkſhire Sanicle. See Butter-wort.

Youk, as The Hawk Youks, i. e. Sleeps.

Younger Regiment or Officer, In Military Affairs, that Regiment is counted Youngeſt, which was laſt raiſ'd, and that Officer youngeſt, whoſe Commiſſion is of the lateſt Date; tho' he be never ſo old a Man, or have ſerv'd never ſo long in other Capacities. See Seniority.

Youngling, a young Creature.

Youngmen, a Word uſ'd for Yeomen, in the Statute 33 H. 8. Cap. 10.

Youngſter, an airy, briſk young Man; a raw or unexperienced Youth, a Novice.

Younker, a luſty Lad. Among Sailers, Younkers are the young Men otherwiſe call'd Fore-maſt Men, whoſe Buſineſs is to take in the Top-Sails, or Top and Yard, for furling the Sails, ſlinging the Yards, &c. and to take their turns at the Helm.

Youth, tender Age, the State or Condition of young People, or their Perſons.

A Youth, a young Man, a Lad.

Youth-wort, a kind of Herb.

Youthful, belonging to Youth, young, vigorous, briſk, mad, full of play, frolickſome.

Yſicius, (in ancient Latin Deeds) a ſort of pickled Salmon, call'd Yſinges in old Engliſh.

Ythel, (Welſh) a proper Name of Men, from the Greek Word Euthalius, i. e. very flouriſhing.

Yuba, an Indian Herb of which the Natives make their Bread.

Yucca, or Jucca, a Tree in America, of the Root of which Bread is likewiſe made by the Inhabitants. See Jucca Peruana.

Yvernagium, (in old Latin Records) the Winter Seed-time, or Seaſon for Sowing Corn.

Yule, a Word which among the Country-People in the North Parts of England, ſignifies the Feſtival of the Nativity of our Lord, commonly call'd Chriſtmas: Whence Yule-block, a Chriſtmas-Block, or great Log of Wood for Fuel, ſuch as are commonly burnt in that Seaſon: And Yule-Games, Sports uſ'd on that Feſtival; Chriſtmas-Gamboles.

Yule of Auguſt, the firſt Day of Auguſt, otherwiſe call'd Lammas-Day. See Gule of Auguſt.

Z A

Zabulon or Zebulon, (Heb.) a Dwelling-place.

Zabulus, (Lat.) a Word uſ'd in many old Writers for Diabolus, i. e. the Devil.

Zachariah, (Heb. mindful of the Lord) the Son and Succeſſour of Jeroboam, King of Iſrael: Alſo the Name of ſeveral other Perſons mention'd in the Old Teſtament, and of the Father of St. John the Baptiſt.

Zacovin, (in old Records) Sattin, or fine Silk.

Zagaye, a ſort of Javelin in Uſe among the Moors, which they dart with their Hands on Horſeback, with great Nimbleneſs.

Zahab, an Hebrew Coin in value 12 Silver-Shekels of the Sanctuary, or 1 Pound 10 Shillings Sterling.

Zamiæ, (Gr.) Pine-Nuts that open on the Tree and ſpoil others, unleſs they be plucked off.

Zamozin, the Title of the Soveraign Prince among the Malabars in the Eaſt-Indies, equivalent to King, or Emperour with us.

Zanthenes. See Xanthenes.

Zany, (Ital.) one that profeſſes to ſtir up Laughter by mimick Geſtures, ridiculous Actions, and unſeemly Speeches; a Buffoon, a Jack-Pudding, or Merry-Andrew.

Zaphara or Saſſera, a ſort of Mineral us'd by Potters, to make a Sky-Colour.

Zarſaparilla or Zalſaparilla, a kind of Drug. See Sarſaparilla.

Zea, (Gr.) a ſort of ſmall Grain call'd Spelt, and by ſome Beer-Barley, or Beer-Corn. Zea deglubita, Gurts, Oatmeal-Grotes.

Zeal, an earneſt Paſſion for any thing, more eſpecially for one's Religion, and the welfare of one's Country.

Zealot, a zealous Perſon, a great Stickler or Party-man, chiefly in Matters of Religion: It is often taken in an ill Senſe, for a Separatiſt or Schiſmatick, a Fanatick.

Zealous, full of Zeal.

Zebra, an Indian Beaſt like a Mule.

Zechin or Zachin, a Gold-Coin worth about Seven Shillings and Six Pence Sterling; ſo call'd from La Zecha a Place in the City of Venice, where the Mint is ſettled. There is alſo a Turkiſh Zechin valued at Nine Shillings.

Zedekiah or Zidkiah, (Heb. the Juſtice of the Lord) the Son of Joſiah King of Iſrael and Uncle of Jehoiakim, in whoſe ſtead he was made King by Nebuchadnezzar and his Name chang'd, which before was Mattaniah; but at laſt upon his Revolt, he was carry'd bound to Babylon, and had his Eyes put out.

Zedoary, (Gr.) a ſpicy Root, very like Ginger, but of a ſweeter Scent and nothing near ſo biting: It is a hot and dry Plant, growing in the Woods of Malabar in the Eaſt-Indies.

Zenith, (Arab. in Aſtron.) that Point in the Heavens, which in any Place is directly over one's Head, and is 90 Degrees diſtant from the Horizon: It is otherwiſe call'd Vertex and The Vertical Point.

Zenith-Diſtance, is the Complement of the Sun or Stars Meridian Altitude, or what the Meridian Altitude wants of 90 Degrees.

Zeopyrum (Gr.) a kind of Grain between Spelt and Wheat.

Zephyrus, the West Wind, ſo call'd by the Greeks, and Favonius by the Latines; which begins to blow, as Varro affirms, about the beginning of February.

Zereth, an Hebrew Meaſure containing Nine Inches.

Zerna, (Lat.) a Tetter or Ring-Worm, the ſame with Lichen; which See.

Zero, a Word ſometimes us'd eſpecially among the French, for a Cipher or Nought. (o)

Zeros or Zetos, a kind of Cryſtal.

Zerubbabel or Zorobabel, (Heb. repugnant to Confuſion) the Son of Shealtiel, eminent for his Zeal in rebuilding the Temple of Jeruſalem. There was alſo another Perſon of that Name, the Son of Pedaiah mentioned in the firſt Book of Chronicles.

Zeſt, (Fr.) a Chip of Orange or Lemmon-Peel, ſuch as is uſually ſqueez'd into Wine, Ale, &c. to give it a Flavour: It is alſo ſometimes taken, for a ſhort Afternoon's Sleep or Nap: as To go to one's Zeſt.

To Zeſt an Orange or Lemon, (among Confectioners) is to cut the Peel from top to bottom into ſmall Slips, as thin as it can poſſibly be done.

Zeta, the Name of the ſixth Letter of the Greek Alphabet: Alſo a Room kept warm like a Stove; a withdrawing-Chamber with Pipes convey'd along in the Walls, to receive from below, either the cool Air, or the heat of warm Water. In our old Records, it is taken for a Dining-Room, Hall, or Parlour.

Zetetick Method, (in Mathem.) is the Analytick or Algebraical Way of reſolving Problems, or Queſtions; by which the Nature and Reaſon of the Thing is chiefly ſought for and diſcovered.

Zeugites, a kind of Canes or Reeds, which Falconer's us'd to catch Birds with.

Zeugma, (i.e. a joyning together) a Grammatical Figure, when a Verb agreeing with divers Nouns, or an Adjective with divers Subſtantives is referred to one expreſly, and to the other by Supplement; as Vicit pudorem libido, timorem audacia, rationem amentia. If the Verb be expreſſed in the beginning, it is call'd Protozeugma, as Dormio ego & tu; if in the middle, Meſozeugma; as Ego dormio & tu; if in the end, Hypozeugma; as Ego & tu dormis; the like is to be underſtood with reſpect to the Adjective. Zeugma is alſo made three ſeveral Ways, viz. 1. in Perſon, as Ego & tu Studes; 2. in Gender, as Maritus & Uxor eſt irata; 3. in Number, as Hic illius arma, hic currus fuit.

Zeus, a Fiſh taken about Cadiz in Spain, of a black Colour and very delicate; ſome call it a Gold-Fiſh; a Deice.

Zibellina Muſtela, the Cebal or Sable, a little wild Beaſt, ſomewhat leſs than a Martern, that breeds in the Woods of Muſcovy, and yields a very rich Furr.

Zibethum, Civet, a Perfume like Musk, contain'd in certain kernelly Bladders in the Groin of a Civet-Cat.

Zimri, (Heb. a Song or Singing) an Uſurper of the Kingdom of Iſrael, who kill'd his Maſter Elah the Son of Baaſha.

Zingiber or Zingiberis, Ginger, a ſort of Spice that grows in all the Provinces of India.

Zirbus, (Arab.) the Caul that covers the Bowels.

Zizanium, (Gr.) Darnel, or Cockle growing amidſt Corn.

Zizyphum, a kind of Fruit call'd Jujubes by the Apothecaries.

Zmilaces or Zmilampis, (Gr.) a precious Stone of a gray Colour found in the River Euphrates.

Zobola, the Ermin or Weaſel, whoſe Furr is call'd Sable.

Zocco, (Ital.) a Term in Architecture, the ſame as Plinth; which See.

Zink, a ſort of Mineral otherwiſe call'd Spelter.

Zocle, (in Architect.) a ſquare Member, lower than its Breadth, which ſerves to ſupport a Pillar, or any other part of a Building inſtead of a Baſe, Pedeſtal, or Plinth.

Continued Zocle, a kind of continued Pedeſtal, on which a Structure is raiſed but has no Baſe or Cornice.

Zodiack, (in Aſtron.) one of the greater imaginary Circles in the Heavens, which paſſes obliquely between the two Poles of the World, and takes Name from the Figure of the Living-Creatures repreſenting the Twelve Conſtellations or Diviſions call'd Celeſtial Signs, which are contained in it: 'Tis cut into two equal Parts by the Equator, one of which comprehends the Six Northern Signs towards the Arctick Pole, and the other the Six Southern Signs towards the Antarctick Pole. The Sun goes about this Circle once every Year, and the Moon once a Month, and in the middle of it is the Ecliptick Line, from which the Sun never departs; but the Moon and the Planets wander up and down for the ſpace of eight Degrees, and ſometimes more on both Sides; upon which account, the Zodiack is ſuppoſed to reach 20 Degrees in Breadth. See Aſtronomical or Celeſtial Signs.

Zodiack of the Comets, a certain Tract in the Heavens, within the Bounds of which, according to Mr. Caſſini, moſt Comets, tho' not all, have been obſerved to move: This he makes as broad as the other Zodiack, and likewiſe places ſeveral Signs or Conſtellations therein like the former; which are Anti- nous, Pegaſus, Andromeda, Taurus, Orion, the leſſer Dog, Hydra, the Centaur, Scorpion and Sagittary.

Zona, a Belt, a Girdle, a Purſe on a Girdle, particularly ſuch a Girdle as Maids anciently wore about their Middle, when they were Eſpouſed, and which the Bridegroom unty'd the firſt Night of their Marriage: By ſome Writers that treat of the Art of Phyſick, it is taken for that part of the Body, where one is Girt; alſo for a kind of Herpes, or Shingles call'd Holy Fire.

Zones, (in Aſtron. and Geogr.) are certain Spaces or Diviſions of the Heavens or Earth, bounded by the leſſer Circles of the Sphere; that is to ſay, the two Polar Circles, and the two Tropicks: Theſe Zones have Names given them according to the different Temperature of the Air, and are five in Number, viz. one Torrid, two Temperate, and two Frigid.

The Torrid Zone, bounded by the Tropicks of Cancer and Capricorn, lies in the middle of the two Temperate ones, and is divided by the Equator into two equal Parts, one Northern and the other Southern; its breadth being 47 Degrees, or about 2820 Miles: 'Tis call'd Torrid, i. e. parched or burning-hot, becauſe being juſt under the Sun's Road, its Beams fall directly on it, and continually cauſe ſo exceſſive a Heat, that the Ancients believ'd it to be uninhabitable.

The Temperate Zones, owe their Name and Advantages to their Situation between the Torrid and the two Frigid ones: One of them in which we live, lying between the Tropick of Cancer and the Arctick Polar Circle is call'd the Northern; and the other between the Antarctick Polar Circle and the Tropick of Capricorn, is termed the Southern; each of them taking up 43 Degrees, or about 2580 Miles in Breadth.

The Frigid or Frozen Zones, have the two Polar Circles for their Boundaries, ſo that one takes in the North, and the other the South Pole; each of them containing 23 Degrees and a half, or 1410 Miles: Theſe Zones are call'd Frigid, i. e. exceeding Cold or Frozen, in regard that being extremely remote from the Sun's Courſe in the Ecliptick, they partake but little of its Heat: Inſomuch that they as well as the Torrid Zone, were eſteem'd uninhabitable by the Ancients; but their Miſtakes in both reſpects, have been diſcover'd by later Navigations.

Zoogonia, (Gr. among Naturaliſts) a breeding or bringing forth of perfect Animals, or Living-Creatures.

Zoography, a deſcription of the Nature and Properties of any kind of Animals; as Birds, Beaſts, Fiſhes, Serpents, Inſects, &c.

Zoophorus. See Zophorus.

Zoophthalmon, the Herb Sengreen, or Houſe-leek.

Zoophytes or Plant-Animals, certain Subſtances which partake of the Nature of Plants and Living-Creatures; as Spunges, &c.

Zootomy, an artificial Diſſection of the Bodies of brute Beaſts, or any other Creatures except Men. See Andratomy.

Zophorus or Zoophorus, (in Architect.) a Part between the Architrave and Cornice, ſo call'd by the Greeks, upon account of the Ornaments carved on it, among which were the Figures of Animals.

Zophyrum, the Herb Puliol of the Mountain.

Zopiſſa, the beſt ſort of Pitch; or Pitch ſcraped off from Ships, and temper'd with Wax and Salt.

Zorobabel. See Zerubbabel.

Zoſter, the Shingles; a Diſeaſe.

Zotica, the Vital Faculty.

Zuche, (in old Records) a withered, or dry ſtock of Wood.

Zupalium, (Lat.) a Julep, a ſort of Phyſical Potion.

Zura, the White-thorn Berry.

Zurumbeth, (Arab.) the Plant Zedoary.

Zuz, an Hebrew Coin of which four make a Shekle; value 7 Pence Half-penny.

Zygæna, (Gr.) the Ballance-Fiſh, a kind of Sea-Fiſh whoſe Head lies a-croſs the reſt of its Body: Alſo the Dragon-Fly, or Adders-bolt; an Inſect ſo call'd, becauſe its Body ſeems to be poiſed between its Wings.

Zygia, a Tree of whoſe Wood Yokes are made; a kind of Maple.

Zygiati, a Term apply'd by ſome Aſtrologers, to ſuch Perſons as are born under the Sign Libra, called Zygos in Greek.

Zygoma, (in Anat.) one of the Bones of the upper Jaw, which on the upper part joyns to the Os Sphenoïdes, and on the lower, to the Os Maxillare; its outward Part having a long Proceſs or Knob call'd Proceſſus Zygomaticus: It is alſo nam'd Jugale Os, and Os Malæ.

Zygomaticum, a pair of Muſcles otherwiſe call'd Jugale, which draw both Lips obliquely to either Side.

Zygomaticus, a Muſcle of the Face, ſo termed by Riolanus, becauſe it ariſes from the Zygoma or Os Jugale; but it is inſerted near the corner of the Lips: When this Muſcle and its Partner act, they draw both Lips upwards, and make a pleaſant Countenance.

Zygoſtata, an Officer that has the Over-ſight of Weights; a Clerk of the Market.

Zymites, leavened Bread.

Zymoma, Leaven, Leavening: In a Phyſical Senſe, any kind of Ferment; as that of the nitrous Air, the wat'ry Juice in the Mouth, the acid or ſharp Liquor in the Stomach, the Bloud in the Spleen, &c.

Zymoſimeter, an Inſtrument by which the degree of Fermentation ariſing from the mixture of divers Liquors is meaſured, or the Temperament or Degree of Heat in the Bloud of Animals, &c.

Zymoſis, Fermentation.

Zythogala, Poſſet-Drink.

Zythum, a Drink us'd by the old Gauls, and ſo call'd from the Seething or Boiling of it; Drink made of Corn, or Malt; Ale, or Beer.

FINIS.

BOOKS Printed for J. Phillips, H. Rhodes, and J. Taylor.

DR. Eachard's Works, viz. 1. The Grounds and Occaſions of Contempt of the Clergy and Religion, enquir'd into; in a Letter to R. L. 2. Obſervations on an Anſwer to the Enquiry, in a Second Letter to the ſame. 3. Mr. Hobbs's State of Nature conſidered, in a Dialogue between Philautus and Timothy: To which is added, five Letters &c. by John Eachard, D. D. late Maſter of Katherine-Hall, and Vice-Chancellour of the Univerſity of Cambridge. The Eleventh Edition. Price 5 s.

A Mathematical Compendium, or Uſeful Practices in Arithmetick, Geometry and Aſtronomy, Geography and Navigation, Embattelling and Quartering of Armies, Fortification and Gunnery, Gauging, Dialling, Explaining the Logarithms; with new Indices, Napier's Rods or Bones, making of Movements, and the Application of Pendulums; with the Projection of the Sphere for an Univerſal Dial, &c. by Sir Jonas Moore, Kt. late Surveyor General of his Majeſty's Ordinance. The Fourth Edition. Price 2*s.* 6*d.*

The Practical Gauger: Being a plain and eaſie Method of Gauging all ſorts of Brewing-Veſſels; to which is added a ſhort Synopſis of the Laws of Exciſe now in force, by John Mayne; the Fifth Edition Corrected and Enlarged, with the Addition of the Duty upon Malt. Price 1 s.

The Queen's Cloſet Opened; being incomparable Secrets in Phyſick, Sururgery, Preſerving, Candying and Cookery, &c. which were preſented to the Queen by the moſt experienced Perſons of the Times, many whereof were had in eſteem when ſhe pleaſed to deſcend to private Recreation. The Tenth Edition Corrected, with many new and large Additions. Pr. 2*s.*

The Compleat Midwife's Practice Enlarged, in the moſt weighty and high Concernments of the Birth of Man, containing a perfect Directory or Rules for Midwives and Nurſes, as alſo a Guide for Women in their Conception, Bearing and Nurſing of Children, from the Experience of our Engliſh Authors. The Fifth Edition Corrected and much Enlarged, by John Pechey, Fellow of the College of of Phyſicians, London. Price 3 s. 6 d.

Culpepper's School of Phyſick, or the Experimental Practice of the whole Art; in which are contained, 1. The Engliſh Apothecary, or the excellent Virtues of our Engliſh Herbs. 2. Chymical and Phyſical Aphoriſms and admirable Secrets. 3. The Surgeons Guide, or the Errors of unskilful Practitioners Corrected. 4. The expert Lapidary; or, A Treatiſe Phyſical of the ſecret Virtue of Stones. 5. Doctor Diet's Directory, or, The Phyſician's Vade Mecum, being ſafe Rules to preſerve Health. Price 3 s. 6 d.

The Gentleman's Jockey and approved Farrier; Inſtructing in the Natures, Cauſes and Cures of all Diſeaſes incident to Horſes, with an exact and eaſie Method of Breeding, Buying, Dieting, and otherwiſe ordering all ſorts of Horſes, as well for common and ordinary Uſe as the Heats and Courſe, with divers other Curioſities; Collected by the long Practice, Experience and Pains of J. H. Eſq; &c. The Ninth Edition. Price 2 s.

Æſop's Fables, with their Morals in Proſe and Verſe, Grammatically Tranſlated, with Pictures and Emblems, with the Hiſtory of his Life and Death; The Fifteenth Edition, being the true ſort to prevent Counterfeits. Price 1 s. 6 d.

The Rudiments of the Engliſh Tongue Explain'd by Queſtion and Anſwer; which are ſo formed, that a Child omitting altogether the Queſtions, may learn only the Anſwers, and be fully inſtructed in the Rudiments of the Latin Tongue; by W. Dugard, formerly Maſter of Merchant-Taylors School. Price 1 s.

Rhetorices Elementa Quæſtionibus, & Reſponſionibus Explicata. Quæ ita formantur, ut Reſponſiones ſolummodo integrum Rhetorices Inſtitutionem Tyronibus exhibeant. Per Guill. Dugard, inuſum Scholæ Mercatorum Sciſſorum. Price 4 s.

Culpepper's laſt Legacy, left and bequeathed to his deareſt Wife for the publick Good; being the choiceſt and moſt profitable of thoſe Secrets which while he lived were lock'd up in his Breaſt: Containing ſundry admirable Experiences in ſeveral Sciences, more eſpecially in Surgery and Phyſick, viz. Compounding of Medicines, making of Waters, Syrups, Oils, Electuaries, Conſerves, Salts, Pills, Purges and Trochiſchs. Price 2 s. 6 d.

BOOKS Printed for J. Phillips.

THE Works of the Honourable Robert Boyle Epitomiz'd. In Four Volumes, Octavo.

Mellificium Chirurgiæ; or, The Marrow of Surgery; with the Anatomy of Human Bodies. By James Cook. The Fourth Edition, Reviſed and Corrected by Tho. Gibſon, M. D. and Fellow of the College of Phyſicians, London.

The Compleat Stateſman; or, The Political Will and Teſtament of that great Miniſter of State Cardinal Duke de Richelieu, from whence Lewis XIV. the preſent French King, has taken his Meaſures and Maxims of Government.

BOOKS Printed for H. Rhodes.

ESSAYS upon ſeveral Moral Subjects, Part III. Of Pain, Revenge, Authors, Power, Infancy and Youth. Of Riches and Poverty, Whoredom, Drunkenneſs, Uſury, an Apoſtle, Solitude, &c. By Jer. Collier, M. A. Price 3 s. 6 d.

Wholeſome Advice againſt the Abuſe of Hot Liquors, particularly of Coffee, Chocolate, Tea, Brandy and Strong-Waters; with Directions to know what Conſtitutions they ſuit, and when the uſe of them may be profitable or hurtful. By Dr. Duncan, of the Faculty of Montpellier. Done out of French Price 3 s. 6 d.

The Management of the Tongue, under theſe following Heads; Of Converſation, The Babbler, Silent Man, Witty Man, Droller, Jeſter, Diſputer, Opiniater, Heedleſs and Inconſiderate Man, Complimenter, Man who praiſes others, Flatterer, Lier, Boaſter, Ill Tongue, Swearer, Promiſer, Noveliſt, Tale-Bearer, Adviſer, Reprover, Inſtructer. The Man who Truſts others, or is truſted with a Secret. The Tongue of Women, Language of Love, Complainer, the Comforter. Done out of French. Price 3 s. 6 d.

BOOKS Printed for J. Taylor.

A Critical Hiſtory of the Doctrines and Worſhips (both Good and Evil) of the Church from Adam to our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt; giving an Account of the Origin of all the Idolatries of the Antient Pagans, as far as they relate to the Jewiſh Worſhip. Written in French by the Learned M. Pet. Jurieu, and faithfully done into Engliſh, in two Volumes.

The Compleat Diſtiller; or, The whole Art of Diſtillation, practically ſtated and adorned with all the new Modes of Working now in uſe, ſupplying all that is omitted in the London-Diſtiller, French Baker, &c. The Second Edition, with Alterations and Additions. Illuſtrated with Sculptures.

Logick; or, The Art of Thinking, in which, beſides the common, are contain'd many excellent New Rules, very profitable for directing Reaſon, and acquiring Judgment, in things as well relating to the Inſtruction of a Man's Self, as of Others; for the excellency of the Matter Printed many times in French and Latine, and now Done into Engliſh by ſeveral Hands. The Fourth Edition.

A Compendium of Algebra, containing plain and eaſie Rules for the ſpeedy attaining that Art; alſo an Appendix concerning Compound Intereſt and Annuities. By J. Ward, Teacher of the Mahematicks.